BRIDGE UPROOTED—A two-inch rain in three hours caused flash flooding in San Antonio. The swirling waters of flooding creeks uprooted a wooden bridge and jammed it under a concrete span at Cincinnati and Martinez creeks. Hundreds of motorists were stranded by the high water.

South Texas Hit Hard by Floods

New showers and thunderstorms rolled across South Texas again today bringing with them the threats of new flooding to that section of the state. Pampans and the Panhandle, meanwhile, are in store for continued fair weather with temperatures expected to reach the middle-80s. Lows tonight are forecast in the mid-50s. Tuesday the mercury climbed to 79 degrees in Pampa and the overnight low was 52. At 7 a.m. radar showed rain showers above normal throughout and South Central Texas; and along the Gulf Coast. The only fair weather was west of the Pecos. The rain was expected to end gradually from west to east to

Talkathon Delays Debate On Apportionment Plans

Reds Give no Sign Of Wanting Settlement

AUSTIN (UPI)—Senate action on redistricting was delayed today after Sen. George Parkhouse of Dallas began a talkathon against a House-approved constitutional amendment to allow use of ad valorem tax funds for hospitals. The amendment, written by Rep. Bob Eckhardt of Houston and sponsored in the Senate by Sen. Bruce Reagan of Corpus Christi, came up before Sen. Ralph Hall of Rockwall could be recognized to seek final passage of the Senate remapping plan which was tentatively approved yesterday.

Strong hinted he would not. Sen. A. R. (Babe) Schwartz of Galveston said the method of reapportionment brought to mind "the law of the jungle." "In the jungle the lions don't take care of each other," said the Galveston senator. He said "the first rule of the Senate is: 'Protect thyself,' and sardonically commended those who drew the Crump and Word plans for sticking to the rule. "I'm not proud of this Senate," added Calhoun, in a hushed dramatic voice. "I'm not going to be proud of this Senate when it passes either one of these bills. However many years I spend in this Senate, I'm going to spend a whole lot more with myself."

SAIGON (UPI)—Forty U.S. Navy planes bombed targets in North Viet Nam today in another raid that underscored American determination to press on with the air war against the Hanoi regime. It was the second consecutive day of air strikes on North Vietnamese territory following a six-day pause to watch for signs of Communist readiness to negotiate a settlement. There were no signs.

In South Viet Nam, a large force of U.S. Army paratroopers swept through the Vietnamese countryside today in an area known to be crawling with Communist guerrillas. Today's air raid inflicted "severe damage" on military barracks and a military radio station, according to an American spokesman.

In the House, action on the $101 million compromise teacher pay raise did not appear likely until later in the week. The Texas State Teachers Association issued a legislative letter to its 96,000 members Tuesday calling the pay raise plan unveiled Monday "a good bill which provides $12 million more for teachers' salaries than the TSTA program had requested."

McGuire sister gives testimony. CHICAGO (UPI)—Songstress Phyllis McGuire, glittering like a star on a personal appearance tour, talked to a federal grand jury today about her friendship with Momo Salvatore Giancana, reputed boss of Chicago crime. Forty-five minutes after Miss McGuire sweet into the U.S. Courthouse, Giancana himself strolled into the building for his appearance before the grand jury.

Strike Report
Navy pilots operating from the aircraft carrier Coral Sea reported three buildings destroyed and the supply area heavily damaged in an attack on barracks at Hoan Lo, about 40 miles north of the border with the South Viet Nam.

The spokesman said a separate strike on the Chanh Ho region, near Hoan Lo, destroyed a power house, damaged another building and left the administration building in flames. A total of 50 tons of bombs and rockets were dumped on the two targets.

Pilots said they encountered only light anti-aircraft fire. No enemy aircraft were sighted and all planes returned safely to the Coral Sea from the 45-minute raid, the spokesman said.

The operation by the American paratroopers was the first of the war for the 173rd Airborne Brigade, a combat-ready unit which arrived in South Viet Nam earlier this month to guard air bases near Saigon. The helicopter airlift was officially billed as a training exercise, but there was no guarantee that it would not develop into a clash with the Viet Cong.

Details Secret
Although exact details were shrouded by military secrecy, it was disclosed that hundreds of paratroopers were involved and that the landing zone was many miles from the Bien Hoa air base — the brigade's headquarters.

A spokesman said the paratroopers will march back to Bien Hoa on foot, fighting their way through Viet Cong positions if necessary. A spokesman said the action was the brigade's first full-scale "air mobile" operation. The 3,500-man unit is assigned to security duty at the Bien Hoa base 5 miles northeast of Saigon and the Vung Tau airstrip 40 miles southeast of the capital.

Both Bien Hoa and Vung Tau are already well defended by the South Vietnamese army, a fact which has led to wide spread reports that the paratroopers are prepared to switch from security duties to regular combat action against the Communists.

Today's training operation was viewed as a sort of baptism by fire for the American troops.

FBI Joins in Probe Of Bombing Death

HAZLETON, Pa. (UPI)—An FBI team joined local and state authorities today in an effort to determine what kind of explosive was used to kill an election official's son when he started his father's car. Michael Ruggiero, 17, was the victim of the blast which rocked a residential area and sent bits of metal flying in all directions. It was election day Tuesday and Mike was home from school. His mother, Antoinette, 33, had to do some grocery shopping so he decided to drive her to the store in his father's automobile. Mike walked to the firehouse where his father, a power shovel operator for a strip mining firm, was on duty Tuesday as an election judge and got the key to the 1958 model car. The youth turned on the ignition and the car was blasted to bits in a puff of black smoke. Mike was killed instantly. An FBI team joined Hazleton and state authorities today in an effort to find out what type of explosion caused Mike's death.

Barreras Refuses U.S. Offer to Resign Post

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States believes some military leaders on both sides in the Dominican Republic may have to step aside if there is to be a political solution to the situation in the troubled Caribbean country. U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker said this declaration to the Organization of the American States (OAS) Tuesday night in a statement in which he outlined the purpose of the special mission President Johnson sent to Santo Domingo last weekend. The U.S. delegate delivered his fact-finding committee on the fighting in Santo Domingo. The report, already delayed one day, was put off until today. Rejects Plan that she had not seen Giancana since 1961, she asked "where did you read that?" Giancana, dapper in a gray suit and carrying a hat, entered the building from a different direction than when he testified last week. He was spotted by reporters just the same. He was accompanied by ward politician Benjamin (Bud) Jacobson. Giancana pushed through the newsmen but Jacobson said "take all the pictures you want." Reputed mobster Murray "The Camel" Humphreys, his thin and aging face hidden behind dark glasses, also entered, as did Gus Alex, Anthony Tisci, Giancana's son-in-law, and Steve Anselmo, lawyer and alleged Giancana associate. Miss McGuire was accompanied by her attorney, famed defense lawyer Edward Bennett Williams.
Maj. Gen. Antonio Imbert Barreras, leader of the civilian-military junta fighting the Dominican rebel forces, Tuesday rejected a reported U.S. plan to get to resign in favor of a coalition government. U.S. officials, however, professed to be encouraged by progress toward a coalition despite the difficulties in getting Imbert to agree to a middle of the road regime set up around a compromise leader. One name mentioned as such a compromise president has been that of Antonio Guzman, a farm owner and businessman who in 1963 was minister of agriculture under the now-exiled President Juan Bosch.

WAGNER MAY LOSE POPULARITY

Murphy Resigns Under Fire

NEW YORK (UPI)—The resignation of Police Commissioner Michael J. Murphy was expected today to have broad impact on police relations with minority groups and possibly on next November's mayoralty election as well. In four years and four months as head of the nation's largest police force, Murphy won the admiration of his men as a tough, fair and sensitive leader. But because of a number of collisions with civil rights leaders over police policy and procedures, he became their bitter foe, assuming among minorities a "Bull Murphy" image symbolizing oppressive police power. Perhaps coincidentally, only hours before Murphy announced his decision to resign, a city council subcommittee recommended establishment of a council board to review complaints of police brutality. Murphy was an inalterable and frequently vocal opponent of police review boards, contending they undermine public confidence in the police and interfere with proper departmental administration. Police shootings of a Negro boy prior to the Harlem rioting last summer and Puerto Rican youths on at least two occasions also heightened minority distaste for Murphy. In those cases, he defended the action of the police as justified under the circumstances. Appearing with Mayor Robert F. Wagner at a hastily called press conference late Tuesday, Murphy denied emphatically that his resignation had any connection with the review board recommendation. Wagner lamented his decision to quit and praised him as "the best police commissioner the city has ever had." Wagner, who will seek reelection in November against an unusually strong Republican candidate, Rep. John V. Lindsay, said he will announce appointment of a successor to Murphy within a day or two. Observers saw Murphy's departure as commissioner as lessening the danger of minority resentment against the police because of large blocs of anti-Wagner votes. Murphy, 51, a 25-year veteran of the New York Police Department and a holder of a law degree, said he resigned to become president of the National Automobile Theft Bureau, an insurance industry-financed agency which seeks to recover stolen vehicles and fight organized automobile theft.

Underdeveloped Countries Facing Crisis for Food, Land

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Agriculture Department said today that the underdeveloped world "is clearly losing the capacity to feed itself." A report issued by the department's Economic Research Service said that many of the densely populated, less-developed countries have nearly exhausted the supply of new land that can readily be brought under cultivation. It said these countries must look to higher yields per acre for increasing their food supply. It noted that all of the increase in food output in both North America and Western Europe over the past 25 years has come from raising the yield per acre.

Randy Featured In Life Photos

The May 21 issue of Life Magazine features a two-page spread on Pampa's Randy Matson. The primarily picture story has four pictures of Matson, including one taken when he was pulling the shot for Pampa High School. The story discusses his breaking of the "impossible" 70-foot barrier, and illustrates his physical and athletic growth, due to calorie pills and a weight program. According to the story, when Matson entered Texas A&M in 1963, he weighed 212 pounds and could put the shot 58 feet.

Electric Train Helping Curb Adult Delinquency in U.S.

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Probably nothing has done more to help curb adult delinquency in this country than the electric train.

It used to be that when a father gave his son an electric train for Christmas, he (the father) could count on spending many happy hours fitting the tracks together, figuring out how to make the locomotive run backwards, and so on.

This kept him off the streets and out of trouble.

In recent years, however, the situation has changed rather drastically. Most kids nowadays insist on operating their trains themselves.

As a result, the father is left to mope around in his new bedroom slippers, which he quickly tires of. So he leaves the house seeking excitement. And the rest is the all too familiar story of falling in with the wrong companions and developing bad habits.

Fortunately, there is one organization that is trying to do something about the problem.

A group called the Model Railroad Equipment Association has developed a program to encourage adults to buy electric trains for themselves.

Unfortunately, however, not everybody seems to realize how important this program is. For example, Rep. John J. Rooney, chairman of a House appropriations subcommittee.

At a recent hearing, the New York Democrat had before him Judge Paul P. Rao of the U.S. Customs Court. The point under discussion was whether electric trains for adults should be classified as toys.

These particular trains were imported from West Germany. The Customs Bureau, which has charge of collecting import duties, put them in the toy category.

The importers, however, challenged the ruling in Customs Court, claiming the trains should be classed as an electrical item.

Rooney: "I do not get the differentiation."

"If they are toys, the duty is about 50 per cent," Rao explained. "If they are what they claim to be... then the duty would be only 13 1/2 per cent, or thereabouts."

Rooney: "I am almost afraid to ask what happened to this case."

The judge said the court came to the conclusion that the trains were used mainly as a hobby for adults. Therefore, it held that they were not toys.

Rooney: "I was afraid of that."

Apparently, the chairman feels that children are being penalized by having to pay a higher duty than adults. I say it serves them right.

It is the Conservative purpose to resist the nomination of left wing Republicans to political office.

When they are unable to prevent such a nomination, the Conservatives put up their own candidate to siphon off Republican votes that otherwise probably would be cast for the party's left nominee.

The upcoming nomination of Lindsay for mayor is precisely the kind of political maneuver that the Conservatives are pledged to prevent.

Since they cannot prevent this nomination, it will be up to the Conservatives to prove their political muscle by entering their own candidate and thus obtain Lindsay's defeat.

Balance Of Power

If the election should work out that way, the Conservatives would emerge in a very strong balance of power position in New York.

They would demand and expect to get some authority in the selection of future Republican nominees for city and state police. And, of course, they would blackball Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

Should Lindsay be elected mayor despite Conservative opposition, the splinter organization might begin to disintegrate.

As a Republican mayor of New York City, Lindsay reasonably could expect to be promoted to governor. The governor's mansion in Albany is an ideal launching pad toward a presidential nomination. Lindsay will be 50 years old in 1972.

The Conservative party in the city of New York will be faced with a now-or-never situation this year in the election of a mayor.

Democratic Mayor Robert F. Wagner will be opposed by Rep. John V. Lindsay, a liberal Republican now serving his fourth term in the House of Representatives.

The Republican leaders of New York persuaded Lindsay to run. The formalities of his nomination are a mere routine.

That puts it up to the New York Conservatives. The Conservative party in New York was organized to compel the Republican party in city and state to reverse the drift to the left in an effort to out-promise the Democrats in bids for votes.

Supper Theater Features 'Impromptu' Here Friday

"Impromptu," a one-act play to be presented by Quannah High School's winning District 2-AA play group, is the feature attraction Friday night of Pampa Little Theater's supper theater. The cast is touring the Panhandle in an effort to raise funds for the purchase of new auditorium curtains.

The production placed third in the regional one-act play contest and performed in March at the Texas Christian University Play Festival in Fort Worth. During the district and regional contests Sandra Prescott and Jimmy Simms were placed on the all-star cast. James Hinkley, native of Pampa, is their director.

The supper theater will begin at 7 p.m. Friday at the Pampa Little Theater Building on the Lefors Highway. Tickets are on sale at Richard Drug and theater-goers are requested to make reservations early. Admission is $1.75 for adults and $1 for students.

Floods

less after floodwaters swirled through the southern and western sections of the city Tuesday.

Thousands of persons fled the onrushing waters of creeks which often are no more than a trickle. Creeks with the colorful names of Olmos, Salado, San Pedro, Mud and Alazona-Apache streamed into stores and businesses.

Boats and helicopters were pressed into service to rescue those trapped on roof and car-tops by the rising water. The Weather Bureau warned of more of the same unless the rains stopped.

More Rain Due
But the forecasts called for more rain today and a special flood warning was issued by the San Antonio Weather Bureau.

Minor flooding occurred in the Rio Grande Valley after 10 inches of rain pelted the area in 48 hours. Across the river at Reynosa, Mexico, two boys were killed when a retaining wall collapsed during the deluge.

The Reynosa newspaper, El Tiempo, said 1,500 families were forced to flee their homes because of the rising waters. An irrigation canal on the city's southside overflowed.

Mayor Manuel Tarrega opened all public buildings for the homeless and immediately began distribution of food and supplies to the tragedy-struck populace.

Six Weather Deaths
The rains, which were general through South Texas, were blamed for six highway deaths. Three were killed in a collision near Lissie and three others died in another collision near Waller.

Along with the rains came tornadoes.

One trailer smashed into a carport, ripped a house off its foundation and tore metal siding from a building at Santa Rosa in the Rio Grande Valley.

Another funnel was spotted near Nixon, 70 miles east of San Antonio and a third churned along 12 miles south of Taylor, Tex.

Pampa Bank Looking For Missing Depositors

Several hundred persons living in Pampa or former residents of the city could be richer than they think.

In compliance with state law, the First National Bank yesterday published a list of persons having an account at the bank or money on deposit which has remained inactive or dormant longer than seven years.

Floyd Watson, bank president, said the bank has not been able to locate the depositors or does not know their whereabouts. He said there are no great sums of money on deposit in any one persons name and that most of the money is in small denominations.

Watson said a lot of the missing depositors were stationed at the Pampa Air Force Base during the war and had a certain sum of money automatically deducted from their monthly pay and deposited in the bank. He said many of them left Pampa, and forgot to withdraw their allotments.

If the money is not claimed and totals more than $25, it is sent to the state treasurer, Watson said. "This does not mean that it is forfeited," he said, "but means that a person must claim the money from the state instead of the bank."

If the money on deposit is less than $25 it remains at the bank, he said.

Senate to Review Baker Report

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Rules Committee, with its special counsel under heavy Republican fire, meets today to discuss the highly controversial draft report on the Bobby Baker investigation.

Chairman B. Everett Jordan, D-N.C., has promised to review "line-by-line, word by word" the draft report approved by special counsel Lennox P. McLendon.

The draft has never been made public. It is reported, however, to reflect on the role of Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., in the investigation and leave the implication that Williams withheld information.

Republican members have denounced the draft, which is an outgrowth of the long inquiry into the financial affairs of Baker, former secretary to Senate Democrats.

Jordan Tuesday turned down a challenge by Williams to either endorse on the Senate floor charges and criticisms in the report or repudiate McLendon's draft.

The North Carolina senator refused to speak while Williams held the floor. Later, he said it would be "highly out of order to exchange in a discussion until the committee has acted."

Williams said that the committee Democrats either did not support the allegations in the report or "do not have the guts" to air their criticism. "To me silence speaks louder than words," he said.

Rogers' Bill Would Prohibit Passport Issuance to Cuba

WASHINGTON, D. C. (SpI) — Congressman Walter Rogers today introduced a bill to prohibit the issuance of U.S. passports for travel in Cuba.

Congressman Rogers' bill would cement by act of Congress the recent decision of the U.S. Supreme Court upholding the right of the Secretary of State to refuse to grant passports for travel in Cuba.

Under the provisions of the Rogers bill, the President would have the authority to waive the provisions of the act "with respect to persons whose travel to or in Cuba is deemed by him to be in the best interests of the United States."

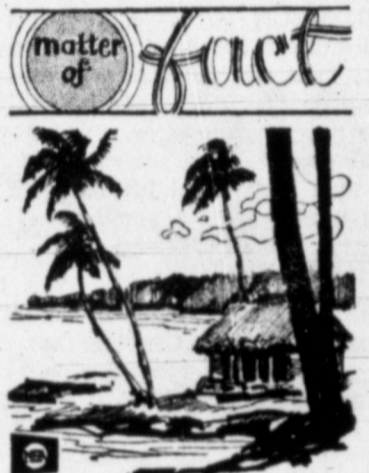

Congressman Rogers said the legislation is aimed at "further isolating Communist Cuba from the free nations of the Western Hemisphere and to prevent Cuba from using travelers to export subversion and revolution."

Also pending before the Congress is a bill introduced by Congressman Rogers to close U.S. seaports to ships engaged in trade or commerce with Cuba.

Micronesia, a group of islands in the Pacific, so-called because of their small size, has been important to the world out of all proportion to many groups of larger islands. Yap and Guam were once vital Pacific cable links. Guam was a watering place for Spanish galleons. Truk was once a great Japanese naval base and the key to the Pacific.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST
 United Press International
 WASHINGTON (UPI) — For all of my ever-loving, blue-eyed, married life I have been wondering what in the world was in that goop my wife spreads over her face at bedtime. Now I know.

Chemically, it is composed of hydrated complex colloidal magnesium aluminum silicate, sodium carboxy methyl cellulose, polyvinyl pyrrolidone K60, methyl parahydroxy benzoate and propylated octadecanol, among other things.

But the main ingredient is "hope."
 My thanks for this vital bit of intelligence goes to a squad of indignant ladies from the cosmetics industry who appeared before the Senate Commerce Committee this week demanding certain rights on behalf of all womankind.

They were in a high dudgeon. That's for sure. They may even have had blood in their eyes, but I couldn't tell about that. Too much mascara.

Anyway, there was no uncertainty about their opposition to a provision in the "truth in packaging" bill that they claimed would tend to standardize the size and shape of cosmetic containers.

This, they protested, would deprive their sex of a basic freedom—freedom to buy creams, lotions, oils, unguents, powders, fragrances and various other poultices in the bottle, jar, spreader, duster or spray-on applicator of their choice.

"If she wants her eye shadow in a replica of the Grecian urn, let her have it!" one of them dramatically declaimed.

"Women do not want cold cream packaged in mustard jars," another daintily demurred.

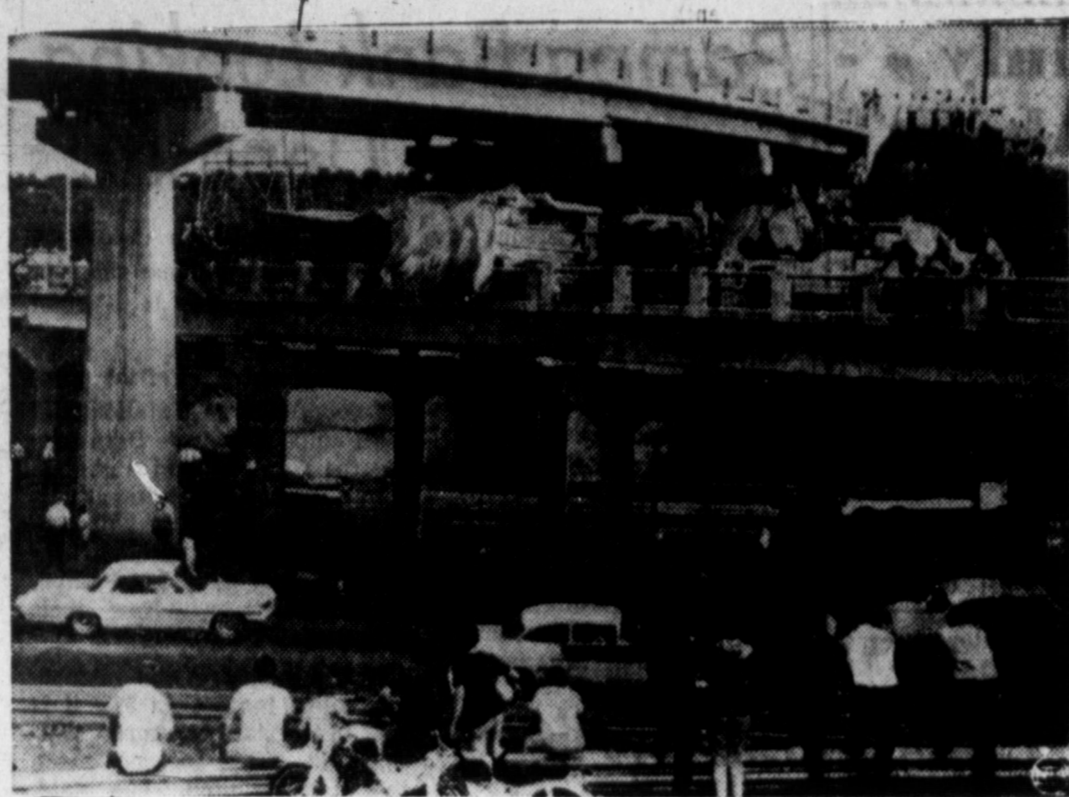

"To standardize packaging would be as catastrophic as to standardize women," a third drastically declared.

Furthermore, women don't want the labels on the bottles cluttered up with a lot of technical nomenclature setting forth the ingredients of the potions contained therein.

"Hydrated complex colloidal magnesium aluminum silicate" and all that jazz means nothing to a lady when she sits down at her dressing table. All she wants to know is "What the specific product will do for her."

"Basically, we are selling 'hope,'" they explained. Should the committee fail to heed their plea, I recommend that they organize a demonstration. They could call it a "smear-on."

And for a theme song, I suggest something on the order of "We Shall Overcome." It could be titled "We Shall Cover It Up."

SIXTY-ONE KILLED, CALVES, THAT IS—In a spectacular accident, a semi-trailer cattle truck, loaded with 121 calves, flipped over on its side on the second level of an Oklahoma City triple overpass, spilling calves all over the ground. Sixty-one calves were thrown 27 feet to the first level of the overpass and were killed. Driver was James L. Findley of West Plains, Mo.

Senate Committee to Take Up Restrictions on Sale of Guns

By JACK C. VANDENBERG
 WASHINGTON (UPI)—A 16-year-old student set up a sniper's nest in a football stadium at Chamblee, Ga. His target: 200 girls doing gymnastics. A University of California student shot and killed his biology instructor with a gun he bought from a mail order house in Alexandria, Va.

If Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., has his way, Congress will try to prevent a repetition of this sort of thing with passage of new controls on guns. Dodd's proposal are aimed primarily at keeping guns out of the hands of juveniles, criminals and extremists.

His Senate judiciary subcommittee on juvenile delinquency starts hearings Wednesday on legislation that would:

- Prohibit mail order sales of firearms to individuals.
- Ban sales by federally licensed importers, manufacturers and dealers of all types of guns except sporting rifles and shotguns to persons under 21 years of age.

—Curb the flow into this country of surplus military weapons and other guns unsuited to sporting purposes.

Members of Congress say their mail is running against the Dodd bill. But Dodd is not intimidated. He said a recent survey showed more than 70 per cent of the public favors legislation similar to his.

The unfavorable mail, he said, is caused by "deliberate distortion on the part of an insidious gun lobby."

Predicts Passage
 He predicted the legislation would have no trouble passing the Senate. The House would approve substantially the same bill, Dodd said.

One big factor on Dodd's side is strong administration backing. Early this year Dodd introduced a bill which would have required only that anyone buying a gun from a mail order house include an affidavit that he was not a juvenile or a criminal.

But he introduced a stronger measure banning all mail order sales to individuals after President Johnson recommended such legislation in his crime message to Congress in March.

ABSENT MINDED
 AMSTERDAM, Holland (UPI)—Lord Snowdon, husband of Princess Margaret, is getting absent-minded. He visited a local diamond cutting firm Monday and walked off with a magnifying glass lent him by the manager. The glass was returned later after discreet inquiries.

U.S. on List of Bad Guys Of Prime Minister Shastri

By PHIL NEWSOM
 UPI Foreign News Analyst

On Indian Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri's list of good guys and bad guys, it appeared last week as he prepared for a visit to Moscow that the United States was listed among the bad guys.

Sitting on the dais of a Soviet-Indian friendship rally in Moscow he listened imperturbably as Soviet Premier Aleksei N. Kosygin listed United States "crimes" and demanded joint action against American imperialism.

For his own part, Shastri used a Soviet platform to criticize Red China's atomic bomb test of last Friday.

He also declared that there could be no military solution in Viet Nam.

In this comradely spirit, then, the two leaders concluded an agreement by which the Soviet Union is expected to assist Indian industrial and agricultural development to the tune of close to $1 billion in the next five years.

The immediate source of Shastri's irritation with the United States had been President Johnson's abrupt cancellation of an invitation to visit Washington next month.

The President cited the press of international affairs as his reason but Indian indignation mounted when it was noted that the cancellation of the Washington visit effectively destroyed any hopes that Shastri may have entertained of using his Moscow and Washington talks as a fulcrum to press his own ideas for a neutral settlement in Viet Nam.

At any rate Indians took the Washington action as an insult that had damaged U.S.-Indian relations for a long time to come.

The actual truth was that beyond a short-range irritation, it probably would have no effect at all simply because Shastri cannot afford it.

In foreign relations, Shastri's greatest worry is the continuing threat to India from Red China and it is to his interest and the Soviet Union be continued that the rift between Red China are so enormous that he must have all the help he can get from all sources.

From the United States this year he hopes for another allotment of the annual $495 million in aid, which will bring total U.S. aid to India close to $6 billion.

India further is assured of some $500 million over the next few years in U.S. military aid. Soviet military aid, so far comes to about $130 million.

Over-all Soviet aid to India is about one-sixth that of the United States' contribution.

In his year in office since the death of Jawaharlal Nehru, Shastri has had to cope with an unending succession of domestic problems most of which still are not close to solution.

Overriding all is the vast problem of India's population which by the year 2,000 is expected to reach 1 billion.

Indian mouths make up a bottomless pit with which all the foreign aid and India's own efforts have not been able to keep pace.

Foreign Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

For most of the last week, the United States has been defending policies which the administration of President Lyndon B. Johnson feels there should be no necessity for defending.

In Europe at least, most of these arguments were directed against the decisive policies of President Charles de Gaulle. Accustomed to dealing with affairs far outside the sphere of French influence, the De Gaulle government had let it be known that "France disapproved and wants the withdrawal of troops who have landed in Santo Domingo."

Against this, the French president had Johnson's own summation of the U.S. position in the Dominican Republic. It was:

"... the people of that country must be permitted to freely choose the path of political democracy, social justice and economic progress... we intend to carry on the struggle against tyranny, no matter in what ideology it chokes itself."

Demand Neutrality

Against the American position, supported by most U.S. NATO Allies, that escalation of the war in Viet Nam is morally, politically and militarily justified, was the already well known French demand for Vietnamese neutrality and withdrawal of foreign forces, specifically the United States.

De Gaulle already had underlined his opposition to U.S. involvement in Viet Nam by a virtual withdrawal from SEATO, the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization which among other things guaranteed the integrity of South Viet Nam.

These were not the only areas in which "le grand Charles" was throwing his weight around.

He had vetoed a move supported by France's partners in the European Common Market to renew explorations toward European political unity.

He had appealed West German supporters by the fanfare with which he had entertained Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko and German apprehensions were heightened when Gromyko implied that France accepted the existence of two Germanys.

Lukewarm Denial

A lukewarm French denial did little to quell German fears. Nor did the Germans take any more kindly to a Gaullist suggestion that the reunification of Germany should be left primarily to a European solution, with France and Germany to be the chief negotiators.

Germans of all parties believe there can be no settlement of the reunification problem without participation of the United States.

As for the United States: It seemed to be learning to take De Gaulle philosophically.

Depending upon his health, it seemed likely that De Gaulle would be around for some time to come. It generally is accepted that he will run for another term in office in elections next December.

The United States also was willing to admit, as De Gaulle himself frequently proclaims, that it was De Gaulle who restored France to political stability.

And even a Gaullist and obstructionist France is better than the politically fragmented

TRANSIT PREDICTION

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An authority on mass transit says that at least 25 major U.S. cities will have rapid transit systems under construction or completed by 1980.

Donald C. Hyde, vice president of the Institute for Rapid Transit and general manager of the Cleveland (Ohio) rapid transit system, predicted Tuesday that tomorrow's cities will be linked by high-speed passenger train networks that will be tied in with local transit systems for quick connections.

Hyde spoke at a news conference held in a rapid transit car on display at Washington's Union Station during an institute meeting here.

TWINS DROWN

LA CANADA, Calif. (UPI) — Twins Christopher and Courtland Jones, 2, drowned Tuesday in only two feet of water in a neighbor's partially completed swimming pool, sheriff's deputies reported.

The twins were the sons of M. and Mrs. Bruce Jones, who have six surviving children. Deputies said the twins apparently stumbled into the pool.

Tourists Disappointed After White House Tour of President's Executive Suite Is Cancelled

By MERRIMAN SMITH WASHINGTON (UPI)—Backstairs at the White House. Several thousand tourists were turned away from the White House the other day without being allowed to tour the Executive Mansion as they had expected.

The other day, however, Senate wives. The gates to open. Only on the morning of the same day were the police notified, and it was too late. Thousands of tourists were gathered on East Executive Avenue and around the ellipse, waiting for the president, but some went away grumbling.

Police passed the word shortly before the 10 o'clock opening time. Most of the tourists accepted the cancellation as part of the mysterious workings of the presidency, but some went away grumbling. The grumblers scarcely can be blamed. Many families save where LBJ and Lady Bird live, the White House for the last day of their vacation tour of the nation's capital. And naturally they do not like it if they have to return home without being able to say they saw where LBJ and Lady Bird live. Prudent tourists might be advised to telephone the White House in advance if they're not sure of visiting theirs.

The so-called public tours operate five days a week, usually from 10 a.m. until noon and on special days, such as holidays, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. The White House is closed Sunday and Monday to facilitate cleaning and, more important, to give the police a little rest.

Sometimes visiting is canceled on one of the regular tour days when President or Mrs. Johnson has something scheduled for one of the rooms on the ground floor or main floor. In such cases, there is usually a public notification and small signs are posted at the East Gate of the White House.

CRITICIZES TOO

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Vice Adm. Hyman G. Rickover, testifying on education legislation, Tuesday took passing note of educators who have criticized him.

Rickover, considered the father of the atomic-powered submarine, told a congressional hearing that some educators have said that if he persisted in poking into the field of education they would begin designing submarines.

"I advise you never to get on any submarine that any educationist designs," he commented. Rickover testified before the Senate education subcommittee in support of the administration's higher education bill.

The Purpose Of Project Headstart

EDITOR'S NOTE: Project Headstart is a program designed to give children of poverty-stricken families something they might not otherwise get—a head start in life. In the first of three dispatches UPI reporter Louis Cassels explains how the project will work.

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI)—From Aroostook County, Maine, to Ventura County, California, American communities are preparing to launch a unique kind of salvage operation.

It's called "project headstart," and its object is to rescue half a million children who otherwise would start school this fall under hopeless handicaps.

They are the children of poverty. They have spent the first four or five years of their lives in deprivation and neglect which has stunted the growth of their minds.

Some have vocabularies of less than 100 words. Many have never colored with crayons, listened to a story, visited a zoo, or enjoyed any of the other preschool learning experiences which middle-class children take for granted.

Can't Keep Up
If they are sent to kindergarten or first grade as they are, they'll begin the adventure of education with two strikes against them. Most will find it impossible to keep up with their classes. They'll fall further and further behind until they wind up, some years hence, as dropouts, delinquents and welfare cases.

Project Headstart will not overcome all of their disadvantages. But it will give them what its name implies—a head start in kindergarten or first grade.

For eight golden weeks this summer, these underprivileged boys and girls will be given every kind of help that an affluent society can provide—free medical and dental care, nourishing meals, trips to zoos and museums, supervised play and most important of all—the thrill of learning to draw, to write, to recognize objects and letters, under the stimulating guidance of expert teachers.

Enthusiasm Shared
Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson calls Project Headstart "the most exciting, productive and practical project that any government can embark on." Her enthusiasm seems to be shared by millions of other Americans from coast to coast. Old-timers in Washington cannot recall any federal program that has ever caught on so quickly and widely.

It was initially conceived as a relatively minor front in the war on poverty. When the plans were announced last February, Sargent Shriver's Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO) hopelessly set a goal of 100,000 children for the first summer.

The public response, Shriver says, was "simply fantastic." The OEO was deluged with applications from schools, churches, women's clubs and other community organizations eager to sponsor child development centers.

Jules Sugarman, deputy director of the project, now estimates that 10,000 centers will be in operation by the first of July, with a total enrollment of about 20,000 children.

This means Project Headstart will reach more than half of the children of poverty who will be coming of school age this year.

Reaches Poor People
A pin-studded map on the wall of Sugarman's office shows that the centers will be in operation in 1,450 of the nation's 3,000 counties, including 261 of the 300 counties with the largest number of poor people.

Holmes Brown, OEO's assistant director for public affairs, says the project's mushroom growth is "a tribute to local initiative." He points out that the OEO will not establish any centers on its own, but will simply provide funds for approved centers sponsored by non-profit community groups.

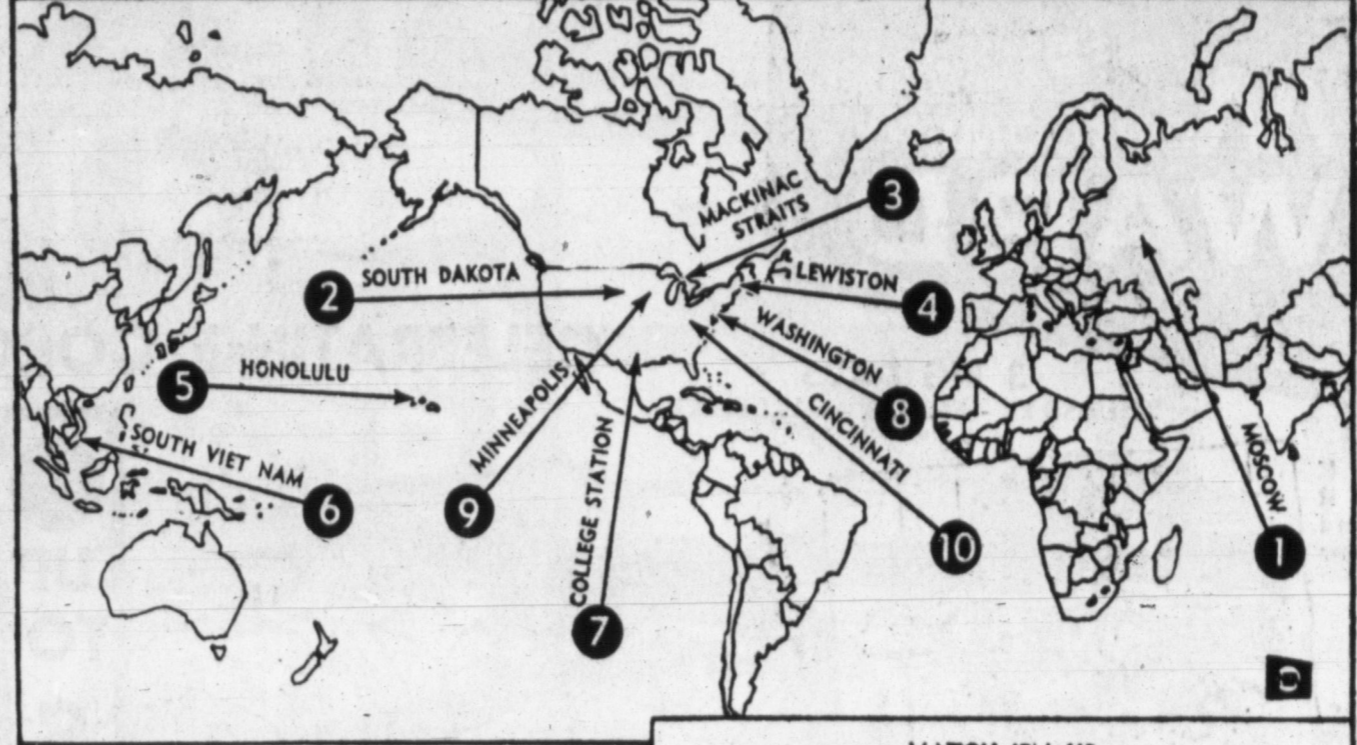

To qualify for federal funds, applicants must guarantee that the center will be open to all poor children in the neighborhood served, regardless of their race or religion. The strict ban on segregation has caused some white groups in the South to withdraw sponsorship applications. But on the whole, southern states are well represented by pins on Sugarman's map. The thinnest coverage, for reasons unexplained, is in Midwestern states such as Wisconsin, Kansas and Nebraska.

Estimates Cost
Shriver estimates that it will cost about $105 million to staff and operate 10,000 Head Start centers for two months. The federal government will underwrite 90 per cent of the cost. The local sponsor must put up 10 per cent, but it does not have to be in cash. Most sponsoring groups will make their contribution "in kind"—that is, in the form of free space in community buildings and unpaid volunteer labor.

Each center will have a nucleus of paid staff members. The key people will be professional teachers. At least 30,000

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—Standard & Poor's says that while additional gains are indicated they will bring additional risks with them. The firm advises conservative investors to continue to hold some reserves at this time.

Colby & Co. says it fully expects the market will continue backing and filling into the foreseeable future, and at present levels in the Dow-Jones industrial average, the pattern might become a little more exaggerated.

COURT MEETS

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Supreme Court meets today after a two week recess to hand down opinions and orders. About 20 cases are still under advisement.

The cases include an attack by Texas financier Billie Sol Estes on the televising of his trial in Tyler, Tex., on swindling charges; and a challenge to the federal law which bars Communists from serving as union officers.

High Court to Hear Communist Appeals

The following will serve as a Senate. This means the court probably will take action before quitting for the summer next month.

By Charlotte G. Moulton
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Supreme Court agreed Tuesday to decide whether individuals can be required to register with the government as members of the Communist party under the Subversive Activities Control Act.

It will hear arguments in the case next fall after the new term starts and then will settle the issue by a later written opinion. At issue was a U.S. court of appeals ruling which upheld registration orders sought by the Justice Department against individuals as party members.

In other actions the Supreme Court:

- Agreed to give swift consideration to deadlock which has developed between state and federal courts on reapportionment of the Illinois State
- Set aside contempt of court convictions of two Virginia Negro attorneys who contended they were punished by the judge essentially for their civil rights activities.
- The registration features of the Communist control law has been the subject of legal dispute since its passage by Congress in 1950 both as to its application to the party itself and to individuals. The Justice Department has not yet succeeded in obtaining any compliance.

of them will be given special orientation courses at 90 universities across the nation during June. There also will be salaried teachers' aides, cooks, janitors and other workers, many of them drawn from among the unemployed poor in the neighborhoods served by the centers. Altogether, the paid staff will number about 88,000 nationwide.

In addition, OEO is counting on the part-time help of about 500,000 unpaid volunteers, who will drive cars, type records, examine eyes, pull teeth, administer shots and otherwise use their special skills to reduce the odds against the most underprivileged children in the world's most privileged society.

TWENTY-TWO BOMBERS WRECKED — An officer in combat gear moves through the smoking rubble that is the B57 flight line at the Ben Hoi, South Viet Nam, airbase after a chain-reaction explosion wrecked 22 of the big bombers. Reports indicated that 37 men, most of them U.S. servicemen, were injured in the blast and that the death toll might reach 50. A fire aboard one of the B57s apparently set off its bomb load which then spread to the other planes.

Oldsters: Ask Not What World Owes You, But Just Vice Versa

By PERCY M. HANSEN

A recently published booklet furnishing advice to persons of retirement age contains the following statement: "It's a sad thing the way many churches have failed to meet the companionship needs of their older members."

It is a sad thing. Not the suggested failure of the churches, but that retirees and the general public are continually being bombarded with propaganda, based on the premise that the churches or anybody owes elderly people special facilities and special attention just because they are old.

It is not nearly so sad that churches do not make special provisions for elderly people as it is that elderly people fail, in many instances, to meet their responsibilities to their churches and others.

It is a happy thing that millions of self-respecting older persons do not wish to be placed in a special group to be entertained like preschool-age children. These people have no desire to be called "senior citizens" or to be known as members of the "golden age" group, and they are sufficiently intelligent to know that their so-called "harvest years" will be harvest years only through their own efforts to contribute to the welfare of those in their own homes, in their own churches, and in their own community life. Millions of these people still are employed because of their valuable contributions.

Only today, my next-door neighbor, whose husband is a retired railroad man, declared in righteous indignation: "I am tired and sick of all this talk about 'senior citizens' and the 'golden age group.' I am not a senior citizen. I am Mrs. George Cooper. I have been Mrs. George Cooper for more than 40 years, and I will be Mrs. George Cooper until I die. I do my own work. I don't want to be placed on the shelf just because I am over 60 and I do not intend to be. I would like to punch the nose of the next one who refers to me as a senior citizen."

Mrs. Cooper is an active member of a church, and would be incensed if someone should suggest that her church had failed to meet her companionship needs. She is young in spirit and in her outlook on life. She is living a full, happy, useful life in her modest home, in her church and in her community. Instead of seeking for some outside source to provide her companionship needs, she is supplying the companionship needs of many of her much younger neighbors, friends and acquaintances.

Those of you who are attempting to retain or regain your youthful attributes will meet with discouragements. It should come as no surprise to you, regardless of your calendar age, that if you have been thinking, talking and acting like an elderly person for several months or even years, you will not be able to overcome these firmly established habits without consistent effort and with some setbacks. Personally, I have been working on this problem for 16 years, and while I have attained considerable success, I still find myself backsliding at times. I have to remind myself often that I am thinking like an old man.

LBJ Asks Heavier Taxes on Big Trucks

By LOUIS CASSELS

United Press International WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson asked Congress Tuesday to impose heavier taxes on big trucks to help raise additional funds needed for completion of the interstate highway system.

He also sought higher federal levies on airliners and private planes and on boats and barges using the inland waterways.

The President said the proposed "user charges" would "assess the costs of special services and facilities against those who reap the benefits, instead of imposing unwarranted burdens on the general taxpayer."

As a soother for the trucking industry, which is sure to protest loudly against any increased levies on big rigs, Johnson promised he would recommend higher size and weight limits for trucks using the interstate highway system as soon as the big trucks are paying their fair share of road-building costs.

Asks Full Payment

He said studies by the Bureau of Public Roads "clearly show that heavy trucks are not paying fully for the additional cost of heavier pavement and other design features needed to carry them" under existing tax schedules.

To correct the situation, he recommended in his excise tax message to congress that the federal tax on highway diesel fuel be raised from 4 to 7 cents a gallon, that the truck use tax be increased from $3 to $5 per thousand pounds on rigs weighing more than 26,000 pounds and that the tax on tread rubber, largely affecting heavy trucks, be boosted from 5 to 10 cents per pound.

Higher Aviation Taxes

In the aviation field, the President recommended that the present 5 per cent tax on airline tickets be made permanent; that a user tax of 2 per cent be imposed on air freight; that a new user tax of 2 cents per-gallon be levied on jet fuels, and that the 86,000 private and commercial planes not belonging to airlines be assessed what he called "a modest user charge of 4 cents per gallon on all fuels used." He said that even with this charge, general aviation would be paying only 9 per cent of its share of the total cost of maintaining federal airways.

The aviation industry is already on record as opposed to the higher charges.

Johnson said the government is spending $50 million a year on inland waterways, but "no user charge of any kind is presently in effect." "This is unfair to the taxpayers and to competing modes of transportation," he declared. He proposed a tax of 2 cents a gallon on fuels used by inland waterway vessels.

The Paperwork Jungle Keeps Building Up

Federal agencies require and request more than one billion reports a year from business, industry, and the public. We Americans each year fill out the equivalent of more than five Government forms for every man, woman, and child in the country. One estimate of total cost — including the time required to make the reports — is $20 billion.

Recently a House subcommittee issued a summary of its investigation into the problem, and it is expected that corrective action will result.

Some reports are mandatory. The income tax returns to the Internal Revenue Service are perhaps the best-known examples of mandatory returns. Many reports to the Government are voluntary, however, and a large segment of the public apparently is unaware that a substantial volume of Federal reports and paperwork is neither specifically authorized by statute nor specifically funded in any appropriation act of the Congress. The fact is that aside from the tax-collecting and regulatory agency programs there are relatively few mandatory reporting systems.

Bureaucrats in the departments and agencies have taken few positive steps to clarify the voluntary status of their reports. In some cases, the subcommittee found, administrators have used deceptive language in the wording of questionnaires with the apparent intention of misleading the public into believing that a voluntary report is required by law. A statement such as this may appear on a form: "Under authority of Public Law . . . Section . . . we are requesting you to supply the following information." Most persons, I'd think, would interpret that statement to mean that Congress specifically authorized the survey. However, the citation of law may refer to nothing more than a continuing general authority granted by Congress for an agency to inquire into, for example, "the extent of illness and disability" of the U. S. population.

The public has a two-fold stake in Government paperwork — as taxpayers, whose tax dollars go to support agency programs which generate the need, real or imagined, for data called for in the reports; and, second, as respondents furnishing the information to the Government. While the costs to the Government, and thus to the taxpayers, can be estimated with some accuracy, it is difficult to assess the total impact through unnecessary man-hours of work and worry imposed upon our people. Some Federal administrators seem to have little regard for the costs, direct and indirect, to the public. The Internal Revenue Service told the subcommittee that the average time necessary for completing the "Individual Income Tax" form — the long Form 1040 — was 20 minutes. The time required is more like 20 hours, as the IRS people must know. It would not be possible for an expert typist to copy some Form 1040's in 20 minutes, and that time would not include the hours necessary to assemble the needed data, do the arithmetic, and read and digest the complex tax regulations in an effort to avoid overpayment. Despite agency claims to the contrary, it was the conclusion of the investigating subcommittee that the IRS Form 1040 alone costs the public over $1 billion each year to complete, averaging man-hour costs between hired accountants and taxpayers.

One Bureau of Customs form for entry and clearance of vessels at U. S. ports requires that merchant ships record the number of guns they mount. This form has undergone little change over the years, pointing up what is true of many Government forms: They are based on outdated or outmoded laws. The requirement that merchant ships report on guns they mount dates back to 1790. No change has been made to simplify the reporting forms — and so the paperwork mounts.

 ECCLES, England (UPI) — Amateur actress Kathleen Lewis, acting her part of the shrew in "Kiss Me Kate" with considerable gusto, hurled a pewter tankard across the stage. It missed its target, bounced into the orchestra pit and clobbered trumpeter Clarence Crossdale.

Senate Fails to Take Action on Remapping

AUSTIN (UPI)—The Senate wrestled with its conscience and a pile of redistricting maps for nearly an hour Tuesday. But it took no action on redrawing the districts for its 31 members.

Finally, at noon, Sen. A. M. Aikin Jr. of Paris moved to recess. "It's Rotary (club) day, and I move we stand recessed," he said. There was no objection.

Consideration of San Saba Sen. Louis Crump's bill brought aroused debate from Sen. Abraham Kazen of Laredo. The bill throws coastal San Patricio County into Kazen's Rio Grande border district.

Crump said the change was made at the request of Sens. Jim Bates of Edinburg and Jim Bates of Edinburg and Bruce Reagan of Corpus Christi to keep their districts from overlapping. "I want to apologize that I can't satisfy everybody," Crump declared.

Sen. Martin Dies Jr. of Lufkin had earlier tried to delay consideration of redistricting until Friday. The bill came up last Thursday but was delayed until today at that time.

"We're not doing anything but hurting ourselves by delay," said Kazen. "It's got to be done by August, or the courts are going to do it. I for one want to take a crack at it first."

Dear Abby... There's No Doubt, Friends Will Return 'Favors'

DEAR ABBY: I know this will never get in your column but I am going to write it anyway just to get it off my chest. You always take the position that if a man cheats on his wife, and friends of the wife know about it, they should not tell the wife. I disagree with you. I have tipped off three of my friends when I found out their husbands were cheating on them. I didn't just "hear" that they were. I made it my business to get proof. All of these women thanked me for telling them. If my husband ever cheated on me, I would want my friends to tell me about it.

NEWPORT DEAR NEWPORT: Don't worry. They will.

DEAR ABBY: I am 26, have six children and another one on the way. My problem is my husband. He likes women. Last winter I caught him trying to kiss my sister. I couldn't take it, so I threw him out. I've been on welfare ever since. My husband keeps coming home for meals, to get his laundry done up, and he even sleeps here sometimes. He isn't supposed to be here at all. If my case worker at the welfare knew about it, she'd stop my checks. I told my husband if he liked home life so much he should live here and behave himself, but he says the kids make him too nervous for a steady grind. Should I let him stay? I miss him when he's gone.

BATON ROUGE DEAR BATON ROUGE: Talk to your case worker. The welfare department has been known to straighten out worse cases than your husband. And let this be a lesson to young women who bring six children into the world before discovering their husbands can't stand children.

DEAR ABBY: My sister, who is a very beautiful woman, was widowed two years ago in her mid-40's. Her husband left her with a large sum of money, plus a thriving business. She has been pursued by every eligible bachelor in town, but she vows she will not marry a man unless he can match her dollar for dollar. I can understand why she wouldn't want to get stuck with a man who wanted her only for her money, but there aren't that many in town who can match her wealth. One very fine man she's been seeing is crazy about her, but she won't marry him because of her "rule" about money. The sad part of it is, I think she really cares for him, and she couldn't get a better husband for herself

Opti-Mrs. Discuss Softball Program

The regular meeting of Pampa Evening Opti-Mrs. was held recently in the Hospitality Room of Citizens' Bank, with Mrs. Virgil Frasier, president, presiding.

A report was given on the Tasting Bee held recently. The proceeds go to the scholarship fund and the girls' softball program. The Opti-Mrs. Scholarship was given to Diana Stewart. The presentation was made by Mrs. W. C. Epperson.

The summer softball program for girls was discussed. Mrs.

Buddy Thornton is chairman. Several coaches and sponsors are still needed for the teams. Registration will be announced later.

All members were urged to attend the District Optimists Convention to be held May 20, 21 and 22 in Lubbock. Two delegates were selected to attend as representatives from the Pampa club.

Hostesses for the evening were Mmes. Art Ziebarth, Jerry Clark and Jack McCabe.

Mrs. Lyle Presents 'Iris Propagation' Talk to Pampa Garden Club Members

Pampa Garden Club met in the home of Mrs. W. M. Purviance at 802 West Francis, with Mrs. Joe Snelton as co-hostess.

Mrs. Milo Carlson conducted a business session and opened the meeting with Mrs. A. J. Mitchell giving the Club Collect. Minutes were read by Mrs. Owen Gee. Treasurer's report was made by Mrs. Bob Miller. Mrs. Carlos Grissom gave a report on the flower arrangements made for the Key Club Banquet. Mrs. Bud Hogan made several comments concerning the table decorations.

Mrs. W. E. Hinton requested that the club host the Senior Citizens at a future date and also mentioned that the club has iris bulbs for sale to members. A report by Mrs. Robert Warren Jr. was made about taking flowers to the Rest Home and suggested that the club try to do so regularly. Mrs. Warren and Mrs. Hogan gave a report on the Litterbug Campaign for this year. It was suggested that a film on "Littering" be ordered and shown to school children so that they may become aware of the littering problem. It was also recommended that a poster contest on "Litter Bugs" be held at a future date.

Mrs. Thelma Bray asked the club to establish a civic beautification fund. Mrs. Bray also asked the club for approval of having Aspen Park used for Easter Sunday sunrise services. Therapy chairman, Mrs. V. N.

Osborn, gave a report on working with residents at the Rest Home by helping them set out plants.

Following reports by various chairmen, Mrs. John Lyle, member of the Iris Society of America, presented the program "Iris Propagation." Mrs. Lyle showed several species of Hybridized Iris and explained how to transplant pollen from one iris to another in order to make seed pods, thus crossing varieties. It was suggested by Mrs. Lyle that you make at least four crosses so that you will be sure of at least one taking. After establishing seed pods you may then plant your seeds in small containers and transplant when the plant is about two to three inches high. There should be some bloom the first year. The second year you will be able to determine the exact color you have crossed. Mrs. Lyle explained the branching of the iris that is best for show purposes. Several samples of Mrs. Lyle's plants that have been crossed were shown and explained. Mrs. Lyle went on to say that the parent plant must be chosen carefully so that the yield of seed pods will be of high quality. It was also stated that some iris will pod and some will not. Therefore, only thru experimentation can one know which will be parent plants. Many hybridizers are trying to grow a shorter iris that will withstand the wind and be of particular value in this locality.

Mrs. Lyle said that hybridizing must be studied carefully before trying any cross pollenization. Present were Mmes. Bert Robinson, V. N. Osborn, Lee Harrah, W. E. Hinton, A. J. Mitchell, Thelma Bray, W. R. Parrish, Lee Moore, C. C. Matheny, W. R. Campbell, Carlos Grissom, Robert Warren Jr., W. L. Waggoner, H. H. Boynton, Milo Carlson, W. E. Hinton, Tom Price, Bob Miller, E. W. Hogan, Ed Parsons, James McCune, Owen Gee, John Sweeney, W. M. Purviance, Joe Shelton, Melvin Bailey and John Lyle, guest.

Gardening News

By THELMA BRAY

The following is quoted from a recent gardening magazine: "There's a sense of security in a tree. Once it sets its roots, you know it plans to stay right there for a good, long time. That is why a good tree is a practical investment. The older it gets, the more it and the property it shelters are worth in cash, comfort, and charm."

"But an unwisely selected or carelessly planted tree can become a monumental headache. Your windows may be blocked, your waterpipes burst, your neighbors alienated by encroaching limbs or roots, your family menaced by an overgrown driveway, and your sleep ruined by banging branches on a wild winter night — all from planting the wrong tree in the wrong place."

"So before buying a tree find out what it's going to become in another ten or even twenty years. Find out how tall it will grow, and how fast. Learn its spread at maturity and whether this is low down, as with spruce or high overhead, as with an oak. Is it deep- or shallow-rooted? A whole garden can be grown under a deep-rooted tree, but shallow roots choke out all other plants."

"Deciduous trees for the home grounds are of two general types: large shade trees beneath which you will be able to walk when the tree is mature, and smaller decorative trees to plant singly in the lawn or border. This is an over-simplification, but can be used as a practical guide."

An attractive tree is now blooming on the south side of the Gant Anderson home at 2101 N. Banks. It is the Rose Acacia, or Sweet Pea Tree, which is sometimes grown as a shrub. An edging plant or ground cover which has been beautiful for several weeks now is Ceras-trium. It has gray foliage and a mass of small white blooms. It is hardy and seemingly free of insect or disease damage. According to the gardening encyclopedia, it is also called Snow-in-Summer.

Just wondering if anyone has missed the Elm Tree seeds which did not shower down upon us this year. Maybe gardeners will now be able to get rid of all the little elms that managed to get a toehold last year before another crop appears.

The Iris, Peonies and Colum-bines have been beautiful. The fragrance of some of the Iris makes walking in the garden such a pleasant experience.

The Peony is one of the hardest and most easily grown of any of the perennials. When once established, peonies will continue to flower year after year. Indeed, some of the old-fashioned types are still blooming in gardens where they were planted more than a century ago.

The Top O' Texas Garden Club and the Mr. and Mrs. Garden Club are cooperating in the promotion of a flower show with the theme of "Rhapsody in Flowers." The show will be open to the public from 2 to 7 p.m. on Saturday, May 22 in the Lovett Memorial Library.

Anyone who has Roses, Iris or any other entry which can be entered in the show may bring it to the Library from 8 to 11 a.m. on Saturday. No admission.

your will be charged. Mark it on your calendar and be sure to attend. Flower shows are always attractive.

May 18 through May 22 will be days to destroy weeds and obnoxious growth according to the moon signs. May 23, 24, 25 will be good planting days. Come out to Yeager and Starkweather St. Park to help garden club women and park Department employes on Friday morning at 9.

The most popular lengths in pearl necklaces are the single 22-inch matinee length, double matinee length, 30-inch opera length, and the single or double choker. The Jewelry Industry Council reports these are all styled to accent the fashions of this season's clothes.

Pampans 'Must' Top Rebs

The Pampa Harvesters, after running up a 13-game winning streak, longest in the history of district 3-AAAA, with every game having been a "must," come down to the biggest must of all this afternoon at 4 p.m. when they visit the Amarillo Sandies.

The Monterey Plainsmen closed out their season yesterday with an 11-0 smashing of the Plainview Bulldogs, giving them a 14-2 loop record and at least a share of their sixth consecutive district baseball title.

If the Harvesters defeat Tascosa today, they will tie for the crown, and force a two-of-three playoff for the district honors.

Coach Deck Woldt, using his ace for the crucial game, will pitch Jerry "Chinky" Garrison, 10-1 on the season and 6-1 in district. Tascosa, which went down to a 12-2 stomping at the hands of Pampa in their previous clash, will probably pitch Johnny Johnson, who saw one inning's action in the last game.

PHS coach Deck Woldt said that if the playoffs were necessary, they would probably start them as soon as possible, although the district champion does not have to be certified until May 29.

Sadecki Stirs Slumping St. Louis

By United Press International — It just may be that Ray Sadecki is a slow starter and the slumping St. Louis Cardinals have been waiting for him to get rolling.

Last season Sadecki lost his first five starts and wound up with 20 victories. So, after seeing him lose his first four decisions this season, small wonder that his teammates crowded around him with congratulations after he defeated Philadelphia 8-2 Tuesday night for his first triumph.

The victory put the Cardinals barely over .500 and lodged them in a tie for fourth with the Phillies and Braves.

Sadecki went the distance, scattering five hits. He fanned five and walked only three.

Other NL Games — In other National League games the Cubs outlasted the Giants 7-6, Milwaukee edged the Mets 4-3 and Houston halted Los Angeles 4-1. Pittsburgh and the Reds were rained out at Cincinnati. The Cardinals backed Sadecki with an 11-hit attack. Julian Javier had three hits in four trips, driving in two runs. Tim McCarver and Bill White each had two RBI's.

The Phils got their runs on fourth-inning home runs by Richie Allen and Alex Johnson.

Brilliant Play — Eddie Mathews made a brilliant play to start a game-ending double play that shut off a Meet rally in the ninth. Joe Christopher and Charlie Smith had singled and Ron Swoboda doubled home Christopher. After one was out Jesse Gonder was purposely walked to fill the bases. Pinch hitter Jim Hickman smashed a one-hop liner to Mathews' left. Eddie made a diving stop of the ball, whipped it to Frank Bolling at second and Bolling threw on to first ahead of Hickman.

Swoboda and Rico Carty of the Braves had hit two-run homers in the second that resulted in a 2-2 tie. Bolling doubled in the go-ahead run in the fourth and singled in the eventual winning run in the eighth. Tony Cloninger went the route for his fifth victory.

The Cubs had to come from behind twice to beat the Giants in the only day game in the majors. Willie Mays hit his 14th homer of the season with two mates aboard to highlight a four-run Giant first inning.

Hart, Alou Homer — The Cubs picked up one in the bottom of the first, and in the second scored three more on two singles, an error and Len Gabrielson's pinch-hit, two-run homer. Jay Alou and Jim Hart homered for the Giants in the third.

Doug Clemens' double a walk, Bobby Pena's single, another walk and a double by Don Landrum in the third put the Cubs ahead to stay in the game which was called after seven and one-half innings because of rain. Bob Humphreys picked up the victory.

Ken Johnson pitched six and one-third innings of no-hit ball against the Dodgers before Ron Fairly's grounder hit first base and bounced into the outfield for a double. Johnson, relieved by Hal Woodeshick in the ninth, picked up his third victory against one loss.

The Astros got two runs in the third on an error, a walk, a sacrifice and Bob Aspromonte's two-run single. John Bate-man had a solo homer for Houston. Dodger starter Jim Brewer was the loser.

Bases On Balls Beat Boston, 4-3

By United Press International — It's those bases on balls that give pitchers nightmares.

Take Dick Radatz of the Boston Red Sox for instance. Tuesday night against the Yankees he struck out six consecutive batters but walked the lead-off man in the bottom of the 12th inning and Tom Tresh tripled him home with the winning run in a 4-3 Yankee victory.

The Monster had come into the game in the ninth inning in relief of Dave Morehead, who had pitched no-hit ball for six innings. It was the first time the Yankees beat Radatz in his six decisions against them.

Ray Barker, who had broken Morehead's no-hitter with a single, homered to lead off the ninth. Radatz came in and gave up the tying run on singles by Horace Clarke, Bob Schmidt and Bobby Richardson.

Then the Monster struck out Mickey Mantle, Joe Pepitone and Barker in the 10th and Clete Boyer, Pedro Ramos and Schmidt in the 11th. The American League record for consecutive strikeouts is seven. Then came the walk to Phil Linz, a pop-up and Tresh's smash that hit the auxiliary scoreboard in right centerfield, allowing Linz to leg it all the way in.

In other league action, Cleveland edged Baltimore 1-0, Washington pounded Detroit 15-9, Chicago beat Kansas City 5-4 and Los Angeles defeated Minnesota 3-1.

Fred Whitfield's single in the sixth inning drove in Joe Azcue from third base with the only run as Cleveland pitcher Jack Kralick picked up his first victory against two defeats. Don McMahon finished the last two innings for Kralick, who broke a blister on his pitching hand. Robin Roberts went the distance in defeat. It was his third loss against four victories.

Frank Howard had a grand slam homer in the Washington triumph, and Willie Kirkland drove in four runs with a home run and a bases-loaded single. Phil Ortega, who worked seven innings, was credited with his fourth victory against as many losses. Woodie Held also homered for the Nats while Al Kaline and Dick McAuliffe had home runs for the Tigers. Hank Aguirre lost his first game in five decisions.

The White Sox, who lead the league, scored five runs in the fifth inning and made them hold up as Kansas City peeked away. Danny Cater, who led the Chicago with three hits, drove in the first run with a two-out single. Then Orlando Pena, who lost his sixth consecutive game, walked the next three batters, with a pass to Pete Ward driving in a run.

Moeb Drabowsky came in to relieve Pena and wild pitched the third run home. Ron Hansen followed with a single to center to score two runs. Bill Bryan had a home run for the A's. Joe Horien scattered six hits in picking up his fourth victory in seven decisions.

Joe Adcock's two-run, eighth-inning double was the big blow in giving Marcelino Lopez his fifth victory for the Angels against three losses. The Angels scored three runs in the inning.

Sportsmen - Target Shooters - Arms Collectors - Firearms Dealers

This is to alert you to the most serious anti-firearms legislation ever proposed. On March 22, 1965 Senator Dodd of Conn., introduced into the U.S. Senate another firearms control Bill (S-1592)—which has the backing of PRESIDENT JOHNSON and his administration. An identical bill (HR-6628) was introduced into the House of Representatives by Congressman Murphy of New York. A resume of these bills indicates:

- They apply to all guns - pistols - shotguns and rifles - alike.
- NO EXCEPTION is made for antique or other collector weapons.
- ANY WEAPON over .50 caliber would fall into the "DESTRUCTIVE DEVICES" category and would require a Dealers License of $1000.00 a year, this would include your ANTIQUE GUNS, FLINTLOCKS, PERCUSSIONS, CIVIL WAR CARBINES, MUSKETS, etc. Private Individuals could not possess or purchase and weapon over 50 caliber.
- They prohibit the sale or shipment in interstate commerce of any type of gun between persons,
- RELOADERS: Those who reload .38 Special ammunition for resale and shotgun shells for their club take note: A Manufacturer's License of $1000.00 a year would be required. ANYONE who reloads ammunition would be affected by this.
- Prohibit the sale of a gun over the counter to anyone who does not live in the state where the sale is made.
- Gives the Secretary of the Treasury broad regulatory powers which could result in total registration or arms.

Write your U.S. Senators and Representatives in Washington stating your opinion of the above Bills and urging them not to support same but to support a MIS-USE OF FIREARMS BILL. Specifically ask them to vote against S1591 - S1592 - S1180 - S1148 - ask them to support the Casey Bill HR 5642 a mis-use of firearms bill). Rep. Walter Rogers House Office Bldg. Washington 25, D. Write to President Johnson, The White House, Washington, D.C. a similar letter to that outlined to the Senators and Representatives.

KEEP INFORMED OF GUN LEGISLATION AT YOUR STATE AND LOCAL LEVEL OF GOVERNMENT — Remember that not all gun legislation is bad — many existing laws need modifying.

WRITE your STATE GOVERNOR, ASSEMBLYMEN AND SENATORS asking them to SUPPORT MIS-USE OF FIREARMS BILLS and ask for PUBLIC HEARINGS on SPECIFIC FIREARMS BILLS.

Sporting Sidelines

By JEFF COHANE

PUTT POWELL, the poison pen of the Panhandle, is at it again, with about as foul and scurrilous an attack on Pampa as this department has ever seen. The Westbrook Pegler of the Golden Plains has more or less laid off Pampa lately, but his vitriolic typewriter has just come out with a gem accusing the Pampa baseball team, coach Deck Woldt and the Pampa school authorities of practically cheating to win a share of the district 3-4A pennant. Although we are not prone especially to defend the school authorities, we do not like to see the honor of a fine coach and a fine team impugned, especially when the charge is an out-and-out falsehood.

This is the slimy slur on Pampa that was printed in yesterday's issue of the Amarillo Globe-News.

I hope Pampa wins the District 3-AAAA baseball championship. But I think that's giving the Harvesters an unfair advantage to postpone their last scheduled game with Tascosa until Wednesday afternoon at the Tascosa Field.

Pampa and Monterey are tied for first place. Each team has one more game. Monterey was slated to wind up against Plainview this afternoon in Lubbock. The delay will give the Harvesters an extra day of rest. That's especially helpful to the pitchers. Monterey and Pampa both played Saturday.

Pampa asked for the postponement saving the seniors were taking their final exams today. That must have been known for several weeks. Why did the authorities wait until it was known that the Tascosa game would be so important? Amarillo authorities had to grant permission for the delay. That won't help our relations with Lubbock.

OF ALL the untrue statements ever made, this is it. First of all, Putt-Putt, as can be verified by checking back issues of the News, coach Woldt and Weldon Trice have planned this change for some weeks back, long before the Harvesters looked like a cinch for a piece of the title. Pampa's final exams are on different dates from those of the Amarillo teams. However, Trice could not discuss the arrangement with Amarillo AD De Walker until it was near the decision time, because if the Harvesters and the Rebels were out of competition, it wouldn't have mattered much either way.

As coach Woldt said "the insinuation that this was done to give Pampa an advantage in the district baseball race is absolutely untrue." Nuff said.

The reason it has not happened before in recent years is that this is the first time that the Harvesters have had more than just one or two seniors on the club, and not having been in a flag race on this date before, have been able to give those seniors the day off if it conflicted with exams.

As far as Powell's last paragraph about piously wishing to avoid trouble with Lubbock on Pampa's account, hah! If either the Amarillo or Lubbock authorities had any thoughts comparable to your back-biting ones, Putt-Putt, they wouldn't have allowed the switch. All you want to do is stir up trouble and make Pampa look bad. No matter what you say, no one here can possibly look as bad as your evident slanders make you look to anyone who takes the time to verify your allegations.

Sonics Surprise, Win Ball Game!

By United Press International
The Texas League's Western Division teams smashed their Eastern Division brothers for the second straight night Tuesday night.

Tuesday night's action saw Amarillo beating Austin 12-2, Albuquerque nailing Dallas-Fort Worth 8-4 and El Paso trimming Tulsa 7-3.

The results left the division races unchanged, with Albuquerque still leading El Paso by a game in the West and Dallas-Fort Worth ahead of Tulsa by ½ in the East.

The Sonics bats boomed all night, but the big blows were a pair of two-run home runs by Dave Adlesh and Leo Posada. Ray Cordiero held the Braves in check for six innings, but needed relief help by Don Brady.

The Dodgers came from behind in the bottom of the sixth with four big runs to whip the Spurs. Jim Capnanis kept the Dodgers in the game in the early innings with a two-run homer.

El Paso got out in front quickly, scoring three runs in each of the first two innings, and were never threatened in defeating the Oilers.

The Pampa Daily News A Watchful Newspaper EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities. We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government.

Speaking of 'Dividing Up Sides'

Not having seen the "wonderful idea" in "that Kansas newspaper" which Publisher Ernest Joiner of the Sebastopol (Calif.) Times lauds in his "It Sez Here" column, we cannot here and now give proper credit. But we will be proud and happy to make suitable acknowledgment if Ernie or some other reader will identify the source. This is what Publisher Joiner says: "That's a wonderful idea that Kansas newspaper has to divide up the United States, putting the free-enterprisers in one half of the nation and the welfare staters and incipient socialists in the other half. Each half would be free to have the kind of government it prefers. If such an experiment could be accomplished, it isn't hard to forecast the results. Within no time at all, the economy on the free enterprise side of the national dividing line would be booming, its culture flourishing, and its people free and optimistic. On the welfare side of the line, the people would be so busy robbing each other to finance their so-called 'social gains,' that they would have no time to produce wealth of any kind. Would any of our devotees to the Great Society concept care to risk this test?" Well, now, if we were to ask Willis E. Stone — another Californian who is chairman of the Liberty Amendment Committee of the USA (6413 Franklin Ave., Los Angeles 48, Calif.), he would probably say that we

Like They Say, Knowledge Pays

In the spring of 1965 a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of money. This no longer necessarily means that he's a baseball bona-bus baby. He can now be a college senior with nothing more to offer than mere academic excellence, above-average intelligence and the good judgment to have chosen a field of endeavor that is valuable to business and industry. If he has these simple requirements, he can be sure that industry is knocking at the campus gates to sign him up. To make the transaction attractive to the grade A college grad, industry is using practical bait — money. And more of that than ever before. While the financial inducements offered the standout business prospect are not in the same league with the fantastic contracts shoved at budding

VIET NAM Not Civil Uprising

By BRUCE BLOSSAT Washington Correspondent WASHINGTON (NEA) — Despite stubborn assertions to the contrary, the long struggle in South Viet Nam has not been primarily a civil war.

Sens. George McGovern of South Dakota and Wayne Morse of Oregon have given new voice to the contention it is a civil war. They are echoed elsewhere in public life, and in the academic world among both professors and students.

In his new book, "The Making of a Quagmire," New York Times foreign correspondent David Halberstam says flatly: "The new Indochina war was not a spontaneous uprising from the south. It was part of a systematic and calculated conspiracy on the part of the Communist government in Hanoi to take over the south."

Bernard Fall, recognized authority on Viet Nam, indicates again and again through his writings that the current war was given its impetus and has taken its direction and key support from Hanoi.

Neither these two nor other concurring first-hand observers can be dismissed as parroting an official U.S. government line. They have relied heavily on independent sources of information and judgment. They are highly critical of many aspects of both American and South Vietnamese policy and performance.

McGovern says the war really is between the Saigon government and the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front.

Fall points out that, although the NLF was set up in December, 1960, this flimsy Hanoi facade never got around to disclosing names of its alleged leaders until mid-April of 1962. To Fall, this was proof of NLF's "wholly artificial character."

"Even in 1962, the NLF bothered to announce only 30 of its 82-member committee."

That same year, Hanoi created the Viet Nam People's Revolutionary Party for the South, but announced no names of founders. Circulars from hard-core Lao-Dong Communist party headquarters in North Viet Nam informed Lao-Dong members in the south that the new party was merely a tactical necessity and would be under Lao-Dong control.

The intent, plainly, was to set up a party which could pretend to be free of ties with Hanoi. On the military side, the picture is muddier, yet it offers no great factual triumph for the "civil war" argument.

Fall says that by mid-1963 Hanoi may have dispatched 12,000 infiltrators into South Viet Nam. Much earlier, he indicates, the North-Vietnamese had infiltrated two full division staffs to lead and co-ordinate guerrilla operations below the 17th parallel.

From what sources were these infiltrators drawn? In the exchange or repatriated persons after the Geneva pact of 1954, some 100,000 Red soldiers — including many native southerners — went north. Also making the trek were substantial numbers of raw recruits, and many dependents of hard-core guerrillas left behind. A large portion of all these were trained for later fighting or underground effort in South Viet Nam.

But the actual beginning of warfare in South Viet Nam goes back to 1957, when murderous assaults on key village officials were reported in great volume in the southernmost sectors. Aimed at destroying the country's administrative and economic fabric, these attacks now have killed some 15,000 leaders in all areas.

The guerrillas who began the conflict in this manner were no innocent peasants distressed over the price of rice in Saigon. They were some 5,000-6,000 veterans of the war with the French. They just stayed behind at repatriation time.

Says Fall in "The Two Viet Nams": "A smaller group of elite guerrillas... quietly buried its well-greased weapons, hid its portable radio transmitters, and returned for the time being to the humdrum tasks of sowing and harvesting rice."

Clearly they had southern sympathizers from the outset. But their ample native recruits have come in good part from the loyalty won by success or compelled by terror. No expert knows the real mixture. And, in any event, the guiding hand was always moving in Hanoi.

WASHINGTON—Sargent Shriver, the President's commander-in-chief in the war against poverty, appears caught in the eye of a growing political storm in Congress.

Encouraged by Shriver's back-down to Representative Adam Clayton Powell's demands for a bigger voice in New York's anti-poverty program, an increasing number of congressional delegations are lambasting Shriver for failing to consult them on projects for their states.

The lawmakers are keeping the wires and mail to the White House and Shriver sizzling with complaints that they are being bypassed on local projects and job appointments.

Illustrative is the protest lodged with President Johnson and Shriver by the entire New Mexico delegation, headed by Senators Clinton Anderson and Joseph Montoya. D.

Senator Anderson, a former Cabinet member and one of the President's original political supporters, notified the White House, "If Sarge Shriver hasn't any more control over this program in other states than he has in New Mexico, it's a mess."

He sardonically reported, "Shriver never needed any help on a single appointment in New Mexico. His organization is terrible and his aides apparently made all the appointments. He can't run the Peace Corps and the poverty program at the same time and expect to do a half decent job with either organization."

MAKING A POINT — To underscore his complaint, Anderson had all members of the New Mexico delegation sign a letter to Shriver, with copies to the White House, stating: "We are disturbed that we were not notified of the Office of Economic Opportunity's approval of Camp Luna in San Miguel County as a job corps conservation camp."

"We can well appreciate the President's desire to announce a new series of conservation camps at his press conference. We have no quarrel with that. Following the press conference, our office received inquiries as to which facilities had been approved for New Mexico. We had no information on which to base replies."

"Earlier, one of our offices (Anderson's) inquired of the Office of Economic Opportunity as to the status of Camp Luna; there was no indication that action was imminent. It was not until an hour and a half after the press conference, and after a good deal of telephoning, that we were able to obtain the information from OEO."

"We strongly suggest that in the future, if the White House should make announcements on other OEO activities in our state, your liaison people promptly notify our offices."

In addition to Senator Anderson, the letter was signed by Senator Montoya and the state's two representatives, Thomas Morris and E. S. Johnny Walker. D.

The legislators were less-diplomatic in their telephone calls. They made it clear to aides of the President that they wanted to be consulted in advance on poverty projects in their state, and all major appointments cleared through their offices.

Senator Carl Hayden, D-Ariz., chairman of the powerful Appropriations Committee, also has let Shriver know he is unhappy about the way the program is being handled in his state.

"Another problem I have is eliciting the most elementary information from the Office of Economic Opportunity about projects in my state," wrote Hayden. "My staff has repeatedly found it difficult, if not impossible, to carry out my requests for various status reports on applicants, information about staff offices, and even a working telephone list."

"In the future, I hope your liaison office will receive the cooperation it needs from other units; thus making it possible for me to serve the constituents of my state in the way they deserve."

Other Democratic congressional delegations have served similar notices on Shriver and the White House. They frankly warned that if the administration expects their help in voting larger amounts for these programs, they must be given a "voice" in the projects and hiring within their states.

CHANGING PLANS — Use of the anti-poverty program's Job Corps as a "disaster brigade" in flood and storm-stricken areas hasn't worked out as hoped for by Johnson administration officials.

Many Job Corps recruits sourced on the government's program, packed up and went home after a six-week assignment last January and February in the flood-ravaged areas of Oregon and northern California.

Director Sargent Shriver reports that Oregon's Governor Mark Hatfield was enthusiastic about the Job Corps' help, but the boys were not. They complained they didn't join the Corps to dig ditches and build dikes.

"We won't use the Corps for this purpose again," says Shriver. "The attrition rate is too high."

Dubbed "Operation Rehab," the Oregon-California project employed 200 Job Corps recruits, fresh from induction centers in scattered parts of the country. They were divided into 20-man teams to work with U.S. Park and Forest Service personnel in post-flood rehabilitation.

Shriver, reporting to legislators, said future relief work of this nature will be handled, if necessary, by local Neighborhood Youth Corps, now forming in metropolitan areas.

Cannel At Bay By Ward Cannel

Throw Your Rubbish Where Your Love Lies NEW YORK (NEA) — About the case of the New York City Police Department vs. Patrolman Daniel A. Fogerty— Well, we are quite dismayed to report this. Put the sad fact is, we have looked into the matter at some length and find we are unable to take sides one way or the other.

Pltman Fogerty, a bachelor aged 23, is facing a departmental trial on charges of having had an affair with "a woman not his wife."

The charges against him grew out of a complaint by the woman, who is also unmarried.

What she complained about specifically, we have not been able to find out. Nor why she complained to the police about it. Nor whether the department is having any trouble recruiting a replacement for Fogerty's beat.

All we can do is guess. And having done so, we must confess to a yawning disinterest in every possibility.

In fact, it is rather doubtful that we will buy a ticket when this story is made into a heart-warming movie. Even if it stars Rock Hudson, Doris Day and the entire New York Police Force.

And as for young Fogerty — we simply cannot say for sure how we will vote if he runs on his record for governor.

It is, as we said before, very disheartening to admit all of this. It has always been our understanding that no spectator sport could compare with Boy vs. Girl for bringing out the fans. Most especially if it were a slightly naughty game.

And then to wake up one morning and find out that you do not care who wins — it is the worst sort of discouragement.

It may be true that all the world loves a lover and Hell hath no fury like a woman scorned. It may be for our part, we do not particularly love lovers. Nor do we have any firm opinions about Hell any more.

As a matter of fact, we do not seem to have solid allegiances in most of the contests any more and must say it is a very dismaying way to live. But we do not see any way out of the predicament.

If you own a share of stock, how can you be against waste?

If you are against overpopulation how can you be in favor of public health?

If you are against the spread of communism in the Caribbean, how can you be against Russia's role in the Hungarian revolution?

If you are against adultery, how can you patronize the work of film stars?

If you are for free enterprise and against government intervention, where do you stand on anti-trust legislation?

If you want your kids to think for themselves, how can you be against disobedience?

If you are in favor of civil rights, how can you put Pltman Rogerty on trial?

We can think of a number of other dilemmas like this. But as they include motherhood and the American Medical Assn., we will leave them for another time.

Besides, the problem is already clear enough, namely how can you root for both sides at the same time without losing interest in the game.

Precisely — what is left to be wholeheartedly for or against we cannot say for certain. There is Red China, of course. And federal aid to parochial education. But we do not hear much argument about them.

In fact, the only case of moral outrage we can recall around town came from a local newspaper that came out unequivocally against the "New Yorker" magazine.

The one before that was the Seabury investigation of city corruption in 1932.

For more than 90 years the most familiar music in San Francisco has been the clackety-click and the constant clanging of its bells as the famed cable cars negotiate the picturesque steep hills of the Golden Gate city. Early this year the system was shut down and completely overhauled for the first time since the earthquake of 1906. These ancient Tonoverlives seat 34 passengers but double that number are always packed inside and hanging on the outside running boards. A cable moving at 9 miles an hour in a slot under the street furnishes power to the car's grip — man who makes and releases contact. San Francisco is the only city in the world today operating a cable car system.

Today's smile: A wife, trying on a new hat, was surprised by her husband, who asked: "Where did you ever find a bonnet like that? It looks awful!" Wiley replied: "It was on sale and I got it for a song." "In that case," said the husband, "the store was gypped. I've heard you sing."

The Post Office Department doesn't spend all of its time delivering mail and trying to make the ZIP code work. Postal inspectors recently issued a fraud order against a Toronto, Canada firm buying the finished products and advertised in U.S. newspapers for American women to earn money at home by sewing baby shoes with the firm buying the finished products. Thousands of women fell for the scheme. There was a $2 registration fee and the promoter accepted the work of less than 1 per cent of each 100 applicants. What a gyp!

It's a nationwide communications network using the Citizens Band two-way radio. Highlights and Sidelights From the State Capital

By VERN SANFORD

AUSTIN, Tex. — Uppermost question in the minds of tax payers and legislators is — will there be a new tax bill?

Answer rests with the lawmakers. And their decision depends on whether or not a teacher pay raise bill is passed.

About $73,500,000 in new state revenue would be needed to cover the cost of Texas State Teachers Association's $45-in-'65 program.

Alternate proposal offered by Gov. John Connally to reward experienced teachers at an accelerated rate would cost the state an estimated $64,700,000.

Both plans are based on cost estimates for the next two years and would, of course, call for additional local money.

Hundreds of teachers jammed into the legislative chambers for hearings on the teacher-pay-raise bills, putting all the pressure possible on the legislators.

TSTA stresses that many local districts cannot afford to pay a higher share of the salaries called for in the governor's plan and that this is a state responsibility anyway.

Governor Connally says "Texas will continue to lag far behind the national average in school teacher salaries until local support shows the same increase expected of the state government."

He contends TSTA is not telling the whole story. "They never admit that state support of our public schools is $56 a pupil above the national average, while local support is $93 below the national average."

While compromise efforts floundered, a sub-committee of the House Revenue and Taxation Committee methodically and quietly reviewed some ideas for producing more income.

Considered was an additional tax of three cents a pack on cigarettes. This would raise about $69,600,000.

Other suggestions reviewed by the five-member group include: —A two per cent sales tax on beer and liquor, $22,000,000;

—Restoration of the 50 cents per $1,000 corporation franchise surtax, $24,000,000;

—A one-shot inheritance tax payment date adjustment, $6,000,000.

Senators want the House to pass a tax bill before any agreement is reached on a teacher pay raise.

A House tax committee member, active in the sub-panel deliberations, says pay raises should be determined before tax drafters decide how big a bill to write.

With the legislative session rapidly drawing to a close, and many differences still unresolved, a teacher pay raise is by no means a certainty. A breakdown in negotiations could mean no tax bill at all during the regular session.

RECORD BUDGET — Both houses passed the $3,700,000,000 conference committee appropriations bill, which calls for expenditures of $154,000,000 over the current level.

Education got the biggest share of increases in the biennial budget. These increases included $80,500,000 for the 22 state colleges and universities; $10,400,000 for public junior colleges; $89,700,000 for public schools; and $11,600,000 for vocational and technical education.

Salaries of state employees, in the classified service, will be increased 3.4 per cent each year and welfare spending will go up $16,000,000. Judges from the district court to the Supreme Court levels will get substantial raises in their annual salaries.

Soil Conservation Board was given an $89,155 increase for its operations, including $28,000 more for watershed planning. An additional $3,800,000 was set aside for the Water Development Board which is being reorganized. Department of Agriculture will get a $1,400,000 increase. Animal Health Commission gets $1,800,000 less than the current spending level since the federal government is taking over responsibility for screw-worm control.

COUNTY STUDY PROPOSED — Rep. Alonzo Jamison of Denton has introduced legislation which would authorize a thorough study of county government, with a special eye to eliminating county offices which may have outlived their usefulness.

Jamison told the House State Affairs Committee, which took his bill under study, that he thinks offices such as county treasurer, justice of the peace and constable should be studied as to their necessity and effectiveness. Study also would seek ways of freeing county officials from what Jamison believes are overly restrictive statutes.

NO MORE ROAD GANGS — Rep. Vernon Beckham of Denton got easy approval in the House of a bill to repeal a series of 1876 laws, including one which still requires all men 21 to 45 to spend five days a year on a road gang.

Laws are not enforced, but still are on the books, and Beckham thought it a good idea to eliminate them.

REDISTRICTING WOES — As if legislators did not have enough problems with teacher pay raises, the even thornier problem of redistricting is upon them.

Senate is in-fighting over proposed plans for Senate redistricting, which necessarily will remove some of the present members.

On the other hand, the Senators are not likely to agree with the House version of congressional redistricting.

Governor Connally, meanwhile, hinted he may not call a special session if there is no agreement on redistricting, leaving the matter up to the federal courts.

AG OPINIONS — Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr holds that: —A county depository bank cannot be selected which has among its directors or stockholders the county judge, county attorney, county clerk or county treasurer.

—Law officers may use force in handling mentally ill persons to protect themselves, the persons and public.

—Attoyac Bayou Watershed Authority has legal authority to develop a multi purpose reservoir, including recreational use, and may use tax funds to finance and maintain it.

—Highway Commission can sell surplus land and improvements directly to the City of Lamesa for established value without advertising and taking sealed bids.

—U-Haul trailers are taxable in individual counties which are their business sites.

—Hillsboro Junior College District can levy 30 cents tax for maintenance and 50 cents tax for servicing bonds.

SINGLE HOUSE PROPOSED — House Constitutional Amendments Committee approved for floor debate a proposed amendment to create a 10-member unicameral (one house) legislature for Texas.

Proponents said — measure strikes at inherent evils of the conference committee where so much major legislation is written behind closed doors and hastily voted on in closing hours of a session.

AMENDMENTS PROPOSED — A house-passed resolution to repeal the poll tax, as a requirement for voting, received approval of the Senate Constitutional Amendments Committee. An election is proposed in November of 1966.

Another amendment resolution cleared for Senate debate is HJR 38 to remove from constitution restrictions on soldier voting in state.

DESALINIZATION PROPOSED — The U. S. Corps of Engineers recommends that the federal government spend $4,000,000 to eliminate natural sources of salt pollution on the headwaters of the Wichita River. Uncle Sam would pay the full cost and the $21,300 a year needed to operate and maintain it.

Proposed are three low-flow dams, one on each fork of the Wichita, to capture water with high concentration of chloride. Water would be pumped to brine reservoirs for evaporation. Project would reduce chloride concentration in Lake Kemp near Wichita Falls to a safe level and would help alleviate salt-pollution at Lake Texoma on the Red River.

COLLEGE BOARD BILL VETOED — Governor Connally vetoed a bill that would transfer East Texas State University and West Texas State University from the Board of Regents for Texas State Teachers College to a separate board of regents for each.

Governor noted that he repeatedly had emphasized his opposition to creating more boards of regents. He also said language of the bill might "inadvertently exempt" the two institutions from coordination by the Coordination Board, Texas College and University System.

SHORT SNORTS — Senate passed a bill exempting many from laws prohibiting carrying of firearms. Senate approved a bill by Sen. Tom Creighton putting independent crude oil gathering systems under the common purchaser law and regulation by the Texas Railroad Commission.

House tentatively approved "freedom of information" bill to require governmental agencies (with several exceptions) to conduct their business in open meetings.

House passed a bill to abolish common law marriages.

Parks and Wildlife Commission will hold statutory quarterly meeting here May 31.

Fifty-third District Judge Harman Jones entered judgment of $395,519 against 11 defendants for alleged slant wells in Gregg, Rusk and Upshur counties.
