

State Legislators Start Drawing Expense Money

AUSTIN (UPI)—During the next 18 months, the state will pay expenses of 175 legislators studying such topics as restoration of Santa Anna's flag, livestock auctions and tax policy.

The 59th Legislature created 33 interim committees with spots for 141 House members and 37 senators, according to a compilation made public today by the Texas Legislative Council.

All but three of the committee members will be able to draw on the state treasury for travel expenses to and from the committee meetings, and in some cases other expenses.

(Rep. J. C. Whitfield of Houston did not ask for expense money for his three member "Committee to Aid the Houston Legal Foundation.")

The legislature is often accused of being more interested in the expense money authorized for the committees than in the work they are supposed to do.

The pace of interim committee action always picks up on weekends of home football games at the University of Texas. Committee members can sandwich a brief meeting between their other football-weekend activities and thus get the state to pay for their trip to Austin.

On the other hand, some committees work conscientiously throughout the interim and produce important legislative proposals.

The committee on state and local tax policy, which will again be headed by Rep. Ben Atwell of Dallas, suggested the $6 million inheritance tax revision adopted by the 59th Legislature and laid the groundwork for the $70 million cigarette tax increase that financed the teachers' pay increase.

The purpose of some of the committees is somewhat obscure.

Rep. Forrest Harding of San Angelo proposed an "interim committee to study the priority of the liens in favor of the state of Texas to secure payment of taxes levied by the state of Texas."

Rep. Jim Nugent of Kerrville won approval for a "committee to work with the legislative council on possible changes in the rules of the house concerning the time bills and resolutions are printed and distribution of printed copies of same."

Interim committees created by the 59th Legislature and the legislators who proposed them include:

Pope Selects Archbishop

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—New Orleans Archbishop John Patrick Cody, an outspoken supporter of racial justice, was named by Pope Paul VI today as the new Archbishop of Chicago. He is almost certain to be elevated to cardinal.

The 57-year-old Cody succeeds Albert Cardinal Meyer who died of cancer on April 9. Chicago is America's largest Catholic archdiocese with 2.34 million Catholics and 3,000 priests and Cody's new post is expected to enhance his position to leadership.

He became archbishop of New Orleans on Nov. 8, 1964, when Archbishop Joseph Francis Rummel died. It was there the heavy-set, good-humored Cody entered the tense Louisiana racial situation with tact and courage that won him renown.

He was active in U.S. appeals for stronger statements in favor of racial equality during the third session of the council last fall and spoke on the declaration dealing with Christian education.

In addition he was on the council commission which drew up the declaration which pleaded that "justice and equality demand that due measure of public aid be available to parents in support of the school they select for their children."

This was considered an important move for state aid to Roman Catholic schools.

Archbishop Cody, a native of St. Louis, was ordained Dec. 8, 1931, in Rome. He became a titular bishop of Apollonia and auxiliary bishop of St. Louis May 14, 1947, serving under Archbishop (now cardinal) Joseph E. Ritter. He later served as coadjutor bishop in St. Joseph, Mo., and Kansas City, and became bishop of the Kansas City diocese in 1956.

He is one of the most popular bishops in the American hierarchy and his appointment to the Chicago post undoubtedly will launch him into an influential position of leadership in moulding thought at the last session of the Ecumenical Council.

He is likely to follow the footsteps of Cardinal Meyer in following a center of the road view with liberal tendencies on council matters.

It is almost certain that Cody, 57, will be the next cardinal from the United States. Pope Paul already has said he would name a number of new "princes of the church" after the Ecumenical Council ends, probably in mid-December.

The archbishopric of Chicago traditionally is a cardinal's post.

RELATES DROWNING — James and Linda Lambright are shown telling Pampa police officers of seeing a small boy drown beneath the Tignor street bridge about 12:20 p.m. yesterday. The report touched off a three and one-half-hour search through murky waters for the victim and a house-to-house search for a lost child. The search was called off about 4 p.m. yesterday when no trace of a victim could be found or any report of a lost child received. Authorities believe the supposed victim crawled out of the water without James or Linda seeing him.

Cong Terrorists Hit Saigon Air Terminal

SAIGON (UPI) — Viet Cong terrorists exploded two bombs at Saigon's International airport today, wounding 36 U.S. servicemen and 10 others.

In the ground war a Viet Cong battalion ambushed a South Vietnamese column 50 miles southwest of Saigon and apparently kidnapped a U.S. military advisor. An American flier was killed and three others seriously wounded when the guerrillas shot down a helicopter sent in on a rescue mission. The battle was reported continuing.

The airport bombing was an apparent attempt to kill 100 Americans preparing to board a plane to return to the United States after a tour of duty in South Viet Nam. Another group of 100 Americans had just arrived and were getting a safety

Sporadic Firing Breaks Out Again In Santo Domingo

SANTO DOMINGO (UPI) — Sporadic firing broke out again today along lines held by the inter-American peacekeeping force which engaged rebel Dominican troops Tuesday in heavy fighting for 12 hours.

The inter-American force reported two Americans killed in action with the rebels and 29 wounded Tuesday.

An exchange of fire in the Brazilian-held sector broke the quiet at dawn but an Army spokesman reported there was no action along American lines. Some heavy weapons fire was audible at about 6 a.m. but there was no immediate indication where it originated. Explosions of undetermined origin also were heard.

Both of the dead were enlisted men of the 82nd Airborne Division.

Although a cease-fire in Tuesday's fighting was proclaimed at rebel request, shots and explosions could be heard throughout the night. Inter-American forces meanwhile stood ready for further action against the rebels, if necessary.

Two of the Americans wounded and the Brazilian are officers.

U.S. sources estimated that 7 to 10 rebel soldiers were killed in the fighting. The rebels said at least 7 civilian residents of the pocket they hold in southeastern Santo Domingo were killed and 30 wounded.

Rubble from the shattered roof and balcony cascaded into the main waiting room and the floor was covered with wooden beams, twisted pieces of steel and huge chunks of concrete and brick.

One of the injured, an attractive Vietnamese hostess for Pan American Airways named Ngo Van An, described the terror attack, her body covered with blood.

"There were about 40 to 50 people in the terminal hall," she said. "I was checking in passengers—Americans—for the special MATS (Military Air Transport Service) flight to the United States."

Search Ends For Supposed Victim

A three and one-half hour search proved fruitless Monday afternoon as law officers were unable to locate a supposed drowning victim.

A search through the murky waters of a drainage channel running to City Lake was started about 12:30 p.m. yesterday when two children reported seeing a small black-haired boy, wade into the water beneath the Tignor Street bridge. James and Linda Lambright, ages 9 and 12, of 911 Albert, told police they saw the boy go under the water and never come up.

After questioning the pair, officers said they were convinced of their story. Both Linda and James tearfully and emphatically related seeing the youngster apparently drown.

A team of city firemen, policemen and sheriff's deputies, along with about 50 volunteers waded the muddy waters for almost two hours searching for the youth.

Other policemen began a house-to-house search for anyone who might have seen a boy answering the description or might be missing a child.

A sound truck, operated by the Jaycees, drove all streets in the east end of Pampa in search of the parents of a child answering the description of the supposed drowning victim in the water or

About 4 p.m. yesterday, after efforts to locate any trace of a drowning victim in the water or find any lost children had failed, the search was officially called off.

Authorities said that Linda and James had apparently seen the child enter the water, but thought he probably came out (See VICTIM, Page 3)

SOUTH KOREA TO HELP More US Troops to Viet

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States plans a new expansion of combat troops and support forces in South Viet Nam in a continuing buildup of key bases on that country's East Coast.

Under the Johnson administration's "open end" program, total U.S. strength in South Viet Nam is expected to reach 90,000 men in a few months compared with an announced 53,500 there now.

Sources said today that South Korea also will announce plans soon to send a division of 15,000 combat troops to aid the South Vietnamese in meeting the Communists' rainy-season offensive.

With little visible prospect that peace talks will achieve any early results, Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara is expected to discuss the Viet Nam outlook at a 12:30 p.m. CST news conference today.

May Set Goals

It is unlikely that McNamara will spell out troop expansion plans in detail — he has refused up to now — but he might state some interim goals short of the 80,000 target.

McNamara also is expected to outline plans for converting the Army's 2nd Infantry Division, Ft. Benning, Ga., to an "air mobile" division on the pattern of the experimental 11th Air Assault Division.

Relying on helicopters instead of ground vehicles for a major part of its transport, such a division has impressed the Army as suited ideally to Southeast Asian operations.

In the absence of official information, it is possible to speculate on the most probable Army and Marine divisions that could be tapped for Viet Nam duty as the U.S. fighting role increases.

The Marines now have the largest portion of their 3rd Division, including seven infantry battalions, in Viet Nam and are likely to send in the remainder of the division from its Okinawa

A regimental landing team from the 1st Marine Division, Camp Pendleton, Calif., also has been moved forward in the Pacific.

With the 2nd Division to be remodeled and other divisions (See SOUTH KOREA, Page 3)

18 Dead in Crash Of Two U.S. Helicopters

COLUMBUS, Ga. (UPI)—Two huge Army helicopters collided during a tree-skimming training flight over a Georgia swamp Tuesday, killing all 18 men aboard.

The UH1D "Huey" aircraft, each carrying a crew of three and six infantrymen, were simulating the type of combat air mobility essential to guerrilla fighting in Viet Nam. Many of the men trained at nearby Ft. Benning have been sent to Southeast Asia.

The helicopters collided in a splintering of their 44-foot rotors.

"They fell like stones," a witness said.

One of the aircraft plummeted into a tree and shinned down, stripping off all the bark. The other crashed into the soggy ground and burst into flames.

The two other helicopters landed about 100 yards from the crash scene and their crews fought their way through the undergrowth to the wreck-

De Gaulle Urges Nations To Bring Balance to World

SAINT GERMAINE - EN-LAYE, France (UPI) — President Charles de Gaulle today urged the nations of the continent to join France in establishing "a balance from one end of Europe to the other."

He said this would lead them to become "the champions of peace."

De Gaulle made his remarks at the beginning of another "grassroot" tour of the suburban Paris area. The tour started under some of the strictest security precautions of the president's long and eventful regime.

De Gaulle said the United States and Russia gained power because of Europe's temporary weakness "and because these two great states have a semi-monopoly of atomic weapons and space resources." De Gaulle long has been a proponent of an independent nuclear force for France. He continued: "So each of them seeks—and that is only human—to extend its hegemony well beyond its frontiers. One does so by imposing a totalitarian regime on its satellites. The other one does so by different means, admittedly less troublesome and less severe, consisting of offering its protection and its help and of intervening when necessary with military forces, as we see in Viet Nam, Laos and Santo Domingo.

"The others have the possibility of uniting to defend themselves by themselves. By organizing they could establish a balance from one end of Europe to the other and become the champions of peace."

Police Search For Missing Baby Sitter

ST. PAUL, Minn. (UPI)—The search for a blonde, 14-year-old baby sitter who vanished a week ago entered its sixth day today with police still checking out a once-promising lead to her whereabouts.

Minneapolis police received a tip Tuesday night that Barbara Iversen, a junior high school girl, was being held hostage by two men in a suburban home.

The Ramsey County sheriff's office called in some two dozen police departments and conducted a house-to-house search in suburban Friday Tuesday night. They found no trace of the girl.

A sheriff's spokesman said today however, that police were "still checking out some leads to the person who telephoned the tip in the first place." He said he did not believe the tip was a deliberate harassment of the police.

Barbara vanished last Wednesday night while babysitting for Mr. and Mrs. Glen Hanson, a neighbor couple in suburban Shoreview.

Hanson left home for his job about 11:11 p.m., and his wife returned home about 3:30 a.m.

Mrs. Hanson said she did not see Barbara, and assumed the girl had gone home for a moment, saw Mrs. Hanson had arrived and decided not to return.

The next morning, Barbara's brother came to take her home and the disappearance was first noted.

Police questioned neighbors, and many mentioned a car with a "noisy muffler" which may have stopped in front of the Hanson home about 12:30 a.m. One said he saw a young man in the shadows.

All agreed that the car sped away, squealing its tires, and that a girl screamed for help. But no one notified authorities.

You'd Better Take Heed Twisters are Everywhere

By TOM NOLAN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON (NEA) — It's the first nice Sunday of the year and it could be anywhere in the United States. Maybe you take the family for a drive in the country, listening to some good music on the car radio. Perhaps you bring the transistor out to the front yard while you mow the lawn or wash the car. Or maybe you just relax and catch the ball game on television.

Suddenly your program is interrupted for a bulletin: It's tornado warning and the twister might be heading your way.

What do you do?

If you've ever been through a tornado before, you execute what the Navy calls "prompt evasive action."

But if you've never been in one—and chances are you have not—you probably don't have the vaguest idea what to do. As a result, you might do nothing.

In that case, you're lucky you weren't in the path of one of 37 tornadoes which ripped their way through parts of six Midwestern states last April 11—Palm Sunday—which began as the first really nice day of the year for that part of the country.

After an exhaustive survey of the stricken areas, a U. S. Weather Bureau special tornado warning team notes that lack of community preparedness plans may well have been the single most important contributing factor to the high death toll of 274 lives.

Unofficially, several Weather Bureau officials theorize that a "good percentage" of the victims received tornado warnings with sufficient time to save themselves.

Out of the survey team's gleanings come several "horror stories" which may indicate the lack of knowledge, preparedness and, in some cases, motivation on the part of some people in Palm Sunday's "Tornado Alley."

—An Indiana man, ducking into his cellar as a twister approached, recalls he caught a glimpse of a neighbor calmly watching the nearing funnel from his living-room window. When he emerged from the cellar a short time later, the window, the house and the neighbor were gone.

—An Illinois man, who fortunately lived on the south side of a street, told an interviewer: "Sure, I heard the warnings. But why the hell didn't somebody come along and pull me out of the house into some shelter?"

Every house on the north side of the street was leveled.

—Several Michigan residents called a local television station to protest the fact that the television show, "Walt Disney's Wonderful World of Color," had been interrupted by tornado warnings.

In the main, Weather Bureau stations in the states (Iowa, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Michigan and Wisconsin) issued "excellent forecasts and warnings," according to the survey team. The paths and performances of 33 of the 37 tornadoes were accurately predicted.

Before an official warning can be issued by the Weather Bureau, the twister must be physically "seen"—either by eye

ONLY SURVIVOR — Twelve-year-old Michael Johnson, shown here in a Ft. Stockton, Texas, hospital, is the only one of a family of eight to survive when a 15-foot wall of water washed away the motel where he lived in Sanderson, Tex. His father, John Wesley Johnson, a construction worker, is missing, but his mother, brothers and sisters are known to be dead.

Walter Rogers Reports June is Popular Month For Visitors to Congressmen's Office

June seems to be the most popular month for visits to Washington from Panhandle folks. A number of family groups, delegations here on business with the Government, and individuals have dropped by the office in recent days. It is always a pleasure to see and talk with visitors and, when possible, to assist them in making their visits to the Capital more enjoyable.

One of the groups here this week was representing Amarillo in its program of developing the Amarillo Medical Center at the west edge of the city. The delegation, which was here to explore avenues of Federal assistance in developing some of the Medical Center facilities, included Mr. R. Earl O'Keefe, President of the Amarillo Area Foundation; Mr. Emmett R. Johnson, the Executive Director of the Foundation; Miss Louise Evans, editor of the editorial pages, Amarillo Globe-News; and Dr. Robert F. Hyde, M. D. They held several meetings with high ranking officials of branches of the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, and also consulted with a Special Assistant to the President.

There are several Federal programs providing for direct grants and other types of assistance for which elements of the Amarillo medical complex may well be eligible.

The Panhandle's spelling bee champion, Wanda Carol Blurton of Perryton, made an excellent showing in the National Spelling Bee here this week. I had the pleasure of meeting her when she and her mother, Mrs. John A. Blurton, came by the office before the spell-down began.

It was also a pleasure to have had visits from a number of other persons, coming from all points of the Panhandle compass. Among other recent visitors were Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Thompson of Pampa and their children, Gene, Jim, and Margaret Ann; Mr. and Mrs. James K. Lovell of Dumas, and their children, Jim, Joe, John, Jeff, Nita, and Laura; Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Lilly of Amarillo, with son John and daughter Marsha; Miss Wanda Pearce of Wheeler and Miss Faythe Ann Wofford of Shamrock; Mr. and Mrs. M. T. Johnson, Sr., and Mr. and Mrs. M. T. Johnson, Jr., and their daughter Berkley, of Amarillo; Miss Janet Lewis and Miss Janice Meyer of Amarillo; John Buck of Hereford, with his friend from Notre Dame, Terrence Golden of Dallas (the boys are heading for a summer in Europe); Mr. J. W. Buchanan of Dumas; John R. Dove of Silverton; John D. Aikin and Jay Boston of Hereford and Bruce Parr of Friona, Mr. and Mrs. Marion Bruce of Amarillo, and Mr. E. P. Roach, also of Amarillo.

As I prepare this newsletter, I am looking forward to a visit from a group of 19 ladies from Shamrock. They are touring by chartered bus and are on their way to Washington from Williamsburg, Va., the restored Colonial town that, like the Capital itself, provides so much of interest to visitors from the Panhandle. More about their visit next week.

A highlight of the week for me was to have had a chance to talk at some length with Mr. Lyle Robinson of Tulsa, the manager of the Swisher County Electric Cooperative, who had just returned to the United States from South Vietnam. Lyle was one of six rural electrification experts sent as a team to that war-torn country to determine ways in which, through electric cooperatives, good electric service can be extended to the Vietnamese people. Ninety-five industries would be greatly benefited by the planned extension of service. New industry would be attracted. Lyle reports that one of the major benefits could come as good electric service enables an increase in irrigation for agriculture.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI)—There is a menhaden fisherman on the Gulf Coast of Louisiana named Clarence West. I have never met him but I suspect we may be distant cousins.

In addition to having the same surname, we share a family trait in "the matter of wardrobe selection. Clarence and I have the same conception of what constitutes sartorial elegance.

The feeling of kinship came over me this week as I was reading a report on a hearing held at Lake Charles, La., by a trial examiner for the National Labor Relations Board.

The case involved an unfair labor practice complaint and Clarence was one of a group of menhaden fishermen who appeared as witnesses.

Deep Impression

An NLRB report is not ordinarily the type of document you would turn to for fashion news, but in this instance Clarence's attire obviously made a deep impression on trial examiner George L. Powell.

So much so that he included a description of it in his report. "He was dressed," Powell wrote, "in a tuxedo coat and trousers with a pearl pin in the coat lapel. He wore a red tie. His feet were enclosed in brown cowboy boots."

"I can only surmise," Powell added, "that he was told he was to wear in a FORMAL hearing."

But of course. What else would a well-dressed menhaden fisherman wear to a formal hearing?

If the other witnesses were less appropriately clad it was only because they lacked the traditional West instinct, inherited by Clarence and me, for choosing raiments to match the occasion.

Matter Of Taste

It's all a matter of taste, actually. You either have it or you don't.

I personally decided early in life that if a function called for a tuxedo, I didn't want to go. I would rather be out catching menhaden or something. And I imagine Clarence feels the same way.

But if attendance were compulsory, as it was in this case, I like to think that I would show the same inbred flair for correctness of apparel that Clarence exhibited.

Offhand, I can't think of any accessories that would complement a tuxedo more than a red tie and brown cowboy boots.

Had the hearing been only semi-formal, I'm sure Clarence would have been equally impeccable. A tuxedo with chartreuse tie and Army shoes sounds about right to me.

Labor Committee Rebels Against Powell

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A House labor subcommittee today defied demands for immediate approval of legislation that would give Negro workers more protection against racial discrimination by labor unions. The subcommittee rebelled against the demand by Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., chairman of the full committee, and voted to begin public hearings next month on the measure. Powell promptly replied that the controversial administration proposal to nullify state right-to-work laws won't go anywhere until the subcommittee acts.

The full education and labor committee has approved the bill to repeal Section 14-B of the Taft-Hartley Act that lets individual states pass right-to-work laws. Powell wants to tie it to stronger civil rights for Negro workers.

Democrats on his committee scheduled a caucus late today with indications they may try to buck Powell and get the right-to-work bill before the full House.

Other congressional news: Dam: The Senate approved a bill to add a third power plant to Grand Coulee Dam in Washington at a cost of about $364 million.

Farm: Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman asked the Senate Agriculture Committee to approve the administration's omnibus farm bill which includes a new plan to divert up to 40 million acres of cropland to other uses.

Aging: A special Senate committee on aging opened hearings on what the anti-poverty program will do for older citizens. Witnesses said many are being overlooked. The President of the National Council of Senior Citizens said many Americans become poor for the first time after age 60 when they are "too old to work and too young to die."

Senators Opposed: The only senators to vote against the excise tax cut Tuesday night were Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., Frank Lausche, D-Ohio, and John J. Williams, R-Del. Reductions scheduled to take effect July 1 under the House measure would become effective under the Senate bill on the day after the legislation is enacted.

Both bills would cut the 10 percent excise levy on new cars to 7 percent, retroactive to May 15.

Also often mentioned is the 25th Infantry Division in Hawaii, but it may be felt that this outfit should be retained as a Pacific theater reserve in case trouble breaks out elsewhere.

The Army's ground combat strength in Viet Nam now is the 173rd Airborne Brigade, about 4,000 strong and based at Bien Hoa airfield northeast of Saigon and at Vung Tau on the coast south of Saigon. It was speculated that the 101st Airborne Division might send in replacements for the 173rd Brigade, which is a lightly equipped, fast-moving outfit that could be withdrawn to theater reserve in Okinawa. In the current buildup, however, much emphasis is being placed on support forces. There may be a heavy levy on engineer, communications, security and similar units. The government apparently is assuring that large support is available to forces now in Viet Nam and for any big operations that might develop.

Central Baptist To Hear Choir From Fort Worth

The Concord Choir of the Broadway Baptist Church in Fort Worth will present a concert of sacred music at Central Baptist Church at 7:30 p.m. Friday.

The choir is on an extensive tour of the Texas Panhandle, New Mexico and Colorado. The group consists of 49 voices of Junior and Senior High School age. They sing a memorized repertoire of standard sacred anthems of all musical periods, and spirituals. The tour is the climax of the entire year's endeavor, and the privilege to hear the tour is earned by regular attendance and extensive outside study.

The director of the group is J. Malcolm Edwards, Minister of Music of the Broadway Church, where he has served for the past 12 years. He is a graduate of Baylor University and Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, holding masters degrees in music from both institutions. Mrs. Edwards is the tour accompanist.

Senate Seeks Quick Okay On $4.7 Billion Excise Tax Cut

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate sought quick agreement with the House today on a $4.7 billion excise tax cut that could give consumers the first benefit by the end of the week. By a vote of 84 to 3 the Senate approved the measure Tuesday night to reduce or eliminate levies on scores of consumer items ranging from automobiles and telephone calls to lipstick. Acting with unusual speed, the Senate appointed conferees immediately after the final vote to meet with House negotiators and work out a compromise with the $4.8 billion House-passed bill.

Seek Quick Agreement
Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., floor manager of the Senate bill and one of the conferees, said he hoped the negotiators could agree on a final version at a meeting later today. Among the taxes to be eliminated are levies on household appliances, jewelry, furs, cameras, television sets, cosmetics musical instruments, playing cards and sporting goods. Most of the taxes are 10 per cent.

The Senate approved the tax slash after only eight hours of consideration Tuesday and less than a month after President Johnson requested the cut to put new zip into the economy. It will be the second big windfall for taxpayers since Johnson took office. The first was the $11.5 billion income tax slash enacted by Congress last year at the President's request.

Senators Opposed
The only senators to vote against the excise tax cut Tuesday night were Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., Frank Lausche, D-Ohio, and John J. Williams, R-Del. Reductions scheduled to take effect July 1 under the House measure would become effective under the Senate bill on the day after the legislation is enacted.

Both bills would cut the 10 percent excise levy on new cars to 7 percent, retroactive to May 15.

Old Rip Wouldn't Sleep in This Day and Age

By BILL McCORMICK
BORSCHVILLE IN THE CATSKILLS (NEA) — Thanks largely to comedians who nibble ungratefully at the hand that fed them, there is a belief among the uninitiated that swimming pools in Catskill resort hotels are flooded with borsch and golf course sand traps filled with matzoh crumbs.

The professional funnymen also have fostered the notion that customers are all either husband-hungry girls, ambitious young men in search of rich wives, businessmen intent on turning a fast deal or old ladies who announce the time from jewel-encrusted watches. "It's five diamonds past three rubies."

The joke boys should go back for postgraduate study. The area is fabulous, but not in the way they tell it. The vacation zone, about 90 miles from New York City, is commonly referred to as The Borsch Circuit because of the customers' supposed preference for sour beet soup.

The clients are, for the most part, refugees from the cave and cliff dwellings of New York, Philadelphia, Chicago and other centers of population, even in the Far West and Deep South. While a large share of the patrons are Jewish, more and more gentiles are getting in on the fun.

People usually flee big cities to relax in a state as near complete inertia as possible. On a Borsch Circuit vacation hardly anybody ever rests. There is always something to be done and everybody doing it.

The hardy can begin the day with a brisk plunge in a pool or lake, followed by riding, tennis or golf. The more sedentary can worm off a waistline-building breakfast under an athletic director who has developed calisthenics to the point where they can be indulged in sitting in an over-stuffed chair.

It would be expected that by nightfall the guests would be falling by the wayside and the joints would start to run down. On the contrary, as the sun goes down, activity goes up.

Big league entertainment usually is served with a tremendous dinner and, like the food and most of the other activity, is covered in the overall price of admission. Danny Daye, Milton Berle, Sid Caesar, Jerry Lewis, Eddie Fisher, Phill Silvers and Sam Levenson, to name only a few, battled their way to fame through the sound of soup slurpers on the Circuit. Some doubled as dish jockeys in the beginning.

While youngsters don't necessarily go to the resorts for the avowed purpose of throwing a net over a spouse, a surprising number wind up marrying those they meet there, sometimes in such a hurry that they finish their vacations as honeymoons.

Sometimes counter-attractions pose grave threats to newlywed bliss. One couple was married in the morning and went honeymooning in the Catskills that afternoon. It was discovered that the groom, an avid golfer, was scheduled to tee off almost immediately in an amateur tournament match. The bride took a dim view of becoming a golf widow so quickly. The groom was reluctant to forego the tournament, in which he had played for many years as a bachelor. Tragedy was averted when a fellow golfer, not scheduled to play until the following morning, switched starting time.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) — Leslie M. Pollack of Reynolds & Co. says that even if the market is in the beginning stages of a bear market a rally above the 900 level in the Dow-Jones industrial average appears logical.

Pollack says, however, that if the decline of the past three weeks is merely a shakeout prior to an advance to an all-time high, the summer rally should not be far off.

The International Statistical Bureau says that currently the best policy to pursue is to avoid being caught up in an emotional wave of selling.

Spear and Staff Inc. says that bearish sentiment does not have the upper hand yet and it would avoid penning a bear market label on the decline at this point.

Eating is very big along the circuit and maitres pride themselves on being able to provide almost anything a guest desires. It pains them like a pinard in the back when a customer does not find what he wants on the menu.

Oklahoma Attorney Found Guilty

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — The Oklahoma Supreme Court found Cargill guilty on three counts of lying to a federal grand jury concerning financial transactions that grew out of a court scandal.

A 10-man, two-woman jury deliberated past midnight and then returned to say they had found Cargill guilty on three counts of lying to a federal grand jury concerning financial transactions that grew out of a court scandal.

The 80-year-old Cargill merely raised his hand to his mouth and bit on the nail of his index finger when the verdict was announced. His attorney, Jack Day of Ohio, said a motion for a new trial would be filed.

Cargill remained free on bond. About 30 of Cargill's relatives had gathered in the courtroom and remained into the early moments of today. A few women sobbed when the decision was read.

The tall, grey-haired defendant had no comment to newsmen.

If the jury's decision stands up under appeal, Cargill could be sentenced to two years in prison and fined $5,000 on each of the three counts.

One count accused Cargill of lying to the grand jury when he denied knowledge of an alleged $150,000 payment by Hugh A. Carroll to former Supreme Court Justice Nelson S. Corn.

LBJ Getting Scalding Treatment

By LYLE WILSON
 United Press International
 The eggheads and the pundits now are giving President Johnson the scalding treatment that they accorded Barry Goldwater during the 1960 presidential campaign. The eggheads and the pundits worked Goldwater over on charges that he was a trigger-happy advocate of stepping up the war in Viet Nam.

And seven months after Goldwater was beaten, what causes the eggheads and the pundits to boil in angry frustration? It is a war. A war is what the eggheads and pundits got soon after they helped bury Goldwater last November and raise Lyndon B. Johnson and Hubert H. Humphrey to unexampled heights of political triumph.

The eggheads and the pundits had no suspicion when they were beating Goldwater over the head and leading the LBJ-HHH cheering section that there was a war in their immediate future. Candidates Johnson and Humphrey permitted no hint to appear that they would be leading the United States in an Asiatic war within a year of taking office.

Neither Aware
 It is likely, of course, that neither Johnson nor Humphrey was aware of what lay ahead. But they didn't hint that to the voters, either. The Johnson-Humphrey stance was that they were on top of the situation here, there and everywhere. They pictured themselves as the nation's only defense against Goldwater and national disaster.

The outraged eggheads and pundits are blistering LBJ now for escalating the war in Viet Nam. Goldwater and the conservatives who supported him in 1960 in general, are supporting the administration's Viet Nam policy. That is a strange alliance and weakly joined. The conservative approval of the President's bold stand in Southeast Asia will diminish soon unless there is early evidence in Washington that LBJ is concentrating more on obtaining a satisfactory settlement in Southeast Asia and less on winning the upcoming congressional and presidential elections.

Business Highlights

NEW YORK (UPI)—American Express Co. said its warehousing subsidiary will hold a creditors meeting next Monday to make a formal proposal settling for claims arising out of the salad oil scandal. The creditors thereafter will have until Sept. 15 to accept or reject the offer.

PITTSBURGH: The steel industry wage negotiations continued Monday with six union leaders and representatives of 10 major steel companies meeting to hear reports from committees.

DETROIT: Both Ford and Chrysler reported soaring auto sales for the first third of June. Ford sales were up 16 per cent from those of the same period a year ago. Chrysler said its sales for the year so far now have reached 1,239,160 to surpass the previous record model year of 1953. The model year ends September 1.

Politics as usual is the word for it. One is tempted to revive the World War II wisecrack: Say, Mack, don't you know there is a war on.

On The Line
 The nation's survival is no less on the line now than the political survival of Lyndon Johnson and Hubert Humphrey. The Johnson administration proceeds with tax reduction, spending and other programs announced in mid-January when the citizens surely, and LBJ perhaps, expected the United States to get out of Southeast Asia without a major, bone crushing effort.

Popular peacetime programs at home and a big and steadily more expensive war abroad are what the Johnson administration policies now add up to. Moreover, the Johnson administration is accused of garbling, concealing and otherwise managing the news of Southeast Asia. The citizens cannot long accept that kind of treatment even if they are conservative citizens and believe the war in Viet Nam is really a war and that it must be won.

The United States entered World Wars I and II relatively strong. The United States was less strong and less ready when it stumbled into the Korean war. The United States now is in a Southeast Asian war and doesn't even know it.

New GI Bill In Works for Viet Nam Soldiers

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A new GI bill for veterans of the fighting in Viet Nam appears to be in the works. It could be broadened to cover veterans of combat situations anywhere.

"It's a problem we have to face," Rep. Olin E. Teague, D-Tex., chairman of the House Veterans Committee, said today. "We don't even admit yet that these men are war veterans. That's wrong."

Teague said he has asked the administration to get ready for hearings on how far Congress should go in matching education, home loan, and other benefits that were provided for veterans of World War II and Korea.

McDivitt Receives Jackson Welcome

JACKSON, Mich. (UPI)—Joyous Jackson laid its heart on a red carpet at the feet of hometown space hero James A. McDivitt today.

Residents welcomed McDivitt, his wife, and his parents here Tuesday night with the heartfelt warmth of a people happy for one of their own who made good. More of that genuine happiness was expected in ceremonies today.

Police estimated that 100,000 area residents would line a 1½ mile motorcade route to cheer the Gemini 4 astronaut and his family. Michigan Gov. George Romney, who has proclaimed this "James A. McDivitt Day," will also ride in the motorcade.

Although McDivitt lived at his parents' home here only two years, from 1948 to 1950, he has returned numerous times to speak at charitable and civic functions.

Foreign News Commentary

UPI Foreign News Analyst
Notes from the foreign news cables:

Oil On Troubled Waters:
A new French-Algerian agreement on Sahara petroleum is being held up by last minute wrangling over tax questions and other financial issues. The Algerians are seeking to get the maximum price from the French who in turn are anxious for an agreement which they believe would help relations between the two countries generally. Although only a few such problems remain to be cleaned up, French officials say an agreement still could be weeks away.

Borneo Backtrack:
The same issue which linked the Philippines and Indonesia two years ago is expected to split them at the forthcoming second Afro-Asian summit conference in Algiers. The two countries refused to recognize Malaysia in 1963, mainly over claims in Borneo. Since then, Indonesia has stepped up its anti-Malaysia drive and hopes to prevent Malaysia from taking part in the conference. On the other hand, the Philippines has announced it would support Malaysia's participation despite Indonesian President Sukarno's objections.

Paris Politics:
Efforts to line up a "Democratic front" alliance of old middle line French parties against Charles de Gaulle in the December presidential elections appears to be running into heavy going. The Socialists, Catholic popular Republicans and others are having difficulty agreeing on a joint program. The Communists are expected to put veteran labor union leader Benoit Frachon as their candidate.

Army Role?
A veteran expert observer of the Indonesian scene insists the Communists, for all their apparent strength, are not strong enough to take over the government and, in any event, President Sukarno is opposed to Red rule. The army, representing Indonesia's vested interests, therefore is expected to step in and take over, perhaps even before Sukarno's death.

Financial Gossip

By JESSE BOGUE
UPI Financial Editor
NEW YORK (UPI) — Oil and water do mix, at least in the ledger books, explained Morton H. Kinzler.

The world-wide search for oil and gas reserves beneath ocean waters is expanding rapidly, and at present one of the points of greatest concentration is in the North Sea, where Kinzler estimates major oil companies will risk more than $200 million this year alone, seeking natural gas and oil in the shelf lands beneath the water.

Kinzler is a vice president of Barnwell Industries, Inc. The company has a barge, a self-contained mobile drilling vehicle designed for 20,000 foot drilling. It is in the North Sea search, where oil industry sources believe a dozen offshore rigs will be participating within the next year.

The barge was towed to the North Sea in 1964, and it was the first offshore drilling rig to probe into the German continental shelf in the search for oil, company sources say. It is an open-leg structure, with a drilling platform supported on three legs 40 feet above water level. It is equipped with air conditioned living quarters for 48 persons, and has a helicopter deck.

Kinzler said he foresees a busy future for the offshore searching activities, not only in the North Sea but off the coasts of the United States as well.

Some industry sources estimate that as much as $2 billion will be committed to the hunt over the next few years; they say that about $500 million was believed to have been spent last year. About 35 firms are in the field of services of varying importance in the search.

The residence of the president of the U.S. was first called the White House in 1811, but not until Theodore Roosevelt put the name on stationery in 1902 was it made official.

Highlights and Sidelights From the State Capitol

By VERN SANFORD
Texas Press Association
AUSTIN, Tex. — Number of registered voters in Texas dropped nearly a million from last year's record breaking number, according to figures released by Comptroller Robert S. Calvert.

Most of the decrease apparently came in the 50,000 to 150,000 cities, with the largest metropolitan areas and the rural counties holding fairly steady. Number of issued poll tax receipts and exemptions dropped from 2,692,670 for voting in the 1964 presidential elections to 1,970,381 for this off-year.

The five most populous counties — Harris, Dallas, Bexar, Tarrant and El Paso — actually increased their percentage of the registered vote by three points. They hold 44 per cent of this year's poll tax receipts.

However, this is not a specific indicator of their dominance over rural areas, since in cities of less than 10,000, elderly voters do not have to claim their exemption.

This year only 3,314 signed up for "free" poll tax receipts qualifying them to vote in elections for federal officials. But there are no federal elections slated for ballots this year. A total of 94,297 of these "poll tax-not paid" certificates were issued in 1964, first year they were available for presidential, vice presidential and congressional balloting.

As voting dates for constitutional amendments near, it is apparent that most Texans of voting age will be able to do no more than look and hope, for lack of a poll tax receipt.

INSURANCE RATES GOING UP — State Board of Insurance Chairman Hunter McLean jolted auto owners with more bad news: their insurance premiums are going up at least 12 per cent.

Board meets officially on June 22 to set rates on basis of experience by areas. However, McLean already has served notice that there is no doubt rising motor accidents will make a stiff rate hike mandatory. There were 13 per cent more accidents last year than in 1963.

Rates dropped 1.2 per cent last year for the total insurance field, but should have gone up, McLean said. Auto liability insurance, although sometimes criticized as high priced, actually has cost companies more than $1,000,000,000 during the last 10 years, he maintained.

Premiums vary in 26 rating territories of the state according to their accident records the previous year.

BOUNDARY AGREED ON — Conferees have agreed on location of the boundary line between Texas and Louisiana, long in dispute, reports Land Commissioner Jerry Sadler.

Next step will be appointment of a boundary commission by governors of the states to approve the new line and submit it to their legislatures for concurrence. Congress also will have to ratify the line.

Dispute has involved some valuable mineral lands. Louisiana claimed ownership to the west bank of the Sabine River and Sabine Lake into Gulf of Mexico. Texas claimed its line extended to the middle of the river and lake.

MIGRANT AID PUSHED — Governor's Office of Economic Opportunity is seeking approval of a $5,500,000 grant of federal "War on Poverty" funds for seven programs to help Texas migrant workers.

If the grant is approved, additional state funds and staff serviced will bring the total cost of the program to some $6,000,000, an average of about $46 for each of the estimated 128,000 Texans who migrate to do seasonal agricultural work.

Included in the programs would be an effort to retrain about 200 South Texas migrants in operation of farm machinery and irrigation control to relocate them for permanent jobs in West Texas, where the end of the bracero program has created a labor shortage.

Most of the money would be used for educational programs both for the children of migrant families and their parents, who would be taught homemaking and vocational trades. Also planned are rest stops where they can stop to cook meals, use sanitary facilities and spend the night while traveling across the state, and regional centers to test and screen migrants for tuberculosis and hospitalize positive cases.

COURTS SPEAK — District Judge Herman Jones of Austin postponed until July 15 final arguments in a major test case over the Railroad Commission's power to require natural gas purchasers to extend pipelines to all producers in a field.

Rio Grande Valley Gas Company appealed a commission order to join its pipeline to a well owned by Russell Maguire of Dallas in Wet Port Isabel Field, Cameron County. Company maintains there is no procedure to reach agreement on price of gas. Jones, after a three-day hearing, gave attorneys for both sides time to file more briefs.

Supreme Court will hear the case involving authority of Rice University trustees to disregard racial and tuition restrictions imposed by the institution's founder, William Marsh Rice, in 1891.

Supreme Court refused to consider an appeal by 39 employees of a Weslaco television station, formerly owned by President Johnson's family, seeking payment from a profit-sharing plan.

Court of Criminal Appeals denied rehearing sought by former Pasadena Mayor Sam Hoover convicted as an accomplice in a torture-robbery case. Court earlier had upheld a 60-year prison sentence given Hoover, 55, described in trial as "mastermind" of the March 11, 1964, robbery of Mr. and Mrs. Mair J. Schepps in Houston.

ATTORNEY GENERAL RULES — Court-appointed defense lawyers are entitled to no more than $10 per case on pleas of guilty before the court, Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr held in an opinion requested by Waller County Atty. C. W. Karisch of Hempstead. Carr said $25 a day payments are allowed only where cases go to actual trial.

Bread is bread, no matter what the baker labels it, and a loaf must weigh at least one pound, Carr told Agriculture Commissioner John C. White. White had asked if elimination of the word "bread" on labels and substitution of such phrases as "party slices", "rye slices" or similar terms exempt a product from standard requirements.

COTTON CONFERENCES — Agriculture Commissioner White is planning state conferences on the national cotton program for 1966.

White says cotton still is the No. 1 state crop and drastic cutbacks could hurt the agricultural economy. He points out that cotton production puts $800,000,000 a year in the pockets of growers and that the industry generates jobs and economic activity amounting to $5,600,000,000 a year in Texas.

TEENAGE JOBS SAFE — Liquor Control Board Administrator Coke Stevenson has clarified his two "administrative interpretation" bulletins which cautioned against hiring minors to work "on or about licensed premises." Stevenson says teenage workers will not lose their jobs if the stores comply with normal regulations.

He added that the bulletins from his office were meant to remind holders of beer, wine and liquor permits that they must separate a portion of their store by a guard rail and place an adult in charge of a check-out counter used for purchase of alcoholic beverages.

BROWNWOOD AREA PROJECTS APPROVED — Texas Water Commission has approved some $10,000,000 in U.S. Corps of Engineers flood control and water supply projects for Brownwood area. A new $3,000,000 dam at Lake Brownwood, a 7,000,000 flood control reservoir on Pecan Bayou upstream and channel improvements on the bayou, Adams Branch, Tom Williams Branch and Willis Creek are included. The new dam is planned 800 feet downstream from the old one whose outlets never have worked properly since its construction during 1932 floods.

SHORT SNORTS — Gov. John Connally designated June as Youth Opportunity Month and asked Texans to help youths between 16 and 21 find their first jobs to help them continue their education and to assure the state of skilled manpower resources.

White Returns To San Antonio

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI)—Astronaut Ed White returned today to San Antonio, where both he and the spark of Texas liberty were born.

A full day of speechmaking, visiting and handshaking was scheduled for White, one-half of the Gemini-4 space team which soared around the world for four days earlier this month.

White's companion in space, James McDivitt, was in his home town, Jackson, Mich., for a parade and a commencement address at Jackson Junior College.

Both the astronauts received honorary doctors degrees at the University of Michigan Tuesday. When White took his turn to speak to the students, he was introduced as Dr. White. "I won't for a million years get used to being called doctor," said the 34-year-old astronaut.

SYBIL MARRIES — Former actress Sybil Burton, 36, is kissed by her new 24-year-old husband, Jordan Christopher, after they were married in New York. Sybil lost her Welsh-born actor-husband, Richard Burton, to film actress Elizabeth Taylor. Christopher is the leader of a musical group called the "Wild Ones," which appear nightly at Arthur, a discotheque operated by Sybil and others on Manhattan's plush East Side.

Backstairs At The White House

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Backstairs at the White House: President Johnson may be expected to worship with more frequency in the privacy of his home with his family either at the White House, Camp David or on his ranch in Texas.

The Chief Executive is a devout man. His denomination, Disciples of Christ sometimes known as the Christian Church, is not as formal or as ritualistic as many other faiths and follows the tenets of individual faith rather than mass approach to religion.

Johnson's upbringing in the simplicity of his faith is enough to make him cringe at the sight of crowds which inevitably develop around any church where any President worships.

In his mind, he has tried to blame some of these crowds on reporters and photographers who attempt to cover any movement of a Chief Executive in public. But this theory falls apart when the President eludes the press corps successfully and arrives at a church with no fanfare or advance notice.

Crowd-Pulling Attraction
The White House limousines and accompanying Secret Service men stand at attention in front of any church in the world. Their crowd-pulling attraction is even more pronounced in smaller towns near Camp David or the Johnson ranch in Texas.

Thus, the President emerges from church to find anywhere from dozens to hundreds of on-lookers awaiting him, and, on occasion, his annoyance is visible as he escorts his wife in stony silence to their waiting car.

Johnson is well aware the other presidents have avoided Sunday crowd scenes by having family services conducted by visiting pastors in the privacy of the White House or wherever the first family may be on the sabbath.

Against this historic background, Johnson has been following this practice on occasional Sundays. On one recent Sunday at Camp David, he instructed one of his staff members whose father was a clergyman to compose a sermon and read it to members of the Johnson family and friends.

Hold Private prayers
On another Sunday, there were private prayers at the Texas ranch home instead of the usual motorcade to a nearby church.

Aside from church attendance, the Chief Executive is well exposed to religious influence. One of his chief assistants on the White House staff, Bill D. Moyers, is an ordained Baptist minister.

The President usually says grace before meals in the White House or at home, and, on some occasions, he will ask Moyers or another member of the staff to say the blessing.

There is a story in White House staff circles that shows the President's personal approach to religion and prayers. Moyers was saying grace in a soft voice before lunch at the White House.

"Speak up, Bill. I can't hear you," Johnson said. "I wasn't speaking to you, sir," said Moyers respectfully.

Gardening News

By THELMA BRAY

The lilies, in all their stately elegance, are contributing much toward making our gardens more enjoyable. Within recent years there has been a great upsurge of interest in the culture of lilies. This is due in large measure to the fact that remarkable progress has been made in the hybridization of lilies of many hybrid strains which offer to the gardener new types possessing vigor, hardiness and resistance to disease, as well as perfection of form and exquisite colors.

The Torch Lily can be seen in bloom around town. Sometimes identified as Red Hot Poker, Poker Plant and Kniphofia, it is a very striking plant when in bloom with its tall, erect spikes of orange, reddish or yellow coloring.

On some species of lilies small, round dark bulbs form along the stem; these are called bulbils and are produced in the axils of the leaves. These may be removed shortly after the blooms fade and sown in shallow drills.

Most of the stem-rooting lilies produce bulbils on the underground stem. These bulbils may also be planted as bulbils.

Hedges of most kinds that are kept clipped will need shearing this month. Remember to trim so that the base of the hedge is slightly broader than the top. This ensures more even light reaching the lower portion, and helps to prevent it from becoming bare.

Keep the garden tidy by picking faded blossoms promptly from perennials and annuals. Stake and tie plants that need this before the stems grow out of shape and before the plants suffer storm damage. Old nylon hose are excellent for tying plants to stakes.

Until hot weather arrives lawns may be mowed fairly low, but raise the lawn mower blades one-half inch during really hot weather so that the grass is not cut too close.

June is the month in which to insert cuttings of shrubs to be propagated from what is known as half-ripe woodshoots that are neither very soft nor fully hardened. Cover the cuttings with jars and protect them from direct sunshine.

Continue making plantings of gladioli at two-week intervals up to the end of the month of June. Many plants, such as Creeping Phlox and Snow-in-Summer, will benefit from clipping back to make them more bushy. A beautiful bed of hollyhocks can be seen on the north side of a house at the Cook St., Charles intersection just before crossing Cook St. bridge by Sam Houston School.

This week has been wonderful with the good rains and just being able to see water flow in our creek beds throughout Pampa.

Last week the Pampa National Flower Show Judges journeyed to Amarillo and presented the program for the judges meeting over there on the topics of "Rhythm in Design" and "Judging of Snapdragons."

Flower Arranging classes will be starting soon for anyone who wants to learn more about this fascinating art. The classes, sponsored by the Council of Garden Clubs, will be free of charge and will consist of workshops and demonstrations. The schedule is as follows:

July 1 — Mechanics and Preparation of Material for Arranging Flowers — Mrs. V. N. Osborn.

July 8 — Creating Designs — Mmes. Ed Parsons and Thelma Bray.

July 15 — Color and Texture in Design — Mrs. Myron Dorman.

July 22 — Creating Dried Arrangements and Using Driftwood in Designs — Mrs. Tom Price.

July 29 — Oriental Arrangements, Use of Figurines in Design — Mrs. Melvin Stephens.

August 5 — Flower Arrangements and Table Settings — Mrs. John Sweeney.

The location for the classes will be announced in this column next Wednesday. Clin the above calendar and plan to come.

Joye Lee Collins, Richard D. Barham Are United in Candlelight Church Rites

Mrs. Richard Dean Barham ... nee Joye Lee Collins.

Seven-branched candleabra bearing white tapers, flanking jade palms and basket arrangements of white gladioli appointed the wedding scene for Miss Joye Lee Collins and Richard Dean Barham at 8 o'clock Thursday evening.

Rev. Harry Vanderpool solemnized the double ring vows in First Methodist Church Chapel. Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Collins of 1033 S. Dwight are the parents of the bride and Mr. and Mrs. Preston Barham of Concord, Calif., are the parents of the

Dear Abby.... Try a Little Subtlety When Using Cosmetics

DEAR ABBY: I am 22 and Don is 26. We've been dating (steadily) for nearly two years and I'm sure it's love. There is only one thing we have ever fought about, and that is my make-up. Don doesn't want me to wear any make-up at all! Abby, I am no natural beauty, and I need make-up. I feel positively naked without it. I don't wear a lot compared to most girls. I use a foundation base, just a hint of rouge and a tiny bit of blue eye shadow. Being a dishwasher blonde, my eyebrows and eyelashes are practically invisible, so I need a touch of eyebrow pencil and mascara. I use an eye liner, but that is considered fashionable these days. The lipstick I use is so pale it can hardly be noticed. Everyone else thinks I look great. Last Saturday night Don told me I looked like a "..." (If I used the word, this would never get in the paper.) We had a terrible fight over it and I asked him to take me home. We haven't spoken since. Abby, I do love Don. He would make a wonderful husband if it were not for this thing he has against my using cosmetics. What do you suggest I do?

DEPRESSED: Kiss and make up. But in the future, "make up" more subtly.

DEAR ABBY: I was a widow for 16 years. I met a man and married him before I knew very much of his ways. I have worn pants around the house and sometimes to work because they are comfortable and convenient. He never objected to my wearing pants until after we were married. Now he is making a big thing about it. I like to do my housework and marketing in pants and always have. When my husband sees me in pants, he acts like a madman and says he won't look at me until I put on a dress. He says I look ridiculous in pants.

Abby, I am 52 years old, weigh 140 pounds and am 5'7". I am not fat and I don't wear tight pants. We have had some pretty bad times over this and have almost separated twice because of it. I think if he really loved me he would let me wear pants. He says if I really loved him, I'd wear dresses. I would like your advice.

LIKES PANTS: DEAR LIKES: It is not unusual for a man to want to be the only one in his family to wear the pants. Let him. It's a small sacrifice to keep the peace.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think an eleven-year-old girl should do to get her allowance raised? My job around the house, dust, keep my own room clean, set the table, clear the table and empty the trash. And all for a measly 55 cents a week. I've talked to my mother about it and she says, "It's all we can afford, honey." Then she drops it. What do you think?

DEAR "K": I think that you earn your allowance, which is commendable. But if that's all your mother can afford, you ought to drop it, honey.

DEAR ABBY: So the father of girls is complaining. Ha! I have a husband, 3 sons and my brother living here. I'm the only

The bride donned a two-piece suit of maize raw silk and lifted the corsage for her bride's bouquet before departing on a wedding trip to San Antonio. Upon their return the couple will make their home at 502 N. Sumner.

The new Mrs. Barham, a 1965 graduate of Pampa High School, is employed by C. R. Anthony Co. in Coronado Center. Mr. Barham, a graduate of Pleasant Hill High School, Concord, Calif., served four and one half years in the U.S. Air Force. He is presently employed by Cabot.

PRE-NUPTIAL EVENTS
The bride was honored with a miscellaneous shower given on June 5 in Citizens' Bank Hospitality Room with Mrs. R. G. Bryan, Miss Debbie Feagan, Miss Susan Ince and Miss Mary Ann Skaggs serving as hostesses.

Serving as best man was Jackie Collins, bride's brother, while Adel Myers and Kenneth Smith served as groomsmen and ushers.

Jerry Whitten, organist, presented traditional wedding selections and accompanied Miss Terrie Watson as she sang "How Great Thou Art."

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Collins chose a two-piece suit fashioned of dark mint green silk accented by black accessories and a corsage of white roses.

A reception was held immediately following the exchange of vows in the Church Parlor. The bride's table, covered with a hand-made white cotton lace cloth over yellow, was appointed with crystal and silver appointments and a three-tiered wedding cake decorated with yellow roses. Presiding at the punch bowl was Miss Mary Ann Skaggs. Miss Susan Ince served the wedding cake and Miss Debbie Feagan attended

I can't put my car in the garage because they are always building something in there that never gets finished. I can't get in the bathroom because one of the men is always taking a shower, shaving or polishing his shoes. There is no room for my soiled laundry because of all the greasy clothes they leave behind after trying to fix somebody's car. I can't find a place to sit down because of the tools, TV and radio parts lying around. I can choke on their cologne. I iron 15 to 20 pairs of trousers a week and too many shirts to count.

If I manage to live through it until the boys are married, they'll probably bring their wives here to live. I'll trade places with "Father Of Girls" any day.

Headaches for Headachers

A highly regarded physician was complaining in a public address the other day that the biggest headaches doctors have nowadays are patients. Patients, he lamented, know too much about medicine — or think they do — because they see and read so much about it. "Two-thirds of the people," he said, "are not treated by doctors these days, but by television, radio, newspapers and magazines."

Patients are even listing their symptoms on paper, he revealed, and are bringing the list to the doctor along with the actual aches and pains.

"One man," he recalled with a shudder "brought in 88 pages in longhand, marked 'copy D.' You can see what this copy does to a doctor. There is no use popping an eight-syllable disease at a patient if the guy has already heard in on the air as a nine-syllable word. The impact is gone.

But here's an antidote for your headache, doctor: At the same time people are learning more about medicine on television, they are also learning more about detergents, floor wax, household cleaners, dishpan hands, kissing-sweet breath, toothpaste, hairsprays, beard softeners, coo-coo razor blades, higher priced spreads, cigarette filters and beautiful beer.

In short, doctor, people are becoming more knowledgeable about almost everything.

It won't be long until the only person whose word really carries weight is the charming fellow or the glamorous gal on the television screen who is so persuasively pushing the product.

This may make it a little rough for a lot of people — but never, doctor, for a man who makes his living off of headaches. What do you think all these listeners are getting as they soak up all that gab? Doctor, you've got it made. Happy headaching!

An Old Taboo Is Ended

The law is supposedly a reflection of society. Particular laws, however, may often be better likened to an afterimage — a lingering reflection of the beliefs of society as they were at some previous time.

The Connecticut prohibition against birth control, which has just been struck down by the Supreme Court, was supported by a majority of the population when it was passed in the last century. The majority has long since changed its thinking and its practices.

What was once considered evil is now considered a positive good by many. What was once looked upon as a public concern and lumped in with the obscenity statutes is now established as a private matter.

But not entirely private. The question of the morality or immorality of "artificial" birth control is being overshadowed by problems that have burgeoned forth only in our time — overpopulation, unemployment, crime, poverty, and the mounting erosion of the public good in spiritual and financial terms that all of these involve.

By affirming the right of private parties to seek and use birth control information and devices, the court has implied the right of public or quasi-public agencies to disseminate the same.

The decision has enlarged the scope of individual choices and enhanced the welfare of all. Even spokesmen for those morally opposed to what it permits have hailed it.

Foes Heating Up War on Poverty

The road to the Great Society may be paved with good intentions, but potholes are popping up along the right of way.

Some people in Ypsilanti, Mich., have declared war on the administration's war on poverty. A group called REPLY — standing for "Return Every Penny and Leave Ypsilanti" — wants the government to pull out a $188,000 antipoverty project set up in their city.

Many Ypsilantians who are objects of the program didn't even know they were poverty stricken, the group contends, until experts arrived from the University of Michigan to tell them so.

Meanwhile in another part of the Great Lakes, leaders of private welfare agencies in Cleveland are worried that government intervention in poverty programs may mean the end of private charity in this country.

Says Edward H. deConingh, a trustee of the city's Welfare Federation: "We who began assistance to the poor in this country find ourselves offended by the concept now being pushed by Washington that the people who suffer from poverty know more about its alleviation than professionals who are devoting their lives to these problems."

It would be unfortunate, indeed, if strategic planning from a bureau in Washington were allowed to override as a matter of course the people who have been in the frontlines of the war on poverty for a great many years.

Charity began at home in America. And it ought to remain there.

Repeal a Natural Law?

It requires an awful lot of guts these days to stand up against the bureaucrats and promulgate a strong belief in the law of supply and demand.

for the Great Society, along with its other theories has all repealed that law with its fanciful make-believe methods of running the economy.

BERRY'S WORLD

... An' with th' billion for Asia, we're not only givin' 'em to buy friends—we're gonna buy enemies!

Straight Talk

By TOM ANDERSON

Among the countless lies the Great Society tells the people is that we have a shortage of silver coins because we have so many coin machines. And so little silver. Actually, we're long on silver and short on integrity. Actually, we have a coin shortage because the silver in a half dollar (the government has already withdrawn silver dollars from circulation) is worth 43.7 cents; the silver in a quarter is worth 21.8 cents, and the dime, 8.72 cents. As inflation continues, the value of the silver in the coin will be worth more than the coin. Thus history repeats. And our government, crooked as most governments throughout history have been, now contemplates calling in the good silver coins, melting them down and mixing them with nickel, copper, surplus wheat or whatever is available. In the olden days, the Kings clipped the coins and stole their that way. So, save your silver coins, boys, some day they may save you from having to take an automobile full of money to town to buy a bottle of milk. The road we're traveling is the road to bankruptcy, runaway inflation, and a share-the-poverty dictatorship.

Blueprint For Tyranny

Head American comrat Gus Hall, who should be tried, convicted and hung for treason, but who instead spends much of his time speaking on college campuses, said in 1963 in an address to the Political Commission of the Communist Party:

"What is needed is a system of basic Federal laws... that will apply and supersede all state laws... (emphasis ours). Such laws should include:

1. Reapportionment of all electoral districts on the basis of population and a uniform basis for voting and registration in all States.
2. A Federal law protecting the rights of labor to organize, to strike and to use its finances and strength in political campaigns.
3. A Federal law that will... remove special privileges... from monopoly.
4. A Federal law prohibiting discrimination and segregation...
5. A Federal minimum wage law...
6. A uniform Federal system of unemployment insurance, old age benefits and sick benefits...
7. A Federal law restricting the use of city and state police...
8. Federal traffic, tax, marriage and divorce laws...
9. A Federal law establishing uniform standards of education in all states...
10. A Federal law prohibiting the advocacy of war...

Is It Treason?

If and when we find ourselves in an all-out war against the Communists, there will be Civil War in this country and martial law will be declared. There will be many traitors. Who they will be will depend on who is in power. "For if it prosper, none dare call it treason."

J. Edgar Hoover, if in office and in health, will take care of our comrats, if patriots are in charge. But the greatest menace, now and then, is not the comrat but the "liberal" mice who've nested with the comrats all these years; who've promoted and carried out the communist programs; who agree with the goals of the Communists but not with some of their methods.

Are these pinks, do-gooders, and fools guilty of treason? Treason is not at all complicated. It merely involves "Giving aid and comfort to the enemy." One merely needs to decide what is aid and comfort and who is the enemy. Q.E.D.

U Thant Pushing UN Ouster of British, Portuguese in Africa, Diplomatically; May Urge Military Action

ROBERT ALLEN

WASHINGTON — UN Secretary General U Thant is launching a little-noticed diplomatic offensive to sweep the British and Portuguese out of Africa, and divest South Africa of control over Southwest Africa.

Also there are growing signs he will seek UN approval to use military force, if necessary, to accomplish these objectives. Under U Thant's personal direction, members of the special UN Committee on Colonialism are meeting with nationalist and underground leaders in South-west Africa, Thodesia, Basutoland, Bechuanaland, Swaziland and Portuguese Africa.

In these private sessions they are obtaining "evidence" and "freedom petitions" to present to the General Assembly. This fall to support the proposals being drafted by U Thant calling for sterner action against the three major powers.

The three key diplomats of the special UN mission are: Jacob Malik, Deputy Foreign Minister and Russia's principal representative at the UN, and a violent critic of U.S.-British policies in Africa.

D. Malachera, Tanzania's UN representative and close friend of Communist Chinese leaders. He is the chief advocate of UN military intervention in South-west Africa.

Dr. Diza Gonzales, Venezuela's representative to the UN and vigorous opponent of U.S. intervention in the Dominican Republic, who strongly supports sending a UN police force to that strife-torn island.

MAKING POLICY — These three diplomats, acting as spokesmen for U Thant's special mission, are touring the continent assuring African leaders "the UN will use force to throw out the Portuguese and British, and to end South Africa's control over Southwest Africa."

They are stressing that U Thant's strong public opposition to the establishment of an International American police force in the Dominican Republic was a move to protect UN-right to intervene in Africa.

According to U.S. intelligence authorities, Malik was given full Kremlin endorsement for U Thant's plan late last month before going to Africa.

Russia, though in arrears on UN payments, is contributing more than $100,000 to help pay the committee's transportation to Africa. Also, Malik is being accompanied by four "observers," including two members of the KGB (Soviet Secret police).

MAKING WAR — While UN officials probably will deny it, studies of the cost of military intervention against South Africa already have been turned over to U Thant, and his aides are considering several courses of action.

The Almanac

By United Press International
Today is Wednesday, June 16, the 167th day of 1965 with 196 to follow.

The moon is approaching its last quarter.

The morning star is Saturn. The evening stars are Venus and Mars.

American soprano Helen Traubel was born on this day in 1903.

On this day in history:

In 1858, delegates to the Illinois state convention of the Republican party at Springfield, Ill., listened to Abraham Lincoln as he told them that the issue of slavery must be resolved: "A house divided against itself cannot stand." I believe this government cannot endure permanently half slave and half free."

In 1933, President Franklin Roosevelt signed the National Industrial Recovery Act.

In 1955, widespread riots broke out through Buenos Aires as the Argentine navy sought to oust President Juan Peron. The attempt was unsuccessful.

In 1963, Russia put its first woman into space, Valentina Tereshkova.

A thought for the day: The English author, Geoffrey Chaucer, once said: "Sometimes it is art to seem to flee the thing which, in effect, one is pursuing."

Wit and Whimsy

Not too long ago you could finance a pretty good war for what six months of peace costs today.

Little Sally — Mamma, what is a second-story man?

Mother — Your father's one. If I don't believe his first story, he always has another one ready.

In his autobiography, "Days of Our Years," M. Pierre Van Paassen tells of an Italian officer who, at a luncheon at the opening of the Italian Pavilion at the Paris Exhibition, started to tell of Fascist successes.

"Our Duce," he said, "ordered us to take Ethiopia, and we took it in the face of fifty-one nations determined to destroy us. He told us to take the Iran Ring around Bilbao; the next morning it was ours.

"We have eight million bayonets — nothing can stop us. Let us be frank about it: if the Duce ordered his army to march into France tomorrow, what really could stop us?" There was an embarrassed silence. A French guest broke in.

"Monsieur seems to forget the French Customs service," he remarked.

Native — Rain? Rain? Why, say partner, there's bullfrogs in this yere town over five years old that hain't learned to swim yet.

EVERYBODY'S BUSINESS

It Used To Be -- Yardstick Had No Metallic Backing

By SAM CAMPBELL
Business Editor

Back in the old old days, the common standard of measurement was the foot — the human foot.

Of course, in dealings between neighbors it was always a question of whose foot you were going to measure by. That is to say, some feet were longer than other feet. Eventually it was decided to go by the king's foot.

The royal foot idea worked better, but even once in a while, the king would get himself murdered, killed in battle, run out of town or occasionally he would die a natural death. So you still had the problem of a variable standard of measurement.

At last some odd ball got the notion of taking a metal rod, sawing it off exactly three feet long, and placing same in the national archives. At a given temperature, the length of that rod would be the official measurement standard.

Thus today in London and Washington D. C., these rods are kept. Nobody uses them except to look at, but just knowing that they are there keeps the measuring sticks of the country honest. You can jolly well depend on it that a yard in Seattle, Wash. is the same length as a yard in Miami, Fla.

You can order a given swatch of gingham in either place, and it will come out the same size every time.

The reason that this is so is easy to understand; namely, the yardstick has a metallic standard.

Now lengths, weights, liquid contents, pressures and other such phenomena of physical science are not the only things that need measuring in this complex society. Just as important as anything else, we have to measure prices.

The unit of price measurement is the dollar. And the problem we have today is that the buying power of the dollar changes with every new administration just as the old-fashioned "foot" used to change whenever the royal crown was lifted from one head to another.

In other words, the Roosevelt dollar isn't the same thing as the LBJ dollar. As a consequence the old woman who had a $100 pension and living very well in 1944 is starving on the same $100 today.

What happened is that the dollar which measures out her buying power was shortened drastically in the last 20 years. That has hurt a lot of folks just when they thought they were secure and just when they needed a little security.

The fault with the modern dollar is the same fault with the old-time foot. It doesn't have a metallic backing. Every new king wears a different size shoe, so to speak.

Suppose instead of a pension, the old woman had a garden patch 100 feet long. What you have seen done for the last 20 years is that our regimented society has cut two feet per year off her garden of subsistence. Some say that isn't fair. Some say it's mighty inconvenient. Some say we ought to be putting metallic backing into the dollar rather than taking it out.

Pull Up A Chair

Beverly Hills, California, is a dateline on a news story that always conjures a glamorous image of the movie industry, the idle rich at their pleasures, or a community of luxurious homes. It's all of those things and more, too. It's one of the world's greatest real estate developments.

Sixty years ago it was called "Morocco" for want of a better name and was nothing more than a sheep pasture and bean farm. The late Burton Green, an oil prospector, bought the acreage and developed it into the wealthy community it is today.

Incidentally, he changed the name to Beverly Hills when he read in a newspaper that President William Howard Taft was visiting at Beverly Farms, Massachusetts.

Today's smile: During a health survey in a primary school, the teacher asked one youngster: "Did you ever have measles or the chicken pox?" He said: "No, but I've had Rice Krispies."

Uncle Sam's Post Office Department is going to give the zip code a little more zip by making a deal with the airlines to deliver 95 per cent of all letters overnight anywhere in the country. They are presently carrying all mail between cities more than 1500 miles apart. Under the new system the airlines will be handling nearly 8 billion letters a night.

Thoughts while shaving: One of every 30 workers in the U. S. is "moonlighting" according to the Labor Department. Most of them need the second job just to keep themselves afloat. Taxes are so high it takes all the poor guy earns on his regular job to pay them... The New York subway system covers 226 miles. It's the longest in the world and offers the fastest and cheapest transportation in the world. You can go anywhere in the big town for 15 cents... Mark Twain is credited with having coined many classic remarks, but he didn't originate the one about the weather. It was his pal and collaborator, Charles Dudley Warner, who said, "Everyone talks about the weather, but no one ever does anything about it."... LBJ's plan to eliminate some of the wartime excise taxes rates a cheer, but it brought back some memories of the silly bans imposed on a harassed public during the war years by government bureaucrats, many of whom were ducking the draft. One such contribution to winning the war was forbidding bakers to sell sliced bread. Another prohibited cuffs on men's trousers. Another was saving old tin cans... The next time you do a little bit of sidewalk superintending, notice that the wheelbarrows have rubber tires. That was an invention of Henry J. Kaiser when he was building Hoover Dam. He said it improved efficiency 30 per cent... The Charlotte (N. C.) OBSERVER observed in a headline: "Four in One Gown Rob Resort." Must have been a large size.

Country Editor speaking: "You may not be able to find time for the things you ought to do, but you can always find time for things you want to do."

PROPER IDENTIFICATION

An interesting sidelight to the Dominican Republic's current disruption focuses on ex-President Juan Bosch.

Following the assassination of General Rafael Trujillo, President Joaquin Balaguer, named by Trujillo in 1960, tried to keep that outside influences manipulated his election and Trujillo's assassination. Speculation as to the manipulators ranged from Castroites to the CIA. As long ago as Sept., 1947, Castro, then a student, was involved in an unsuccessful attempt to launch an invasion of the Dominican Republic with a 1100-man force from Cuba.

When anti-communist forces headed by Brig. Gen. Eusebio Wessin ousted Bosch, he went to Puerto Rico. The State Department appeared reluctant to recognize the civilian junta which took over the Dominican Republic. Bosch's close ties with communist factions were cited by American commentators largely ignored them.

The civilian junta maintained law and order until pro-Bosch forces attempted the coup which erupted into civil war in April, Bosch, in the limelight again, had his suitcases packed, ready to return to power.

When the revolt bogged down and desperate rebel leaders ordered mass executions of prisoners, Castro-style, the communist character of the revolution became too obvious to ignore. Bosch's apologists began disassociating him with the revolt. But Bosch, perhaps seeking to salvage at least a propaganda victory, denounced the U. S. for taking action against his supporters. He was given a prime TV spot, "FACE THE NATION," to do so.

The State Department, with a history of reluctance to call anyone a communist, has identified the pro-Bosch uprising as communist-led.

It is time for a frank, factual identification of Juan Bosch.

Little is heard these days from either side of the Formosa Strait.

The Red Chinese continue to lob shells against the Nationalist-held island of Quemoy on an every-other-day basis, but they seem more for the record than from any serious plan to attack.

Since the 1960 break with the Soviet Union there has been little Red Chinese talk of seizing Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's refuge on the island of Formosa.

They have, of course, been busy elsewhere.

The break with Russia forced them on their own agricultural and industrial and in the development of their own atomic device which they successfully accomplished last October.

India Humiliated

They successfully carried out aggression against the borders of India, thus humiliating that nation in the eyes of other Asians.

As for the Nationalists under Chiang, they never have given up the dream of using Formosa as a springboard from which to recapture the mainland.

Slogans painted on the buildings of Taipei remind them of it every day.

But as the years passed and the Chinese Communists successfully regimented the mainland's 700 million population, the hopes increasingly seemed only a dream.

In any event, lacking the equipment for a large-scale over-water operation, no Nationalist attack upon the mainland could be carried out without U.S. aid. And U.S. military aid to the nationalists was predicated strictly upon the defense of Formosa.

But as the war in South Viet Nam has escalated, the Nationalists are beginning to believe they see a change in their own situation, particularly if the Red Chinese should intervene in South Viet Nam.

In that event, Taipei dispatches have reported that Chiang would be willing to make his forces available to a joint command with the United States either in Viet Nam or in a diversionary move against the Chinese mainland.

And with this thought in mind, a Nationalist Chinese division is receiving accelerated training in amphibious operations to bolster a reinforced marine division already trained and ready to go.

Heretofore, U.S. officials have rejected the possible use of Nationalist forces in South Viet Nam, even on an advisory or technical basis, on the grounds that it only would be a goad to the Red Chinese. However, they are said to feel equally that the value of these forces should not be overlooked in the event of Red Chinese intervention.

"Laughing Heirs"

The letter bore grim tidings: old Uncle Harvey had passed away. But as George read it, not a flicker of sorrow crossed his countenance. On the contrary, his only reaction was a whoop of delight at the news that he was the sole heir to $20,000.

George was not heartless. But the fact of the matter was that he and Uncle Harvey—actually, just a distant relative—had always disliked each other intensely. They had not even been on speaking terms for years.

The only reason the $20,000 coming to George was that he was, technically, the next of kin. Since Uncle Harvey had never bothered to make a will, the law automatically gave his money to the next of kin.

Are such ironies common? So common, alas, that lawyers have a special phrase to describe people like George: "laughing heirs."

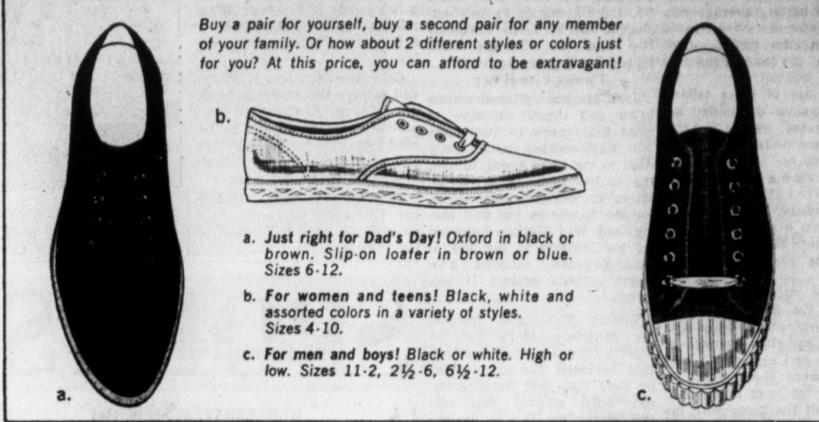

Each year, property worth billions of dollars must necessarily change hands because of death.

The reason, perhaps more serious than the children could grasp, was that the paratroopers were digging in to prepare themselves for the first American offensive in the Viet Nam war.

Re: Executive Sessions

(This is one of a series of memos from Bob Segal, editor of the Valley Freedom Newspapers in Texas to members of the news staff. Mr. Segal writes a column for the American Way Syndicate which is distributed to more than 100 newspapers. Because his comments deal with matters of concern to our readers, we are reprinting them. We believe they apply equally in all areas. Your comments are invited).

Dear Staff Members:

"After hearing the comments of the audience, the board went into executive session and voted to..."

I suppose we've all written that a hundred times. There are a variety of reasons—or, if you prefer, excuses.

Why does a public agency go into "executive" session? The most prevalent excuse (and this one always is presented with a sactimonious lowering of the voice to suggest the crushing weight which public office has imposed upon the board member!) the most prevalent excuse is, "we're going to discuss personalities."

Now, on the face of it, that makes some sense. Suppose the board (and we have no particular board in mind) wants to talk about persistent rumors that its paid director has been romancing a local school teacher whose husband is taking a dim view of the matter. Certainly this is not—however juicy—proper subject matter for a news story.

But, wait a minute. While the board is in secret session, they might as well take up a few matters which are not exactly in the realm of "personalities." The habit is easy to catch and hard to kick. It's like being hooked on it. Once you get to be Mainliner, your chances of kicking the habit are about two in a hundred.

It would be unfair to suggest that everything discussed secretly by a city commission, school board, zoning commission or public utilities board was the sort of thing which, if the public found out about it, would result in the impeachment or possibly the lynching of the public officials involved. But, on the other hand, who can say that it wouldn't?

It once was remarked by a person of great wisdom (not a member of a board, commission, agency or authority) that men do not hide their light under a bushel. What is concealed is more likely to be consummate foolishness, error, timidity, or worse.

The thing we must remember is that when a public body ejects a reporter from a meeting, it is not, strictly speaking, throwing out a reporter. It is slamming the door on the very public which has hired that group to administer the public's affairs.

This is a curious syndrome, observable in every echelon of politics. The public official, once humbly disposed, begins to feel that he owns the city, the county, the state, the water district or the public utilities plant he has chosen to administer in the name of the real owners—the public. This confusion between master and servant is the curse of government and the death of a republic.

It is observable close to home. I advise you not to leave the secret session in anger but rather in sorrow that the public officials should have lost the distinction between master and servant; owner and administrator, republic and oligarchy.

I think, perhaps, it is our duty, when one of these executive sessions is called, to ask that it be put in the form of a motion; that we record the ayes and the nays; and then go about finding out what went on behind the closed doors.

Because as you know, whether the public officials believe it or not, the public does have a right to know.

Cordially,
The Editor

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW
United Press International
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Lyndon Johnson's vice president, Hubert Humphrey, is being used more significantly on television as an administration spokesman than was John Kennedy's vice president—Lyndon Johnson.

When Kennedy was Chief Executive, television was perhaps his most effective communications weapon, and he was a master at handling it for political use. His brother, Robert, then attorney general, was employed frequently for significant use as an administration spokesman on video. So were others. But the deceptively effective "just folks" television personality of Vice President Johnson was not employed to its fullest benefit.

One remembers, in fact, a half-hour ABC-TV interview in which Johnson, as vice president, seemingly had to spend part of his time convincing the reporters that he felt he had a good job.

Now that he is Chief Executive, Johnson, of course, has used that "just folks" personality to tremendous advantage and has been all over the screen. But Humphrey cannot complain that his own talents are not being given prominent and frequent exposure on the home tube.

Not too long ago, for instance, Humphrey turned up on several network programs to sell Johnson's campaign to have Americans do their vacation traveling in this country to keep more money at home.

Just two days ago, the vice president appeared on NBC-TV's "Today" show to answer questions about the administration's policies from foreign students in London via the Early Bird satellite. Mrs. Humphrey, it might be added, was scheduled to appear on "Today" this morning to be interviewed about the beautification of landmarks in the capital. The President's wife is a leader in this beautification drive.

Alou Big Factor In Brave Drive

By United Press International
 Manager Bobby Bragan and the Milwaukee Braves are learning that patience pays out when dealing with Felipe Alou. That's the way it's always been with the 30-year-old native of the Dominican Republic, whose .253 batting average was a disappointment to the Braves last season after they acquired him from the San Francisco Giants.

Alou is one of those fellows who thrives on day-to-day activity, however, and he is proving a major factor in the Braves' drive into National League pennant contention which reached 11 victories in 14 games Tuesday night with a 12-7 triumph over the Philadelphia Phillies. The loss snapped the Phillies' five-game winning streak.

Alou was virtually the whole show for the Braves Tuesday night, driving in six runs with his ninth and 10th homers of the season and a single to lead the Milwaukee 21-hit attack — biggest of the year in the NL. Alou led off the game with his ninth homer and connected for his 10th with Sandy Alomar and pitcher Tony Cloninger on base in the sixth. He also singled home two runs in a six-run third inning rally during which Eddie Mathews homered for the 2,000th hit of his big league career.

Carly, Jones Hit
 Rico Carly and Mack Jones also had three hits each as Cloninger raised his record to 9-4. The chunky righthander shut out the Phillies for six innings but needed late-inning relief help from Billy O'Dell and Phil Nierko Art Mahaffey suffered his fifth defeat for the Phillies.

Alou, batting .409 for the last week, edged his season average up to .302 with his 3-for-5 night against the Phillies. He has scored 28 runs, driven in 36 and has 15 doubles and one triple as well as the 10 homers. The Braves moved to within 2½ games of first place when the San Francisco Giants beat the Los Angeles Dodgers 2-1. Elsewhere, the Cincinnati Reds defeated the New York Mets 5-1, the Pittsburgh Pirates outslugged the St. Louis Cardinals 10-6 and the Chicago Cubs topped the Houston Astros 5-0.

Throws Five-Hitter
 Juan Marichal pitched a five-hitter and struck out nine to raise his record to 10-5 when Jim Hart singled home Matty Alou in the sixth inning to give the Giants their decisive run. Willie Mays tripled home a run for the Giants in the first inning and Wes Parker homered for the Dodgers in the fourth. Don Drysdale suffered his fourth setback against 11 victories.

Sammy Ellis also reached the 10-victory mark for the Reds behind a seven-hit attack that included two-run doubles by Pete Rose and Deron Johnson. Ellis allowed four hits and struck out five in dealing 44-year old Warren Spahn his eighth defeat. He has won four games.

The Pirates snapped a string of 17 consecutive losses to the Cardinals when Don Clendenon drove in four runs with two homers and Roberto Clemente weighed in with two hits in a 14-hit attack. Tito Francona homered and Jerry Buchek had three hits for the Cardinals.

Bob Buhl pitched a five-hitter to win his sixth game for the Cubs and extend the Astros' string of scoreless innings to 31. It was the eighth consecutive loss for Houston. Ernie Banks had a triple and a single for the Cubs—his triple setting a club record of 751 extra base hits during a career. Hall of Famer Cap Anson held the previous mark.

Twins' Big Move Already Started

By United Press International
 The Minnesota Twins may look back on June 15, 1964 as the day on which they made their big pennant-winning move for 1965.

It was a year ago Tuesday night that the Twins acquired pitcher Jim Grant from the Cleveland Indians in exchange for pitcher Lee Stange and infielder George Banks. It didn't seem like much of a deal at the time—especially to the Chicago White Sox who had beaten Grant 16 times in 19 decisions—but that only goes to show what a difference a year can make.

Exactly one year after the seemingly insignificant trade, Grant pitched a five-hitter to beat the White Sox 4-0 Tuesday night and increase the Twins' American League lead to 1½ games. It was the fifth straight time Grant has beaten the White Sox since he joined the Twins — and the third time this year, during which he has allowed them one run and 12 hits.

A 29-year-old righthander from Lacombe, Fla., Grant struck out three and didn't walk a batter behind a six-hit Minnesota attack that included three big socks — homers by Tony Oliva, Bob Allison and Rich Rollins.

The victory was the Twins' sixth in nine games with the White Sox this season. Gary Peters, a 20-game winner in 1964, was tagged for three runs and five hits in 3-1-3 innings and suffered his fifth loss for Chicago. The shutout was the sixth of the season for the Minnesota staff.

Oliva started the Twins' attack on the first with a homer in the first inning and Allison connected in the second. Harmon Killebrew's single, a double by Earl Battey and Jerry Kindall's sacrifice fly added a run in the fourth and Rollins homered in the ninth.

The Baltimore Orioles nipped the New York Yankees 2-1 in 10 innings, the Detroit Tigers beat the Boston Red Sox 6-5, the Cleveland Indians downed the Washington Senators 8-3 and the Kansas City Athletics defeated the Los Angeles Angels 5-0 in other American League games.

Russ Snyder's 10th-inning single drove in the winning run for the Orioles, who had tied the score at 1-1 in the seventh on Jerry Adair's single, a walk, a steal and Snyder's sacrifice fly. Stu Miller shut out the Yankees for the last three innings and now has allowed only one run in his last 40 innings and one tally in his last 21 appearances. Mel Stottlemyre yielded only eight hits in 9-2-3 innings but suffered his third loss against seven victories.

Relief pitcher Dennis McLain struck out seven consecutive batters, tying the AL mark set by Ryne Duren in 1961, and the Tigers finally rallied with a four-run eighth that produced the victory. Willie Horton's three-run homer — his 14th of the season — was the game-winning blow for Detroit. McLain struck out 14 batters in 6-2-3 innings although Fred Gladding picked up the win for the Tigers.

Rocky Colavito's three-run homer in the fifth inning broke a 2-2 tie and sent Sam McDowell on to his seventh triumph although he required the relief aid of Gary Bell over the last three innings. McDowell allowed four hits and struck out eight in six innings. Vic Davalillo had four hits and Chuck Hinton homered for the Indians.

Diego Segui pitched a two-hitter and struck out eight to gain his fourth win for the Athletics. Bert Campaneris led the Athletics' eight-hit attack with a double and a single and Mike Hershberger had a two-run double.

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — The Milwaukee County board met today to decide whether to allow the Braves to move to Atlanta in mid-July with the answer expected to be a routing "no."

County officials, hoping to delay until the last minute — and possibly for good — the transfer of the National League team, were also expected to ask the Wisconsin Legislature for authorization to purchase and support a major league baseball team.

The Braves have asked the county for a release from the contract which binds them to Milwaukee County Stadium through Dec. 31. In return, the club would pay the county $400,000 and Teams, Inc., a local booster group, $10,000.

The indemnity to Teams, Inc., would be to wipe out an agreement made before the season under which the Braves would pay the group five cents on every paid admission up to 77¢-92¢ and more on every admission after that.

A deadline to answer was set for midnight next Monday. Braves Board Chairman William G. Bartholomew said that was "the point of no return." The Braves would like to play in Atlanta beginning July 14.

Matson May Skip Meets to Make AAU

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — Don't be too surprised if the three-day NCAA track and field championships which get underway at the University of California's Edwards Stadium Thursday wind up as a "tune up" for next week's more prestigious AAU championships at San Diego.

That's because a number of the 500 or so athletes who will be here for the NCAA championships are equally interested in the taboo AAU championships from which the United States team for next month's trip to Russia will be picked.

Four top trackmen—sprinters Larry Questad of Stanford and Forrest Beatty of California, distance runner Gerry Lindgren from Washington State and miler Bob Day of UCLA — already have publicly announced they'll compete for places on the traveling U.S. team at San Diego.

It has been learned that quite a few others also have the AAU championships in mind but are holding off announcing their plans until after this weekend.

Notable among these is world shot put champion (70 feet, 7 inches) Randy Matson of Texas A&M who will not compete here but dearly would like to make the trip to Russia.

Matson did not file for the NCAA championships because of a sore knee. He could use the same excuse for not participating in the AAU championships and still gain a spot on the traveling team. According to Col. Don Hull, executive director of the AAU, Matson could get into the Russian meet by later filing application and showing he was in proper condition.

All the subterfuge is a result of the continuing jurisdictional fight between the nation's two amateur athletic groups. Weekend meetings in Chicago of the U.S. Olympic Committee failed to heal the rift, and in fact widened it. The athletes, as they have for the last five years with the exception of a short period in 1964, have suffered because of the fight.

With "peace" even farther away than ever, some athletes, collegiate trackmen that is, are ready to embark on their own in defiance of an NCAA ban prohibiting them from competing in AAU sponsored meets that have not been sanctioned by the NCAA. Violators of the ban and their schools, according to the NCAA, face suspension.

Dallas Samuel Edges Out El Paso Austin In 8th, 2-0

AUSTIN (UPI) — Two state baseball championships go on the line today with Dallas Samuel Edges leading Brownsville in the Class AAAA title game and Waxahachie tangling with Alvin in the Class AAA final tilt.

Three of Tuesday's opening round games were shutouts, and only Brownsville had an easy time, breezing past Galena Park 7-1. Samuel edged El Paso Austin 2-0 in eight innings. Alvin blanked Snyder 2-0 and Waxahachie upset powerful South San Antonio 2-0.

The Brownsville Eagles got all their runs in the third inning. A cool three-hit pitching performance by Charley Vaughan left nothing in doubt. The loss was the first of the season for Galena Park hurler Russell Serafin, who had won 11 straight contests.

Samuel's Mike Biko and Austin's Bob Arnold locked in a masterful pitching duel through seven innings, but in the eighth Arnold lost his stuff. He walked two men, allowed one to score on a double and then let a pitch get away from him, letting the second run in.

It was the first time in 33 innings that Arnold had allowed a run and broke his 16-game winning streak.

Brownsville meets Samuel at 9 p.m. tonight with Waxahachie tangling with Alvin at 7 p.m. Waxahachie's Tommy Rhymes tossed a near perfect one-hitter at South San Antonio. The Alamo City school had won the state championship five times in the past eight years. Johnny Guzman pitched a seven-hitter, but still lost his first game in more than two years. He had won 29 straight.

Waxahachie got both its runs in the sixth, on two singles and a double. South San Antonio's only hit was Matt Salazar's double.

Alvin's Nolan Ryan was no slouch in the pitching department himself, allowing the Snyder Tigers only two hits.

Ryan was also hot at the plate, driving in two of Alvin's three runs.

Snyder meets South San Antonio today for the AAA consolation crown and Galena Park tangles with El Paso Austin for the runner up post in Class AAAA.

Lema, Nichols Draw Support for US Open

By United Press International
 ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Tony Lema, the Buick Open Champion, and Bobby Nichols, the PGA king, were drawing increased support today as the 150-man field for the U.S. Open golf championship played their final tuneup rounds.

Lema, who won the Buick two weeks ago and then missed winning the Cleveland Open last Sunday by a stroke, and Nichols, who showed signs of getting back on his game at Cleveland, were bracketed with Arnold Palmer as 10 to 1 second choices behind Jack Nicklaus, the 8 to 1 favorite.

"I was disappointed that I didn't put back to back wins together," said Lema, "but I'm playing well and have no complaints. When you finish first and second playing against the field of golfers we have this year, you have to feel you are right in the groove."

ANY DOUBT that the Top O' Texas area track athletes can compete more than favorably with the rest of the state should have been eliminated this past weekend when a dozen youngsters from this area completely dominated a Lubbock track meet in which over 30 cities and track clubs competed.

A handful of Pampa, White Deer, Skellytown and Canadian athletes ran up a fantastic total of 232½ points in winning the senior and intermediate divisions. A combined Leors-Skellytown team of youngsters dominated the younger divisions and won second place, while a Panhandle group finished fifth ahead of the combined resources of the Lubbock Track Club, embracing a population of some 150,000... as compared to the total population of less than 28,000 from the TOT communities.

PEOPLE HAVE said that some of us were hipped on the subject and had gone overboard on it, but beginning with world champion Randy Matson, this immediate area has produced more standout trackmen than any region of comparable size or population could dream of. I am willing to lay odds that the Pampa Jaycee track contingent takes the honors in their state meet, and that the Pampa Track Club wins the Texas Amateur Athletic Federation state meet as well. When you consider that this point total was garnered with a number of the top area standouts missing such as Randy Johnston, Mark Westbrook and Doc Cornutt of Pampa, Roy Armstrong of White Deer, and Bennie Eckles of Canadian, it seems frightening.

ONLY DRAWBACK to the pleasure of the Lubbock meet was the reluctance of the Leors contingent to combine their points with Pampa to really overwhelm the meet. Leors said they were willing to combine with Skellytown, but that they had no desire to publicize the name of Pampa, as what had Pampa ever done for them? Since it was the Pampa Jaycees that literally gave Leors runners their start in track meets, and since it was the Pampa Jaycees that have paid the way for them to the state meet in the past and were expected to do so again this year, that seems rather startling. Since a number of Leors boys such as Lightning Coleman, Terry Bromlow, Don McCool and Phil Woodring had improved their abilities for high school and college considerably through running summer track for the Pampa Track Club, it seems even more startling.

THERE IS no doubt that all TOT communities want their name publicized, but it would be manifestly impossible to call the team the "Pampa-White Deer-Canadian-Skellytown-Leors-Miami-Wheeler Track Club." Our feeling on the matter is the same as one of the youngsters who said "who cares what they call us as long as we get a chance to run?"

A COLUMN by Carlton Stowers in Monday's Lubbock Avalanche-Journal provides interesting reading. It starts out "Track and Field in the Hub City just ain't what it used to be" deploring the small amount of points won by Lubbock in their own meet, and concludes "For a town the size of Lubbock (155,290 according to the Chamber of Commerce) the sport is in a sad state. Numerous West Texas cities, with far less impressive City Limit signboards, are head and shoulders above the locals and still making noted improvement each year." Wonder which cities he means? (Since the list of the results next to the column lists 12 first or second places won by the FTC, I have a vague idea.) At least Lubbock isn't as bad off as Amarillo. They don't even have a summer track program of any kind.

THE PTC and the Skellytown youngsters will be in action again this weekend when they head for the all-male Texas Amateur Athletic Federation Meet at Andrews. Funds to help the PTC on their way have been promised through the kind generosity of civic-minded track fans John Lee Bell, Bill Power and Tom Snow, and our deepest thanks go out to them. Anyone else wishing to aid the youngsters will be heartily welcomed by this scribe or coach Norman Phillips. Every cent helps.

HEAVY IN THE WEIGHTS — Vernon Marlar (left) and Larry Bates finished one-two for the Pampa Track Club in the intermediate shot put at Lubbock. The pair, plus Doc Cornutt, Bennie Eckles, Charles Smith and Butch Bowen, give the PTC their strongest weight contenders since world champion Randy Matson and Texas champ Howard Van Loon. Marlar, Bates, Bowen and Smith will all be entered in the senior division shotput, and Bowen and Smith in the discus this Saturday at the TAAF meet in Andrews.

Sonics Prep for Stars With Win Over Tulsans

By United Press International off Dave Dowling, but put enough of them together in the seventh to get a run, the only run in the game.

The Amarillo Sonics unloaded the bats Tuesday night and the biggest one of all was Norm Miller's. Miller unleashed a bases loaded homer in the fifth inning to put Amarillo out in front 7-0.

Juan Quintana was treated roughly at times, but pitched shutout ball for the seven innings he worked.

The El Paso Sun Kings lost a five-run lead Tuesday night and then swept from behind to take the first game in a show-down battle with the Western Division leading Albuquerque Dodgers.

The Sun Kings swept to an early 5-0 lead, but then Albuquerque scored seven times in the second and third innings to forge in front. Four El Paso errors helped the Dodger cause.

But El Paso nibbled away, picking up a lone tally in the sixth and two more in the seventh and then holding off the Dodgers for the rest of the contest to get the win.

Bob Daniel hurled two hit balls in handcuffing the Spurs. The Braves only got seven hits

Taylor TKOs George Bowe

LONDON (UPI) — Frankie Taylor may have earned a shot at Howard Winstone's British and European feather weight title by scoring a sixth-round TKO over George Bowes in a scheduled 12-round elimination bout Tuesday night.

ALL OUT EFFORT — Assistant Pampa Fire Chief Vernon Pirkle, right and fireman A. B. Clark, were joined by an unidentified man Monday afternoon in a search for a reported drowned victim at Tignor Creek Bridge. The supposed victim was never found and after three and one-half hours the search was called off.

GRIM SEARCH — Weary rescue workers silently trudge through Tignor Creek in search of a reported drowning victim. The search proved fruitless however, and after three and one-half hours the search was called off.

NO LUCK — These two workers, along with many others had no luck Tuesday in their search for a youth who was reported to have drowned near the Tignor Street Bridge. Here the two men walk up a creek.

Newsman Liked Wallace Tour of Alabama

By GEORGE W. SHANNON
Editor

The Shreveport Journal
Written For UPI

SHREVEPORT, La. — It is a pity that more of the nation's newspaper editors did not visit Alabama last week than the small number who accepted Gov. George C. Wallace's hospitality.

While invitations had been extended to 1,700 editors to come and see for themselves "what Alabama is really like," only 48 out-of-state newsmen were on hand for the comprehensive tour which had been arranged. Of this number, only 27 were actually the editors of the publications they represented.

Those who did make the trip were well rewarded. Not only did they get a first-hand look at one of the nation's most progressive states, but they also experienced the luxury and genuine warmth of true southern hospitality.

As a southern newspaper man who had visited Alabama many times and already knew it to be a fine state, I did not expect to be enlightened greatly. My main purpose in making the trip was to observe the reaction of newsmen from other sections of the country. Nevertheless, the mission proved to be highly informative, not only from the standpoint of providing new insight into the thinking of the visiting journalists but also for the reason that it revealed many of Alabama's assets which I had not seen before.

Throughout Alabama — wherever we went — we were met by friendly, gracious people who did everything in their power to satisfy our request for information and to make us feel at home.

Alabama is a state of great natural beauty and resources — a state which in 1964 led all southeastern states in industrial development with a total capital investment of $406 million in new and expanded industries. It is a state whose great steel mills no longer must produce at a disadvantage with those of Pittsburgh, for the discriminatory freight rates imposed on southern industry as a punitive measure during the Reconstruction period following the Civil War have finally been lifted. It is no longer necessary for a southern manufacturer to pay more for the shipment of his product into northern states than a northerner would pay to ship a like product to the South.

While the visiting newsmen included a number who seemingly were more intent on finding racial discord than in observing racial harmony or industrial progress, most of the journalists seemed to make the trip a true fact-finding mission. Those who may have come to Alabama expecting to find only rundown shacks and cotton fields were in for a rude awakening. Instead they found a state of beautiful highways and modern, bustling cities — a land where huge space rockets shoot skyward from the edge of lush cotton fields, where educational opportunities for both white and Negro citizens are being vastly expanded and where commerce from throughout the world finds entry through Alabama's great port of Mobile.

There were complaints by some that the tour was politically motivated — that Gov. Wallace had deliberately arranged for the visitors to see only the best side of the state in the hope that they would be "brainwashed." Small numbers of demonstrators who greeted the newsmen at Selma and Huntsville did their best to strengthen these fears, warning the visitors that they would not be permitted to see "the other side."

But such was not the case. True, the newsmen were shown the best side of Alabama, but they also were taken — without having to ask — to the "worst side." They saw the beautiful homes and buildings of Mobile, Montgomery, Huntsville, Birmingham and other cities, but they were also driven through slum areas. There were shacks and substandard housing in both white and Negro areas. It was an eye-opener for many when they suddenly found themselves in the midst of one of Birmingham's Negro subdivisions where homes costing $20,000 to $30,000 are occupied by families who obviously are enjoying a high standard of living. The same was true in Selma and other cities. All of us were given an opportunity on the last day of the tour to travel anywhere we wished in Alabama at state expense. In addition, we were invited to remain in the state as long as we desired.

Not only were we shown "the other side," but in several instances the governor's aides went out of their way to permit us to see his critics and interview them. For instance, at Birmingham, the governor's assistants left the auditorium while we questioned eight Negro educators from institutions through Alabama.

It was here that many of us were surprised to learn that the state of Alabama is partly financing many of the civil rights demonstrations which have brought it bad publicity.

Levi Watkins, president of Alabama State College, told the visiting journalists — with seeming pride — that the original civil rights movement in Alabama, the Montgomery bus boycott, was conceived on his campus.

Watkins even disclosed that members of Alabama State College could participate in the recent Selma-to-Montgomery march along U. S. Highway 80. And finally, when the marchers reached Montgomery he said, they were allowed to bathe and rest in this institution which was built with taxpayers' funds and is supported mostly at taxpayers' expense.

Thus, we found the beneficiaries of the state educational system working at cross purposes with the citizens who had made their education possible.

In encouraging or aiding racial demonstrations of any kind the students and faculty of Alabama State College would be considered by some to be working against the best interests of their fellow citizens in the white community. It is a fact that white taxpayers pay most of the costs of Negro school facilities throughout the South.

The visitor to Alabama sees abundant evidence of improvements made in the state's educational system under the Wallace administration.

Appropriations for education have increased $293,680,611, or 49.6 per cent since Wallace took office. This is the largest increase in both percentage and amount in the history of the state. It was accomplished by two special "educational" sessions of the Alabama Legislature.

Under Wallace's leadership, allocations for teachers' salaries have increased 29.4 per cent; 2,900 classroom teachers have been added; textbooks are provided free for all people in grades one through twelve; the largest school building program in the history of the state has been undertaken; 13 new junior colleges have been established; 15 trade schools have been added; and a new state university has been launched at Huntsville.

Appropriations for operation of institutions of higher learning have been increased 46 per cent.

There are 18,844 white teachers and 9,713 Negro teachers in the public school systems of Alabama. Incidentally, the average salary for white teachers is $4,585 — less than the average of $4,646 paid to Negro teachers. These figures are based on salary increases effective Oct. 1, 1965. Funds for state support of education are allocated on a per pupil basis without regard to race, creed or color and without regard to location or size of school.

The demonstrations staged by teen-aged and pre-teen-age Negroes at Selma and Birmingham may have impressed some of the visitors favorably, but with many of the editors the demonstrators hurt their own cause.

En route from Montgomery to Selma by bus, the editors stopped to observe a group of four Negroes and a white man who had placed a wreath at the spot where Mrs. Viola Liuzzo was slain after the Selma-to-Montgomery march. A short while later these same persons were spotted in a group of teen-agers who chased the newsmen's caravan as it wound its way through the streets of Selma.

In sharp contrast to these side-shows was the calm behavior of Negro citizens who were observed as they went about their daily activities — shopping, working or visiting with each other on the streets. In many instances, whites and Negroes were seen as they exchanged greetings or worked together in complete racial harmony.

At the county courthouse in Selma, Negroes stood in line to register as voters while Negro youths were chasing the visiting newsmen with signs which proclaimed that, in Alabama, Negroes are oppressed.

At Huntsville, nine young Negroes paraded in front of a swank motel where Wallace and other state officials were scheduled to address the editors at a banquet. They carried signs which read "fourth estate, beware."

When asked what they mean by "fourth estate," they replied they did not know.

Significant among the reactions of the journalists was that of Rose Marie Brooks, Washington representative of the Chicago Defender, who was the only Negro on the tour. She declared that "this has been a very interesting trip for me. This is a very beautiful state and certainly the aspect of beauty is one that I had never thought of." She predicted that, once its racial turmoil is ended, Alabama's industrial might will become even stronger.

Carl Clement, publisher of the "Dunsmuir (Calif.) News," who left Alabama as a child and was returning for the first time, admitted "before I came I thought perhaps we would be brainwashed. But now I am convinced that Wallace is sincere and the people are genuine and gracious."

Ritual sacrificial fires of the Brahmins in India must be kindled by friction.
