GIFT — The copy machine in the foreground was presented to Lovett Memorial Library by C. P. Buckler, right, in memory of the late Mrs. Buckler. Looking over a reproduction of a page with Buckler is head librarian, Carolyn Spidell. The machine will copy the page from a book or a magazine. Library officials hope its use will cut down on the number of pages and articles being torn out of books and magazines at the library. A copy from any book or magazine may be obtained from the librarian on request and only a small fee is charged.

2,000 Red Troops Escape US, Viet Trap

Johnson Sleeps; Still Uncomfortable

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson had a "good night's sleep," but continued to experience mild discomfort from his gall bladder operation and kept his schedule free of official callers.

On the fifth day of his convalescence from the surgery, the President was under doctors' orders to follow a take-it-easy routine to speed his recuperation.

White House Press Secretary Bill D. Moyers, in a statement to newsmen about 5:30 a.m. CST, indicated that the President continued to improve in his suite at Bethesda Naval Hospital. Moyers said:

"The President had a good night's sleep. He awoke at 4 a.m. this morning. He continues to experience, as per expected, mild discomfort. He is no longer getting intravenous feeding. He walked unassisted."

Johnson spent more than an hour late Monday afternoon with Secretary of State Dean Rusk. The secretary reported on crises in Indonesia and Rhodesia and other foreign policy matters.

Rusk also had a pleasant surprise: Get-well greetings from the top rulers of the Soviet Union relayed through Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin.

The President was wished a speedy recovery by Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin, Soviet President. Anastas I. Mikoyan and Leonid I. Brezhnev, secretary of the Soviet Communist party.

After a 45-minute conference Monday morning with Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, Johnson spent most of the day resting and taking naps. The White House said Sunday night and the early hours of Monday morning were the most uncomfortable he has had since the operation.

Reds Receive Word To Leave Valley Post

SOUT LA TINH VALLEY, Viet Nam (UPI) — More than 2,000 Communist troops today escaped a trap laid by the biggest joint American-Vietnamese operation of the war.

As the Americans and Vietnamese closed the trap on this strategic valley 25 miles northeast of An Khe, the few captured prisoners revealed that the elusive Communist regiment had pulled out.

The prisoners said the North Vietnamese "Song Lo" Regiment received orders to withdraw from the valley on Saturday, the day before "Operation Shining Bayonet" was launched by the U.S. Army's 1st Cavalry Division and Vietnamese soldiers.

The move into the valley in the central highlands, 280 miles northeast of Saigon, was launched on reports that up to five Communist battalions were massed in the valley near the 1st Cavalry's base.

The prisoners indicated Viet Cong Intelligence knew of the operation in advance and the regiment was ordered to move north and west into the thickly wooded mountains. It left behind only a scattering of snipers for harassment and observation purposes.

Thus far, 16 Viet Cong were known killed and 60 more were estimated to have died in air and artillery attacks. Nine prisoners were taken and 40 suspects detained.

The American "Flying Horsemen" discovered a Viet Cong training camp today and a deserted 50-bed hospital with American made medical supplies.

They also captured a Viet Cong workshop containing four new American sewing machines and about 100 new Viet Cong uniforms.

U.S. and Vietnamese casualties were described as light. An American spokesman in Saigon disclosed that two U.S. planes were downed Monday, one on a raid against Communist North Viet Nam and the other while supporting ground forces 240 miles northeast of Saigon.

Both pilots managed to bail out successfully and both were rescued unhurt by U.S. helicopter crews, the spokesman said.

U.S. B52 jet bombers attacked a Communist supply area today on the fringes of the Viet Cong "Iron Triangle" 20 miles north-west of Saigon. U.S. paratroopers are engaged in an offensive to clear the once-impregnable stronghold.

The "Iron Triangle" campaign was launched last Friday by thousands of troops of the 173rd U.S. Airborne Brigade and the South Vietnamese army. It claimed 63 known Viet Cong dead, but it did not live up to the pre-battle expectations of American military commanders.

Matson To Try Basketball for Aggies This Year

COLLEGE STATION (UPI) —Randy Matson, the world champion shotputter from Texas A&M, will play basketball this winter for the Aggies. The Dallas Morning News said today.

The 6-6½, 255-pound star from Pampa was an all-state-cager in high school and led his team to the district championship.

"Well, I just hope I can make the team," the News quoted Matson as saying. "I will try to, anyway. I just wanted to try it again."

He weighs about 40 pounds more than he did at Pampa High School, and whether he is as agile now as when is his main concern.

"I just started shooting some today," he said Tuesday. "I can't really tell, but I don't think track has hurt me in regard to basketball," he said.

"I've been off two years and that part will hurt."

Former Pampan Dies in Car-Bus Collision Monday

A farmer near White Deer and former Pampan used car salesman was killed early yesterday in a car-bus collision near Sherman.

The victim, John Williams, 50, swerved into the path of a bus and was apparently killed instantly, investigators said.

Williams moved from Pampan about one year ago and resided on a farm southwest of White Deer.

Investigators said he was alone in his car when the accident occurred. No one on the bus was injured.

City Hall Rule Book Up for Council Study

A revised edition of Rules and Regulations for City Employees will be studied by city commissioners this week and is scheduled for adoption at a special meeting of the commission at 8:30 a.m. next Tuesday.

City Manager Jim White told the commission at its meeting today that the rules revision had been completed and copies will be given to the mayor and each commissioner tomorrow.

White said the commissioners would have a week to study the regulations and any changes or corrections could be made at next Tuesday's council session.

Unless there are wholesale changes suggested by the commission, it is likely the revamped rules and regulations governing all city employees will be adopted at the Tuesday meeting.

The current book of rules was adopted in the mid-50s and City Manager White said it has been brought up to date.

Other business transacted at today's commission meeting included:

First reading of an ordinance (See CITY HALL, Page 3)

Highway Advisory Group Preparing Report to Council

Pampa's Advisory Group on Highway Development wound up its deliberations at a meeting in City Hall last night and named a three-man committee to draw up a report and make recommendations to the City Commission.

Following final discussions on improvements for U.S. 60, SH 152 and SH 273, Chairman Fred Thompson named Paul Crouch, Crawford Atkinson and Jack Vaughn to compile the committee's report to the city council.

City Manager Jim White said today the report will be discussed and made ready for filing at a breakfast meeting of the entire committee in the near future.

Date of the breakfast meeting, White said, depends upon completion of the three-man report on committee findings.

The Advisory Committee on Thoroughfare and Street Improvements, headed by Clinton Evans, has scheduled a meeting for 7:30 p.m. today in City Hall.

Mrs. Florence Anderson has been named acting principal of St. Matthews Day School.

Refugees Intercepted By U.S. Coast Guard

KEY WEST, Fla. (UPI)—Twenty-three more Cuban refugees, sailing north from their Communist island to freedom in two small boats, were intercepted by the Coast Guard early today and headed here.

The group, which the Coast Guard said included several elderly persons, apparently had sailed from the port of Camarioca on Cuba's north coast.

Thousands were reported waiting at a giant refugee camp at Camarioca to come to the United States under Cuban Premier Fidel Castro's new "open door" policy to all who want to leave the island. The 23 headed for Key West early today would push to over 50 the number of Cubans who have fled in small craft since Castro gave the green light to malcontents with his Communist regime.

The Coast Guard said the boats were making slow progress under their own power and would probably not reach Key West until late this morning or early this afternoon.

Late Monday night, it appeared that the exodus of refugees from Cuba had stalled or that small boat skippers might have switched to blockade-running tactics to stay out of trouble with U.S. authorities.

Sanford Cole to the court bench and after a short conference announced that he was dismissing the action against Rathjen and Adams.

Prosecutor Jim Crow immediately filed for a motion for dismissal which was denied by Goodrich.

Suit Dismissed Against Rathjen

CANADIAN (Spl) — District Judge Lewis M. Goodrich dismissed the suit against Harry Rathjen and Walter Adams in a surprise move this morning after the defense attorney requested dismissal on grounds the statute of limitations made the suit illegal and also that it was never properly authorized by the Hemphill County Court.

Following the action by Goodrich, Crow indicated that he would appeal the ruling.

The action by the defense attorney Jack Allen of Perryton came moments after court was resumed today and Rathjen again took the stand.

Goodrich asked that the jury leave the court room. He then called the County Judge

CANADIAN (Spl) — Testifying in his own defense the former Hemphill County Sheriff told a jury of 12 persons yesterday that he bought two civil defense jeeps with his own money, repaired them out of his own pocket and then when the county indicated they didn't want the jeeps he sold them (See TESTIMONY, Page 3)

Writer Reviews Bold Army Career

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Pacific Stars and Stripes, a swinging newspaper published for the U.S. armed forces in the Far East, is celebrating its 20th anniversary this week. By coincidence, it also was 70 years ago this week that I was mustered out of the armed forces as probably the highest ranking technician-fifth grade (T-5) in the U.S. Army.

I suppose that many of the present readers of Stars and Stripes never even heard of that rank. The Army, in a typical humane gesture, dropped it sometime after World War II. I'm not sure why the rating isn't used any more, but I like to think the Army retired it in my honor. Anyone who remained T-5 for three years certainly deserves some kind of recognition. We T-5's ranked somewhere between a PFC and a Corporal. That may sound impossible, but it's true.

It may have been my distinguished military career that prompted the editors of Pacific S&S to invite me to contribute something to their special anniversary edition.

Unfortunately, the request arrived while I was on vacation and I did not return in time to meet the deadline. However, I would like to offer congratulations and to say that, apart from the disappearance of T-5's, the armed forces apparently haven't changed very much in the past 20 years.

I have before me now a recent Air Force directive that somehow seems hauntingly familiar. According to a publication in which it appears, some of the key points are as follows:

—Airmen must stop designing their own name tags. Tags of "various sizes, shapes, colors, title, grades, initials and crests" definitely are not regulation.

—Airmen must cease tapering the legs of uniform trousers "to conform to current civilian style trends."

—No chevrons on raincoats. It makes them leak. The Air Force "has determined that the need to identify an enlisted man's grade when he is wearing a raincoat is not as important as keeping the rain coat waterproof."

—After Oct. 15, the top button and buttonhole on shade 1505 shirt will be eliminated.

Rathjen, now Hemphill County postmaster, and Walter Adams, also former Hemphill County Sheriff, are on trial in Canadian in a civil suit to recover $1,050 the state alleges the two men received from the sale of the county jeeps.

First to take the stand yesterday was Adams. He testified that he signed an authorization for Rathjen to sell the jeeps, but stated he received no money from the sale.

Ray Dudley, owner of the Ray Dudley Motor Co., of Pampa, testified that he bought the jeeps from Rathjen for $1,050. Continuing his testimony, Rathjen, who was also Hemphill County Civil Defense director at the time he was sheriff, said he bought the two jeeps from the civil defense office in Lubbock with his money. He said when the jeeps were found not to be in running condition he repaired them with his own money.

Rathjen said the civil defense office would not sell the jeeps to private individuals so they were bought in the name of Hemphill County.

He also testified that when he left the office of county civil defense director he informed County Judge Sanford Cole of the jeeps and offered to sell them to the county for use in civil defense purposes. He said that the judge nor any of the county commissioners expressed a desire to buy the jeeps for the county.

Rathjen said in order to get his money out of the jeeps he sold them to Dudley.

Rathjen said yesterday, "I did not ask the county's permission to buy the jeeps and I didn't ask their permission to sell them."

Testimony in the trial was to continue today with Rathjen due to again take the stand.

Selected as jurors in the case were Floyd Morris, J. D. Besse, M. C. Morris, Mrs. E. H. Flinginim, Mrs. Walter Moore, Mrs. M. H. Smith, Jr., Mrs. N. M. Pyeatt, Marvin Longhooker, Arden Ramson, Revis Massey, A. S. Jackson and Elton Miller. Prosecutor for the state is County Attorney Jim Crow and defense attorney is Jack Allen of Perryton.

How easy is it to sell stock on the N.Y. Stock Exchange?

...4 guides to investing

The ambition to add a brighter hue to your financial picture may have led you to consider investing in stocks.

Your goal may range from an education for your children or retirement fund, to a trip around the world, to a second income that will help meet living expenses. And perhaps you have arrived at this practical question: "If I needed cash, how easily could I find a buyer for my stock?"

If your stock were listed on the New York Stock Exchange, it would usually be easy. For several reasons.

One is, of some 20 million investors, about 12 million own stocks listed on the Exchange. Some invest frequently, some rarely, but every day thousands of orders funnel into the market place in New York.

Recently, the number of U.S. investors has been growing by an average of 1 million a year.

But private individuals are not the only investors who might buy your stock. In addition, there are the important institutional investors—pension funds, banks, colleges, etc. Another group consists of members of the Exchange called Specialists. They often step into the picture and make a market when there are no other buyers or sellers at a price reasonably close to the last sale.

For the first eight months of this year, during an average trading day, more than 5,300,000 shares were bought and sold on the Exchange.

If investing figures in your plans, here are four guides to follow:

1. Make sure you've considered day-to-day expenses and a fund for emergencies. Remember, there is risk in every kind of investment.
2. Zero in on a specific goal. Dividends perhaps, or maybe growth in the value of your stock. Or the relative safety that bonds usually offer.
3. Get facts. Ask your member firm broker about a company's sales, earning trends and dividend record.
4. Ask him for his opinion. He has had to meet Exchange standards for knowledge of the securities business. While that doesn't mean he is necessarily right, maybe he can suggest a new approach.

Investing might help you to reach some long sought goal. That is why it is so important to know that there are right and wrong ways to go about it.

Applications are Being Taken For Exchange Student Program

Applications from Pampa High School students desiring to become exchange students to other countries during the summer and the 1966-67 school year are being accepted by the American Field Service.

Miss Mary D. Dozier, Pampa High School faculty coordinator of the Americans Abroad Program of the AFS, said application from students for both the summer or school-year program should be completed and turned in to her by Friday.

Two students will be selected according to Miss Dozier. One student to go to a foreign country for the 1966-67 school year and one to spend 10 weeks during the summer.

Interviews of students applying will be held Monday by the Pampa American Field Service Committee. The final selections will be made Oct. 22.

Students selected may spend the summer or school year with a family in Africa, Asia, Europe, Latin America and the Middle East. The country to which the student will spend the summer will be chosen later this year.

Miss Dozier said a candidate must be a junior and at least 16 years of age by June 30, 1966. The student must have had two years of foreign language by June of 1966 and show potential for learning a new language and must be considered a strong student by his teachers and have a strong academic background.

The student must also be a citizen of the United States and also in excellent health, she said.

The announcement of what country the students selected will go to will be announced at a later date, Miss Dozier said.

Dear Abby....

Extra Sets of Teeth Not To Be Snapped At

DEAR ABBY: My grandfather cut his third set of teeth when he was 96 years old. He was 101 when he died and he had a fine set of teeth, which he took to his grave. His name was Andrew Simmons, and he was written up in "Believe it Or Not" by Ripley.

M. Mc.

DEAR ABBY: My cousin had three sets of teeth. When his baby teeth didn't come in, his mother took him to a dentist. The dentist took a full mouth X-ray and discovered that the kid had three sets of teeth! The dentist pulled the first after they grew in. Then he pulled the second set. The third didn't come in for a long time, so he gave the kid a set of false choppers until his permanent teeth grew in, which they did.

HEMET, CALIFORNIA

DEAR ABBY: You were wrong when you said a person could have only two full sets of natural teeth. I know a woman who was born with a full set of teeth. Of course, she lost them all and then her first set of teeth came in. When she lost them her second set came in, and as far as I know she still has them all and she is in her fifties.

CLARA IN DEL MAR

DEAR CLARA: I have heard of babies being born with "a few" teeth. (In fact, I was born with one.) But nowhere in dental history is there a record of a baby having been born with a full set of teeth. Either your friend was misinformed or she exaggerated.

Problems? Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Hate to write letters? Send one dollar to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

Sincerely yours,
 MRS. R. G. M.

DEAR ABBY: In reference to a person having three sets of teeth, and your stating that it could not be so, I have lost several permanent teeth since my teens and with each extraction another tooth has always grown in as a replacement. This matter has been discussed with several dentists, and they stated that there are a few cases on record where a person has "three" tooth buds. In each case they have found that the next to the oldest child (or in some cases, it skips several

BIG PLANS
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Committee of American Steamship Lines says major shipping companies plan construction of 129 new vessels in the next five years which could boost the prestige of America's merchant marine.

According to the committee, the companies have submitted a $1.6 billion construction program to the maritime administration. It would stimulate shipyard employment and the economy of related industries, the committee said.

"If carried out," the committee said, "it should reverse the downward trend which the U.S. merchant marine has followed since the Korean War."

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bradbury K. Thurlow of Winslow, Cohn & Stetson Inc., says that, if his guess is correct and much of the next strong buying in stocks comes from institutions, it follows that there should be a noticeable improvement in demand for better quality cyclical issues.

Thomson & McKinnon says that from present levels any further progress in better quality issues would seem more difficult. However, the firm says, continued emphasis on capital growth at a reasonable price should be judiciously pursued. Bache & Co. says it would continue to be alert for value

Salesmen Presented To Buyer in Many Forms

By HARRY FERGUSON
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The average adult American spends 57 minutes a day paying heed to somebody who wants to sell him something.

That does not mean he is talking with salesmen for 57 minutes. Part of it is spent in front of a television set watching a knight on a white horse eradicate grease and grime stains with the point of his lance and also absorbing the information the Mr. Clean, once an amiable fellow, has turned mean because he hates dirt so much.

Part of it is reading a newspaper, looking through a magazine, answering a phone call from a dance studio offering bargain rates for lessons, riding down a super highway and scanning a billboard, opening mail addressed "occupant," seeing a vending machine and remembering you need cigarettes.

But these are indirect attempts to persuade us to spend money. There are 4.5 million persons in this country engaged in direct selling. They are the best salesmen in the world and they can truthfully claim that they are partly responsible for the high standard of living in the United States. They convince us we should buy something and if we don't have the money they arrange for us to purchase it on the installment plan. In the middle of last year installment credit stood at $55.3 million—a massive tribute to the talent of the American salesman.

Cheered and Jeered
For the last 45 years he has been both jeered and cheered. Sinclair Lewis wrote a book about a dull fellow who could talk about nothing except business and selling and the word

"Babbit" became a permanent part of the American language. But Bruce Barton also wrote a book — "The Man Nobody Knows" in which he depicted Jesus Christ as an outgoing personality, a popular dinner guest and a man who would approve of the American salesman. The battle was joined and the controversy has been raging ever since.

There is no question that a high powered salesman hits the financial jackpot with regularity. The Council on Opportunities in Selling, Inc., traced the backgrounds of presidents of corporations with sales exceeding $500 million yearly. The largest group among the presidents, 27 per cent, had started out as salesmen.

So how do you start out? A vast amount of literature has been written on the subject, but for our purposes we choose "How to Sell Your Way Into the Big Money" by Vincent F. Sullivan, an eminently successful salesman. More than most writers on the subject he gets down to specific details and deals with matters such as sex in business, that other authors shy away from.

Must Have Wardrobe
Sullivan is frank in saying that big money is the goal and he wants every salesman to have "two homes, two Cadillacs and belong to two country clubs." But to get money you have to spend money, and Sullivan's advice to a salesman earning $125 a week is to assemble the following wardrobe:

"Oxford gray suit, $95 at minimum. Black shoes at $16. Black socks at $2.25. Closely knit black tie at $4.50. Dark gray hat at $15. White shirt at $4.50. Blue camel hair town coat at $135. Black gloves at $5.50."

If you are taking a potential customer to lunch, don't spare the horse with your expense account money. Sullivan says to go to the best restaurant available and in New York he recommends the "21 Club."

"Always appear at '21' via taxi so that the full treatment from doorman and greeter is enjoyed. Don't go to '21' unless you are shooting for a really big deal. If it's a big deal, here is how your money will divide.

"Tip to doorman when you arrive, $1. Tip to the greeter, $1. Two cocktails each before lunch, $3.60. Simple lunch with a few extras, $20.50. Two brandies, $4. Tip for the waiter, $8. Tip for captain, $5. Tip for escort to door, $5. Tip for two hats, $2. Tip for doorman when leaving $1. Total $51.10."

Business entertaining is so widespread in the United States that no salesman can escape it. The problem is to let the customer consume all the alcohol he wants, but to stay sober yourself, and Sullivan has a formula. Drink only half as much as your guest. No martinis or manhattans for you. Order a vermouth cocktail, which has a reputation of being potent but actually isn't. If you are drinking whisky on the rocks, arrange in advance with the bartender to give you small shots on each refill.

Sullivan says there is a duplex apartment on Central Park West in New York City maintained by a company which uses sex to entertain its customers. Six girls occupy the apartment, he says, and are available to any customer who knows the password.

All Sorts Get Mixed Up In Auto Claim Rackets

By BILL McCORMICK
NEW YORK (NEA) — All sorts of ostensibly honest people become involved in padded and completely fraudulent automobile accident claims.

One hospital victim was ousted by the ambulance driver, an admitting clerk and another hospital employe, each of whom recommended a lawyer and each of whom, no doubt, was on the payroll of the attorney he endorsed.

Many lawyers build up businesses by paying fees to policemen who refer accident victims to them. It is well known that one attorney in a Florida city pays a flat $100 for each case to him by a cop.

Despite their best efforts, the legal and medical professions have been unable to stamp out unethical accident claim practices on the part of a small minority of their membership. Ambulance chasing, with stooges called cappers or runners usually doing the actual chasing, persists even in the face of specific legislation against it in some states.

The National Association of Independent Insurers has case histories on many conniving garagemen. One owner admitted that to stay in business he had to cover the deductible provision on collisions losses. If he didn't, he said, the owner of the damaged car would take his business elsewhere. This garage owner kept a double set of books. A customer who paid $50 for repairs on a damaged car was given a receipt for $95. The books showed $95 if an insurance representative examined them, but $50 for legitimate accounting and tax purposes.

Several garages in an eastern city had a sure-fire method of increasing profits, according to the NAII. They used wreckers, sledge hammers and other tools to add further damage to cars involved in accidents and thus run up the bill. Another trick was to pick up a car similar to the one to be repaired, but which had been more seriously damaged. When the adjuster visited the garage, he was shown the more severely battered vehicle, and unwittingly okayed a larger repair bill than was justified.

It costs about $1,000 to defend a claim in court. Most of the time, except in cases of flagrant fraud or when companies hope to make an example, claims of up to $1,000 are settled out of court. If they go to court, companies face not only the ordinary costs, but run the risk of losing a jury verdict for a whopping sum.

What is commonly called "whiplash" — ordinarily used to describe neck injury resulting from the head snapping back and forth in a collision—is a frequent basis for damage claims. The term was coined in 1928 by Dr. Harold Crowe, a Los Angeles orthopedic surgeon, who wishes he hadn't.

"It was intended to describe a motion, not a disease," says Dr. Crowe, who claims comparatively few injuries are caused by whiplash and that most of those that are become aggravated under direct heat or diathermy treatments.

On the other hand, a Florida M.D. admits having treated about 3,000 cases of "whiplash" (90 to 95 per cent involving automobile accidents, most of which resulted in claims). A sampling showed the doctor's fees averaged more than $400. One woman went to the doctor for $60 treatments — bill $510. Another made 44 visits and was billed for $341. Both women had been examined by other doctors who advised them there was no need for treatment.

There is apparently no limit to the brazenness of claimants. A passenger in a car hit in a collision demanded $4,000 for injuries to his head. At the time of the accident he was being sought by police for questioning about a tavern fight that same night. It developed that the claimant had received his injuries when hit on the head by a shovel during the barroom brawl and had even received hospital treatment for them just prior to the automobile accident.

One policyholder's car did not pass state inspection in New Jersey because it didn't have safety glass and its headlights were not sealed-beams. The policyholder deliberately broke all the glass and lights — and submitted a claim declaring the damage was done accidentally.

One claim was fraudulently retroactive. A college student purchased a car on Dec. 31. On Jan. 3 his father applied for insurance on the car, asking that it be dated Jan. 1, which was done. A claim was made for an accident that allegedly occurred Jan. 3. Investigation disclosed that the accident had actually taken place on Jan. 2. Policy voided.

Humorous, tragic or startling, all automobile insurance claim frauds have one thing in common.

They cost all the honest people money.

HIGHWAY TOLL—Motor-vehicle deaths in the nation for the first six months of this year were up 3 per cent over the same period last year, according to preliminary estimates of the National Safety Council. Twenty-four of the 50 states registered increases ranging from slight up to 13 per cent.

White Mercenaries Take Headquarters of Rebels

LEOPOLDVILLE (UPI) — White mercenaries have captured the headquarters of the last organized rebel force in the eastern Congo, reports reaching here said Monday.

The mercenaries, led by Dublin-born Lt. Col. Michael (Mad Mike) Hoare, took Fizi, where the Communist-backed rebels had built up defenses during the past several months.

Fizi is located about 31 miles southwest of Baraka, a port on Lake Tanganyika where Hoare and his "commando five" unit established a beachhead Sept. 27.

The reports gave no details of the action, but it was assumed the rebels put up no major resistance and escaped into the jungle. They were expected to continue guerrilla warfare against the mercenaries and government troops.

U.S. SAYS NO
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States does not intend to pay any part of the $1 billion indemnity demanded by former Dominican Republic President Juan Bosch.

A State Department spokesman said Saturday, however, that the United States was ready to help the island republic with economic development and reconstruction.

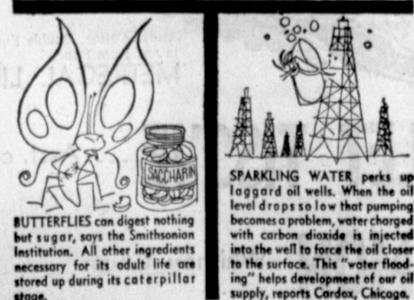

Bosch, on his recent return to the Dominican Republic, said the United States should pay $1 billion for having intervened with U.S. troops during the April revolution.

Military observers here estimated it would take several months to clean out the remaining rebel pockets from the rugged mountain country around Fizi.

TOO MANY LOCKS
NEW YORK (UPI)—Natalie Bitel, 49, liked two locks on her apartment door for safety.

Sunday, her apartment building caught fire, and firemen were delayed trying to break through the two locks to save Mrs. Bitel and her 18-year-old son, Dennis. Both died before firemen reached them.

SCIENCE SKETCHES

UNTREATED DENTAL CAVITIES—700 million of them—average about four to every American, says the Emory University School of Dentistry. Only 40 per cent of the population visits the dentist every year. Ninety-five per cent of those who don't should.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Until fairly recent times, the cause of the common cold was a mystery to medical science. But now they have it pretty well pinned down.

Most doctors will tell you that colds are caused either by a virus or an allergy. Or a combination of allergies. Or a combination of viruses and allergies.

Except in cases where the whole thing is psychosomatic.

Medical science also has been able to determine which groups are most prone to colds. Children have more than adults. Women have more than men. Married men have more than single men.

Apparently, the ideal place to live as far as colds are concerned is in a community composed entirely of aging bachelors.

Slow Progress

But when it comes to curing a cold, progress has been less spectacular. By the time they determine which virus or allergy, or combination of either, or both, is causing the cold, it usually has disappeared.

Rather than go through all of that, most cold sufferers seek symptomatic relief at the drug store. Which explains my presence at a retail druggists convention being held here this week.

Having just developed my first cold of the season, I dropped by to see what was new in the field. It was there that I made the acquaintance of Edward Butler, a Point Pleasant, N.J., druggist, who recently won a pharmaceutical contest sponsored by a maker of cold tablets.

I'm not sure what the contest was about, but I doubt that it involved selling cold tablets. Butler, I discovered, can make a cold sufferer feel better without medication.

Favorite Remedy

"When I started working for a pharmacist about 50 years ago," he said, "the favorite cold remedy was chamomile flower tea. We still get some calls for it."

"Another popular treatment was a mixture of flaxseed, wild cherries and onions. We still sell ground flaxseed but now they use it for leaking radiators."

"Gum camphor and asafetida also were supposed to be good for colds. Now fishermen put it in bags and drag it behind their boats. It makes an oil slick on the water."

"We used to sell a lot of goose grease, too. And parents sometimes gave their children a lump of sugar soaked in kerosene, but we never sold that."

I put my handkerchief back in my pocket and I haven't used it since. Just the thought of goose grease is enough to stop my shuffles.

Wall Street In Review

NEW YORK (UPI)—Shearson, Hamill & Co. says increased government spending for welfare and defense programs as well as the high probability of increased capital expenditures at least through the first half of 1966 will have strong favorable influences next year.

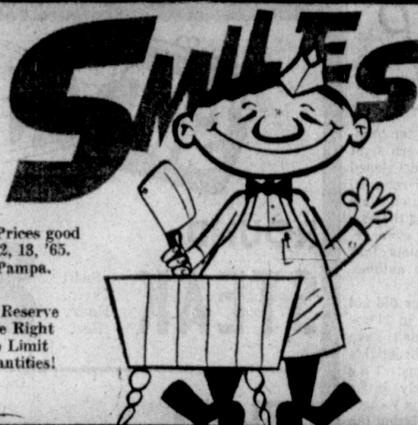

The firm says these influences should be sufficient to offset such unfavorable influences as a possible minor decline in auto production, unfavorable year-to-year comparisons for the steel industry in the first half and increased social security taxes.

Oppenheimer, Newborg & Neu says it believes the new highs set by the Dow-Jones rail average last week will be followed by a new peak in the industrial indicator in the near future.

The International Statistical Bureau says penetration of the old highs in the averages is a certainty and that although there is no need for concern, there is a need for greater selectivity.

Edward F. Underwood of Mitchum, Jones & Templeton Inc. says the short-term trend remains upward by a very narrow margin and on an extremely selective basis but that the long-term uptrend remains intact.

Former Pampan To Lead Revival

Rev. Sam Randolph, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Randolph of Pampa will lead a week-long revival meeting starting next Sunday at the Calvary Baptist Church.

Rev. Randolph is pastor of the First Baptist Church at Vega. He is a former resident of Pampa and a graduate of Pampa High School. He attended Wayland Baptist College at Plainview from 1953 to 1956. He has held pastorates in Brisco, Tell, Kellerville, Texline and Vega.

Fred Kellum, music director at the Olson Park Baptist Church in Amarillo, will lead the singing for services at 7 p.m. daily and during regular services each Sunday morning.

Dates for the revival are Oct. 17-24. Calvary Baptist Church is at 824 S. Barnes, Rev. Joe Hawn is pastor.

experiment supported by the Federal Government to establish to what extent the quadriplegic is capable of earning his own living. This is the basic reason of this project, said Mrs. Christine Stevens, workshop supervisor of the new project.

Dr. Marjorie Kirkpatrick conceived the idea for the quadriplegic, someone partly paralyzed in trunk and legs, with ideal working conditions to work to earn money.

Lynn Smith, Sr., Executive Vice President, of the Foundation, said he wants to emphasize that although the Federal Government is setting up the project with about $70,000, this money is only for this project.

Smith states that we are not getting the contributions we should be getting because a lot of people think the Federal Government is supporting the end of the Foundation will be helping that actually contributions to the Foundation will be helping the project in that full time nurses for the Hospital will also care for the men in the project.

Sixteen men between the ages of 21 and 45 years will live and work in the Gonzales Building during this project.

Mrs. Stevens said the project was approved by the government to find out the methods, assistant devices and medical help required in order for the quadriplegic to be able to earn money for his own upkeep.

Besides the monetary side of the project is the opportunity given the quadriplegic for something greater than just existence, Mrs. Stevens said.

For instance, there is a teenager at the Foundation who had been in bed for two years simply because his parents were unable physically to lift him out of bed into his wheelchair.

If he is chosen for this project he will not only be up each day, but he will have work to do.

The project will begin with ceramics since the Foundation has experience with working with it and has markets available from its voluntary program.

The men will do ceramics according to large orders. The price asked would pay for the materials and for the labor for the project.

Other lines of work will be given to the patients as well as ceramics.

Complete records of everything tried, methods, devices and products will be reported to the government to help someone else in their attempts.

When the building where the project will be housed was built, it was the entire Foundation and was built by the National Youth Administration and dedicated in 1940 to "the Cause of Crippledom."

When the Salk vaccine was developed, the Foundation turned its emphasis on polio to the victims of car accidents and strokes, and all types of crippling diseases and accidents.

The building was closed in 1958 to curtail expensive operations and is now being reopened with inside hot water pool covered to facilitate a kiln.

The Foundation proper now is made up of six fine buildings and equipment and is completely full of patients with a long waiting list.

There is only one building that remains closed at this time and due to the terrific strain placed on rehabilitation due to the thousands of car accident victims the Hospital is needed more now than it has been in the past, Smith advises.

Nation's Airlines Mark 10th Birthday Of First Flying of Jets for Customers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's airlines marked the 10th anniversary of their first jet order Monday by announcing they have ordered 704 new jets-powered transports valued at $3.7 billion for delivery by the end of 1969.

It was on Oct. 13, 1955, that Pan American World Airways placed the first orders for jetliners.

Stuart G. Tipton, president of the Air Transport Association (ATA), released the equipment order summary at a news conference. He said the mammoth purchasing program will bring jet service to virtually every city served by the U.S. scheduled airlines.

The 704 planes on order for delivery in the 1965-1969 period do not include supersonic transports or twin-engine piston planes being converted to jets. U.S. airlines have ordered 21 British-French supersonics and 42 American-designed SST's.

Tipton said the expanded fleet will provide an additional 73 billion seat miles a year. The present airline capacity is 110 billion.

The ATA chief noted that MORE WORK FOR COMPUTER

The Bank of America has offered its professional billing service to California's 41,000 physicians and dentists, a service providing what the bank calls "complete and economical computer processing of patient accounts." It promises to save doctors and dentists up to 22 hours a month, time that otherwise would be spent with account books.

many of the new jets are convertible to all-cargo operations. He said the industry anticipates a yearly growth rate of 22 per cent in airfreight. Passenger traffic, he added, is running 14 per cent ahead of last year and 1965 will be the third consecutive year in which the airlines have compiled that percentage of increase.

Tipton said he does not anticipate any major fare changes.

JOHN CONNALLY
Governor of Texas

AUSTIN, TEXAS

GREETINGS:

October 16, 1965, has been designated as "National Newspaperboy Day" in tribute to the thousands of loyal, efficient American youths who serve the public early and late in the day delivering the newspapers upon which all of us depend.

The experience gained in serving customers on newspaper routes is beneficial to the boys of America who have the privilege of engaging in this work.

It was while serving in these honorable roles that thousands of our business, civic, professional and religious leaders received their first training in our American principles of free enterprise.

It is fitting that the citizens of Texas express their deep appreciation of the day-by-day service rendered by their friendly newspaper carrier salesmen and for the training these boys are receiving.

THEREFORE, I, as Governor of Texas, do hereby designate

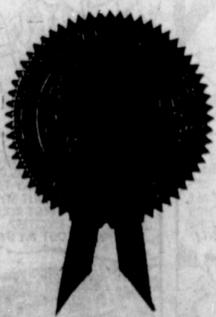

October 16, 1965, as

NEWSPAPERBOY DAY

In Texas, and urge all the people they represent and the customers they serve so diligently to express their appreciation for these unflinching services.

In official recognition whereof, I hereby affix my signature this 10th day of Sept., 1965.

Video Tape Gave Texas Tech That 'Extra Edge'

By THOMAS HOUGH
LUBBOCK (UPI) — Texas Tech coach J. T. King today credited an instant replay, video tape television process with "giving us that extra edge" Saturday night in Tech's 28-24 victory over Texas Christian.

King said the "edge" was the opportunity to make a team adjustment at the half to take advantage of weaknesses in the TCU defense.

King said one example in an adjustment made possible by the video tape was in the third quarter. Tech was trailing 17-14. It was second down and 34 yards to go on the TCU 42. King sent in Jeff White to run "the 70 deep" pass play which had been run earlier in the season but not planned for use against TCU in the pre game schedule.

Instead of making a sideline break, White went deep and picked up 33 yards from quarterback Tom Wilson. "White would have gone all the way if he hadn't slipped and fallen down," King said.

So, remembering the video tape plays, King told Anderson to spread out toward the flat and then to break down the field trailing White. Wilson then hit Anderson, who was wide open, for 25 yards.

"Nothing takes the place of good blocking and tackling," King said. "But the video does give us know how at the half that we usually don't get until the game is all over."

The new system was developed by Ampex Corp., the same company which built the tape recorders used in the Gemini spacecraft.

The first demonstration of the portable system for football was made at Tech's first home game against Kansas. But, other teams have since made some use of the system.

Rambling With Red

RON CROSS

Rambling a little about a lot of things starting first with golden gloves boxing.

Duke Malley, former big cigar in Panhandle golden gloves, was in the office the other day talking it up to get the sport underway again in the area.

Malley, like a lot of other people thinks it a shame boxing took the tailspin it did here after enjoying many good years.

There is the chance, if support comes around, the golden gloves may be on their way back. Malley's pick to run the Pampa club is Jimmie Olsen who had something to do with it here before.

The regional tournament will be held in Amarillo Feb. 24-25-26 and the state meet is slated in Fort Worth, March 10-14.

Like football the home team seems to have the advantage in the World Series. The Twins took the first two games at home and the Dodgers the next three at L.A.

With Tuesday off for travel the Twins would appear to have the edge with the final two games slated in the twin city ball park.

But then, who expected those two teams to be in the World Series this year anyway?

Besides playing the underdog roll Pampa will be looking for their first win ever against Monterey Friday night.

The Harvesters and Plainsmen have met on nine previous occasions with Monterey winning all nine contests.

The closest the Harvester have come to winning are 7-6 in 1959; 20-18, in 1964; 20-13 in 1957 and 21-19 the first time the two teams played in 1956.

Don't look for a close score Friday night unless the Harvesters come up with something called an offense.

Out At Home

The real story on Roger Maris' hand is that he injured it sliding into, of all people, the umpire.

Maris calls Mickey Mantle "The greatest ballplayer I've ever seen, the players almost idolize him."

Isn't the PGA ruling still about five years eligibility before you can make the Ryder Cup Team?

All its done is keep Jack Nicklaus, Bobby Nickols, Doug Sanders, Mason Rudolph and Chi Chi Rodriguez from playing.

Wouldn't the dream game in this area be Wheeler and White Deer going at it on the gridiron?

Play the game at Pampa with proceeds, and there would be many, going to a worthy charity.

Word is that the Mustangs aren't as strong as last year while the Bucks have about 20 players of equal ability, all of it good.

After Stanford downed Air Force on a field goal with 22 seconds left, head man John Ralston said he didn't even remember sending the kicker, Terry DeSylvia into the game.

Nebraska Retains Top Spot in Poll

NEW YORK (UPI)—Brulising Nebraska, which has employed a devastating rushing attack and an unyielding defense to batter four successive opponents, today retained its spot at the top of the major college football ratings although sternly challenged by undefeated Texas.

The Cornhuskers of the Big Eight Conference received 13 first place votes from United Press International's 35-man board of coaches and a total of 319 points to narrowly edge the Longhorns, who solidified their runner-up position by earning 311 points.

After a weekend almost devoid of major upsets, the top five teams in the UPI ratings all held their ground although the competition for third place, as well as first, grew fiercer.

Arkansas, which smashed Baylor 38-7 for its fourth win against no defeats, drew 247 points for a tenuous grip on third which was threatened by Michigan State. The Big Ten Spartans received 245 points after routing a good Michigan team 24-7 while Georgia remained a distant fifth with 163 points.

Purdue and Southern California, which were ranked seventh and eighth, respectively, last

Mele Undecided on Who to Start in Sixth Game

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI)—The Minnesota Twins, trailing three games to two and facing sudden death, hoped Tuesday that a return to their home park would straighten them out and keep them alive in the World Series against the Los Angeles Dodgers.

The American League champions beat the Dodgers in the first two games played in their own park only to drop three in a row and fall behind when the Series shifted to Los Angeles.

"We're not out of it yet," insisted manager Sam Mele of the Twins. "Playing in our own ball park has meant a lot to us all season and I'm sure we will get back on the beam."

Wednesday — the Dodgers are going to go with lefthander Claude Osteen, who put them back on the winning track and never has lost to the Twins.

Mele said he would not decide who his sixth game pitcher will be until after the Twins hold a workout.

"I'd have to guess it'll be (Jim) Grant, (Jim) Merritt or (Camilo) Pascual," Mele said. He insisted he wasn't too concerned about how the Dodgers had shown up the Twins with their base running speed and bunting power in the three games at Los Angeles.

"They sure kill you with that speed," he said, "but we have the power to overcome it."

The power seldom was evident in the three games in Los Angeles, where the Twins fumbled and "ran scared" against the Dodgers. They didn't cover bases on infield grounders, they failed to cut off errant outfield throws and generally acted like the Dodgers had them so jittery they couldn't do anything right.

"Well, we've looked badly before and always have come out of it," said Mele about his faulty fielders. "And we better come out of it Wednesday or it will be to late."

Manager Walter Alton of the Dodgers admitted that "it looks like everything is going right for us."

"But I can't forget how they beat us here, so I'm making no predictions," he added. "If there is a seventh game on Thursday (Don) Drysdale will start for us with all the rest of our pitchers in the bullpen."

That would include Sandy Koufax, who with a four-hit performance put the Dodgers ahead Monday at Los Angeles when he beat Jim Kaat, 7-0. Kaat had beaten Koufax in the second game here, 5-1.

Mele admitted his Twins looked "bad" in Los Angeles. "We didn't do anything right and they couldn't do anything wrong," he said. "Those infield bleeders they got and their speed on the bases really kill you once they get ahead."

And in Los Angeles, the Dodgers always got ahead — and early.

2-A, 5-B Teams Open League Play

Conference action opens this Friday in District 2-A and continues in the 5-B conference.

In all, five area teams play conference games this Friday with White Deer opening its league season by hosting McLean and Wellington playing a league game at Canadian.

In 5-B Wheeler hopes to take another step closer to the 5-B crown at Darrouzett, Lefors plays at Follett and Booker hosts Miami, all conference games. Lefors hosts Stratton in a non-league game and Groom is idle.

The Bucks overwhelmed Claude, 41-6 last week to run their season record to 5-0. White Deer now sports a 33.2 per game scoring average, best in the Panhandle and must have one of the best defenses in the state, giving up only 2.2 points per game.

The Bucks were unscored on in their first three games but have given up a touchdown in each of their last two contests.

Their Friday night opponent, McLean, 2-3, have lost their last two, to Gruver, 52-8 last week and Wheeler, 26-8, two weeks ago.

The Tigers have scored only 55 points while giving up 104.

Canadian, 0-5, came within a whisker of winning No. 1 last week, losing only 13-12 to Panhandle.

The Wildcats have scored only three times this year, having been blanked three of their five games. Wellington is undefeated at 4-0-1 and ranks as White Deer's chief threat.

In the 5-B conference Wheeler shoots for their 18th straight victory and sixth in a row this season in a league contest against a good Darrouzett team.

The Mustangs have given up more than one touchdown in but one game, the opener against Mangum, Okla.

For the season Wheeler has scored 144 points and given up extended Wheeler to the hit last week.

The Pirates are winless in four games.

Groom, 4-0-1 and a 46-8 winner over Booker last week, takes the week off. The Tigers have been the surprise of the league and have displayed a good defense.

The Tigers have as good an average as Wheeler, giving up but 32 points, but have scored only 96 for a 19.1 per game average.

Shockers Host Plainview Bees

The Pampa Shockers, the winningest football team in town, shoot for their fifth straight victory and sixth of the season Thursday when they host Plainview B at 4 p.m.

The Shockers have mowed down Perryton, lost to Borger, then unleashed a three-game winning streak against Canadian B, Lubbock Coronado, Amarillo, and Lubbock.

Lee ninth and eighth grade and Pampa Jr High eighth and ninth grade teams play Thursday while seventh grade teams from both schools play Friday.

Pampa Jr. High has a 7 p.m. game with Houston of Borger at Borger and the eighth grade hosts Houston in a 4 p.m. game.

Lee ninth plays at Dumas at 4 p.m. and Lee eighth hosts Dumas at 4 p.m.

In the seventh grade games Lee seventh plays Houston at Borger at 4 p.m. and Pampa Jr. High seventh hosts Perryton at 4 p.m.

TOP HARVESTER—Jimmie Moore, senior, is this Week's Harvester-of-the-Week, according to Pampa High School football coaches. Moore, a 138, by 5'10 fullback, has sparked on defense for coach Eural Ramsey. Moore has played fullback in four games, carrying 17 times for 37 yards for an average of 2.3 yards per game.

Former Cub Boss May Go to AL

CHICAGO (UPI)—Bob Kennedy, former head coach of the Chicago Cubs, may be headed for a more active role in major league baseball, perhaps in the American League.

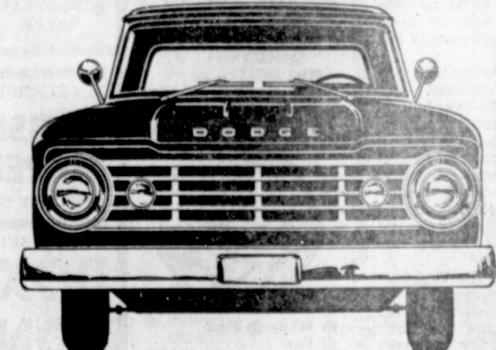

The Cubs Monday night announced that Kennedy has resigned as administrative assistant to Vice President John Holland to free himself for a job with another ball club.

Kennedy was in Los Angeles for the World Series Monday at the time the announcement was made, but returned to his home at Mesa, Ariz.

Kennedy has been reported under consideration for posts with the Boston Red Sox and Cleveland Indians.

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The first national television ratings of the season, which an over-anxious industry has convinced itself are all-important, were issued Monday, listing the following as the top 10 shows:

"Bonanza," "Bewitched," "Gomer Pyle," "The Dick Van Dyke series," "Hogan's Heroes," a new situation comedy set in German prisoner-of-war camp in World War II; "The Lucy Show," "The Andy Griffith series" and "Green Acres" (tie), the latter a new situation comedy with Eddie Albert and Eva Gabor as a city couple who move to the country. "A Man Called Shenandoah," a new Robert Horton western. And "F Troop," a new western spoof with Forrest Tucker heading a fouled-up cavalry troop.

Normally, the networks do not consider the twice-monthly national ratings reports definitive until at least the third or fourth one is issued. But this season, though many observers feel the networks are displaying a Billie Burke kind of giddiness, video executives believe that the early premieres and daily spot ratings combine with Monday's national statistics to produce a certain sort of numerical credibility.

It is interesting to note that if such fast cancellation setups were made in the past years, "Bonanza" and the Van Dyke series might not be around, for both were slow starters. Along these lines, if Monday's ratings are regarded as authoritative by the networks, a number of veteran series are in statistical trouble, among them:

"Dr. Kildare," which has been split into two half hours a week. "Ben Casey," "Ozzie and Harriet." The Patty Duke show. "Amos Burke, Secret Agent" (formerly "Burke's Law"). And the Donna Reed show.

Also faring poorly in the ratings are "The King Family" musical and the twice-weekly rock 'n' roll series, "Shindig." "Slattery's People" has already got its cancellation notice for next month, and the status of "Rawhide" is completely up in the air, with bad ratings. According to Monday's national statistics, here is a night-by-night rundown on how some of the top shows are alleged to be going in head-on ratings competition:

Mondays: The "Lucy Show" is beating "The Legend of Jesse James," with "Kildare" a poor third. Andy Griffith and "A Man Called Shenandoah," are walloping the first half of the Andy Williams program. But the second half of the Williams hour and "Hazel" both top "The Farmer's Daughter." "Run for Your Life," with Ben Gazzara as a fellow with a terminal illness who is living his remaining time to the hilt, tops "Ben Casey," with the Steve Lawrence musical series a bad third.

Tuesdays: "Please Don't Eat the Daisies," "Combat" and "My Mother, the Car"—about woman reincarnated as an auto—are all whipping "Rawhide." And Red Skelton continues to hold his own against "F Troop" and the unservingly popular "McHale's Navy." Against Skelton and McHale, the second weekly outing of "Kildare" has no chance.

Wednesdays: "The Virginian" and the science-fiction "Lost in Space" are trouncing "Ozzie and Harriet" and the Patty Duke series. "I Spy," the very good new secret agent show with Robert Culp and Bill Cosby, is beating Danny Kaye, with "Amos Burke" way behind.

Thursdays: "The Munsters," "Gilligan's Island" and "Daniel Boone" and trampling "Shindig" and Donna Reed's show. And Dean Martin's news variety series topped the Thursday movie and "The Long, Hot Summer."

Fridays: "The Man from U.N.C.L.E." defeated the Jimmy Dean hour and finished off "Slattery's People." And the new Smothers Brothers situation comedy beat out the third weekly episode of "Peyton Place," with "Mr. Roberts" left far back.

Saturdays: "Get Smart," a new secret agent spoof, tops Lawrence Welk, but both are giving a hard time to a new series with Peter Falk as an earthy New York lawyer, "Trials of O'Brien," which trails badly. "Gunsmoke," meanwhile, continues to hold its ground.

Changing The Tune

The office of Economic Opportunity, otherwise known as Poverty War HQ and sometimes as Johnson's Anti-Poverty People, has announced abandonment of rock 'n' roll and substitution of concert piano in conjunction with Job Corps recruitment and training.

We're not clear about what has prompted this change; it could be, for one thing, that having lured some live cats to the Opportunity Office with a gone beat it is necessary to change the tempo so they'll stop snapping their fingers long enough to sign up. On the other hand, it appears that rock 'n' roll hasn't been quite as effective in attracting recruits to the Job Corps as the poverty officials had hoped it would be. Their 90-minute TV spectacular "It's What's Happening, Baby" brought forth a flurry of cute, hand-scrawled letters advising the officials (quite as they had requested) on how to run the program. But, apparently not many could find their way to the office to enlist. As of early August, only one-fifth of 520 job openings in the Washington, D. C. area had been filled. When the Top Command of the Poverty War is that impoverished for troops, it would seem necessary at least to change the concert piano to "It's What'll Happen, Maybe."

One of the problems, according to a report in one capital city newspaper, is that there are too many recruiters vying for potential recruits. But, at the same time, a Job Corps official has been quoted as saying that the recruiting offices have been "letting the kids come to them instead of being aggressive."

Whoever first said that opportunity knocks but once surely couldn't have imagined there would one day be a staff of opportunity offerers knocking again and again on the doors of those who apparently didn't want any in the first place.

Maybe that concert piano replacement for rock 'n' roll is just to soothe the nerves of the General Staff after a hard, fruitless day of seeking recruits for the Poverty War.

In The Name of Equality

The federal Equal Employment Opportunities Commission, which asked for additional powers even before the employment portions of last year's "civil rights" act were in effect, has demonstrated that it is the equal of many long-time bureaus of government in coming up with weird rulings.

The 1964 act bans job discrimination because of sex, as well as race or religion. Before the law went into effect there were predictions that the prohibition against discrimination on account of sex would create many problems. But, defenders of the act insisted, they would be reasonable in enforcement. They would not insist that women be given men's jobs, or vice versa.

But one of the commission's first rulings is that a company may not discharge a female employee simply because she is married.

Many contracts forced on employers by unions stipulate that when a woman marries, she must be discharged. And there are some employers who for their own reason insist on female employees being unattached matrimonially. Whether they are justified in the practice may be up for question. However, the fact is that the politically established bureau has expanded the law beyond the apparent intention of those who drew up the law. It was ever thus with the bureaucracy, which becomes a law unto itself.

How Goes the War?

One of the hilarious aspects of American life is the continuing war that goes on day to day between "we" the humans and "they" the machines.

It is largely undercover, waged in the office and in the home. Only once in a while does it get into print.

Marie Daerr, a Cleveland Press reporter, reached the end of the road when the income tax people, who had been sending her two tax forms with her name spelled differently on each, spared her with a third that had yet another variation of her name.

She struck back fearlessly. She returned a computer card not only folded and stapled, but also pinned with a straight pin.

A group of "guerrillas" in Houston, Tex., got into the spotlight briefly. The water bills all arrived with a delinquency fee added on. The machines won this battle.

The water company explained that their computer was late in getting out the statements and had automatically added on the penalty. The customers would have to pay because there was nothing the water people could do about it without jamming up the whole electronic operation.

The machines had better beware, however. There's a new note of determination in this inscription found scrawled on a broken-down drink dispenser at Baldwin-Wallace College in Berea, Ohio:

"YOU FIX IT OR WE WILL."

THE AMERICAN WAY

Clipping the Taxpayer

It is good for labor because it makes a political career available to many people who do not have a satisfactory leisure time activity.

It is good for business because it dispenses with the speech writer, freeing him for more useful work such as making out the payroll, calculating production schedules, and making middle management decisions.

It is good for the children. The entire speech can be delivered in less than five seconds so as not to interfere with Mona McCluskey or My Mother The Car.

But most important, the all-purpose speech is in the national interest. It makes the issues crystal clear through the use of simple and easy-to-follow changes in the accepted text, such as:

"Nothing has been accomplished." Or, "More remains to be done." Or "Old times bring new ideas."

The only thing this invention will not do is make up the voter's mind. But we have noticed that most people know which candidate they will vote for long before the election. And nothing he can say will make any difference.

Cannel At Bay

By Ward Cannel

The All-Purpose Speech
NEW YORK (NEA) — This being the election season, it was our intention to meet the occasion by building an all-purpose political campaign speech — suitable for use by any candidate running for any office anywhere.

We have a sincere respect for party politics and government by election. But it has always seemed to us that the ordinary campaign speech is a serious drag on the whole process, being very costly to the party and extremely distracting to the voter.

A candidate who speaks at a public rally generally draws a crowd of people who would have voted for him anyway. On the other hand, if he buys television time for his message, he can antagonize independent voters who had tuned in to watch Mona McCluskey, say, or My Mother The Car.

In either case, he is often followed by enormous quantities of political analysis explaining what he actually meant by his remarks.

So, whatever purpose the political address serves, it has been our belief that the same can be accomplished better in every way by an all-purpose speech.

We find, however, that it will not be necessary to build one. Somebody has already done it.

In dialing across the radio the other Sunday, we happened to hear a moment of a campaign speech by Gov. Richard Hughes of New Jersey.

What he had been talking about before we tuned in is impossible to say. What he went on to say after we tuned out is likewise lost. All we heard was:

"More remains to be done. New times call for new ideas."

Well, it certainly does not seem possible to do any better than that in constructing an all-purpose political speech. And besides, as Christine Keeler used to say about party politics, there is simply no improving on nature.

Consequently, we intend to work for the universal adoption of Gov. Hughes' invention.

To our way of thinking, everything needed for campaign rhetoric is to be found in that three-line address:

"More remains to be done."

"New times call for new ideas."

To begin with, it does everything every other speech does. It looks to the future. It acknowledges the past. It points out the need for change. And at the same time, it takes into consideration every part of the society and economy.

It is a boon to voters because it answers their most important questions, namely: "What has been accomplished?" and "What remains to be done?"

It is a boon to candidates because it is short, to the point and memorable. Any candidate who has read this far can doubtless rattle off the whole thing by now without even thinking about it.

It is good for labor because it makes a political career available to many people who do not have a satisfactory leisure time activity.

It is good for business because it dispenses with the speech writer, freeing him for more useful work such as making out the payroll, calculating production schedules, and making middle management decisions.

It is good for the children. The entire speech can be delivered in less than five seconds so as not to interfere with Mona McCluskey or My Mother The Car.

But most important, the all-purpose speech is in the national interest. It makes the issues crystal clear through the use of simple and easy-to-follow changes in the accepted text, such as:

"Nothing has been accomplished." Or, "More remains to be done." Or "Old times bring new ideas."

The only thing this invention will not do is make up the voter's mind. But we have noticed that most people know which candidate they will vote for long before the election. And nothing he can say will make any difference.

President Opposes Anti-Poverty Budget Increase, He Tells Democrats Privately; GOP Plans Further Cut

ROBERT ALLEN

PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — The soaring costs of the Viet Nam war are forcing President Johnson to oppose Democratic congressional efforts to add nearly $300 million to his expanding anti-poverty program.

Before entering the hospital for surgery, the President privately let Democrats on a House appropriations subcommittee know of his personal opposition to the increase.

He called Representative John J. Fogarty, D-R. I., chairman, urging a $1.5 billion limitation on the fiscal 1966 anti-poverty budget rather than $1.78 billion that Congress had authorized.

The higher spending figure was approved last month by Congress after being recommended by the Senate and House Labor Committees.

The President acted to block the increase after Budget Bureau officials frankly warned that rising costs of the military build-ups in Viet Nam could cause a record deficit for the year ending June 30, 1966, if domestic spending isn't curbed.

They reported that spending for the Viet Nam war was now eating up all of the annual $7 billion increase in federal revenues, leaving none to finance expanding Great Society programs without deepening the budget deficit.

With 1966 an election year, a whopping budget deficit could become a major political issue if congressional probes continue to spotlight waste and illegal spending in the administration's anti-poverty program.

Republican members of the House Appropriations Committee will try to cut this budget even further this week on the grounds that anti-poverty Director Sargent Shriver hasn't been able to spend a fraction of the money that Congress voted last year.

THE BUDGET STORY — In presenting their case to the House, the GOP legislators plan to cite figures from a report prepared by Shriver's own Office of Economic Opportunity.

It shows the following fanatical differences between money spent and funds available from last year's appropriations:

Programs	Funds Available
Job Corps	$182,000,000
Community Action Program	237,000,000
Migrants	14,000,000
Direct Programs	444,000,000
Delegated Programs	325,000,000

Programs	Money Spent
Job Corps	$34,000,000
Community Action Program	56,000,000
Migrants	633,000
Direct Programs	95,000,000
Delegated Programs	123,000,000

If the President's full request for $1.5 billion for the year ending June 30, 1966, is approved by Congress, according to the GOP legislators, there will be even greater waste and illegal spending in the rush of OEO of-officials to hand out these funds. They want the program cut back to approximately $1.2 billion so both the administration and Congress can make sure the money is being spent on projects which are actually helping the poor.

THE BIG PICTURE — Costs for President Johnson's Great Society are running far ahead of original administration predictions.

Present outlook is that taxpayers will foot a bill this year of over $120 billion.

That's the startling forecast of the House Appropriations Committee, based on over $91 billion in appropriations already voted, with more yet to come before Congress quits.

Last January's presidential budget message estimated 1965 spending would be held below $100 billion — or $99.7 billion. But since then the President and his congressional majority have embarked on a spending binge unmatched by any previous administration.

Most of the big money bills, like the $46.9 billion defense package, have cleared Congress. They add up to $91.9 billion. Two additional measures — agriculture and public works appropriations — are still waiting adjustment between House and Senate figures. The House voted $6.5 billion for farm projects and the Senate $7.6 billion. For public works projects the House approved $4.2 billion and the Senate $4.3 billion.

Still to come in both houses is a final supplemental appropriations bill carrying funds for the Great Society measures like the anti-poverty program. Estimates put the cost of this final bill from $4 billion to $5 billion.

On top of all this is added $12.3 billion in permanent annual appropriations over which Congress has little control. The bulk of this huge sum — $11.6 billion — goes to pay interest on the $316 billion national debt.

Other permanent appropriations are earmarked for such continuing programs as conservation projects, national park construction programs and payment of small claims against the U.S.

MORE TO COME — Representative Frank T. Row of Ohio, ranking GOP member of the House Appropriations Committee, has warned that a second supplemental to cover increasing costs of the Viet Nam war will be sent to Congress in January by the White House.

Size of this Viet Nam spending measure is still undetermined. Representative George Mahon, D-Tex., chairman of the Appropriations Committee, says, however, it may force a cutback in current Great Society spending.

"Some impounding of appropriations may be necessary because of the fiscal liberality of Congress. I think they may very well be done if the Viet Nam war situation continues to escalate," he reported to his committee.

WASHINGTON:

Cost Is High For Those Leaving Cuba

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON Correspondent — WASHINGTON (NEA) — If Fidel Castro operates as in the past, he will make a tidy profit from each Cuban he allows to flee to the United States.

Assuming Castro's men follow past procedures, every Cuban leaving the country will be forced to turn over his house, his car and all of his other property to the government. Each emigre (with a family of four) will be allowed to carry only two suitcases.

Before he leaves, his house will be inspected and an inventory taken of his belongings — clothing, furniture, jewelry, silverware, radios, television, air conditioners, art objects, tools, bicycles.

He (or she) will not be allowed to take any of these possessions except five dresses (or the equivalent in suits), three changes of underclothing and stockings, one pair of shoes (the pair being worn), one pair of pajamas or a nightgown, toilet articles, $30 worth of jewelry but no money of any kind. He won't be permitted to sell his possessions before leaving. He will be forbidden to give his possessions (even personal jewelry, silverware and family heirlooms) to relatives or friends.

One woman privately tells her personal experiences. She had applied for permission to leave Cuba. She had waited months. Then one day she received a telephone call from a Castro worker.

The Castro agent told her: "You will not be allowed to leave the country. You have taken too many things out of your house. I'll give you a warning. If you don't go and get the things you have taken away and bring them back, you won't be allowed to leave."

The lady had taken a few porcelain pieces — family heirlooms — and given them to a close relative. Frightened by the warning, she went and got these momentos and returned them to her house.

Then Castro's men arrived to take an inventory of her home and possessions. In the middle of the inspection, one investigator asked what she had done with her air conditioners. She told him she had none. He insisted she must bring them back. She told him he could see there were no holes in the wall where air conditioners had been. After much talk, she finally convinced the man she was telling the truth.

The inventory team went on with its thorough search, made a complete list of her possessions.

After more waiting, she was allowed to leave Cuba. But she was watched continuously to make certain she took nothing out of the house and mailed no packages. When she left Cuba, her baggage was inspected to make sure she took nothing of value.

Based on these precedents, therefore, Castro probably will

The American Way

By HARRY BROWNE
For the past few years, the politicians have kept the public in a constant state of confusion over the "balance of payments" problem.

The signal that a problem existed came from our dwindling gold supply. As the gold stock gets lower, the politician exclaims that we are importing more than we're exporting. Of course we are. So does every country. We trade the commodities we don't need ourselves to people in other countries, in exchange for commodities we value more.

When you total the transactions, you find that we value what we import more than we value what we've exported. This is only natural: we have profited in the process.

This is too much for the politician, however. He would prefer that we make and deliver to other countries more than we receive from them. Somehow, this would satisfy him.

Where does the gold come in? Gold is a commodity — like cars, lettuce, or steel. But because of its durable value, individuals are willing to accept it in trade when they have no immediate use for it as gold.

The Nation's Press

FEDERAL AID FOR CITY?

The Lima (Ohio) News
Lima city officials recently requested $1.5 million in federal grants as a step to bring Lima into the promise of the Great Society with a bigger and better everything.

Mayor Homer Cooper sounded the battle cry by proclaiming that "a militant aggressiveness has now enveloped the city which has overcome the radical negativism which has kept Lima in a condition of civic regression for 50 years. . . . Now when the mayor talks about day-to-day things, he usually resorts to words that are pretty straight-forward and clear, but let him get a whiff of Great Society benefactions, and the heady fumes produce the gobbledegook of the welfare state.

For those of you who always thought paying your own way and avoiding federal hand-outs somehow related to self-reliance, you now know that and the avoidance of federal income tax, in reality, an advocate of "civic regression" and imbued with "radical negativism."

We are not sure what the devil term "radical negativism" means, but we assume that the opposite of this is jumping on the federal bandwagon and embracing "non-radical positivism." Let us predict, if you will, just what "non-radical positivism" will mean with the passage of time.

First, it will mean an ever-increasing dependence on the federal government for funds and a commensurate federal control of the operation of the City of Lima.

Second, it will mean an element in the already predicted 1966 national deficit of $8.1 billion a debt which will have to be paid by future generations. The alternative to repayment will be repudiation by the direct fiat of government or the insidiousness of inflation, either of which will be accompanied by a totalitarian government. The illusion of today's "free ride" is tomorrow's grim awakening to reality.

It may be asked, how can a little old $1.5 million be responsible for such dire consequences? Well, no one ever can define which specific straw breaks the camel's back, but neither can those who laid straws on the camel's back avoid the responsibility for the eventual broken back.

We trust the city officials will give a long, hard look at their financial forays into Washington. It is the least they owe to present and future generations who stand to inherit the full whirlwind of an all-powerful federal government.

give priority to letting the well-to-do leave. He makes more on their property.

Cubans say they have seen many of the personal possessions of their emigre friends packed up for shipment to eastern Europe and the Soviet Union to pay Castro's debts.

There are a good many unhappy older people in Cuba. Some live on tiny government payments. Some are supported out of the meager incomes of relatives. Many are unable to work. Castro considers them a drain on his shaky economy. By letting them go, he saves on scarce food.

Its constant value assures the individual that he can trade it tomorrow for something he does value.

Hence, gold becomes money — a commodity with inherent value that is accepted in exchange by individuals who intend to exchange it eventually for something else.

The only reason that anyone would accept gold is because of its inherent value. It's useful for jewelry, ornamentation, dental work, precision machine tools, electronics, etc. Because of these uses, you can be certain that it will have an exchange value.

It has often been found to be convenient to store the gold in a warehouse and exchange the warehouse receipts (currency) instead of exchanging the gold itself. Our government has declared itself to be the sole warehouse for gold in this country. It has prohibited the private ownership of gold or the private issuance of currency.

The government has then proceeded to issue receipts far in excess of the gold stock. And we must remember that the only value in the paper receipts is in what that receipt can be redeemed for — the gold.

In addition, our government has lavished the equivalent of over 100 billion paper dollars on foreign governments in the past 20 years. These foreign governments realize the discrepancy between the gold stock and the dollar bill receipts that have been issued.

So each foreign government is beginning to feel that it must turn in its dollar receipts for gold has inherent value; the dollar — before the gold stock is entirely gone. Again, only the gold has inherent value; the dollars are only worth what they can be exchanged for.

So here we have the problem: Our government has monopolized the currency business and then far over-issued the gold receipts. It has given away many of these receipts to foreign governments — supposedly to buy their friendship.

These dollar bills are now coming home in exchange for our rapidly disappearing gold. The politician still refuses to face up to the problem. He continues the "foreign aid" program without letup; while exclaiming that the problem stems from buying too many foreign products.

But we can never buy too many foreign products. For no one will ever sell to us — unless we too produce something of value to exchange to them.

Individuals buying and selling in the marketplace do not cause problems. Politicians do. But every politically-caused problem becomes an excuse for more politics.

THE PEOPLE CAN TAKE CHARGE

Every American has the opportunity to exert a good influence on the right side of the worldwide struggle between liberty and slavery. Every citizen has it within his power to do whatever must be done to insure the survival of a free America.

In our nation, government reacts to the expressed desires of its citizenry. We, the people, are the vital ingredients. Our elected officials will, in most cases, do as good a job as we will require them to do.

If we, as individual Americans, either do not know enough or do not care enough about the problem to make our own constructive and reasonable contributions to its solution, we relinquish the right to complain about what the government does or fails to do.

Certain qualities must be present if we are to have a productive society, particularly incentive, competition, the right for each person to do what he thinks is best. Those are the very qualities we are in danger of losing.

We do not have to lose our liberty. But we can lose all of it unless we maintain the will to resist those who would take it from us.

What we must have, if we are to keep the America we have known, is the greatest possible degree of individual freedom that is consistent with an organized society. That is not too much to ask and not too much to expect.

We must keep always in mind that individual liberty is tied in closely with national independence. We must hold on to the one if we are to keep the other.
