GRAESOE, Sweden (UPI)—Dr. Carl A. Gemzell, the Swedish physician who helped to pioneer hormone treatments for certain types of infertility in women, is married but childless himself.

"I do not see our methods as being the solution for ALL," he said at his summer home on Graesoe Island off the Swedish coast.
The 55-year-old doctor warned that the methods he helped pioneer at Sweden's Uppsala University can aid only an estimated 5 to 10 per cent of the world's women.
But he said he has received hundreds of letters from all over the world since his name made headlines when two previously infertile women, one in Sweden and the other in New Zealand, gave birth to quintuplets after they received hormone treatments by his method.

"Tell them," he said, "please no more letters."
Gemzell said most of his patients are women 30 to 35 years old "who have waited a long time for children."

Then, he said, they are disappointed if they have only one child. "They have waited that long that they want two at once," he said.
Gemzell said he also is interested in the problem of overpopulation and is working to find out how contraceptive pills work.
"We know a little but not enough," he commented.
There is irony in Gemzell's life. Married to his wife, Lisa, for 31 years, the doctor is childless.

Gemzell is physician, teacher, administrator and writer in his chosen field, biological chemistry. Since 1961, he has headed the department of obstetrics and gynecology at Uppsala, Scandinavia's oldest university.
Gemzell said his patients are those women who have lost the pituitary gland, or whose pituitary gland is malfunctioning and does not produce the hormones which are a factor in reproduction.

He wants the record straight once and for all on what he and his team of physicians can do to help barren women produce. The women he can help are a small percentage, he said.
"We are not the great white hope for all the childless," said Gemzell.
The hormone injections are (See PARENTS, Page 3)

U.S. Jet Bombers Strike Deep In Cong Territory

5 States Report Sightings

SAIGON (UPI)—Thirty American B52 jet bombers roared close to the North Vietnamese border today and rained 500 tons of explosives on a known haven for Viet Cong guerrillas guarding the vital Ho Chi Minh Trail.
As the Strategic Air Command's Guam-based bombers carried out their seventh and northernmost strike of the war, dozens of other U.S. Air Force and Navy planes attacked bridges, barges and army barracks in North Viet Nam.
All previous strikes by the B52 bombers have been targets in the dense South Vietnamese jungles surrounding Saigon.
The planes today attacked the Communist Do Xa headquarters just south of the 17th parallel—the dividing line between the two countries.

Attack Arms Barracks
The largest raid reported over North Viet Nam today was staged by 14 U.S. Navy A4 Skyhawks, supported by five F8 Crusaders against the Vinh army barracks, 140 miles south of Hanoi.
A U.S. military spokesman said more than 75 sorties were flown against the Communist north. Twelve buildings were reported damaged in the raid on the Vinh barracks.
The spokesman said the planes, all from the aircraft carrier Midway, dropped more than 38 tons of bombs on the area. He said pilots encountered no anti-aircraft fire and all returned safely.
In other action, a widespread search for Communist guerrillas by thousands of American infantrymen and paratroopers south of Saigon ended today as elements of the U.S. forces began returning to their headquarters at Bien Hoa. The five-day sweep netted only two Viet Cong killed and two captured.

The guerrillas faded into the jungle avoiding any major contact. A spokesman said artillery fire was "placed" on a Viet Cong platoon observed Sunday but there were no reports of casualties. The spokesman said numerous trenches, clothing and a large cache of (See BOMBERS, Page 3)

Mysterious, multi-colored objects sighted throughout the Southwest United States Sunday were also sighted above Pampa and in the Panhandle.
The Pampa News and Radio Station KPDM were deluged with telephone calls from persons reporting the mysterious objects.
Edgar Brown, 18, Lefors, reported seeing a brightly colored object about 11:30 p.m.
Mrs. Joyce Howard, 18, 915 E. Francis, said she observed a blue and white object fall slowly to the ground, over the northwest corner of Pampa.
She described it as brightly colored and surrounded by several smaller glowing objects.
Residents in other Panhandle towns also reported seeing the objects.
Similar sightings were reported in New Mexico, Oklahoma, Kansas and Colorado.
The Daily Oklahoman described the rash of telephone calls as reminiscent of the Orson Wells invasion of Oct. 30, 1938.
One confirmed report of four mysterious craft in a "diamond" formation came from Chickasha, Cushing, Shawnee and Chandler, Okla.
Officers in three patrol cars at Shawnee said they watched the diamond formation flight for 30 to 40 minutes shortly after 9 p.m. They said the strange craft moved in a northerly direction and changed colors from red and white to blue and white.
The Oklahoma Highway Patrol said Tinker Air Force Base authorities reported tracking some objects on radar. But Tinker Base officials refused to comment on the report.
Most of the sightings appeared to have been in Oklahoma.
Police in Dallas said the lights formed two triangular patterns and flashed from red to green to blue and white.
They criss-crossed the Dallas area from 2:20 a.m. until dawn. Cushing officers reported seeing them as early as 9:06 p.m.
The lights were reported over Central Kansas between 2 a.m. to 6 a.m. CST. Deputy sheriff Everett Tucker of Wellington said he saw an egg-shaped object, trailing a red vapor, moving rapidly to the north.
The Wichita Weather Bureau said radar tracking indicated an object it observed was moving "at about 45 miles an hour."
Sightings also were reported at Wichita Falls, at Borger, Dalhart, Dumas and Tulla, in the (See OBJECTS, Page 3)

Republicans Draw Sharp Blast From President

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (UPI)—President Johnson has sent a blunt warning to the Republican leadership in Congress not to base criticism of his Viet Nam policy on non-partisan secret councils at the White House.
The Chief Executive, in an otherwise amiable mood after church Sunday, threw one of his sharpest political shafts at an unidentified Republican leader for having violated the confidence of a White House meeting in an "untrue and perhaps malicious" manner.
There was immediate speculation that Johnson had in mind House GOP Leader Gerald R. Ford, but Ford pleaded innocence in a statement issued in Washington.

He said the President's comments were "unfortunate" and probably resulted from a mistake.
The political pot was certain to simmer even more while the President extended his weekend in his Texas ranch through today. Johnson was expected to fly back to Washington tonight.
There were these other new developments at the Texas White House:
—Johnson announced his selection of an old Texas friend of some 30 years, Robert Wood Akers, to be deputy director of the U. S. Information Agency. Wood, 59, retired a year and a half ago as editor of the Beaumont (Tex.) Enterprise and Journal and has since been traveling in Europe and the Middle East.

—The President ordered the Defense Department to take extra steps to eliminate any waste of military manpower in view of increasing troop commitments in Viet Nam. This meant cutting off any non-essential military activities. (See REPUBLICANS, Page 3)

House Decision Due On Proposed Pay Hike

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A House committee is expected to approve this week a proposed pay hike for government white collar workers — their 12th raise since 1945.
A House post office and civil service subcommittee passed a bill authorizing a 4.5 per cent increase as of next Oct. 1. A second pay raise of about 4 per cent would go into effect the following year.
The wage plan, which is expected to cost the taxpayer about $1.2 billion, would affect 1.3 million employees — 1.1 million so-called classified employees, 600,000 postal employees, and 100,000 individuals working in miscellaneous agencies.
Under the plan, the lowest classified employe would get $3,538 a year and the highest — $25,602. The maximum does not include the higher-paid agency heads, assistant secretaries and secretaries.
President Johnson has not taken a stand on the proposal but it is known that the administration has found many "objectionable" features in the pay raise bill.
Other congressional news:
—Merger: Deputy Defense Secretary Cyrus Vance was called before a House subcommittee to support the Pentagon's plan to merge the National Guard with the Army Reserves. The administration believes the plan would save about $150 million a year and would increase U.S. combat efficiency.
—Metric: A U. S. Chamber of Commerce spokesman said businessmen should be allowed to participate in a federal study of the advantages and disadvantages of converting to the metric system. The spokesman said businessmen should be included in the study, being carried out by the Bureau of Standards, since they will bear "a major cost burden of the conversion."
—Amendment: Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N. Y., planned to call up his version of a proposed constitutional amendment aimed at the Supreme Court's "one man, one vote" ruling. Javits' proposal, a substitute to a stronger one by Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., could force an early Senate showdown on the issue.

Harriman, British Heads Talk Today
LONDON (UPI)—Roving U.S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman today opened talks on Viet Nam and other world problems with leaders of the British government.
Harriman, who flew into London from Yugoslavia Sunday, planned to confer with Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart sometime today.
Tuesday he will talk to Prime Minister Harold Wilson prior to departing for Washington, where he is expected to tell President Johnson all about his "vacation" trip.
Although Harriman still insists he is on a private vacation, it was disclosed in Washington recently that the State Department is picking up his bills.
The American troubleshooter began the major phase of his European journey by conferring with Soviet officials in the Kremlin. Although there was little official information about his talks, it was virtually certain that Viet Nam was discussed.
In Yugoslavia Harriman conferred with President Tito twice but did not meet Premier Lal Bahadur Shastri of India, who was visiting the Communist country at the same time.
According to the Yugoslav news agency Tanjug, Tito and Shastri agreed on a peace plan that calls for the United States to stop bombing Communist North Viet Nam as a prelude to negotiations for ending the Southeast Asian crisis.
Harriman is known to have told Tito that Washington insists any peace talks should begin before the bombings cease.

in a court challenge of such levies.
Both houses attached their differing provisions to the administration's main proposal to strike down, without previous court approval, literacy tests and other anti-voting devices, and provide for federal officials to register Negroes to vote in seven southern states. This part of the bill is by all standards the strongest voting rights legislation Congress has approved since the post-Civil War Reconstruction.
Even during the period last spring when pressure was strongest to pass such legislation, some House Democrats conceded privately that the poll tax repeal issue was a case of the tail wagging the dog. But a parade of civil rights spokesmen, from the NAACP's Roy Wilkins to CORE's James Farmer, testified that the bill would not be adequate without elimination of poll taxes.

Vote Rights Bill Due Approval Wednesday

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A quiet retreat by civil rights leaders has cleared the way for final congressional approval, probably Wednesday, of President Johnson's historic Negro voting rights bill.
A turnout on state poll tax repeal broke what could have been a long and damaging deadlock last week in a House-Senate conference committee which drafted compromise legislation. The House is expected to approve the measure Tuesday; the Senate soon after.
The House, responding to the demands of civil rights organizations and many of its own members, had approved a measure that would have outlawed poll taxes still used in state and local elections in Alabama, Mississippi, Texas and Virginia.
The Senate, harkening to Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach's appeal to steer clear of constitutional problems, wrote

Separate Rites Held
For Murdered Coeds
DALLAS (UPI) — Separate funeral services were scheduled today for two attractive Dallas young women whose bodies were found Friday in a field near Austin.
The girls—Susan Riggsby and Shirley Ann Stark, both 21—disappeared after driving from Dallas July 18 to enroll at the University of Texas. Police suspect both were raped, then strangled.
Following the funerals both young women will be buried in Restland Memorial Cemetery.
The partially nude bodies, badly decomposed, were found in a weed-covered field near where a large bundle of their clothing was found July 20.
Maj. K. R. Herbert of the Austin police disclosed a list of more than 100 items missing from the girls' automobile. The articles ranged from clothing to cosmetics and canned food to luggage.
Several clues
"There are a lot of clues, said one investigator. "But, of course, we want all we can find."
An autopsy failed to produce a great deal other than that Miss Riggsby was strangled. But police believed both were probably raped then strangled.
A telephone call Miss Riggsby made a few minutes before she and her sorority sister disappeared was one of the more significant clues.

The recipient of the call has never come forward.
A schoolmate of Miss Riggsby said she saw her make the call the day she dropped out of sight.
Reports that the girls were killed by "a powerful attacker" are misleading, Herbert, head of the investigation, said.
There is no indication the girls were slain by a lone person and it would not require a particularly powerful person to choke two girls who weighed 115 and 122 pounds.
A few sprigs of green Bermuda grass found on the girls' car were also being pursued as a clue.
Police planned to search along streams and river bottoms in the Austin area because the grass is the kind which usually grows near water.

AFTER EIGHT HOURS

Negroes End March at Home of Daley

By United Press International
More than 100 Negroes ended an eight-hour march today at the home of Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley and Negroes planned a variety of other civil rights action on four other widely separated fronts.
Negro comedian Dick Gregory led the march that broke up quietly today at Daley's home. One white man was arrested Sunday night on charges of disorderly conduct after he shouted obscenities at the marchers. The demonstration was a continuation of a two-month campaign to oust Chicago public school superintendent Benjamin C. Willis.

In Philadelphia, another major front, Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., began two days of meetings and speeches under a truce in a dispute between civil rights leaders which nearly prevented his visit. The truce was arranged by local leaders and the Rev. Walter Fauntroy, a spokesman for King in Washington, D.C.

In Bogalusa, La., they said they would test public accommodations and picket white business places to protest job discrimination.
Negro leaders in Greensboro, Ala., postponed demonstrations until Tuesday to permit their ranks to take advantage of voter registration day.
Negroes were expected to register in small groups at the courthouse which has been the target of street demonstrations.

Last week, 485 persons were arrested attempting to march to the courthouse to protest voter registration procedure.
More street demonstrations were planned in Americus, Ga. Some 200 Negroes marched Sunday night following an unsuccessful attempt to integrate two white churches.

Dear Abby...

Abby Is Playing A Losing Game

DEAR ABBY: You are so ridiculously prejudiced in favor of the men that it gets quite nauseating at times. A man practically has to beat his wife to death before you will condemn him.

A woman wrote to ask if it was "stealing" to pick her husband's pants pockets while he slept, and you said it was.

As usual, you lit into the wife, completely ignoring the sin of her stingy husband, who gave her so little she had to steal to make ends meet.

When my husband and I had pre-marital instructions, our minister told us that money was community property between husband and wife, to be shared equally. Now, I ask you, how can anyone "steal" a portion of what is hers in the first place? Just because the husband gets his greedy fingers on the money first is no reason for him to steal her share.

I hope your attitude improves in the future.

"HOT IN THE SOUTH"

DEAR ABBY: I have always suspected that you hated men. Now I'm positive.

A poor, neglected husband asked you what to do about a wife who has to spend every day with her mother or else talk to her for hours on the phone. You told him he married a "mama's girl" and to learn to live with it. A lot of good that did him.

Why didn't you tell him he ought to give his wife a good hard boot in the bustle and tell her to stay home and act like a wife? And if that didn't knock some sense into her, pack her up and send her home to her mother?

EX-READER

DEAR ABBY: Why, oh, why do people get dogs, tie them up and let them bark from sun-up until sundown? I can't get any rest in the afternoon because the dogs bark. I can't sit out in the yard and enjoy the cool of the evening because the dogs bark. When I go to bed at night, I can't sleep because the dogs bark louder than ever. What am I to do? I am not a well man, and I'm

NO-SPRING CHICKEN

DEAR ABBY: If you know the owners of the barking dogs, complain to them directly. If the barking persists, call your local police department or sheriff's office. I don't know what the law enforcers of your community can (or will) do about it, but it's their job to maintain the "peace."

DEAR ABBY: My sister-in-law lives with me and she gets her mail here. Last week she received a letter. My three-year-old son tore the envelope half-way open, took the letter out and handed it to me. I was surprised anyone could be so quick. I quickly put the letter back into the envelope and sealed it up again as best I could. Anyone could tell at a glance that the envelope had been torn open and reread. When my sister-in-law came home and saw that letter, she gave me the funniest look, but she didn't say anything.

I didn't say anything, either, because I don't think she would have believed me anyway. How can I make things right with her? Or is it too late? I feel so guilty. And yet I have done nothing to feel guilty about. Please advise me.

J. Y.
DEAR J. Y.: Tell your sister-in-law exactly what happened and try to clear the air. If she doesn't believe you, you'll be no worse off than you are now.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "E" IN WEST TEXAS: Your friend could use "A. A." to help him stay off the sauce. People who live in glass houses shouldn't get stoned.

'Youthquake' Shows Shaking Knees

By HELEN HENNESSY
Newspaper Enterprise
Women's Editor

NEW YORK (NEA) — Although fashions may change over the years, fashion showings do not. Attending a fashion collection always means settling back on a spindly-legged chair, balancing a pad on your knee and, with pencil in hand, waiting in hushed expectancy for the models to glide down the runway. And when a particular number is especially handsome, you applaud.

So I thought I knew how my afternoon would go when I recently accepted an invitation from Puritan Fashions to see the new "Youthquake" clothes created by English mod designers, Mary Quant and Tuffin & Foale. I was wrong. Fashion shows are another cup of tea, it seems, when the British mods have a hand in them.

Outside the entrance to the building stood an authentic double-decker English bus, complete with London guards. But that was nothing compared to the sights within the showroom.

Young English models came frugging (not gliding) down the runway to the musical accompaniment of The Skunks, five boys whose bleached hair was the only thing louder than their music.

The models wore Vidal Sassoon haircuts, their pale makeup offset by dark, wide-open eyes and little boy grins. The commentator (Puritan's good looking executive vice president, Paul Young) is the man credited with bringing Youthquake—the British by-word for today's young, fresh mood in fashion, beauty, music and art—to the United States. He swayed and twisted to the Skunks' beat as he commented on the different numbers, the young ladies wearing them and the designers themselves.

For fall, Mary Quant showed many superbly cut, gray flannel suits and dresses, dropped waistlines, girlish skimmers and one-piece jerseys, tailored to give a pinafore effect. Also modeled were kicky culottes worn with teddy jackets and a long, bright orange wool lace skirt with matching, see-through organdy blouse for evening. But the biggest news was the length. Hemlines were short, short short—four inches above the knee.

On Mary Quant's models, the skirt length looked ideal. But even the nerve-racking thought of taking all last year's clothes back to the tailor for shortening paled compared to the realization that knees definitely are coming into their own. For how can one take her knees to be tailored—and to whom?

Considered at 30 to be the "grandmother" of the Chelsea look, Mary Quant began designing dresses after a brief stint in art school and a few years of creating hats. Her first shop, Bazaar, launched her loose-fitting, sassy designs which were later to earn her the Sunday Times International Award for "Leading England out of its conventional attitude toward clothes."

In 1959 she set up a factory and opened a second shop in sedate Knightsbridge. The merchandise sold so quickly that department stores bought her designs and opened special Mary Quant boutiques.

Sally Tuffin and Marion Foale, two of Miss Quant's contemporaries, but with a fashion look entirely their own, began designing when both were students at the famed Fashion School of the Royal College of Art. The way the girls go about creating their designs is as unique as the garments themselves. They design separately, showing their drawings to each other and then selecting the 12 they both like best. At present they are deeply involved with op and pop art prints. Their jersey shifts, for junior petites only, come in paintbox colors with arrowheads, circles and chevron motifs at the bodice and sleeves.

After this unique fashion show, applause was appreciat-

Fashion Seers Have Made a Mighty Splash

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — Fashion seers on both sides of the Atlantic have made a mighty splash with their designs for fall and winter.

But there's no need for the typical woman along Main Street, U.S.A. to give her togs to the trashman and start from the skin out anew to be in step with fashion.

The typical woman doesn't have the cash to pay several hundred to a thousand dollars for a new little dress or suit.

And by the time the mass dress producers adapt some of the new high fashion ideas, getting them down to the $25 price, a number of new moons will be behind.

American designers have given us the kicky look, the feminine and the muffled look. European designers are in with their "looks"—among them, the spiral, the exit, the little girl look.

To keep your head swimming, there's the entrance dress. To further confuse, there's the sack dress, plus the dress with the defined waistline.

Perhaps what puts a woman into the biggest nosedive is the reports about hiked hemlines.

To make up your mind, it's simple. You bare your knees, look in the mirror and let your anatomy be your guide.

Knees that can stand the exposure can go naked. Knees that can't are covered. Simple. This season as never before, designers who set the trends have served up a smorgasbord of designs. There's something for almost everyone, regardless of type.

And if you look hard enough, you'll find classic styles in the new collections that closely resemble some of the classic clothes you've had in your cupboard for years.

To give you an idea of how long it takes for a "look" to catch on, consider the courage's look of last season. This was the spare white dress with welted seaming and worn always with little white boots. It is being seen in many cities across the nation. But it took almost a year for it to filter down to the mass-produced dress house.

Americans partake of high fashion generally only when Rome or London designers are mass produced.

Glitter Beads Accent Spanish Fashions

BARCELONA, Spain (UPI)—When the house of Pertergaz showed its fall-winter collection the accent was on glittering beads. Hem lines skimmed the knees as jackets got longer. For day clothes, the designer favored subdued shades of color such as camel, beige, pimento, green, purple, violet, gray and brown.

Suits and coats were tailored in a military manner with a direct emphasis on shoulders. Skirts mostly carried two fixed pleats in front and two in back. The Pertergaz collection was one of the most impressive of the fall-winter shows presented to buyers and press in Spain.

Later we took high tea (it used to be champagne) while The Skunks kept playing and the models continued moving around in those incredibly short skirts. Mary Quant's two mannequins, Sarah Dawson and Sandra Moss, mingled in the crowd, doing a lady-like frug that drew even more attention to their tanned legs.

I'll never again be so sure I know what will happen at a fashion showing. I'm still rocking from this one. It was sheer Mod-ness.

not given to childless women with normal menstrual cycles. Gemzell said his patients are those women who have lost the pituitary gland, or whose pituitary gland is malfunctioning and does not produce the hormones which are a factor in reproduction. The patients are women who do not menstruate but on medical check are found to have normal ovaries which can respond to hormonal treatment.

Gemzell stressed that of the childless of this world perhaps this group of women is "5 or 10 per cent" of the female population.

"It seems to be universal," said Gemzell, "that a woman desires children, she will do anything... spend a fortune. As physicians, we have to keep apart the thought of the world's over-population, and the individual problem, the woman's longing for a child."

A series of injections at Gemzell's Uppala Clinic costs $30 to $40, and the fee is paid for by grants.

Not Inexpensive

But, he added, "it is not inexpensive" for a husband-wife to travel to Uppala—yes, the husband also must be on hand—and stay for the two weeks necessary.

I asked Gemzell whether he thought he work of his team and of other doctors might one day lead to man's ability to control the reproduction of his species.

"I would not be able to say," he answered.

"We do not know nature's way of deciding in monkey and in man that only one ovum is released, only one child born. Only one per cent of human births are multiple.

"If we find the answer to why nature selects," the doctor smiled, "maybe then the customer can come in and order one, two, three."

Gemzell said there may be some side effects from his treatment but that they are temporary. He explained that a woman at first might be sensitive to the hormones and require constant checking against cysts. But he insisted there is no danger under proper supervision.

"A hormone," Gemzell patiently explained, "is a substance produced in a gland, released into the blood and acting on another organ through mediation of the blood."

With the definition, he gave me a lesson in how the hormonal injections are administered at his clinic.

Napoleon Hall of Tucumcari entered a plea of guilty to swindling with worthless check charges and was fined $5 and costs and sentenced to 30 days in jail.

Objects

Texas Panhandle. Norman and Purcell, Okla., police reported seeing a stationary object in the sky between those two communities.

The objects were described as emitting various colors of light. Some were said to be flying an erratic course in diamond formation.

There was at least one unconfirmed report of an object resembling a flaming plane crash near Bartlesville.

At least eight law enforcement officers were among dozens of Oklahomans who reported seeing the unidentified flying objects.

Police Receive Thankful Letter

Police Chief Jim Conner said the department doesn't receive many letters like one in this morning's mail.

The letter was from Mrs. Charles S. Lips of San Antonio. It stated:

"On a recent trip to Pampa, I had occasion to request information and directions from two Pampa police officers. The officers were very courteous and helpful and their directions were clear and concise.

"You are to be commended for having such fine people as these two in your employment. They seemed to exemplify fine police officers."

City Improvement Club Holds Annual Award Program, Tea

First place in the City Improvement Club's Seventh Annual Award program went to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Carter, 537 Oklahoma, at a tea in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Williams Sunday afternoon.

The award was made for what judges held to be the best yard and home improvement program during the past year.

Other awards were made as follows: Mr. and Mrs. Alvis Sande's, second place, and Mrs. Katherine Avery, third. Honorable mention was given to Mrs. D. Griffin, the Progressive Baptist Church and St. Mark CME Church.

Contest judges were Mrs. S. Thelma Bray, Mrs. V. N. Osborn, Mrs. W. R. Campbell and Mrs. Lee Moore.

Awards were presented by E. G. Wedgworth, manager of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce. Wedgworth stated that Pampa had grown from 1,600 population in 1926 to its present size because of the civic interest of groups like the City Improvement Club.

"It is because groups like this take an interest in their city and work together that Pampa is as large and as beautiful as it is," Wedgworth said.

City Manager Jim White also addressed the group and commended residents for their interest and work that has been done.

"I know this interest will continue," the city manager added. Judges stated selection of three winning yards out of so many was a difficult job.

The tea at the Williams home, 1101 Campanella Dr., carried the club's red, white and blue color scheme with white table cloth, blue napkins and red punch bowl.

Four Being Held In Gun Theft

The Gray County Sheriff's office said they are holding four persons in connection with the theft of two guns and two rods and reels.

The four are accused of entering the garage of C.A. Tignor, nine miles north of Pampa.

Officers said they expect to file formal charges late this afternoon.

essential use of troops in light of demands for additional strength in South Viet Nam.

—United Nations Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg completed his weekend talks with Johnson and flew back to New York.

While their overnight visit at the LB Branch was largely social, Goldberg had an opportunity to run over with the President some of the more pressing matters building up in the international peace organization and directly related to the U.S. position in Viet Nam.

After church Sunday, Johnson invited newsmen to visit the ranch briefly to meet the new USIA deputy and ask a few questions if they so desired.

"There is a story in some of the papers that you were dissuaded from taking a stronger line in Viet Nam because of something that Sen. Mike Mansfield (Senate Democratic leader) said," a reporter said.

"Can you comment about that?"

rice were found in one Viet Cong village taken by the airborne troops.

In Saigon, American military commanders said they expect Communist Viet Cong guerrillas to launch a major offensive before the next big wave of American reinforcements arrives in South Viet Nam.

The private predictions by senior officials followed weekend air raids in which U.S. planes struck deeper than ever before into North Viet Nam. At the same time Communist Viet Cong guerrillas launched 24 attacks on government outposts around the Saigon area during the three-day period ending today, a military spokesman announced.

The attacks close to the capital were seen as a prelude to a new Viet Cong monsoon offensive which the military commanders predicted would be unleashed within the next two weeks.

Military sources said the Communists were lying low and licking their wounds after losing more than 7,500 killed and captured since their first big offensive of the monsoon season began in mid-May.

TEXAS AUTO INSURANCE IS STILL A NATIONAL BARGAIN

Even though the rates have been increased (effective August 1, 1965), your Texas automobile insurance is still one of the best buys in the United States. (Because of decreased Comprehensive rates, some policy holders will find that their total renewal premiums are less this year than last year!)

Texas ranks ...

- 1st in miles of highways
- 3rd in number of automobiles
- 5th in population
- 6th in number of licensed drivers

but only ...

36th in the average cost of auto insurance

What's more, while the nation's highest rate is 101% higher than Texas', the nation's lowest is only 34% lower than Texas'.

Price increases of any kind are never popular; but your Independent Insurance Agents ask you to remember these things:

1. People and their driving performance actually set auto insurance rates. When there are more accidents, more people killed and injured, higher repair costs, and increased medical expenses, it is inevitable that rates must go up.
2. You still pay less for your protection than do most American drivers, and
3. For the best insurance and service, see your INDEPENDENT INSURANCE AGENT.

Nicklaus Soars To Sensational Thunderbird Win

HARRISON, N. Y. (UPI)—Jack Nicklaus, $20,000 richer after his sensational 18-under-par victory in the Thunderbird Classic, soared almost out of sight today en route to his second straight year as the leading money winner in pro golf.

By hitting birdies on the last two holes, the 25-year-old Masters champion won $100,000 Thunderbird by two shots Sunday over U.S. Open champion Gary Player and hiked his official tournament winnings to $89,700 for the year.

Nicklaus had a closing 68 for 270 on the 6,373-yard, par-72 Westchester Country Club course and his total of 18 under for 72 holes was the biggest par-busting of the entire year on the pro circuit.

Jack was 17 under winning the Masters, Bob Charles finished 17 under winning at Tucson and Wes Ellis tied Bill Casper at 17 under at San Diego before winning a sudden death playoff.

Player, who gave away his $25,000 purse after winning the U.S. Open at St. Louis, pocketed $12,000 for his windup 71 for 272 in the Thunderbird after blowing his lead by three-putting the 15th.

Gardner Dickinson, with 67 for 275, finished third with PGA champion Bobby Nichols fourth at 276 and Bill Casper fifth with 277 after skidding to 74 on the last go-round. Casper moved to second on the money list with $4,500 for a $58,306 total.

Arnold Palmer totaled 280. Nicklaus and Player renew their rivalry in this week's Philadelphia Golf Classic and to battle Palmer on Arnie's home course in the PGA championship the following week.

Koufax Nearing 'K' Mark

By United Press International
Dandy Sandy is ahead of schedule so move over, Rapid Robert.

Barring injury or a flare up of his arthritic condition, Sandy Koufax seems assured of eclipsing the major league strikeout record set 19 years ago by Bob (Rapid Robert) Feller of the Cleveland Indians.

Koufax has fanned 241 this season for an average of 9.3 per game, and at that rate he should pass Feller's mark of 348 in one season. With a minimum of 14 starts remaining, Koufax would have to average slightly less than eight whiffs per game to set a record.

The invaluable Dodger lefty struck out 11 and drove in his own winning run for the third time this season as Los Angeles nipped St. Louis 3-2 Sunday and increased its National League lead to 1 1/2 games.

Cincinnati defeated Houston 6-4 then lost to the Astros 7-6, Milwaukee swept a doubleheader from San Francisco 4-2 and 6-3, Philadelphia clipped New York 3-2 and Pittsburgh beat Chicago twice, 8-2 and 3-1 in other NL games.

Wes Parker and Jim Lefebvre homered for the Dodgers, who only got three hits off loser Ray Sadecki. Koufax drove in the third run with a sacrifice fly after a single and an error in the seventh. The victory was the 18th for Koufax against four losses.

Joe Gaines singled in the ninth inning after safeties by Bob Lillis and Ron Brand to drive in the winning run for the Astros in the nightcap. Pete Rose and Tony Perez each hit two-run homers in the opener for Cincinnati.

Tony Cloninger won his 14th game and Wade Blasingame recorded his 12th victory with route-going performances for the Braves.

Johnny Callison hit a two-run homer to tie Willie Mays of the Giants for the major league lead in that department with 24. Jim Bunning won his 12th.

Soviets Outclass Yank Track Team

KIEV, U. S. S. R. (UPI)—Russian track coach Gabriel Korobkov may never get over the humiliation his countrymen cast on him last year by his team's dismal failings, but now he can hold his head high again.

Korobkov, criticized publicly on a number of occasions last year when his team lost badly to the United States in California and later at the Tokyo Olympics, watched proudly this weekend as his team outclassed a U. S. squad to win a dual meet 118-112 and become the first Russian team to defeat the United States in the seven-year history of the event.

The Russian women won as expected for the seventh straight year, 63 1/2-43 1/2, but the men's victory came as a surprise.

The victory was a story of upsets by the Russian athletes competing with Pyotr Bolotnikov's triumph over American Bob Schul in the 5,000-meter run. Bolotnikov's victory over the Dayton, Ohio, Olympic champion came on the final day and was the hardest blow to befall the Americans.

The United States, despite suffering some stirring upsets on the first day, entered Sunday's competition with a slim 58-57 lead. The Yanks, however, were able to win only five of 11 events and had to struggle at the end just to keep the margin of their loss respectable.

A lack of depth probably cost the United States the victory. The Russians took valuable second and third place points in events normally considered American strongholds. They finished second and third in the 200 and also grabbed off a second in the 400-meter hurdles.

United States in the American Zone finals.

Osuna and Palafox combined to whip Dennis Ralston and Ham Richardson and narrow the American lead in the zone finals to 2-1.

Both of the Mexicans need to win today in order to advance in the Davis Cup eliminations. A win for the United States in either of the two singles on today's schedule puts America a step closer to a return match with Australia and its young stars, Roy Emerson and Fred Stolle.

Arthur Ashe Jr., who shocked Mexican ace Osuna in straight sets Saturday, was paired against Palafox, Mexico's No. 2 man, in today's first match. Ralston, who beat Palafox the first day in straight sets, was scheduled to meet Osuna in the second singles match.

The winner of the American Zone moves to Barcelona, Spain to battle the European Zone champion. The victor there plays the Asian Zone winner for a crack at Australia.

The chunky Palafox was the star of Sunday's doubles match won by Mexico 6-6, 6-4, 7-5. The 26-year-old jack-in-the-box constantly boomed in his serve and kept the U.S. team off-balance with excellent volleys and net play.

Mexican Doubles Duo Rolls Over Americans

DALLAS (UPI)—Mexico's hopes of Davis Cup glory today rested on the fast feet of Antonio Palafox and Rafael Osuna, the same duo who kept their team in the game Sunday with a doubles victory over the

Powell Befuddles Mele Beats Twins With Homer

By United Press International
Sam Mele is Boog Powell's special pigeon.

Powell, the hefty muscle boy of the Baltimore Orioles is experiencing the worst of his four major league seasons this year at the plate. But he still has Mele, the Minnesota Twins manager, fooled.

The general "book" on the 230-pound outfielder-first baseman is that he faints at the sight of a left-handed pitcher. Opposing managers gleefully parade their southpaws in front of the left-handed swinger with out much fear of reprisal from Powell.

The theory has worked for everyone — except Mele. Twice in the last 10 days the Minnesota skipper has brought in a left-hander to face Powell and twice the 23-year-old slugger has belted a game-winning homer.

Baltimore was trailing the American League leaders 6-4 with one out in the ninth inning Sunday when Powell unloaded a three-run homer off lefty Dick Stigman to win the game for the Orioles 7-6.

Indians Split
Cleveland tripped New York 4-1 in the nightcap of a doubleheader after the Yankees had won the opener 10-6. Detroit tripped Chicago 2-1 following the White Sox 1-0 white wash of the Tigers in the first game. Washington beat Kansas City 3-2 in the opener then lost to the A's by the same score and Los Angeles edged Boston 5-4

Cleveland's Sam McDowell belted a three-hit, strudel cut 11 and retired the last 20 Yankees in order for the Indians' nightcap triumph. He leads the AL with 201 strikeouts. Joe Penitente, Roger Repoz and Clete Boyer homered to rally New York from a 5-1 deficit in the opener.

Second baseman Don Buford's error with two out in the ninth inning enabled the Tigers to score the winning run in the nightcap of a doubleheader at Chicago. Both White Sox pitchers went the distance in the doubleheader, a feat Chicago hurlers had managed only twice in 50 previous games.

Jose Cardenal singled in the winning run for Los Angeles with two out in the 11th. Bobby Knoop accounted for three Angel runs with a home run and a two-run triple.

Santiago Rosario delivered a two-out pinch single in the sixth to drive in the winning tally for the Athletics in the nightcap of loser Phil Ortega (11-10). Frank Howard's two-run double and seven-hit pitching by Pete Richert decided the opener in favor of Washington.

SOUTH ORANGE, N. J. (UPI)—Fred Stolle, the new Eastern Grass Court tennis champion and the only man who can take the measure of Roy Emerson with any degree of consistency, nevertheless predicted today his Australian Davis Cup partner will win the U. S. Nationals.

Stolle, ranked second in the world amateur listings, defeated top-ranked Emerson for the fourth time this year, 6-3, 2-6, 6-4, 6-4. Sunday in the men's single final of the Eastern Grass Court championships.

Billie Jean Moffitt, Long Beach, Calif., the top seed, made a successful defense of her women's crown when she beat third-seeded Jean Albert, Pebble Beach, Calif., 7-5, 6-3.

Stolle said that Emerson still was the No. 1 player between them and listed him as the best bet to win the U. S. Nationals for the second straight year at Forest Hills, N. Y., next month.

Any Volunteers?

Frankly, we don't expect to see any great rush of volunteers in response to efforts of pro-Communist agitators to recruit an American brigade to join the enemy Communist Viet Cong in Viet Nam. A few, perhaps, may travel there to do fatigues and ammunition bandoliers and pose for propaganda pictures. But, by and large, the participants in "teach-ins" and "peace rallies" who clamor so loudly for US withdrawal from Viet Nam simply don't strike us as the type prepared to demonstrate their purported convictions in a manner which would require a real sacrifice or danger to themselves.

Sit-ins, lie-ins and picketing are, after all, quite safe activities; the political powers-that-be can be counted on to order the police and possibly even the US Army to run interference for you. And should those same forces be directed to carefully remove you, you can always make a fuss, kick and bite and scream "police brutality."

But, actually to risk one's life for his cause —? Well, that's asking a bit too much of the general run of campus carpers and professional demonstrators. Witness the report recently that 10,000 participants at a University of California teach-in gave a standing ovation to a speaker who called upon "young American men and women to go and actively join" the Viet Cong in combat against American and Vietnamese troops.

We haven't heard of any of that 10,000 actually doing that which they so lustily applauded. Even so, Communist recruitment of American beatniks is not something to be taken lightly. Precisely because of their moral degeneracy and physical cowardice, these types are ideally suited to another Communist purpose — terrorist bombings and sabotage. These are now commonplace events in South Viet Nam, and altogether too commonplace here at home. Our newspapers testify to that. And official police reports document that, at an encampment in Michigan last May, an organization called "Students for a Democratic Society" gave training in the making of "Molotov Cocktails and other small explosives."

It's high time that the administration puts a stop to this recruitment and training program. Student pranks and steam-letting are one thing. But Molotov Cocktails are a bit too heady.

An Army of Social Workers

As if they hadn't enough problems with regard to that real, shooting war in Viet Nam, civilian officials in the Departments of Defense and Army seem bent on injecting themselves into the against poverty, ignorance and disease. The latest step by Mr. McNamara and his grey-flannel field marshals into their Commander-in-Chief's sociological crusades is called exactly that: Step — an abbreviation for "Special Training and Enlistment Program."

The avowed purpose of this special program is "to make use of those volunteers for enlistment whose mental or physical qualifications do not meet the Army's present minimum standards for enlistment." It would involve giving such recruits an extended period of basic training, including special instructions in basic educational subjects to bring them up to the minimal mental qualifications.

The House Committee on Appropriations took a somewhat dim view of this "step" by the Defense Department, noting that it "appears to duplicate, in part at least, training proposed to be provided by the Job Corps." Also, its report stated that "the Committee has some doubts with respect to the potential success of the step program."

Nonetheless, the majority of the Committee let the Step proposal ride along in Defense Appropriations, to the tune of $24.2 million. We're inclined to agree with the three dissenting members of the Committee — Lipscomb of California, Laird of Wisconsin, and Minshall of Ohio — who proposed that the funds which had been requested for the Step program should be retained in the budget, for use in such places as Viet Nam, but the Step program itself should be abandoned posthaste.

The Army's mission in national defense, for which purpose it needs men of competence and initiative, not "marginal" recruits who must be mollycoddled up to minimal qualifications is precisely that: national defense.

If Mr. McNamara prefers social work in place of meeting the responsibilities of his present office, we suggest that he should resign. We expect that Mr. Shriver could arrange a new position for him in the Job Corps, probably with no great reduction in pay.

But How Long Can It Last?

Let's say you are making more money this year than ever before. (It's a happy thought, anyway.)

If ever you have had it good, it's now. But to live the way you want to live, you are borrowing money hand over fist.

The debts are piling up something awful, and every once in a while you have the horrible thought that maybe you should pull back a little and live within your income. Especially since you can remember the time you thought if you ever made this kind of dough you'd be laying away money like crazy.

But the people you think ought to know about such things tell you that the only way to keep the economy going is to live it up, even if you have to spend more than you make.

This is called deficit spending, which sounds much nicer than saying you're up to your ears in debt.

But somehow you have this nagging feeling that if you keep on putting out more than you take in, there'll come a day when something will go bust — namely you.

Then how can the government do it?

And if Uncle Sam really has found out something about economics that his nieces and nephews don't know, how about cutting us in on it so we can have fun, too?

And don't forget, Uncle, to explain this new system to our creditors. You've no idea how old-fashioned some of them can be!

AIDING OUR ENEMIES

Egypt's Nasser is asking half a billion dollars in aid over the next three years plus free wheat. He backs up his request by burning our library and telling us to drink sea water. Such blackmail measures having proved successful in the past, Nasser is of course encouraged to continue using them.

Dictator Sukarno of Indonesia "To hell with American aid," seizes the property of our citizens and wages war against our friend and ally Malaysia, but nevertheless, 26 Indonesian military officers are continuing their training in our country. These Indonesians are studying the science of military intelligence, how to fly multiple engine planes and many technical matters related to the waging of modern war. Only foggy bottom can explain why we go to the expense of training officers who will no doubt soon be directing Sukarno's campaign to throw America out of Asia. If he doesn't succeed, it won't be our fault. We have given him nearly a billion dollars worth of aid and for a long time, and still continuing we are training officers for him.

Aiding our enemies in the hope of converting them into friends has long since proved to be a futile policy. We have followed this disastrous course far too long. Foreign aid should be confined to those who will stand with us.

At the close of last year our American dollar was worth just 44.8 cents as compared with the dollar of 1939. During that quarter century the budget was balanced only six times and our Federal indebtedness increased from $45.98 billion to $312.52 billion. During the 25 year period, interest on the public debt increased from $941 million to $10,666 billion per year. Since both the budget and the deficits are growing larger, is there any reason to believe that further erosion in the purchasing power of the dollar can be avoided? On the contrary, history tells us that inflation proceeds at an accelerating rate.

Unless remedial changes are made, that is, balanced budgets, surpluses rather than deficits and debt reduction, it is conservative to expect that with the passing of another quarter of century the dollar will be down to some 10 or 15 per cent of its 1939 purchasing power.

During the past fiscal year, total government spending per family, local, state, and federal is estimated at $3,909.00. Total taxes per family is estimated at $2,600.00. This leaves a deficit of $700.00. Accumulated deficits to date have built up a total per family debt of $6,782.00.

Congressman Frank Bow calls our attention to the fact that interest on the federal debt is now costing the American people $22,000 per minute. As the deficits pile up from year to year, the cost of debt service goes right on increasing. The only hope of the future and the only fiscal safety lies in a resolute decision on the part of the American people to limit federal expenditures to federal income.

War-time Office of Censorship Already Set Up, Key Personnel Selected, Training Started — OEP Document

ROBERT ALLEN

WASHINGTON — Comprehensive measures for the establishment and operation of a war-time Office of Censorship already are in existence.

Key personnel for this censorship agency have been selected, and training conferences have been held. Also, the scope and activities of the unit have been spelled out in detail in a carefully prepared document approved by the Defense Department and Office of Emergency Planning.

The OEP is headed by Buford Ellington, former governor of Tennessee and close friend of President Johnson.

This significant development is disclosed in an OEP report to the Joint Congressional Committee on Defense Production, headed by Senator A. Willis Robertson, D-Va. As summarized in an unnoticed committee publication, the report is as follows:

"A censorship agency has been developed to the point of maintenance. The executive reserve unit for censorship was increased to 24 by the recruitment of 10 new members. A two-day training conference for the censorship unit of the national defense executive reserve was conducted in May.

"An Office of Censorship basic plan was approved and published. This document states the mission of wartime censorship, planning assumptions, and operating policy.

"A revised agreement on censorship planning between the Department of Defense and OEP was issued. This agreement delineates the responsibility of the agencies in planning for, activating and operating the wartime Office of Censorship."

The nature and substance of the reportedly published "basic plan of the Office of Censorship" are apparently unknown to the Joint Committee. Members stated they have never seen it, know nothing about it, OEP officials were uncooperative in making it available, saying it was in the hands of a colonel who was out of town.

In addition to the ready-and-waiting censorship unit, the President also can immediate-duce, nor did my widely-scattered farms in that area.

I was reminded of one of my Arkansas superintendents who had been a fishing-tool specialist in oil fields all over the world. Returning to his mother's farm 5 miles west of the Joiner discovery well of the great East Texas field, in making that boom, he took a lease on it to drill an exploratory extension well. It produced, gushing through the top of the wooden derrick. He was thought to have become rich overnight.

Before it was practical that a pipeline be laid to take oil from his extension well, he unexpectedly developed pneumonia and I was astonished to learn of his death.

I was impressed that this could happen to a gay, free-lance oil field worker as a result of good fortune.

The Nation's Press

BREADBASKETS AND GARAGES

The people of our country have read so much about integration and racial difficulties in the southern states that news about the growth and progress of that area has been lost in a fog of civil strife. Reports of crime and violence have blacked out public understanding of the vast amount of progress that is being made along constructive lines.

The annual report of The Southern Co. of Atlanta, Ga., one of the major investor-owned electric utilities of the U. S., shows the other side of the picture. Its principal service area is Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi and a small part of Florida.

It serves directly 1,749,139 customers. Its construction expenditures in 1964 totaled $191 million, and in 1965 such expenditures are expected to reach $221 million. During the three-year period 1965 through 1967, the company expects to spend some $675 million for construction of generating plant and facilities to meet the growing needs of the area it serves.

Announcements during 1965 showed 213 large new manufacturing plants and 232 major plant expansions in its service area involving $572 million and ultimately jobs for more than 30,000 men and women.

Such a record of progress doesn't make the headlines like a controversy over seats in a restaurant, but the Southern Company provides jobs for 13,000 people whose wages enable them to patronize the restaurants and business establishments in four southern states. In addition, the company paid to the treasuries of the federal state and local governments in 1964 some $75 million in taxes and for the first time the company's consolidated net income exceeded $60 million.

This is no isolated example. While civil affairs are being ironed out, similar records of progress and employment are being made by private enterprise throughout the South and in other parts of the nation. They keep the breadbaskets and the garages full.

If the accomplishments of taxpaying enterprise were played up as much as discord, ours would be a happier and even more prosperous land.

FOREIGN FLASHES — Cuban dictator Fidel Castro is again hustling large numbers of "volunteer" workers into the sugarcane fields. With this year's crop harvested, the "volunteers" are now being put to weeding the fields. This work, in effect, amounts to forced labor as the "volunteers" get no pay. They consist mainly of students and factory workers pressured into "volunteer" cadres. . . . Bolivia has canceled a contract with satellite Czechoslovakia for construction of a large antimony processing plant. . . . The Colombian Public Works Ministry has launched a 112-million-peso-a-year road-building program this year. It will include numerous secondary roads and improvement of existing highways. The national government will put up 64 million pesos, and local authorities the balance.

Pull Up A Chair

By Frank Markey

Two years ago a Massachusetts housewife decided to help her husband improve his golf game by inventing a putting rug. A major-rug manufacturer patented her idea and now offers for sale 9x12-foot green carpets with nine holes, which can be filled with plugs when the rug is to be used as a regular floor covering. Just the thing to keep a golfing addict husband around the house. . . . We'll bet you never knew that most of the seedless raisins produced in this country grow in the San Joaquin Valley of California, or that it takes four pounds of grapes to make one pound of raisins. . . . A Minnesota reader asks if the elder Henry Ford gave his first Model-T a road test. Yes, when he built his first car in 1896 Ford drove it around the streets of Detroit after dark in a successful trial run. . . . Another reader in Illinois asks if we ever heard of a civet cat. We had never heard of one, but learned the term referred to an Old World carnivorous animal, similar to the mongoose.

Today's smile: A druggist who resisted installing a lunch counter for years finally weakened and installed one. A few weeks later he met a friend who asked if it helped his business. "Well," he replied, "in three weeks it doubled our sales of indigestion tablets."

Now that the British government has adopted the metric system, the United States finds itself in the position of being one of the few countries left in the world that operates on the medieval British system of weights and measures using quarts, pounds and inches. Odd, isn't it?

Thoughts while shaving: Politicians have always been able to find something new to tax. When they needed some extra cash 100 years ago in Virginia, they decided to soak the rich by slapping a $30 tax on bath-tubs. . . . A half-century ago only one pair of silk stockings was sold for every 2000 inhabitants, but in this day and age every gal has at least a dozen pairs of nylon. . . . A Louisiana reader asks us to name two top "names" in English literature who were born in India. It took some diggings, but we'll nominate William Makepeace Thackeray and Rudyard Kipling. . . . There are more than 100 different brands of imported beer sold in this country, but Americans seem to like the native brews better. The foreign brands account for less than two per cent of the total malt beverages sold here. . . . During the first half-century of this nation, the only Presidents who failed re-election for second term were John Adams, the second President, and his son, John Quincy Adams, the sixth chief executive. . . . If you're ever required to fill in a 16-letter word in a crossword puzzle defining the study of annual growth rings of trees, don't give up easily. The word is "dendrochronology." . . . And scientists who make such study a lifetime career are "dendrochronologists." . . . The Hartford (Conn.) TIMES headlined a story: "Stare, Stare, Whistler's Mother Doesn't Care." She's used to it now.

Country Editor speaking: "Some men believe they are gentlemen just because they prefer blondes."

There are some men now working in the Pentagon on ways to shake out the rigidity in the Vietnamese army system that effectively bars the use of these men. But don't count on a quick solution.

Wall Street In Review

NEW YORK (UPI) — Wright Investors' Service says it would continue to hold quality common stocks and to buy selectively issues which are currently undervalued.

The firm says it expects higher prices to prevail this summer and at the end of 1965.

Edward A. Viner & Co. says that by Labor Day the present tug of war between the bulls and the bears will have been resolved in favor of one or the other. Meanwhile, the firm says, it expects the market to make little progress in either direction but to be characterized by erratic, sharp and short moves in both.

Newton D. Zinder of E. F. Hutton & Co. says a significant technical development may be taking place in the constructive action of the rail index in relation to industrials and utilities.

Bache & Co. says it believes the near-term line of least resistance is now upward but that it would not lose sight of the need for quality holdings at this time.

Television In Review

By ROBERT MUSEL
United Press International

MIAMI (UPI)—Jackie Gleason rolled into Miami by special train to a civic reception complete with brass bands and a mayoral banquet after a thoughtful night of considering his television image in what may be the critical year for him.

The hands and the greetings of Miami Beach Mayor Elliot Roosevelt were a thank you for using this resort city as the production center for his "American Scene Magazine" and upping the tourist trade a notch or two.

But before the dignitaries gathered at the Doral Beach Hotel Jackie spent an unusually contemplative hour as dawn pinked the sky considering the battle he faces to stay high in the ratings with a black and white show at a time when color is gaining more influence every day.

No Color Facilities
"They say you can pick up five points if you go into color," Gleason said. "But although Miami is the best place in the world for a television production—and I'm not thinking only of golf for once—it doesn't have facilities for color. Three or four other shows would originate there if it did."

"Does that mean your show has to be five points better than the opposition?"
"Naturally," Jackie grinned. "It will be."

Gleason's hour long program, which premieres on the CBS-TV network Sept. 18 is opposed by two shows in color, "Flipper" (on NBC) and "The King Family" (on ABC).

"You might say," he added, "that I expressed a little confidence in the future by buying a new house here"—a $100,000 affair—strategically sited on the edge of a golf course.

Gleason said he was not significantly changing the format of his program. Frank Fontaine will break in a new character named Fred Frump. George Jessel is engaged on a talent hunt in 13 cities and will introduce the new star material he hopes to uncover. Otherwise there will be sketches, monologues, songs and dances as usual.

"Of course," Gleason said. "We may bomb. You can never tell until you're up there in front of the cameras. We're going to use money acts again. Flipper gets the kids using a dolphin so why shouldn't we use monkeys — and the two biggest monkeys are me and Fontaine."

Surprised At Return
Miami Beach is frankly surprised to find Jackie back again. He says he knows people were saying he would be bored with it after one season.

"But I will never televise again from New York or Hollywood," he said. "The people there are too saturated. Here they start laughing when you leave the house for the studio. Anyhow, since no one knows what may happen I am going to produce three television shows myself this year, but the ideas are still secret."

And I'm going to do a movie, "The Odd Couple" called Frank Sinatra. Frank called the other day and asked if I would like to do it. I said yes, and he said "Okay, I'll get my people to get in touch with you." I'll be playing the role Art Carney is doing on Broadway.

"Carney is the best comedian in the world — it isn't easy for a guy with my ego to say that."

FOWL CHASE
FRESNO, Calif. (UPI) — Police officers in Fresno and Madera did the turkey trot and the chicken chase.

The highway patrol dispatched men in hot pursuit of a flock of turkeys after a turkey truck and a lumber truck collided near here.

A few hours earlier, officers in Madera rounded up several hundred chickens which were freed when a truck ran off a highway 99 and struck a tree limb.

Foreign Commentary

By WALTER LOGAN
United Press International

Poor Outlook:
Few observers at the 17 nation disarmament conference in Geneva believe that anything concrete will come from the hastily convened meeting. At best, the conference' participants will go on talking across the conference table until early September when they will adjourn or report to the U. N. General Assembly. At worst, the Russians will pull out sooner, after some inconclusive discussion with the Americans.

Press conference:
President Charles de Gaulle will spend considerable time during his August vacation at Colombey-les-Deux-Eglises preparing for his Sept. 9 new conference. It is expected to deal mainly with Viet Nam, the European Common Market crisis and other foreign policy problems. He also will give much thought to his final decision — expected late in October — on whether to run for a second term in December.

Show Trial:
A public show trial for former Algerian strong man President Ahmed Ben Bella now seems unlikely any time in the near future — if at all. Officials say it would be too risky politically, but the Algerian government is preparing a "white book" against him. Meanwhile he is reported held under strong army guard in or near Algiers itself. There is nothing in Algerian law to force the government to bring Ben Bella to trial or even to bring charges against him. He can be held indefinitely without either.

Year-end Talks:
French officials see little prospect of resumption of talks on the European Common Market crisis before the year's end. They note that Premier Georges Pompidou was quite intransigent in a July 27 television interview. They say DeGaulle considers further discussions — out of the question until after the September parliamentary elections in West Germany and the December presidential race in France.

Financial Gossip

By JESSE BOGLE
UPI Financial Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) In the United States today, one of his dealers recently told Malcolm A. Freshney, you cannot sell austerly.

People, the dealer said, are looking for "just a little more." Freshney is managing director of Rootes Motors, Inc., in the United States, and his job is to sell imported cars. The prospect doesn't daunt him despite the tremendous output of the auto giants in this country. Like every sales executive for a foreign motor car maker, he sees a chance to get a bigger share of the import market for his own car.

Rootes sold 5,572 cars here in 1963; 7,167 in 1964; in the first five months of 1965, sales were up 41 per cent over sales for the corresponding period of the previous year.
