U.S., British Talks Begin Second Day

MOSCOW (UPI) — High-level U.S. British and Soviet negotiators met here today in the second session of their nuclear test ban talks.

U. S. Undersecretary of State W. Averell Harriman and British Science Minister Lord Hailsham met with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko at 3 p.m. (8 a.m. EDT) at the Spiridonovka Palace guest house.

Gromyko took over from Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev who got the talks off to a rollicking start Monday in a good humored atmosphere. It stirred optimism among diplomats that the East and West might agree on at least a partial test ban.

The Soviet press today kept up the optimistic mood by giving Monday's opening session of the three power conference top play.

This contrasted sharply with the virtual silence of the Soviet press on the current Sino-Soviet talks that have apparently failed to heal the widening rift between Moscow and Peking.

Khrushchev joked Monday with Harriman and Hailsham during a three-and-one-half hour meeting.

He joked with the U.S. and British negotiators, Under Secretary of State W. Averell Harriman and Science Minister Lord Hailsham, during a three and one-half hour meeting.

Striking Contrast

His behavior was in striking contrast to the snubs and attacks against Communist China, whose delegates were holding ideological talks with a Soviet team at the same time the nuclear conference was going on.

Pravda, the Soviet Communist party newspaper, gave the nuclear talks front-page treatment today. It has made no mention of the Sino-Soviet discussions since the arrival of the Peking delegation was reported.

Diplomats who thought the Soviets might be seeking peace with the West at the expense of their former Chinese allies stressed this contrast.

(Outside the nuclear conference, however, there was less warmth on the part of the Soviets. At the United Nations, the Soviet delegation charged Monday that former President Eisenhower was responsible for breaking the last moratorium on nuclear testing.

(It said Eisenhower's 1959 statement reserving the right to resume tests meant the United States "officially abandoned the moratorium." The Soviets broke the unofficial ban by a massive test series in 1961.

Warns Against China

(In London, diplomats warned that Communist China was "certain" to ignore any test ban agreement arrived at by the Soviets and Allies. It was believed that France also would continue testing if it considered it necessary for its defense program.)

A brief communique issued after Monday's negotiating session said the talks would continue today under Gromyko but had little information on what was achieved.

The United States and Britain seek a treaty banning all tests, provided the Soviets are willing to agree to adequate inspection for suspected underground tests. Failing this, they want a partial ban on tests in the atmosphere, outer space, and under water. These tests can be checked on by each nation without on the spot inspectors.

The instructions were presumed to deal with the unprecedented attack on China published in Sunday's Pravda.

There has been no direct Chinese reply to the attack as yet, but the press and radio in Moscow and Peking today made it clear no hope of reconciliation remains in the talks.

The Soviet government newspaper Izvestia charged Monday night that Peking may be preparing to proclaim itself a rival headquarters for communism.

(Peking's People's Daily criticized Soviet aid to India and warned the Soviets they were falling into a Western trap by helping India. It charged that Russian aid totaled more than the contribution of the West during last fall's Chinese invasion of India.

("Since the United States is asking its Allies to share the military spending of its worldwide anti-Communist operations, Washington would be only too glad if someone would help India oppose communism," it added.)

But the Izvestia attack went much further and convinced Western observers here that the ideological talks had gained no ground whatever.

Izvestia charged that China hints to the Communists of poor nations that they may have to split away from the relatively prosperous Communist countries that follow Moscow.

Ideological Split Grows Between Red Countries

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet and Chinese delegates today took an apparent recess from their talks on the split in the world Communist movement.

Continuing press attacks that showed the split was widening.

The Peking negotiating team met alone at the Chinese Embassy, Communist sources said, indicating that it was waiting for new instructions from the Chi-

Khrushchev's 'Odd' Actions May Indicate Some Change

MOSCOW (UPI) — Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev has been acting "oddly" in recent days for a man who once banged his shoe at the West and professed eternal friendship for Communist China.

He has snubbed a Chinese delegation here for ideological talks, and just as openly welcomed a Western delegation here to discuss a nuclear test ban treaty.

The Chinese, nominally Russia's allies, are subjected to bitter attacks as racists, warmongers, and rivals for world Communist leadership. The United States and Britain, who are on

Brick-Throwing Melee Followed By Uneasy Truce

DETROIT (UPI) — An uneasy truce hung over the Motor City today following Monday night's debris - throwing melee which threatened to explode into a riot. Scores from the angry mob were arrested.

Charges were to be filed against six of the demonstrators today. The others arrested were released by police.

The non - racial demonstration was the second of the day protesting the fatal shooting of Kenneth Evans by a police officer, Evans had been shot last Friday as he attempted to flee from a stolen car in which he had crashed.

Police said he had a record as a juvenile delinquent and had only recently been released from one jail term.

The first demonstration in front of the Second Precinct police station was led by Evans' brother, Ronnie, 16. Most of the pickets were teen-agers.

Just as the crowd was about to disperse at nightfall Monday a brick was hurled through the front door of the police station.

District Inspector Peter Soncrant went out to talk to the crowd, but as he approached, stones were thrown at him. He was not hit but he ordered officers from the station to disperse the pickets.

Jaycees Oppose Civil Rights Legislation

The Pampa Junior Chamber of Commerce today passed a resolution against civil rights legislation aimed at compelling businessmen to render service to anyone without prejudice.

The Jaycees, at today's noon luncheon, proposed that they go on record as opposing current legislation which would eliminate the right of businessmen to refuse service to anyone.

The resolution was proposed by John Warner, and urged by president Gary Frasier. First vice-president Richard Cooke suggested an amendment, which was passed.

The amendment changed the resolution from being against the current legislation to being against any such legislation.

Thirty-one Jaycees were present and two voted against the resolution.

The resolution reads:

WHEREAS, we, the members of the Pampa Junior Chamber of Commerce, believe that all men are created free and equal; and WHEREAS, we believe that all men should have equal rights and opportunity regardless of race, color or creed; and

WHEREAS, legislation is presently pending before the Congress of the United States which would

Goldwater Views Rockefeller Statement as a Declaration Of Candidacy for President

By RAYMOND LAHR
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The camp of Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., today viewed Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's attack on the "radical right" as notice that Rockefeller is a presidential candidate.

The New York governor's statement also was considered in some quarters as the forerunner of a stop-Goldwater movement by other presidential hopefuls in the Republican party.

A spokesman for Goldwater Monday night quoted the Arizona conservative as saying the Rockefeller statement amounted to the governor's "formal declaration of candidacy" for the GOP nomination.

Although Goldwater has never acknowledged that he is a presidential aspirant himself, his stock has boomed in recent months following Rockefeller's re-marriage to a divorced woman.

Political observers speculated that Rockefeller felt he was losing ground in the presidential race and sought to regain leadership by his attack on groups supporting Goldwater.

Newsweek magazine said Monday the Rockefeller statement was part of a concerted drive to block Goldwater's nomination by forming a coalition of Republicans supporting the New York governor, Michigan Gov. George Romney and Pennsylvania Gov. William Scranton.

In a statement in Albany Sunday, Rockefeller lashed out at the "radical right lunatic branch" and said the Republican party was in "real danger of subversion" by that group.

He underscored that statement Monday night when he expressed fears that Goldwater will become a "captive" candidate of the GOP's extreme right wing.

To Renew Attack

Rockefeller, whose remarks obviously were directed at some vocal backers of Goldwater, is expected to renew the attack at the governors' conference in Miami Beach next week.

CC to Begin Negotiations For Widening Highway 60

Widening of U.S. Highway 60 has been given top priority by the highway committee of the Chamber of Commerce, committee member Fred Thompson reported at the July directors meeting of the Chamber yesterday.

The proposed road would be a four-lane highway with a medium divider, extending from the city limits west to the Carson County line. Thompson indicated that the State Highway Department would look with favor on the construction of this road segment. The directors gave unanimous endorsement of the project and suggested that the Highway Committee begin immediate negotiations with the County Commissioners Court, requesting their cooperation on the project at the earliest possible date.

Frank Culbertson, chairman of the Industrial Committee, said that negotiations were underway with Texas A&M for an extensive industrial planning survey. The report would include updating of economic data on Pampa and its trade area with recommendations for fields of development.

Cecil Steward, professor of architecture at Texas A&M was here recently and met with the Industrial Committee. A report will be made to the group within the next few weeks at which time the project will be given further consideration, Culbertson said.

The next appreciation day for local oil companies will likely take place during the latter part of September or early October, Culbertson said. It was also announced that Continental Oil Company is opening new district offices in the city.

Bill Power, chairman of the Publicity and General Information Committee, reported a new city map and street guide has been completed and is now available for free distribution at the chamber office. The newly expanded information center of the Chamber also has free information on all states of the union for the benefit of people planning their vacation trips.

Aid to India Is Under Fire From Two Sides

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Foreign Affairs Committee faced a skirmish today over whether new restrictions should be placed on U.S. aid to India and American contributions to the United Nations.

Rep. William S. Broomfield, R-Mich., planned to offer at a closed session an amendment to reduce proposed American assistance to India by $100 million, bringing the total down to $300 million.

Rep. H. R. Gross, R-Iowa, was ready to propose another amendment to cut off all U.S. contributions to U.N. specialized agencies having programs which benefit Cuba.

Broomfield's main aim was to prevent any U.S. money going into the proposed government-owned steel plant at Bokaro, India. The Indian government has asked the United States for a $512 million loan to cover the first step on construction.

"I can't see why the American taxpayer's money should be used to build a huge socialistic steel plant overseas," Broomfield said. "A program of this kind is in direct contradiction to the free enterprise system and may even someday compete against American steel in the world market."

TOKYO (UPI)—Communist China told the Soviet Union today that Russian aid to India is only helping the United States.

"Washington would be only too glad if someone would help India oppose communism and oppose the people and lighten the U.S. burden," Peking People's Daily said in an article transmitted by (See AID, Page 3)

City Manager Files Investigation Report

City Manager Harold Schmitzer today read a detailed report to city commissioners of his investigation of alleged violations of a city ordinance by a sound truck operating on Pampa streets during last Tuesday's charter amendment election.

Schmitzer said he wanted to clarify some misunderstanding about the authority his office had in the matter. He reiterated that he "considered his investigation complete."

Indirect reference was made to a story in The Pampa News on July 11. Schmitzer told the commissioners he did not use certain words.

A representative of the newspaper stated that Schmitzer was not quoted as using the words he mentioned.

Schmitzer said he had no fault with the story and was not asking for a retraction.

Visitors Pour in for Ringside Seat

BAR HARBOR, Maine (UPI)—Thousands were pouring into this fashionable seaside resort this week for front row seats Saturday to nature's most spectacular sky show, the total eclipse of the sun.

The visitors, ranging from scientists to schoolboys and tourists to tradesmen, were lining up coveted sites to watch the awesome phenomenon of the moon passing between the sun and the earth.

The nearby plateau-like summit of 1,532-foot Cadillac Mountain, highest Atlantic Coast elevation between here and Argentina, offered a perfect vantage point of the spectacle that will turn day into night.

The total eclipse will be seen along a 60-mile-wide swath from Japan, across the North Pacific to Alaska, Canada and Maine before ending in the Atlantic at sunset.

The celestial event will be observed as a partial eclipse elsewhere in the Northern Hemisphere and as far south as Venezuela.

At 3:47 p.m., CST, the moon will block out the sun entirely over this area. The air temperature may drop; stars will be visible, and the sudden darkness will trick nocturnal insects and animals into stirring prematurely.

Twenty special astronomical expeditions will be perched atop Cadillac Mountain. These range from a high altitude research group from Boulder, Calif., to a high school science group from New Jersey. Astronaut M. Scott Carpenter plans to fly over Maine at 42,000 feet in a specially equipped plane. A scientist accompanying him on the flight will point out to him scientific aspects of the eclipse which astronauts may encounter in future space journeys.

Pampa's Buddys Remains Unsold

Buddy's Super Market, 502 W. Francis, Pampa, remained among the three of the nine-store chain still unsold following bankruptcy hearings held yesterday in Federal Court in Amarillo, where six of the Buddy's stores were approved for sale by the creditors.

F. A. Sewell of 3414 Milam bought three of the Amarillo stores. Sewell was formerly district manager of Piggly Wiggly Food Stores in Amarillo.

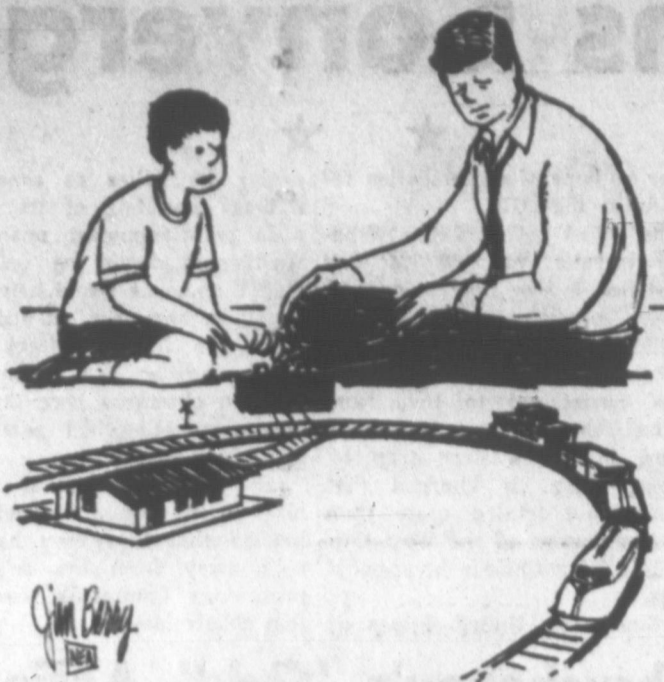

He purchased stores 8 and 9 as a package, with $75,000 paid for fixtures, and Buddy's No. 6 for $13,500 plus inventory.

The McSpadden brothers, Richard and George, of the Central Grocery Chain purchased Buddy's No. 3. The Central Grocery Chain had purchased Buddy's No. 4 earlier in the month. The price for fixtures was $15,000 apiece. Buddy's creditors approved both (See BUDDYS, Page 3)

AUSTIN — If you suffer from "midmorning hunger," better revise your breakfast habits, State Health Department nutritionists advise.

More and more people are falling into the habit of skimping breakfast. Surveys have shown that two out of every nine children leave for school without breakfast, and four out of ten workers leave for work with nothing to eat.

"Midmorning hunger" is the expression nutritionists use to describe the feeling which comes after an inadequate breakfast. Victims usually feel weak and giddy by midmorning. They may be hungry, yet have no taste for lunch. Or, if they are able to eat a big lunch, they may feel sleepy by early afternoon.

Midmorning hunger therapy, nutritionists say, calls for the "patient" to eat a solid breakfast. The extent of breakfast consumption varies from person to person. Individuals with special problems or modified diets can be guided by their physician.

Many Texas teachers and school nurses place special emphasis on breakfast. One school nurse had a breakfast contest in the elementary grades. Near the end of the school year a mother telephoned to report on the improved breakfast habits and general well being of the whole family. Before the contest, the mother said, none of the family ate breakfast. Her child, involved in the school breakfast contest, insisted on having a good breakfast. Eventually it caught on and the whole family began eating breakfast and feeling better.

It is a false idea that skipping breakfast is a good way to reduce. If anything, this highly injurious practice adds pounds. It works like this:

Skip breakfast and by noon you have lost your appetite or else are afraid to eat for fear of being groggy all afternoon. Then for supper you eat the food your body has been demanding all day. Now you go to bed and your supper is converted into fat rather than energy as would have been the case had you eaten properly during hours of greatest activity.

An adequate breakfast pattern can be adapted to any age, budget or cultural pattern: fruit or fruit juice, protein-rich food — such as eggs, cheese, meat or beans — bread or cereal and milk.

If time is a prohibitive factor, some preparations can be made the night before—setting the table, fixing the coffee pot, etc. . .

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — After last week's debut of ABC-TV's "Your Funny, Funny Films," a series using amateur home movies, it seemed reasonable to assume that the creators would more likely be fleeing the country than risking another public exposure.

Incredibly, the network Monday night again cleared a half-hour of its valuable national time to present another show in the series, and apparently intends to keep up this practice all summer long. This being the case, it would be a dereliction of duty not to call this added attention to the fact that "Your Funny, Funny Films" is one of the most obnoxious insults ever to hit the airwaves. By comparison, the Art Linkletter show seems a haven for intellectuals.

"Your Funny, Funny Films" is so bad that not even the networks could dream up an achievement award for it. In a non-political moment, Barry Goldwater once said modern art was characterized, in part, by the "cult of the ugly and commonplace"—and I hereby steal that phrasing from him to apply to our subject here today. Outside of parlor games and television game shows, I can think of no greater admission of creative or intellectual bankruptcy than to take the unimpressive home movies that one tries to avoid in contact with neighbors and to impress them on a national audience.

The first guests last night were a husband and wife and their three daughters, ages 5, 3 and 2. The funny, funny films, they showed were of the three girls practicing a ballet—and it was cute, cute. The ballet was described as "sort of like Swan Lake." I do not have the inclination to deal in an unkindly manner with young ladies thus involved in art, or even with their photographer, for they are all engaging in personal pleasure. But as for the effect on national television, I am sure I can leave it safely to your imagination, adding only that it was not funny, funny.

There were more films by others too; and in one short sequence, the audience thought it was hilarious when a baby bit a young girl's finger and the young girl started to cry—which ought to tell you something about the audience. In closing, host George Fenneman said, "That's it—the end." It certainly is.

Court Acts with Unusual Urgency

United Press International
The U.S. Court of Appeals acted with an unusual degree of urgency in ordering a Mississippi voting registrar to put 45 Negroes on the registration list and to stop discriminating against other Negroes who want to vote.

The appeals court—with judges from Texas, Louisiana and Georgia acting unanimously—told Forrest County (Hattiesburg) registrar Theon Lynd Monday to comply with its orders within 10 days or face a trip to prison. Other phases of his case are pending.

It is highly unusual for a federal court specifically to order individuals to be registered for voting. In the only recent case like it, a U.S. court handed down a similar order for a larger group of Negro registrants in Montgomery, Ala.

down an injunction as it did on a temporary basis in the Lynd case.

The appellate court said it took the action so that the rights of the Negroes involved might be protected while the federal district court conducts a full hearing on a Justice Department request for an injunction against the Hattiesburg registrar. The lower court had earlier refused to grant the injunction.

Civil rights voting cases are expected to become increasingly prominent between now and the 1964 presidential election as Negro organizations step up pledges to "double the Negro registration."

Negro groups are finding the way fairly easy in some sections of the South. It is more difficult in others. Their problem is both opposition from "the courthouse crowd" in rural areas and lethargy on the part of Negroes.

Shows Slight Increase

Latest figures available from the U.S. Civil Rights Commission and the Voter Education Project (VEP), a get-out-the-Negro vote drive financed by the Taconic Foundation, show only a slight increase in Negro registration between 1960 and 1962.

A spokesman for the VEP says Mississippi's Negro registration is about 25,000, roughly what it was in 1960 and 1962. That's the low point for the South. There are 42,256 voting-age Negroes in Mississippi, according to most recent figures.

The Lynd decision affects an area of the nation where there has been a running account of alleged voter discrimination and violence against Negroes working for voting privileges.

Alabama, with about 70,000 registered Negroes from a voting age Negro population of 481,320, is next to the bottom.

(An Indian military mission left New Delhi today for Moscow to seek arms and supplies from the Soviets. The mission is expected to confer for three weeks on the Indian list of needs, which includes ground-to-air missiles.)

Peking implied that by aiding India, the Soviets were joining all sorts of monsters and freaks in the world against China. It said Soviet aid to India during the Chinese invasion last fall was more extensive than the total supplied by the West.

Anti-Softball Car Thief Hits Second Time

A local car thief seems to have a grudge against softball players as the second local ballplayer in a week had a car stolen last night. This car, however, took only 40 minutes to recover.

Delbert Daniels of Select Auto Sales, 856 S. Hobart, told police at 9 a.m. a 1958 Oldsmobile had been stolen from him sometime after midnight.

Daniels said the thief had broken into the office and stolen seven sets of car keys. Three sets were found in cars on the lot, the other four sets and the car one of them belonged to, were missing.

At 9:40 a.m., Deputy Sheriff Jerry Gantrell of Laverne, Okla., telephoned Pampa police to say the car had been found outside of Laverne, abandoned, with the doors locked and the keys missing.

Daniels left for Laverne this morning with another set of keys.

Pampa police said that they have a warrant out for a suspect. The warrant is in connection with the theft of a car on July 11, from Daniel's softball teammate Travis Tucker. Somebody down here doesn't like softball!

N.Y., a Rockefeller supporter, followed up the governor's latest attack by calling on Goldwater Monday to repudiate the John Birch Society and "crackpot elements" backing him.

Keating commended Rockefeller for his Sunday statement. He said Rockefeller had spoken out against "know-nothing, do-nothing elements attempting to take over the party."

Reaction from other Republicans was mixed. Many were careful to stay on the sidelines, but Senate GOP Whip Thomas H. Kuchel, Calif., said Rockefeller had "performed a splendid service for his country and for his party."

Clinton Evans was re-elected by the commission for another two-year term as one of Pampa's two representatives on the Canadian River Municipal Water Authority.

The commission approved paying expenses of three city firemen to attend the 34th annual Texas Firemen's Training School at A&M College, College Station, July 21-26. The three who will go to the school are Assistant Fire Marshal L. V. Bruce and Firemen Willie A. Jenkins and Leo Tyrell.

Commissioner L. P. Fort suggested that a free time be given several times a week at city swimming pools for youngsters who could not afford the regular swim fee. City Manager Schmitzer was instructed to make the arrangements.

The City entered into a contract with Gray County to furnish fire service in rural areas. A contract that has been in force for several years was renewed.

The commission approved payment of $305 to clerks and judges who served in last Tuesday's charter election.

Returns of the election were canvassed and approved unanimously.

Pampan Critical, But Improving After Car Crash

Donald Young, 22, of 511 N. Carr remains in critical condition at St. Anthony's today following a two-car accident shortly after 9:45 p.m. Saturday in the 8000 block of NE 8th in Amarillo.

According to officials at St. Anthony's, Young is improving, but is still listed as being in critical condition. He remains under intensive surgical care after sustaining rib and internal injuries as a result of the accident, authorities said today.

The collision occurred as the car Young was driving pulled from a private drive onto NE 8th and collided with a car driven by W. R. Lasater of Twitty.

Lasater's wife, a passenger in the car was hospitalized and released Sunday afternoon with a broken collarbone.

Lasater apparently sustained no injuries from the wreck.

Young's car was totally demolished.

REJECTS UNC DEMANDS
PANMUNJOM, Korea (UPI)—Communist North Korea today rejected again United Nations Command (UNC) demands for the release of two American pilots captured last May.

The pilots, identified as Capt. Ben W. Stutts of Florence, Ala., and Capt. Charton W. Voltz of Frankfort, Mich., were captured May 17 when their helicopter went down just inside North Korea while on a border patrol mission. Today's meeting was the sixth called by the UNC in an effort to persuade the Communists to return the flyers.

PREDICTS WEATHER

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The weather bureau forecasts below normal or normal temperatures for most of the eastern half of the nation during the next 30 days.

The bureau predicts below normal temperatures for the Pacific Mountain states, and above normal in the southwest central plains and upper Great Lakes.

Subnormal rainfall was forecast for the southwestern states and the upper Great Lakes and east Gulf states. Above normal rainfall is expected in the Northwest and from the Appalachian Mountains to the Atlantic Coast. Elsewhere, rainfall will be near normal, the bureau said.

Foreign Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News analyst
Notes from the foreign news cables:
Shock Wave:
Western diplomats in Vientiane, administrative capital of Laos, believe that regardless of the outcome of the Sino-Soviet confrontation in Moscow, the first shock waves will be felt in Laos and will be unpleasant either way. If the Chinese win the argument against co-existence, they will have full Communist-block sanction to give more aid and direction to their Vietnamese and Oathet Lao cohorts in the "war of liberation" of Laos. If they lose — or what seems more likely, if there is a stalemate — the Chinese will return home angrily determined to push the Laos war harder.

Hopeful:
British diplomats are cautiously optimistic that next week's talks with the Russians may open the way to a limited nuclear test ban. Khrushchev is believed in need of some success, and a partial nuclear test ban appeared the least costly commitment to which he could subscribe. A partial test ban will require no controls on Soviet territory and therefore should be acceptable to Moscow which opposes on-site inspection to police a ban. An accord with the West might help Khrushchev to divert attention from the troubles with his Chinese allies and the threatening break in the international Communist camp.

How It Looks in Moscow:
Moscow also sees a reasonable hope for limited agreement on a nuclear test ban. On the Sino-Soviet talks, diplomats expect the exchange of insults to continue into the week and end in a neutral-sounding communique pledging new efforts toward a reconciliation. However, short of miraculous developments, a formal split in the international communist movement appears unavoidable.

Fred Gyms, policeman Francis Muldoon of the cancelled "Car 54, Where Are You?" television series, can be found back on the New York stage this fall. He will have a role in Meredith Willson's new musical, "Here's Love." Also in the cast will be Paul Reed, who played the captain in "Car 54."

Belly Dancers Can't Stomach New Rules

By FERID KEMIL
CAIRO (UPI) — There's a new look to Egypt's famous belly-dancers and they're not very happy about it.

They've been ordered to cover up and to put a brake on their wiggles.

From now on, the fashion for belly-dancers is a one-piece affair that reaches from the collar bone to the kneecap.

The new dance-costume, ordered by Chief Censor Abdel-Rahim Sorour, "decently covers the chest, stomach and back," a directive said. The skirt "has no slits or openings, on the sides or elsewhere."

Sorour's creation was outlined in a circular issued to belly-dancers and night clubs defining "the limits within which the Oriental dance should be performed."

The circular opened with a detailed explanation of what the dance costume should not show.

Then it tackled the dance itself. It said: "A dancer should not recline or stretch on the dance floor. If she wiggles, she should do it slowly. She should not fan out her legs 180 degrees on the dance floor. Nor should she 'take positions or make movements which carry sexual implications.'"

"A dancer should not perform on top of, or between, the tables. Dancing is strictly for the dance floor."

"A dancer should not be photographed 'in suggestive, intimate positions' with customers while she is dancing or while in her dance suit."

"Musicians should not dance with or around the belly-dancer."

"Why should they put more and more restrictions on us while foreign dancers can use any costumes and do whatever they like?"

Belly-dancers are up in arms. "Why should they put more and more restrictions on us while foreign dancers can use any costumes and do whatever they like?"

asked Wafaa Aly, temporarily a blonde. Another dancer, Ahlam, said, "they're chasing the tourists away."

Economy-size Fairouz Amin said: "You can't make a dance decent or indecent by imposing regulations." She hinted that belly-dancers will find detours around any new laws.

"Some famous old-time dancers would undoubtedly welcome these regulations," commented bosomy, Sousou El-Sayed. "They can no longer match the new generation. The new costumes will enable them to cover their sagging forms."

WHALE OF A LOAD—Split right down the middle, a modified Boeing Stratocruiser known as the "Pregnant Guppy" swallows the largest cargo ever to be lifted by an airplane. Later, back in one piece, the plane successfully went through a test flight over Los Angeles, Calif. The cargo, an inert S-IV second stage of the giant Saturn rocket, weighed 20,370 pounds and took up an area 41 feet long and 18 feet in diameter. "Guppy" flights are expected to cut S-IV transportation time to Cape Canaveral from the three weeks now required by barge through the Panama Canal to about 12 hours.

How to Feast With Panthers: As Christine Proved, It's Dangerous

(First of four dispatches.)
By TOM A. CULLEN

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

LONDON (NEA) — "There isn't such a thing as love," scoffed Christine Keeler, the young party girl whose escapades have rocked the British government and threatened to unseat its prime minister. "It makes me laugh when I hear people moaning about broken love affairs," said this auburn-haired lovely.

This is a pathetic admission, coming as it does from the girl whose affair with War Minister John Profumo has given Britain one of its biggest political scandals. Her inability to love is a serious flaw in Christine's character. It has made her a moral cripple. The gay, party girl companion of cabinet ministers and aristocrats is, in reality, a tragic figure, in the opinion of many here.

"Each of us destroys the thing he loves," wrote Oscar Wilde. But Christine, by her own admission, destroyed men without ever having known what it is to love. Again, Oscar Wilde wrote, referring to his associations with the dregs of society, "It was like feasting with panthers — the danger was half the excitement."

The Soviets have been quick to exploit that half-world in which British politicians and bluebloods enjoy feasting with panthers. Sex and espionage now go hand in hand. Call girls can be a menace to national security, as the Profumo scandal has indicated.

That is why Christine Keeler and her story are of interest to both America's Central Intelligence Agency and to MI5, which is Britain's counterespionage agency. Frozen Goddess, Siren, Enigma, Femme Fatale — these are some of the tags which have been attached to Christine Keeler. What is the real Christine like? "When I first met her," said Jamaican singer Lucky Gordon, one of her lovers, "she was asking the waitress in a cafe where she could get some Indian hemp (marijuana). Right away I wanted to know her."

Lucky Gordon may now regret that he ever set eyes on Christine, for in June he was sentenced to three years' imprisonment for assaulting her in a jealous rage. Other men, too, have wanted to know Christine, to their regret. For Christine lives recklessly; she thrives on danger.

In addition, members of the Royal Family have been dragged into the scandal by virtue of Profumo's position as a Minister of the Crown.

Also, Christine's "very good friend" Dr. Stephen Ward is well-known to the Royal Household, he having made sketches of Prince Philip and Princess Margaret. Altogether, Christine, the girl who was born on the wrong side of the railroad tracks and who was singing hash in a Soho cafe only four years ago, has left a fantastic path of destruction.

Not surprisingly, the long-limbed, ginger-haired Christine is the product of a broken home, her parents having separated when she was only 3 months old. With her mother she went to live in a time she was caught smoking on the school grounds. She enjoyed herself more in the company of boys, climbing trees with them and swimming in the gravel pits.

Christine quit school at the age of 15 and began a series of jobs as typist, waitress, model. She also began to date American airmen at an air base near Staines. "I found out about bottle parties and the American service type of whoop-up," she recalled.

At the age of 17 Christine found herself pregnant and she gave birth prematurely to a son named Peter. The infant died six days after it was born.

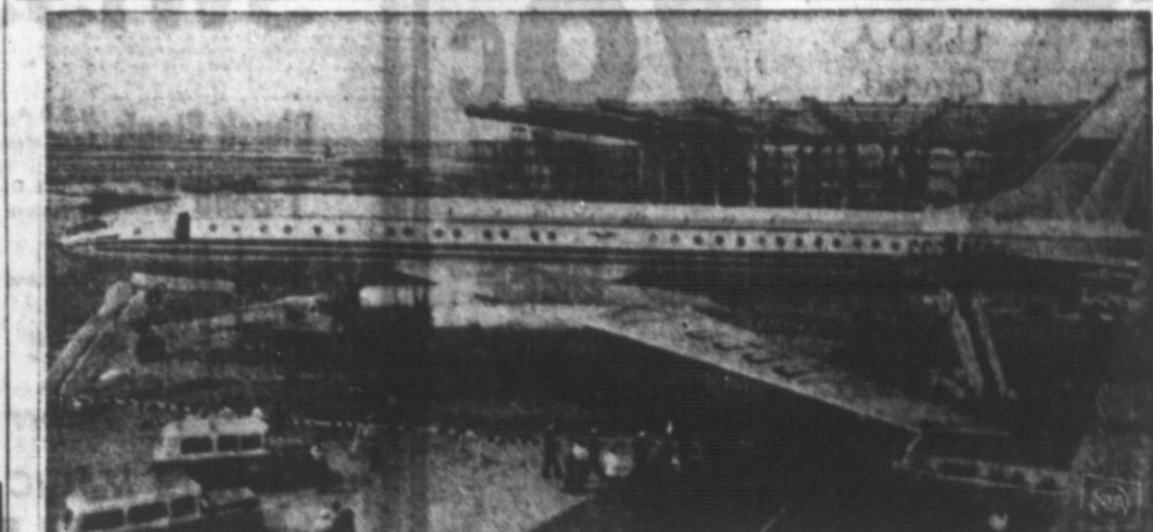

That same year she got a job as a hostess in Murray's Cabaret, where she met the man who was to have the greatest influence on her life — Dr. Stephen Ward, an American-educated osteopath. In June 1961, Christine moved into Ward's flat at No. 17 Wimpole Mews. "It was a brother and sister relationship, nothing else," said Christine. But it had its sinister side.

On two occasions Christine told police that Ward asked her to get defense secrets from War Minister Profumo.

DR. WARD: Like brother and sister.

Chinese 'Grandma Moses'

TOKYO (UPI) — Communist China has come up with its own counterpart of Grandma Moses. But 67-year-old Kao Miao-Lan is a youngster compared to Anna Mary Robertson Moses, who died last year at 101.

Mrs. Kao, according to the New China News Agency, is an "elderly peasant woman" in East China who has done more than 300 paintings since liberation.

Like Grandma Moses, Mrs. Kao belongs to the "traditional school," according to New China.

Like Grandma Moses' Christmas cards, Mrs. Kao's paintings "breathe a freshness and gaiety characteristic of folk art."

And like Grandma Moses, Mrs. Kao is "held in using color and her composition is strongly decorative."

Grandma Moses liked to paint down-on-the-farm scenes around her home in Honesick Falls, N.Y. Mrs. Kao likes to paint the mountains and brooks of East China.

Both women started to paint late in life. And now, according to New first discovered in a drug store in 1935.

Last July, Mrs. Kao held her first "one-man exhibition" in China. Mrs. Kao is well on her way to acquiring the kind of fame which came to Grandma Moses after her paintings were shown at the "National Art Exhibition" in July and October.

"More than 80 of her works have been reproduced by pictorial journals and newspapers," New China said. "Her 'Exploiting Treasure Mountain' was included in the 'Selection of Modern Chinese Paintings' published by the Shanghai People's Publishing House."

Grandma Moses was inspired by the beautiful New England countryside. Mrs. Kao, according to New China, by the "rapid changes taking place" under communism.

Dear Abby....

Too Many Invitations Spoil Summer Rest

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Summer is here and so are the parasites who flock to our summer cottage and "vacation" at our expense in the name of friendship. Last summer I worked 16 hours a day cooking and cleaning for three solid months. No time off either. Sunday was our "busiest" day. I am not young any more and I can't take much more of this. Must we sell our lovely summer cottage and give up our own pleasure because other people take advantage of us? I should add, my husband is the type who is always saying, "Come to the cottage!" What does he care? He sits in the boat all day.

ALMOST DEAD
DEAR ALMOST: Your problem is your husband, not your friends. To some people, "come to the cottage" is a gift-edged invitation. When your husband quits inviting people, you'll have your privacy. And those who come uninvited should be told, "Tak, tak — we're all filled up!" (It's true—you are.)

DEAR ABBY: I've solved the "food-wasting" problem. When eating out, I order a full course meal and a child's portion meal. My eleven-year-old daughter eats the full course meal, and I eat the child's portion. By the way, I am 6'1" and weigh 185.

CHARLES IN TAMPA
DEAR CHARLES: Wonderful! But how tall is your daughter, and what does SHE weigh?

DEAR ABBY: When I was 18-1 I left the farm and went to the city. My first job was waiting on tables.

Take It From Kathy

By KATHY PETERSON

Dear Kathy: When do you think a girl should start wearing nylons and lipstick? Could you tell me when you started wearing them, and when you'd let your children do it? — Janet A.

Dear Janet A.: This is a question I answered a year ago in the column, but so many girls have asked it again that another comment might be a good idea. Most parents agree that girls at about 13 have matured enough so that their dress and actions on special occasions should give the impression that they are young ladies. This does not mean three-inch heels, a sophisticated hair style or a strapless evening gown. It does mean a well-groomed look. (Include gloves, please), well manicured nails, good manners and usually NATURAL lipstick on SPECIAL OCCASIONS, plus nylons.

The girl who "hangs" clothes in piles on chairs is still too young for nylons, no matter what her age. She'd abuse expensive stockings instead of giving them the gentle treatment they rate and the bath they need after every wearing. She'd also forget that fingernails need pampering so they won't snag hose. A girl earns the right to a second, third and fourth pair by taking care of the first.

The problem of lipstick isn't a big one in my family yet. My two teen-agers are boys. Their little sister is too young to know what make-up is, but I think 13 would be the right age for her to start.

Cotton Knits Satisfy Little Gardeners

Big and little sister look fine and dandy in the newest version of shirts and shorts for summer. Shorts in cotton knit denim (left) team up with pleated front shirts. Suspender buttons on. Bold stripes leave a bright mark wherever they go this season. For active little girls, the sleeveless side-vented tunic in cotton knit (right) is the perfect answer. Pick out a stripe and team it with matching shorts. Colors include combinations of chalk blue, Nile green, white, polo blue, pimento and marigold. They are Aileen Girl designs.

By HELEN HENNESSY
Women's Editor

Newspaper Enterprise Assn. NEW YORK (NEA)—When the outdoors beckons to the mud-pie set and their bigger sisters, it's time for mom to be practical about their clothes.

Frills must go. First, the kids won't be comfortable in them in the hot weather and second the ironing board is not the ideal summer companion for mothers.

We all know that nary a youngster want to just watch a game. They're all right in there pitching. So their play clothes must be lightweight, absorbent and roomy to insure comfort.

All these qualities are combined in the new cotton knits for all ages—from toddlers to subteens. And just a touch of the iron after laundering gives them a crisp finish.

For eye appeal, pleats turn up in unexpected places. Pleated yokes give design and color contrast to sleeveless beach shifts of cotton knit denim and to checked sleeveless shirts with their own matching sash-belted Jamaicas.

Stripes add a gay look in tank tops and casual nullovers and Norfolk-belted check tops are accented with sparkling white collars.

There are colors to suit every moppet, from the redhead to the brunette. Favorites are chalk blue, Nile green, pimento, polo blue and marigold.

Slim pants, Jamaicas and shorter shorts can be worn with many carefully detailed, but carefree, tops.

Now Many Wear FALSE TEETH With More Comfort

FASTTEETH, a pleasant alkaline (non-acid) powder, holds false teeth more firmly. To eat and talk in more comfort, just sprinkle a little FASTTEETH on your plates. No gummy, gooey, pasty taste or feeling. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTTEETH at any drug counter.

Home Economics Offers Women More Chances For Employment

Modern invention and technological advances will add new jobs to the wide span filled by the 25 million women working today, who constitute about one-third of the total U.S. labor force. Within the next decade, says the U.S. Department of Labor, some 30 million women are expected to be holding down jobs.

Students who complete high school and decide early on a future career will have a better chance for job fulfillment, educators point out.

More professionally educated women are needed now to fill jobs in the home economics field, observes a home economist, and more will be needed in the future. Also in demand will be those with specific training and skills in non-professional areas.

One group of young women have a head start. They are 4-H Club members enrolled in a home economics program. At some time during club membership, reports the National 4-H Service Committee, nearly every one of the 1.3 million girls enrolled in 4-H receives some training in her dual role of future homemaker and career woman.

Sewing, meal planning, nutrition, home management, interior decoration, fashion and consumer education are among the projects in which 4-H Club members participate. They start in 4-H as young as nine years of age and many remain for as long as 10 years. Volunteer adult and junior 4-H leaders supervised by the Cooperative

The Mature Parent 'Permissive' Theory Defined For Parents

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Dear Mrs. Lawrence: My 5-year-old has developed a very embarrassing habit. He suddenly runs away from me on the street, stops in front of some store window and won't move unless I buy him something he has seen in it. First it was a neighborhood pet shop but now he stops at nearly every window. Yesterday he wouldn't leave an appliance window until I went in and bought a red electric bulb.

ANSWER: You have confused your little boy's right to desire with his right to fulfillment of desire. We create neurotic children by confusing these two very different rights. Like you, we fear a child's desire for a puppy in a pet store window because desiring it is getting it so far as we are concerned. As we don't want him to get it, we have to squash the desire. We have to scold and cajole him into giving it up instead of going along with it by saying, "I wonder what the people who buy that puppy will call him. What's your favorite name for a puppy? You couldn't call that one 'Spots' because he is all brown."

By delighting in his feeling for the puppy we make it possible for him to relinquish the notion of possessing it and to detach himself from the window. Up to now civilization has tried to stop us from acting on our desires by telling us that our responses to desirable objects in the world are "bad." It is the revolution of psychoanalysis that has offered us another way to control our desiring action. It teaches us to reveal in our capacity to respond to everything desirable in the world from sexually attractive people to brown puppies. Over and over again it has proved that the freedom to take delight in our wantings reduces our need to satisfy them in action.

The vast difference between wanting and getting is what the child guidance experts tried to promote by their "permissive" theory. It is now discredited because they chose such a stupid and misleading word to describe what they meant.

Their misleading word encouraged us to believe that we should not want "permitted" a little son to want a puppy but also "permitted" him to HAVE it. As a result of this confusion, we are still rearing spoiled, overindulged children. But what's just as sad, we've been blinded to the great discovery of psychoanalysis—the healthiness of wanting, the freedom to feel all our feelings so truthfully that we don't have to indulge them in unwise action.

RUTH MILLETT

It's important that a man be able to have complete confidence in his wife as a lifetime partner. For instance, he needs to know that she can handle the job of homemaking. This means as much to him as his ability to provide for the family means to his wife. He needs to know that his wife can entertain graciously and can make the unexpected guest feel welcome in their home. It's a sad thing when a husband is hesitant about bringing his friends home. He needs to know that his wife will back him up when the going is hard. The man who is afraid to trouble his wife with his worries hasn't the right kind of wife. He needs to be able to trust her judgment when it comes to handling the children. The woman whose children know she is an "easy mark" is letting both her husband and her children down. He needs to be able to trust her judgment in money matters. No man can feel secure if his wife gives in to extravagant impulses and counts on selling him the idea when both actually know it was foolish.

Women Will Continue Seeking Equality

DALLAS (UPI)—Dr. Minnie C. Miles, president of the national Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, said Sunday night more than 170,000 women will continue to seek equal rights in Washington this year. Dr. Miles was speaking at the club's 29th annual national convention in Dallas. She said the passing of the equal pay law for women was "progress" but the group will not stop until no persons are denied equal rights on the basis of sex. Sought in the program are equal Social Security benefits, equal pension, retirement and health benefits and the removal of discrimination on the basis of age, sex or marital status in governmental or industrial professions. Dr. Miles, an associate professor of commerce and business administration at the University of Alabama, came to Dallas from a civil rights meeting with President Kennedy in Washington. Dr. Frank A. Rose, president of the University of Alabama, gave the keynote address at the opening of the convention Sunday night. Rose spoke of three "priorities of progress" which he called education, values to live by and faith in ability. About 4,000 delegates from 3,355 women's clubs are attending the convention, which ends Thursday.

PRESSES FOR REPORT

LONDON (UPI) — The British government will press the United Nations for an early report on allegations the United Arab Republic used poison gas in the Yemen, Lord Privy Seal Edward Heath said Monday.

He told the House of Commons the government has called attention to such reports and that U.N. Secretary General Thant has ordered an investigation.

UNCLAIMED FURS FROM STORAGE TO BE SOLD FOR PRACTICALLY NOTHING WED. LAST DAY

Here is the story on these furs: Furriers from time to time get "stuck" with furs unclaimed for or unclaimed from storage.

De Luxe Dry Cleaners has been consigned a large group of furs from Stein Fur Mfg. which will almost be given away to the Pampa area. Also many luxury furs from regular stock, one-of-a-kind.

Imagine buying a muskrat fur stole for only $15.00 (plus tax). Many of these furs are expensive furs and are being sold at ridiculous prices. These furs really look like new but must be labelled "second hand used." If you want to buy a good $15.00 and up (plus tax) bargain in a fur, you'd better come early. Fur products labeled to show country of origin of imported furs.

It's The Law In Texas

THE PIRACY PRINCIPLE

The colorful pirate of old captured your imagination but not that of the shipowners or the governments that lost their cargoes and treasures.

Pirates were "enemies of mankind." Their acts became crimes against the government as well as against the "law of nations." A government would try to catch and to punish them no matter how and where the piracy took place.

From these early days, a rule of international law called "the piracy principle" came into being, as to crimes against mankind. Any nation might seize and punish such a person. He did not need to be one of its citizens. The crimes could be committed inside or outside its territory. Jurisdiction is worldwide.

Nations often punish their own people for crimes beyond their borders. Nations can punish aliens for crimes within their borders. They can punish aliens for crimes committed against that country when they later come into that country. A nation can also punish an alien for piracy under international law.

What about war crimes done on orders of superiors? The World War II allies have declared that certain Nazi leaders committed punishable crimes against nations.

Now and then some nations may allow a court to try a person "in absentia." Such trials without the accused present were once popular, but little comes from such trials, and they are not as highly regarded as trials in which a person has a fair chance to defend himself.

(This newsfeature, prepared by the State Bar of Texas, is written to inform—not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who is fully advised concerning the facts involved, because a slight variance in facts may change the application of the law.)

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy will hold a news conference at 4 p.m., EDT Wednesday. It will be his first meeting with newsmen here since May 22.

SCHOO' COW—We don't know about Mary's Little Lamb, but a cow is going to school in Minneapolis. In fact, she—her name's Pat the Ayrshire cow—is going to a number of schools in the metropolitan area, accompanied by Princess Kay of the Milky Way (Kathleen Hjelle of Argyle, Minn.). It's all part of a program, sponsored by the Minnesota Dairy Industry, to acquaint children and the general public with elements of the dairy industry—of which the cow is a pretty important one. Above, Pat and Princess Kay delight a group of children.
