IN STATE VOTING

Sparse Numbers Straggle To Poll

DALLAS (UPI)—Texas voters straggled to the polls in sparse numbers today to vote on nine constitutional amendments and a handful of local issues which stirred up only light to moderate interest.

Cold, damp weather may have been a factor in many areas of the state but even in good weather less than one-fourth of the eligible Texas voters had been anticipated.

Spot checks of polling places in such metropolitan areas as Dallas, Fort Worth, San Antonio, Beaumont, Amarillo and Lubbock indicated "very, very light" turnouts in the first few hours after the polls opened.

Voting in Pampa and Gray County reflected the light turnout evident across the state this forenoon.

Election officials contacted at several polling places about the county said the voter turn-out this morning was "very light."

Mrs. Wanda Carter, Gray County Clerk, said voting might increase during the noon hour and after people get off work this afternoon.

The state's four top officials—Gov. Dolph Briscoe, Lt. Gov. William P. Hobby, House Speaker Price Daniel Jr., and Atty. Gen. John Hill—issued a joint statement early in the morning urging voters to go to the polls and asking approval of the amendments.

They singled out Amendment No. 1, which calls for a raise in legislative salaries from $4,800 to $15,000 and annual legislative sessions.

Even in Houston where a mayor's race was expected to lure 100,000 to the polls, early response was very light, particularly in the Negro-dominated sections.

At Amarillo, a newspaper editor said he had sent a photographer out for a voting picture, "but he came back because he couldn't find any voters."

A vote on a controversial civic center in Port Arthur was expected to help boost interest in that city.

A Texas Election Bureau spokesman was authority for the estimated total vote in the state.

"I think an optimistic estimate of the turnout in the state would be about 800,000, perhaps a little more if Houston turns out strong, perhaps a little less if the weather continues bad," the spokesman said.

The secretary of state's office says the state has 5.5 million registered voters.

With less than one million voters expected, the Houston race could be the key factor in the amendments vote.

"They have a pretty good mayor's race going on down there and we expect at least 350,000 votes from that area," the spokesman said.

That leaves about 400,000 or so votes to be distributed among Dallas, Fort Worth, San Antonio, Austin and the rest of the state, I guess.

Segretti Leaving Politics

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Donald H. Segretti, whose brief career in politics will cost him six months in jail, says he is "permanently retired" from politics.

The White House-hired lawyer who admitted playing dirty tricks on 1972 Democratic presidential contenders was sentenced Monday. He called it a "fair sentence."

The sentence was imposed by U.S. District Judge Gerhard Gesell, who added three years probation after the jail term. Segretti, 32, of California, could have received a maximum three years in jail for his guilty plea entered last Oct. 1 on three counts of violating federal election laws.

"I'm certainly not looking forward to it," he added. "But now I can start getting my life back together again. The last year has been an absolute nightmare for me."

But he added, "I'm permanently retired from politics."

Segretti, who had pleaded guilty to one count of conspiracy and two counts of distributing unlawful political material, said he was "caught up in the zeal of it (politics)."

AS SKIES CLEAR

Warmer Weather Forecast In Area

Damp, leaden skies continued to hover above the Pampa area this morning as a touch of wintry weather lingered across the Panhandle.

But the cold spell was expected to begin lifting this afternoon, returning mild and pleasant weather by Wednesday.

Decreasing cloudiness is predicted to change to generally fair weather tonight and continue through Wednesday with warmer temperatures accompanying the passing of the cold front as it headed southward into the state.

High today was to reach into the 60s, with a high in the low 70s warming the area tomorrow. Overnight low was to be in the mid-40s.

Elsewhere across the state and nation according to UPI reports.

Nearly all of Texas was cloudy with fog and drizzle today but if you lived in Texarkana, Dalhart, El Paso or Brownsville the sun was out and the skies were clear.

And it was quite chilly everywhere except for the southern tip of the state where Brownsville had a 73-degree reading at dawn.

Elsewhere, Dalhart reported the only sub-freezing reading of 29 degrees. It dropped to 34 at El Paso, 35 at Marfa and 38 at Amarillo. Readings generally were in the 40s in West Texas and across the northern portion of the state and the 30s stretched to the coast from Victoria eastward to the Sabine.

Rainfall during the 24 hours ending at midnight included 1.44 inches at Beaumont, Port Arthur, 48 at McAllen, 33 at Houston and traces at Brownsville and Galveston.

Forecasts indicated a few showers in the Lower Rio Grande Valley and South Central Texas through Wednesday with gradual clearing moving in from the west.

Heavy snow warnings and travelers advisories were issued for the northwestern portion of the nation early today as the rest of the nation was dotted by precipitation.

Snow flurries were reported in northeast Ohio, western Pennsylvania and western and central New York with rain or snow falling in northern Michigan.

Other Pampa educators besides Mrs. Warner who hold office in District XVI are Mrs. Rose Nelson, secretary, Dr. James Malone, National Education Association Membership chairman, and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger was in Morocco for talks with King Hassan II before flying on today to Tunis and Cairo in hopes of working out a peace settlement before the Middle East war can resume.

"We are still concentrating on the ground situation," a Kissinger aide said following two rounds of talks with Hassan. "It is getting a little better, but there is a potential for trouble if it is unresolved."

King Hussein of Jordan flew to the Saudi capital of Riyadh today for talks with King Faisal and flew back to Amman immediately. Algerian President Houari Boumediene, who has been touring Arab capitals, left Riyadh today after talks with Faisal.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate Watergate committee voted today to seek an informal meeting with President Nixon on the Watergate affair.

No advance conditions were set by the committee during a lengthy, closed session. Members decided to send committee lawyers to the White House to explore the possibility of an informal conference.

The proposal was a compromise to a plan by Sen. Lowell P. Weicker, R-Conn., a committee member, to seek a meeting with Nixon amid growing recommendations by members of the President's own party that he make full disclosure of any information he might have about the scandal.

Under Weicker's proposal the President's responses to questions by committee members would be transcribed and made public later. The committee did not take a formal vote on the Weicker proposal and left up in the air whether the committee would ask for a transcript of the conversations.

There was no immediate indication from the White House on how Nixon might respond to the request for a meeting.

No Appearance Set
Some members of Congress have called for an appearance on Capitol Hill by the President, but White House officials made clear Nixon had no intention of doing so. They said there were no plans for a new public statement by the President about Watergate in any substantive form.

In U.S. District Court, Chief Judge John J. Sirica today directed that Rose Mary Woods, Nixon's personal secretary, be summoned to testify about the Watergate tapes and why two of them seem to be missing.

Sirica directed that Miss Woods be called after it was disclosed in testimony by presidential assistant Stephen Bull that she had possession of the tapes for at least two weeks this fall and possibly may still have them.

In reply to almost daily questions by reporters about whether Nixon had given any consideration to resigning, White House aide Ronald L.

Ziegler said, "The President is not a quitter. He never has been in his entire career."

One of Nixon's firmest congressional supporters, Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., was asked on the NBC-TV Today Show if he saw any reasons for Nixon to resign. "None whatever," he replied. "He was elected by the people by a tremendous vote. The grassroots as I found them last weekend in California and Oklahoma are strong for the President."

Thurmond did say, as have some other Republicans, "I think the President should furnish any information that pertains to any criminal action in connection with Watergate—and I think he will."

Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott Monday urged the President to "give the people all the information and let them judge." He said he regretted an earlier call for the President's resignation by a Republican colleague, Sen. Edward M. Brooke of Massachusetts.

Nixon's vice-presidential nominee, Gerald R. Ford, winding up his two days of Senate testimony, said the public wants the President "in any and every way that he can, by any documents that he can, to clear that (Watergate) up."

Asked whether Nixon can save his presidency, Ford said, "I think so. It's going to take a lot of help from a lot of people."

While neither Scott or Ford suggested the Watergate committee as a forum, Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., did. He said in a speech, "I think the only way he (the President) has out now would be to show up some morning at the Ervin committee and say, 'here I am, Sam. What do you want to know?'"

MOD CHAIRMAN SAYS Public Needs Concern For Prenatal Programs

The public must be made aware of the need for better prenatal and perinatal care, said Mrs. Emmett Saltzman.

This is medical care during the months of pregnancy and the weeks just before and after birth. These are critical times for every mother and baby, Mrs. Saltzman added.

Mrs. Saltzman is Mother's March Chairman of the Gray County Chapter of the National Foundation—March of Dimes. She has just returned from a two-day regional conference in Dallas sponsored by the voluntary health organization.

The March of Dimes is constantly working toward its goal of birth defects prevention, she said.

Innovations to protect each child's healthy birthright were emphasized throughout the meeting.

Genetic counseling, early detection of the high-risk pregnancy, and intensive care of the critically ill newborn are some of the modern means used to combat babies, public enemy number one—birth defects, Mrs. Saltzman continued.

Medical researchers are investigating why each year some 250,000 American babies are born damaged in some way. March of Dimes volunteers are sponsoring educational and community service programs to inform the public about known means of prevention. They also promote fund-raising activities to support further medical research and treatment.

Across the country, the March of Dimes also supports some 118 medical service programs. Mrs. Saltzman noted, including ones in Dallas, Houston, San Antonio, Galveston, Albuquerque, and Oklahoma City.

The aim of these programs is to help each newborn to his right to a healthy start in life, she said.

The Mothers' March will be conducted during the latter part of January.

Members of the local board of the Gray County Chapter of the March of Dimes will meet at 5 p.m. Thursday at the Chamber of Commerce office.

MARCH OF DIMES — Scott Hafen, 1974 March of Dimes national poster child, joins local volunteers Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Saltzman, 2635 Navajo, at a regional meeting of the voluntary health organization recently in Dallas. Scott, 5, born with open spine and water on the brain, is paralyzed from the waist down. He has surgery and regular treatment under the MOD program at Primary Children's Hospital in Salt Lake City, Utah. Saltzman is Gray County drive chairman and Mrs. Saltzman will head the Mothers' March in January.

'Team Effort' Planned For City Officials

City department heads were called into a meeting shortly before noon today to discuss plans for what City Manager Mack Wofford termed an effort to "establish a cooperative team effort" at City Hall.

The city manager indicated his proposal would set up a series of monthly meetings at which various department chiefs would outline operational procedures and problems faced.

The plan, according to Wofford, would have heads of the library, police, fire, street parks, sanitation, data processing, engineering, personnel, public works, finance and water departments, each take charge of a monthly meeting.

The aim is to have all department heads become familiar with other city departments, learn how they operate and become acquainted with the problems they encounter, Wofford said.

Astros Finish Testing

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — Astronauts Gerald P. Carr, Edward G. Gibson and William R. Pogue completed the last ground rehearsals Monday for their record 60-day stay aboard the Skylab space station, waiting 270 miles up in Earth orbit for their arrival.

If the trio of rookie space pilots have a successful mission going for them after eight weeks, they'll likely get approval to continue with their scientific research flight for up to 85 days.

A 224-foot Saturn 1B rocket, with a crew ferry spaceship perched atop it, was poised on the launch pad to thrust the astronauts up to the eight-room station at 10:41 a.m. CST Saturday. The countdown was in a hold until Thursday morning.

Doctors will keep a close watch over Carr, Gibson and Pogue the rest of the week, but today's physical examination was their last major hurdle to being declared fit to make the trip.

They have been kept in isolation at the Johnson Space Center in Houston for the past 2 1/2 weeks to protect them from common earth illnesses. After procedural briefings, they planned to fly their personal T38 jets to the Florida spaceport Wednesday afternoon.

Thursday and Friday were to be taken up with further, quick medical checkups and still more last minute briefings on the hundreds of scientific research chores assigned to them during the flight.

The first all-rookie space flight crew since the Gemini program in 1966, the Skylab 3 astronauts have been given an extra research job for the flight in addition to study of the sun, the earth and themselves—observation of comet Kohoutek.

Kohoutek is expected to be the brightest comet of the century, and will be studied as it swings around the sun from deep space in December, using a variety of spacecraft and from the ground.

Petrochemical Spokesmen Warn Of Economic Loss

ORANGE, Tex. (UPI) — Spokesmen for the petrochemical industry say fuel shortages may cause multibillion dollar losses in their industry, employ layoffs and a unfavorable shift in the nation's balance of trade.

Officials of the Petrochemical Energy Group, an organization of organic chemical companies, told Texas state officials Monday statistics prepared by actuaries indicate a 15 per cent reduction in the delivery of feed stock fuel to their firms would result in a $60 billion loss in production value nationwide and cause more than 1.5 million persons to lose their jobs.

H. Imray, vice president of the Texas Eastman Co., said a 15 per cent reduction in feed stock deliveries to Texas plants alone would cost the nation $20 billion and cause one half million job losses. Imray said one billion of the reduction in output in manufacturable goods would come in Texas and 25,000 of the persons to lose their jobs would be Texans.

The impact would be felt in the agricultural industry in automobiles, appliances, construction, textiles and many other areas of the national economy, Imray said.

Imray said Texas petrochemical industry produces more than one-half the basic raw materials used in products ranging from plastics and rubber to fibers and detergents.

Lt. Gov. William P. Hobby and members of the Governor's Energy Advisory Council toured the B. F. Goodrich Co. and DuPont Co. plants at Orange, Tex., and heard an appeal for state policy on fuel uses that will "maximize the value" of resources such as natural gas and oil.

Edward G. Jefferson, senior vice president of DuPont, told state petrochemical plants use oil and natural gas as raw materials and cannot substitute other fuels to produce their products.

"We can all agree that certain basic human needs such as home heating and cooking must be met," Jefferson said. "At the same time, we believe that our modest use of petroleum products as raw materials in many instances is more beneficial to the national interest."

Four human blood types are recognized—A, B, AB and O.

than the use of that same fraction for fuel purposes, where alternate fuels can be substituted.

Industry spokesmen said the petrochemical industry uses only about 5 per cent of the total national oil consumption and 10 per cent of the gas consumed nationwide.

"This nation must look towards the most efficient utilization of its hydrocarbon resources for both fuel and raw materials," Jefferson said. "Otherwise we may find we have not conserved sufficient hydrocarbon."

Industry officials called for "formalizing conservation efforts," improved industry management, more efficient utility operations and coordination of the competing goals of environment and energy.

Jefferson said education and incentive programs could produce a short term reduction of seven to 10 per cent in energy consumption.

A MERCY KILLING' Jury Acquits Brother's Killer On Insanity Plea

FREEHOLD, N.J. (UPI) — Lester Zygmanski, 23, who shot his brother George to death while George lay paralyzed in a hospital bed, was acquitted of murder Monday by a jury that found him temporarily insane when he fired the fatal shot.

The killing of the crippled brother became known as a "mercy killing," although defense lawyers did not use those words in arguments.

Lester testified he told his brother "I am here to end your pain."

"I walked over to the room, looked in and saw my brother. I asked him if he was in pain, a lot of pain. He nodded. 'Yes'."

Then, according to Lester's testimony, he shot his brother.

George's widow, Jeanette, took Lester's arm and the pair walked out of the courtroom as some 75 spectators watched quietly. Superior Court Judge M. Raymond McGowan had warned the gallery against any outburst when the verdict was read.

The defendant's mother, Sonia Zygmanski, wept quietly after the verdict was read, then left the courtroom and waited for her son and daughter-in-law to join her.

Without bothering to hear arguments, the court in a one-paragraph opinion on Monday, made retroactive a 1972 decision that no defendant may be imprisoned, even for a petty offense, unless he has been represented by an attorney.

Richard Berry of Cincinnati brought the retroactivity question to the court, urging that his misdemeanor sentence be invalidated, although it was imposed before the 1972 pronouncement.

The court's favored opinion in Berry's favor noted that a person carries certain disabilities and burdens as a result having served time. For instance, under state laws he cannot engage in certain businesses requiring a license, such as driving a taxi.

If he gets in trouble again, he may draw a stiffer sentence as a second offender. An alien might find it difficult to acquire citizenship. Other restrictive laws relate to voting, serving on juries and becoming a labor union official.

In other actions, the court — Overruled a decision by the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals that Florida's sodomy law is unconstitutionally vague. More than 50 Florida prison inmates would have been released and the other state laws would have been in jeopardy if the 5th Circuit Court decision had remained undisturbed.

East Germany Fights To Ban Escape Groups — BERLIN (UPI) — Western officials said today East Germany might start pressuring the West into banning escape organizations following the convictions of three refugee helpers at a highly publicized Communist trial.

An East Berlin court sentenced two West Germans and a West Berliner Monday to prison terms of up to 1 1/2 years for charging fees as high as $6,700 a person to smuggle refugees out of East Germany.

"It is obvious that one of the main purposes of the show trial was to lay a foundation for a demand that the West ban the refugee helpers," a Western allied official said. "Another aim was to frighten potential refugees and the escape organizations."

Judge Heinz Hugot said the trial showed escape organizations could not operate without the active support of West Berlin and West German authorities.

Witnesses at the highly publicized four-day trial, a sharp contrast to the usually low-key East Berlin court proceedings, said American soldiers were sometimes used to smuggle refugees out in cars with military license plates.

The judge said the escape organizations were able to get refugees out on the highways between West Berlin and West Germany because the Big Four agreement on Berlin abolished East German traffic controls.

In another development, Western officials said they would complain about an East German announcement Monday doubling the amount Western residents have to pay to visit the East.

The announcement said Western visitors must now pay $8.30 a day for visits to East Germany and $4.15 a day for East Berlin.

Western officials said the measure was designed to curtail East-West German contacts.

Court Refuses To Hear Appeal Of White Parents Ordeal of Israeli MIAs' families 'Patience, patience; hope, hope'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court rejected Monday an appeal by a group of white parents of a court-ordered school desegregation plan which went into effect in January violated their rights as "Anglo-Americans."

George's authorities in urging that the postponement be granted. Chief Judge Clement F. Haynsworth of the 4th Circuit said in a unanimous decision against the school board that the case was "routine" and "there's really no room for us to exercise much judgment here."

George W. Crane, Ph.D., M.D. Horace's wife craved more boudoir romancing. But she unwittingly was making him too and more platonic. Note, too, the birthday present the Pennsylvania dentist's wife gave him. Was it an erotic hint, as he surmised? If you like boudoir cheesecake, avoid cigarettes!

CASE Y-562: Horace T., aged 38, is a bank teller. "Dr. Crane," his wife explained, "Horace is a good provider but not very demonstrative. And the past few years our marriage has been largely platonic. So do you think he needs some sex vitamins or hormone shots to perk him up in the boudoir?"

inhale stale tobacco halitosis when I try to kiss my mate. Tobacco actually has a dual injurious effect on marital romance. For example, if wives are erotically stimulated but left unsatisfied, they soon grow jittery and neurotic.

SEX PROBLEMS

"Does Horace smoke?" I abruptly asked, and she shook her head. Meanwhile she was chain smoking. So I reminded her that many a non-smoking husband has confessed that he couldn't grow erotic about a boudoir smokestack! "Dr. Crane," such men have grumbled, "whenever I try to get romantic with my wife and start to kiss her, I get asphyxiated with her stale tobacco halitosis!"

So they may adopt the cigarette habit as a means of draining off their sexual energy by waving their hand around every few minutes in the act of smoking. Cigarettes thus help dissipate a wife's unexpended erotic energy. But they also inhibit a man's sex drive, if he is a smoker, for they seem to anesthetize his ardor.

Financing your college education Don't let scholarships go to waste

By S. Robert Freede NEW YORK — (NEA) — College students and their families are learning that seeking a student loan is in itself a course in economics. Even the friendly banker across the street prefers to lend money to businessman at 10 per cent rather than grant a student loan at the required 7 per cent. And now middle-income students are finding it more difficult to get federal aid.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The author is president of Scholarship Search and a consultant to the National Scholarship Foundation. This is the first of three articles on how to finance a college education.) Millions of dollars in financial aid actually go unused each year because students and their families are not aware that they may be eligible for funds. Don't let apathy keep you from receiving awards for which you qualify.

offer scholarships — please send me an application. State clearly your reasons for wanting to go to college, including the major and minor courses of study you want to pursue. Ask for information concerning financial aid requirements and request an application. If the information you want to include seems too long put the highlights in the letter and include a resume. You will be asked in many instances for family and personal financial statements. So start immediately to have them prepared.

to list all sources of financial aid available or be entirely current because sources of scholarships and financial aid change constantly. Many scholarships and other financial aid grants are awarded on a competitive basis, involving your class standing, test scores, references and recommendations from teachers, counselors and members of your community. Yes, there are hundreds of awards available to the average student, one not at the top of his class. These often seem to be the least publicized and the most needed. They may be awarded on the basis of geographic residence, religious or national origins, parents' employment or affiliations or the student's work commitment after graduation.

Basic research for your "fund raising" campaign can be done in a public or school library. There you will find publications telling you how to find and apply for scholarships. (Remember, though, that no book can be expected

Low Tension Now At Its High Point

"The uncomfortable truth is that democracies are bad at dealing with periods of low-tension confrontation... There is an almost universal human desire to believe that peace is the natural condition of man, that armies are temporary nuisances, that conflicts of interest can be dissolved by a policy of good will.

YESTERDAY, JOHN Q. PUBLIC! TODAY, I'M THE BOSS!

The Welfare Friendlies

Sea Power magazine, October, 1973, complains of "a bad case of the friendlies." The gist of the magazine's editorial comment is a plea on behalf of retired persons who have seen their semi-fixed incomes shrink.

Other matters which must not interfere with detente and disarmament include the espionage activities conducted by the U.S.S.R. Writes Victor Riesel: "...the Soviets have not relaxed their espionage operations in the U.S."

Gulf Stream Horsepower

Men may one day harness the energy of the northward-flowing Gulf Stream to spin underwater windmills. The idea is suggested by three scientists - Drs. Harris B. Stewart Jr. and John R. Apel of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration.

Since the liberals are in control of both Congress and the executive bureaucracy, we do not see much hope that so-called friendly "bombs" will stop falling on the military. All we can suggest is that the military people tidy up their own expenditures.

Out Of Fire Into Pan

It is hardly an occasion for joy when an animal is placed on the endangered species list, says Smithsonian magazine. It is, however, with regard to the eastern cougar and the Rocky Mountain wolf.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

New Amsterdam's (New York) citizens aided the poor by a lottery, awarding Bibles to the winners in 1655. In colonial America public lotteries often replaced taxation.

Preparing Americans For The Revolution?

In the past five years, nearly 2,000 American high school and college students have travelled illegally to Communist Cuba, allegedly to work in Castro's sugar cane and citrus fields thereby aiding the Cuban national economy.

Form Letters

A grandfather presented his two grandsons with bank stock for Christmas. The bank president's office sent a form letter of welcome to each of them.

Wit & Whimsy

Packing your own lunch is OK - but not with the household grocery money. You can't see it, but "Ms" has an awful lot of "I" in it.

Your Health

DEAR DR. LAMB - I'm begging you to help me with this problem! I just turned 14 and started my periods a little more than a year and a half ago. The problem is I can't use tampons.

Inside Washington

WASHINGTON - Democratic national chairman Robert Strauss' penchant for placatingly trying to play all sides to the middle is booming him into an explosive jam. Apparently in the belief it would be smart politics, the chunky Texas lawyer suddenly recommended former New York City Mayor Robert Wagner to be chairman of the still-to-be-named 17-member Compliance Committee.

Lid Coming Off

WASHINGTON - In the budget which he submitted to Congress two months ago, President Nixon requested almost $4 billion for the annual handout to foreign governments - an estimated increase of more than $600 million over his request for this purpose last year.
