

Ike Says Last Farewell to Old Friend

LONDON (UPI)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, former president of the United States and wartime commander of the Allied armies in Europe, said his last farewell Saturday to "Sir Winston, my old friend."

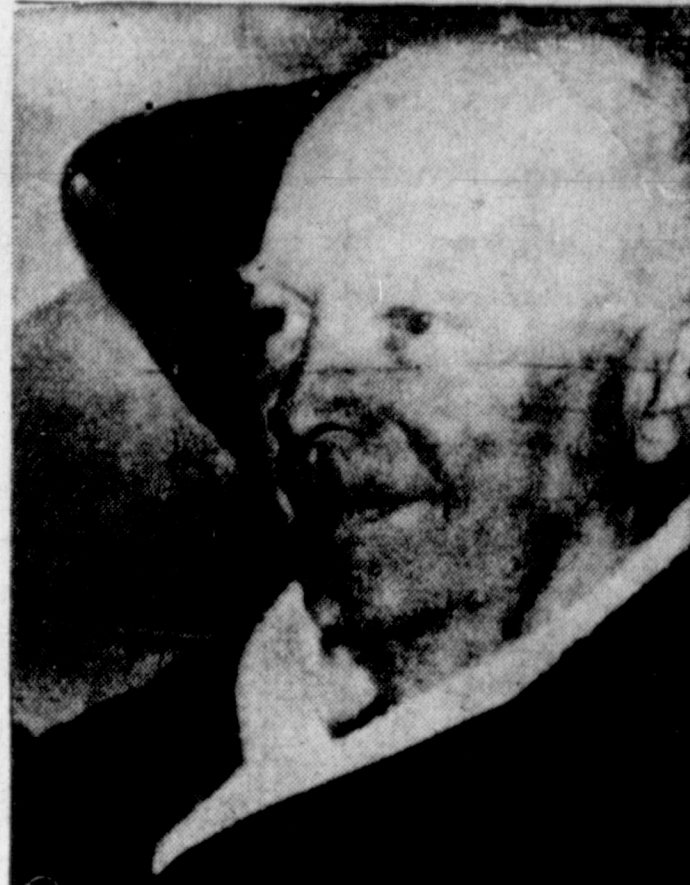

He had crossed the Atlantic a quarter of a century ago to lead the Allied expeditionary forces. This time he came to pay tribute to the man he said "was Britain," a leader who always called him "Ike."

Eisenhower spoke over the radio and television networks of the British Broadcasting Corp. after the moving memorial service in St. Paul's Cathedral and as Churchill's body was being borne to the grave.

The BBC did not broadcast a picture of Eisenhower but focused its cameras instead of the Thames where a barge was carrying the bier to Waterloo Station for the trip to Bladon and burial there.

"Upon the mighty Thames, great avenue of history, move at this moment to their final resting place the mortal remains of Sir Winston Churchill," he said.

"He was a great maker of history, but his work is done and the record closed." Eisenhower quoted Tennyson's "Crossing the Bar": "Sunset and evening star / And one clear call for me... / 'Twilight and evening bell, / And after that the dark... / May there be no sadness of farewell / When I embark." But there was sadness and Eisenhower spoke of it.

Queen Attends Funeral Service

By MARGARET SAVILLE
LONDON (UPI) — For one brief moment, the composure of Queen Elizabeth almost broke Saturday at the funeral of "her faithful servant" and friend.

Just as Sir Winston Churchill's coffin was borne past her for the last time in St. Paul's Cathedral, the Queen's lip quivered.

Democrats Start Struggle For Texas Chairman's Job

By KYLE THOMPSON
AUSTIN (UPI) — With State Democratic Chairman Marvin Watson moving to Washington and a White House staff job, an intra-party struggle is quietly taking place over his replacement.

Singleton, for example, led the "straight Democratic" campaign effort in Harris County along with a group of Democrats representing every ideological stripe.

Strengthen Dynasty
If Merrill gets the post it would strengthen a "Connally dynasty" in Texas politics not unlike the "Kennedy clan" that was prominently criticized in nationally affairs during President Kennedy's administration.

Wayne Connally, the governor's youngest brother, is a freshman state representative from Coesville. Merrill, a former county judge, has been active behind the scenes, but has never taken a statewide office or party position.

Burial Services Are Both Simple, Private

LONDON (UPI) — The nation he had served so long and so well gave Sir Winston Churchill the most majestic state funeral Saturday ever accorded an Englishman.

Mrs. Ruby Capps are co-chairwomen for the event.
Students will have an opportunity to talk personally with doctors, engineers, farmers, ranchers, artists, journalists, public relation personnel and others in the field of business.

Two roundtables will be held to assist students in furthering their quests for a career. In addition to meeting with the consultants in the morning, students will talk with college representatives about college entrance requirements.

The chairman of the affair said most of the consultant have been selected. Besides Dr. Kerr, John E. Green, chairman of the Department of Music, West Texas University, will be present along with Miss Peggy Schwind and Miss Sharon Herman of St. Anthony's School of Nursing, Amarillo; Jim Pratt Game Warden from Perryton; Mrs. Karl Meixner, sociologist, Bartlesville, Okla.; Mrs. Bill Wiley, speech therapist, Miami; Bill Harkins, KGNC, Amarillo; a number of military experts, and businessmen from Wheeler, Berger, Amarillo, Canyon and Pampa.

Dr. Kerr is internationally recognized as one of the foremost youth leaders of our time. He was a delegate to the international Youth Conference in Stuttgart, Germany, and served as director of Friendship and Understanding for the 1964 Olympics in Tokyo.

Dr. Kerr prepared for law at the University of Texas. After marriage he entered law practice in Lufkin and later joined the legal staff of the Governor. Later Dr. Kerr left the staff when called into the ministry.

● GOP Criticizes Rogers for Vote To Help Nasser

WASHINGTON (Sp1) — The Republican Congressional Committee charged Saturday that Rep. Walter Rogers voted against the best interests of the United States by opposing curbs on the shipment of $37 million worth of U. S. farm commodities to Egyptian Dictator Nasser.

Noting that Nasser recently told the U. S. to "go jump in the sea," the Committee said the Egyptian leader has taken an active role in fomenting strife in the Middle East and the Congo, despite U. S. protests, and has allowed "Cairo mobs to burn U. S. Libraries and Egyptian fighter planes to shoot down a U. S. oil company plane last month.

"Yet, on this crucial test in the House, Representative Rogers followed blindly along behind the attempts of the Administration and the State Department to provide some $37 million worth of wheat and other agricultural commodities to this Middle-East dictator who has done nothing but insult the United States in recent months," Bob Wilson, chairman of the Committee said.

"Fortunately for the country, House Republicans and enough Democrats joined together to write into law a curb on the sending of farm commodities to Nasser. The vote was 204 to 177 and represents a victory for the country," Wilson added.

The test vote on curbing aid to Nasser came on a GOP-sponsored amendment last Tuesday to a supplemental agricultural appropriation bill. The amendment bars U. S. government-subsidized sales of farm commodities to Nasser under Public Law 480.

Agriculturally Speaking

By FOSTER WHALEY
Gray County Agent

Recently we have had a number of questions asked about trace elements in fertilizer. So that we might become better informed we have done some research on the subject.

Paul Marion, superintendent, Spur Experiment Station, had this to say in reply to the question, "Would you recommend trace elements as an additive to fertilizer in this area — Carson, Gray and Roberts Counties?"

I quote Marion, "When Dr. Earl Burnett was our agronomist here at Spur, he never could produce any results using trace elements on our soils under dryland or irrigation. In semiarid regions you are not as likely to find trace mineral deficiencies. On the Gulf Coast — especially Florida and the Southeastern states you will find responses to trace minerals. In areas where the land has been irrigated for centuries, you might find deficiencies, but our soils are still relatively new."

Dr. W. O. Trogden, executive vice president, Best Fertilizer Chemical Co., Plainview, formerly head of the Agronomy Department, Texas A&M University, had this to say about the authenticity of a soil test for trace elements: "So far no highly reliable soil test has been developed that will accurately determine the availability of trace elements for plant growth." He points out further that a plant tissue test is more accurate than a soil test.

Dr. James Valentine, area soil chemist, and in charge of the Extension Service Soil Testing Laboratory located on the Lubbock Experiment Station, had a great deal to say about trace elements: "Since we have no research on trace elements in your immediate area (Gray, Carson, and Roberts Counties), we can only say that we know of no reason to expect response from trace element application. Trace element work has been conducted by research personnel of the Lubbock Station in several surrounding counties since 1956 and that response from their use has shown no significant yield increase in the field crops produced. One exception to this was cut areas where subsoil has been exposed, cotton yields have been significantly increased through the addition of chelated iron and zinc. Of course this cut area is not representative of undisturbed profiles."

Valentine had this to say about the value of a trace element soil test. I quote: "We are informed by Dr. Anderson who recently joined the staff of A&M, and has long specialized in trace element problems, that there are no adequate soil test presently known for the determination of available iron, zinc and manganese in High Plains soil or similar soils. The test for zinc has been worked out reasonably well for light-textured soils in some areas of the U.S., but even here on the sandy soils the levels at which deficiencies could occur will vary with specific areas and specific crops."

Valentine continues with a sharp warning against indiscriminate use of trace elements. I quote: "Actually we believe there is some hazard in the indiscriminate use of trace elements. We know of one instance in Lamb County where demonstrations conducted by the agent using phosphate were shown to be high by our soil test, resulted in decreased cotton yields.

County Bangs Testing Is Nearly Completed

This mammoth job was done mostly in November and Dec. of 1964 in spite of very adverse weather.

Streit was highly complimentary of all the Gray County ranchers and especially to several local ranchers that served as line-up men. These individuals were responsible for scheduling the herds for test in their respective community.

Raymond Maddox, Grandview Community, served as line-up man for that community, and also chairman of the over-all committee that petitioned the county for testing. It was estimated that over 95 per cent of the local ranchers signed the petition asking that Gray County come into the program.

Other line-up men were W. R. Combs, Lefors; Roland Dauer, Pampa; Elmer McLaughlin, Laketon; Wilson Boyd, McLean; Chas. Webb, Laketon; and Harvey Taylor, Alnreed.

Gray County Agent Foster Whaley received a letter from S. B. Walker, executive director of the Texas Animal Health Commission which stated:

"We would like to express our appreciation for your fine work in coordinating the brucellosis program in your area. We feel that the cooperation we received from the livestock owners in the county was due largely to your efforts."

"With your help, Texas has advanced one step closer to its goal — that of a modified certified brucellosis state."

A request has been made to the Texas Animal Health Commission by Foster Whaley, County Agent and Raymond Maddox that Gray County be immediately declared a modified, certified, free county even though there are three more herds left to be tested.

Soil Chemist Offers Advice on Fertilizing

Agricultural producers should take a close look at production and management practices as well as the resources available before determining their fertilizer program for the year ahead.

C. D. Welch, extension soil chemist at Texas A and M University, says all can influence the returns from fertilizer use as can soil moisture.

Crops, he explains, vary in their plant food requirements even when grown on the same type of soil. He cites Coastal Bermudagrass as an example. It has a very high production potential, hence a different food requirement when compared with other grasses. Its potential cannot be realized under low fertility.

Crop management can also affect potential yields. Late planting or a poor stand resulting from bad seed or the lack of an adequate weed control program can also cut production and reduce the chances for profit from fertilizer usage, says the chemist.

In addition to management practices, available moisture is an important yield affecting factor, says Welch, and should receive careful attention in developing fertilization practices. Where unlimited amounts of water are available for irrigation, moisture can be removed as a limiting factor if good water management practices are followed, Welch says. Under limited moisture, good results are usually obtained from fertilizer use. Adequately fertilized crops can utilize very efficiently limited amounts of moisture but past experience along with subsoil moisture prospects can aid in determining production goals based on moisture.

The fourth factor affecting yields is the soil. A reliable soil test will provide information on the level of plant food in the soil and serve as a guide for selecting the most profitable rate and ratio of plant foods needed in the fertilizer. More applying fertilizer does not insure an adequate supply of plant food. The composition of the fertilizer must fit the soil and crop requirements if maximum profits are to be realized, concludes the chemist.

New SCS Officers Elected at Meet

The Golden Spread Chapter of the Soil Conservation Society of America held its annual meeting at Wyatt's Cafeteria in Amarillo, Texas, Friday, January 22nd at 7:00 p.m. Those who attended from Pampa were Mr. and Mrs. Duane Bartoe, Mr. and Mrs. Arneal Scott, Mr. and Mrs. Van Mills and Mrs. and Mrs. Jack Williams.

The purpose of the meeting was to install 1965 officers for the Golden Spread Chapter. Henry Williamson of Dalhart was installed as President, James Burks of Dumas as Vice-President and Don Longhoffer of Dumas as Secretary-Treasurer. Committees were appointed to direct the Chapter's 1965 program of activities.

County SCD News

By ARNEAL SCOTT

R. W. Adams staked a pond for construction on his ranch west of Kellerville. He also plans to construct a diversion terrace, cross fence, seed 80 acres of native grass and spray 400 acres of brush this year. Adams has done a lot of conservation work in the past three years to control wind and water erosion.

Rueben Baggerman is doing 20 acres of irrigation land leveling on his farm north-east of Groom. Joe Gordon is leveling approximately 15 acres of land on his farm south of Pampa.

Leveling land to uniform grade will aid in more efficient distribution of irrigation water. Diversion terraces are important in protecting standard terrace systems and eroded areas by intercepting water from concentrated areas and large watersheds. After diversion terraces intercept runoff, grassed outlets are needed to safely dispose of excess water. A shaped and established grass waterway or native grass will meet this need.

A grassed waterway should be designed to carry the expected runoff from a specific area so that it will not become an erosion problem. After the waterway is constructed, it should be established to native grasses such as Western Wheatgrass or Sideoats Grama. Maintaining the vegetative cover is essential to the life of the waterway. The vegetation should be protected by a fence to control grazing and prevent it from being used as a road.

Backstairs At The Whitehouse

By WILLIAM J. EATON
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Backstairs at the White House: Preparations for President Johnson's possible trip to London to attend Winston Churchill's funeral were well advanced when he decided Wednesday not to go on doctor's advice.

Several members of the White House staff had obtained passports on a rush basis and the White House dispensary was administering shots to those tapped to make the trip. Even newsmen were getting expedited treatment on passport applications and receiving White House immunizations in case Johnson decided to go.

A press plane was ordered on a standby basis and Press Secretary George E. Reedy made soundings on the prospects for hotel rooms and coverage of Johnson's activities if he went to the funeral.

Top Hat And Tails
The word was even passed on the protocol for men's wear at St. Paul's Cathedral in case newsmen wanted to be prepared for the remote possibility they would receive an invitation.

Proper dress it was said, would include patent leather shoes, black silk stockings, tails, white formal shirt and tie, silk top hat and black topcoat.

All the preparations, however, went for naught when Johnson agreed that a London trip might renew the cold that sent him to a hospital for three-and-a-half days last weekend.

Johnson certainly is pioneering in the variety of locales for his news conferences.

For one thing, he is the first President within recent memory to hold bedside news conferences while clad in pajamas.

Reporters saw him twice while he was in Bethesda Naval Medical Center and he announced that he would not attend the Churchill funeral from his bedroom in the White House living quarters.

These sessions followed others atop a bale of hay on the LBJ ranch and walky talky meetings around the White House oval driveway.

Bedside Briefings
The bedside briefings were confined mainly to the state of Johnson's health and his plans for resuming his normal White House duties.

His bed at the White House is a huge four poster affair with a white canopy. There is fluorescent light along the headboard that allows the President to do his "night reading." A telephone is within reach on a bedside table.

As one set of reporters was leaving his bedroom, Johnson told them "I hope I'm not contagious — they tell me I am not."

The possibility of infection by the President may be a new occupational hazard for White House reporters who venture into Johnson's presence.

Wall Street In Review

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stanley Heller & Co. believes the current trend in dividends and earnings is likely to continue upward and that substantial premium has already been added to the price of stocks.

Wright Investors' Service says that despite its internal action the market does not yet forecast a major bear market in the making but rather a period of price consolidation followed by a rally back to present levels.

Tessell, Patric Inc. says it does not anticipate a sudden termination of the current intermediate advance. The firm believes the probabilities favor continued selective strength with the market averages working higher after a slight pause at present levels.

DENIES INVOLVEMENT

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States has denied any involvement in alleged plots to raid Communist Cuba from other points in the Caribbean. The State Department branded as "false" Thursday the Cuban charges of U.S. "complicity" based on the alleged confession of an exile leader recently captured by the Castro forces.

SIGN NEW and-ti agree- lion for the steel in Bill The per co will be perio

SIGN STEEL DEAL
NEW DELHI (UPI) — India hours were longer in summer than in winter as measured by primitive sun-clocks and the Soviet Union signed an agreement, pledging $211 million in Russian credit for the construction of a fourth fire-making device before the steel mill to be built at Bokaro in Bihar State.
 The deal provides for a two per cent interest rate. The loan will be paid back over a 12-year period.

The Cardiff Giant was a 12-foot stone statue of a man dug up in 1869 near Cardiff, N.Y., and widely exhibited.

FAST GUN — "Coronado Pete" known as Lou Troja is representing the Lions Club in the Fastest Draw Contest to be held in connection with Beta Sigma Phi's second annual Red-Stocking Revue, Feb. 19 and 20 in the Pampa High School Auditorium. A vote for favorite fast draw artists is one cent and the candidate receiving the most votes will be honored at the Revue. Voting boards are set up in each bank and at various business establishments. Other contestants in the contest will appear in future issues of the Pampa Daily News.

Science Comes Up With Another Dilly, 'Fanny Falsies'

By DICK WEST
 WASHINGTON (UPI)—Modern science, which has wrought such wonders as a rocket to the moon and a vaccine for polio, has just turned in another brilliant feat of engineering.

Thanks to the test-tube miracles that produced synthetic fibers and other chemical substitutes for nature, it is now possible for women to purchase something called "fanny falsies."

And not a moment too soon. As anyone who engages in periodic interludes of girl-watching can tell you, that particular section of the female configuration has been terribly neglected of late.

Making Comeback
 Once the center of attention, it has rapidly been losing ground. Various urban renewal programs have brought other areas into prominence.

During the past year, for instance, it has been almost impossible to notice anything about a woman except her eyes and her knees.

It appears, however, that "fanny falsies," as recently advertised by a New York department store, can go a long way toward restoring the glorious age that vanished with the bustle.

These hopes, I hasten to add, are not based on the claim that "padded panty girdles add more wow to your wiggle." I mark that down as merely an ethereal outcropping of some caption writer's penchant for alliteration.

The solid, or technically substantial, information shows up in the smaller print, which advised that "F.F.'s" may be obtained in the following dimensions:

For The "Miserably Minus"
 "Slightly padded 'B' curve for average figures" and "fully rounded 'C' curve for the miserably minus."

As I read it, this implies that it is now possible for women to roll their own curves, so to speak.

I am, however, a mite puzzled about one point that the advertisement fails to touch on: namely, what happened to the "A" curve? Is that not technically feasible? It seems to me that if the historical engineers are going to enter this field at all, they should go all-out-and-open-up the entire alphabet.

They Just Go Ahead and Do It

The U. S. Junior Chamber of Commerce is celebrating its 45th anniversary this year with an energetic charge toward the future and little fanfare surrounding its successful past.

Sparked by nationwide Jaycee Week in January, the group has begun a year-long program encompassing more than half a hundred different types of activity — spanning the spectrum of good citizenship from public affairs to mental health and mental retardation projects — all paced by a credo of "I believe," and a battle-cry of "Can do!"

Even after 45 years of accomplishment, its annual selection of the Ten Outstanding Young Men of America and its teen-agers' safe-driving Road-E-O, people ask if the Jaycees are connected with the U.S. Chamber of Commerce. Similar only in name, nothing could be more independent than this 250,000 member organization that is intimately concerned with 5,700 communities, with the progress of 50 states and of the nation on which the whole free world relies most heavily.

Jaycees range in age from 21 to 36. At the latter advanced age, they must retire — lest they infect this body with the growing caution of middle age. Fortunately, the U.S. Junior Chamber of Commerce fully realizes its source of strength. It is in youth, that has not learned what cannot be done — and therefore goes out and does it! Whether they are relieving hurricane disaster victims or picking the year's Outstanding Young Farmer or modernizing and humanizing juvenile detention centers, the spirit of irrefragable youth overcomes all obstacles. And there's a story behind the location of their national headquarters in Tulsa, Oklahoma.

After World War II, the Jaycees invited American cities to bid for the title of "Young Man's Capital of the World" and home of their War Memorial Headquarters. The honor went to Tulsa, whose local chapter raised $100,000 to help finance the project. Today, in addition to the $750,000 Memorial Headquarters building, Tulsa also boasts the $75,000 Jaycee "White House," the completely furnished residence of the organization's president during his term of office.

As 34-year-old Stan Ladley, present occupant of the "White House" says: "If you want the success secret of the Jaycees, it's a simple one. They accomplish what they undertake because they have learned to believe in themselves."

Foreign Aid Again

If yours is the average American family, foreign aid has cost you more than $1,500 since it began. Our nation has yielded more than $500 per capita in taxes to improve defense, further industrial development or alleviate poverty in scores of other countries since such programs first began.

Everyone has a stake in such programs, and a large one. And everyone should be cheered with recent developments in the foreign-aid picture.

The President has asked less than any President has in years to carry on the program. He asked more than Congress appropriated last time, of course. But the temper of Congress gives cause for hope that the President's figure will be proportionately reduced and finally signal a decline in this burden.

That foreign aid can work has been demonstrated by the Marshall plan in Europe, long since ended. Now it is reported that the Republic of China, long a recipient of our aid, is strong enough to go it alone.

These silver linings can become even brighter if Congress this year will intensify its study of the possible reductions. Some in Congress are prepared to challenge our aid to Communist countries, especially since even the ones supposedly most friendly to the West still show a disturbing tendency to arrest our citizens, and pitch bricks through our embassy windows in officially sanctioned and well-ordered riots.

Others in Congress (usually another group) are reluctant to vote more money for right-wing dictatorships scattered thinly around the world.

Still others (and some of those already mentioned) are loath to send money to nations which expropriate property of U.S. citizens and violate international rights.

And there's even a chance that support could be found for reducing the aid to friendly, well-behaved nations to amounts and kinds that will really further their interests while confining all our aid to amounts and kinds that will serve our own national purposes.

Encouragement for Mere Man

There have been recent reports of setbacks for the robots on two far-flung fronts of the war of men vs. machines.

In one case, a Los Angeles clothing firm decided, after a few embarrassing blunders, that an automated accounting system was just not its long suit.

The company went back to the old-fashioned method of billing, using human secretaries and file cabinets, and sent its customers their last punch-card statement with the request that they fold, spindle, staple, mutilate or bend as they pleased.

And along the Queen Elizabeth Highway in Ontario, pooring humans have relegated automatic toll-collecting machines to the junkyard.

Motorists were supposed to stop at toll gates and flip the proper coins into three-foot-wide hoppers. But so many people missed the hoppers and got out of their cars and crawled around looking for the coins that traffic often became snarled at the toll points.

Worse. According to the Ontario Department of Highways eight accidents on one toll bridge on one day were caused by coin-chasing.

So out went the machines; back came the human attendants.

(In fairness to the machines, it must be admitted that requiring poorly programmed humans to simultaneously throw both a nickel and a dime left-handed through a car window at a target placed the coin-collecting robots at a severe disadvantage right off the bat.)

If all of this proves anything, it may be that no matter how completely automation eventually frees mankind from routine chores, when it comes to parting with money, people will always prefer the outstretched human hand.

When the 46-story Morrison Hotel in the Loop succumbs to the fury of the wrecker's ball, it will be the tallest building ever to be demolished.

Chicago, the town that dug out of the ashes of its great fire and taught the world how to build a new type of building called the skyscraper, will also be the first to take the inevitable next step — tearing them down.

Not only the hotel but two adjoining skyscrapers — one 17, the other a mere 15 stories — will be torn down to clear a three-acre plot for the erection of a banking complex.

That's a total of 78 stories to be leveled in one project. With that kind of practice, dismantling the Empire State Building shouldn't be too difficult a job when its turn comes.

The modern custom of publishing encyclical letters originated with Pope Leo XIII, who issued 50 of them when he headed the Roman Catholic Church from 1878 to 1903. ## BERRY'S WORLD

Members of the Senate Rules Committee plan to question Jenkins about this strange episode. Reason is that at the time it occurred the investigators were trying to locate the one-time close assistant of the President to serve him with a subpoena to come before them for questioning.

Jenkins' doctors had advised the committee he was still too ill to testify.

The probers are as much in the dark as before as to what he will do at their hearings scheduled to resume next week. They have no word whether he will or won't appear, and if he does, whether he will talk.

Only clue so far ascertained is that Jenkins has retained an attorney — Peyton Ford, deputy attorney general in the Truman administration.

What that means remains to be seen. On the occasions Bobby Baker appeared before the investigators, he was accompanied by a lawyer, but pleaded constitutional privilege. What Jenkins will do is his secret.

As recently reported by this column, the former long-time confidant of the President appears fit to testify. He attended social affairs growing out of the re-convening of Congress and the inaugural ceremonies. One of these parties was for Texans given by Representative Ray Roberts, D-Tex.

Jenkins and his wife were warmly welcomed. Guests noted particularly his rested and hale appearance.

STILL ASPIRING — "Happy" Chandler, one-time governor, U.S. senator and baseball commissioner, still has a yen for public office.

The ever ebullient Kentuckian would like to be a federal judge.

Attending the recent hoopah presidential inauguration ceremonies, "Happy" dropped hints of this ambition in places where he thought it would do the most good. Significantly, throughout his Washington stay, he was as close as a twin with one-time Senator Earle Clements, D-Ky., whom "Happy" largely defeated when he sought re-election.

Now they are again warm friends. They joined forces in 1963 in an unsuccessful effort to lick Governor Edward Breathitt, and have remained on close terms since.

Clements long has had strong ties with President Johnson. Clements' daughter is Mrs. Johnson's social secretary. Presumably, Clements is in a position to put in a hefty plug for his buddy "Happy."

Whether he will and what Johnson does about it, time will tell.

Meanwhile, "Happy" is continuing to put out the old line that carried him far for a long time. To a group clustered around him in the lobby of a leading capital hotel, the Kentuckian mellifluously proclaimed, "I'm just a country boy trying to get along."

"Well, you sure are doing mighty well at it," chortled one listener.

"Happy" joined heartily in the roar of laughter.

Question Box

(We invite questions on economic and law proper functions of government which will not injure any.)

QUESTION: "Destructive criticism helps no one. Constructive criticism builds a strong country. The braying jackass tells me all the faults, but has offered no means of how to solve them. What would you do if you had the power to correct our problems? This is what we need to know."

ANSWER: If we had the power to correct all problems by political action, we would resign. No one should have that much power. The answer is not original with us, but was credited to Ludwig von Mises, one of the top economists in the world today.

Some may condemn a statement criticizing what is considered an immoral act as "destructive." But if one objects to murder or robbery, is that destructive? Nearly all of the Ten Commandments are negative, but would one say they were destructive? The Bill of Rights includes negative statements of prohibition against those in government. Would they be considered destructive?

A great deal of the strife of today comes from attempting to solve human problems with some form of political action. Different groups want to get their own "good men" in office so they can get laws adopted to compel people to do what the members of the groups believe is best. They are not content to try to persuade themselves first, and others later, that the way to solve human problems begins and continues with individual self-control and self-responsibility.

William Graham Sumner, who was professor of political science at Yale from 1872 to 1909, in "What Social Classes Owe to Each Other," wrote the following:

Backstage Washington

New Mystery of the Abandoned Car — Probers Anxious to Question Walter Jenkins

WASHINGTON — A new Walter Jenkins mystery is intriguing Senate investigators.

It involves an apparently abandoned automobile registered as belonging to the LBJ Company, which operates the Austin, Tex., TV-radio properties owned by the President's family, and a receipt for gasoline bought with Jenkins' credit card the same day the car was found.

Other details of this still-unexplained affair — in the hands of the Senate Rules Committee, which has subpoenaed Jenkins for questioning in its protracted on-again-off-again Bobby Baker investigation — are as follows:

Early last month, U.S. Park Police found an unoccupied automobile on a shoulder of the Baltimore-Washington expressway. The car was in good condition, and there was no indication of an accident or any other untoward incident. Everything pointed to its having been deliberately left by the roadside.

A police check of the license tags revealed the startling fact that the auto was owned by the LBJ Company.

Capping this jolter was the discovery of a receipt in the glove compartment indicating that Jenkins' credit card had been used to purchase gasoline that same day — presumably for the car.

The Park Police immediately notified the Secret Service and were told to await further instructions.

Within an hour, the Secret Service directed the Park Police to leave the car where it was, to see that nothing in it was disturbed, and that one of its agents would shortly come and get it.

That was the last seen or heard of the auto, or anything about it.

Inquiries brought the information that the "matter is considered closed," and that the White House wanted nothing further said about it.

WILL HE OR WON'T HE? — Members of the Senate Rules Committee plan to question Jenkins about this strange episode.

Reason is that at the time it occurred the investigators were trying to locate the one-time close assistant of the President to serve him with a subpoena to come before them for questioning.

Jenkins' doctors had advised the committee he was still too ill to testify.

The probers are as much in the dark as before as to what he will do at their hearings scheduled to resume next week. They have no word whether he will or won't appear, and if he does, whether he will talk.

The American Way

By HARRY BROWNE
For centuries, men have labored to define the word justice. Such inquiries have been based upon the premise that "injustice occurs when an individual escapes paying for his crimes." Only at stake, then, was the question "What constitutes a crime?" — so that one could know what crimes had gone unpunished.

Overlooked, however, is the simple fact of life that individuals do suffer (or benefit from) the consequences of their own acts.

We live in an orderly universe. There is no cause without an effect; just as there is no effect that did not result from a cause. Nature's laws are firm and immutable; they cannot be broken.

If an individual decides that he doesn't like the universe the way it is, he can choose to ignore reality. But if he acts in accordance with the way he wishes life were, he will pay for his unrealistic attitude inevitably.

Natural Consequence
The individual is responsible for his every act — whether or not he chooses to be. He will experience the natural consequences for whatever he does. If he recognizes reality and lives accordingly, he will benefit. If he flouts reality, he will suffer.

Moral individuals — sometimes lose confidence in their own morality. They see irrational individuals apparently profiting by unrealistic behavior. There seems to be no point in living by truth.

But the irrational people will eventually pay for their own unreality. The length of time required for the reckoning depends upon how many other people try to protect them.

The space is not available here to detail the many ways that nature punishes those who breaks its laws. But the pattern, in general, is this: One man acts irrationally. Another man, in sympathy, attempts to cover up for the first man's mistakes. When both of them begin to suffer for their dual mistake, others may rush to the rescue.

Sooner or later, a government tries to transfer the costs to those who do respect reality. But the government soon finds itself in a shaky position as a result. So a larger government takes on the responsibility — and so on, until the cost has reached proportions that are too large to escape.

What has happened? The individuals, by attempting to transfer responsibility for their own actions to a larger framework, have simply put that larger framework in jeopardy. Eventually, an entire civilization collapses because some or all of the individuals therein have tried to evade reality.

No Escape
The individual never escapes the consequences of his own acts — he simply delays the consequences temporarily. Ultimately, he will pay the price — either when those who have protected him give up and desert him, or when the protectors themselves collapse.

If an individual fails to live up to his own responsibilities, thinking the government will provide for his "social security"

Veterans Administrator William Driver, under questioning by Senators Clinton Anderson and Joseph Montoya, D-N.M., irate over the proposed closing of the VA hospital in their state, admitted he plans to build a new one in Texas. Retorted Montoya, "It simply does not make economic sense to close down serviceable facilities in an area of great need in order to build a new hospital elsewhere."

As for being seen from the top an I, well, there is really only room up there to stand on one foot. And the structure being so tall and thin, it shivers under every vagrant breeze.

Many of these I - people, if you will notice, are forever crashing down into the passive voice where it is very hard to be heard, and on hoisting their I upright again, frequently forget which end was up.

So much for forthrightness. And as for timidity, quite the contrary. The first person plural is in the greatest tradition of journalism — Brown, Lardner, F.P.A., Steffens, Bolitho, Davis.

Are We 'I' Or Is 'I' We?
NEW YORK (NEA) — The big problem with being yourself in public, we have discovered, is that you are constantly asked to explain just who do you think you are anyway.

Generally we do not answer this question, although we admit it is really the only one worth asking.

Properly defined, "just who do you think you are?" explains everything else, including just what do you think you are doing and just where do you think you are going.

But the question of identity, we have found, is much more incendiary in the answer than in the asking.

We once saw a terrible fight on a crowded bus when one fellow asked another, "Just who do you think you're pushing around?" and the other answered, "I don't know. What's your name?"

As we always say, what is the good of making friends with anybody unless it's the kind of person you have to know very well to dislike?

We have gone into this matter in some detail because another who are you letter has come in. And as the writer of it has made a rather telling point about the whole problem of identity, we felt he warranted not only an answer, but also some public consideration.

Mr. Melvin Wolfson of Yonkers, N.Y., writes:

"Ward Cannel would do well to discard the first person plural 'WE' in favor of the simple and forthright 'I,' assuming his opinions are his own and not those of a committee."

(Other) professions present their views boldly in the first person; why is Cannel so timid?

Well, we have given this question a great deal of thought over a long span of time. You do not take up a life in the plural or mere whim, as a resident of Yonkers must realize.

To the naked eye, there is no contest between I vs. we. I is a third as wide, twice as tall, wonderfully slender, and stylish. You can be seen from much farther away when you stand on an I.

On the other hand, we is fat and dowdy and, except initially, is no taller than any other word in a thought. It is also terribly unwieldy.

A plural person cannot complain to the dentist, "Our tooth hurts," or in fact, reflect on his person in any way. "Ourself" is plain nonsense: "our selves" will get you put away for good.

But as Emerson once remarked, a wall can also be a door. Not complaining about yourself is a great timesaver. Not being larger than the thought is great space-saver.

And as for being seen from the top an I, well, there is really only room up there to stand on one foot. And the structure being so tall and thin, it shivers under every vagrant breeze.

Many of these I - people, if you will notice, are forever crashing down into the passive voice where it is very hard to be heard, and on hoisting their I upright again, frequently forget which end was up.

Center Wrap-Up

George Smith, Director
Pampa Youth and Community Center

By GEORGE SMITH
The Center will offer new swim lessons starting February 15 in the form of Intermediates and Swimme's Intermediates will meet at 4 p.m. and the Swimmers at 5 p.m.

Classes meet February 15 through March 3 on Monday, Wednesday, Thursday and Fridays. Chris Patton, Center WSI will conduct the classes. Anyone interested in enrolling may come by the Center and do so now. Center members are enrolled free of charge while non-members are charged a $3 fee.

Center memberships can be purchased at anytime the Center is open. The rates are for individuals $5 for six months and $8 per year. For family memberships they are $12 for six months and $20 per year. An individual must be 10 years of age in order to have an individual membership. Children younger than 10 years of age must be carried on a family membership.

The Center's two basketball leagues are still shooting away at the basket and after several weeks of firing the smoke has lifted and the standings have settled down considerably. In the men's league Richard Drug has outlasted all comers during the first round and lead with a perfect 7-0 record followed closely by First National Bank 6-1. In the women's league La Bonita Beauty Queens pushed out in front and lead with a 6-1 record followed by Panhandle Angels and Pampa Warehouse at 4-3. La Bonita has virtually grabbed championship honors.

The Second Annual Top Texas Basketball Tournament for men will be held this year on March 22-28. This tournament is open to all teams in this area that are semi-pro and receive no pay for playing. Entry deadline is March 17 at 12 Noon and the entry fee is $15 per team. A total of 12 players may be carried on the rosters and must be turned in by the first game. Trophies will be awarded to the first, second and third place winners. Send entry fees to P.O. Box 1164, Pampa, Texas. KPND is defending champ.

Many of our volleyball fans did not read last Sunday's paper and I will re-ent. Volleyball will start April 5 with a March 31 deadline for entries. A men's league, women's league and a mixed league will be formed as is needed. There must be a minimum of four teams in each league to have such. Entry fees are $12 per league.

Mixed league rules will have one change in it, in that the tipping of the ball must be alternated from male to female and vice versa. This is a change from last year when anyone could hit the ball. The full basketball standings are:

Men's Division

Richard Drug 7-0, 1st National 6-1, Cock O Walk, 5-2, Stinnett 5-2, W-B Pump 4-3, Jaycees 2-5, Hi - Land Pharmacy 2-5, Mobeetie Remco 1-6, Celanese 0-7.

Women's Division

La Bonita 6-1, Pampa Warehouse 4-3, Panhandle 4-3, White Deer Insurance 0-7.

Lamb County in the Texas Panhandle is almost square, measuring 30 miles from east to west and 34 miles from north to south.

The party at St. Ann's Home at Panhandle was a fine success although a new group had to be recruited due to illness. Mrs. F. A. Hukill drove her car and took Mrs. Joe Wells, Mrs. George Benham and Mrs. Jess Beard to assist with the entertainment and refreshments. Valentines were given each patient and refreshments of Hawaiian Punch and valentine cookies were served. The Red Cross takes a party to Panhandle each fourth Tuesday of the month.

A Standard Class in first aid will be continued at the Little Scout House of Kingsmill during the next week. The classes will be held Tuesday, Thursday and Friday mornings at 9:30 a.m. Persons wishing to take the first aid course are invited to register with the Red Cross office and a class will be set up for you. Fourteen persons registered at the Little Scout House for the standard course. Mrs. Laura Converse is the instructor for the Red Cross.

Buddy Wilkerson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Wilkerson, has completed his 50 mile swim. J. A. Slaughter Jr. was monitor for Buddy and watched him as he swam the 440 yards each time for his work on the swim. The Red Cross give a 50 mile button and swim patch to each person who completes his work for the "Swim and Stay Fit" program.

This program was begun in 1950 by our deceased president John F. Kennedy in Red Cross Water Safety. If adults or young people wish to go into the program, they are invited to come by the Red Cross office and get their card for this work.

The following persons have given clothes for the Welfare Index storeroom during the past two weeks: Golden Eagle Store, Mrs. W. A. Waener and Mrs. Lucy Miller. The Red Cross works very closely with the Welfare Index and takes all garments, dishes and other household materials to the storeroom at the Plainsman Motel.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Stafford are doing good work in helping with the storeroom. If anyone has good used clothes, clean, please, bring them to the Red Cross office or take them to the Plainsman Motel for persons in Pampa who have a need for them.

Lutheran Church Has Open House

The Zion Lutheran Church is having an Open House today to enable all friends and well-wishers of Rev. Arthur A. Bruns to attend and to say farewell to him.

Rev. Bruns has been pastor of Zion Lutheran for over 15 years, and is one of the oldest pastors in point of service of any denomination in Pampa. He is accepting a call to Shulenberg, Tex.

He will give his farewell sermon at 11 a.m., and the Open House will be held from 3 to 5 p.m.

Rev. Bruns took over Zion Lutheran in its building stages, and is responsible for its present standing.

Governor Given Rare Pony by Pampa Rancher

By RAY RODGERS JR.
Governor John B. Connally received an unusual and rare type of present the past week following his inauguration from a Pampa rancher.

A trailer pulled up on Connally's ranch near Floresville with an eight-month-old Gallicina pony in it. The small fawn colored pony was a gift to the governor from Earl (Skipper) Clayton of Pampa. Clayton owns the "Little Seminole Ranch," 20 miles southeast of Pampa.

The small Gallicina horses are fairly rare to the United States. Clayton owns one of the few herd in Texas.

The Pampa oil man said he presented Connally, who is a long-time friend of his, one of his stud colts because of the recent interest shown by the governor in the horses.

Clayton became interested in the breed of horses after he observed them during a vacation visit to the Yucatan Island, just off the coast of Mexico in 1959.

He said he was so impressed with the stamina of the little ponies and their remarkable conformation that he had a pair of them flown to Larado and brought by trailer to his ranch. The Gallicina stands only about 12 hands tall and weighs about 500-700 pounds when full grown.

The horse stands about the size of a shetland, but resembles a miniature Arabian horse.

Today, Clayton has only 9 of the horses, but has had his herd up to 15 in the past.

One amazing feature about the special breed of horse is that, unlike from regular horses, they can and usually do foal at anytime of the year.

Clayton said the horses are strong enough to carry a full-grown man comfortably, but are best suited for pulling wagons or horse-carts.

William Huddle painted most of the portraits of the early Texas presidents and governors seen in the Capitol.

Former Pampa Youth Makes Honor Roll

Ricky Morton, one of the 10 former Pampa boys who are now making their home at Ca. Farley's Boys Ranch near Amarillo, has been placed on the semester honor roll of the Ranch's own fully-accredited 12 grade school.

Ricky has made a lot of progress since he came to the Ranch, and has done consistently well in his school work," Cal Farley said.

Ricky came to the ranch in April of 1964, and lives with his house parents, a young man and his wife with children of their own who live with 36 boys of different ages in one of the modern homes that have been donated to the Ranch. They, more than anyone else, help to provide to youngsters with a home much like the average American family.

The other Ranchers from Pampa are Jimmy and Roy Martin, Hans Mills, Tommy Sargent, Stanley Burns, Timmy Sells, Bobby Shaw, Wayne Turner and Jerry Van Sickle.

Founded in 1939 by Cal Farley, former world champion athlete and successful Amarillo businessman, the ranch has provided a home for more than 1,600 homeless and troubled boys. In practically all cases, they have been reared and cared for without any expense to the parents or any governmental agency.

New Fad, a Shower, is Going Down the Drain at Colleges

By PAUL DANISH
PHILADELPHIA (NEA) — A new fad is going down the drain at the nation's institutions of higher learning.

No one is sure why it started — perhaps because of public decision of unwashed college students — but for today's undergraduate happiness is a 24-hour shower.

As nearly as anyone can tell, it all started when Steven Sher of American International College in Springfield, Mass., took a 15-hour, 41-minute dousing and proclaimed himself the man who took the world's longest shower bath.

No institution that prided itself as a citadel of academic excellence could let such a challenge pass. Within a day the faucet was grabbed by Bob Pemberton of the University of Kentucky, who spent 16 hours washing himself to bring the title to Lexington.

It didn't stay there long, or so it appeared. A Yale University law student reportedly took an 18-hour sprinkling for the glory of the Eli. This turned out to be a hoax, the ultimate proof that a new fad had arrived.

The University of Kentucky swallowed the Ivy League story, anyway. Into the storm leaped Larry Kenham, an 18-year-old freshman. In 24 hours, nearly 2,000 gallons of water were estimated to have poured over his hide.

University officials, nervously eyeing the water meter, were hard put to explain the new phenomenon. Apparently most were quietly hoping that it would go the way of goldfish swallowing, bed pushing and telephone booth packing.

It will, might, As Kenham was emerging from his ordeal, Garry Boggs, another Kentucky freshman, brushed his teeth for 10 1/2 hours to establish a world's mark.

And a cartel of students at the University of Colorado played a pinball machine for over 6 hours on one nickel, winning 245 games and racking up over 300,000 points.

But for Kentucky, it was too good to last. Just as a university official was saying that if the fad continues "we might have to establish some regulations" a stunned nation learned that a sophomore at Berkeley had brought the record to the University of California with a drenching that lasted 33 hours, 33 minutes and 33 seconds!

The new world's champion said that he did not feel that he had unjustly deprived the university of its water pressure, since he rarely takes showers normally. "They must owe me at least 33 hours' worth," he said.

But even the University of California's students, who do not give up easily once they set out to get something, could not hope to hold the title indefinitely.

At least 23 Texas streams are known as Indian Creek.

Miami Hosts Pampa In Twin Bill

By MIKE McHONE
The Miami High Senior Class will benefit money-wise, and the fans are expected to benefit thrill-wise and laugh-wise tomorrow night when Pampa meets Miami in a doubleheader.

The first game, at 7 p.m., will pit the Pampa "Castoffs" against the Miami Faculty, the second game will have the Miami Stars against the Pampa Newsboys.

The Castoffs are the remnants of the old Pampa Newsboys, who played charity games for fun, but were replaced by a team of former high school and college stars when a real team turned out to be playing serious basketball.

The Castoffs are made up strictly of employees of the Pampa Daily News, and are guaranteed for a minute in their futile efforts to score. Coached by City Editor Ron "Double" Cross, the Castoffs feature Chico "Midget" Ramirez, Mike Velasquez and Long Larry Wingert, as well as Miami's favorite son, sports editor Jeff Cohane.

Pitted against them are a team of aged and out-of-shape team members and young and uncoordinated non-basketball playing seniors. Leading the team will be Superintendent Weldon Snodgrass, the famed hook-shot artist. Science teacher Charles Wardrup, sixth-grade teacher John Shearer and Ag teacher Vernon Cook rounding out the team will be seniors Doug Talley, Russell Maddox, Joe Grantham and Eddie Wilson. Grantham and Wilson have joined the team particularly to get a crack at Cohane, who has heckled Grantham's managing and Wilson's sportswriting. "He may have hit 40-foot shots at Lefors, but he'll bounce 40 feet when we get through with him," vowed Wilson.

The night-cap will see the best players in the area rounded up to meet Cohane's gang of former college and high school stars. Coach Lawrence Overcast has not yet announced his starting lineup, but it will include himself, a 6'4" former college great, and junior high coach Bill Thomas, 6-0, another standout cager.

The Newsboys will be headed by two former junior college players, ex-Harvester 6'4" Gary Sikes and 6-1 White Deer all-state Carroll Russell, as well as former Harvester Charlie Snuggs and Bobby Price, Vega All-district Ralph Meixner and a number of ex-Pampa Shockers including Teddy Bird, Mike Bridges, Gerald Sikes, Ronnie Oler and Larry Daniels and Lefors' Bill Nichols and Lightning

Coleman. Referees for the first game will be Big Ray Guerrero and Lloyd Seitz. Although seniors, the pair have been warned by Cohane to be fair or they would never get another writeup. Officials for the second game have not been announced. Members of the senior class and senior cheerleaders will root for the faculty, junior will cheer for the Newsboys. Sophomores and freshmen are being threatened by both sides.

McGowan In Lucky International Lead

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Little Jack McGowan, rolling in pressure putts for birdies on three of the last four holes, grabbed the undisputed lead in the Lucky International golf tournament Saturday with a 54-hole score of 207.

Firing a three-under-par 68, McGowan held a one-stroke lead over lanky Bud Holscher, who thrilled the big crowd at the ninth hole by bagging a once-in-a-lifetime double-eagle on the par five hole.

McGowan's performance produced the first individual leader since the tourney started. There was a five-way deadlock the first day, and two men tied for the lead at the halfway mark.

But the field still was closely bunched. Former British Open champion Bob Charles, the lefthander from New Zealand, had a 71 for 209; and deadlocked at 210 were Mike Souchak, Gardner Dickinson and George Archer. McGowan was even-par 36 going out and appeared to be headed out of contention when he bogeyed the 10th hole after hitting a trap.

aldson, Sharron Mackie, Barbara Vickery, Martha Barrett, Ann Coyle, coach Lynn Prysock. Not in picture are Cheryl Reeves, Norma Reed.

Bowling

Not the highest score of the week, but one of the most gratifying was Ida Stansill's 180. This week saw a lot of good scores, and oddities too. Accounting and Area I pinned a medal on Tom Burns, Leon Whitely, and John Hahn, for the many splits they had and picked 3.7, 10; 5-9; 5-7; 8-9; 6.7, 10 — everything in the book, and at the same time Jack Lallemond came thru with a 622 series. In a Classic League there was Bill Workman, Ron Havens, and Gil had 88, 89, 90 — in the sixth frame, and 106, 109, 1 — in the seventh. Shorty Chisum isn't going to bowl so late next week and Dr. Joe Gates is going to stay up later to welcome visitors like Bennie Waller, who stopped in around midnight. Bennie now lives in Oklahoma.

In spite of all the elaborate preparations to get a dramatic ending for TV in the National BPAA All Star Tournament, the final series lacked an exciting climax, with Dick Weber taking his third All Star title, with Jim St. John the loser. It was more fun watching Eddie Dupy getting her 213, and a 536 series, and also watching the Junior Doubles Champ John Clark and Stan Cable defeating Don Thompson and Max Barnhill. The Southwestern Bell Tel.

team was getting in shape for the tournament, bowling a nice 3108, but why did they have to do it against us? I don't know what happened to Harold McCann a 171 first and a 69 last. Lonnie Harmon's 229, 205, 205 was a wee bit more consistent. Juaneil Harris had a downstairs stairstep — 143, 142, 141, on a 140 average. How's that for consistent bowling. Nancy Skinner also had a downstairs stairstep, 15 steps at a time. Fred Vespstedt deserves a pat on the back for his determination in the Junior League. I'm sure Diana Quarles will remember her new name pretty soon, and start signing it on the league sheets, instead of her old one. Was it the nice weather or something that happened Thursday night that brought Tiny Harmon out for a practice session. Muri Tennyson ran an upstairs stairstep — 120, 128, 136 — not good, but at least it was getting better.

One of the big thrills of this week was Jean Stevens first 00 — a 514, she is still looking for that first 200. We had some more real good scores and series.

Among the men's hi scores were Pat Patrick 232, 645; Lon Harmon 229, 634; James Evans 237, 628; Jock Lallemond 622;

Bobby Price Gets OU Baseball Prize

NORMAN — Blazing Bobby Price, former Pampa High Pampa Rebels and Pampa Colts baseball pitcher, received a full college baseball scholarship from Oklahoma University baseball coach Jack Baer Friday. Price, a mid-term graduate of Pampa High, will start the Spring semester at OU tomorrow. He will major in History.

Price played for the Harvesters in 1963 and 1964, compiling a 1-2 record in 1962 and 1963. In 1963, he was all-district, with a 2-0 record, compiling 16 straight no-hit innings of relief ball.

In 1964, he pitched for the Pampa Colts semi-pro team, compiling a 6-5 record, being named All-League and pitching for district champion Borger in the state championship.

Known as "Blazing Bobby," the 6-1 lefthander was one of the fastest hurlers in the area, and led both the Rebels and the Colts in strikeouts.

Future Nurses Work for Career Aids

Sixty Pampa High School girls wearing red and white striped dresses are found in the corridors and byways of Highland General Hospital each Saturday learning about nursing as a profession and helping hospital officials by doing some of the more routine work.

The girls, called "Candy-stripers" by many, are members of the local Future Nurses Club. The organization is associated with the Texas Association of Future Nurses and the National Association of Future Nurses.

Miss Vermell Meador, R.N., supervisor of nurses, schedules each of the members for a two-hour shift on Saturday. During their work period the girls serve meal trays, help make beds, answer lights, help move patients in wheel chairs and do many other routine tasks.

By participating in club activities and working at the hospital the girls learn more about actual tasks of a nurse and other of the para-medical professions. Through the program, the students offer a service to the community and develop leadership qualities.

Field trips for the club include a tour of St. Anthony's Hospital in Amarillo and the girls will attend a Career Day Clinic to be held at Amarillo in April. Programs covering various phases of the medical profession are also scheduled as highlights for club meetings which are held every two weeks.

The officers for the current school year are as follows: Judy Hardy, president; Rita Scholl, vice-president; Mary Faulkner, secretary; Norma Reed, treasurer; Judy Watkins, chaplain, and Glenna Brown, reporter.

The club is co-sponsored by the Gray County Medical Auxiliary and Pampa High School. School sponsor is Mrs. Elaine Ledbetter and the Auxiliary sponsor is Mrs. J. F. Elder.

Jobs performed by the girls looking into the possibility of a career in nursing are pictured in the five accompanying photographic views.

Sunday Passing Show

By PEGGY JO ORMSON

THE NUMBER OF talented persons to be found in our town is amazing. Among the latest additions to the "Talent" list is Ruth Huff, Mrs. George King, Mrs. Loyal Davies, Mrs. Yarnon Hall and Joyce Doggett. New paintings done by the first four mentioned are on display in the Hospitality Room of the Citizens Bank while Joyce, daughter of the Gerald Doggetts and a senior art major at Texas Technological University, Lubbock, has some paintings on display at the Coronado Inn. Pampa Art Club sponsors hanging of the paintings by local artists and invites art lovers to view them. The pictures are changed regularly. Pampa's own Buddy Cockrell has done it again. Buddy wrestled a steer in 4.1 seconds last week for the best mark at the National Western Rodeo Stock Show in Denver.

WEATHER DOESN'T halt ardent Harvester basketball fans. On the Friday evening the Harvesters played Borger many fans were seen dining before the game at Sutphen's, Borger's famous barbecue meeting place. Some of the fans seen were Viola and Rufe Jordan, Bill Cooper, Melvin Cardwell and the J. R. Postons. Overheard two Harvester mothers saying that the basketball games are harder on them than the sons. Mrs. Ed (Sandy) Williams asked Mrs. J. C. (Thelma) McWilliams how she managed to keep from having heart failure when son Kenneth's goal in overtime won a crucial game. Sorry to hear that Mrs. Alta Stenard broke an ankle last week. However, the injury isn't keeping Alta down. She has her ankle in a walking cast. Mrs. A. D. (Olive) Hills recently flew to Dayton, Ohio, to be with a sister who underwent serious surgery. Olive is home and quite happy over the favorable medical report. Just learned that Jean and Harold Homer had bought a home at 1221 Hamilton. Jean is the daughter of the late Fred Hendricks, former resident of Pampa, who was transferred to Sarnia, Canada, by Cabot while Jean was still in high school. It's nice to have her back in town.

AN ATTRACTIVE representation from Pampa was seen attending the style show and luncheon for cattlemen's wives in Amarillo Monday. In one group was Mrs. George (Frances) Cree, Mrs. Frank (Pebble) Carter, Mrs. Bob (Claudine) Vail and Mrs. Buster (Helen) Carter, who were the guests of Ouida Locke of Miami whose husband Ellis, is a member of an old and prominent Panhandle ranching family. Helen Carter is the Locke's daughter and was one of the hostesses for the affair while husband, Buster, is an official of the Amarillo Stock Show. At another table was Mrs. Fred (Minerva) Hobart, also a member of a prominent ranching family, with guests Mrs. Gene (Virginia) Green, Mrs. Clyde (Laura) Fatheree and Mrs. Clinton (Fanny Fern) Henry. The style show and luncheon, an annual affair, was held at the Amarillo Country Club. Over 200 Panhandle women were in attendance. It is one of the highlights of the Amarillo Stock Show. Pebble Carter is leaving next week by train to be in Washington, D.C. on Feb. 6 for Susan Daly Rogers' wedding and will stay with daughter, Mrs. Ron (Phoebe) Gooding, who has a new baby and a new home. Pebble says each of the Walter Rogers' six children will have a part in the wedding with Susan's four brothers serving as groomsmen and two sisters-in-law as attendants. Susan's 16-year-old sister, Mary Katherine, is delighted that she will get to have her broces removed before appearing as a bridesmaid. Of course the bride's lovely mother, Jean, and distinguished father, Walter, will assume traditional roles for the occasion. As many Pampans know, Susan has grown up to be quite a beauty and a very talented one. She is head bridal consultant at Saks Fifth Avenue's Washington store, and has planned every detail of her own wedding. Those of her Panhandle friends who will be in attendance should be in for quite a treat.

FIRST METHODIST Church was a beehive of activity a week ago last Friday evening. A bridal shower for Maynette Loftus was held in the parlor from 7:30 to 9 p.m. while the wedding of Glenda Converse and Curtis Didway was performed in the chapel at 8 p.m. Hostesses for Maynette's shower were Mmes. H. H. (Lois) Boynton, Elmer (Louise) Fisher, Glen (Mildred) Stafford, W. L. (Madeline) Rowntree, Jess (Ethel) Clay, Faye Coleman, Roy (Mildred) Sullivan, J. T. (Lola) Richardson, and Kermit (Josephine) Lowson. A white net-cloth with beaded wedding bells over pink was the basis for a beautiful pink and white table in the bride's chosen colors. All the swirling snow outside didn't keep the guests away nor chill the party within. Mrs. Mae Boone, the honoree's grandmother, is reveling in all Maynett's parties. Even Mrs. Tabor (Thera) Scott, future sister-in-law, made it over from Amarillo. A few other guests were Mrs. Glen (Julie Marie) Dawkins, Mrs. Avie Bell, Mrs. H. L. (Alvera) Boone, Mrs. Margaret Dial, Mrs. Mary L. Jones and Mrs. Troy F. (Lois) Teel. Mrs. A. D. (Olive) Hills was seen talking enthusiastically to Mrs. C. E. (Helen) Axelson at the shower about organizing a Daughters' of American Revolution group here. The flu or pneumonia bug has hardly missed anyone. Mrs. J. E. (Gus) Murphy was hospitalized along with many others. Robert E. Lee Junior High had as many as 99 students out one day this past week and Josephine Lawson and Ethel Clay because of the bug, had to miss Maynette's shower at which they were scheduled as hostesses.

A BRIEF VISIT with some people just seems to make the day brighter. This is the case when the ever pleasant Mrs. S. T. (Georgia) Holding stops by the News office now and then with news of St. Paul Methodist Church's WMS Charity Circle, which Georgia serves as president. Guests in Pampa recently were Mr. and Mrs. Knox Kinard of Dallas. Kinard was the former superintendent of schools here. Mrs. Homer (Mary) Johnson was missed in town last week when she went to Dallas where son David underwent an appendectomy. David is staying with his grandmother, Mrs. Daisy Foster, and attending school in Dallas. Kathy Larsen, daughter of Emma and Glen Larsen, was seen home at mid-term from West Texas State University, looking cuter than ever with a new upswept hairdo on her blonde tresses. While on a business trip to Dallas last weekend, Dorothy and Arthur Teed combined business and pleasure and visited friends, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Carlton Mead, and the group toured S. S. Miramon Museums there. They viewed a world treasure, the "Million Dollar" Chinese Imperial Jade Screen being presented as a civic and cultural measure in Dallas, and four other magnificent galleries of Oriental and Far Eastern art and saw the John F. Kennedy Shrine, only one of its kind in the world. The group also "voyaged through 14 countries," all displayed with over 5,000 nationality dolls in native costumes and colorful dioramas and saw the rarest and most priceless privately-owned antique doll collection in America in the Hall of Mirrors. Ben Carlton Mead, the Teed's host, is a Dallas artist. Mr. and Mrs. Claude Clay are the proud parents of four-week old Michael Allen, who was born with two lower teeth. After visiting the dentist Michael was told he could keep the teeth. Grandparents of the "advanced" baby are Mr. and Mrs. Bradford Clay. Visited briefly with Mrs. Kenneth (Velma) Lord of Amarillo last week and after knowing Velma and identical twin sister, Pampa's Thelma Bray many years still am confused by the pair. Velma and Thelma, daughters of the V. N. Osborns, grew up here as did Velma's husband Kenneth.

Loftus, Scott Wedding Vows Pledged in First Methodist Church Evening Rites

Mrs. John William Scott and Frances Maynette Loftus

Miss Frances Maynette Loftus and John William Scott pledged wedding vows last evening at 8 o'clock in First Methodist Church. The bride, lovely in a formal-length gown of white peau de soie, was given in marriage by her uncle, Hershel Louis Boone. The sheath styled gown featured a portrait neckline and long tapered sleeves ending in petal points over the hands and a detachable chapel-length train. Beagle beads and seed pearls embellished the neckline and front panel. Her finger-tip veil of English silk illusion was attached to a queen's crown of beagle beads and pearls. She carried a white Bible topped by a cascade arrangement of 111 of the valley and stephanotis centered with a white orchid. Bridal attendants were Mrs. Edward Fancher Jr., matron of honor, Miss Glennette Dawkins, bride's cousin, maid of honor, Mrs. Emmett Tabor Scott Jr., of Amarillo, bridegroom's sister-in-law, and Mrs. James Berry Coward III of Hasler, sorority sister of the bride, bridesmaid. The bride attendants were dressed identically in formal-length gowns of pink peau de soie designed after the bride's gown with sheath lines and front panels. They wore pink illusion butterfly veils attached to princess crowns of pink and silver braid and carried cascade bouquets of white gladioli.

Mrs. Boling Feted At Birthday Party

SKELLYTOWN (Spl) — Mrs. Kelly Boling of the Skelly Crawford Gasoline Camp, north of Skellytown, was honored Tuesday afternoon with a surprise birthday party in her home. Hostesses were Mmes. Hank Grayum, C. E. Dehls, B. Munns, Jerry Lovinggood and Jim Crawford. A white tiered cake with red roses and blue border, mints and coffee were served to Messrs. and Mmes. Joe Dawson, C. E. Dehls and Jerry Lovinggood; Mmes. J. Meeks, Lela Lawson, B. Hamilton, A. D. Reece, Robert Germany, Herman Mayfield, K. S. McCabe, S. T. Cowan, Hardy Boyd, Frank Hewitt, Don Carter, Ira Colley, H. Munns and Donald Holt, all from Skellytown; Mmes. G. Mason, Matiel Markel, H. Greager, Thelma O. Bryant, Frank Murrell, All Peets and Jeannie Karst, all from Borger; and Mmes. Charles Fleetwood, J. T. Crawford, Ada Collins, George Gray, Al Shubring, Hadda Moore and Bob Cowan, all from Pampa. Boling retired Jan. 1 from the Skelly Oil Co. after 23 years with the company. The couple moved this week to Modesto, Calif., where they will make their home. They have two sons and families living there.

Serving his brother as best man was Emmett Tabor Scott Jr., of Amarillo, while Robert Forrester, Dan Lynch and Ted Lynch, all of Amarillo, served as groomsmen. Seating the wedding guests were Edward Fancher Jr., Jeff Neely, Clifford Craig, Fred A. Weathers, Jerry Chapman and Steve Weir, ushers.

Lighting the cathedral tapers was Jimmy Sanders. Little Miss Elizabeth Fancher, dressed similar to the bride in white, as flower girl carried a basket of rose petals, while Master Edward Fancher III, dressed similar to the bridegroom, served as ringbearer.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Loftus was attired in a floor-length three-piece costume of pink and silver brocade accented by a matching mesh lace pill box coil and matching accessories. She wore a white orchid corsage. Mrs. Scott selected a floor-length two-piece ensemble fashioned of off-white silk with matching accessories and a pink orchid corsage. Pampa Country Club was the scene for the reception held following the ceremony. (See LOFTUS, Page 16)

OUR THANKS TO THE REGISTERED NURSE

Although she is so very often working in the background, the Registered Nurse fully merits your appreciation. She is a most important and valued member of the health team. Her job at the right hand of the physician calls for a high degree of knowledge and competence.

Just as physicians and pharmacists must study long years to become registered, so must nurses prepare themselves both in the class room and on-the-job in clinics and wards. We feel proud that many Registered Nurses rely on our pharmacy for their pharmacy needs.

YOUR DOCTOR CAN PHONE US when you need a medicine. Pick up your prescription if shopping nearby, or we will deliver promptly without extra charge. A great many people entrust us with their prescriptions. May we compound yours?

Roundup Delegates Meet in GS House

Delegates and alternates to attend the National Senior Girl Scout Roundup were on hand for the third training session at Pampa, Jan. 22 and 23. The Girl Scouts spent the night at the Pampa Scout Little House. The Quivira Girl Scout Council annual meeting was held Friday evening with a banquet at which these girls and those taking the leaders in training course were special guests.

The most important item on Saturday's agenda was the election of a patrol leader and assistant patrol leader for the delegate patrol. Miss Pamela Purcell of Borger will serve as patrol leader and Miss Elmenette Branigan of Memphis will be assistant patrol leader. The girls also elected Miss Cheryl Hensey of Fritch as recorder.

Discussion was held for the patrol demonstration. There were not enough members of the alternate patrol to elect any leaders and plans to do so at the next meeting were made.

Mrs. Joyce Esley was a special guest for the weekend. Scouts Regina Hoover and Elmenette Branigan of Memphis, Lalynda Sherman of Turkey, Lynn Wright, Cheryl Hensey, and Sharel Hawkins of Fritch, Pamela Purcell, and Janey Esley of Borger, Susan Davis, and Margaret Ann Brewer of Pampa attended the January meeting.

Mrs. Kitchens Is Honored at Party

A surprise birthday shower was given for Mrs. Nell Kitchens by the ladies of the Church of God in the Fellowship Hall of the church last week.

As Mrs. Kitchens was seated in the guest of honor chair, the group sang "Happy Birthday." A prize for guessing the correct amount of beans in a jar was received by Mrs. Montie Austin. A time of fellowship was enjoyed as Mrs. Kitchens opened the gifts.

Refreshments were served to the honoree, Mrs. Kitchens and Mes. Billee Laramore, Anne Teague, Bessie Wright, Novella Gee, Hettie Tschirhart, Montie Austin, Bertha Cox, Lue Gifford, Faye Riley, Dora Watkins, Georgia Nicolaison, El-dora Willis, Ruby Harris, Barbara Willis, Margie Ruff, Margaret Free and Reva Rigby.

DMF Auxiliary Will Have Salad Supper

Doherty Men's Fraternity Auxiliary of Cities Service Gasoline and Production will have a salad supper at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday in Cities Service Club Room, west of the city.

A business session and social hour will follow the meal. Hostesses for the event will be Meses. G. H. Elmore, C. N. Hughes, M. D. Miligan and James O. Keene.

Social Is Enjoyed By B&PW Club

Pampa Business and Professional Women's Club met Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in City Club Room for its regular monthly social with Mrs. Marguerite Nash presiding as hostess and Mrs. Dovie Breeze, co-hostess.

President, Mrs. Ruby Crocker, opened the meeting by asking members to repeat the Pledge of Allegiance.

A colored film on home decorations suggesting color schemes in interior decorating, was shown by Bill Workman, manager of Sherwin Williams Paint Co.

Mrs. Leona Willis presented a vocal selection accompanied by Miss Debbie Harris.

Guests attending were Mrs. Merdella Chapman and Mrs. Virgie Westner.

Refreshments were served by Meses. Lewis and Helen Sprinkle, with the patriotic theme being carried out in favor of the American flag inserted in a gum drop base and holding a booklet reading "Pay Your Poll Tax."

Background music was furnished by Mrs. Rance.

Stick small pieces of macaroni into icing on cakes as "vases" to hold tiny flowers on special occasions.

WMS Circles of Hobart Baptist Meet for Bible Study

WMS Circles of Hobart Baptist Church met the past week in the homes of members for business sessions and Bible study.

The prayer calendar was read followed by prayer for the missionary given by Mrs. John Gikas. The mission book, "Winds of Change," was taught by Mrs. M. B. Smith. During the program, a recording of Mrs. John Zinn being interviewed by Mrs. Smith was played telling of her trip to Del Rio during the Latin America Crusade. The closing prayer was given by Mrs. C. E. Powell. Twelve members and one new member, Mrs. M. B. Carey, were present.

Students Will Be Presented in Recital

PIANO STUDENTS -- Shown left to right are Steve McDaniel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Coffin, Rickie and Randy Land, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Zebbie Land, who will appear this afternoon in the piano recital of students of Mrs. Fidelia Yoder.

This afternoon in the Education Building of First Presbyterian Church, Mrs. Fidelia Yoder is presenting piano students in two mid-year recitals. The first group will perform at 2:30 p.m. and the second at 4 p.m.

Both programs will include students of all ages and both solo and ensemble numbers will be presented.

Of special interest will be the selections played by Sylvia and Diane Graham, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Graham, whose solos were the contest selections for the Amarillo Symphony Auditions held in December in Amarillo.

In the first recital the "Mozart Concerto in A" will be played by Sylvia, and in the second group Diane will present the "Haydn Concerto in C." Orchestral parts will be played by Mrs. Yoder on a second piano.

Other students playing at 2:30 p.m. will be Becky Thompson, Connie McBroom, Tad Hoepfner, Suzanne Bond, Lisa Laycock, Gail Duncan, Charlotte Bankston, Steve McDaniel, Cynthia Derring, Debbie Bray, Kay Upshaw, Debbie Ferrel, Karen Gikas, Gail Wilson, Mary Porter, Rickie Land, Daniel Bond and duets by Mackie and Glenna Hudgins and Janie Murphy and Gail Green.

In the 4 o'clock recital the following students will play: Geneva Davis, Anita Williams, Wayne Bruce, Phoebe Skelly, Gayla Cockburn, Randy Land, Glenna Hudgins, Brenda Terry, Gail Green, Janie Murphy, Joyce Fischer, and duets by Lisa Laycock and Suzanne Bond and Randy Land and Steve McDaniel.

bride's table, covered with a pink tulle cloth over pink peau de soie with side drapes was centered with a silver and crystal epergne holding an arrangement of gardenias and stephanotis. The bride's five - tiered wedding cake, topped with pink wedding bells trimmed with white pearls and a silver punch service, appointed the table. The bridegroom's table was covered with a green peau de soie cloth trimmed with white and silver braid. A silver fountain punch bowl and three - tiered spice cake appointed the groom's table.

Presiding at the punch service was Mrs. Joe Wilson and Mrs. Jeff Neely Jr. and Mrs. James Presly Sanders, aunt of the bride, served the wedding cake. Attending the guest register was Mrs. Jeanne Willingham. Other members of the house party included Mrs. Fay Coleman, Mrs. Peggy Lynch, Mrs. Edward Parsons, Miss Helen Kelly, Mrs. Elmer Fisher, Miss Mellie Bird Richey, Mrs. Ham Luna, Mrs. Bill Campaigne, Mrs. Fred Cary and Mrs. Glen Dawkins.

For traveling to New Mexico, where the newlyweds plan a skiing trip, the bride changed into a three - piece suit of hot pink and light pink mohair complemented by matching accessories and lifted the orchid from the bridal bouquet. Upon their return, the couple will be at home in the Colonial Arms in Amarillo.

The bride is a graduate of Pampa High School and Texas Christian University with a Bachelor of Fine Arts Degree. She is a TCU Ex. Alumni of Alpha Gamma Delta social sorority and Fallis Players. She appeared with Mia Slavinski in "Casa Mana," was a member of the Fort Worth Civic Ballet Company, Amarillo Civic Ballet Company and American Association of Teachers of Dance. The bride was finalist in the Miss Fort Worth Contest of 1960. The bridegroom is a graduate of Amarillo High School and Amarillo Junior College. He attended the University of Texas and West Texas State University and is an alumni of Sigma Phi Epsilon. He is presently employed with the brokerage house of Schneider, Bernet and Hickman of Amarillo.

Pre-nuptial courtesies extended to the couple included a brunch at Pampa County Club hosted by Mmes Bill Champagne, David Triplehorn, David Roupp and Miss Carol Triplehorn; a treasure hunt and dinner hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Jim Whittenburg and Mr. and Mrs. Rick Klein in the Amarillo home of the Whittenburgs; a luncheon and bridge given in Amarillo Country Club by Mrs. Dan Lynch; a tea given in the Amarillo home of Mrs. Clary Gardiner Feierabend with Mrs. Edward Fancher Jr., serving as co-hostess; a brunch given in Pampa Country Club by Mrs. Jess Clay and Mrs. George Hrdlicka; miscellaneous shower given in First Methodist Church Parlor with Mmes. J. T. Richardson, Fay Coleman, Jess Clay, Elmer Fisher, Kermit Lawson, Glen Stafford, Winton L. Rowntree, Roy Sullivan and H. H. Boynton serving as hostesses; a spinster party given by Mrs. Edward Fancher Jr., in her Amarillo home, and the rehearsal dinner hosted by the bridegroom's parents in Coronado Inn.

Try using styrofoam balls, cut in half, for pin cushions. Covered with velvet, or other material, they add a decorative touch to a sewing room, bedroom or bath.

Open-House Held By Groom Couple

GROOM (Spl) -- Mr. and Mrs. Bob Newton held open-house at their new home in Groom Jan. 17. In the receiving line were Mr. and Mrs. Newton, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Cranmer and daughter, Sidney, and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Wheeler of Amarillo.

Mrs. John L. Witt and Mrs. Maurine Davidson had charge of the guest register and 211 guests viewed the new home.

Refreshments were served from a table with appointments of crystal and milk glass. The serving table was centered with a gold stand which held an arrangement of pastel grapes flanked by gold candles.

Others assisting with the house party were Mmes. C. M. Ham, Marvin Morrow, Lee Kirk, Allen Knorpp, Henry Merrick,

Several spring fashion collections feature the look of the elongated waistline, most frequently accomplished through belts of self - fabric or narrow string of leather riding down around the hipline.

Make candles by preparing a wick from heavy cotton cord and rolling a sheet of beeswax around it. Give different shapes and sizes by rolling lengthwise, crosswise or diagonally.

Meets in Church

GROOM (Sp) — Woman's Society of Christian Service met recently in the Methodist Church parlor. Mrs. Crim Goodlett gave the devotional. Mrs. B. H. Cooper was in charge of the program "Hearing God Speak Through the Bible," assisted by Mrs. M. W. Reynolds.

Mrs. L. M. Ruthardt, president, was in charge of the business meeting.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Van Earl Steed and Mrs. Fred Burgin to two visitors, Mmes. Tom Kirby and J. L. Cramer, and members Mmes. L. M. Ruthardt, M. W. Reynolds, Glynn D. Harrell, Cleo Schaffer, Curtis Schaffer, C. A. Morrow, Crim Goodlett, O. P. Blackwell, E. R. Hess, Margie Emery, B. H. Cooper, Carlos Roberts, Roy Ritter and O. R. Major.

Figure the cost per serving when buying meat, the U. S. Department of Agriculture advises. Meat with lots of bone or fat allows one to two servings per pound; moderate bone or fat, two to three servings per pound; no bone and little fat, four servings per pound.

Program at Varietas Study Club Meet

Varietas Study Club met Tuesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Sherman White, 610 N. Frost. The club president, Mrs. R. W. Lane, presided over the business session.

Mrs. Luther Pierson presented a program on "Texas Fashions." Mrs. Pierson began with a quotation from Psalms: "She maketh herself coverings of tapestry. Her cloth is silk and purple," and stated "that since we have everything at our fingertips to make fashion a success, the vivid note of perfection can be achieved. Good tailoring is an accomplished feat. Proportioning is all. It starts at the ground and works up foot to knee, knee to waist, waist to collar, determines hemlines for everyone. The going day length is short. We will see wider hems. After 6 o'clock an ankle length. Three-fourths of the dresses will be shifts, loose fitting. Shoulders are close, armholes are high, sleeves long. "Skimp coats and small suit jackets are still going strong. Newest is the stack jacket suit.

Fabrics are smooth, supple and tight-woven covers and worsteds, fabrics that will give a sense of the bodies outline and grace. We will see the lightness of lace and bias drifts of chiffon flowing away from the body. "Irish crocheted lace blouses, in colors, tiny ruffles and skirts are back.

"Furs go to all lengths. There are brief shrugs, fingertip and regular dress and floor length in all obtainable furs.

"Three-piece wool and crepe costume suits in tones of blue and green, blouses are floral over plain suits, midnight black and moss green are shown for high fashion. We also see checks, plaids and herring bone stripes, fully lined with taffeta. Leading colors are dove, buff, white stone, apricot and navy. Strictly tailored clothes are narrow and tall looking. Coat collars are often missing. Tunic line is back. Some dresses have dolman and batwing sleeves. Wheat and creamy white are color leaders for spring. Black and white prints are leaders too. Navy adds its touch to the fashion message each spring."

Mrs. Pierson concluded by saying "all women want to look pretty and chic. So face up to the realization that there is no solution for certain situations, but there are practical solutions to some situations. Don't get bogged down in despair. Act our age and intelligence, shorten our dresses and lengthen our knowledge, and put things in proportion."

Following the program refreshments were served to the 20 members attending.

Lefors Lady Feted
LEFORS (Sp) — Mrs. W. T. Cole was honored with a going away coffee recently in the home of Mrs. W. C. Breining. Mrs. Cleve Johnson acted as co-hostess.

The serving table was covered with a pink linen cloth and centered with a fruit arrangement in milk glass container. Floral napkins accented the crystal appointments in which blueberry muffins, apricot balls and cranberry bread were served with hot tea and coffee.

Following the refreshment period, Mrs. Cole was presented with gifts from friends. Present were Mmes. J. M. Davis, McDowell, W. R. Combs, Walter Pflug, A. T. Cobb, Joe Watson, Ben Vaughn, M. F. Tibbets, J. T. Roberson and Keith, Arlie Carpenter and her sister, Mrs. G. C. Henderson of Norwalk, Calif., the honoree and the hostess.

A conference on Legal Implications of Professional Nursing Practice will be held Feb. 10 in Amarillo from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Coronado Inn.

Nathan Hershey, an associate professor of law at the University of Pittsburgh and writer of several books concerning the law and the nurse, will be guest speaker.

All registered nurses, are invited to attend the conference. The registration fee is $3.50 for members of Texas Nurses Association, and $5 for non-members and guests. There will be an additional charge of $3 for the luncheon.

Hershey's luncheon topic will be, "The Nurse Who Works Alone."

Dear Abby....

Sunshine Isn't Found
In the Climate Alone

DEAR ABBY: My wife is a little nutty. It runs in her family. Her father shot a postman fifty years after the Civil War ended thinking he was a Union soldier. I love the south, especially Florida. My problem is I can't get her to move down here permanently. I am retired and we could well afford it. We have a place up north, too, but a person has to be crazy to stay up there all winter and freeze when they could sit around in Florida and do nothing but take it easy. My wife is a big church worker up north. She can't preach, or teach or sing. I don't know exactly what she does for them except to keep the membership up, but she's associated herself with a bunch of zombies who look more dead than alive to me. I've come to the conclusion that all women are 100 per cent nutty by the time they reach 60. My wife is 66. What do you think of my situation?

LOVES FLORIDA
DEAR LOVES: I can understand why a woman wouldn't want to leave her church work to sit around all day and listen to her husband tell her how "nutty" she is. Climate isn't everything. You had better put a little sunshine into your personality if you want your Missus to join you. Otherwise you deserve to sweat it out in Florida alone.

DEAR ABBY: I am bewildered. My six-year-old came home from school with a list of things his teacher wanted for Christmas. A bottle of very expensive perfume was circled, which meant that was the gift she expected from my son. I had embroidered a handkerchief and was planning to send that until this "list" showed up. I told my husband about it and he said I shouldn't send anything. I talked to some of the other mothers in my son's room and they were all going along with the teacher's requests because they feared the consequences if they didn't. I telephoned the principal and told her what I thought of a teacher who would pull a stunt like that, and she said teachers were hard to come by and they had to put up with a lot. When the grades came out, my son got an "Unsatisfactory" in "Cooperation" and I want to know what you think I should do now?

BURNED UP
DEAR BURNED UP: If the teacher actually sent home such a "list" and the principal was too timid to censure her for it, both should be called on the carpet by the Board of Education. However, don't hang your protest on the boy's bad mark. He may have had that coming anyway.

DEAR ABBY: I am 45, have wrinkles, a big nose, varicose veins and I'm bow-legged. So what? We don't have much money, but I'm thankful for the roof over my head, a husband who cares, two fine sons and many good friends. A woman my age wrote and asked you please to tell her the truth about face-lifting. She said she wouldn't mind the pain or spending any amount of money if only she could look like she did ten years ago.

It's too bad she can't tear herself away from her mirror long enough to see people with real problems.

Abby, what that lady needs is not a face-lifting, but a posterior-lifting. If she doesn't mind the pain, I will gladly perform the operation.

HAPPY, HOMEELY

Candlelight Ceremony Read in Odessa
Unites Marjorie Reece, Carl Nicholis

Mrs. Carl Edward Nicholis
...nee Marjorie Ellen Reece

Thirty-five branched candelabra with palms and greenery and white satin pew markers decorated the scene for the marriage of Miss Marjorie Ellen Reece and Carl Edward Nicholis at 7 p.m. Jan. 23 in First Methodist Church of Odessa.

Dr. J. Joel Stowe Jr., officiated for the double-ring vows. Pat McCreeles, organist played a program of prelude music and accompanied Judy Reece, sister of the bride, soloist, as she sang "Whither Thou Goest" and "Because." While the couple knelt at the pre-dieu, the organist played the "Lord's Prayer" and the minister gave the prayer.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Reece of Odessa, former Pampans. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Donald A. Nicholis of Guyton, Okla.

Given in marriage by her father, who escorted her to the altar, the bride was wearing a formal gown of white peau de sole, fashioned with fitted bodice, designed with a scalloped decollete neck line etched with appliques of re-embroidered alencon lace and seed pearls, long sleeves covered with lace, tapered to calla points at the wrists and fastened with small self-covered buttons. Across the back of the bodice, the lace was enhanced by tiny tucks. The bell-shaped skirt with flat paneled front was given extra fullness at the sides by reversed pleats; formed a bustle back which fell into a chapel train with bow and streamers. Appliques of lace and seed pearls were scattered over the skirt and train.

The bride's shoulder-length veil of imported silk illusion was fully encircled by lace and fell from a satin peau de sole cluster of four cabbage roses touched with seed pearls. She carried a bridal Bible covered with a cascade of white roses encircled with feathered carnations. Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls, gift from the bridegroom.

During the processional the bride presented her mother with a single white rose and during the recessional she presented the mother of the bridegroom with a single white rose.

Miss Judy Reece, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, Miss Vici Breneman was bridesmaid and Mrs. Jerry Hines was matron of honor. The attendants wore gowns of willow green de-lustered satin, fitted bodices and elbow length sleeves and sweet-heart necklines, the skirts were bell-shaped, and at the back of the waist was a small bow with hem length streamers, fashioned after the bride's dress. The maid of honor wore a floor-length gown while the gowns of the other attendants were street-length. They wore matching shoes, and their head pieces were one large cabbage rose with petals of green tulle. They wore white gloves and carried a single white rose.

Janice Beard was flower girl. She wore a dress of white lace trimmed with a pink satin sash and bow, and a pink rose bud head piece and carried a white basket filled with rose petals.

Leonard Nicholis, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were Jim Passmore of Houston, and Jack Griffin of Wagoner, Okla.

The mother of the bride wore a gown of light blue lace with matching accessories, and the bridegroom's mother wore a gown of pilot blue with matching accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of pink rosebuds.

A reception was held in the church parlor immediately following the ceremony. A white net cloth trimmed with white satin over white taffeta covered the bride's table. The cake was

'Blue Skies, Clear Waters' Program Is Heard by Civic Culture Club Members

Members of the Civic Culture Club met at the home of Mrs. H. W. Waters Tuesday and heard how local voluntary community action, rather than federal programs, can best solve the problem of air and water pollution.

Mrs. K. A. Sorenson introduced William H. Nichols of Celanese Corporation as guest speaker. Nichols said "With the growth and concentration of population and industry, air pollution has become a concern of the community. Air pollution is by no means a new problem. The records show that as early as the fourteenth century it was a concern in a few unusual situations.

"The problem of controlling air pollution is complicated by atmospheric and topographic conditions. The combination of these two elements presents, at times, a condition where the dispersion of air pollutants is impossible and extreme air pollution is experienced. The classical example of these conditions is the Los Angeles smog."

"Celanese has recognized its community responsibility in air pollution and has been surveying and planning for the installation of equipment to reduce air pollution. In Nov., 1964, Celanese installed an incinerator for the disposal of air pollutants at a cost of approximately $70,000," Nichols concluded.

"Clean water," Mrs. Sorenson said, "just doesn't happen to be there in our faucets, lakes or rivers.

"It is there, ready for each of us to use as much, as often as we wish because scores of trained engineers and scientists have researched for years to improve upon its purity for these purposes.

"And, let's not forget that each drop of water that is used is disposed of — down a sink drain into a sewage treatment system, or flows right back into a body of water that is used for the purpose of disposing of waste products. And what happens then?"

"Hopefully, if the stream itself is incapable of assimilating the wastes, the municipal sewage treatment plant is adequate to reduce the job to proportions which the stream can handle. The Pampa citizens three-tiered and decorated with small white sugar bells. Atop the cake was three large bells made of satin and decorated with pearls and tulle. Green punch was served from a silver punch bowl. The bride's bouquet was placed at the base of the silver candelabra. Mrs. Leonard Nicholis registered the guests.

Other members of the house party were Mrs. Dudley Keith, Miss Katherine Keith and Mrs. John Beard.

For traveling, the bride changed into a suit of royal blue with matching accessories. For the wedding trip the young couple went to Corpus Christi. After Feb. 1 they will be at home (See CANDELIGHT, Page 19)

Mrs. Jordan Hosts
Charity Circle Meet

Mrs. Neal C. Jordan was hostess to the Charity Circle of St. Paul Methodist Church in her home at 2 p.m. Wednesday.

Mrs. S. T. Holding gave the opening prayer and held a short business meeting, during which members reported a total of 20 visits to shut-ins since the last circle meeting in November.

Announcement of the study to be held in the church in February with Mrs. R. A. Newton as study leader, was made.

Mrs. Holding opened the program, "Prayer and the Life Within" by discussing the prayer life of John Donne and St. Augustine.

Mrs. E. N. Franklin gave a talk on the prayer life of astronaut Scott Carpenter.

Mrs. Kit Autry used as her subject, "We stand in the Shoes of a Shut-in," followed by group discussion.

Next circle meeting will be held Feb. 24 with Mrs. Franklin as hostess and Mrs. Jim Hopkins in charge of the program.

Refreshments of fruit-cake and coffee were served to Mmes Dallas Bowsher, Jim Hopkins, Art Hefflin, Kit Autry, E. N. Franklin, Blanch Jordan, C. O. Fitzgerald, G. C. Crocker, S. T. Holding and Mrs. Neal C. Jordan.

Ivy leaves can be made into unusual place-setting cards for a dinner party. Write names on leaves with a white ink.

Gray County Home Demonstration Council met in regular session recently with Mrs. Jack Howard, chairman, leading the club prayer.

To open the new year, Mrs. J. Lloyd Laramore, vice chairman, read the standing rules of the council, and asked that they be allowed to remain as read. Next were the reports of the standing committees and recommendations were voted on.

Plans were completed for a salad luncheon on Feb. 9, at 10 a.m., sponsored by the recreation committee.

The auditing committee's report was heard.

Miss Lou Ella Patterson, Home Demonstration agent, reported that a class in basic sewing has started and another will be starting soon.

Presidents of the clubs gave monthly reports on any accomplishments and all meetings during the preceding month.

Attending were Meses. Marvin Rowan, J. Lloyd Laramore, Lester Reynolds, N. R. Lowe, Jim Cantrell, Boyd Brown, B. M. Rogers, Nolan Cole, V. Smith, Jack Howard and Miss Lou Ella Patterson.

Those present were Meses. Hannah Keeter, Beadie Brown, Pete Fields, Willie Ragsdale, Jodie Helm, Frank Burgin, Alice Ward, Thelma Pool, Corrine Wheeler, Minard Henderson and the hostess.

El Progresso Club Hears 'Romantic Music' Discussed at Tuesday Meeting

Mrs. J. G. Morrison presented the program on "Romantic Music" to El Progresso Club members when the group met in the Morrison home at 2101 Christine Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Veri Hagaman, vice president, presided over the business session.

Mrs. Morrison began, "For the music lover, the Romantic Movement is of particular interest, since practically nine tenths of the music we hear today was either inspired by it or came under its influence."

"Beethoven, Weber, and Schubert encompassed the transition from the Classical style to the spirit of the new century. Mendelssohn, Chopin, and Shumann saw the full unfolding of the Romantic Movement. Wagner, Liszt, Berlioz became the prophets of mid-nineteenth-century Romanticism. Brahms, Tchaikovsky, Greig, Dvorak, Smetana, Cesar Franck, Moussorgsky, Rimsky-Korsakoff, Saint-Saens, Massenet, Gounod, Bizet, Verdi, Puccini, Elgar, MacDowell — these composers are of the Romantic Movement. One need not extend the list to make it apparent that for all practical purposes the general public of today still lives, musically speaking, in the Romanticism of the nineteenth century. And even after the twilight of Romanticism, when the interlude known as post-Romanticism bridged the gap between the nineteenth and twentieth century, the outstanding men, Schubert, Richard Strauss, Debussy, Ravel, Fala, and their contemporaries — still preserved in a new guise many of the influences of nineteenth-century Romanticism."

"If remoteness and boundlessness are Romantic, then music is the most Romantic of the arts. Its material-ordered sound and rhythm is almost completely detached from the concrete world of objects, and this very detachment makes music most apt at suggesting the flood of impressions, thoughts, and feelings which is the proper domain of Romantic art. Obviously only instrumental music — pure music free from the burden of words — can perfectly attain this goal of communicating emotion, instrumental music, therefore, is the ideal Romantic art. One of the most important developments in the Romantic Movement was that, under its influence, music moved closer to its sister arts, poetry and painting. Composers chose to tell stories, to paint scenes, and to convey general poetic idea and moods. Such literary and pictorial influences provided an enormous stimulus to the writing of program music — music, that is, with a story or synopsis attached to it."

"From the beginnings of the art, composers had often turned out musical imitations of birds, brooks, battles, and hunting scenes. It was in the nineteenth century, however, that the descriptive and narrative tendencies emerged to a position of general dominance in European music. For this reason, even though program music in no sense originated in the nineteenth century, it has come to be considered one of the most characteristic developments of the Romantic Movement in music."

The starting point for Romantic program music was Beethoven's Pastoral Symphony. Practically every composer of the Romantic era was, to a greater or lesser degree, writing program music, whether or not he publicly acknowledged it; and one reason why it is so easy for listeners to connect a scene or a story or a poem with a piece of Romantic music is that often the composer himself, perhaps unconsciously, was working from some such idea.

"Program music is to be distinguished from 'absolute,' or 'pure' music in which the composer attached no specific literary or pictorial connotations to his themes, but worked them out in purely musical terms. Thus, Beethoven's First Symphony or Mozart's Sonata in A major are examples of absolute music; Liszt's Faust Symphony, Tchaikovsky's Overture-Fantasy Romeo and Juliet are examples of program music. The distinction between the two types is often a subtle one. Naturally, all music tells something to the listener. However, if the composer has given the listener no extramusical clue as to what he had in mind when he composed the music, no literary or pictorial association, actual or divined, we may consider it absolute or 'pure' music. If, on the other hand, the composer indicates either through his title or through his remarks about the composition that he was influenced by or had in mind a definite literary, pictorial, or general poetic idea, we consider it program music." The speaker continued.

"Another area of conflict involved the relationship between the composer and his audience. The transition from relatively small, homogeneous, and cultured audiences for music to the huge, diverse, and relatively unprepared middle-class public of the Romantic period had already begun in the eighteenth century. The disappearance of individual patronage and the rapid growth of concert societies and musical festivals in the early part of the nineteenth century were signs of this change. The romantic composers, if they were to succeed, somehow had to reach the vast new audience; their struggle to be heard and understood had to occur in an incomparably larger arena than at any previous epoch in the history of music. Yet it is the Romantic period more than any other that offers us the phenomenon of the unsocial artist, one who feels himself to be separate from his fellow-men and who is driven by isolation to seek inspiration within himself. These Romantic musicians did not compose, as did their eighteenth-century forebears, for a patron or for a particular function, but for infinity, for posterity, for some imaginable ideal audience which, they hoped, would some day understand and appreciate them; either that, or they wrote for a little circle of kindred spirits, confessing to them those inmost feelings considered too fragile and precious to be set before the crude public of the concert halls."

Following the program refreshments were served to Meses. D. V. Burton, J. F. Curtis, Elmer Fisher, Veri Hagaman, Ben Hamilton, Mack Hatt, J. G. Morrison, Carlton Nance, Glenn Radcliff, Lonnie Richardson, Bruce Riehart, George Walstad and John Gill.

The new Mrs. Nicholis graduated from High School at Guymon, Okla. in 1960. She attended Oklahoma State University at Stillwater, Okla. and Frank Phillips Junior College, Borger. She received her degree in nursing from Odessa College School of Nursing and is a registered nurse at Medical Center Hospital, Odessa. She is a member of Alpha Nu Chi and Omega Nu Chi.

The bridegroom also graduated from Guymon, Okla. High School and Oklahoma State University and is now attending the University of Texas in Austin where he will receive his master's degree in Electrical Engineering. Nicholis was among the top ten scholars when he graduated from OSU and was on the Dean's Honor Roll. He is a member of Phi Eta Sigma, Eta Kappa Nu, Omicron Delta Kappa and Phi Kappa Phi.

On Jan. 22 the parents of the groom entertained with a rehearsal dinner at the Sands. The bride's maids luncheon was held Jan. 21 at the Shrimphoat and the bride was entertained with pre-nuptial courtesies at both Guymon, Okla. and Odessa.

The trend is upward — in both skirt and hair lengths. So reports the Helleen Curtis Guild of Professional Beauticians in a forecast of coiffure styles for 1965. The stylists predict that hair will be shorter, just above the ear lobe, as skirts go above the knees. Hair will be soft and lightly waved, there will be emphasis on the natural look, and simplicity will be the rule.

SLATER-SMITH — Mr. and Mrs. Joe H. Slater, 801 N. Wells, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Kay Donn, to Anthony Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Smith of White Deer. Vows will be exchanged March 6 in The Church of God.

AFS Student Peter Kaddoum Presents Program for Twentieth Century Culture

Mrs. N. D. Steele presided over the Twentieth Century Culture Club's meeting Tuesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. G. L. Craddock. Mrs. L. H. Hart was co-hostess.

After Mrs. Warren Hasse led in the club collect, Mrs. Steele introduced a new member, Mrs. Escal E. Brown.

Following a brief explanation of the American Field Service program by Mrs. J. R. Donaldson, the speaker for the afternoon, Jose Pedro (Peter) Kaddoum, was introduced by Mrs. E. E. Shelhamer. Kaddoum is Pampa's AFS student from Brazil.

Eighteen-year-old Kaddoum began by telling about his family. His father is from Lebanon originally and owns a cardboard box manufacturing company with his brother in Peter's hometown of Rio. His mother loves to cook and fixes Brazil's most popular foods often. These are black beans, rice, beef, french-fried potatoes and strong coffee. Peter, who is a handsome boy with black hair and snapping black eyes, said that his seven-year-old brother is a green-eyed blond.

The speaker began by stating, "In Brazil grade school consists of six years, Junior High is four years and High School is a three year institution. School begins in March and there are four months of vacation. Each state in Brazil has its own University and Rio has three Universities. Brazil maintains the co-educational system." Peter stated that upon his return to Brazil he intends to apply for college and plans to be a medical doctor.

According to the speaker, the main differences between the young people here and in Brazil is the fact that the Brazilians cannot drive until they are 18 and that when a person reaches the age of 18 they are required to vote. Otherwise, they are not allowed to do many things, among them being the right to run for any office. They have their main elections every five years.

"Rio is a coastal city of 725 square miles and has a population of four million people. Many thousands of people live in large apartment houses which are usually about 20 stories high. There are many manufacturing companies in Rio including the manufacturing of gold and the production of cars. Most people there prefer small cars and there are fewer cars there than here. Rio is the important economic center of Brazil. In winter the temperature never gets lower than 40 degrees and in the summer goes as high as 105 degrees. The beaches, theaters, and movies furnish Rio with its main entertainment," Kaddoum continued.

Jaycee-Ettes Hold Business Meeting

Fifteen members attended the Jaycee-Ette monthly business meeting recently in Reddy Room of Southwestern Public Service Building. Mrs. Jim Osborne, president, was in charge of the meeting.

Highlighting the program was the presentation of a certificate of recognition to Mrs. Morris Wilson for outstanding work done as the Jaycee-Ette chairman of the Jaycee Pancake Supper. The Supper was among several of the Jaycee's December projects.

Mrs. Morris reported on the Pancake Supper and on downtown Christmas decorations. The Jaycee-Ettes assisted the Jaycees who put up the decorations by serving coffee. Mrs. Glen McConnell served as co-chairman of this committee.

Mrs. Richard Cooke reported that approximately 30 children attended the club's children's Christmas party. Mrs. McConnell was chairman of this activity.

Other project reports given were the Jaycee shopping tour for underprivileged children by Mrs. Jake Webb, the Jaycee Christmas float by Mrs. James Weathered, and the Christmas dance by Mrs. Jules Fontaneau, entertainment chairman.

Mrs. Duggan Smith gave a brief summary of the fall board meeting, which she attended in Waco. Mrs. Jimmy Hayes reported on the typing of the Jaycee's records and recognitions. New yearbooks were given to the members by Mrs. Weathered, chairman of the project. Mmes Webb, Smith and Jim

Alton Thygeron Weds Ardith Moss in Rites Performed in Price, Utah Temple

Mr. and Mrs. Alton Thygeron and Ardith Moss

A beautifully detailed winter-time reception honored newlyweds Mr. and Mrs. Alton Thygeron at North Carbon Stake Center, Price, Utah, Dec. 26.

Mrs. Thygeron is the former Miss Ardith Moss, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur L. Moss of San Jose, Calif. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Thygeron of Phillips.

The couple pledged their marriage vows Dec. 26 at Mantle LDS Temple, where Reid H. Allred solemnized the ceremony. For her wedding and reception, the bride wore a gown of taffeta, designed with empire waist, elbow-length sleeves and chapel train. The bodice and slight train were self decorated for added interest. Her elbow-length veil cascaded from a small cap of seed pearls, a trimming which was further reflected in the bodice. The all-white bridal bouquet was fashioned of carnations, orchid and lily-of-the-valley.

The new Mrs. Thygeron was attended at her reception by her sister, Mrs. Robert D. Fiack, Salt Lake City, Utah, who was matron of honor; and by Miss Shanna Woodruff and Miss Pat Naylor, all of Price.

The attendants wore electric blue velvetene sheaths with empire waists, V-neckline, matching hair bows and white muffs. Mrs. Moss and the senior Mrs. Thygeron followed this color plan and also wore dresses of the same blue.

Best man was Kirk Wright of Provo, Utah. Ushers were Jay Wooley, Palo Alto, Calif., Bill Simmons of Palo Alto and Bev. an Chipman, Mountain View, Calif.

Guests attending the reception arrived to find the wedding party and receiving line standing before an archway flanked by two white fluted pillars, looped together with white bells and blue bows. Mr. and Mrs. Mark Hanson greeted guests as they arrived, and Shirley Barton Palmer attended the guest book.

Short white pillars graced with white feathered plumes set off gift tables and the refreshment area, where a three-tiered wedding cake of white with a cascading spray of blue roses from top to bottom, caught attention as it waited on a white-covered table. Four white tapers in crystal holders loosely embraced the cake, and after the reception, a cake-cutting ceremony took place.

In keeping with the holiday season, a pretty white-flocked pine tree was decorated with blue balls and graced the reception room. Each small serving table held a blue wedding ring centerpiece hung with lacy white bells and trimmed with silver leaves.

Following their honeymoon to Carmel, Calif., the couple are now at home at 4033 West Hamilton, No. 7, San Jose, Calif., where the bridegroom is teaching at Blackford High School.

The bride is a graduate of Carbon College, has attended the University of Arizona and Brigham Young University and currently is attending San Jose College. She has been affiliated with Pi Gamma Chi Sorority. Her plans include a May graduation with a degree in industrial psychology.

Mr. Thygeron attended Brigham Young University where he was affiliated with Tau Sigma and was a member of the BYU track team.

Before her marriage the bride-elect was given a miscellaneous shower on Dec. 23 by Mrs. Gary Palmer, Miss Sandra Scartezina, Miss Shanna Woodruff and Miss Pat Naylor at the home of Mrs. Palmer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Barton.

Program on Cancer Presented TOPS

A film on "Breast Cancer" and "Smoking" was shown, followed by a question and answer period conducted by Dr. Royce Laycock, to members of TOPS. Pampa Pound Pirates when the group met Monday evening in Southwestern Public Service Room.

The group made a donation to Texas Cancer Fund at the conclusion of the program. Mystery gift was presented. Mrs. Betty Gallagher and Glenda Strey won the fruit bowl for being the best loser.

A loss of 33 pounds and a gain of two pounds were reported by the club.

Three new members, Mmes. Eula Brown, Sue Ratliff, and Betty Gallagher, and 22 members attended the meeting.

Skellytown Rebekah Lodge Officers Are Installed by Pampa Installing Team

SKELLYTOWN (Sp) — Skellytown Rebekah Lodge met Monday at 7:30 p.m. in IOOF Hall with the noble grand, Mrs. W. S. Berry, presiding. Nine sick visits were reported and two cards were sent. W. S. Berry and Kenneth Fanning were reported ill.

Officers for the coming year were installed by the Pampa installing team with Mrs. Roy Kretzmier as deputy marshal and Mrs. Ruth Lawley acting as district deputy president.

New officers installed were noble grand, Mrs. E. E. Crawford; vice grand, Mrs. Jack Houston; recording secretary, Mrs. Bob Heaton; treasurer, Mrs. Floyd McCoy; past grand, Mrs. W. S. Berry; chaplain, Mrs. C. Coleman; right support to noble grand, Mrs. C. Hoskins; warden, Mrs. Kenneth Fanning; conductor, Mrs. John Simmons; right support to vice grand, Mrs. Lela Mathews; left supporter, Mrs. Tom Hill; inside guardian, Mrs. Muriel Nichols and outside guardian, Mrs. Gertrude Huckins.

Roy Kretzmier, past grand master of the IOOF Grand Assembly of Texas and Mrs. Kretzmier, past president of the Rebekah Assembly of Texas, from Pampa, were welcomed and introduced by the Skellytown Lodge.

Immediately following the installation, Mrs. Kretzmier had the new noble grand, Mrs. Crawford, come to the center of the hall. The Pampa installing team formed a living circle around Mrs. Crawford and each lady gave a tribute to the new noble grand and each presented her with a red rose.

Other Rebekahs from the Pampa Lodge helping with the installation were Mmes. Ruth Lawley, Bernice Ladd, Eula Killian, Goldie Bennett, Helen Lamberson and Hazel Franklin. Out-going noble grand, Mrs. W. S. Berry, was presented a past grand pin from the Lodge and Mrs. John Simmons was presented a certificate of perfection.

Mrs. E. E. Crawford was elected delegate and Mrs. Bob Heaton was elected as alternate to Grand Lodge, which will be held in Dallas in March.

Mrs. Hazel Franklin provided piano music for the installation ceremony.

The Pampa installing team members were each presented a gift from the Skellytown Lodge.

During the social hour the guests and members enjoyed a salad supper.

Attending from Pampa were Mr. and Mrs. Roy Kretzmier, Mmes. Ruth Lawley, Bernice Ladd, Eula Killian, Goldie Bennett, Helen Lamberson, Hazel Franklin and Ross Neugin. Attending from Skellytown were Mmes. W. S. Berry, Gertrude Huckins, E. E. Crawford, Clifford Coleman, Muriel Nichols, Bob Heaton, Floyd McCoy, Kenneth Fanning, John Simmons, Jack Houston, Clarence Hoskins, Tom Hill and Lela Mathews.

Foreign News Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst
One of the interesting political developments in Western Europe has been the rise of the Socialists led by Prime Minister Harold Wilson won last fall's British elections. After many years of opposition, left-wing Socialists participate in Italy's center-left government.

And in West Germany, for the first time Socialists led by West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt are given a chance of taking over the government in next year's elections.

It is also interesting that in both Italy and West Germany Socialist gains have been made at the expense of Christian Democratic parties which ruled for years but gradually became rent by factionalism.

Noteworthy also is the draft away from doctrinaire Marxism. In the Socialist parties of Western Europe, nationalization of industry is almost a minor issue.

Keep Close Ties
In all cases, ties with the United States remain firm. In their drive for election victory, West German Socialists have taken as their models President Johnson's concept of the "Great Society," the Swedish welfare state and the reform program of the British Labor government.

Gone is the opposition to rearmament, and in its place is solid support of NATO.

In the party's equivalent to a U.S. nominating convention, Deputy Chairman Fritz Erler pledged the party to depend upon the United States for defense of Europe and the reunification of Germany.

The party, he said, would "influence positively, not mistrustfully hinder" U.S. efforts to ease tensions with the Soviet Union.

Cautious Programs
At home, it advocates cautious reforms in education and social welfare programs.

But, says Willy Brandt: "We shall strive for stable prices and a sound deutch mark. We shall not touch private property."

West Germany's socialists base their hopes for victory on two factors.

A succession of local elections has shown theirs to be the party with the largest number of voters.

Four out of 10 German states have Socialist governments. So do 48 of 60 German cities.

The second factor may be the more important.

It is the factionalism among the Christian Democrats.

IT'S THE LAW

BATTLEGROUND OF JUSTICE
Truth emerges, Historian Macaulay once said, "when two men argue as unfairly as possible on opposite sides."

For the moment, let's disregard that word "unfairly." Otherwise, Macaulay put his finger on the essential nature of a typical modern trial. The courtroom is a battleground. The role of the lawyers is not lofty neutrality but frank partisanship. They are not only their clients' advisers but also their champions.

Technically, this is known as the "adversary system" of justice. Far from deploring conflict, it actually relies on it. Just as the haggling of buyer and seller tends to produce a fair price, just as the bickering of liberal and conservative tends to produce a good government, so does the clash of opposing counsel tend to produce a wise judgment. A judge can do his job properly, wrote the late Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes, "only with the light afforded by a real contest."

Of course, there are limits. The lawyer who argues "unfairly" — for example, by using documents that he knows are false — is flagrantly violating his duty as an officer of the court. He is also flagrantly violating the Canons of Ethics of the legal profession.

But that doesn't mean that opposing attorneys cannot, in all sincerity, offer sharply different versions of the same case to the judge. For facts are elusive. Driving which honestly seemed slow to the defendant motorist may have honestly seemed fast to the plaintiff pedestrian whom he knocked down.
