

Supreme Court Decision Called 'Plug for Objectivity'

(EDITOR'S NOTE — What is the significance of the Supreme Court's decision that religious exercises in public schools are unconstitutional? Here is an analysis by the UPI religion editor.)

By LOUIS CASSELS
WASHINGTON (UPI)—In banning devotional exercises in public schools, the Supreme Court went out of its way to encourage objective study of religion as a regular part of the school curriculum.

board of the National Council of Churches.
Monday's 8 to 1 ruling was unequivocal in saying that public schools may not continue the widespread practice of opening each school day with a religious exercise which usually includes the recitation of the Lord's Prayer and the devotional reading of a passage from the Bible.
Surveys indicate that about half of the nation's public schools now follow this practice. It is much more common in the South and East than in the Midwest and West.
The court said that such exercises, whether compulsory or voluntary, violate "the command of the First Amendment that the government maintain strict neutrality, neither aiding nor opposing religion."

But the majority opinion, written by Justice Tom C. Clark, went on to speak of the "exalted" place which religion occupies in American society. And it departed from the specific legal issues before it and offered schools and students these words of advice:
"It might well be said that one's education is not complete without a study of comparative religions or the history of religion and its relationship to the advancement of civilization."

"It certainly may be said that the Bible is worthy of study for its literary and historic qualities. Nothing we have said here indicates that such study of the Bible or of religion, when presented objectively as part of a secular program of education, may not be effected consistent with the First Amendment."
The court's strong plug for objective teaching about religion was warmly welcomed by a number of religious leaders.
J. Irwin Miller, president of the National Council of Churches, noted that the council's policy-making general board, meeting in New York on June 7, adopted a pronouncement opposing "devotional use of the Bible" in public schools, but asserting that "the full treatment of some regular school subjects requires the use of the Bible as a source book."

The council statement said that "no person is truly educated who is not aware of the vital part played by religion in the shaping of our history and culture, and of its contemporary expressions." It suggested that information about religion be taught in schools as an essential part in courses in social studies, literature and the arts.
The Rt. Rev. William F. Creighton, Episcopal bishop of Washington, said the court decision "clearly opens the door for an increased emphasis upon our religious heritage as a regular part of the public school curriculum."

One of the great concerns of religious leaders has been that banning prayer and Bible reading might lead to a total silence on the part of the public schools about God. The objective-teaching about religion, which was endorsed by the Supreme Court majority, could resolve that problem.
The court majority went to great pains to knock down the belief—which has been advanced by a number of religious leaders and some historians and constitutional lawyers — that the First Amendment merely forbids the government to show preference to one religion over another. They have argued that this was all the founding fathers had in mind.

But the majority opinion asserted sharply that "such contentions, in the light of the consistent interpretation in cases of this court, seem entirely untenable and of value only as academic exercises."
The court said the "command of the First Amendment" actually is that "the government maintain strict neutrality, neither aiding nor opposing religion."

Congressional Efforts To Parry Ban Seem Futile

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Any efforts in Congress to override the Supreme Court ban on religious exercises in public schools appeared doomed today, despite sharp criticism of the ruling by some lawmakers.
Congress and the state legislatures could override the high court by enacting a constitutional amendment, but no one really expects they will do so.
The Supreme Court, in a long-awaited decision, ruled 8 to 1 Monday that use of the Lord's Prayer or Bible reading in public schools for devotional purposes violated the First Amendment to the Constitution, which prohibits governmental "establishment of religion."
Justice Tom C. Clark wrote in the majority opinion that the government must maintain strict "neutrality" between man and the worship of God. He held that

Palo Duro Floods; 150 Are Trapped

By United Press International
Water cascaded into Palo Duro Canyon State Park in the Texas Panhandle Monday night, trapping 150 campers and drowning a 15-year-old boy. The youth, Richard Lott, was the second person killed by rainstorms that were a God-send to farmers in parched areas of the state.
Some of the tourists might not be brought out until Wednesday, a park ranger said.
A bus wreck caused by a rain-glick highway outside Houston killed Gail Griffin, 10, who was thrown from the bus when the driver swerved to avoid striking a bridge abutment.
Lott was swept under Palo Duro Creek while swimming with two companions.
The current forced his companions to turn back and abandon efforts to rescue him.
Body Recovered
Lott's body was found a short time later.
The campers were trapped downstream from where Lott drowned. The site was 10 miles west of Canyon. Food and bedding was flown in to the 150 campers and sightseers who were trapped.
Park Ranger Buddy Hoskins said the campers might be there until Wednesday.
Hoskins said there was no danger, but that milk was flown in by helicopter for the babies among those stranded.

Italy Plunged Into 'Worst' Political Crisis

ROME (UPI)—Premier-designate Aldo Moro, deserted by the dissonant Socialists, today declined the task of forming a new Italian government. His move plunged Italy deeper into its worst political crisis in 15 years.
The sudden Socialist swing to the opposition quashed Italy's hopes of having a government by the time President Kennedy visits this country June 30. It also posed an increasing threat from the big Communist party, which gained one million votes in the April 28 elections.

Bykovsky May Be Forced Down Before Scheduled

MOSCOW (UPI)—Soviet cosmonaut Lt. Col. Valery F. Bykovsky, whirling in twin orbits with the world's first space woman, closed in on a space endurance record today, but there were reports he may be forced down ahead of schedule.

Bykovsky, who was fired into the cosmos Friday, was expected to surpass the 64-orbit record set last August by Maj. Andrian Nikolayev.
His fellow space voyager, Miss Valentina V. Tereshkova, 26, passed her 29th orbit, eclipsing the top American performance of 22-9 orbits set last month. She was launched Sunday to become the world's first woman in space.

There were unconfirmed reports that Bykovsky's Vostok V spacecraft was caught in a gradually diminishing orbit. If the reports proved correct, he might be forced down to earth ahead of schedule, which is widely believed here to call for an eight-day flight.

Both Slept Well
Nikolayev's flight lasted just short of four days.

The official news agency Tass said Bykovsky, 28, a married jet pilot, and Miss Tereshkova, a brown-haired, dimpled bachelor girl who likes parachuting, slept soundly for seven hours Monday night and that all systems in their space ships were working perfectly.

Official reports said the space couple were "feeling perfectly well."
Soviet physician Jonuson Hazen told Tass Monday cosmonette Tereshkova likely will be followed into space by other women. He said her flight aboard the spaceship Vostok VI was a "logical development."

Cab Company Transferred, Architects Hired by Council

A half dozen items of business were handled in a 30-minute routine meeting of the city commission in City Hall this morning.

The commission approved the application for transfer of ownership and permits for the Yellow Cab Co. from P. G. McElroy to John W. Price.
R. B. Cantrell & Co. Architects of Amarillo were employed to make repairs to the foundation of Lovett Memorial Library.
The commission passed on first reading an ordinance annexing a portion of the Jarvis-Sone Addition on the northwest edge of Pampa, and approved a refund of $2,326 in engineering fees for paving an area already annexed to city in the Jarvis-Sone Addition.
Commissioners gave their approval to the ballot form for the July 9 special election on proposed changes in the City Charter.
Agreement was reached to set July 2 for a meeting with T. Carr Forrest of Forrest & Cotton, Dallas consulting engineers, and bond company representatives from Amarillo and Lubbock to discuss plans for Pampa water and sewer improvements and the floating of a bond issue for a new sanitation plant and water treatment plant.

House Votes to Curb Deductions For Individuals

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The House Ways & Means Committee voted today to raise $500 million in new revenue by curbing itemized tax deductions for individuals.
The new restrictions would bar individuals from claiming deductions of the federal income tax returns for the state and local taxes they pay on gasoline, automobile tags and drivers' licenses, cigarettes and alcohol and other beverages.
General sales taxes would remain a tax-deductible item. So would property taxes and income taxes paid to states or municipalities.
The new tax rules would take effect next Jan. 1. Thus, it would not apply to taxes paid this year or to returns filed next spring.
The proposal was approved as the committee worked on a compromise version of President Kennedy's tax-revision and -reduction program. It was the biggest revenue-producing provision that has won committee approval.

Hit and Gallop

NEW BERLIN, Wis. (UPI)—Police today were on the lookout for a "hit and run horse."
Arthur Lambrecht, 58, told police he stopped his car when confronted by two horses. He said one of the horses jumped on the hood of his auto and butted his head into the windshield, breaking it and showering Lambrecht and his wife with glass.
The horse then climbed off the car and strolled off with its friend.

Hospital Bond Polling Places Set for County

Gray County voters will vote July 16 on a $150,000 bond issue, submitted yesterday by County Commissioners. If it passes, the bond will pay for enlarging a hospital building in McLean.
The county polling places in the 12 election precincts are: precinct 1, Community Center, Lefors; 2, Baker School, Pampa; 3, Grandview School, Grandview; 4, Alameda School, Alameda; 5, City Hall, McLean; 6, Laketon Store, Laketon; 7, Horace Mann School, Pampa; 8, Mrs. Elmer Milton's residence, Hopkins; 9, First National Bank Annex, Pampa; 10, Gray County Courthouse, Pampa; 11, Phillips Camp Community Hall, Phillips Camp; and 12, City of Pampa Fire Station, No. 2, Pampa.

Only qualified voters who own taxable property in the county will be eligible to vote at the special election.
County officials said if it carries, the bond issue would increase the county tax rate five cents on each $100 of taxable property valuation for a period of two years, 1964 and 1965. The county's 1962 tax valuation was $54,523,322.
County Judge Bill Craig said the proposed bond issue, if approved, would increase the county tax rate from 70 cents to 75 cents for general fund purposes for the two-year period, 1964-65 and then revert back to the present tax rate.
Officials said the election order, issued by the County commissioners yesterday, was preceded by the presentation of a petition signed by more than 10 per cent of the qualified taxpaying voters of Gray County.

Citizens Group Sets Meeting for Friday

Battle lines were being drawn today in the pre-balloting activities by both sides in Pampa's July 9 special election to amend the city charter.
There will be four propositions on the rather lengthy ballot.
Only one of them will be controversial and that's the one that is triggering the pre-election skirmishing.
It has to do with the proposal to change the charter so that each ward candidate for city commissioner will be elected by a majority of qualified voters in the city at large.
Under the present charter, commissioners are elected by a majority of voters in the ward in which the candidates reside.
Under the proposal to be voted on July 9 there would be no change in the ward boundaries and candidates for each ward would have to live within the boundaries of that ward. The big change would be that all voters in the city would have a right to vote for or against candidates in all four wards.
Two statements on the upcoming election were issued today, one by Mayor H. R. Thompson and one by Bill Watson, temporary chairman of a Citizens Group, which will hold a meeting in the Palm Room of City Hall at 7:30 p.m. Friday.
Mayor Thompson's statement reads:
"We have a very important election coming up July 9th. In my

Macmillan Victory Fails to Still Calls For Resignation

LONDON (UPI)—Prime Minister Harold Macmillan was under increasing pressure today to resign despite a parliamentary vote of confidence in his handling of the Profumo scandal.
Political observers and the press predicted it was only a matter of time before the 69-year-old Conservative party leader steps down for "a younger man." Some sources believed he would bow out some time this summer.
Macmillan survived a crucial House of Commons confidence vote Monday night, but the 321-252 result fell far short of the Conservatives' over-all majority of 93. The usually "Unflappable Mac," his face white and drawn, led the chamber to cries of "resign, resign" from the opposition Labor party.
It was considered almost certain, however, that Macmillan would make no move prior to the visit of President Kennedy here June 29-30. Kennedy is coming to London ostensibly to discuss the broad aspects of Western strategy against the Communists.
Expectations Investigation
As a follow-up of the debate, Macmillan was expected to move for a full investigation of the Profumo affair. Monday night George Brown, deputy leader of the Labor party, asked for a select committee of the House of City Commissioner L. P. Fort told his colleagues on the council today that Pampa is threatened with a rabies epidemic if the city doesn't do something about the stray dog and cat problem.

Fort said "Pampa is not going to the dogs, but the dogs and cats sure are coming to Pampa."
He asked and was assured by Mayor H. R. Thompson that the dog and cat problem would be given a place on the agenda at an upcoming meeting of the commission.
"Dogs and cats are taking the town," Fort said, "and while this question has come before the commission time and again, I think we have reached the point where action is necessary."

Recording Equipment Is Stolen From High School

A tape recorder and radio equipment valued at more than $800 was stolen from the choir office at Pampa High School sometime last night.
Principal Cameron Marsh reported to Pampa police this morning that a Sony tape recorder, valued at $500, and a Girard turntable, worth approximately $125, had been taken.
Police reported no visible point of entry, and theorized that the burglar had hidden in the school until after the janitor had closed the building at 10:30 p.m.

There was no sign of forcing the choir room office door, which was locked yesterday and was standing open this morning, police said. It had apparently been opened with a key, they added.
In addition to the radio equipment, the thief may have also taken a white dinner jacket belonging to the choir. Some 14 of these had been taken off their racks, suggesting that the burglar may have gone through them until he found a good fit. An inventory is being taken to determine how many dinner jackets are missing.

AGRICULTURE: The stunning upset of Administration proposals for the nation's wheat farmer was probably the most significant item of the month, if not the year, as far as agriculture was concerned. Another, less dramatic perhaps but no less important to Texans, was the beginning of committee consideration of proposed cotton legislation. These two subjects will be discussed briefly here, with other proposals that have a bearing on the agricultural economy of our state.

WHEAT: As you are no doubt aware the wheat farmers of America said "no" to an Administration proposal that would have placed them in an economic and agricultural straight jacket. Their vote was an example for all Americans, particularly for those cynical ones in our midst who say the trend toward complete socialization cannot be reversed. In my opinion, the American people owe the wheat farmers a vote of thanks, for if the vote had approved the Administration's proposals it would have been taken as an indication that complete regimentation is the order of the day.

Thirty years of artificially inspired circumstances cannot be abandoned overnight, however, without unfavorable reactions for the people involved. It is for this reason that we must enact legislation that will protect the wheat farmer while at the same time continuing the march to agricultural freedom. Ultimately the government should get out of the business of regulating and controlling the American farmer. In the meantime the farmer should have more choice in the matter of crops, with price supports used as a guarantee against disastrous prices, rather than as a means to jack the price of agricultural commodities so high that they cannot move in trade channels.

COTTON: Efforts are now being made to effect a compromise that might lead to legislation this session. At present the cotton industry is in deep distress. The so-called "two-price" program, wherein foreign users can purchase American cotton cheaper than our own users can purchase the same cotton, has led to extensive inroads being made by synthetic fibres. Shortly after this session opened, Congressional committees began working on the cotton problem. No sooner had this task begun than the Secretary of Agriculture jumped into the act with pronouncements that did nothing but muddy the waters. This action by the Secretary, in my opinion, did much to delay any solution. He was as far out of touch with farmers at that time as he proved to be later in the wheat referendum. And, if no corrective legislation is forthcoming at this session, we can thank those bureaucrats who insist that the farmer (and everyone else) play the game their way or not at all.

CATTLE: I have joined with Senator Simpson of Wyoming and others in sponsoring legislation designed to restrict the importation of cattle, beef, and veal. The measure, S. 557, would establish an annual quota equal to the average annual quantity imported during the five-year period ending December 31, 1962. Beef and veal imports have jumped 41 per cent in the last year, from 689.1 million pounds in 1961 to 970.9 million pounds in 1962. Live cattle imports are up about 20 per cent and exports of beef and veal are down about 9 per cent. It must be remembered that the cattle industry is not under federal subsidy. Ranchers have resisted the temptations of a floor under their prices, despite the fact they must buy feed that is grown under subsidy. Under these circumstances I believe they deserve all the help they can get. I do not believe they should be driven to the wall by an unanticipated flood of foreign cattle and beef dumped on the American market by an Administration that seems to think more of the wishes and desires of foreign governments than it does our own people. We shall endeavor to attach the bill as an amendment to the first appropriate vehicle that comes out of the Senate Finance Committee.

POULTRY: We were extremely unhappy to hear that the European Common Market has increased its already high tariff against the importation of American poultry. Some time ago, as a result of letters from Texas constituents, we asked the Secretary of Agriculture if more legislation was needed in order that America might negotiate more favorable trade relations with foreign markets for our poultry. The European area has been a comparatively lucrative market for American poultry farmers, a great many of whom are Texans. The Secretary of Agriculture assured us, and the letter is in our files, that no new legislation was needed; that the government was intended to accelerate its efforts in this field, and implied that things would get better. Now, with the announcement that tariffs will go even higher, the results of this government's efforts are obvious.

National Service Corps (Domestic Peace Corps). Hearings have now begun on the Administration's so-called Domestic Peace Corps, or National Service Corps. These hearings will be held before the Migratory Labor Subcommittee, of which I am ranking Republican member. We have had as witnesses Mr. Stewart Udall, Secretary of the Interior; Mr. Robert Kennedy, Attorney General; Mr. Anthony Celebrezze, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare. Presently, I am disposed to be against this bill. It is my intention to demand full-scale public hearings and studies in depth to determine the potential value of such a program.

Government Lobbying: Repercussions to the Administration's activities in trying to assure a "yes" vote in the recent wheat referendum continue to reach this office. We were treated to a spectacle of "lobbying" for the proposal by people on the federal payroll. The dangers of this should be obvious to all citizens. In the first place all taxpayers, those who are in favor of the proposal and those who are against, must contribute to the fund that is used to propagandize. This is vastly different from the legislative branch, where spokesmen from both sides have forums in which they can voice their opinions. The Administrative branch, of necessity, must speak with a single voice when Administrative proposals are put before the people. Quite obviously the citizen will then have to turn elsewhere for the "other" side of the argument. He should not be placed in the position of having to pay taxes, a portion of which will be used to influence his own thinking, and at the same time turn elsewhere for an objective picture of what is taking place. The only answer, it seems now, is for the Administrative branch to curtail its activities in the field of propaganda. It is also obvious that they will not do this unless forced to do so. There will be efforts in this session of the Congress to achieve this end. I shall support these efforts.

NEW YORK (UP)—Edward F. Underwood feels there is an excellent chance that the attack on the record highs set in 1961 will be resumed in the near future.

However, Underwood warns, short-term corrections should be more frequent as the advance extends further. The analyst sees little chance of a severe general correction and feels that a flexible but basically bullish approach still is warranted by both traders and investors.

Bache & Co. regards the recent setbacks in the market as a basically technical reaction and believes the market is setting the stage for an advance to new high ground before long.

Robert H. Stovall of E. F. Hutton & Co. sees the market as displaying generally constructive patterns with most interest remaining with some and sound groups and volume tending to expand as prices rise. He feels that if the market reaches a new high it may signal a greater return to equities.

All four amendments to the charter.

The handbill says in part: "Pampa is one city, not four separate villages. Election of our mayor and all commissioners by all the voters in Pampa will promote harmony and progress. No other Texas city Pampa's size still uses our present system."

Commissioner L. P. Fort said today "voters in Ward 3 and 4 do not want the charter change and will fight it to the limit."

The Ward 4 commissioner added: "There are a lot of voters in the other wards who will vote against the charter change when they become thoroughly acquainted with the proposals."

The other three proposed amendments on the July 9 ballot include one providing for the method of electing a mayor pro tem and two amendments to repeal and delete from the charter two articles concerning a 1947 election which are no longer effective.

Commons to do the job and "rescue from this terrible story some better system for the future."

Former War Minister John Profumo, whose illicit love affair with a young London party girl set off the scandal, today issued his first public statement since he resigned two weeks ago. The brief statement, released by his lawyers for him and his wife, actress Valerie Hobson, said: "Mrs. Profumo appreciates that the press, radio and television are asking for some personal comment from her and herself. "In the statement he made in his letters of resignation to the prime minister and chairman of constituency association, he expressed deep regret for his actions. He wishes to take this opportunity through the medium of the press to repeat to a wider public his profound remorse. Beyond this neither he nor his wife have anything to say."

Profumo and his wife have not appeared in public since he resigned.

During the debate, the Laborites accused Macmillan of handing Russia a "triumphant success" in its efforts to smear British security in the eyes of the United States.

The bitter, often incisive six-hour debate Monday left no doubt that Macmillan's government had suffered greatly as the result of the sex and security scandal which forced War Minister John Profumo to resign.

Twenty-seven of Macmillan's own party members of Parliament abstained in the vote, reflecting their fears that the scandal will harm their chances at the polls in the next election. The scandal added to the decline of the Conservative party's prestige among the public.

Heavily Criticized
The British press heaped criticism on Macmillan today. Perhaps typical of the comment was the statement by the pro-Tory Daily Mail that the debate marked the beginning of the end for Macmillan.

District Governor Walter P. Moore of Houston, joined 450 Division 6 Kiwanians at Boys Ranch near Amarillo Sunday afternoon and spoke to the group on the 1963 theme of Kiwanis, "Responsibility, The Key to Freedom."

80 Kiwanians and their families were attending from the Top O' Texas and Downtown Clubs of Pampa.

The Kiwanians were taken on a tour of the entire Ranch, which lasted approximately 1 1/2 hours. The tour included a complete look at the dormitories, sanctuary, church, schools and swimming pool.

Cal Farley, founder of the ranch was on hand for the event and extended a welcome to the entire group.

Vacant House
Damaged by Fire

Firemen were called out at 1:45 a.m. today to extinguish a fire at 825 S. Banks. The house, owned by Johnny Everhart of Skellytown, was vacant. Firemen reported heavy damage to the bedroom and heavy smoke damage throughout the house. Cause of the blaze is unknown.

The Liberals as well as the Laborites called for his resignation during the debate.

Considering that every effort had been made by Conservative leaders to whip the rank and file into line, the result of the vote was a disappointment to the prime minister. The majority was the second smallest of Macmillan's six-year tenure in office.

The scandal was triggered on June 5 when Profumo, 48, resigned after admitting he lied to the House of Commons about his friendship with Christine Keeler, a 21-year-old party girl.

Profumo, a married man, stated in Commons March 22 that there was "nothing improper" about his relationship with Miss Keeler, but later it was disclosed he was having an illicit love affair with her.

Plans Set for Firework Display

The annual free fireworks display, sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, will begin at 8:30 p.m. July 4 in Recreation Park on the Rodeo Grounds, east of Pampa.

Before the program and display, the Pampa Shrine Club will serve barbecue to the public from 6-8:30 on the grounds. The program includes the annual July 4 presentation of the colors, pledge of allegiance to the flag, invocation and national anthem.

The chamber began sponsoring the display in 1959 to remind Pampans of the meaning of Independence Day and to make the celebration safe, Chamber officials said this morning.

Last year, the Chamber estimated the fireworks spectators at 15,000. The fireworks are furnished by the Burnett Fireworks Co., of Enid, Okla.

velopment" in view of earlier flights by men.

Bykovsky Monday exceeded the 48-orbit flight by his fellow Soviet cosmonaut Pavel Popovich, who made a tandem flight with Nikolayev last August.

The "group flights" are designed to achieve eventually a link-up of several spacecraft which would form a platform for launching flights to the moon and the planets.

Bykovsky's flight, according to the original information, was taking him around the earth once every 88.4 minutes at an angle of 65 degrees to the equator. The orbit was between 110 and 147 miles above the earth.

One Second Faster
Miss Tereshkova was moving one second faster at the same angle to the equator along a path between 114 and 146 miles above the earth.

Both were traveling about 17,400 miles per hour.

It was considered almost certain the two space adventurers would not try to link up. Authoritative sources said Monday Soviet scientists had no such plans for them.

The official news agency Tass said the two craft came within five kilometers (3 miles) of each other during Miss Tereshkova's first orbit Sunday.

Car Collision

Three cars collided four miles west of Pampa on US 60, yesterday at approximately 2:40 p.m. No one was reported injured in the accident.

Involved in the accident were John Gamble of Amarillo, Donnie Kidd, 1117 Mill Road, and Redell Lightfoot of Amarillo.

Kidd was attempting to pass Miss Lightfoot and Gamble was attempting to pass both cars, according to investigating patrolman Stanley Schneider.

Gamble, after passing both automobiles, pulled back in to the right-hand lane, colliding with the Kidd automobile, which in turn collided with Miss Lightfoot's car. Schneider said.

On Charges Of Fraud, Theft

The Gray County Sheriff's Office is holding two persons in jail this morning on warrants for a felony charge and a misdemeanor.

George G. Randolph Jr., 32, of Graham, Tex., was in county jail awaiting action of the Grand Jury on a felony charge of theft by false pretext. A $2,500 bond was set this morning in Justice of the Peace, Nat Lunsford's court.

Randolph had been charged with giving two worthless checks amounting to $435, to James Ellison, Ellison Motor Company, of McLean. Deputy Sheriff Shirley Nichols, returned Randolph to Gray County yesterday on a felony warrant from Graham.

Bill Chapman, 26, of New Orleans, La., was also in county jail today awaiting action from Lunsford on a misdemeanor charge of frauding an innkeeper.

Chapman was arrested on a warrant in Amarillo and brought back to Pampa at 6:30 p.m. yesterday by Deputy Sheriff Jimmy Bowers. Chapman was charged with spending two nights here in the Black Gold Motel and Western Motel and leaving without paying his room fees.

SPAGHETTI SUPPER — Kit Kat Klub entertained its summer rushees with a Spaghetti Supper on Tuesday evening on the back-lawn and patio of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rdy S. Bourland, 2429 Duncan with their granddaughter, Miss Janie Leverich, KKK member, as hostess. Spaghetti was served with a tossed green salad, buttered French bread and iced tea at quartet tables covered with red and white checked cloths centered with candles in wax bottles. Approximately 65 rushees and members attended; each were pinned with a nametag shaped as a chef's hat. An Italian motif was used in the yard and patio decorations. Seated at the table, left to right, are Misses Venita Turcotte, Judi Johnson, Donna Achord and Linda Shew, rushees with Miss Leverich, hostess; Miss Jane Wells, KKK member and Miss Sandra Weatherly, KKK president.

DKG Member Honored At State Convention

Mrs. M. Roy Sullivan, 408 Linda, received an Achievement Award and was installed as first vice president of the state organization of Delta Kappa Gamma, international honorary society for women teachers, at the 34th annual state convention held in the Granada Hotel, San Antonio, June 6-7.

She will also serve as state chairman of the Committee on Personal Growth and Services and represented that committee at a workshop for officers and committee chairmen on Monday.

Mrs. Sullivan, a music teacher at Robert E. Lee Junior High School, served as State Music Chairman and director of the State Choir, in 1959-61, and as president of the Beta Delta chapter, Pampa, in 1954-56. During her term as state chairman she directed two state regional meetings.

She was one of 10 members who received the Achievement Award

Mrs. M. Roy Sullivan achievement award

Amarillo, immediate past chairman of the State Research Committee, a member of the State Program Committee, and the incoming state parliamentarian.

This award is granted to members who have rendered outstanding service to the organization on both the chapter and state levels, and the number is determined on the basis of one per 1,000 members. Since Texas now has a membership of approximately 10,000, ten awards were made this year.

Miss Frances White of Port Arthur, a sister of Mrs. Julian Key and a frequent visitor in Pampa, was installed as recording secretary.

Other officers of the state organization are Miss Sarah Tobolowsky, Dallas, president; Mrs. F. A. Ramba, Jr., San Antonio, second vice-president; Miss Frances Welch, Dallas, corresponding secretary; and Miss Gladys Wallis, Amarillo, parliamentarian.

Miss Mary Reeve, president of Beta Delta, was among the 174 chapter presidents honored at Presidents Dinner, Friday evening, represented the chapter at the "honors table" recognizing those chapters which had made contributions of one dollar or more per member to the State Scholarship Fund; and was a member of the convention choir which sang at the Founders Dinner, Saturday evening.

Other members of the local chapter who attended the convention were Miss Lillian Mullins, second vice-president; and Miss Claudia Everly, a charter member, past president, a past state chairman, and currently, chairman of the nominating committee.

Beta Delta's scrapbook, compiled by Miss Marjorie Ewing, Panhandle, received a "Superior" rating, exceeding the 150 points required for that rating by 75 points.

MUTINY ON THE BOUNTY TECHNICOLOR

DEAR ABBY: The letter signed "SMART TOO LATE" interested me. Here is a boy who urges other young people not to wait until their last semester of high school before buckling down to study. He uses himself as an example because he had just received the shock of having been turned down by the college of his choice. What gives a person who has failed the authority to lecture to others on the subject?

MRS. JONES DEAR MRS. JONES: A winner is obviously in a position to give advice, and many will listen. But nobody can inspire a drunk to sober up like an ex-drunk who has been able to do it himself.

DEAR ABBY: My son is 17 and wants to get a driver's license. He drives all right, so that's not the problem. You see, he was born in March, and I didn't get married until May of the same year. I don't want to give him his birth certificate with that information on it. He says he needs his birth certificate to get his driver's license. What should I do?

MARRIED MOM DEAR WORRIED: You do not say whether you married the boy's father, or another man. Your problem involves laws and procedures that differ in different states. In some states birth certificates can be "fixed up" (to protect the child) and the original sealed. Ask your city or county health department, or the department of vital statistics, for information.

DEAR ABBY: Maybe this problem will sound small and unimportant to you, but it's really got me stumped. After 25 years and 3 children my husband now says, "I just can't sleep with you any more because you snore."

Now, Abby, do you think he's got somebody else or is snoring enough to make a man sleep alone?

SNORING WOMAN DEAR SNORING: Believe him. Snoring has driven more husbands (and wives!) out of their mates' bedrooms than infidelity.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "PATTY'S PIG": Knowledge is the awareness that fire will burn. Wisdom is the blister. Blisters heal. Cheer up, Sister.

For a personal, unpublished answer to your letter, write to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Don't put off writing letters. Send one dollar to Abby for her booklet, "How To Write Letters For All Occasions."

LITTLE LIZ

The Rev. and Mrs. R. G. West Sr. were honored June 9 on the occasion of their 40th wedding anniversary in the Church of the Brethren, 600 N. Frost, where Rev. West serves as pastor.

Guests were received by the honorees and registered by their granddaughter, Miss Gina West. Mrs. West wore a corsage of ruby red baby roses.

The refreshment table was appointed with a white linen cloth centered with an arrangement of white carnations, stock and Baby Breath in a ruby red dish flanked by white tapers.

Punch and cookies were served by Mrs. Clyde L. Carruth.

Approximately 100 guests attended. Among the out-of-town guests were Messrs. and Mmes. John Triplett of Barger, Henry Shibleh of Lamar, Colo.; Lewis Best of Wiley, Colo.; Garvin Elkins of Amarillo; Joe Wilkison and Mary Jo of Dallas; Mrs. Ed Burton of Darrouzett.

Rev. West was married to Miss Mildred Conner on June 8, 1923 in Manassas, Va. They are the parents of four children: Virginia Lee Doane, who now lives in California; Don West, who lives in California; Waltine Zimmerman in Germany and Russell Jr., who lives in Pampa.

Virginia Lee, Waltine and Russell Jr. were born in Keiper, West Va., where Rev. West was pastor for six years. Don was born in Illinois, where Rev. West served as pastor for three years. Rev. and Mrs. West held pastorates in Indianapolis, Ind., Roanoke, Va. and in 1939 came to pastor the Church of the Brethren in Pampa.

He served as pastor here for 12 years during which time he taught a Bible course in the high school. Mrs. West taught in Pampa Junior High School. In 1951, they moved to Wiley, Colo. where he was pastor and Mrs. West taught

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — If it's true that "you can't change human nature," then network television's first big-money quiz show since the scandals of recent years, "100 Grand," is a pretty fair bet to be a big hit when it premieres in September. The past success of such programs is a proven factor.

On the other hand, if that maxim about human nature holds true in many areas, there it is an equally fair bet that there are sweaty palms and nervous reservations aplenty in the network set over the possibility—however remote—of another scandal, especially if "100 Grand" should cause a revival of other big-money quizzes. For the past temptation to dishonesty on such programs is also proven.

Despite the scandals, there are still plenty of quiz shows on the networks, but the prizes involved are not much in comparison with what they used to be, so the temptations have been lowered. But even so, human error in one form or another is always in the shadows.

ABC-TV, which came out clean in the scandals, is the network bringing back the big-money question and answer format that once held the nation spellbound. Its top prize of $100,000 is the biggest ever.

Naturally ABC says the show will be foolproof against temptation. What's more, "public service"—that useful pair of words that has been employed to butter up many a project—is even involved. At last report, the idea of the show was to have an amateur oppose an expert—selected by a city on a specific subject. If the amateur wins, he keeps the loot. If the expert wins, his earnings go for his city's benefit.

Whether "100 Grand" is a hit depends, in part, on its network competition. It will air at 10 p.m. EDT Sundays, as now scheduled. On NBC-TV, the competition is the "Show of the Week," which is beatable. But on CBS-TV, the competition is "Candid Camera," a very high-rated show that could give "100 Grand" trouble. For those who believe in poetic justice, "100 Grand" is replacing the "Voice of Firestone" classical concerts.

The question is whether "100 Grand" is worth the risk it entails. Since the scandals, the networks have striven hard to establish themselves as providers of much "public service." In addition, only recently, there have been investigations of the ratings system; demands for softer and fewer commercials; and losses by the networks over control of the best hours of their affiliates for programming. Government and public pressures for responsibility are stronger than ever.

The Channel Swim: NBC-TV tonight is pre-empting "Chet Huntley Reporting" for a special on the British government crisis brought about by the relationship of John Profumo, former secretary of state for war, with party girl Christine Keeler. It is a half-hour program.

With Russia having orbited a woman in space, NBC-TV's "Today" show Thursday interviews Jerri Cobb, first American female to pass the initial phase of training given to astronauts. Same network's "Meet The Press" has Attorney General Robert Kennedy as its guest Sunday.

WASHINGTON—Rep. Alvin E. O'Konski, R-Wis., on the Supreme Court's ban on religious exercises in public schools:

"I think what Congress ought to do is establish a board of psychiatrists to give the Supreme Court a mental examination."

WASHINGTON—The Rev. Silas G. Kessler, moderator of the Presbyterian Church, on the Supreme Court's Bible ruling:

"Responsible Americans will abide by its decision in good grace."

BOSTON — The Rev. James Breeden, an Episcopal clergyman and a Negro leader of the planned mass boycott of public schools in Boston today:

"This is the start of a process of involving students and parents in the making of democracy... this is just the beginning. It will increase and spread."

CAMBRIDGE, Md.—Brig. Gen. George Gelston, commander of National Guardsmen here, discussing possible new civil rights demonstrations:

"We hope to God we don't have to stick anyone. We don't plan on it. Our troops will use their bayonets to defend themselves."

A GI BOOST—When lovely Miyoshi Umeki sang her heart out for lonely U. S. occupation troops in Japan, she soon became their darling and that of Tokyo as well. From that point it was but a step to fame on American television and the movie role opposite Red Buttons in "Sayonara," for which she won an Oscar.

REPLACEMENT READIED

MOBILE, Ala. (UPI) — A vessel now being converted at a shipbuilding yard here is scheduled to replace the Marine Sulphur Queen, which disappeared in the Gulf of Mexico last February with 39 men aboard.

The replacement, Marine Texan, is expected to be ready for service Nov. 20. It will be able to carry 23,000 tons of liquid sulphur and is to be operated by Marine Transport Lines of New York.

THE WIZARDS OF SPACE (8)

By Don Oakley and John Lane

Ten miles northeast of Washington, D.C., near Greenbelt, Md., is the first major laboratory in the U.S. to be devoted entirely to the peaceful investigation and exploration of space.

Goddard Space Flight Center, named after rocket pioneer Robert H. Goddard, was founded on May 1, 1959. The center, with a staff of more than 2,700, is responsible for the complete development of unmanned sounding rockets and satellites. In addition, it manages NASA's Delta rocket, two world-wide satellite tracking networks and the Goddard Institute for Space Studies in New York, which concentrates on basic theoretical research.

Goddard is one of the few installations that can carry a space experiment from beginning to end—from idea to construction of a satellite to launching to tracking to evaluating data.

Three of the most important satellite projects now going on at Goddard are the orbiting observatories: Orbiting Solar Observatory (OSO), Orbiting Astronomical Observatory (OAO) and Orbiting Geophysical Observatory (OGO). The latter is to be called POGO when launched in a polar orbit and EGO when launched in an eccentric or elongated orbit.

The first OSO was launched in March 1962 and was credited with gaining more information about the sun than all previous observations. Knowledge about the sun is vital for manned flight to the moon, since the radiation from as yet unpredictable solar flares is a major hazard to astronauts in deep space.

The first EGO launching is scheduled for this year, the first POGO for 1964 and the first OAO for 1965. Eventually, one or more of each will be aloft at all times.

Looking into the far future, Goddard is studying the feasibility of repairing satellites in orbit. In the third panel, an astronaut, sent into space in a winged re-entry vehicle similar to the Air Force's proposed Dyna-Soar, is making repairs on a Nimbus weather satellite. Nimbus, also a Goddard project, is successor to the famed Tiros weather satellite series. The first Nimbus will be shot into a polar orbit by 1964 from Pt. Arguello, Calif.

President Kennedy is caught in a political squeeze play on civil rights. The Kennedy administration trapped itself.

The President invited his current political troubles by making a mistaken political decision at the outset of his administration. This was to ignore for two or three years the civil rights campaign promises that contributed so much to his election.

Whatever may be the morality of making and ignoring promises to any group of voters, this decision by the President in 1961 was bad politics. It led directly to the Kennedy administration's present predicament. The decision looked pretty good at first.

Pushes Voting Rights

After deciding against immediate action to enact into law all of the 1960 Democratic Campaign promises on civil rights, Kennedy, concentrated, instead, on voting rights with authority already at hand. This high policy decision was accompanied by some of the most effective race relations politicking ever observed in the United States. The President made Negroes socially welcome at the White House.

He named Negroes to federal office such as they had not before. By word and deed, the President emphasized to the Negro community his active and friendly interest. By surprise visits and surprise telephone calls, Kennedy kept before U.S. Negroes an image of a President who also was a warm ally.

That was a lot more than any previous president ever had done to make the Negro feel that the head man loved him. And for about 18 months the Kennedy strategy worked like a charm. In fact, this was about what it was made of—charm. Protests against the scuttling of 1960 campaign promises were muted if aired at all.

All was well, politically, for the President on the Negro front. And that was important, too, because the President needed the Negroes to be elected in 1960 and probably will need them to be re-elected next year. But all was not

Officials Take Cheating Test

NEW DELHI, India (UPI) — A simple "corruption detector" test, without benefit of wires, graphs or other mechanical gimmicks, has been invented by Punjab's Chief Minister Pratap Singh Kairon, according to the Hindustan Times.

The newspaper said Kairon recently called a conference of 35 government officials and told them they were suspected of cheating on the job.

"Despite coaxing and assurances of no reprisals, none admitted that his past was shady," the newspaper reported.

Unconvinced, the Chief Minister gave each a blank piece of paper and asked him to retire to a corner of the room and answer the query: "Have you been corrupt in your official conduct in the past?" without signing his name on the paper.

Ten of the 35 admitted being dishonest, the newspaper said. The chief minister was reported to have destroyed the papers and administered an oath of honesty to all the officials.

Philosophy, Characteristics of Black Muslims Are Described

Black Muslims—(First of Four)
By H. D. QUIGG
United Press International

"As-salaam-alaikum" (Peace be unto you) says the gifted speaker on the stand. And the faithful gathered below respond: "Wa-alaikum-salaam" (And unto you be peace).

"The message of God to the honorable Elijah Muhammad was: 'Complete and immediate separation of the slave master and his slave,'" the speaker tells them. No mixing. And a separate Negro state.

The Elijah is a Georgia-born Negro, now in his mid-60's, who leads a membership of American Negroes that competent observers estimate at more than 100,000. They are law-abiding to the last letter, clean, debt-paying, non-smoking, non-drinking, non-narcotics, non-gambling, and bitterly non-white man.

Elijah Muhammad, born Elijah Poole, has as one of his titles "Messenger of Allah" to the "Lost-Found Nation of Islam in North America." That last is the official name of the movement most often called Black Muslims. In their more than 80 temples the white man is known as "the devil" or, as Malcolm X, Elijah's chief lieutenant says the Koran calls him: "the guilty blues-eyes."

Claim Islam Membership

They and their leaders consider themselves to be members of the great international religion Islam, whose followers are called Muslims (or Moslems), whose prophet was Muhammad (or Mohammed) and whose holy book is the Quran (or Koran). The Black Muslims pray five times a day, facing Mecca, the holy city. (The orthodox Muslims in America have rejected the Black Muslims.) The Black Muslims are morally straight, keep down juvenile delinquency in their families by exemplary conduct at home, and try to improve the community around them, clean it up as they do their persons.

They abjure Christianity and make light of it. Although they scorn non-violence, they are told to be peaceful unless attacked. When the battle of Armageddon comes, in 1970 or 1972, it is rather vague (as is true of much about the Black Muslims) just what they'll do.

Predict Black Dominance

One version is that white rule in the United States will be overthrown. Another is that the white nations would destroy each other, leaving the black nations in charge ("Blacks" mean, to the movement, all skin colors, brown, yellow, red, chocolate—except white—of the African, Asian, Middle Eastern, and American areas). Malcolm X can get up in public mass meetings on the street and say things like: "We rejoice when the white man dies." Yet he testifies in federal court in Buffalo, N.Y., that the Negro Muslims are not a hate organization: "Elijah Muhammad never taught us to hate anybody."

One source guesses Black Muslim membership in Chicago at 20,000, in New York at 15,000, and names Detroit, Los Angeles and St. Louis as other main centers, although perhaps 100 cities are involved.

Withdraw From America

In his recent book "The Negro Revolt," Negro author Louis E. Lomax says of the Black Muslims:

"Their withdrawal from America is almost complete. They speak of themselves as a 'nation,' indicating that they are not of the American body politic; they do not vote nor do they participate in political affairs. The Muslim women keep their heads covered at all times; they wear the long, flowing, white skirts one associates with Islam. They have their own stores, supermarkets, barbershops, department stores and fish markets..."

"In essence, Muhammad is saying this: God and Black are one, therefore all blacks are divine; the opposite of black is evil, therefore all white men are evil."

WHAT AND WHERE? A New News game for readers

In each of the numbered spots marked on this map a newsworthy event occurred recently. As a newspaper reader, check your memory and your knowledge by identifying the event through the location. The accompanying box will help you do it.

- MATCH 'EM UP
- Rioters dispersed
 - Sea mishap
 - Integration front
 - Prayers of the world
 - Bottling the genie
 - Buy a better way
 - Left job at U.S.
 - Flying high, wide . . .
 - "Model" statesman?
 - Red harassment

What occurred where? Look at the map and match up the numbers with the events listed in the box at the left. Then turn to the answers on this page and see how well you did. Score yourself 10 points for each correct answer. A score of 20 or less indicates you'd better start reading the papers a bit more. A score of 50—you're fairly hep. A score of 75—you're pretty sharp. Asthma Formula Prescribed Most By Doctors—Available Now Without Prescription

Stops Attacks in Minutes . . . Relief Lasts for Hours!

New York, N.Y. (Special)—The asthma formula prescribed more than any other by doctors for their private patients is now available to asthma sufferers without prescription. Medical tests proved this formula stops asthma attacks in minutes and gives hours of freedom from recurrence of painful asthma spasms. This formula is so effective that it is the physician's leading asthma prescription—so safe when used as directed that now it can be sold without prescription in most states.

—in tiny tablets called Primatene®. These Primatene Tablets open bronchial tubes, loosen congestion, relieve taut nervous tension. All without painful injections. The secret is—Primatene combines 3 medicines (in full prescription strength) found most effective in combination for asthma distress. Each performs a special purpose. No look forward to sleep at night, and freedom from asthma spasms. Get Primatene at any drugstore.

Walter Rogers Reports Power Separation Doctrine

Our U.S. Constitution separates the power of government among its three great branches — the legislative, the executive, the judicial. Behind the very sound "separation of powers" doctrine is the theory that by keeping the three branches independent of one another, and by keeping their authority in balance, a concentration of tyrannous power is made impossible.

Man has yet to devise a better system of government than that by which we are governed. A keystone of our system is this "separation of powers." And, despite some stir recently over a "Fund for the Republic" pamphlet entitled "The Elite and the Electorate," there is not the slightest consideration being given in the Congress to changing the Constitutional balance of power. The pamphlet is not a government publication. The "Fund for the Republic" has no connection with government. The pamphlet argues that some authority now vested in the Congress should be transferred to the President in order that the United States might act more swiftly to meet sudden challenges at home and abroad. I'm strongly opposed to any such change — to any move to reduce the power of the Congress, the people's most direct voice in their government. I'm certain the great majority of Congressmen and Senators shares my conviction, as does the great majority of the American people. From time to time in our history, one branch or another has been dominant in the exercise of power granted under the Constitution's broad outlines. In some periods the Congress has acted most forcefully. Occasionally the U.S. Supreme Court has acted so strongly as to be accused (and I have raised the point) of exercising powers properly resting with the legislative branch, the Congress. We have had strong-willed Presidents who wielded their powers so vigorously that they were accused in their day of being near-dictators.

Of all our Presidents, Abraham Lincoln (whom we now all revere but who was a bitterly controversial President in his own time) cornered more power for the executive than any other. Consider these actions of Lincoln: Under the war power he proclaimed the slaves of those in rebellion emancipated. He devised and put into execution his own plan of reconstruction. He increased the Army and Navy beyond the limit set by statute. The privilege of the writ of habeas corpus was suspended wholesale and martial law declared. Public money in the sum of millions was spent without Congressional appropriation. Lincoln knew his Constitution. He did none of these things innocently. He knew how far he could go in taking for his office the powers of a divided, weak Congress.

Thus, through history, one branch or another of our government has been in a position somewhat more powerful than the other branches. Today, in my view, Congress must be extremely wary about extending any further delegations of authority to departments in the executive branch. Because Congress has sometimes not been specific enough in its delegations of statutory authority to executive departments, or too generous in the powers it has passed along, the departments (constituting the government bureaucracy) have assumed larger responsibilities than legislators envisioned. Occasionally the Congress seeks to return to itself grants of authority. As an example, I have introduced a bill to bar the Federal Communications Commission from collecting license fees, a step the FCC said it was preparing to take. I submitted a bill to require that no fees be charged without the express Congressional consent.

Generally it can be shown that the "separation of powers" doctrine has been respected, that fluctuations in the exercise of power have through history been contained within the broad confines established by our Founding Fathers in the Constitution.

A sweeping, drastic change in the balance of legislative, executive, and judicial powers could not be made without the adoption of a Constitutional amendment. So fundamental to the entire Constitutional framework is the separation doctrine that, in my firm view, no major change could be made short of the outright repeal of the Constitution — and such a step is beyond any possibility. Even an amendment is most difficult to obtain. Only 13 amendments have become part of the Constitution since the original ten, the Bill of Rights, were adopted. To amend the Constitution, resolutions so providing must be approved by the judiciary committees and then by majorities of the full House and Senate — and then by majorities in at least three-fourths of the 50 state legislatures. Right now, resolutions calling for amendments on 25 different points of the Constitution are pending before the House Judiciary Committee. It is extremely unlikely that any of these proposals will emerge for House floor consideration this year. The road is long and hard for any Constitutional change. Altering the Constitution is a serious step not to be undertaken without great and prolonged deliberation—and not without a clear call from the American people saying that the change is needed.

Koufax Nears More Records

By United Press International
The Los Angeles Dodgers should start selling record books along with scorecards when Sandy Koufax pitches.

Otherwise how are the fans going to know what new feat the overpowering Dodger pitcher is out to achieve? He's already pitched two no-hitters and set a National League strikeout record seven percentage points ahead of the second-place Dodgers.

Regained Strikeout Lead
Koufax, who pitched a three-hit shutout against the Houston Colts last Saturday, now has pitched 19 consecutive scoreless innings. It was his second win of the season over the Giants—the other a no-hitter against them on May 11.

Ex-Yankee Bill Skowron's two-run double, which skipped through rightfielder Felipe Alou's legs, sent Maury Wills and Ron Fairly over the plate in the third inning with the runs which dealt Billy O'Dell his third loss compared to nine wins. The Giants filled the bases with two out in the second inning but Koufax fanned Jose Pagan to end the threat.

The Cardinals romped over the New York Mets, 8-1, the Philadelphia Phillies defeated the Cincinnati Reds, 4-2, and the Pittsburgh Pirates topped the Milwaukee Braves, 9-3, in other NL games.

Three Five-Hitter
Ernie Broglio pitched a five-hitter for his eighth win behind a Cardinal attack that was concentrated in the first four innings during which Bill White homered, Curt Flood had two doubles and Ken Boyer had three straight singles. It was Broglio's third straight win of the season over the Mets and the unearned run they scored against him in the seventh inning was their first against his pitching.

Roy Sievers' three-run homer, following a deliberate 5-4-3-2-1-0 sequence, and Don Demeter's homer, both in the sixth inning, gave the Phillies their seventh win in 10 games with the Reds. Ryne Duren went six innings to win his second game with Jack Baldschun spinning three scoreless innings to clinch the triumph. John Taitouris suffered his second loss for the Reds.

Rookie Willie Stargell hit two homers and knocked in six runs and Bill Mazeroski and Bob Bailey also homered to lead the Pirates' 12-hit attack. Don Cardwell pitched an eight-hitter to win his third game. Hank Aaron, the major league leader, hit his 19th homer of the season for the Braves.

SANDY KOUFAX

both for a game and a season. And yet his bullet-like speed continues to threaten more records.

Koufax whipped the San Francisco Giants, 2-0, Monday night to post his sixth shutout of the campaign—only one short of the club mark for a season shared by Burleigh Grimes and Whitlow Wyatt. His 10 victories put him halfway to his first 20-victory season—and the first by a Dodger lefty since 1951—and his nine strikeouts enabled him to regain the league lead with a season total of 111.

In addition, Koufax knocked the Giants from first to third place and permitted the St. Louis Cardinals to take over the top rung.

Ralph Dupas Retains Junior Championship

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Ralph Dupas, the little buzz-saw from New Orleans, doesn't care how he wins "em, so long as he does, and today he still is the world junior middleweight champion.

The 27-year-old Dupas kept his title Monday night by beating former champion Denny Moyer of Portland, Ore., for the second time within seven weeks, again on a 15-round decision that was close.

Ralph out-speeded and out-danced the ex-champion, from whom he took the title last April 27, and his stronger punching at close range was enough to earn him the decision which was booed by a small crowd of 2,544 in the new, 13,000 seat Civic Center.

"I knew I had him all the way," Dupas said. "It may have looked as though he hurt me a couple of times, but he didn't. I was in good shape—better than the last time when I had been idle for more than three months."

The decision was unanimous in favor of Dupas, who scored the 10th victory of his career against only 17 losses and two draws. For Moyer, who was the 6-5 favorite at fight time, it was his 10th loss against 37 victories.

Walsh Learns To Duck Ryne

CINCINNATI (UPI) — National League umpire Jim Walsh learned a lesson the hard way Monday night.

The lesson is to always be on the alert when shotgun Ryne Duren of the Philadelphia Phillies is on the mound—even when he's only warming up.

Walsh was standing idly a few feet behind the plate when Duren warmed up for the Phillies before the first inning of Monday night's game with the Cincinnati Reds. Suddenly a pitch got away from Duren, ricocheted off the plate and hit Walsh on the neck.

Walsh was in pain for several minutes but shook it off and went on to umpire the entire game behind the plate.

BROOKLINE, Mass. (UPI)—Random reflections on the sports beat in general:

You have to be a descendant of Pollyanna if you think all the hoods have been run out of boxing. But, then, it's never been a racket for the tea and crumpets set.

Tennis in the United States must be at its lowest ebb since Wright came out in front of Ditson.

Horse owners should have to declare when their hayburners are out merely for a sharpening gallop.

As it is, they're cheating—the poor ignorants who blow a hopeful duce on a nag which isn't even trying.

One guy suggested I had been bought off when I protested the abolition of boxing because of the deaths involved. The truth is, it doesn't kill half as many as football and nobody talks of wiping it out.

I don't think Sammy Sneed could win this week's U.S. Open if they gave him a two shot lead going to the last hole.

Until the last month of the season, major league standings are as interesting to me as stock market tables to a hobo.

Most of television's so-called fights attract as much of my attention as knocking on the window with a sponge.

Warren Giles would have much less trouble with his umpires if he'd appoint a supervisor for the men in blue, a man who knows his business.

Ben Hogan burns because the U.S. Open calls for an exhausting 36 holes on the final day. But I go with the USGA that endurance should be a part of the test.

Sonny Liston scares me even more than he does Floyd Patterson when he gets that hungry gorilla look on his face.

The Russians must be delighted over the way our rival track and field groups are in orbit, thus enhancing Soviet chances hand-

Funds Sought For Matson

Funds are still needed to send state shutout and discus champion Randy Matson to the AAU national championships in St. Louis, Mo., this weekend.

The Pampa Jaycees, who are sponsoring Randy, report that more money for transportation, food and lodging is needed.

Qualifiers at St. Louis will compete against Russia in the International Games later this summer. Matson, with the fourth highest recorded shot put throw in the nation this year, 60'6", is rated a good chance to qualify in this event, and also can qualify in the discus, with Olympic champion Al Oerter out of competition with illness. If Matson qualifies, he will be the third non-collegian in history to participate in international competition.

Funds must be raised by Thursday, as competition begins at 6:30 p.m. Friday in the shot put and at 2 p.m. Saturday in the discus.

All those wishing to help this cause are urged to contact Eddie Polnac at MO 4-3277 or MO 5-5569.

Lip Fights Coop Tonight

LONDON (UPI) — In an appropriately splendid setting, Kentucky's "g-r-e-a-t" unbeaten Cassius Clay and England's British Empire champion Henry Cooper fight here tonight for a September shot at the world heavyweight crown.

A half-dozen historically clad trumpeters, six American soldiers and six English soldiers will escort Cassius, the "Louisville Lip," and Cooper, London's former house plasterer, into the canopied ring midst the cheers from a police-limited crowd of 55,000 at London's outdoor Wembley Stadium.

The stadium can hold 100,000 for a soccer game but the police will not permit more than 55,000 tonight.

There will be band playing, community singing and other folderol arranged by promoter Jack Solomons for this richest fight ever staged outside the United States — a show for which the gate is estimated at $448,000.

Then comes the scheduled 10-round fight between Clay, 21, and Cooper, 29 — a bout in which "Gaseous Cassius" will try to make his fists live up to the boast loudly shouted by his mouth: "I'm not talkin' jive; Cooper falls in five."

Manny King, one of Britain's outstanding bookmakers, announced that Clay is favored at 4-1 in man-to-man betting.

Clay is a prohibitive favorite because he seeks his 19th consecutive victory as a professional and his 16th knockout. Also because he is ranked second among contenders, just below former champion Floyd Patterson. Cooper is rated fourth.

Arnie Predicts 280 For Open

BROOKLINE, Mass. (UPI) — Here where golf came of age in this country 50 years ago, a star-studded field tees off Thursday morning for the first of four rounds, they will be sent on their way by Francis Ouimet, who as a 20-year-old amateur in 1913 gave golf in the United States its greatest shot in the arm when he beat Ray and another Britisher, Harry Vardon, in a triple playoff for the Open title. That's when the game really began to flourish in this country.

After Friday's second round, the field will be cut to the low 50 and ties for the final two gruelling rounds on Saturday.

When the field of 150 tees off Thursday morning for the first of four rounds, they will be sent on their way by Francis Ouimet, who as a 20-year-old amateur in 1913 gave golf in the United States its greatest shot in the arm when he beat Ray and another Britisher, Harry Vardon, in a triple playoff for the Open title. That's when the game really began to flourish in this country.

There are too many holes where you are blind on either your drive or second shot and others where all you can see is the pin," Palmer observed.

"I think this talk that they might break Ben Hogan's Open record of 276 is a lot of baloney. I'll settle for 280 right now."

Told that some observers felt he scrambled too much to win on this type of course, Palmer shook his head and allowed that it was a driver's course.

"You have to hit 'em straight," he said, "but I'm not worried."

He complained of two holes—the par four 470-yard 12th, and the par five 505-yard ninth.

"Hitting from the back tee on the 12th makes it an impossible hole and even if they move the tee up, as they tell me they will, it still is going to be a mighty tough four. And on the ninth, if you don't put your second on the green you are going to wind up with bogeys. The undulating fairway is in bad shape and you don't get anything but bad lies if you are short on your second," Palmer said.

Palmer did not keep score, but said "I played pretty well."

Most of the other top names in golf also got their first look at the course Monday.

Gary Player, the little South African, figured the course was just right for him. He is seeking to become the first foreigner to win the Open since Britisher Ted Ray took it in 1929.

"It is more English than most English courses and I've always played well on them," said Player, adding that "I'm playing as well, or better than ever."

Nicklaus' Neck Better
Defending champion Jack Nicklaus, who said the stiff neck which he suffered in the second round of the Thunderbird last week was "much better," suggested that "par is going to be tough to beat unless they mow the fairways and cut the rough."

Palmer, Player, Nicklaus and Julius Boros were the names most mentioned as possible winners while Phil Rodgers also was receiving a lot of support.

Fidgety Kralick Indians' Winner

By United Press International
Jack Kralick is one of those fellows who is always being under-rated.

He's a fidgety, frail sort of fellow who was once placed on a vitamin diet to beef up his body and his fast ball. The Washington Senators gave up on him after two years and so did the Minnesota Twins despite the fact that he pitched a no-hitter for the Twins last Aug. 26.

Now he's with the Cleveland Indians and one of the big reasons why the Indians have surged into American League flag contention with five straight victories and 15 in their last 17 games.

"We just put him on the firing line and turned him loose," said Cleveland pitching coach Mel Harder. "We haven't done a thing to change him."

The Indians acquired the 28-year-old native of Youngstown, Ohio, May 2 in a deal that sent Jim Perry to the Twins. At the time Kralick's record was a mere 1-4 and it became 1-5 with the Indians before it started to get better.

Now Kralick has won six in a row and raised his season mark to 7-5, including a five-hit, 1-0 victory over the Senators Monday night. In his last 44 1/3 innings, he's allowed only five earned runs and at the rate he's going he's quickly being recognized as the most effective lefty the Indians have had since Herb Score.

The victory and Baltimore's 7-2 win over Boston in the only other AL game Monday, night, put the Indians, Orioles and the Red Sox in a virtual three-way tie for third place. Only four percentage points separate the three teams, who all are three games behind the first place New York Yankees.

Kralick allowed five hits, struck out five and didn't allow a walk as the Indians continued to take advantage of a schedule quirk that has enabled them to beat the Senators eight out of nine games in the last 11 days. Kralick has scored four of the Indians' 15 wins since June 2 when they were in eighth place, eight games out of first place.

The Indians scored the only run of the game in the eighth inning with the help of an error and a balk by Washington pitcher Jim Duckworth.

Duckworth, who suffered his fifth loss, threw wildly past first base on a bouncer back to the mound enabling Dick Howser to reach second base. Howser moved to third on Jerry Kindall's sacrifice and scored when umpire John Flaherty called a balk on Duckworth for stopping halfway through his windup and stepping back off the mound.

Scheffing Fired, Dressen Hired

BULLETIN
BOSTON (UPI) — General manager James A. Campbell announced today that Detroit manager Bob Scheffing and his entire coaching staff have been fired for the best interests of the team.

Campbell said the new manager will be Charlie Dressen, former manager at Cincinnati, Brooklyn, Washington and Milwaukee. Dressen currently is a scout for the Los Angeles Dodgers.

The three new coaches will be Bob Swift, now manager of Syracuse in the International League, Stubby Overmire, manager at Jamestown in the New York-Pennsylvania League, and Pat Mullin, scout of the Tiger organization.

They will replace Tom Ferrick, Phil Cavaretta and George Myatt. This was Scheffing's third season as Tiger manager.

Scheffing has been offered a position in the Tiger organization and indicated he intends to accept it after taking a rest, Campbell said.

Dressen will arrive in Boston today for tonight's game against the Boston Red Sox, Campbell said.

Detroit is now in ninth place in the American League with 24 wins and 36 losses. The team finished fourth last year and second in 1961.

Pampa Racks Up Points In Juniors

FORT STOCKTON (SpI) — Don Rader swept his age class in swimming and Debbie Bennett led hers in track and field as Pampa youngsters made an outstanding showing in the state Jivee Junior Champ contest here this past weekend.

Nine Pampa youngsters were entered in the field of 400-500 entries from throughout the state, and seven of them scored places.

Rader, Pampa's lone swimming entry, racked up 23 of a possible 28 points in winning the trophy for 16-17 year old boys swimming. Don won both the 50-yard freestyle and 100-yard butterfly, was second in the 200-yard freestyle, third in the 100-yard freestyle, and won the trophy as outstanding swimmer in his age group.

Debbie was also named outstanding girl athlete in the 10-11 year old girls age group. She racked up firsts in the 25-yard dash and the softball throw, and second in the standing broad jump and 50-yard dash.

Matt Braly was third in the standing broad jump among 12-17 year old boys. Among girls of the same age, Cheryl Porter was third in the running broad jump and Connie Parish fourth in the 50-yard dash. In the 14-15 year old boys competition, Teddy Bird was third in the high jump and Gary Crossland third in the running broad jump.

BOWLING SCORES

Eighteen father-and-son couples participated in the Harvester Bowl Annual Father's Day Bowling Tournament Sunday, with Steve Fletcher and his dad, Walter, taking first place honors in the handicap tournament.

The pair totaled 1294 with handicap for their winning total. Both father and son each had two hot games, with Steve starting off with a 137 and then hitting 170 and 194. Walter opened with a 156, moved it up to a 173 and finished up with a blazing 211.

Alabama Another Example Of The Inequity Of Taxation

Civil Rights triggered a spate of trouble in Alabama.

The basic question has been obscured in sentiment, hatred, tradition and fear; and all of it is complicated by the invention of some exotic items which we have been told are part of our birthright.

If a man has the "right" never to be hungry or cold or unloved, then he might just as well have the right to dwell in a marble palace and eat strawberries out of season.

The right of all men -- so says our basic law -- is to freedom. Not freedom from want (who doesn't want something?) or fear (some people are always afraid), but freedom from oppression. And since the state is the principal oppressor, it is freedom from excessive government that we're supposed to enjoy as a birthright. We're supposed to be guaranteed that the government will not initiate force against us and that it will take measures to see that we don't initiate force against each other, singly or in mobs.

Now, does a Negro have a right to go to a state university? Does that come under the "freedom from want" idea; the "freedom from fear" guarantee; the freedom from unhappiness and frustration?

The Negro does have the right to go to the state university and for a very simple and basic reason, having nothing to do with the "Four Freedoms" doctrine. He has the right to attend the university because he is forced to support it. It is the same principle that lies behind the outrage ex-

It Won't Just Go Away

Sometimes you can't win. Is it that way in your business too?

Take a thing like the PASO business. It's a news story with unpleasant overtones. Only professional provocateurs like hints of race hatred and reprisals. Nobody else benefits.

The thing to do, of course, is to bring it out in the open where everybody can get a good look at the thing. Like in Crystal City, Or Birmingham or Jackson, Miss. Oh, no, say some of the customers. Just ignore it. Don't make such a big thing of it. Maybe it will go away. Publicizing it will just make it seem more important. The editors in Birmingham are being accused of the silent treatment. Maybe it was their view that playing down the story would make it all seem less important, somehow.

There are those who don't want papers to print crime stories on the theory that it will drive kids pressed in the statement: "Taxation without representation is tyranny."

The Negro is taxed for a facility he is not permitted to use. The white supremacists are entitled to walk around feeling superior, if that does anything for their egos but they are not entitled to tax the Negro for a white school.

We have not heard the governor of Mississippi or Alabama offer to exempt the Negro from the school tax. In fact they couldn't. For the university of every state is supported in part by hidden taxes—that is part of the cost of a loaf of bread or pair of shoes. It is impossible to exempt anyone from taxation entirely.

Schools, courts, police departments, fire departments and other public facilities are supported by universal taxation, direct and indirect. Neither equal nor equitable, everyone pays. Therefore, everyone should have the opportunity of using the facilities.

It might be noted that the feeble-minded help pay for universities, too, although they generally are not permitted to enroll unless they are from good families or play football.

Maybe they have as much of a beef as the Negroes; they too are forced to pay for something they aren't allowed to use.

Taxes never are fair, for just such reasons as these. What was illustrated in Alabama was not a matter of "civil rights" but a matter of the rank injustice of taxation—that is, seizing the wealth of everyone to pay for things wanted by some and used by some and neither wanted nor used by others.

to crime. Why does a story about a grisly murder induce more murder? Only a hopelessly sick person is inflamed by the picture of a murder victim or the description of the crime. Normal people are repelled. It makes them get their backs up a little and realize how shoddy violence is.

And Birmingham. Do the sights and description of what goes on at a lunch counter there impel you to try the same thing here? Is it so attractive? Does the violence and hatred written on the faces of the participants drive you to want to look that way too? Will ignoring PASO make it any better or any worse? Will appeals to violence and hatred evaporate if we don't pay any attention to them? Could the German press have ignored Hitler to death?

Many of us don't want to see some of the ugly things around us. We like to feel that not facing them will make them go away. But we know it won't.

Pull Up A Chair

By Frank J. Markey

Many communities throughout the United States have a problem about throw-away bottles and cans and believe the brewers and soft drink companies could remove the trouble by going back to the old system of having only returnable containers. If the deposit were increased to five cents, people might think twice before they threw them away on the highways and by-ways. Those living near busy thoroughfares find it not uncommon to pick up a dozen or more "empties" a week from their lawns. Highway authorities say returnable bottles would also solve some of their litter problems.

The most highly traveled reporter in the world is our old friend, Bob Considine, who has covered every major world-wide story in the past quarter of a century. He is constantly on the go and his datelines have come from all the continents. During the past year Considine has circled the globe six times on his new beat. Unusual news from the sports page of the Chicago Tribune: "Connor, a first baseman from 1880 to 1887, had a .325 lifetime average."

Today's favorite gag: Family scene, 1963 — Father, upbraiding his teen-age daughter about her slovenly appearance, started a tirade on the faults of modern day children. "Why, look at your hair," he said. "It looks like a mop." "What's a mop," she answered. "A quipster suggests a new item for the supermarkets — Instant Garbage. Just add a little water to the package, which would bring up some champagne and a d caning labels to the top of the garbage can. Just the thing for status-seekers to impress neighbors."

The short, paid death notices in the London Telegraph and the London Times are unique in that they tell the story of how the death occurred. A few examples: Killed in auto accident or hit by train; after great suffering in hospital; from drowning; and peacefully at home.

Italian espresso coffee is now served in most of the large cities of the world and it came about as a result of an invention in Milan in 1903. The espresso machine prepares each cup of coffee instantly under a hissing steam pressure. The name certainly fits because espresso means speed in Italian.

An extremely interesting but frightening picture of present-day conditions is recorded in "The Coming Explosion in Latin America." We highly recommend this book by Gerald Clark, the associate editor of the Montreal Star, who traveled 50,000 miles through South America to observe and gather his material from people of all classes. Clark is also the author of "Impatient Giant; Red China Today," published last year in which he records his impressions of his trip behind the Bamboo Curtain. Whiplash injury of the neck, often suffered in automobile accidents, usually amounts to a simple sprain, says the AMA. The best treatment, they say, is to leave it alone in most cases and let nature do the work.

DEFICITS AND UNEMPLOYMENT (Christian Economics)

The Administration is proposing big deficits and heavy spending as a cure for unemployment. That was tried and failed during the thirties. In 1939 we had 9.4 million unemployed workers in our country. This was the closing year of the decade of deficit and consumer spending. It failed then as it will fail now.

The cure for unemployment is to keep costs down so that our industrialists can compete in world markets. This will lead to normal profits and the reinvestment of increasing amounts of capital in productive enterprise. Jobs are created when enterprising men invest money in expanding their operations or in creating new enterprises. Men will not do that on a substantial scale unless they have a reasonable hope of earning a fair return. If laws or union pressure make successful operations appear to them doubtful or impossible, they will not run the risk of losing their capital by job-creating expansion.

Furthermore, if minimum wage laws and union pressure maintain wages higher than the economic value of the worker, unemployment will be the result. This has already happened on a large scale in our country. There is no hope of solving the problem of unemployment if it continues. Inflationary boom may give an appearance of prosperity for a short time, but it does so at the expense of making a bad situation worse.

ONE HUNDRED BILLION DOLLARS LAWRENCE SULLIVAN

Total foreign-aid disbursements by the U.S. Treasury since World War II now add up to $86.9 billion, through Dec. 31, 1961.

A detailed report from the Office of Business Economics, Department of Commerce, shows that 20 nations receive 73 per cent of the grand total, or 63.4 billion.

Twenty Latin American nations got $4 billion, or 4.6 per cent of the total.

The current recapitulation covers 16 fiscal years and includes all forms of military assistance and economic aid, plus all surplus farm products delivered abroad for blocked currencies.

The 16-year totals, by types of aid:

Table with 2 columns: Type of aid, Amount in billions of dollars. Economic Assistance: $52.5; Military Assistance: 29.3; Capital Subscriptions: 5.1

TOTAL $86.9. By these official figures, the average foreign-aid distribution since July, 1945, has been a little more than $5.4 billion a year.

Neither do the published totals include our own direct military expenditures overseas, (about $3 billion a year) nor our payments for cooperation in the International Geophysics Year, Antarctic Weather Research, Tel-Star, and similar worldwide scientific projects.

Direct U.S. capital subscriptions to world credit agencies, such as the International Monetary Fund, International Development Fund, Inter-American Development Bank, total $5.1 billion for the post-war period.

Table titled 'TOTAL 20 RANKING NATIONS' showing aid amounts for 20 countries. France: $9.7; United Kingdom: 7.7; Italy: 5.1; Formosa: 4.9; Korea: 4.6; Germany: 4.0; Japan: 4.0; Turkey: 3.0; Greece: 2.9; Yugoslavia: 2.2; Netherlands: 2.1; India: 2.1; Vietnam: 2.0; Belgium-Luxembourg: 1.9; Philippines: 1.4; Spain: 1.3; Brazil: 1.2; Iran: 1.1; Pakistan: 1.1; Austria: 1.1

Twenty-nine nations receiving less than $1 billion each, for a grand total of $10,877,000,000 are as follows: Norway, Indochina, Poland, Denmark, Israel, Thailand, Indonesia, Mexico, USSR, Egypt, Chile, Laos, Portugal, Argentina, Malaya, Guinea, Ivory Coast, Surinam, Chad, Canada, and New Caledonia.

The country totals above do not add up to the 16-year global total of $86.9 billion, for the reason that over this period roughly $5.1 billion was allocated to general area projects not chargeable to any one country. Another $5.1 billion is allocated as working capital in the several international banks. The country totals above, therefore, are about $11 billion short of the overall Treasury outlay for the 16 post-war years. Repayable loans still outstanding account for roughly $12.8 billion of the total assistance outlay, leaving $69 billion in direct assistance expenditures, assuming all the loans eventually will be repaid, and all capital subscriptions redeemed at par.

Total repayments on such overseas credits were $1.3 billion during 1961, the largest for any year since the war. These heavy repayments reduced our net Treasury outlay for foreign aid to $4.2 billion for the year — the lowest for any post-war year.

In this net distribution of $4.2 billion for foreign aid last year, roughly $1.1 billion was in surplus farm products. Another $1.8 billion was spent inside the U.S. for goods and services shipped abroad, leaving only about $1.3 billion for the year as a net charge against U.S. gold reserves. In the 16 years surveyed in the Commerce Department's study, the U.S. federal debt increased by $40 billion net, which suggests that during this period we added 44 cents to the national debt every time we put a dollar into the foreign aid program. We are actually borrowing money to give away.

Foreign aid funds available for the current fiscal year, ending June 30, 1963, total $11.2 billion, including $6.6 billion in unexpended balances carried over from earlier authorization bills, and $4.6 billion appropriated for fiscal 1963.

When all of these presently authorized funds are disbursed, as of June 30, 1963, our total post-war foreign aid will stand at $100,200,000,000, or just a fraction more than $541 per capita for the 18 fiscal years, 1946-63, inclusive.

If we are not using the majority as an idol, then how do we arrive at the right of the majority to force the minority to pay for schooling that they think will corrupt the youth and manhood of our country? Just what standard of right justifies the majority forcing the minority to pay, for and even submit his children to schools sanctioned by the agents of the majority, which invariably means some politician?

If we are not worshipping the idol of the majority, why do we force people to pay taxes to send foreign aid all over the world? If we are not worshipping the idol of the majority, why do we have protective tariffs and immigration restrictions, if we do not believe the agents of the majority have a right to do things that no individual has a moral right to do? Of course, when the state or the majority attempts to do things that the individual would regard as harmful to his fellowman, we have a double standard, or really no standard at all. That undoubtedly is the reason crime is increasing, unemployment constantly threatening us, our debts increasing, and in almost constant wars. Man cannot serve two masters. God or Order or Nature is one. Idols have always degraded and debauched those who worshipped them.

Migratory Workers Pose Plaguing Farm Problem

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Sweeping changes in American migratory farm labor practices are expected to follow the wind-up on Dec. 31, 1963, of the "bracero" program under which Mexican workers have been brought to the U.S. as harvest hands.

There may be some effort to revive this plan and extend it another year, as the Kennedy administration has requested. But the House vote to kill Public Law 78, under which the program was administered by the U.S. Employment Service, is expected to be approved by the Senate.

This would end 10 years of supervised recruitment which replaced the old practice of hiring "wetbacks" who crossed the river illegally to seek jobs. Import of Mexican contract labor reached a peak of 437,000 workers in 1959. It has dropped steadily since then to 195,000 last year. A further cut is expected this year.

There will still be a need for almost 500,000 seasonal workers to take off America's crops of grains, fruits and vegetables. But automation on farms has shortened the harvest season. Farm labor that used to find 250 days work a year now averages only 100 to 120, not enough to live on.

There is no manpower shortage here at home, but there is a recruiting problem. Annually for the last 10 years about 200,000 people have been leaving farms for the cities. Still there is high rural as well as urban unemployment.

If migrant workers have to be recruited in the southeastern United States for work as far west as California, transportation costs will be high. For Mexican labor, each worker recruited was given $15 to pay his transport costs to employment centers on the U.S. border. Employers had to provide transportation from there.

There will be a new farm wage problem. Minimum pay for Mexican labor has ranged from 60 cents an hour in Arkansas to $1 an hour in California and Michigan. One gripe against the system is that American workers haven't been able to get even these guaranteed contract rates.

The complaint of big farm operators is that they can't find enough domestic labor for even these prices. With no competing Mexican labor supply, pay scales for domestic farm labor may have to be raised, increasing farm costs.

If there is a return to the old wetback practices, a new burden will be thrown on the Immigration Service Border Patrol.

Shutting off the legal Mexican farm labor supply is expected to bring pressure for import of more contract labor from British West Indies. About 12,000 came from B.W.I. last year, mostly for Florida. But transportation costs to the southwest probably would be too high to use this labor force.

Most of the U.S. east coast migrant farm labor, which is native American, begins its year's work in Florida and moves north as the season advances. There are about 200,000 workers in this force, organized in crews scheduled for work in each area all the way to New England.

For many years past, working and living conditions of migrant workers have been the subject of much investigation and criticism. One of the principal reforms proposed has been to give American migrants the same protection given to Mexican farm labor in the U.S.

One principal benefit of killing the Mexican bracero program in the House has been to speed passage of a series of six bills proposed by Senator Harrison A. Williams, D-N.J. to improve migrant labor conditions. As now passed by the Senate and sent to the House for action, the Williams bills will provide federal aid to the states to educate migrant workers' children, operate day care centers for them and regulate labor of all farm children from 12 to 16 years old. Crew leaders will be registered and a National Advisory Council on Migratory Labor will be established.

CAN'T PROVE IT

Man Not Necessarily Worse Than Animals

By GEORGE BOARDMAN, Ph. D.

I have been reading an array of articles which were designed to prove that man, as such, is a dirty, conniving, thiefing, murdering, raping and utterly worthless animal who doesn't know right from wrong unless other dirty, conniving, thiefing, murdering, raping and utterly worthless animals rule all who are not rulers. This may make sense to you but it doesn't make sense to me.

From the time I could understand what I looked at, I've been watching animals, the four-legged kind. My first dog was well established in his domicile when we adopted a kitten and they lived together happily until the cat became too chilled, playing in the snow, and didn't recover.

A young cat belonging to my grandkids had a litter of kittens the other day and their youngest puppy got into the box with the kittens, when the mother was out of the box, and began to wash them. When the young mother cat returned and found a dog in the box with her young, she just sat down beside the box and began washing herself in a completely unconcerned manner. She knew the puppy would not harm her tiny kittens. In the meantime, Candy, a bright, happy and almost blind cocker, wandered around, sniffing here and there so that she might sense what was going on.

Our own cats have indicated their responsible attitudes on numerous occasions. They live together in the same apartment, leading their highly individual lives in a contented fashion. Each of them assumes certain responsibilities and each uses a different technique to keep my wife and me happy and, from time to time, entertained. All of the domestic animals in our two families display an amazing ability to differentiate between right and wrong and I like to believe that humans are at least almost equal to the task of understanding the difference between wrong and right. But — I can't prove it.

You see, a criminal finds it easy to rationalize the motives for his crime. The non-criminal doesn't have much to say about why he prefers not to steal or murder. The criminal gets publicity, the non-criminal goes about his own business quietly.

I believe the human conscience is built in, not acquired. I believe the human consciousness comprehends the laws of nature and reacts accordingly and that the massive malevolence which is contemporary civilization dulls the human conscience. I believe thievery, rape and murder are inhuman acts. I can't prove it.

In my own consciousness, I understand my own aversion to such crimes but the cynic, the human who hates humans, may say I do not commit crimes only because of the fear of being caught. He does not find it easy to believe that I will defend my own life and property in every way I can but that I have no urge to take either his life or his property.

The socialist conglomerate and all who would save humanity from the nastiness of human beings must judge other human beings by their own nastiness. If a man stands on his own feet in freedom, he is able to understand how he will react to the responsibility of being a free man. Enslaved, without responsibility for his own actions, he may only observe the actions and reactions of his master. Today, most of the population of this country is under the domination of a gigantic governmental parasite. The constantly growing crime rate reflects the evil of those who enslave but I can't prove it.

During the past year we have had many unexpected visitors. A week from now, we will be on our way to Colorado and my kids will operate My Motel and take care of our cats. We will return to our ghost town in the fall. Good luck and good health to you, in Freedom.

BILLIONS FOR DEFENSE—New Pentagon contracts with American industry—for the purchase of some two billion items ranging from boots to ballistic missiles—are expected to exceed $28 billion this year.

Competition for these contracts is keen around the country. Newsmap shows, on a per capita basis, how $27.8 billion worth of defense contracts was divided among the 50 states in fiscal 1962.

The Lighter Side

Congressional Frustration

By DICK WEST
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Last year the alleged muzzling of military officers was making headlines. And now there is a big controversy over the muzzling of congressmen.

Of the two I would say the latter is potentially more explosive. If you muzzle a military officer, he can always relieve his frustrations by barking at an enlisted man.

But if you bottle up words in a congressman, you get a dangerous fermenting effect, like putting too much yeast in the home brew.

He is likely either to blow his cork or fly three feet into the air and bust.

Oddly enough, the muzzling of them tightened this week by Jones' one-man crusade to curtail the practice of "extending" remarks and otherwise having material printed in the Congressional Record.

Jones pointed out that the cost of printing the record had risen to $90 a page, including a lot of what he called "trash, tripe and trivia."

He urged his colleagues to show more restraint and discretion in contributing to the record, which other literary critics have described as the nearest thing we have to a national wastebasket.

Posted A Sentinel
And, in case some members lacked the will power to refrain from such embellishments, Jones posted himself as a sentinel to make certain they tapered off.

Needless to say, he and Hays will not be nominated as the two most popular kids on the block.

If you could hear the muffled cries of congressmen with words

RANGERS NAB TWO
GATLINBURG, Tenn. (UPI) — John Cathey, 21, and James Gibbs, 22, University of Tennessee engineering students, were rescued Sunday after spending 24 hours on a ledge in a cave in the Great Smoky Mountains National Park.

Park rangers charged them with exploring in the park without a permit.

to disgorge and no place to utter them, it would turn your heart to butter, or, at least to margarine.

Unless Hays and Jones relent soon, I fear the buildup of gaseous compression will cause our lawgivers to disintegrate.

As an act of mercy, some of us are planning to form an organization called "Verboisities Anonymous" to help them endure the ordeal. Should a congressman wake up at night with a compulsion to talk, we will lend him a tape recorder.
