Tornado Rips Thru Kaufman

KAUFMAN, Tex. (UPI) — A tornado spawned by the first spring-like thunderstorms of the season ripped through the sleeping town of Kaufman early today, wrecking commercial buildings and damaging a score of private homes.

No casualties were reported. Police Chief Buster Robinson said it was "miraculous" that no one was injured.

Electric power lines were ripped down by the funnel and the town was blacked out. Gas escaped from broken lines and made a strong odor on the downtown district until I. L. Nix of Lone Star Gas Co. cut off the lines.

Residents in and around the community of Johana between Georgetown and Taylor in central Texas reported an apparent tornado Sunday. Several power and phone lines were knocked down by the wind.

An earlier tornado alert included the Kaufman area. The funnel moved through the city with a "slow roar" and vanished.

The twister hit a thinly-populated area of Kaufman, 33 miles southeast of Dallas. It swept diagonally from the southwest to the northeast across the town, cutting a patch about 100 feet wide.

The Nash Grain Company plant, a tin and brick structure, was flattened. The brand-new roller skating rink next door to it was demolished and a Farmer Cooperative Cotton gin was shattered.

A tour through the darkened town showed about 20 private homes damaged.

The wind ripped the roof off the home of the Richard Harris family and hurled it into the street. The family fled next door to shelter.

Trees Cause Damage
Trees uprooted by the twister slammed against homes, causing some damage. One tree smashed in the kitchen wall of a private home.

The screen porch of the home of Police Chief Robinson was ripped away.

Telephone and power poles were hurled to the ground. Power lines were strung like tangled spaghetti, but power was off and the lines were not dangerous.

Emergency generators supplied power to the police station in the main square. Electric company line crews worked through the night to restore power to the rest of the town.

Sheriff H. L. Evans said the wind definitely was a tornado. It struck at about 12:15 a.m., just after a Weather Bureau tornado.

Former French Officer Executed For Attempt To Assassinate DeGaulle

PARIS (UPI)—The French government today executed a former army officer convicted of leading an assassination attempt against President Charles de Gaulle. De Gaulle personally spared two other plotters.

An army firing squad shot ex-Lt. Col. Jean-Marie Bastien-Thiry, 35, shortly after dawn in rain-swept Fort d'Ivry.

De Gaulle commuted death sentences to life imprisonment for Alain de Bourgneuf de la Tocnaye, 37, and Jacques Prevost, 31.

The three were convicted with 11 other defendants last Monday for the Aug. 22 attempt on De Gaulle's life in the Paris suburb of Petit Clamart. There was no judicial appeal possible from the special court's verdict, and only De Gaulle could commute the sentences.

Informed observers said the swiftness with which Bastien-Thiry's execution was carried out appeared designed as a warning to the secret Army Organization (OAS) and Council of National Resistance (CNR) that terrorist acts will be punished severely. The sources said De Gaulle probably would have spared Bastien-Thiry's life except for growing indications that the OAS and CNR, which is headed by former Premier Georges Bidault, were stepping up plans to try to overthrow and possibly assassinate De Gaulle.

Since the Petit Clamart trial ended, Paris banker Henri Lafond has been shot to death in the street and several spectacular bank raids have been carried out, apparently by OAS terrorists.

Believed still plotting an attempt on De Gaulle's life is Georges (The Limp) Watin, 40, one of three men condemned to death in absentia at the trial. The other five defendants—two tried in absentia—received prison terms.

House To Vote Draft Extension

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House appeared set today to approve a four-year extension of the draft law.

Congressmen said they would try to limit the extension to two years and to cut the top age limit from 26 to 22, but both moves faced strong opposition.

Rep. Henry S. Reuss, D-Wis., said he would offer the two-year amendment. He said the draft was a "necessary evil" and Congress should not commit itself for any longer than necessary.

In a fluid world situation, Reuss said, unforeseeable events might eliminate the need for the draft. He also said a study showed the draft could be ended if enlistment were made more attractive.

Rep. Roman C. Pucinski, D-Ill., sponsored the plan to cut the top draft age.

Chairman Carl Vinson, D-Ga., of the House Armed Services Committee was expected to oppose the move on grounds the President already has power to lower the draft age if it is in the national interest.

Pucinski said, It appears to me somewhat cruel and illogical to subject more than 10 million American young men to the shadow of the draft for a period of 7 1/2 years when we only take an infinitesimal fraction of these young men into the Army every year.

He said employers are reluctant to hire men, spend money for training, lose them to the Army and then have to keep their jobs open for two years.

Germany Refuses Asylum To Former French Premier

Khrushchev Attempting To Limit De-Stalinization

MOSCOW (UPI) — Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev today appeared involved in a major effort to keep tight limits on the de-Stalinization campaign and interpretation of it by Russia's intellectuals.

The Soviet leader, in a speech published during the weekend, indicated Kremlin fears that attacks on the reign of former dictator Josef Stalin possibly could involve present Communist leaders who served under him. This would include Khrushchev.

He made it clear in the speech to writers and artists that Communist party control over the arts in Russia is a necessary element of party leadership of the nation.

The premier reaffirmed the official line that there can be no art and "bourgeois" art of the "coexistence" between socialist art and "bourgeois" art of the West.

Khrushchev stated his views to a meeting of writers, artists and movie makers Friday. The text in Sunday's edition of the official party newspaper Pravda occupied nearly four pages.

"Exchange of Opinions"
The meeting ostensibly was for an "exchange of opinions" on the cultural controversy over party control of the arts, but Khrushchev's speech was uncompromising in its demand for obedience by the country's intellectuals. One of the writers singled out for criticism was Ilya Ehrenburg, the well-known journalist and novelist, who has said he and other Russians knew of the evils under Stalin but that he was forced to endure them with "clenched teeth." Khrushchev said the 72-year-old writer had been guilty of major "ideological mistakes" which should be corrected.

Khrushchev emphasized that everything in the Stalin era was evil. He criticized writers who "one-sidedly concentrated on instances of lawlessness, arbitrariness and abuse of power."

He said "it is to be kept in mind that those periods were not the period of stagnation... our people successfully worked on and built socialism."

U.S. Would Call Troop Movement 'An Invasion'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara has told Congress that if there was an uprising in Cuba and the Soviets sent in more troops, he would consider such a move "an invasion."

McNamara's comment was contained in previously-secret testimony released today by the House Armed Services Committee.

His answer came in response to a question by Rep. F. Edward Herbert, D-La., who suggested that the same thing might happen in Cuba that occurred in Hungary in 1958.

Herbert noted that the Russians have strong combat forces on the Caribbean Island, which are a part of an overall Soviet force estimated to number 17,000 men.

SAIGON (UPI) — U. S. authorities disclosed today that two more Americans have been killed in South Viet Nam—one of them by a Communist sniper bullet—to raise to 75 the toll of U. S. military dead in the guerrilla war.

A spokesman said a warrant officer was killed Sunday by a Red guerrilla bullet which ripped through the Caribou transport plane in which he was flying.

Another announcement said a U. S. pilot and his Vietnamese crewman, missing since Saturday when their Mohawk plane crashed, were found alive today but the search for them took the life of a Marine helicopter pilot.

Identification of the victims was withheld pending notification of next of kin.

Search planes sighted the two missing flyers about four miles north of a 5,000-foot-high jungle mountain into which their plane crashed while on a photo-reconnaissance mission.

It was not known if they were injured. It was believed the men walked away from the wreckage before it caught fire.

The officer killed by a sniper's bullet was in a plane that was flying a military chaplain to some of the scattered U. S. military installations in South Viet Nam to hold religious services.

Ballot Place Drawing Held

The drawing for places on the ballot for the school trustee election of the Pampa Public Schools was held today in the office of business manager, Homer Craig.

Dr. Raymond M. Hampton drew first place on the ballot and Herschel V. Wilks, general manager of Celanese Corp. drew second.

Absentee balloting will be held March 18 through March 30 in the office of the County Clerk.

The election will be held in the Pampa Junior High School gymnasium, N. Cuyler and Browning, from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. on April 6. Presiding Judge will be N. Park Brown, of Pampa.

CROWD GREETS QUEEN CABRAMURRA, Australia (UPI) — Britain's Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip were cheered by a crowd of 5,000 persons when they arrived in this township of Australia Friday to begin a three-day. Cabramurra is nearly 5,000 feet above sea level.

Bidault May Be Called Undesirable Alien

BONN (UPI) — Chancellor Konrad Adenauer has turned down a personal plea for political asylum in West Germany for Georges Bidault, leader of forces opposing French President Charles de Gaulle, a government spokesman said today.

A governmental press spokesman said only the Bavarian state government could grant asylum and that the Bonn government cannot decide Bidault's fate.

Officials said there was a possibility Bidault, fugitive former French Premier, might be declared an undesirable alien and deported possibly to Switzerland or Austria, if either country would accept him.

In Paris, French government sources said France will not ask West Germany to extradite Bidault. French officials said they saw Bidault's request for asylum as meaning he personally is abandoning his campaign to overthrow De Gaulle's regime.

The French officials said Adenauer apparently has three possible choices: grant Bidault political asylum and guard him against any French or OAS kidnapping attempt; give him the choice of the frontier to which he wishes to be conducted; or persuade him to leave Europe.

Bidault was subjected to hours of interrogation again today at the Bavarian resort village of Steinbach, where he was picked up at dawn Sunday. He was whisked in a police car to his rented hilltop mansion for lunch.

Wanted in France
Bidault is sought by the French government as the leader of the underground National Resistance Council (CNR), which is dedicated to overthrowing De Gaulle's regime.

Bidault made his plea to Adenauer in a letter written as an "old friend," but the chancellor would not accept the letter.

Federal government authorities in Bonn, however, said no such request had been received, as far as they knew.

Bidault was taken from his guarded villa this morning for more questioning about his activities in West Germany. The former premier appeared tired and slightly stooped as he left the house for the drive to police headquarters five miles away.

Bidault's appearance in a filmed television interview over the British Broadcasting Corp. (BBC) network last week aggravated the already chilly relations—between Britain and France. It resulted in

Three Plainview Residents Die In Airplane Mishap

LA JUNTA, Colo. (UPI)—A light plane carrying four members of a prominent Plainview, Tex., family crashed and burned while trying to land in a plowed field in a snowstorm yesterday, killing three persons and critically injuring the fourth.

The pilot, Erwin E. Graham of Plainview, was pulled alive from the flaming wreckage. His wife, Madeline, 42, and their sons Johnny, 12, and Mike, 16, were killed instantly.

Graham's daughter, Mrs. Judy Strickland, 21, and her husband, had been traveling in another plane but landed at Dalhart, Tex., because of bad weather. Mrs. Strickland collapsed when told of the accident.

Graham was in Menonite hospital in La Junta with a broken back, a possible skull fracture and severe burns.

Graham said he was flying the family from Plainview to show them a ranch he wanted to buy when he ran into a snowstorm. The wings began to ice up and visibility was poor. He circled a field twice, in southeastern Colorado, some 20 miles south of La Junta, and then tried to land on it.

Mrs. Jess Smith, who saw the crash from her farm home, said the plane came in smoothly, "but it skidded along the ground for a long way, then it burst into flames."

Rescuers ripped the tail section from the plane to pull out the occupants.

Graham, a 43-year-old farmer and grain elevator operator in Plainview, is well-known in the Panhandle. He is active in the Church of Christ both in Plainview and Amarillo.

Hail The Champ!

LIVERPOOL, ENGLAND — (UPI) — Mike Cunningham won his North of England schoolboy boxing championship without laying a glove on an opponent.

The 108-pound contender's first foe failed his physical, the second never showed up and the third got influenza before the bout.

Five persons were killed in a two-car collision near Amarillo Friday night.

Ray Edward Jackson, William H. Harris, Bryce Marshall, Barbara Marshall and Calvin Marshall were killed.

A twin-engine private plane crashed five miles north of Fredericksburg Sunday killing Alvin R. Meuth, 34, and W. E. Fricke, 34, both of Fredericksburg.

Bobby Lee Bryan, 28, of Alba, Tex., was killed near Quitman, Tex. Sunday when two automobiles sideswiped each other and both hit a truck. Five persons were injured in the wreck.

Sheri Lynn Murdaugh, 4, of Plainview, Tex., was killed Saturday when a truck ran over her as she was riding her tricycle near her home.

Mrs. Mamie Greer of Hurst, Tex. was found dead in an automobile in her garage. Police said the car was equipped with a hose from its exhaust pipe to a window.

J. L. Latham, 40, of Hooks, Tex., died in a fire that swept a Fort Worth rooming house Saturday.

Main Squabble
The main squabble in the house is over who should name the 25-member committee. Connolly insists the Governor should name all of them, but some house members believe the Speaker and Lieutenant Governor should appoint some.

Rep. John Allen of Longview, ready for Senate debate. The constitutional amendment is expected to see some bitter opposition from conservatives.

Other Action
Other major legislation up for action this week:

Appropriations — The House Appropriations Committee approved Friday its bill to spend $3.08 billion for state operations over the next two years. Rep. W. S. Heatly, the author, hopes to bring it up for debate on Wednesday. The Senate's spending bill should be ready in about 10 days.

Loan Shark —The Senate is due to debate a compromise loan shark proposal passed out of committee Thursday. The bill covers a broad range of loans up to $3,000.

Public Welfare — A proposal to provide direct payments for medical care for persons over 65 is

If It Isn't War

GOP Leader Suggests 'Selective Blockade'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen has suggested a "selective blockade" to cut off oil shipments to Cuba if it could be imposed without provoking war.

Dirksen said Sunday he agreed with President Kennedy that a complete blockade of Cuba would be an act of war and very risky. He said "nobody wants to take the chance of plunging this country into war if he can help it."

But the GOP leader said Cuban Premier Fidel Castro's regime must be destroyed and one way might be to institute a selective blockade if experts on international law should decide that it would not be an act of war.

Other developments on Cuba included:

—Deputy Defense Secretary Roswell Gilpatric said he did not know how many of the 7,000 Soviet troops in Cuba had been removed. But he said the administration would not be satisfied until they were gone.

—Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., called critics of Kennedy's Cuban policy "war whoopers." He pinned the tag on Sens. Kenneth Keating, R-N.Y., and Hugh Scott, R-Pa., and Rep. William E. Miller, R-N.Y., the GOP national chairman.

—Rep. George W. Brown, D-Calif., said there was a "hysterical clamor" over Cuba stirred up

Two Killed In Plane Crash

FREDERICKSBURG, Texas (UPI)—A twin-engine plane flying low through fog and mist hit a power line, burst into flames and crashed in the rugged hill country of South Texas yesterday, killing two Fredericksburg men.

The bodies of the occupants of the plane were burned beyond recognition.

They were identified through dental records as Alvin R. Meuth and W. E. Fricke both were 34.

Gillespie County Sheriff Hugo Klaerner said the pilot apparently was lost over the hills north of Fredericksburg and was looking for a landing strip.

The plane took off from a small air strip near Lake Travis in the Austin area early yesterday. The Lake Travis landing field was 70 miles from the scene of the crash.

NEW PREMIER — Damascus radio reported that pro-Nasserite Salah Bitar has been named Premier and Foreign Minister of the revolutionary Syrian government.

Dear Abby.... Marriage Ceremony Requires Dignity

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: There is a Justice of the Peace who works in the same building with me. He performs marriage ceremonies with his hat on. I told him he should take his hat off but he said there's no reason why he can't leave it on. Also, he sits while he reads the marriage ceremony, and he doesn't even READ it—he mumbles it. I would like your opinion of this. He gave me a nickel to write to you.

TROUBLE IN THE BUILDING
DEAR TROUBLE: A marriage ceremony should be performed with all the dignity and solemnity befitting that sacred occasion. He sounds like a very old man with a bald head and a new hat.

DEAR ABBY: I have been corresponding with a service man for three years and want to marry him. He is a widower and I've never been married. He retires in two years. When he last visited he said he would marry me in a minute but he promised his 13-year-old son that he would never marry. The boy lives with his maternal grandparents in another city. My gentleman friend suggested that he and his son visit me without letting the boy know of our plans, and see what the boy's reaction is to me. What do you think of this idea?

ANXIOUS ONE
DEAR ANXIOUS: Having to win over a 12-year-old boy, who apparently does not want to share his father's affection with anyone else, places you in a very awkward spot. I admire the father for his deep concern over his son's feelings—but you would be starting out in second place. If you are satisfied with that position, go along with the plan and try to win the boy's approval.

DEAR ABBY: I would like to know if a person who is separated or divorced should be remembered on his wedding anniversary with a card or gift.

FAITHFUL READER
DEAR READER: Only a married person who is "working" at his marriage should be remembered on the occasion of a wedding anniversary. Why "congratulate" someone on what was obviously a mistake?

DEAR ABBY: Anyone who complains about the new postage rate is obviously admitting that what he has to say isn't worth a nickel.

Club Plans To Beautify Lawn Around Hospital

Mr. and Mrs. Garden Club met recently with Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Tinnin, 618 N. Frost, with Mrs. W. A. Spoonmore, president, in charge of the business meeting.

Jay Mitchell, project chairman, reported on lawn beautification plans for Highland General Hospital. He also reported that plants will have to be replaced in the boxes in the courthouse which were frozen during the cold weather.

A Plant and Talent Sale is planned for the latter part of April. Dahlia films were shown by Mrs. John Kelley, which had been taken in her garden.

Ira Carlton discussed "Birds and Bird Care." He displayed several bird feeders and houses which illustrated how to protect and induce birds to come to yards. Attending were Messrs. A. and Mmes. Robert Coley; L. B. Studebaker; John Hall; Jay Mitchell; John Kelly; Walter Spoonmore; Ira Carlton; B. B. Higginbotham.

It was announced that the next meeting will be with Mr. and Mrs. Coley on April 2 at 7:30 p.m. in their home, 1113 N. Starkweather.

The Mature Parent Grand Speeches Often Directed To Self

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Mr. Dobbs' parents taught him to pay his bills promptly. They taught him this socially desirable lesson by evading payment of their bills as long as possible. As a child, Mr. Dobbs never awoke on the first of any month without the sound of a landlord banging on the front door of his home. He learned to avoid the shops of neighborhood merchants who were likely to pop out of their doors and call "Hey, tell your Pop I want to see him." He learned to shrink into himself at the whine in his mother's voice pleading with installment creditors. He learned to eat uncooked meals without asking what had happened to the stove and to go to bed in darkness imposed by unpaid utility companies. Today he takes much pride in his own A-1 credit rating and he heaps scorn on an 11-year-old son who has run up a $3 bill at the local stationer.

He speaks eloquently of the honest man who can look the world in the face because he doesn't owe it any money. He talks about "self-respect" and "responsibility." Then he makes Eddie open his toy bank and count out $3 in dimes and quarters to be delivered to the stationer.

But he isn't talking to Eddie. He is addressing—the parents whose chronic indebtedness had filled his childhood with menace and humiliation. Unfortunately, he doesn't know this. In Mr. Dobbs' memory, his irresponsible parents still survive in the character they gave themselves—kindly, hard-working folk abused by a greedy and unheeding world. So he is compelled to imagine that his scorn for Eddie's indebtedness is interest in Eddie's moral future instead of knowing what it actually is—a still white-hot resentment at the pop and mom who made any indebtedness a nightmare of terror to him.

Had he known the truth, scorn would have been absent from his discipline of Eddie. Our grand speeches demanding better virtue from children are seldom addressed to them. Much of the time they are directed to the painful misbehavior of our parents.

This formula is so effective that it is the physician's leading asthma prescription—so safe when used as directed that now it can be sold without prescription in most states.

GREAT DAY

FOR GETTING THINGS DONE BY PHONE

So maybe the rain is coming down in sheets. Lightning flashing. Thunder booming. No matter how wretched the weather, you can keep right on using your telephone. Some years ago, bad weather might have affected your telephone service. Today, things are different. Most telephone cables are now filled with pressurized dry air. If a cable springs a leak, the force of the escaping dry air holds out moisture and keeps phones working. An alarm automatically tells repairmen the location of the break. Usually, the trouble is fixed and you never know anything was wrong. So go ahead and use your phone when the sky opens up and the rain comes down. Pressurizing telephone cables to give you stormproof dependability is another improvement made with you in mind. Our never-ending goal is to improve your telephone service and make it more valuable to you.

LEARNING RUSSIAN

BERLIN (UPI) — The East German news agency Adn said Friday that kindergarten children in East Germany are being taught conversational Russian for a half-hour a day in their classes.

One Injured In Four-Car Mishap

One person was slightly injured in a four-car chain reaction traffic accident at the intersection of W. Francis and N. Cuyler Sts. at 4:40 p.m. Sunday. Police said cars driven by Glenda Darling, 16, of 1706 Assen; Billy C. Rayburn, 28, of 621 N. Gray; and Mrs. Ruby Crawford, 33, of 337 Jean, were stopped behind each other waiting for a red light to change, when another car driven by 15-year-old Nancy Bryant of Lefors, crashed into the rear of the car driven by Mrs. Crawford. This, according to the police report, started the chain reaction which involved the two cars ahead of Mrs. Crawford. All four cars were damaged. The one injury reported was that of Mrs. J. M. Crawford, 700 E. 14th St., who suffered a cut on the right knee. Miss Bryant was given a ticket charging her with following another car too closely. Police said three other minor accidents were reported during the week end, but there were no injuries in any of them.

German Foundry Explodes, 16 Die

BELECKE, Germany (UPI) — A bomb-like explosion spread death and destruction through the Siepmann Werke Foundry here Saturday leaving 16 dead and two workers missing. Some 40 other workers in the plant, which had one of West Germany's biggest drop forges, were injured. Two were in critical condition. The explosion, believed caused by a burst air pressure system, came at 9:30 a.m., shortly after the skeleton Saturday shift of some 75 men had reported to work from this little town of 5,000 inhabitants. The blast, heard for 10 miles, devastated the plant's five buildings and buried workers under masonry, twisted girders and heavy machinery. A huge cloud of dust was blown into the air and fell like a blanket over a wide area. "We thought it was an air raid," one townsman said. Officials said it would have been a major catastrophe if the explosion had come on a weekday when 1,500 workers are on the job.

Tornado

(Continued From Page 1) alert for a wide area of Texas from the New Mexico to Arkansas borders had ended. Evans said the twister came and went so fast, many residents in the town of 3,000 people did not even know a wind had hit. Robinson, whose home was on the edge of the twister's path, said the electric lights blinked once, then went out. And as they went out, he heard "a slow roar," that vanished in a twinkling. The wind swept into the town accompanied by a deluge of rain. It struck Kaufman two blocks south of the downtown district. The first word Sheriff Evans had that a storm had hit was when he received a phone call about 12:15 a.m. reporting several uprooted trees. In the dark, it was difficult for officials to determine the full extent of damage immediately. "It was a blessing," said a policeman that the wind missed the Bidault (Continued From Page 1) widespread criticism of Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's government by the British press and opposition politicians.

Seek OAS Members It was not immediately clear whether Bavarian police actually were hunting for Bidault when they found him Sunday morning in a three-story stone villa, 20 miles from Munich.

Heinz Graf Houhuys, a Dutch journalist who rents the villa, told newsmen 12 police officials entered the house looking for members of the Secret Army Organization (OAS), the anti-Gaullist French terrorist group allied with the CNR.

"They were greatly surprised when one of the guests of the house produced a diplomat's passport issued for Georges Bidault," Houhuys said.

Houhuys claimed federal officials in Bonn had known since last week that Bidault was in Bavaria.

Burglars Enter Local Lounge

Burglars broke into the Peppermint Lounge, S. Gray St., between 2 a.m. and 7 a.m. Sunday and looted a cigarette vending machine of approximately $12.

Police said entrance was made through a window which had been broken with a brick.

Capl. Denny Roan, who investigated the case, said he found three $1-bills and a dime on the floor in front of the cigarette machine which had been pried open with a screwdriver.

Grapefruit League

By DICK JOYCE
UPI Sports Writer

The way Willie McCovey of the San Francisco Giants is pounding the ball during spring training, Orlando Cepeda may not have his first base job when he ends his holdout.

The 25-year-old McCovey, a sensation when he broke into the major leagues with the Giants in 1959 but a part-time outfielder-first baseman ever since, hit two solo home runs Sunday in leading the National League champions to a 16-7 exhibition victory over the Cleveland Indians.

McCovey, who had singled and belted a 400-foot ground rule double in Saturday's opener, belted homers in the third and seventh innings Sunday, both landing about in the same spot, 380 feet from home plate.

Remains At Home
Cepeda, who flopped in the World Series against the New York Yankees, is holding out for a better contract at his home in Puerto Rico. Cepeda, who hit .311 with 46 homers and 142 runs batted in in 1961, dipped to a .306 average with 25 homers and 111 RBI's last year.

The Giants' other holdout, pitcher Juan Marichal, was reported on his way to the Phoenix, Ariz., camp from his home in the Dominican Republic.

Cepeda said, "The Giants have spent two weeks making all sorts of offers to finally reach last year's salary. If they had started there I would already be in training camp." Cepeda indicated that he and the club are still far apart on salary terms and said he would not go to camp unless they can get together.

Orioles Down Yankees
In Sunday's slugfest, Felipe Alou and rookie Hal Lanier, son of former major leaguer, Max, also homered for the Giants while Fred Whitfield, Tito Francona and Walt Bond connected for the Indians.

Elsewhere around the citrus and cactus circuits on Sunday: The Baltimore Orioles handed the world champion Yankees their second straight setback, 5-4, four Philadelphia Phillies pitchers combined to hurl a 3-0, six-hit victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates; the New York Mets beat the St. Louis Cardinals, 7-5; the Minnesota Twins edged the Detroit Tigers, 4-2, in 11 innings.

The Los Angeles Dodgers downed the Milwaukee Braves, 4-2; the Washington Senators held on for a 7-5 triumph over the Kansas City Athletics; the Cincinnati Reds pulled out a 1-0 victory over the Chicago White Sox in 14 innings; the Boston Red Sox shelled the Chicago Cubs, 12-2; and the Houston Colt .45s tallied three runs in the ninth inning to beat the Los Angeles Angels, 7-4.

Scalpers Get $50 For Clay

NEW YORK (UPI) — Broadway scalpers were getting $50 each for choice seats today as Cassius Clay and Doug Jones finished training for their heavyweight contenders' fight at Madison Square Garden Wednesday night.

The demand for tickets to the first sellout fight at the Garden in 12 years has become so intense that some of the better $12 rindside tickets may bring $75 to $100 before fight time, the speculators say.

Unbeaten Clay, the "Louisville Lip" whose successful predictions of knockout rounds for his bouts have inspired the sell-out, added zest to the situation Sunday night by announcing: "I'm changing the pick I made before.

"Instead of six, Doug goes in four."

That announcement committed 21-year-old Clay to the task of knocking out in exactly the fourth round New Yorker Jones, who achieved the major boxing upset of 1962 by flattening the then third-ranked Zora Folley in the seventh round at the Garden, Dec. 15.

Harvester Track Team Splits Up

One Squad To West Texas, Second To Lefors Meet

Pampa track coach, Norm Phillips despite Abilene's sudden onrush to beat the Harvesters for second place in the Possum Kingdome Relays Saturday night, was not at all disheartened at the performance of his track team.

"I think the boys did very well," said the youthful cinderpath mentor. "We were in a strong field and I really didn't think we would be up there fighting for first place at all."

Abilene Rally
"We had a long-shot chance to beat Cooper for first place if we could have won the mile relay," explained Phillips, "and with Abilene High 17 points behind us going into the last events, I didn't see how they could catch us as both Cooper's and our relay teams were strong. But they came on with a rush, won the hurdles, the mile and the mile relay, took second over us and came close to taking first over Cooper. It wasn't a case of our doing badly, it was a case of a terrific rally by Abilene."

Phillips praised the performance of his relay team, which set a new school record of 3:28.5 finishing third. "Sophomore Jimmy Westbrook did a fine job replacing Westbrook (Mark Westbrook, who was declared ineligible for the season) and I think he's going to stay on the mile relay team. It's going to be hard trying to replace Mark in the 880 though, he held the school record, and had picked up places in almost every meet for us."

Split Teams

The Harvesters are going to split into two teams this weekend, with half of them going to the West Texas Relays at Odessa and the other half going to the Lefors Relays.

"They are both two-day meets," said Phillips. "I'm taking my best boys to Odessa, but that's going to be the toughest meet we'll be in this year. Both Abilene and Abilene Cooper will be in it, Odessa Permian, which won at Fort Stockton, Amarillo Tascosa which just won the Albuquerque meet... and that's just a starter."

Roten Heads Lefors
A second team under coach Randy Roten will enter the Lefors Relays. "I'm going to send some good boys to that meet, too," said Phillips. "There will be some of my real good sophomores and juniors who need a little more experience, and there will be some of my ineligibles like Westbrook who are top runners."

Phillips gave a potential lineup for Lefors, explaining that this week's practice might find some of the B team moved up to the Odessa Meet or others joining the team for Lefors.

Probable Entries
"My probable entries for Lefors will be Steve Cloud, Sam Williams, Larry Tarrant and Westbrook in the sprint medley relay; Cloud, Hank Henry, Sam Williams and Larry Johnson in the sprint relay; Randy Smith and Wayland Bullard in the high hurdles, joined by Phil Massey in the low hurdles; Eugene Madrid, Johnson and Henry in the 100-yard dash; Cloud, Roy Williams, Madrid and Sam Williams in the 880 relay; Ralph King, Jack McNeill and Shaun Hills in the mile; Sam Williams, Tarrant, Roy Williams and Madrid in the mile relay; Larry Johnson and Hank Henry in the pole vault; Sam Williams, and Larry Waincott in the high jump; Tarrant in the broad jump; Gerald Raso, Carl Clark and Glenn McCathern in the shotput; Carl Johnson, Larry Hopp and Myron Scribner in the discus and King, James Allen, Tommy Brewer and Westbrook in the two-mile relay."

"I expect our relay teams to do well, and some of our shot and discus men," said Phillips, "but there's going to be some tough competition at Lefors. Perryton is a very strong team, and so is White Deer. It will give the boys some valuable experience, and we have a good chance of winning or placing well."

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (UPI)—It was like something out of Hollywood, California, and not the village three miles up the Florida road, as awesome Sonny Liston went back to heavy work today for his April 10 defense against Floyd Patterson.

Purple sweatpants, blondes in Bikinis, rock and roll recordings to pace the rope skipping, photo sessions in which Sonny lifts two female tourists high into the air with one sweep of his massive arm, a swimming pool where the training spectators dunk their sunburned feet and other innovations make Sonny's Miami Beach hotel camp the most exotic and unbelievable setting since Cleopatra.

The tempo was set when Sonny, a mountain of muscle in a white terry cloth robe, stepped into his shaded training ring Sunday to shed the knee he injured 17 days ago while swinging a golf club for a photographer.

Skiers Lose To Briscoe

The Pampa Boat-Ski Club should stick to four-man basketball. Last Friday night they had only four men available and went out and won a game from the Pampa Independents.

Saturday night they had their whole team back... and lost a 50-46 decision to Briscoe.

The game, played at Pampa Junior High, went back and forth with Briscoe keeping a narrow lead at each quarter mark, 16 - 11, 25 - 22 and 40 - 31.

Roy Pool had 28 points for the locals, Randy Calton had 16 and Duane Hayes 15 for the winners. The loss gives the Skiers a 19-5 season mark and makes them 1-1 with Briscoe.

Key Issue Wins

By United Press International
Key Issue, lightweight in the field, provided the heaviest punch in Saturday's $17,550 Appleton Handicap at Gulfstream Park. Competently handled by jockey Hedley Woodhouse, F. P. Ryan's Key Issue stayed in front all the way to win by 15 lengths.

Knee is Fine
Don't kid yourself Mr. Patterson. The knee is fine and those more than two weeks of loafing must have been spent by Sonny in a steam bath. He looks as fit as a brand new locomotive, and just about as hard.

The last time he boxed, Sonny faced a heavy by the rather improbable name of Vaneda Cox. Sonny hit Vaneda a right cross that flattened him, lifted up his sparmate anxiously and asked: "Are you all right?" "Sure," quoth Vaneda.

At which juncture, Sonny hauled off and completely flattened him with a straight right.

Vaneda had an easy time as Sonny returned to work. They went three rounds but it was only shadow sparring, and Vaneda's sighs of relief could be heard over on the other side of the canvas wall which separates Sonny's ocean-view ring and pool from that used by the hotel guests.

Strips Off Robe
Sonny by now had stripped off the robe which, on the back, had the picture of a sun on the horizon.

"Is that a rising or a setting sun?" somebody demanded. "Depends," said another, "whether it represents Sonny or Patterson."

Liston, with as much expression as the stone faces on Mt. Rushmore, ruined the heavy bag for two rounds and then mauled the light bag for two more. After this came the piece de resistance, the rope skipping routine in which he does a heel and tow light fantastic to the raucous rock of "Night Train."

Hornets Drop 15

By United Press International
The lowly Pittsburgh Hornets now have played 15 straight games without tasting victory. The Hornets' last win was over the Baltimore Clippers on Feb. 2.

The Quebec Aces displayed no pity Sunday night when they handed the Hornets a 4-1 setback and gained two points in the Eastern Professional Hockey American Hockey League.

Bobby Bragan Figures Third Time Is Charm

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Bobby Bragan is hoping that the third time around will be a charm — with the Milwaukee Braves.

A victim of mediocre ball clubs and front office reorganizations in his two previous shots as a major league manager, the peppery Bragan feels he finally has his chance.

"This is it for me," he frankly admits. "It's now or never." Bragan managed the Pirates two years, in 1956 and 1957, finishing seventh each time with the kids who finally were molded into the National League pennant and World Series winner in 1960. But then came a front office shakeup and in the process Bragan was let out.

He had his second shot as manager of the Cleveland Indians in 1958. "But three months after I took over I again lost my job in a front office reorganization," he recalls. Since that time Bragan managed Spokane for two years, served as a coach with the Dodgers in 1960 and was a coach with the Houston Colts when he was offered the job as manager of the Braves.

Grabs The Chance
"Naturally I grabbed the chance," says Bragan. "I'm convinced deep down that I can do the job." "One thing I will say — this is the best club I've ever managed. So if I don't make good, it's my own fault."

Cats Expected At Odessa
By ED FITE
UPI Sports Writer

The Texas track spotlight shifts to Odessa and the West Texas Relays this week, but there isn't expected to be any serious challenge to the supremacy of Abilene Christian's talented team there any more than there was in the Border Olympics last Saturday.

With versatile Jerry Dyes and Dennis Richardson providing the big impetus with 27 points between them, ACC easily outdistanced the best of the Southwest Conference is successfully defending its Border crown at Laredo.

Virtually the same group of competitors will invade Odessa next Saturday, although a few of them will trek to Denton to compete in the North Texas Relays.

Sets Javelin Mark
Dyes set a new overall meet record of 240 feet 3 1/2 inches in the javelin, posted a university division record of 24 feet in the broad jump, ran the opening leg of ACC's winning spring relay team and picked up a fourth in the 10-yard dash for 14 1/2 points and the endorsement as this meet's outstanding athlete.

There will be no excuses." One thing he is fairly certain of — he won't lose his job because of a front office shakeup. "I think Bobby will be around for a long time, too," echoed McHale.

"He knows he has his work cut out for him. We don't expect him to win the pennant this year, not with clubs like the Dodgers, Giants and Reds in the league. "We know we have to give him more to work with. We are trying to get him more material. Meanwhile, we think he will get the maximum with what we have now." Cause Not Hopeless With such stars as Hank Aaron, Ed Matthews, Warren Spahn, Lew Burdette, Del Crandall and others, the Braves cause is not hopeless. "But we need two outfielders to go along with Aaron," Bragan points out. "And we are not too sure of our pitching. I think the potential is there, for we have a lot of good looking kids. It's a question, though, if they are going to be ready in 1963." Spahn will be 42 in April, Burdette is 36. "It's obvious we have to look to our kids in pitching, although both Spahn and Burdette are far from being through," Bragan said. "With the outfield, it's different. "The two leading candidates for regular outfield berths are Mack Jones and Lee Maye, who hit .255 and .244 respectively with the Braves last season. Third Time A Charm Bragan is sure they will do better. "They are two of the fastest men in the league," he explained, "but I don't think they have taken advantage of that speed. Jones beat out only three bunts for base hits last year, Maye one. We are working on their bunting in the hope they can do better. For if they get on base, fellows like Aaron, Matthews and Crandall will get them home." Bragan said Aaron would bat third "because I want him to come up in the first inning." "He not only scares pitchers, he hurts 'em," Bragan pointed out. "So I want him up there as often as possible." But Aaron needs help and the Braves may not have enough of it. For Bragan though, it's the third time around. "I'm aiming to make it a charm," Bragan says. "I'm not saying in 1963 — only that this time around."

Bearcats Picked As Number One

NEW YORK (UPI)—The University of Cincinnati, which opens defense of its NCAA title this week, today was named the nation's No. 1 major college basketball team for the 1962-63 season by the United Press International Board of Coaches.

The magnificent Bearcats, who won 23 games this season and lost only one, took the national title and the UPI trophy that goes with it by gaining the first-place votes of 31 of the 35 coaches who have been rating the nation's major colleges for UPI each week of the season.

Cincinnati, picked to win the title in the pre-season ratings, was named No. 1 by the coaches rating board every single week of the season. At one stretch, the Bearcats, led by coach-of-the-year Ed Jucker, were the unanimous pick of the coaches for eight straight weeks. That string was snapped when Wichita scored a 65-64 upset over Cincinnati that also broke a 37-game, two-season winning streak.

Duke, which won the Atlantic Coast Conference title and then proved it was no fluke by sweeping its own conference tourney finished second to Cincinnati in the final ratings, picking up the 4 first-place votes that didn't go to the Bearcats.

Arizona State (21-2) was third, Loyola (Ill.) (24-2) was fourth, Illinois (19-5) was fifth, Wichita (19-6) was sixth, Mississippi State (21-5) was seventh, Ohio State (20-4) was eighth, Colorado (18-6) was ninth and Stanford (16-8) was 10th.

The second 10 grouping in the final ratings was headed by New York University, which slipped from 10th to 11th.

Texas was 12th, Providence was 13th, Oregon State was 14th, UCLA was 15th, St. Joseph's (Pa.) and West Virginia were tied for 16th, Bowling Green was 18th and Kansas State and Seattle were tied for 19th.

UPI Ratings

NEW YORK (UPI)—The final 1962-63 United Press International major college basketball ratings (with first-place votes and won-lost records in parentheses):

Team	Points
1. Cincinnati (31) (23-1)	348
2. Duke (4) (24-2)	312
3. Arizona State (24-2)	230
4. Loyola (Ill.) (24-2)	229
5. Illinois (19-5)	131
6. Wichita (19-6)	149
7. Mississippi State (21-5)	147
8. Ohio State (20-4)	109
9. Colorado (18-6)	43
10. Stanford (16-8)	38

Second 10—11. New York U. 37; 12. Texas 29; 13. Providence 24; 14. Oregon State 13; 15. UCLA 11; 16 (tie). St. Joseph's (Pa.) and West Virginia 9 each; 19. Bowling Green 8; 19 (tie). Kansas State and Seattle 7 each.

Wilt Scores 70, Warriors Still Lose

By United Press International
Wilt Chamberlain must be wondering how he can score 70 points in a game and still lose.

Chamberlain collected 27 field goals and 27 free throws against Syracuse Sunday, but the one-man barrage wasn't enough as the Nats defeated the San Francisco Warriors, 163-148.

The total fell five points short of the record 315 the Warriors and New York Knicks amassed last year when Chamberlain registered his fabulous 100 points in a single game.

The Detroit Pistons clinched a third place tie in their battle with the Warriors for the final playoff spot in the Western Division by subduing the Los Angeles Lakers, 124-116. Boston clobbered Cincinnati, 149-117, and St. Louis topped New York, 132-120, in other league action.

Regional NCAA Play Continues

By GARY KALE
UPI Sports Writer

The 1963 NCAA basketball tournament picks up momentum on three fronts tonight, but the season is over for a disillusioned Ohio State team that thought it had the ability to make it to the post-season carnival for the fourth straight year.

Philadelphia is the scene tonight of an East regional tripleheader that pits New York U. against Pittsburgh, St. Joseph's (Pa.) against Princeton and West Virginia against Connecticut.

In Midwest regional at Evanston, Ill., Bowling Green faces Notre Dame and Loyola of Chicago meets Tennessee Tech.

On the West Coast, Seattle plays Oregon State and Arizona State takes on Utah State in a twin bill at Eugene, Ore. Tournament competition opened at Lubbock, Tex., Saturday night in the first round of the Midwest regionals. Oklahoma City advanced to a semifinal date at Lawrence, Kan., Friday by defeating Colorado State, 70-67. Texas also moved up as the Longhorns trampled Texas Western, 65-47.

Indiana Edges Buckeyes
Ohio State, needing a victory to annex the Big Ten title and representation in the NCAA classic, fell before Indiana, 87-85, in overtime Saturday. Gary Bradds pumped in 32 points for the losers and Tom Bolvard scored 29 for the winning Hoosiers.

Illinois tied Ohio State for the league title by defeating Iowa, 73-69, and earned the NCAA berth because the Buckeyes were tournament performers for the last three years. Bill Small and Bill Burwell combined for 41 Illinois points.

Colorado also joined the tourney with a 69-56 victory over Kansas State that tied the Wildcats' for the Big Eight title. The Buffaloes had beaten State previously this season, thus earning entry credentials.

San Francisco moved into a semifinal Far Western regional niche by edging Santa Clara, 62-61, on Dave Lee's last-second free throw. That gave the Dons the West Coast Athletic Conference championship.

The Big Six conference, however, was thrown into a playoff when UCLA whipped California, 72-53, and Southern California upset Stanford, 67-61. UCLA and Stanford play for the conference's NCAA berth Tuesday night at Santa Monica, Calif.

Wins Catholic Tourney
Xavier of Ohio won the National Catholic College Tournament with an 89-75 decision over St. Bonaventure, at Louisville, Ky. Steve Thomas netted 34 points for the Chions, Creighton stopped Regis, 76-61, for third place.

In NCAA college division regional finals, UPI small college champion Wittenberg (Ohio) defeated South Carolina State, 70-63; Northeastern edged Springfield, 47-45; Southern Illinois stripped Lamar Tech (Tex.), 93-84, in overtime; Philadelphia Textile beat Bloomsburg St., 54-48; Oglethepe topped Tennessee State, 55-51; South Dakota State squeezed past Nebraska Wesleyan, 77-75; Fresno State topped Chapman, 71-59, and Evansville set back Washington (Mo.), 85-75.

Among major tournament-bound teams, Fordham defeated Holy Cross, 59-57; DePaul edged Dayton, 68-56; Oregon State downed Oregon, 71-65; Seattle beat Idaho, 95-88, and Connecticut lost to Colgate, 69-67, in overtime.

The NAIA's 32-team field swings into action tonight, with Grambling College (La.) favored to repeat its 1961 triumph.

AN INDEPENDENT FREEDOM NEWSPAPER

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by any government, with the gift of freedom, and that it is every man's duty to God to preserve his own liberty and respect the liberty of others. Freedom is self-control, no more, no less.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guides expressed in the Ten Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessings. For only when man understands Freedom and is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities in harmony with the above moral principles.

The Free Market

A free market obviously means open competition between and among all elements which go to make up the market place.

What composes the market place? Practically everything and everybody.

The market place is probably an unfortunate term but we have no other that is suitable to express what is really meant. What is intended is that place (it can be any place at all) wherein people meet for purposes of making voluntary exchanges.

What is not meant is some particular store or trading area. Each store and each trading area is a part of the market place, of course. But people can "meet" over the telephone and exchanges can be arranged by mail, by telegraph or by any and every means of communication in addition to direct confrontation between buyer and seller.

It is a part of human nature that exchanges will occur. And a free market is merely an unrestrained market place in which all persons are free at all times to exercise their independent judgment and make whatever exchanges they wish, or to refrain from making any exchanges they wish.

The element of making exchanges is not only a part of human nature, it is a part of all life. Life itself depends on making exchanges for, in a real sense, no living organism is entirely self-sufficient. A plant, for example, takes certain chemicals out of the soil, the air, the rainfall, the sunlight. In exchange it provides other things which are added to the soil and the air.

The more highly evolved the living organism is, the more complex and varied are the items offered in exchange.

Of all living things, man is of course the most complex. And, in consequence, man is more in need of a market place than any other living thing. With man, whose requirements are vast, only a vast free market in which all manner of things can be exchanged voluntarily, will suffice.

Now, nature has provided the basic market place and man provides the rest of it. In this regard all men are competitors with all other men, each man vying with all other men in his effort to obtain for himself the things he requires for subsistence, and for the satisfactions he seeks which often are far more difficult to obtain than mere subsistence.

The argument is often offered that in a natural state, some men will become monopolists and drive out all others. That is, they will be able to eliminate the natural competitive drives which exist and thus operate in such a way that they do injury to others. The assumption is false.

The condition of monopoly, which is almost universally feared, is not a natural condition but one which men must impose on others by force. There can be no true monopoly unless force is present to prevent competition.

It is true, of course, and has always been true, that in a given instance, some man or group of men may have the only product in existence which performs a specific chore.

To illustrate, let us suppose we are back in cave-man times. Og, a cave dweller, has created the first stone hammer. He has figured out how to attach a handle to a stone and thus to create the first hand tool.

Those who do not understand economics (in spite of what they may have learned in college) will contend that Og has a monopoly. It is not so.

Og may have the only stone hammer in existence. But, unless force is applied by shaman or chief to prevent others from making stone hammers, competition is still at work. Before you know it, Uglog, who lives in an adjoining cave, will have made a stone hammer for himself. Why not? Assuming that some primitive politician (shaman or chief) has not intruded to issue an edict that only Og has the right to make stone hammers, there is nothing to prevent Uglog from making one, too.

Politicians Always Have 'Managed' The News

The continuing flurry of charges that the Kennedy administration seeks to "manage the news" needs to be put in some balance.

The President himself has taken a hand, trying to minimize the issue by treating it wittily — as he often does when under some fire.

Yet there are probably few responsible newsmen in Washington and elsewhere who doubt that management of the news is taking place.

What has to be understood is that this is not something unique to President Kennedy. The Eisenhower administration practiced news control, as did the Roosevelt and Truman regimes before. In fact, this is a technique as old as memory.

Nor is it limited to the national government. Sleuthing reporters have been complaining about "invisible government" at the state level for decades.

The fact is it is both common place and old does not justify it as a policy. The public is entitled to know what its elected and appointed officials are doing and saying.

But the record of history, right up to the most current events indicates that government officials have a strong self-protective instinct. They are not about to hand out gracefully and ungrudgingly information which in any way will damage them personally or politically.

They do not need, at the national level, to tell themselves they are deliberately withholding information for these reasons. The great emphasis on defense and security gives them an easy way to rationalizing news control. On top of this, there is a natural tendency for men in office to believe they know better than anyone what is wise and proper and safe to disclose.

Few individuals or agencies deeply entwined in public affairs believe they have a duty to "tell all." In one degree or another, they all "manage the news" they take part in.

Where the Kennedy regime went astray was in openly avowing, even for one day, that news management was official policy. The retractions and denials, however humorously stated, probably will never catch up with that one.

The hushed word out of England is that slot machines are about to invade those most decorous of chambers — the House of Commons. The Catering Committee of the HOC is considering installing the slot venders to sell snacks. And if the suggestion is approved, the flashy exteriors of the machines will be covered by a dignified coating of paint somewhat more in keeping with the Gothic style of architecture thereabouts. Kipper-ed herring, anyone? Well, you can have our portion when you visit the English Legislature.

Possibly because of the Oriental's love of contradiction come the names given to two forms of Eastern mayhem; jujitsu—gentle art; karate—empty-handed. Equally paradoxical is that both forms of unarmed combat grew out of non-violent philosophies. The legend of karate owes its origin to a Buddhist monk named Daruma, who founded the sect of Zen. The monk explained he strongly disapproved of violence and was forced to devise lethal methods of discouraging it.

How old is television? Many think it dates back only to post-World War II. But it goes back to 1927 when the Bell Telephone Laboratories demonstrated TV picture transmission between Washington and New York and also from Whippany, N.J., to Newark. Two years later these scientists demonstrated color televisions.

Friendship International Airport at Baltimore has bought four cannons to frighten migratory birds from the runways. Latest government studies show Americans are spending more money for housing, automobiles and medical care and less for food and clothing. Japan has a new anti-tipping campaign. Hotel and restaurant employees as well as guides and tour conductors have been instructed not to accept any gratuity, but some places still impose a service charge. It's hard to change human nature.

"Don't you believe it. When the postwar baby crop starts to reach adulthood, the newspaper - buying age, in 1964 and '65, newspaper circulations will increase at a faster rate without any significant change in the number of papers."

Allen-Scott Report

McNamara Admits New Missile Gap Would Result From His Controversial Policies

ROBERT ALLEN

PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — Defense Secretary McNamara is admitting that his new and hotly controversial strategic policies will create a dangerous missile gap in the deployment of an effective anti-missile missile system.

Under intensive grilling in the closed-door sessions of the Senate Armed Services Committee, McNamara disclosed that Russia will have an operational anti-missile missile by 1966, while the earliest target date for the deployment of the Nike-X, the Army's super missile killer, has been set for 1970.

McNamara's reluctant admission came under drum - fire questioning on a 220-page argument he delivered in support of his policies. The caustic grilling was the first hostile reception encountered by the Pentagon chief in the two years he has been in the Kennedy Cabinet.

The disclosure that McNamara's new strategic policy would create an ominous missile gap was brought to light by Senator Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., when he pointedly asked, "Is there any evidence that Russia is now developing an active anti-missile defense system within the Soviet Union?"

After a long pause, McNamara finally replied: "We have information that Russia is developing such a system, but there is no hard intelligence that they now have an operational anti-missile missile."

"Is it not our intelligence estimate that the Soviet will have an anti-missile missile system in full operation within the Soviet Union by 1966?" persisted Thurmond.

"I believe we are getting into too sensitive an area for me to answer questions," protested McNamara. "This is a very sensitive matter."

"This may be a very sensitive area," declared Senator Richard Russell, D-Ga., Chairman. "But every member of this committee has the right and the duty to ask any question he believes pertinent to this defense inquiry."

This position was strongly supported by Senator Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash. "I believe the question is very pertinent," he declared. "From the Secretary's replies to most of our questions, I believe there are many sensitive areas of his policies that we should fully explore. I have yet to find an area where the committee has fully agreed with him."

McNamara flushed at this blunt reproof. Obviously jolted by this unaccustomed stern treatment, he remained silent. Senator Russell thereupon directed McNamara to speak: "I believe Senator Thurmond's question should be answered."

"The Senator's statement is correct," admitted McNamara. "We estimate that the Soviet has the capability of deploying an anti-missile missile system by 1966. But, as I pointed out in my statement, we are developing an improved anti-missile missile — the Nike-X — that we are convinced will be an improvement over any system deployed by the Soviet."

THE MISSILE GAP — "When will that missile be operational?" demanded Thurmond. "Under our present program, the Nike-X should be ready by 1970 if the development goes as planned," reported McNamara. "Had we decided it was feasible to go ahead with the Nike-Zeus, we would have been able to deploy that missile at about the same time as the Soviet."

"Mr. Secretary," retorted Thurmond, "By rejecting the alternative of deploying the Nike-Zeus until the Nike-X is perfected, the U.S. is faced with a period in which there will be a defensive gap more dangerous than a substantial missile gap. Upon what do you justify the risks involved in this decision?"

"We will have a superior strength in ICBMs," contended McNamara. "We are accelerating the development of Sprint, another anti-missile missile. It could be ready before 1970."

"Has a feasibility study contract on Sprint been awarded?" asked Senator Stuart Symington, D-Mo. "I am not sure," replied McNamara.

"It is my information that this contract is not even ready to be given out," snapped Symington. THE CUBAN GAP — At this point, Senator Margaret Chase Smith, D-Maine, switched the discussion to Cuba.

"In your statement you referred to the Cuban crisis and the diminishing of the military threat there as a result of the handling of the crisis," said Mrs. Smith. "How do you assess the role of the Strategic Air Command during the crisis?"

"It was of extreme importance," said McNamara. "These bombers were placed in an advance state of readiness in a matter of hours."

"In other words, the existence of a strong force of U.S. bombers was a deciding factor in Khrushchev's decision to back down and withdraw his missiles and bombers?" asked Senator Smith. "Undoubtedly, it was one of the factors," replied McNamara.

"In that case, aren't we phasing out our B-47s too soon?" broke in Senator Barry Goldwater, D-Ariz. "If they were useful in deciding this crisis, they will be equally useful in future nuclear confrontations with the Soviet."

"We are in the process of developing a balanced force of both nuclear and conventional weapons to cope with all types of Russian threats," asserted McNamara. "Did the Cuban crisis turn on our nuclear superiority or on our conventional superiority?" continued Mrs. Smith. "Our nuclear superiority and will to use it," declared McNamara. "That is exactly the reason why I believe our policy of phasing out the B-47 bombers is absurd," exclaimed Senator Goldwater. "There isn't a member of this committee who agrees with your policy. I contend it must be changed."

"Did you know about the shooting up of one of our fishing boats by two Russian MiGs flying from Cuba?" asked Senator Russell. "Yes, it occurred yesterday afternoon," replied McNamara.

ernoon," replied McNamara. "Why didn't you brief this committee about the incident?" demanded Russell.

"No member asked me," replied McNamara. "That is a typical example of the cooperation we are receiving from the Defense Department," retorted Senator Symington.

With that caustic blast, the hearing ended.

WHITE HOUSE FLASHES — Incompatibility is the inside reason Miss Letitia Baldrige is departing as White House social secretary. She and the first lady reached a point where they weren't getting along harmoniously. Miss Baldrige's suggestions and occasional discreet criticisms were being disregarded and she found she had less and less to do. So she decided to leave. When this became known to the President, a job was offered her in the giant Merchandise Mart owned by his father in Chicago.

Dr. Janet Travell, first woman physician to a President, is still a member of the White House staff, but is doing little medical work there. She is occasionally consulted by the President, but most of his treatments, particularly for his weak back, are administered by outside specialists. Dr. Travell has built up a sizable private practice in the capital, particularly in fashionable Georgetown, where many ranking New Frontiersmen reside.

Leo Welch, board chairman of Standard Oil of New Jersey, and Fred Foy, of Koppers Co., Inc. are under serious consideration as head of the communications corporation that is being organized under the law passed by Congress last year. The board of incorporators are sounding out Welch and Foy on whether they would take the job. . . . Two ornate office suites have been fitted out in the still unfinished huge new House office building that is to be known as the Rayburn Building, in honor of the late speaker from Texas. House members who have seen these sample offices are agog at their lavishness. So far newsmen have been barred from them on orders of the Capitol architect. Apparently he is fearful of critical stories of the expensive furnishings of the offices.

The Almanac

Today is Monday, March 11, the 70th day of 1963 with 255 to follow. The moon is approaching its last quarter. The morning stars are Venus and Mars. The evening star is Mars. On this day in history: In 1888, the great blizzard began in New York City and snow fell for four straight days. In 1930, William Howard Taft became the first President of the United States to be buried in the National Cemetery at Arlington, Va.

In 1941, President Roosevelt signed the hotly-debated lend-lease bill and immediately ordered goods sent to Britain and Greece. In 1959, the Senate approved Hawaii as the 50th state. A thought for the day: British statesman Sir Winston Churchill said: "I cannot forecast to you the action of Russia. It is a riddle wrapped in a mystery inside an enigma."

By GEORGE BOARDMAN, Ph. D.

Collectivists are silly these days. There are mighty few individualists remaining for the collectivists to collect against. I just finished reading about a meeting and election of our county bar association. It looks like they have four officers and two other members. This is a lawyer type bar association, not a saloon collection. The more I read about the various associations, the more I feel they must be a bunch of Indians plotting against us whites, even at this late date.

All the associations have goals and the goals are personal to the association, for instance, the National Hospital Assn. is for the benefit of hospitals, the Mohave Bar Assn. is for the benefit of the people who have been admitted to the Bar (Lawyer's type Bar, that is) and medical associations are organized for the benefit of the men of medicine, also there is probably a different association for medicine men.

There are used car dealer's associations and new car dealer associations and associations of manufacturers and electrical power dispensers, leagues of municipal employees and associations of governors, state officers, state employees and attorney's general. There are motel and hotel associations and associations of bakers, beer makers and dealers and manufacturers and distributors of alcoholic beverages. You name it and you can find an association or league or club for it and the end has not yet been reached.

Now, an association happens when one guy talks another fellow into joining up in order to accomplish something the first guy thinks he can't accomplish single handed. Obviously, independent thinking people are not inclined to organize and join associations, so the organizations and associations sit around and do their plotting against those who refuse to join up, organize and associate and, in some cases, against each other.

You don't have to study this situation very long before you begin to realize that us unassociated fellows are "way out on a limb. There is no association for the benefit and protection of customers, clients, patients, alcoholic beverage drinkers, soft drink drinkers, motel and hotel patrons, bakery food eaters, meat eaters and patrons of dining out establishments. It's quite obvious that if all the other fellows need associations and leagues for their benefit, we're in nothing but trouble and we've been in trouble for a good many years and it's a wonder there are any of us left.

Now the organizations boys sit around and tell you there was a crying need for their organization, that hundreds of people were sitting around, wringing their hands and wondering when an association would dash up and save them from their own inadequacies. I suppose that way all of the associations conduct regular membership drives.

The truth of the matter is that one or two guys decided they couldn't make it alone in their business or profession and from that point on, the rest becomes a very fancy snow job, without plows.

Don't get the idea I'm against all of the associations and leagues and assorted collections of dependent persons. Probably they need and deserve one another. The point I am trying to make is that those Indians do plot against us whites, they are for us and against us at the same time. They want us to buy but hope to make us feel we are getting something for nothing, one way or another, like the motel associations which try to make us feel we are getting a good sleep when we put in a night on a bed that's as hard as a board.

It's just a matter of facing the facts; the Bar associations are for the benefit of the members. The medical associations are for the benefit of the members and all of the associations and leagues are for the benefit of the members and that leaves the rest of us out in deep center field, with the sun in our eyes, no sun glasses and no glove. We're in trouble. How have we managed to exist this long? We don't even belong to the national association of ghost town inhabitants.

Question Box

(We invite questions on economic and the proper functions of government which will not injure anyone.)

Question: "What is the real meaning of laissez faire?"

There is much confusion about the real meaning of laissez faire. Some people contend that it means "no order," that industry is permitted to rob and deprive others of their inalienable rights.

There is considerable confusion as to the origin of this phrase, but the Encyclopaedia Britannica says, "The most probable origin of the phrase is the well-known reply of the manufacturer Legendre to Colbert who asked what he could do for industry: Laisseznous faire (Let us alone)."

Colbert was a high man in France. He was born in 1619 and died in 1683. He was the chief power under Louis XV. He recognized the great corruption in France and tried to correct some of it, but he believed in government interference with creative energy. So, the real meaning of laissez faire or laissez faire passee or alter means "let do," "to let pass," "to let move."

And "to let do," answering the question, means "let create." It doesn't mean "let us initiate force against our opponents." It might mean, "let us use defensive force against our opponents," but never does it mean to initiate force, as a lot of the planners and pseudo-economists contend it means. It is pure voluntarism. It is the exchange of goods for equal value, where both parties believe they are benefited. The answer to the question "What can the government do to help industry?" could not have meant anarchy or chaos.

It not only means "let us create," but it also must mean "let us move our product, and let individuals move where they are most needed." That does away with immigration restrictions.

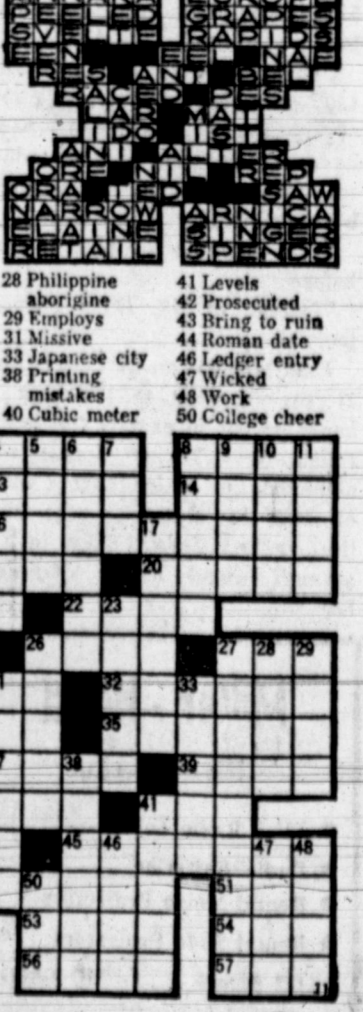

Dastard said, "Where goods do not cross borderlines (because of protective tariffs) soldiers will." This means that you'll have wars. If we had true laissez faire, we wouldn't have long periods of unemployment, we wouldn't have one continuous war after another, our standard of living would be much higher.

It is of the utmost importance that people begin to understand what private property means. Laissez faire means respecting private property.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Matter of Fact

Garrets immediately bring to mind disheveled artists who presumably live in such places in Greenwich village. The name "garret," however, once applied to a small lookout tower built on a wall. When fortified walls went out of style, "garret" came to describe a room on the top floor of a building, in which a sloping ceiling is formed by the roof.

R. L. Kidd To Talk To Amarillo API

AMARILLO — R. L. Kidd, Chairman of the Board and Chief Executive Officer of Cities Service Oil Co., Bartlesville, Okla., will address the March 27-29 Amarillo meeting of American Petroleum Institute's Mid-Continent District.

Scheduling of Kidd, who is also Vice President for Production of the American Petroleum Institute, was announced by M. G. Rogers, Pan American Petroleum Corp., Pampa, who is program chairman for the meeting.

Also scheduled to present a major address at the meeting is Gordon Simpson, Dallas attorney, and former president of General American Oil Co. of Texas, who will talk on activities of the committee on Equitable Development of Texas Resources.

Both Kidd and Simpson will appear on the meeting's general Session on the morning of March 28.

The meeting will begin on March 27 with a number of committee meetings on such subjects as Vocational Training, Straight Hole Drilling, Secondary Recovery and Analysis of Oil Field Waters.

Also to be the subject of committee activity are Drilling Fluids, Air and Aerated Mud Drilling, Supervisory Development and Drilling and Production Practice.

Two papers have been scheduled at the March 27 afternoon meeting of the committee on Drilling and Production: "Fiberglass Reinforced Epoxy Pipe," by Richard Hof, DowSmith, Inc., Milwaukee, Wis.; and "Big-Hole Drilling Techniques of the Atomic Energy Commission, Las Vegas, Nevada.

Technical sessions have been scheduled for the meeting for March 28 and 29. The afternoon of March 28 will include papers on "Automation of Equipment for API Standard Cement Testing," by W. G. Bearden and C. R. Holmgren, Pan American Petroleum Corp., Tulsa, Okla.; and "Chemical Washes Ahead of Primary and Squeeze Cementing," by Francis Harris and Gregory Carter, Halliburton Company, Duncan, Okla.

Also this session will include papers on "Improved Casing Cementing Techniques in Recompletion Operations," by Paul A. Tie-meier, Pan American Petroleum Corp., Oklahoma City, Okla.; and "External Casing Corrosion in All-Phin Field," by F. W. Schremp, California Research Corp., La Habra, Calif.

On the Friday, March 29 morning group session papers will be given on "A New Approach to the Paraffin Problem," by John Knox, A. B. Waters, and B. B. Arnold, Halliburton Co., Duncan, Okla.; and "A Method for Computing Down-hole Forces and Displacements in Oil Wells Pumped with Sucker Rods," by Warren E. Snyder, Cummins Engine Co., Columbus, Ind.

The report of the district nominating committee will be scheduled for mid-morning followed by papers on "Kinematics of Oil - well Pumping Units," by H. E. Gray, Shell Development Co., Houston, Texas.

The final group session on the afternoon of March 29 includes papers on "New Concepts in Bit Tooth Design," by Dr. John B. Campbell, University of Oklahoma, Norman, Okla.; "Reduce Costs by Using a Practical Drilling Fluid," by Glenn A. Trimble, Mobil Oil Company, Oklahoma City, Okla.; "Experiences With Glass Beads in Oil-well Fracturing," by J. L. Huitt, Gulf Research and Development Co., Pittsburgh, Pa.; and "Electronically Processed Data Systems in Producing Operations," by V. T. McGhee, Phillips Petroleum Co., Bartlesville, Okla.

All sessions of the meeting are scheduled in the Holiday Vic Motel, Amarillo. Upwards of 700 registrants are expected for the meeting from the Texas Panhandle, Kansas, Oklahoma, and other oil states. Anyone is welcome to attend the meeting—membership in the API is not a prerequisite.

Foreign Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM: UPI Foreign News Analyst: On display in Bonn in recent days have been what might be called the "two faces of Adenauer."

One is the face by which Chancellor Konrad Adenauer seems most likely to be remembered by history.

The other is that of a tough politician, an in-fighter who rides roughshod over his opposition, often to the irritation of the German people.

The occasions were the approval by the upper house of the West German parliament of the new West German-French accord which will go into Adenauer's historical record; and, on the political side, the renewal of his vendetta against his economic minister and vice chancellor, Ludwig Erhard.

Back on Jan. 22 when Adenauer signed the accord, the aging chancellor called it "the crowning point of my career... the most beautiful day of my life."

But when Adenauer returned to Bonn from this emotional moment, he found a rebellious cabinet.

Europe still was in an uproar over President Charles de Gaulle's veto of British membership in the Common Market. It appeared this might be the issue which would turn Adenauer's "most beautiful day" to ashes.

The opposition accused Adenauer of being so anxious for the treaty that he had not even attempted to plead Britain's cause.

In a shaft directed straight at Adenauer, Erhard declared: "Europe without Britain is unthinkable."

While parliamentary veto of the accord now seems unlikely, the issue did reopen the ancient feud. Erhard in line: Adenauer now is scheduled to step down from his job this fall in order to give his successor time to prepare for the 1965 elections.

That successor is expected to be Erhard, whom Adenauer never has thought the man for the job. In 1959 Adenauer risked splitting the dominant Christian Democratic party when his opposition to Erhard led him to renege on an earlier promise to step down and seek the largely honorary post of president of the republic. That the split was avoided was due to the fact that Erhard voluntarily stepped aside.

Now the two have publicly shaken hands, and a party spokesman has announced an end to the feud. Time will tell if the new friendship lasts.

BUSINESS REVIEW

B&B Offers New Drug Tax Data System

A new service to provide the average family with an annual record of drug purchases for federal income tax purposes is being started here by B&B Pharmacy.

F. L. Stone, owner of the store, said the service will be provided without charge to customers.

The system, called DrugTax, uses data processing equipment to keep a record of drug store purchases that may be deductible in computing federal income tax returns.

Stone said each customer will be assigned a code number in most cases the family telephone number.

Each purchase will be recorded on "memory" tapes, which later will be fed into computing equipment. At the end of the year, DrugTax, Inc. will mail every customer a record of the total amount which may be deductible in computing the tax return.

"Many taxpayers," Stone said, "have not taken their proper deductions, or have not taken the full amount allowed, because they have not had proof of purchase or did not know what items are of a deductible nature."

He indicated that literally hundreds of drug items may be deductible, and said the new DrugTax system "should help out customers save money on their tax returns."

Newspaper Strike Was Expensive

NEW YORK (UPI)—The total economic impact on New York City caused by the newspaper strike and shutdown was estimated at close to $365 million, a loss of around $4 million each day.

The Publishers' Association of New York City has estimated, conservatively they said, that the strike cost to the newspapers has run close to $5 million weekly; newspaper employees have lost about $3 million weekly since the strike started on Dec. 8, and newsdealers and other outlets have lost some $800,000 weekly.

The loss has not been confined to New York City—the state has paid an estimated $514,000 weekly in state unemployment insurance since Feb. 10.

ACCEPT NEGRO CLASSMATE: TROY, Ala. (UPI)—Seventy per cent of a group of Troy State College freshmen said in a poll released Wednesday that they would not object to a Negro classmate.

But 53 of 65 of the youths and coeds polled in connection with a sociology study in the bio-social classes said they would not care to sleep in a dormitory room with Negroes.

The public is invited to come by this week to look, appraise and talk trade. Free coffee and donuts and ball point pens for all.

McAndrew Pontiac Expansion Program Begins With Big Customer Savings

McAndrew Pontiac, home of the beautiful new 1963 Pontiac automobiles has just completed their second expansion in two years and Chuck McAndrew is letting everybody know about it in a big, money saving way. A way that is pleasing and desirable to the thrifty person who is looking for the comfort and luxurious beauty that the 1963 Pontiac offers.

How? you ask. Well, here's how: Chuck McAndrew said it. "For the remainder of this week, we are following our regular advertised program and we are pricing $700 off the factory list price on all our Bonneville's and Grand Prix's and $600 off the factory list price on all Star Chiefs and Catalinas. "Also," he said, "we are overloading with used cars. The inventory we are carrying has our lot much too crowded and we are selling them at wholesale and discount prices which are so low it scares me to think about it, but they must be moved. My loss is your gain."

McAndrew went on to say, "our business is growing, and it's because Pontiac is the fine automobile that gives the people what they want. Terrific performance, deluxe comfort, luxurious design and interiors and of course the one big single factor that really sets Pontiac apart from the rest, the wide track. All these and at the greatest savings ever in Pampa.

The attractive new show room, where five Pontiacs and one Tempest are continually on display is all new. There is room for you to really see them from top-to-bottom and admire their beauty from any angle.

The offices are all new or redecorated with thick carpeting and wall paneling that catch the eye at first glance.

And in the back part of the McAndrew Pontiac building the parts department has been enlarged and hundreds of new parts added to the inventory, including horns and the ever elusive cigarette lighters.

The Parts manager, Gerry Leger, takes pride in his newly expanded parts department and stated that he now has adequate parts for engine overhaul or any repairs. Also McAndrew Pontiac carries parts in stock for the Vauxhall automobile.

Service Manager, George McClure very proudly pointed out the many features of his department.

Servicing and maintaining a 11 makes and models of autos is his job he said. A staff of factory trained mechanics are always on duty to handle the simplest and most complicated jobs on cars.

If your air conditioning system is out of order, just turn your car in to McAndrew's service department and George will make the necessary repairs. Transmission repairs is a specialty with them. Front-end repairs and alignment and tire balancing is done in a true manner that always gives a customer satisfaction. Also McAndrew Pontiac is a safety inspection station.

"Now that spring is practically here and hot weather is just around the corner, we expect a rush in the very near future from our customers to check their cooling systems, McClure said. "For a pleasant spring season, get a tune-up," he added with a smile.

Pontiac "Guardian Maintenance" is well known to McAndrew customers.

Sales Manager Ed McGuire and his staff are always on the alert when a prospective Pontiac buyer comes in. They want to show you the beautiful new Pontiac and Tempest.

If you really want to see enthusiasm, watch them when a Pontiac owner drives up. They know he isn't going to change brands of cars and they also know that they are going to have an interested listener as they praise the new 1963 Pontiac.

And while you're discussing the deal, there is a snack bar where you can get coffee and sit down and relax.

"Nothing is too good for our customers," McGuire said. "They like Pontiac or they wouldn't be here and it's our job to show them to the people and we do it in a courteous and relaxed atmosphere. We love people, especially Pontiac People... and those who are going to be Pontiac people, which will be lots of people, because Pampa is a wide track town and McAndrew is the home of the wide track car."

X-rays were first discovered in 1895 by Wilhelm Konrad Roentgen, a German physicist.
