Official Terms Cuba Sanctions As 'Body Blow'

Thomas Mann Stresses Psychological Importance of Action by OAS Group

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A high U. S. official said today condemnation and punishment of Fidel Castro's Cuban regime by the 20-nation Organization of American States (OAS) delivered a forceful "body blow" to Communism in the Western Hemisphere.

"We think economically, politically, psychologically and every other way that this puts the continent on record," said Thomas C. Mann, assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs.

Mann stressed the psychological importance of the decision by the OAS foreign ministers Sunday to condemn the Castro regime for aggression against Venezuela and to apply diplomatic and economic sanctions against Cuba.

The OAS also warned Castro that future acts of aggression against any OAS member could bring him face-to-face with the combined military strength of Latin America and the United States.

The ministers made their decision by a 15-4 vote and signed the resolution on the 11th anniversary of Castro's 26th of July revolutionary movement.

Regime Is Unacceptable
Mann told newsmen the sanctions and the warning would serve notice not only to the world but to the Cuban people themselves that Castro's Communist regime was unacceptable to the hemisphere and doomed to eventual failure.

"This is a body blow to Communist subversion in the hemisphere," said Mann, who is President Johnson's personal adviser on Latin America.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk, in a television interview Sunday (Issues and Answers—ABC) said the OAS action proved that "Castro has no future in Cuba or this hemisphere."

"We believe the Cuban people... will... welcome this action as demonstrating that the regime which has now fastened itself upon them is not compatible with the hemisphere and must be resisted," Rusk continued.

"We expect now a consolidated hemisphere in resistance to these subversive activities from Cuba."

Four Vote No
Bolivia, Chile, Mexico and Uruguay—the four Latin American countries still maintaining diplomatic relations with Cuba—cast the only votes against the resolution ordering OAS nations "not to maintain" diplomatic relations and to suspend all trade and shipping ties with Cuba, except those necessary for humanitarian reasons.

In addition to the warning against future aggression, the resolution also carried an appeal to other nations of the free world to cooperate in the shipping and trade embargo. This OAS appeal added considerable strength to the similar U.S. request that has been rebuffed, partly because some hemispheric nations continue to trade with Cuba.

Bloomin' Britons Fool Around With Spelling Names

LONDON (UPI) — Anthony French said today he wants to find out why his family and the Fitches, Fords and Ffisks spell their names that way.

No fewer than 23 names in the London telephone directory begin with the double-F. Some, like French, capitalize the first "F." Others, like Miss Valentine French (small ff) or Mrs. C. I. Fiske, (small ff) capitalize nothing at all.

The lack of a capital is traditionally supposed to perpetuate the memory of an ancestor decapitated in some long-forgotten dynastic war. The reason for the double-F is more obscure.

French, a welfare worker, said he has spent three years working in his spare time to solve the riddle.

He said that as nearly as he can figure out, most double F's were adopted out of simple snobbery.

Officials Debate on Curfew

By EUGENE H. BLABEY
ROCHESTER, N. Y. (UPI)

State troopers and local police patrolled the streets of this riot-ravaged city and three battalions of National Guardsmen stood by today as city officials debated whether to impose another curfew tonight in fear of more racial violence.

The National Guard troops were sent in Sunday night to support the state and city police but the city was relatively calm this morning.

The city criminal court began hearing the cases of more than 555 persons arrested during the violence and pillage that flared here for three successive nights beginning last Friday. About 200 persons were arraigned Saturday.

Negroes went into the streets again Sunday night in defiance of a nighttime curfew and hurled rocks, bottles and improvised fire bombs, mostly in hit-and-hide forays.

Helmeted and bayonet-armed National Guardsmen were trucked through Negro districts in a show of force Sunday night, but did not go on patrol duty immediately. Their orders were to stand by as a force in reserve to be sent into the streets only if the insurrection got out of control again.

Troops Supplement Cops
Maj. Gen. Colin P. Williams commanding general of the 27th Armored Division of the New York Guard, said the troops would supplement police activity "if the situation warrants."

Gen. Williams said the troops have not been issued ammunition at the moment but that if any are committed to action "all will carry ammunition."

He added that no ammunition will be fired "until ordered by the senior officers on the scene."

Three persons were killed Sunday and nine were injured when a Civil Defense helicopter scouting a Negro district for signs of a new outbreak crashed into a rooming house, turning it into an inferno. The helicopter pilot and two residents of the home were killed. Monroe County Civil Defense Director Robert N. Abbot was burned critically.

The fiery crash raised the death toll to four since apparently long standing anger and frustration among this northern New York community's Negro minority burst into the open three night ago—triggered by the arrest of a WARM GREETING — Parents and friends of 120 Boy Scouts, representing the Adobe Walls Council, met three chartered buses which returned the Scouts from the week-long National Boy Scout Jamboree, top picture. The area Scouts attended the week-long jamboree at Valley Forge, Pa. along with 53,000 other Scouts from over the world. As the buses arrived in Pampa Sunday afternoon stacks of equipment were quick in forming between the buses and the crowd waiting to take the youths home.

FAREWELL — In the bottom picture scoutmasters shake hands with Scouts from over the area as the 120-Scout group, representing 15 counties from the Texas Panhandle and Oklahoma, prepare to depart for their respective homes. The Scouts returning from the National Jamboree also visited New York and the World's Fair and historic sites around Washington.

Moonshot in Doubt As Trouble Flares

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — Technical troubles today delayed an attempt to fire America's Ranger-7 camera probe to the moon to get the first closeup pictures of the lunar surface.

The deadline for the shot at the moon today with an 806-pound package of six television cameras was 1:42 p.m. EST. Delays totaling more than an hour were caused by problems with radio gear on the Atlas booster rocket and ground guidance equipment and threatened to postpone the shot.

If all goes as planned, the spacecraft will hit the moon midmorning Thursday after radiating up to 4,000 pictures back to earth in the first exploratory step leading toward landing men on the moon.

Has 50-50 Chance

Scientists gave the mission a 50-50 chance to succeed. All six previous Rangers failed along with nine earlier attempts in that dates back to a Thor-Able an exploration program explosion 77 seconds after blastoff in 1958.

During a tricky maneuver about 16 hours after launch, Ranger-7 will be aimed at a lunar "sea" about 560 miles west of the point where its fruitless predecessor crashed Feb. 2.

Scientists need the closeup pictures to see if the lunar seas, actually dry plain-like areas that looked like oceans to early astronomers, are smooth enough for manned landings expected by 1970.

Ranger-7's cameras may provide the answer. Engineers say its photographs should be able to record objects on the moon as small as a car. Present pictures taken through telescopes on earth are unable to distinguish lunar features as large as a battleship.

The last Ranger, launched Jan. 30, was a guidance success. (See MOON SHOT, Page 3)

Jaycees Declare Community Fair 'Rousing Success'

In what the Pampa Junior Chamber of Commerce called a rousing financial success, the Top O' Texas Community Fair ended at 11 p.m. last night.

The six-day event attracted over 60,000 persons from the Panhandle area.

Sutton Shows, who produced the carnival, pulled up the big tent and moved on to Abilene for another show.

Highlight of the Fair was the Thursday night crowning of Miss Pam Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Allen, 725 Bradley Dr., as Fair Queen. She won the contest over 19 other entries representing various civic clubs and organizations.

The only major difficulty arose opening night, Wednesday, when a whirlwind struck the big top, tearing off one end. Some difficulty also was encountered when an employee of the show, the only one who knew how to put up a big top, was involved in a car wreck en route to Pampa.

The nearest person who knew the art of putting up the big top was flown to Pampa from Dallas.

The Jaycees said they hope to make the Fair an annual event in Pampa.

U.S. Promises More Aid to South Viets

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (UPI)—The United States has promised to send more U.S. soldier and civilian advisers to South Viet Nam and to furnish more equipment for the war against the Communist guerrillas, the Vietnamese government announced tonight.

The announcement by Premier Maj. Gen. Nguyen Khanh said the undisclosed number of fresh American troops would be used as additional advisers in battlefield areas.

They will reinforce the approximately 15,500 American servicemen already serving as advisers with Vietnamese fighting forces in this war-torn Southeast Asian nation.

Khanh said additional civilian advisers also had been promised by the United States.

More Equipment
The South Vietnamese premier said there would also be an increase of U.S.-supplied equipment, including transport planes, plus more technicians for maintenance and communications work.

The prime minister's announcement was issued this morning after a conference with U. S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor, former chairman of the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff.

A communique published after the meeting said: "The prime minister of the Vietnamese government has just received confirmation from Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor that the U. S. government, in agreement with the Vietnamese government, had decided to strengthen the present military aid civilian advisory group in order to help the Vietnamese government."

Police Continue Investigation

Missing Body of Girl Found

SKOKIE, Ill. (UPI) — Police in this Chicago suburb today investigated the bizarre theft of the body of a 14-year-old girl from a funeral home.

The body of Theresa Koertgen was found in an alley in nearby Evanston Sunday, some 16 hours after a funeral Mass was said for the dead girl.

Chicago police also recovered a yellow party dress believed to be the same one the girl was dressed in while lying in repose. The dress was found on the North Side of the city. Authorities said they planned to re-question friends and relatives of the dead girl in an effort to uncover new leads.

Two suspects arrested in the case, one a 16-year-old boy whom police said had "pestered" the girl for a date, and a man who had been seen loitering in the vicinity of the funeral home have been released, police said.

Theresa, the daughter of divorced parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Koertgen, died in a Skokie hospital after suffering a cerebral hemorrhage. The body snatcher entered the Haben funeral chapel sometime between 10:30 p.m. Friday and 6:30 a.m. Saturday, the day of the girl's funeral. A piece of cloth, found in a window of the chapel where the thief had ripped a screen to gain entry, was sent to the Federal Bureau of Investigation laboratory in Washington for tests along with other fragmentary evidence.

The body was taken to a Skokie hospital for examination.

From there, the body was interred in a cemetery in suburban Des Plaines.

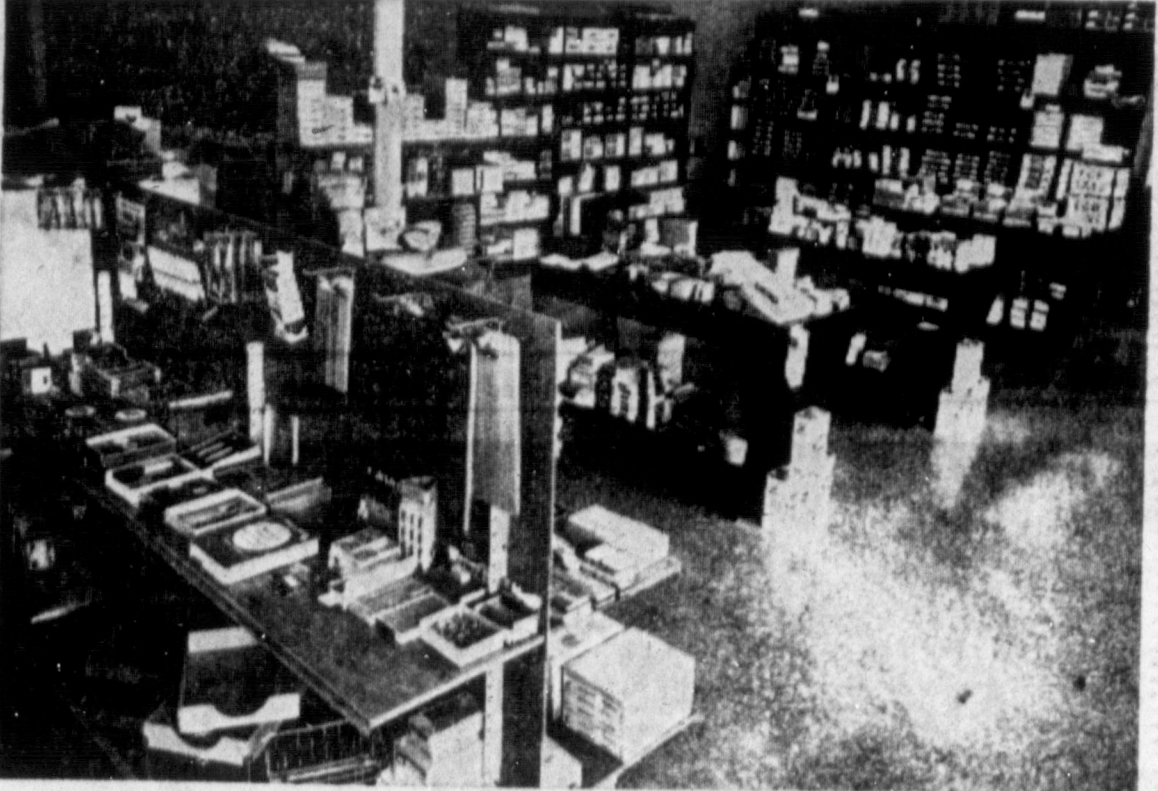

VIOLENCE INCREASES IN ROCHESTER — Two thousand enraged Negroes battled police in Rochester, N. Y., and at least 100 persons—including 24 policemen—were injured. In above photo, Negro tear gas victim lies in street. Gov. Nelson Rockefeller today called out three battalions of National Guard to assist state and local officials.

Junior College Plans—1 Month Spent on Study for School

We are glad to see the question of a county junior college being brought to the attention of the people of Gray County. The special committee which has put in many months of work and study on the proposed junior college is to be commended for its efforts in order that the people might have reliable information. It is our opinion that Gray County would have much to gain from a county junior college. Many capable young men and women would be afforded at least two years of college training who are presently having to face life with only a high school diploma. It is vitally important to the education of Gray County youth that more opportunities for schooling beyond high school be available to them. It is also important to the economy of this area that higher educational facilities be provided. The field of vocational and technical training has unlimited possibilities and would fit in nicely with a junior college program in this particular area. I have heard many people of the county ask, "When are we going to have the opportunity to vote on the junior college?" This can never be unless the State Board of Education gives their approval in order that the County Court may call an election to determine the will of the people. If the citizens have the opportunity to vote on the matter, I believe they will come up with the proper answer, whether it be for or against the proposal. The public hearing scheduled Aug. 3 will give the people an opportunity to be heard. If you believe in letting the voters decide what is best, you should plan now to attend the public hearing and express your views. In order for Gray County to continue its progress along with neighboring counties, we must do everything possible to improve our industrial climate. The junior college will help accomplish this goal. In my opinion, this is a program that all Gray County citizens can well afford to support. The establishment of a Junior College could be the beginning of greater things.

JOHN C. HAYNES, McLean mayor

Cardinal Lefties Defeat Phillies Three Straight

By United Press International
Johnny Keane, a manager in hot water, resorted to some lefthanded tactics over the weekend to take the heat off.

The St. Louis skipper saw his Cardinals skid into an eighth-place tie Friday night when they lost their seventh game in 10 starts. He heard Cardinal owner August Busch call his team "sluggish" and listened to general manager Bing Devine cite "a combination of failures" on the team.

Keane well might have felt his head-ho was imminent. After all, he was guiding an eighth-place team which just a year ago chased the World Champion Dodgers through September for the National League flag.

But Keane seized upon a glaring weakness of the league-leading Philadelphia Phillies, who quiver at the sight of a lefthanded pitcher. He started three southpaws, including a rookie making his first major league start. The result was three straight St. Louis victories and the first peaceful night's sleep for Keane in weeks.

Cards Win Two
The Cardinals swept a twin bill from the Phillies Sunday 6-1 and 4-1 behind the pitching of 25-year-old rookie Gordon Richardson, called up from Jacksonville of the International League Friday, and maturing Ray Sadecki.

Richardson held the Phillies to six hits, fanned five and didn't allow a hit until the fifth inning of the opener. Curt Flood, who drove in four runs, Bill White and Tim McCarver each had three hits to support the Colquitt, Ga. southpaw.

Sadecki blanked the Phils until the ninth inning of the nightcap, and yielded only five hits in gaining his 11th victory, one more than his 1963 total. Ken Boyer, who had five hits for the day, was the hitting star.

The Giants took advantage of the Dodgers' porous infield to score four unearned runs in the ninth inning and snap Sandy Koufax' 11-game winning streak 5-2. The triumph left San Francisco only a half game behind the Phillies and marked the second time in three days that the fumbling Dodgers have lost because of infield errors.

Hart Hits Homer
The Dodgers led 2-1 going into the ninth, when Jim Gilliam and Maury Wills committed errors to account for the tying run. Then Willie Mays doubled and Jim Ray Hart socked his 15th homer off Koufax (15-5), who struck out 10 men for the 59th time in his career.

The Milwaukee Braves won a slugfest from the Mets 11-7 and 13-10 with their bats and tried to start another with their fists; Pittsburgh lost to Cincinnati 6-2 then won 5-1, and the Chicago Cubs blanked Houston 3-0 in other National League action. Mets' pitcher Frank Lee and Milwaukee's Lee Maye were involved in a beanball incident in the first inning of the second game which emptied both benches. Rico Carty, who had two homers, threw the only punches—at two Mets, but the umpires quickly restored order.

Ken Venturi Winner Despite Bad Ending
By JACK O'BRIEN
HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI)—U.S. Open champion Ken Venturi winged his way to California today with a $7,500 check in his pocket and the disturbing memory of a near-failure in winning the $50,000 Insurance City Open golf tournament.

Venturi and his wife, Connie, flew to their home city of San Francisco to await a civic reception later this week to be lateredly honor the 33-year-old comeback star's victory in the National Open at Washington, D.C., last month.

The $7,500 first prize in the 13th annual Insurance City Classic almost eluded Venturi Sunday when he departed from an otherwise excellent final round to double bogey the 18th and back into the championship by one stroke over four challengers at the nearby Wethersfield Country Club.

The tournament circuit veteran led a field of 61 pros and two amateurs for 17 holes of the final round on the 6,560-yard layout. But on the 424-yard 18th, he three-putted from 35 feet out and double-bogeyed the par five hole to wind up with a final round par 71 and a total score of 273 for the 72-hole Connecticut classic.

Al Blows Chance
Venturi was saved from a tie, or worse, when strapping Al Bessellink, of Grossinger, N.Y., blew his last chance with a bogey on the 18th to finish one stroke behind Venturi at a one-over-par 72 and a tournament total of 274, tying two other pros and an amateur.

Deadlocked with Bessellink were 25-year-old Sam Carmichael, a muscular slammer from Martinsville, Ind.; husky Paul Bondeson, 24, of Palm Springs, Calif., and amateur James Grant III, 22, who represented the host club in a surprising strong finish.

Bessellink, Bondeson and Carmichael each won $3,400, but Grant was not eligible for the PGA cash prize because of his amateur status. Bondeson had the hottest final round of 65, six under par.

Bill Collins, also playing out of Grossinger, and Bert Yancey of Philadelphia each won $2,450 by tying at 275 for the 72 holes. Collins and Yancey each shot a one-under-par 70 on the final round while Bessellink went two over and Carmichael parred the course.

Weather More Comfortable
Venturi and the others played in weather much more comfortable than the Californian encountered in staggering to victory in the National Open but the lower temperatures and reduced humidity apparently were no boon to him on the deciding hole.

His drive from the 18th tee landed in amid-fairway trap to the left and his second shot was straight, but short of the green. He chipped on and landed 35 feet from the pin, but his first putt missed by 18 inches. A shocked gallery then saw the Open champion miss the hole by about four inches and eventually can it for a double bogey six.

Bessellink, running two strokes behind Venturi at the 18th tee, had a chance to tie with a par, but his drive curled to the left and his second shot carried about 30 feet past the deepest edge of the green.

The 240-pound Merchantville, N.J., native then chipped back, but the ball rolled past the pin and a foot beyond the green. Coming back on his number four shot, Bessellink missed by about two feet and finally putted in for a five on the hole.

Queens Beaten, Enter Tourney
The Berger Bees won the Golden Spread League championship as they beat the Surplus City Queens 11-1 in Berger to break a first-place tie between the two teams in the last game of the season.

Berger's only loss in ten games was a forfeit to the Queens. Pampa finished with an 8-2 mark.

The Queens warmed up for the Amarillo Invitational Tournament by beating their first-round opponent, Twings and Norman Service Station, 15-7 Saturday.

Pampa and Twings and Norman play their first round tournament game tomorrow night at 9 on the Stephen F. Austin diamond in Amarillo.

Pampa Teams Slated Tonight

Pampa National League feels it's one down and one to go as it plays Plainview National at 8 tonight in the second game of the Babe Ruth District Tournament schedule.

The Pampanos eliminated Plainview American League with a 6-2 victory in Saturday's late game.

In tonight's first game, Pampa American plays Canyon American at 5 in another losers bracket game. The winners of tonight's games play tomorrow night in a single game at 8. Dumas plays the winner of that game Thursday at 8 in the tournament finals.

Plainview American took a 2-0 lead in the first inning Saturday night but the rest of the game belonged to Pampa.

Mike Pursley gave up just five hits, three of them in the first frame, to win the decision handily. Pursley struck out seven and did not walk a batter, thus becoming the first pitcher of the six-day-old tournament not to issue a free pass to first.

Bill Cunningham was Pursley's chief problem. He had a double and two singles in three at bats. Tommy McBee, with another double, and Gary Findley, with a single, had the only

Hebert Stars in Big 33 Practices

HERSHEY, Pa. (Sp) — Pampa's Kenney Hebert has shone in workouts by Texas' all-star squad which plays a Pennsylvania team in Saturday's Big 33 game.

Texas coach Bobby Layne termed Hebert "a helluva football player" and said he may be the best all-around player in the camp.

So far Hebert has played quarterback, halfback and flanker in the drills and has done most of the punting. Three of his kicks sailed over 60 yards in Saturday's session.

Yankees Sweep Pair, Charge Into First Place

By United Press International
There's a ridiculous masquerade party going on in Chicago. Al Lopez has his sluggers disguised as pitchers.

Actually the White Sox pitchers, who have suffered with a supporting cast that is next-to-last in run production in the American League, have taken matters to their own bats.

Relief pitcher Eddie Fisher singled home the winning run in the 12th inning of Sunday's first game to give Chicago a 5-4 victory over the Minnesota Twins. Starter Gary Peters, who hurled 11 innings, staked himself to a 3-1 lead in the second inning with a three-run homer and later added two singles.

The White Sox won the nightcap 3-0 to creep within one game of the Yankees who took over first place from the Orioles. John Buzhardt pitched a six-hitter for the Sox and really didn't need much support but added a single and a sacrifice just for effect.

Hurlers Raise Average
Chicago hurlers collectively are hitting a substantial .385 in the last nine games. They have socked three home runs—two by Peters and one by Juan Pizarro — and have driven in eight runs during that period. They also happen to make up the best pitching staff in the AL with an earned run average below three per game.

Don Buford homered in the first game and Ron Hansen connected in the nightcap for the White Sox, who registered their ninth doubleheader sweep. All four doubleheaders in the AL were sweeps. In the lone single game, Washington knocked Baltimore a half game behind the Yankees with a 4-1 victory. The Yankees topped Detroit 11-6 and 5-4. Los Angeles took Kansas City 3-0 and 4-3 in 10 innings and Boston measured Cleveland 6-1 and 4-1.

Yanks Go Wild
The Yankees clubbed Detroit pitching for 63 hits and 41 runs in the four-game series but it took an Alphonse-and-Gaston play by the Tigers' Dick Magonis and George Thomas in the seventh inning of the second game Sunday to insure the Yankee sweep.

The Tigers were leading 3-1 with two out and Tom Tresh on first when John Blanchard lifted a short fly to left which Thomas and McAuliffe watched drop between them. Phil Linz doubled and pinchhitter Hector Lopez scored Blanchard and Linz with a single.

Tresh and Bobby Richardson each contributed a single, double and home run in the opening game victory, and Roger Maris added four singles to pace the 16-hit attack.

Galimore, Farrington Killed in Car Wreck

RENSSELAER, Ind. (UPI)—The world football champion Chicago Bears were "shocked and grieved" today by the death in an automobile accident of star halfback Willie Galimore and husky split end John Farrington.

The two gridiron players died when their car overturned on a lonely country road Sunday night about 2½ miles from the Bear training camp.

"We are shocked and grieved," a Bear spokesman said. The tragedy was the second this year to occur to a Chicago sports team. Kenny Hubbs, standout second baseman of the Chicago Cubs, was killed during the winter when his private plane crashed near Provo, Utah.

The death of Galimore, 29, and Farrington, 28, stunned the Bear camp. George Halas, 69-year-old "Papa Bear" and head coach of the World Champions, rushed to the Jasper County Hospital here to identify the bodies.

Halas then notified Mrs. Galimore and Mrs. Farrington by telephone of their husbands' deaths. Galimore has three young children. Farrington was married after the close of last season; his wife is expecting their first child.

Coroner E. R. Beaver, the Bears' training camp physician, said the accident occurred when Galimore's Volkswagen hit the shoulder of the road and flipped over.

Galimore and Farrington were apparently on their way back to camp after a round of golf.

Galimore, a flashy but virtually unknown halfback when he came to the Bears from Florida A&M, became one of the National Football League's most spectacular rookies in

Americans Savor Win

By JOE ST. AMANT
LOS ANGELES, (UPI)—United States track and field athletes are sitting on top of the world today — they gave Russia an awful drubbing in the sixth annual meet between the two nations on the weekend.

For the first time the Americans won on the combined point score for both men's and women's events.

The combined score was: United States 167, Russia 156. U.S. Coach Sam Bell of Oregon State College scoffed at a suggestion that the American athletes might be "over-trained" in view of the long time before the October Olympic games in Tokyo.

"I don't buy this thing that you reach a peak and then tail off. I think you can go ahead and stay ahead," he said.

In the men's division, the United States had 139 points against 97 for Russia.

U. S. Women Tops
The Russian women won by 59-48. But the 48 was the most points the American lassies have ever scored and their showing put the U.S. team on top.

The American men were expected to win—but not by the margin they did.

For the first time in the history of this event, the Americans won the triple jump, which oldsters called the hop, step and jump; the 3,000-meter steeplechase, and the 5,000 and 10,000-meter runs.

The Pampa Daily News

A Watchful Newspaper
EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities. We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself, no more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

The Idea of Communism

The perils that dogs our footsteps in seeking to oppose the Soviet Union relates primarily to our own conditions as imposed upon us by our own government. Now, there are many communists who do not agree entirely with the basic tenets of communism. They favor some degree of government ownership and management of the means of production and distribution. They want a "planned economy" and would permit some private ownership and management, but under some sort of governmental control in the final analysis. These are the "limited" communists or socialists. They simply think that communist theories, which they may never have had identified as such, are superior to free market, private ownership idea. That is what make a communist or a near-communist. But here is where the shoe can become rather tight on many a foot.

Persons who oppose communism, must oppose the growth of government. And those who do not understand this assume that government must be made large in order to oppose communism. But they have confused the supposed Russian threat with the threat of communism. An accusation is sometimes hurled across this schism, each side calling the other bad names and implying deceit and bad intentions. For our part, we have opposed communism consistently for many, many years and propose to continue in this opposition. And we do not intend to be led away from our purpose by those who fail to understand the crux of the entire matter and have confused both ends and means. Communists and their many dupes and fellow travelers don't like capitalism and free enterprise. They hate profits, interest and rent. They want the government or the unions to dominate the economy and to manage everyone's affairs. We will stand up for the economy and in so doing we will strive, not to vilify them but to enlighten them.

Who Gets Editor's Votes?

The most unfortunate thing about facts, besides their tendency to contradict what we wish to believe, is the ease with which they get lost in the shuffle of an argument. A recent current subject of controversy, it may not be amiss to repeat a few facts that appeared recently in Editor & Publisher. According to polls taken by that magazine during the past eight presidential elections, newspaper support of the two major candidates was as follows (papers which did not make endorsements and those which endorsed fringe party candidates make up the variance from 100 per cent):
—1932—52 per cent of the daily papers for Hoover; 40 per cent for Roosevelt.
—1936—57 per cent for Landon; 38 per cent for Roosevelt.

Down South

By THURMAN SENSING

THE END OF "ME TOO—ISM"
A presidential campaign involving a real conservative in action against an all-out "liberal" is what the United States has needed and lacked for many years. Time and again the Republican Party nominated a "me too" candidate, thereby depriving the voters of a clear choice between conservatism and "liberalism." This year the issue before the electorate will not be obscured. The voters won't be in doubt as to where either candidate stands. One believes in limited government, dedicated to economy, states rights and nationalism, and the other believes in massive government spending, new authority for the federal government, and reliance on the United Nations, which now is dominated by the neutralist nations of Africa and Asia. Thus never have the issues been so clear and the opportunity for decision so great.

A tremendous effort has been made in recent months to deny this choice to the voters. The "me too" element has done everything in its power to deprive the public of a true conservative option in the voting booth. By distortion of the truth, snide comments, and outright vilification, the "liberal" forces have sought to undermine the country's chief spokesman for conservatism. It has been said, in defiance of the record, that he is trigger-happy and wants to use atomic bombs to clear away bushes in Viet Nam. It has been said, with the same lack of truth, that he has no concern for poor people. This massive scare campaign did not work very well, however. The "liberals" were talking to themselves. Their tactics were tactics of desperation. The American people are well able to size up the character of a man seeking a party's presidential nomination.

One of the handicaps faced by the conservatives is the propaganda use of the word "moderate." This word has, unhappily, found its way into regular practice in news reports. The spokesmen for "me too" thinking were automatically described as "moderates," whereas the advocates of a strong new policy of national resolution were characterized as "extremists" or "radical rightists." This is a vicious use of the word "moderate," for it is a partisan use designed to serve one political faction. Obviously, if the "me too" group is moderate, then, by the dictionary definition, their opponents must be immoderate. This piece of trickery has been accepted by many readers and viewers of the news, sad to say.

The truth is that the "me too" crowd is anything but moderate in an accurate sense. It is genuine moderation to accept a do-nothing policy about Communist Cuba at our national doorstep? Is one a moderate if one allows the union tyranny to disrupt the normal operations of free enterprise? Is moderation to be defined as acceptance of unconstitutional force bills that provide for coerced association? The answer to these questions is a resounding "No." Moderation, if the word is to mean anything, must mean total respect for the Constitution, for the right to work, the right to operate one's business without federal dictation, to exercise states rights, to enjoy freedom of association, and to have the United States conduct its foreign policy directly without interference from or subordination to the United Nations.

By this definition, and it is the only one that can be logically justified, the real moderate in the Republican Party is Barry Goldwater. The radicals are those who want to pay no attention to the written text of the Constitution, and who want to give it a new interpretation according to their own desires. The radicals are those who want business to submit to tight bureaucratic controls and leave the big decisions to Big Brother in Washington. The radicals are those who urge U. S. withdrawal and acceptance of communism everywhere in the world — from Viet Nam to Cuba. The American people have had a big dose of this radicalism over a long period of years. The radicals are now terribly afraid that they will lose hold of the reins of power in the United States. They are afraid that they soon may be pushed out of Washington, out of the Justice Department, the State Department and the National

Question Box

QUESTION: "Can a monopoly ever be good, or is it always bad?"

ANSWER: Both questions can be answered yes. A monopoly over a man's life and no one else's life is always good. It gives him the right to choose, it gives him freedom, and an opportunity to use and develop the talents which nature gave him or which he inherited from his ancestors. On the other hand, a monopoly granted by the government, whether it be local, state, federal, or international, is always harmful. The reason is that it deprives some individual of the right to make his own decisions so long as he respects the equal rights of others to do the same. But a monopoly by the state or any division of the state, curtails competition. We believe that all our progress comes from competition in gaining understanding and producing property wealth. If we could get the people to understand that all people must help establish values and that the government should not interfere, we would be much more prosperous, crime would not be increasing, and our standard of living would be much higher. The big problem is to get the people to have prosperity without becoming indolent, lazy, and mere happiness seekers. Happiness is a by-product of accomplishment. It cannot be found, and if you seek happiness it will flee from you.

The Nation's Press

WIRING A NATION TOGETHER
(Industrial News Review)
Heavy emphasis is being laid on the importance of extra-high voltage transmission lines which make possible economical transport of electricity for great distances and power pooling by the nation's power systems. This sounds harmless enough — no one doubts the value of such developments. But there is a danger that an effort may be made by the never-say-die advocates of socialized power to convince an uninformed public that they are new innovations and that the needed measure of success can only be attained by some all-out federal plan. The fact is that power pooling and interconnection of systems is an old story to the investor-owned utility industry. Along the eastern seaboard, for instance, one interconnection has a generating capacity of 15 million kilowatts and 13 utilities are participants. Much the same thing is true of high voltage transmission. More than 100,000 miles of these are now in service. And the figure will be doubled by 1970 as a part of the industry's $8 billion expansion and improvement program. The situation is summed up by Investor's Reader in these words: "By now nearly all major U. S. utilities are linked in the most advanced power complex in the world though still stronger ties are on schedule. . . . Countless additional interconnections are planned for this year and next. But 1966 will be the big year in which virtually all the utilities will be linked coast-to-coast. . . . The socializers will continue to make their claims and charges. But the investor-owned utilities have an unshakable record of progress and achievement on their side. The motor of an airplane conked out, and the pilot had to parachute out. On the way down he passed a little old woman going up. Pilot—Lady on your way up, have you passed an airplane on the way down? Little Old Lady—Why, no, on your way down, have you passed a gas stove that was on the way up?"

Pull Up A Chair

By Frank J. Markey
Just heard about a Massachusetts insurance company that cuts the rate on premiums on policies issued to non-smokers. To qualify you must give them proof that you haven't puffed on a cigarette in the past year. Within six weeks after that type of policy was offered, non-smokers had purchased almost $6 million of life insurance.

CAPITOL EYE:

Experts Say Barry's Not A Pushover

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
WASHINGTON (NEA) — The giddy talk that President Johnson may win all 50 states in November is now seldom heard among politicians. Suddenly, they are giving Sen. Barry Goldwater a big chance to be elected.

This dramatic turnaround is not reflected in the public opinion polls, which still show Johnson with a crushing lead. At this stage the notions about Barry's prospects are in the realm of hunch, of a feeling in the bones. That feeling clearly is related to the country's great racial struggle. To be blunt about it, a good many political figures believe that the Negroes, even as they are voting eight and nine to one against him, may elect Goldwater. The view gaining steady currency is that every big show of Negro militancy — whether riots in Harlem, demonstrations, sit-ins, picketing of Goldwater himself or whatever — makes white votes for Barry in droves. One cynical appraiser said: "Barry ought to hire some Negroes to picket him wherever he goes."

Goldwater's announced wish to join with the President in planning a campaign that will not heighten racial tensions could be quite irrelevant. In both the North and the South, he has become the symbol of white citizens' hopes that a brake may somehow be put on Negro advances in schools, jobs and housing. Given his many pro-states rights utterances and his celebrated vote against the 1964 civil rights bill, Goldwater's very presence in the presidential race assures that he will be a rallying point for unnumbered Americans who think the Negro is "going too far and pushing too hard."

The northern industrial states obviously hold the key to a possible Goldwater victory. It may be fairly assumed that many suburban whites, feeling the threat of Negro advance, may exhibit their resentment and fear in votes for Goldwater. Perhaps more crucial to the election outcome is what happens among the equally concerned urban nationality minorities — working people who usually vote Democratic. One seasoned observer suggests that the economic ties which bind these people to the Democrats have been steadily weakened over the years. If this is so, many may find it easier than imagined to vote their anti-Negro protests. As for the 11-state old south, make no mistake about it. Republican leaders have completely reinstated the Goldwater "southern strategy" relied upon before John F. Kennedy's assassination.

This means Goldwaterites in the South believe they can take most of the 11 states for the senator, despite the fact that his opponent now is a Texan who speaks in familiar southern accents. A Republican with wide southern contacts says Goldwater ought to be sure right now of Time Fishing for Ideas on New Aquarium. Country Editor speaking: "Reading those ads that say 'no money down, one year to pay' reminds us that you've got to give Americans a lot of credit."

The Almanac

Today is Monday, July 27, the 209th day of 1964 with 157 to follow.

The moon is approaching its last quarter. The morning stars are Jupiter, Saturn, Mars and Venus. On this day in history: In 1777, the Marquis De Lafayette and other foreign officers offered their services to the Continental Congress. In 1919, a race riot at a Chicago beach killed 38 persons. In 1959, plans to form a third major baseball circuit to be known as the Continental League, were announced. In 1963, a massive earthquake struck Skopje, Yugoslavia, killing more than 3,000 persons.

Wit and Whimsy

The first graders were learning Jingle Bells. At the line, "Bells on bobbins ring," one little girl had brought the song up to date. It was now, "Bells and cocktails ring." Success Expert—What's your name? Greek Client — Gus Poppapopoulos. Success Expert — Get a job selling motorcycles. Farmer—Why are you coming home with your milk pail empty? Didn't the old cow give anything? Hired Boy — Yes, 9 pints and one kick. When you speak to other people for their good, it is influence, and when other people speak to you for your good, it is interference. If women would begin wearing neckties, men could get even with them at Christmas. Edith's uncle had come to pay a visit. After the first greetings were over, and he was comfortably seated with the child on his knee, he asked, as uncles always do, whether she was a "good little girl". Little Edith — Yes, but nobody knows it. Critics, like other people, see what they look for, not what is actually before them. A formal, fashionable caller addressed a very little girl: Caller — How are you, my dear? Very Little Girl — Very well, thank you. Caller — Now, my dear, you should ask me how I am. Very Little Girl — But, I don't want to know.

Virginia, Tennessee, South Carolina and Florida. North Carolina and Arkansas are considered fair bets, too. And with Alabama's Gov. George Wallace out of the race, Goldwater's outlook in Alabama and Mississippi is plainly enhanced. It is interesting to note that two men — one a northern governor's aide and the other a veteran southern observer — correctly forecast to this reporter that Wallace would pull out a few days after Goldwater was nominated at San Francisco. Both believe the story of how this was managed will make interesting reading some day, though they have no shred of evidence at this time.

Wax Paper Keeps Pages From Sticking Together

DEAR POLLY — When putting stamps in books, as in albums and odd and in scrapbooks, put pieces of wax paper cut the same size as the pages between the pages and the glue or paste is dry. No damage then to the items added to books and the waxed paper is used over and over before leaving home for address and stamp a number of envelopes and put some paper in each of them. These are in your purse and there are a few spares, you can write without to hunt all the necessary sent.

MRS. E. G. L. — This last hint really led to me. If you are going to take a trip to the World's Fair, be sure to follow Mrs. E. L.'s advice. Have a date early in the morning with my doctor who will remove the stitches from my hand and tell me how soon I can get away from this left handed business of washing dishes. What happened? Was washing dishes and a glass broke, cutting the hand. I am like Pollyanna though, it could have been worse and it was my first accident and hope it will be the last, thank you. The Mature Parent

Summer's Relaxation Needed By Parents, too

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Last summer, a couple I know sent their 8-year-old daughter to camp for the first time.

She didn't like it. After three weeks she telephoned an appeal to her parents to come and take her home. They drove to the camp the following weekend to do this, but were deflected by its lady director. Warned that what their child needed was not relief from what she didn't like but adjustment to it, they said goodbye to their weeping youngster, left her to "adjust" and drove home without her.

As a consequence, they canceled the Mexican tour they had planned in order to remain in touch with their camper. They jumped every time the telephone rang. The theme of their conversation became, "We're doing the right thing, aren't we?" In short, they spent a miserable summer.

In this season of children's sometimes losing struggles to adjust to summer camps I want to remind fathers and mothers that they are entitled to end the struggles when they impose too much anxiety and strain upon us. We have our own need for summertime relaxation to consider, as well as children's adjustments.

I am aware that this is a revolutionary idea.

We are so imbued with "parents don't matter" propaganda that it's extremely difficult to realize we may need a relaxed summer even more than Billy may need adjustment. The notion that we must endure persistent anxiety over campers in order to provide them with adjustment is the same self-martyring notion that we must endure a toothache in order to see the dental-bill money to re-decorate Sally's bedroom.

It's the same old parental passion for self-sacrifice. As our toothache punishes us for our refusal to visit the dentist, our anxious summer punishes us for our failure in self-consideration.

Dear Abby....

Man's Viewpoint On Defense Against Girls

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I have always considered you the voice of anti-intellectual mid-Victorian morality. As such, you had your finest moment when you advised a 14-year-old boy to run rather than to defend himself against a 15-year-old outsized girl. I say if a girl wants to act like a boy, treat her as a boy. A black eye and a split lip in childhood is a small price to pay if it prevents a female from confusing her role with that of a male's in adult life.

Very truly yours,
GEORGE L. H.

DEAR ABBY: Your answer to Mrs. M. burned me up. That's the trouble with society today. You women want to wear the pants, smoke, go in bars and compete with men for jobs, but when the going gets rough you expect special treatment just because you're women. I say that kid who slugged the girl deserves a pat on the back. I'll bet that was the last time that big fat Amazon ever took a poke at him. Sign me.

SWEENEY

DEAR ABBY: Just read about the 14-year-old boy who was given a beating by his father for socking a 15-year-old girl in the eye. When I was an 8-year-old boy, I was unmercifully tormented by an older, bigger girl. I was ashamed to ask for help because people would laugh at a boy who would let a girl scare him. If only I had had the nerve to pick up a good-sized stick and let her have some good whacks on the shins, maybe I wouldn't dislike women as much as I do today. When an overgrown, aggressive woman provokes a man, she deserves a black eye. For a man to strike a woman of average proportions and ladylike deportment is a despicable act. But today just let one of those other types bug me and I'll kick her right in the seat.

MR. M.

DEAR ABBY: Our sewing club discussed that letter in your column from the mother of a 14-year-old boy who beat up a 15-year-old girl because she kicked him, hit him and called him names. The boy's father heard about it and gave the boy a good thrashing. You were asked what the boy should have done in such a case and you said that since the girl outweighed him by 30 pounds, and was a half a head taller than he was the boy should have run. In our entire group, Abby, I was the only one who stood by you. All the other women said they thought the boy had no choice but to beat the girl up in order to defend himself. Maybe you and I were not raised the same as most folks, but I still think it is less of a disgrace for a boy to run from a girl than to beat her up.

NELL IN N. J.

DEAR ABBY: I just finished reading the letter from Mrs. M., whose 14-year-old son gave a 15-year-old girl a black eye and a split lip in self-defense. You said, "Under no circumstances should a boy ever hit a girl." I think you gave some pretty bum advice there, Abby. If a girl hits a boy first, I think he has a perfect right to hit her back. You have a son, Abby, why don't you ask HIM for HIS opinion? I'll bet HE wouldn't run from a girl.

ONE FOR YOUR WASTEBASKET

DEAR ONE: I just asked him. He said he wouldn't hit her in the same way he'd hit a boy. But he'd give her a "padding" she'd never forget. You win!
