Flashes From The Fronts— AAFBS Graduates Of Class 43-1 Serve Their Nation In Many Ways

Mrs. Boltan of Fort Orchard, Wash., informs us that her son, Lt. Joe Boltan, has been on a "See America First" tour. "When my son Joe left Big Spring," she writes, "he was sent to navigation school at Hondo, graduating from there in May of '43. He was then assigned to Ephrata Field, Wash., where he stayed long enough to unpack and repack for Geiger Field. Gave Geiger a quick once-over and took off for Walla Walla where he remained for a few days before returning to Ephrata again. From Ephrata he went to Ardmore, then Clovis, N. M., Orlando, Fla., and Boca Raton, Fla. At last report he was on his way to Clovis again, and expects to remain there just long enough to unpack and repack for a trip to Pratt, Kas. From then on it's anybody's guess as to where he'll wind up next."

Lt. Charles E. Boone of Fredericktown, Ohio, has been pounding the Japs in the CBI (China-Burma-India) theatre for almost a year now. Already decorated with the Purple Heart and the Air Medal, Boone was listed as missing in action from December 24th '43 to January 5th '44, when he turned up at his base with a badly wounded ankle. "No other info is available, other than he is known to have squirmed his way through Jap-occupied China for two weeks before reaching friendly territory. He's back in shape now, however, and at last reports was giving the Japs hell again."

Lt. Jerry Bordeaux of Muskegon, Mich., has been doing very well for himself in the Southwest Pacific for over a year now. Already possessing the Distinguished Flying Cross and the Air Medal with clusters, Jerry has seen lots of action. For one thing, he was in the battle of the Bismarck Sea in which 44 Jap ships were sent to Davy Jones' locker, and he promises to tell us all about it when he returns to the States. His Flying Fortress, The Talisman, has been in the thick of many a Pacific aerial battle, and was frequently used by Gen. MacArthur to observe troop movements. Bordeaux sent us a picture of his crew taken in front of The Talisman, and MacArthur is there, as big as life, rubbing elbows with none other than—you've guessed it—Bordeaux. The snapshot was taken last fall, says Bordeaux, when Yank paratroopers had seized Markham valley in New Guinea. MacArthur had personally directed that operation from The Talisman. When we last heard from Bordeaux on February 22nd of this year, he was on his way to Australia for a 15-day furlough, after having flown almost every day for months.

Lt. William C. Brothers of Birmingham, Ala., took part in many missions over Germany from bases in England with the 8th AF. He has the Air Medal with two clusters. Brothers' plane was knocked down off the coast of Holland on October 10, 1943. Sent into a spin by enemy gunfire, the heavy bomber went down so fast that two gunners and the copilot didn't quite make it to their escape hatches. The rest of the crew, including Brothers, managed to bail out in time and are now prisoners in Germany. According to Brothers' letters, he and the boys are well cared for and they are particularly grateful for the swell packages sent them by the Red Cross.

Coerced Confessions May Be Eliminated

By JAMES MARLOW and GEORGE ZIELKE
 WASHINGTON, May 2 (AP)—Police and district attorneys all over the land could scratch their heads today and ask: "What do I do about questioning suspects in a crime from now on?"

Holding crime suspects and quizzing them is police routine to get confessions. On such confessions prosecuting attorneys often have to base their cases.

On such confessions, obtained under grilling, men have been imprisoned and executed after conviction in court.

Now the supreme court hands down a decision which may strike at the heart of such procedure. Whether it does, or how far it goes, is not clear to capital lawyers.

This is what happened: E. E. Ashcraft and John Ware, a negro, were convicted in Tennessee in the slaying of Ashcraft's wife near Memphis in 1941. They were sentenced to 99 years each.

They appealed unsuccessfully through all the Tennessee courts. Then they went to the United States supreme court. They said their conviction violated the 14th amendment to the constitution which guarantees that no person shall be deprived of life or liberty without due process of law.

This was their case: After 36 hours of questioning, Ashcraft allegedly confessed and implicated Ware. The supreme court reversed the Tennessee decision, holding that if Ashcraft had made a confession it must have been involuntary because of the long grilling.

This was a forced confession, said the court and added: "The constitution of the United States stands against the conviction of any individual in an American court by means of a coerced confession."

But Associate Justice Jackson, dissenting from the majority opinion, raised this question: What is the time limit on questioning a suspect if 36 hours is too much. Would 24 be all right, or 12, or 6 or 12?

He said the court should make this plain because otherwise "How else may state courts apply our tests?"

That's where head-scratching starts for policemen and prosecutors. Suppose they question a suspect 5 minutes and he confesses? Is that too much? Suppose, if convicted, he appealed. Would his confession be ruled out?

Some lawyers here think the supreme court reversed the Ashcraft case only because the Tennessee courts had failed to say specifically whether the confessions were freely made.

These lawyers say that if the Tennessee trial court, for instance, had instructed the jury that the Ashcraft confession was freely made—or that it wasn't—that the supreme court would have upheld the Tennessee court's verdict.

But this is speculation. Until some clarification is forthcoming from some case, policemen and district attorneys may have to figure it out for themselves.

Fighter pilots obtain brief surges of extra power for combat by pushing a button which injects water into their air-cooled engines, cooling the cylinders, cutting down detonation and permitting leaner gas mixtures.

Highland Park 'Gator Is Killed With 30-30

DALLAS, May 3 (AP)—Two shots from a 30-30 calibre rifle ended the life yesterday of an alligator whose presence in the Highland Park district had created one of that area's most bizarre problems.

The four-foot, eight-inch 'gator had roamed the area for a number of years, basking in Turtle Creek and sunning on lawns of Highland Park homes until Eddie Ross found it sleeping on the banks of the creek and shot him.

HEALTH QUIZ

| Do you have poor digestion?        | <input type="checkbox"/> YES <input type="checkbox"/> NO |
| Do you feel headachy after eating? | <input type="checkbox"/>                                 |
| Do you get sour or upset easily?   | <input type="checkbox"/>                                 |
| Do you feel tired—listless?        | <input type="checkbox"/>                                 |

Now everyone knows that to get the good out of the food you eat—you must digest it properly. But what most people don't know is that Nature must produce about two pints of the digestive juice—liver bile—each day to help digest your food. If Nature fails, your food may remain undigested, its nutrients heavy within you.

Thus, it is simple to see that one way to aid digestion is to increase the flow of liver bile. Now, Carter's Little Liver Pills start to increase this flow quickly for thousands—often in as little as thirty minutes. When bile flow increases, your digestion may improve. And, soon you're on the road to feeling better—which is what you're after.

Don't depend on artificial aids to counteract indigestion—when Carter's, taken as directed, aid digestion after Nature's own order. Get Carter's Little Liver Pills today—only 25¢. You'll be glad you did.

Texas High School Youngsters Trek To Austin Session

AUSTIN, May 3 (AP)—All the Texas high school youngsters who can run further and faster, jump higher, speak, write and figure better, began to gather here today for the 34th annual interscholastic league meet.

For the first time in history, a slide rule competition has been added to the long list of events which also includes such attainments as typewriting, tennis, journalistic writing, and performance of one-act plays.

The slide rule and mental arithmetic contests were added as the result of war-time emphasis on mathematical training in high school. Track and field events, speaking and debate, are all old standbys of competition that have gone on through the years.

The meet starts officially today with registrations, and active competition starts tomorrow. Instead of holding the annual affair on Friday and Saturday, the league changed to Thursday and Friday this year to avoid the week end rush for rooms in the capital.

Rooms where the youngsters usually are housed have been signed over to visiting soldiers from nearby army camps.

Lodgings are furnished free of charge to delegates who wear the league's identifying button.

Following is the schedule of events:

Thursday
8 a. m.—One-act play rehearsal; ready writers contest; 8:30 a. m.—Journalism conference; 9

a. m.—track and field contestants assemble on Texas Memorial Stadium field; 11 a. m.—journalism, news-writing contest; 2 p. m.—tennis—first round in boys' singles and doubles; tennis—first round in girls' singles and doubles; journalism group meetings; extemporaneous speech, girls' division; debaters, both girls' and boys' division, first round.

2:30 p. m.—Semi-finals in track; 3 p. m.—ready writers assemble to hear results of contests; declaration finals girls' and boys' divisions.

4 p. m.—Journalism, copyreading. Extemporaneous speech, boys' division; 4:30 p. m.—journalism, headline writing contest; 5 p. m.—journalism, feature story contest; 7:30 p. m.—debate semi-finals, girls' and boys.

Equipment Loss Will Not Stop Red Raiders

LUBBOCK, May 3 (AP)—Texas Tech's football team is going ahead with its fall schedule despite loss of $5,500 worth of athletic equipment in a fire that damaged the locker and equipment rooms. Sporting goods houses say there will be enough equipment for the Raiders next season, and if there isn't the two army airfields at Lubbock have offered to lend them some.

NO CONTROL FOR LOGS

Good Pitcher Who Can Hit Is Doubly Valuable To Game

By JACK HAND Associated Press Sports Writer

You don't have to be a good hitter to be a winning pitcher in the big leagues but rookie Charles Schanz of the Phillies today knows it helps.

Schanz was only one of five major league hurlers who helped his own cause with a timely "base knock in yesterday's games that tightened up the races in both circuits.

The big righthander whom the Phils drafted from San Diego is the shining example but Curt Davis of Brooklyn, Bill Dietrich of the White Sox, Johnny Niggeling of Washington and Hal Newhouse of Detroit have reasons to thank their own bats for adding something new to their win records.

Schanz might have lost a one-hitter if he hadn't been able to come up with a bases-loaded triple in the ninth to give the Phils a 5-2 verdict over the New York Giants. Up to then the Polo Grounders led on their one hit. Joe Medwick's homer after George Hausman had walked in the seventh.

Davis came on as a relief man with Brooklyn and Boston all tied up 6-6 in the 11th, blanked the Braves in the top half and then drove home Paul Waner with a single to break it up. Jim Tobin's no-hit streak was ended in the first inning and he gave way to a pinch runner after allowing seven hits in three innings in Brooklyn's 7-6 victory.

In Cleveland, Dietrich tossed a five-hitter in trimming the Indians, 3-2, but he had to start his own White Sox rally with a single in the 10th. He moved around on Leroy Schalk's single and romped home with the big run on Jimmy Webb's fly to center.

Newhouse chimed in with a double in Detroit's extra-base attack on St. Louis. Chuck Hostetter, Eddie Mayo and Rudy York were the other sluggers in handling the Browns their first home loss, 4-3.

Niggeling's lone hit in backing up his own four-blow effort against Boston for a 5-2 victory did not help in the scoring but he prolonged a sixth inning rally by working Pinky Woods for a walk and helped another with a neat sacrifice in the eighth.

Hitting honors went to George Stinnett with his three bingles as the Yankees moved into undisputed possession of second place by downing the Athletics, 4-1, but Bill Zuber and Jim Turner combined to limit the Mackmen to five safeties. Outfielder Tuck Stainback broke his right leg stealing second base in the third inning to force another reshuffling of the New York outfield.

In the only other big league game, Pittsburgh ended the Cardinals four-game win streak with a 3-1 verdict for Preacher Roe who retired for a pinch hitter in the eighth, but got credit for his second victory. Chicago and Cincinnati were not scheduled.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
NEW YORK, May 3 (AP)—One of those G.I. rumors that can't be confirmed says the Army is undertaking a general "crackdown" on athletes who have lingered overlong at various posts. ... That's as it should be, except in such cases where an athlete might be doing more useful work than serving on the firing line, but what makes it interesting is the number of transfers recently noted. ... Fort Jackson, S. C., cancelled its baseball schedule the other day because a number of good players, including Kirby Higbee, had been shipped out. ... The air force overseas replacement depot at Kearns, Utah, recently received a whole flock of ball players then learned that Johnny (Yankees) Sturm and Jack (Dodgers) Graham, wouldn't stay long enough to play on the post team. ... And Jake Early, Ernie White and Tommy Livingston (among others) have been shifted from Fort Bragg, N. C., to Camp Butler, where they're awaiting reassignment.

Today's guest star—Bill Driscoll, Philadelphia Record: "So far as the Record's files show, there has never been a professional shotputter or discus thrower in all history, people seem willing to do these things just for the hell of it."

Baseball's Longest Game

By LEROY ATKINSON AP Features
BOSTON—It was just 24 years ago today, son, that the Brooklyn Robins—we called 'em Robins back in those days—and the Boston Braves tangled at Braves Field in a 1-1 game that was finally called after 26 innings on account of darkness.

THE CLUBHOUSE

(The following story was written by Sgt. Bill Allen, of Woodstock, Va., a Marine Corps combat correspondent.)

SOMEWHERE IN THE SOUTH PACIFIC—A story by Chip Royal, AP Features sports editor, naming Bobby Jones, Babe Ruth and Jesse Owens as the three greatest athletes of all time gave the Marines here food for thought. It was only natural that a long discussion developed.

There were leathernecks who agreed with Royal's selection, but there were some who had doubts of their own. The battle of words raged far into the night until Marine Cpl Stanley L. Zarzika, of Welshfield, Ohio, finally went to work with his pad and pencil.

This Marine Gallup interviewed countless Marines for three days, and spent an additional day to tally his findings.

The one-two-three result of the Zarzika poll was:
1—Jim Thorpe of football, track and baseball fame.
2—James J. Braddock for his story-book rise to the world heavyweight boxing championship.

3—Johnny Van der Meer who pitched two consecutive no-hit games.
Cpl. Zarzika says he found no one who denied Jones, Ruth and Owens a high rating on the scroll of all-time greats.

However, when the Marine poll result was placed on the bulletin board alongside the Chip Royal summary, it was found that the top man (Jones) on the Royal list, was in fourth position on the Marines' list; Thorpe, who got the number-one vote among the Marines was sixth on the AP Features list; and Van der Meer was seventh.

To support their selections, the Marines talked of how Braddock rose from a relief line to the heavyweight championship, in little more than one year. Van der Meer's two consecutive no-hit-no-run games is the most impressive entry in the baseball archives, according to the Marines.

Among other Marine favorites are Henry Armstrong, only man to hold three boxing titles at the same time, and Jack Dempsey. These two fighters ranked fifth and sixth in the Marine poll.

Others were: seventh, James J. Corbett; eighth, Babe Ruth; ninth, Sammy Baugh, and tenth, Bill Tilden.

Connie Mack and the late Knute Rockne tied as the men who have done most for sports. The vote for the best exhibition of sportsmanship went to Joe Louis, who refused to hit Billy Conn, when the latter slipped in the eleventh round. Louis was losing on points at the time.

Sports are still the American fighting man's favorite topic, and they enjoy discussing opinions voiced by noted sports authorities. When they do not agree with the experts, they say so. It's all in fun, and the boys here realize their poll is just another small voice in the melting pot of sport opinions.

when Joe Oeschger, a dark-skinned giant from California and a graduate of St. Mary's College, pitched for the Braves and Leon Cadore pitched for the Robins.

Son, you probably have seen Babe Ruth and Ted Williams smack that pill over the walls and you have sat behind home plate goggle-eyed at the pitching wizardry of Lefty Grove and Dizzy Dean.

You have had your Joe Gordons and Bobby Doerr's, the DIMaggios and Jimmy Foxx and you believed that you saw the ultimate in baseball.

But in 1920 this Joe Oeschger and this Leon Cadore pitched those 26 innings from beginning to end in the longest game in major league history. And, son, how many could pitch 26 innings and allow only one run apiece today?

It was a dark and cloudy Saturday with rain clouds dripping showers so that only 4,000 of us turned out.

You youngsters pluck your baseball thrills from the whistle of the home run but 24 years back we enjoyed small-score games, the split-second whisk of the double-play, the pretty sacrifice and the darling stolen base. It was the 1-1 or the 1-0 games that sent the quivers down our spines.

Though only two runs were scored that day there were thrills enough packed into the 26 innings and the three hours and 50 minutes.

Just imagine! It was 1-1 in the first half of the 17th inning and the bases were filled with Brooklyn runners. The perspiration was pouring off Oeschger. But the Braves pulled their chestnuts out of the fire with a hell-for-leather play at home plate where Hank Gowdy saved the day.

In the ninth, also with the score at one-all, the Braves filled the bases when Cadore of the Robins intentionally walked a Boston batter.

That was baseball, son. True, there were no home runs but we had our thrills.

The Robins were in second place that day, pressing the Giants, while the Braves were sixth.

Both Oeschger and Cadore were husky guys with good curves and plenty of guts.

Cadore had a shade in the breaks. Three times he batted down hits, hits that ordinarily would have been good for a Boston run. The Braves had one or two good breaks, especially in the 17th when those Robins filled the bases with only one out.

The Robins also yanked themselves out of a hole in the 15th, just when the home-town warriors seemed on the verge of victory.

Old Zach Wheat, in left field for the Brooklyn's, played a pretty game and snuffed off two or three hits that might have soared for Cadore offering on the nose for a triple.

First baseman Holwe clipped out what looked like a Texas leaguer bac kof third but Zach Wheat came charging in and came up with a fancy catch. Cruise just escaped being doubled. But when Tony Boeckel singled to center, Cruise scored.

Rabbit Maranville doubled and Boeckel was out at home, Hood to Cadore to Krueger. But there was no grumbling in the Boston stands since it was considered good baseball by Boeckel for the play was close and Krueger was spliced on the play and was forced to leave the game.

Then came 20 scoreless innings, son, and while you may yawn at the thought of such a runless stretch we didn't yawn for we liked that kind of ball.

War Bonds Are Not Adequate For Dress

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—A bathing beauty can't go traipsing around this city attired in only a few scattered war bonds even if her purpose is to stimulate war bond sales and even if she is only a picture on the side of a city bus.

The mayor and the City Municipal Association protested. The bus company painted a modern bathing suit on the figure, but pretexts continued and the bus company now has her attired in a gay 90's bathing suit.

With Battle Scars From Two Wars Texan Still Likes A Scrap

By JAMES F. KING
 WITH AN AMERICAN INFANTRY DIVISION. Somewhere in England (?) — Thomas O. Beauchamp, a raw-boned Texan, has been in the army 32 years.

He fought in the last war in France and he fought in Tunisia and Sicily in this war. Now he's in England looking forward to the big show — invasion of Europe from the west — and is more excited about it than the newest recruit.

"I wouldn't be missing this for anything," he says with a twinkle in his eyes and you know he means it. "You don't think I put in all this time and would want to quit now."

Beauchamp, 53, a native of Corsicana, Tex., who spent most of his youth in the Lone Star state, could have limited service for the asking. But approach this subject carefully, for no one has even suggested he leave this crack outfit.

Jutting out his chin, he says "they wouldn't dare."

Now a warrant officer in an artillery battalion—but always the top sergeant—Beauchamp thinks the next operation is "going to be a daisy."

He's gotten through so far without getting hurt much. A shell cut him near the left eye after the armistice was signed in the last war and a shell fragment hit him in the leg in Sicily—but "nothing worth mentioning."

There was a time in northern Tunisia when he had a funny accident. It was pitch dark this particular night—darker than ever it seemed—and he was trying to find the command post just behind the front.

A deep gully surrounded the "CP" and Beauchamp fell head first into it—20 feet. He let loose with his best sergeant's vocabulary and a young officer heard him and told him to wait a few minutes and he would help him to get out. The young officer called for a stretcher bearer and then started toward the swearing and and he fell in the same place right on top of Beauchamp.

Beauchamp suffered only a bruised leg. The young officer broke his leg. The stretcher bearers he had summoned carried him off.

Beauchamp often talks of his youth in Texas.

"It was real wild country then," he recalls for the younger soldier as he awes them with stories of that country. "Why I remember as a youngster finding buffalo horns right in front of the house."

He went to grammar school in Stephenville, Tex., high school in Duffan, Tex., and then moved to Fort Worth. After attending Baylor University for two years Beauchamp bought a tailor shop in Fort Worth—trading a shotgun, watch and $45 for it. He sold this later and ran a restaurant and then joined the army.

"I wanted to see the world," he explains, so the first army post he went to was Fort Bliss—in Texas. He served with a cavalry unit and was on the Mexican border when they asked for volunteers for an advance unit to go overseas. He volunteered and left on the first American "transport" of the last war—reaching Liverpool, Eng., in 1917. Actually there were more civilians than soldiers on the ship—the old Lapland of the Cunard White Star Line, he says.

A few months later he went to France. By that time some American troops had landed in that country, but Beauchamp said that he was with the first unit to come under enemy fire at Beaumont in 1917. He later fought in the Argonne and was under enemy fire for nearly a year.

When the armistice was signed Beauchamp said his first division was chasing the retreating Germans into Germany. He was on German soil when a shell fragment hit him just above the left eye, leaving a scar still visible.

So far in this war, Beauchamp says he hasn't seen anything yet as tough as the last war but there's still the "big show."

Beauchamp now makes his home in the United States in Palatka, Fla., where his wife, the former Margaret M. Rauch of Baltimore, Md., and his 14-year-old son reside.

Restrictions Relaxed On Oil Well Material

WASHINGTON, May 3 (AP)—Relaxation of restrictions on the use of critical materials in drilling oil wells in five Texas counties has been announced by the Petroleum Administration for War. They are Wheeler, Gray, Carson, Hutchinson and Moore.

In an order yesterday PAW reduced the size of the drilling unit upon which each well may be located from 40 to 20 acres, and lowered the minimum distance between wells from 900 to 600 feet.

Restrictions on the distance of wells from property lines remain unchanged.

TO ATTEND MEET

MEXICO CITY, May 3 (AP)—Among the prominent physicians from abroad who will attend the anti-tuberculosis congress to be held here July 22-29 under the patronage of President Avila Camacho are Drs. Leo Elosser, of the United States, and Gumersindo Satazo, of Argentina. Both will speak.

Valley Feels Worst Drouth In History

EDINBURG, May 3 (AP)—While flood waters inundate crops over other sections of the state, representatives of the Lower Rio Grande Valley water districts have voted unanimously to adopt a 48-hour water conservation holiday in an effort to alleviate one of the worst drouth conditions that area has ever felt.

The shutdown will begin at 6 p. m. today. All irrigation districts will store enough water to carry them through any emergencies and provide enough water for domestic uses during the holiday.

The normal width of the Prut river is 650 feet to 1,000 feet.

Sailors Learn Pill-Rolling Art To Treat The Merchant Fleet

SALTS FOR SALTS—A seaman learns to prepare rudimentary drugs at the Maritime Service hospital school at Sheephead Bay. With his diploma he gets a pharmacist's mate rating.

AP Features
NEW YORK—The U. S. Maritime Service is sending men down to the sea in ships with medical kits and litters to keep America's merchant fleet the healthiest, as well as the mightiest, in the world.

At the Sheephead Bay training station, grizzled salts and youths yet to be dunked in their first spray receive hospital corps training. The old salts are pursers of varying rank, ashore for 16 weeks schooling in the pill rolling arts. The trainees get 28 weeks of preliminary drill as seamen and advanced training as hospital corpsmen and junior assistant pursers.

Only One Of Its Kind
 The hospital corps phase of the school is the only training of its kind in the world in any maritime service.

On Liberty ships, freighters and tankers, the hospital corpsman-pursers must frequently work alone without the advice of doctors. On other vessels, such as transports, there may be several corpsmen or pharmacist's mates.

The hospital corps school opened Dec. 1, 1942, to fill a vital wartime need. At the outset, merchant seamen casualties were six times as frequent as those to Navy personnel.

Volunteers entering Maritime training stations may apply for advanced training as a pharmacist's mate-junior assistant pursers, instead of choosing deck or engine schools.

Soon after establishment of the Hospital corps school, the Purser school for training ship's clerks, was combined with it. Until then the captain or first mate had given necessary medical care.

Supplying a man with fundamental medical knowledge to each merchant ship means that incipient epidemics can be halted, ship's sanitation improved, and the danger of diseases spreading from one port to another be curtailed. During the war, these men provide medical care also for the Navy gun crews on every merchant ship.

At the start of every voyage hospital corpsmen administer typhoid, smallpox, tetanus and typhus inoculations if needed and are also prepared to immunize against yellow fever, cholera and malaria prophylaxis. Upon arrival at destination, they assist quarantine officials.

Fifty men a week enter the school; 40 are pursers given leaves of absence by shipping lines and ten are trainees.

By lecture, motion pictures, field trips and actual practice they are trained in human anatomy and physiology; hygiene, nursing, pharmacy, emergency treatment including plasma and the miracle drugs, sulfa and penicillin.

To complete their medical training, they get four weeks of practical hospital training.

Pursers and trainees are impressed that when they finish they won't be "doctors," but they will be competent to treat ordinary ailments and keep alive a dangerously ill or wounded seaman until a medical officer arrives.

Allies Scoff At Nazi Boasts Of Secret Weapons

AP Features
LONDON—Allied military chiefs aren't worried over Nazi "secret weapons" of invasion.

"If the Germans had anything up their sleeve, they'd use it now against us or the Russians before they get their brains beaten out," said one ranking official. "Military tacticians in mechanized war don't wait to see the whites of enemy eyes."

The Germans are expected to use shore defense rockets, glider bombs, possibly radio-controlled planes, but the Allied command scoffs at their effectiveness. Shore-based rockets are less accurate than artillery and radio-controlled planes and gliders are useless if the control-planes are downed by expected Allied air superiority.

Much more formidable but hardly "secret" are these obstacles which invasion forces expect to encounter:

Underwater barbed wire to trap men leaping from landing craft.

Land mines—some exploding on contact, others detonated from distant observation points.

Concrete emplacements for machine gun nests on every likely beach.

Big guns protected by yard after yard of reinforced concrete ringed every strategic harbor and beachhead.

Behind these will be the traditional German defense in depth with mines, pillboxes and gun emplacements repeated for miles inland.

Editorial - - - Admirable If Impossible

While one may not agree entirely with the Luce publications and sometimes questions the lack of propriety and taste exercised in some matters, it can never be said that they are afraid to try something new.

One of the newest ventures is a series of page advertisements being carried in the metropolitan press by which Time magazine, one of the thriving Luce editorial children, hopes to stimulate the people of the United States. It is an admirable undertaking, possibly too upper-human to hope for success. Nevertheless, it is admirable not to mention a smart piece of advertising.

Anyone who can stimulate the American people to serious and constructive thought has performed a worthwhile service. Just as Times argues, "America's greatest need, now and in the coming years, is for the sovereign people to make up their minds and speak them out." It rightly follows, as the magazine continued, that the citizens then must keep themselves informed, and that means by all sound means.

Some mighty vital questions are even now clamoring for a clear voice from the people. Their number is growing almost hourly and in the days ahead when peace shall come, their number will be legion.

Can we clarify our desires for a democracy How shall we harmonize the interests of capital and labor? How shall we shape correct attitudes for our returning men? What shall be done with Germany? What shall be done with Europe? Shall we cling to a policy of expediency? Shall we participate with influence and money in developing a new democratic Europe which might have a chance for endurance? What is to become of the Japanese, and how shall we work with our Chinese friends?

These are serious questions. They should not be answered out of prejudice, out of sheer hate, out of mere desire for revenge. There should be some sense to our answers. Obviously, this will call for some individual thinking. Thus, Time's effort is a good gesture. Along the same line, it seems to us that a revival of some type of forum within the various communities of the nation would be entirely wholesome. No place would be too small to have one and out of them might come many other means for stimulating thought. God knows we never have had a surplus of that.

Good People Everywhere

We hope those from other sections who have cast their lot with us have found us as our own found the New Englander, overlooking our renegades, snobs and selfish ones while learning to enjoy the fellowship of our solid citizens.

Famous Lake Is Sea Of Galilee

By GEORGE STIMPSON

Because of its association with the life of Jesus, the Sea of Galilee is one of the most famous lakes in the world.

It was first mentioned in the Bible under the name of the sea of Chinnereth or Chinneroth, a name which means "lgre" and which refers to an ancient town that stood on the shores of the lake.

Under the Roman regime it was given the name of the Sea of Tiberias, after Tiberius Caesar, a name that it still bears.

Thus this body of water is referred to in the Bible under several different names—the Sea of Chinnereth, the Sea of Galilee and the Sea of Gennesaret.

The Sea of Galilee, the largest body of fresh water in Palestine, is one of a chain of lakes through which the Jordan River flows on its way to the Dead Sea.

The War Today

by DeWitt Mackenzie
Associated Press War Analyst

We've been told that D-Day for the great invasion of western Europe has been set, and British Labor Minister Ernest Bevin confided to war-workers at the week-end that he even knew the precise moment, though he dared not reveal it.

However, we can take it for granted that, despite an exact date, the time can be altered to meet an unforeseen emergency. It's obvious that a date which depends to considerable degree on untested elements must be conditional to that extent.

Barring this qualification as to flexibility, we can be sure that plans have been worked out exactly. While the zero hour can't be guaranteed weeks in advance, what can be fairly well guaranteed is that things will follow a certain course after the zero hour has been reached.

Of course, the best planned offensives are likely to have local upsets, such as some unit being held up by fierce opposition. However, these can be compensated for, as the occasion may demand, because of the precision of the operation as a whole.

Naturally there's a great difference between the orthodox land offensive and forthcoming invasion which involves land, air and water to an extent that in some respects is outside the experience of man. There will, for instance, probably be a use of paratroopers and other airborne forces on a scale heretofore only a strategist's dream. Indications are that a huge army will be dropped from the skies into areas behind the main enemy lines.

There's one situation we onlookers must be prepared for. Many confusing things are likely to happen after the invasion starts—things which only the Allied command can understand. Indeed some of these mysteries will be deliberately perpetrated by our command to fool the enemy. At a time of great tension, events which aren't understandable are bound to cause worry, but in the forthcoming invasion there's no need to let them get us down in the mouth.

A total of 155,148 governmental units levy taxes and render public services in the United States.

Enrollment in public high schools in the United States in 1944 is about one million below peak enrollment in 1940-41.

There are approximately five million more hogs in the United States to be fed from the 1943 corn crop than were fed from the larger 1942 grain crop.

The Unseen Audience

Hollywood—

Extra's Life -- Something Extra

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD — In some ways Ronnie Rondell is the most unusual character in pictures. He was an extra, and he made money at it. Last year, when he was still an extra, he made more money than any other. He made $6,000.

This year he won't do so well. Ambition bit him, and it's costing him. This year he is taking only bits and parts. He gets more per day, $75, but he works fewer days than when he was a dress-extra at $16.50.

Extras, always in the background of films, are often in the limelight — as a group — in the Hollywood scene. There used to be too many of them, so that very few indeed could earn a living at it. Then the Screen Actors Guild huddled with the industry and the lists were pared, the idea being that with fewer regular extras the available work could keep the chosen bodies and souls together. Today — some days — there aren't enough extras. Manpower shortage. But that's the trouble with extra work. It's work today and starts tomorrow — or maybe the day after.

Good times and bad. Ronnie Rondell usually worked. That's why today he owns his own home, two cars, and supports his wife and two children nicely. "We even had a maid before the war," he says. — Ronnie is a good-looking fellow — says he's 39 — who got into pictures in 1921 when Marion Davies was starring in New York. He sometimes played leading men, sometimes extra, but he kept in the business and made it pay. "My main rule was to avoid being a pest," he says. "I knew a lot of executives in the studios, but I never liked to bother them by telephone. I'd walk past studio gates, and if they stopped me, I'd go out and try another gate — sometimes making a quick change of coat and hat in my car. So I'm in, and I bump into the guy I came to see. To him it's a chance meeting, and he hasn't been both-ered."

Ronnie once kept a ladder in a vacant lot behind RKO for unobtrusive entrances. Now the place is a cemetery and there's a high wall besides. He uses the gates. But he has other "angles." "I made money by hard work — sometimes two $16.50 dress jobs a day. Sometimes working at Paramount, I'd use my lunch hour to run out to MGM to clinch a job. On "Frenchman's Creek" — Mitch Leisen has always been a great help to me — I worked three months, one day making $100 by "doubling." Some days I'd be down for a dress extra check but take home $50 — get a line to say. I tried to be dependable and that always helped."

Ronnie has a bit in Leisen's "Practically Yours" now. He gave up extra-ing after being featured in a short, "Fun Time," and now says he's through with the old trade. "The upkeep," he says, "was terrific. Had to spend up to $500 a year on clothes — to say nothing of linens, haberdashery, cleaning and laundry."

Washington—

Governors Sit Atop The GOP

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — With Wendell Willkie out of the presidential picture and (many here believe) Gen. Douglas MacArthur fading fast, the Republican party this election year might almost be called the Republican governors' party.

Not in recent years has it seemed so certain that governors would fill both ends of a presidential ticket.

The handwriting has been on the wall since the non-partisan conclave of governors in Columbus, Ohio, last summer. It was even more apparent at the Mackinac Island Republican postwar conference. There, some of the Congressional GOP conservatives did manage to temper the language of a few resolutions, but it was the governors who stole the show.

There are 25 Republican governors and if they can carry their states in the November elections, the Republicans are in — in a walk — because those states control well over a majority of the electoral votes.

With Gov. Thomas E. Dewey far out in front as the potential GOP nominee, and Gov. Earl Warren of California, as convention keynoter, and at the moment extremely favored here as Dewey's likeliest running mate, it does look like governor's day at the presidential races.

However, with Willkie and Gen. MacArthur excepted, try to name any prospective nominee for either end of the ticket other than Governors Bricker (Ohio); Sallon-stall (Mass.); Griswold (Neb.); Baldwin (Conn.); or the three-termer from Minnesota, Lt. Comdr. Harold E. Stassen, now on combat duty with the Navy.

The weight that the governors are going to carry in the convention, both in selecting the nominees, and shaping the Republican party platform was underscored in Chicago when the Republican National Committee sidetracked leading candidates Sen. Arthur Vandenberg, Rep. Claire Boothe Luce and others to name Gov. Warren as the keynoter for the national convention, June 26.

hasn't been without some elements of chance. According to observers here, Willkie's withdrawal eliminated almost all probability of a convention deadlock. That deadlock, it was believed, was the greatest possibility Gen. MacArthur, Gov. Bricker, or any other "dark horse" had for winning the nomination.

Gen. MacArthur, these observers say, was given a further setback when a well-intentioned backer made public what the general referred to as purely personal correspondence, indicating that he may have been giving considerable thought to his presidential possibilities. In this election year of the great silence, it often seems to be fatal for a man even to hint that he considers himself in the running.

Keys At The Capitol

Moon Planting Gets Mixed Up

By WILLIAM E. KEYS

AUSTIN, May 3 (AP)—Are you a moon planter? Agricultural experts spoof at it but many a practical gardener will tell you that unless potatoes and other root or underground crops are planted in the dark of the moon chances for success are small. And similarly, crops maturing above ground, beans and peas for instance, should be planted in the light of the moon. But the theory gets a bit mixed in different localities. In some places the reverse holds true.

Around Travis county another tradition holds that potatoes should be planted on Washington's birthday. Based on the law of averages it's a pretty good tradition. Although the last killing frost of the season usually has not occurred at that date it normally comes before the potato sprouts show above ground.

Another tradition familiar in Southwest Texas is that tender vegetables should not be planted until the mesquite buds. This tradition took a beating in Travis county this year. Frosts came after the mesquite began to bud and many a stand of beans, squash, tomatoes suffered.

Texasans contemplating their first antelope hunt under a game commission order opening the season for the first time in 41 years next October are hereby referred to Ernest Boyett, secretary to Governor Coke R. Stevenson, self-styled expert at bagging antelope. Boyett, whose word is backed by Will J. Tucker, executive secretary of the game commission, says he killed an antelope in New Mexico last year. Boyett adds that only an expert shot (like him) can expect to drop one in the Trans-Pecos where antelope will be legal game in October.

What Boyett fails to explain is that 39 other persons, on the same New Mexico hunt, also got one antelope each in only two days of hunting.

Col. Ernest O. Thompson, member of the railroad commission, is host to Panhandle newspaper editors every year at a dinner in Amarillo. This year was his 22nd. "It gets better every year," says Thompson.

Off the cuff: George Clark of Austin, former executive manager of the Texas Safety Association, and former State Representative E. H. Thornton of Galveston, are shipmates aboard a naval aircraft carrier. Governor Stevenson has a theory, sometimes expressed in public speeches, that romance, religion and politics are the three driving forces of society and all else stem from these . . . The remains of Alexander Gregg, first bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Texas may be removed from North Carolina and reinterred in Austin . . . State Representative Richard Craig of Miami has completed boot camp training and is now a pharmacist's mate 3/c.

"THANKS for giving the boys a break"

You do someone a real favor when you stay off Long Distance lines from 7 to 10 at night. When a lot of people do that, a lot of service men's calls get through quicker.

The soldiers and sailors—their folks back home—and the telephone company are all grateful for your help.

So tonight and every night, "Please give 7 to 10 to the service men." That's about the best time they have to call.

DOWNTOWN STROLLER

Talked with MRS. FRANK SMITH today, and she was telling us that her son, LT. FRANCIS B. SMITH, of the marine air corps, will arrive Thursday for a visit here with his parents. He will be enroute from Corpus Christi to Florida. Another house guest at the SMITH home will be SARA ANN LOVE of Norman, Oklahoma.

While browsing around town and in and out of stores Tuesday, we couldn't help noticing how often our fellow shoppers would repeat "I'm just looking, thank you," when approached by sales girls. We thought to ourselves how old that must be to employes... but later in the afternoon we ran across one of these salesmen off to lunch and doing a bit of shopping. Sure enough, we caught her saying "I'm just looking" and decided that must be a fixed statement that everyone uses now and then.

FELTON WALTERS, who's to be married to LT. M. E. HOERGER, JR., Friday, really has some beautiful gifts. Service for six in her china and crystal was on display the other night at the shower and reception given for her by CLARINDA SANDERS. Incidentally, CLARINDA'S mother surely made a beautiful bride's book cover. Shows what you can do with a little satin and flowers.

Appleton, Vincent, and other relatives. John enlisted July 27, 1942, got his boot training at San Diego, Calif. and put out to sea in September 1942. His service has been off Australia and New Guinea. None of his family knew he was back in the States until he flew in here last Thursday and surprised them.

Draft Boards Told To Re-examine 4-F's, 1-C's

By JAMES MARLOW and GEORGE ZIELKE
WASHINGTON, May 3 (AP)—Men in 4-F (physically incapable of military service) and those in 1-C (discharged servicemen) are concerned about a notice sent to draft boards this week by selective service.

This notice called for a "revision in the procedure to be followed in the reclassification" of 4-F's and 1-C's. Before explaining the notice, this should be made clear:

Draft boards continually have been going over their lists of 4-F's and 1-C's, trying to reclassify them for military service where possible.

At SS headquarters it was said that 80,000 men in 4-F were reclassified in February. It is likely the number of such reclassifications is running about 60,000 monthly.

For instance: A year ago a man was examined and found physically fit except for a hernia. Because of the hernia he was placed in 4-F. Since then he has been operated on, recovered, and apparently is physically fit.

So what would happen to such a man? Would the draft board ship him off to the induction center for army examination? No.

Until last Saturday the regular procedure was to have him examined by one of the specialists on the state's medical advisory board. This kind of procedure was mandatory.

If the specialist recommended that the 4-F be reclassified as fit for military duty, that is what the board generally did although it still could leave him in 4-F if it wished.

But there were bottlenecks in the plan. The board usually was made up of seven specialists, one expert on the heart, another on the nervous system, and so on.

They were scattered around the state. So a 4-F whose heart had improved might have to be shipped clear across the state to the board member who was a heart specialist. Examinations by board members began to pile up.

On Saturday SS changed this procedure. Now the draft board can move a 4-F to the board member on the local board's examining physician.

The state's SS medical director can also take a hand. For example: By approving a certificate from a doctor who says he has cured a 4-F of hernia by operation. In such a case an actual examination of the man would not be necessary and the board could reclassify him.

But SS also told the local draft board this: When a man who still remains 4-F is found to be in an essential industry, he is to be reclassified as 2-A or 2-B or this own card which he carries around with him.

The board will also carry him as 2-A or 2-B on his own card (4-F) or 2-B (F). This has a book-keeping value and may make the 4-F feel better.

Some boards have been doing this. Now SS suggests all do it. But a 4-F who after another look by the board still was found to be 4-F but engaged in non-essential work, would retain that classification and would not be changed to 2-A or 2-B until he got into essential work.

Twenty-Five Hurt in Interurban Crash

DENISON, May 3 (AP)— Eleven of 25 persons injured in a head-on collision of two Dallas-Denison interurbans three miles south of here remained in Sherman and Denison hospitals today.

Twenty-two were hospitalized after the crash yesterday. One of the victims, 16-year-old Doris Lannom of Garland, underwent an operation for amputation of her foot just above the ankle.

Post-War Hump Measure Snags

WASHINGTON, May 3 (AP)—A heavily-backed measure for helping business over the hump between war and non-war production came up in the senate today for expected quick passage, but ran into objections by Senator Kilgore (W-WV) that it overlooks labor.

The bill, introduced by Senator Murray (D-Mont) with the unanimous approval of the military committee, was described in the committee report as having two fundamental principles:

- (1) Businessmen shall be paid speedily the fair compensation which is due them for the termination of their war contracts, and
- (2) The government, when paying out such fair compensation, should be carefully protected against waste and fraud.

While Democratic Leader Barkley of Kentucky said he thought the measure could be passed in one day, Kilgore said he planned to offer some amendments.

These amendments, he told a reporter, would tend to put under a central agency all the demobilization matters. Specifically, he mentioned plans to provide for unemployment compensation benefits, reemployment aids and transportation of displaced workers to a place of new employment.

The bill up today would create an office of contract settlement, headed by a director empowered to set standards for various government agencies to wind up contracts. Advance or partial payments would be permitted within these standards.

Separate senate and house investigations of the government's troop seizure of the Montgomery Ward & Co. Chicago properties took shape rapidly today as demands echoed in congress for legislative restrictions against such confiscations.

One investigating group, a senate judicial subcommittee headed by Senator McCarran (D-Nev), arranged an initial meeting today and announced Attorney General Biddle and Ward Chairman Sewell Avery would be among witnesses called for public hearings starting next week.

In the house, leaders cleared the way for a vote tomorrow or Friday on a resolution that would set up a special seven-member committee to conduct a concurrent inquiry.

Administration spokesmen conceded it would get overwhelming approval.

The tenor of congressional criticism was that legislation should be enacted limiting plant seizures to industries clearly linked with the war program.

Methodists Propose 25 Million Fund To Evangelize World

KANSAS CITY, May 3 (AP)—A "Crusade for Christ," which calls for the raising of $25,000,000 and a world-wide program of evangelism and reconstruction, was adopted today by the general conference of the Methodist church.

After hearing Dr. Umphrey Lee, President of Southern Methodist University, declare that "Fine sentiment alone won't fill stomachs or win souls," the 762 delegates voted almost unanimously for the five-objective crusade, which was planned by the committee of 21, so called because it has 21 members.

- (1) To establish an international organization for permanent peace.
- (2) To rebuild church property, and rehabilitate peoples, in war areas.
- (3) A church-wide evangelistic campaign.
- (4) Cultivation of Christian stewardship.
- (5) To increase enrollment in Sunday schools and related organizations.

WASHINGTON, May 3 (AP)— Separate senate and house investigations of the government's troop seizure of the Montgomery Ward & Co. Chicago properties took shape rapidly today as demands echoed in congress for legislative restrictions against such confiscations.

One investigating group, a senate judicial subcommittee headed by Senator McCarran (D-Nev), arranged an initial meeting today and announced Attorney General Biddle and Ward Chairman Sewell Avery would be among witnesses called for public hearings starting next week.

In the house, leaders cleared the way for a vote tomorrow or Friday on a resolution that would set up a special seven-member committee to conduct a concurrent inquiry.

Administration spokesmen conceded it would get overwhelming approval.

The tenor of congressional criticism was that legislation should be enacted limiting plant seizures to industries clearly linked with the war program.
