

Eastland County Jail Escapees Captured

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — Harvey Dale Webb and Donald Eugene Richardson were born past their time. They belonged in the era of the Clyde Barrows, the John Dillingers, the Pretty Boy Floids.

Webb, in fact, called himself Clyde Barrow when he kidnaped a terrified Fort Worth couple and took them on a wild trip through West Texas and New Mexico. What might be the final chapter of their saga was written Monday night when Oklahoma police captured the pair following a shootout on the outskirts of Oklahoma City. The Ballad of Webb and Richardson was written in seven and a half months and it included murder, kidnaping, assault and bank robbery.

They escaped from the Eastland County, Tex., jail May 27 by beating Sheriff E.L. Sheblett so hard he required two weeks of hospital treatment.

Two men fitting their description forced Nancy Simmons, 17, and David Gibbs, 18, to take them across Lake Cisco in the teen-agers' boat the day after the jailbreak. When they reached the other side the pair forced the two teen-agers plus the parents, brother and sister of Miss Simmons to drive to Sweetwater, Tex., 100 miles away.

Thirteen days later two men robbed the Harrisburg National Bank of Houston of $20,400.84. Webb and Richardson were charged with the holdup two weeks later.

Voting Restriction Law Faces High Court

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court, taking on a stack of cases dealing with student unrest, crime, welfare and the draft, turned its attention today to one of the problems of a mobile society—laws which sometimes restrict new residents from voting. Today's arguments before the court involved an appeal by Richard V. Hall, a Colorado Springs, Colo., lawyer, and his wife. The Halls were denied the right to vote in 1968 because they had not lived in the state for six months as the state law at that time required. The Halls claimed the law, which has since been changed to two months residency, discriminated against new residents. Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, who has succeeded retired Chief Justice Earl Warren, presided over arguments for the first time Monday. The eight-man tribunal heard pleas that juveniles be guaranteed a jury trial; that welfare recipients continue to receive aid while appealing a cutoff of their benefits; and that Negroes be ordered admitted to community recreation facilities. Welfare cases are coming to the high court in increasing numbers because of suits filed for the poor through neighborhood legal services programs funded by the Office of Economic Opportunity. The court accepted two appeals challenging New York state's 1969 welfare cutbacks and in a Maryland case the right of states to set maximum welfare grants. In a Connecticut case the court held that a state may not withhold aid to needy children on the basis of a stepfather's income if he is not legally obligated to support them. The court acted abruptly, without hearing arguments. It merely cited its June 17, 1968 decision which struck down Alabama's practice of withholding benefits from fatherless children if the mother was engaging in extramarital relations. In a case involving Tennessee A.&I. State University at Nashville the court agreed to rule on the claim of a student that he should have been given a more formal hearing before he was suspended. Six former students at Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore also won a hearing on their complaint that their disorderly conduct conviction stemmed from their disturbance of others with "unpopular ideas."

Moratorium Plans Build

HOT DOG ETIQUETTE — Coney Island fanciers have long since determined, there is a right way and a wrong way to eat this delicacy and still maintain a semblance of neatness. Demonstrating the incorrect way is Dennis Brown (left photo) 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Brown, who takes the broadside at tack into the side of the hot dog bun. The correct technique is shown by Mona King, 16-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tommy King, 1120 E. Francis, who shows that starting with the tip of the bun prevents the chili, mustard and onions from oozing out on the chin, cheek and running down the arms to the elbow (Staff Photo)

Texas Veterans Rebuff Action For Wednesday

By United Press International
Plans, most of them on college campuses are blossoming for Wednesday's moratorium asking for a halt in U.S. involvement in the Vietnam War. But opposition to the boycotts, prayer sessions and other demonstrations is also mounting. Texas veterans groups called Monday for disciplinary action against college professors who dismiss classes Wednesday. The group also urged citizens to fly American flags on moratorium day to counteract protest demonstrations. Officials of the State Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Texas branch of the American Legion issued statements calling the moratorium "deplorable" and "shameful."

Texas A&M University's executive committee ratified a moratorium in any way. The resolution, recommended by the Student Senate, said classes should not be dismissed or absences excused.

The Dallas City Council refused to sanction moratorium day after listening to a request for a sanction by a member of the liberal Americans for Democratic Action. The council said it would not sanction the activities when the ADA spokesman said the moratorium would ask the war be ended at any cost. A petition will be circulated Wednesday at Baylor University which backs the Nixon administration and its handling of the war. Booths will be set up in the lobby of Baylor's student union for signing the petition. Two seminars were planned today at Baylor. One, sponsored by the student congress, will allow anyone to speak whether for or against the moratorium. The other, sponsored by the university's Young Republicans, is expected to be mostly against the Wednesday protests.

Bexar County Young Republicans, who claim to be 1,500 strong, planned to wear blue buttons Wednesday declaring support for President Nixon and his Vietnam policies. Prayer sessions and discussions were planned Wednesday at Newman Catholic centers adjacent to Pan American College (See RESIGNATION, Page 2)

Luke McClelland Resigns Post As Committee Head
A six-item agenda was disposed of in 25 minutes this morning by the Pampa City Council operating under an acting mayor and acting city manager. Councilman George B. Cree Jr. occupied the mayor's post and B.M. Wofford, city engineer, filled the city manager's job. Both Mayor Milo Carlson and City Manager Charles Hill are out of the city. The resignation of Luke McClelland as chairman of the City Planning and Zoning Commission was accepted. A successor will be named at the next council meeting Oct. 28. A request of the Pampa Trap and Skeet Club was approved for construction of an additional trap at Recreation Park. The club will foot the bill. The First Assembly of God (See RESIGNATION, Page 2)

Peaceful Protest Has Mixed Reactions Here

By THE PAMPA NEWS STAFF
The nation-wide moratorium calling for a withdrawal of U.S.A. involvement in Vietnam and withdrawal of troops by Dec. 1 have been met by mixed emotions in Pampa. It was learned in a sampling of opinions by the Pampa Daily News Staff.

The moratorium set for Wednesday has been called by New York-based groups including Students For A Democratic Society, the Vietnam Moratorium Committee, and the New Mobilization Committee To End War in Vietnam.

Contacting a cross-section of the citizenry, including school officials, businessmen, housewives and students, the following comments mirror a variety of reactions to the proposed moratorium: They were asked "Do you think the moratorium will be effective?"

Mrs. Yvonne Shuman of White Deer: "I don't know what good it will do. Nixon has the last say on what happens and I don't think a big group of people protesting is going to change his mind. We're still going to be there."

Pampa High School principal Cameron Marsh: "My personal opinion is that we will not observe it as far as I'm concerned."

Dr. James F. Malone, Supt. of Pampa Independent School District: "We are set up to go to school so many days a year. Unless we get a directive from the Texas Education Agency, we will have our regular school day."

Rev. Dan Cameron, pastor of First Baptist Church: "People who are sponsoring it are sincere in their objective, but I think the results will not be worth the effort."
Mrs. C.C. Butler, 118 S. Starkweather: "We are over there. Why not get it over with? Think we should go in there and win it. Why fight communists over there, when we've got them (See REACTION, Page 2)

AT U.S., MEXICO BORDER Festival Set After Halt Of 'Intercept'

DEL RIO, Tex. (UPI) — A border friendship festival, called off because of "Operation Intercept," is back on again because "Intercept" isn't. The annual "Fiesta del la Amistad" was cancelled because of the friction caused along the Texas-Mexico border by "Operation Intercept." Mexican businessmen reported great economic losses because of the attempt by the U.S. officials to crack down on dope smuggling from Mexico into the United States.

But "Intercept" was replaced recently by "Operation Cooperation" and the festival—"Amistad" is Spanish for friendship—is again set for Oct. 24.

The Ciudad Acuna, Mexico and the Del Rio Good Neighbor Committee met Monday and decided to reschedule the celebration since "Intercept" was replaced by "Cooperation." The celebration comes on the anniversary of the meeting between the late President Eisenhower and the late Mexican President Adolfo Lopez Mateos. When the two heads of state met in 1960, they announced plans to build the Amistad Dam which was dedicated last month. The festival is held on Oct. 24 or the weekend nearest to it. This year's celebration is the 14th time the citizens of the sister cities will join to reaffirm their friendship.

Despite the changing of search policies at the border, two men were arrested in Laredo for possession of heroin. Customs agents said 196,471 persons entered Texas from Mexico Sunday, the largest number of persons to cross the border since "Intercept" began Sept. 21. Waiting times, at one time as long as four hours during "Intercept," dwindled to practically nothing as "Cooperation" became the latest diplomatic word between the United States and Mexico. Most border businessmen said business was up, but not to the level before "Intercept" began.

ON SCHOOL ASSIGNMENTS Nixon Urges Senate To Kill 'Freedom Of Choice'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Nixon administration urged the Senate today to kill House-passed amendments which would approve "freedom of choice" school assignment systems and rule out mandatory busing of students.

Secretary Robert H. Finch of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) told a Senate appropriations subcommittee that the provisions "could seriously jeopardize the substantial progress we have made in school desegregation."

The amendments were attached to HEW's appropriations bill by Rep. James Whitton, D-Miss. The administration took no position on the controversial provisions then and they narrowly passed the House.

Finch's testimony today represented the administration's first official word it would fight the Whitton amendments, which civil rights groups contended

Two Soviet Spaceships Dock; Continue Flight

MOSCOW (UPI)—The two Soviet spaceships Zoyuz 7 and Zoyuz 8 today docked in orbit and are continuing their joint flight, informed space sources reported. A third spaceship Soyuz 6 was flying nearby. Informed sources had predicted earlier the two spacecraft would carry out docking maneuvers and that the third would perform experiments in space welding in hopes of eventual construction of a flying space station. The sources said Soyuz 6 was believed to have served as an orbital "workshop" during the linkup maneuver. Tass news reports told only of the three crews' practice in manual handling of the ships and various tests. One report said they were making joint experiments in photography, map making and medicobiological research.

Never before have so many men been in space at once, orbiting the earth every 89 minutes in three vehicles. The news agency Tass said the flight commander, Col. Vladimir Shatalov, put his men through brief physical exams this morning and then conducted a session of warm-up exercises.

Shatalov reported that after mission was to snap pictures of the night rest, the cosmonauts are feeling fine," Tass said. "The cosmonauts started fulfilling the program of the regular day of the flight."

Their mission is a series of experiments, possibly involving spacewalking, to iron out the problems facing man in establishing an earth-orbiting space platform in building a stairway into space. By 8:30 a.m. Moscow time, the three-man Soyuz 6 capsule had completed 45 orbits, the two-man Soyuz 7 had done 29 and the two-man Soyuz 8 had finished 13 following its launching Monday.

Part of the cosmonauts' mission was to snap pictures of earth which Soviet scientists said could provide them with better data on fish movements.

Texan Wants To Lease Alcatraz

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — People once made last minute appeals to stay off Alcatraz Island—but now they're forming into eleventh hour political factions to see who and what gets on.

The city's board of supervisors voted 6-5 two weeks ago to work out a lease agreement with Texas oil millionaire Lamar Hunt, owner of the Kansas City Chiefs AFL football team, for development of the former prison site.

"The Rock," as it was known to the nation's most-feared criminals, was abandoned by the federal government as a prison in 1963 because it was falling to pieces. But five bulging bags of mail carrying coupons signed by residents opposed to Hunt's development plan, were delivered

Monday to city officials. They were addressed in almost equal number to Mayor Joseph Alioto and the six members of the board of supervisors who voted in favor of negotiations with the millionaire.

The board members also received 1,250 coupons and the mayor 1,300 last Friday—just one day after dress manufacturer Alvin Duskin ran an ad in the city's two major newspapers urging delay in granting of the contract.

Duskin, whose dress designs have won national awards, included five mail-in coupons with his full-page ad and said he himself has received 8,000 replies from persons opposed to the lease.

He said he would meet today with the mayor to discuss their differences and would offer Alioto $1,800 as payment to the federal government for a month's upkeep of Alcatraz while a final decision is delayed. Under the Hunt plan, the city $2 million to buy Alcatraz from the federal government. He plans a space museum and a shopping center decorated in the style of "Old San Francisco." Opponents say the piece of land, which looks like a mothballed battleship in the bay, could be purchased for $1 if the city planned to use it for public purposes such as a park.

Controversy At School Now City Issue

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (UPI)—The Confederate flag, the song "Dixie" and the nickname "Rebels" are the ingredients of a high school controversy that has developed into a major city issue.

The trouble started when Negro students at Brainerd High School protested the use of the Confederate symbols in connection with the school's athletic teams.

It has grown to the point where the city commission ordered a curfew from 7 p.m. Monday until 7 a.m. today for all persons under 21. Mayor A. L. Bender said the curfew also prohibited motorcades, gatherings of more than six persons and the sale of liquor after 7 p.m.

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The Hollywood starlet is a disappearing institution. Times have changed. Young actresses today are more likely to sound off on Vietnam or the pill, or boast how they are defying respectability with open love affairs. In short, they are very, very dull.

The most beautiful starlet I ever met was Sandra Giles. She was the acknowledged queen of the field. She looked like a softer, more tasteful Jayne Mansfield, of more sensible, elegant proportions. And she was a lovely young woman, born in Oklahoma and brought up in San Antonio, Tex.

Some ex-starlets become pathetic hangers-on in the industry. But you could tell Miss Giles would be different. She tactfully left her publicity days behind her and began to work at what she wanted to be: An actress. She appeared in television's "The Rogues," "Dr.

Commentary

After moving steadily for six months toward what seemed the possibility of nuclear war, the Soviets and Red Chinese have decided to cool it. The rest of the world should wish them luck.

On Oct. 7 the Chinese announced agreement to hold border talks with the Soviet Union. The Russians are expected to announce similar agreement soon and to name First Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily V. Kuznetsov to lead the Soviet delegation.

Kuznetsov is one of the top Soviet negotiators and had been expected to be the Soviet topman in U.S.-Soviet disarmament talks.

The United States received the situation with reserve but has indicated clearly it would draw no comfort from any nuclear conflict between the two Communist giants with its attendant dangers either of involvement of other nations or of nuclear fall-out carried by the winds. Japan and the North American continent would lie directly in their path.

The chances of agreement between the two are small, and whether the Soviets really believed it when they said any major conflict between the two inevitably must reach nuclear proportions must remain in doubt.

But the Chinese apparently believed it, and, in a sense, both have followed the early lead of Mao Tse-tung that to advance one must now and then retreat.

When Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin held his surprise meeting with Red Chinese Premier Chou En-lai at Peking airport for their first encounter in five years, Moscow reports say he suggested that, since there were certain things on which they could not agree, they should discuss those things upon which they might.

Chou's reply, quoting from Moscow, was that "we shall see if we can work out practical matters."

URGENT STOCKHOLM (UPI)—The Soviet Union today set off what appeared to be the most powerful underground nuclear blast ever detonated, the Stockholm University of Technology said.

Prof. Arne Bjerckhammar said the Soviet test on Novaya Zemla Island in the Arctic Sea appeared to be around five megatons. The most powerful underground test up to now had been the explosion the United States carried out in Alaska Oct. 2.

The Uppsala Seismological Institute said the blast measured 6.3 on the Richter Scale at 2 a.m. EDT.

BIG JOB WEMBLEY, England (UPI)—It took 12 firemen, four policemen, two doctors and an ambulance crew to free Neville Cadoux's finger from his car engine Monday.

NEW YORK (UPI)—There are fundamental reasons for doubting that the long market decline has much further to go.

Fears of business recession "are probably being overdone," and inflationary trends "are not likely to be reversed," it adds. The stock market "offers the most attractive refuge available to most investors," the firm says. Sideline funds, which are now unusually large, are not likely to stay inactive once the realization spreads that a serious business downturn is not in prospect, the firm insists.

Evidence is mounting that a recession is nearby in fact, if not in name, according to Spear and Staff Inc. However, "stocks lead recessionary tendencies, moving down before business tops out and advancing as economic conditions deteriorate," the firm says. Therefore, investors need not fear the looming economic slowdown at this point since it was "adequately discounted" in the pre-August market slump, the analyst adds.

Though short-term prospects are clouded, some bullish news is all the market would need to embark on a sustained reversal of its downtrend, according to Schweickart & Co. If the market adheres to its historical pattern, it should pass its point of crisis during the next few weeks, the firm says. A slow recovery, gaining momentum through the coming year, would follow.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Stephen Crane, a pioneer in American realistic fiction, is best remembered for his Civil War classic, "The Red Badge of Courage." The work evokes the clamor, terror and absurdity of death in battle. The World Almanac notes that the vividness of his descriptions is all the more amazing because Crane never experienced them. He died in 1900 at 28, having never known war, having never set foot on a battlefield.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I just read that letter from the woman who wanted you to recommend a doctor who would give her hormone shots so she could breastfeed her adopted baby. What kind of nut is she anyway?

Who ever heard of a woman who has not been pregnant being able to nurse a baby? I know that some mothers who have enough milk to nurse more than one baby sometimes take on the dubious pleasure of breastfeeding babies other than their own, but a woman who thinks she can nurse an adopted baby has got to be nuttier than a fruitcake.

AMAZED IN PENSACOLA, FLA.

DEAR ABBY: I was one of those old-fashioned mothers who cried for a week when I realized I couldn't breastfeed my baby. I heard about the La Leche league and asked my doctor about it. He said, "Mother's milk is overrated." Also that bottle babies were better off because the mother always knew exactly how much milk the baby got at every feeding, and she could be sure the quality of the milk was consistent and good. (Not all nursing mothers have good milk, you know. And some don't have enough, and the poor child practically starves to death on the breast.)

I've had mothers tell me that the reason they nursed their babies was because it gave them the feeling of "total" motherhood. Some of those nursed mothers should examine their own motives.

"PRO-BOTTLE" STATE COLLEGE, PA.

DEAR ABBY: Please tell that woman who wanted to breastfeed her adopted baby that she can do it if she really wants to. And she doesn't need hormone shots either. All a

England's Princess Swings In Fashion

LONDON (UPI) — Princess Anne, Queen Elizabeth's daughter, is risking every socialite's nightmare of coming face to face in public with someone wearing exactly the same outfit as she is.

"I shan't mind in the least if I do," she says blantly. "And I hope they won't either." The 28-year-old princess has brought this "fate" upon herself as the first daughter of a British monarch to buy ready-to-wear fashions instead of having clothes designed solely for her.

"I like to see what I look like at once," she says, adding that she just hates wasting time in long fitting sessions. Princess Anne's excursions into the boutiques and stores of London have paid off. From schoolgirl awkwardness, she has emerged in her first year of public duties as a very stylish dresser.

She wears the kind of clothes that other teenagers like and can buy themselves. Only occasionally does she get a special long evening dress from haute couture. For the rest, she makes regular hours of the big department stores and some small specialty shops in the Chelsea district's famous Kings Road. She has been spotted in the cheap multiple self-service spots as well.

Princess Anne gets a clothes allowance from Queen Elizabeth and has to keep within it. After admiring some gorgeous dress, she has been known to take out a pad and pencil, do a quick sum and sigh regretfully. "No, I can't afford it. I'm spent up for this month."

Anne is five foot seven, well-rounded but not overweight since she dieted off 14 pounds. She has light blue eyes, dark blonde hair and a clear lightly tanned skin.

She prefers to wear glowing colors like red, orange, apple green and yellow. She wears of wearing blue school uniforms for four years and avoided the color until she discovered that pale ice blue suits her.

Her favorite shop is a small one, Nora Bradley, run by a married couple in their 30's as one of the more expensive and exclusive boutiques along Kings Road.

Mrs. Bradley reports, "The princess is easy, stock size, knows what she likes and makes it plain. She insists on set-in sleeves, neat colors of possible and a definite wastline."

A store in Piccadilly, Fortnum and Mason, supplies some of the plainly cut, clean-line dresses, with matching tops and skirts, for the princess on most official occasions. She likes the copies there of designs by Paris couturier Ungaro, costing about 40 pounds ($96).

Some of her evening dresses come from Susan Small, a London wholesale fashion store supplying the better-type stores with styles in the 20 to 30 ($48 to $72) range.

Accessories are "collected" by the princess. She currently likes chain belts and chunky buckled white shoes with square heels. She still wears her big fan watch on a broad wrist strap.

For hats she goes to another small salon run by a 42-year-old Scot, John Boyd, in the Knightsbridge section of London. She heard about him through one of the queen's ladies in waiting.

Contrary to what many people seem to think, the queen does not dictate what her daughter should wear. But they discuss Anne's clothes problems together. The princess always tells the queen when she has bought something new and puts it on for her to see.

Mrs. Jack Of Nimble Thimble

By BETTY CANARY

I once read about a woman who kept needles with threads of many colors stuck into the end of her ironing board cover. I think it was in a book called, "Mending Efficiently and Other Tall Tales." The way the story went was, every time she noticed a loose button or a ripped hem, she quickly set her iron down (no doubt she set it up properly on its heel or she had one of those metal racks — I mean, a woman like this simply would never set it down flat and burn something, would she?). Anyway, after selecting the proper needle, she deftly took that stitch in time that saves nine. I don't recall where she kept her thimble.

She must have had a thimble. When I don't use a thimble, things end up with little bloody spots all over. She couldn't just set a thimble on the end of the ironing board. I know that, because it would roll off onto the floor and under the refrigerator. Perhaps she had a small, high table next to the board just for holding the thimble. Actually a woman this efficient might be born with heavy calluses in the right spots and never even need a thimble.

Getting back to the story, she also kept bits of mending-tape pinned to the ironing board cover, so there was never a dipping hem or a separated collar in her home. She probably had a pair of scissors handy, too, but I don't know where she kept them, either. She could have bitten off the threads, of course. But the mending tape?

I was so impressed with the story that I immediately threatened a dozen needles and set out my steam iron. Tackling the first item, a girl's blouse, I deftly sewed a button firmly to blouse and ironing board cover, burning my right elbow on the iron at the same time. I cut blouse from cover, gathered up 11 needles (do you think that 12th one could have gone down a hole in the iron?) and reverted to my old ways of mending.

Around our house, news that I am mending travels quickly and soon everybody is scurrying upstairs after items they have squandered away in bottom dresser drawers for just such an occasion.

I do try to cut down on my work by holding up things and exclaiming, "This old thing? It doesn't fit any more!" And they answer with, "Mother, I just got this shirt last week," and other discouraging remarks.

One thing I can say is, I always keep my underwear mended because my mother had a horror of my leaving the house with a safety pin in a strap.

"What if you got hurt and ended up in the hospital!" she would shudder. Well, I am happy to say that I may be taken into an emergency room buttonless and hemless but, when the nurse undresses me... Wow! Is she going to be impressed!

Senior Center Corner

By MRS. O.A. WAGNER

Thanks again to all the nice people at the Senior Center who helped with column items for this week. All casts are off the right hand now and I'll soon be able to use it as usual. Mrs. Ruby Stowell and a group of other nurses attended a heart seminar in Amarillo last week.

Mmes. Libby Lewis and Linnie Chandler attended the Gray County Singing Convention at Kingsmill recently. Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Dickerson, Lefors, were elected vice president.

House guests of Mr. and Mrs. H.G. Lawrence last week were Mr. and Mrs. R.W. Strong, Riverside, Calif. Mr. Strong is a cousin of Mr. Lawrence.

Mrs. Nettie Cornelius was able to be back at the Center Thursday after a lengthy absence.

Lothar Long, Amarillo, visited his mother, Mrs. Cora Long here last week. Mrs. Barbara Roop went to Amarillo last week and spent several days with her son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. T.M. Roop. She's now staying with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. R.B. Brammitt.

J.E. Adair flew back to Austin where he had been visiting his son Dr. W.B. Adair and family and Weldon Jr. last week.

W.R. Cullison, McLean, has returned from the Veterans' Administration Hospital in Amarillo where he underwent surgery. Lucy Herlacher visited her sister, Mrs. Rosa Fields in Groves last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Southard, San Jose, Calif., were visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Southard, Pampa, and J.A. Davis, Lefors, who have been touring Europe the past three weeks.

Mrs. Gerie Shaw visited friends in Gainsville, Sherman, and Dallas recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Sanbiber, Dumas, visited her mother, Mrs. T. Baldwin, and her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Roy McMillan the past week.

Zeina Cady visited in Dallas and Cleo recently. Mrs. Nell Seiber was welcomed back at the Center last week after an extended absence.

Hostesses were Twentieth Century Club members. Serving refreshments were Mmes. Jane Chase, Dan Cameron, Joe Donaldson, E.L. Henderson, R.B. Rogers, Dudley Steele, L.J. Zachery, Alene Massie, Paul Mitchell, Warren Hassie, Thelma Irwin, Lena Pearl Hobbs, Sue Sheilhamer.

Twenty-three prizes were given the women with 18 men's door prizes. Red Cross Volunteers with transportation were Mrs. Alpha Bradley and Mrs. Olive Hills.

Altrusa Club members assisting were Jay Flanagan, Lalar Wilkerson, Louise Sewell, Lillian Snow and Marie Fitzgerald.

Homemakers Club To Plan Events For Thanksgiving

SKELLYTOWN (SPL) — Skellytown Homemakers Club met recently in the home of Mrs. Ethel Hunt, with members saying the Lord's Prayer in unison.

Hostess gift was won by Mrs. W. S. Berry. House guessing game was won by Mrs. Miles Pearson. Members planned the club's Thanksgiving Luncheon and will complete plans at the next meeting which will be held in the home of Mrs. Floyd McCoy, Oct. 21.

Members of the club purchased a book titled "Making the Most of Life" to be presented to Mrs. Clarence Kaiser, in memory of her mother.

One guest, Mrs. Helen Burdett, was recognized and welcomed by members. Attending were Mmes. John Simmons, W. S. Berry, Clarence Hoskins, Miles Pearson, Bob Heaton, Helen Burdett and Ethel Hunt.

The Office of Economic Opportunity reports that 700 lawyers now serve in Volunteers in Service to America (VISTA). Coin collectors recommended restoring antique coins that have toned or tarnished by rubbing them gently with moistened baking soda. Rinse in cold water, dry with a flannel cloth and store in an air-tight container.

If crisper is full, place vegetables in plastic bags and store on refrigerator shelf. Stereotype tomatoes uncovered.

Brownie Holiday

A Brownie Holiday for all District II Brownies of Quivira Girl Scout Council is planned for Oct. 25 at Camp Mel Davis. The Holiday is sponsored by Senior Troop Two of Pampa, Senior Girl Scouts, who have planned and organized the day-long activity for the younger girls. A day of fun activities and learning new skills is planned, according to Mrs. J. P. Brumley, leader of Senior Troop Two.

Registration will begin at 9 a.m. at Camp Mel Davis. Brownies will have an opportunity to learn about tents, fires and bedding as part of the morning schedule.

In the afternoon Brownies will attend lectures and demonstrations on tools, latrines and knots.

Your Horoscope

JEANE DIXON

WEDNESDAY, OCT. 15
YOUR BIRTHDAY WEDNESDAY: Your pathway through the coming year - twists and turns so that the pattern of destiny is hard to recognize. The balancing of other years' experiences will eventually point it out. Whatever you are doing, there will be interruptions. Work around them to return to your course. Wednesday's natives are prone seriously and to seek for special meanings in incidents.

ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 19): Look upon daily chores now as an investment in the future - focus on actions which stand to benefit over a long period. Affairs of the heart are strongly smiled upon at present.

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20): As subconscious perception leads the way, think of improving the pattern of your life. Experimental changes may take a positive direction.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Wednesday promises to be a complex sentimental journey. Keep up with your share of the chores even though your attention is drawn toward more romantic concerns.

CANCER (June 21-July 21): Seek a raise or a new job if what you have is not satisfactory. Fresh responsibility is welcome. Engagements and other emotional commitments are under a benign influence.

LEO (July 22-Aug. 21): Children interest you Wednesday and you can do much for them. The creative aspect of your work come to the surface for all to see. Get others involved.

VIRGO (Aug. 22-Sept. 21): Wind up outstanding matters and clear the way for some festivity. Emotional expressions are strong and sentimental ventures flourish in the evening.

LIBRA (Sept. 22-Oct. 21): Fill the day with all your most enjoyable past-times. According to your planning and effort, the evening includes some long-awaited personal satisfaction.

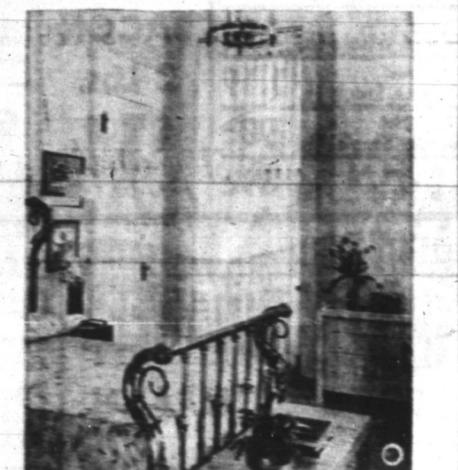

SCORPIO (Oct. 22-Nov. 21): Obscure opportunity is open to you, once you are aware of it. Things can be done to improve your earnings without upsetting regular schedules. There are also new friends to consider.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You won't need prescription glasses Wednesday - your world already looks that way. Respond with enthusiasm and share your cheerful opinion with others.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Pull back from center stage, let other people carry the main initiative, and you can have a lively, good-humored day. Ask for that raise if you've earned it.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): The world seems to have declared a millennium holiday - and you're not quite ready for it. Get yourself in the right frame of mind early to go along this one big day.

PISCES (Feb. 19-Mar. 20): All departments of your life go better than has been the case. Make every effort to use the tide of affairs. Ask for everything that is owed you in material matters.

DECORATING TRICK - A tall off-shoe window is given subtle decorating treatment in a bedroom that combines the old and the new effectively. The white vertical blinds of white cotton against an all-white background. Made with Tintex shade cloth, the blinds add linear definition while providing light and privacy control. Flax-primed cotton covers the antique brass bed.

Policemen Says Rioters Stopped Arrests In Chicago

CHICAGO (UPI)—A Chicago policeman has testified that Thomas Hayden twice appealed to crowds to save him from being arrested during the 1968 Democratic National Convention. Once, the policeman said, demonstrators succeeded in preventing Hayden's arrest. The policeman, Frank Riggio, said he and his partner caught Hayden and Wolf Lowenthal letting air out of the tires of their police car. Lowenthal was named as a coconspirator but not indicted. When he and his partner attempted to arrest the two, Riggio said, they shouted to nearby demonstrators, "Help! Help! Don't let them get us. Don't let the police arrest us." He said the protesters surrounded them and began shouting at the policeman, preventing the arrests. The policeman again encountered Hayden and Lowenthal the following day and made the arrests at that time, Riggio said. The arrests sparked a protest march to the Loop police headquarters and to the Gen. John Logan statue in Grant Park, near the Conrad Hilton Hotel. Hayden and Lowenthal were released on bond later in the day. Late that day, Riggio said, he again encountered Hayden. According to the policeman, Hayden said, "There he is again. You —" He again placed Hayden under arrest, Riggio said, and again the defendant asked for assistance from the crowd. The arrest was completed, however, Riggio testified. Riggio also testified he heard another of the defendants in the conspiracy trial, Abbie Hoffman, urge a crowd to abduct

Hollywood In Review

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — "You've got to stay ahead or disappear. Herb Alpert said from behind his own desk in his own office in his own studio. The handsome trumpet player who turned the sound of brass into vaults full of gold is one of radio's most ardent listeners. He keeps tuned to popular music stations to see what record buyers are digging. "I won't mention his name," Alpert said, "but I was on tour not long ago and ran into a band leader who was one of the great names of the music world about 15 or 20 years ago. "I asked him why he wasn't keeping his hand in, and he told me he never listened to rock or any of the new sounds. And he couldn't understand why nobody wanted to hear the old songs. "It's as simple as that. If you want to stay in business today you can't sit back and rely on stuff you've already done." Alpert continues to turn out top albums and will star in his third television special, "The Brass Are Comin'" Oct. 29. "I pay attention to the songs that are in the top 40 in the record charts," he explained. "Then I go my own way. It's nothing calculated, but you have to bring your own interpretation to music." Alpert waved his hand to include the studio, which once belonged to Charlie Chaplin, and the other obvious accumulations of wealth. "I'm not motivated just by money. I play and arrange for my own satisfaction and musical curiosity. It's like dialing a telephone. There are so many different combinations to play that no one has an excuse for copying. "Right now is the healthiest time in the history of popular music. All music is getting together—symphony, folk, jazz, far eastern, country, western, everything. "Today's listeners aren't breaking down music and analyzing it. They only judge whether it is good or bad. And that's the way it should be."

5,760 Acres Left Of Spade Ranch Once Having Over 262,000

(EDITOR'S NOTE: There is a big difference between ranching today and back when the West was won. This is another story on the largest remaining ranches in West Texas.) SPADE, (UPI) — The Spade Ranch, sprawling 262,000-acre spread around the turn of the century, has long since been cut up into small farms and sold. But a portion of the old south end of the ranch is still in the hands of the original owners, and a spokesman for the group said they were doing 'stock farming.' "We have 5,760-acres left in grass and 16,000 acres in farming," said W. E. (Bill) Keeny who along with four brothers and sisters have the largest hunk of the old Spade left. He said 10 sections was carried under the Spade Farms, Inc., name and the other 24 sections were owned by the Keeny joint account. "The land has been in the family name since the 1890s," said Keeny of Lubbock. He is a descendant of Isaac Ellwood, who came to Texas in the 1890s to promote his invention of barbed wire. Ellwood bought the 130,000-acre Rendonbrook Ranch near Colorado City and purchased a herd of cattle from the Snyder brothers with which to stock the ranch. He added a 128,000-acre north pasture in 1891, covering land presently in the counties of Hale, Hockley, Lamb and Lubbock. The cattle were branded with the "Spade," and Ellwood named his land the Spade Ranch. It subsequently was enlarged by additional tracts to a total of

Man Murders Dallas Woman Then Kills Self

DALLAS (UPI) — Investigators suspected today that a Wichita County man was brooding over being forced out of a job two years ago when he Monday night killed a woman in an exclusive North Dallas residential area and committed suicide. Mrs. Tom F. Fedrick, 54, was killed by slugs in her leg, abdomen and chest. Jasper Porter Stevenson, 47, a used car salesman from Iowa Park, fatally wounded himself in a bathroom. Investigators believed Stevenson was looking for Mrs. Fedrick's husband, who was in Austin. Fedrick is sales manager of a national tobacco firm. Stevenson was a salesman for the company and Fedrick was his boss. He was forced out of his job two years ago and blamed Fedrick for it, investigators said. After talking to Stevenson's wife, the investigators said Stevenson had had to sell used automobiles to make a living had brooded over the loss of his job as a salesman. Mrs. Fedrick went to her front door Monday night and held a conversation with a man without opening the door. Mrs. Fedrick's daughter, Pat, 17, heard her mother say: "Tom is not here." A little later, Mrs. Fedrick said: "I can't let you in, Steve, because you've got a gun." Police said the man outside broke a small window beside the door, thrust his gun through the opening and shot.

Kara Building Steam For Northern Sweep

MIAMI (UPI) — Tropical storm Kara stopped south of Cape Hatteras, N.C., today and began to gather strength for a sweep north later in the day. Forecasters said the 11th storm of the season was expected to swell to near hurricane force tonight and begin to move north. At 5 a.m. CDT, Kara was centered near latitude 31.0 north, longitude 75.5 west—about 300 miles south of Cape Hatteras and the same distance east-southeast of Charleston, S.C. Top winds were 50 miles an hour. "Small craft along the North and South Carolina coasts should remain in port and those along the outer North Carolina Capes should seek safe harbor," the National Hurricane Center said. Weathermen said Kara was expected to begin moving north

Stamp Dedicated Bearing Ike's Face

DALLAS (UPI)—Dallas Cowboy quarterback Craig Morton, injured slightly Sunday against the Atlanta Falcons, will not begin throwing a football again until Wednesday but doctors said his shoulder should be ready in time to be able to play against the Philadelphia Eagles this Sunday. Fullback Walt Garrison, released Monday from a hospital where he spent the night for observation, also is expected to be in the Cowboy lineup against the Eagles. Today would have been Ike's 79th birthday. Many observers and stamp collectors were seeking first-day cancellations of the stamp, whose extra-large vertical format bears a portrait based on a newspaper photograph of Eisenhower beaming his famous smile.

Fans Ask The Same Question And Answer It

When you have a losing football team people are going to talk. People in Pampa have been talking for the past 15 years, that includes 1966 when the Harvesters finished 5-5, because everybody thought that any other coach would have won the district.

People here are talking this year because it looks like Pampa is in for another long season.

What they like to do is talk to sports writers. They all ask the same question. "What's wrong with the Pampa football team?" They before you can answer they tell you.

It's the coach. Time for a new coach. The boys are out of shape. They can't play the second half because they get tired. The coaches are calling the plays, the wrong ones.

I've been hearing this for six years. I used to hear it when Eural Ramsey was the coach, now since Swede Lee's charges have dropped four of five games I'm hearing it again.

It's always the coaches' fault, time to fire him, looks like.

Swede just isn't a good coach. Course he had only suffered through one other losing season before coming here. He was only offered the head coaching job at Iowa State. He was just an assistant coach at Oklahoma University.

Of course he should be able to build a winner in just over one season.

Yep, looks like it's time to let this guy go.

The Harvesters are coached to fumble the ball, throw interceptions, play out of position and, just generally not do very well, because the coaches know that the only way they (the coaches) can keep their jobs is by losing football games.

Take the season thus far, game by game, starting with Monterey.

The Pampa defense held the Plainsmen to four yards on their first series of downs after a bad kickoff had given Monterey the ball on its own 38.

They punt and Pampa has no field position with the ball on its own 17.

Now Monterey gets another big break. Sophomore Dale Ammons boomed a punt just over 50 yards but the ball hits and bounces back 25 to give Monterey the ball on the Pampa 42. Good field position.

Now we come to Monterey's fourth down and needing five yards, at the Pampa 37. They pass and, here is where inexperience hurts the Harvesters. A Junior is out of position and they complete the pass and go on for a touchdown.

In the second quarter Pampa drives to the Monterey six where they face a fourth and three. A lineman blocks the wrong man and we get just two yards.

Monterey scores on a 69-yard pass when, again, a Pampa defender fails to be where he is supposed to be. But on this same drive the Plainsmen face a third and 10 and complete a pass for 14 yards when the receiver catches the ball near the sidelines on a questionable call.

You Don't Say...
 By
RON CROSS

Pampa runs four plays, gets a first down, then fumbles at their own 26. The Plainsmen score in three plays, mostly because the Harvesters have let down here.

In the third quarter Monterey has the ball on its own 46 but a 15-yard Pampa penalty and a 12 yard run puts it on the Pampa 18. Another break.

Monterey's fourth quarter touchdown came after a Pampa fumble at the Plainsman 26. Another break.

In the Plainview game Pampa played poorly the first half. But they allowed just 19 points in the second half, the touchdown coming after Pampa tried to run on fourth down, giving the Bulldogs good field position.

The Harvesters didn't seem to tire in the second half in this one. Maybe they are in shape.

The Perryton game was the one where the players knew they had a chance to win, knew they were supposed to win this one, maybe this is the key to our winning and losing.

We hadn't beaten Dumas, Plainview, or Monterey in a long time. We weren't supposed to win these games. At least this is what the players have always been told by everyone, except the coaches.

Not one of the present Harvesters were born the last time Pampa won a district championship. None of them were playing when

Changes Due Pampa Lineup

New faces, probably several of them, will be in the Pampa Harvester lineup Friday night when Amarillo's smooth-running offensive and defensive football team comes to Harvester Stadium.

Pampa and Amarillo will square off in a north zone District 4-AAAA football game at 7:30 p.m.

Pampa coach Swede Lee, who termed last week's 39-0 loss to Monterey, "the most frustrating football game I've ever coached," said Monday that several personnel changes were being considered but he was not ready to announce names.

Lee said that just who would be promoted and demoted for the Sandie clash probably wouldn't be known until Thursday. This would make one suspect that several juniors will be in the starting lineup.

"One thing is for sure, we'll have 11 boys on the field who want to play football every down of the game," Lee said.

Despite the disheartening loss to the Plainsmen Lee did find some good things to talk about.

One was split end Steve Scott who was named Harvester-of-the-week. "He never quit the whole game. He played every down just like we were still close," the coach said.

Mets Shoot For Series Edge

STEVE SCOTT was honored today by Pampa coaches when he was named Harvester-of-the-Week for his play against Monterey Friday. "He played every down like we were close all the way," said Pampa coach Swede Lee.

NEW YORK (UPI)—The New York Mets, back home in front of their fanatics who sometimes are as "amazing" as the team, sent rookie Gary Gentry to the mound today in the tied-up World Series against former World Series hero Jim Palmer of the Baltimore Orioles.

For the first time in this year's classic, weather was a subject of concern, due to a forecast of "30 per cent chance" of rain.

Should rain prevent the third game today, Manager Gil Hodges said he would shuffle his pitching lineup—bypassing Gentry for the time being and using top winner Tom Seaver on Wednesday. For the Orioles, Manager Earl Weaver planned to stick with Palmer whether today or Wednesday.

Sellout Crowd Expected
 A sellout crowd, first in this series, of more than 58,000 was expected at Shea Stadium, and many of them undoubtedly will be toting bedsheet banners that are the trademark of the Mets' fired-up fans. It's the first time the rags-to-riches Mets, who tied the series at one game each by beating the Orioles, 2-1, Sunday in Baltimore, have played in a World Series game at home.

Both managers made lineup changes for the third game.

Against righthander Palmer, Hodges will bench the "right-handed platoon" he used in the first two games of the series, and use his "lefthanded platoon" that played in every game of the Mets' three-game sweep in the National League playoffs.

That means Ed Charles, who scored the winning run Sunday, will be benched in favor of Wayne Garrett at third base; Donn Cleendon, who homered Sunday, will turn first base over to Ed Kranepool; Al Weis, who singled home Charles with the winning run, will yield to Ken Boswell at second base; and Rod Swoboda will be replaced by Art Shamsky in right field.

For the Orioles, Weaver will put lefthanded-hitting Elrod Hendricks in to catch instead of righthander Andy Etchebarren.

Both teams went through workouts at Shea Stadium Monday, the Mets in the morning and the Orioles, who came to New York by train, in the afternoon.

Weaver insisted that, in spite of the Mets' victory in the second game, he doesn't believe in this business of "Met magic." He thinks the Mets fought their way into the series on merit, not miracles.

The fourth and fifth games are scheduled here Wednesday and Thursday. If a sixth and seventh are necessary, they'll be in Baltimore, Saturday and Sunday.

Area Teams Start League Wars On Friday

Pre-season football is over for all area teams except those in District 1-B and records go by the wayside Friday night when District 1-A and 2-A footballers open conference war.

In District 1-A Canadian, winners of one of five pre-season games hosts Stratford, doing a lot better than last year with a 2-1-2 record.

Canadian has played good games in two straight losing efforts, to Clarendon (5-0) and Wheeler (3-2).

White Deer (2) won its second straight game last week and climbed past the 500 mark. The Bucks get a stern test Friday when they host Sunray (1-0) the only unbeaten team in the district.

Longhorns Get A Week Of Rest

By United Press International
 Arkansas split end Chuck Dicus, a preseason pick for at least all Southwest Conference laurels, will be out of action for at least three weeks, according to Razorback Coach Frank Broyles.

Dicus of Garland, Tex., injured his shoulder Saturday against the rejuvenated Baylor Bears. The Razorbacks, whose regularly scheduled game this weekend with Texas was pushed back to the end of the season for television purposes, are idle Saturday. But Arkansas could play at least two games without Dicus.

The Razorbacks take to the field again a week from Saturday but all indications are they should have little trouble with their non conference foe—Wichita State—with or without Dicus.

"After the original exam we felt like Chuck might be out for the season, but x-rays showed he only stretched ligaments in the shoulder," Broyles said. "He will probably miss the Wichita State and the Texas A&M games and may be back for the Rice game."

Broyles also said a silent thank you to couple of Longhorns jumped on the lame list following Saturday's struggle with Oklahoma. Linebacker Mike Campbell is on crutches with a bruised foot, tackle Greg Pioletz has a sprained ankle and end Stan Mauldin has a leg injury.

"We can use the open week," Royal said. "I notice Arkansas has some boys hurt, too, so I guess it's good for both of us."

In Lubbock, Texas Tech Coach J.T. King said eight of the 12 Red Raiders who missed last Saturday's win over Texas A&M will be back in action this Saturday against non conference opponent Mississippi State.

Rice Coach Bo Hagan put the Owls through a light workout

Monday, concentrating on punting and kickoffs. Rice was idle last weekend but now must prepare in earnest for a visit from Southern Methodist which discovered a potent running game last Friday night to go with quarterback Chuck Hixson's aerial circus.

Two coaches, both with team ranked in the top 10, reflected on their wins. Broyles, who saw his Razorbacks score 14 points in the fourth quarter to beat Baylor 21-7 said "I breathe a sigh of relief after each Baylor game. They always get all fired up for us."

"They eliminated some mistakes and came ready to play. We expected them to be ready to play and play hard," Broyles said.

Royal, whose Longhorns spotted Oklahoma a 14 point lead before roaring back to take a 27-17 win, said the Steers were not ready for the defense employed by the Sooners.

"They changed defense techniques drastically from what we had seen before," Royal said. The Longhorns, whose powerful ground game was stopped by OU, went to the air for the win.

Twins Seeking New Coach As Firey Martin Given Boot

NEW YORK (UPI)—Eddie Yost, third base coach of the National League Champion New York Mets, has the inside track for the Minnesota Twins' managerial job.

Twins' owner Calvin Griffith, for whom the 43-year-old Yost served as a third baseman for 12 years at Washington, right now is inclined to name Yost shortly after the completion of the World Series.

Jim Lemor, Bob Scheffing, Bill Rigney and Hank Bauer also have been mentioned as possible candidates for the job Billy Martin held until he was let go Monday, but Griffith is leaning toward Yost, a long-time favorite of his, UPI has learned.

Griffith said he endured four nights of "tossing and turning" before deciding to dismiss Martin, who in his first year as a major league manager guided the Twins from a seventh-place finish in 1966 to the championship of the American League's West Division.

Griffith said that no one particular incident was responsible for the decision.

Griffith now has fired three managers in as many years. Martin was hired Oct. 11, 1968, replacing Cal Ermer.

Hit Them Where It Hurts

One of the sidelights of the campus coddling of disruptive demonstrators in recent years is the drop in donations to colleges and universities. The normal level of contributions from graduates to their alma maters has declined in many instances, and the reason frequently cited has been the failure of school administrators to punish those who use destruction and obstruction as a means of registering their grievances.

Orleans, legal adviser to the Louisiana YAF delegation, stated that college catalogs have been held by the courts to be binding contracts between the school and its students and, as such, would justify suit against the school by students whose class meetings are interrupted by campus disorder. Mr. Franks said: "Whenever the class schedule listed in the catalog is altered, as for example by leftist campus disorders, any student has a right to sue to compel tuition refunds to all students for the days on which classes were interrupted."

We favor the use of legal action to stop the wreckers and their protectors. Perhaps the administrators will begin to understand that there are rights for law-abiding students—notably the right to the education they are paying to get.

The Young Americans for Freedom (YAF), a campus-oriented, conservative group, recently held its national convention in St. Louis. One of the programs proposed by the group was a legal action plan to be taken against radical student groups and the college and university administrations that take no steps to halt disruptive actions.

From Hi-Fi To Macaroni

Special weeks have been named so often that people tend to be very blasé about them. The World Almanac currently includes about a half a hundred of them. Most are, as special weeks were originally directed to matters of health and safety. But with a new week popping up every whiff, no one seems to pay much attention.

There is reason to believe that the SDS is planning to invade more school in this new academic year with their message of rule or ruin. Perhaps it's time to warn public school boards that the right to sue may well extend to taxpayers, whose children lose school sessions due to the coddling of offenders.

Wrong Gun Solution

It isn't likely the Nixon administration, which declared there is no need for new gun control legislation now, will change its mind as a result of the report of the National Commission on the Causes and Prevention of Violence.

estimate is that 90 per cent or more of the privately owned handguns would be confiscated and the owners reimbursed at a total cost of perhaps $500 million.

Because, although the report cited some imposing figures on the ownership of guns (90 million in the hands of civilians), and the use of firearms in the commission of crimes (7,000 homicides in 1967), and the incidence of fatal gun accidents (2,900 in 1967), it didn't make an indisputable case for restrictive licensing or confiscating of handguns.

This is not only a very expensive idea, it also is overly ambitious and misguided. It goes much further than any measure proposed heretofore.

That is, the commission's report isn't going to change anyone's mind in the matter. Those who favored licensing still will; those who have opposed it still will.

Heavy penalty — additional and mandatory — for the use of a firearm in the commission of a crime would apply the treatment directly to the trouble. There are bills in Congress now which would do this in the federal jurisdiction. They deserve attention, and the same approach deserves consideration at the state level.

Sensing The News

By THURMAN SENSING

THE ORDEAL OF A JUDGE

It is the right and duty of the U.S. Senate to give careful scrutiny to nominations for the federal bench, especially in view of past disclosures concerning the activities and associations of former Supreme Court Justice Abe Fortas. But there is a difference between careful scrutiny and an unconscionable smear, and the latter is the treatment that Senate liberals reserved for Justice Clement F. Haynsworth, Jr., President Nixon's second appointee to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Judge Haynsworth, who has been on the Fourth U. S. Circuit of Appeals for 12 years, is noted for his integrity and dignity. He proved the former and displayed the latter during the long and often ugly hearings in which he was abused.

The abuse directed at Judge Haynsworth was only partly directed at the man himself. As the judge no doubt understood, his critics in and out of the Senate were really trying to hit at the region where he was raised and, beyond that, at the type of distinguished, fair-minded, successful man he is.

Judge Haynsworth is a model of the type of American who has built up and maintained the traditions of the American judiciary at its best. He is a man of manners and good breeding, calm and restrained in his judgments, an accomplished lawyer, a success in private business — in short, respectable, dignified and not given to participating in rough and tumble political crusades.

The opponents of Judge Haynsworth were enraged because they weren't getting another rigid-minded political partisan to succeed Abe Fortas. The union leaders and militants have had their way for years. They saw the Warren Court packed with men who were personally committed to political dogmas and specific protest organizations. Big Unionism and the advocates of social revolution don't want judges on the Supreme Court; they want advocates of liberal causes. For too long they have had their way.

The unions got their man on the court when Arthur Goldberg, former special counsel of the AFL-CIO, was appointed to the Supreme Court. The NAACP got its political reward when Thurgood Marshall, its general counsel, received a place on the nation's highest judicial body.

The activist judges brought the Supreme Court into disrepute. Americans as a whole saw in the Warren Court a political arm of those forces attempting a massive political reconstruction of the United States. Thus President Nixon sought out men who would serve on the Supreme Court as judges, not partisans. The liberals weren't happy with the President's nomination of Judge Warren Burger as Chief Justice, but they didn't feel themselves strong enough to attack him.

In the case of Judge Haynsworth, the liberals decided they could hang him with his regional background — the fact that he was a Southerner. It seems that a liberal can forgive someone for almost anything except being a Southerner who hasn't turned his back on the South and on the U.S. Constitution as written.

The liberals further concluded that they could use against the judge the fact that he was a man who had shown ability in his personal business dealings, as though success were a crime and not a sign of achievement.

The people in this country who are out to destroy free enterprise and constitutional government hate the Haynsworths of the land, the men who have real achievements to their credit and who have made a mark in life.

It is not hard to imagine what kind of country we would have if all judges in future were men drawn from the ranks of political propagandists and militant agitation groups — and men of proven competence and personal substance were excluded from the judiciary. The free enterprise system would meet a sudden death in the courts.

BRANCH HEAD BILL SAYS:

States Shouldn't Ratify Change To 'Popular' Vote

By BILL KENNEDY

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Either the Congress is being suckered by the one man-one vote crowd or it is more liberal—and more geared to the metropolis—than even its cynics thought. The House has voted overwhelmingly in favor of the popular vote method of electing the President, and the Senate may go along.

philosophy opined by the federal courts, under Warren, is deadly—wipes out checks and balances written into the Constitution. Carried to its ultimate, the philosophy would eventually deny each state the right to the same number of senators in the United States Senate. Why should Rhode Island, or Alabama, or Wyoming have the same number of senators as New York and California and Michigan if one-man, one-vote is to be the law of the land?

If the liberals are successful in getting this change in the election process made, we will end up with a system where a few heavily populated states elect the nation's executive officer, and the rest of the country will stand helplessly by.

This is already true to some extent, but the popular vote will make it worse. Since the number of electors from each state is based on the number of its representatives in Congress—and since each state has (so far) the same number of senators—the small and thinly populated states hang onto at least some influence in elections. Metropolitan voters must not be given added strength to speak for the country's plains, mountain and rural populations—or the power to completely override the views and voice of all the rest of America.

Should this happen, candidates will not be required to visit, listen to or even recognize the majority of the states; their campaigns will be concentrated in the minority of big states (population wise) and their promises and actions will quite naturally favor the big states.

Fortunately, if the Senate goes along with the House, three-fourths of the state legislatures (38) must ratify this effort to destroy the Electoral College. (This is another of the safeguards written into the Constitution with great foresight to protect all the people.) And there are more small states than big ones.

If the people in the states do sit idly by and let their legislatures ratify this act, they are nuts. They will have failed to use the protection of the Constitution as its founders meant them to do. The majority of the states will then reap what they deserve from the power structure in Washington—little attention from the Federal Government and more "taxation without representation."

Q—In a recent column you described neurofibromatosis or von Recklinghausen's disease as characterized by small, pigmented growths on the skin. What color are they? My dictionary, under Recklinghausen's disease, says it is also associated with morbid changes in the bones? Is this common?

A—The growths are a pale yellow brown and usually have a diameter of 1.5 centimeters or more. In advanced cases cysts may form on the surface of the shin bone.

Q—What is the cause of polycystic kidneys? Do they cause high blood pressure?

A—This is a hereditary abnormality discovered until a person is 30 normally that is often not and may be found only at autopsy in a person who has lived a full life without any kidney trouble. It does not cause high blood pressure but anyone who knows he has this condition should have periodic examinations of his kidney function.

Q—I am a man, 21. I have kidney trouble which my doctor says I'll have the rest of my life. Would it be able to father a child or are all my sperms dead?

A—Since sperm formation is in no way dependent on your kidneys, there is a good chance that you can become a father. If you have any reason to doubt your ability the question can easily be resolved by an examination of your seminal fluid.

The Doctor Says

By DR. W. G. BRANSTADT

Floating Kidney Causes No Symptoms

Q—I have a dropped kidney. Could it cause my backache?

A—A dropped or floating kidney is often seen in persons who are grossly underweight. It causes no symptoms unless it drops so far as to produce a kinking in the ureter. This might cause a colicky pain but not a typical backache. If it can be demonstrated that any of your symptoms are caused by the dropped kidney, try bringing your weight up to normal. If this does not help, you may have to have an operation to anchor your kidney in place.

Q—X rays show that my son, 25, has a double kidney. Is this rare? What complications might arise? Does alcohol in moderation aggravate this condition?

A—A double kidney on one or both sides is not as rare as was once thought. Usually the extra kidney is small. If it is found to be nonfunctioning, it should be removed because such a kidney is highly susceptible to cancer. Alcohol in moderation would not affect it.

Inside Washington

A Republican In Virginia Statehouse?

ROBERT ALLEN

JOHN GOLDSMITH

NEWPORT NEWS, VA.—With the rest of this historic Commonwealth, residents of this Tidewater area are trying to accustom themselves to the idea that the governor they elect next month may well be a Republican.

oddities in the campaign, however, with nearly a month to go before election day.

It is an idea which is not easy to entertain in Virginia. Not since the reconstruction era has the governor been other than a Democrat. For most of the recent past he has been a Democrat acceptable to the late Sen. Harry F. Byrd, senior.

For example Holton, who is a Republican in the mold of New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, ran a rather liberal campaign when he was defeated four years ago by Gov. Mills E. Godwin. Now Holton is getting endorsement from labor and the blacks, but he is also drawing support from the right for a more conservative campaign this time.

Now, however, the prospects of Linwood Holton, Harvard-educated attorney from Big Stone Gap, are bright indeed. Many of the experts (and expertise is scarce in mixed-up Virginia politics) are saying that Republican Holton would win if the election were held this week.

Battle, while he is the son of a former Virginia governor, was pushed into politics by former President John F. Kennedy. Nevertheless, he is being hurt by an adverse fallout from the old Byrd "machine."

Holton has what the sports-writers call "momentum." His campaign was lifted last week by boosts from the state AFL-CIO and the Virginia Crusade for Voters, a Negro group with its headquarters and center of power in Richmond.

Some of the defections to Holton from the Democratic left are based on the idea that a GOP victory would necessitate a complete revamping of the Democratic party, with the elimination of all remnants of the Byrd organization.

Democratic candidate William C. Battle, on the other hand, is trying to heal the wounds of two election preliminaries. The first Democratic primary eliminated Lt. Gov. Fred G. Pollard, the rather conservative favorite of Byrd's courthouse cronies' across the Old Dominion. In the run-off which followed, Battle defeated liberal-populist Henry E. Howell, state senator from nearby Norfolk.

So far, Holton has offered the major campaign initiative — a proposal that $9 a year be refunded to each tax paying Virginian to compensate for sales taxes paid on food and non-prescription drugs which are taxable under a law enacted two years ago. Battle told the school board members assembled here that Holton's refund would mean $40 million less in state assistance for such necessary services as the public schools.

That is the sort of action which, while previously less formalized, has been giving Virginia's support to recent Republican presidential candidates, while state offices have remained in Democratic hands.

Of course the election was not held this week, and Holton's present position is one of risk as well as promise. He must maintain his momentum and not slide downhill from his present peak. That may be difficult.

POLITICAL MODERATES — Both of the candidates are classified as moderates in the political spectrum. They outlined generally similar views on education at a joint appearance here last week before the state's School Boards Association.

Many of Battle's supporters think the Democratic candidate is capable of better campaign style than he has shown thus far and the state's other top Democrats will almost certainly take a tougher fight to Holton in the weeks ahead, and Holton's endorsements from labor and Negro leadership may well go unheeded by their rank and file.

Congress And The Viet War

By PAUL HARVEY

Another Latin-American government bites the dust. Military men have taken over Bolivia. They say they had to in order to prevent disorder and chaos. Peshaps.

troops and a blood bath for our allies.

Congress must share responsibility for our escalated intervention in Vietnam. It was with the 1964 Gulf of Tonkin Resolution that Congress authorized then-President Johnson to increase our involvement.

Nonetheless, that makes four of our own Latin-American neighbor nations to change management in the past year: Peru, Panama, Brazil, now Bolivia.

Recently and repeatedly certain members of Congress have accused the President of ulterior motives for his gradual withdrawal. They've said he was merely trying to appease college-agers with token pull-outs and cuts in draft calls.

In each case an elected government was overthrown and replaced by a military dictatorship. Am I correct that it is the overthrow of elected governments by military dictatorships that we have been chasing all over the world dying trying to prevent?

If congressional critics want immediate disengagement, they should be required thus to vote—rather than merely to prod the President to make moves for which they might later criticize him.

Yet, in these cases, in our own Monroe Doctrine home hemisphere, when elected governments were overthrown, our government, quite rightly I think, decreed that it was none of our business.

Since our massive troop presence in Vietnam is presently authorized by Congress, Congress has the authority to de-authorize it.

But that of course makes it very difficult to explain our continuing involvement in Vietnam to our enlightened sons.

It is to this end that Sen. Charles Goodell (R-N.Y.) is seeking to bring the Vietnam war to a vote.

Politically, he's turned if he does and durned if he doesn't, because it is entirely likely that these same critics will try to nail him to the wall on this issue whatever he elects to do.

Sen. Goodell's proposal would require the United States to get all its troops out of Vietnam by Dec. 1, 1970. Goodell says, "It's time we told the South Vietnamese leaders that one year from now they will be on their own."

But that of course makes it very difficult to explain our continuing involvement in Vietnam to our enlightened sons.

His bill would cut off all funds for any further fighting over there. Now in the language of the streets congressional critics will be required to "put up or shut up."
