

Vote To Bar Red China May Never Come Again

By RALPH TEATSORTH
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.
(UPI)—It was the consensus of U.N. diplomats after the vote on the China question that it may never again be possible to muster a vote to exclude Communist China from the United Nations.

more vote, it still would not have made it, because the General Assembly previously voted 56-49 to require a two-thirds majority vote to decide the issue.

The trend, as seen by most delegates, is toward recognition of Peking as the legal holder of China's U.N. seat. They consider it entirely possible that in 1966 the Assembly will decide that a simple majority is sufficient, and that Red China will be able to get it.

The United States fought a successful, if not very encouraging, action this year to keep Peking out and Taiwan in. In the opinion of diplomats here, to argue that Washington could do it again next year would be to ignore several important signs.

America is starting to drift away from U.S. policy on China. Chile took the unprecedented step, for a South American member, of abstaining from a vote to seat Red China.

Other South Americans continued to vote against Peking. But Latin American sources said several favor a change in China policy.

Africa's swing toward Communist China persisted. Among the Africans, 23 voted for Red China, 10 for Nationalist China, 7 abstained, one was absent and one chose not to participate.

Nationalist China still had friends in Africa, partly because of a sincere feeling that Taiwan should not be summarily dismissed from the organization and partly because of charges that Red China has engaged in subversive activities in certain African states.

"Liberty has never come from government. Liberty has always come from the subjects of it. The history of liberty is a history of limitations of governmental power not the increase of it."

Princess, LBJ Trade Courtesies

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Said the President to the Princess: "You have claimed our heart and we are happy to give it to you."

Said the Princess to the President: "We are having the most wonderful time."

And that about summed up the festivities Wednesday night at the most dazzling affair of the Washington social season—the White House dinner dance.

One final museum visit and ceremonial tree-planting at the British Embassy was all that was scheduled for Margaret today before her afternoon departure for New York. She leaves a captivated capital.

One of her conquests was the President, who ignored any twinges he may have felt from his Oct. 8 operation, to dance with the tiny, blue-eyed Margaret. Despite her jewels and her sophisticated ball gown, she looked like a little girl, not quite coming up to the President's shoulder.

The tune they danced to was "Everything's Coming Up Roses"—in honor of the Princess, who was known as Margaret Rose as a youngster. She was reported to have enjoyed the affair "wildly."

Johnson must have enjoyed it, too. For though the Princess left the White House at 1:35 this morning, the President didn't call it quits until shortly after 2.

While the President danced with the Princess, Mrs. Johnson, wearing an emerald green strapless gown and her hair piled high, fox-trotted with Lord Snowdon.

The next dance was a sentimental tribute to the Johnson's 31st wedding anniversary Wednesday. The Johnsons danced to the tune of the "Anniversary Waltz" and "The Girl That I Married."

The British guests of honor danced together also. Although the Princess' ladies in waiting said it was "perfectly all right" to cut in, there were no daring males around to make the move.

The Johnsons invited 140 guests to the dinner and 23 more couples to come in for dancing after 10.

Fuel Cell May Delay Gemini 7

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—The federal space agency said today the Gemini 7 spacecraft has encountered trouble with its fuel cell electrical power system. The problem threatened a delay in the Dec. 4 launch schedule.

The trouble noticed Wednesday set back by four days the fastening of the capsule to the top of its Titan-2 launch rocket. The mating had been scheduled for today and now was off until Monday.

A spokesman for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) said it was not yet determined whether the delay in the spacecraft mating would set back the twin launches of Gemini 7 and Gemini 6 next month.

He said a launch slip was possible, "but right now we're still on for the fourth."

NASA said engineers monitoring the fuel cells aboard the craft that was to keep Astronauts Frank Borman and James Lovell in space for 14 days observed a surge of hydrogen into the fuel cells Wednesday.

Engineers, concerned that the overpressure might have damaged the vital power system, decided to replace the fuel cells. That operation delayed bolting the spacecraft to its rocket.

Both Sides Unofficially Confirm Cancellation

By RAY RODGERS JR.
The on-again off-again strike by the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks against Santa Fe Railroad was short-lived again today, according to company officials.

Spokesman for George Grady, public relations director for the regional Santa Fe office in Amarillo, said at 11:45 this morning that the National Mediation Board has accepted jurisdiction in the strike which was acceptable to both sides.

The Santa Fe official stated that there had been no interruption of either passenger or freight traffic anywhere along the Santa Fe lines.

Pickets, who began walking at the Pampa depot at 6 a.m. today were still marching shortly before noon. However, Grady said at noon he expected the union to call them off shortly.

Union President C. L. Dennis in Chicago said the strike was called because "Santa Fe has stalled the settlement of long-standing grievances over sick leave, work rules, salaries and other matters."

Shortly after the strike was called the railroad immediately asked the National Railway Mediation Board to take jurisdiction.

Grady said today that all trains would be running on normal schedule by this afternoon and no major disruption of service was expected due to the two and one half hour strike.

One picket appeared at the Pampa depot at 6 a.m. today and was joined by another picket about 9:30 a.m.

PANHANDLE TURNS COLD Severe Winter Storm Hits Northeast

By United Press International
A mass of chilly Arctic air set off showers across much of South Texas and the Gulf Coast today. Temperatures dropped to near freezing in the Panhandle.

Pampa registered an overnight low of 39 officially but there was a probability of frost and lower temperatures in outlying spots. The official daytime high in Pampa yesterday was 50.

Clouds gathered over most of the rest of the state. The cold air drove temperatures down into the 40s and 50s over most of the state, except for South Texas.

PAMPA DEPOT PICKETED — One member of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks appeared with placard this morning at 6 a.m. when the union officially struck the Santa Fe nationwide. At 9:30 a.m. he was joined by others. Even as the picture was being made the unofficial word was out that the stoppage had been called off by the union. From the left pickets are Clyde Spence and Phil Sunn, Amarillo and O. O. Sterens, Pampa.

Two-Gun Student Terrorizes Plane Flight

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—A teen-aged honor student lecturing about Castro and firing wildly from two pistols, terrorized 91 passengers on a jetliner Wednesday night over the Gulf coast. He pulled the trigger of one gun in the face of space agency mission director Christopher Kraft but the weapon misfired.

Thirteen key officials of the Gemini space program were aboard the National Airlines DC8 during the youth's 20-minute outburst of pistol shots and a diatribe about the dangers of Castroism. The plane landed safely after the gun-wielding 16-year-old was subdued by a Houston businessman.

Thomas Robinson of Brownsville, Tex., a frail-looking 16-year old, was arrested on a federal charge of crime aboard an aircraft. He later said he did not intend to hijack the plane. "I was hoping at least, maybe somebody would wake up."

Robinson was overpowered and disarmed of his 22-caliber and 32-caliber pistols by Edward T. Haake, 45, a Houston businessman. He shrugged off references to his heroism, saying anyone would have done it.

State Heads Hold Secret Crime Talks

AUSTIN Tex. (UPI)—Business leaders and law enforcement officials met secretly yesterday to consider the possibility that Austin is becoming a center of organized crime it was learned today.

State Sen. Charles Herring of Austin was quoted as saying there is "a local criminal element which is organizing in the sense of a syndicate."

He reportedly suggested reactivation of a county grand jury association to help fight crime.

Participants in the gathering at a local hotel said the meeting was not related to an article published earlier this week by a Dallas newspaper (The Times Herald) which said Austin had become the crime capital of the state.

The group took no immediate action, sources said. Participants included Col. Homer Garrison Jr., director of the Texas Department of Public Safety; Austin police chief Bob Miles; Travis County sheriff T. O. Lang; prosecutors, several former grand jury foremen, and a number of civic leaders.

Price Battle Is Underway Over Copper

WASHINGTON (UPI)—For the second time in less than a month, the Johnson administration was embroiled today in a battle over price hikes in a strategic metal industry—this time, copper.

Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara announced Wednesday night a four-point assault on rising copper prices. He said it was aimed at heading off "strong inflationary developments" (which) would seriously impair our defense efforts in Viet Nam.

McNamara's announcement came exactly a week after the administration had succeeded in forcing cancellation of price boosts in another key metal, aluminum.

Pampa-Lefors UF Campaign Is Short of Half-Way Mark

Pampa-Lefors United Fund campaign to raise $77,000 toward the halfway point as a total of $38,192.74 was reported collected through this morning.

Although the drive has been lagging recently, fund leaders are still optimistic that the goal will be reached and that the drive can be concluded in several weeks.

Some of the larger donors, both company and individual, who regularly contribute, have not as yet done so. However, most of them are expected to report in within a week or ten days.

The U.S. Weather Bureau said the storm was practically motionless and that it had spread rain all through the coastal states. Los Angeles measured 4.28 inches of rain in the last four days, more than in any year in this century.

Volunteer workers in all three divisions - advance, special and general - are again urged to call on their prospects, collect the contributions and turn in the money as quickly as possible. "One Gift Works Many Wonders" is the theme of this year's campaign to support the Boy Scouts, Red Cross, Salvation Army, Milk Fund, Welfare Index, National Travelers Aid, Gonzales Warm Springs Foundation, Texas Association for Mental Health, United Service Organization, Medical Research Foundation, and United Community Fund.

Jaycee Head
Talks to Local Child Group

An address by Texas Jaycee President A. J. Carubbi Jr. of Pampa, featured a recent meeting of the Exceptional Child Assn. held in the educational building of the First Presbyterian Church.

The speaker, who was introduced by Dr. N. G. Kadingo, pointed out that the Mental Health and Mental Retardation programs of the Texas Jaycees are receiving renewed emphasis and interest.

"Primarily," he said, "the organization must alert the public to the problems of mental retardation through a varied publicity program."

The next objective would be to establish a statewide advisory committee to assist the Jaycees in the programs and then to establish an advisory council at the local level to assist and advise on local projects and programs.

Carubbi concluded that he is encouraged to know that afflicted young people can be made self-sufficient and useful citizens and that they need to be helped.

President Mrs. R. L. Wyatt announced that the annual Christmas Party for exceptional children will be held December 6 at 7:30 p.m. in Lovett Memorial Library.

Hostesses were Mrs. J. B. Goad and Mrs. Jack Sloan.

The next regular meeting is scheduled for January 10.

WTSU Chorale To Present
Concert in Pampa Dec. 3

Featuring the compositions of its director, Dr. Houston Bright, the West Texas State University Chorale will present a concert at 9:40 a.m., Dec. 3, in the Pampa High School auditorium.

The appearance of the 44-voice select group in Pampa is one of the programs of its annual fall tour of ten Panhandle area high schools. The Chorale will also perform at high school assemblies in Dumas, Dalhart, Perryton, Spearman, Guyton, Okla., Borger, Phillips, Stinnett and White Deer.

Marking the 25th anniversary of the WTSU music department staff for Dr. Bright, various departmental organizations, ensembles, and individual performers this year will select large portions of their repertoires from the many and varied compositions of Dr. Bright. WTSU President James P. Cornette also has designated Dr. Bright as composer-in-residence at the university.

Accompanied by a 12-member brass and percussion company, the Chorale will present four concerts composed entirely of selections by Dr. Bright. Range of Dr. Bright's compositions, most of which have been published for national use, is reflected in the Chorale's repertoire. The brass and percussion company is featured in a sacred number, "Sunrise Alleluia," and a novelty, "Jabberwocky," based on the famed poetry of Lewis Carroll's "Through the Looking Glass."

Membership in the Chorale is limited to 44 voices, selected by rigid audition. Besides its annual tours of high schools, the group appears in concert several times a year in the Amarillo-Canyon area. A number of television appearances are scheduled to coincide roughly with the four seasons of the school year, at Thanksgiving, mid-winter, Easter, and summer.

Rotary Hears
'Mohole' Plans

This country's scientific effort to explore and sample all the layers of the earth's crust and the underlying mantle was explained to Pampa Rotary Club members and their special guests yesterday noon in the Coronado Inn.

"Project Mohole," as the undertaking is called, was first conceived in 1957, according to Donald M. Taylor, the project's information officer for Brown & Root, of Houston.

Taylor said that the need for such a project is basic since the mantle comprises about 84 per cent of the earth's volume. When geologists and geophysicists know its composition and physical properties, they will be able to reason more intelligently about the earth.

Phase I of the operation was completed in 1961 off the coast of California and Phase II is now well under way.

H. B. Wilks arranged the program and Roy Sparkman introduced the speaker.

Pampa Firemen Make Small Fire Calls

Pampa firemen answered two small fire calls yesterday. About mid-afternoon, a small grass fire in the 700 block of South Ballard was extinguished. A mattress on fire at 510 S. Ballard brought fire units at 6:05 p.m.

Firemen said the blaze inflicted minor damage to the mattress and was caused by a cigarette.

Cool Mold Ideal With Cold Turkey

CHERRY CRANBERRY MOLD teams with turkey.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
This is a big season for turkey. It's consequently the season also for lots of delicious sliced turkey to be served cold. Team it with this startlingly colorful and lively tasting frosted mold.

FROSTY CHERRY CRANBERRY MOLD
(Makes 12 servings)
1 jar (8 ounces) red maraschino cherries
Water
1 package (3 ounces) cherry flavor gelatin
1 can (1 pound) jellied cranberry sauce
4 tablespoons lemon juice
1 cup heavy cream
3 tablespoons sugar
1/4 teaspoon grated lemon peel

1-3 cup salad dressing or mayonnaise
1-3 cup chopped filberts.
Drain cherries, reserving syrup; chop cherries and set aside. Add enough water to reserved syrup to measure 1 1/2 cups. Heat to boiling; remove from heat and immediately dissolve gelatin in hot syrup mixture; add cranberry sauce and 3 tablespoons lemon juice. Beat slowly with rotary beater until blended. Chill until slightly thickened; fold in chopped cherries. Turn into lightly oiled 6-cup mold. Freeze until firm. Whip cream with sugar and lemon peel until stiff; fold in remaining 1 tablespoon lemon juice, salad dressing and filberts. Spread over frozen cherry layer; freeze until firm. Unmold onto salad greens.

Time to Talk Turkey About Festive Cooking

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
As The Day of the Big Feast approaches, it's turkey talk time. So let's ask turkey experts at the Poultry and Egg National Board to do the talking.

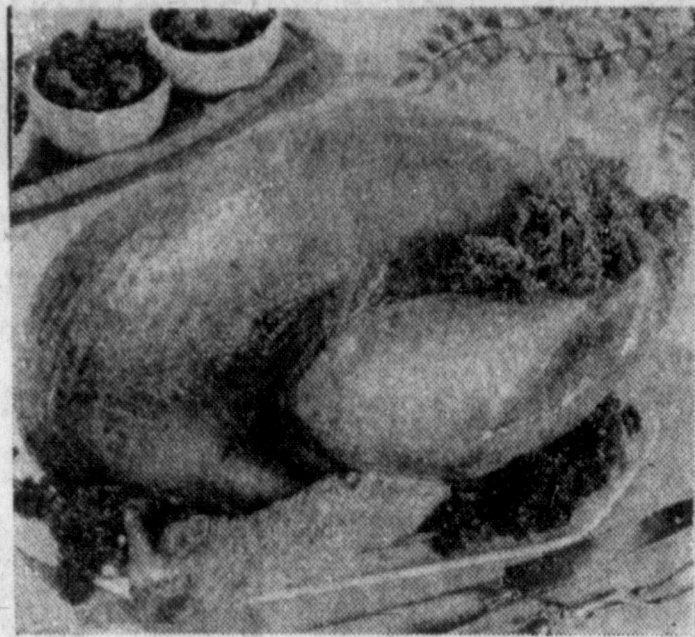

First, they report that we'll have an abundant supply of the birds at prices about the same as last year. Second, they give us easy-to-follow suggestions and rules for roasting to produce best results.

Turkeys of any size may be roasted. True roasting is slow cooking by dry heat on a rack in an open pan. It requires no water, no basting, no cover and no searing. Always roast turkey DONE in one continuous cooking period.

Low temperatures assure better flavor and appearance, less shrinkage and less loss of juices.

A shallow, open pan allows the heat to circulate around the bird, roasting it evenly. A rack at least 1/2-inch high raises the bird off the bottom of the pan, keeping it out of the juices.

For best results, follow these simple steps:
1. Preheat oven to 325 degrees (slow).
2. Rinse bird with cold water, drain and pat dry. Rub cavity of bird lightly with salt, if desired. Do not salt if stuffed.

TEMPTING TURKEY is a traditional treat.

3. If stuffing is used, fill wishbone area (neck); fasten neck skin to back with skewer. Fill body cavity lightly. Push drumsticks under band of skin at tail, if present; or tie them to tail.

4. Place turkey on rack in shallow roasting pan, breast side up. Brush skin with fat. If a roast meat thermometer is to be used, insert it so that the bulb is in the center of the inside thigh muscle or the thickest part of the breast meat. Be sure that the bulb does not touch bone.

5. Place in preheated oven. If desired, baste or brush occasionally with pan drippings—especially any dry areas. When turkey is two-thirds done, cut cord or band of skin at drumsticks. Place a loose tent of aluminum foil over the turkey to prevent excessive browning. Continue roasting until done.

6. To test doneness, a roast meat thermometer placed in the center of the inside thigh muscle or the thickest part of the breast muscle should register approximately 185 degrees. If stuffing is used, it should register 165 degrees at the same time. Turkey is done when the thickest part of drumstick feels very soft when pressed between protected fingers.

Yankee Feast Treat for Thanksgiving

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
The 18th century Publick House under the elms in Sturbridge, Mass., is noted for its authentic New England food. Its Thanksgiving menu this year is staggering, of course, as all Yankee Thanksgiving dinners are supposed to be.

Here is the recipe for their special dressing.

PUBLICK HOUSE CHESTNUT STUFFING
(For 20 to 22-pound turkey)
1 pound chestnuts
1/2 cup salad oil
3 cups beef stock or water
1 loaf sliced white bread
1 medium-size yellow onion, finely chopped
1 cup chopped celery
1 pound butter

1/2 pound mushrooms, chopped
Salt, pepper
1/2 teaspoon dried thyme
2 tablespoons chopped parsley.

With a sharp knife, make a slit in each chestnut all across the flat side. Heat 1/2-cup of salad oil in a large skillet. Add the chestnuts and cook for about five minutes, until the shells open around the slit, shaking the pan occasionally. Remove and, when cool enough to handle, peel off the shell and inner skin; they come off easily while the chestnuts are hot, are more difficult to remove when they are cool. Cook the nuts in 3 cups of beef stock or water until tender, 15 to 20 minutes. Drain. All this can be done a day or two ahead of time.

Cranberries Color Surprise Dessert

CRANBERRIES color this festive dessert.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Cranberries for Thanksgiving? Yes, inevitably. But how about using them in a dessert for a change. This cranberry cheese cake recipe may encourage you to switch.

For those who like to include a rather "dressy salad" in the Thanksgiving menu, the pineapple cranberry wreath salad recipe may be good news.

CRANBERRY PINK CHEESECAKE
(Makes one 9-inch cheesecake)

Crust:
2 cups zwieback crumbs (1 6-ounce package)
2 tablespoons sugar
1/2 cup soft butter or margarine
1/2 cup well-drained cranberry - orange relish

Filling:
2 packages (2 tablespoons) unflavored gelatin
1 1/2 cups cranberry juice cocktail
1 pound (two 8-ounce packages) cream cheese at room temperature
1/2 cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
2 teaspoons grated lemon rind

3 egg whites, stiffly beaten
1 cup heavy cream, whipped
Red food coloring (optional)

Mix zwieback crumbs with sugar and butter. When well blended press mixture onto the bottom and sides of a well-buttered 9-inch spring form pan. Spread cranberry-orange relish over the bottom of the pan. Combine gelatin with 1/2-cup of the cranberry juice; let stand for 5 minutes. Stir over low heat until gelatin is dissolved. Add remaining cranberry juice. Beat cream cheese until smooth and fluffy. Gradually beat in cranberry gelatin mixture, sugar, vanilla and lemon rind. Fold in beaten egg whites and whipped cream. Add red coloring if a deeper pink is desired. Pour mixture into crumb-lined pan. Chill until firm. Remove sides of pan carefully, after loosening with a sharp knife. Garnish with additional sweetened whipped cream and cranberry - orange relish.

pineapple tidbits
1 1/2 cups lemon lime carbonated beverage
3/4 cup thinly sliced celery
1 package (3-ounce) cream cheese
1 can (1-pound) jellied cranberry sauce

Sprinkle 1 envelope gelatin over undrained pineapple. Place over low heat; stir until gelatin dissolves. Take from heat. Stir in 1 cup carbonated beverage. Chill until consistency of unbeaten egg white. Fold in celery and cheese cut into cubes. Pour into 6-cup ring mold. Chill until almost firm. Meanwhile lightly mix cranberry sauce and 1 envelope gelatin. Place over low heat. Add remaining 1/2-cup carbonated beverage. Cool. Pour over almost firm layer. Chill until firm. Unmold, garnish as desired.

Try These Pumpkin Variations

GLAZED PUMPKIN PIE is a tempting seasonal delight.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Here are two outstanding variations on the traditional Thanksgiving pumpkin pie theme. One is a frozen pie, really outstanding. The other is a delicious glazed version.

GLAZED PUMPKIN PIE
1 cup sugar
2 teaspoons corn starch
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
1/4 teaspoon ground clove
3/4 cup dark corn syrup
3 tablespoons margarine
1 cup mashed cooked pumpkin
3 eggs, slightly beaten
3/4 cup chopped pecans (optional)
1 unbaked (9-inch) pastry shell

Mix sugar, corn starch, salt and spices in heavy saucepan. Stir in corn syrup, margarine, mashed pumpkin. Bring to a boil over medium heat, stirring occasionally. Boil 3 minutes, until slightly thickened. Remove from heat and stir gradually into slightly beaten eggs. Pour into unbaked pastry shell. If desired, sprinkle with chopped pecans. Bake in a hot oven (400 degrees) 15 minutes; reduce heat to moderate (350 degrees) and bake 40 to 45 minutes longer or until filling is firm.

FROZEN PUMPKIN PIE
1 baked (9-inch) pastry shell
1 cup mashed cooked pumpkin
1 1/4 cups sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon ginger
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg

Light Dessert Idea

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Despite the pumpkin pie with cheese or Indian pudding a la mode tradition for Thanksgiving dessert, many people consider a lighter dessert better after so vast a meal. For them we suggest this fruit combination, using beautifully dark red Emperor grapes. They are particularly fine this fall and very plentiful.

A friend of ours who likes to invent new recipes had us sample her grape dressing for turkey and other poultry. Not traditional, but you may like it.

EMPEROR GRAPE AND PEARS WITH CURRANT JELLY SAUCE

(Serves 5 to 6)
2 cups Emperor grapes
2 cups diced ripe pears
1 jar (6 oz.) currant jelly
About 2 tablespoons hot water
Whole Emperor grapes
Wash grapes, cut in half and remove seeds. Add to pears. Melt currant jelly over low heat. Add enough hot water to thin jelly to pouring consistency. Cool. Pour over fruit. Chill and serve garnished with 3 whole Emperor grapes.

GRAPE DRESSING FOR POULTRY

(Serves 5 to 6)
5 cups toasted bread cubes
2-3 cup sliced celery
1-3 cup diced onion
1 1/2 cups seeded Emperor grapes, quartered
1 tablespoon minced fresh parsley
1 teaspoon grated lemon peel
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon poultry seasoning
1/2 teaspoon ground black pepper
1/2 cup boiling water or chicken broth
1-3 cup butter or margarine, melted
5 to 6 lb. ready-to-cook fowl
Combine all ingredients. Stuff body cavity and crop of a ready-to-cook goose, chicken or turkey.

Food Buying Guide

The following guide to the nation's food shopping buys for this weekend was prepared by the U.S. Departments of Agriculture and Interior for United Press International.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Weekend shopping will find good supplies of fall foods laid out ready for the holiday. Good buys should continue on poultry and promotion items. Careful shoppers will be able to find a large array of fruits and vegetables.

Gourmet cooks will be delighted at the winter harvest of nuts. Filbert and brazil nuts, pecans, walnuts, peanuts, and almonds continue to increase in supply as the west coast and the southern season begins.

In most areas, beef is a good buy. Roasts and steaks are favorably priced, and pork chops, roasts, and hams are budget buys. In the lamb section, check for bargain tags on chops and roasts.

The winter harvest of vegetables includes brussels sprouts, broccoli, cabbage, carrots, celery, greens, lettuce, onions, potatoes, radishes, squash, sweet potatoes, and rutabagas. Apples, bananas and grapefruits bound, along with grapes, oranges, and cranberries in the fruit section.

Nationally, fish sticks and portions are the best fish buys.

Winter Greens

A colorful winter salad combines broccoli, tomatoes and iceberg lettuce. Cut broccoli into small flowerets. Arrange with tomato quarters on a bed of lettuce. Top with dairy sour cream mixed to taste with prepared mustard, seasoned salt and pepper.

Holiday Relish

Cranberry candied oranges make an unusual and delicious relish to go with holiday meat or poultry. Place 6 small oranges in a saucepan and cover them with water. Cover pan and bring to boil. Cook about 5 minutes, or until orange peels are pierced easily with toothpick. Drain and cut oranges into eighths. Remove seeds, and arrange orange pieces in shallow heatproof casserole.

Foreign News Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst
In the closing days of the Philippines presidential election campaign, it seemed as if every billboard and every post along the winding, banana and coconut-lined roads of Luzon Island bore the likenesses of the opposing candidates.

The Filipinos are enthusiastic political campaigners and this time was no exception. The campaign was dirtier than usual, but on the other hand the 50-odd violent deaths that accompanied it were fewer than some of the pessimists had predicted.

Principal antagonists were liberal incumbent Diosdado Macapagal and Ferdinand Dr. Marcos, president of the senate and a member of the president's own party until April, 1964, when he resigned to join the nationalists.

Marcos Has Advantage
From the outset it had seemed that Marcos had a slight advantage. In the first place, no incumbent Philippines president ever has been elected to succeed himself.

At the age of 48, Marcos had youth in the tradition established by the late U.S. President John F. Kennedy. He had a beautiful, society wife who also turned out to be a tireless campaigner. And, to round out the family portrait, they had three small children.

As a guerrilla fighter and a hero of Bataan against the Japanese in World War II, Marcos had withstood torture by the Japanese and with 22 medals emerged from the war as the nation's most decorated hero.

He became a member of the bar with the highest grade in history of the Philippines bar examination.

Therefore, it was no great surprise when Marcos won.

In its constitution and its legislative processes, the Philippines are set up in the pattern of the United States. But what sets them apart is the slander of their political campaigns which make even the bitterest U.S. campaigns no more violent than an old ladies' tea party.

Macapagal had won the 1961 elections on a reform platform promising to clean up government corruption. Since even Filipinos admit that to eliminate all graft from their government would be a monumental task, it was not too surprising that in the most recent campaign Macapagal found himself accused of helping to spread graft and corruption.

Murder Charges
Macapagal supporters answered back with charges against Marcos ranging from bouncing checks to murder.

The murder charge went back to 1935 when a political rival of Marcos' father died of a .22 calibre bullet through the heart.

The son first was convicted of killing and then later cleared by the supreme court. The victim of the slaying died while brushing his teeth and in this campaign, a symbol used against Marcos was a tooth brush with the victim's name stamped upon it.

The campaign lasted a year with damage both to government and to the economy. Much as they love politics, many a Filipino is wondering whether the country can stand another like it.

New Hemlines Swing In

By HELEN HENNESSY
Women's Editor

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
NEW YORK (NEA) — Take a dash of Carole Lombard, a touch of Barbra Streisand, then mix and you have the newest look for the winter season. The shades of the '30s are very much alive for winter '65.

The look is narrow, soft and swirling. On dresses and skirts, hemlines flare and bounce and, as they did 30 years ago, skirts spin not at the hipline but close to the hem.

The newest version of this hemline action is a tucked skirt with ripples, falling from below the hips. And there are circle skirts, accordion pleats, godet inserts—all swinging prettily about the knees.

For contrast, the tops of these fashions are spare and uncluttered. Many are low-buckled with skinny sleeves done in flat tweed, textured or smooth wool and crepe — another favorite of the 1930s.

Everyone will be improvising when it comes to mixing fabrics. You can stir up costumes that will include plaids and checks, tweeds and checks or camel fleece and hand-printed satins. All get together for a winter fashion jamboree.

Gray is an important color for the season, from pale to charcoal, and it is most effective when a touch of burnt orange, is added (more shades of the '30s.)

Beige tones, terra cotta, camel and moss green are much in evidence, both alone and combined in patterns, and black is still a winner when teamed with white or a warmer color.

This season the old and the new combine to create a colorful, swinging fashion look.

Grate a little extra cheese when grating cheese for a recipe. The extra can be kept in the freezer to use when you're in a hurry.

BOUNCY HEMLINES — The bouncy hemline makes news this season and it is newest when flipped on the bias for a low ruffle on the bold plaid dress (left) with a straight, tie-collar. Softly spinning dress (right) flows out in a circular whirl at the skirt and sleeves and combines bias checks and solid tweed. Tie belt points up the long torso line. These designs are by June Frances for Claret.

Start - wrinkle - preventive measures in your early 20s. One simple exercise takes only five minutes. Every morning and evening simply hang your head down toward the floor. MISS DEB
... answers questions about Junior Miss etiquette, grooming and interests.

Q. Last week I had dinner with my family and some of their friends. They served olives as a relish, and I know everyone looked right at me when I was taking the pits out of my mouth. I felt so clumsy and embarrassed, I didn't know what to do.

A. Probably no one noticed. After all, when you think about it, everyone there had the same problem. Just be subtle about getting inedibles back to your plate. It's all right to remove olive pits and chicken bones with your fingers — quickly and daintily. Cherry pits should be slid from your mouth to a spoon and then to the plate. Hiding the action behind your napkin only attracts attention, so avoid that. And, please, don't be embarrassed.

Q. I just tried on my last year's stretch pants, and they're too tight in back! I know I haven't gained any weight. What should I do?

A. Do the See-Saw! It's guaranteed to remove inches where you want to lose them. Every morning, first thing, sit on the floor with your legs bent and your arms under your knees. Lean back until your shoulders touch the floor. Then swing up to the sitting position. Repeat without stopping. Want another? Try the Cradle - Rock! Still sitting on the floor, draw your knees to your chin, fold your arms around them, and rock from side to side. Keep rocking, a little longer each day. It won't be long before your stretch pants fit smoothly again.

Q. There's a real cute boy in my math class that I would love to date. But he rarely asks me out, and when he does, it's always at the last minute. Sometimes I feel like refusing, even if I'm not busy, just as a matter of principle. What do you think I should do?

A. That's a real dilemma! And really up to you to decide! If you're not busy and think it would be fun, go ahead. Last minute dates can be loads of fun, sometimes more than planned-for weeks events. A solution to the problem: If you're not free when he asks, ple entrusted to them the time and effort to make sure they are punished for all wrong acts before it is too late.

Dear Abby....
Leave Things Be And Let Sleeping Man Lie

DEAR ABBY: My brother, Joe, passed away last January and was buried in a plot with an empty plot beside it. I was told the other plot was for Hilda, (Hilda is his second wife.) I knew Joe had bought a double plot when his first wife, Zeldia, died, and I was surprised that Joe wasn't buried next to Zeldia. However, I didn't say a thing. Just yesterday my brother, Hymie, who was in charge of all the funeral arrangements, told me confidentially that in Joe's will he was asked to be buried next to Zeldia, but the will wasn't read until after the burial. I told Hymie that I didn't think this was right and we should take steps to do something about it. Hymie said, "Oh, what's the difference? Joe and Zeldia are both dead now, and it might hurt Hilda." What do you think?

THE SISTER
DEAR SISTER: Let the sleeping man lie. No good will come from exhuming the issue.

DEAR ABBY: Virgil and I have been married for 14 years and we have three children. Our problem is our families — on both sides. They have made nervous wrecks of my husband and me. On the advice of several doctors, we have decided to quit associating with all our relatives, but they refuse to leave us alone. They drop in all the time and irritate us by bringing up subjects they know we don't care to talk about. If they give us Christmas gifts this year, should we accept them or not? If you advise us to accept them, we'll have to give them gifts — right? I hate the thought of such hypocrisy. There is no getting along with these people. They have stirred up nothing but trouble ever since our marriage. What is your advice?

VIRGIL'S WIFE
DEAR WIFE: I advise you to follow your doctors' orders, and quit associating with all who irritate you. But let these people know of your intentions so they won't continue to drop in and annoy you. Once you have done this, you won't have to worry about any Christmas gifts.

DEAR ABBY: I read with interest your answer to the roomer who had noticed things missing from his room, and later found it was the nine-year-old boy who had taken them. I liked the answer you gave him, and hope for the boy's sake your advice is heeded.

If this roomer could sit down and visit with some of the 12- and 13-year-old boys in a Training School or Reform School, he'd learn that most of these boys blame their teachers and parents for letting them get away with small things until they were finally caught by the police, and then it was too late for parents to intervene.

I've worked with boys in trouble, and most of them tell me they never had a father who cared enough to punish them unless he was drunk, and then he used his fists or a club. I know of some cases where the boy continued to steal until he tried the one "big job," which cost him his life with a bullet in his head or a car wreck while fleeing the police.

Maybe if you print this letter, parents and teachers will realize they owe the young people

Brushes are major beauty news. However, like all your grooming tools these must be kept clean. Otherwise their constant use without cleaning can cause skin infection. Clean mascara brushes and lipstick brushes by soaking them first in a baby oil to remove residue. Then swish through warm soap suds and rinse.

It takes more muscles to frown than to smile.

RON CROSS

When you compare scores White Deer and Gruver are about as evenly matched as you can get and the Greyhounds might have a very slight edge.

White Deer does have one thing going for them, the fact they eased by Gruver, 7-0 in the second game of the season for both clubs.

Since that time Gruver has lost only one other game, 14-6 to 1-AA Stinnett.

Blancas Favored in Caracas Tourney

Both the Bucks and Greyhounds have high scoring football teams and both are stingy when it comes to giving up points.

The Bucks have run for 382 total points while Gruver has scored 354. The Greyhounds have given up 64 and White Deer 32.

This gives White Deer a 38.2 offensive average and a 3.2 defensive mark and Gruver a 35.4 offensive mark and 6.1 defensive mark.

To compare scores the Bucks downed Panhandle, 45-6; Claude, 41-6; McLean, 48-0; Clarendon, 40-14.

The Greyhounds beat Panhandle, 63-8; Claude 66-0; McLean, 52-8 and Clarendon, 44-12.

Gruver coach Leon Chapman suits up but 16 boys for varsity games but will have more on the bench Friday night since his B team season ended.

Coach Cole Huffman has 22 of the finest football players these two eyes have ever seen. His backs all look like ten flat 100-yard dash men but he insists none of them can run it any faster than 11 seconds.

They're Deceiving

If this is so then the Bucks are rather deceiving and maybe its power, rather than speed that has made them so successful this year.

Of course it could be they have one of the finest coaches in this area. Huffman has brought 'em a long way, especially since only two starters are seniors. This means that Huffman should be able to sleep nights again next year.

Randy Elliott and Vernon Marlar with Gary Smith thrown in have carried the mail for White Deer this year.

But the Bucks defense has been the big show, scoring six shutouts, almost as many as Sandy Koufax.

They've had more than one touchdown scored against them only once, when Clarendon scored 14 points, but of the 32 total all but two have been scored against the reserves.

If you want to see what should be about the best football game in this area in a long time you'd better hurry. Reserve tickets sales started at 9 a.m. Tuesday morning and were gone at 9:30 a.m. General admission tickets are $1.50 each.

In case you've been wondering former News Sports Editor Jeni Cohane dropped assault charges against the Loreda football coach.

Blancas Favored in Caracas Tourney

CARACAS (UPI)—Homero Blancas, the Professional Golfers Association's Rookie of the Year, was considered a major threat in the sixth annual $15,000 Caracas Open Golf Tournament beginning today at the Valle Arriba Course.

Blancas, the 27-year-old University of Houston graduate who captured the Mexican Open last week, was considered a favorite along with Art Wall of Pocono Manor, N.Y., and Al Besselink, a former Grossinger, N.Y., pro.

The trio was bracketed as favorites because their short-precision games are more suited to the short and narrow Arriba fairways than the flag-ball hitting style popular among United States golfers.

Other United States golfers competing are Wes Ellis, Don Stickney, Bob McCallister, Bob Rosburg, Jackie Rule, Dave Ragan and Howie Johnson.

Additional international competitors are Italy's golf champion Ippolito Della Torre, Mexico's Antonio Cerda, Spain's Ramon Sota and Canada's Jeff Beaumont.

Versalles Happy Over MVP Award

BOSTON (UPI)—Zollo Versalles, the Minnesota Twins shortstop fined for listless play before the season began, today was named the American League's Most Valuable Player for 1965.

A committee of the Baseball Writers' Association of America made the 24-year-old infielder an overwhelming choice by giving him 19 of 20 first-place votes and a single second-place ballot.

Versalles, a go-go guy whose solid hitting, determined base running and far-ranging fielding was a key to the Twins' American League pennant march, was on a ticket-selling mission at Altoona, Wis., when he learned of his runaway victory over Twin outfielder Tony Oliva in the annual voting.

"Oh, my God," he told United Press International. "Excuse me, I've got to go pray."

It was just about eight months ago that Versalles riled

Sam Mele, Minnesota's American League manager of the year, by his failure to go all-out after a ground ball in a pre-season exhibition game with the New York Mets.

Mele immediately pulled Versalles from the lineup and touched off one of the funniest disputes of the season in which the fiery, Cuban-born shortstop talked his way to a $300 fine. Versalles needed Mele with the then-popular rumor that third-base coach Billy Martin would be the next Minnesota manager.

"That'll cost you $100," Mele is reported to have said to launch their dugout debate.

"Make it $200," Versalles answered. "Okay, it's $200," Mele replied. "How about three," the shortstop snapped. And Mele once again agreed.

The dispute and escalating fine were summarily called off at that point but Versalles settled down to become the Twins sorely needed leader.

Versalles batted a relatively unimpressive .273 but he led the major leagues in runs scored with 126 and paced the American League in at bats with 666 and total bases with 308 as well as tying for doubles leadership with 45.

Versalles, who played briefly in Washington in 1959 and 1960 before becoming a club regular when the Twins moved to Minnesota in 1961, collected 182 base hits including a dozen triples and 19 home runs over the regular season. He drove in 7 runs from his leadoff spot in the lineup and stole 27 bases.

Oliva, American League Rookie of the Year in 1964 and batting champion in both his freshman season and again this year, landed a distant second in the voting, 101 points behind Versalles.

Brooks Robinson, the league's most valuable player a year ago, was third this season followed by Chicago White Sox relief pitcher Eddie Fisher.

Eckert Vows He Won't be Czar

CHICAGO (UPI)—New baseball Commissioner William D. Eckert won't be a "czar," but says he will insist on calling signals.

Eckert, 56, a retired three star Air Force general, was chosen unanimously Wednesday by the 20 major league club owners to replace retiring Commissioner Ford C. Frick.

He made it clear immediately that he believed he had full authority to operate for the best interests of baseball and that he intended to assume that authority.

"I've never operated as a czar," he told newsmen, "but I'm going to call signals as I see them in all fairness and equity in the interests of the public, the players and the franchisees."

"I agree there is full authority for me to step in and do the job that needs to be done."

Started Immediately

Eckert, who took over as commissioner immediately under a seven-year contract at $65,000 per year, said he would begin immediately to learn about his new job, through conferences with Frick, American and National League Presidents Joe Cronin and Warren Giles, and other baseball figures.

"I'm going to encourage clean sports and honest competition," he said, "but I'll be better prepared in three months to say how I'll handle the job as commissioner of baseball. I'm ready to go to work now and I plan to get in touch with Frick and his staff immediately."

The owners also approved selection of Lee S. MacPhail, president and general manager of the Baltimore Orioles, as administrator in the commissioner's office, the top job under Eckert. MacPhail received a three-year contract at $40,000 per year. It was believed Harry Dalton would succeed him as Orioles general manager.

Eckert, whose only baseball background was as a high school player in Madison, Ind., said he believed baseball sought him out because of his business background and not his playing ability.

Broyles, King Are Happy Over Practice

By United Press International

Coaches J. T. King of Texas Tech and Frank Broyles of Arkansas felt practice sessions of their teams Wednesday were perhaps the best of the season. But neither was satisfied.

What worries them is Saturday's game at Fayetteville, Ark. The game decides the Southwest Conference title.

Broyles was pleased because the Razorbacks looked good and said it was the clear, crisp weather.

"They get lightfooted in cold weather," Broyles said.

"It was an all-around good practice," he said, "but maybe not good enough." Then he told the Hogs of some of the threats of Tech.

The Red Raiders, spurred on by hundreds of students and fans who showed up at the practice field, pleased King.

"Our practices this week have been our best," King said, "but frankly, we'll have to play even better Saturday to beat Arkansas."

King said both the offensive and defensive linemen look especially good. He said end Jeff White, who played only one down last week against Baylor, went at "full speed" Wednesday.

Southern Methodist looked a little better than usual, Coach Hayden Fry said, in their preparation for Baylor.

"I think they are picking up," he said. "But still have a long way to go. The Mustangs worked on basic offense and did some running."

At Waco, Baylor polished their passing with Kenny Stockdale and Mike Marshall taking turns consistently hitting receivers.

The Bruins also tried defenses they expect to use against the Mustangs' varied offense.

Texas A&M took it easy geting ready for their next game. The game is not until Thanksgiving — the traditional game with Texas.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself no more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

A New Pistol, Old Controversy

As population grows more dense and room for rugged individualism less plentiful, many of the rights of citizens taken for granted in the past come under scrutiny.

The right to bear arms is an example. The question today has little relation to the issue as it was set forth by the society that existed at the beginning of our history.

This comes into sharp focus as California grapples with the possible consequences of a revolutionary new weapon that has appeared in that state.

It is a hand-carried device which uses the principle that made the bazooka of World War II the weapon it was. Though it may look like a fancy automatic, it is in reality a small rocket launcher, says Thomas C. Lynch, California's attorney general.

It has a steel-penetrating ability greater than that of a .45. It is silent and recoilless. Though the weapons are initially being sold as collectors' items, Lynch cringes at the thought of their getting into the hands of criminals.

This may be only the beginning. Stemming from military research, the principle is being adapted to carbines and shotguns and, conceivably, these may also be offered for mail-order sale.

The attorney general has urged his state to move into the controversial thicket of weapons regulation with all speed.

Dan Boone might be shocked at the idea, but the privately owned gun of our day is becoming as inimical to domestic tranquility as the bars and redskins of his.

Facts for Dropouts

A report just issued by the Ohio State Bureau of Unemployment Compensation says again what has been said so many times in the past to school-age youngsters:

A high school diploma is becoming the basic minimum requirement for success in later life.

A five-year comprehensive study, first of its kind ever made in Ohio, reveals what Gov. James A. Rhodes calls "startling figures." — Among men 25 years old or older, 38.7 per cent of those without jobs had an educational attainment of eighth grade or less in 1960. In 1965, the figure was 39.8 per cent. — In 1960, 21.1 per cent of the unemployed men in Ohio had not completed high school. In 1965, unemployment among the same group jumped to 30.6 per cent.

Clearly, says the governor, the need to complete high school is becoming greater with each passing year.

College degrees seem to be the best insurance against joblessness.

— In 1960, approximately 9 per cent of the unemployed in Ohio had completed college. In 1965, this figure dropped to 7.7 per cent.

— In 1960, 7.7 per cent of the unemployed had some college education. In 1965, this percentage was reduced to 5.5 per cent.

A Shortcut to Safety

Those giant jets, which the airlines advertise as carrying their own radar equipment will have nothing on the smallest private plane if a test being conducted in Boston by the Federal Aviation Agency proves the feasibility of a new idea.

The idea is to televise the radar scopes used by air traffic controllers on the ground and transmit the pictures to tiny television sets in small planes.

Sixteen pilots are flying two aircraft in shifts in the vicinity of Logan International Airport, watching the blips on 5-inch screens in their cockpits. Half of the pilots are experienced in interpreting radar displays; the others have had little or no such experience.

A similar system was introduced in New York harbor in 1962, using land-based Coast Guard radar and television sets aboard ships. The FAA now hopes to determine whether the technique can be used in the sky by ordinary private pilots as a means of sighting and avoiding other planes and bad weather, and as a navigational aid.

Plan Now, Go Later

One of the least urgent matters South Viet Nam would seem to have to worry about is the encouragement of tourism.

The government does, nevertheless, maintain a National Tourist Office, which has produced two brochures telling of the country's beauty, culture and friendliness.

Such a description sounds ridiculously out of touch with reality, yet the beauty of the land and the culture and friendliness of the Vietnamese people are very real beneath the blood and fire that presently engulf them.

A time for leisurely appreciation of these things will come to Viet Nam, and no one desires it more than the tens of thousands of Americans now engaged in less pleasant duties there. They would love to be tourists.

Unfair Aluminum Crackdown

When President Theodore Roosevelt counseled "Speak softly and carry a big stick," he never intended that the U.S. government adopt such a policy towards its own people. He had in mind the enemies of the United States in foreign lands. But the Johnson administration, in the current aluminum crisis, seems to have adopted this policy toward the aluminum industry.

In so doing, Mr. Johnson is following in the path of the late President Kennedy, who committed one of his biggest errors in cracking the federal whip against the steel industry. When the steel industry made moves to raise prices, Mr. Kennedy dispatched federal agents to the offices of the steel companies. Employees of the companies heard a knock on the door at night and were rooted from their beds to produce documents demanded by federal agents. This was socialism — or worse!

Mr. Johnson has been a bit more subtle, but not much. Recently, a few companies announced a price increase of a half cent a pound on aluminum products. They took this action, presumably, because labor unions last spring demanded and got a 4.5 per cent wage increase, well above the guideline figure of 3.2 per cent. Even so, the ingot price for aluminum — after the minor increase — was below that prevailing four years ago.

It is hard to figure out what the federal bureaucrats expect private companies to do when costs go up. Prices, to make sense, must take into account the real cost of production.

At any rate, the announcement of an aluminum price increase apparently enraged Mr. Johnson. Immediately there was the announcement that the federal government would call a conference concerned with the sale of aluminum from the national strategic materials stockpile. There is no questioning the intent of this federal announcement. It was to strike the fear into the hearts of aluminum makers that, unless they rescinded the price increase, the government would dump aluminum on the market in order to drive down prices.

The public should clearly understand the significance of this move. It is a case of black-mail pure and simple. Without the statutory authority to regulate prices, the Johnson administration would use the stockpile to compel industry acceptance of a particular price line.

The administration's action is all the more reprehensible in that the stockpile of aluminum was not created for price regulating purposes but for national defense. The idea behind stockpiles is that metals must be kept on hand in case of sudden shortage and an immediate need by the defense establishment. Stockpiles are for defense, not for politics or for socialistic regulation of the American economy. If Executive Branch representatives had candidly admitted that stockpiles would be used to regulate prices, the stockpile legislation would never have become law.

Another aspect of the aluminum crisis is that retaliation always is directed at private enterprise, never at unions. Consider the maritime strikes of recent years. Their cost to the American economy has been staggering. They have had a colossal inflationary effect. The last such strike was estimated to cost the country at least $1 billion. But the Johnson administration never suggested that servicemen or non-union workers be used to get the docks back in operation or the ships moving on the seas. Direct government action is planned only when the victim is American business.

Now the Johnson administration says that it is concerned with the inflationary effect of an increase in aluminum prices. He paid no attention to the fact that the price increase was fully justified by the previous wage increase. The president — and the public — should bear in mind that the federal government is the chief generator of inflation by the spending of billions on welfare programs and foreign aid. If Mr. Johnson wants to curb inflation in effective manner, he can curtail some of his pet anti-poverty projects which have been expounded as wasteful. But the truth is that Mr. Johnson prefers to slap down free enterprise instead of reducing the waste occasioned by projects that are politically profitable to his administration.

NO POLITICAL DEAL — McCormack supporters admit that no political deal has been worked out with Senator Kennedy, and none appears possible at this time.

Speaker McCormack, who publicly endorsed the abortive federal judgeship appointment of Francis Morrissey, declares, "There has been neither an offer of support nor assurance of neutrality from Senator Kennedy."

While a Kennedy endorsement has not been sought and is not expected, there is no question that the McCormacks would welcome one.

Senator Mansfield's backing of O'Donnell was arranged personally by him. Mansfield told him he would be glad to support him in any way requested.

National Political Spotlight Turns On Democratic Fight in Massachusetts

By ROBERT ALLEN and PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — The Massachusetts gubernatorial race is still months away, but the intense maneuvering and jockeying for the Democratic nomination is already taking on national significance.

Strikingly illustrative of this is the inside word being put out by Washington friends of Kennedy O'Donnell, former White House assistant to Presidents Kennedy and Johnson.

They are saying O'Donnell will announce his candidacy at a Boston political rally before the end of the year — probably December 22 — and that he will have the active backing of Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, Mont., a close friend.

O'Donnell's principal opponent will be former State Attorney General Edward McCormack, nephew of Speaker John McCormack, who is already busy rounding up support from potential delegates to next spring's Democratic convention.

McCormack, 41, who was defeated by Senator Edward ("Ted") Kennedy in a bitter 1962 primary contest, will have the powerful backing of Vice President Hubert Humphrey.

While Senator Kennedy is remaining tight-lipped on his choice for governor, O'Donnell's friends are claiming an endorsement will come at a politically strategic time.

As grounds for that belief, they point out that Kennedy has told Senate colleagues he will take a definite stand in the gubernatorial struggle, and that he will make his position known in advance of the state convention.

O'Donnell partisans also are stressing that a number of Kennedy organization workers have pledged their support to O'Donnell — something they would never do without Kennedy's knowledge and approval.

It is also asserted that other Kennedy assistants have professed sizable campaign contributions to O'Donnell.

NO POLITICAL DEAL — McCormack supporters admit that no political deal has been worked out with Senator Kennedy, and none appears possible at this time.

Speaker McCormack, who publicly endorsed the abortive federal judgeship appointment of Francis Morrissey, declares, "There has been neither an offer of support nor assurance of neutrality from Senator Kennedy."

Question Box

QUESTION: "Do all men have an equal right to associate or not associate with another person?"

ANSWER: There is no such thing as a right to associate. The "right" to associate with another person is a privilege where both parties believe they are benefited by the association. The privilege of associating or not associating is a very important privilege. The privilege, of course, extends not only to individuals, but to groups. No man has the privilege of associating with a group unless the group believes he is worthy of the privilege of association.

DEFENSE TAKES SECOND PLACE

The primary care of every sensible man must be his health, because obviously, if he does not go on living, nothing else will matter for him. For the same reason, the primary care of any nation and particularly of its government must be national defense, because if the country is conquered and enslaved by a foreign aggressor, nothing else will matter for it.

Because there is no escape from this simple, straightforward reasoning, everyone gives lip service to its conclusion. Every American who is responsible, or wants to be considered responsible, agrees that national defense should take first place among all the functions of our federal government.

Nevertheless, the fact is that right now national defense is taking second place in our federal government, in spite of the war in Viet Nam and the continuing nuclear menace from Soviet Russia and Red China. National defense spending is down while federal spending for domestic services is up. The gap between them is steadily narrowing and will soon cease to exist.

Over the past ten years federal spending for defense and defense-related activities has risen 39 per cent; but during that same period, federal spending for domestic services rose 164 per cent. In 1955 we spent two and a half dollars on defense for every dollar spent on domestic services. In 1965 we allotted four dollars to domestic services for every five to defense. Each year we spend less for defense and more for big government at home. National defense belongs in first place, not second. Let's put it there and keep it there.

PERSNICKEY TEEN-AGERS (Weekly Labor Forecast and Review)

Two programs aimed at providing jobs for teen-agers in Detroit are lagging, officials say, because many of the youths refuse to work for the standard $1.25 an hour.

Recruiters from both projects have been forced to canvass the streets for the high school dropouts and unemployed youths.

Even so, officials of the Youth Employment Project say they found only 30 of the 70 young men sought for $1.25-an-hour summer training programs aimed at boosting youth into higher-paying fulltime jobs after 15 weeks.

And the N neighborhood Youth Corps, which hoped to find 1,500 youths for its training program by June 15, enrolled only 800.

Jay LeGault, a counselor-supervisor for Y.E.P., said one youth told him, "You're crazy, man. I don't work for that kind of money."

"These kids are living in a fool's paradise," LeGault said. "They just don't have enough distant vision to see there's no future in gas station and grocery store jobs."

LeGault said the youth who turned down the job was asked to join a program featuring four weeks of testing and on-the-job training.

"When I get this kind of static," LeGault said, "I tell them I'm not recruiting kids for professional migrant workers. We have contacts and can fit them in if only they will stay with us."

But nobody will hire for $3.85 an hour a 17-year-old who's never worked in his life and has no training and no references," he said.

rebels' most ardent demand — they would have a new extreme demand the day after.

No painstaking examiner of the campus mood can find even the faintest strands of constructive policy in rebel protest.

Sweeping emotional demands are made without any thought of ramifying consequences. Students moving in formless condition imagine they can tear apart, overnight, organisms of society which are decades and even centuries old.

Young people always have wanted the millennium tomorrow. With breath-taking assurance, they often have assumed that they alone are free of human error.

Not often before, if ever, have they assumed — as the rebels insistently do — that their arrogance (and glaring ignorance) deserves to be elevated forthwith to the status of national policy.

Pathetically, too, the insurgents have chosen the path of easy activism. It is easy to sit down, burn a draft card, try to stop a train, throw a thousand wrenches into organized America's workings.

The rebels, in a sense, are thus blind victims of the ease introduced into the affluent, over-organized society they turn from.

Organized America, after all, is here to stay. The only significant activism is the kind of arduous toil that will change its shape and content — not destroy it in spiteful, unthinking strokes.
