Three Trapped Miners Are Found Still Alive

Detectives Using Dogs In Search Rescuers Drilling To Free Men

By RUSS GREEN

HAZLETON, Pa. (UPI) — Necessities of life — food, medical supplies and cigars — were lowered 300 feet down a tiny hole today to three miners trapped by a cave-in last Tuesday and nearly given up for lost.

Soup, coffee, sandwiches, head lamps, medicine and the cigars were dropped to the men shortly before boring of a second six-inch hole was halted at the request of David Fellin, 58, and Henry Throne, 28, so they could get some rest.

The third man, Louis Bove, 42, was in a second chamber about 15 feet from where his two companions were trapped. Throne reported he had gone looking for Bove but "he must have crawled off somewhere."

"I don't know where he is," Throne reported. Rescuers said they would resume drilling the second shaft as soon as they get word from below.

Meanwhile happy relatives and rescue workers chatted with Throne and Fellin through the tiny hole which miraculously hit the small chamber where they were trapped.

Fellin, one of the co-operators of the mine, told his wife: "I'm not sick, mom. How are you?" "I'm all right Dave," she said, "and I want to tell you I love you."

"Okay, mom, I'll talk to you later," he replied. "Right now I have some work to do down here."

More than 250 law enforcement officers, using bloodhounds and armed with submachine guns, searched for Troy Thornton, who after killing the two officers Sunday with the shotgun, grabbed a rifle and critically wounded another officer.

Thornton, 40, then forced his daughter to drive him into a heavily wooded hilly area where he disappeared with the rifle and a pistol.

Relatives said Thornton, a twice-convicted moonshiner, had been told recently by his doctor he had cancer and could live only a few months longer.

"He thinks he has nothing to lose," his wife said. Police said Colbert County Sheriff Herman (Red) Cook, Police Chief Neil Pace, Chief Deputy Don Files and Deputy Ray Murray went to the site of Thornton's house, which burned down about a year ago, to see if he was hauling illegal whisky.

They found Thornton lying on a metal glider outside the remains of his home. His daughter, Carolyn, 18, was nearby.

Murray said that as the officers approached Thornton raised up and fired with the shotgun. The officers ducked down into high grass and Thornton yelled: "I'll quit if you will. Just stand up." The officers declined.

"He shot and I hunkered down," Murray said. "Then he shot again. That was the one that killed Cook and Pace. Then he shot again. I hunkered down some more."

The deputy said Thornton then picked up the rifle and fired several more shots, one of them apparently striking Files in the stomach.

Showdown Set In Rail Dispute

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rail Union and management negotiators were summoned today to a showdown meeting today in a government effort to break the impasse over ground rules for settling their long dispute.

Assistant Labor Secretary James J. Reynolds said he was calling attorneys for both sides to an afternoon session to seek agreement on procedure for submitting the key issues to arbitration.

Both the railroads and the unions have agreed to submit the two main issues — size of train crews and firemen's jobs — to binding arbitration. But the unions insist on negotiating secondary issues before arbitration begins.

Body Recovered In El Paso Flood

EL PASO (UPI) — A body believed to be that of a prominent El Paso attorney has been recovered from swirling flood waters caused by a freak summertime thunderstorm on the city's southeast side.

The victim was tentatively identified as Bob Wilson. Wilson's car was washed from the road when a deluge of rain hit the city about 3 p.m. CST Sunday, sending water above curbs and flooding many homes in the area.

The car was hurled into a ditch by the force of the water. Wilson apparently was washed from the vehicle. His body was found some distance from the car.

'Net Disadvantages' Seen In Test Ban By Gen. LaMay

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Gen. Curtis E. LeMay told the Senate today that from a military standpoint, the limited nuclear test ban contained "net disadvantages" to the United States.

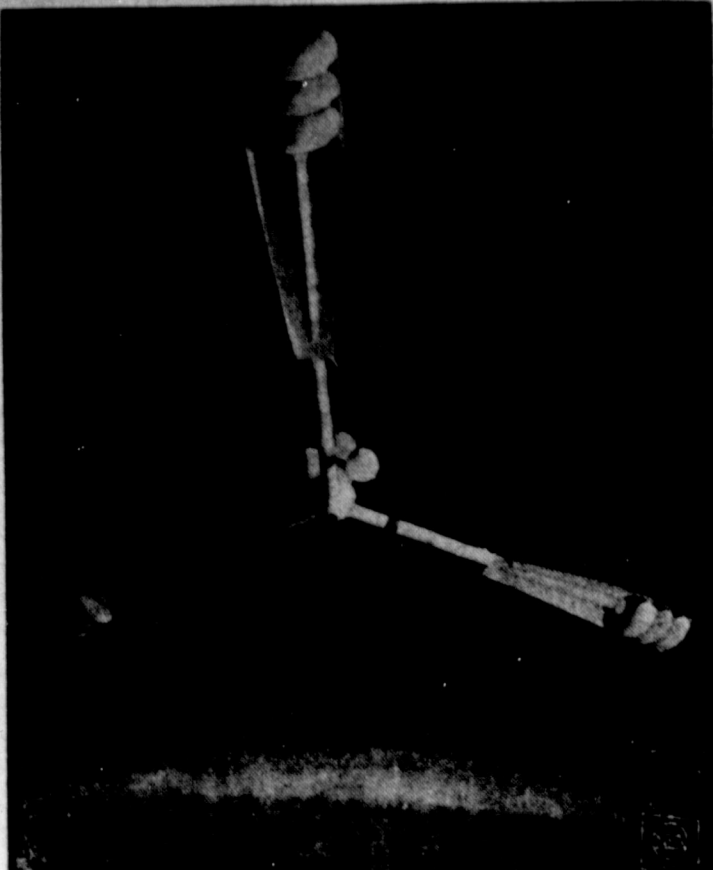

The Air Force chief of staff said, however, these were offset by "political advantages" if proper safeguards were maintained.

LeMay and the nation's other three military chiefs endorsed the treaty with some concern about Russia's "big bomb" lead but apparently were satisfied that future safeguards would be provided.

LeMay, Air Force chief who did most of the testifying, told senators of three committees that most government officials "more or less" agree with the Joint Chiefs of Staff that the treaty must be accompanied by safeguards against Soviet test cheating.

Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, Army chief of staff, reminded the lawmakers that President Kennedy had stated that nuclear laboratories and underground testing would be maintained as part of an "active development program" under the treaty. All are part of the safeguards upon which the Joint Chiefs conditioned their approval of the pact.

The Defense Department said, meantime, that a "bill of particulars" on safeguards to be provided after ratification of the treaty was now being prepared and should reach Congress "in about a week."

SPACE "APARTMENT HOUSE"—Up to 36 astronauts could be housed in the podlike ends of the 170-foot-long spokes of this space station. Spacecraft would dock at the bulblike structures near hub of the station. A special passenger shuttle would carry occupants through the hub's "handle." It's a speculative design for the future dreamed up by Republic Aviation scientists.

Kennedy Returns With VIP Puppies

WASHINGTON (UPI) —With a couple of VIP's (very important puppies) aboard his jet, President Kennedy returned to Washington today from a quiet weekend with his convalescent wife on Cape Cod.

The President's plane landed at Andrews Air Force Base at 10:06 a.m. EDT after a 54-minute flight from Otis Air Force Base, Mass., and he took a helicopter to the White House. He had no major appointments scheduled today but will hold a news conference Tuesday at 4 p.m. EDT before a mid-week return to Hyannis Port, Mass.

The puppies born at the White House June 14 were headed for new homes with a pair of lucky Midwest children. The dogs — a male, Streaker, and a female, Butterfly, named by 5-year-old Caroline Kennedy — are half the litter of four pups born to Pushinka, a mongrel given to Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy by Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev in 1961. Caroline and little brother John F. Kennedy Jr., 2, got a last chance to play with the puppies while accompanying their father

Giant Shell Oil Group Started When London Importer of Sea Shells Decided on Expansion

By HARRY HOBBS

LONDON (UPI) — From the gaily little trinket boxes on the Victorian ladies' dressing tables there grew a giant — and it kept growing, growing and growing. This giant had seven heads and was named Shell. Of this giant's seven heads four were Dutch and three British. Together their brains and talents charted the path of the giant itself and with it the future fortunes of about 500 children it had spawned around the world. This giant still is growing. Its sustenance is oil and the things that flow from it. That's the story of Shell oil and it is no fairy tale. It all started when a trader in London's sleazy Whitechapel district, whose main business was importing sea-shells from the Far East, decided to expand. The delicate shells he had been shipping and selling, mainly to decorate milady's trinket boxes and other ornamental knick-knacks of the age, came from lands that had other things to offer—including oil.

Germany and the United States. Even a brief review of Shell's worldwide operations in a single year is like leafing through a geography book. It covers drilling in Sarawak... a new "one-stop-shop" retail enterprise in Canada based on gas stations... proving a gas field in Holland... readying for new production in Algeria... seismic surveying for oil under the North Sea from Britain... the start of a new refinery in Tanganyika in the Philippines... helping to lay a 70-mile pipeline in Abu Dhabi's Murban field in the Persian Gulf... a new gas discovery in Pakistan... the completion of an ethylene plant near Sydney, Australia... a gas oil unit going "On stream" and a new household detergent material plant in which Shell has a part interest in Japan.

Depicting the real size of this oil complex is not easy but two basic facts help. Shell produces about one-ninth of the world's total oil output and its annual gross income from sales and operations was more than 3 billion pounds ($8.4 billion) in 1962 — a figure that dwarfs the national revenue of many countries. Sales taxes and excise duties absorbed $51 million pounds ($2.383 billion) payable to various governments. Another fact: the tanker fleet in the group's service puts most national navies in the pigmy class and overwhelms the world's greatest passenger-cargo lines. By the end of 1962 Shell had 471 ships of better than 11 million deadweight tons working for it. Net assets this year in plant, property and equipment were worth nearly 3.6 billion pounds ($10.8 billion) with one-third of it concentrated in oil production. Its total capital employed, as shown in the balance sheet, was 2.85 billion pounds ($7.95 billion) — more than double what it was in 1954. But a reading of the Shell reports also shows that despite the size of its finances it has had to make economies because the international oil business is not the plush earner it once was. For instance, in 1955 net income on London gas-tighteners "they do not move up to 15.3 per cent in 1957 in the post-Suez period, but dipped to 8.3 per cent for both 1960 and 1961. In 1962 the income level moved up to 8.8 per cent—the first rise since 1957—said by observers to be due to increased internal efficiency and streamlining. When it comes to earnings, more than half the total Shell income comes from operations in Europe and the rest of the Eastern Hemisphere, 18 per cent in the United States and 29 per cent in the rest of the Western hemisphere. Like some other monster enterprises this oil complex—which incidentally operates 27,000 miles of oil and natural gas pipeline—has to generate the bulk of its own capital from sales revenue, whether from oil, gas or chemicals. Last year its capital expenditure program cost 295 million pounds ($825 million) and the board says it will go even higher next year. But the group believes in the free world's insatiable thirst for oil—which some experts say will about double from the present 22 million barrels a day in the next 12 years—and it plans to be well placed to assuage this thirst. This means coordinating the 500-odd Shell companies around the world with all their varied activities, whether producing, refining, transporting, selling or managing the group's real estate interests. For this big job there are 13 top "coordinators," key men of whom all are principal executives. They sit either in London or the Hague. The coordinators work through four separate "service companies"—two in Britain and two in Holland each covering oil and chemicals—which feed and advise the offshoots. At the very top of the structure are Shell's heads, the "Seven Men," the ultimate directing committee who are something of a legend in big business. They are called the "Managing Directors of the Royal Dutch-Shell Group of Companies," and are Jonkheer J. H. Loudon, H. Wilkinson, L. Schepers, L. E. J. Brunker, J. P. Berkin, D. H. Barran, and W. F. G. L. Starrenburg. It has been said that at their regular London get-togethers "they do not bother themselves with sums of

Integration At a Glance

By United Press International School officials in Alabama's two largest cities — Birmingham and Mobile — were under federal court orders to hand over plans today for the state's first school desegregation below the college level. School officials in neither city have given any indication of what the plans will include. Birmingham, which several months ago was the scene of some of the South's most massive racial demonstrations to date, presently is desegregating some downtown facilities under an agreement between businessmen and Negro leaders. Mobile also has begun desegregating some downtown facilities. At White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., Alabama Gov. George Wallace planned to introduce a package of anti-integration resolutions at the Southern Governors Conference. In Chicago, a civil rights leader charged his organization was "double-crossed" when Rep. William L. Dawson, D-Ill., failed to meet with his group as promised to discuss civil rights. Elsewhere in the city racial incidents during the weekend were demonstrations in protest of mobile school buildings in predominantly Negro neighborhoods.

Mainly - - About People - -

Chicago civil rights groups insist mobile school buildings are designed to keep Negroes in Negro neighborhoods. Racial developments elsewhere: New York: Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP), said Sunday the civil rights organization is "continuing" to fight laws against miscegenation. Wilkins said the NAACP "moved into that area some time ago." Washington: A White House-sponsored women's committee Sunday night announced a six-point program designed to let Negro children attend classes "without fear" this fall at 113 newly desegregated schools in southern and border states. The committee reported that more schools are desegregating for the first time this year than in the past seven years.

Faubus

(Continued From Page 1) to Democratic Sen. Estes Kefauver who died Aug. 10. Faubus, who defied the government over integration of Little Rock Schools in 1957, and Wallace agreed in separate news conferences Sunday that voters in their states were strongly opposed to the administration of President John F. Kennedy. Faubus said he might support a Republican candidate for President next year. Wallace, who is plugging a slate of unpledged electors in his state, said he had never seen Alabama voters so united in opposition to Kennedy's position on civil rights. The governors held formal reports on such matters as promoting education, attracting nuclear industries and planning for population increases. Subject Of Talk Civil rights has never been on the agenda of the conference, which got under way with some social events Sunday, but there has been talk of little else since the governors started gathering here last weekend. They got down to their official program today and were scheduled from 9 a.m. EDT, to 5 p.m. to listen to and discuss reports by standing committees on education, nuclear energy and space, and to hold a roundtable discussion of land use planning and interstate land sales. Chairman Orval Faubus also was to announce at the opening session, which included an address of welcome by Gov. W.W. Barron of West Virginia and the chairman's annual address, the makeup of the committee on resolutions.

Body

(Continued From Page 1) he appeared unconscious at the time. There were reports that Wilson's teenage daughter had been in the car with him and had been rescued. Red Cross units have set up shelter areas at the El Paso Armed Forces YMCA for residents who were forced to flee their homes. U.S. Army units from nearby Fort Bliss evacuated many residents with truck convoys. The U.S. Weather Bureau in El Paso, located at International Airport on the city's far northeast side, recorded only .31 of an inch of rain but there were unofficial reports of more than an inch of rain in flooded areas. Sandbags were used in some sections to retard flooding but late reports said the water was receding. There were indications some flooding occurred in Juarez, Mexico, across the Rio Grande from El Paso but there was no immediate word of injuries or damage.

Carnes Pleads Not Guilty on Check Charge

Willie Carnes, 201 S. Sumner, pleaded not guilty in County Court today to a misdemeanor charge of swindling with a worthless check. His bond was set at $1,000 by County Judge William J. Craig. He is accused of giving a worthless $10 check to Leroy Williams of McLean according to Don Cain, county attorney. Carnes will be returned to Hollis, Okla. to be tried on a felony charge of grand larceny after he is cleared with Gray County officials. Apprehended at 2:30 p.m. Sunday by Highway Patrolman Vernon Cathorn, he was taken to the Sheriff's Office and turned over to Deputy Sheriff D. L. Day.

Detectives

Dear Abby....

Doghouse Home Doesn't Help Lonesome Pride

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: This is regarding that woman whose husband was unfaithful and then came crawling back to his wife with promises to "make it up to her." She asked you if she should let her husband share her bedroom again, and you replied with one word, "Yes." Are you crazy or something? Why should the wife let him back? I'd let him sleep out in the doghouse like the dirty dog that he is.

PROUD
DEAR PROUD: And then what would you have? A husband who's provided with an excuse to behave like a dog because he's treated like one. Don't build fences where you can build bridges.

DEAR ABBY: As a young father, married two years, I hope you'll print my grine to show what a MAN thinks for once. I am struggling to pay rent, feed my family and keep up on my car expenses, plus a lot of incidental bills. We live 200 miles from my wife's relatives and are invited to every shower, birthday, wedding, anniversary and party they have. I can't make my wife understand that it takes gas, oil and tires to drive 400 miles every week end, plus being expected to bring a gift. She refuses to realize this.

BUDGET looks like. And tell her how many 400-mile trips per year you can afford. Then let her pick the "occasions." When a husband lays down the law for valid reasons, his wife can only respect him for it.

DEAR ABBY: I would like to make a comment on that letter signed "A BUDDY'S BUDDY." My boy friend was stationed in Germany for two years. We were engaged before he went away. After dating other fellows, I sent my fiance a "Dear John" letter—only it was a "Dear Ralph." I don't agree with Buddy. My promise was made in good faith. But promises are made to be broken, and I don't think it is right to string a guy along until he gets home.

DEE
DEAR DEE: Who said "promises are made to be broken"? Not in my book! And what kind of an "engagement" is it that permits the lady to date others? I still say if a girl has a change of heart when her fiance is away in the service of his country, she should wait until he comes home to hit him with the news.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "BLUE BLOODS": Better "nouveau riche" than never rich.

IRRITATED
DEAR IRRITATED: If young people spend as they do—they won't go far. Show your wife what

A drawn linen cloth covered the serving table and held a centerpiece of white mums and silver leaves. White candles in silver holders and a crystal punch service completed the table appointments.

Mrs. Jack Graham presided at the punch bowl and Mrs. Cleo Hoyer served the cake.

Fifty-six persons attended the shower or sent gifts.

The Bell Tolls For Corduroy This Fall

By HELEN HENNESSY
Newspaper Enterprise Women's Editor
NEW YORK (NEA) — When the school bell rings in September, corduroy will dutifully march back to the classroom. But with the aid of such designers as Scasati, Bill Blass, Sophie and Bill Atkinson, who have created children's collections for fall, it has been propelled into the front ranks as a dress fabric as well.

One of the reasons for this is that "shape" is most important in children's clothes this year, and corduroy supplies the body required. "The Shape" is almost anything that doesn't have a nipped in, clearly defined waistline. In dresses, this means A-lines, H-lines, skimmies and shifts. The Empire look and hip-touching overblouses.

This time around, children will be dressed to look their age rather than miniatures of their elders. There is much simple elegance in their fashions, and as more and more top designers go into children's wear, fine touches are replacing gaudy gimmicks.

For dressy wear, pinwale comes in for its share of the limelight in crisp berry reds and handsome pastels which have the feeling of Victorian elegance.

The sportive look is represented, too, for the school set and is especially good in wide wale corduroy.

And riding in on the crest of the sportive wave for youngsters are flat shoes with grown-up styling instead of the classic Mary Janes and hats that are styled to go farther afield than church on Sundays.

KITCHEN TREND
Homemakers have found by experience that substitute materials for ceramic tile fade, scratch easily and are difficult to keep clean. That is one good reason for the trend to colorfast, life-lasting, easily cleaned ceramic tile in quality kitchens today. The other reason: built-ins. With cooking units sunk into countertops and ovens into walls, the homemaker needs a material that won't scorch when hot pans are placed on it.

COOLING TIP
If you have a quarry tile terrace here's one way to make it serve to keep your home cooler by several degrees. When the day is hottest and most unbearable, thoroughly hose down the water-proof quarry terrace. The evaporating water from the terrace will

Dallas Civic Opera Will Import Settings Designed By Nicola Benois

Dallas Civic Opera will import the settings designed by Nicola Benois, resident scenery designer of the La Scala opera house, for its production of Verdi's "A Masked Ball" Nov. 22 and 24, it was announced Friday.

The settings were premiered earlier this year for the Genoa production of "Masked Ball," under the direction of Carlo Maestrini, who will stage the production in Dallas. This was the same route followed by the settings for DCO's "Barber of Seville," which the company now owns.

Benois' conception is set in the royal court of Sweden, original scene that Verdi chose for his melodrama about political intrigue and assassination of King Gustav III. Later the composer was forced because of political tension to re-set the opera in colonial Boston, but the original Swedish version has remained the more popular in modern times.

Benois is the son of Nicola Benois Sr., who is considered one of the creators of modern operatic scenery design. The younger Benois is now one of the most important designers of Europe and does most of the major new works for La Scala. These have included in recent years the "Anna Bolena" for Maria Callas in 1959, the "Freischutz" of von Weber for Victoria de los Angeles La Scala debut in 1958, and the "Les Huguenots" and "Semiramide" for Joan Sutherland's La Scala debut last season.

His only previous American designs were for the Chicago production of "Prince Igor" in 1962.

As resident designer for La Scala, Benois is responsible for overseeing the creation of all sets for that house.

DCO's "Masked Ball" will star a cast of Verdi specialists — Antonietta Stella, Giuseppe di Stefano, Mario Sereni, Adriana Lazarini, Nicola Zaccaria, Norman Treigle and Margherita Guglielmi. Maestrini, the director, is a regisseur for La Scala and has directed for DCO in two previous seasons, including "La Boheme."

Give Your Skin A Summer Treat

By ALICIA HART
Newspaper Enterprise Beauty Editor

Summer activities and your skin problems probably are reaching their peak together. With the dog days here, it is time to treat your parched skin to a refresher.

Start with a warm-weather cleanser. Just smooth it on your face and throat and work into the skin gently with moistened fingertips. Splash rinse and follow with a scented freshener. You will find this particularly cooling on hot, humid days. Saturate a cotton pad with the freshener and pat on the back of your neck, throat, forehead and arms several times during the day.

Butts vs. Post Libel Suit May Go to Jury Today

By CHARLES S. TAYLOR JR. United Press International
ATLANTA (UPI) — Attorneys complete their arguments today in the $10 million libel suit former Georgia athletic director Wallace Butts brought against the Saturday Evening Post.

Following the closing arguments, Federal Judge Lewis R. Morgan will deliver his charge and the jury of 12 businessmen may get the case late today.

Post attorney Welborn Cody and Butts' attorney Allen Lockerman painted contrasting pictures of Butts during the opening round of the arguments Friday.

Morgan, who has presided over the bitterly fought courtroom contest now entering its third week, already has said that he will instruct the jury that the controversial Saturday Evening Post article, "The Story of a College Football Fix," is libelous per se, or libelous on its face.

It will then be up to the jurors, none of whom ever has played college football, to decide if the magazine, or Butts, told the truth.

Butts sued the magazine after it reported in its March 23 issue that an Atlanta insurance man, George Burnett, had overheard a telephone conversation last fall in which Butts gave away Georgia football secrets to Paul (Bear) Bryant, coach at the University of Alabama, nine days before Alabama, a 17-point favorite, walloped Georgia 35-6.

Butts took the stand three different times to swear it wasn't so. Bryant also sued for $10 million and his case is pending in the federal court at Birmingham, where Post attorneys last week petitioned to have it moved to another state after a federal judge refused to dismiss it.

Pro Football Roundup

By United Press International
Last winter's pro football betting scandals apparently haven't curbed the fans' appetite for the sport.

Despite the absence of suspended Paul Hornung and Alex Karras from the 1963 National Football League season, a total of 179,305 turned up for last Saturday night's exhibition action.

A doubleheader at Cleveland drew 83,218 spectators who watched Y. A. Title set up three touchdowns on passes as the New York Giants defeated the Detroit Lions, 24-21, and Johnny Unitas tossed two scoring strikes in the Baltimore Colts' 21-7 victory over the Cleveland Browns.

The champion Green Bay Packers routed the Dallas Cowboys, 31-10, before 53,121 in the Texas City, and 42,966 saw the Minnesota Vikings romp over the Rams, 27-3, at Los Angeles.

In American Football League pre-season games, the Kansas City Chiefs trounced the Oakland Raiders, 35-21, before 13,500 at Seattle, Wash., and 11,135 fans at Denver viewed the Broncos' 31-35 win over the San Diego Chargers.

Equally large crowds are expected for seven NHL exhibition games this weekend. On Saturday Dallas meets Los Angeles at Portland, Ore.; Detroit plays St. Louis at Omaha; Green Bay faces Chicago at Milwaukee; Philadelphia tussles with Washington at Charlotte, N. C., and Baltimore tackles Pittsburgh at Atlanta. On Sunday, San Francisco entertains Cleveland, and Minnesota hosts New York at Minneapolis.

Class A-AAA Footballers Open Practice

By United Press International
Thousands of schoolboy athletes underwent physicals, checked out equipment and took to the practice fields today to begin preparations for the fast-approaching football season.

Players representing schools in Classes B, A, AA and AAA will drill until the first games begin in three weeks.

Class AAAA schools — the largest in the state — are prohibited from starting practice until Aug. 30.

By the time it is all over in early December, four schools in Classes A through AAAA will be crowned state champs — the best of their divisions. Class B schools play only to regional titles.

The defending champions are San Antonio Brackenridge in Class AAAA; Dumas in AAA; Jacksboro in AA and Rotan in A.

Both Brackenridge and Dumas are considered threats to repeat, but Jacksboro and Rotan figure to have difficulty in winning their own district titles.

The first games are scheduled Sept. 6, with the Class AAAA schools beginning play the following week.

Lions Swim Meet Friday

The swim meet sponsored by the Pampa Lions Club will be held this Friday evening at 6:30 p.m. at the Municipal Pool. Entry forms may be gotten at the Red Cross Office, the Youth Center and the Municipal Pool. All forms must be completed by Wednesday evening. Competition will be given in the following strokes: breast, side, crawl and back crawl. Trophies and ribbons will be given the winners. Demonstrations will be given in life saving, diving and water safety. A special feature will be the synchronized swimming group from White Deer and clown divers of the Pampa Dolphins.

Softball League

Raymond McKinney hit a two-run homer in the eighth inning Saturday night to win his own ball game and give the Panhandle Packers the Industrial Softball League championship as they downed the Cabot Clowns in a one-game playoff, 4-2.

Panhandle, Cabot and the Pampa Stars had ended in a three-way fight for the loop title. Cabot had beaten Pampa in a playoff, but the Packers took the second playoff and the crown.

McKinney fittingly was the man of the hour, as his fine pitching, including seven wins in a row at one point, and his timely hitting had led PP to first place. McKinney allowed only four hits in the ball game, walking none and striking out 16. Delbert Daniels was the loser, allowing seven hits and one walk and striking out eight.

It was a sad ending for the Clowns, who languished in the cellar through most of the season, suddenly catching fire late in the year to challenge for the title.

Cabot grabbed a run in the first as Doug Burris went all the way around on an error. They made it 2-0 in the second on singles by Jerry Wright and Hill Browning, but McKinney was untouchable from there on.

Ronnie Mills singled to open the third and Tom Watson belted a home run into left field to tie the score. The two pitchers hurled blanks over the next four innings until Jack Wood walked in the top of the eighth and McKinney poled one into centerfield for the ball game.

The Packers, Stars and Miami Cowboys of the Industrial League will all be competing in the Panhandle Invitational Tournament this week. The 16-team tourney will have two brackets, for cities and small towns, with Miami in the lower bracket and the two Pampa squads in the upper. The Packers meet Walsh Food of Amarillo tonight, with the Stars getting the toughest assignment, meeting Graham Plow of Amarillo. The Plowboys, winners of the ASA Tournament in Amarillo and the Amarillo Softball League championship, are favored to cop the large bracket in the tourney.

Yankees Seek to Break All-Time Victory Record

Now that the Yankees have settled one race, they've started another to see if they can win the pennant by the largest margin in American League history.

They lead now by 10½ and have 41 more games left in which to break the modern AL record of 19½ set by the 1936 Yankees.

The current Yankees kid each other about that mark.

"If those guys could win by 19½," they laugh, "we can win by 20."

They could, too, if they maintain their present rate of 10 victories in the last 13 games.

Even such a staunch die-hard as Al Lopez couldn't voice much hope for flagging down the Yankees after they swept a pair from his White Sox, 8-2, and 8-4, Sunday.

The Yankees hopped on Ray Herbert and four relievers for 12 hits, including Hector Lopez' 14th homer, in the opener, then came back with an 11-hit barrage in the nightcap. Elston Howard led the second game onslaught with a homer, double and two singles.

Ralph Terry (14-12) and Jim Bouton (18-6) were the winning pitchers although each needed relief.

Senators Top Twins
Elsewhere in the AL, the Senators topped the Twins, 7-3, the Athletics beat the Orioles, 5-4, the Indians downed the Red Sox, 7-4, and the Tigers defeated the Angels, 3-2.

Two home runs by Don Zimmer and a three-run blast by Don Leppert helped the Senators beat the Twins. Those three blows overcame Minnesota homers by Rich Rollins and Jimmie Hall and brought Steve Ridzik his fourth victory. Garry Roggenburk was the loser in relief to Jim Perry.

The Athletics rocked Robin Roberts for four runs in the first inning and held on, the first of the way as Dave Wickersham scored his ninth victory. Jerry Lumpe's two-run homer was KC's key blow in the first inning. Wickersham held the Orioles scoreless until Brooks Robinson jolted him for a three-run homer in the eighth.

Celebrates With Homers
Cleveland catcher Joe Arcue celebrated his 24th birthday with two homers and a double. Willie Kirkland also homered for the Indians to help Jim (Mudcat) Grant register his ninth triumph in 20 decisions. Grant gave up eight hits, including a homer by Bob Tillman. Dave Morehead (7-10) was the loser.

Don Mossi took over for starter Al Koch in the fourth inning and blanked the Angels on two hits.

DERBY MATERIAL?

thereafter to gain his sixth victory for the Tigers. Koch, who was tagged for a homer by Al Moran and allowed seven hits in 2-3 innings, had the consolation of driving in the winning run with a fourth-inning single off loser Dean Chance.

Casper Comes From Five Behind to Win Hartford

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI) — None of his fellow pros gave Billy Casper a chance of winning the Insurance City Open when the 72-hole tournament opened last Thursday.

After all, this was the Californian's first tournament appearance since May when he quit during the fourth round of the Tournament of Champions at Las Vegas with a hand injury.

Casper still looked like a poor bet Sunday when he started the final round at the Wethersfield Country Club training pace-setting George Bayer by five strokes.

However, the 32-year-old former sailor from Bonita, Calif., fired a six-under-par 65 to take the top prize of $6,400 with an aggregate score of 271. Bayer finished a shot back of Casper after settling for a 71 in the final round.

Wes Ellis, who led through the first two rounds, slipped to third place with a 275, two shot ahead of Doug Ford.

Jack Nicklaus, the Masters and PGA champion, finished with a 278 to tie Art Wall, Dave Marr and Bo Wynn for fifth place.

Los Angeles Feels 'In' With Six-Game Margin

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Writer

Once bitten, twice shy. Maybe that's the reason cautious Walt Alston shies away from any pennant talk even though his Los Angeles Dodgers seem to feel they're "in" with a six-game lead and only six more weeks to go.

The Dodgers said good-bye to all time Sunday to the Polo Grounds with a 7-0 and 3-2 sweep of the New York Mets.

One of the Dodgers let the team's feelings be known when he left a clubhouse note which said: "We'll see you again at Yankee Stadium the first week in October."

Alston, still scarred from last year's loss, said absolutely nothing about the pennant apart from the time-honored, "We'll just keep playing one game at a time."

The Dodger skipper wouldn't even say for sure that his club has snapped its batting slump despite five straight victories.

"Let's see," he pondered, "we scored 22 runs in the last four games. Well, at least that's more than we've been getting lately."

Pleased By Pitching
Alston, however, was pleased by the Dodgers' pitching Sunday.

Don Drysdale hurled a three-hit shutout for his 16th victory in the opener and rookie Dick Calmus pitched five scoreless innings in relief of Pete Richert to earn his second triumph in the nightcap.

Doug Camilli hit a two-run homer in the first game and Tommy Davis drove in two runs in each contest as the Dodgers gained a full game on both the Giants and Cardinals, who were rained out.

The fourth-place Phillies won their seventh in a row by defeating the Pirates, 3-1, the Braves beat the Colts, 3-2 and the Cubs took two from the Reds, 2-1 and 4-0.

Phils Score Early
The Phillies tagged Don Schwall for two runs in the first inning on a pair of walks and two singles and went on to defeat the Pirates on Johnny Klippstein's fine relief job. Klippstein took over when starter Ray Culp came up with a sore arm in the third inning and shut out Pittsburgh the rest of the way.

Warren Spahn, set on winning 20 games for the 13th time in his career, got No. 15 with a seven-hitter against the Colts. The Braves micked loser Skinny Brown for two runs in the fourth, and Roy McMillan singled home the winning run in the seventh.

The Cubs' two victories over the Reds gave them a total of 84 for the season and matched their highest win total for any year since 1959.

Lindy McDaniel saved Larry Jackson's 14th victory in the opener when he entered the game with the bases full in the eighth inning and struck out Frank Robinson and Gordy Coleman and got John Edwards on an infield out. Jim Maloney suffered his fifth defeat against 18 victories.

Paul Toth blanked the Reds on four hits for his fourth win in the nightcap. Billy Williams and Lou Brock homered off loser John Tsitouris.

Ralston Leads U.S. To Davis Cup Win

By ALEX KAHN
LOS ANGELES (UPI) —

Freckled Dennis Ralston put the United States back among the world's tennis powers today after he tenuously singlehandedly defeated the Mexican Davis Cup team in the North American zone eliminations.

There's still a long way ahead before the U. S. team can invade Australia to challenge for the cherished trophy emblematic of the world's championship. But Mexican captain Francisco Contreras said the United States has a good chance to go all the way and bring the Davis Cup back to North America.

Ralston clinched the playoff Sunday in the first match when he swept aside Mexico's brilliant Rafael Osuna, 6-1, 6-3, 7-5. That victory came after the 21-year-old youngster had teamed with Chuck McKinley Saturday to upset the favored Mexican doubles team of Osuna and Antonio Palafox. Ralston scored the first U.S. singles win Friday over Palafox after Osuna had defeated McKinley in a hard-fought five-set match.

The doubles win gave the U. S. a lead of two matches to one, and Ralston clinched the elimination matches with his win over Osuna, leaving McKinley's win over Palafox by a score of 6-4, 6-4, 4-6, 6-3 an anticlimax.

"That was the best I've ever seen Ralston play in a big match," the articulate Mexican captain added. "If he keeps up the pace he had in the series, he could become the best player in the world."

TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself, no more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

The Prayers Continue

A recent story calls attention to the fact that the Bible will be read in Kentucky schools until force is used to put a stop to the practice.

The State Board of Education took this position, according to the story, in relation to the Supreme Court ruling that declared such worship is unconstitutional.

To emphasize its point, the school board opened its meeting with the customary Bible reading, brief sermon and prayer.

If the procedure is illegal, "I move we violate the Constitution," a board member and former state governor said.

Somehow such words have a familiar ring, and hark us back to the past when the breath of freedom was poised on the pens of our forefathers.

"There," exclaimed John Hancock, as he scrawled his signature to the Declaration of Independence in tall letters, "John Bull can read my name without his spectacles and may now double his reward of 500 pounds upon my head."

Later Hancock wrote to his wife a letter in which he said, "You will see in a few days a declaration setting forth the causes which have impelled us to this mighty revolution and the reasons which will justify it, in the sight of God and man."

Apparently our forefathers were not afraid to allow God to dwell in their thoughts.

Thomas Jefferson certainly had the thought of God in mind when he wrote, "We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their CREATOR with certain inalienable rights, that among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

Almost in the same breath Jefferson continued, "That whenever any form of government becomes obstructive of these ends, it is the right of the people to alter or abolish it."

And still later the declaration went on to enumerate, "...with a firm reliance on the protection of the divine providence, we mutually pledge to each other our lives, our fortunes and our sacred honor."

Great words these, blazing out of the past to re-echo in modern times from the Kentucky hills; where the squirrel rifle now is not much different from the minuteman's weapon; where the little feet and lunch baskets still climb to country schools like the colonial children of old.

It is reassuring to know that within the hearts of some men still burn the spark of freedom and the spark of remembrance of what our nation's founders stood for.

Sparks sometimes smoulder for years. The daring moment of resistance in our nation's history did not come casually. Preceding had been years of rising tension, taxation without representation, the battle of Lexington and Concord, the Boston tea party and Bunker Hill.

It took a lot of painful years to squeeze the immortal phrase from the tortured lips of Patrick Henry. "Give me Liberty or give me death."

Our destiny as a nation rode hard on the heels of government oppression, and apparently there are still men in this country who are willing to turn back the pages of history, in defense of human rights and liberties.

The Supreme Court has been served warning that it has gone too far in attempting to abolish worship in the schools. Perhaps the time is not far off when the hoof beats of another Paul Revere will echo thru the Kentucky hills.

Termination

If everyone in this world controlled himself in such a way that no trespass of another's property ever occurred, there would be at once an end to both war and politics.

It's Rodeo Time

Kid Pony Show and RCA rodeo fans will have their innings this week out at Recreation Park here in Pampa.

The gates will swing wide tomorrow for the teenage cowboys and cowgirls and their small fry brothers and sisters at the Kid Pony Show.

There will be thrills aplenty for the youngsters both tomorrow afternoon and night.

The Tuesday show is an all-kill performance and the regular cowboy and cowgirl contestants do not move on stage until Wednesday night.

There will be all of the regular rodeo events — bronc riding, steer roping, steer riding, barrel races, along with the antics of the rodeo clowns and specialty acts.

Downtown streets will be crowded with spectators Wednesday afternoon for the annual rodeo parade which gets under way at 3 p.m. The Kid Pony parade is at 1 p.m. tomorrow.

There will be rodeo dances nightly at the National Guard armory on the rodeo grounds and nothing has been left out to make it an all-around rodeo week.

Get the chores done early and come to town for the rodeo. The folks who live here in Pampa should take advantage of this once-a-year opportunity to enjoy the thrills and excitement of a big time rodeo.

Sol Hurok, impresario of the performing arts, is genuinely concerned about the loss of auditoriums in this country for the presentation of such performances. Easily qualifying as one of the most traveled men in America, Hurok says that auditoriums where he once presented some of the biggest attractions of American culture are being demolished to make way for office buildings, parking lots, and supermarkets. He says: "I know the people want culture, but you can't present Rubinstein in a supermarket, or something like the Black Watch in a garage." Hurok works three years ahead lining up places for his attractions.

J. Paul Getty, perhaps the world's richest man, recently confessed to an interviewer that the one thing in life he desired above all else was to take a long walk on a good beach. We think a billionaire should be able to afford such a luxury, but if he can't we'll be glad to stake him the next time he's in the land of his birth—the single condition that we accompany him on the walk. We guarantee a day spent along the outer beach at Cape Cod in company with a Jesuit friend of ours who would give Mr. Getty a greater lift than he could get counting his billions.

John Peter Rockefeller was the first of the line in this country. He emigrated from Germany in 1723. We like that devil-may-care attitude of an alleged Connecticut embezzler, who says he "doesn't have a dime left" of $70,000 he is accused of having blown on horses and liquor.

The American Way

By Harry Brown
Editor, Freedom Magazine
(formerly American Progress)

In order to succeed in a truly free economic system, you have to offer a product or service that others need or want — and at a price they're willing to pay.

It takes two to make a sale — a buyer and a seller. If the seller produces a shabby product or keeps the price too high, the buyer just won't buy. On the other hand, every sale made is an indication that the seller has satisfied someone's desires.

Intervention — But government doesn't see it that way. When any company satisfies a lot of people — and acquires a large share of the market in a particular field — the "trust-busters" force the company to limit its sales, or raise its prices, or diminish its service. So the customers of the company are made to suffer.

The company was supplying a product or service at a price people were willing to pay. Both buyer and seller were getting a fair shake. The only loser was the company's competitor — who couldn't provide the customer with an equally good bargain. The government's intervention means that the customer will now have to pay more or get less.

In a free society, business monopolies are not to be feared. Even a company without competition has to choose between providing good bargains (to retain its monopoly position) or "price-gouging" (which invites a competitor to come in and steal his business from his unhappy customers).

If the company finds a way to prevent any competition from entering his industry, it is an invitation for some ambitious, inventive man to produce a newer, less expensive product to do the same job. Many of our most progressive products have been created to circumvent monopolies.

Control — But governments traditionally reject such "supply and demand" laws. They try to force prices downward with rent controls, marketing quotas, anti-trust legislation, and regulatory agencies.

When they do manage to keep a particular price artificially low, they prevent newer and better products from coming into existence. Because the new products could never compete with the unrealistically-low price of the old product.

Governmental intervention stops progress, injures the ability of buyers to provide bargains for sellers, and is a dangerous step on the road to totalitarian control of all of our affairs. And it invariably costs us more money than the problem it intended to solve.

We should never forget that in free enterprise, the buyer must satisfy the seller to make a sale or earn a profit. The more freedom the seller has with which to satisfy the buyer's whims, the higher standard of living we shall have. But the more government intervenes, the less opportunity the seller has to satisfy the buyer.

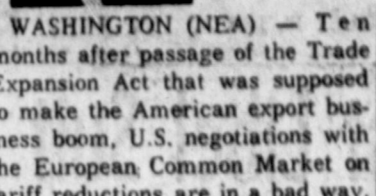

Possibilities — There are multitudes of bargains that could be offered, services that could be provided for us, and new products that could be invented for our benefit. Holding them back, however, are our unrealistic antitrust laws, regulatory agencies, and welfare-state controls.

Let's repeal these backward,

Cold Chicken War Perils Trade Expansion Act

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Ten months after passage of the Trade Expansion Act that was supposed to make the American export business boom, U.S. negotiations with the European Common Market on tariff reductions are in a bad way.

Negotiation of an East-West non-aggression pact with Russia is beginning to look simple by comparison with getting the European countries to reduce their tariffs on frozen poultry imports from the United States.

Three principal causes are given for this cold chicken war. First is the Common Market's refusal to admit Britain as a member.

The second factor is that the six countries in the European Economic Community—EEC — have never given Common Market authorities full power to negotiate for all of them. This gives every member a veto power over tariff reductions.

Finally, the European governments want to retain the European poultry market for their own small farmers, barring competition from American poultrymen.

All this was supposed to be worked out by early August. But France and West Germany in particular refused to allow tariff cuts on American poultry imports.

This means that the issue will have to go before General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade—GATT negotiations. They are scheduled to open in Geneva in September.

Also scheduled for September is President Kennedy's submission to the U.S. Tariff Commission of the long list of articles on which this country will propose across-the-board tariff reductions of up to 50 per cent, under the new trade law.

The Tariff Commission is given six months in which to advise the President on economic effects of these cuts. During this same period, a U.S. Trade Information Committee of seven government department representatives will hold hearings on the proposed cuts. Here any American business firm may file objections to any proposed changes in tariff rates.

Actual negotiation of these changes with the Common Market countries is now set for May 4, 1964. Most of the difficulty is expected in negotiating tariffs on agricultural products.

U.S. industrial goods trade with the six Common Market countries balanced roughly at $3.5 billion each way in 1962. But last year the U.S. exported $1.2 billion in agricultural products to the Common Market countries and imported only $250 million worth from them. This gave the U.S. a favorable trade balance of nearly $1 billion it wants to keep.

American poultry exports of $20 million U.S. value and $30 million at European wholesale levels in 1962 is a relatively small item, but it causes the most trouble. Over 90 per cent of these exports went to Germany, where tariffs have been raised from 4 to 16 cents a pound since 1958. The rate is now 10 cents a pound on value of the poultry itself, plus 8 cents feed grain differential.

European refusal to lower such tariffs may be the beginning of a trade war. This is the British reaction to U.S. trade czar Christian A. Herter's announcement of hearings to open Sept. 4 on retaliatory increases of U.S. tariffs.

If retaliatory increases are put into effect on both sides of the Atlantic, the whole purpose of the Trade Expansion Act will be defeated.

Between the Bookends

TWO EYEWITNESS STORIES OF THE CUBAN SITUATION

Americans are having a difficult time accepting the fact that the Monroe Doctrine is dead. Cuba remains both a thorn in the side of the American people and a source of acute embarrassment to an administration with a hopelessly inadequate policy in foreign affairs.

Two recent books by people who spent many years in Cuba bear out the tragedy of the Soviet takeover and the Communization of a once-prosperous economy based on decent relations with other countries. "The Cuban Dilemma" (Ivan Obolensky, Inc., New York) is by Ruby Hart Phillips, New York Times correspondent in Cuba from 1937 until 1961, when she incurred the displeasure of Fidel Castro.

Mrs. Phillips' book is a fully documented account by a correspondent who has seen eleven administrations end in Cuba. She gives the lie to the claim made by Castro supporters in both Cuba and the United States that Castro was pushed into the Communist camp by our mistaken foreign policy. But she also makes it clear that the United States is totally responsible for Cuba's communism today.

Failure Cited

Step by step she analyzes the indecisive and conciliatory moves of the U. S. State Department. The weak protests, our futile attempts to woo Castro, the failure to protect American lives and property, and the disastrous delay of over a year before any retaliatory measures were taken. It is an absorbing book, an exciting one, and a vital link in the overall record of Cuba.

"I Was Castro's Prisoner" (Devin-Adair Company, 23 East 26th St., New York 10, N.Y.; $4.95) is the first person account of false arrest and imprisonment for 40 months of an ordinary American man on a business trip to Cuba. The author, John Martino, was arrested by Castro's police on the charge of being an American gun-running pilot of the counter-revolution.

Info Ignored

Frustrated by the lack of action from fainthearted men in the American Embassy, Martino tried, with the help of Cuban lawyers, to work out his own salvation. With little else to do, he talked to fellow prisoners and occasional outside contacts, piecing together the meager and unrelated facts he was able to glean from them. He was able to give vital information to minor Embassy staff members, only to find out later that it was never passed along. Among the things he knew of were the installation of Russian rockets and the take-over of government and militia by the USSR.

A thought for the day—American author Anne Morrow Lindbergh said: "One can never pay in gratitude; one can only pay 'in kind' somewhere else in life."

Foreign News Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM

In a park-like setting in Bonn stands a three-story residence of clean, white lines and quiet elegance. It is called the Palais Schaumburg.

In its withdrawn setting only the soldiers of the West German Republic standing at the gates give it the appearance of more than passing importance.

But it is, in fact, the official residence of the West German chancellor and from it to a degree which would have been deemed impossible 25 years ago radiates an influence over the decisions of every major western power.

It may be the force which determines whether President Charles De Gaulle of France decides to seek a second term.

It, more than France, will determine the future course of the European Common Market.

And in these days of cautious hope for a world more at ease with itself, the United States will take careful soundings of opinion at the Palais Schaumburg before proceeding further in any effort to reach agreement with the Soviet Union beyond the present partial nuclear test ban treaty.

Key To Stability

For Germany is the prize of Europe, and remains as it has been through modern history the key to European stability.

For De Gaulle, who sealed his Franco-German accord with a kiss for Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, the course of events since last January has been a disappointment.

In the preamble to the accord approved by the West German Bundestag the Germans made clear their continued devotion to De Gaulle's own grand designs for Europe.

The German decision to become a signatory to the partial test ban agreement was over De Gaulle's opposition and led to laments in French newspapers that France now stands isolated.

In its agricultural policies for the Common Market and in its desire that Britain also be brought into the European community, West Germany also stands in stubborn opposition to De Gaulle. And these are the conditions which may convince De Gaulle that he and he alone can guide France through the immediate years ahead.

Key To Europe

In the years since the West German Federal Republic came into being in 1949, the United States carefully has nurtured West German public opinion.

A neutralist, or pro-Communist Germany could determine the gate of the whole of Europe.

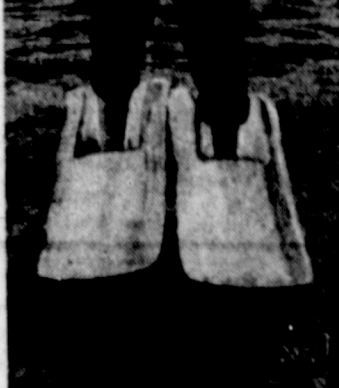

This is the knowledge which has helped to keep U. S. forces in Europe and has been a contributing factor to U. S. support of German demands for reunification of Germany. And it will dictate caution in the study of such Soviet proposals as a non-aggression pact between the NATO and Warsaw Pact nations for fear that it also will mean recognition of Communist East Germany.

It could be, as Secretary of State Dean Rusk hopes, that the partial test ban treaty, can help "frail and fearful mankind" take another step toward world peace. But other factors which have divided Europe since the end of World War II remain.

William O. Douglas, Justice of the Supreme Court, explorer, mountain climber and world traveler, was a victim of poliomyelitis whose legs were once paralyzed.

Buddhists' Target—Madame Ngo Dinh Nhu, beautiful and outspoken sister-in-law of South Viet Nam's President Ngo Dinh Diem, has drawn the wrath of the nation's Buddhist leaders. Madame Nhu had accused the Buddhists of "treason," among other charges, in their search for the religious freedom they feel the government denies them.

'Quality Automobiles' Is Motor Mart Slogan

"Quality automobiles" is the byword at C. L. Farmer's Motor Mart, 1534 N. Hobart, and has been for more than 25 years.

At the Motor Mart there is another slogan, "never knowingly undersold," which means, "we will meet competitive prices" states C. L. Farmer.

All cars at C. L. Farmer Motor Mart may be seen in the cool of the shade, even during the hot parts of the afternoon. "This is not only comfortable for us, but also protects the cars from the sun and weather," Farmer explains.

"Almost every car we have, have been local owned cars. Almost every car we have is a late model car, clean, cared for and almost-new. They have been sold to us because the owners know they can get a really good price for a really good car. And our buyers know they can get a really good car, also at a really good price. Our cars are financed directly through Pampa banks. . . local service, local cars and local bank rate financing, you can't go wrong.

The proof of our claim is this: if you wish, we will give you the name of the previous owner of any car you are interested in. We will be glad to have you check with them and find out about the car. What better proof can we offer to show that we believe that our cars are "quality cars?"

"Drive down Hobart till you see the big red, white and blue sign that says "C. L. Farmer Motor Mart." Pick any car at random, call up the former owner and ask him about it. Even better, when you see a car branded "Motor Mart," go up and ask the owner how he likes it. Find out what our customers think of our cars. . . and then come down and be a satisfied Motor Mart car owner yourself, driving a new-looking, late-model, well-cared for car. . . a car that will give you years of trouble-free performance. . . a "quality car" from a quality dealer—C. L. Farmer Motor Mart."

Odds of having a perfect hand (all 13 cards of one suit) at contract bridge are estimated at 635, 013,559,600 deals.

Buddhists' Target—Madame Ngo Dinh Nhu, beautiful and outspoken sister-in-law of South Viet Nam's President Ngo Dinh Diem, has drawn the wrath of the nation's Buddhist leaders. Madame Nhu had accused the Buddhists of "treason," among other charges, in their search for the religious freedom they feel the government denies them.

Please!
Only you can prevent forest fires. Why? Because nine out of every ten forest fires are caused by careless handling of matches, smokes and campfires. Please follow Smokey's ABC's whenever you're in wooded areas:
Always break matches in two.
Be sure you drown all fires out.
Crush all smokes dead out in an ash tray.

Art & Craft Center Has Available Mosaic Tile

Working with Mosaic tile is fun in Pampa. The tiles are glued down to a form of your choice and the pattern can be simple or very complicated. The Art & Craft Center has a large selection from which to choose, such as lamp forms, dishes, bowls, trivets and trays, coasters, wooden boxes and frames. The tile may be used whole or it can be cut with tile nippers into various shapes to fit your particular pattern. Tiles with gold splash on them, plain gold colors, or medley's are available. After the glue has dried, grout is applied down between the spaces. This is done by applying grout over the tiles and working it down into the spaces with your fingers. Then clean off the top of the tiles before the grout hardens. Made-up samples and free instructions in Mosaic tile are available at the Art & Craft Center.
