Schools Told to Obey Law on Civil Rights

Vote 13-5 In Favor of Decision

By WILLIAM HAMILTON

AUSTIN (UPI) — Faced with losing all federal backing in 60 days, the State Board of Education Monday told its staff to order immediate compliance with sections of the federal civil rights act that apply to Texas public schools.

But five members of the board voted against the idea, and two suggested that the state ought to ignore the law and stop taking federal money.

To me, this has removed every semblance of local control," said Paul Mathews of Greenville. He voted "no" in the 13-5 decision to empower education commissioner J. W. Edgar to make local school districts comply with the anti-discrimination law.

Civil rights was the last thing the board talked about in its five-hour meeting Monday. Other items included re-hiring Edgar for another four years and re-electing present officers for 1965.

Need Full Compliance
Deputy Commissioner J. Warren Hitt said the sweeping education provision that went into effect Sunday requires full state compliance to keep the federal money rolling in. In Texas the federal funds amount to $37 million a year, not counting higher education.

Hitt said only some 100 of the state's 1,400 school districts get no aid from the federal government. The law says the ones that get aid must sign a statement of compliance.

The board also: —Voted unanimously to reappoint Edgar as commissioner through May 31, 1969. His current contract expires June 1.

Group Re-elected
Re-elected W. W. Jackson of San Antonio as board president for 1965. Emerson Stone Sr. of Jacksonville, vice chairman, and Mrs. George Swinney, Abilene, secretary, were also re-elected.

Disapproved of teacher education programs to begin 1966-67 at Jarvis Christian College at Hawkins, Paul Quinn College at Waco and Texas College at Tyler, all predominantly Negro schools, unless big changes are made in existing programs. Wayland Baptist College of Plainview, got tentative approval through 1967-68.

Approved existing teacher training work at Prairie View A&M, Texas Southern University, Wiley College, Baylor University, Texas Tech, East Texas State, Mary Hardin - Baylor, Our Lady of the Lake, Pan American and Southwest Texas State.

Congress Gears Up for Action on Key Measures

By FRANK ELEAZER

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The 89th Congress—the most heavily Democratic in a generation—geared up today for swift action on key measures in President Johnson's sweeping program for "The Great Society."

The President outlined his views of the nation's unmet needs in his State of the Union message before a joint session Monday night. How he proposes to deal with them will be spelled out in five separate messages to Congress between now and his inauguration Jan. 20.

Generally, the outlook is bright for most of Johnson's program. He has the votes in the 89th Congress and will work with Democratic majorities bigger than any since the heyday of the New Deal in 1936. Even the House parliamentary roadblocks of previous years were all but erased Monday when the Democrats changed the House rules.

Hospital care for the aged is bill No. 1 in both the House and Senate. The $1 billion measure to aid poverty-stricken Appalachia, a replay of a bill which did not make it during the 88th Congress, was not far behind on the agenda.

Democratic leaders predicted that this time Medicare would be passed out of the Ways and Means Committee, where it has stuck fast in previous years, and passed by the House in a hurry.

President Goes to Work On Great Society Plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson set to work today on details of his "Great Society" program for bettering life in America and promoting peace through the world.

He began filling in specifics of proposals in his State of the Union message Monday night for increased action at home and personal diplomacy through his own trips abroad.

The Chief Executive told a joint session of Congress in his televised address that the State of the Union was "free, restless, growing and full of hope." He was interrupted 57 times by applause, mostly from the Democrats.

His proposals ranged from a $1.5 billion education program to an invitation for the new Soviet leaders to visit the United States. He announced plans to visit Europe and Latin America himself this year.

Works On Messages
Today, Johnson kept his calendar clear to begin tackling five special messages he will send to Congress between now and his inauguration Jan. 20.

The first will be a message Thursday setting forth a health program "to match the achievements of our medicine to the afflictions of our people." This will include a proposal for 32 regional medical centers, at a five-year cost of $1.2 billion, to "provide the most advanced diagnosis and treatment for heart disease, cancer, stroke and other major diseases."

Next Tuesday, Johnson plans to send the House and Senate his education package for 1965. Before Jan. 20, he also will submit programs for liberalizing immigration laws, continuing foreign aid and advancing America's efforts in space.

There will be still more messages—probably 15 or 20 this year—to follow through on the wide-scoped, 4,000 word message that Johnson conveyed to lawmakers and all Americans Monday night.

Begin New Quest
Johnson pointed to two centuries of struggle in this nation and said that in 1965 America begins "a new quest for union."

"We seek the unity of man with the world that he has built," Johnson said, "with the knowledge that can save or destroy him—with the cities which can stimulate or stifle him—with the wealth and machines which can enrich or menace his spirit."

Johnson, in his first State of the Union message as an elected president in his own right, said this nation seeks "to establish a harmony between man and society which will allow each of us to enlarge the meaning of his life and all of us to elevate the quality of our civilization."

Says America Moving
He insisted this must be done by America as a member of the world community, and asserted that over the past four years the country had advanced within in its own shores and in its relations abroad. Echoing the 1960 campaign cries of his slain predecessor, John F. Kennedy, Johnson said:

"Most important of all, in this period, the United States has emerged into the fullness of its self confidence and purpose. No longer are we called upon to get America moving. We are moving. No longer do we doubt our strength or resolution. We are strong and we have proven our resolve.

"No longer can anyone wonder whether we are in the grip of historical decay. We know that history is ours to make. And if there is great danger, there is now also the excitement of great expectations."

Viet Nam Forces Count 442 Dead

SAIGON (UPI)—Vietnamese government forces suffered a record 442 casualties in the seven-day battle of Binh Gia, the Defense Ministry said today.

The toll included 19 American killed, wounded or missing. The American casualty toll also was another record for a single battle against the Communist Viet Cong guerrillas.

A U.S. military spokesman today revealed two additional American casualties. He said two U.S. Marines were wounded Sunday while flying Vietnamese soldiers to a battle area.

The Social Development Commission of Greater Milwaukee, the official agency for drafting Milwaukee's part in President Johnson's war on poverty, Monday approved establishing "family planning service" clinics.

The Office of Economic Opportunity in Washington will rule on the request. The plan also will be submitted to Gov. Warren Knowles. The governor's special approval is not required, but he has 30 days to veto it.

The clinics would be operated in five low income areas in Milwaukee at an expected cost of $50,000 in federal funds the first year. Services would be limited to married women.

Milwaukee Seeks Federal Help on Birth Control

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — Milwaukee has become the first city in the nation to ask for federal help in setting up a birth control program.

The Social Development Commission of Greater Milwaukee, the official agency for drafting Milwaukee's part in President Johnson's war on poverty, Monday approved establishing "family planning service" clinics.

The Office of Economic Opportunity in Washington will rule on the request. The plan also will be submitted to Gov. Warren Knowles. The governor's special approval is not required, but he has 30 days to veto it.

The clinics would be operated in five low income areas in Milwaukee at an expected cost of $50,000 in federal funds the first year. Services would be limited to married women.

Commission Chairman George Parkinson said the clinics must be professionally staffed and not violate any religious convictions.

Show Goes On as Police Start Hunt for Singer Billy Eckstine

NEW YORK (UPI)—A dozen of the biggest names in show business made sure the show went on Monday night at a posh Manhattan night spot, the smiles on their faces covering their concern for the star who failed to appear—singer Billy Eckstine.

Eckstine never showed for his opening performances at the Royal Box Room of the Hotel Americana. A spokesman there said he had not been seen since a rehearsal late Sunday afternoon. The singer was to have begun a three-week engagement at $5,500 a week.

Police were notified and they said they were investigating.

The singer's worried son said he thought Eckstine might be ill but did not know where he was. "He's never missed one before," said Kenn Eckstine, 21, home on leave from Army service at Ft. Eustis, Va. He said his mother, Carole Eckstine, had flown here from California for the opening and what was to have been a family reunion—

Reaction Varies On President's Union Message

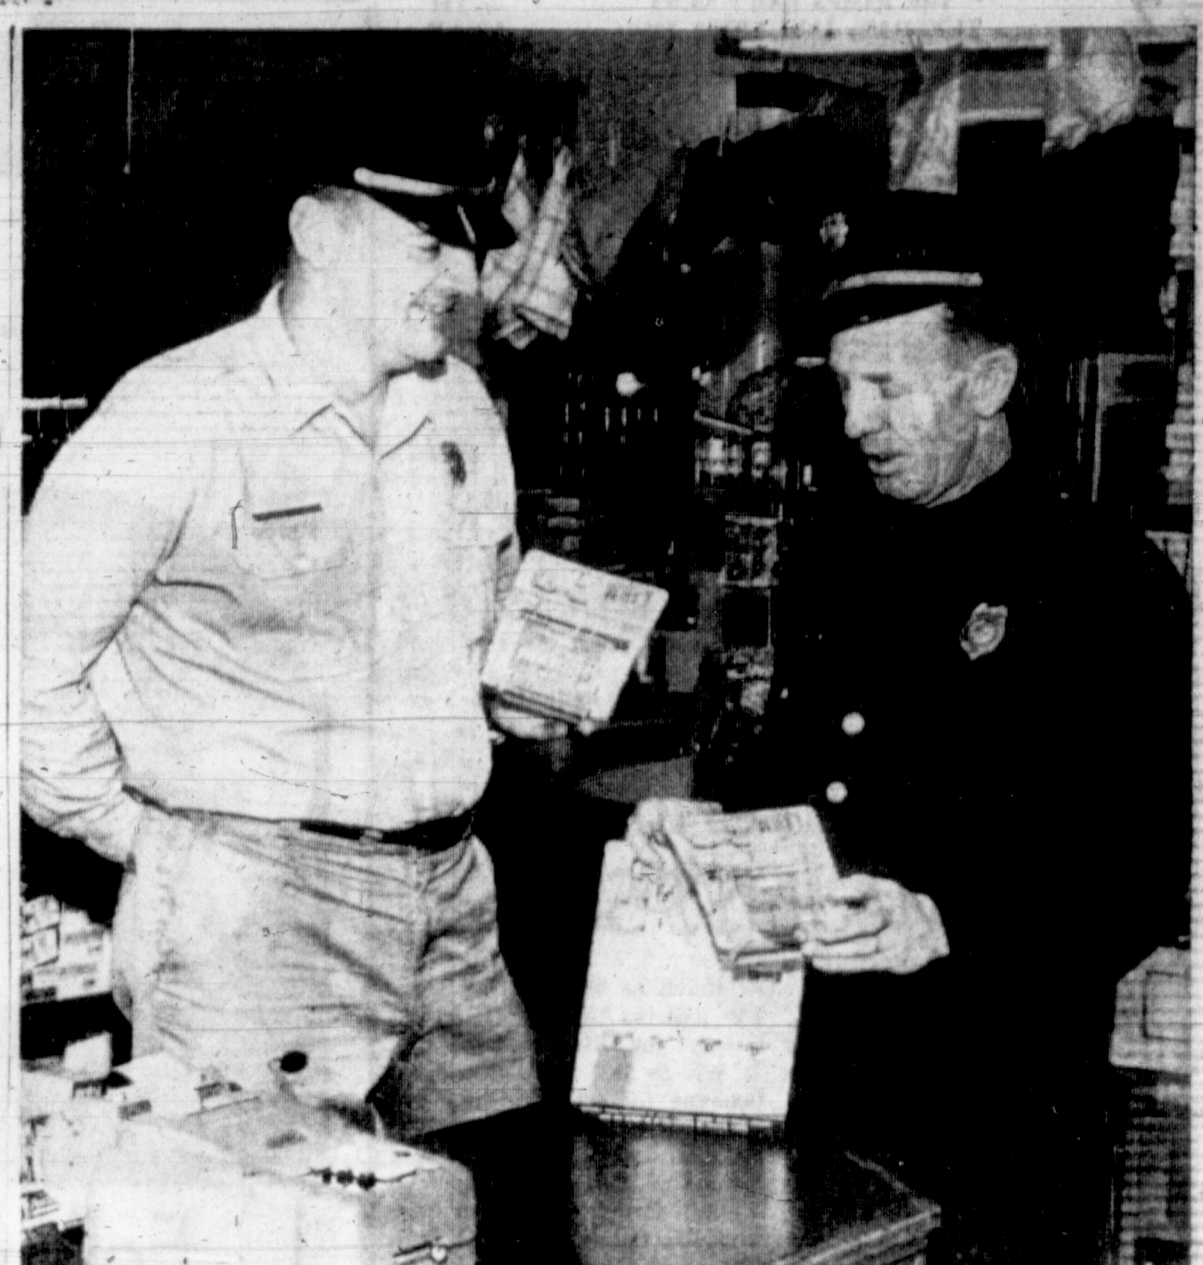

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congressional reaction to President Johnson's State of the Union message was divided, predictably, mostly along party lines.

Most Democrats thought it was wonderful. Republicans said it sounded good but... Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., sounded the theme for Democrats generally. He said it was a "truly great message representing sound progress on the domestic level, and a strong desire for a peace based on understanding and good faith. We are fortunate in having President Johnson as our leader in this period of world crisis."

House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford, Mich., said the goals set by the President in his message were the goals of all Americans and always had been. "However there are honest questions on the implementation of the programs to achieve these goals," he added.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, Mont., said the President "advanced a program which all Americans can understand and appreciate because it is an extension of the program stand and appreciate he laid down last year."

To Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen, Ill., Johnson's address was "a glowing blueprint for paradise" whose "weakness was that it undertakes to redress every need (See REACTION, Page 3)

DISTRIBUTES — Members of the Pampa Fire Department started distributing March of Dimes donation containers to Pampa business establishments this morning. More than 200 containers are to be placed in local stores during the next two days in an effort to aid one out of every 16 children who are born with a defect. Fireman Richard Norwood, left, and J. V. Pickle, a assistant fire chief, are shown placing the first container in a local grocery store.

Johnson Sets Sights On Visit of Russians

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson wants the new Russian leaders to visit the United States to discover for themselves America's economic vitality as well as its passion for peace.

Democratic leaders predicted that this time Medicare would be passed out of the Ways and Means Committee, where it has stuck fast in previous years, and passed by the House in a hurry.

The President's top aides would not be surprised if his general invitation, announced in his State of the Union address Monday night after being conveyed earlier to the Kremlin, sparked a return bid from Moscow. Officials said Johnson might accept.

These disclosures, coupled with Johnson's plans to visit Western Europe and Latin America this year, signaled his intention to take a free-wheeling personal hand in diplomacy once Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey is installed in office.

De Gaulle Meeting Sought
Johnson is particularly agreeable to the idea of calling on President Charles de Gaulle, the aloof French leader who is so critical of American policy in Europe.

And the Chief Executive would certainly visit other Allied leaders in West Europe before undertaking any trek to Moscow, officials said.

Johnson's decision to express his "hope" for a visit from the Soviet officials who replaced Nikita Khrushchev Oct. 15 — Premier Alexei Kosygin and Party Chairman Leonid Brezhnev—was taken a week ago at a conference in Texas with Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

Johnson made it clear in his address to Congress that he considered his overwhelming election victory a mandate to "seek peaceful understandings" with Russia.

Carry Forward Command
"Last fall I asked the American people to choose that course," he said. "I will carry forward their command."

Johnson buttressed his gesture of friendship to the new Soviet rulers by suggesting that "the American people would welcome a chance to listen to the Soviet leaders on our television—as I would like the Soviet people to hear our leaders."

An exchange of such televised remarks was considered by the late President John F. Kennedy and Khrushchev in late 1961 and early 1962, but became snagged on the Berlin crisis and foundered when the Cuban missile crisis developed.

Cooke Appointed To Acting City Manager's Post

Public Works Director R. B. Cooke today was named acting city manager to fill the vacancy left Jan. 1 by the retirement of Harold Schmitzer.

Cooke's appointment became official with unanimous approval of the city commission at its regular meeting this morning. He was sworn in by Mayor I. R. Thompson.

The commission also voted to pay Cooke the city manager's salary of $1,000 a month for his combined jobs.

Serving as acting city manager is not new to the public works director. He acted in that capacity for several months back in 1962 from the time John Kuntz left the office until Schmitzer was named to replace him.

Cooke said he would look after both jobs from the city manager's office across the hall from the public works directors' office.

Several applications for the city manager post have been received, according to Mayor Thompson, but so far no action has been taken by the commission.

The mayor has indicated that thorough study and consideration would be given before a new city manager is selected. In other business today:

The commission passed on first reading an ordinance to amend the City Traffic Code by creating new "yield" and "stop" sign locations and establishing new throughways.

Passage on second reading was given to an ordinance providing for three 30-minute parking meters in front of 113 N. Russell where two-hour meters now are located.

Eural Ramsey, new head coach of the Pampa Harvesters, tried to pick up a little of the "luck of the Irish" this morning as he obtained coach David Kelley from Shamrock.

Superintendent of Schools Jack Edmondson reported that Kelley had been hired as line coach this morning, pending formal approval by the School Board, having resigned as head coach at Class AA Shamrock last night. Kelley will assume his duties Jan. 18.

The first assistant coach hired by Ramsey, Kelley was an expected choice, being Ramsey's former assistant and successor at Shamrock.

Shamrock's Kelley Named New Harvester Line Coach

Eural Ramsey, new head coach of the Pampa Harvesters, tried to pick up a little of the "luck of the Irish" this morning as he obtained coach David Kelley from Shamrock.

Superintendent of Schools Jack Edmondson reported that Kelley had been hired as line coach this morning, pending formal approval by the School Board, having resigned as head coach at Class AA Shamrock last night. Kelley will assume his duties Jan. 18.

The first assistant coach hired by Ramsey, Kelley was an expected choice, being Ramsey's former assistant and successor at Shamrock.

Kelley, a graduate of the University of Corpus Christi, came to Pampa upon graduation as assistant ninth grade coach at Pampa Junior High in 1963.

The following year, Ramsey left as backfield coach at Pampa High to become head coach at Shamrock, taking Kelley with him as line coach and first assistant. When Ramsey resigned the following year to return to Pampa, Kelley succeeded him as head coach and athletic director.

In his five years as head coach, the Irish never had a losing season, finishing with a 64-6 record last year.

Kelley and his wife Becky have a 21-month-old son, David, who is truly the "luck of the Irish," having been born on St. Patrick's Day.

A New Term That May Mean $$ Saved

By RAY DE CRANE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Here's a term you will hear more and more during this year's income tax filing time: New minimum standard deduction.

If your total income for the year is less than $10,000 and you do not ordinarily itemize your deductions, this can be the first of your many tax-saving opportunities on your 1964 tax return.

By now nearly everyone is familiar with the old optional standard deduction. This was the device used by those who don't have high interest payments on a home mortgage or loans, real estate taxes, heavy medical expenses or sizable contributions. Instead of listing all his deductions, the taxpayer could take 10 per cent of his total income and consider that to be his deductions for 1964. This meant that a $7,500 family could deduct $750, a $10,000 family, $1,000 and a $15,000 family, $1,500. Regardless of income the highest total that could be used on the standard deduction was $1,000.

The new minimum standard deduction is still restricted to a maximum of $1,000 but in certain incomes up to $10,000 it can be a real money saver. Here's how it works:

All taxpayers (other than married persons filing separate returns) can claim $200 plus an additional $100 for each exemption. This of course is in addition to the regular $600 credit for each exemption.

This means that a husband and wife with five dependent children could take $900 for their minimum standard deduction — $200 plus $100 for each of the seven exemptions. If their yearly income was $7,000 they could claim only $700 under the optional standard deduction method in effect in former years. This little device will save their $7,000 family a minimum of $200 on their tax return.

Not only big families but students with after-school and summer jobs and young people just starting a first job will use this new method to great advantage. Under last year's law these younger people started to pay an income tax after they earned as much as $675 for the year. The 1964 tax table sets the first bracket for unmarried persons at $900 to $925 with only $2 in tax due for total income between those figures. This means an additional $224 of tax-free income in 1964 for these people.

Don't forget, too, that the student's father can still claim him as a dependent on the father's tax return and get an additional $600 dependency credit for him, if, despite the student's earnings, his parents still furnished his chief support.

Married persons filing separate instead of joint returns will find special rules applying to them in the handling of the minimum standard deduction. The old rule continues that when husband and wife file separate returns they must follow the same pattern. This means that both must use the minimum standard deduction, or both must use the optional standard deduction, or both must itemize deductions.

The reason for this is obvious: If one were permitted to itemize his deductions and the other take the 10 per cent allowance for deductions the temptation would be great to shift all the deductions to the one itemizing so that the one getting the 10 per cent would be receiving pure gravy.

Where married couple filing separately elects to use the minimum standard deduction they are limited to $100 plus an additional $100 for each exemption up to a maximum credit of $500 each.

There will be five new optional tax tables accompanying this year's tax forms, accommodating incomes up to $5,000.

They will be for unmarried taxpayers, for head of a household, married persons filing joint returns, and two for married persons filing separate returns. For married persons filing separate returns one table will use the optional standard method of deduction (10 per cent of total income), the other will use the new minimum standard deduction.

For the first three classifications — unmarried, head of a household and married couple filing a joint return, the table will automatically give them the benefit of the lesser of two deduction methods, optional standard or minimum standard.

Father Blasts Public Schools

BOULDER, Colo. (UPI)—A father of five, thwarted in his attempts to keep his children from attending public school, threatened Monday to move from the country if necessary rather than send his children back to their classes.

Jessie Lofquist, a nursery school operator, said he would leave before subjecting his youngsters to "a waste of their time." He already has been served a court order to send his children back to school.

"I don't know where we'll move," Lofquist said, "but I'd like to find some place where when they say they have a democracy, they really have one."

The Boulder man made his statements shortly after a one-hour meeting with state education commissioner Byron W. Hansford in an attempt to iron out his problems.

Lofquist — who charges the educational system in the United States is inferior and exerts a corrupting influence on children — hoped to get Hansford's approval of a home study program. He called the meeting "a big disappointment."

The Lofquists' five children — Tom, 16, Henny, 15, Mike, 13, Scott, 12, and Pam, 9 — were withdrawn from local schools at various times during the past year.

Judge Berry Takes Walk

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI)—An Oklahoma Supreme Court justice walked out of a court conference Monday when Justice Earl Welch sought to present a matter to the other justices.

Welch was convicted three months ago of federal income tax evasion and has appealed the conviction. He still holds his position as a justice but has not taken part in court cases since he was charged.

Justice William A. Berry walked out of the court's private chamber, apparently because he thought Welch was going to participate in a current case.

"I have no comment at this time," Berry told a newsman in the hall "except that I asked to be excused."

Chief Justice W. H. Blackbird said Berry said he would not remain in conference if Welch tried to take part while under conviction of federal tax charges.

He said Welch did not try to participate in current deliberations, but appeared to ask other justices to order his vote shown on an opinion handed down in 1963, long before he was indicted.

Addison McClendon Funeral services for Addison McClendon, 72, 308 N. Banks, will be conducted at 2 p.m. tomorrow from St. Paul Methodist Church with Rev. E. Douglas Carver, pastor of First Baptist Church, officiating. Interment will follow in Fairview Cemetery under direction of Duenkel-Carmichael Funeral Home.

The body will lie in state at the funeral home, 600 W. Browning, until service time and the casket will not be opened at the services.

Mr. McClendon died early this morning in a local hospital following a one year illness. He was born Feb. 18, 1892, in Dayton, Tenn.

Mr. McClendon moved to Pampa in October, 1933 from Seminole, Okla., and was employed by Hinderliter Tool Co., later Boynton Machine Shops. He was a retired welder. Mr. McClendon was a member of Pampa Masonic Lodge 966.

Survivors include his wife, Vurnie of the home; two sons, Billie L. McClendon of Amarillo and Robert E. McClendon of Albuquerque, N.M.; one daughter, Mrs. Leona Turner of Amarillo; two brothers, Clarence McClendon of Warrance, Tenn., and Ben D. McClendon of Sall Creek, Tenn., and 11 grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete at Duenkel-Carmichael Funeral Home for Dan Stanley, 32, 713 Naida, who died early this morning in a local hospital following an eight day illness.

Mr. Stanley was born May 18, 1932, in Easterly. He was a veteran of the Korean War serving with the U.S. Air Force.

Surviving are his wife, Donna, and one daughter, Cynthia Lynn Stanley, both of the home; mother, Mrs. Clint Thompson of McLean; seven brothers, Gunn Stanley of Peru, Ind., Clifford Stanley of Pampa, Clinton Stanley of Borger, C. A. Stanley and Mack Stanley, both of Washington, and Jerry Stanley and Melvin Stanley, both of Puerto Rico and three sisters, Mrs. Shelma Bohannon of Ulysses, Kan., Mrs. Alene Fite of Euless, and Mrs. Betty George of Benton, Ark.

Mrs. Etta Hilliard Funeral arrangements are incomplete at Duenkel-Carmichael Funeral Home for Mrs. Etta Hilliard, 85, who died this morning in a local hospital.

Mrs. Hilliard was born Sept. 18, 1879, in Spring Hill, Ala. She moved to Pampa eight months ago from St. Augustine, Fla., to make her home with a daughter, Mrs. Gladys Edmundson at 1345 Duncan. Mrs. Hilliard had been a resident of St. Augustine for 17 years.

Mrs. Hilliard was a member of Spring Hill, Ala., Baptist Church. She was an actress in silent movies when a young woman.

Survivors include one daughter, Mrs. Gladys Edmundson of Pampa; one brother, Bill H. Warren of DeLeon Springs, Fla.; two half-brothers, Lee Warren and Wesley Warren, both of Troy, Ala.; one half-sister, Mrs. Blanche Chambers of Columbus, Ga.; one great-granddaughter and two great-grandsons.

Disabled Vets Asked to Report On Their Income

Approximately 62,641 disabled veterans and dependents of some 43,535 deceased veterans in Texas who receive monthly pension payments were reminded today to report their annual income promptly to the Veterans Administration to avoid having payments stopped.

R. H. Todd, Jr., acting manager of the VA Regional Office in Lubbock, said that the VA has mailed to all pension recipients a punched card upon which the income report must be made. Pensions cease under the law if the income of a pension recipient rises above an established amount.

Dependent parents who receive dependency and indemnity compensation also receive income questionnaires and their payments are similarly regulated by the amount of income, Todd added.

PIF to Distribute Advertising Cards

The Pampa Industrial Foundation in cooperation with the Chamber of Commerce will be beginning distributing small cards advertising Pampa as an industrial site.

Red Wedgworth, Chamber manager, said all hotels and motels will be asked to place and keep one of the cards in each room.

The attractive placard lists the advantages of Pampa as an industrial site and asks that the city be given consideration for plants, industry and factories.

On the inside, blanks are listed for the person to fill out his name and address and the name of the company he represents and mail the card to the Chamber.

Wedgworth said the cards may provide a lead for a possible new industry.

Impounded Dogs Up for Sale at Friday Auction

Want to buy a good bird dog? There will be a public auction of impounded dogs at the city pound at 1 p.m. Friday unless their owners claim them before that time.

A public notice posted in City Hall by Police Chief Jim Conner states the dogs still can be retrieved by their owners with the payment of a $10 fee and $2 a day for each of the dogs.

Three are listed for Friday's sale. They include a brown and white male bird dog, brown and white male collie and one just plain brown and white female dog.

Gray County GOP Elects Officers

Election of new officers for the 1965 calendar year highlighted a meeting last night of the Gray County Republican Club. Earnest Upton was elected as new president, replacing outgoing president Paul Simmons.

Tom Darby was elected as vice president; Joyce Hatcher, recording secretary; Jo Ann Smith, corresponding secretary; and Fred Varnado, treasurer.

The officers were elected by the membership from a list of names presented by a nominating committee.

Following the election of officers, Upton appointed a committee of members to investigate the possibility of re-writing several sections of the club's constitution.

The membership also voted to begin holding meetings twice a month, instead of monthly.

Congress

(Continued from Page 1) 11-state Appalachian region was introduced on opening day by Chairman George H. Fallon, D-Md., of the House Public Works Committee. He predicted that the bill, similar to one passed last year by the Senate but never voted on in the House would receive "early consideration and approval."

Excise taxes will be cut. The immigration laws will be liberalized. And, now that Johnson has thrown his support to it, a presidential succession law will be tackled anew—and maybe this time something will come of it.

The anti-poverty war will get new ammunition. Job-creating public works will get a new shot in the arm. High speed rail transportation will be studied.

It is likely that something will be done to abate air and water pollution, though probably not as much as the President wants.

In other areas, the President asked for more than he probably had any real hope of getting. Congress is not yet in a mood to ban state "right-to-work" laws, for example, and not many votes can be counted on for tinkering with the Electoral College.

But Congress is for school aid. That attitude is not new. What will be new, if it comes, is a formula to get around the state-church argument that has kept previous school aid bills from enactment.

So far there is no indication that Johnson has been able to crack that particular nut.

W. H. BUTTERFIELD letter-writer

Letter Clinic Speaker Set

How to make business letters clear, concise, convincing, and courteous.

These are a few of the points to be covered by W. H. Butterfield during the Business Letter Clinic set for Pampa Jan. 14.

Scheduled to run from 7 to 9:30 p.m., the clinic will be conducted in the Quivera Room of the Coronado Inn and is being sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce. The $6 registration fee includes a set of 15 letter-improvement charts that cover the fundamentals of good business correspondence.

A widely-known authority on letter writing, Butterfield has written 16 books and more than 100 magazine articles on this subject. He is also the author of the section on "Letter Writing" in World Book Encyclopedia, and formerly edited the better letters service of the International Consumer Credit Association. His letter writing programs have been conducted for business and professional groups in more than 150 cities in the United States and Canada. In reviewing one of his books, Printers' Ink magazine called

Three Draw Jail Terms

Gray County Judge Bill Craig passed sentenced on two men from Pampa and one from Oklahoma late yesterday afternoon and today.

J. F. Smith, 57, of Bartlesville entered a plea of guilty to a charge of driving while intoxicated and was fined $100 and costs and sentenced to three days in jail.

Bill R. Parrish, 941 Farley, entered a plea of guilty to a charge of theft by a false pretest and was fined $25 and costs and sentenced to one day in jail.

Melvin M. W. Williams, 512 Maple, entered a plea of guilty to swindling with worthless check charges and was fined $5 and costs and sentenced to one day in jail.

Certificates Due on Cattle Breeders Sale. Certificates for the upcoming Top O' Texas Hereford Breeders sale are due in the Chamber of Commerce by Jan. 15. Ben Mathers, president, said today.

Mathers, of Canadian, said that approximately 60 head of registered hereford cattle are expected to be entered in the sale. The Hereford sale will be conducted in connection with the annual Top O' Texas Stock Show set for March 8, 9 and 10.

The Hereford Breeders Banquet is slated for March 9.

Guilty Plea Draws 5-Years Probation. David Lee Hale, 17, of Pampa was placed on five years probation yesterday in 31st District Court after he pleaded guilty to charges of burglary.

Hale was charged with the Dec. 1 break-in at Montgomery Ward, Coronado Center.

Hale was indicted by the previous term of the Gray County Grand Jury.

Esperanto Becoming Global Tongue

By ARTHUR HIGBEE
United Press International
NEW YORK (UPI) — Esperanto, the international language, may be poised for a breakthrough to global status.

The "language of hope" has been around for three-quarters of a century. But it looks like a natural for the jet age.

The proliferation of new nations, scientific knowledge, world trade and travel demand a language that is easy to learn, yet has a rich and supple vocabulary.

Basic English has certain drawbacks. For one thing, it is just too basic. You can't use it to write a treaty, a play or a scientific thesis.

English is regarded by many people around the globe as a colonialist language. So are French, Spanish, Russian and Chinese — the other four official languages of the United Nations. Esperanto is neutral.

Most people feel self-conscious when speaking anything but their mother tongue. Esperanto is the exception. Anyone who speaks Esperanto is on an equal footing with every other Esperanto speaker.

Americans who have traveled abroad know that it is just not true that "everyone speaks some English" — or French, or any other language.

The use of English is being officially discouraged in India, Pakistan, Ceylon, Malaysia and other former British colonies. They are pushing their own languages. The same is true of Dutch in Indonesia or of French in former French territories.

With all these new nations retreating into their local tongues and dialects, language barriers are getting higher at the very time that the world's business demands that they be lowered.

The United Nations and other international organizations — more than a thousand in all — spend millions of dollars a year on translation services.

Most of this money could be saved if a common international language gained general acceptance.

Esperanto certainly is simple enough. It has just 16 rules of grammar and pronunciation, with no irregularities or exceptions. It can be learned in about one-fourth the time it takes to learn any other language.

(The Esperanto Information Center, 180 Riverside Drive, New York 24, will send you more information for a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Yet the vocabulary is full-sized. Shakespeare's plays and Einstein's theories have been translated into Esperanto.

More and more people are getting the idea. Examples: — Esperanto is taught in the schools of 32 countries, from the United States to the USSR. — International companies like Philips Electric of Holland and Fiat motors of Italy print their brochures in Esperanto.

— Communist China is pushing Mandarin as the language spoken by more people — half a billion — than any other. But Esperanto is one of the lan-

Reds Give Voting Machine Low Marx

LONDON (UPI) — "Who needs it?" snapped Nikita Khrushchev when he was still boss of all the Russias.

"Nyet," said Marshal Josef Tito of Yugoslavia with the same tone of disapproval.

But Arthur Darby of New York is used to feeling unwanted in Eastern Europe. He went right on explaining how most Americans cast their ballots secretly on voting machines which make it impossible for anyone to check back on or influence their votes.

"Naturally Khrushchev was not overjoyed," he said, "but thousands of Russians came to take a look at the machine and we were one of the most popular exhibits in Zabreb."

President Eisenhower started Darby on his travels when he suggested a voting machine be shown at the Brussels Exhibition in 1958. Moscow and Zagreb followed at the request of the U.S. Information Service.

This year the USIS again asked the Shoup Voting Machine Company to arrange an exhibit in the American Embassy in London so Britons would have an idea how Americans elect a president. This stirred so much interest in Britain, where voters simply mark a ballot paper with an "x", that Darby was interviewed on nationwide television

Foreign Commentary

By K. C. THALER
LONDON (UPI) — Efforts toward African unity are far from encouraging in the new year.

Emotional pressures, weak regimes, economic troubles and racial strife all have contributed to weakening the frail structure of the Organization for African Unity.

The Congo troubles have added to the tensions in the African continent with no immediate solutions in sight.

The Congo rebellion was preceded by one in Zanzibar last year. In both cases Communist stirrings have played their part, but Africa's own divisions are an integral part of everything happening there today.

Rivalries Deepen
Rivalries which the Organization for African Unity was intended to remove have not only reappeared, some have been deepened.

programs.

After the election several cities asked if they could display the machine.

"Eventually," said Darby, "I'd like to take the machine to Red China. Mao Tse-Tung's reaction should be most interesting."

China Makes Inroads

Having failed so far to push the Communist creed to any important degree in Africa, both Moscow and Peking are seeking to push their political interests by exploiting African national movements.

Of the two Communist giants, Red China has been making bigger inroads into the African scene.

One of the objectives of Pan-African unity has been to form a group strong enough to keep Africa out of the cold war. There are in fact already signs that Africans, whose mistrust and anger have been directed primarily against colonialism and imperialism, are getting disenchanted with the performance of communism, as reflected by the Sino-Soviet rivalry.

But there is no indication that either Peking or Moscow intends to ease up their campaigns of infiltration of Africa — and the broad divisions in the continent itself encourage them.

U.S. Minting More Slugs

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The federal government is doing something in this city that would land anybody else in jail.

The recently re-opened U. S. Mint is turning out penny and nickel blanks — slugs, in common parlance — at the rate of 200 a second, 24 hours a day.

The blank discs, manufactured by 16 pressing machines, are shipped to the mints in Denver and Philadelphia for stamping. But the slugs are guarded with just as much caution as real money.

"There's the value of the metal and those nickels are perfect for vending machines," points out John A. Carr, head of the mint. He says the nickel slugs are composed of 25 per cent nickel and 75 per cent copper and the metal cost of 90 nickel blanks is 50 cents.

The local mint, which was shut down in 1955, was reopened in September to help offset the current coin shortage in the United States.

Youth's Killer Transferred to Penitentiary

ORANGEBURG, S.C. (UPI) — A young white man, being held in connection with the fatal stabbing of a Negro youth during a sidewalk brawl, was transferred to the state penitentiary Monday "for his own safety."

The prisoner, Ronald Cherry, 21, was guarded by city policemen and agents of the State Law Enforcement Division on the 46-mile trip to the prison in Columbia.

Many Negro prisoners in the past have been taken to out-of-town jails for their own safety but it was the first time a white local citizen could recall that a white prisoner was transferred for that reason. Police officials insisted the move was only "a general precautionary measure."

Rep. Ford May Be Tough Foe

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The new model of House Republican leadership, labeled Ford of Michigan, may provide the Democrats with a rough, noisy ride.

The election of Rep. Gerald R. Ford as GOP leader will do nothing to transform the 140 Republican votes in the House into a majority. No Republican doubts that the 295 Democrats, if they stick together, can call the shots for the next two years.

But the "activist" Republicans who helped Ford oust veteran Rep. Charles A. Halleck from the leadership believe they can make the Democrats know they have been in a fight. If they stick together, can call the shots, the fur may start to fly in the next few days.

One of the less-publicized arguments used by Ford backers against Halleck was that he was too "cozy" with the Democratic leaders. They contended that Halleck was too quick to enter into gentlemen's agreements with the Democrats about such matters as short weeks, staffing of congressional committees and other "housekeeping" details in which the minority party usually comes out second best.

Dear Abby.... Husband's 'Nut Hunting' Report Sounds Squirrely

DEAR ABBY: My husband has been going nut hunting every year for the past eight years. He stays seven weeks. He looks forward to these trips and can hardly wait to get started. Last time he lost his diamond ring, and about four months later he got a letter from a married woman informing him that she had found the ring he lost while they were nut hunting.

Now, Abby, I know this woman and she doesn't have a very good name. I asked my husband how come she was along and he said her husband was there, too, which I doubt. He did bring some nuts home, so I know he went nut hunting. He comes and goes as he pleases with no consideration for me. What should I do?

HUNTER'S WIFE: Your husband's report on "nut hunting" sounds a little squirrely to me. You had better find out if your Filbert is philandering, and crack down on him — or shell out. P. S. If he is telling the truth, he's certainly gone nutty on his hobby.

DEAR ABBY: I became engaged to a girl in June. The engagement ring I gave her belonged to my deceased mother. It was a small, but gem quality diamond. I won't go into detail here, but because I learned that she had been unfaithful to me several times during our engagement, I broke off with her. My lawyer tells me that because it was I who broke the engagement, she is entitled to keep the ring. I want that ring for sentimental reasons, Abby. How can I get it back?

SENTIMENTAL: Ask her for it and tell her why you think she owes you its return. If that doesn't work, offer to buy it back, and if that doesn't work, thank God for saving you from a wretched marriage.

DEAR ABBY: My aunt asked me, "What do you want for a wedding present?" I said, "How much do you want to spend?" My mother heard me and she almost killed me. I don't see anything wrong with my question, do you? I know my aunt is going to buy me something, and I could use anything from a dish towel to a television set. My mother said I should have said, "Oh, nothing, really. All I want are your good wishes." Now isn't that ridiculous? (My aunt happens to be the richest one in our family!)

TOO HONEST: DEAR TOO: No one can be "too honest" — but you could have been more tactful. You might have replied, "I will leave the choice of a gift to you," or you could have told her what you wanted.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "SIGN ME TROUBLED": Thank your father for his well-intentioned offer to help you get into a "good" college, and ask him please to forget it. Many a mediocre student has strangled on the strings his Daddy pulled to get him into a college for which he was not qualified.

Troubled? Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

For Abby's booklet, "How To Have A Lovely Wedding," send 50 cents to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif.

Save Steps

One good way to save steps is to investigate the possibility of a "pass through" from the kitchen to the dining room. This is basically nothing more than a hole in the wall through which food may be served. Use ceramic tile for the serving counter. Real tile has a tough, heat-proof surface that will withstand constant abuse from hot pots, pans and dishes.

'Good Turn' Tables

Have everything at your fingertips with a revolving side or cocktail table. This new line is precision constructed of genuine walnut with rich walnut veneer. Dapontite plastic tops — impervious to alcohol and cigarette burns. Built-in shelves provide plenty of room for favorite books, magazines, TV snacks and smoking needs.

Mrs. Blain Installs TOPS Officers

Mrs. Richard Blain installed new officers for Pampa Pound Pirates when the group met recently.

Officers installed were Mrs. Carl Rollins, leader; Mrs. Leon Brown, assistant leader; Mrs. Ralph Patterson, secretary; Mrs. Dayton Wallace, treasurer, and Mrs. Elzie Teague, weight recorder.

Mrs. Bob Schroeder was presented the weekly fruit bowl for losing the most weight the past week. A loss of 31½ pounds and a one pound gain was reported by club members.

Secret pals were revealed and Mrs. Gene Leigh was presented a gift of appreciation from the club for serving as leader the past year.

Seventeen members and four guests were present for the meeting.

Use a hot iron on a damp cloth or a steam iron to raise parts of carpet crushed down by furniture or walking. But be careful not to press down on the iron. Brush the spots gently after treating them.

Tile Exterior

A new trend in architecture is the use of ceramic tile on the exterior of homes. Colorful, durable and now available in a wide selection of sizes, shapes, patterns and colors, ceramic tile can add a distinctive touch to your home. Check the front of your house — see if there isn't an area that can be enhanced with the addition of ceramic tile.

Mending Saves Time

Good mending habits save time, money and tempers for you and your family. To be effective, mending should be done before a garment becomes threadbare. A good practice is to never put clothes away that need mending or pressing.

...and now
let's talk about some other Ford surprises...

Test-drive a Ford—and you're in for some surprises. Leading acoustical consultants conducted tests in which 1965 Fords (Galaxie 500 Sedan, XL and LTD Hardtop) with 289-cu. in. V-8 engines rode quieter than a Rolls-Royce. These tests were certified by the U. S. Auto Club.

When you feel a 1965 Ford in action—with the strongest Ford body ever... a revolutionary new frame that "tunes out" vibration... new ultrasoft coil spring suspension—you're bound to be impressed. But the ride is only one of Ford's surprises...

■ New swept-back instrument panel adds five inches extra knee room. ■ Transmission tunnel is lower for extra foot room. ■ Trunk has more space than ever—holds four 2-suiters standing upright. ■ Handy new "reversible" ignition key—works either side up.

■ Hot, hot hushed, 289-cu. in. V-8 is standard equipment in XL and LTD models. ■ Smooth, thrifty all-new Bix Six in other models—the most powerful standard Six offered by any car in Ford's class. ■ V-8 options to 425 hp.

■ All Ford automatic transmissions have three speeds, not two as in some competing cars. Result: you pass faster, shift smoother, save on gas. ■ Fully synchronized manual transmissions—you can even shift down to first without clashing gears. ■ New Ford LTD 4-door hardtops have 10 courtesy lights, 5 ash trays. Upholstery treated to keep its beauty with Scotchgard* stain repellent. ■ Luxuries you'd expect only in the highest priced cars.

Surprised? You will be... when you visit your Ford Dealer and test-drive the Quiet One. Do it soon! *TM 3M CO.

Soviets Let NBC Reopen News Bureau After Two Year Closing

By RICK DU BROW HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — In early 1963, two NBC-TV documentaries offended the Soviet Union, which ordered the closing of the network's Moscow news bureau.

The programs, presented in the United States, were entitled "The Death of Stalin" and "The Rise of Khrushchev," and dealt with circumstances surrounding both of these events.

Now, almost two years later, NBC reports that the Soviet government has finally granted the network permission to reopen its Moscow bureau.

It is the second time in recent years that an American network has been granted permission to reopen a Moscow bureau after having been ordered out following a television presentation in this country.

In 1958, CBS presented a 90-minute video drama entitled "The Plot to Kill Stalin," which also offended the Soviets. Not long afterward, CBS had its news bureau closed for a long period.

NBC said Monday that Secretary of State Dean Rusk was notified of the Soviet decision to authorize the bureau reopening by Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin in Washington, D.C. The network added:

"The State Department has been negotiating with the Soviets for the re-establishment of the NBC Moscow bureau in behalf of the network since the office was closed in March, 1963."

White House Security Guard Shaken When Man Barges In

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A man with blackened face and stove pipe hat raced past guards into the House chamber Monday and disrupted a roll call shouting "I'm the Mississippi delegation!"

He was grabbed by police and dragged out of the chamber. He identified himself as a member of the American Nazi party and said his name was Robert Lloyd.

The intruder was dressed in a bizarre costume, with black-face makeup, a top hat and black tights, with a fur-like black loin cloth.

As uniformed police dragged him to an elevator, he shouted "long live Rockwell." He said he was one of the followers of George Lincoln Rockwell, leader of the American Nazi party.

Members were in the middle of a roll call on election of speaker on the opening day of the Congress when the interruption occurred.

Members sat in stunned silence as the uninvited guest danced and shouted from the well of the chamber.

Doorman Robert Williamson said the intruder "shoved me backwards and rushed right past me. I couldn't do anything."

His main intelligible cry—"I'm the Mississippi delegation!"—obviously referred to Monday's effort by Mississippi Freedom Democrats to bar the

Name on Tools Avoids Losses

CHICAGO (UPI) — Tools and household implements represent an expensive investment and should carry identification to guard against loss.

With a small brush and a bottle of enamels, you start by applying a coat of spray enamel to the entire handle of the tool. A bright orange or yellow will help prevent garden tools from being lost in the grass or among plants.

Then apply your name, and address if space permits, in a contrasting color to rakes, hoes, spades, snow shovels, ice choppers, hammers, trowels and other tools that have a tendency of being "found" in a neighbor's garage.

You'll also be able to keep a better eye on your tools if they are displayed properly. There's nothing new about pounding some nails into wall board to hang your tools. But many handymen go a step further by outlining the tool's shape in pencil on the wallboard surface.

Next fill in the outline with enamel, so the colored shape leaves no doubt where the tool belongs, or which tool is missing.

General Cleanup
While you have the paint and brush out, the garage is a good place to continue a general spruce-up job, starting with a coat of paint on the shelves.

Spray cardboard or wooden boxes to store accessories with one color. Then brush on the names of the articles inside.

Automobile accessories such as cleaners and polishes need only be placed in a box with a hand sketch of an automobile brushed on the side.

Fruit and coffee cans can be used to hold nuts and bolts, screws and nails. Color can also be used as a code to indicate the items inside.

An unused part of the garage can be turned into a play area for the children. With the use of masking tape, spray a hopscotch or shuffleboard outline on the concrete floor. If the garage is not suitable, try the driveway.

Items outside the garage, such as flower boxes and flower pots bordering steps and walkways, can be decorated with a coat of fresh color.

NOT FROM MARS—Two asbestos clad soldiers operating a foam generating fire fighting device create a realistic illusion of men and equipment from another planet. The primary purpose of the foam generator is rescue work at the scene of a fiery aircraft crash. The 11th Air Assault Division's Medical Battalion tested the apparatus in the field during Exercise AIR ASSAULT II in the Carolinas.

In Deep South, Winds of Change Are Stirring on Rights Question

By ROBERT GORDON JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — From this vantage point in the deep South, you are looking at racial transition from the end of the line.

By the time integration reached Morrison's Cafeteria in Jackson and the Continental Hotel Restaurant in McComb, it had happened almost everywhere else in the nation.

While the southern Negro still has a long way to go to reach his intended goal, the south has begun to change on race. The change ranges from slight to extensive, depending on where you are.

The "white" and "colored" signs have disappeared from rest rooms in the Mississippi state capital.

The biracial city government in Tuskegee, Ala., apparently is functioning without racial tension.

The Georgia state senate now has two Negro members.

Job opportunities under integrated working conditions are developing in the South faster than capable and trained Negroes can be found to fill them.

The slow advance of integration into Mississippi during 1964 produced troubles and death, but also a realignment of white attitudes toward the tense subject of race.

The state was scarred by the deaths of three civil rights workers (two of them white) and by almost 50 bombings and church burnings. Twenty one suspects were arrested in the triple-slaying but it may be months before they come to trial.

At McComb in the southwestern part of the state, scene of 23 cases of arson and blast, an aroused group of local residents stepped forward to condemn the violence.

When NAACP Field Secretary Charles Evers announced that McComb eating places would be tested under the civil rights law, the town's "Committee of Twenty" called for a warrant order and obtained 650 signatures supporting the stand. There was no trouble when six spots were tested by a Negro group.

Similar test missions are likely in 1965 in other towns that have resisted integration — Greenwood, Laurel and Philadelphia, scene of the 1964 triple slayings.

The civil rights act, despised by much of white Mississippi, was a leading factor in opening up the state to peaceful integration.

Jackson Mayor Allen Thompson, long a symbol of resistance, called for compliance. Gov. Paul Johnson, unlike his predecessor, Ross Barnett, has remained silent as the transition has begun to take shape.

As the civil rights revolution shifts into another gear for 1965, this was the picture in the south:

Education — Public schools now have some integration in all states but it amounts to less than two per cent of the Negro children actually in classes with whites.

Public accommodations — Many pockets of resistance, most of them yet untested, but general compliance with the civil rights law.

Prospects — Systematic testing of civil rights law throughout 1965 and gradual buildup of programs (federally financed) designed to help close the economic, education and culture gap between the races. Stronger pressure for eliminating federal funds from any project that discriminates against Negroes.

Although street demonstrations — which has often led to violence — are not ruled out for the future, there is a general de-emphasis of this means of pointing up the problem.

"These demonstrations were extremely important in the past, however, because they forced a change of strategy in the Negro leadership," says Dr. Tilman C. Cothran, chairman of

Kenneth Bulter Serving Aboard Constellation

USS CONSTELLATION (CVA-64) (FHTNC) — Fireman Apprentice Kenneth O. Bulter Jr., USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth O. Bulter of 410 N. Gray, Pampa, has participated in a large scale fleet training operation in the Western Pacific called "Operation Tall Back" while serving aboard the attack aircraft carrier USS Constellation.

The exercise, under the direction of the Commander of the Seventh Fleet in the Far East, was designed to increase the readiness of Seventh Fleet units in strike, anti-aircraft and anti-submarine warfare. Twenty-three surface ships, three submarines and several land-based Air Force and Naval air units participated in the exercise.

Larry G. Cox
USS TECUMSEH (SSBN-628) (FHTNC) — Navy Lieutenant Larry G. Cox, son of Mrs. H. B. Hamilton of 1001 Duncan St., Pampa, Tex., is serving on the Gold Crew aboard the nuclear powered fleet ballistic missile submarine USS Tecumseh, that recently joined the Pacific Fleet at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii.

Jere M. Teed
FORT SAM HOUSTON, Tex. (AHTNC) — Second Lt. Jere M. Teed, 23, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur M. Teed, 1822 Charles, Pampa, completed an Army Medical Service Corps officer orientation course at the Brooke Army Medical Center, sociology at Atlanta University. "Demonstrations forced the old Negro leadership, skilled in accommodating and adjusting, to either take a back seat or become aggressive. Since 1957, support of the white power structure has been the kiss of death for Negro leaders."

"The new and younger leadership operates on the assumption that the rights should be afforded all citizens and should not be parceled out in small bits."

Fort Sam Houston, Tex., recently. During the eight-week course Lieutenant Teed received instruction in performing medical services under combat and mass-casualty conditions.

Herbert A. Mayberry
USS PERMIT (FHTNC) — Quartermaster Second Class Herbert A. Mayberry, USN, son of Mrs. Helen Claudia of Lefors, is serving aboard the nuclear powered submarine USS Permit, operating out of San Diego, Calif.

Zearl D. Devoll
EIGHT INFANTRY DIV. (AHTNC) — Army Pvt. Zearl D. Devoll, son of Mr. and Mrs. Erza O. Devoll, 513 Hazel St., Pampa, was assigned to the 8th Infantry Division in Germany recently.

Devoll is a member of 1st Battalion of the division's 39th Infantry. He entered the Army in May, 1964 and completed basic training at Fort Polk, La.

The 22-year-old soldier attended Pampa High School. Before entering the Army, Devoll was employed by the McCathern Co.

Jimmie L. Simpson
ABILENE, Tex. — Airman Second Class Jimmie L. Simpson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Byron H. Simpson of Rt. 1, Mobeetie, has been selected Outstanding Airman of the Month in his Squadron Air Command (SAC) squadron at Dyess AFB, Tex.

Airman Simpson, an aircraft structural repairman, was chosen for the honor in recognition of his exemplary conduct and duty performance.

SAYS PRESTIGE HIGHER
WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. Information Agency Director Carl Rowan said Sunday that this country's prestige in foreign countries is higher today than ever before—with "a few rare exceptions."

of his exemplary conduct and duty performance.

Lance G. Young
U. S. FORCES, VIETNAM (AHTNC) — Army Capt. Lance G. Young, whose wife, Tina, lives in Canadian, was assigned to the U. S. Army Support Command, Vietnam, recently.

Richard Powell
VII CORPS, GERMANY (AHTNG) — Richard L. Powell, whose wife, Katherine, lives at 321 Jean St., Pampa, was promoted to private first class recently while serving with the 75th Artillery in Germany.

Powell, a mechanic in Service Battery of the 75th Artillery's First Battalion, entered the Army in March 1964 and completed basic combat training at Fort Polk, La.

PRIMER for astronauts, executives, diplomats, statesmen, businessmen, responsible citizens

The successful newspaperboy develops a background for future achievement that only a fraction of today's young men will ever attain.

He has a part time job with full time rewards, that pays off now—and in adult life. He operates his own profitable business, the only one that makes him salesman as well as purchasing agent; a delivery man and collector, as well as accountant; and gives him a real insight into human nature.

Under the guidance of men who are interested in and trained to bring hidden talents out of boys, your son could well receive some of the most important training of his entire life.

Not every boy who wants a newspaper route can get one. There simply are not enough openings. But if you think your son might be interested now or at some future time, our Circulation Department would like to hear from you.

Business Highlights

By United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Record output and sales in virtually every major industry in 1965 but a slowdown in the rate of new hiring was predicted over the weekend by the Commerce Department.

All 50 manufacturing industries analyzed — representing more than half the value of the country's manufacturing production—are expected to show some gain in the new year, and to maintain high earnings.

NEW YORK: Steel industry leaders gave no hint whether President Johnson's order for a high-level government investigation into recent selective steel price increases will deter them from any further selective price boosts. Some industry observers believe major producers are testing the President with selective price increases.

NEW YORK: American Telephone & Telegraph Co. earned more money in the 12 months ended Nov. 30 than ever reported by any corporation in the United States. AT&T earned $1.7 billion topping the previous record of $1.59 billion reported last year by General Motors. The big auto maker has yet to report its 1964 profit showing.

PITTSBURGH: Major steel mills said shipments in January would rise anywhere from 5 to 12 per cent. Iron Age magazine, in forecasting a steel supply shortage in February and March, said mills were overbooked for the next few months.

Nation Facing Rain, Snow, Wind

By United Press International
A new attack of rain, snow and gales punished the storm-weary West today. More sub-zero cold gripped the Midwest.

With 150 mile an hour jet streams at altitudes of six to seven miles, gale warnings were posted from Point Arena, Calif., to Astoria, Ore. Travelers warnings were in effect for the California Sierras.

Heavy rain was forecast for southwest Oregon. Four inches of snow were predicted for eastern Oregon, with nine inches on the ground at Burns, Ore., including three inches in six hours.

Officials said the freezing temperatures and snow could hold down a renewal of the flooding that took 42 lives and caused more than $700 million damage in California, Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Nevada.

Arctic air plunged across the Northern Plains and into the Midwest. It was 16 below at Cut Bank, Mont., early today—6 degrees colder than it was at Anchorage, Alaska.

Monday the temperature fell to 20 below at Cut Bank, 18 below at Havre, Mont., and 2 below at Bismarck, N.D. San Francisco received .89 inches of moisture during a 24 hour period, and Boise, Ida., .31 inches.

BIG SWITCH — Danny "Rock" Hill made the big switch from high school forward to college guard with a vengeance. The 6'2" ex-Pampa front court man is now a starting guard for Frank Phillips JC, hitting regularly in double figures.

Harvesters Host Sandies Tonight

Two games played by the Pampa Harvesters this week will go a long way toward determining the winner of the first round of district 3-AAAA play, as the Harvesters host the Amarillo Sandies tonight at 8 p.m. at the Lubbock Monterey Friday. Pampa and Monterey share the loop lead with identical 5-0 marks, and the Sandies are right behind with a 4-1 mark. "It gets tougher every week," admitted Pampa coach Terry Culley. "This is a 'must' game for Amarillo if they intend to stay in the race and every game is a 'must' game for us and for Monterey too." The Sandies were not rated at the top of the pre-season heap, due to having lost their great playmaker, Sammy Gast, but a tall and veteran crew has successfully two-platoonized its way to victories over Plainview, Caprock, Palo Duro and Tascosa, losing to Monterey, 52-38 at Lubbock. Amarillo, as always, features a run-and-shoot offense and a full-court press defense, but this year is blessed with enough material to run two full teams in and out to keep the pressure on opponents. The first lineup has three boys who saw starting action last year, 6-2 Mickey Vaclav, 6-4 junior David Jackson and 6-0 Jeff Harp, as well as 6-3 letterman Mike Burkett and 5-11 junior Dennis Falk. Charles Johnson, 5-10 letterman and 6-0 Harold Jennings are the top two replacements, but the full second platoon rounds out with 6-5 Bill Jordan as the big man, aided by 6-2 Mike Marr and 6-1½ Charles Wells. Culley pointed out that the Sandies are a well-balanced team as is Pampa. "I couldn't say which was better in a comparison between Plainview and Amarillo," Culley replied to that question, "but the Sandies must be considered tougher because they are a far better balanced team. They have good overall height and plenty of depth. Vaclav is their leading scorer, averaging close to 20 points a game, but in a 62-52 win over Tascosa last week, they had three in double figures, Vaclav, Jackson and Burkett, which means that like Pampa, all the Sandies are a scoring threat when they have their hands on the ball." The Shockers and the Amarillo B team open action at 6:15 p.m., with the varsity game following.

HARVESTER OF THE WEEK — Kenneth (Mac) McWilliams started the New Year off by being named Harvester of the Week for his fine all-round play over the holidays. The 6'3" junior scored 40 points in the last two district games and then 44 more in the Top O' Texas Tournament.

Illini Home Stand Garners Killings

By FRED McMANE
UPI Sports Writer
The University of Illinois basketball team probably doesn't care if it ever travels again—it defeats more interesting teams at home. The ninth-ranked Illini, who earlier this season knocked off UCLA at Champaign, made their second big "killing" of the year at home Monday night when they defeated third-ranked Indiana, 86-81, to end the Hoosiers unbeaten string at nine games. Illinois, which is usually hard to beat on its home court, trailed only once in the game in the very early stages and picked up its second Big Ten Conference victory of the season. Tal Brody with 23 points and Skip Thoren with 21 paced Illinois' attack while Ron Peyer led the Hoosiers with 19 tallies. The Illinois-Indiana clash drew most of the attention around the country, but five of the nation's other top 20 ranked teams saw action Monday night and several conference tilts also highlighted the evening. Wichita, tied for third nationally with Indiana, defeated 20th-ranked Bradley, 85-79; 10th-ranked Davidson tripped Richmond, 97-67; 15th-ranked St. Louis edged Tulsa, 54-53; Iowa crushed Wisconsin, 92-62; North Carolina State beat South Carolina, 68-49; Maryland downed North Carolina, 76-68; Notre Dame walloped Western Michigan, 115-87; and 16th-ranked Kansas topped Nebraska, 66-56, in the major contests. Fantastic shooting from both the floor and the free throw line carried Wichita to victory over Bradley. The Shockers made 65 per cent of their shots from the field and 92 per cent of their free throws with five men scoring in double figures. Kelly Pete led the way with 22 points but game scoring honors went to Bradley's Ernie Thompson who tallied 24.

Majors Grab Baylor Star

WACO (UPI) — Jerry Hall, Baylor third baseman considered one of the best hitters in Southwest Conference baseball competition, signed a professional contract with the Kansas City Athletics Monday, ending his eligibility to play during the coming season. "This really is a tough blow to our prospects for 1965," said Baylor baseball coach Dutch Schroeder. "Jerry was our only senior letterman, our best hitter, our clean-up batter and represented a lot of leadership."

Congressmen Want Commish

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Phillip A. Hart, D-Mich., and Rep. John Varick Tunney, D-Calif., were "in there punching" today for a national boxing commissioner. Hall of McKinney, received a small bonus for signing, said the Athletics' office in Kansas City.

Highlights of 1964

By LEO E. PETERSEN
UPI Sports Editor
NEW YORK (UPI) — While major league baseball won most sports page headlines in 1964, it had plenty of competition. Television got into the act not only with the Yankee purchase, but also with two new gold-fat contracts with the two major pro football leagues. CBS signed a $28.2 million two-year pact for the NFL regular season games and the National Broadcasting Company (NBC) signed a five-year, $35 million contract with the AFL. The American Broadcasting Company (ABC) turned to another field, signing a two-year, $12 million contract to televise a major league baseball game every Saturday of the season. It marked the first TV baseball contract in which all the clubs — except the Yankees and Phillies — share equal in the receipts. Although they were held during the World Series and just as pro and college football was going into the heart of their schedules, the Olympics were not overshadowed. Led by its men track and field team and its young men and women swimmers, the U.S. won the most gold medals, although in the overall medal total it was Russia 96 against 90 for the U.S. But the Russians performed far below expectations and the U.S. did better than anticipated. The U.S. gold medal triumph was made all the more impressive because it came in the so-called major and glamor events of the international games — track and ball, swimming and basketball. Mills' 10,000 meter victory was regarded by many as the most outstanding of the long U.S. list of brilliant performances but also rating high were the feats of Schollander, the 18-year-old from Lake Oswego, Oregon. Schollander won the 100 and 400 meter free styles and was a member of Uncle Sam's record breaking 400 and 800 meter relay teams. The U.S. basketball team won a gold medal and its share of praises, too, as it kept intact the American record of never losing an Olympic contest. Boxing put on the most unusual match in its history. It was at Miami Beach, Fla., on the night of Feb. 25. Clay, the 22-year-old challenger from Louisville, Ky., wanted to quit in his corner at the end of the fourth round, claiming he was blinded by some foreign substance which got into his eyes. But his handlers literally shoved him into the center of the ring when the bell sounded for the fifth round. Then when the bell sounded for the seventh round, there was the champion, Liston, sitting on his corner stool, making no effort to get up. His handlers threw in the towel, saying that Liston could not continue because of a mysterious-shoulder injury. It was the first time in ring history that a heavyweight champion ever had lost the title by giving up in his ring. Shortly after winning the title, Clay announced he was a member of the Black Muslim religious sect and changed his name to "Muhammad Ali."

UCLAns First In Poll

NEW YORK (UPI) — UCLA, the defending national champion and winner of nine straight games, vaulted into first place in the United Press International major college basketball ratings today for the first time this season. The Bruins used their explosive fast-break attack to trample two previously unbeaten quintets, Minnesota (93-77) and Utah (104-74), in winning the Los Angeles Classic last week. The performance rocketed UCLA from fifth place to the top spot with 13 first-place votes and 275 points. Michigan, the leader for three of the first four weeks of the season, slipped from first to second place after its loss to St. John's in the finals of New York's Holiday Festival. The Wolverines picked up seven No. 11 ballots and 261 points, 14 points behind UCLA.

The 35 coaches on the UPI rating board gave the widest distribution of first place votes this season, with six teams receiving No. 1 nominations. Indiana, the only unbeaten team in the top 10, jumped from sixth to a third-place tie with Wichita. The Hoosiers picked up nine No. 1 votes and Wichita received four. Once-beaten Duke advanced from seventh to fifth. St. Joseph's (Pa.), conquerors of Wichita and Illinois last week before losing to unbeaten Providence, soared from 11th to sixth place and gained one first-place vote. The remaining top vote went to Providence, which moved into a 12th-place tie with Vanderbilt.

San Francisco lost its first game and dropped from fourth to seventh; St. John's (N.Y.), unrunked a week ago, jumped all the way to eighth spot after its upset of Michigan; Illinois dropped a notch to ninth and once-beaten Davidson remained 10th.

The ratings are based on games played through Saturday, Jan. 2. NEW YORK (UPI) — The United Press International major college basketball ratings with first-place votes and worst records through Saturday, Jan. 2, in parentheses:

Stallings Signs Another Pal

COLLEGE STATION (UPI) — Texas A&M's new head football coach, Gene Stallings, has signed on another teammate from the 1956 Aggie squad as a member of the school's coaching staff. He is Jack Pardee, an all-America fullback that year.

Pardee is returning to Aggieland after eight years of pro ball with the Los Angeles Rams. He will work with linebackers and defensive ends at A&M. "His collegiate and professional background and his ability to recruit youngsters makes him a great addition to our staff," Stallings said. Pardee is the seventh assistant Stallings has named.

JOHN "GOOSE" SHIELDS, the attenuated quotation mark who dribbles ink all over the Borger News-Herald sports pages, has stuck his long skinny foot in his elongated mouth with his snide remarks in last Sunday's gossip column! Speaking anent the forthcoming basketball game between the Pampa Newsboys and the Borger Misprints (an apt term), the original 96-pound weakling bragged about his basketball ability and boasted that he would be downcourt and scoring before I even decided which foot to get off on! As a peaceable, calm, and friendly type, I rarely rise to the heights of anger, but the Borger Bigmouth has gone too far! By the time Ray Rodgers and I get through squeezing him between us, he'll look like a grape that has just been worked on by a wine press! I guarantee that the Goose will fly high. I'll get his goose all right. The only score he will see after the game will be the chart at the foot of his hospital bed. ## Public Doesn't Want Three-Game Playoff

NEW YORK (UPI) — There's no better way to kill a good thing than to start getting greedy about it. Apparently the National Football League Players' Association doesn't realize that or doesn't care because it is now on record with a proposal for a three-game championship series. The Players' Association can argue that one title game, as is played now, is inconclusive, that the fans might like to see more than just one championship contest, and that baseball's world series is a best four-of-seven set.

Obscure Basic Motive
None of those arguments hold a great deal of water and all tend to obscure the basic motive behind the proposal. Namely, that the players are simply out for more money. While there has been some public demand for a "real" world championship game between the National Football League and American Football League winners, no clamor at all has been raised among the fans to expand the championship from one game to three. Secondly, if the players feel

Political Use of the F. B. I.

Has President Johnson used the Federal Bureau of Investigation to serve his own political ends? The question is moot, for the reason that Chief G-Man J. Edgar Hoover has ever been aloof from politics, but it now looks as though he has succumbed to pressure from the White House to protect the incumbent from damage to his own political ambitions. Competent Washington newsmen and neutral observers have raised eyebrows at the F. B. I. report which cleared L.B.J.'s top aide Walter W. Jenkins as a dangerous security risk, but it remained for Sen. Carl T. Curtis (R.Neb.) to bring into focus the sordid political use of the respected Mr. Hoover and his F. B. I. In a press conference statement, Senator Curtis said:

"Lyndon Johnson, who has emerged in this campaign as the greatest of coverup artists in all political history is the first President to misuse the FBI for blatantly political purposes."

"In the sordid Jenkins case, we have had graphic proof of this. Lyndon Johnson was quick to call in the FBI for an ex-post facto security check after the entire world knew about the Jenkins case, simply to protect his political security. He had not, however, called in the FBI for security checks on his White House cronies to protect the security of the US prior to the Jenkins revelations.

"In calling upon the FBI after the facts in the Jenkins matter, Lyndon Johnson submitted limited and restricted questions to that fine and respected agency and then released the desired results.

"Why didn't Lyndon Johnson have complete security checks made on Jenkins and the rest of his White House staff before he appointed them?"

"This misuse of the FBI after the facts does not excuse Lyndon Johnson's practice of putting his life-long cronies and business associates in the highest positions where our national security can be jeopardized."

"Any one who knows the great J. Edgar Hoover, can never be convinced that he believes that someone who has been arrested for morals perversion is not a security risk."

"No amount of manipulation of a great investigation agency can cover up the fact that had not Lyndon Johnson blocked the full investigation of the Baker case - the public would have long ago had the whole story of the Jenkins and Bakers and the others of their sort who infest this Administration."

Man's Unending War on Floods

One of man's oldest enemies - flood - has left at least 14 counties in Northern California, plus parts of Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Nevada, strewn with wreckage. Homes, roads, bridges and automobiles are intermixed with vast piles of mud, trees and other natural debris.

The Red Cross has estimated that more than 16,000 families in these five states suffered major property losses. There are dozens of known dead.

The Christmas-time disaster was caused by an unusual combination of weather forces: Heavy rainfall stalled over the area by opposing high - pressure systems and warm air which melted mountain snow. The result was the "explosion" of scores of normally small docile streams.

The actual extent of the disaster, by both human and financial measure, cannot be minimized Great as it was, however, it would have been far worse had it not been for that oldest of man's weapons against this enemy - the dam.

In Oregon, for example, an Army Corps of Engineers spokesman credited the Willamette Basic Flood Control Project with saving Portland from a catastrophe that would have cost more than the price of all the dams in the state.

In California, the flooding that punished the Central Valley in 1955 was not repeated thanks to Oroville Dam which, though only half completed, absorbed the force of the temperamental Feather and Yuba Rivers.

The survivors of 1964's flood may take some comfort from the fact that eventually all of Northern California will be flood-proofed by dams. Ironically, it will not be the needs of the north but of heavily populated and thirsty Southern California that will be chiefly responsible for this.

Water is simply becoming too precious a resource - not only in the West but all over the country - to be allowed to run off into the sea, let alone to be periodically squandered in devastating and costly floods.

Not One Penny More

More and more national and state organizations are joining the nation's motorists in demanding a halt to the rising trend in highway user taxes.

Recently, for example, the nation's two leading farm organizations - The National Grange and the American Farm Bureau Federation - adopted resolutions opposing further increases in the Federal gasoline tax. Also, the National Highway Users Conference, which represents some 2,000 national and state organizations, opposes any increase in the taxes which are dedicated to the Highway Trust Fund - a fund that includes the Federal gasoline tax.

Despite this evidence of mounting opposition, there are indications that Congress and some State legislatures will be asked in 1965 to pile still heavier tax burdens on motorists.

State governments have increased gasoline tax rates 90 separate times since the end of World War II. In the same period, the Federal gasoline tax rate rose from 1.5 to 4 cents a gallon. What this means in cost to the motorist can be illustrated by looking at collection figures. Thirty years ago, motorists were paying a total of $2 million a day in gasoline taxes. The daily figure for 1964 was close to $19 million.

On a national average, a 20-cent gallon of gasoline bears a tax of more than 10 cents - the equivalent of a 50 per cent sales tax.

A law-makers search for more revenue, motorists should emphasize one point over and over again: of the highway user taxes now being collected, nearly $2.5 billion is spent on non-highway projects. Most of this is at the Federal level, but several states also spend large amounts of road-user taxes for non-road projects.

Until this shameful situation is corrected, motorists cannot be blamed for drawing a line and saying to their elected representatives, "Not one penny more!"

Whoa! Are They Really GOP Kooks?

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — In all the clamor surrounding the fight over Republican National Chairman Dean Burch, some influential party men are thinking beyond to other problems—such as what to do about the "kooks."

This has never been exclusively a concern of party moderates. Many conservative leaders grumbled privately throughout 1964 at the antics and attitudes of right-wing fringe groups and individuals attaching themselves to Sen. Barry Goldwater's cause.

One of these leaders—a man closely involved in the Goldwater campaign—believes the party must soon act openly to disavow the fringers. He considers it a vital step in the rehabilitation of the Republican image for the campaigns of 1966 and 1968. Says he:

"I don't think it should be done head-on. What we should do is seize upon an issue that will permit us to draw a sharp line."

Party progressives, of course, favor meeting the "kook" problem with a head-on disavowal. The more cautious approach suggested by the conservative, who cannot be identified here, illustrates a peculiar aspect of the GOP's ideological difficulties.

The problem in part is that the term "conservative" has become badly muddled in the last few years. Respectable, long-established Republicans think the label is theirs. They are more than a little annoyed to find the fringers trying to take it for their own.

How, then, do you separate "respectable" Republicans from those who are not? How do you attack the goofy ones without seeming to strike at the regulars? When Goldwater and tenure as chairman, say they do Burch, defending the latter's tenure as chairman, say they do not want to see conservatives humiliated, it is not clear which ones they are talking about. Many conservative leaders want Burch removed.

At the root of this dilemma is a hard, unpleasant fact: Despite their frequent private grumblings, Goldwater forces and other conservative party regulars allowed the line between themselves and the "kooks" to be badly blurred from 1963 on.

For one thing, the fringers represented an undetermined but conceivably promising number of Goldwater votes. There was no disposition to cast these aside with blunt disavowals such as were suggested by the moderates at San Francisco in July.

There is something else. For all their wild gyrations, the fringe groups were performing one service whose value might prove considerable. They were striking hard and often, in uninhibited language, at the very targets—President Johnson and his Democratic party—which the regular conservatives wanted to have battered.

From the viewpoint of men striving to elect a candidate to the presidency, the prospect of such added help is virtually irresistible. In the Franklin D. Roosevelt era, Democratic leaders had the same difficulty disavowing free-swinging leftists who were aiming at the Republicans.

When, as now, talk stirs about shaking off these embarrassing encumbrances, the problem is two-fold: getting rid of the "kooks" themselves, and stripping the party's argument of the nonsense that has crept in during the time the irregulars were permitted within party borders.

For example, professional politicians simply laugh at the notion, supposedly first generated by the fringers, that Goldwater's 27 million votes were somehow a great triumph. But established conservative George Humphrey tried to sell that idea to his friend, Gen. Dwight Eisenhower. (It was no sale.)

Sharpening a blurred line is one of the tougher political chores.

Question Box

Five trivia questions on economic and proper functions of government which will not injure anyone.

Question: "Would it retard the trend toward the loss of more and more of our individual liberty and responsibility if political votes were not secret? If so, why?"

Answer: It is hard to see why well-informed individuals who do not understand what causes material and spiritual development or deterioration should be given a secret way of voting to eat up the seed corn and lose their own self-respect and responsibility and be able to cover up their acts.

Remember the Great Teacher said, "Men love darkness rather than light because their deeds are evil." But he that doeth good cometh to the light that his deeds may be made manifest that they are wrought in God."

Madison in the Federalist Papers wrote: "Such democracies have ever been spectacles of turbulence and contention, have ever been found incompatible with personal security or the rights of property and have, in general, been in short in their lives as they have been violent in their deaths."

Of course if people believed in individual responsibility and knew what their responsibility is the secret ballot would be all right. But when the youth of the land are grabbed in their formative period of life and indoctrinated by the state to believe that the state has a right to do things that no individual has a moral right to do, if we use the Human Relations Commandments as a guide, then it is only a question of time until the man who without foresight votes to eat up the seed corn which is a form of immorality and the whole structure of the government will go to pieces.

It seems that those nations who have adopted the secret ballot—such as Australia in 1856, England in 1790, the United States in 1844 and France in 1914, have all, since the secret ballot, gone more and more socialistic and have deprived the individual of his right to make moral decisions.

Certainly the confusion we are in today indicates that something is wrong. One party suggests that individuals vote in proportion to the taxes they pay just as a corporation votes according to what they put into the corporation, and a corporation is an open ballot method. This would be a step in the right direction. Any stockholder can find out how the other party votes. If it isn't operated that way, one should not own stock in it.

It seems that if men do not have the courage of their convictions and are not willing to try to defend them, they should not be given the power to vote secretly about something they do not understand.

"When I look at this congregation," said the preacher, "I ask myself, 'Where are the poor?' And then, when I look at the collection, I say to myself, 'Where are the rich?'"

Soviet PT Boats Plus Crew Training in Egypt To Give Makarios a Navy, Johnson a Crucial Decision

ROBERT ALLEN

PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — Greek Cypriot officers and seamen are being flown to Alexandria, principal Egyptian naval base, for training to man an estimated twelve Soviet-Komar-class PT boats—similar to the more than several score Castro-ruled Cuba now has.

This sinister development is confronting President Johnson with a fateful decision of far-reaching consequences throughout the tensely explosive Middle East and strife-torn Congo.

The training of the Greek Cypriot crews is due to be completed by the end of this month. They will then take the powerful Komars, with a speed of around 40 knots and equipped with both torpedoes and missiles, across the Mediterranean to provide Archbishop Makarios with a considerable ready-made naval force.

This will put squarely up to President Johnson the momentous decision of which to do about it.

Order the U. S. Sixth Fleet to forcibly bar delivery of the Komars.

Or permit strategic Cyprus to become another Soviet-controlled insular military bastion similar to Communist-dominated Cuba.

There is no indication what the President may do—if anything.

So far he and his inner council of foreign affairs advisers have watched without reacting to Russia's steady build-up of Makarios' armed forces—now numbering more than 20,000.

Since October, when the first Soviet weapons arrived, the Greek Cypriots have been equipped with tanks, armored cars, mortars, anti-aircraft, bazookas and automatic rifles.

The Turkish Cypriots still have little more than small arms.

There is no lack of accurate intelligence on this ominous Russian weapons buildup. The arms are being transported by plane and freighter, and a continuous detailed intelligence reports are reaching White House, State Department and Pentagon authorities.

Illustrative is the latest regarding the Soviet freighter Nikolai Bourdenko, which arrived during the Christmas holiday carrying four tanks, 130 heavy trucks, and scores of crates of machineguns, rifles, small arms and ammunition.

This large shipment of battle gear was unloaded at Limassol, a port from which the so-called United Nations peace-keeping force is barred by Makarios.

INVITING RED ARMED MEDDLING — Slightly more than 200 miles from the Kremlin began its unhindered delivery of munitions to Makarios; it started pouring military equipment into Egypt and Algeria for led Congolese rebels.

foot down and proclaimed determination to forcibly block, if necessary, a Soviet military build-up on strategic Cyprus, the so-called Congolese rebellion would not have erupted.

The President's failure to act decisively, it is maintained, was viewed by the Reds as a clear sign of "weakness" and an open invitation to meddle menacingly not only in Cyprus and the Congo, but throughout the turbulent Middle East and Africa, as they are doing increasingly.

That's why intelligence authorities are strongly warning of the urgent need to crack down on the Komars and flatly block their reaching Makarios.

Intelligence now has the gravest misgivings regarding him.

A Soviet KGB (secret police) official is definitely known to be a member of Makarios's staff.

Also, Russian-speaking "technicians" have arrived in Cyprus, indicating that an advance group of Soviet military instructors may already be on the island.

Further, Makarios is displaying an increasingly pro-Communist and "anti-imperialist" alignment. Lately, he has issued a number of such statements, among them a vigorous support of the Congo rebels.

George Bundy, special White House foreign affairs adviser, has apparently been put in charge of formulating administration policy regarding Cyprus. The one-time Harvard dean, who was appointed to his job by the late President Kennedy, not only convenes all inter-agency meetings on this dynamic-loaded issue, but presides over them—with a tight rein.

A possible clue to the President's eventual decision concerning the Komar PT boats is Bundy's emphatic refusal to permit any discussion in these policy conferences on "contingency planning"—that is, preparations for possible forceful action.

Throughout the deliberations Bundy's only directive has been to continue obtaining intelligence regarding the Soviet weapons build-up and other developments on Cyprus.

Pull Up A Chair

By Frank J. Markey

The British have a thing about personifying their bells. We all know about Big Ben, the 13.5 ton bell in the clock tower of the House of Parliament at London, which was named for St. Benjamin-Hall, Chief Commissioner of Works, when the great gong was cast in 1856. Not so familiar is Great Tom, a 17,000 pound bell in the tower of Christ Church, Oxford. This one is so unique it is tolled every night at 10 minutes past 9, just to let the students know that Oxford is such a nonconformist university that it refuses to toll on the hour. Sort of makes for British independence, you know.

Today's smile: Manny Williams, the funniest magician in show biz, tells about a fellow who visited a physician and complained about a sore throat. He was ordered into another room and told to disrobe. He stripped down to his shorts and discovered another patient, similarly clad and holding a big package. "I wonder about this doctor," the first fellow said, "because I only complained of a sore throat and he told me to disrobe." The other fellow said: "I don't know what to make of him, either. I just came here to deliver this package."

A recent safety survey showed truck drivers average one accident per 120,000 miles as compared with one every 40,000 miles for the average driver. Of course it can also be argued that there are more cars than trucks on the nation's highways but the survey also points out that truck drivers have steadily cut their accident rate in the past 10 years.

Thoughts while shaving: We never gave it much thought, but brass is so sensitive to weather variations that a one-inch bar of it will expand as much as 10 millionths of an inch for every one-degree rise in temperature. . . . And platinum, which is heavier than gold, is so flexible that it can be drawn into a wire only 100,000th of an inch in thickness. . . . Thus, two ounces of platinum could be drawn into a wire that would encircle the world. . . . And diamonds, the hardest substance known, can be completely burned in oxygen at a high temperature without leaving any ash or residue. . . . Uncle Sam should not be starting off the New Year short of cash. He collected $112.2 billion in federal taxes for the fiscal year that ended last June 30th, which is about $7 billion more than he grabbed the year before. There's no doubt about it, Uncle Sam can spend it faster than we can make it.

Some shocking statistics turned up by an insurance survey say the average citizen now faces odds greater than 1 in 10 that he will be mugged, robbed or victimized by criminals within the next 10 years. The survey also revealed that last year there were 17,320 assaults on police officers, which averages out to taking a whack at 1 out of every 10 cops in this country. How about that?—The Hackensack (N.J.) RECORD headlined a story: "Which liches To Switch Niche? Well, a switch in time saves nine, doesn't it?"

Country Editor speaking: "Judging from what we've read about the Congo and the Far East, some of those undeveloped countries have undeveloped leaders, too."

TAKING NO CHANCES — If Vice President-elect Hubert Humphrey is designated to preside over the Senate Democratic caucus, someone other than Floor Leader Mike Mansfield, Mont., will have to propose it.

That's what he is telling inquiring Democratic senators. Following is Mansfield's explanation:

"I don't want to go through another fight like the one we had in 1961 when I proposed that Lyndon Johnson, then the Vice President, be named to preside over our caucus. There are still hard feelings about that. My motion was approved, but 17 senators voted against it, and I haven't forgotten that.

"Personally, I have no objection to Humphrey presiding at the caucuses. But I'm not going to take the lead in proposing that. Someone else is going to have to do it if it's going to be done."

The Vice President-elect is known to be very eager to assume this function — which President Johnson performed until he entered the White House. Close Senate associates of Humphrey are quietly taking soundings on his prospects, but they are still conjectural.

National Outlook

By GEORGE HAGEDORN

The Gold Reserve Requirement Advanced thinkers, so-called, are fond of pointing out that it is not very logical to take gold that was mined in one part of the world, bury it in vaults somewhere else, and then regard it as the ultimate basis for the value of national currencies. They have a point, but the fact is that gold still commands enormous respect among the peoples of the world as a store of value.

Whether or not this attitude is logical, it exists. It follows that in the making of practical decisions regarding monetary management it is wise to take advantage of the universal respect for gold in the foreseeable future, gold is likely to be the ultimate means for clearing international trade balances. It is hard to imagine any substitute which would preserve the confidence on which the interconvertibility of national currencies rests.

Tenuous Link

But if gold is to play its role internationally, our domestic monetary policy cannot be formulated in complete disregard of the gold stock within our borders and of its tendency to flow out or in. At present it is required by law that the Federal Reserve System hold a reserve, in the form of gold certificates, equal to 25 percent of its deposit and note liabilities. The gold certificates are issued by the Treasury against the gold to which it has title.

The gold reserve requirement is at best an indirect and tenuous link between the money supply and the stock of gold within the country. Furthermore, it may be necessary at some time in the near future to abandon or reduce the 25 percent reserve required by law. The loss of gold over the past decade, coupled with the expansion of money and credit, has brought the ratio uncomfortably close to the specified minimum.

For the long pull, there is no reason to assume that the nation's gold stocks will increase at a rate proportional to the increase in money supply needed to support economic growth at stable prices. The hard problem is to free ourselves to create the monetary expansion necessary for non-inflationary growth and still preserve an effective restraint against inflation.

Reverse Effect?

It is argued by some that abandonment of the 25 percent requirement would strengthen foreign confidence in the American dollar. This would assure the world, it is said, that our entire gold stock is available for supporting the dollar abroad.

It could just as easily have the reverse effect on international psychology if it were taken as a signal that we intended to expand our money supply without limit and without regard to its effect on the domestic price level.

One of the present threats to perity is the possibility of a our continued growth and prosperity rise in labor costs in coming years. The cost increase would, in itself, tend to create unemployment. This outcome might be avoided by increasing the money supply sufficiently to produce price increases that would offset the labor cost increases.

If such a procedure became established national policy, it is easy to see that it would feed upon itself. There would be no effective restraint on the cost-increasing demands of labor union leaders, since they would always have the assurance that monetary inflation would be used to make the cost increases good.

If we do revise or abandon the gold reserve requirement, we had better make it clear to the rest of the world that it is not our intention to pursue a systematic policy of supporting inflation. More important, we had better be sure in our own minds that such is not our intention.

Average Man — One who thinks he isn't.

Clara — You may not believe it, but I said 'No' to seven different men during the summer. Maude — Oh, I don't doubt it. What were they selling?

Success to our hopes and enjoyment to our wishes.

Farming of Trees Saves Redwoods

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The science of silviculture—the farming of trees—is working wonders in the California Redwoods forests.

Philip T. Farnsworth, executive vice president of the California Redwood Association, predicts that through this little-known science, the redwood timber owners are rapidly approaching the day when annual tree growth will equal the lumber harvested.

He said farming of the giant redwoods is confined almost exclusively to what has been described as the "second" forest. The first forest embraces an estimated 1,500,000 (m) redwoods — sequoia sempervirens — and grows in 28 state parks spreading over an area of more than 150 square miles.

In these parks, industry, private citizens and government have combined to preserve cathedral-like groves of ancient trees of great height and girth. Here preservation — not growth — is the forester's objective.

The second redwood forest clothes the verdant coastal range in a thick and almost unbroken foliage, that many visitors mistake for primeval wilderness. This is the commercial forest from which comes redwood lumber, widely used in homes and industry.

From a mountaintop near Fort Bragg, a visitor can scan about twelve miles in every direction and see only what appears to be virgin forest. Yet all this land has been selectively logged in the past 15 years.

The art of keeping this commercial forest land looking wild and beautiful, while also encouraging faster growth of timber trees, depends upon the silvicultural skill of foresters employed by the timber owners.

The foresters, mostly graduates of four-year college courses in silviculture and other forestry subjects, mark for cutting those trees which have reached the end of their fast growth, and those which inhibit the growth of other redwoods by usurping moisture or sunlight.

Plan Outlined To Meet Demand For Petroleum

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — Oil companies plan large capital outlays to meet increased demand for petroleum-based chemicals in what is expected to be another record year for the oil industry, it was reported today.

The Oil and Gas Journal said in its current issue that oil capital spending during 1965 apparently will lean toward processing. The magazine said these things were expected in the new year.

—Total demand to increase about 3 per cent, from 11,275,000 barrels per day during 1964 to 11,620,000 barrels daily.

—Domestic demand to average 11,074,000 barrels per day, an increase of 3.1 per cent over last year.

—Crude production to rise 2 per cent to 7,825,000 barrels daily, and natural gas liquids output to rise 4 per cent to 1,197,000 barrels daily.

—Refinery runs to rise 2.3 per cent, to an average of 9,050,000 barrels per day.

The profits of some companies would be reduced in the event of an increase in product prices, the Journal said.

Railroad, Union Talks Stalemated

CHICAGO (UPI) — The 20-month wage dispute between the nation's railroads and three shopcraft unions was at a stalemate today. It appeared the next round would be fought in a federal appeals court.

A temporary court order is preventing a strike by the 52,000 electricians, machinists and sheet metal workers. A strike would halt more than 95 per cent of the nation's rail cargo.

Railroad and union negotiators resumed talks at the unions' request Monday after a one-month lapse. The talks ended less than two hours later, with no progress.

PAINTINGS ON AUCTION

PALM BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — A $2 million collection of paintings by Van Gogh, Degas, Renoir, Modigliani and Monet will be auctioned off here next month.

The French impressionist and Impressionist works from the private collection of the late Morris W. Haft of New York will be put on the block Feb. 9 at the Troshy Galleries.
