Britain, U. S. Reach Nuclear Agreement

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States and Britain reached tentative agreement Saturday on how to assign some of their nuclear forces to NATO at an early date and forwarded the plan to the North Atlantic Council.

Officials said the agreement could not be considered "finalized" until the whole 15-nation alliance has discussed it.

The State Department announced that with conclusion of discussions of this phase of the Kennedy-Macmillan Nassau plan, British and American officials here would move on next week to discussing details of the sale to Britain of Polaris missiles. This other major element of the Nassau pact was concluded last

GOP Will Have Opportunity To Protest Budget

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Republican tax law writers will get a chance this coming week to deliver a protest vote against the record high spending budgeted by President Kennedy.

The House Ways and Means Committee will interrupt public hearings on Kennedy's tax reduction program Wednesday to vote on his proposal that the legal ceiling on the national debt be kept at a record high $308 billion through June 30.

Under existing law the legal limit would drop to $263 billion on April 1, leaving the Treasury with almost no elbow room for management of the government's red ink spending.

Hopes Dimmed For Early Settlement

By RICHARD H. GROWALD

Diplomats said the departure for Moscow of Kuznetsov, first deputy Soviet foreign minister, dimmed hopes for early progress on a nuclear test ban treaty.

Kuznetsov's departure obviously caught other delegations unawares. There had been no signs the U.S. or British delegations had been told of his plans by the Soviets.

JFK Accused Of Flattery For Control

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A veteran Washington correspondent charged Saturday President Kennedy flatters reporters, commentators and editors as a means of managing news and is more cynical, bold and subtle in his control than any president before him.

Arthur Krock, chief of the New York Times Washington bureau for the past 21 years, made the charges in an article for Fortune Magazine.

"On the strength of almost 50 years of reporting, executive editing, and editorial commentary in the news, most of it in Washington," Krock said, "I will make two general judgments on the management of the news by the present President and — on its understanding of his will and attitude — by his administration as a whole.

U.S. Military Police Stop Red Soldiers

BERLIN (UPI) — U.S. military police Saturday held up four busloads of Russian soldiers for 46 minutes at Checkpoint Charlie, the American sector crossing point, and then forced them to return to East Berlin.

U.S. officers told the Soviet convoy commander to use the more direct Sandkrug bridge crossing point to reach the Soviet war memorial in the British sector of West Berlin, as the Russians had said they would.

Astronaut Orders New Vehicle For Earth Travel

ALBUQUERQUE (UPI)—Push Button Container Corp. revealed today that astronaut Scott Carpenter has ordered a unicycle to be sent to him at Project Mercury headquarters in Houston.
 D.E. Cornell III of the Albuquerque firm, which manufactures Lloyd Unicycles, said one of the single-wheel vehicles is being shipped to Carpenter, along with the following letter:
 "We are very pleased that you ordered one of our unicycles. The 'Learn to Ride in 90 Minutes' statement (in the company's advertisement) is based on junior high school students. Since I assume you will be learning under the force of gravity, it may well take you an hour or so longer."
 In fact, Cornell said, youngsters find it slightly easier than adults to learn to ride a unicycle.
 Commander Carpenter did not say in his order why he wanted a unicycle, Cornell said, but "I guess he just wants to have some fun with it."
 The unicycle will cost Carpenter $36.95 plus shipping charges to Houston.

American Jazz Ensemble Slated In Auditorium Here On March 1

... ensemble originators

Pampa Community Concert Association will present The American Jazz Ensemble on March 1 at 8 p.m. in the Pampa Junior High auditorium. Admission is by membership only for this last in the current series of concert presentations.

The American Jazz Ensemble, "a group that has set avant-garde beards to wagging the length of Italy", prides itself on being "bilingual"; that is, on mixing "cool" jazz with rigorously difficult modernist works by such composers as Darius Milhaud and Roger Sessions.

Formed by pianist Johnny Eaton and clarinetist, Bill Smith, in the fall of 1960 at the American Academy in Rome, the quartet, which features Erich Peter on bass and Jimmy Pratt on drums, is currently on its first United States tour and will make its Pampa debut in Pampa Junior High auditorium on March 1, under the auspices of the Pampa Community Concert Association.

Although the format of the program generally consists of roughly one-third contemporary music followed by two-thirds jazz, the group's versatility enables it to do all-jazz, or all-contemporary formats, plus programs with some strictly classical music added as well.

Eaton, called a "rare and sensitive talent" by the "Saturday Review", has long contended that the jazz audience of today is a potential audience for contemporary "serious" music as well. Sensing that concerts composed entirely of contemporary serious music could be a difficult dose for even the most ardent enthusiast to swallow, Eaton also realized that similarly, concerts played entirely by one jazz group could often be dull and repetitious.

"It therefore occurred to Eaton that if the same musicians were capable of performing both contemporary serious music and contemporary jazz, why not combine the two in a single concert."

"This was born the idea for the American Jazz Ensemble, an idea that remained a 'more or less dormant dream until one day at the American Academy in Rome, where Eaton, working in Italy on a Prix de Rome for composition met William O. Smith, who was on leave from his teaching post at the University of Southern California on a Guggenheim Fellowship.

Smith, Juilliard-trained and voted both as a serious composer and brilliant clarinetist, suggested to Eaton the possibility of forming a jazz group... purely for fun. And so, admittedly with fear and trepidation, Eaton and Smith formed the American Jazz Ensemble, which gave its first concert in Rome in December 1960.

Afterward, both confided that they had seldom been so nervous before a concert. The nervousness was unfounded... the response was enthusiastic beyond the group's wildest dreams and not only to the jazz portion of the concert. Subsequently, the quartet gave similar concerts to the same reaction throughout Italy and quickly became one of the most sought-after musical groups in the country.

Jimmy Pratt, who has played with Les Brown, Ralph Flanagan and other outstanding American bands, has joined the American Jazz Ensemble as its drummer for the first America tour of the group. Mr. Pratt is considered one of the best West Coast drummers. He came to Italy in 1958 with Bud Shank and Bob Cooper and has been appearing in concert since that time. He also has been affiliated with Combos of Stan Getz and Zoot Sims, as well as appearing with vocalists June Christy and the late Billie Holiday.

Roberts Rules Gas Reserve Tax Unconstitutional

By JOHN KNAGGS

AUSTIN (UPI)—Dist. Judge Jack Roberts has ruled the state's new tax on dedicated gas reserves unconstitutional, it was learned today.

Roberts agreed with five plaintiffs that the tax is on interstate commerce and discriminatory.

Austin attorney Dean Moorhead said the case ruled upon was a consolidation of five cases, including Panhandle Eastern, Northern Natural Gas Co., Natural Gas Pipeline Co. of America, Michigan-Wisconsin Pipeline Co., and Transcontinental.

It was the third gas tax to be thrown out by courts. The gas gathering tax and the severance beneficiary tax were both ruled unconstitutional in past years.

The tax thrown out by Roberts was passed in a special session of the 57th Legislature. The tax is one cent per thousand cubic feet, less amount of true production tax.

"We contended it was just another tax on interstate commerce. Although called a production tax, these pipelines are not producers," Moorhead said.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Joe Trimble said the state would appeal. He said the state contended the tax was similar to one upheld by the U.S. Supreme Court on fishing off Alaskan waters.

"Pipeline companies either produce the gas or put it on spot contracts. These facts parallel, in that other ships in the fishing case are in interstate commerce, but they have contractors supplying fish such as the companies buy gas."

Let's Make Profits

We've been hearing quite a bit lately about the "obligations" of businessmen to their community. It would appear, to hear some people express it, that the real reason a man goes into business is so that he can offer jobs to the unemployed, pay taxes, work on the school board, be a good neighbor, contribute to local charities, and stay out of jail.

Actually, there is just one thing a businessman assumes as an obligation when he enters into business of any kind. That obligation is to make a profit. And the bigger the profits he can make, the better.

Why do we say this? Are we in favor of selfish greed, of high prices, of thoughtless exploitation? How little is understood about profits for that question even to be asked. Isn't it odd? Everyone would like profits for himself. Each person becomes wary, however, when he learns that someone else is making profits, too.

It's like the word, large. Everyone in business would like to grow large. What is always a subject of controversy is the largeness of the other fellow, his business or his success.

Yet it follows that we cannot grow in business or in any other way unless we can make profits. And we cannot have a world or a society where growth is possible if we are forever in consternation because the other fellow may be growing, too.

If you want profits for yourself — and who in his heart does not wish for more than he is now getting — you cannot obtain these profits, these gains that you want, by objecting to the profits and gains of others. To be free to profit means to permit others to be free to profit, also. To be free to grow means to insist on freedom so that others may grow, also.

Does profit, gain or growth of any kind indicate selfishness, greed, some kind of evil personality? Not for a minute. A profit is the badge of success. It is the meaning of industry. It is the real meaning of life.

Each of us wishes to gain, to grow rich in various ways all thru life. We want to leave the world a better place because we have been here. All of these desires are predicated upon profit.

If a man makes a profit, it is entirely possible that in addition to making the profit he can help to provide jobs, he can support his community in many ways. If he fails to make profits, then he will fail himself and others and become a burden somewhere along the line.

But let us clearly understand this. Profits do not arise as a result of some grim cleverness by means of which we manage to hoodwink some less advantageously placed, or less astute. Profits arrive thru the voluntary recognition given by customers relating to a superior product or a superior performance. And this is why making a profit is the first and only obligation of any businessman.

Let him make profit. It is a sign that he has pleased and is pleasing his customers mightily. If he cannot please them, he cannot make profits. And he has failed his obligation and will not remain long in business.

The existence of profits means the existence both of incentives and the rewards for incentives carried into action.

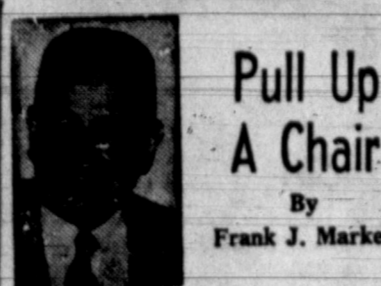

The fact that some make profits is evidence that you, too, can make profits. The fact that some make more profit than you do, is evidence that you can increase your profits.

This, too, should be remembered. Profits in dollars do not last unless they are re-invested so that still more profits can be made. Some seem to be obsessed with the idea that a man who has made a profit sits like some gloowering monster on top of a pile of dollars which he will neither spend nor give away. It is not true and never has been true.

The man who is rewarded with profits re-employs his profits so that more profits can be made. The larger his profits, the larger his chances for more profits. And the more profits he makes, the more everybody else will profit thru improved production, more goods, more services, more happiness all around.

It is time we Americans got over our guilt complex respecting profits in dollars. It is time we stopped being ashamed of our success. It is time we stopped giving in to political whim and permitting our office holders to loot and plunder the economic processes by means of which profits are made.

Let's get on the profit side of life's ledger. Only socialists desire deficit, financing and recurrent losses.

Within the next few years millions of men and women will find employment in the space and inter-related industries, says the National Aeronautic and Space Council. Many of the present companies are expanding and hundreds of new firms are entering the field. The benefits that will accrue from the billions Congress is spending in this area will be far-reaching and will stimulate the whole economy. Great improvements for every household in the way of electrical appliances and other products will result as further advances are made in tubes, transistors and many other space elements. Sometime in the future your doctor will be able to check your physical condition from his office as a result of the system already developed that kept track of the heart beat and temperature of the orbiting astronauts. And as far as employment is concerned, the automobile and steel industries will rank far behind space. Last year only 800,000 found work in the automotive field.

Edson In Washington Tougher U.S. Foreign Aid Policies Jelling Slowly

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON (NEA)—A number of radical foreign aid policy changes are expected when President Kennedy's permanent Committee to Strengthen the Security of the Free World turns in its recommendations about March 1.

This blue ribbon panel of nine big business executives, former top government officials, university professors and AFL-CIO President George Meany will hold its second five-day meeting in Washington beginning Feb. 21 to write its first report. Chairman of the group is Gen. Lucius D. Clay.

Preliminary drafts now being circulated for comment from Kennedy administration leaders concerned with foreign policy show much original thinking. The committee has asked Agency for International Development — AID — to justify its programs in every country and all its present policies.

How much the Clay committee findings influence Kennedy will be shown when his annual foreign aid message goes to Congress in mid-March.

His budget message calls for foreign aid expenditures of $3.75 billion for next year — $100 million less than is estimated for this year. But new obligatory authority of $4.9 billion is asked, compared with $3.9 billion appropriated by the last Congress. And the new total is too much for many congressmen.

Congressional hearings on next year's appropriations will begin about April 1 with new AID Administrator David E. Bell as principal witness in the hot seat.

tee comes up with some surprises in that line. Among proposals that have been put to the Clay committee for consideration is one that the fundamental purpose of all foreign aid programs should be to make the receiving countries self-supporting as fast as possible.

Several countries like Nationalist China, Israel and Greece have for several years been considered ready for a windup of U. S. economic aid. Nobody has had the guts to do it.

Other countries like Libya and Thailand are sized up as having the resources to become self-sufficient in a short time. The solution offered for such countries is to work out three to five-year programs to put them on their feet, then cut off the aid and let them go it alone.

Such a policy would in many cases require much internal political and economic reform in the receiving countries. The trouble is that too many developing countries show no inclination to change. The question then becomes whether to give any aid at all to governments showing no progress.

The Kennedy administration has had the courage to cut off aid to Ceylon because it did not arrange compensation for seizure and nationalization of American-owned properties. Also, aid has been cut off from Haiti because of lack of cooperation from President Francois Duvalier's dictatorship.

No such action has been taken against a big country yet. Aid officials were greatly encouraged by the recent Gallup poll showing 58 per cent of the people approved foreign aid, as compared to 51 per cent in a poll five years ago.

The Doctor Says:

Children and Adults Need Vitamin B-12

By DR. WAYNE BRANDSTADT

Q—What foods contain vitamin B-12? What happens when we don't get enough of this vitamin? A—Since vitamin B-12 is found in all the cells of the body, it is considered an essential element of the diet. Meat is one of the richest sources of this vitamin, especially red meat. In children it is an important factor in stimulating normal growth. Without it growth is stunted. In both children and adults it is necessary to the full development of maturation of our red blood cells. A deficiency of vitamin B-12 is associated with anemia.

Q—I am a 25-year-old housewife with no children. Every month I have terrible menstrual cramps. They are so bad I have to go to bed with an electric pad on my abdomen. Is there any other way to get relief? A—This is a common complaint and the cause is often difficult to determine. Nevertheless your doctor should make a thorough check for a possible cause. Aspirin or a combination of pain-relieving drugs often helps to take the edge off the pain but rarely gives complete relief.

Q—If the periods are associated with passing large clots, your doctor may want to let you try small doses throughout the period of an anticoagulant drug, such as heparin, as soon as the pain starts. Q—I read your article on mineral oil. I have been using it in my nose to prevent hard crusts. Is this harmful? A—This will cause no harm if you use a minimal amount of the oil, preferably not more than every other day. Q—My 17-year-old son has two small painless growths on either side of the back of his tongue. A throat specialist examined him and said it was nothing to worry about. The lumps have been present for three or four months. What do you think? A—I cannot say what these lumps are but, if they do not feel hard and stony, you can be sure they are not cancer. In fact, if they were, the doctor who examined them would have told you so. My best advice to you is to watch them for a few weeks to see whether they are increasing in size. If they are definitely getting larger see your doctor again. If not, your son should try to ignore them.

Q—I have read that extreme nervous tension can cause many physical ailments. Could it cause anemia? A—The answer is "no" but severe anemia can lead to serious changes in the nerves themselves. Q—I am 68 years old and don't eat much. I feel full all the time. What causes this? A—Poor appetite may be caused by many things, some serious and some not so serious. Chronic diseases of the kidneys or heart, tuberculosis and cancer are among the causes for which a thorough examination and early treatment are essential.

Excessive use of alcohol or tobacco has ruined many an otherwise serviceable appetite. Some aging persons, especially if their teeth are poor or if they live alone and have to cook their own meals, just seem to get tired of eating. In any case a thorough physical check-up should be the first step toward solving your problem.

Allen-Scott Report

Chiang Seeking U.S. Pledge of Non-interference For Mainland Attacks and Return This Year

WASHINGTON — Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek is pressing the U. S. to give him a free hand to intensify attacks against the Communist-ruled Chinese mainland. As outlined to U. S. officials, Chiang's bold plan calls for increasing the number and size of this commando-type raids this spring and summer.

If these raids succeed as planned and produce internal Chinese support, Chiang will then make his long awaited bid to establish a Nationalist "presence" on the mainland by end of this year.

For the present, Chiang is seeking only non-interference from the U. S. and a limited amount of special equipment. In the long run, he hopes for active U. S. support and arms if he triggers a major revolt on the mainland.

The latest American official to hear Chiang make his case for his hazardous venture was Representative Daniel Flood, D-Pa., of the House Military Appropriation Subcommittee. Subsequently, Flood reported to the White House that Chiang is in a deadly earnest about his "grand design" to attempt a return to the mainland this year.

Also, Flood believes the Generalissimo has no intention of waiting indefinitely for a decision by President Kennedy. Flood warned the White House that Chiang is well advanced with his "raiding" preparations, and if no word comes from Washington, the Nationalist leader will go ahead on his own and expand the size and number of his commando strikes this spring.

Instead of the 20-man raids staged in recent months, Nationalist attack groups will be increased to several hundred. For these assaults, Chiang's crack troops, including airborne units, are to be used.

The raiders mission will be to: (1) disrupt communications by blowing up bridges, tunnels, and radio stations; (2) establish contacts with friendly groups among the peasants and military.

The BIG HOPE — According to Flood, Chiang's great hope is that the widespread misery caused by the devastating failure of the Communists' "great leap forward" has spread to the Army, causing sufficient disaffection to spark revolt. Already, more than a score of command raids have given Chiang much convincing evidence that the time is ripe to trigger spontaneous uprisings. In several instances, Chinese peasants fed and hid Chiang's raiders for days before helping them escape.

land. One estimate of U. S. military advisers on Formosa is that the Nationalists have enough planes and ships to land and drop between 5,000 and 10,000 troops in one night and keep them supplied for at least 30 days.

THE NEW MOOD—The now-or-never, do-or-die mood building up in the Formosa government could touch off a major Kennedy-Chiang clash unless an agreement is reached on a course of action. White House insiders report the President is keeping his own counsel. But it is known that his top advisers in the Defense and State Departments, for the first time in years, are leaning toward "unleashing" Chiang — at least for more daring raids against the mainland.

Chiang's 450,000 man army is at its peak. If it is not used this year, an expensive program of arms modernization will have to be undertaken to maintain its efficiency.

In the case of aircraft, this modernization already is under way. The F-104, one of the Air force's best interceptors, is being supplied the Nationalists in limited number.

Answer: If the average citizen and taxpayer were given the same constitutional protections as those accused of criminal offenses, many of the things that are being done by our government agencies would be thrown out.

The evil is in the fact that the federal government has the authority and power to take every cent a person earns as income tax under the 16th amendment. In order to be sure that the federal government gets the money it wants, it requires citizens to make statements of earnings and deductions "under penalty of perjury." Then he can be jailed if he makes a misstatement.

Having already abandoned the principle that governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed, the government has become the master—not servant. It can then compel individuals to produce proof of their innocence, instead of the government being required to prove the individuals are guilty of an offense.

The Truth About Profits

The American public's lack of knowledge concerning industrial profits and their influence on the well-being of us all can only be described as shocking.

The chief officer of a leading oil company dealt with this in a recent talk. He finds that the American public believes that profits after taxes of the typical manufacturing company amount to 20 per cent of the sales; that 58 per cent of the public feels that the profits should be reduced to help keep prices from rising; and that 43 per cent favor Federal Government control of large company profits.

What is the truth of the matter? It is this: All the profits after taxes earned by all corporations in the United States in 1961 — and this includes profits which were reinvested in the business as well as profits distributed to shareholders — did not even equal the fringe benefits paid on behalf of the employees. The U. S. Department of Commerce is the authority for this. Its figures show that "supplements to wages and salaries" — which is its term for fringe benefits — amounted to over $23 billion in that year and this did not count the paid vacations and holidays which constitute the most expensive fringe benefits of all. By way of contrast, total corporate after-tax profits were $51 million less.

Perhaps the best way to look at profits is as a per cent of national income. The share which profits, after taxes, represent declined 41 per cent over a recent 15 year period, and during the past five years has equaled about 6 per cent of the income. On the other hand, the share of national income going to employees rose 9 per cent in those 15 years, and in the past five years wages, salaries and supplementary benefits have claimed an average of 70 per cent of national income.

Profits are necessary to create better plants and facilities, create goods and services, provide jobs, encourage saving and investment and provide this nation with the economic strength and growth on which freedom and security depend.

NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.

Warriors Vs. Higgins

MIAMI — The Miami High Warriors will be brandishing their tomahawks fiercely tomorrow night as they war-dance into Canadian to match bi-district playoff rights with the 1-B champion, Higgins.

The Warriors, in addition to two really outstanding backcourt men, have a front wall that many higher classification schools cannot match with 6-3 Mark Arrington, 6-2 Joe Wayne Holland, 6-2 Jerry Dodson, and for bench strength, 6-4 Raymond Guerrero. Guerrero, who has seen relatively little action this year, went the whole way against McLean in a practice game last week, and did a tremendous job in helping to stop 6-6½ Derrith Welch.

The Warriors ran up a 13-3 pre-season record, winning their own Miami Tournament, the Sunday Tournament, and finishing second to Samnorwood in the Sam Tourney.

Warriors Slow

The Warriors are a slow deliberate team. They work in patterns and move in for a good shot, hitting with surprising accuracy, as well as having plenty of height to garner in rebounds. Coach Lawrence Overcast was quoted on the day of the McLean warmup game last week that the Warriors had only tried to "fast break twice all season," with his words coming right back at him as his squad fast-broke three times, scoring twice. Defensively the Warriors run man-to-man, occasionally using a zone press as they did against Welch.

Briscoe, which finished with a 20-7 season record, was slated as the pre-season favorite, but the Warriors slashed right on through the loop with 10 straight wins, and then swept the tournament to give them a 13-0 district mark and a 26-3 total on the season.

Flowers Ace

Heart of the Miami team is 5-11 senior guard Jim Flowers. In addition to being an all-around floor man and defensive ace, Flowers averages 20 points a game, hitting from anywhere on the court with either hand. In addition, despite his lack of height, Flowers is the second-best rebounder on the team, pulling down 10-12 board chances a game.

High post man, leading rebounder and consistent scorer is 6-3 senior Mark Arrington. The pivot man in the Miami offense, Mark is good for 15 points and double figures in rebounding as well per game.

Low post, and top defensive man is 6-2 junior Joe Wayne Holland. Another good rebounder, Holland is a defensive standout as well.

Senior Jerry Dodson, 6-2, had been the outside forward, either drawing one of the opponents' big men away with him or hitting unchecked from the corner. Six-foot Guerrero, showing lots of promise, relieves the big three when needed.

Ball Hawk

Last, little, but far from the least of the Warriors is 5-7 Lewis Holland. A playmaker, a good outside shot good for close to 10 points a game, fast as a streak of greased lightning on defense, the little guy will literally steal the ball out of your hands before you notice it is missing.

Top reserves are a pair of lettermen, 5-11 junior Wayne Daugherty and 5-9 senior Mickey Kivlehen.

Although the district coaches chose only a starting five all-district team, two of the Warriors made it. Flowers and Arrington, Flowers making the honor unanimously. Other honors that the two Miami players have received were All-Tournament both at Miami and Sunray while Lewis Flowers also received the same honor at Sunray.

Higgins Speedboy

Higgins, the 1-B champ, plays an entirely different brand of basketball than the methodical Miamians. Fast-break racehorse basketball is their style, said Miami Coach Overcast, who in his first year at Miami has produced district winners in both boys and girls basketball with his steady-shooting brand of ball.

"Higgins likes to run and shoot," said Overcast, "they play racehorse basketball, but they seem to have been quite successful with it as they compiled a 22-9 record on the season and 12-1 in district."

Trosper Best

Leading the Coyotes of coach Walter Montgomery is 6-4 Bill Trosper, whose 28-point-per-game average makes him one of the leading scorers in Class B basketball. Trosper is also certain death on the backboards, pulling down 12 to 14 a game. He can shoot with accuracy with almost every shot in the books, jumps, tip-ins and rebounds under the basket being his specialties.

For front-wall help, Higgins has 6-1 Joe Hawkins, averaging 6.5 points per game and a good rebounder, and J. D. Barton, six-foot triggerman on the fast break. The Coyotes had two outstanding backcourt men, Warren Smith, who is a consistent 10-14 point scorer and a good ballhandler, but Tom Hausler, the other outside man and top playmaker, broke his hand in the final district game, and will definitely be out of action for the bi-district tilt.

Texas Southern's Relay Team Sweeps Gulf Coast Track Meet

HOUSTON (UPI)—Texas Southern University's crack relay teams, ignored a freezing rain, muddy track and stiff wind Saturday to sweep the relay events at the Gulf Federation Track Meet.

The event was won by the University of Houston's Laurie Elliott in a disappointing 4:16.5.

An interesting sidelight to the meet was Houston's entry in the junior college-freshman 440-yard relay. It was composed of four

Tiger Stays Middle King

By HAL WOOD
UPI Sports Writer

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—Dick Tiger and Gene Fullmer went 15 blood-drenched rounds to a draw Saturday night as Tiger, the Nigerian stalker, retained his world middleweight championship.

In a decision widely booed by a sellout crowd of 8,000 in the Las Vegas Convention Center, referee Vern Bybee voted it 60-69; Judge Pat Diskin had it 71-67 for Tiger and Judge John Romero had it 70-68 for Fullmer.

Fullmer, turned fancy Dan, and darting in and out to land a single blow at a time, piled up an early lead. But Tiger, stalking his prey all over the ring, finally caught up in the final two rounds to earn the draw on Bybee's card.

Both camps thought they had won it easily. But it was close. United Press International scored it 70-66 for Fullmer.

It was a heart-breaking decision for Fullmer, the Mormon elder from West Jordan, Utah, who had announced he would retire unless he won. However, he may reconsider in view of the draw.

Tiger, obviously befuddled by the hit-and-run tactics of Fullmer, finally resorted to bull-like rushes that drew boos from the crowd. Once Tiger wrestled Fullmer to the floor; another time he picked him up and hung him on his shoulder.

There were no knockdowns, although Fullmer slipped or was pushed to the floor three times.

The blood started flowing early in this one, and in the third round, Fullmer was bleeding from his left eye.

By the middle of the fight, the crimson flowed from his nose, head and ear. Tiger bled profusely from a cut near his left eye. The odds had favored Tiger as high as 4-1 early in the week. But just before the fight started, they dropped to 7-5.

Fullmer took the failure to win in stride. "I did everything I wanted to except win."

Russian Sets New Broad Jump Record

NEW YORK (UPI)—Russia's Igor Ter-Ovanesyan eclipsed the accepted world indoor record for the broad jump with a leap of 28 feet, 6½ inches Saturday night to defeat America's Ralph Boston in the national AAU indoor track championships at Madison Square Garden.

The Soviet star's jump topped the listed mark of 28-6½, held by Boston, although it did not better his own mark of 26-10 set on Feb. 1 which is awaiting official recognition as the world indoor record.

Olympic champion Boston, who had been bothered by a sore leg in recent days, could do no better than 25-9½ in suffering only the second loss of his career in face-to-face meetings with Ter-Ovanesyan.

All Hall successfully defended his 33-pound weight throw title in the 75th annual games, but was not satisfied with his performance.

The weight throw was held in the afternoon at the squadron armory.

Hall, representing the New York A. C., tossed the ball and chain 64 feet, 7½ inches, a half-inch better than his winning heave of last year.

Team mate Bob Backus was runner-up at 64 feet, 7¼ inches and Bill McWilliams of the Boston A. A. was third with 63-11½.

Hall, who weighs only 228 pounds, which is small for a weight-thrower, was disappointed that he did not make a toss of more than 70 feet. He had set his sights on the world indoor record of 71 feet, 1½ inches, set in 1960 by Olympic champion Harold Connolly.

"I thought I might break Connolly's record," said Hall. "I felt good but I just couldn't get unwound. One of these days there will be a 75-foot effort. Maybe it will be Connolly or Backus or even myself."

FORT STOCKTON (SpI)—Two new Pampa High school individual records were set and a meet marked as the Pampa Harvesters finished in ninth place in the 23-team Fort Stockton Relays Saturday.

Odessa Permian romped to first place in the opening outdoor track meet of the season, garnering 83 points. Kermit was second with 75 and San Angelo third with 72 points. Pampa ended in a ninth-place deadlock with Monterey of Lubbock, each with 21 points.

Bill Martin, Pampa's ace high jumper, battled it out with Bobby Burke of Odessa as the bar went higher and higher, with the two finally going over at 6'3", which tied the meet record and was a new record for Martin, who already holds the all-time Pampa record.

The other PHS record was set by a runner who didn't even place, Paul Miller-Rash Westwick, who finished seventh in his heat, was clocked in 7:04.3, fastest 800 ever run by a Harvesters.

Other local point getters were Ralph Palmer, who ran a 51.2 in fifth second in the 440, Curtis Fletcher, who finished four places behind him, although only 6-10 of a second slower; Travis Tucker, who was fifth in the 100-yard dash and also sixth in the low hurdles in 27.0.

Pampa track coach Norman Phillips expressed himself as extremely pleased with the Harvesters' performance. "With the bad weather affecting us so little time for practice and having only six heats at a meet, where others brought 20 or 30, I think we did very well. By the time basketball season is over, we should be a real tough track team."

Practice Pays
LOS ANGELES (MEAF)—When Mrs. Ceta Wright made up her mind to take up golf, she decided to approach the game methodically.

Mrs. Wright stuck to the practice tee for two months before playing her first round on a par three course.

Her practice paid off when she scored a hole in one on the 100-yard fourth hole of the Ranch Park Golf Course in Los Angeles the first time out.

Former Golfer Takes First In Bowling Classic

DALLAS (UPI)—Bill Johnson of Kansas City, a former Southern Methodist University golfer turned pro bowler, beat veteran Pat Patterson of St. Louis Saturday 242-209 to win first prize money in the $23,500 All-American bowling classic.

Johnson, 25, won $5,000 while Patterson's second-place share was $2,500.

The tournament was Johnson's fifth as a professional. His only other winnings were $285 in a tournament early this year in Denver.

Johnson advanced to the finals with 244 to 225 over Don Ellis of Houston. Patterson beat Lloyd Harless of Kansas City 198-168. Ellis won $1,250 with Harless earning $1,000.

Johnson was the scoring sensation if the tournament. In the opening round of play this morning, he upset all-time great Don Carter of St. Louis 675-652.

Spring Training Starts For SWC Footballers

WACO (UPI)—Seventy-two players greeted head coach John Bridgers Saturday for the first day of spring football training at Baylor University.

Bridgers said defensive improvement was the major aim of the spring sessions. The Bears worked on fundamentals Saturday, and Bridgers said he expected to be ready to scrimmage by late next week.

The group Saturday included 17 lettermen. Four of the lettermen will miss early contact work, Bridgers said.

End James Ingram, quarterback Bobby Maples and tackle Arturo Delgado will lay out of the contact drills because of recent knee operations. Fullback Dalton Hoffman will lay out because of a kidney injury. Freshman tackle Mike Juracek also will miss contact drills because of a recent appendectomy.

DALLAS (UPI)—The Southern Methodist University Mustangs wound up their fifth day of spring two-hour controlled scrimmages.

The No. 1 unit scored one touchdown and the No. 2 and No. 3 units scored one each. The longest run of the day was a 28-yard dash by halfback Mac White. He did not score, however.

Tackle John Knee scored one touchdown for the first unit when he returned an intercepted fumble 42 yards. Blair Reber plunged one yard for a touchdown. Gene Tenney ran 9 yards for another and quarterback Max Derden passed 15 yards to end Bill Harlan for the fourth score by the No. 1 crew.

Richard Stark ran 12 yards for the second unit score and Larry Jernigan dashed 26 yards for a touchdown for the third unit.

Yarbrough Breaks His NASCAR Record

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (UPI)—Lee Roy Yarbrough, a 24-year-old mechanic from Jacksonville, broke his own record for the NASCAR 250-mile modified sportsman race Saturday, when he lead-footed his modified 1953 Studebaker to a 147.610 miles per hour victory.

Yarbrough shattered his 1962 winning mark of 146.732 miles per hour despite the fact that he fielded rain under a caution flag for eight laps, when Carl Burris of Leaksville, N. C., was so exhausted he did not see the black flag directing him to the pits. Finally forced from the track, he was taken to a hospital for treatment.

Yarbrough became the first man to win the event two years in a row over the 2½ mile concrete oval. He outlasted Bobby Johns of Miami in a two-car battle which left the rest of the 50-car field far behind.

The lead saw-sawed back and forth between the two before a sun-kissed crowd of 34,300 as they battled it out in this demolition derby for souped up stock cars, which is a prelude to Sunday's 500 mile race for strictly stock cars.

In the thick of the race through the first 50 laps was Cale Yarbrough of Timmonsville, S. C. but he spun out on the back stretch when he lost a clutch after 125 miles.

Yarbrough, who goes into the Army on Monday, lapped it up when Burris went into his mental fog from exhaustion and for four laps ignored the black flag waving him from the track.

The pace car had to go onto the track, line up the field, drop back to Burris and finally get his attention to pull into the pits. This stacked up the field, which had been well strung out, and in which Johns, 42 seconds behind Yarbrough, had been making up a second a lap.

Dumas Demons Devour Bucks

DUMAS (Spl) — The Dumas Demons lived up to their nickname as they made their gym an inferno for the White Deer Bucks as the visitors were sizzled to the tune of 64-41, Friday night.

The game, a practice session between the host 1-AAA champs and the visiting 1-AA champs as they sharpened up for bi-district play, was a nightmare for the Bucks as the Demons chased them like hounds on a trail, opening up a 21-9 first-quarter lead and going on from there.

Coleman Out
With the Bucks' big man, 6-3 1/2 Charley Coleman out with the flu, Dumas completely dominated the backboards, with 6-5 Kelly Baker getting 10 rebounds in the first period as the hosts totalled 35 rebounds to White Deer's 17. Carroll Russell, White-Deer's All-Stater, also was down with a virus and badly off his form, fouling out early in the game.

The Dumas defense and shot-blocking stopped the Bucks cold as the visitors got only one field goal and seven free throws in the first period, while Baker got six rebounds and scored eight points, with Julian Miller chipping in six more as the Demons took a 21-9 edge.

Reserves In
White Deer finally found the basket in the second frame as 5-9 Jim Thurmond canned four of five field goal attempts, but Robbie Robinette matched his total before the Demons started subbing toward the end of the frame, with Hulon Kirkland getting four points to pace Dumas to a 42-22 lead.

Dumas hit almost 48 percent from the field at halftime and White Deer 25 percent.

The devilish Demons showed no mercy as they sent the starters back in with pitchforks sharpened to start the second half. Thurmond continued his steady sniping, hitting two of three field goal attempts, but Robinette hit six times and it was 54-29 going into the final frame.

Two Texans To Masters
AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI)—A pair of Texas amateur golfers, Romero Blancas and Charles Coody, were among the "first-timers" invited to participate in this year's Masters Tournament April 4.

Both were quarterfinalists in last year's National Amateur Tournament.

Two other former Texas collegians turned pro, Bobby Nichols of Texas A&M and Jerry Pittman of SMU, also were among those getting their initial bids to the tournament.

National Amateur Champion Labron Harris Jr., of Oklahoma also made the list for the first time.

Pro Passers
NEW YORK (UPI)—The record 33 touchdown passes thrown by Y.A. Tittle of the New York Giants during 1962 gave him a total of 166 and placed him fifth on the National Football League's all-time list. Bobby Layne has thrown 156 TD passes, Sammy Baugh 187, and Norm Van Brocklin and Charlie Conerly 173 each.

Coach Culley Cool And Calm

Pampa basketball coach appeared nothing at all like a man who was about to face his destiny Tuesday night as he cheerfully discussed the chances of the Harvesters bi-district game at Halton City.

"If the boys play like they have all season, I feel that we'll win this game. Don't fool yourself, Halton City is a fine club and they'll be anything but easy, but the boys are really up for the game. They want it bad. They want to keep that win streak going. They want another crack at Dallas Thomas Jefferson, and most of all, they want a try at the state championship."

Culley concluded quietly "these boys are in the habit of winning. It's just not in them to lose unless they are sick or something is hurting, and even then they'll go all out."

Culley reported that Randy Matson was down with a touch of the flu and missed Friday and Saturday workouts. "He'll be out of bed and on the way with us Monday you can be sure of that," said the youthful Harvester coach.

Culley said the team planned to leave Pampa at 9 a.m. Monday, and stay in the Loring Hotel in Fort Worth, getting a chance to practice in the Halton Gym either Monday evening or Tuesday morning. After the game, the team will spend the night in Fort Worth and return to Pampa Monday morning.

TERRY CULLEY

Culley said that if San Angelo, who is favored, should win their bi-district game with El Paso Austin, the game between Pampa and San Angelo would probably be played in Lubbock Wednesday night. If El Paso wins, said Culley, there will be a further discussion in plans with Odessa the probable meeting ground for that game.

FBI Investigates Rice Bribery Scandal

HOUSTON (UPI)—The Federal Bureau of Investigation stepped in Saturday to determine whether one of state gamblers were involved in a reported attempt to bribe two Rice University basketball players.

The FBI began investigating after the university announced late Friday it had expelled a sophomore student accused of offering $500 a piece to two guards to shave points in last Tuesday's game with Baylor University.

Herb Steinkamp, a standout starter, and Dick Cramer, a substitute, said the student made the offer Feb. 14. The players said he wanted them to keep Rice's victory margin over Baylor within 14 points.

The report came within two weeks after five men received sentences ranging from six to 15 years in New York for bribing players.

Steinkamp and Cramer revealed the Feb. 14 incident to their trainer, Eddie Wojcicki, early the following day and reported it to basketball coach Johnny Frankie later.

Robert Rightmyer, agent in charge of the Houston FBI office, said he was investigating to determine whether a federal law was violated. He said this would depend on whether there was any sort of interstate connections involved in the offer. He would not say whether the expelled student was questioned by agents and declined comment on the details of the investigation.

The incident came a year after a committee of the Texas House of Representatives investigated reports of alleged point-shaving in Southwest Conference games. The committee cited three gamblers for failing to answer questions. Two Southwest Conference officials were questioned by the committee about alleged point-shaving last year, but no charges were filed.

Steinkamp and Cramer said the student told them he would bet $40000 on the Rice-Baylor game if the situation looked right. They said the student told them Rice would be a big favorite if the Owls defeated SMU by a big margin.

A Houston officer doubted the size of the planned betting. He said the student would "have to bet with every bookie in the country to put down that kind of money."

C. K. Yang Vaults To Indoor Mark

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—UCLA decathlete great C. K. Yang of Formosa, using the fiber glass pole like a sling shot, broke the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) outdoor pole vault record Saturday with a vault of 15 feet-10 1/2 inches.

Yang's vault came on his first try at the height and eclipsed the old mark of 15-10 1/4 set by George Davies, then of Oklahoma State, in 1961. Davies also used the fiber glass pole which thus far has not been accepted for international record competition.

Yang, a member of the 16-foot pole vaulting fraternity, had a banner day at the nine annual USC-UCLA Relay Carnival. The decathlon star, second only to former UCLA teammate Rafer Johnson in the 1960 Olympics, competed in six events and also won the broad jump with a leap of 23 feet-1 1/4 inches. He placed second in the javelin, fourth in the high jump, fifth in the discus and sixth in the shot put.

The meet also featured a high jump of 7 feet, 1/2 inches by sophomore Lew Hoyt of Southern California, who thus became the seventh American to reach the 7-foot mark. He broke former Trojan Charlie Dumas' school mark of 7 1/4. Dumas was the first man in history to reach 7 feet.

Spain-End Of Franco Era

By PETER KNOX
United Press International

Old soldier Generalissimo Francisco Franco shows no signs of dying, but he might fade away. Th tough, wily little Spanish leader, who turned 70 last Dec. 4, appears in good health despite wishful rumors generated by his opposition. But he shows an increasing disposition toward relaxing the iron grip on the Spanish-people which once characterized him. His doctors say he has no serious health problem apart from a partial paralysis of his left hand as a result of a Christmas Eve hunting accident at his El Pardo palace near Madrid in 1961. His activities seem to bear the doctors out.

He is possessed of an energy enjoyed by few men his age; he personally presides over 14-hour cabinet sessions, travels frequently from one end of the country to the other and goes on hunting trips. Yet what many think he stood for is fading. The Falange, a virile fascist political force when his regime began, has degenerated to a grumbling voice in the background; the wealth of Spain, once so poorly distributed, has begun to spread; the nation's formerly throttled newspapers have started publishing foreign policy editorials which do not necessarily reflect the opinion of the government and genuine criticisms of government domestic policies.

Little Political Interest Yet Spaniards seem to pay little attention to the country's political development. The foreign reporter encounters less spontaneous criticism of government in bars, taxis and restaurants than before the trend toward liberalization began. Spaniards, many of them earning slightly more than a starvation wage for the first time in their lives, are jamming football stadiums and buying motor scooters, transistor radios and an extra pair of shoes—paying in installments—and their individual welfare interests them more than politics. Coupled with the political and economic changes is the possibility that the "Caudillo" might fade into the background. When he appointed his 67-year-old army buddy, Capt.-Gen. Agustin Munoz Grandes (former commander of the Blue Division, which fought with Germany against Russia in World War II) as government vice president last July, he created a new post above ministerial rank. The decree specified that Munoz Grandes could substitute for the chief of state for reasons of "absence, illness or incapacity." Some observers speculated that Franco might be planning to let Munoz Grandes take over most of the work of governing, with Franco going into semi-retirement as titular head of state. Though the generalissimo still charts the course for his ship of state, he lets the vice president take an occasional turn at the wheel.

Could Solve Nightmare Munoz Grandes could be the solution to Spain's national nightmare, the problem of succession. Technically Spain is a kingdom without a king. A public referendum in 1947 indicated the people preferred a return to the monarchy, so Franco declared his country a kingdom and subsequently said a king would take over when he ceased to rule. Presumably the king would be either Don Juan de Bourbon, Count of Barcelona, or his son Prince Juan Carlos. Don Juan has never renounced what he believes to be his right to be king; and his son is only 25 years old, five years shy of the age required by the law of succession. So Don Juan would be the likely candidate—except that sources close to him say he wants more than the role of a mere figurehead.

The law of succession calls for an interim rule, until the king has been formally named, by a "council of the realm," presently headed by Esteban Bilbao, president of the Spanish parliament (Cortes). Bilbao, however, is rumored to be retiring soon and Munoz Grandes is undoubtedly the strongest and most influential member of the council. Hence, regardless of who was president, Munoz Grandes would probably dominate.

In any case, with pressing problems like Spain's economic need for foreign markets (tinged to a great extent to the country's bid for association with the Common Market), the renegotiation of the American-bases in Spain, and Spain's weakening hold on its African possessions, Franco is not likely to step down for awhile. Among the liberalizing steps which could mark the end of an era, the most recent one considered by the regime is a proposal to lift restrictions on Protestants and give them the heretofore unheard-of rights to build their own schools, distribute Bibles and hold public office.

Relax Press Censorship The most notable move toward liberalization was the relaxation of press censorship announced last summer by the new 40-year-old minister of information, Manuel Fraga Iribarne.

Changes began occurring in formerly isolated Spain in 1953, when Spain—after being rebuffed and quarantined by the United Nations—suddenly became important to American world defense planners. The first influence toward change in the interior came with the base construction program, which gave work to thousands of Spaniards, poured money into the pockets of Spanish contractors, and brought about 2,000 American construction workers, with their high standard of living and infectiously democratic ways.

Then came U.S. military forces, compounding the influence. In the meantime, Spain began to increase its economic contacts with other countries, saved from bankruptcy by American aid. By 1962 that aid totaled more than $1.6 billion. By 1962 also sunny picturesque Spain became one of the biggest tourist attractions in the world, and the foreign visitors spent over $350 million in Spain that year.

The German "economic miracle" was another influence on Spain's own "miracle." It funneled off tens of thousands of workers from Spain where jobs were poorly paid and not abundant, and gave them well-paid jobs in labor-short German factories. Many of them came back, bringing money, industrial skills they had learned, and ideas about social standards and human rights which seeped through the Spanish community.

Still Totalitarian State In spite of Franco's apparently relaxed grip, Spain is still basically a totalitarian state. Franco's 19-man cabinet includes eight military men, four Falangists, five of indefinite political affiliation and two members of the Opus Dei, a relatively new power source in Spain. Opus Dei, a Roman Catholic political organization, appears to be oriented toward economic and social reform without prejudicing the wealth or the power of the reactionary sector of the Catholic hierarchy, a difficult task at best. One unique aspect of the Franco regime's political system is the organism known as the Sindicatos. The Sindicatos, government-run "unions" combining representatives of labor, management and government at every level and in every branch of industry, are the regime's substitute for free labor unions, which are outlawed. Strikes are also outlawed; however the government implicitly admitted the validity of localized labor disputes of a non-political nature when it reacted to last spring's crippling nationwide strike wave by declaring Labor Ministry courts competent to resolve such disputes. Opposition Parties Outlawed Political parties, except the Falange, are officially outlawed in Spain. Among the most significant operating however are the Socialists, various middle of the road or slightly left of center democratic groups, the Basque and Catalonian separatists who cling to their impractical dreams of making their respective provinces independent states, the extreme leftist Frente de Liberacion Popular and the Communists. Apparently the Socialists are the strongest numerically, but with perhaps only 20,000 active supporters in Spain.

The military forces are largely political, and would probably be the most stable element on the political scene if Franco were to die tomorrow. The top generals are pro-Franco and would probably rally with their troops under Munoz-Grandes' banner.

The reason behind much of the liberalization is Spain's desperate need to build up its economy. Franco knows he must deal with other Western nations, but to do so he needs a degree of political respectability in the eyes of the Western democracies.

The Lighter Side A Dangerous Trend In Hi-Fi

By DICK WEST
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI) — One of the most depressing things that has happened to me recently was meeting an attractive young government girl named Sharon Henderson. Ordinarily, I do not find attractive young government girls depressing. Under certain circumstances I might even find them stimulating. But Miss Henderson is different. Miss Henderson is building her own hi-fi system. Better she should spend her time making opium pipes or in some other comparatively harmless pursuit. I was introduced to Miss Henderson by a representative of Harman-Kardon, Inc., one of those electronics firms that market hi-fi kits for assembly at home. Selected As Demonstrator Harman-Kardon selected Miss Henderson to demonstrate its point that women can put together a hi-fi kit as well as men. Miss Henderson told me she is getting along beautifully with her kit. "There's nothing to it," she said. "Just follow the book and you can't miss." I suppose the nearest I ever came to a nervous breakdown was the time I purchased a kit that purported to contain the components of a stereo amplifier. There were about 5,000 loose parts that theoretically fitted inside a metal cabinet scarcely larger than a cigar box. I finally abandoned the project after discovering that I had soldered a rheostat to my wristwatch. This experience automatically made me resent Miss Henderson's competence, but that was not what caused my depression. The broader implications of her hobby were what I found disturbing. Worried About Spread I am referring to the sinister possibility that hi-fi addiction, which already has stanzitized a large segment of the male population, will now become prevalent in the previously immune female of the species. If so, civilization as we have known it is dead. Already, it is nearly impossible to attend a party that isn't dominated by a bunch of sound system buffs wooing about their sweeters. This customarily leads to a demonstration of the host's machine, particularly the prowess of its volume. The true test seems to be whether it can shatter a flower pot in the adjoining room. For a lo-fi fellow like me, the only refuge is to join in conversation with the ladies. And if Harman-Kardon and Miss Henderson establish a trend, even that escape hatch will be closed. TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — Jailer Tom Heaney reported Thursday he has discovered baby food is much better than bread and water for controlling unruly prisoners.
