Prize Winner Charges Newspapermen With Tending To Become Complacent

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—Fulz prize-winner Hodding Carter charged Monday that newspaper editors and publishers have a tendency to become complacent.

Carter, publisher of the Greenville, Miss. Delta Democrat Times, made the comment in an address at the second annual Pan-American press seminar. About 10 top news executives from North, Central and South America are attending the three-day session.

Carter said newspapers faced three serious obstacles — the monopoly, the chain, and the big newspaper.

"There is an inherent danger in these because a chain implies or means absentee ownership, a monopoly breeds indifference, and bigness means big money and a transfer to business brains," he said.

Carter pointed out that the small-town newspaper has an important place in the dissemination of national and international news.

"My newspaper is a small one in a small town. But there are some 1,800 dailies in the United States, most of them small ones like my own."

It is the small and medium-size newspaper which reaches most people and which reaches them to a more personal level. They are the journalistic voices of the United States," Carter said.

Only two of the 56 men who signed the Declaration of Independence were bachelors; 16 were married twice. Of the 54 signers who were married in each had an average of more than five children and they fathered a grand total of 325 children.

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW
United Press International HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — During all the laughter and fun on Monday night's Academy Awards show on ABC-TV, I kept waiting for someone to say a word about Marilyn Monroe, or Gary Cooper, or Dick Powell, or Charles Laughton.

They were all movie stars once, not too long ago, in fact until just the past year, when they all died. And in their time, they had quite a bit to do with making the movies something special, and with bringing considerable coin for many of those on Monday night's Academy audience. It is a favorite line of some show people to tell critics that if they can't say anything nice, don't say anything. So, since the open-hearted could not find anything to say on sentimentalists of show business could not find anything to say on the above matter, I do it here and now for them.

So much for the lovable side of our fair town. As for what was telecast, the Academy Awards, which last year were on the verge of being relegated to the glamor of a halftime basketball ceremony Monday night, made a rather stunning comeback, thanks in no small measure to the absence of Bob Hope's gasterism and the presence of his replacement-encee, Frank Sinatra, who was untowardly flip at the start but relaxed to finish with charm, ease and confidence.

Had More Style

Despite the inevitable flaws of such an impromptu program (Sinatra several times made remarks, thinking commercials were still on), and despite the usual appallingly flubbed comments of Academy President Wendell Corey, Oscar came through with perhaps more style than ever before on television. Last year, this viewer and others noted the need for total revamping of the show's format to emphasize glamor and big names, not the movie nobodies we got in 1962—Vince Edwards and Muthis and Gogi Grant and Andy Williams and Gene Pitney (who?).

This year, the revamping part took form. The presenters were past Oscar winners. There was more showing of film clips. There was a generally brisk, business-like pace, with brief thank-you speeches, an often pleasant mixture of news (the awards) and entertainment, with Sinatra helping to blend things quite well so that they finished almost on the scheduled dot. Some stars like Ingrid Bergman and Audrey Hepburn, made filmed appearances from Europe.

Praises Eddie Fisher

And there was even exciting entertainment, unexpectedly from Eddie Fisher, who is no film star but is irrevocably a Hollywood celebrity by way of the facts of life. His early seven-minute medley of Oscar-winning songs not only got the show off the ground — and was perhaps the high spot of the night — but probably saved his career. It was a chip-down performance for him, and he got the benefit of the night's best camera work.

Another medley with oldtime movie star Ethel Merman doing Irving Berlin songs, also helped draw together the idea of Hollywood's past and present. And that absolutely fine gentleman, Gregory Peck, lent dignity in his walk to accept the best-actor award. I felt like letting out a hurrah for him, but I never allow myself pleasure during working hours. It's all right now, though. Hurrah!

On Oct. 3, 1941, Hitler announced that Russia was defeated, never to rise again.

Tossed Bottles Damage Cars

Bottle-throwers were operating in Pampa last night. Two cases were reported to police, both involving the tossing of bottles from moving automobiles.

Delbert Groves, 429 N. Carr, told police that when he halted for a stop sign at W. Kingmill and N. West Sts. shortly before 8 p.m. someone in a passing car threw a beer bottle into his windshield, breaking the glass and showering him with beer.

Groves described the car as a yellow Cadillac and said it was occupied by a man and five girls. Charles Leffer, 812 Mary Ellen, reported that at about 11:30 p.m. a car went north in Mary Ellen at high speed and someone threw a bottle and hit the grill of his car parked in front.

Swearing-In Ceremony Set

The swearing-in of Dr. Ray M. Hampton to succeed himself as a member of the Pampa school board will be among the agenda items when the board holds its regular monthly meeting Thursday.

Hampton, current school board president, was re-elected in last Saturday's election. He won over Herschel V. Wilks, manager of the local Celanese Corp. plant, by a vote of 549 to 302. Hampton was re-elected for a 3-year term.

Other members of the board are John Gikas, H. Creel Grady Jr., Floyd Watson and R. D. Wilkerson.

Cattle Receipts Down From 1962

AUSTIN (UPI)—Receipts of cattle, calves and hogs at 178 Texas livestock auction markets during March were below a year earlier, the U.S. Department of Agriculture said today.

Cattle and calves marketed through auctions during last month numbered 350,000, down 13 per cent from receipts in March 1962.

Sheep and goat receipts, however, were up 35 per cent over last year with a total of 104,000 head marketed through livestock auctions last month. Hog receipts during March were 43,000 head, down 14 per cent over last year.

Firemen Kept Busy Answering Calls Monday

A careless smoker apparently caused a grass fire which burnt off five acres of land belonging to Mrs. J. D. Lard 29 miles north of Pampa, yesterday the fire department reported.

The firemen were called out at 12:50 p.m. to the fire off Highway 70, apparently caused by someone throwing a lighted cigarette from a passing car.

Firemen had a busy time, as they returned from the blaze, only to be called out at 1:45 p.m. to 933 E. Fisher. The cause was a trash fire in an alley behind the Leon-Hinton residence. There was no damage and the cause of the blaze is unknown.

At 7:20 last night, they were called to the home of Bob Gilchrist, 313 N. Faulkner, for a grease fire in a pan on the stove. There was no damage.

At 2:40 a.m. firemen extinguished a blaze in a pickup truck at 913 Denver, belonging to Marvin G. McEntire. There was heavy damage to the interior of the truck. The blaze was apparently caused by a short in the wiring.

MEET MR. MACHINE

The impersonal machine that dispenses all kinds of things can create hard legal problems. Recently a California man, Mr. Jones, bought airplane insurance for a round trip to Dayton, Ohio. He stuffed $2.50 into the slot machine for $62.50 in insurance on a "scheduled air carrier." On the way-back-the-flight from Dayton to Chicago was fogged in and cancelled. Jones had to get home to California next day. The airline arranged for him and two others to take an air taxi to Chicago. The little plane never made it. Jones was killed.

Mrs. Jones made her claim for insurance. The insurance company rejected it. The accident happened on a non-scheduled plane, the company said, and its policy had explicitly excluded accidents on such planes.

But the court ruled for Mrs. Jones. Though this plane was not scheduled, the vending machine did not make this difference clear to Jones. He bought with the reasonable expectation that the policy would cover his whole trip, including reasonable substituted flights. The company should expect such things now and then.

In mass-produced contracts and mass sold things, the buyer's reasonable expectations can only be defeated if it is plain that he knew of the contract's limitations. For a contract means a meeting of the minds and therefore an informed buyer. The machine issues a policy before anybody can read it. Depositing the money buys the unreading contract.

Courts are likely to construe ambiguities due to such operations against the insurance company.

When the vending machine sells things it is hard to get warranties from it. Any warranties in the thing may be limited to what is stated on the article or what might be reasonably implied. Again, in case of doubt the law may look for what the buyer had reason to expect when he dropped his money in the slot.

Sometimes the machines can be sued: The government may sue a slot or pinball machine if it is being used for illegal purposes. The government asks that the machine be forfeited and perhaps destroyed. Why sue the machine instead of its owner? Because, for one thing, you can't find the unknown owner to sue, and so you sue the

Washington Window

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press International

Gilbert & Sullivan lived and died too soon to write the required nonsense musical comedy about the Merry Andrews of the U.S. Department of National Defense.

Defense is the great departmental servant of the people where it is official policy to lie to press and public on the theory that the end justifies the means. The Pentagon's short-haul chances of not being caught in a lie are pretty good. The long-haul chances of getting away with it are not good at all. Moreover, lying is bad habit forming.

The vice spread within the department where it develops, a lie detector machine is kept handy for checking the stories of civilian and military brass. The lie detectors were plugged in last week when Secretary Robert S. McNamara forbade the tests.

Lie Detectors
Newspaper revelation of the plan to attach lie detectors to top presidential appointees—as well as others in the department—was a shocker, even for a shock-proof Washington.

The Pentagon is having its share of bad publicity. The department seems to be seized by what the head shrinkers call the death wish. Defense has been frittering away its own prestige with press, public and Congress at a suicidal rate. If this is the defense public relations policy, ex-Ford-nian McNamara must look sadly at his public relations operators as the Ford Motor Co. once stared, glassy-eyed, at its late Edsel division.

Thus far in the saga of the Pentagon and its public relations, it becomes evident that this is a subject more suitable for Greek tragedy than for funnymen Gilbert & Sullivan. There is nothing remotely amusing in the arrogant disdain of the Pentagon bureaucracy more power and spending money than is good for irresponsible bureaucrats to possess in a republic founded on the principle that political and money power reposes in the people.

All Appointees
The brassy civilians are appointees, all, safely insulated from the voters. Congressmen, all elected officials, are responsible to constituencies of voters. Bureaucrats have no such responsibility. The spending power of the bureaucrats has become so great that they can award or withhold a great defense contract and, thereby, make or break the economy of a congressional district or even, of a state.

This enormous dollar power seems to have intimidated Congress. Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., is billed as the toughest investigator in the Senate. Maybe so, but the Pentagon bureaucrats have been counter-punching McClellan dizzy in the TFX-General Dynamics-Boeing inquiry.

This is a new and foreboding aspect of government. The Pentagon bureaucracy has become so arrogantly powerful with billions of tax dollars to spend that it dares to smack down a congressional investigation of its spending record. McClellan is on the people's side in this dispute.

"I don't care if World War II is over—come back and let me know they cut those 'temporary' taxes!"

The Lighter Side

A Matter Of Big Thinking

By DICK WEST
United Press International
CARACAS, Venezuela (UPI)—Marcos Perez Jimenez, Venezuela's unfrocked dictator, may not have been everyone's idea of a model statesman, but I will say one thing for him. He knew how to think big.

Shortly before his constituents decided it was time for a change, Perez Jimenez erected near this city two of the world's most spectacular hotels, give or take the wagon yard at Merkel, Tex., my old hometown. One hotel—the Humboldt—he put on a mountaintop and the other—the Macuto—he built by the sea. They were architectural triumphs and had everything that a luxury resort needs with one minor exception.

The missing element was paying customers. In order to reach the Humboldt, a guest had to ride a cable car up the mountainside, scale a precipice that would intimidate Sir Edmund Hillary, or bring his own helicopter.

Neither Hotel Open
These were conditions that the average tourist was unwilling to meet, and the Humboldt, after catering for a time to empty rooms, had to close. This was more than could be said for the Macuto which was completed in 1958 at a cost estimated from $30 million to $45 million and then didn't open at all.

Last year, in an effort to bring the turkey to life, the Venezuelans made a deal with a U.S. hotel chain, the Sheraton Corp., to take over the management of the Macuto, and this week, it is having its formal opening, or re-inauguration, as the Macuto-Sheraton.

To commemorate the event, the Sheratons have imported several plane-loads of Yankee celebrities and run-of-the-mill freeloaders, which explains the presence here of your humble correspondent. I came down from Washington, D.C., to investigate conditions that members of the U.S. Congress must endure when they go on overseas junkets. Venezuela is a popular stopping place for congressional travelers and presumably some will be staying at this hotel in the future.

Like Ship Shakedown
In a sense, a hotel opening is like the shakedown cruise of a new ship. Those of us now installed in the Macuto-Sheraton provide the management with a chance to break in the staff and work out any bugs in the service before the paying guests arrive.

To that extent we are pioneers and we feel a kinship with Christopher Columbus who sailed up Venezuela's Orinoco River on his third voyage to the Americas.

We are clearing a path, so to speak. Pioneering, of course brings certain privations. Just this morning I heard Rod Serling of television's "Twilight Zone," say that the lobster-thermidor he ordered Thursday night was cold when it reached his table.

But Serling displayed the stiff upper lip that is typical of our group. Standing on the banks of one of the hotel's four swimming pools he waved toward the mountains and the sea and said "it takes such a little bit to make a man happy."

To that I can only add "bravo."

Experiment In Therapeutic Workshops
PALT ALTO, Calif. (UPI)—A worker walks away from his bench for a few hours, but he is not fired; only docked in pay. It is part of a successful experiment in rehabilitating chronic mental patients through use of a sheltered workshop. The workers are patients at the Veterans Administration Hospital here.

The shop operates as a non-profit corporation with jobs contracted from outside firms. Patients are paid on a production basis, rather than by the hour. Jobs are chiefly of the assembly line type. For example, patients repair and recondition electronic equipment. The shop has taken in as much as 16,000 pounds of dishes at one time, packed them in small cartons and marketed the cartons.

Fast workers earn $2 per hour but wages are generally low. This is because operating funds for the shop are not ample; also, it is good motivation for patients to look forward to earning more for the same sort of work outside the hospital.

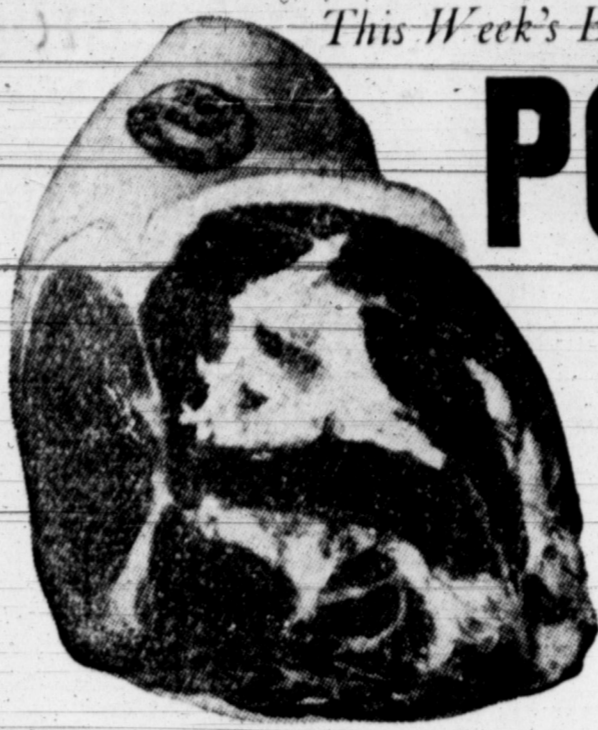

Dr. Roy S. Hubbs, psychiatrist in charge, reports that the work seems to be therapeutic, as is the ability to earn money. If because of anxiety or depression a worker walks away from his bench, it is overlooked.

The shop has had 48 patients as employees. Of these, 25 are now out of the hospital and employed in the community. Of a group of 48 similar patients, chosen through the years to be valid for comparison, eight have been released from the hospital to outside employment.

Staff of Life
MENLO PARK, Calif. (UPI)—Wheat chips, wheat candies and a quick-cooking wheat for main dishes are some of the more promising candidates among new foodstuffs made of wheat. Food scientists at Sanford Research Institute here have been investigating such new uses for the nation's mounting wheat surplus. The wheat chips are similar to potato chips. The candy, a toffee, was well received by institute tasters. They were less favorably impressed by wheat brittle candy and wheat caramel balls.

Sunrise Rites Underground

STANTON, Mo. (UPI)—Two unusual Easter Sunrise services will take place in this area. They'll be underground in Missouri caves.

Rev. Lyman Riley, of the Church of Latter Day Saints, will conduct the services at Meramec Caverns here to accommodate motorists on Route 66 and a few miles away at Leasburg, Mo., his home town.

At both underground emporia, he will use a natural rock formation as a pulpit.

Rev. Riley, besides being an ordained minister, is president of the Missouri Cave Association whose aim is to get Missouri known nationally as "The Cave State."

"Conducting services in a cave reminds me of Roman times when Christians held their services underground to avoid torture," he said.

Temporary Lake To Be Created By Sediment Control

ABIQUIU, N.M. (UPI)—The gates of Abiquiu Dam will be closed for sediment control creating a small lake for about 60 days, the U.S. Army Engineers announced today.

Small boats will be allowed on the lake from one to three miles long beginning April 12.

The engineers district office in Albuquerque said water is from the early spring run-off in the Chama watershed, and will ultimately be released for downstream use.

Maximum depth of the temporary lake will be from 20 to 25 feet, it was estimated. No swimming will be permitted.

The announcement said this marks the first time a large pool has been formed behind the newly created dam, and the first time boats have been permitted. The dam was completed in February after six years of construction.

The Abiquiu is the second highest earth-filled dam in the Western world, according to the federal agency, and is designed to serve as both a sediment and flood control reservoir.

Donkeys are the only mode of transportation in Clovelly (Devon, England) high street.

SHE'S "BUGS" OVER BUNNY AND PAL—Debbie Reed, of New York City, enjoys a tryout of two new hand puppets which will have kids goggle-eyed in toy departments this fall. Each sports 11 phrases at tug of a plastic ring. At top, "Bugs Bunny." Fellow he's horsing around with is "Mr. Ed," named after the talking television horse.

Walter Rogers Reports

Year's First Big Money Bill

The first major appropriations bill of the Session, the fiscal 1964 appropriation for the Department of Interior, came before the House last week. The Appropriations Committee had done its work well in putting the original departmental requests. As the bill reached the floor for debate, the committee had cut the requested amount by $92 million to $935 million, a total that stood $21 million lower than the sum advocated by the fiscally-conscious U. S. Chamber of Commerce.

That $935 million amount was cut still further. I offered one amendment that pared another $5.5 million from the appropriation. Another Democrat, Rep. Sam Gibbons of Florida, successfully pressed an amendment paring another $1.6 million.

My amendment eliminated from the bill a sum earmarked for remodeling the Old Patent Office Building in downtown Washington for use as a gallery to house valuable portraits and other art works. I noted in presenting the amendment that I hesitated to do so because I might be branded as lacking in cultural appreciation. But I declared that considering the financial pressures on the nation, the building could better be used to house essential government operations. When the vote was tallied, my position prevailed by the close margin of 112 to 106. Mr. Gibbons' amendment, passed by voice vote, eliminated a proposed $1.6 million in architects' fees and planning costs for a National Air Museum to house and display historic aircraft.

Another amendment, one offered by that great Democratic Party conservative from Virginia, Rep. Howard W. Smith (chairman of the House Rules Committee), would have cut another $10 million from Interior's request. It would have eliminated the purchase of what Howard Smith, in his usual good-humored way, described as "marshland for the use of migratory ducks to go back and sit down on and spend the winter." He said, "The ducks have been right patient with us. I wonder if they would be willing to wait a year or two. I do not think it would do the duck hunters much harm." However, despite the efforts of those of us who joined Mr. Smith in advocating patience among ducks and duck hunters, the amendment failed of passage by one vote, by 122 to 121.

I'd like to emphasize this point: All over the United States there are groups that advocate Federal expenditures for favored projects. The budgetary items cited to you above were backed by well-organized groups of Americans—art lovers, airplane enthusiasts, duck conservationists. The art lovers and the fans of old airplanes suffered setbacks; the friends of ducks won their round. You can count on the art and airplane people to be back next year for another try at the Federal treasury. Most Americans, being natural joiners, are members of one group or another that has its eye out for Federal assistance of some kind, and the result is difficult pressure on the Congress.

At any rate, those of us who are working within the majority party to keep spending down did meet with some success last week. Our efforts, I assure you, will continue.

ton, please include in your plans a visit to my office in Room 1330, New House Office Building.

This week's visitors included Mr. and Mrs. Earl Plank of Hereford; Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Plank of Canyon; Mr. Bill Lane and Mr. Frank Pharris of Amarillo; and Mr. and Mrs. Gabe Anderson, Jr., of Bovina.

Coming in with spring like a breath of fresh air are smooth, small hair styles. The coiffures reflect the Empire influence seen in fashions this season. In a very young version from the Charles of the Ritz Salon in Paris (left) the hair swoops low at the sides into perky wing with the front forelock scooped back for a slight pompadour effect. New, too, is the small puffed crown and sides (right). In this style, a shiny ribbon of hair is parted half-way down the middle. The sides softly frame the face, ending in a chinline quiche.

Smooth Hair Styles Are Like Breath Of Spring

by Alicia Hart
Newspaper-Enterprise
Beauty Editor

What you do with your hair this spring is just as important as the clothes you buy and the make-up you wear.

Elaborately back-combed or teased hairdos are on the wane. It's a good thing, too. Not only is teasing bad for the hair, but the "big" coiffures created more than one double-take and innumerable chuckles.

One evening we watched a chic young woman take her seat in the theater. She was wearing a black hat with a crown at least nine inches high. There was a wave of muffled laughter as she removed her hat upon request only to expose a coil almost as high as the hat.

only halfway back, the hair softly frames the face and is topped with a small puffed crown.

The hair framing the face may be turned forward in a quiche or may swoop low at the sides and look like perky wings. The latter gives a more youthful look to the classic Empire design.

Another version of the middle-parted Empire is ideal for evening wear. It is a face-framing style and reaches its peak with a soft, molded crown which you may surround with a jeweled circlet. The hair at the back is waved close to the nape of the neck.

As you can see, this is not a spring for the untamed, uncut look. Even the more boyish styles, such as the Oliver, are neater and cut to mold to the shape of the head.

Dear Abby... Just Enough Truth To Be Believable

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR MADEMOISELLE ABBY: I am a Frenchman visiting an American friend I met in World War II. Why do you Americans think we Frenchmen are such devils with the women? I have been married to a lovely Frenchwoman for 16 years and have never had the desire to cheat on her. I have been to parties in this country and everywhere I go women say to me, "Oh, you Frenchmen! Do you mean to say that you do not have a girl friend on the side?" Such remarks to me are not funny.

JEAN PAUL J.
DEAR J. P.: If "everywhere" you go women inquire about your infidelity, you're going to the wrong places. Many Americans are poorly informed on French culture, just as many Frenchmen believe all Americans to be materialistic, loud and showy. The trouble is, there is just enough truth on both sides to make generalizations believable — and annoying.

you think he owes me a few dances? Or should I just sit and be a good sport when I am dying to dance?

WALLFLOWER
DEAR WALLFLOWER: Don't be a wallflower — be a dandy lioness. Insist that the first dance is yours, and if you find yourself sitting alone and tapping your toes, get up and "tap" the woman who is waltzing your hubby around. There's a big difference between being a good sport and a dope.

What's on your mind? For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Take It From Kathy

by Kathy Peterson

Dear Kathy: My daughter is 15 and going through a difficult bit of growing up. She is always begging to borrow my clothes. We aren't quite the same size, but things such as sweaters fit us both. This is a typical situation: She wants to borrow a fox stole for a party. I know it isn't right for a girl of that age to dress in that sort of thing, and that others will probably laugh if she wears it. But I also know her heart is set on it. How can I convince her that it's best to look her age, without hurting her feelings? — Mrs. J. L.

LEERY
DEAR LEERY: Do a little checking. If your girl friend isn't where she says she'll be, why don't YOU do a little "baby-sitting" — if you can find the right baby?

DEAR ABBY: When we go to a party most of the men sit around and refuse to dance. My husband is the life of the party because he's a wonderful dancer and he loves to dance. So all the women line up to dance with him. I rarely get to dance with my own husband. They all say, "Oh, you have him all the time!" They must think we dance together at home. The truth is, the only time we get to dance together is when we go out — and then everyone else grabs him. He feels flattered that he is so popular, but don't Sometimes just expressing thoughts in a new way will do the job. A father often makes an impression when a mother fails — or a favorite aunt can get across the idea.

As a mother, you have every right to a "No" with or without an explanation that seems reasonable to your daughter.

TOTAL PERFORMANCE:

FORD GALAXIE 500XL SPORTS HARDTOP

YOU'LL KNOW WHY FORD SWEEPED THE FIRST FIVE PLACES AT DAYTONA... WHEN YOUR '63 FORD IS STILL GOING STRONG YEAR AFTER YEAR

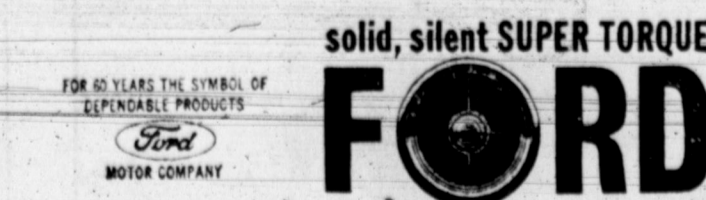

Daytona's big, banked oval puts unbelievable stresses and strains on engines, steering gears and frames. The Fords that won at Daytona took all the punishment this famous track could dish out over 500 miles of grueling competition without missing a beat.

In this toughest of all stock car events, mechanical failures claimed over fifty per cent of the starting field. But of twelve Fords entered, nine went the distance. Ford took six of the first ten places.

Five-hundred-mile events like Daytona are a public demonstration of toughness, reliability and sheer engineering excellence that are part of the new generation of Fords. A test like this can't be duplicated on anybody's testing grounds — it's run right out in the open. Any car can enter. But only the car that has the best total combination of strength, balance, precision control and road-clinging suspension can win... that's what we mean by total performance.

Visit your Ford Dealer before you buy any other new car. Here's what you'll find: a new kind of total-car durability, a new kind of handling ability, a suspension that is startlingly smooth yet sticks to the road like tar. If you haven't driven one lately, you can't really know what a new Ford is like. Remember, if it's built by Ford, it's built for performance... total performance!

High School Students Acclaimed For Catching Screwworm Infestation

COLLEGE STATION (UPI)—Fourteen Liberty High School students were praised for their discovery of the screwworm infestation in Liberty County.

The extension service said the discovery in Liberty County served as a reminder for all livestock producers in Texas to be alert for evidence of the pest, which usually begins showing up this time of year.

The screwworm eradication program at Mission has been in progress for more than a year. In the case at Liberty, sexually sterile screwworm flies were dispersed on and near the infested premises within 48 hours after the case was discovered in the wound of a calf.
