

Don't Put Your 'Woolies' Away Yet

By RON CROSS
February 2 is one of the traditional days in the world. This is the day when the ground hog lets us know what kind of weather we'll have for the next six weeks. Some places are going to have miserable weather for the next six weeks while some will have nothing to worry about. That is, if the ground hog is any more reliable than the weather bureau. There is just one thing wrong with all this ground hog forecasting. Nobody seems to know exactly what time of the day the little fellow comes out of his hole to do his predicting. A check of the wire services revealed that it was "in the morning hours" while nobody at the weather bureau in Amarillo seemed to know for sure. It would be hard to say, then, just what the weather has in store for Pampa for the next six weeks. If the little fellow came out between 6:45 and 7:30 a.m. the chances are he didn't see his shadow. If he got up a mite late and wandered out around 7:30 then chances are you'd better not put your "woolies" away for a while. Skies were cloudy up until the 7:30 a.m. period then began clearing away. If we're lucky maybe the ground hog was an early riser and didn't see his shadow. The weather bureau is apparently banking the furry one stayed out for a while today because Wednesday's forecast calls for temperatures to be in the mid-50s with skies to be clear to partly cloudy. Tuesday's high was forecast in the mid-40s and tonight's low is expected to be about 20 degrees. The Punxsutawney, Pa., ground hog, known as the "seer of seers" when it comes to weather forecasting, predicted six more weeks of bad weather. A few faithful gathered atop Gobblers' Knob, the official ground hog meeting place, at 6:27 a.m. today and reported the ground hog saw his shadow, and quickly scurried back in his burrow. The temperature on Gobblers' Knob at the time was four degrees above zero. When the little animal peeked out of his Pampa hole the temperature was about 18 degrees.

Bell Union Balking at Help for Laredo Gals

LAREDO (UPI)—Six English-speaking telephone operators have replaced bilingual employees in this border city and the result is telephonic confusion. Yesterday 120 employees of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. walked off their job when an operator was fired for refusing to speak Spanish to a caller from Nuevo Laredo. Mrs. Della Garcia, who got fired, and her fellow operators want extra money for being able to handle calls bilingually. The telephone company said no. The walkout followed. An estimated 50 per cent of the calls in Laredo, population 65,000 are in Spanish. Little English is understood across the Rio Grande at Nuevo Laredo, population 100,000. The company quickly brought in new help, almost all of it English speaking. Last night Miss Marcia Kahn of Laredo tried to telephone Dallas—twice. Neither call got through. Miss Kahn spoke in her native Spanish. "I'm sorry I do not understand," the operator said apologetically. Her plight was a common one.

Company manager Robert Freeman said many of the new operators were new on the job and most of them do not speak Spanish. Union retaliation, if any, was uncertain. Frank P. Lonergan, assistant district director of Communications Workers of America (CWA), said in St. Louis that the Laredo action was not ordered by the international union. "It is not a strike. It is a protest against the arbitrary action of the (telephone) company," Lonergan said. Southwestern Bell has contended that speaking Spanish is not a prerequisite for getting a job with the company, but that it expects employees "to use what skills they have" in their jobs to satisfy the customers. Bell officials said they plan to stand firm on that point. The strikers set up picket signs saying, "Southwestern Bell Telephone unfair with Laredo CWA." The operators' slogan was "no pagan, no hablan Espanol," or as the unilingual operators would say "no pay, no speak Spanish." Mrs. Garcia was the first operator to refuse to speak Spanish.

Government Troops Fight Rebel Forces in Laos Battle

Capital Under Fire As Army Coup Tried

VIENTIANE, Laos (UPI) — Fighting broke out today between government troops and rebel forces who marched on the Laotian capital to support the leaders of an attempted coup.

The rebel forces entering Vientiane were under command of Gen. Khamkong, commander of Laos' 2nd Military Region. They attacked troops loyal to neutralist Premier Prince Souvanna Phouma. Khamkong thus threw his support to the right-wing army colonel who defied a government ultimatum to surrender three key points he had seized in his abortive coup of Sunday. Rebel troops under command of right wing Col. Bouleut Saycoy seized Radio Vientiane, the airport and a soccer stadium in the Sunday uprising. They promised to give up the position when the revolt was reported over but revoked the agreement.

Emergency Money Bill May Become First to Pass

By WILLIAM HAMILTON
AUSTIN (UPI)— Gov. John Connally's emergency appropriation request for $1.5 billion seemed certain to pass the House of Representatives today and stood a good chance of becoming the first bill of the 59th Legislature to become law. But for a technical error, Sen. Roy Harrington's measure to provide $828,580 for a science building at Lamar College of Technology in Beaumont would have passed a Senate committee Monday. Instead a redrafting was necessary. The Senate State Affairs Committee did approve Monday the bill by Sen. Bill Patman setting up a "little Hoover Commission" to act as a watchdog over state government expansion. It was expected to receive Senate attention today or Wednesday.

Gen. Kouprasith Abhay, commander of the Saigon garrison, sent his loyal forces to the three positions and the troops faced each other only yards apart, waiting for the order to fire. Kouprasith appeared to have the support of Gen. Ouane Rattikoun, the army chief of staff. The Vientiane police force took a neutral stand and was guarding the Prince Souvanna Phouma during his frantic efforts to avoid bloodshed. In the confusion of the attempted coup and the celebration of the lunar new year—with children in pastel frocks playing under the shadows of machine guns—the rival groups had taken steps to identify themselves when the shooting started. Bouleut's rebels wore blue scarves. Kouprasith's loyal troops wore orange scarves. Ouane's apparently loyal troops wore yellow scarves. Prince Souvanna, moving with a heavy bodyguard, carried out frantic negotiations with Western diplomats, military leaders and members of the International Control Commission for Laos. But he was unable to avoid this new phase of civil war. Gen. Khamkong's apparent march against the loyal forces was the first time his name has been linked with the rebels. Bouleut and his outnum-

Kremlin Premier to Visit Reds In Communist North Viet Nam

MOSCOW (UPI) — Three Kremlin news bombshells within 48 hours created speculation today on the future course of Soviet foreign policy. Beginning Sunday, and in rapid succession, the Soviet Union announced that: Premier Alexei N. Kosygin and a Soviet delegation would leave soon for a visit to Communist North Viet Nam. Informed circles said the departure was imminent. The Kremlin hierarchy favors summit talks with President Johnson.

Soviet Communist party chieftain Leonid I. Brezhnev and presidium member Nikolai V. Podgorny secretly paid a lightning visit to Hungary last week. Diplomatic observers in Moscow said Russia's policy toward Red China might constitute a threat running through all three actions. They said the trip to Hungary could be connected with a preparatory conference scheduled for March 1 as a prelude to a world Communist conference.

The talks with Hungarian Communist chief Janos Kadar followed meetings with other Red leaders—noably Poland's Wladyslaw Gomulka. It was believed the idea behind the world conference was to drum Red China out of the international Communist movement. But a third of the Communist parties invited to the preparatory meeting had not accepted invitations, indicating a snag in the Kremlin plan. The latest Soviet sally into the Far East was seen as a possible effort to woo North Viet Nam, which is believed firmly in Red China's camp. North Viet Nam has been opposed to the proposed world Communist conference.

Kosygin's trip could mean stepped-up Soviet military and economic aid for North Viet Nam, which is backing the Viet Cong guerrilla war in South Viet Nam. The United States is deeply committed to saving South Viet Nam from a Communist takeover.

Commission Eyes Eyesore Problem

Condemnation of old delapidated buildings and residences in the city was given all but the green light during the weekly meeting of the Pampa City Commission today. The matter was again brought to the council's attention by Commissioner L. P. Fort. Fort cited several flagrant eyesores within the city and said, "We should either initiate condemnation proceedings and get the buildings torn down or removed or just forget about it all-together." The commission agreed to examine several of the buildings cited by Fort this week and take action by next Tuesday's meeting. The ordinance designates a 20 foot area of Frost Street, between Foster and Kingsmill, be marked as a loading zone; several meters around the First National Bank parking lot removed, along with two on the north side of Tom Rose Motors and meters installed on the west side of Ballard and north side of Foster, along an area formally used as a service station driveway. Commissioners had advertised for bids for salvage of tin cans at the city dump, but City Secretary S. M. Chittenden said he received no bids by this morning. The action so angered colleagues they knocked him to the ground, stamped and beat him, the driver told police. Police charged William Douglas Willett Jr., 27, of Greenville, Tenn., with murder in the death of Marnell Goodman, 18, of Swampscott, Mass. Goodman was the nephew of Fred Bumburg, professor of English at the university. Police said Goodman was shot over the right eye with a .22 caliber pistol. Homicide Capt. Fred Scruggs said Willett had a bruised left eye and nose and a "busted mouth" as a result of the drubbing.

Snowball Fight Ends in Tragedy As Trucker Kills College Student

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UPI)—A truck driver, pelted when he drove his truck through a cross-fire in a college snowball fight, whipped out a pistol and killed a University of Tennessee freshman late Monday, police said. The action so angered colleagues they knocked him to the ground, stamped and beat him, the driver told police. Police charged William Douglas Willett Jr., 27, of Greenville, Tenn., with murder in the death of Marnell Goodman, 18, of Swampscott, Mass. Goodman was the nephew of Fred Bumburg, professor of English at the university. Police said Goodman was shot over the right eye with a .22 caliber pistol. Homicide Capt. Fred Scruggs said Willett had a bruised left eye and nose and a "busted mouth" as a result of the drubbing.

The shooting was near a popular student hangout, the "T" Room. Several hundred students were engaged in a snowball fight on both sides of the four-lane highway at the time. One student, Dana Fred Wolf Jr., of Knoxville, said he was about 30 feet from the truck and saw the shooting. "The truck driver got out of the truck and stood on the running board," Wolf said. "He had a gun in his hand and swung it around passing a group of students and aimed it at Marty (Goodman). I saw him (Marty) fall on his face and ran over to him. I was afraid to move him but somebody turned him over. It made me even madder when I saw blood coming from his eye. "Some boy grabbed the truck driver's arm and when he did, the gun was knocked down and discharged. I grabbed his arm too and all three of us fell in the snow. I hit him twice in the face with my hand. I know it wasn't the thing to do but I was mad." Others Hit Wolf said some motorists' cars were hit in the snowball fight before the fatal incident. "Some of the people in the cars stopped and threw snow back and some just laughed and rolled up their windows." Willett told officers he was en route to Cincinnati. He said he stopped for a traffic light and had his window down so he could see through the heavy snow falling at the time. Willett said there were several boys throwing snowballs and he and pulled out a pistol and the boys threw snow in his face. "I don't know where I shot," he told officers.

Gray's Taxable Values Show First Increase Since 1961

The annual financial report of Gray County issued at yesterday's county commission meeting revealed that taxable values within the county increased for the first time in three years. Auditor Ray Wilson in the report said that 1964 showed an increase as compared to declining values in 1962 and 1963. The county received a total of $317,061 in receipts in 1964 in the general operating fund where it had a total disbursement of $311,481.54. In the general fund, the highest percentage of receipts came from taxes, where $290,407 was collected. Next highest income was from trial fees where the county collected $9,844. A total of $1,924 was collected from the payment of poll taxes and $7,800 from Perry Lefors Airfield. The county received $590,402 from the consolidated road and bridge fund, while disbursing some $581,193. This left a balance in the fund of $364,741.36. Included in the report was the 1964 financial statement of Highland General Hospital. The statement revealed that the hospital started the year with $181,965 surplus or reserve. The total disbursement was $997,854.94, while the receipts totaled $921,674.67. The report also showed that the total bonded indebtedness of Gray County as of Dec. 31, 1964 was $370,000.00. The report compiled by Wilson covers the 1964 calendar year, which includes the currently running fiscal year.

Bundy on Way to Saigon for Conference With Maxwell Taylor

By STEWART HENSLEY
WASHINGTON (UPI)—President's adviser McGeorge Bundy leaves tonight for Saigon to consult with U. S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor on the problems plaguing South Viet Nam's anti-Communist war. High officials said President Johnson wanted someone to take a new look at Vietnamese affairs because of last week's military coup. Taylor himself suggested that Bundy be sent to "review the situation." Bundy is Johnson's assistant on national security affairs. He is to be accompanied on his trip by John McNaughton, assistant secretary of defense for international security affairs, and Leonard Unger, deputy assistant secretary of state for Far Eastern affairs and head of the interdepartmental task force on Viet Nam. White House Press Secretary George E. Reedy said Bundy is expected to return to Washington late this week. The White House announcement Monday night of Bundy's mission to Saigon followed the weekend disclosure in Moscow that Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin planned to leave "shortly" for Communist North Viet Nam. U.S. authorities said Kosygin's planned trip had nothing to do with the arrangements for the hurried Bundy mission. They said the Bundy visit had been in preparation for about a week. High officials said the Kosygin trip, together with intensifying Soviet propaganda demanding that Americans leave Viet Nam, probably was designed primarily to diminish Chinese Communist influence in Hanoi. It was expected that Russia would promise North Viet Nam more military aid. U.S. officials were inclined to believe, however, that Kosygin might well urge North Vietnamese president Ho Chi Minh not to step up his operations against South Viet Nam significantly lest he invite major U.S. retaliation. Bundy's mission was bound to start speculation that Ambassador Taylor might be replaced. It comes at a time when Taylor is somewhat at odds with Lt. Gen. Nguyen Khanh, who engineered the latest coup. Administration officials denied that the President had any such intention. Reedy said Bundy was going "because in view of the situation in Saigon it was felt that it was preferable for the ambassador to stay there." Reedy noted that Taylor had returned to Washington to talk every two or three months since he assumed the Saigon post last summer. It was during Taylor's talks here just three months ago that President Johnson authorized a slight increase in U.S. air operations against Communist supply lines in Red-held sections of Laos. The White House also authorized at that time intensified efforts to get a more representative civilian regime in Saigon, one which might gain wider popular support for the anti-Communist war. Taylor's efforts to secure such a government have backfired under pressure from a group of Buddhist leaders who have brought down several governments. The United States apparently is now resigned to working with Khanh and any other leaders able to establish a workable regime and keep the Buddhist agitators under control.

Farmers Dwindling But Work Increases

By TOM NOLAN
 WASHINGTON (NEA) — "If farmers were buffalos or whooping cranes, conservationists would no doubt be screaming that they were in danger of becoming extinct."

That only slightly facetious comment by an official of the U.S. Department of Agriculture points up a statistical projection that is used by critics of big government as a stick with which to beat the department. The argument goes this way: In 1940 there was one USDA employe for every 142 farmers. Today the ratio has dropped to one for every 70 farmers. At this rate, there will be one bureaucrat for every farmer by 1990.

There are two reasons for the decreasing ratio. First is the decline in the number of farms and farmers. Second is the steady increase until 1964 of USDA employes to handle new programs legislated by Congress. Last year department employment was down to 93,000 from 95,700 in 1963.

In 1940, 11 million farmers worked 6.5 million farms. Today, some 6.3 million farmers work only 3.5 million spreads.

A technological revolution — sophisticated fertilizers, large machines and new transportation innovations — has made it almost impossible for the marginal producer to compete successfully with established operations.

An agricultural economist puts it bluntly: "If you're a kid in Brooklyn who wants to grow up to be a farmer, you'd better have an uncle named Rockefeller."

As the number of farmers has ebbed, USDA has gradually changed its orientation. In 1964, only one dollar out of every three spent by the department went into programs where farmers were the primary beneficiaries. The other two dollars were spent to aid the general public and business.

Much of this money went for programs which even the most farsighted soothsayer of 1940 could not have predicted. Some of them:

—Food Stamp Program. Beginning with a pilot project in May 1961, this program swung into high gear following enactment of the Food Stamp Act in August 1964. It works this way: Needy people, judged eligible by local authorities, pay cash for food stamps equivalent to their normal food budget, then get bonus stamps to increase their buying power.

A Pennsylvania miner trying to support a family of 11 on $68 a week now buys $37 worth of stamps every two weeks and gets a bonus of $28 worth. His family now eats three pounds of meat a week instead of one pound.

By next June, a million Americans will be receiving this extra meal ticket in 41 states and the District of Columbia.

—School Lunch Program. During the current year, the Agriculture Department will donate $193 million in cash, plus additional millions of dollars' worth of surplus food, to the nation's schools. One of every three school children will participate in this program. USDA gives the cash and food to states, which in turn donate them to schools.

—Senior Citizens' Housing. In 1962, Congress authorized USDA's Farmers Home Administration (FHA) to make loans to rural people over 62 for the purpose of buying or building a home. Since then, FHA has loaned or insured $493 million to 73,000 families, not all of them farmers. Many could not have gotten credit from regular sources.

—Rural Pure Water. Some 37 families living near Somerville, Tex., faced the familiar rural problem of dry wells. In the summer women had to ration water for baths and washing clothes.

(Continued From Page 1) The animal health commission $250,000; board of control $123,497; department of health $268,788; water commission $290,000; and the commission on higher education $12,500. Harrington said he was sure his bill would be passed in the Senate by the end of the week. The slow process of formal introduction and assignment of 400 bills continued in the House. Meanwhile both House and Senate money committees held day-and-night sessions trying to shape a general appropriations bill within the next 60 days. It was the first time in recent history that committees had held night sessions so early in the session.

Battle

(Continued From Page 1) biered forces were located in the National Stadium and the airport. "I will not move," Bounleut said in answer to Kouprasith's orders to relinquish the positions. The rebel troops inside the National Stadium were surrounded. The airport rebels, numbering only a few hundred men, faced an overwhelming force of loyal troops at a distance of 25 yards across a road. It was not clear whether the advancing forces under Khamkong would be sufficient to draw off the Kouprasith troops surrounding Bounleut's men. The revolt, which Bounleut said was aimed at "reorganizing" the army, had appeared quashed Monday when neutralist Premier Souvanna Phouma said the situation was "under control." Western diplomats and military attaches were trying to convince Bounleut to surrender and avoid bloodshed. No shots were reported to have been fired in Vientiane itself.

ILA Says No to Johnson's Plea

NEW YORK (UPI)—Adhering to the principle that nobody contract, the International Longshoremen's Association (ILA) maintained its strike grip on East and Gulf ports today despite a presidential back-to-work appeal. Through Labor Department intermediaries, President Johnson asked the ILA high command Monday to send its men back to work at ports in which contract settlements have been reached. The union indicated it would wait until agreements have been forged in all ports. Philadelphia, Galveston and Miami remained the major holdouts. ILA members in Baltimore approved a new four-year contract Monday to join dock workers in New York, Boston, Norfolk, New Orleans and Mobile on the list of those to come to terms. A majority of the 60,000 longshoremen who remained on strike for the 23rd day work in the ports where accords have been achieved.

In addition to urging a return to work in these ports, President Johnson asked the union to press for agreements in the holdout areas. His message was delivered to union headquarters here by Assistant Secretary of Labor James J. Reynolds who had attended a White House meeting earlier with the President and Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz.

When Facing the World Alone

Statistically, a vast percentage of American wives will one day be confronted with the ordeal of losing their husbands through death. A host of problems, spiritual as well as material, immediately descend upon the widow.

Now, writing for NEA, Mrs. Donn Sutton details in a four-part series some of these problems and presents suggestions toward building a new life to such people.

Mrs. Sutton is the wife of the late Donn Sutton, editor of Newspaper Enterprise Association, who died in 1960.

She examines such compelling questions as:

- How do you spot a "widow vulture"?
- When to date and whom.
- Is there a real cure for grief?
- How to avoid withering away.
- Does travel help to forget?

Mrs. Sutton's series will begin on tomorrow's Women's Pages.

WIDOW'S PROBLEMS — How does a woman meet the challenge of living her life alone — after her husband has died? How does she spot the "widow vultures"? How does she cultivate her latent talents toward a successful new life? These and many more questions are answered by Mrs. Donn Sutton in a special four-part NEA story beginning tomorrow in this newspaper.

Groom Needle Club Has Regular Meet

GROOM (Sp) — Entre Nous Needle Club met in the home of Mrs. Phil Farley recently. The afternoon was spent in conversation and needlework.

There also were two guests, Mrs. Pearl Banks and Mrs. L. A. Hudson.

Members present were Mmes.

E. S. Craig, Crim Goodlett, Truett Fields, C. L. Ledwig, Mary Kuehler, E. R. Hess, Alberta Bones, Van Earl Steed, C. A. Morrow, Margie Emery, Roy Ritter and the hostess.

Couple Say Vows In Canadian Rites

CANADIAN (Sp) — Shelley Wilkinson-Francis of San Francisco, Calif. daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Wilkinson of Canadian, was united in marriage Jan. 22 to Terrence Gordon Plant of San Francisco, Calif., son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Plant of British Columbia, Canada.

Vows were read by the Rev. Lee Crouch, pastor of the First Methodist church of Canadian, in the Canadian home of the bride's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Waterfield.

Mrs. Waterfield attended her sister as matron of honor and Waterfield served the bridegroom as best man.

Dear Abby... A Child's Honesty Is Not Accompanied by Tact

DEAR ABBY: I believe in teaching children to be honest, but what do you do when a child is too honest? I am a working mother (not by choice) so I frequently leave my four-year-old son, Peter, at the home of a friend, who is a competent older woman. The other evening after work I stopped to pick up Peter and, as we were leaving, I said, "Peter, give Mrs. Hansen a big hug and kiss for looking after you all day." Imagine my embarrassment when he said, "I don't kiss old ladies!" Mrs. Hansen looked so hurt. I was struck speechless for a moment, then I tried to apologize to Mrs. Hansen and I told Peter that I was ashamed of him. What should a mother do in a situation like this?

CONFIDENTIAL TO "CARRIED AWAY" IN LAGUNA: Don't tell too many people your side of it. "Repetition is the secret of monotony."
(Arthur Groman)

Troubled: Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

For Abby's booklet, "How To Have A Lovely Wedding," send 50 cents to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif.

PERPLEXED
DEAR PERPLEXED: Accept it. The child's "crime" was in being honest, and to punish a child for being honest will only confuse him. Few youngsters are born with a sense of tact. Teach him truth first, and when he has learned it well, teach him the wisdom of keeping his mouth shut at certain times and why.

DEAR ABBY: Our son has been married for the past 19 years. Before his marriage, he lived at home with us, but now of course, he has his own home. Please don't think I am being petty, but our son still carries a key to our front door, and when he comes to our home he does not ring the bell, but lets himself in with his own key. I do not have a key to his house, and if I did I would not use it to let myself in. I would ring the bell. Don't you think that even though he has a key he should ring our bell?

SONNY'S MOTHER
DEAR MOTHER: Yes. An unannounced entrance could be frightening. Tell him.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 16-year-old boy who is just average in looks. A girl (she is only a friend) asked if she could borrow my I.D. bracelet for a few days. I said, "Sure. What for?" She said she wanted to get rid of a kid who had been asking her to go steady, and if she had somebody's I.D. bracelet it would be easier. I gave her my bracelet and now she's going around telling everyone that we are going steady. Abby, there is a girl I started to like a lot and I was planning on giving her my I.D. bracelet, but she heard the rumor about me and this other girl going steady, and now she wouldn't accept my I.D. if it was solid gold and covered with diamonds. How do I get my bracelet back from the first girl? And how do I get the girl I like to believe my story?

ON THE SPOT
DEAR ON: Demand the return of your bracelet from the girl who "borrowed" it. If she refuses, you are out of luck. Try to persuade the girl you like to believe your story. If she refuses, you are out of luck again. It's unjust. But consider yourself lucky to have learned a valuable lesson at age 16. The fair sex will sometimes prove to be anything but.

Judy Goodwin Is Birthday Honoree

CANADIAN (Sp) — Mrs. T. J. Goodwin entertained a large group of second grade girls at a party recently in honor of her daughter, Judy, who was celebrating her eighth birthday.

Mrs. Goodwin served refreshments of birthday cake, ice cream, and punch. Favors of paddle balls were given the guests.

DCCW Convention Stated by Society

GROOM (Sp) — Christian Mothers and Altar Society of Immaculate Heart of Mary Catholic Church met recently in the social hall. Mrs. John Quirk, president with 13 members present. The meeting was opened with prayer and Mrs. Albert Britten gave a talk on points of interest in "Work" magazine.

Plans were made for the Deacons DCCW Convention to be held in St. Mary's Hall on March 28. General chairman will be Mrs. John Quirk. Welcoming committee will be composed of Mmes. Mike Homer, Harry Britten and C. L. Ledwig. Members of the registration committee will be Mmes. Tom Britten, Art Britten, Arnold Kuehler, Robert Kuehler and Arthur Conrad.

Mrs. Albert Britten will be in charge of credentials. Hospitality committee will be Mmes. Tom Britten, Ray Britten and Harry Britten.

Decorations committee members will be Mmes. Walter Olinger, Bob Clayton and Albert Weinheimer. The morning coffee will be served by Mmes. Bob Ledwig, C. L. Weiberg and Jim Britten.

The meeting was closed with a prayer and refreshments were served by Mrs. Tom Britten.

Was good to have Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Henderson back with us after his surgery. We missed Mr. Bob Dilly, who comes regularly.

Mrs. Katie Vincent made it down late, because her son, Jack Vincent, took her out to dinner and shopping.

A houseguest of Mrs. Augusta Yealy is Mrs. Arnold N. Shepard of Valhalla Cottages, Estes Park, Colo., and was a guest at the Center. Mrs. Sheppard is a sister-in-law of an old friend of mine, Mrs. Hershey, nee Ella Chandler, of Casper, Wyo.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Turner of Clovis, N.M. were in town on business Monday and Tuesday and were guests of Mrs. P. G. Turner.

Mrs. Elma Bailey spent several days last week in Amarillo visiting in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Marion Bowman. While there she helped grandson, Brian Bowman, celebrate his eighth birthday.

Hostesses were Twentieth Century Forum Club members. Those assisting were Mmes. Holt Barber, chairman; Arthur Teed, president; Harold Barrett, J. B. McCrery and Felix Vendrill. Finger sandwiches, cookies and coffee were served to 74 Seniors. The serving table was beautifully arranged with a dark green cloth and centered was a butterfly tree and green ivy.

Door prizes went to Mrs. Jessie Van Huss and Mr. Sublet, Altrusans serving were Mmes. Marie Fitzgerald, chairman, Louise Sewell and Mabel Hukill. Gray Ladies serving with transportation were Mmes. Mabel Hukill, Jess Hatcher, Frank Yealy, George Benham, Thelma Lutes and Cherry Kuhlman.

Foreign News Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM
 UPI Foreign News Analyst
 In Venezuela, terrorists blow up an oil pipeline.
 In Argentina, bandits stage the third successful bank robbery in 10 days.
 In Colombia, Castro-type guerrillas seize a village, kill three policemen and neatly ambush an army patrol.
 These are all recent events and in at least the cases of Venezuela and Colombia clearly were politically inspired. The Argentine bank robberies may or may not have had political connections but were of a pattern used successfully by Venezuela's National Liberation group (FALN) to finance its activities.
 In any event, they were reminders that despite gains under the Alliance for Progress, violence continues to lurk just below the surface in many a Latin American nation.
Some Castro-Inspired
 Some, although not all, is Castro-inspired.
 Two of the leaders of the Colombian band which early in January seized the village in the north central province of Santander and made off with money and drugs were known to have spent time in Cuba.
 In New York to attend the opening of the United Nations General Assembly not long ago, Ernesto Che Guevara, one of Castro's top aides, identified both Colombia and Venezuela as continuing Castro targets. He also mentioned Guatemala.
 "The road to the liberation of peoples which will be the road of socialism, will go through bullets in almost all countries," promised the bearded Guevara. He added:
 "... We have helped some of our Latin American companions to acquire some military knowledge... it would not be moral for us not to assist them."
Valued Text
 Guevara's handbook of guerrilla warfare is one of the most valued texts of Latin American terrorists.
 One of the more hopeful signs that Latin America may yet emerge in the image set for it under the Alliance for Progress is a growing awareness among Latin American governments of their own responsibilities.
 Aided by funds granted the alliance by the United States, most Latin American nations showed an encouraging economic growth in the last year.
 In efforts to achieve economic and social stability Brazil proved a special and unexpected bright light.
 But in their December meeting in Lima, Peru, Latin American leaders themselves recognized that overall results had been poor in such key areas as agrarian reform, education, public health, inflation control and investment for growth.
Colombia Example
 Colombia is an example of a nation in which runaway inflation has hurt the national development program, and provided the Castroites with new ammunition for unrest.
 There are other difficulties. Argentina was said recently to have uncovered a band of Nazi terrorists who were plotting against Argentine Jews.
 High Chilean officials have declared themselves fearful of attempted military coups in both Argentina and Peru. They believe enthusiastic support for Brazil's military regime may inspire other officers to political ambitions elsewhere.
 But the hopeful thing is the new conviction among Latin Americans that if they are to be helped, first they must help themselves.

Fire Burglar Alarm May Cut Insurance

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A lar alarm. Say you're asleep and new fire alarm will soon be on the market that promises to give homeowners a nearly automatic connection to their local fire house. It's also designed to help frighten away prowlers.
 Promoters of the system hope it will lead to a drastic reduction in fire insurance rates.
 A network of sensitive devices is installed in your house, able to detect smoke or a big increase in temperature. When the sensors are triggered, a device attached to your telephone dials a central monitoring station where someone is on duty around the clock.
 A coded message is flashed over the phone: "Fire, 125 Elm Street," or something of that sort. The man at the monitoring station then calls the fire-house nearest you and gives the alarm.
 In the meantime, alarm bells are ringing both inside and outside your house to alert you—if you're home—and your neighbors.
 An added feature is the burg-

Job Commission To Hold Meetings

A series of "Farm Labor Days" will get underway Thursday and each Thursday thereafter at the Texas Employment Commission, 823 West Francis.
 Bill Ragsdale, Manager of the Pampa office, said "Farm Labor Days" will be conducted from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. for the convenience of farmers needing workers and workers needing jobs.
 Dave Miles, farm placement interviewer, will conduct the "Farm Labor Days" and interested farmers, ranchers and hands should contact Miles or Ragsdale.

SCIENCE SKETCHES

THE 'BEAR' FACTS about hibernation habits are being studied in Yellowstone National Park. A huge grizzly bear has been equipped with an electronic watch and a tiny transmitter to determine whether he sleeps straight through the winter. If the animal moves anywhere in the 3,458-square-mile park, researchers will be able to trace him by monitoring the sound from a tiny tuning fork in the watch.

SUGAR CANE pulp has constructive uses after it has been divested of its sweetness. It makes stronger cardboard than the usual pulp, says Votator, Louisville. The cane fibers are separated from the sugary tissue and fed into powerful Thermanx dielectric heaters which dry out all moisture in about two minutes.
 TWO TEMPLES south of the Asven Dam in Egypt, very big tourist attractions, will be closed for two years. The 2,300-year-old structures at Abu Simbel, located in an area that will be flooded when the dam is completed, are being moved to higher ground.

Old Faithful geyser, one of more than 10,000 hot springs in Yellowstone National Park, erupts every 64.5 minutes to heights averaging 150 feet in altitude. Each eruption lasts between two and a half and five minutes and discharges between 10,000 and 12,000 gallons of water. Gen. Henry D. Washburn named Old Faithful in 1870.

Nation Escapes

Asian Flu Cases

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The nation apparently has escaped any serious outbreak of Asian flu for this winter despite the epidemic of "executive flu" currently making the rounds of official Washington.

The U. S. Public Health Service's communicable disease center reported today that, so far, the incidence of genuine Asian flu — the worst kind — has been even less than last year's light outbreak.

The bad cold and sore throat which sent President Johnson to the hospital and then seemed to spread through the government apparently was just a cold, despite the complications.

Russia Expels U. S.

Diplomat Stolz Today

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union today expelled U.S. diplomat Richard F. Stolz on charges of spying. The action had been expected for a week.

Stolz, 39, of Montgomery County, Md., left for Vienna aboard an Austrian flight with his wife and children. He had been first secretary at the U.S. embassy in Moscow.

Top O' Texas Wildlife

By STARKEY WHITEHORN

If you have ever been driving along the Panhandle highways or other roads and noticed a bald eagle, chances are that you either slowed up or came to a stop and watched the bird. Bald eagles command the attention they get. Probably not one person out of a thousand will see one per year. Chances are that 50 per cent of people less than 30 years of age haven't seen a baldy during their lifetime.

Brown, as well as bald, eagles seem to get as far away as they can from civilization and it isn't difficult in the Panhandle. Some brown eagles nest in this part of the state but, as far as I know, there isn't any evidence of the bald cousin nesting in this area. Most of the eagles seen in the top part of Texas are usually only winter residents. They usually go in the direction of the Rockies to spend the summer and raise their families.

Both species usually lay from two to three eggs which take from 34 to 35 days to hatch. Both parents take turn warming the eggs during the incubation period. After from 10 to 13 weeks the young are ready to fly.

Usually, these giant birds, which weigh about 8 pounds for the males and 12 for the females, add another nest upon top of their last year's nest. The nest is built on high cliffs or atop a tall tree. According to Dr. F. H. Herrick, one nest was used for 35 years, and as it was added to, the volume increased and so did the height until the nest was 6 feet tall and 6 feet wide. That's a bird nest, but the eagle's win spread will reach 8 feet.

Only yesterday I noticed a golden, or brown, eagle perched on a windmill on the Duncan Ranch a few miles northeast of Skellytown. Eagles in the Panhandle choose windmills as places to watch and rest. There have been many of the birds seen on the same mill through the years in the cold months.

A short time back while visiting with Gaynell Woodson, foreman of the Sneed Ranch, and some guests, they mentioned that they had flushed 22 eagles from one grove of trees along the Big Blue Creek and 17 out of another, and the group mentioned that most of the birds were of the bald specie. Incidentally, bald eagles don't support the white tail and head until they are from two to three years of age. My guess would be that all the birds they saw were bald ones.

There are probably not less than 300 eagles in the Panhandle at this time. There is not much of a practical way to prove the statement, however. Eagles are protected by both Federal and State laws and the penalties are severe.

Lake Meredith

It was in December of '63 when a group of Parks and Wildlife technicians braved a snowstorm as they headed north from Vega through the eagle country and travelled some 30 miles to place some 1200 blue catfish in the Canadian River. It was thought that there would be a small percentage of these that would finally make their way some 60 miles eastward a year later to the Canadian River dam. In December of '64 the Parks and Wildlife technicians stockpiled another load in stockpiles awaiting the time they could move them to the main reservoir.

Last week Lonnie Peters, aquatic biologist, and assistant Ben Baggett, brought what was the first fish in history to be placed into the waters of the lake. There weren't many, something over 50, but these fish have a duty to perform, as well as the others of the loads mentioned which will soon join the first group.

Brood fish, eventually is the idea. These blues will form a nucleus that will be the parents of thousands to spawn in the lake. It wasn't intended that these fish supply the demand for the angler this summer or even next, but, rather, to give them an edge, an inch on the doubletree, so that they will get established and produce what is the largest catfish in the nation for the sport of the fishermen.

Later in the year, probably in June and July, there will be an adequate amount of game fish, bass, and channel catfish stocked in the lake, probably something like 150 per surface acre, by the Parks and Wildlife Department. Naturally, the lake will be filling under normal conditions, and the expanding will be considered by Peters. Peters said the other day that it was but a very simple task for the State Wildlife Department to stock the waters.

Ron Peret Invades Tonight

All-State Ronnie "Duck" Peret and his Plainview Bulldogs come to town tonight, hoping to put a crimp in the Harvesters' district 3-4A championship plans.

Although the defending district champions have fared far less impressively than their pre-season ratings, the presence of 6'9" Peret, possibly the best high school cager in the state, still makes it anybody's ball game.

Peret is the second leading scorer in the district, averaging 21.9, only a fraction behind Tascosa's Bill Bogan, whom he outscored in their meeting last week, 29 to 18. Caprock finished badly in the first round of play and is currently 2-2 in the second half after their setback of Tascosa, 59-51.

Plainview led through the first half of their first-round meeting, but the Harvesters, sagging three men on the giant, moved out to a 64-53 win.

Although Peret has not had the scoring help he had last year, the Bulldogs still have other players who can hit the basket—if they are given a chance, opined Pampa coach Terry Culley.

Bob Bolding hit 12 points against Tascosa and "if Bolding is hot, Plainview can beat you," warned Culley. Another shooting threat is 6'0" guard Tom Sawyer, who canned 15 against the Harvesters in their previous meeting.

Pampa will be seeking to make their second-half record 5-0, their overall district mark 12-1 and their season total 25-3.

Time Kills Mark For Matson

LUBBOCK (UPI) — Randy Matson, Texas A&M's Olympic silver medal winner in the shot put, would be the owner of a new indoor record for his specialty except for 172,800 ticks of a clock.

The young Pampa, Tex., giant hurled the 16-pound ball 65 feet 6 1/2 inches Saturday night at the Lubbock Invitational Track meet to better Gary Gubner's accepted mark of 64-11 1/2, but it cannot be submitted for the record book.

Matson's appearance was billed as an exhibition since the meet did not have an open division. Matson could not represent Texas A&M since that school's second semester did not open officially until yesterday.

Out One Semester

Matson missed school the first semester of his sophomore year because of the long absence necessitated for his appearance in the Tokyo Olympics where he finished a strong runnerup to champion Dallas Long last fall.

Matson complained that his form "still isn't too good," but said that he felt better throwing the larger indoor shot than last year.

He said he would switch to the outdoor ball now and use that in his only other two indoor appearances this winter—in the Fort Worth and Dallas invitational Feb. 12 and 13—and the outdoor meets which start the first weekend in March.

Second at Tokyo

Matson's best outdoor effort was the 66-3/4 with which he took second place at Tokyo.

Roger Orrell of Abilene Christian won the official shot put title here with 57-3/4.

Loyola Loses Home Game To Redmen

By FRID MCMANE

UPI Sports Writer

It doesn't look as if St. John's (N.Y.) will have to wait too long to get back among the nation's top 10 ranked basketball teams — the Redmen pulled off a stunt Monday night that no team had been able to do in four years.

St. John's, which fell to 11th in the UPI ratings this week, bounced back after a loss to Marquette Saturday to defeat Loyola (Ill.) 92-87 Monday, and in so doing became the first team to defeat Loyola in its own gymnasium since February, 1961.

It took a fine comeback by the Redmen in the final nine minutes of play to achieve the victory as they trailed by 10 with only 8:40 remaining.

Guard Jerry Houston was responsible for St. John's second half surge as he tallied 16 of his 22 points in the second stanza. The Redmen had a good night from the floor as they connected on 51.5 per cent of their shots compared to 38 per cent for Loyola.

Smith High Soccer

But McIntyre paced the winners with 25 points while Bill Smith collected 20 for Loyola.

One major upset and several key conference clashes highlighted the remainder of the night's schedule.

Tulsa engineered the upset as it downed ninth-ranked San Francisco 59-53, while in other action eighth-ranked Duke topped Maryland 82-84, Wake Forest tripped Clemson 82-75, Kentucky walloped Georgia 96-64 and Wisconsin defeated Notre Dame 98-90.

Tulsa came from six points behind with only four minutes remaining to defeat San Francisco. Trailing 50-44, the Hurricanes' Bob Fedorko led a surge which gave Tulsa the lead at 53-51 with 1:22 remaining.

Fedorko paced Tulsa with 16 points but game scoring honors went to the Don's Joe Ellis, who tallied 19.

Never In Trouble

Duke was never in trouble with Maryland as the Blue Devils moved into a tie with North Carolina State for first place in the Atlantic Coast Conference. Duke outclassed the Terrapins from the start as it moved to an 18-point lead at halftime and widened the margin to 25 during the second stanza. The Terps staged a 13-point rally late in the half to move within 11 points at 73-62 but that was as close as they could get.

Bob Verga topped Duke with 23 points and Jay McMillen tallied 21 for Maryland.

Senior center Ronny Watts hit a career-high of 29 points to lead Wake Forest to an ACC win over Clemson. It was a tight game all the way with the score tied 20 times during the night. The Deacons won that game at the foul line, connecting on 30 of 37 free throws compared to 15 of 26 for the losers.

Plays Good Defense

Kentucky hit a fine 55.3 per cent of its first half shots and hounded Georgia with a sparkling defense to score its second win over the Bulldogs this season. The Wildcats jumped off to a lead of 6-4 with two minutes gone in the game and never were headed from that point. Their longest lead was 40 points which they held twice in the final five minutes of the second half.

Guard Louie Dampier topped the Wildcats with 18 points and forward Jerry Waller led the Bulldog scoring with 19.

Wisconsin got double figure scoring from six men as the Badgers turned back Notre Dame. The setback was the first home court loss for the Irish after seven consecutive victories and came despite a 35-point performance by the Irish's Ron Reed.

Ken Barnes led the Wisconsin scoring attack with 19 points. In other cage action, West

Patterson Wins Decision, Wants Cassius For Title

NEW YORK (UPI) — Promoter Harry Markson is trying today to arrange a May rematch of the great 12-round fight in which Floyd Patterson outpointed "white boy" George Chuvalo before 19,100 deliriously delighted fans at Madison Square Garden.

But double ex-heavyweight champion Patterson, about $140,000 richer and deservedly proud of Monday night's triumph, said he thought he deserved a shot at Cassius Clay's heavyweight crown.

"I not only won," explained the elated 30-year-old Floyd of Great Neck, N. Y., "but I proved I haven't got a china chin. And I got the unanimous decision."

Twenty-seven-year old Chuvalo of Toronto, champion of Canada, demanded a rematch because of the alleged "better breaks" that he claimed referee Zack Clayton gave Patterson "throughout the fight."

Patterson was favored 197 1/2 pounds — the heaviest of his career — was favored at 7-5 but many of the boxing experts doubted his ability to go the distance against brawny, dark-haired Chuvalo, who was seeking his fifth straight knockout. The Canadian slugger scaled 208 pounds.

There were no knockdowns but Chuvalo had his right eye closed in the final round. He also was bleeding from cuts above and below his left eye and on his forehead.

Chuvalo forced the fight round after round as he tried to flatten the only man who had worn the heavyweight crown twice. But Floyd called upon his skill and rapid fire punching to avoid being belted out and meanwhile to subject the Canadian "iron man" to embarrassing punishment.

The three ring officials favored Patterson on a rounds basis as follows: Referee Jack Clayton, 6-5-1; Judge Joe Armstrong, 8-4, and Judge Tony Castellano, 7-5. The United Press International had the bout even: 5-5-2.

Richest Non-Title Fight

The 12 round elimination was not only one of the best fights ever staged in the Garden but it was the richest non-title match ever held anywhere.

It drew a live gate of $166,423 at the Garden, and an estimated $600,000 at theater-TV locations in the United States and Canada. Patterson's 32 1/2 per cent of the total net proceeds was estimated at $140,000. Chuvalo's 20 per cent at about $85,000.

$15 is add xx about $85,000.

It was the first time Patterson had fought in the Garden since June 8, 1956, when he outpointed Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson despite a broken right hand and took his longest step toward winning the crown.

Chuvalo's greatest strength was shown in the sixth, seventh and eighth rounds. Although the Canadian had concentrated on body blows earlier in the bout, he cut loose in the sixth with a short hooking attack to the head that had Floyd staggering. Returning to the body in the seventh, he almost knocked Floyd with a right and two left hooks on the stomach.

Edge In Eighth

The Canadian had an edge in the eighth despite Floyd's rally in the last minute.

Patterson came on to take the ninth, 10th and 11th rounds

as he out-boxed and out-punched the Toronto slugger, George had an edge in the 12th when his volleys of leather caused Floyd to spit out his mouthpiece. However, Floyd rallied and closed George's right eye with a solid, straight right. They fought on after the final bell until the referee separated them.

In his fourth straight victory and his 42nd in 46 fights, Patterson earned the challenger's right to fight for the World Boxing Association's (WBA) title, now vacant. Ernie Terrell of Chicago and Eddie Machen of Portland, Ore., are slated to compete for the vacant WBA crown at Chicago on March 5. Both Terrell and Machen have guaranteed to defend against Monday night's Garden winner within six weeks, if that winner so desires.

Michigan Returns To Top Cage Spot

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Michigan Wolverines, who have been in and out of first-place all season, returned to the top spot today for the third time in the United Press International major college basketball ratings, ending UCLA's four-week reign.

The Wolverines gained 18 first-place votes from the 35 coaches on the UPI rating board compared to 13 for UCLA, which dropped to second place. Michigan, idle this week, totaled 327 points to gain a 14-point margin over the Bruins.

Upsets rearranged the entire top 10, with the exception of Indiana, which remained 10th. UCLA had its victory streak stopped at 14 games by Iowa last Friday. Wichita was shocked by Loyola (Ill.), Arizona upset San Francisco, and Marquette bounced St. John's (N.Y.).

As a result, Wichita fell from third to fifth, San Francisco dropped from sixth to ninth and St. John's slipped from eighth to 11th.

St. Joseph's (Pa.) ran its record to 17-1 and advanced from fourth to third after routing

Xavier (Ohio) and Centenary. The Hawks received two first-place votes. Providence and Vanderbilt grabbed the other two ballots for the top spot.

Providence, unbeaten in 14 games, squeaked by St. Bonaventure, 77-76, and moved from fifth to fourth. Davidson trimmed Wake Forest and climbed to within 20 points of Wichita in sixth place. The Wildcats, seventh last week, have won 15 in a row.

Vanderbilt, the Southeastern Conference leader and owner of an 11-game win streak, soared from 11th to seventh place. The Commodores crushed Auburn 105-77 Saturday and are unbeaten in conference play.

Vanderbilt's advance pushed Duke from eighth to ninth. The Blue Devils were idle last week, but were scheduled for three games this week, including a visit to once-beaten North Carolina state, the Atlantic Coast Conference leader, Wednesday, San Francisco, No. 9, and Indiana, idle last week, completed the top 10.

The ratings are based on games played through Saturday, Jan. 30.

Giants Trade Back Bailey From Braves

By United Press International

Maybe the San Francisco Giants decided they made a mistake in trading catcher Ed Bailey to the Milwaukee Braves, because they traded back for him Monday.

Southpaw pitcher Billy O'Dell, who was 8.7 for the Giants last season, went to the Braves for the lefthanded hitting catcher. Bailey hit .262 as the Braves' regular catcher last year, driving in 34 runs and hitting five home runs in 95 games.

Bailey was traded to the Braves by the Giants in a seven-player deal prior to the 1964 season.

The Minnesota Twins signed infielder Rich Rollins and pitcher Billy Pleis and Chuck Nieson. Rollins was the sophomore of the year in 1962. Pleis was 4-1 last season, appearing in 47 games, a club high. Nieson was 4-17 at Atlanta and had no record in two appearances for the Twins.

The Twins also announced they signed veteran reliever Art Fowler with their Denver farm club. He was released by the Angels last season after a 10-year major league career with Cincinnati and both Los Angeles clubs.

The St. Louis Cardinals have added pitchers Earl Francis and Dick Egan to their training camp. Francis, a righthander, was with the Pittsburgh organization for four years, and Egan, a lefthander, has been with Detroit.

The Pittsburgh Pirates signed pitcher John Gelnar to a contract.

La Bonita romped and Pampa Warehouse held their lead in a pair of gals cage wins last night.

La Bonita smashed White Deer, 53-10 as Pat Nolan canned 24 points and Pokie Cade 21. Lora Watson had all WD's points.

Pampa Warehouse took a 22-14 halftime lead over the Panhandle Angels and held the margin all the way for a 39-31 win. Sherrie Bradshaw had 18 for the winners, Wanda Johnson 22 in defeat.

tract. The 21-year-old righthander was the 28th Buc to sign. He pitched for the Columbus Jets of the International League and Asheville of the Southern League before joining the Pirates in July.

Masanori Murakami, only Japanese ever to play major league baseball, signed with the Nankai Hawks in Japan after having signed a contract with the San Francisco Giants. The Hawks contend that Murakami was not a free agent but on loan to the Giants and that the September contract he signed with the National League club was illegal.

The Hawks sent Murakami to the Giants to learn baseball and he spent most of the season at Fresno, coming to the Giants late in the season. He had a 1-0 record with the club and his ERA was 1.80.

Joe Adcock signed his 1965 contract with the Angels. The first-baseman hit 21 home runs last year and had a .288 batting average. This will be his second season with the Angels.

Miami Edges By Pampa Newsboys

By MIKE McHONE
News Sports Correspondent
MIAMI — Lawrence Overcast hit a keyhole jump shot at the buzzer to give the Miami Stars a 64-62 victory over the Pampa Newsboys, making it a double win last night as the Miami Faculty-Seniors came from behind to pull out a 45-43 win in the opener over the Pampa "Cast-offs."

Although the first game was a mixture of comedy and seriousness, the second game was strictly a basketball classic between youth and experience, as the Miamians put out a team composed chiefly of Miami, Wheeler and Shamrock coaches, all former college stars, against the Newsboys' team of high school-ages.

Despite the presence of 65 Butch Cogden in the Miami lineup, Pampa dominated the rebounding behind the Sikes brothers and Teddy Bird, but were badly off in their shooting, while Overcast and his mates were deadly from outside.

The lead went back and forth constantly, with neither team ever holding more than a five-point lead. Overcast, the former West Texas great, sniped from far out to put the Stars into an early lead, but an 11-point outburst by Gary Sikes moved Pampa ahead at the quarter, 18-16.

Except for Carroll Russell, the Newsboys went stone-cold in the second frame, while Jim Hensley led Miami to a 27-all halftime tie.

Gerald Sikes and Bird hit for the Pampans the third quarter, matching Mendall Hunter and Sweet William Harle, and Pampa took a narrow 45-44 edge into the final frame.

Gary slammed Pampa into a five-point lead and the Newsboys slowed it down, but ball-hawking Harle cut the margin on fast breaks, and Hensley's two free throws put the Miamians ahead by three points. Gary cut the margin to two with a charity and Miami went into a stall.

With 19 seconds left, Terry Bromlow stole the ball and Gary scored the tying bucket with eight seconds on the clock. Miami then maneuvered Overcast into position and the Little All-American came through.

Harle, Hensley and Overcast had 13 points each, Hunter and Cogden nine apiece. Gary belted home 26 points, Russell had 12.

Charles Wardrup scored nine of his 13 points in the fourth quarter to bring the Faculty from behind as three Castoffs fouled out in the closing canto. The Castoffs took a narrow 12-10 quarter lead as Mike Velasquez and Long Larry Winger led the way against Superintendent Weldon Snodgrass, and jumped it to 25-16 at the half as Velasquez and Ron Cross tallied.

Snodgrass, Denny Bowerman and Bill Stovall fired back in the third quarter to cut the lead to 33-32 and Wardrup put Miami into a lead they held at the closing buzzer.

Snodgrass had 17 points, Wardrup 13, Bowerman eight and Stovall five. Velasquez led the Castoffs with 12, Cross and Winger had eight each, Jeff Cahane six and Morris Morgan five.

Sports Parade

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Writer
NEW YORK (UPI) — Floyd Patterson gambled and made his point—the hard way.

Patterson, an admitted introvert, thinks everything out slowly and deliberately beforehand. The way he had it figured, there was nothing to gain and everything to lose by fighting game but colorless George Chuvalo.

If he lost, he was through. And if he won, he was pretty sure people would say "so what?"

But he signed for the fight, anyway — "It took them two weeks to convince me" — because he had to prove a point to himself. The point he had to prove was that he doesn't have a china chin.

"Everyone knows I've been knocked out three times," he said after taking Chuvalo's Sunday punches for 12 rounds Monday night and emerging a clear-cut winner.

Proves A Point
"Sonny Liston knocked me out twice and Ingemar Johansson once. The newspapermen said I had a china chin. I proved I don't have one," he said, measuring his words carefully. "Maybe they can say I have a china closet now but they can't say I have a china chin anymore."

It was a mild attempt at humor but no one laughed. First, because Patterson isn't much of a humorist, and second, because he was so much in earnest even trying to make a small joke that it didn't sound funny at all.

Patterson is so honest it hurts. Without anyone even asking him, for example, he openly volunteered the information he wouldn't have lasted the 12 rounds at Madison Square Garden Monday night had it not been for the inspiration of the crowd.

"They made me feel so warm when they roared for me, I thought I was in Sweden, my second home," he said.

Hurt By Chuvalo
Also without prompting, Patterson admitted Chuvalo hurt him.

"He hurt me on several occasions. My opponent hurt me with good punches to the belly as well as to the head."

And then, most surprising of all, yet not so surprising if you're familiar with the inner conflict which constantly gnaws at Patterson, he termed his victory a rather empty one.

"I think Mr. Chuvalo gained a lot more in defeat than I did in victory," he said.

Patterson was wrong. Dead wrong. He didn't join the immortals with his triumph over plucky Chuvalo last night, but he showed he still must be rated as a legitimate contender for the title despite those two one-round knockouts at the hands of Liston.

When Patterson finally walked out of the Garden Monday night he held his head high despite a chilling snow. He held his head high and naturally, his chin, too.

Wilt Dropping Scoring Lead

NEW YORK (UPI) — Wilt Chamberlain and his Philadelphia 76er teammates may benefit from Wilt's "new look," but unless he begins shooting more and passing less, there might be another league scoring leader.

Chamberlain scored only 108 points last week along with an average of six assists per game. Los Angeles' Jerry West, who went on a scoring rampage by bucketing 197 points, moved into the No. 2 spot behind Chamberlain, according to National Basketball Association statistics released today through games of Jan. 31.

West increased his average from 29.7 to 30.7 points per game while Chamberlain dropped from 37.5 to 36.6. Cincinnati's Oscar Robertson fell to third place with a 29.7 mark on 1454 total points.

Bill Russell of Boston continued as the rebound leader with 1291 grabs while Cincinnati's Jerry Lucas, with 1082, was only ten ahead of Chamberlain for the runner-up spot.

Robertson again led in the playmaking department with 578 assists, far more than San Francisco's Guy Rodgers with 347.

West led Baltimore's Walt Bellamy in field goal percentage by a slim point — 50.7 to 50.6 — while Larry Costello of Philadelphia continued as the league's best foul shooter with an .884 mark.

The Pampa Daily News

A Watchful Newspaper
EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself no more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Freedom — A Way, Not a Goal

Here at the Pampa News we endeavor to offer as complete an understanding of the philosophy of liberty and individualism as our limitations permit. We do so in the face of a world which is not friendly to this philosophy, and which opposes it in many ways and at many points.

One reason for this opposition may relate to the fact that existing realities are far removed from freedom in an absolute sense. Thus the person seeking to understand the philosophy confronts the dichotomy of reality on the one hand, and freedom on the other hand as a presumed goal to be reached. We endeavor to show that freedom is a way of living and not a goal to be attained.

We cannot make the world free. It has never been free. It is certainly doubtful if in our life time the world will accept freedom as a general condition. This is one of the grave errors contained in attempting to vote freedom into power. It is, in essence, an attempt to carry out the absurdity of Rousseau, who opined that freedom was so important for everyone that he would "force them to be free."

Freedom has never been provided a people by its government. The government cannot make men free and neither can we. From the beginning of man's sojourn on this planet we have seen some men, bigger or less moral than others, employ force to compel others to their way. To offset this, other men, taking freedom as their banner, have proclaimed that if we followed them, they would "make" everyone free. B. freedom, in this respect, is a delicate growth and it cannot be "made" for anyone.

But you can be free. Your freedom depends on you and not on society. And you begin to sense this when you strongly resolve, within yourself, to do nothing at all that will interfere with the freedom of others. Other men may practice non-freedom. But you do not have to. Other men also rob banks and wage wars, and commit acts of violence upon their neighbors. You cannot prevent them from doing this. But you can increase the total area of freedom when you highly resolve not to conduct your life in any such manner.

Some will say that this cannot be done unless all men join together in a universal wish to be free. But if this is the protest, we will contend that it is in error. On this planet today there are men still living in a state of savagery, comparable in all respects to that of neolithic peoples. And on this same planet we have other men who have learned to put aside savage ways, who live like civilized men.

If civilization were dependent upon a universal view, then we would have to contend that the 20th century is a snare and an illusion. But it is not. It is here and it is real.

Granted, we do not know many men who are completely civilized. But we do know some. These are men who refuse utterly to have a part in wrong doing. This does not mean that by their abstinence they are preventing others from doing wrong. They know they cannot do this. But they can prevent themselves from doing wrong. The only energy they control is their own.

There is no panacea if your goal is freedom. Nor will you find another nation more susceptible to freedom than is our own. Some we have known have grown weary of the constant frustration they experience here and flee to other places. But they do not find freedom by so doing. The problems they confront in their new abode are the same as the problems they left behind.

The world is not of our making. The only way we could fully escape the problems of this world is to leave it by dying. We do not propose to do this. But we do propose to make of our community, our city, our state and our nation, as much a haven of freedom and of the free as we know how. The very existence of a Freedom Newspaper and the exploration in a philosophy of freedom proves that it can be done to some extent in the world in which we live.

We have sworn unending support of the freedom concept and unending effort to rid the world of ignorance concerning freedom. Do we wish or expect to see the world remade in our image? Heaven forbid. Do we expect to see freedom become the going philosophy in our life time? No, we do not.

But if we may borrow a note from the Christians, let us suggest that it is better to light one candle than to curse the darkness. It is better to control one's self than to rail at others because they do not control themselves.

The true significance of individualism is never found in concerted action. It is found in individual action and individual self-control. Freedom is not a general condition; freedom is self-control. It is not a goal that can be reached by others through your efforts—or our efforts. It is a way of life you can select for yourself, if you will.

Free Speech for Some

The Federal Courts ultimately decide what to do about the National Labor Relations Board's decision that free speech in America is a constitutional right only for some.

In the General Electric case, the Board, on the record of the case, didn't lift an eyebrow at the statements of a union leader whose utterances ran up the scale of abuse to the point of threats of physical violence, but it found the company guilty of an unfair labor practice for communicating factual information to its employees.

In their "totality," the Board said, the company's communications to its employees were illegal, although taken one by one each was legal. Perhaps the Board feels that you can have too much free speech, as you might eat too many peanuts.

If the courts uphold the Board, they will be ruling that some Americans enjoy the right to free speech, while others do not, depending entirely on the position the individual occupies. A union official may say what he pleases, an employer may not contradict.

But General Electric probably can take care of itself. The real loser in the decision is the union member. It appears that he is to have but one source of information about matters of vital importance to his livelihood, and that is to be the union.

The NLRB is bound to treat all legally qualified unions alike, whether they be honest or not. The record is full of instances of union leaders who have expounded their memberships. Sometimes the only light shed on such a situation has come from the employers.

When both the union and the employer are free to speak, the union member can make up his own mind.

In this decision, the NLRB has not merely stripped employers of a constitutional right to free speech, it has also stripped employees of their right to know.

Anything — But Anything Is Possible, Dear Friends NEW YORK (NEA) — We came home from work the other evening and were quite surprised to learn that the railing along the front steps had just been freshly painted.

Having got caught green-handed by the discovery, we had to recount the adventure a number of times while the wife applied the turpentine.

"Tell it again," the wife said. "What for?" we asked. "You have heard the story six times now."

"I know," she said. "But I like the part where you become amazed to find out the paint is wet."

"Well, it's true," we said. "Nonsense," she said. "I put three 'Wet Paint' signs out there. What else could that possibly mean except wet paint?"

We had not said it was possible. We had only said it was true. But you cannot get anywhere with that argument—no matter how many times you explain it.

People nowadays simply will not believe anything unless it is possible. And, as the wife points out, there is nothing more possible than the expectation of wet paint beyond a "Wet Paint" sign.

It is not only possible; it ought to be a basic test for sanity. Now we are wholeheartedly in favor of sanity. But we do not see how you can get there by saving your amazement for use on miracles only. Quite the contrary.

It seems to us that unless you practice at being surprised by the possible, you will eventually be nodding in kindly assent to the outrageous.

We have given this matter an extensive field trial among very reasonable people and it works out precisely as we have reported.

But if you care to try it for yourself, all you need is a list of possibilities which should be asked in the following manner:

Would it surprise you to learn that Mars is only 35 million miles away?

Would it surprise you to learn that $6 out of every $10 you spend goes directly into criminal hands?

Would it surprise you to learn that 70 per cent of Germans would follow Adolf Hitler if he reappeared tomorrow?

Would it surprise you to learn that CBS owns a controlling interest in ABC?

Would it surprise you to learn that Dorothy Kilgallen has secret eavesholes in her mask?

Would it surprise you to learn that Mars is 248 million miles away?

Would it surprise you to learn that 6 out of every 10 Hollywood actors are homosexuals?

Would it surprise you to learn that the Asian flu virus was brought about by the atomic bomb?

Would it surprise you to learn that the monkey is actually descended from man?

Would it surprise you to learn that a person who believes in a "Wet Paint" sign will believe in anything just so long as it is possible?

To prove the point once and for all we telephoned the wife the other morning from the office, making certain that the teletype machines could be plainly heard in the background, and asked a little breathlessly:

"Say, would you be surprised to learn that Elizabeth Taylor had been seeing Gen. Eisenhower quite regularly in 1961?"

"No," the wife said. "Would you be surprised to learn that the cleaner can't get the paint out of your suit this time?"

As early as 400 B.C. some women dyed their hair. False hair also was known, but, unlike the Egyptian wig, was made to look as natural as possible. Roman ladies used curling irons, hairpins and combs and style changes in hairdressing were frequent.

House Vote to Ban Surplus Food Sales to UAR May Lead to Congressional Review of Policy on OAU, Nasser

WASHINGTON — The House vote to stop sales of surplus food to the United Arab Republic may turn out to be even more significant than it first appeared.

Advocates of the aid ban are following up their tactical victory with an all-out effort for a congressional review of President Johnson's little-publicized policy toward Africa and the Middle East.

Representatives Robert Michel, R-Ill., and H. R. Gross, R-Iowa, who engineered the successful attack against Nasser, are demanding that the House Foreign Affairs Committee open an inquiry into why both the U.S. and Russia are supporting the Organization of African Unity as the chief political and economic policy-making body in Africa.

In a series of House speeches, the two GOP committeemen will demand the policy review and charge that Communist China, Algeria and even Cuba are backing the OAU, which is secretly being financed by both Moscow and Washington.

Representatives Michel and Gross will point out that Jomo Kenyatta of Kenya, former Mau Mau leader who is running the OAU, was indoctrinated and trained in Marxism in Moscow and is backing the Kremlin's grand design for a Soviet-controlled Africa. They will charge that this tight Soviet political hold on OAU makes the U.S. policy of supporting it almost suicidal—and comparable to "putting Al Capone in charge of the Chicago police force and providing him with a key to the city treasury."

DISTURBING FACTORS—According to Representatives Michel and Gross, the disquieting aspect of the administration's African policy is that Secretary Rusk has full knowledge of the Kremlin's control of OAU, but still favors building U.S. policy around that controversial organization.

Illustrative is one policy paper in the possession of the legislators flatly stating that "as a matter of policy, the U.S. should encourage in every way feasible the evolution and strengthening of OAU as a regional security system increasingly able to take on responsibility for negotiating, administering and enforcing within the region political and military programs for both the pacific settlement of intra-regional disputes and collective security."

Other information in the hands of GOP Foreign Affairs committeemen, who are backing Michel and Gross, shows that the United Arab Republic, Algeria and Cuba not only are supporting OAU publicly but are privately offering the organization money and technicians to staff its military, foreign and scientific commissions.

While Republican congressional leaders still lack the votes in the Senate to pass the ban on sales of surplus food to the UAR, they hope to pick up the necessary support in the coming debate by mobilizing public opinion for a crackdown on Nasser and a review of the administration's African policy.

If these objectives are achieved, they will then seek to bar U.S. surplus farm sales to Indonesia, Algeria, Yugoslavia, Poland and Russia.

Churchill's Legacy For days now, the world has been hearing of the great loss sustained in the death of Sir Winston Churchill. But the process of assessment will be incomplete if Americans do not bear in mind the rich legacy that he left nations that cherish the republican form of government.

Throughout his adult life, Churchill was a member of the British Parliament which is in true historical association the mother of the American Congress. He was a profound believer in the legislative process and in government by representatives of the people. He had it in his power, during wartime, to infringe on the parliamentary freedoms of the British people, but that he never did in the slightest way. The last thing that Winston Churchill wanted was to be a "Leader" in any totalitarian or Master State fashion. The only leadership that he believed in, and the only kind that he manifested in his life, was leadership through personal greatness and personal dedication to the traditional framework of Anglo-Saxon government.

In honoring Churchill's memory, it is important to bear in mind this outlook he had on government. For today, in America as in England, there are men who want to be leaders in the autocratic sense. In our country, they don't cherish the states or respect the Congress. They believe that they know better than the people concerning what is best for the people. Often these would-be autocrats profess great humanitarianism. They say they are committed to social uplift and wider opportunities for minorities. But in the last analysis they want to take from the people their power of personal decision-making.

In considering Churchill's greatness, it is also important to realize that his career proves that conservatism can survive and overcome the political obstacles of modern life and Big Government which attempts to bribe the public into accepting super-statism.

Naturally, press coverage has concentrated on Churchill's oratorical achievements in World War II. But his post-war struggle to turn the British people away from rule by socialists was as heroic in its way as his brave stand during the Nazi Blitz and after Dunkirk. When World War II ended, the British people were tired. They were tired not only of war but of greatness. They selected a lesser man to take Churchill's place, and they grabbed a geryll of the simple and misleading "solutions" of socialism as preached by the Labor Party.

The Labor Party success was a terrible setback to Churchill, who saw in socialism's advance the ruin of Great Britain. Tragically, the years of retreat and withdrawal for Britain that could not be compensated for when the Conservatives returned to power. But the last great chapter of Churchill's life had to do with national recovery from socialism. He was able to bring the Conservatives back to power in England, though he himself was almost at the end of his active life in political affairs.

Any Americans who desire a conservative revival in the United States should take heart from the brave and successful fight waged by Churchill in the late 1940s. It is not easy to expose the myths of socialism and to convince people, who are cradled in socialist programs, that more government control and aid is not a true answer to their problems. Yet Churchill managed to do this. He managed to convince the British electorate that the Labor Party, for all its giveaways and grandiose slogans, was not the kind of government with which the destinies of Great Britain could be entrusted. It was no fault of Winston Churchill's that the Conservatives in Britain failed to carry on from where he began. He had run his course as a statesman, and had done a more good work than anyone could have expected or asked of go, but so far he hasn't been able to obtain the needed military aid from the U.S. The State Department is blocking additional arms until Tshombe agrees to broaden his government to include ministers more acceptable to other African countries. Tshombe is opposing this U.S. pressure and is now seeking additional help from Belgium.

To truly honor Winston Churchill, freedom-loving people can best dedicate themselves anew to the rescue of government from the hands of charlatans who speak loudly and frequently of how they "love" the people and will give them pie in the sky. The conservative struggle, which is to say the struggle for intelligent, orderly government based on personal liberty and local rights, goes on.

If you want to know what the weather will be like on a certain day for the rest of this year, the most accurate long-range forecaster we can recommend is the Old Farmer's Almanac, which you can get at your nearest newsstand for only 35-cents. Now in its 173rd edition, this compendium of wit and wisdom has a record of being 80 per cent correct in its weather prognostications. We'll bet the U.S. Weather Bureau hasn't a better record.

Today's smile: The parents of little Johnny were walking home from the neighborhood school PTA meeting, where the teachers had displayed the school work of their pupils. After a few moments the father said: "With the new mathematics, the new method of teaching, the changes in geography and the way they teach history now, I'm glad I'm not back in school. The only things I could understand are recess and lunch."

A Florida newspaper has installed a computer that does everything except go to court to collect unpaid advertising bills. It accepts classified ads phoned in by customers and as it spews forth the tape it runs a credit check on the customers with reminders and sends out a dunning letter on typewritten company stationery. Who could ask for anything more?

Thoughts while shaving: We read recently that college professors in Holland are being asked to travel abroad on their vacations. Wait and see if someone in Washington doesn't come up with the same idea for American college pros, but at government expense, which means we'll be paying for it. Ouch!

The new Bible House in New York will have a library containing 100,000 volumes about only one book — the Bible. The collection will include Bibles in 1200 languages and dialects, the largest in the world. . . . Students who received driving instructions in the secondary school program had 50 per cent fewer accidents and violations than those who were taught to drive automobiles by their parents or commercial driving schools, according to a recent study of provisional license holders in Connecticut. . . . A home builder tells us that most new homes in the future will have a built-in vacuum cleaning system that can be installed in the basement or garage. He says motor and dust bin will be a single unit, installed in a remote location and inlet valves will be installed throughout the house.

We heard recently of a New Jersey doctor whose patients bring him gifts of house hold junk and scrap metal which he turns into mobiles (hanging works with moving parts) and moving parts. He fashions the junk into contemporary art pieces. He works on his hobby immediately after arising at 5 a.m. each morning, which is no time for such doings in our opinion. . . . The Seattle (Wash.) Post-INTELLIGENCER headlined a story: "Video Viewers Vindicated: It's a Funny Thing, TV's Going Comic." Seeing is believing.

Country Editor speaking: "It's not news in some of those undeveloped countries when a man bites a dog. It's lurch."

generation after generation. It will never be ended, for those who would assault such rights are ever with us.

In his time, Churchill was the greatest of the conservatives. There may be no other Churchill in sight in England or America. But all people who love liberty and a strong, free economy can learn from his example and understand that there is no inevitability about socialism.

Great Decisions to Rule the World in 1965

EDITOR'S NOTE: There are great decisions to be made in foreign policy around the world in 1965. This and subsequent dispatches, prepared by veteran United Press International reporters, will examine these major problems in the Pampa Daily News over the next nine weeks.

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst
The United States enters 1965 deeply involved in a struggle to assure the people of South Viet Nam freedom to choose their own way of life. In the longer run it is a struggle to insure that the totalitarian rule already imposed upon 700 million Chinese should not be extended to the whole of Asia.

In Europe, the 20-year-old question of a divided Germany remains without solution and with nearly 20 million East Germans under the domination of Communist rule directed by the Soviet Union.
Thus the new year finds the United States aligned against familiar antagonists but with new elements added.
The newest of these is Red Chinese possession of the atomic weapon.
Eight Main Questions
These are among the problems and the great decisions facing the American people in 1965, and among those suggested by the Foreign Policy Association for special study this year.

To study groups across the nation, the FPA has proposed eight over-all questions. They are:
—Red China—menace or paper tiger?
—Germany—key to Europe?
—Trade, food and dollars—what policies for the U.S.?
—South Africa—threat to peace?
—Eastern Europe—end of the satellite era?
—The U.N. at twenty—asset or liability?

—Viet Nam—Is victory possible?
—The population boom—can it be controlled?
Over Central Asia one day last October, a mushroom-shaped cloud signalled the entry of the fifth member into the atomic club.
The Chinese had succeeded in manufacturing their own atomic weapon—a weapon they boasted had been built by Asian hands alone. The bomb itself was small but it had special significance.
Its construction was relatively sophisticated, suggesting that within another five years the Chinese could have their own hydrogen bomb.

U.S. Still Committed
In Germany, in 1963 the late President Kennedy made an unprecedented commitment.
“The U.S.,” he said, “will risk its cities to defend yours because we need your freedom to protect ours.”
The United States remains committed to defense of West Germany and to a policy of reunification, without which it believes there cannot be a stable Europe.
Complicating its position is current controversy over the future of NATO, which almost since the end of World War II has been a keystone of U.S. foreign policy in Europe.

Closely allied to the problem of European defenses is the question of economics.
In this also the United States is deeply involved.
In Geneva, Switzerland, leaders of the world's great nations are at work on the so-called Kennedy round of negotiations which the United States originally hoped would see an across-the-board cut of 50 per cent in the world's tariff restrictions.
The end result in perhaps two years time will not attain the original goal.

Involved here is the European Common Market in which France also is a key.
The common market countries, France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg, recently hammered out at French insistence an agreement to set a common price on grains.
The agreement was of great benefit to France, which produces a surplus and most expensive to West Germany whose farmers are heavily subsidized.
Efficient U.S. agriculture has been able to sell more than $1 billion annually to the common market nations, a market which now may be threatened.

But some sort of agreement is vital.
Most of the world's problems interlock.
In the study of world trade, the Free World must decide the extent of its trade with the Communist world, and especially how much that trade would contribute to the further enslavement of peoples and the Communist war potential.
Here again the United States and many of its allies are divided.
Growing Independence
Of special note is the future status of the satellites. Under Nikita Khrushchev and the relaxation of Moscow domination associated with him, the satellites have shown signs of growing independence.
The United States must decide how far and in what way it is to encourage this independence.
Also related to world stability are two other questions proposed in the FPA study, one isolated, the other general.
One deals with the question of apartheid, or division of the races as practiced by South Africa.
A general question is the matter of the worldwide population explosion.
Over-population affects the economies of South America, particularly those which can least afford it.
Its solution is particularly difficult since, along with economics, it also bears on human right and on religion.

Nosy Computers do Talk

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—What do computers talk about when they get together for an afternoon of gossip?
They “chat” about your bank balance, what and where you've been eating, and what hotels and airlines you've been patronizing, according to Dr. Edward J. Laurie, Associate Professor of Business Management, San Jose State College.
Laurie, who views computers as more friendly than the family dog and more helpful than a staff of office workers, even visualizes the computer as a sort of crusading “Sir Galahad slaying a great paper dragon.”

Laurie told a conference of the Data Processing Management Association that the days of thumbing through a multiplicity of credit cards are almost over.
He suggested that consumers, even those traveling, will carry a single card to be presented to a computer at each of their stops—store, restaurant, hotel or airline.
The computer would check instantly with many other computers. Not even the traveler's bank balance would remain a secret. The combined machines might even decide if you can afford a $5.00 steak dinner or or would have to settle for hamburger.

Days of pre-dating and post-dating checks would be over.
If that isn't enough to frighten a man, Laurie claims we're even going to have to re-learn how to spell—or face the prospect of being snubbed by the computer.
The first grader who spells cat “kat” will find that he is right after all, Laurie said, because that is the way voice-activated computers will have to spell it. “Knee” will be “ne” because there will be no more silent “k” and silent “e.”
Laurie also suggests that language will become simpler, with excess verbiage disappearing. “Just how much do you have to say to each other without adding a lot of useless information?” he said.
“Tomorrow's businessman certainly will be more sophisticated than today's, and tomorrow's students certainly will be brighter.”
“They'll have to be to manage and control the computerized business world.”

Hunza Basks in Own Splendid Isolation

By MAX VANZI
KARACHI, Pakistan (UPI)—The slopes and valleys of peaceful little Hunza, a semi-autonomous belt on the map of West Pakistan, lies flush against Red China on the southwestern frontier of China's Sinkiang province.
But the ruler of the tiny and isolated princely province, the Mir of Hunza, expresses no concern.
On the contrary, the Mir told United Press International in Karachi: “We're delighted with the way things are going.”
Internally, the Mir rules Hunza's 40,000 persons, mostly shepherds and farmers, on his own. Foreign policy he gladly leaves in the hands of Pakistan, of which Hunza technically is a part.

In 1963, Pakistan and China demarcated a portion of the border between Sinkiang and the territories Pakistan controls in disputed Kashmir and elsewhere on the frontier.
In the bargain, Hunza received about 750 square miles of valuable grazing land which previously lay within China.
“We are grateful, indeed, to the Pakistan government for acquiring this land for us,” said the Mir. “It was far beyond our expectations.”
In an interview shortly before the Mir was to attend a reception at the communist Chinese embassy in Karachi, he made some friendly remarks about his northern neighbor, but denied reports that Hunza was in any way in touch with China.
“No, there are no Chinese in Hunza, none of us are up there and there is no connecting link,” he said.
The swarthy Mir described his mountain province, to which few Westerners are allowed access, as a happy, carefree place where there is “no crime and therefore no jails.”

He said he allows local government “but if anything important comes up, they bring it to me.”
The people of Hunza, said the Mir, are all claimed descendants of Alexander the Great, whose armies swept across the subcontinent in the third century before Christ. He claimed everyone in Hunza, like Alexander's Greeks, is fair complexioned and large in stature and speaks a linguistically baffling language called Bruschaski.
Western authorities doubt the Mir's claim to the pure Greek strain of his hemmed-in subjects and say they have mixed at least somewhat over the ages with their Asian neighbors.
“Practically everyone in Hunza is illiterate,” the Mir said, “but it doesn't matter because there's nothing to read anyway and we take care of all our business by talking about it.”
There exists only one way to get into Hunza and its capital of Baltit, and it's not easy, even if travel were permitted.
One must strike out from Gilgit, West Pakistan, over a 65-mile trail that only a jeep can maneuver. The Mir himself comes and goes by jeep because not even a light plane can land in his country, he said.
Hunza is so isolated that James Hilton placed his fabled Shangri-la there in his novel, “Lost Horizon,” with little danger that anyone would ever prove conclusively that the City of Eternal Youth did not exist.
The Mir expressed no envy for nations in contact with one another.
“We are a happy, contented people, with very few worries,” he said.

SCIENCE SKETCHES

FRESH FOOD will retain moisture, suffer less discoloration and last longer if a Louisiana State University program is successful. Object is development of an edible, transparent coating which will maintain the fresh quality of foods longer than possible with normal storage, processing and handling.

ARIZONA is the site of what may be the oldest human dwellings in the United States. A University of Chicago expedition uncovered the remains of an Indian village dating between 4000 B.C. and 100 A.D. in northern Arizona. The round dwellings were built of cedar saplings.

FOUR JET ENGINES roar into action periodically in Louisville, Ky. but never move an inch. The city's electrical utility harnesses their combined 60,000 horsepower to generate short-time “peaking capacity,” current needed when demand exceeds normal supply. The engines burn natural gas at the rate of 624,000 cubic feet an hour, reports Tube Turns, which forged the hundreds of fittings for the all-welded gas-supply system. That's enough gas to operate a home furnace for about five years.

Business Highlights

NEW YORK—Stockpiling by business to meet mounting orders as well as growing fears of a steel strike has quickened substantially, according to reports to the National Association of Purchasing Agents.

The executives who do the buying for industry said the rise in inventories last month was the largest since March 1962, just prior to settlement of the last steel contract negotiations.

CHICAGO—Allied Chemical and a group of Wall Street investment firms have made a $800-million cash bid for the assets of Pure Oil Co. It was reported that offer is contingent on a prompt decision by Pure Oil directors to clear the way for a vote on the matter at the oil company's April 10 annual meeting.

NEW YORK—Firestone Tire and Seiberling Rubber plan to proceed with Firestone's cash purchase of Seiberling's tire business along lines agreed to last December. The Justice Department said it would look into the agreement, but both companies said they have no word of possible government opposition.

Indonesia Trying For Atomic Bomb

JAKARTA, Indonesia (UPI)—An Indonesian army general said today 200 scientists are working on a project to develop Indonesia's first atomic bomb.

In a statement distributed by the official government news agency Antara, Brig. Gen. Hartono said the bomb will be ready for testing by armed forces day in October.
The announcement, followed by less than a week a visit to Communist China by a high-level Indonesian delegation headed by Foreign Minister Subandrio. A communique issued after Subandrio's talks with Premier Chou En-lai pledged increased military and economic ties between the two Asian nations.

Soviet Leaders Visit to Budpest Starts Rumors

MOSCOW (UPI)—Soviet Communist party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev was disclosed Monday to have made a secret weekend visit to Budapest for talks with Hungarian leader Janos Kadar.
The visit—revealed in Moscow and Budapest announcements—stirred speculation here that some new crisis may have arisen in Soviet-Hungarian relations. Diplomatic observers also believed Brezhnev might have discussed the possible withdrawal of Soviet troops from Hungary.
Brezhnev was accompanied to Budapest by top ranking Communist party Presidium member Nikolai Podgorny, the Soviet Tass news agency said. They left the Hungarian capital Sunday night after a visit that began Friday.
Tass said Brezhnev and Podgorny conferred with Kadar in a “heartfelt and comradely atmosphere.” It said they discussed “questions of interest to both sides,” but gave no details.

Announcement of the talks took Moscow diplomatic circles by surprise. Brezhnev and Kadar had been together less than two weeks ago at the Warsaw Pact Communist summit conference in the Polish capital.
There was speculation here the Budapest trip may have been connected with:
—A sudden crisis in Hungarian-Soviet affairs.
—The question of withdrawal of Soviet troops from Hungary, which has been hinted at for some time.
—The scheduled March 1 conference of 26 Communist parties called to discuss the crisis between Moscow and Peking.
