Romanian Escapee Describes Sting Of Communist Rule

A princess by birth, an alarm clock by choice. That's the description of Catherine Caradja, a 75-year-old woman whose home is a suitcase loaded in the back of a bus.

In Mulshoe Thursday, the short grey-haired woman was here--as she has been all across the United States--preaching the evils of Communism, the virtues of freedom and the necessity for Americans to "wake up to the things that have happened in other countries to keep them from happening here."

Born in Romania, Princess Caradja provided shelter in that country for Americans during World War II and is chiefly remembered as the one who helped the victims of the Ploesti oil field raids during that war. In 1955 she escaped the communist control of her country, and has been here since.

FREE WILL
She finances her travels through the contributions donated after her speaking engagements.

"And, too, you people are foolish enough to pay social security to a refugee, and I'm not foolish enough to turn it down," she said, a mischievous smile spreading across her face.

A loner by nature, the self-appointed U.S. alarm clock has no qualms about traveling alone...she knew that would be the case 13 years ago when she set out on her first speaking engagement.

"I'm too old for anyone to want to bother me. Besides, I can handle myself and I can handle other people," she said shaking her finger to stress the point.

Why, at 75, does she continue to make a suitcase her home...

with no more ties than a trailer house in Comfort and a mailing address in Baltimore, Md.?

"I have lived under Communism; I know what it can do. You people in the United States have the closest thing to perfect freedom in existence. If I can help keep it this way--or improve on it, then I am happy," she said.

Admitting that she often is tired and lonely, and that she has no way to gauge just how much permanent effect her alarm clock efforts have, the tireless talker "Call them talk, I never make speeches" said even if she discovered her efforts have little effect, she'll "still be doing the same thing. I have to do it."

PRINCESS SPEAKS-- Princess Caradja, a native of Romania, spends her time speaking to Americans, reviewing history of past wars and sounding the alarm to the people of the United States concerning communism. She, without hesitation, points out the communist temptress brewing in locales around the world and outlines the tactics they use. She lived in Romania under communist rule until 1952, then came to the United States in 1955.

Entomologist Makes Report

Waves 'Red Flag' On Chemical Control

Bailey county and surrounding area farmers are gravely concerned about the greenbug situation and the questionable problem as to using chemical control.

"Greenbugs are presently heavily infesting numerous grain sorghum fields on the High Plains. However, the overall situation does not warrant control measures at this time," Lyndon K. Almand, area entomologist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service reports.

"In fact, spraying at this time would also drastically reduce the populations of beneficial insects which are beginning to build up, he points out. These insects should be given a chance to work in reducing the number of greenbugs.

Almand adds that "If control measures are taken, more than one spraying may be needed since re-infestation is highly possible due to the buildup of greenbugs throughout the area.

"However, this buildup should slow down during the hot weather which the area is presently experiencing. The rapid greenbug development over the past few weeks has been a result of relatively cool weather which is conducive to greenbug reproduction.

"Although greenbug counts are running as high as 2,000 to 4,000 per leaf in many sorghum fields, the greenbugs are mainly on the bottom leaves of the plant and are doing little damage, the entomologist said.

"On grain sorghum which is in the pre-boot stage or later, research has shown that the insects do not cause enough damage to justify control measures.

Almand advises farmers, however, to keep a close watch on their fields and evaluate their particular situation. If the greenbugs move to the upper leaves and begin causing considerable damage to these leaves, control measures may be necessary.

Small grain sorghum, that which is less than about 14 inches high may be severely damaged by heavy infestations of greenbugs, emphasizes Almand. Control measures may be necessary on such small sorghum.

Insecticides available for controlling greenbugs include phosdrin, dieldrin and parathion.

Extreme care should be exercised in applying these materials, cautions the entomologist. The waiting period from the time of application until harvest is as follows: phosdrin, three days; dieldrin, 45 days and parathion, 12 days.

"The greenbug is the same pest that commonly infests wheat," Almand says, however are usually no problem at this time of year and many farm officials do not remember greenbugs ever before attacking area grain sorghum in such force.

Many farmers in the area are spraying for the more severe cases and spray planes are running full blast in this area to control insects where they have reached the stage of infestation which is advisable to use a control chemical.

Corn is one of the crops which is looking and maturing exceptionally well within the county. Inspections of field should tassels and small ears one the healthy stalks.

County Agent J. K. Adams is assisting area farmers with the observance of the greenbug activity and working closely with entomologists in order to be prepared to help the farmer decide which it would be economically wise to apply insecticides.

Adams is checking many fields each day and chemicals are being applied in fields where infestations warrant such con-

St. Clairs Hurt In Accident

Mrs. Irvin St. Clair, 42, and her son, Johnny, 17, are in fair condition in Methodist Hospital, Lubbock, following an automobile accident which took the life of a 77-year-old Littlefield man, Phillip Art Howard.

Methodist Hospital spokesmen said that Mrs. St. Clair and Johnny were being treated for broken bones, cuts and bruises and were in fair condition. It was reported that Mrs. St. Clair has a broken right leg and Johnny suffers from a broken left arm. The extent of other possible injuries to the pair were not determined at press time.

The accident occurred at approximately 1:45 p.m. Friday at the intersection of U.S. 84 and FM 24 near Littlefield, Howard, a retired farmer, was pronounced dead on arrival at Littlefield Hospital and Clinic.

Services were pending at Hammons Funeral Home, Littlefield, for Howard.

Kolar Suffers From Poison

John Kolar, 21, was hospitalized at Green Memorial Hospital late Friday suffering from parathion poisoning.

Kolar was mixing and loading chemicals to be applied by helicopter for Platts Helicopter Company, Lubbock, who are working in the Lubadzie area.

Kolar is an Amarillo resident. His condition is listed as "fair" however, he remains under oxygen early Saturday.

Kolar said he could feel a "bulldip" from the chemical coming on...it was sudden, however, he did not realize it was to the advanced stage.

Called a "sneaky" insecticide, the parathion buildup in the blood stream and after reaching a certain buildup point, could be fatal.

Kolar said Demp Foster, Foster Fertilizer Company, insisted on bringing him on to the hospital earlier, however, he felt he would be alright.

After taking a shower, Kolar said he became immobile, fell and couldn't get up and knew the buildup had reached the danger point.

Foster brought him to the hospital where he is being treated.

Slowly..A Dream Comes True

A dream has slowly, but surely, come true for a former Muleshoe man, W. B. (Skinny) Winn, who classifies himself as a "lowly electrician," but whose ideas have led to the production of the fantastic lighting show along the Colorado River Gorge near Moab, Utah.

Now a resident of Floydada, Winn grew up in Muleshoe, is a Muleshoe High School graduate and the son of Mrs. Grace Winn who still makes her home here.

The production, entitled "Canyonlands by Night," features a three-mile boat ride down the river with a historical and geological narration while lights are being cast on scenery on both sides by a special lighting system designed by Winn.

Setting for the show is the outer perimeter of Canyonlands National Park near Moab.

According to Winn, the beauty is in the shadows created by the lighting creating actual characters which are being talked about by the narrator.

Winn says the beauty is "in-describable" and that you will have to see it to believe it.

And there are many who will see it between now and the closing date in October. Winn officially opened for business on July 2, after making several test runs, and still has the peak time of vacationers before him.

Last year, the scheme was actually operated on a limited trial basis between July 21 and October 1 with more than 1,500 people viewing the panorama. And, according to Winn "not a word other than praises were heard."

Price for taking the hour and one-half tour by river is $3, for adults and $1.50 for children with a family plan available. The actual program takes 48 minutes, the remainder of the time left for questions and answers, plus relaxation.

Narration of the program is by Professor Wayne R. McCook, geology professor at Dixie State College, St. George, Utah. McCook is a native of the area and is its self-appointed historian.

Prof. McCook wrote the script for the historical program, that script presented in a professional recording, complete with music. He explained the geology and history of the area from before the first Indians came to the region up to the present day.

Winn explains that during the day, the mid-day sun distorts the images of the scenery in the beautiful gorge area, but that in the late evening, shadows form, lines appear, giving a feeling of depth.

The show has been described as the "most vivid presentation of the third dimension ever seen, with or without special glasses."

The actual tour is taken on a specially designed boat built in Flagstaff by Green Machinery Company which comfortably seats 85 to 100 persons.

Two shows are performed nightly at 8:30 p.m. and 10:30 p.m.

And practically speaking, Winn's show is the "only show of its kind in the world."

When he first began thinking about the idea in 1960, Winn was first opposed to light the one-fourth to one-half mile by 200 yard space strips he presently lights for the show.

Winn's first problem was in finding lights which would work and, after experimenting with clusters of spotlights, Acereage...

The request was refused, but Winn eventually secured the aid of the Utah government officials and the Canyonlands site, and Winn stresses that their cooperation has been "wonderful."

Even before taking the lights to Utah, Winn made a demonstration in Floyd County's own Blanco Canyon for a locally produced historical revue.

Then on four different occasions, he assisted Faaland's to Washington, D. C. to apply for a franchise to operate the show in the Zion and Bryce Canyon National Parks.

Setting up the "Canyonlands by Night" program has taken much preparatory work and planning, plus testing of the lighting facilities.

In 1965, when the company was first formed, Winn went to Washington, D. C. to apply for a franchise to operate the show in the Zion and Bryce Canyon National Parks.

For example, of the 1969 allotment for 87.0 acres the minimum diversion is 13.0 acres (87.0 X 15 percent) and wheat permitted is 87.0 acres.

Additional diversion is 50 percent of the 1969 allotment. Diversion payments will be made on the additional diversion. The rate will be about 63 cents per bushel time the farm yield. Wheat Certificates will be paid on 43 percent of the 1969 farm allotment.

Farm allotments of 21.7 acres or less may divert total allotment for payment. Farmers may substitute between wheat and feed grain on a farm if the farmer signs up in both programs.

Should a farm have a barley base, the farmer may, upon request at sign-up, substitute wheat for barley by diverting 15 percent of the barley base. No diversion payment or price support payments are available on barley.

Carole Hall, Kent Hawes Exchange Wedding Vows

Mrs. Edwards Kent Hawes

Society News

EARLENE RAGLAND Society Reporter
Phone-273-4328

Miss Lily Carole Hall became the bride of Edward Kent Hawes in an impressive double ring ceremony in First Methodist Church, July 27, 7:30 p.m.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Hall of Circleback. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Richard E. Hawes of San Antonio.

Rev. Leland Callaway read the service. Given in marriage by her father, the bride entered the church amid a spiral cascade of flowers.

The bride wore a formal length gown of ivory silk organza, fashioned with a shallow scoop neck line, featuring elbow-length sleeves edged in peau-d'Ange lace which also incrimbed the empire bodice. Seed pearls and crystal beads accented the lace.

Lace edged the hemline of the A-line skirt which extended into a loose cage back. A paneled detachable Watteau chapel length train flowed from under a lace collar at back neck line. She carried a traditional cascade of ivory gardenias, stephanotis and English Ivy.

Matron of honor was Georgia

Thomas of Midland, sister of the bride. She wore a formal-length A-line cage of cherry pink georgette with a bateau neck line, featuring long sheer sleeves, empire bodice and a Watteau flowing panel. Her bouquet was the symbolic double rings of lace with gardenias and stephanotis and seed pearls accenting the bouquet.

Bridesmaids were Karen Wright of Odessa and Marsha Ehrman of Muleshoe. They wore dresses same as that of matron of honor.

Cathy Poloczek of Alpine, niece of the bridegroom was flower girl. She was dressed in a Cohon brocade dress of Hot pink with an empire waistline with scallops around front edge of the flared skirt.

The Progressive Home Club met in the home of Mrs. Roxie Hoover with six members present. In the absence of the President, Lula Embry, Vera Engleking presided over the meeting and also brought the devotional. After a short business meeting, the woman did hand work on the garments previously sewed to be sent to Donna Ralston at Girls Town.

Roxie Hoover was the recipient of the birthday gift—a birthday in July were Vera Engleking was the hostess gift. Refreshments were served to the following members: Lola Bryant, Mimie Dunn, Mable Ryan, Muriel Lewis, Vera Engleking and the hostess, Roxie Hoover.

The next meeting will be August 22, in the home of Lucille Harper.

THE MISS UNIVERSE BEAUTY PAGEANT was most enjoyable. The girls were really beautiful and it must have been quite a job for the judges to decide between them. The show moved along smoothly without undue delay or too much advertising. Bob Barker and Gene Lockhart were very good as emcee and hostess.

2, was instrumental in bringing her to Muleshoe as he heard her speak some six years ago. Other courtesies included Thursday afternoon in the home of Mrs. A. J. Lenderson, and a tour of a peanut field and pellets at the local alfalfa dehydrating plant.

She was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Hall for dinner at Jesse Leal's Restaurant and a small reception in their home Thursday evening. Friday morning she toured the Art Loft with Mrs. Charles Lenau as hostess. Following luncheon she left at 1 p.m. Friday for Albuquerque, and for Farmington, N.M., engagements and then on to Colorado Springs where she will meet for a reunion.

During her speeches she repeatedly used the word "freedom" and referred to the precepts and principles upon which this nation was founded.

Princess Caradja placed the strength of the USA upon the many dedicated men and women who can rebel against injustice, oppression, or indecision, who can stand up for the rights and duties of man, (and his privilege to work rather than "being taken care of and/or excused by others") the dignity of all individuals, the ideals and principles brought alive in our working government.

"This is what we respect for America in the rest of the world. Her place in history, her greatness, will stand on this, not on foreign aid dollars, lend-lease, no matter how altruistic the motives, nor will its main support come from the technological advances America has made. Dedication, hard work, to "fight back" is the source of America's greatest strength.

"Remember always that when America shows kindness, the Communists think it is weakness; friendliness to communists, they interpret as our weakness," she emphatically stated.

WAKE UP! "I'm telling Americans to wake up a little," she said. "The Reds are trying to undermine you, and they are managing very well. You are such a kindly, friendly people. It's hard for you to realize the cruelty and total dishonesty of the Communists. But I know better, I lived under them for eight years."

Princess Caradja studies the yarn she continually winds and unwinds while she talks. At 75 she looks and acts like the idealized, aging royalty noblewoman of the early 20th Century. Small-boned, with fiery gray-green eyes, the princess has outlived her friends, buried her children and lost her lands.

She has seen two world wars, helped Allied prisoners of war and run an orphanage for 3,000 children. The woman who owned a 1,000 acre estate became a refugee who finally escaped to the West in 1955. "The trouble with Americans is that they read too much about the war and too little about captivity," she said.

PUNISHED "The Communists said I came from an unhealthy social order. So I didn't get a ration card. And you had to have a ration card to get food. So what happened? I slumped down from 170 pounds to 95 pounds and said "That you." You have to show them you're not going to pieces. I must say that most of the nobility managed to hold on to their wits, especially the women. Women hold up much better than men because they know more about suffering.

"Oh yes, you hear that life behind the Iron Curtain is better now. I have no doubt that it is. But Americans are melting with tenderness because things aren't so bad there. The facts is not how they are living but how they have ceased attacking you. The ammunition made in my Romania is being shipped to Red China, then to Vietnam. And that ammunition is killing your boys.

"But you're always ready to believe a promise. Americans are just too clean-minded to believe dirt. In talking, Princess Caradja tries to paint a picture of what life is like under Communism. There are no school buses. It may take you a total of two hours to walk to school and back. You attend classes from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m., and you do homework from 3 to 6 p.m. at school, because there is no room for you to study at home. There is no place for you to relax. So finally you arrive back at the apartment at 7 or 8 p.m.

The state chooses your studies. And if you happen to have a count or countless in front of your name, off you go to the factory. Every thought, every gesture is regulated. You have to have a permit to travel within the country. Even to get a gallon of gasoline. As an American you can travel behind the Iron Curtain safely. But when you're ready to leave all you can do is produce that nice little American passport and off you go.

"You haven't known the naked terror of having no way out. Do you have any idea of what it is like to have no home, no clothes but what you have on your back, no pictures of your children, no food? The depression wasn't so bad, my dear. At least there were people who helped you.

"On March 1, 1949, the Communists arrested 20,000 people. They say the black-out in New York was terrible. But the reparations were sent out. What would you do if those men were shot or if they tried to help? The more advanced a nation, the more vulnerable it is to the Allies of the oil refineries. My plane was nearby. I had many city dwellers could survive with no electricity? They don't know anything about chopping down trees for fire. The wood would probably be green anyway. With no refrigeration, the food would spoil.

CHALLENGE Americans must keep themselves informed. Read the newspapers, not the comics, but the editorials, good and bad. Think and remember. "As for me, I'll go on talking. I have no intention of quitting. Why should I? Has the day come when I should stop and sit back with a smile on my face. I have no home. One year I traveled the East Coast, the next, the West Coast.

"No...I shall not quit, crusaders don't retire." Princess Caradja was born in Romania in 1893 to Princess Cantacuzene and Prince Kretulesco. At the age of three, her father took her off to an orphanage in England under a false name. After the death of her mother, in the year 1906, he moved her to France under her real name.

Helped by an aunt, she escaped to Romania in 1938 and the courts gave her to her mother's family. In 1934 she married Prince Caradja, then World War I started. She said "When in the fall of 1916 our country fell to the Germans, I fled to the free side with two children, one year old and 10 days old. Six months later I started work with a 30 bed hospital for typhus cases and later myself caught the fever. In the fall of 1918 after the Armistice, returned to Bucharest.

LOST "Through bitter years of searching for me, my grandmother built a Foundation for Orphans. The motto: "A mother who lost her child; for children who lost their mothers." After her death her mother took it over. In 1919 after those war years, I found her tired and I took over, I built the Foundation and added a foster-home section in 12 villages near our estate. In 1920 our third daughter was born. In 1933, I lost a child of 17 after a short illness in Vienna. My eldest child was killed with her husband during an earthquake in 1940. My last child escaped to the West in 1948.

"I worked with the Foundation through the Nazi occupation in 1940 and the bombing by the Allies of the oil refineries. My plane was nearby. I had many city dwellers could survive with no electricity? They don't know anything about chopping down trees for fire. The wood would probably be green anyway. With no refrigeration, the food would spoil.

The foundation then housed 3,000 children and I worked on for them through the First Invasion, in the fall of 1944, and the ensuing Red Government till 1949 when all was taken over by the State Offices and I also lost all that I had at that time. With nothing left to hold me, I accepted my last daughter's offer to try to get me out. After several attempts, I escaped in early 1952. Then I gave over 160 talks in France about "Life Behind the Iron Curtain." Every summer in London I spoke in the BBC Networks and spent the winter of 1954-55 in Algiers after an earthquake organizing some child relief for a friend, also giving talks in Algeria and Morocco, stressing there the persecution in all our Captive Nations of all religions, even the Moslem minorities. At last I got leave to come to the United States in December 1955. Since then, I have spoken in all the states and have seen 90 of my first POW's and about 170 of the other, later fallen ones.

I feel that the only other real way I can be of any service to our lost countries is to tell the Free World about "The Worth of Freedom" showing conditions in the Captive Nations and so encouraging the still Free World to protect and defend the Precious Freedom."

NET

One of the definitions for a net is a trap or a snare. A net is used to catch a fish. There are times in every man's life when like Job, he feels that God has trapped him in a net. Job 19:6 reads, "Know now that God hath overthrown me, and hath compassed me with his net."

But our troubles and afflictions are never caused by our God. Moreover, His Word says He is ever faithful to deliver His people. The Psalmist asserts: "Mine eyes are ever toward the Lord; for he shall pluck my feet out of the net."

How wonderful are His promises. These promises are proclaimed from the pulpit by your pastor each week for the blessing and edifying of God's people. Won't you attend church this week and partake of this blessing?

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny, the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

SECOND COMING-- Rev. Leland Calloway shows Christ at the top of the painting, captured in a painting done by Mrs. Leonard Evans of the second coming of Christ. The painting is based on scriptures explaining the second coming where two are in the field, one is taken, another left; two grinding at the mill, one shall be taken and the other left, two in one bed, one shall be taken and the other left. The scriptures from which the idea of the painting was born also speaks of the eating and drinking which will be underway when Christ returns. The picture displays these things in detail. It is presently hanging in the lobby at Green Memorial Hospital for the public to view.

Producers Expanding Research

Memphis, Tenn. - (Special) - Cotton Producers Institute is expanding a mechanization research study in cotton planting at North Carolina State University, Raleigh, as part of CPI's 1968 cotton research program.

This has been announced by Russell Giffen, Fresno, Calif., CPI president.

The increased grant, from $40,000 to $62,750, will permit more intensive work in several promising areas seeking improved planting methods and equipment to reduce the risks for cotton growers in getting a stand of cotton.

Improvements in cotton growth patterns plus savings in fuel, labor, and seed costs in planting, replanting, and thinning are the goals of the research.

The research team includes agricultural engineers, botanists, and soil scientists working together in 16 different basic phases of investigation covering conditions encountered in all parts of the Cotton Belt.

Many factors determine whether a final uniform stand of vigorous cotton seedlings is attained. They include the seed's vigor and inherent potential, the soil, the above-ground environment, and the equipment and techniques used in planting.

The researchers are studying all of these elements and their relationships to each other. From this they will design and test prototype planter components. Major equipment manufacturers are watching the research closely with the view of rapid development and marketing of improved planter units for cotton.

Research on the development of entire machine systems for cheaper and more automated cotton production is being sponsored by CPI at the University of Arizona, Tucson. Improved chemical application methods and equipment are the objectives of CPI-sponsored research being conducted at Jackson by the University of Tennessee and at Stillwater by Oklahoma State University.

The total CPI research program is budgeted at $2.7 million for 1968, and includes some 70 studies ranging from insect control to durable press for cotton products.

CARD OF THANKS

It is with heartfelt humility I wish to acknowledge my many, many friends during my totally unexpected hospitalization.

During such times we find out and realize how many true friends we have in so many areas and so many numbers. May I express my sincere "Thanks" for the visits, calls, gifts, cards and expressions of concern on behalf of myself and my family.

The one who has "friends" is truly blessed and the one who is a "friend" is doubly blessed.

"Thank You" seems so inadequate but the sincerity with which it is expressed is deep and true.

MEN AND MONEY:

Both must be employed if our community is to prosper. If you plan to buy anything, purchase it from a local merchant. If you want your job to be secure and your investment protected, then trade at home. If you want a good thriving community, with good churches and good schools, one that you would be proud to be a part of, then support your business men who are largely responsible for making all this possible.
