"The big difference: The non-socialist seeks a world where others may be socialists if they please. The non-socialist merely wishes not to be socialist himself. But the socialist, however well intentioned, cannot permit others to choose for themselves. Thus, the socialists will use force to compel the non-socialist to pay for and to support socialism."

OAS Takes Over in Dominican Fuss

Informal Cease-Fire Halts Bloody Fighting

SANTO DOMINGO (UPI) — An Inter American peace-keeping force, its muscle furnished by U.S. troops, today took over the job of ending the Dominican crisis. An informal cease-fire was in effect.

A Brazilian general, Hugo Panasco Alvim, was named to command the Organization of American States (OAS) force, the first such in hemispheric history. The U.S. ground commander, Lt. Gen. Bruce Palmer Jr., was named deputy commander.

Reports persisted that U.S. mediators were still seeking to persuade Dominican junta leader Maj. Gen. Antonio Imbert Barrera to step down to facilitate the solution of the political crisis, but American officials declined comment. All they would say was that McGeorge Bundy and Cyrus W. Vance, sent here by President Johnson, are still in town.

Imbert said Sunday he expected to remain in power when the civil war, entering its second month, comes to an end. He urged rebel leader Col. Francisco Caamano Dengo and his followers, pinned in a corner of the old city, to lay down their arms and surrender.

Some Latin Troops

OAS troops, now officially in charge of the peacekeeping here, consisted principally of U.S. Marines and paratroopers but included contingents from five Latin American nations—Brazil, Costa Rica, Nicaragua, Honduras and Guatemala.

It took over as U.S. Army briefing officers reported 13 ceasefire violations during the 24-hour period ending at midnight.

The Army said rebel units rolled two tear gas grenades toward U.S. troops manning a checkpoint near a power plant. The Americans donned gas masks but did not retaliate.

However, in a later incident at the power plant involving gunfire, American troops returned the fire.

Imbert made a 20-minute radio and television address in which he said his government would be dedicated to progressive legislation when peace is restored. The day was quiet with only scattered gunshots heard.

"Liberty will never be in danger under a government I lead," the junta leader declared. Imbert was one of the assassins of dictator Rafael Trujillo, who ruled the Dominican Republic for 33 years until he was gunned down four years ago.

The United States this week is expected to withdraw about 1,700 of the estimated 21,500 Marines and paratroopers on duty here.

American officials now feel the Dominican Republic will not fall victim to a Communist takeover. They also indicate they have reason to believe there will be no further heavy fighting.

The primary problem now is to find a political solution to the crisis and the United States is looking to OAS diplomats to help restore a constitutional government.

The United States would like to see a government with Antonio Guzman Silvestre as one of its leaders. The rebel commanders are known to be in favor of Guzman but Imbert and the junta leaders have refused to accept him as part of a compromise.

Police cars screaming throughout the city investigating the threats attracted crowds of people. One group of youngsters jeered the authorities by singing the Marseillaise, the French national anthem, and other French-language songs.

Police said they had put on extra patrols in anticipation of possible trouble during the holiday period by French Canadians who want separation from Canada.

The latest previous bomb attack here was directed against the United States.

Terrorists Strike in Montreal

MONTREAL (UPI)—Terrorists bombed an office building and threatened other attacks that sent police scurrying throughout the city early today as Canada began celebrations commemorating its ties with Britain.

Nobody was killed or injured in the blast, which police attributed to French Canadian separatists.

A homemade bomb containing four sticks of dynamite ripped off the front of a trust company office on the ground floor of a 12-story office building and shattered windows in other buildings along busy Dorchester Boulevard, Montreal's skyscraper alley.

Two police officers apparently tipped to the plot, spotted the bomb minutes before it exploded. They moved it to the sidewalk and ordered the street closed. A policeman, Sgt. Marcel de Larochelle, of the radio patrol squad, narrowly escaped injury.

Two other threats sent the bomb squad rushing to other sections of the city in the biggest outbreak of terrorism since the rash of bombings in 1962 that killed one person and maimed another.

A tip that a bomb was set to go off at the Fusilliers de Montreal Armory turned out to be a fake. Police found an empty brown paper bag which had been placed under one of the cannons in front of the building.

Another tip led the bomb squad to the city's main post office where they found two sticks of unwired dynamite wrapped in a French language newspaper.

The explosion occurred at 12:03 a.m. CST as Canada prepared to celebrate "Empire Day," a holiday in honor of Queen Victoria.

Sing Marseillaise

It damaged the offices of the Canada Trust Co. which are situated on the lower floors of the Prudential Assurance Co. of England, and shattered windows as high as the fifth floor in nearby buildings.

CLASS OF 1965 — This was the scene in Pampa High School Field House last evening as members of tonight's graduating class assembled for vespers ceremonies. The photo was snapped as Guy V. McCaskey, minister of the Mary Ellen and Harvester Church of Christ, delivered the baccalaureate sermon. The graduates return to the field house at 8 p.m. today to receive their diplomas at annual commencement exercises.

'Make Your Own Opportunities,' Seniors Told at Vespers Service

By TEX DEWESE
Happiness, success, accomplishment and attainment cannot be measured in material things, Guy Caskey, minister of Mary Ellen and Harvester Church of Christ, told the 377 members of the 1965 Pampa High School graduating class in his baccalaureate sermon at vespers services yesterday evening in the high school field house.

"The success of man cannot be measured by his worldly goods," Caskey said. "Success ought to be determined by dedication to right and truth and service to others. The real purpose of life — the function of our existence here is not materialistic."

The baccalaureate speaker stressed that most of the time "our views have become clouded and our spirit selfish."

He continued in part: "I wish I could impress on your hearts that self-preservation is not the most important thing in life," he told the graduates. "There are so many areas not yet explored. Explore them and let no one deter you in your efforts."

The graduates were implored to "Build your lives upon a firm foundation of rock and build it so it will endure. Make a practical application. Build moral, spiritual and intellectual principles that are of everlasting value."

Caskey told the graduates that he was not a believer in the old cliché that "opportunity knocks at your door."

"You make your own opportunities," he said. Referring to what he said he believed to be too much selfishness in the world, Caskey said: "You can best gain success and happiness if you will consider, esteem, serve and love one another unselfishly."

"Give yourself wholly. You have a challenge to extend your vision and your service. You should be prepared for opportunity. But I doubt that in the time in which we live if opportunity will knock at your door. You must make that opportunity and press it home on all occasions."

"There are three billion people in this crowded world, but on every hand there are opportunities unlimited. There is the challenge to make an all-out effort. Whatever you do, do it with all your might and power."

The vespers services were attended by some 1,500 parents, relatives and friends of the graduates who were seated on the basketball court, garbed in caps and gowns. They marched single file to their seats as the Pampa Harvester Band played the traditional professional, "Pomp and Circumstance." The invocation was given by the Rev. H. R. Meixner, pastor of Harrah Methodist Church. The A Cappella Choir sang "He Comes to Us." Rev. Harry Vanderpool, pastor of First Methodist Church, gave the scripture reading.

Following the baccalaureate sermon, the school band and choir joined for "Battle Hymn of the Republic." The benediction was given by Rev. M. B. Smith, school biology teacher. "Tannhauser March," was played by the band as the graduates left their seats and marched out of the auditorium.

The vespers services ended as the band played "Twilight Concert."

SENIORS TO GET DIPLOMAS

Commencement Set for Tonight

The climax of graduation ceremonies will come tonight when the Class of 1965 returns to the field house at 8 o'clock to receive their diplomas at annual commencement exercises.

The band will again play "Pomp and Circumstance" for the professional.

Rev. Carson Snow will deliver the invocation and Marshall Gardner accompanied by the band will play "Concerto for Trumpet."

Kyle Vann, salutatorian, will give the first of three inspirational speeches. Jim Arthur, 1965-66 class president, will speak, along with Valedictorian, Cynthia Plaster. Highlight of the graduation ceremonies will be the presentation of diplomas and conferring of honors.

The diplomas will be presented by L. J. Edmondson, school superintendent; Cameron Marsh, principal and Billy Cooper, assistant principal.

Following presentation of diplomas, the 1965 graduating class will sing, "Dear Old Pampa High School," while the audience stands.

The benediction will be given by Rev. Olin Wright and commencement ceremonies will end with the recessional, "Tannhauser March," by the school band.

$71 Million Tax Bill Vote Due Wednesday

AUSTIN (UPI)—The House will vote "by Wednesday at the latest" on a tax bill of at least $71 million to pay for a teacher salary hike, Speaker Ben Barnes said today.

Barnes said the bill would be unveiled this afternoon or Tuesday. He declined to say what items will be taxed until Gov. John Connally lays out his taxation recommendations, probably this afternoon.

The speaker also said there was a "strong possibility" that the House will pass another bill redistricting itself. The new bill would be identical to the one passed last week except that it would cross county lines in order to remove 11 "floating" districts written into the original bill.

The second bill would apply only if federal courts declare the flatorial districts illegal, Barnes said. In flatorial districts surplus population in middle-sized counties is joined in an at-large district with one or more adjoining counties instead of being split off to form an individual district.

Barnes said he wants the House and Senate to agree beforehand not to send the tax bill to a conference committee. "I think we can write one that the House, the Senate and the governor can agree on," he said.

"Sin taxes" are favorites at teacher-pay time, and the smokers of the state soon may face the highest cigarette tax in the nation — 11 cents per pack. The current rate is eight cents.

The three-cent add-on would generate $66 million of the state's $70 million share in the teacher raise. Another problem is what to do about HemisFair

'68.—San Antonio's extravaganza now in the planning stages. San Antonio seeks $7.5 million in state aid for the fair, and Cory has said a delayed decision on the matter might force a special tax bill for the state share in the exposition.

The Senate's interest in remapping itself delayed consideration of the congressional redistricting bill the House approved earlier in the month.

Capitol oracles prophesied a down-to-the-line fight over congressional remapping, partly hinging on the personal ambitions of two men.

Rep. Wayne Connally of Floresville, the governor's youngest brother, is considering a try for Congress in the new South Texas district 23 the House plan creates. It is a section devoid of an incumbent.

Sen. Abraham Kazen of Laredo eyes the area, too, although the House plan leaves him in the same district with the Lower Rio Grande Valley Congressman, Rep. Eligio De la Garza.

In committee action tonight the House State Affairs Panel considers Waco Rep. George Cowden's call for a study of laws which treat women unfairly.

The House Constitutional Amendments committee considers a measure by Rep. Bill Satterwhite of Ennis which would allow legislative remappers to carve through county lines. The House reapportionment plan approved last week had to be redrawn quickly because of Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr's opinion that districts cutting county lines would not stand under the Texas Constitution.

Automation Slowly Killing Out Union Strike Threats

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's top labor mediator believes that organized labor's major weapon—the strike—has become almost useless in a few automated industries.

William E. Simkin, director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, said the power of a union walkout to affect a company may be diminishing in other areas, too.

"Automated production methods will increasingly change the balance of power under any system that relies too heavily on economic sanctions," Simkin said in an annual report to Congress.

"In the interest of maintaining a free economy, this emerging change deserves more considered attention than is presently accorded it," Simkin added.

He did not list industries where he believed the strike weapon is practically worthless as a method of applying pressure for a settlement. But union leaders have conceded that strikes probably are outmoded at highly automated oil refineries or in the telephone industry.

Simkin also said there was a "developing trend of unrest" at the local union level that may require changes in bargaining practices in major industries.

Rejection of the 1964 contract negotiated by national officers of the United Auto Workers (UAW) was regarded as a prime example of this rank-and-file revolt.

Pampa Gets .25 Inches of Much Needed Moisture; More Forecast

Rain, that started late Sunday night and fell intermittently until noon today, left .25 inches of moisture in Pampa.

More rain was forecast tonight and Tuesday with the showers expected to end Tuesday evening.

The mercury soared to 81 degrees in Pampa Sunday, the highest recorded so far this year and the overnight low was a cool 63.

A line of thunderstorms cracked out ahead of an almost-stationary Pacific cool front along the New Mexico border today while residents along the Brazos River lowlands in South Texas kept a wary eye on the rain-swollen stream.

The U.S. Weather Bureau said the thunderstorms stretched from Borger in the Panhandle southward along the plains country to Big Spring and the Pecos Valley. It said they would continue to develop along the front and move eastward over West and North Texas through Tuesday.

However, most of the rainfall in Texas will be concentrated in brief, but sometimes heavy tropical showers through Central and East Texas as gusty winds pump gulf moisture over the state.

A few widely scattered showers dotted North Central Texas and the coastal regions during the early morning hours and were expected to become more numerous as heating increases. Skies were clear to partly cloudy west of the front where temperatures dropped into the 50s, but ahead of it cloudiness was the general rule with readings in the 70s.

Extended five-day forecasts predicted shower activity would be general throughout the period in all sections east of the Pecos, ranging from 75 inches to 15 inches in North Central (See MOISTURE, Page 3)

Students to Get Grades Tuesday

All of the Pampa school system's approximately 6,000 pupils will return to their classrooms Tuesday and then be dismissed from school until August 31.

Of the city's two church schools, St. Matthew's Episcopal dismissed students Friday and will take up on August 30. St. Vincent de Paul Catholic will dismiss pupils Wednesday and then hand out grade cards Friday after the 8:20 a.m. mass.

All Pampa High School students will be dismissed Tuesday after getting their grade cards during the morning hours.

Schools in the Pampa school system will have enrollment on August 31 and the first day of school will be September 1.

This takes in both Junior High Schools, Robert E. Lee and Pampa Junior High plus the city's six grade schools and Carver School.

All grade pupils have been asked to pick up their report cards between 8 and 11 a.m. while Carver students are asked to come to the school between 9 and 10 a.m.

When enrollment begins on August 31 approximately 6,634 students are expected to enter Pampa's 11 schools, making the fall term enrollment the largest ever in Pampa history.

Four Americans, 100 South Vietnamese Die in Ambushes

SAIGON (UPI)—Four Americans and nearly 100 South Vietnamese were killed in three Viet Cong ambushes during the weekend, a U.S. military spokesman reported today. Two more Americans were listed as missing and possibly captured by the Communists.

Government losses were placed at 91 dead, 49 wounded and 25 missing.

The biggest of the three Communist traps was sprung Sunday when the Communists mauled a South Vietnamese battalion of about 200 men accompanied by U.S. Army advisers in a flooded forest area 150 miles southwest of Saigon.

The fighting continued until today. One U.S. Army enlisted man was killed and an Army officer was reported missing and presumed captured, the spokesman said. Thirty-six Vietnamese were killed, 42 wounded and 25 missing.

The remaining U.S. and South Vietnamese casualties were suffered in two other ambushes Saturday.

In other ground fighting today, a patrol of U.S. Marines engaged a well-armed Viet Cong squad a few miles south of the big U.S. air base at Da Nang. A U.S. Marine Corps spokesman said the Viet Cong numbered between five and seven men and were equipped with three automatic weapons and a mortar.

The Communists withdrew after a 45-minute fire fight in which there were no casualties, he said.

Foreign Commentary

By DONALD R. SHANOR
United Press International
Notes from the foreign news cables:

NATO Problem:
French opposition to U. S. NATO policy will mean tough going for the alliance's defense ministers when they meet in Paris next week. The main point at issue is France's view that Allied nuclear policy leaves Europe too dependent on the United States. There seems little likelihood of making much headway. The meetings will be kept top secret.

Summer Sessions:
Signs from Geneva indicate the 17-nation disarmament conference will resume its meetings there during the summer, possibly late in June. Western officials say Moscow's conciliatory attitude toward approaches from the West and neutral nations indicates it is ready to return to the conference table. But the Russians have made it clear they feel the conference will not accomplish much.

Petroleum and Protocol:
A Paris visit by Algerian President Ahmed Ben Bella is in the works, but will not be made until a agreement is reached on the future of French oil fields in the Sahara. In any event it will be handled discreetly to avoid demonstrations by the thousands of European refugees from Algeria now in Paris. A country site—possibly the Chateau de Champs, 25 miles to the east—will be chosen as Ben Bella's meeting place with President Charles de Gaulle.

Malaysia Markets:
Malaysia is expected to complain that its cotton textile quota from Britain lags too far behind those of the traditional suppliers, India, Pakistan, and Hong Kong. But the Malaysians know they are far too dependent on Britain's military support in the dispute with Indonesia to provoke a serious quarrel over the cotton issue.

Communist Candidate:
The French Communist party can be expected soon to nominate a candidate to oppose De Gaulle in the December presidential election. The Communists are waiting only for completion of a Socialist - middle road alliance behind opposition candidate Gaston Defferre, a Socialist. If he accepts middle-road support, they have made it clear, they will oppose him with their own man.

Advance for Monday PMs 5-24

Television in Review

By RICK DU BROW
United Press International
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Last week's California court decision which declared unconstitutional a state ban on home pay-TV naturally has national implications—but the basic problems of the so-called "tollivision" still remain.

The decision by a Sacramento Superior Court merely set aside a diversionary move by pay-TV opponents — primarily theater owners—who certainly must have known that the voter ban they promoted in last November's election was on shaky constitutional grounds in a free enterprise system.

But no court ruling can solve for the 1964-originated Los Angeles-San Francisco pay-TV firm Subscription Television Inc. (STV), the bedrock problems that faced it before the ban: Getting enough people signed up for tollivision to keep it on sound financial footing — and then acquiring the programming to keep them satisfied.

Start Scare Campaign
Lest it be forgotten, the main thing that really saved the shaky STV setup when it seemed to be floundering last year was the remarkable blunder of the theater owners' offensive scare campaign to outlaw this private business — which suddenly made a martyr out of STV to persons of widely varying political persuasions who felt such a move was not in the American tradition. Important newspapers agreed.

In short, if left to its own floundering, STV might simply have failed as a business, and that would have been that. As it is now, the theater owners have kept the whole thing going; they may have won the battle of November but lost the war of the future if pay-TV now scramble to stay alive.

There are still many who feel that pay-TV is bound to arrive in a big way one of these days, but one thing seems clear: It cannot operate on such a local level, but rather must have a wide national base so that programs of limited appeal can bring in large amounts of money. A thousand people watching a baseball game on pay-TV in one city is small potatoes for perhaps the biggest attraction of the business.

Trouble With Programs
Even with a wide base, however, pay-TV still seemingly would face a tough time with programming unless it could land movie premiers and the like. Furthermore, educational stations offer many of the same type of cultural programs that pay-TV says it will bring. On top of that, the networks now promise such things as live and many color programs.

What is more, technology seems to be working against pay-TV in the form of competition in other areas as well. There surely will be a time when people will easily be able to tape-record television shows of quality and play them back on their own screens.

Clinics Formed for Poor In Africa; US Sends Aid

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — The fat-bellied transport aircraft touched down on the rough, 8,250 feet high airstrip at Semonkong, deep in the Maluti Mountains of Basutoland.

A small group of Africans, some dressed in traditional brightly-colored blankets, huddled together against the sharp wind cutting down from the surrounding 10,000 feet high peaks. They clustered around the plane, helping to unload its cargo with willing hands.

The cargo — 1,000 pounds of powdered milk and biscuits donated by the People of America Fund — would mean less hunger for their children and themselves.

Within minutes the tall brittle grass and the sun-browned willing maize fields were ablaze. Sparks carried by the stiff breeze set alight the thatched roofs of some nearby African huts.

With blankets thrown over their heads, the villagers set about saving their meagre possessions from the burning huts. Menfolk, overcome by the smoke collapsed on the hard-baked earth outside their homes. There was no water to fight the flames — the nearby stream had dried up many months ago.

"When the rains desert us, the fires come," a young African woman said. "It is a way of life with us."

The mountain foodlift and the burning village were manifestations of a fact of life in Southern Africa today. Much of the country, from the Limpopo bushveld to the usually lush green hills of the eastern Cape Province, is in the grip of a drought unprecedented in memory.

Water levels in South Africa's 67 major storage dams are as low as 1 and 2 per cent in some, with the average being about 15-20 per cent. In March 1961 the average was 65.8 per cent.

Experts say that even if the country were to have a month of rain starting tomorrow, the effects of the drought would still be felt for at least two or three seasons.

Hutton & Co. Inc. says some further consolidation of the recent lengthy advance may be needed. This consolidation could easily take the form of a side-wise movement, Zinder says.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bache & Co. says that since the market does mirror the economy, it can only view the current consolidation as a needed pause in the market's upward spiral.

Hornblower & Weeks-Hemphill, Noyes says that sometime in the next few weeks, traders may attempt to discount excellent mid-year earnings statements that seemed destined for release in July.

Will Become Worse
It is drought which will almost certainly become worse, for the South African winter is just beginning, and winter is the dry season.

Hundreds of white farmers face possible ruin and bankruptcy. Untold thousands of Africans face a hungry, miserable winter.

In some areas of the Northern Transvaal, where past annual rainfall has averaged up to 20 inches, there has been no rain at all for three to four

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

For TUESDAY, MAY 24
GENERAL TENDENCIES: Until noon you are in a position to wind up matters which were begun before in a fine fashion. But after that time you find you have the chance to put into motion some very secure methods for combining generalizing with a greater awareness of how to solve your communications problems. Be alert.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) — A new attitude toward financial affairs is necessary if you want to become more secure with a true ability. Personal matters can disappoint you, but not business ones. Keep your eyes on the prize.

TAUROS (Apr. 20 to May 20) — Although you are thinking at top speed, be sure to follow ideas of associates since they are apt to have better judgment now. Don't argue with mate who is in a sour mood. Use other method to help.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) — Instead of going out for recreation, spend some time with a fascinating pal who has invaluable ideas for you. Solve problems privately. Social contacts tonight bring true business contacts.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) — Studying into proper sources of data can be very enlightening, so avoid garrulous individual who is not a friend. Find a better way to advance. Then you will be the winner.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Carry through with pal who is dynamic instead of pulling along with associate who is in a mood for self pity. Social life can bring support you want. Be sure to obey regulations.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Being loyal to clever higher-up and scrupulously guarding all facts is preferable to going off to assure that only look green. Be exact. Powerful persons respect true business contacts.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — If you want to discuss things with associates for any reason, fine, but avoid pettiness. Think big if you want much support in the future. Excellent time for true development.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Laboring steadily at the work before you without bothering any unhappy associate is best way to make headway. Then be sure your health is in good shape. Right treatment. Are your clothes up-to-the-minute?

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Shorten your work hours today and get busy with recreational interests that help you to breathe more easily. Search for light entertainment. Be wise — don't attract trouble.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 30) — Impressing bigwig with your true devotion to home, business, etc. is best way to get support you want. Buy new appliances for the home. Make life easier, more pleasurable.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 31 to Feb. 19) — Concentrate outside business affairs and avoid one at home who is on the war-path. Mass progress and all will be easier. Keep appointments on time, professional ones as well.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) — Instead of being around in circles, do what is practical and make that bank balance grow quickly. Business sense are in a mood to give you fine ideas. Accept them.

The atmosphere is 75 times as deep as the deepest ocean.

Clinics Formed

The milk will be distributed from clinics. Each child in the district will be given four pounds.

"This should last until mid-winter," Dr. Trevor Morgan of the Basutoland Flying Doctor Service said. "After that I shall just have to look around for more. Where it will come from I really don't know. But it will have to be found somewhere. There are children here who weigh only 35 pounds — at the age of ten."

One hundred and fifty miles to the southeast, outside the dusty little Pondoland town of Bizana, the grey grassland leaped into flame. Perhaps some passing motorist had been careless with a match. Perhaps a piece of broken glass had focused the sun's rays on to some tinder-dry grass.

Cloakroom Comment

By DAVID ANDERSON
AUSTIN (UPI) — One of the most pleasant surprises of the 59th Legislature, in the view of his friends and enemies alike, has been the performance of 27-year-old House Speaker Ben Barnes.

If the current session has produced a star, the sandy-haired law student from Deleon has to be it. He is being mentioned for everything from governor to a post in President Johnson's administration.

Before the session, Rep. George (Skeet) Richardson of Fort Worth said Barnes would be "a dictator" and opposed him for the speakership. Even some who supported Barnes privately expressed misgivings.

Now Richardson says, "I was unhappy with his committee assignments (which went to rural conservatives like Barnes) but he's been as fair as any speaker has ever been."

Like most previous speakers, Barnes has political ambitions, and so does not intend to make enemies needlessly. He has bent over backwards to check close votes and generally has allowed the house to vote on bills he might like to smother quietly.

But neither does he intend to be seen and not heard in a House where some members are old enough to be his grandfather. He refused to bow to Lt. Gov. Preston Smith on the Senate's plan to expand to 39 members without giving House members four-year terms, and he reportedly had some hot words for Gov. John Connally last week about Connally's "henchmen" interfering in House business.

"I think the success of the governor's program in this legislature is mostly due to the speaker's efforts," said Rep. Bob Eckhardt of Houston. "Some of it wouldn't have gotten through if it hadn't been for the diligent and patient legwork of the speaker. The governor has gotten too much credit."

Rep. Frank Cahoon of Midland, the republican minority-of-one in the legislature, says Barnes has been "very fair."

Pampa Churches to Join In Collecting Clothes for Needy

The churches of Pampa are again joining forces with other churches of state and nation through Church World Service and the Christian Rural Overseas program to collect used clothing for overseas relief.

One of the CWS 40-foot vans is scheduled to pick up the clothing at the Pampa central collection center, Bruce and Sons Warehouse, the week of June 7.

The Pampa area led the state in quantity of clothing sent last year. Four tons of clothing were picked up during two stops of the CWS truck.

Pampans wishing to participate in the drive this year are requested to contact their ministers or Rev. J. W. Duke, secretary - treasurer of the local CWS committee. The committee urges that all contributions be properly packaged, labeled, and marked as to contributing church and weight before delivery to the warehouse. Clothing may be put in special CWS bags or in sturdy, securely tied boxes. Mrs. R. E. Converse, MO 4-3997, has a few of the bags that may be used.

Deadline for delivering clothing to the warehouse is 4 p.m., June 7. With each delivery of clothing, a materials receipt, which will be at the warehouse should be filled out.

Ten cents for each pound of clothing is needed at the time the clothing is sent. This will pay for moving it from the port of debarkation to its overseas destination. There it will be distributed according to need by Christian workers in each field. All money is being collected by Rev. Duke and should be taken or sent to him.

Church World Service has announced that there is an urgent need for 18 million pounds of Aardvark, which means "earth-pig" is the Dutch name for an exclusively African termite-eating mammal. It has ears like a donkey and a body and snout like a pig. The aardvark lives wherever insects are plentiful, using its foot-long tongue to eat them. The animal is not aggressive, but when attacked, even by a lion or a leopard, it can roll over and use its powerful claws to good effect.

Fact

Thousands Cheer Queen In Old Country of Grandmother

STUTTGART (UPI)—Queen Elizabeth II today was cheered by hundreds of thousands as she rode standing in an open limousine through the home country of her grandmother, Queen Mary.

The monarch and her husband, Prince Philip, arrived here at mid-morning aboard their luxury train from Salem on Lake Constance, where they spent a relaxing weekend with their German in-laws.

Queen Elizabeth dropped her usual reserve and returned the cheers with waving hands and a constant laughing smile.

Queen Mary came from these wine-growing hills, where she spent her childhood before going to London to marry King George V. Later, she and her husband ruled over a Britain fighting Germany in World War I.

Queen Elizabeth was taken to a restaurant atop the 693-foot Stuttgart television tower, which provides one of Europe's most breath-taking views. Located on a mountain-top, it is half the height of the Empire State Building and two-thirds that of the Eiffel Tower.

Beneath it stretches this "city of roots and vineyards" in the narrow and winding Neckar River valley, which boasts more hills than Rome.

Germans clogged the streets of this auto and camera center 10 to 20 deep along the route of the royal motorcade.

Police Looking For Magazine Salesmen

Police found that a crew of magazine salesmen had stayed at a local motel last week, but had left early Saturday for an unknown destination.

All Civic Club Banquet Thursday

Pampa High School Key Club members today were putting the finishing touches to plans for the All Civic Club Coordination banquet to be held at 7 p.m. Thursday in the Harvester field house.

George Snell, Key Club president, said today he wanted to stress again that the banquet is for service club members and their wives.

The banquet is being staged, Snell said, in an effort to bring Pampa's service clubs together for unified action on community projects.

Principal speaker at the Thursday night club get-together will be Mrs. Richard Raymond who will talk on behalf of the High Plains Eye Bank, a project sponsored locally by the Lions clubs.

Fred Lowery, nationally known Decca recording artist and television personality, will top the entertainment program.

The Jaycees, Lions, Rotary, Kiwanis and Optimist Clubs have cancelled their luncheon meetings this week for the joint meeting on Thursday night.

Key Club officials stated they hoped an outgrowth of this week's meeting of the combined clubs will be the eventual formation of a Council of Men's Clubs in Pampa.

Dear Abby... Women's Recipes Are Well-Guarded Secrets

DEAR ABBY: I would like to take exception to your statement that women who do not give their recipes are selfish, and that but for the generosity of others would not have a collection themselves. I spend many hours going through cook books, magazines and newspapers culling and trying out new recipes. I have experimented (and even improvised) on some recipes trying to perfect them for my guests.

Although it may be flattering to be asked for my recipes, isn't it rather selfish on the part of another to expect to be given a recipe which has entailed much time and effort on my part in order to make her own entertaining easier? Let's be fair to the hostess.

"THE OTHER SIDE"

DEAR ABBY: Maybe I'm selfish, but here's how I got that way: I love to cook and am always experimenting. Many times I eat the horrible failures for lunch. I once concocted a magnificent lamb dish which took me three days to make. But from the compliments I received from my guests, it was well worth the trouble. One of my guests asked for the recipe, and I foolishly gave it to her. For the next six months we were served that lamb dish everywhere we went to dinner. It's no treat any more. I am now working on something else, and this time I am not going to give out the recipe. If someone wants to serve it for some special occasion, I will make it for her and send it over. Please don't use my name. Stan would crown me.

CALL ME SELFISH

DEAR ABBY: I haven't the nerve to come right out and tell people that I don't give out my recipes, but I get around it by stalling them off until they forget about it. Many women do not follow the instructions, and some of them use cheaper ingredients, or substitutes for the "makings" that should go into the recipe if it is going to turn out right. Then they blame the person who gave them the recipe when theirs is a flop.

"ME"

DEAR ABBY: So you think that a person who doesn't give out her recipes is selfish? Well, I can't go along with you on that, Abby.

I used to give my recipes to anyone who asked for them, and I felt flattered to think they were wanted. Then I started getting complaints because theirs didn't turn out like mine. It got back to me on more than one occasion that "Flo left something out of the recipe on purpose." I would never do such a low thing.

I've been hurt so many times by remarks like that, I made up my mind that I wasn't going to give out any more recipes.

FLO IN BOSTON

DEAR ABBY: I have a friend who has a reputation for being a fabulous cook, but she is another one of those selfish gals who won't give out her recipes. One afternoon while I was alone in her kitchen for a few minutes, I wanted to find out her secret for making fresh cranberry pie, so I took the liberty of glancing through her cook book. And do you know that little sneak had all her recipes

Mrs. Mack Gives B&PW Program

The Business and Professional Women's Club met in City Club Room for its regular business meeting with Mrs. Ruby Crocker, president, presiding. The meeting was opened with the reading of the Club Collect by Mrs. Allie Morgan.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. The treasurer's report was given by Mrs. Virginia McDonald. Correspondence was read by Mrs. Faye Eaton. Mrs. Helen Knox reported the presentation of club awards to high school and junior high students.

After the business session Mrs. Georgia Mack spoke to the club on "Parliamentary Procedure", emphasizing the importance of the knowledge of parliamentary law to club members.

The meeting closed with repeating the club pledge in unison.

Fifteen members attended.

The trend in handbags is to small, more compact looks, moderate sizes replacing the huge carry-alls of former seasons. In part, this change is due to the overall fashion trend to the casual look. Young women, for instance, won't be carrying around so many cans of hairspray as teasing and bouffant coiffures give way to the sleek, casual cuts.

'Watch' Those Birds' In American League

by United Press International
As they say at the Audubon Society, "watch those birds." More specifically, the Orioles of Baltimore.

The Orioles who have been winging along without the services of MVP Brooks Robinson (broken thumb) and only the part-time assistance of Boog Powell (injured wrist), hopped two spots Sunday, moving from sixth place to third as a result of their 7-3, 8-3 doubleheader sweep of Detroit.

In other American League action, Washington beat New York, 7-3 in the first game of a twinbill and then lost 3-2 in the nightcap; Boston trimmed Cleveland twice, 6-2 and 8-3; and Chicago bested Los Angeles, 8-3. Kansas City was reined out at Minnesota.

Sunday's hero for Baltimore was the "forgotten man," Jackie Brandt. The 31-year-old outfielder has been in and out of the lineup because of the superb play of rookies Paul Blair and Curt Blefary. However, when he has played, Brandt has given indications that he's off to his finest season in the majors.

His four hits, including his fourth homer, and five RBI's upped his batting average to .319, seventh best in the league as he showed the way for the Birds.

Manager Hank Bauer got a couple of encouraging pitching performances from Steve Barber and Dave McNally, each of whom picked up his second win of the season. Junkman Stu Miller worked the final two frames in both contests without allowing a run. Hank Aguirre (4-2) and Jack Hamilton (1-1) lost for Detroit.

Hot-hitting Joe Pepitone slammed a homer in each game for the Yanks. His three-run blast backed the five-hit hurrying of Al Downing in the second contest. Jim King and Ken McMullen of Washington provided the heavy artillery for Phil Ortega in the opener with homers.

Rookie Jim Lonborg went all the way for Boston for his third triumph in the first game. Lee Thomas of Boston and Cleveland relief pitcher Gary Bell had the game's homers. Felix Mantilla's sixth round-tripper of the campaign, a three-run clout in the fifth, broke open the second game. Right-hander Jerry Stephenson fanned nine men in six frames for his first win in three decisions.

The White Sox jumped on Cy Young award winner Dean Chance for six runs in the first three innings to snap their three-game losing skein. Joel Horlen, Eddie Fisher and Hoyt Wilhelm pitched three innings apiece with the victory going to Fisher his third without a loss.

Johnston and teammate Bones Bullard will run the event in a special race at the Pampa Jaycee Meet Saturday, with Jim Meier of Booker also a possible entrant.

Nicklaus Rallies for Memphis Open Crown

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI)— Jack Nicklaus picked up $9,000 to add to his massive winnings Sunday when he came from behind to win the $60,000 Memphis Open golf tournament in the first hole of a sudden death playoff with Mississippian Johnny Pott.

Nicklaus, playing as much off the fairways as on during the first three rounds, switched to an intent, gambling style of play during the final round to knock five strokes off par and end up in a tie with Pott at 271—nine-under par.

The 25-year-old Masters winner parred the extra hole with ease after young Pott got into a muddy hazard.

Both had gone into the final round trailing Julius Boros, Pott by two strokes and Nicklaus by five. Boros blew to a 72 after leading the second and third rounds and finished in a four way tie for third with first round leader Bob McAllister, Lou Graham and Bert Yancey. Australian Bruce Crampton and Bob Verwey of South Africa finished at 274 in a tie for fourth.

At 275 was Jack McGowan. The lone amateur to make the cut, Deane Beman, twice a National Amateur championship winner, finished at 267 with pro Randy Glover.

Nicklaus won the tournament when Pott hooked a four wood into a muddy ditch, sent his second shot into a cluster of branches, chipped to the green and two-putted for a bogey five. Nicklaus played a safe one iron shot down the middle and was home in par four.

Second place was worth $5,000 to Pott.

Speedway Will Put Ford to Test

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI)— This may be the year Ford's V-8 engines will be put to the acid test in the 500-mile Speedway auto race.

Twenty-seven of the 33 starters in the $100,000 plus chase next Monday have rear-engine machines, 17 of them powered by Ford.

The four-cylinder Offenhauser, the ancient standby, will furnish the power in 14 other entries and the two famed Novis have eight-cylinder supercharged engines.

Only four conventional roadsters of the type that has won every "300" since the early 1950s will be in the lineup.

Last year only 12 rear-engine cars were in the race, seven powered by Ford, and only that of two-time race winner Roger Ward finished in the first ten. Qualifications which ended late Sunday resulted in the fastest field ever, with the average speed of 156.058 miles per hour, 2 1/2 m.p.h. faster than a year ago.

If the race keeps pace with the time trial speeds, the winner May 31st may average 150 miles per hour.

Eleven cars were qualified Saturday and six more Sunday, but four were eliminated by faster machines and Ward, in the biggest surprise of the trials, "bumped" himself when he failed on the third try to gain a starting berth.

Ward, a 44-year-old grandfather, made two unsuccessful attempts last weekend and Saturday escaped injury in a spectacular warmup crash. His car was repaired overnight but his speed late in the day missed by an eyelash catching the car qualified at 153.623 by Bill Chesbourg of Tucson, Ariz., for the second year the third starter.

Ward thus failed to qualify for the first time in 15 years. He placed no lower than fourth in the last six races.

Meets Freddy Banes in 880

Westbrook In Jaycee Run

Mark Westbrook, Pampa's state mile champion, will headline this Saturday's Pampa Jaycee meet, announced Pampa Track Club coach Norman Phillips today.

Phillips said that Westbrook has been entered in the USTFF district meet in Houston this Saturday, but that he (Phillips) was unable to leave town this weekend and Mark did not wish to enter the meet without him.

Westbrook will run this Saturday in the Pampa meet instead. Jaycee meet chairman Win Cates said that inasmuch as Phillips would be in Pampa this weekend, he had been requested to take charge of the meet.

The PTC coach said that in an attempt to give Westbrook some competition, he was inviting Freddie Banes, state half-mile champion in Class AA he felt, would be interested in running their specialties against Shayne Slovacek, state Class B champion from Booker.

Among other notables who may run in the meet to challenge local and area runners are Booker's state champions and state class A 100 and 220-yard dash champ Jack Stargel and 440 champ Hoot Jones, both of Memphis.

Roy Armstrong, White Deer's standout dash man and broad jumper, called to report that he was trying to form a senior relay team from himself, teammate Eddie Kleibrink, Keith Yarnold or Tony Steink of Canadian and Stargel, to run against the PTC crew of Randy Johnston of Pampa, Dickie Sims of Lefors and Gerald Gudgel and Little Joe Kelley of Moving Freddie Banes, state beeble. Both Stargel and Jones, he felt, would be interested in running their specialties against Shayne Slovacek, state Class B champion from Booker.

The Booker crew, which ran for the Pampa Track Club last year, may also bring their champion sprint relay team down, as well as miler Rex Hoover to challenge Westbrook. Booker's hurdler, Jim Meier, may also compete in an added attraction to the meet, a special 330-yard college intermediate hurdles, requested by Johnston and Bones Bullard.

Canadian High coach Dwain Currie has entered a large crew of Wildcat runners, headed by Butcherby Bonnie Eckles in the senior shot put, discus and high jump. Eckles' participation will make the high jump one of the standout events of the meet, as he will be competing against Bullard and Teddy Bird of Pampa, with the trio aiming for the six-foot mark.

Joining Eckles are a crew of "Cat sophomores, including Kenneth Steimle and Howard Sanders, who represented the Pampa Jaycees at the state meet last year. The pair will also team with Gary McCarrell of Pampa and Tony Pittman or Dennis Keith of Lefors in an intermediate sprint relay team.

Other Canadians entered are quartermiler Kenneth Wayne Thrasher, hurdler L. R. Nicholson, half-miler Harold Gaines, hurdler Johnny Walker and pole vaulter Jerry Norris.

A strong prep sprint relay favorite will come from Pampa Junior High's regular squad of Johnny Karr, Phil Long, Kenneth Noel and Jack Newsom.

Muhammed Clay Gets Bodyguard

LEWISTON, Maine (UPI)— Cassius Clay couldn't care less if gunmen track him into Maine and attempt to harm him before, during or after his first defense of the world heavyweight championship against Sonny Liston Tuesday night.

When Clay checked into an inn across the Androscoggin River in Lewiston's sister city of Auburn Sunday, the local constabulary announced two of its members would remain within shouting distance of the strong-jungled champion.

About 10 Maine state troopers also planned to alternate as his protectors until fight time at 10:30 p.m. EDT at the Central Maine Youth Center, a huge ice hockey rink commonly known as St. Dom's Arena.

Clay claimed the police protection was unnecessary.

The 23-year-old member of the separatist Black Muslim sect said all this talk about rival black nationalists gunning for him is "only propaganda to make me believe something or somebody is against me."

Follow Clay Bus
However, it was learned two plainclothes members of the New York City police department, who know by name and face gun-toting members of rival Negro movements, followed the Clay bus on its trip to Maine — just in case.

Alston's Gambles Fail to Pay Off

By United Press International
The St. Louis Cardinals were the most spectacular, but Walter Alston gets the award for imagination.

The never-say-die world champions, frustrated by a 7-0 Met lead and a 77-minute delay caused by rain and muddy playing conditions, rallied for seven runs in the 8th and 9th innings Sunday and eventually recorded an 8-7, 12-inning win over New York.

In Chicago, Los Angeles Manager Alston saw an early lead go by the boards, sending his game with the Cubs into overtime. In the 12th inning, Alston had Wrigley Field regulars scratching their heads when he played with two outfielders. He won his gamble but lost the game in the 16th, 3-2. Elsewhere in the senior circuit, Philadelphia nipped Cincinnati, 4-3 in 10 innings; San Francisco clipped Houston, 5-2; and Pittsburgh mauled Milwaukee, 10-1.

Alston's unusual move came about thusly: Cub shortstop Roberto Pena opened the 12th with a single. Bringing pitcher Lindy McDaniel to bat in an obvious bunt situation.

The Los Angeles skipper called Ron Fairly in from right field and played him at first base. Wes Parker, the regular first baseman, was stationed halfway between first and home plate, leaving Lou Johnson in left-center and Willie Davis in right-center.

Lindy McDaniel took a called strike and then fouled off two pitches trying to bunt for a strikeout, and the Dodger defense went back to normal.

Los Angeles tallied twice in the opening frame and then was held scoreless for 15 innings in the longest game of the year. Chicago won it on a bases-loaded walk issued by Howie Reed.

The Mets built their huge lead on a pair of homers by Bob Taylor and a bases-clearing double by Charlie Smith. Tim McCarver got two back with a homer in the eighth, and Dal Maxvill stroked a triple past the outstretched glove of Ron Swoboda for the final three runs in the ninth.

Bill White's double in the 12th scored Curt Flood, who had singled, with the winning run, the victory going to Bob Purkey, now 3-3.

Houston centerfielder Jim Wynn lost Jim Ray Hart's first inning, routine fly ball in the glare of the Astrodome and Hart streaked around the bases for a home run, two runners scoring ahead of him. Jim Davenport's single accounted for extra innings with three in the two more in the fourth. Gaylord Perry (3-3) got the win and Gerry Arrigo (1-1) and Ken Johnson, who was traded to Milwaukee after the game, was charged with the defeat.

Philadelphia's winning run erosi had three hits apiece for pinch runner Johnny Herrington's jarring the ball loose from catcher John Edwards' grasp in the 10th inning. Herrstein scored on a fly ball off the bat of Cookie Rojas. Cincinnati sent the game into We'll be the first to agree that our artist got a little carried away when he drew the picture above. But the fact remains that a lot of new faces have been showing up lately at the Skelly Keotane Gasoline pumps.

A few, of course, are young people buying gasoline for the first time. And, some new faces belong to people who have just moved into the neighborhood.

But many of these people just plain switched to Keotane from other brands of gasoline.

In 1964, sales of Skelly Keotane Gasoline increased at a rate 3 times faster than the gasoline industry as a whole.

If there is no difference in gasolines, why are Skelly Keotane sales going up...UP...UP... so fast?

Can Keotane make a difference in the way your car runs? There's only one way to find out. Join the Big Switch to Keotane yourself. Try 3 tankfuls of Skelly Keotane Gasoline. It costs no more than other major brand premium gasolines without Keotane. So if you do get more mileage...or more power...or smoother performance...you come out ahead. ## Crime Statistics

Sociologists and the FBI are having a tiff over the accuracy and significance of the FBI's crime figures. There is something to be said on both sides and an airing of the two points of view should be informative.

According to the FBI, the incidence of crime in all categories in the United States is on the rise. From 1958 to 1964, while U. S. population increased by about 10 per cent, the crime index increased by 58 per cent. Violent crime is up 40 per cent and crimes against property are up 62 per cent.

J. Edgar Hoover, who has become a target for left-leaning politicians and pink-tinted social reformers, says conditions in this country in respect to crime are getting worse and that if something isn't done pretty quickly to rectify the problem, we can anticipate another 78 per cent increase in crime over the next decade.

Sociologists criticize these figures and, in some cases, their merit. Elsewhere, they evince all the pettiness of a theorist who has found his favorite premise washed away by a sea of incontrovertible fact.

Of merit is the claim by sociologists that thanks to improved techniques, data processing, better communications, and so on, reported crimes have increased. This is, more crimes are being reported than before, hence it appears that the incidence of crime has increased whereas, in fact, more crimes are known about. This fact, by itself, could mean that the actual rate of crime is being computed against two different bases and hence a comparison is unrealistic.

The FBI's answer is that in spite of improvements in crime reporting, there are still many crimes which go unreported; hence the field is still "under reported." Granted that this may be true, the point concerning the statistical rise is still valid and would continue to be valid until it would positively be known that all crimes were being reported.

Possibly the largest complaint of the sociologists concerning the FBI's figures is right at the point where they are most theoretical and vulnerable. For many years, sociologists have argued that crime is bred of poverty. Wipe out the slums and you eliminate crime, they have stated.

The FBI's figures tend to make mincemeat of this hypothesis. Offenders in the 15-24 age bracket account for about 70 per cent of all serious crime. The bulk of these offenders are in what could be called "middle-class" districts, suburbs and the like. And this strikes right at the core of environmentalist theory which supposes always that human beings merely respond to their circumstances and environment and, hence, anti-poverty programs and so on will wipe out these offenses. The fact is that where slums have been removed by government edict and vast spending, crimes have increased.

At this point, even the FBI appears puzzled. For while relying on their own compilations, the FBI theorizes that when young people have better educational opportunities and a higher standard of living, crime ought to subside. In fact, it is going up and it is going up right where new, improved, expensive government schools are built and where standards of living are far above the national average.

The sociologists have no answer for this except to insist that the FBI's figures must be wrong. But possibly one of these days the sociologist or the FBI or both of them will recognize that increased opportunity to attend school does not necessarily compromise an increase educational opportunity.

What kind of education are the young people getting? That is a far more pertinent question. And if young people in school are not being trained to understand the existence of moral principles and the desirability of using reason based on such principles, then their educational experience can actually breed criminal tendencies.

And this is particularly true in a government school, which, as we have observed repeatedly, is sustained by the violence of taxation and managed by government men who by law can compel both attending and financial support.

If it is true that FBI figures are not comparatively accurate, it is still true that there is an appalling amount of crime. It is also true that most of the crime occurs among young people of advanced high school or college age. In other words, young people tend to "go wrong" right at the time the educational influences are strongest upon them. If they were receiving the right kind of "education," this could hardly be true. Government should have no more to do with education than it has to do with religious worship.

But Isn't This Cheating?

The air is full of television these days. But the living room is full of gripes.

More and more people seem to be seeing more and more programs and liking them less and less.

It has become fashionable to deprecate television fare, even among people who profess to like television in principle.

Then there are, of course, the folks who openly sneer at television in any form and seem very proud that they either do not have a television set in their home, or had one and gave it to someone less intellectual, or still have one but ignore it for the bum it is.

All this seems a pity when, in fact, there is much on television that is worth-while. The attitude of total disdain for television is akin to farming your child out for adoption because he has a couple of annoying habits.

Commissioner Lee Loevinger of the Federal Communications Commission has suggested a simple solution to the problem. "Nobody makes anybody look at lousy programs," he says. "Personally, I just turn the damn thing off."

Wit and Whimsy

An old Negro minister visiting in a small Southern city had to catch a train quickly and approached a white cabby with a ramshackle vehicle.

Cabman — I've never driven a Negro in my cab yet, and I don't know how to begin now.

Negro minister — Well, I'll show you how. You get in the back and I'll drive, and we'll soon be there.

The cabby yielded, got his cab fare, and the minister got his train.

Little Tommy had been forbidden to swim in the river owing to danger. One day he came home with unmistakable signs of having been in the water. His mother scolded him severely.

Tommy — But I was tempted so badly.

Mother — That's all very well. But how'd you come to have your bathing suit with you?

Tommy — Well, mother, I took my bathing suit with me thinking I might be tempted.

Freeman Told by President To Keep Out of Hassle Over House, Senate Rival Water Pollution Bills — Too Late

ROBERT ALLEN

PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — Agriculture Secretary Orville Freeman is in the doghouse in a big way.

The one-time Minnesota governor has painfully learned that President Johnson does not take lightly having members of his Cabinet engage in free-wheeling on legislation he favors. Freeman did — and the President cracked down bluntly and forcefully.

In a personally conveyed peremptory order, the President directed Freeman to get out and stay out of the stormy backstage wrangle that has developed between the Senate and House over a key provision of one of the President's pet measures — water pollution control.

In a way Freeman's sharp cuffing is a case of "locking the barn door after the horse has been stolen."

He played a leading role in causing this ruckus.

Crux of the matter is the wide variance between the House and Senate over who will set the standards and regulations determining the quality and use of water.

Under the Senate bill, this crucial authority is vested in the Secretary of Health, Education & Welfare. The House measure gives the major voice to state and local authorities.

The President strongly favors the Senate's version. Freeman the House's — until abruptly silenced by the President.

In the meanwhile, the fat is in the fire due to Freeman's vigorous opposition.

Next round in the behind-the-scenes battle over the conflicting bills will take place in the closed-door deliberations of the conference committees of the House and Senate. The outcome is a toss-up.

The President is turning on the heat to get his way. But while Freeman has been sternly put out of action, the forces and interests he championed — state, local, industrial and agricultural — are busily mulling every wire they can on Capitol Hill.

THE INSIDE DETAILS — The President got wind of Secretary Freeman's free-wheeling opposition through Representative John Dingell, D-Mich., member of the Interstate Commerce Committee.

Dingell turned over to the President a copy of a Freeman memorandum being circulated by Representative Jamie Whitten, D-Miss., chairman of the House Appropriations Subcommittee in charge of the Agriculture Department's budget. Dingell also produced Freeman's private testimony before Whitten's committee.

In both his memorandum and testimony, Freeman clobbered the President's plan to give the HEW Secretary control over "establishing and promulgating standards of water quality."

From Freeman's comments, there is a strong implication he resented HEW being favored over Agriculture.

"This bill appears to overlook or minimize," declared Freeman in his private memorandum, "the appropriate role of this department in the field of water quality control. The Department of Agriculture represents the prime users of water. The farm, forest and related industrial segments of the nation look to the Department of Agriculture for representation and leadership concerning the soil, water and associated resources upon which they are dependent.

"In spite of these facts, the bill would give broad authority to the Secretary of HEW to curtail, control or regulate uses of land, water and other resources, and services for which this Department is responsible. This department questions whether it is appropriate or effective to authorize one department participating in the water resources field to exercise a controlling role in relation to authorized activities of other departments."

In Freeman's closed-door testimony before Whitten's committee, he admitted having a major hand in scuttling the President's control proposal as passed by the Senate.

"Last week I was very much disturbed to learn about the anti-pollution bill as passed by the Senate," said Whitten. "What disturbed me was the fact that this measure, turning complete control of all the waters in the U. S. over to the Secretary of HEW, had been adopted by the Senate wholly without consideration of the views of the Department of Agriculture."

"I called the underscretary of agriculture. He got busy, and I understand that the House Public Lands Committee, acting at the request of the department, eliminated this control."

"That is correct," affirmed Freeman.

THE CRACKDOWN — President Johnson hit the ceiling. Freeman was speedily summoned to the White House, and bluntly told to pipe down.

He hasn't said a word or lifted a finger on this issue since. Indicative of the importance of this legislation is the following significant statement in the report of the House's Public Works Committee:

"No more important single problem faces the country today than the problem of 'good water.' Water is our greatest single natural resource. The issue of pure water must be settled now for the benefit not only of this generation but for untold generations to come. The need for good quality water for all of our nation's uses — public and private — is a paramount one."

Except for the widely differing control provisions, the House and Senate bills are generally similar.

Both would establish a Federal Water Pollution Control Administration within HEW. They also would create a new assistant HEW secretary and an administrator to enforce the law

The Nation's Press

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT
Industrial News Review
It seems almost unbelievable that the authors of the Declaration of Independence and the Bill of Rights could have produced such guides for freedom in the comparatively short space of time involved.

Governments themselves do not produce freedom. People have to wrest freedom from governments. After they secure freedom, it is an endless task to retain it. Government authorized by the people provides laws, order, and protection. Of necessity, it might be restrictive in many ways.

But unless the people are constantly on the alert, their hired public officials tend to expand their powers in ways that cause government to little by little encroach on individual freedom and opportunity. It is all done in the name of the people and paid for through massive taxation. The people vote for liberties when they sanction a welfare state.

legislation. The House measure increases from $100 million to $150 million the federal government's contribution to states and local agencies to combat pollution.

Administration insiders have been saying for some time that Freeman will be replaced as Agriculture chief in the fall after Congress has concluded — and presumably has voted on the President's controversial farm measure, of which Freeman is the principal author.

On the other hand, friends of the Minnesota man have been crediting him with wanting to quit the Cabinet for several years. They indicate Freeman wants to get into the diplomatic service as a permanent career.

At one time he was eager to be named Ambassador to Mexico. But nothing came of it.

Littlefield Improvements Nurtured Over Coffee

By THOMAS HOUGH
LITTLEFIELD, Tex. (UPI)—An idea that was nurtured over coffee cups and tore up the whole downtown area is making a lot of people happy here—even if it will raise their rent. Construction on a do-it-yourself downtown improvement project is slated to be completed by late August or early September.

Chamber of Commerce officials hope to invite President and Mrs. Johnson to Littlefield for dedication ceremonies to show these fellow Texans that a Texas town is really "doing something" about Mrs. Johnson's "America, The Beautiful" project.

KADAR VISITS RUSSIA
MOSCOW (UPI)—Premier Janos Kadar of Hungary arrived here Sunday for a visit at the invitation of the Central Committee of the Soviet Communist party, the Tass news agency reported.

RECRUITING OFF
WASHINGTON (UPI)—The armed services fell 36,000 men short of their recruiting goals during the first 10 months of the fiscal year ending July 1 with only the Marines scoring 100 per cent in signing up new Leathernecks.

The Defense Department said during the week that the Navy obtained 72,000 first enlistees against its goal of 87,000; the Army got 78,600 recruits against a goal of 94,000, and the Air Force signed up 64,500 out of a goal of 70,484. The Marines set a goal of 26,500 first enlistments and got every Property owners in downtown Littlefield organized a $450,000 project to turn their previously seedy business district into a replica of the most eye-catching shopping centers that are being planned for major cities. One physical feature of the town of 8,000 is that the main highway, U.S. 64, does not run through the downtown section. The project therefore is designed to make the downtown area resemble the most elaborate city shopping center — including free parking in paved lots owned by the city. Improvements include removal of parking meters, colored sidewalks, canopies, and a general face-lifting of individual stores in a 24-block area. Property owners are paying the cost themselves. Not one cent of the cost of improvement will be raised by taxes on other residents.

Letters from chambers of commerce over Texas already have begun to trickle into Littlefield, asking for information on how such a project could be started in other towns. It all began in 1957 when Dr.

Bill Orr, a Littlefield dentist for 30 years, visited his son in Grand Junction, Colo. "Their downtown area is beautiful," Orr says. "And when I got back home I could see grass growing in the sidewalks and chipped corners on the curbs. It was kind of a shock to come back to your hometown and realize it was going to seed." Orr began his "coffee circuit." He carried photographs of Grand Junction around with him as he made the twice-daily rounds to cafes.

National Window

By LYLE WILSON
United Press International
It would be in the public interest if Congress grabbed the opportunity now offered to discover how and by how much organized labor is violating the Federal Corrupt Practices Act (FCPA) by diverting union funds into politics.

The FCPA was enacted in 1925. It was amended in 1947 to read, in part, as follows: "It is unlawful for... any corporation whatever or any labor organization to make a contribution or expenditure in connection with any election at which presidential and vice presidential electors or a senator or representative are to be voted for, or in connection with any primary election or political convention or caucus held to select candidates for any of the foregoing offices, or for any candidate political committee or other person to accept or receive any contribution prohibited by this section."

Sympathetic courts have protected Big Labor against the harsh realities of that provision. Labor leaders have been quick to devise methods by which they could pull their weight in politics without becoming liable to the penalties provided by the Corrupt Practices Act.

Ford Body Shop Features Many

Have you ever had a wreck? Was it a major body job? Or maybe it was just a dent and a few scratches made by rocks, nails, etc., that tend to mar the beautiful lines of late model cars. No matter what the job, large or small, a dented fender or a total wreck, Ford's Body Shop has the room and equipment to do a first class job on any job.

Many Pampanos have come to depend on Ford's Body Shop to keep their cars looking the best in town. The people at Ford's believe that the best advertisement they can get is the work they produce.

The many happy customers of Ford's are testimony of the service found at Ford's. Why don't you go look at your car right now?
