ELEVEN STILL ALIVE — Miner Emil Pohle, right, one of three men rescued Friday night after being trapped in a mine for a week, smiles from a decompression chamber in Peine, Germany. With him is rescue team chief, Eduard Mosblech. Yesterday news came that 11 others given up for dead were still alive 187 feet underground. Rescuers now are drilling another shaft in hopes of reaching them by Tuesday or Wednesday.

Miners Given Up for Dead Awaiting Rescue

PEINE, Germany (UPI) — Eleven German miners once given up for dead waited 187 feet underground today for rescue workers to drill an escape shaft and free them from the flooded Mathilde iron mine where they have been trapped nearly 11 days.

Rescue officials said they hoped to save the men, who were discovered alive Sunday, just as three others were rescued from an air pocket 262 feet deep last week.

A giant American-made drill bit used in the other operation had bored a two-foot shaft to a depth of 36 feet early this morning but rescuers said they did not expect to reach the men before Tuesday night at the earliest.

Rudolf Stein, manager of the mine, warned that the attempt would be "extremely dangerous" because the men are in an unsupported chamber that could cave in as a result of the drilling operations.

"We hardly dare to breathe while the drill goes down," Stein said.

Two test shafts also were being drilled to determine if five other miners had found refuge in another suspected air pocket.

A sedimentation basin on the surface collapsed Oct. 24, dumping 19 million gallons of water and sludge into the mine, where 129 men were working. Seventy-nine men escaped immediately, seven others were brought out on a raft the following night and three others were rescued from a high-pressure air pocket Friday night following a week-long drilling operation.

The remaining 40 men had been believed dead until the discovery of the 11 survivors, now efforts were continued to find any other signs of life.

The 11 men were discovered alive and in surprisingly good condition Sunday when a six-inch test shaft was sunk to their chamber, a 9-by-12-foot cell about 28 feet high.

The trapped men tapped on the drill shaft to signal their presence. When a phone was lowered to them they reported that they shared the crumbling tunnel, partially water-filled, with the corpses of 10 comrades apparently killed by falling rocks.

Sahara Desert War Shellfire Continues

RABAT, Morocco (UPI) — Algerian and Moroccan artillery forces ignored a cease-fire agreement and shelled each other throughout the night near the desert border town of Figuig, official Moroccan sources said today.

Informed sources said the artillery duel around Figuig and nearby Beni-Ounif finally stopped about 9:30 (4:30 a.m. EST).

The undeclared border war over a disputed stretch of barren Sahara Desert land containing iron ore and other minerals appeared to be going into its fifth week despite the cease-fire that was to have become effective Saturday morning.

The Moroccan news agency MAP said in a dispatch from Figuig that Moroccan army units and civilian volunteers had "repulsed all attacks successfully, forcing the attackers to pull back to their positions."

Four Airmen Enter Space Capsule for 40-Day Test

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — Four airmen entered a simulated space capsule Sunday night for a 40-day study to check human reaction to conditions which may be met in future Apollo and Gemini space flights.

The men, one of whom will celebrate his 18th birthday while in the capsule, will spend a longer period of time breathing 100 per cent oxygen than anyone ever has.

The pressure inside the cabin will be the same as that at 27,500 feet, for the duration of the test. Two airmen outside the capsule will be checked periodically along with those inside the capsule and will act as a control.

Tuesday Vote May Give Clues on Civil Rights Issue

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Voters elect governors in Mississippi and Kentucky and a mayor in Philadelphia Tuesday in off-year balloting that may reflect the political impact of the civil rights issue.

Political strategists were watching these contests with particular interest because Negro demands and white reaction to them have been of major concern in all three races.

Hundreds of other elections for state, county and city offices will be held across the nation, but state and local issues appeared predominant in most of them.

Major cities holding municipal elections include Cleveland, Columbus, Youngstown, Akron, Canton, Toledo and Dayton, Ohio; Boston; San Francisco and San Diego, Calif.; Rochester and Niagara Falls, N.Y.; Indianapolis, Ind., and Tucson, Ariz.

One congressional seat also is at stake Tuesday. Pennsylvania's 23rd District is holding a special election to fill the term of the late Rep. Leon M. Gavin, a Republican. Albert W. Johnson, the GOP candidate, is heavily favored over Democrat William T. Hagerty.

The Philadelphia mayoralty race took on special significance because President Kennedy visited the city last week and closely aligned himself with the Democratic battle to retain control of the city hall.

Democratic Mayor James H. J. Tate is running for his first full term against Republican James J. McDermott. Tate has accused McDermott of making a "play" for the white vote. McDermott has accused Tate of faltering action that prompted racial unrest.

The election is being watched for the reaction of both negro voters and those white residents who may feel that the Negro has been pressing his demands too fast.

Tate is favored to win but by a smaller margin than Democrats have compiled in recent years.

A similar situation prevails in Kentucky, where Republican Louie B. Nunn opposes Democrat Edward T. Breathitt Jr. for governor. Breathitt is backed by retiring Gov. Bert Combs.

At issue in Kentucky is an executive order issued by Combs this year which forbids racial discrimination in all business establishments licensed by (See VOTE, Page 3)

U.S. Berlin-Bound Troops Run Into Another Soviet Roadblock

Military Threat Still There, Says Chief of Allies

PARIS (UPI) — Allied Supreme commander Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer said today the Communist threat to the West remains as great as before the Moscow nuclear test ban agreement.

But he added that the Communists cannot have failed to note the implication of stepped-up Western military capabilities resulting from the airlifting of a complete U.S. armored division through Exercise Big Lift last month.

Lemnitzer addressed the opening session of the annual conference of parliament members from 15 North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) nations.

"It is extremely important," he said, "to recognize that it (the test ban agreement) in no way reduced the existing magnitude or capability of the forces which make up the military threat to NATO. In other words, the military threat to NATO remained at least at the very substantial level prevailing before the treaty went into effect."

"I think it is also clear that the continued existence of unabated Communist military strength means that NATO's military effectiveness has lost none of its vital importance," he added. "Beyond this, the continued military effectiveness of NATO is essential for the achievement of possible further progress toward agreement between the Communist and free world."

Allied Leaders Confer On Action To Be Taken

BERLIN (UPI) — The Soviets today held up a U.S. Army convoy bound for Berlin in a new harassment of vital highway traffic to this isolated city.

The U.S., British and French commandants of West Berlin met in special session to decide what action to take. The meeting reflected the seriousness with which the Western Allies viewed the incident.

The Russians not only blocked passage of the convoy of 44 men in 12 vehicles but asserted they had the right to determine how convoys would be processed.

The convoy was held up by a Russian demand that soldiers leave their trucks to be counted. It was refused passage at the Soviets' Marienborn checkpoint on the East-West German border at the Western end of the 110-mile highway to Berlin.

The Russians blocked the convoy at 9:01 a.m. (3:01 a.m. EST) and it still was held as night fell.

The city's Western Allied commandants met at 2:30 p.m. for one hour and reached "complete agreement on the issues involved and how to deal with the situation," an Allied spokesman said.

No details were disclosed of what the Western Allies would do.

Today's incident strengthened the belief held by Western officials here that last month's holdup of American and British convoys was not the miscalculation of subordinate Russian officers as Washington officials said it was.

As last month, the convoy was refused passage today because Soviet border guards insisted that soldiers leave their trucks to be counted. The Americans refused.

The U.S. convoy commander said his convoy was not large enough for such a head count, but the Russians replied, "It is

Senate Considers Foreign Aid Bill $385-Million Cut

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate moved into its second week of debate today on the foreign aid bill with a vote expected on a proposal to chop $385 million from the delayed $4.2 billion measure.

To forestall a growing demand for further reductions, the Senate leadership has proposed a single cut of $385 million in authorization recommended by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee in its own bill. President Kennedy had asked for $4.5 billion for another year of military and economic aid overseas. The House trimmed this by $1 billion.

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, Mont., said he hoped a vote on the proposal would speed the Senate toward a final vote on the bill by the end of the week. However, more than 40 amendments have been proposed and some aid opponents have warned that they are prepared for a long debate.

Before voting on the leadership proposal, the Senate faced a decision on an amendment to limit during the next two years, but not this year, U.S. participation in the "Alliance for Progress" loan fund to $975 million, or the same level proposed by the leadership for this current year.

$83 Embrace Industrial Fund Now Over $1,000

NEW LONDON, Conn. (UPI) — John Brown Jr. complained to police Sunday that a middle-aged woman followed him out of a local store, tugged him into an alley and then threw her arms around him.

Brown said that he "resisted her advances" and pushed her away.

When she was gone, he found that his wallet, containing $83, was missing.

The official Viet Nam press agency, which disclosed the program in a broadcast declaration, also broadcast orders dissolving the national assembly, officially removing the late President Ngo Dinh Diem from office and imposing a 7 p. m. to 5 a. m. curfew in Saigon.

The declaration was issued as the military leaders took precautions to keep mobs from desecrating the bodies of Diem and his adviser brother, Ngo Dinh Nhu, who were reported assassinated in the wake of the armed coup that toppled their regime Friday.

The military government declared that "the armed forces are not aiming at setting up a dictatorship because they are well aware that the best weapon to fight communism is democracy and liberty."

"The armed forces are fighting for the sacred interests of our nation," it said, "and will neither serve personal ambition nor cling to power."

Lists Proposed Reforms

It listed a detailed program of internal and external reforms to be promulgated by the ruling military junta.

Internally, it said the junta will:

- Authorize all non-Communist parties "to operate within the framework of national defense security."
- Transfer political power to a popularly elected government "when the situation permits."
- Invite all representatives of all social levels to participate in talks to prepare resumption

Space Couple on Their Honeymoon

MOSCOW (UPI)—The world's first space newly-weds were launched on a brief Russian honeymoon today before embarking on a possible joint spectacular in the cosmos.

Cosmonette Valentina Tereshkova, a lovely bride in white with a near-blonde hair-do, disappeared from a boisterous reception Sunday night hand-in-hand with spaceman Andrian Nikolayev.

Twenty-one toasts rang in their ears, most of them hoisted by Premier Nikita Khrushchev who said he was acting as "father of the bride." Valentina's father was killed in World War II.

Air Force Chief Marshal Konstantin Vershinin, in raising his glass, hinted that the bride and groom might go in orbit together one of these days.

Mme. Nhu May Decide to Stay in U.S. Indefinitely

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (UPI)—Mme. Ngo Dinh Nhu, first lady of the deposed South Viet Nam government, kept herself secluded in her eighth-floor hotel suite today and speculation grew that she would remain in this country indefinitely.

The U.S. State Department advised Mme. Nhu by telegram Sunday that her three children in South Viet Nam are safe. The children—aged 15, 11 and 4—were understood to have been in Dalat, a resort near Saigon, at the time of the uprising against the now-deposed regime.

A spokesman said Mme. Nhu had drafted a reply to the State Department, but declined to reveal its contents until sometime today because she wished to have the State Department advised of her message first.

The State Department had said it understood Mme. Nhu wanted the children to "proceed to Rome" where a third of the

UN Debates Fate Of Arab Refugees

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (UPI)—The United Nations today scheduled its annual debate on the fate of an estimated million Arab refugees from the 1949 Palestine war.

The General Assembly's special political committee had the item on its agenda for this afternoon's session. Diplomatic sources saw little hope of breaking the stalemate that has existed in the Palestine refugee question for a dozen years.
