Blizzard Hampers Rescue Operations

STEWART, B.C. (UPI)—Rescuers today battled a mounting blizzard, gale winds and fog to reach 120 miners marooned in an avalanche-wracked mining camp on the remote British Columbia coast. Twenty other miners were buried in a snow-crushed bunkhouse.

A massive American-Canadian rescue operation was launched by air and sea but the worsening weather prevented anyone from reaching the camp in a frozen wilderness opposite the southern tip of Alaska.

Thousands of tons of ice and snow rumbled down from a 6,000-foot glacier onto the copper mine site Thursday, burying some miners, trapping others underground and destroying all but one of the camp's buildings. The 20 missing men were in a bunk house, which was smashed and buried by the cascading snow.

Free Trapped Men
Survivors, using only hand tools, managed to dig out all 40 men trapped for hours in an underground mine tunnel, but 17 were found to be seriously injured. The sole standing building was turned into a makeshift hospital.

An American helicopter pilot, Kenneth Eichner of Ketchikan, Alaska, was flying badly needed medical supplies to the Granduc Mines Ltd. Camp when weather forced him down on a glacier a mile and a half away. He was reported safe—at least temporarily.

Johnson, Murville Hold Talks Today

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson meets today with French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville in a conference expected to center on their conflicting views of Asian problems.

The White House meeting also was expected to touch on other major areas where France and the United States do not see eye to eye. But both sides agreed that the principal interest would focus on the Viet Nam crisis.

All's Quiet as Legislators Head For Celebration

AUSTIN (UPI)—A week that started with a roar in the Texas Legislature waned into silence today. Many of the legislators headed south for Laredo's George Washington's birthday weekend festivities.

In contrast to Monday, when the House Appropriations Committee unveiled its $3.6 billion money bill prepared in record time, Thursday was sluggish and mostly uneventful.

U.S. Warned Against Push

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviets charged today that the United States "is preparing fresh, still bigger military operations" against Communist North Viet Nam.

The charge was made by Red Star, the official newspaper of the Russian armed forces. It was published amid indications that Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin was preparing to deliver a major policy address to the Russian people.

Soviets Order Expulsion of Newsman

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union today ordered the expulsion of Baltimore Sun correspondent Adam Clymer on grounds he snatched a policeman in the face during a Feb. 9 demonstration in front of the U.S. Embassy.

Police picked up Clymer after the incident and took him to headquarters for questioning. He was held for more than six hours. The embassy protested the arrest and detention but today's expulsion order followed.

Troops Seize Power In Viet, Khanh Out

Airport Taken By Rebels

SAIGON (UPI)—Rebellious troops seized Saigon today in a coup against Lt. Gen. Nguyen Khanh, South Viet Nam's military strongman. Khanh ordered three battalions of paratroopers in to blast the rebels out of the capital.

Khanh told U. S. officials he ordered the loyal soldiers to move into the city to recapture military points held by the rebel commanders.

The rebels moved into Saigon about 1 p.m., taking control of the airport and other key points. A rebel broadcast earlier claimed that Khanh had been arrested and would be tried for "endangering national security and plotting a neutralist policy."

Khanh's threat to force the rebels out of the city came hours later amid reports that air force Commander Nguyen Cao Ky had gone to Bien Hoa airbase—a point from which his planes could participate in a counter-coup.

Ky used his squadrons of fighter-bombers to quash a similar revolt against Khanh last September.

Vietnamese air force Skyraider fighter-bombers roared back and forth over the city in the early evening after flares had been dropped over all of the military objectives in rebel hands.

The commander of the coup appeared to be Gen. Lam Van Phat.

Indications earlier were that Col. Phan Ngoc Thao was behind the revolt.

Gen. Phat was one of the leaders of the revolt which Ky and Khanh crushed in September. He was subsequently cashiered out of the army.

Khanh met twice this afternoon with Gen. William C. Westmoreland, commander of the U.S. forces in South Viet Nam, and told him firmly that he would retake Saigon.

Initial rebel broadcasts by Thao said he was acting on behalf of Lt. Gen. Tran Thien Khiem, South Viet Nam's ambassador to the United States in Washington.

Thao claimed the full backing of the Vietnamese armed forces for the attempt to oust Khanh and replace him with Khiem.

(In Washington Khiem said the overthrow of Khanh would help the war against the Communists and said he would return to Viet Nam immediately "if they want me.")

The U. S. Embassy here issued a statement saying that the coup was apparently not aimed at overthrowing the three-day-old government of Premier Phan Huy Quat.

"As we understand it, the coup leaders are not against the government but only against Khanh," the embassy statement said. "Therefore there appears to be no basic change in the government."

Khanh, as commander-in-chief of the armed forces and head of the powerful Armed Forces Council installed Quat as premier last Tuesday.

Thao, who served as press attache to Khiem in the Washington embassy until two months ago, said the coup had the full backing of the Vietnamese generals.

(Khien said later in Washington that although he was taken unaware by the coup, a move against Khanh was always possible because he was unpopular with some elements of the army.)

(Pressed for comment on Thao's statement that the coup (See TROOPS, Page 3)

THREE INJURED — Three persons were taken to Highland General Hospital early today as the result of a car-truck accident at the intersection of highway 60 and Price Rd. Two women and a young girl were injured in the accident. The driver of the truck was not hurt. An employee of a local wrecker service surveys damage to the car. (Story on page 3).

AGREEMENT HAS A BIG 'IF' IN IT

Pampa Merchants Will Attempt Sunday Closing Feb. 28

Approximately 50 Pampa businessmen met today and agreed to attempt the closing of Pampa stores and service establishments beginning Sunday, Feb. 28.

Practically all merchants at the hour and a half meeting in Jackson's Cafeteria signed an agreement they would close their business places beginning on that Sunday, if their competition also would close.

It was pointed out that there were two or three who were holding out and that they might not join in the Sunday closing plan.

A committee of three was named to call on merchants who were not represented at today's meeting.

Operators of several stores now open Sundays expressed themselves as willing to close on the "if" basis. That "if" related to the fact that competitors would have to agree to close, too.

Attorney John Warner addressed the meeting and explained existing laws on Sunday closing in Texas.

Senate to Settle Disability Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate today takes up a constitutional amendment aimed at settling any uncertainty over presidential disability.

The measure, riding a wave of support, was almost certain to pass despite the opposition of some who feel it is much too detailed for inclusion in the Constitution.

The proposal was sponsored by Sen. Birch Bayh Jr., D-Ind., and had administration backing. It would set ground rules for a vice president to take over as acting president when the chief executive was physically unable to carry out his duties. It also would provide for filling a vacancy in the vice presidency.

Reynolds Blasts Shippers, Longshoremen as Talks Fail

GALVESTON (UPI)—Federal negotiator James J. Reynolds, disgusted at the lack of progress in the West Gulf dock strike negotiations, Thursday said the shippers and longshoremen showed an "absolute lack of any sense of mutual trust."

Reynolds was obviously upset at not being able to bring shippers and leaders of the International Longshoremen's Association (ILA) together.

He said the contract talks were "worse than anywhere else on the Atlantic and Gulf Seacoast." Reynolds said the stalemate shows a "deep sickness in management labor relations in the West Gulf."

Reynolds, who has been trying to bring the warring factions together off and on since Jan. 10, said after the meeting that talks were still stalemated.

The West Gulf region—which runs from Lake Charles, La. to Brownsville, Tex.—is one of the last areas not to have dockworkers on the job. All the ports which have ratified a contract are working.

The latest settlement in what once was a nation-wide dock strike came Thursday at Hampton Roads, Va. Longshoremen there voted overwhelmingly to end their 39-day walkout and return to work as soon as possible. The vote was 300-2 to go back to work.

Hampton Roads was the last North Atlantic port to settle with shippers.

Assembly Hears Russian Expert

NEW YORK (UPI)—A new act of faith on the part of the Western world in the ultimate humanity and sobriety of its Soviet Communist adversaries has been urged by a noted authority on Russia.

George F. Kennan, former U.S. ambassador to the Soviet Union and to Yugoslavia, addressed the same act-of-faith plea to the Communist bloc.

There lies no hope at all, today, in imputing the worst motives to the Communists, he said, and he urged a basic revision in Western assumptions of Soviet military intentions.

Present assumptions implied a total inhumanity in Soviet leaders "not plausible even in nature," he added.

Kennan, now a professor at the Institute for Advanced Studies, Princeton, N.J., addressed an audience of nearly 2,000 in a privately sponsored convocation examining the requirements for peace.

The meeting, inspired by the 1963 "Peace on Earth" encyclical of Pope John XXIII, was called by the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions, a non-governmental United States organization. Kennan read his paper late Thursday. The four-day conference ends Saturday.

Kennan said the European policies of the Western coalition have had "sterile and unsatisfactory" results. He called for changes, the first of which would be re-examining of the primary reliance on nuclear weapons: He saw no reason why this reliance should be thought permanently essential to the defense of the United States or of Western Europe.

"I think we could usefully re-examine our acceptance of the principle of 'first use' in the employment of any and all weapons of mass destruction, and thus place ourselves in a position where we could proceed more effectively towards the eventual elimination of these weapons, and above all their delivery systems, from national arsenals.

The law provides that items sold on a Sunday if the store opened on Saturday cannot be sold unless the purchases are of an emergency nature.

Warner stated the penalty for first offense upon conviction is a fine up to $100 with a $500 fine or six months in jail for a second offense.

Eight members of the Pampa Ministerial Alliance attended today's meeting and expressed their appreciation for being invited and also complimented the businessmen present for their voluntary offers to close on Sundays.

Stores including those which sell food, variety items, department store items, drugs and other service establishments have been remaining open on Sundays in Pampa.

Final determination on the Feb. 28 closing date observance apparently will hinge on the committee's success or failure in getting the "holdouts" to join in the agreement.

Negro Marchers Shot, Beaten By Police During Demonstration

By United Press International
Police made a shambles of a Negro demonstration in the rural Alabama town of Marion Thursday night, bloodying at least 10 Negroes with clubs.

Commission on Civil Rights inquired into activities of the Ku Klux Klan and other racist organizations in a hearing here Thursday. A white union official told of being stopped on the road and beaten after criticizing the Klan for trying to interfere with integration of a Masonite Corp. plant at Laurel.

Another Negro was shot and white bystanders turned on news photographers, slugging them with clubs and fists and smashing their cameras.

Moultrie, Ga.: Federal Judge Robert Elliott Thursday scheduled a hearing for next Thursday on a petition aimed at closing the Negro high school here and putting the students into white classrooms. The petition followed the arrest of 354 Negro youths and parents who staged week-long protests over "deplorable" conditions at the Negro school.

The shooting victim, Jimmy Lee Jackson, 26, lay in "poor condition" today in a hospital in nearby Selma from a bullet wound in his stomach. He told hospital authorities he thought he was shot by an Alabama state trooper.

The riot at Marion, a town of 4,000 and one of the targets in Dr. Martin Luther King's civil rights drive in Alabama, followed an earlier riot by 300 Negro teen-agers in Brooklyn.

Club-swinging state troopers advanced into the nighttime demonstrators at Marion, after they had marched out of a church, and flailed away with their sticks.

Police picked up Clymer after the incident and took him to headquarters for questioning. He was held for more than six hours. The embassy protested the arrest and detention but today's expulsion order followed.

Negroes screamed and moaned before the onslaught which drove them back into the church where they were held, cursing, crying and praying for 45 minutes.

King wired Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach following the incident asking for federal protection.

Newsmen were escorted out of Marion by six patrol cars after Col. Al Lingo told them "some of these people want to get to you before you leave."

The riot in Brooklyn started as a demonstration demanding faster school integration.

It soon broke into a riot with teen-agers battling police with bricks, bottles and fists. Store windows were smashed along Flatbush Avenue, and young hoodlums shouted "Let's loot."

At least one policeman was beaten to the ground and 16 youngsters and seven of their adult leaders were taken into custody.

Dear Abby.... There's Still Time Honey To Become Sought After

DEAR ABBY: I am 16 years old and I have never been kissed. To tell you the truth, I have never even been on a real date. I am not bad-looking, but I wear glasses. I am beginning to wonder if maybe that isn't my trouble. I am not too shy, although I don't throw myself at boys, either. I can also carry on a pretty good conversation. At the rate I'm going, I'll be an old maid. Can you help me?

DEAR DATELESS: Eyeglasses rarely, if ever, cost a girl popularity. But they provide a handy excuse, which is easily seen through. For a girl to be popular, she must develop the kind of personality other people enjoy. The first step is to quit thinking about yourself and concentrate on making the other person comfortable.

DEAR ABBY: A man who would make a perfect husband has asked me to marry him. My problem is his mother. She dominates him. When he was a child, she divorced his father and devoted her whole life to raising Hal. I have to hand it to her. She did a fine job. He is beautifully educated, has a wonderful personality and is well-respected in the community. He's 41 and lives with his mother. He says when we marry, she will live with us. His friends tell me they wouldn't wish a mother-in-law like her on their worst enemy. She is not the affectionate, gushy type, but she seems to like me. (Hal says I am the first girl to pass her inspection.) She is 60 and in good health. Hal told me that he owes his mother "everything" and she will always come first. I love this man, but wonder about the chances of a good marriage.

A VIRGO
DEAR VIRGO: You're luckier than most women who are engaged to a Mamma's boy. He has told you in advance exactly where you will stand — behind his mother, which is a poor see-and for any wife. Don't marry him unless you enjoy feeling sorry for yourself.

DEAR ABBY: I have been having nightmares every night for the past few weeks. First, let me tell you that I am a 38-year-old wife and mother. My husband is reasonably good to me, and while my life isn't always moonlight and roses, I am by nature a happy, friendly, but rather quiet person. I keep dreaming the same terrible dream over again. I dream that I am in a big lake and I am an expert swimmer (which I am not) and I am with people who can't swim. They are drowning and I could save them if I wanted to, but I just let them drown and it doesn't seem to bother me a bit. What do you make of that, Abby? Please don't send me to a psychiatrist. He would think I am crazy.

HAVING NIGHTMARES
DEAR HAVING: It would appear that your dreams are the result of deep guilt feelings. Are you in a position to help someone, but have chosen to look out the window? If the nightmares persist, see a psychiatrist. I assure you he won't think you are "crazy."

CONFIDENTIAL TO PHIL:
There is, indeed, hope—for a problem honestly stated is half-solved.

Smart Teenager Stresses Assets

By ALICIA HART
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Beauty Editor

Girls today are primping and preening at an age when their grandmothers were still wearing pigtales. Many critics of parents of teen-agers say the adults are pushing their daughters into adult sophistication too early. Others point out that young girls are maturing physically much sooner than their mothers or grandmothers did and thus they aren't too young to take on the ABCs of beauty and fashion.

Whatever your parents' point of view, you will want to bone up on beauty techniques in your early teens. This doesn't mean learning to apply exotic eye make-up or set extreme hairdos that are too old for your youthful freshness. Your beauty routine now touches on giving the best care to your sensitive complexion and selecting flattering hairdos and clothes.

Experiment with hairdoes, for example, while shampooing your hair. However, be considerate of your family and don't tie up the bathroom for hours or pick a time when you know everyone is dressing to go out. Suds-sculpture yourself a new hairdo during the second lathering. The thick suds make the hair more manageable and you can swirl it into many styles to find a flattering one.

A clean skin helps promote a clear complexion. Most teenagers are faced with the threat of acne and two-to-four soap facials a day are recommended. A special skin freshener can be used which is formulated to return the skin to its natural acid-alkaline balance and thus protect against dryness.

Personal cleanliness is extremely important. Because of glandular changes, a teen-ager tends to perspire heavily. A good soak in the tub or a brisk rubdown under the shower will leave you fresh and refreshed. Be sure to scrub your hands, knees and elbows with a sponge or bath brush.

As-You-Like-It Club Has Canadian Meet

CANADIAN (Spl) — Mrs. J. L. Cleveland was hostess to the As-You-Like-It Club recently. Refreshments of lemon chiffon pie, cheese sandwiches, potato chips and a drink were served. Candy and punch were enjoyed throughout the afternoon.

Those present were Mmes. R. B. Ranson, Pat Murphy, W. W. Owens, P. D. Moseley, L. P. Ward, John Jones, Claudie Yokley, Lola Studer, Carl Studer, L. S. Hardage, F. D. Teas and Miss Lola Studer.

SKIN CARE — Complete cleansing is vital to a young woman's skin health. A skin freshener with pH control helps return the acid-alkaline balance necessary to protect against moisture loss and dryness.

DE Representatives To Attend Meeting

Two Pampa High School girls who are participating in the local Distributive Education program will represent Pampa at a conference in Houston March 5-6 at the Texas Association of Distributive Education Clubs of America.

The two local representatives, Carolyn Barrett and Brenda Thompson, will compete in contests held at the conference which will draw DE students from over the state. More than 1,000 teenagers are expected to attend the meeting and 200 affiliated chapters will be represented.

Carolyn will enter a business speaking contest while Brenda will enter the interview competition. Scholarships from several major companies will be offered to the outstanding DE majors attending the conference.

The conference will take place in the Rice Hotel with business meetings scheduled in the Grand Ballroom. Bud Hadfield, executive assistant to the Mayor of Houston, will be one of the featured speakers.

Distributive education is a public school program that trains young people who are preparing for jobs in the field of distribution. The program combines supervised work experience with practical classroom instruction.

Students spend half of each day in school taking the usual courses, including distributive education. The DE course is made up of basic topics which have been recommended by advisory groups of businessmen. These include accounting, economics of distribution, personnel administration, retail merchandising, sales promotion, school and business relations.

C-C Membership Luncheon Monday

The February Membership Luncheon of the Chamber of Commerce will be held Monday noon in the Starlight Room of the Coronado Inn and will feature an address by Dr. Floyd D. Golden, President Emeritus of Eastern New Mexico University at Portales.

Dr. Golden has a fine background in public education, serving as school superintendent, college dean, and college president. At the present time he is Educational Consultant with Rittenberry and Rittenberry Architects of Amarillo.

Dr. Golden was recently chosen as one of thirty educational administrators to tour the Soviet Union, primarily to study their educational system. The group was sponsored by the National Education Association, American Association of School Administrators, and the National Association of Executive Secretaries.

Dr. Golden's address will deal with leadership and community responsibilities. The title of his address will be "Where There is No Vision, the People Perish".

Approximately 125 members of the Chamber are expected for the luncheon. The meeting is open to the public. Reservations may be made by calling the Chamber of Commerce office. Reservations will be accepted until 10 a.m. Monday morning. The Membership Luncheon will be preceded by a Directors' Meeting of the Chamber at 11 a.m. in the Cibola Room of the inn.

Eighty-five Chamber of Commerce leaders from throughout the Panhandle attended a Leaders Workshop yesterday at the Herring Hotel in Amarillo, sponsored by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

Attending from Pampa were Jerald Sims, Co-chairman of the Retail Trade Committee of the Chamber of Commerce, and Chamber Manager E. O. Wedgworth.

The program featured an address by Frank C. Mueller, of the United States Chamber of Commerce in Washington, D.C., who spoke on the importance of leadership in community development.

Other speakers on the program included John Logan, manager of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce, who spoke on "Developing a Program of Work", Harry Cowan, manager of the Borger Chamber of Commerce, on "Committee Management", and Carroll Davidson, manager of Big Spring Chamber of Commerce, who discussed Chamber of Commerce financing.

The group met with the Amarillo Rotary Club for lunch, where Mueller gave the address.

Three Hurt in Car-Truck Wreck

Two Pampa women and a young girl were hospitalized early today as the results of a car-truck accident at the intersection of Price Road and highway 60.

Hospitalized was Lorena Martin, 44, of 809 Malone; Mrs. Loretta Parks, 23, an expectant mother and Mrs. Parks daughter, Gail Ann, 5.

The young girl was treated and released at Highland General Hospital.

The two women were reported doing "fine" but Mrs. Parks suffered a broken ankle and was expecting a child.

Mrs. Martin was the driver of a station wagon going west on highway 60 that struck a truck driven by Hugh Larry Stokes, 80 of 634 Roberta.

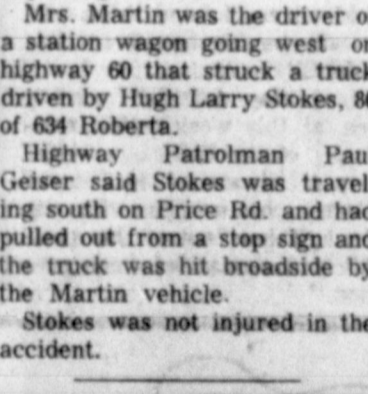

Highway Patrolman Paul Geiser said Stokes was traveling south on Price Rd. and had pulled out from a stop sign and the truck was hit broadside by the Martin vehicle.

Stokes was not injured in the accident.

Thao's troops struck simultaneously at strategic locations during Saigon's siesta hour about 1 p.m.

Tanks smashed through a barbed wire barricade in front of Khanh's residence in downtown Saigon and leveled cannon at the front door.

Talks To Troops

One of Khanh's bodyguards told UPI that Khanh came out of the house and talked briefly to the troops. Then he went back inside and remained there. Troops stood guard around the building.

Other troops surrounded the home of air force commander Nguyen Cao Ky, the officer who saved Khanh from a similar coup last September and who led South Vietnamese air raids on staging areas in North Vietnam.

In his radio broadcast, Thao said Khanh was engaged in "too much political intrigue." He accused Khanh of "changing the government every two weeks."

Other broadcast communique appeared to justify the regime of President Ngo Dinh Diem, South Viet Nam's last popularly elected chief executive. Diem was overthrown and assassinated in a coup in November, 1963.

"Kill the Lawyers!"
"The first thing we do," cries a Shakespearean character in King Henry II, "let's kill all the lawyers."
"That cry has echoed, not always so bloodthirstily, throughout history. One of the first measures of the French Revolution was to abolish the legal profession. The same thing happened in the Russian Revolution. In early American days, many colonies tried to do away with the practice of law. Roscoe Pound, the eminent legal scholar, once said:
"Every Utopia has been designed to dispense with lawyers."
Yet, somehow, abolition doesn't take. In France, only a few years after being "abolished," lawyers were playing a key role in formulating the Code Napoleon — one of the mightiest social documents of all time. Attorney John Hazard, an expert on Soviet affairs, has thus reported that revolution's effect on the legal profession:
"When its ranks had been purged, the empty chairs filled with new men to perform the centuries-old functions of the bar."
"Why this persistence? Why is there a legal profession today in every civilized country on earth?"
"Consider the experience of the colonial Quakers. For 70 years after they settled in Pennsylvania, there were almost no lawyers at all in the community. William Penn's laws were supposed to be so simple that any layman could understand them. Points in dispute would be cleared up with the help of friendly neighbors.
"But if the laws were simple, life was not. Complexities arose, too numerous to be foreseen by the wisest of men. Disagreements arose, too stubborn to yield to the arbitration of amateurs. And when those disagreements touched vital issues in the affairs of mankind, the special talents of the lawyer came into demand. The man whose freedom, money, good name, or life was at stake wanted an expert to speak for him.
"But besides settling — or forestalling — disputes, lawyers serve a loftier purpose. They symbolize, however imperfectly, the Rule of Law in society. That quotation from Shakespeare, often used to taunt lawyers, is actually a subtle compliment.
"For the character who was so eager to kill lawyers was no well-meaning champion of the common man. He was a power hungry demagogue, scheming to set himself up as the absolute ruler of England. Thus Shakespeare was depicting the legal profession not as a burden on society but as the first barrier on the road to dictatorship.

How We Got Involved

BEFORE 1954
During the 10-year war between France and Communist forces, the United States kept a small group in Viet Nam to oversee military and economic aid programs for France. The French were defeated in May 1954 at Dien-bienphu and withdrew. The Geneva accord two months later divided Viet Nam along the Hoai River (17th parallel).

1954-1960
After the French left, several hundred American military and economic advisers started working under Ngo Dinh Diem, first premier of the new South Viet Nam.

1961-1964
U.S. military buildup increased sharply during this period with thousands of American troops dispatched to the war-weary country. Communist Viet Cong infiltration continued at a rapid pace.

AUGUST 5, 1964
First direct confrontation between American and North Vietnamese troops ordered by President Johnson after Red torpedo boats fired on U.S. ships in Gulf of Tonkin. U.S. planes bombed Red naval bases in North Viet Nam.

TODAY
Quid pro quo fighting continues. When Communists attack U.S. installations in South Viet Nam, U.S. fighter-bomber squadrons attack North Vietnamese outposts. American dependents have been ordered to leave Saigon. Shipments of military hardware—including missiles—and personnel have been increased. Nearly 30,000 American servicemen are now scattered throughout South Viet Nam.

WHAT OUR LEGISLATORS ARE DOING
College Coordinating Board Looks for Real

By VERN SANFORD
Texas Press Association
AUSTIN (Sp1) — Gov. John Connally's top legislative project — creation of a powerful coordinating board to control state colleges and universities — apparently is headed for early enactment.
Bills to establish the board breezed through Senate and House committees to floor calendars without direct attack after members of the Governor's Committee on Education Beyond the High School testified for them.
Quick and easy committee approval contradicted early rumors that establishment of the strong central board would meet vigorous opposition in the Legislature.
"It seems that opposition, if there is to be any, will be confined to specific details of the bill and not to the overall proposal.
If enacted, the 18-member coordinating board would have broad powers over all aspects of higher education in Texas — junior colleges, as well as senior institutions.

It would have the final word on launching or eliminating college degree programs, control the addition or deletion of courses, develop future plans for higher education and pass on proposals to create new senior colleges.
"It would supplant the existing Commission on Higher Education, although members of the commission would be eligible for appointment to the board.
Said Governor Connally: "I am very pleased with the action of the two committees. This reflects what I have said all along — that there is a great will and desire on the part of the Legislature to make some real strides toward excellence in higher education."
Rep. Dick Cory of Victoria is handling the bill in the House and Sen. Bill Moore of Bryan has it in the Senate.
WOMEN'S RIGHTS DEBATED — Legislative committees set aside another Ladies' Night to hear a familiar debate... should the state constitution be amended to insure that no legal rights be "denied or abridged because of sex?"
Without even hearing arguments FOR or AGAINST, a Senate panel quickly agreed that the amendment should be submitted to the voters.
On the other hand, the House committee listened to hours of testimony. Most of it was in opposition to such an amendment. The State Bar and spokesmen for university law schools led the opposition.
Opponents claim the amendment goes too far and would "open a Pandora's box" of future litigation. Specific statutory

Foreign News Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst
If, in Viet Nam, the Russians find themselves in a squeeze play between the United States and the Red Chinese, it is not the first time.
In Viet Nam, the theory is that Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin's first intent on his recent visit to North Viet Nam was to urge a "political settlement" of the Communist-supported war in South Viet Nam.
This portion of his mission failed because of the Red attacks on American installations and the United States' prompt response.
The subsequent swift march of events contained the danger that Russia, even though reluctantly, might become involved in the war itself.
Whether or not the stepped up attacks against the Americans were timed to coincide with Kosygin's visit, the results fit in nicely with Red Chinese policy.
Either the Russians would have to do something or forfeit their claims to be the defenders of the Socialist world and their hopes for a new voice in Asia.
The Chinese then would be the gainers in the struggle for leadership of world communism.
On the other hand, a major factor in the Chinese opposition to the Soviet Union's proclaimed policy of co-existence has been their fear of agreement between the United States and the USSR.
As the situation developed in Viet Nam, the Chinese couldn't lose.
Other instances come to mind.
Back in 1958, during the Middle East crisis, former Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev first proposed a summit conference in Geneva or "anywhere else" and then agreed to a counter-proposal by President Eisenhower that a big-power meeting be held in the United Nations Security Council.
There followed a secret meeting between Khrushchev and Red Chinese Leader Mao Tse-tung in Peking in which the Chinese vetoed the idea of a meeting which not only would include the United States but the Nationalist Chinese as well. Khrushchev bowed to the Red Chinese and the meeting never was held.
The Khrushchev-Eisenhower meeting in 1959 engendered the short-lived friendly "spirit of Camp David." After it, Khrushchev once more visited Peking.
As Mao Tse-tung trumpeted that war is the "highest form" of the Socialist revolution, Khrushchev declared:
"We, on our part, must do everything possible to preclude war as a means for settling outstanding questions."
Then came the U2 spy plane incident over the Soviet Union and the collapse of the Paris summit conference in May, 1960.
Remarker Mao: "In the past certain people (Khrushchev) have described Eisenhower as a person wholly devoted to world peace. I hope these people will be awakened by this incident."
So it was familiar reading when at this week's 15th anniversary of the Chinese-Soviet treaty of friendship the Chinese declared co-existence with the United States "out of the question" and demanded "concrete action."

Make Sure You've Got Right Deodorant

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Gentlemen, I feel it my duty to warn you that if your deodorant leaves you only half safe, your government likely will do nothing to protect you from the consequences.
At least not if an opinion recently handed down by a trial examiner for the National Labor Relations Board is adopted as federal policy.
In what may be a landmark case, the examiner stated that to keep himself in an acceptable state of deodorization would not constitute an unfair labor practice.
As far as I could learn, this was the first time that the U.S. government in all of its solemn majesty has exercised any sort of jurisdiction over BO.
Heretofore, the problem has more or less been regarded as a local issue to be dealt with within the framework of the free enterprise system.
Discharge Contested
The case in point involves a food store employee whose discharge was contested by the Retail Clerks union. Management maintained he was let go for aromatic reasons after being told that he would have to use a stronger deodorant.
The union, on the other hand, insisted that he was terminated for organizational activities.
Examiner Phil W. Saunders, who heard the case, ruled in favor of the union. But in doing so, he also took a precedent-setting position on the BO question, tying it in with the march of civilization itself.
"It can be said without serious contradiction that in our present state of existence these days we have now branched out and fully attained the modern era of clean shaves and adequate deodorants," Saunders wrote.
"In fact, I think it is even safe to say that a stranger coming to our shores for the first time might conceivably believe that such preparations rank as our most prized possessions."
Hard To Determine
While conceding that "it may be somewhat difficult to ascertain the exact scope of offensiveness to others in the normal misuse of deodorizers," he said, such matters "must be evaluated in the light of progress."
He noted that we no longer live in the "era of the old-fashioned store centered around pot-bellied stoves in the days when the homesteaders were pushing West."
Therefore, Saunders said, the dismissal of an employee who failed to meet modern standards of fragrance would be "within the legitimate prerogative of management."
I interpret this to mean that underarm redolence will not be tolerated in the "Great Society." If your best friends won't tell you, maybe Uncle Sam will.

Dead Man Dominant Figure at Peace Meet

By LOUIS CASSELS
 United Press International
 NEW YORK (UPI)—An humble old man who died nearly two years ago is the dominant figure at a unique meeting taking place here this week.

It is called "an international convocation to examine the requirements for peace," and the participants are 2,000 of the world's best-known scholars and statesmen.

Among the speakers are Adlai E. Stevenson, Barbara Ward, Linus Pauling, Paul Tillich, George F. Kennan, Walter Millis, Paul G. Hoffman and Arnold Toynbee.

But the real star of the glittering assembly is present only in spirit. He is Pope John XXIII. It is his great encyclical, "Pacem in Terris" (Peace on Earth), that the big brains have gathered to discuss.

The convocation is sponsored by the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions, an offshoot of the Ford Foundation. The participants are attending as individuals rather than as representatives of their governments.

What exactly did Pope John say to make Savants regard this document as one of the great milestones in the quest for peace on earth?

The truth is, he didn't say anything very new or startling. He simply said what many other wise men have said about the dignity of every human person, the importance of justice in all international relationships, and the necessity of moving toward disarmament and world government.

PLOTTERS ARRESTED — FBI agents and New York police seized three men and a woman and charged them with plotting to dynamite the Statue of Liberty, the Liberty Bell and the Washington Monument. The four were identified as Robert Steele Collier, Walter Augustus Bowe, Khaleel Sultarn Sayeed and Michele Duclos, left to right. Collier is the self-styled leader of the "Black Liberation Front." Bowe is a pro-Castroite, and Duclos of Montreal, Canada, is a member of a Quebec party called "Rassemblement Pour L'Independence."

Business Highlights

By United Press International
 WASHINGTON — President Johnson asked businessmen Thursday for help in chopping the nation's balance of payments deficit in return for the $70 million tax break he gave them Wednesday.

Johnson met with 370 leading industrialists and bankers to explain why he wants them to reduce their foreign investments and loans until the dollar outflow can be stopped.

WASHINGTON — New January factory orders for hard goods climbed 1 per cent from December, the Commerce Department reported. Shipments edged up to a record high. At the same time, the Labor Department reported that employment in manufacturing industries rose last month to the highest level since 1953. High auto production accounted for a large measure of the increased employment.

NEW YORK — The Aluminum Co. of America increased prices by up to one cent a pound on a broad range of aluminum sheet and coil products. Trade circles looked for other major producers to raise their prices for fabricated products shortly. Industry sources doubted that the current price moves would affect market levels.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—Abraham & Co. writes that the market will continue in a fairly broad trading range with some relatively sharp reactions from time to time.

Newton D. Zinder of E. F. Hutton & Co., Inc. says there seem to be no reasons as yet for indiscriminate selling of well situated securities though an overextension of commitments should be avoided.

Robert T. Allen of Shearson, Hammill & Co. says that in the final analysis "stock prices are the slaves of earning power and it seems doubtful that limited warfare in southeast Asia will impose any severe limitation on the earning power of American corporations."

Canadian Jet Lands Safely

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI)—A Canadian passenger jet with 42 persons aboard landed safely Thursday when the pilot discovered he had landing gear trouble shortly after takeoff.

The Air Canada flight, bound for Montreal, circled Tampa Airport for 90 minutes before touching down in what officials called a "normal" landing.

At Mayport, Fla., a military transport carrying 14 men also experienced difficulties and made an emergency landing.

The Marine Corps C-117 plunged from 10,000 to 600 when an engine gave out over the ocean. With a rescue plane escorting it, it flew to safety on one engine.

Despite Near Loss of Life Ted Kennedy Stays Busier Than Ever

By MICHAEL L. COSNER
 WASHINGTON (UPI) — Ted Kennedy does not just chuckle. He sort of leans into a laugh and sends it booming against his office walls.

If Sen. Edward Moore Kennedy appears happy it probably is because he faces no visible, pressing political problems and his future is bright.

He marks his 33rd birthday anniversary next Monday, Washington's birthday. And despite a plane crash that left him near death for a while last June he is busier than ever.

A visitor almost feels constrained to caution him that he is trying to mend a busted back.

Kennedy has been moving in the Senate this year more like a broken field runner than a connoisseur. He has been active in the first six weeks of the new Congress as during any comparable period in his two years of Senate service.

Wears Brace
 Kennedy expects doctors to give him the okay "in five or six months" to remove the brace he has been wearing since the airplane accident at Westfield, Mass., June 19. The crash killed two people, including his good friend, Edward Moss, and the pilot, Edwin T. Zimny.

Kennedy, who drives to the Senate by himself, has a stand of several carved canes in a corner of his office and occasionally uses one for support.

"The back is all right," he said, "but it gets me down toward the end of the day."

Little wonder. A typical day might include a meeting with a group trying to save the Springfield Armory from Defense Secretary Robert McNamara's economy axe, several committee appearances for testimony, or work on legislation, radio interviews, helping draft legislation, checking his mail from Massachusetts and a social dinner to further discuss details of a bill he is backing.

Work Exciting
 "I find the Senate very exciting this year," Kennedy said.

Town's Egghead Schools Solve the Dropout Problem

By ROBERT E. HUBER
 United Press International
 LOS ALAMOS, N. M. (UPI)—Parents in this mountain industrial city of 13,000 persons don't know the meaning of the term "high school dropout."

That's because in the last 10 years, the dropout average has been less than one per cent in all 12 public school grades at Los Alamos.

Included with this ratio is the fact that students here have average intelligent quotients between 115 and 116 — a full 10 points higher than the national average. Also the average family income is $9,073.

Behind these surprising statistics is the town of Los Alamos itself — the Atomic Energy Commission's "factory town" for the production of nuclear products. This town has an average of more doctorate degrees than any other community in the nation. It has the greatest collection of scientists on a per capita basis of any place in the world.

With these doctors and scientists are the thousands of technicians and skilled workers needed to turn out the nation's stockpiles of atomic weapons. Their children are the students at Los Alamos schools.

School superintendent Clarence W. Richards said he's more concerned with the direction his 5,000 students will take after graduation than he is with dropouts. He keeps accurate records on the college training his students take.

For the bored student, the Los Alamos system provides a 7,000-volume library. Side courses in everything from wood working to drama are offered to keep students from vaulting ahead too rapidly.

Advanced classes in languages, sciences and mathematics are the rule. When a student graduates from high school, he has already completed studies prescribed for most college freshmen.

But rather than skip bright students ahead in classes, the

Ranger 8 Appears On Moon Course

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI)—The Ranger 8 U.S. spacecraft was heading on dead aim today to collide with the moon and send back to earth television pictures of the lunar surface.

The 806-pound space vehicle was launched from Cape Kennedy at 12:05 p.m. EST Wednesday and all subsequent operations were carried out smoothly.

There was a possibility a terminal maneuver would be required to position the spacecraft's television cameras for proper picture-taking. But this would not be decided until late this afternoon after study of telemetry data by scientists at Caltech's Jet Propulsion Laboratory (JPL).

After a 12-hour study Thursday of telemetry data relayed to earth tracking stations by Ranger 8, project manager Harris M. Schurmeier said everything appeared normal.

TIME FOR CHANGE

ATLANTA (UPI) — It is a bigger crime in Georgia to steal a horse than to steal a car. Two state senators think something ought to be done about it.

Sens. Avant Edensfield and Kyle Yancey introduced a bill Thursday to reduce the minimum punishment for horse theft from four to three years. They were drafting another bill to raise the minimum punishment for car theft to three years on second offense.

HEADS OR TAILS?—Actually, it is both, and both parts belong to the same dog. It seems that Nip used to howl when his master closed the gate. So his Wolverhampton, England, owner cut a special hole in the gate so that Nip could see what was going on on the other side.

Miami, Briscoe Tangle Tonight

By BILL NICHOLS
News Sports Correspondent

WHEELER — It will be Miami and Briscoe in both halves of the district 2-B Tournament finals tonight as the Warriors downed Briscoe in a slugfest, 56-41; the Warriorettes edged Wheeler 49-47; the Broncos belted out Wheeler, 56-40 and the Broncoettes romped over Allison, 53-33.

Girls action starts at 7:30 tonight, with boys following. Should Miami boys win, a district playoff will be held tomorrow; should the Warriorettes win, a playoff will be held next week.

The packed house suffered through 40 minutes until the referees showed up, while the games were further handicapped by a faulty clock, necessitating the use of a stopwatch for the last three games.

The Miami-Allison boys game was a fouled-festival, with tempers flaring, fists and knees flying and the officials forced to calm the two teams down, finally ejecting Punk Childress of Allison for kneeling Lloyd Seitz.

The score was tied three times in the first quarter as Childress and Markham fought the boards with Big Ray Guerrero, while both sides tried to hawk the ball. The David Bowers-Seitz combination stole the ball twice in the final minute for a 15-11 Miami lead.

Howard Lohberger started scoring for Allison, but Bowers and Seitz hawked the ball again and Miami started pulling away. Tempers exploded as Seitz committed an intentional foul, but Miami kept their heads as Allison apparently lost theirs, and the Tribe started pulling away, to 24-18 at the half and 40-30 after three quarters, racking up the score on free throws. Childress was ejected as he slammed into Seitz.

as the Warriors put on a stall in the final minutes.

Bowers hit 18 points, Seitz 11, Guerrero 10 and Blister Lister 10; Markham had 13 and Gary Hall 10.

Miami girls led all the way as Patches Dodson and Connie Ratliff offset the shooting of Sherry Barnes and Bev Clark, 20-14, 32-25, 41-35, in another rough and tough foul festival.

Donna Sue Ford got hot in the final frame and pulled Wheeler to 49-45 with one minute left. Big Patches then stalled out all but five seconds of the final minute, with Wheeler getting the ball and Donna Sue hitting a 20-footer at the buzzer.

Patches had 33 points, Connie R. 15, Sherry bowed out with 22.

Briscoe's smooth team effort, led by Tommy Hays and Orville Atherton, was too much for Dunk Porter and Richard Wallace. Jumping-jack Atherton completely dominated the rebounds, while Hays stole the ball from everyone but Porter to set up Atherton and Harvey Puryear on fast breaks.

Briscoe led all the way, 15-10, 28-17 and 38-25. Atherton had 20 points, Puryear 12 as Porter held Hays to a low of nine, getting 11 himself.

Diane Dodd got hot in the second frame to break up a 13-13 quarter tie with Allison and move Briscoe to 28-21 and 44-26 leads. Marvellous Mickie Fulks scored 33, Diane 16, Linda Miller had 25 for the losers.

Howard Lohberger started scoring for Allison, but Bowers and Seitz hawked the ball again and Miami started pulling away. Tempers exploded as Seitz committed an intentional foul, but Miami kept their heads as Allison apparently lost theirs, and the Tribe started pulling away, to 24-18 at the half and 40-30 after three quarters, racking up the score on free throws. Plainview GGer Wins

FORT WORTH (UPI)—Fred Garcia of Plainview, National Flyweight Golden Gloves champion in 1963, successfully advanced through the first round of the state gloves tournament Thursday night.

Garcia, who weighed in at 111 pounds, defeated Skip Odem of Dallas, a 112-pounder.

Garcia was not the only former champion to see action Thursday night. Defending state middleweight champion Gene Meeks of Corpus Christi got into the ring against Ronny Wright of Brownwood and probably wished he didn't.

Wright won the three-round decision over the middleweight champ.

There were five technical knockouts during the first night's action, but only one clean knockout. That was recorded by middleweight Gene Guess of San Antonio who floored Doyle Daugherty of Wichita Falls in the first round.

The race for the team trophy was led by Austin and Houston, with both cities winning three fights. Austin fighters lost two matches and Houston boxers lost none.

Other teams registering points at the end of the first night were Fort Worth, Plainview, Brownwood, San Antonio—all two each—and Tyler, Port Arthur, Ranger, Corpus Christi.

Phillips upset Lee, 32-27 and St. John's of Borger downed Lee B. 36-25 in the semifinals of the 8th grade division, while Pampa downed Lee B. 28-12 and Lee beat Phillips in overtime, 39-36, in the 7th grade semi.

Phillips and St. John's meet for the 8th grade title at 3:15 p.m. Saturday, Pampa and Lee battle for 7th grade honors at 7 p.m.

St. John's led all the way over the Lee Johnnies B. as Frank Chavez scored 25 points. Jay Johnson had eight for the losers.

Lee and Phillips were tied in the third quarter at 22-22, but Phillips pulled away on the play of Kelley Cook, who scored 19 points. Gary Parrish had 10 for the Johnny Rebs.

The Pampa Reapers led all the way over the Confed B as Larry Kotara had 15 points. John Jenkins had four to top the losers.

Lee and Phillips 7th swapped leads throughout the game, and were tied at 34-34 at the end of regulation time. Randy Roper and Paul Johnson hit field goals and Louis Brantley a free throw in the overtime for the win. Brantley led the Confeds with 12 points. Ronnie Klaus had 15 for Phillips.

Kirkland leads Dumas in scoring with a 15-point per game average. Cothren is hitting 11 per game. Stephenson 9, McVicker 7 and Bonner 6.

Charles Leads First Round of Tucson Golf

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI)—Bob Charles, the lefthanded putting wizard from Christchurch, New Zealand, followed a familiar Tucson Open pattern in latching onto the first-round lead in the $46,000 tournament.

The 28-year-old Charles, who took a one-stroke lead Thursday with a seven-under-par 31-34-65, decided to enter the tournament just five minutes before the deadline last Sunday.

Jacky Cupit did the same thing in 1964 and went on to win the Tucson Open. The year before, a stop in Tucson did not figure in Don January's plans, but he, too, changed his mind and ran away with the title.

Charles has three more rounds to go with the script, though, and had plenty of sub-par company Thursday. The touring pros gave the 7,200-yard Tucson National Golf Club course a scoring beating on a warm, still day after early-morning frost delayed play a half hour and prevented a line of golfers in the 154-player field from completing their rounds because of darkness. They were to finish this morning.

Powerful Paul Bondeason and British Open champion Tony Lema made strong afternoon runs at the leaders, but Bondeason had to settle for third position with 31-36-67 and Lema wound up in a seven-way tie for fourth at 68 when he bogeyed the last two holes shortly before play was suspended at 6:31 p.m.

With Lema in that bracket were Billy Casper, the Bob Hope Desert Classic champion who has won almost $200,000 in the first six weeks of the season; Dave Marr, Harold Kneese, Ken Still, Tom Sore and Dave Stockton. Bing Crosby by champion Bruce Crampton, Don Cherry, Dudley Wysong Jr., Bob Johnson and 22-year-old Jim Ferrell checked in with 69, the latter in his first round on the PGA tour.

Tigers Nip Owls In 9-B Tourney

By RONNIE OLER
News Sports Reporter

CIARENDON — Little Pete Ham hit two baskets in the last 15 seconds to give the Groom Tigers a come-from-behind 55-54 victory over Hedley last night in the opening round of the district 9-B Tournament.

District champ Quail beat Samnorwood, 73-67 to set up tonight's meeting at 8:30 with Groom. If the Tigers win, the two teams would play off tomorrow night for the right to Samnorwood and Hedley meet tonight at 7 for the girls honors.

Samnorwood downing Quail, 59-50, while Hedley squeaked past Groom, 44-41.

Hedley led by as much as 11 points midway in the fourth quarter, but a Groom press led by Jerry Roberts and Ham narrowed the gap as Ham hit 10 points and Roberts six in the final minutes to pull the game out of the fire.

Pat Chesser and Danny Morgan led Hedley in the first half as the Owls sagged on 65 Roberts, allowing 6-4 Chesser to get a piece of the boards and Hedley took an 11-3 quarter lead.

Morgan couldn't miss in the second quarter and pulled the Owls to a 28-19 halftime margin. Larry Lamberson led a Groom fast break in the third period, and cut the edge to 29-33.

Glenn Ward and Morgan led the Owls in the fourth frame as they needed the margin to 50-33, but Groom pressed, Roberts hit, Ham hit and then Roberts canned two more buckets before the Owls could score. Ham sliced it to 52-49 with two more baskets, but Brad Major fouled out with 40 seconds left and Morgan hit both ends of a one-and-one.

Ham hit a short jumper with 15 seconds left and big Roberts then grabbed a piece of the ball and forced a jump, tipping it to Ham, who cannot the winner with five seconds to go.

Ham had 21 points, Roberts 13, Lamberson 12, Morgan had 25 and Chesser 15.

Groom's girls lost a heart-breaker on free throws. The shooting of Lana Altman led Hedley to an 11-7 quarter lead, and it was 18-11 at the half.

Groom cut it to four points midway through the third quarter and trailed 28-23 going into the last period. Evelyn Burgin closed it to 20-29 in the opening minute of the period, but Janie Evans hit four straight free throws to move it back up. Groom came back within one three times in the quarter, but Janie hit free throws almost every time to keep the three-point edge.

Janie had 29 points, Brenda Winn chipped in 10. Evelyn had 23 for the Warriorettes.

Samnorwood boys let only briefly in the second quarter and trailed the rest of the way as Deady Dale Morris kept hitting his fantastic jump shots. Morris finished with 30 points to offset 24 by David Kindrick.

Rangers Play Tulia Tonight

Perryton's Rangers play Tulia at 7:30 p.m. today in the Pampa High School Fieldhouse in a District 1-AAA basketball playoff game.

The winner of tonight's game plays Dumas Saturday for the right to represent District 1-AAA in all state playoffs.

All three teams tied for the district championship with 7-3 records.

Should Tulia win tonight's game, the game with Dumas would be at 7:30 p.m. Saturday in the West Texas State Field House in Canyon. Should Perryton take a victory tonight, the game Saturday will be at 7:30 p.m. in the Pampa Fieldhouse.

Dumas won the flip of the coin for the bye in the playoff.

Perryton, the defending district champion, had a 14-9 season record. Several of the Rangers are weakened by flu.

Probable starters for the Rangers are 6-4 Tommy Butler, 5-10 1/2 Chris Byerley, 5-10 1/2 Wayne Spence, 6-4 Mike Mitchell and 5-11 Kendall Pearson. Butler leads the team in scoring with a 14-point per game average. Byerley is scoring eight per game. Mitchell, seven, Spence six and Pearson four.

Kelly Wolff, 6-0, is the team's second leading scorer, but will see only limited action. He injured an ankle three weeks ago and it has been slow responding to treatment.

Starters for the Tulia Hornets of coach Donald Nentwig, with scoring averages in parenthesis, probably will be 6-2 Tommy Stewart (11), 6-2 Jack Brooks (8), 6-0 Ken Cansler (5.5), 6-10 Weldon Mote (14) and 5-7 Gene Latham (9.5).

The Hornets, who moved into Class AAA this year from Class AA, have a 17-11 season record. Dumas has an 11-13 season mark.

Starters for the Dumas Demons Saturday probably will be 6-5 Dennis Cothren, 6-2 Holon Kirkland, 5-11 Ronnie Stephenson, 5-11 Norman Bonner and 5-10 Billy Wayne McVicker.

Kirkland leads Dumas in scoring with a 15-point per game average. Cothren is hitting 11 per game. Stephenson 9, McVicker 7 and Bonner 6.

Jayhawks, SA In WJCC Tie

AMARILLO — The Western Junior College Conference remains as tight as or tighter than it has been in the history of the conference, with five teams still in contention.

NMMI's improving club knocked off San Angelo 75-70. Saturday night in Roswell to push its record to 7-5 in conference action and drop San Angelo into a tie for the lead with Howard County. Both San Angelo's Rams and the Howard County Jayhawks have 9-3 records.

South Plains' tall and talented club of coach Bill Powell shot down Amarillo, 63-49, to gain sweet revenge for an earlier 38-22 defeat. South Plains has two games remaining with San Angelo and could easily move into the conference leadership with a few proper breaks. South Plains and Amarillo are tied for third with 8-4 records.

Eddy Nelson of Howard County leads the conference in scoring with a 21.5 average per game. Bill Trooper of Clarendon is second with a 20.1 average. Trooper's teammate, Don Campbell, leads in rebounding with 14.7 per and NMMI's Don Durgin is second with 11.9.

Largest Single Group Aren't Church Members

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

The largest single body of Americans, in terms of religious orientation, consists of those who do not belong to any church.

Even with church membership at an all-time high, non-members constitute 36 per cent of the population, or nearly 70 million persons.

This figure is somewhat misleading, because many Protestant churches do not count children under 13 as members, even though they are attending Sunday school regularly.

But after full allowance is made for such technicalities in record-keeping, the "un-church'd" still outnumber the adherents of any particular denomination. America's largest religious body, the Roman Catholic Church, has 45 million members. The biggest Protestant denomination, the Southern Baptist Convention, has 10 million.

The Unchurched
Who are the unchurched, and why do they choose not to affiliate with a religious body?

Some are militant atheists. They are convinced that God doesn't exist, and are openly hostile toward religion, which they call an outworn superstition.

Atheists may get a lot of publicity when they denounce religious institutions or file court suits to bar recognition of God in public life. But they are a relatively small minority. Surveys by the Census Bureau and several private opinion research organizations indicate that only 2 or 3 per cent of the American people regard themselves as atheists.

Much more numerous are the agnostics who say, "I do not know whether God exists," but who act habitually on the premise that he doesn't.

Another large contingent of the unchurched is made up of men and women who profess to believe in God, but who see no need to express or nurture their faith through church membership. Some of them are strongly

Church of God Members Start In New Church

Services Sunday for the congregation of the Church of God will be held for the first time in their new building located at the corner of Sumner and Gwendolen. They have been holding services at Reid and Campbell.

The Sunday School has been departmentalized into four separate groups. James Rigby is general superintendent with Joe Slater as his assistant. Karen Laramore is general secretary. The following departmental superintendents were recently elected: Adult, Margie Ruff; Youth, Earnest Willis; Children, Billee Slater and the Nursery, Georgia Nicolaisen. The departmental secretaries are Adult, Gene Willis and Youth, Nadine Overstreet. The music department is under the direction of Shelby Ruff.

The formal dedication of the new church will be held April 4, with many former pastors, friends, and National and State Officials of the Church of God attending.

Sermon Topic Set At First Christian

The Sunday Morning Worship service at the First Christian Church will have Rev. J. W. Duke in the pulpit. His sermon topic will be: "The One Talent Man." The scripture will be Matthew 25:14-30.

The choir, under the direction of Miss Rosemary Lawlor, will present the Anthem "Thou Art The Way." Mrs. John Gill will be the accompanist at the organ.

The snack supper is at 5:30 followed by Youth Meetings. The Sunday Evening Worship Service is at 7 p.m. attracted by the ethical teachings of Jesus Christ, but feel that these teachings have been betrayed by institutional Christianity. Others find in the shortcomings of church members a convenient rationalization for not undertaking the duties and disciplines incident to personal faith. The latter are wont to say that they can worship God as well on a mountaintop as in a sanctuary. Should someone point out that they usually spend Sunday morning on a golf course rather than a mountaintop, they reply that the principle is the same.

Discuss Question
How to reach the unchurched is a question that Christians spend a lot of time discussing. Some have reached the conclusion that the church must radically revise the theological packaging in which the Gospel is presented, to make it more understandable and believable to men who have been conditioned to a scientific-materialistic view of the universe. Others hold that the church can convince the disaffected only by deeds — by acting out the Christian faith in the struggle for racial justice, the war against poverty and other "secular" contexts.

Still others hold a third point of view. They do not minimize the importance of theological renewal, or of Christian social action. They acknowledge the imperative duty — which Jesus laid on his followers in the most explicit terms — of doing everything possible to communicate the Gospel to anyone and everyone who will seriously examine its validity.

But they also question whether there is anything the church can say or do to convince people who are simply not interested in finding out whether Christianity is true or false.

Rev. Williams Sets Sunday Sermon To Sunday Topic

Rev. Loren E. Williams will give the message "When Jesus Walks in Heart and Home" at the Lamar Christian Church during the Sunday morning worship service. The text will be taken from the Gospel of John 11:25-29.

Sunday evening, R. L. Hendricks will act as discussion leader at the 7 o'clock Bible Study. Scripture to be studied will be 1 Corinthians 3:16-23. The Official Board of the church will meet following the Bible study.

February 21-28 will be observed as the "Week of Compassion", which is the "One Great Hour of Sharing" for Christian Churches (Disciples of Christ). The Lamar Christian Church will highlight this observance with a Brotherhood Dinner at the church at 7 p.m., Feb. 26.

A special Week of Compassion offering will be taken in the morning worship service on Feb. 28. The offerings are combined with those of other churches to provide relief, rehabilitation and interchurch aid in areas of human need on every continent.

Service Topic Set

The Bible Lesson-Sermon in all Christian Science churches this Sunday will feature the story of Moses leading the children of Israel into the promised land, showing how his reliance on God resulted in what are considered miracles. This is amplified in a citation from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy (p. 200): "Moses advanced a nation to the worship of God in Spirit instead of matter, and illustrated the grand human capacities of being bestowed by immortal Mind." The subject for the day is "Mind," and the Golden Text is from Matthew (22:37): "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy mind."

5TH YEAR

Pancake Supper Set For Shrove Tuesday

The 10th Annual Shrove Tuesday pancake supper will be held from 5 to 7 p.m. March 2 in St. Matthew's Parish House, 727 W. Browning. Pancakes with all the trimmings will be served by candlelight in Mardi Gras atmosphere.

The history of the traditional pancake supper, which is held locally each year, goes back many centuries, when it was designated as a time to use up all the leaven in the house before the meatless Lenten Season began. The custom of meeting in the church for a pancake supper grew with everyone attending services afterward.

Shrove Tuesday is the last day before the beginning of Lent on Ash Wednesday. Its religious use, from which the name was taken, was to make confession and be "shriven." Later the Mardi Gras developed around a simple congregational gathering.

Committees are: Messrs. and Mmes. Carl Thomas, coffee; Clo Jordan, Vera Farmer, Daunna

Deaton, Katherine McArthur, bacon; Betty Meador, Katherine Reeve, Juna Alexander, table setting; Bettie Cooper and Shirley Dixon, syrup and butter; Dan Michael, batter; Clem Follwell, Al Knox, Bill Ragsdale, Ab Conway, Jack Nichols, pancake flippers; Bob Parks, Paul Payne, Pat Conway, Marge Redd, Kathleen Zmotony, Agnes Webb, servers; Pat Hart, Mary and Earnest Wilkenson, Junior EYC, decorations; Bernice Gregory, EYC, William E. West, publicity; Charline Spears, Marion Fugate, Dr. Carl Lang, tickets.

Tickets are $1 and may be secured from members of the Parish, youth groups, church of fish, or at the door. The public is cordially invited. There will be prizes awarded to the four persons selling the most tickets. A King and Queen will be crowned for the two selling the most tickets and two attendants will be selected from the next two high ticket sellers.

Financial Gossip

By JESSE ROGUE
UPI Financial Editor
NEW YORK (UPI) — When Anthony J. Celebrezze, secretary of health, education and welfare, called for industry to help in solving the nation's problems in air and water pollution, he was touching upon a subject which occupies a substantial share of the attention of thousands of businessmen.

The days when most American rivers ran free and clean, when ground water could be tapped with little effort and water virtually could be had for the asking, are long gone from the national scene. Perhaps the average citizen is not as conscious as he should be of the nation's water problems, or not so acutely aware of them as may be the operator of a big manufacturing plant; the national Association of Manufacturers (NAM) has been urging that he keep himself informed better than in the past.

Celebrezze, addressing a National Industrial Conference Board gathering in Washington this week, said that leaders in industry can help by supporting effective pollution control measures at the state and local levels.

Nam reports, in a review of a new book surveying water use in industry, notes that most pollution control measures are embodied in state legislation or in interstate regional compacts, although federal legislation passed in 1956 and amended in 1961 gives the national government some powers to intervene in situations involving interstate or navigable waters affecting interstate conditions.

Most major rivers pass through several states, each of which may have its own ideas on anti-pollution measures. The Nam review noted, it said that one of the most extensive and successful efforts to solve the conflicts in standards has been in the work of the Ohio River Valley Water Sanitation Commission, formed by eight states in 1948.

The commission's job, the Nam noted, "was to reverse the trend of a half-century of indifference to river abuse." "Through cooperative efforts and a program to spread understanding, it succeeded dramatically. Treatment plants now serve 90 per cent of the sewer population of the Ohio Valley, and four-fifths of the industrial establishments are operating waste control and treatment facilities rated adequate by the sanitary states."

If Jesus Come To Your House

"And when Jesus came to the place, he looked up, and saw him and said unto him, Zacchaeus, make hast, and come down; for today I must abide at thy house."

If Jesus came to your house to spend a day or two — If He came unexpectedly, I wonder what you'd do. Oh, I know you'd give your nicest room to suit an honored guest, And all the food you'd serve to Him would be the very best, And you would keep assuring Him you're glad to have Him there — That serving Him in your home is joy beyond compare.

But — when you saw Him coming would you meet Him at the door with arms outstretched in welcome to your heavenly visitor? Or would you have to change your clothes before you let Him in? Or hide some magazines and put the Bible where they'd been?

Would your family conversation keep up its usual pace? And would you find it hard each meal to say a table grace? Would you sing the songs you always sing, and read the books you read, And let Him know things on which your mind and spirit feed? Or would you take Jesus with you everywhere you'd planned to go? Or would you, maybe, change your plans for just a day or so? Would you be glad to have Him meet your very closest friends? Or would you hope they'd stay away until His visit ends? Would you be glad to have Him stay forever on and on? Or would you sigh with great relief when He at last was gone?

I think it might be interesting to know things you'd do if Jesus Christ in person came to your house —

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself no more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Conservation a la LBJ

It is with a bit of trepidation that we see that President Johnson's Great Society now looks toward spending more of the American taxpayer's money to clean up the air, the nation's water and scenery.

Mr. Johnson asked for broad new powers for the federal government to establish what he called "creative conservation, restoration and innovation."

The President wants $127 million to buy land for major parks and recreation areas, although the federal government already owns a huge percentage of recreational lands in the United States.

He wants new powers to eliminate air and water pollution, even though states and federal governments as well as local agencies have been spending millions for the same purpose through the years, with little or no accomplishment.

He wants more money for the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (Health, Wealthy & Wise Dept.) to investigate pesticides and to investigate "potential air pollution problems before pollution happens."

Oh, yes, Mr. Johnson also has made a few remarks about wanting more beauty in the countryside. The auto wrecking yards around the country have come in for some comments. Perhaps Mr. Johnson will spend some more taxpayer money to screen off those yards he considers unsightly — or perhaps he'll decide they are mentally unhealthy, and will ask for some more money for the HEW

A Lesson for Us

For some time, stories have been coming out of Russia telling of drastic, if severely limited, changes in economic policy. The gist of them is that the Soviets have been testing such once-despised capitalist principles as the profit motive in order to stimulate production and in-different administrators.

Now, it seems, another lengthy step is being taken. It has been announced that by the end of 1965 a third of Russia's consumer-goods factories will also be operating on a capitalist principle. They will produce only what retailers can sell.

This certainly won't strike Americans as remarkable. That's exactly the way things are done in this country under our system of free, competitive mass production and distribution. But in Russia, just the opposite policy has been followed. Factories have been told by the planners what to make and in what quantity. As a result, stores are stocked with inferior, over-priced, unwanted goods. And consumers have been vigorously complaining.

So Russia, even if slowly, is moving toward a supply-demand consumer economy, complete with a certain amount of profit motive. One may be sure that this is being done out of reluctant necessity — it must be something of a humiliation to the Soviet hierarchy to imitate capitalism to any degree, and Karl Marx, very likely, is revolting in his grave. At any rate, there is a lesson in this for us. Our production-distribution system, working all the way from the sources of raw materials to our splendid retail stores, does more good for more people than any other system man has been able to think up.

Sensing The News

By THURMAN SENSING

Sources of Viet Nam Policy
In retaliating against North Viet Nam because of a communist attack on American compounds which caused many U. S. casualties, the United States took the only course open to it unless its power was to be regarded as ended.

President Johnson took the right action in ordering the carrier-based air strikes. He also took the kind of action that has been consistently recommended by conservative leaders over a long period of time.

Had Mr. Johnson declined to order retaliation — had turned the other cheek, so to speak — it would have been a Pearl Harbor for American prestige. The country as a whole can be thankful that the President did not take the advice offered him by the ultra-liberal advocates of withdrawal from South Viet Nam.

A major campaign has been under way to persuade the American people to call for retreat from Asia. The Committee for Non-Violent Action and the War Resisters League, two extreme leftwing organizations, recently issued a declaration in which they said:

"We encourage those who can conscientiously do so to refuse to serve in the armed forces and to ask for discharge if they are already in. We shall encourage the development of other non-violent acts, including acts which involve civil disobedience, in order to stop the flow of American soldiers and munitions to Viet Nam."

If the authors and signers of that declaration have any conscience at all, they will think of the dead and badly wounded Americans, and feel shame.

Unhappily, it is not only extremist radical groups such as the above that have counseled appeasement in Viet Nam. The course has had its respectable advocates. For example, the St. Louis Post Dispatch recently reviewed the Viet Nam situation.

It asserted: "An honorable withdrawal would be correcting a mistake made a decade ago."

"We should recognize the fact that we are on the losing side of a long historic struggle. That kind of defeatism is what kills a country — and we aren't thinking just of South Viet Nam, either Equally bad was the absurd conclusion reached by the POST-DISPATCH: "If Indochina goes communist, that does not mean it will become a colony of China."

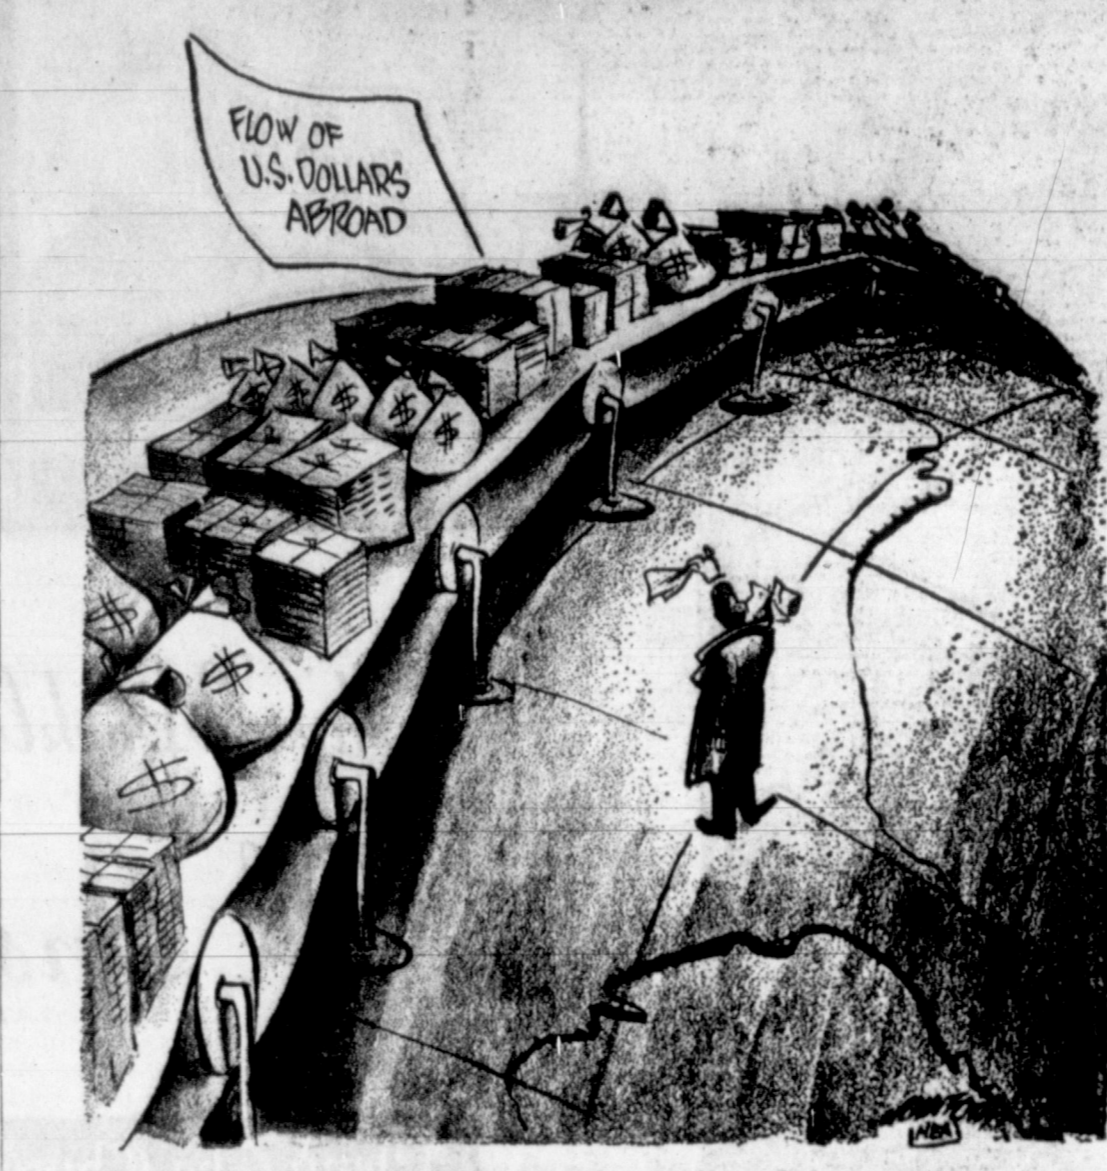

Behind this statement is the popular liberal line that a partially communized Viet Nam would be an Asian Yugoslavia. It is hard to believe that anyone would think that is a gain, or even satisfactory, but that idea is entertained by some influential organizations. And has the United States spent hundreds of millions, and given more than 300 American lives, on their lives, so that Ho Chi Minh, the Red boss of North Viet Nam, can be the Tito of Southeast Asia?

It is tragic that Americans should have to lose their lives or be maimed in order for the U. S. government to wake up to the necessities of the Viet Nam situation. But brutal reality, in the form of sneak mortar attacks, finally waked the White House to recognition of the fact that the only thing communists understand is force. It is no more possible for the U. S. to work out an agreement with Ho Chi Minh than it would have been for Churchill to have negotiated an honorable peace with Hitler.

Known evils cannot be run away from forever. Ultimately, if decency is to be preserved, evils must be fought by the forces of good. So it is in Viet Nam. Communism is an unalloyed evil. More than that, it is a menace to the United States. The North Vietnamese believed what their masters, the Chinese Communists, told them, namely that the U. S. is a paper tiger. For weeks, therefore, the North Vietnamese have been pushing the Communist Viet Cong soldiers to fight bigger battles. Either on their own, or with Russian encouragement, the North Vietnamese decided to make a showpiece series of attacks on U. S. compounds while a high-powered Soviet delegation was in Hanoi. It was a deliberate slap in the face of Uncle Sam. And all Asia would have considered that the U. S. "lost face" had there been no retaliation.

For his decision Mr. Johnson deserves credit. The country must watch, however, and insist that the strikes be followed up by other consistent actions that will produce a victory over

'There Goes My Tax Money!'

ROBERT ALLEN

WASHINGTON — East Coast longshoremen, whose protracted $2 billion strike has left numerous ship-clogged ports that will take months to clear up, already are talking tough again.

This time they are threatening the recent sale of 90,000 tons of soybeans to Russia.

The truculent dockworkers are serving notice they will refuse to load this approximately $11 million deal unless at least 50 per cent of the soybeans are transported in U. S. vessels.

This is a repetition of their 1964 stand on the $250 million grain sold the Soviet. The longshoremen got their way then, and are bent on doing so again.

There is one big difference this time. Last year the government was directly involved, as the grain was subsidized. The soybeans are not. So the looming clash is between the dockworkers and the Continental Grain Company, licensed by the Commerce Department to sell the soybeans for cash.

Meanwhile, congressional investigators are closely eyeing this trade transaction because of a number of factors:

— Under the Commerce Department's license, the 90,000 tons of soybeans cannot be transhipped to Cuba or any other country. But there is nothing to prevent Russia from shipping its own beans and replacing them with those from the U. S. It is definitely known that happened on the U. S. grain Moscow supplied Castro with considerable wheat, and replenished its own stocks with the grain from the U. S.

— The soybeans are the first Russia has bought from the U. S. Its main supplier has been Red China. Soybeans are a minor Soviet crop; in 1962 some 10 million bushels were produced; in 1963, 10.4 million bushels; in 1964, a drop to an estimated 7.5 million bushels. Thus the 3.3 million bushels (90,000 tons) bought in the U. S. are approximately one-third of Russia's average annual soybean production.

— The U. S. has no soybean surplus; supply and demand just about balance out. This is one major crop on which there is no average control, and production is steadily increasing. In 1960 the total was 555 million bushels; in 1964, 702 million; by 1970 it is estimated one billion bushels.

— Last year soybeans, grown chiefly in southern cotton states and the cornbelt, displaced wheat as the third largest U. S. cash crop. In 1963 the soybean carry-over amounted to only 15.1 million bushels out of a 609 million bushel crop. The estimated carry-over this year will be even less — around 10 million bushels.

— The U. S. and Red China are the two major world soybean producers. But the American people also should remember whence came the good advice that Mr. Johnson decided to follow — it was from the conservatives of both parties, not from the liberals who urged the peace of retreat and withdrawal.

bean producers. In 1961 out of 56 million acres of soybeans throughout the world, the U. S. and China between them had 50.5 million acres. U. S. exports this year are expected to reach a new high of 205 million bushels.

A number of highly revealing facts about Soviet agricultural and industrial production are being spotlighted by Senator Thomas Dodd, D-Conn., vice chairman of the Internal Security Subcommittee. In an exhaustive study titled "The Crises in the Soviet Economy and the Question of East-West Trade," he reports:

"In 1961, 193,000 tractors were reported to be inactive because repair parts were not available. In the same year, 21,000 grain combines and 20,000 forage harvesters had not been repaired by harvest time because of shortage of parts.

"Collective farm regulations permit every family on the farm to have a private plot of land not exceeding one-half hectare, one cow, one pig, and a handful of sheep, goats and poultry. In 1961 these private plots accounted for 3.3 per cent of all the land under cultivation in the USSR. In that year, the Soviet state received from 3.3 per cent of its farmland, 26 per cent of all potato deliveries, 34 per cent of all eggs, 15 per cent of all wool, 14 per cent of all meat and poultry, 7 per cent of its green vegetables.

"From the Soviet press we learn that repair of existing machine tools occupies 3.5 times as many people as are actually employed in the manufacturing of new units; that electrical motors, during their first year of life, spend 30 or 40 per cent of their total working time undergoing repairs; that, at any given time, not less than 40 per cent of all vehicles in Russia are idle, awaiting repairs."

BACKTRACKING — Senator Robert Kennedy, D-N. Y., is quietly trying to rejoin Washington's exclusive Metropolitan Club.

Several years ago as attorney general in his late brother's Cabinet, "Bobby" made national headlines in a grandstanding resignation from the club on the ground it barred Negroes from membership. A handful of other New Frontiersmen participated in this widely-publicized exodus.

Now "Bobby" is seeking to get back into the Metropolitan. Recently, wholly without fanfare, he asked to have his discarded membership reinstated. He was politely but firmly informed that could not be done under the club's rules; he had resigned and that was that.

However, he was free to apply for membership as a new applicant. His name would go on the waiting list and be considered in turn.

Those were the terms, and he could take them or leave them. "Bobby" took them. He has applied for membership and his name is at the bottom of the long waiting list.

DIG THAT CRAZY COMPUTER!

(California Feature Service) Computers may some day be the Big Brother of George Orwell's 1984, but it seems they still are susceptible to human error. In the Netherlands recently a student studying on a tax-free scholarship began getting stern notices that he owed no tax but should pay up, followed by reminders which ordinarily include an added fine, but which said he owed no reminder fine, either. But would he please pay up what he did not owe?

The electronic mishmash was traced to one of the computer's handlers who mistakenly put the tax exempt student's name into the machine. The computer-obedient although somewhat puzzled — proceeded to dun the lad for nothing. The student survived, but it is rumored the computer is recovering in an electronic rest home.

Humphrey Inaugural Committee should be interesting reading when it is finally published. Already, Dale Miller, the Texas the President personally selected to head the Committee, has admitted that more than $100,000 was spent to decorate the five ballrooms that wound up the three-day celebrating. Also that the large, ornate inaugural invitations mailed to 200,000 throughout the country cost $150,000 — which figures out at 75 cents per invitation.

What Is Patriotism?

By ROSALIE M. GORDON
Editor, America's Future

A great deal of questioning has been going on of late among thoughtful people, the general gist of which is "What's wrong with America?" Generally, it refers to the strange stance of a great, free, powerful nation which seems to cringe before every trouble-maker in the world. For example, National Observer asked pointedly not long ago: "What is the matter with the nation of the Alamo and Chateau-Thierry and Bataan and Pork Chop Hill that it no longer recognizes that there are things from which there is no easy way out? When it really accepts such a peculiar extreme of reasoning that there is nothing between nuclear war and surrender — when it cannot remember such a simple human principle as stand fast in defense of your rights, stand fast and fight?"

Instinctive Patriotism
It is entirely possible that Dr. Max Rafferty, the well-known schoolman who is now superintendent of the public education system in California, hit on the answer in a speech he made called The Elements of Patriotism. As Dr. Rafferty says, it is an unusual thing to try to analyze patriotism. He points out that it is something our parents and grandparents knew by instinct — the meaning and elements of love of one's own country — and they would have been amused or irritated at anyone trying to analyze it.

Analysis Needed
But today it is obvious that too many Americans, and especially too many leaders in all fields have forgotten, or were never taught, what patriotism is and what it means. This is not entirely their fault. In the liberal intellectual atmosphere of recent decades — an atmosphere that had its most serious and weakening effects in many of our educational systems — it became the fashion to sneer at anything or anybody who suggested that here in America we had something unique in the world, that we should love, respect, admire and defend it, with our very lives if necessary. And so, if we are to find our way back from the devious and dead-end paths down which we have wandered, a searching analysis of true patriotism is essential. This is what Dr. Rafferty has provided in The Elements of Patriotism with eloquence, understanding and a stirring call for action. His fine address has been reprinted as a public service in an 8-page folder by the non-profit, educational organization, America's Future, Inc. They will be happy to send up to ten copies of The Elements of Patriotism without cost to anyone who requests it. — write America's Future, Inc., 542 Main St., New Rochelle, New York.

Key to Brilliance — Just Be Adequate

NEW YORK (NEA) — One of the things we have never been able to understand is why you are not supposed to lock the barn door after the horse has been stolen.

We have never really been involved with this sort of thing, except for once having worked in a gas station that was robbed.

But it would seem to us that if they will steal anything and get away with it, they will sooner or later try to steal everything, including the barn door. (Whether that is why gas stations keep their washrooms locked, we cannot say.)

The only reason we have brought it up is because of the persistent rumors that NBC is not going to renew That Was The Week That Was for next season.

Consequently, we are probably a little too late to help save the show. But maybe there is still time to save next season's television programming.

TW3 was designed to be a weekly half-hour of fun, games and satire on current events. In that regard it has not been a very good show on the whole. Or even on the half, for that matter.

We have spent two seasons watching the program, and calculate that it reaches brilliant wit about once every three times out — and then for only a few moments, at most.

Now a 333 average may be remarkable in baseball and miraculous in mail order returns. But it is obviously not a very good showing for brilliance on television when, with just a little less talent, you can be 1,000 adequate at every instant.

This not meant to disparage being adequate. On the contrary, it is the only way to get things done on time, and is a great saving of energy all around.

When you declare for adequacy, we have found, nobody expects anything more. And, in fact, they would not recognize it if you gave it to them.

Going out for brilliant, on the other hand, carries terrible penalties because you must be doing cartwheels at every turn.

As the producer of the show, Herb Sargent, told us the other afternoon:

"Half of this program's trouble has been that everybody wants to like it."

Once you signify your intention to be brilliant, people will be standing about at all hours with their hilarity at the ready, waiting for a demonstration.

Under these circumstances, nothing looks more mediocre than the adequate and, measured by that standard, TW3 has been a terrible failure and must go off the air for it.

Exactly why it works that way we cannot explain. But it does work that way, beyond a doubt.

And so for our part, we declare for adequate — preferring to enjoy an unquestioned reputation for brilliance at the lunch table, where nobody keeps count and one flash of wit per week is enough.

Resides, going for adequate is much easier on the nerves.

We know many brilliant people and they have to work just as hard to do a bad job as a good one.

Not that we mind putting up with the bad to get the good. To our way of thinking 333 brilliance is well-worth the price of admission. But not every night on every show.

The lesson of TW3, it seems to us, is that what television needs is more people with less talent.

Fact

Cro-Magnon is the name given to a small number of human skeletons of prehistoric age found in a rock shelter at Cro-Magnon, France in 1868. Men of this era were food gatherers and subsisted mostly by hunting and fishing. Working in groups they mastered the art of hunting and the great mammals of that time by stamping a hard over a cliff.

Site, Size of School For Retarded Up in Air

By JAMES DAVIS
AUSTIN (UPI)—There is little doubt that West Texas will get a special school for retarded children in the near future, but the questions of where, when, how many and what size are presently nebulous.

Two years ago the legislature approved a special school west of the 100th Meridian but left the site determination up to the State Board of Hospitals and Special Schools. The board selected Lubbock as the proposed site and last month that city decided 225 acres to the state for the project.

The future of the school seemed set, until a bill was introduced in the House which stirred up a fuss again.

The bill by Rep. Hudson Moyer of Amarillo calls for construction of four special schools at Amarillo, Lubbock, Midland-Odessa and El Paso instead of one school at Lubbock.

Size not mentioned

Moyer's bill makes no reference to the size of any of the four proposed schools, but it is fairly clear that if the bill passes the size of the Lubbock school will be smaller than if it was the only school.

The bill is now before a House subcommittee and faces heavy opposition from Lubbock legislators if and when it passes to floor debate.

Moyer discounts claims that his bill was instigated by sour grapes over Amarillo not being selected as the site. "I am concerned with the philosophy of the problem. The regionally located school leads to greater rehabilitation," he said.

"In West Texas we have a tremendous problem of distance. In Amarillo now we have some retarded children going to school in Abilene and even some in Austin. Sending them far away from their homes and families virtually puts retarded children in institutions for the rest of their lives.

"Studies have shown that regionally located schools can prevent this institutionalization," Moyer said.

Opposition centered

Opposition to the bill is centered around legislators from Lubbock. Sen. H. J. (Doc) Blanchard said if the bill gets to the Senate he will fight it with all his energy. "Lubbock is centrally located and is the logical choice for the school," he said. "I don't think I will have to raise a fuss about Moyer's bill. It will die quietly."

Rep. W. Reed Quilliam Jr. of Lubbock said he would not be opposed to four new schools in West Texas "if we had the money to do it, but as things stand now the bill would dilute the quality of the treatment and education of retarded children."

Rep. Delwin Jones of Lubbock, a member of the House Special Schools, said he did not oppose Moyer's bill when it first came before that body because he had been told that it would not affect the Lubbock project, but merely provide three additional schools.

Several factors involved

Moyer declined to comment on how the additional schools would affect the one at Lubbock. He said the size of all the schools would have to be determined by the Board of Hospitals and Special Schools after consideration of all the factors.

"I think it would be proper to go ahead and begin in Lubbock and develop the other schools as part of a long-range problem," he said.

Some Good TV Shows Doomed

By RICK DU BROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—A definite trend seems to be shaping up for next television season: It will be even worse than this one, a prospect that would have seemed impossible last September. I won't insult you today with chapter and verse on the coming season—the awful facts will be released officially soon enough. Simply look at what is popular now and prepare for a deluge of imitations.

One of the reasons the very tentative schedules for next season are worse is that a number of fairly worthwhile series are being cancelled. Although changes are always possible in the months ahead, it currently looks as though these shows are through:

"The Defenders," "Perry Mason," "Profiles in Courage," "Slattery's People," Alfred Hitchcock, Jack Paar (he quit), Jack Benny, "Bell Telephone Hour" (unless it returns in a slot earlier than prime time), "Rawhide," Bing Crosby, "International Showtime," "Kentucky Jones," "The Entertainers" (with Carol Burnett), "Hazel" (unless she returns in an altered format), and "FDR," a documentary series.

Other series that seem headed off the air include: "Tycoon" (with Walter Brennan), "My Living Doll," "That Was The Week That Was," "Karen," "Wagon Train," "Wendy and Me" (with George Burns), "Valentine's Day," "The Rogues," "Joey Bishop," "Mr. Novak," "Mr. Ed," "The Doctors and the Nurses," "Mr. Magoo," "On Broadway Tonight," "Hullabaloo," "Cara Williams," "For The People," "Many Happy Returns" (with John McGiver) and "The Ball-eyes of Balboa" (with Paul Ford).

Among the apparent returnees are: "Peyton Place" (which will be expanded from twice to three times a week, and also be joined by several similar series), "Voyage To The Bottom Of The Sea," "No Time For Sergeants," "Ben Casey," "To Tell The Truth," "I've Got A Secret," Lucille Ball, Andy Griffith, Dick Van Dyke (probably in his last season), "The Hollywood Palace," Lawrence Welk, "The King Family," "Gunsmoke," Jackie Gleason, "Flipper," the weekly movies (expanded from three to four), Red Skelton, Andy Williams, "The Fugitive," "Lassie," Walt Disney and "Bonanza."

Also: "Bewitched," "The Munsters," "The Addams Family," "My Three Sons," "Dr. Kildare" (perhaps split up into two weekly half-hours), "The Virginian," "What's My Line?," the Bob Hope theatre, "Shindig," Donna Reed, "Kraft Theatre," "CBS Reports," "The Beverly Hillbillies," Danny Kaye, Ed Sullivan, "Candid Camera," "My Favorite Martian," "Gomer Pyle," "Brand-ed," "Gilligan's Island," "Daniel Boone," "The Farmer's Daughter," "12 O'Clock High," "Combat," "McHale's Navy," "Ozzie and Harriet," Patty Duke and "Feticoat Junction."
