Blizzard Warnings Issued For City, Panhandle Area

Snow, Winds Forecast For Pampa by Tonight

Gritty light snow, the forerunner of a predicted blizzard, stung Pampa and Panhandle residents today and promised to push deep into the state in the wake of a fast-moving cold front.

Blizzard warnings were in effect for Pampa and the Panhandle, eastern New Mexico and sections of Oklahoma, and Kansas. The snowfall was not expected to get thick and heavy until mid-afternoon when the full effects of a deepening low pressure center is felt.

Winds of 20-30 miles per hour mingled with snow at daybreak at Pampa in 25-degree temperatures, while light snow also fell at Amarillo and Dalhart. The temperature at Amarillo at dawn was 31 degrees.

The blizzard warning said there would be accumulations of 1 to 3 inches of snow in Pampa and over most of the Panhandle by tonight with most of the danger generated by the strong winds which would cause blowing snow and reduced visibility.

The high temperature in Pampa today was expected to reach about 33 to 35 degrees ahead of the blizzard. The Weather Bureau forecast a low tonight of between 15 and 20 degrees and a high tomorrow of between 30 and 35.

The mercury reached a high of 54 in Pampa yesterday and overnight low was recorded at 19 degrees.

Extended five-day forecasts indicated temperatures three to 12 degrees below normal in the northern part of Texas.

Precipitation will average .25 to .75 inch across the northern sections of the state as snow Tuesday and Saturday, .10 or less in the Panhandle and South Plains Friday night and Saturday and to moderate to heavy mostly in Southeast Texas.

Increasing cloudiness was noted across most of Texas early today with temperatures milder than Sunday, ranging from 24 degrees at Dalhart and Lubbock to 48 at Galveston.

El Paso reported 26, Midland 27 and Alpine 30.

The new cold front, which stretched across the lower Panhandle at sunup, was expected to sweep to the coast by early tomorrow, bringing snow or rain with it.

Winds up to 40 miles an hour produced blizzard conditions around Fort Collins, Colo. Sunday. Snow built up avalanches that closed roads to two ski resorts in Utah.

Rising waters flooded six state highways in Indiana and pushed the Grand river at Grand Rapids, Mich., to within a foot of WEATHER

PAMPA AND VICINITY—Blizzard warnings in the Panhandle. Cloudy and turning much colder this afternoon. Considerable blowing and drifting snow today and tonight. Continued cold tomorrow. Low tonight upper teens and high tomorrow 20-35. Winds northerly 25 to 35 m.p.h.

Johnson Expected to Send Message on Redevelopment

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson is expected to send a special message to Congress this week urging extension of the controversial area redevelopment program but recommending that it be overhauled.

The loan-and-grant plan to help economically depressed areas has been the target of vociferous critics since it was set up about four years ago. It is due to expire June 30.

Congressional sources said that Johnson would request extension of the program and propose a $400 million appropriation to keep it in business.

He is also expected to urge reorganization of the program along lines which, some believe, partially acknowledge the validity of past criticisms.

Infiltration of Communist Mounts in South Viet Nam

SAIGON (UPI)—The Saigon government charged today that 20,000 Communist-trained officers have infiltrated South Viet Nam since 1959. A report said the Communists were armed with weapons made in the Soviet Union and Red China.

U.S. intelligence officials confirmed the South Vietnamese charge and added that the number of Communist infiltrators over the past six years may be closer to 34,000.

South Viet Nam delivered the report in the form of a protest note to the International Control Commission—an agency established in 1954 to police the partition of Viet Nam after the French-Indo-China war.

Asks Withdrawal
North Viet Nam announced Sunday that it has asked commission members to withdraw from its territory. The Hanoi regime said it was no longer able to guarantee the safety of commission members in view of the air strikes against North Viet Nam by U.S. and South Vietnamese bombers.

The South Vietnamese report on infiltrators was an attempt to document charges that the guerrilla war in this country is directed and supplied from Hanoi.

"Before being sent south, these troops and cadres received special training from the central committee for re-education in Hanoi, which works in close cooperation with the North Vietnamese armed forces high command and the ministries concerned," the protest said.

The report added that the infiltrators receive training in guerrilla warfare, political subversion and espionage.

Weapons carried by the Communists included Russian-made Mossin Nagant rifles, Chinese Communist 57-millimeter bazookas and machineguns and small arms, recoilless rifles and bomb launchers manufactured in Communist East Germany.

The South Vietnamese report said its information came from Communist prisoners of war, defectors and captured Red documents. U.S. intelligence sources verified most of the information.

The U.S. Embassy here denied a London newspaper report that Communist Chinese soldiers had moved into North Viet Nam.

"There is absolutely nothing, nothing, nothing to it," an embassy spokesman said.

North Viet Nam charged that two warships of the United States and South Vietnamese navy violated North Vietnamese waters Sunday and shelled North Vietnamese territory.

Chinese in No Hurry to Start Korean-Style War

WASHINGTON (UPI)—If Red China sent hordes of troops into the Vietnamese war the way it did in Korea in 1950 it would risk heavy retaliatory blows on its homeland.

Qualified sources expressed that view while emphasizing that the U.S. government has said nothing about the exact courses it would follow in the event of Communist Red Chinese intervention.

"There was no urgent need—at least for now—for precise decision. The United States has marshaled powerful forces in the Far East against any eventuality and has them in immediate readiness. Red China, for its part, has not to the moment started marching its vast armies, despite Peking Radio threats.

Those threats raised the specter of a Korea-type intervention with troops pouring south "wave upon wave" as they did against the U.S. and South Korean armies in the fall of 1950.

ing hurling the North Vietnamese army into South Viet Nam

Questions To Consider
Thus the two Communist powers must ponder these questions if they talk of enlarging the war:

1—Does North Viet Nam want the destruction, in retaliatory air blows, of all it has managed to build since the Indo-China war ended and it became an independent country?

2—Does Red China want air strikes against targets in its homeland—targets that might be army supply routes and bases at first, but could extend to its nuclear work at Lop Nor?

So far, U.S. air strikes in North Viet Nam have been intended as swift reprisal for Communist guerrilla action against South Viet Nam, hopefully to deliver warnings to Hanoi with the least harm to American forces.

They have been in the southern part of North Viet Nam—but with a warning that they could be following a northward creeping pattern. They have been aimed at centers where infiltrators were trained and have done considerable damage.

Later, the target system could be enlarged to include railroads, industries and similar facilities.

Reds Turn Propaganda Guns on UN, Calling It Tool of Neo-Colonialism

TOKYO (UPI)—Communist China today turned its propaganda guns on the United Nations. Peking said the organization has become "a tool of American neo-colonialism."

The Chinese attack on the United Nations was coupled with continuing charges of aggression against the United States for its Viet Nam policy.

Peking statements during the weekend said Washington statements that the United States seeks no wider war in Southeast Asia were "pure humbug."

Today's U.N. blast was published in the newspaper Peking People's Daily, the official newspaper of the Chinese Communist party.

"The fact of the matter is that the United Nations just cannot go on as it is now," the editorial said. "Either it corrects its mistakes and be thoroughly reorganized in accordance with the desire of the peoples, or it continues to submit to the dictates of the United States and thereby commits suicide."

Communist China is not a member of the U.N. and the United States opposes any move to give Peking a seat.

Today from East to West voices demanding the thorough reorganization of the U.N. are growing louder and louder and various formulas have been put forward," the editorial said.

"The United Nations has degenerated to the extent of being a tool in the hands of the United States to pursue its policy of neo-colonialism."

"Wherever the blue and white flag of the United Nations is hoisted, there is side with it the Stars and Stripes of the United States."

He had recently boosted his life insurance coverage by taking out a $7,000 policy with a double indemnity clause—in case of accidental death.

When he rented a boat at the Rocky River livery near Cleveland that afternoon, the lake was calm. But storm warnings were up.

Proprietor Lawrence E. Colleur told him about the warnings. It didn't matter. At 4:30 p.m. Bader shoved off in the rented motor boat.

The storm came up three (See DEATH, Page 3)

MEASURING THE DISTANCE — Pampa Harvester Kerry "Ropes" Roper and "Little Richard" Fatheree measure the distance between Pampa and Haltom City, home of the Harvesters' bi-district opponent. A meeting between school officials was held in Vernon this afternoon to determine the date and place of the playoff.

White Takes Over Post as Pampa City Manager; Meets With Officials

Pampa's new city manager, James W. White, arrived at City Hall early this morning for his first day on the job.

White met first with Public Works Director R. B. Cooke who has been acting city manager since the retirement of Harold Schmitzer Jan. 1.

The new city manager then spent most of the forenoon visiting with various department heads in their offices.

He will attend his first city commission meeting tomorrow morning.

White indicated he intended to be a "good listener" until he becomes familiar with city operations and problems in need of solution.

He said he already had moved his family, consisting of his wife and two children, into a home purchased on Grape St. The move was made from Tullia during the weekend.

"We are all here," White said, "and now it's just a case of getting settled down and becoming acquainted with the people of Pampa and the problems of the city."

A physician said earlier that his life might have been taken by the breath-constricting harness he wore, if not by the effects of the icy water splashing on him since he became trapped late Saturday.

Authorities said an attempt probably would be made today to reach Mitchell by using mechanical equipment to burrow down from above him.

Mitchell, a native of Waterville, Ohio, hangs trapped in a near-vertical shaft which drops from a small room of the cavern more than 400 feet inside a snow-covered hill in the Adirondack foothills, 30 miles east of Utica, N. Y. The cave opening is situated on a farm, a mile and a half from the nearest road. Heavy snow and sub-freezing weather made the rescue efforts more difficult.

Mitchell crawled into the eerie hole with two fellow explorers—Heddie Miller, 21, of Cambridge, Mass., and Charles Bennett, 23, of Croton-on-Hudson, N.Y. He led the way and thus became the one to become trapped. Miss Miller and Bennett later were treated at a hospital for exposure.

spring day nearly eight years ago when Lawrence Joseph Bader loaded fishing tackle into his car. The sky was clear, but a storm was blowing up.

His wife was four months pregnant and he hadn't paid any income taxes in five years.

He had to see about some bad checks he had been stuck with in the course of his business, which was selling kitchen appliances. And maybe, he told his wife Marylou, he would go fishing.

"Maybe I will, maybe I won't," he said.

Larry Bader was a nice guy. If he was an outdoors man—he won a tri-state archery contest when he went hunting—he was also a face in the crowd.

Eight Year 'Death' Ends for Nebraskan

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Mystery still surrounds the figure of John (Fritz) Johnson, a popular Omaha, Neb., television personality, more than a week after fingerprint records showed he was actually Lawrence J. Bader, an Akron, Ohio, salesman who disappeared nearly eight years ago. A UPI reporting team of Robert Hoig, of the Omaha Bureau, James R. Wargo, of the Cleveland bureau, and David Smothers, of the Chicago bureau, was assigned to trace this story of a double life. This is their report.)

His education had some holes in it. He dropped out of high school to join the Navy. When he came back 18 months later and was graduated, he put in one semester at Akron University before going to work in a campus restaurant.

AU-Around Nice Guy
A friend recalled him as a "red-blooded, beer-drinking, all-around nice guy who could talk your ear off and you'd love to sit and listen. You wouldn't say he was wild, though. He was a family man, too."

And a family man he was. On that morning of May 15, 1957, he was 30 years old. He and Marylou had three children and another on the way, and a home in the very proper West

Dear Abby.... Reasons for Doctor's Advice Are Obvious

DEAR ABBY: I need a serious answer. Time after time you advise women, who are married to men who have lost all interest in sex, to "get him to a doctor."

Now tell me, Abby. Exactly what can a doctor do for him?

MARRIED TO ONE
DEAR MARRIED: A doctor can tell whether his lack of interest is due to physical reasons, or psychological ones. If it's physical, the situation might possibly be remedied with proper treatment. If it's psychological, the man might need psychotherapy. If it's due to the natural aging process, and nothing can be done to restore his interest, then the wife might need some psychotherapy to help her accept it.

DEAR ABBY: Is it true that people who eat more slowly tend to eat less food?

HARRIETTE
DEAR HARRIETTE: Yes, and especially if they are members of a large family.

DEAR ABBY: I am married to a man who was married before but was separated from his wife at the time we met. He assured me that he and his wife had been estranged for a long time and that he never saw her. Well, Abby, shortly after we returned from our honeymoon, I found a letter with 87 letters from her. I am not proud of it, but I read every one of them. She tells how much she "loves" him and "misses" him. They are all dated, and were written when he and I were going together. If I had known that she was trying to get him back, I would have let him alone. It is too late now. We are married. My husband said those letters don't mean a thing, but he never answered any of them. I realize he can't be blamed because she wrote to him, but if her letters didn't mean a thing, what was he saying them for?

SECOND WIFE
DEAR WIFE: Look at it this way: If he were trying to get away with something, he'd have destroyed the "evidence."

DEAR ABBY: I know you can't print all the letters you get, but I wish you would print this one. About three years ago I wrote to tell you my troubles, which all started with a drinking problem. You told me to admit to myself that I was an alcoholic and to go to an A.A. meeting. I went, and they gave me all the help and understanding you said they would. After staying on the wagon for six months, my wife took me back and I became a family man again. I am now holding down a job. It's hard work, but I'm glad I can do it. I now live according to the A. A. program and still attend meetings. I pay my bills and stay sober one day at a time. I now look at myself in the mirror and I like what I see. I go to parties where others drink, but I stick to my fruit juice. I don't think anybody could get me to take "just one" again. God bless you, Abby, and thank you for helping to give me a new life.

New Craze Will Make Sure Everyone's Net Caught

PEEKABOO — Hip-hugging sailor pants of fishnet and matching bolero by Bill Bloss "cover" scant bikini.

By HELEN HENNESSY
Women's Editor

Newspaper Enterprise Assn. NEW YORK (NEA) — All the little fishes will have a good chance of survival this summer. If they can just avoid the anglers, they won't have to worry about the guys with the nets.

At the rate sportswear manufacturers are using fishnet for women's play tops there won't be any left for the fishermen.

The fishnet craze is the most revealing news since the topless swimsuit or T.S. as it is affectionately known in the business. We're all going to see a lot more of each other as soon as the weather permits.

On the beaches, on patios and indoors our leisure hours are slated to be whittled away in see-through, demure allure.

Fishnet cages and jumpsuits will cover tiny bikinis and one-piece swimsuits are one-third fabric, two-thirds peekaboo.

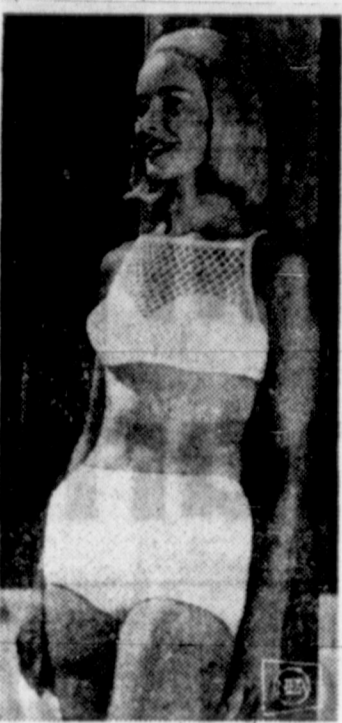

When you're invited next door to a patio party, quickly assure your husband that there is a nude body stocking between Bill's wife and her fishnet jumpsuit. This precaution will prevent glass breakage.

Unlike the T.S. these new fashions do meet the letter of the law. You won't be wrapped in a blanket and rushed to the nearest police station. But they are designed to give back to women that feeling of freedom once enjoyed by the Neanderthal housewife to whom clothes were no encumbrance at work or play. (A manual on how to keep house in a cave may be next.)

But one possible offshoot of the new trend may please even the most ardent moral reformer. It's about to launch a crop of modest, high-necked evening gowns. If it doesn't there will be many an animated checkerboard tripping the light fantastic under the stars. A fishnet sunburn has to go under wraps.

Frolicking around in fishnet sounds so wonderfully free, doesn't it? But like most chic fashions, it is only for the slim. If you tip the scales at ONE ounce more than you should, steer clear of the stuff.

A gal who hadn't learned this lesson walked onto the beach at the luxurious British Colonial Hotel in Nassau, stunning in a black, one-piece fishnet suit.

SURFSIDE SEE - THROUGH — Nothing fishy about this — it's real fishnet. Rose Marie Reid draws it tight over cotton knit and calls the swimsuit "La Seine."

She was luscious. The men stopped playing cards and we gals hated ourselves.

She sat down to put sun lotion on her legs. And a magician's wand couldn't have produced three spare tires more quickly — there for all to count behind the net screen. All the women smiled.

Fishnet will drape the feminine population this summer from Maine to California and a fetching fashion it is. But anyone who wasn't prepared to put in a long, lean winter had better give her share of the net back to the fishermen.

The fish will look better in it than she will.

The Doctor Says

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

From time to time, persons ask me if we would not all be better off if we eliminated from our diet such items as liver, kidneys and sweetbreads because these glandular cuts under certain circumstances aggravate gouty arthritis. Or because fats aggravate some diseases of the liver and contribute to hardening of the arteries.

The answer is a flat no. Each of us is an individual and not a model from an assembly line. There are many different diseases of metabolism, but no one individual has a monopoly on all of them. Diabetes is one of them and gout is another. The liver that can make gouty arthritis worse can cure the victim of pernicious anemia, and fats, be they saturated or unsaturated may be needed to build up a person who is underweight or who is suffering from some form of vitamin deficiency.

If everybody cut out all the foods that were harmful to someone, we would all starve to death. There is much truth in the old saying that sauerkraut will cure a German and kill an Irishman. The only thing that would be worse than cutting out all the potentially harmful foods would be for everyone to take all the potentially harmful drugs that are available. One man's remedy may also be another man's poison.

Q — In a recent column you talked about the treatment of whiplash injury. What is the best method of prevention?

A — Since whiplashes are caused by rear-end vehicle collisions, one of the simplest means of prevention is to make your car clearly visible from a great distance. In some states, this is accomplished by reflector type license plates. If your state has not yet adopted these, put reflector tape on your rear bumper. This has saved more than one motorist who was unaware that his tail lights were not working.

Head supports behind the front seat are also recommended. When you feel that the car immediately in back of you is following you too closely, signal for the driver to pass you. He will be delighted, and you may thereby prevent a stupid accident.

FAIR BUDGET
NEW YORK (UPI) — Two teen-agers can have a great time at the New York World's Fair for $5, reports "Ingenue" magazine.

The money will buy two admissions and hot dogs and soft drinks. For the exciting time, it is suggested the teens take in all the free things: see fantastic water displays and fireworks at the Bell "floating wing"; take pizza-making lessons at the Maestro Pavilion; get a free shoeshine at the Johnson Wax Pavilion; view the Pieta at the Vatican Pavilion; take a 10-minute ride in moving chairs through the Bell System exhibit; thrill at Sinclair's Dinosaur Land.

DRIVERS NEED HORSE SENSE
NEW YORK (UPI) — Not every driver has the horse sense to manage the high horsepower engine under the hood of the family auto, according to the National Automobile Underwriters Association.

Nicholas Dekker, the association's president, said the extremely high-horsepower engines available as options in many new cars are cause of increasing alarm. He said the organization is considering the possibility of higher insurance premiums for cars with especially high horsepower.

Hobart Baptist Circle Meetings

WMU Circles of Hobart Baptist Church met last week for study programs and business sessions.

DELANO O'BRIEN CIRCLE met Tuesday night at 7:30 in the home of Mrs. M. H. Keyser. The watchword was repeated by the members present and the opening prayer was led by Mrs. N. N. Black. Prayer calendar was read by Mrs. P. D. Boddy and special prayer for the missionaries was offered by Mrs. Jimmie Clark.

Gist, program chairman, presented the Royal Service program. A business session followed the program, conducted by Mrs. Mildred Stephens, circle chairman. Closing prayer was led by Mrs. P. D. Boddy. Refreshments were served to eight members and one visitor.

DAY CIRCLES met in a group at the church Wednesday morning. The second portion of the mission book, "Winds of Change", was taught with Mrs. Glen Watson and Mrs. Darrell Hinkle in charge of the program. A press conference was conducted with members acting as messengers and reporters. Several passages of scripture were read in addition to the material from the mission book. Following the study hour, a business meeting was conducted by Mrs. Jimmie Clark, WMU president. The budget was approved. The Week of Prayer for Home Missions will be observed in March.

Mrs. Capps Evaluates Scholarship Plans For Twentieth Century Club Members

Twentieth Century Club met Tuesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Jack Stroup, 1812 Fir, with Mrs. Bill Roots the presiding officer in charge of a short business session.

For an education report Mrs. Jack Foster presented Mrs. Ruby Capps, Pampa High School counselor, who gave an evaluation of the scholarship plans Pampa clubs use for awarding recipients. From her study of the results achieved from scholarships awarded locally and personally by the clubs as compared with other plans, Mrs. Capps prefers the personal choice.

Mrs. Capps said: "I think it more meaningful both to the club and the student when recipients are chosen from our own community. You can know their need and check on their progress. Many of our students can't go to college without your help. Where the local club gives a local scholarship the student has an added responsibility to your organization to make good." Mrs. Foster then gave a resume of the present career of the eight awardees chosen by Twentieth Century Club since 1958, when the first scholarship was given. Every one of them has an enviable record.

Mrs. Fred Neelage was leader of the program. "Conservation — A Challenge," stating that the breadth of this subject was to be limited to a symposium, "The Proper Use of Energy, Intellect and Opportunity." The speaker gave a definition of this type of discussion, and presented Mmes. G. F. Branson and H. R. Thompson to develop the theme.

Mrs. Branson said: "Each of us has the task of maintaining and preserving our heritage, not just physical and natural resources, but the spiritual challenge which is a bit difficult in our time. No nation will die as long as it is spiritually strong. Most of us have worthwhile contributions that we can make — many ways that we may use our intellect and energy to give opportunity. The price of change is that the just will be sacrificed with the unjust. We must seek to be masters of ourselves rather than masters of each other."

Quoting Whitney Bolton, "A professor in one of our leading universities said that 30 per cent of applicants could not read and 60 per cent could not spell." Secretary Wirz said that teenage population, once a minority group has swollen to well over 30 million. Teenage unemployment could develop into one of the most explosive problems in our nation's history. Any realistic effort to improve this condition will of course include the schools.

But schools, park and recreational programs will not provide the final solution. Business men are helping by supporting the Jr. Achievement Inc., program. The J. A. youths are increasing their knowledge of American free enterprise by owning and operating their own miniature corporations.

Mrs. Thompson discussed energy and opportunity saying, "Energy is the name given to the ability to do work. Most of the energy on this earth comes from the sun. The history of human development is the history of man's discovery of new sources of energy he can use to do his work for him. But we want to concentrate on the proper use of energy used by the modern housewife. Studies made in the 1950's by sociologists revealed that despite all her modern conveniences, she uses more time to do her housework than her mother did 30 years ago. She is so busy shopping, chauffeuring, using her washers and dryers and electric mixers, gardening, waxing, polishing, helping with her children's homework, collecting for mental health and the thousands of other little chores — there is something peculiar about the time housework takes today. Condensing many other observations, the reason a lot of people do not recognize an opportunity when they meet it is that it usually goes around wearing overalls and looking like work."

Music Association Marks Guest Night

Pampa Music Teachers Association met Tuesday evening in the Court House Cafe for a dinner meeting, with 22 members and guests present.

Fred Stockdale, Pampa High School band director, presented a most interesting program on "The World of Percussion" in which he explained the character and uses of the various percussion instruments of today. He pointed out how the quality of sound can be varied by the use of different kinds of drum sticks or mallets, both on drums and on the marimba or xylophone or various types of bells. He was assisted by two students, Greg Price and Mike Hargus, who gave demonstrations of several different rhythms using various mallets.

Mrs. W. H. Fuller, president of the local association, presided at the meeting. After making several announcements, she introduced members who in turn, introduced their invited guests. Ray Wilson gave the invocation for the evening.

Valentine decorations were carried out in the table appointments. These included a centerpiece and individual place cards for each member or guest. Candies were also used on each table. Hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. Fuller and Mrs. Sheila Parr.

PHS Chemistry Teacher Bids For High Award

Mrs. Elaine Ledbetter, Pampa High School chemistry teacher is one of 43 high school chemistry teachers that have been nominated for the Outstanding Chemistry Teacher Award jointly sponsored by Texas Chemical Council and Manufacturing Chemists' Association.

All of the state's independent school districts were invited to make nominations. T. F. Anderson, president of Texas Chemical Council, said the award program is being started this year as a means of recognizing the fine job our chemistry teachers are doing in our secondary schools.

The winner will receive suitable citations and medal and a cash award of $200. The judging committee includes top leaders in the educational and industrial chemical fields. In making its decision, the committee will consider such factors as classroom enthusiasm and initiative; ability to interest students in chemical courses and chemical careers; development of new ideas or new devices for teaching; extra-curricular activities in the school and community to awaken an interest in chemistry; and continuing effort to keep abreast of latest developments in chemistry, both academically and professionally.

Theft, Shattered Window Probed By Pampa Police

Pampa police reported a relatively quiet weekend over the city with reported criminal activity consisting of only one case of theft and vandalism.

Freddy Brown, 1332 N. Hobart, reported that two 750 by 14 tires and wheels were stolen from his auto, left parked Sunday on Highway 152. Brown told police he had trouble with the car and left it parked on the highway while he came into town for aid. When he returned, he found the two tires and wheels had been removed.

The tire and wheels were valued at $85. A front door glass was reported shattered at the Golden Que, 1103 Alcock. Police said apparently someone drove by and threw a concrete rock into the window. No estimate of the damage was made.

Death

(Continued From Page 1) hours later. The next morning, Bader's boat was found on the rocks at Perkins Beach. Bader was not in it. The Coast Guard said the lake had been so rough no man could have survived overnight.

Bader was gone. Authorities listed him as presumed dead. But Collier noticed that the gas line on his boat was disconnected. Gas lines do not accidentally become disconnected, Collier said.

Four days later, enter Fritz. In Omaha, Neb. In fact, in the old Roundtable Bar at 19th and Harney streets, where so far as anyone can attest the man known as John (Fritz) Johnson was born. The girl behind the bar, now Mrs. Betty Augustine of Omaha, remembers the moment well.

"He was fascinating, debonaire, well-dressed and not broke," she recalled. "He asked me out."

Mrs. Augustine was the first of many to be charmed by Fritz, the stranger at the Roundtable Bar, who bought an old hearse for his bachelor courtship and equipped it with a coffee bar, pillow and an incense burner. The city licensed the bachelor hearse as a "hunting vehicle."

Fritz, who caught the city's eye by perching on a flag pole for one solid month, became successively, a radio station announcer, sports director of a television station, and one of the best known, best liked and most flamboyant personalities in Omaha.

One day he took up archery "to strengthen his back muscles after an injury" (he said). He won the Nebraska state championship five weeks later. He enthralled his friends with vivid stories of a boyhood in a Boston orphanage and 13 years in the

Obituaries

Jewell Morgan Walker Funeral services for Jewell Morgan Walker, 44, 733 E. Malone, will be conducted at 2 p.m. Tuesday from Calvary Baptist Church with Rev. Joe Hawn officiating. Interment will follow in Fairview Cemetery under direction of Duenkel-Carmichael Funeral Home.

Mr. Walker was born April 30, 1920, in Atlanta, Texas. He died at 1:10 a.m. Saturday in Veterans Hospital, Temple.

Mr. Walker had been a Pampa resident since 1936. He was employed as a private detective and was a veteran of World War Two.

Survivors include a sister, Mrs. Lorine Klyce, and a brother, Paul Walker, both of Pampa. Pallbearers will be Jesse Beard, Hulle Beard, Jack Graham, Wilson Howard, Paul Keim, and A. A. Schuneman.

Albert Richard Parker Funeral arrangements are incomplete at Duenkel-Carmichael Funeral Home for Albert Richard Parker, 64, 430 W. Crawford.

Mr. Parker was born March 28, 1900. He died at 10:15 a.m. yesterday in a local hospital.

Mr. Parker was a member of Navy. He kept tropical fish - especially the Siamese fighting variety, the kind that devour each other.

And he hated the news. Even though he broadcast it, he hated it. His favorite program at one time was called "Good News of the Day," in which Fritz spoke only of the brighter things in life.

He was an "odd ball," but everyone liked him. In 1961, he gave up his bachelor ways and married pretty Nancy Zimmer, a 20-year-old divorcee and photographer's model. He adopted

County GOP Gets Amarillo Man as Tuesday Speaker

Thurman McCallister, the Amarillo Air Force Base instructor who recently challenged Rep. Walter Rogers to publicly explain his vote to send further American aid to Egypt's Nasser, will be the guest speaker at a meeting of the Gray County Young Republicans Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Citizens' Bank.

McCallister, who has reserved the Amarillo Municipal Auditorium so that Rep. Rogers can make a public explanation of his position, will speak on "Our Flexible Foreign Policy." His appearance here is part of a continuing effort by the Young Republicans to bring in speakers on subjects of vital and current interest.

"On a future program we hope to have Rep. Rogers speak and submit to questions," Fred Varnado, Gray County Young Republican program director, said. McCallister, a civilian instructor in jet mechanics at Amarillo Air Force Base, is one of two Amarillo citizens who filed suit on December 30, 1964, in federal district court, to halt further shipments of agricultural commodities to Nasser's United Arab Republic. On February 7, he released his challenge to Rogers and reserved the Amarillo municipal auditorium for February 19, 20 and 25. The Panhandle congressman has not answered the challenge.

The Gray County Young Republicans have announced that the public is invited to hear McCallister speak.

Burglary Charges Filed on Youth

District 2-B Tourney At Wheeler Tonight

WHEELER - First-place Briscoe boys and girls draw byes in the opening round, while the other six teams in each bracket seek the right to meet them in the district 2-B playoff which begins tonight, weather permitting.

Briscoe took both ends of the district round-robin, undefeated in 12 games. However, if they should be beaten in the tournament, the tourney winner and Briscoe would have to meet in a one-game playoff to determine the district champion.

If a playoff is needed in the boys division, it would have to be held this Saturday; in the girls division by next Saturday.

Chief opposition will come from Miami, led by 6-4 1/2 Big Ray Guerrero, who beat the Broncos in a pre-season tournament.

Funseth Is Winner In Open

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) - "When you are winning," says Rod Funseth, "everything seems to go just right."

Funseth, a 31-year-old pro who has had more than his share of frustration, had everything going for him Sunday, and he walked away from the pack to win the $67,500 Phoenix Open golf tournament by three strokes and pick up a check for $10,500.

That's just about the same amount of money I made in all of 1964 on the tour," he said.

Funseth got here Sunday was a lesson in the necessity of positive thinking; and the realization that good luck can make or break a golfer.

Change in Attitude
But I had a negative approach to the final round," he said. When I got up in the morning, all I was thinking about was playing a good game and picking up a solid check. I wasn't even considering winning.

HARVESTERETTES LOSE
DENVER CITY - Crane took the honors in the Denver City Volleyball Tournament this weekend as the Pampa Harvesterettes were eliminated Friday. Denver City dropped Pampa into the losers' bracket Thursday with a 15-8, 15-8 win. Pampa then lost to Crane Friday, 15-9, 15-11. DC was beaten by Phillips, which lost to Crane in the finals.

Pampa will play Perryton in their next game.

ment, and played them close in two losses, finishing with a 9-3 record.

Allison, 84, defending champion led by 6-2 Punk Childress and 6-1 George Markham, will also be a strong threat, as will fourth place Wheeler (6-6), which features 6-4 1/2 Mike Gandy and amazing sophomore Villard Hunter on the boards and 6-0 Richard Wallace as their ace shooter.

Lefors (48), headed by Ace Roberts and Larry Pruett, could always be a surprise, as could tall Mobeetie, led by 6-2 Jim Johnston, which upset Miami. Kelton (0-12) is figured as little trouble.

Briscoe girls are headed by Marvellous Mickie Fulks, the 5-9 five-year starter and four-year all-district, averaging 30 points a game. Defending champ Miami, behind 4-8 1/2 Patches Dodson, hitting 25 points per game, could well upset.

Wheeler girls, headed by Sherry Barnes, lack height, but have deadly shooting and are aiming for a piece of the cake.

Allison, 6-6, is led by Linda A Miller. Kelton and Lefors tied for fifth with 3-9 records, but Kelton won the flip. Lefors will be crippled by a knee injury to their leading scorer, Vicki Stone. Mobeetie is 0-12 on the season, despite tall post forward Judy Rowell and post guard Judy Uzel.

Allison and Lefors girls tangle at 5:30 tonight in the opening, followed by Mobeetie and Wheeler boys at 7 and Wheeler and Kelton girls at 8:30.

Allison and Lefors boys kick off action tomorrow night, followed by Miami vs. Mobeetie girls at 7 and Miami and Kelton boys at 8:30.

Western Culture in Washington

All things fall in time. Who wants caviar three times a day? The Kennedys' Irish Mafia, wearing their Brooks Brothers coats and narrow-brim hats, caught the fancy of the public for a while. But a public servant who persists in saying "vigah" is going to rattle the jaws of the nerve-neds of the Iowa corn farmer in time and they're going to want a guy who speaks English.

The Irish Mafia consisted of witty, droll, urbane and sometime apparently effeminate men and their boarding school wives and droves of day-school children. The watchword was youth, gaiety, culture and just enough Bohemianism to be fashionable but not contaminated.

People tooted flutes and sawed away on violins at White House musicales, reportedly to the acute discomfort of the Chief Resident. There was a flurry of redecorating the old pile into a semblance of the glamor that befits a royal court. Touch football; vintage champagne; discreetly avant garde art. The whole bit.

It was investigating and it caught up the public fancy and held it. How long our enchantment with the regime might have lasted, nobody can say. But it does appear we have made a solid retreat from it. If Jack Kennedy represented second-generation lace curtain Irish gone to money, Lyndon Johnson represents what an Easterner thinks a Westerner (or, at least, a Texan) ought to be like.

Except for a rather un-Texas predisposition toward the produce of Scotland in what is traditionally Bourbon country, the President is Texas—outside of Texas, that is. To folks who aren't sure Pedernales isn't a dirty word in Spanish, Lyndon is the avuncular, affluent, benevolent if sometimes grouchy Texas ranch millionaire.

Me 'n' Bird are having a little barbecue tonight — jest a thousand of our closest friends — and we'd admire to have you and the little lady drop around. "Hot-dawg! Just draw up yore yacet under yonder doggie and set a spell with us and the other remudas."

Real western lingo, you know. Wouldn't good old Uncle Fred in Ohio get a bang out of us having a real Western Barbecue with the President of the You-fifted States?

A lot of folks here in Pampa would, too. And come to think of it, that's not likely to happen. Lady Bird is a form of Western culture too, representing what you might call East Texas compense aristocracy. The halls of Tara, Chittlin's and gravy, Soft r's and hard likker, Honey ehiles and Rhet Butlers, C onfederate flags and hooty owls in the pines.

Cannel At Bay By Ward Cannel

Beefing up Cupid's Arrows NEW YORK (NEA) — "Have you no heart?" she implored. "No," he growled.

So begins Chapter XXIII of almost every romantic novel published before the outbreak of the First World War. And as those are the days of perfect love usually enshrined by sweet nostalgia, we must confess that we cannot understand why.

Times have certainly not changed that much. The heart is still the center of the universe. Passion is still the yardstick of happiness. At least to judge by Betty Anderson and Elizabeth Taylor.

It is just that the celebration of love no longer rests in the hands of the novel writers. And maybe it is just as well. After all, XXIII chapters of sentimental education can be a rather overwhelming textbook. Especially to a beginner stirred by only the vaguest of unformed yearnings.

We were struck by this matter the other morning on receipt of a reminder from the American Meat Institute that Valentine's Day would be here on Feb. 14, and that beef would be in plentiful supply for the festive occasion.

We have no quarrel with that. Valentine's Day is not diminished by the notice any more than a diamond is depreciated by a new setting. And, in fact, we would like to take the opportunity to modernize the rest of the textbook on love.

Live never dies. It is only that the object changes from time to time.

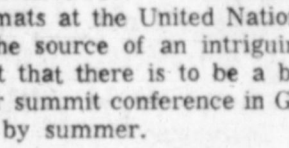

Boys cannot love truly until they are men, nor girls until they are women. The jobs of childhood are nothing compared with the solace of adultery.

It is better to have loved and lost. But most people do not realize that until after they are married.

Backstage Washington

Big Power Summit in Geneva by Summer, According to Afro-Asian Diplomats at U.N.

WASHINGTON — Afro-Asian diplomats at the United Nations are the source of an intriguing report that there is to be a big power summit conference in Geneva by summer.

Foremost among those saying this is Ethiopian Ambassador Tesfay Gebre-Egzy, a top leader of the large and influential Afro-Asian bloc.

According to Ambassador Gebre-Egzy, five powers will participate in the purported summit parley — the U. S., Britain, France, Russia and Red China.

This is squarely in line with what President de Gaulle advocated in his widely-publicized press conference last week.

Inquiries at the White House, State Department, usually well-informed congressional and other quarters produced no results.

As a counter measure, the U.S. is bringing some 12,000 Marines and several supporting air squadrons into northern Thailand.

This move will be announced as a "planned military exercise."

Preparations for this significant operation, to last "three months or longer if necessary," are being directed by Lieutenant General Richard Meyer, head of logistics for the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

General Meyer was flown to Bangkok last week on President Johnson's personal jetliner.

FLASHES — The deadly accuracy of the Viet Cong's mortar fire in the tragic Pleiku surprise attack is being attributed by U.S. experts to two factors: Careful fire plotting and ranging ahead of time, and radio equipped spotters inside the U.S. air installation.

In the opinion of intelligence experts, the Soviet rulers are awaiting further developments in Viet Nam. Militarily, a great deal is quietly underway throughout that strife-torn area.

OMINOUS BUILD-UPS — Apparently as a direct outgrowth of the rapid-fire events of the past week, Premier Alexei Kosygin, at the conclusion of his

WASHINGTON — The Director of this Disarmament Agency, under the direction of the Secretary of State, has frightening powers. He may negotiate directly with representatives of friend and enemy nations with international organizations, and with diplomatic representatives at home and abroad.

By executive order this Disarmament Agency may take over the activities and facilities of our Defense Department, including records, property, civilian personnel, and funds. Read Section 47 of the law your Congress passed. This so-called Arms Control Plan calls for disarmament in three stages — one, two, three, surrender! by 1971!

Congress does have veto power — if Congress is in session — over some acts of the Disarmament Agency.

The "late" Killer Khrushchev suggested a strikingly similar disarmament plan in 1959. Naturally.

Directed by UN The World Disarmament Plan would be directed by the UN Under Secretary for Political and Security Council Affairs — a post which has always been held by a Communist. And that do make it nice for the Communists — whose unwavering aim has always been to enslave the whole world.

Having a Communist to preside over world disarmament is like setting a fox to watch the hen house.

With the advent of nuclear arms, effective disarmament inspection and control became an obsolete concept. Power to destroy a nation can be hidden in a very minute space.

The mightiest weapon in the Soviet arsenal is not the great submarine fleet of 400, not the 175 army divisions, not the nuclear know-how our earlier traitors gave them — the greatest weapon the Russians have is disarmament.

The graveyards of history are full of countries who thought they could guarantee peace by disarmament.

A disarmament plan less sense than disarming our police to stop gangsters.

Straight Talk

By TOM ANDERSON Disarming the Police

In September 1961 Congress passed Public Law 87-297 by an overwhelming majority. Either it must be repealed or our freedom will be some of our congressional demagogues — those who read the bill — used the excuse "you can't vote against peace."

Under this Surrender Agency the people of the United States would be completely disarmed. Our Army, Navy, Air Force and missile bases, our factories which produce war material, our personal rifles, pistols — the last resort of a free people against tyranny — could be registered and then taken from us.

Frightening Powers The Director of this Disarmament Agency, under the direction of the Secretary of State, has frightening powers. He may negotiate directly with representatives of friend and enemy nations with international organizations, and with diplomatic representatives at home and abroad.

By executive order this Disarmament Agency may take over the activities and facilities of our Defense Department, including records, property, civilian personnel, and funds. Read Section 47 of the law your Congress passed. This so-called Arms Control Plan calls for disarmament in three stages — one, two, three, surrender! by 1971!

Congress does have veto power — if Congress is in session — over some acts of the Disarmament Agency.

Directed by UN The World Disarmament Plan would be directed by the UN Under Secretary for Political and Security Council Affairs — a post which has always been held by a Communist. And that do make it nice for the Communists — whose unwavering aim has always been to enslave the whole world.

Having a Communist to preside over world disarmament is like setting a fox to watch the hen house.

EVERYBODY'S BUSINESS

Double Standard Popular, Why Don't We Vote It In?

By SAM CAMPBELL Business Editor

When Huckleberry Finn was floating down the Mississippi River, he was wondering whether to wake his Negro friend so he could escape as the raft passed Cairo, Ill., or whether to turn him in to the authorities as the statute required.

On the one hand, he was under an obligation of friendship. On the other hand, he was obliged to obey the law of the land. He could not do both. Which should he choose?

Huck decided not to worry about the problem any more, and thereafter, if any similar situation confronted him again, he would do whatever should come handiest.

In that decision Huck Finn became a victim of what is called the "double standard." He adopted, in other words, an attitude of expediency. He lost sight of the basic division between right and wrong.

Poor Huck is not alone in his bewilderment. All of us at one time or another have failed to make the correct choice on a right-or-wrong issue. Many no longer even try to choose correctly. They do whatever comes handiest.

The clergy offers a classic example of the double standard. How many times have you heard a minister expound the very Word of God from the pulpit, and yet endorse robbery by the majority — on grounds that Biblical teachings do not apply to the individual in a group situation?

The Unionist who professes to be a Christian is another example — in that he is taught meekness, but he is willing to resort to force in order to get his way.

The businessman offers yet a third illustration — the type who goes down to the Boys Club to receive a medal for helping the young and then convives in closed meetings to bilk the people by a bond issue that gives a few control over the properties of many.

All Caught As I say, all of us have been tossed at some time on the horns of the double standard. Why then if it is so popular, is the double standard wrong?

Two hillbillies who had never been on a train before had been drafted and were on their way to camp. A food butcher came through the train selling bananas. The two mountaineers had never seen bananas and each bought one. As one of them bit into his banana the train entered a tunnel. His voice came to his companion in the darkness.

First Mountaineer — Have you eaten yours yet? Second Mountaineer — Not yet. Why? First Mountaineer — Well, don't touch it. I've eaten one bite and gone blind.

A child was hearing about wars and asked his father how wars got started. Father (starting to explain) — Suppose America quarreled with England... Mother (interrupting) — England and America aren't quarreling.

Father — I know, but this is a hypothetical instance. Mother — But you are misleading the child.

Father — No, I'm not. Mother — Yes, you are. Father — I tell you I'm not. It's an outrage the way you... Child — Never mind Dad, I think I understand now.

There was a long pause, with the soft sound of feet sort of shuffling on the floor. Then came the other voice, and it is as clear now as though it were yesterday.

"Shucks, I wouldn't want to do that."

Then there was silence. The voice seemed familiar from radio or somewhere. A look into the small room where the passport pictures were to be taken disclosed two middle-aged men. One was Will Rogers. There was only his friend with him. There was no photographer. Neither knew there was a young man in the next room.

That young man of 1934 had never met Will Rogers. He never did meet him, because he sat there quietly in the next room until Will had his picture taken and went on his way out the other door.

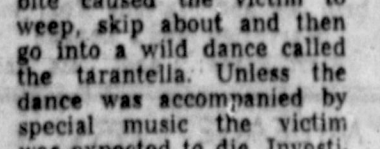

To a rather narrow, serious young math teacher, Will had been just another famous actor. But from that day on, the feeling persisted within him that Will Rogers was a great man. It was so simple a refusal to take advantage of his popularity.

Less than eight months later Will was dead from an airplane crash near Point Barrow, Alaska.

Wit and Whimsy: A collection of humorous anecdotes and short stories.

Matter of Fact

The tarantula spider gets its name from the town of Taranto, in southern Italy. It was once believed that its bite caused the victim to weep, skip about and then go into a wild dance called the tarantella. Unless the dance was accompanied by special music the victim was expected to die. Investigation has shown that the bite is not dangerous.

The Almanac

By United Press International Today is Monday, Feb. 15, the 46th day of 1965 with 319 to follow. The Moon is full. The morning star is Mars. The evening star is Jupiter. On this day in history: In 1862, the first ironclad vessel of the U.S. Navy, the "Monitor," was ready for sea duty after only 126 days of construction. In 1896, the battleship "Maine" was blown up in Havana harbor, inflaming public opinion and presaging the Spanish-American War.

of the South Vietnamese peasants and their lack of allegiance to a series of unpopular and unstable governments in Saigon. We should not ignore the bitter experience of the French during years of all-out war against the Communists in Indo-China. The French until the end only had air superiority with freedom to strike at will, but controlled the major cities of the North and maintained a large, well-equipped and battle-hardened army here.

Polaris Sub To Be Named 'Will Rogers'

By RAY CROMLEY Washington Correspondent WASHINGTON (NEA) — Reports that the 41st Polaris submarine (SSBN-695) will be named the Will Rogers brings back memories of more than three decades ago.

It was 1934. Will Rogers was at the height of his fame as a humorist "cowboy philosopher", newspaper columnist, vaudeville entertainer. He was the Bob Hope of his day and as popular as the Beatles are now. The U.S. government called on him for good will missions abroad. In a sense he was almost a folk hero for his witty comments about the state of government and the world.

As a young man looking my first trip to Japan and China it had been necessary to go up from Long Beach, Calif., to Los Angeles, for a passport. The picture submitted wasn't the right size, the passport people said. They sent me across the street to a small quickie passport picture shop. If recollection serves right, it was a walk-up. The dingy office was empty. But while waiting, voices came clearly through the open door of the next room.

One voice said: "Why don't you get a diplomatic passport and save all this bother? You could, you know. It would save you waiting in lines. You and your baggage would breeze by customs."

There was a long pause, with the soft sound of feet sort of shuffling on the floor. Then came the other voice, and it is as clear now as though it were yesterday.

"Shucks, I wouldn't want to do that."

Then there was silence. The voice seemed familiar from radio or somewhere. A look into the small room where the passport pictures were to be taken disclosed two middle-aged men. One was Will Rogers. Ships Stacked In Texas Gulf

GALVESTON (UPI) — About 100 ships rode at anchor along the Texas Gulf Coast today, still tied up by lack of progress in the five week old dock strike.

Shippers and longshoremen planned to meet again Tuesday in an attempt to end the stalemate that has cost the Texas economy millions of dollars.

Federal go-between James J. Reynolds, an assistant labor secretary, planned to meet representatives of both sides for another round of talks here.

Both sides were reportedly near agreement last week when the talks were switched from Galveston to Washington.

Mediator David Stowe, who has been in and out of Galveston, planned to confer with International Longshoremen's Association and management representatives in Miami later this week. Miami is the center of the South Atlantic tieup.

Elsewhere, dockers were back on the job in the ports where agreements have been reached.

In Galveston, the union had cut its demand for guaranteed work gang size from 21 to 18 men. It also modified its pay raise demands from 86 cents to 82. Management indicated it might go along with the work gang proposal if it could have some controls in hiring.

The shippers also said they would raise their wage offer closer to the levels sought by the union.

In the meantime harbor masters reported "at least 40 ships" lying idle at the nation's third largest port, Houston.

Other ships stood by from Lake Charles, La. to Brownsville, Tex. at the Mexican border. The strike has put thousands of longshoremen out of work on the West Gulf Coast. Hundreds of small businesses dependent on the longshoremen's trade were feeling the pinch.

Only tankers and some perishable cargo has been moved out of the ports since the strike started at midnight Jan. 10.

Iron Curtain Went up In Germany 20 Years Ago

EDITOR'S NOTE — The following dispatch is a compilation of material by K.C. Thaler, top UPI diplomatic writer in Europe; Joseph W. Grigg, chief correspondent in France, and Wellington Long, chief correspondent in West Germany.

By K.C. THALER
LONDON (UPI) — Just 20 years ago the great allied triumph of World War II — Roosevelt, Churchill and Stalin — drew a temporary dividing line across Nazi Germany.

In the seclusion of Yalta in February 1945, they were mapping plans for a defeated foe. The line they agreed upon was to be temporary, boldly sketching the boundaries of the areas in Germany that the Western allies and their Soviet partners in arms were to occupy, at war's end.

But the "temporary" occupation line hardened swiftly when victory did come and what Winston Churchill was to define as an "Iron Curtain" fell across not only much of Eastern Europe, but across postwar Germany as well.

On opposite sides of that line sketched at Yalta grew two opposing camps—Democratic Germany looking Westward, and Communist Germany looking East to Moscow.

Thus even before the guns of World War II were fully silenced the foundations were laid to the cold war, the formation of east-west power blocs, and to one of the key quarrels between them: Germany.

Ever since then, divided Germany has plagued the big powers and on perilous occasions in the last 20 years brought Soviet Russia and the Western alliance close to war.

Key To Peace
More than any other single factor in Europe today, Germany holds the key to the continent's peace and to its future.

The United States, Britain and France, remain publicly committed to a reunified Germany under a free government chosen by a supervised popular vote. Soviet Russia wants a communized or "neutral" Germany, and does not trust the idea of a popular referendum to produce either.

Ironically, both sides have reasons to fear a united Germany at this stage. The most important fact of Germany's relations with its neighbors today is that it is more powerful than any of them. Even divided, each portion overbalances the nations alongside.

Prospects for settling the problem of divided Germany — and the concurrent one of an isolated, divided Berlin — place any settlement in the far future.

Pessimists among the diplomats have quietly written off German reunification in our time altogether. The optimists say it might be achieved in 10 or 20 years, all going well.

A united Germany now on Russia's side would mean the end of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) to which West Germany alone is contributing some 12 divisions for the over-all defense of Western FELTING MACHINE — This is the machine that Acme Mattress Company uses in the production of Mattresses at their plant at 817 W. Foster. The machine lays the cotton in smoothly quilted layers for a softer and more durable mattress.

Old Mattresses Rebuilt in A Day With Felting Machine

Acme Mattress and Spring Company, located at 817 W. Foster, can rebuild an old mattress to individual specifications in just one day. An old mattress can be picked up in the morning, rebuilt, and delivered back to the customer all in one day.

Rebuilt mattresses from Acme sleep just like new ones. The expert craftsmanship at Acme makes it hard to tell the difference between a new mattress and a rebuilt one.

Most mattresses rebuilt at Acme retain the original cotton. There are two reasons for this procedure. The old cotton is usually of better quality than new cotton and because this old cotton is used, the costs are naturally cut down. The old cotton is reuffed, sterilized, and completely recleaned before being put into a rebuilt mattress.

Acme can produce an oversized mattress or they can make twin mattresses from a full sized mattress. Eugene Tollison, owner, offers a complete line of box springs and mattress covers that can be purchased from a large choice of colors.

Tollison invites anyone in the market for a mattress to visit the Acme Mattress and Spring Company and inspect the modern machinery used in mattress making. A telephone call to MO 4-6621, will bring company personnel out to pick up an old mattress for rebuilding.

WORD POVERTY OUT
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U. S. Information Agency (USIA) has forbidden its employees to speak to foreigners about President Johnson's "war on poverty."

A circular sent to all information posts abroad instructed personnel to call it the "equal opportunity program."
