NAMED POWER INVESTIGATOR

Walter Rogers Makes Report to People Tour

Congressman Walter Rogers of Pampa will continue his general report to the People sweep of the Panhandle when he addresses the Lions Club in White Deer tomorrow night.

The dinner meeting, scheduled for 6:30 p.m., was added to the congressman's busy schedule of speaking engagements since he arrived in the Panhandle last Wednesday afternoon.

Rogers, in his Pampa office today, said he had planned to remain here over Thanksgiving, but his plans have been changed by his Saturday appointment as chairman of a special House subcommittee to investigate last week's power failure in the Northeast United States.

The Pampa congressman was named to the subcommittee chairmanship by Rep. Oren Harris of Arkansas, chairman of the Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee. Rogers is third-ranking member of that committee and chairman of its permanent subcommittee on Communications and Power.

Chairman Harris has called Rogers' special subcommittee into session Monday, Nov. 29.

Rogers said here today this would mean he will arrive in Washington the night before Thanksgiving following a noon-day address before the Amarillo

Chamber of Commerce on Wednesday, Nov. 24.

The congressman said he planned to spend the Thanksgiving weekend preparing for the Monday session of the special investigating subcommittee the following Monday in Washington.

"The main thing the subcommittee needs to do," Rogers said today, "is drag out all the dirty linen and let the people know what happened to cause the power blackout, how to prevent its recurrence and let them know just what the real situation is."

The congressman said there is the matter to be straightened out of the long and continued controversy between federal and private power.

"In the overall picture to prevent another power failure such as the one last week," the congressman stated, "the two sources of energy can interconnect in a way beneficial to the government, to private power companies and to the general public."

Rogers said, in brief, what the subcommittee plans to do is "take a long, hard look at the electric energy picture."

Meanwhile, Federal Power investigators in Washington said they want major eastern power companies to supply them with "complete and specific" information on what steps had been — and will be — taken to prevent another big blackout in the northeast.

Federal Power Commission Chairman Joseph C. Swidler, named by President Johnson to head the inquiry into the massive northeast power failure, dispatched telegrams during the weekend to all utilities serving the area.

Swidler and other FPC investigators worked through the weekend attempting to piece together the reasons why the power failed. Sunday they examined photographs of electrical disturbances, called oscillograms.

Congressman Rogers was scheduled to go to Dumas late today for an address at a 7 p.m. chamber of commerce steak fry.

WITH BOMBER SUPPORT

American Troops Trounce Viet Cong

SAIGON (UPI) — American troops supported by B52 bombers today mauled three battalions of North Vietnamese army regulars on the slopes of a jungle mountain near the Cambodian border. Reports from the front said as many as 1,000 Communists may have been killed.

The North Vietnamese army units reeled back after two days of bitter close quarter fighting and the thunderous B52 raid on Chu Pong Mountain 220 miles northeast of Saigon. It was the first B52 raid of the war in support of the battle-front troops.

American fighting men of the 1st Cavalry Division (airmobile) swept forward after the B52 strike, and officers radioed reports of counting 244 Communist bodies in one area where another 100 enemy dead were believed strewn on the battle ground.

Artillery and air liaison officers estimated that bombs and shells killed another 600 or 700 Communists.

Officers at 1st Cavalry Division headquarters told UPI correspondent Joseph L. Galloy that they expected the Communist death toll to reach 1,000.

The eight-jet B52s began tearing chunks out of the North Vietnamese positions at 4 p.m. Within an hour, Communist resistance slackened, and the cavalrymen reported they were rolling forward against nothing heavier than sniper fire.

The B52s were diverted in midflight from another mission to clear the way for the cavalrymen against a force of 1,500 Communists entrenched on the mountainside.

Tons of 750-pound bombs fell within two miles of American positions.

The Guam-based B52s have flown more than 60 missions in the war, but all the previous raids were aimed at suspected targets of Communist strength. They had never been used to back up combat troops in the fields.

American losses were described as "light" but at least one U.S. plane was shot down, killing the pilot, and one 1st Cavalry platoon was reported cut off and completely surrounded by the Communists for a time.

The battleground is located in the rugged hills flanking the La Drang River, just west of the U.S. Special Forces camp at Plei Me in the central highlands.

The "Flying Horsemen" of the 1st Cavalry have been searching the jungles near Plei Me in an attempt to wipe out the Communist force which besieged the garrison last month.

A Viet Cong mine today blasted a railroad train off its tracks only four miles from Phu Bai Airport, a base 395 miles north of Saigon which is guarded by American Marines.

Near Saigon Sunday, a Viet Cong booby trap inflicted moderate casualties on a patrolling U.S. Army platoon. The platoon was searching for an unexploded 1,000-pound bomb dropped by a Vietnamese plane during a raid on a Communist bunker system.

In the air, U.S. Air Force B52 bombers from Guam attacked five suspected Viet Cong targets only 40 miles north of Saigon Sunday.

U.S. military authorities reported the loss of two American aircraft over North Viet Nam — a Navy A4 Skyhawk jet and a Marine HU3AD helicopter searching for the downed Navy pilot.

Both craft were shot down (See TROOPS, Page 3)

Congo's Tshombe Tries Political Comeback

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (UPI) — Former Congolese Premier Moïse Tshombe rallied his forces today for another political comeback.

Parliament opened the way for Tshombe's return to power Sunday by voting no confidence in the government of Evariste Kimba, the man named to replace him a month ago by President Joseph Kasavubu.

The vote was 134-124 with seven abstentions.

Tshombe's supporters pounded on their desks and chanted "Tshombe... Tshombe" for several minutes after the vote was announced. The Congolese constitution requires parliamentary approval of a government within 30 days of its nomination by the president.

The Kimba government was sworn in on Oct. 18 by Kasavubu at the end of a long dispute between Kasavubu and Tshombe.

Kasavubu must now appoint a new premier. There was no indication of his choice but it was thought unlikely that Tshombe would be named.

There were reports that Tshombe would run for the presidency in elections scheduled next February.

Stolen Loot Recovered in Dallas Home

DALLAS (UPI) — Police raided the home of the father of one of three suspects in a $100,000 jewel robbery in Kansas City and recovered "nearly all" of the stolen gems Sunday.

The loot was composed of hundreds of diamond rings and a bracelet, ranging from a $7,500 ring of 2½ carats to several other rings with $4,000 price tags still on them.

The stolen goods were recovered only three days after police arrested three men as suspects in the holdup of Goldman's Jewelry in Kansas City.

George Henthorn, a Kansas City detective working with Dallas police, said the jewelry was found in the home where Maurice Harper, 19, had visited his father. Harper's father was not implicated.

Harper, Howard Carney, 21, and Lovie Linzia, 20, were in custody. Joseph Garner, a fourth suspect, was at large.

Police said they believed "all but $500 in cash from a petty cash box had been recovered."

High Court Strikes Down Subversives Act Section

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court today struck down a major provision of the 1950 Subversive Activities Control Law which requires Communist party members to register with the federal government.

The unanimous decision was one of a long series of reverses the statute has suffered at the hands of the courts in the past 15 years. It has almost been rendered unenforceable for practical purposes.

The question of whether the party itself must register as an agent of the Soviet Union is now at issue in a federal court trial in Washington.

Today's opinion, by Justice William J. Brennan Jr., said the statute impairs an individual's right to be free from possible self-incrimination.

Brennan said in his ruling that an individual registrant could be prosecuted for violation of the Smith Act and another section of the Communist Control Act. This would amount to unconstitutional self-incrimination in the court's opinion.

Today's decision came on an appeal by William Albertson of Brooklyn, N. Y., and Roscoe Quincy Proctor of Oakland, Calif.

The law provides that if a

Communist-action organization fails to register after being ordered to do so by the subversive activities control board, each member must register himself.

Proctor and Albertson raised the question of possible self-incrimination on their own behalf.

The party itself has fought off efforts to make it register and is now being tried a second time for failure to do so. The first conviction was overturned on the ground that the government had not shown the party had available a registrant who would not incriminate himself.

McNamara Continues Reserve Cut

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara, flying in the face of a strong congressional protest, is pushing ahead with plans for immediate dissolution of 751 Army Reserve units containing 55,000 men.

A Defense Department announcement during the week-end said the Pentagon chief and his top aides had "carefully considered" a Senate Armed Services Committee resolution asking him to defer action on the plan until next March.

But, the announcement said, "they decided that the immediate inactivation of these units, which are not required by contingency war plans, is essential." Thus the dissolution will go ahead as scheduled.

The step will leave the Army Reserves without any organizations of division size. It will accomplish one of the major purposes of McNamara's proposed merger of the Reserves and the National Guard, which Congress refused to approve.

In another weekend statement, almost as controversial, the Pentagon said McNamara had approved a trial run of his "total package" plan for ship construction. The plan will be applied to construction and purchasing of a new fast vessel now on the drawing board. It is known as the "FDL" (Fast Deployment Logistics), which will be designed to carry helicopters and handle cargo at record speed.

Rear Adm. William A. Brockett, chief of the Navy's Bureau of Ships, and Rear Adm. Charles A. Curize, his deputy, requested retirement recently in protest against this new procedure.

Coast Guard Praises Cruise Ship Crewmen

MIAMI (UPI) — Crewmen aboard the fire-wracked SS Yarmouth Castle, which carried an estimated 82 persons to a watery grave in the Bahamas on Saturday, did a "damn good job," a U.S. Coast Guard official said today.

In addition to the 82 persons still officially listed as missing by owners of the Yarmouth Castle, one passenger died in Nassau as a result of his injuries.

Many of the survivors of the sea tragedy had complained of panic among the crew members of the ship during the five hours early Saturday morning when it burned and sank. They said no instructions had been given passengers on what to do.

But Coast Guard Capt. V.C. Niebergall, arriving here today aboard the cruise ship Bahama Star, the chief rescue vessel, said in response to questions from newsmen about the crew: "I think they did a damn good job. There were a few exceptions, of course."

Niebergall did not elaborate on the "exceptions."

Many survivors also had said they heard no general alarm sounded on the doomed cruise ship when fire broke out forward of the main stack sometime around 1 a.m. EST Saturday. Niebergall said, however, that it was possible an alarm had rung.

"With conditions aboard the ship the way they were," he said, "there is a possibility they did ring the alarm and the passengers didn't hear it."

Niebergall, en route to report to Admiral Louis B. Thayer, commander of the 7th Coast Guard district here, said his investigation team has "come up with some ideas on how the fire started."

He did not explain these, however. He said the Coast Guard's formal board of inquiry will sit and hear the case "real fast." The date for the assembling of the board has not yet been set.

Other Coast Guard officials have had trouble in their first efforts to interview the Yarmouth Castle's skipper, Greek-born Captain Byron Voutsinas.

"The company lawyers got to him. We haven't," said Coast Guard Cmdr. G.T. Treffs. "The chief engineer is gone, too."

Capt. Carl Brown, skipper of the cruise ship Bahama Star that picked up 250 survivors, said Capt. Voutsinas told him that he knew where the fire started.

The Coast Guard, meanwhile, said the 82 missing persons from the Yarmouth Castle were presumed to be "drowned, burned or trapped on the ship when it went down" in 400 fathoms of water about 60 miles northwest of Nassau.

Five critically injured survivors were flown here Sunday night for treatment at the Jackson Memorial Hospital's Burn Center. Fourteen others remained in Nassau's Princess Margaret Hospital.

Some questions surrounding the sea disaster has been explained, but much has not.

Treffs said investigators have "determined that there was no general alarm given on the ship or S-O-S sent" because the fire spread so quickly from the stem to stern of the 365-foot ship.

Treffs said officials had been unable to learn exactly what started the fire, but a few possibilities had been eliminated.

"I wouldn't say a cigarette could have started this one," the commander said. "They smolder. This fire erupted and spread quickly."

Soviet Expert Claims ICBM Maneuverable

MOSCOW (UPI) — A Soviet missile expert claimed Saturday the Russians are developing long-range intercontinental missiles that can maneuver in flight.

Western military experts here said the statement, made by Col. Gen. Vladimir Tolubko, was believed to be the first Soviet claim of a maneuverable ballistic missile.

"Even more powerful rockets which can deliver nuclear warheads over ballistic as well as orbital trajectories and are capable of maneuvering on trajectory are under development," Tolubko, first deputy commander of the Soviet Strategic Rocket Forces, said in a Tass interview.

His statement, however, left unclear whether such rockets are still on the drawing board, in the prototype stage or have actually been tested.

Article Says McNamara Ignored Try for Peace

NEW YORK (UPI) — Adlai Stevenson blamed Defense Secretary Robert McNamara for refusing a North Vietnamese offer to talk peace in the autumn of 1964, according to an article in the current issue of Look Magazine.

The author of the article, radio and television reporter Eric Sevareid, said Stevenson told him privately two days before the U.S. ambassador died of a heart attack that McNamara also turned down a cease fire suggestion made by U Thant, U.S. secretary general.

McNamara said the report was "totally false." In a statement issued today, he said "there is not one word of truth in the remarks made about me or the position attributed to me in the article."

He added: "My position has long been known. It is that we should search in every possible way for a peaceful settlement in Viet Nam and should be prepared for unconditional discussions with the governments concerned, in large groups or small ones, at any time and any place."

Sevareid, a close friend of Stevenson's, wrote: "Early in the autumn of 1964, he went on, U Thant, the U.N. secretary general, had privately obtained agreement from authorities in North Viet Nam that they would send an emissary to talk with an American emissary, in Rangoon, Burma. Someone in Washington insisted that this attempt be postponed until after the presidential election. When the election was over, U Thant again pursued the matter. Hanoi was willing to send its man. But Defense Secretary Robert McNamara, Adlai went on, flatly opposed the attempt. He said the South Vietnamese government would have to be informed and that this would have a demoralizing effect on them; that government "was shaky enough, as it was."

Sevareid said Stevenson described Thant as "furious" over the failure of his patient efforts. Eventually the U.N.

chief proposed an outright ceasefire with a truce line to be drawn across Viet Nam and neighboring Laos.

"U Thant," wrote Sevareid "then made a remarkable suggestion: United States officials could write the terms of the ceasefire offer, exactly as they saw fit, and he, U Thant, would announce it in exactly those words. Again, so Stevenson said to me, McNamara turned this down, and from Secretary (of State Dean) Rusk there was no response, to Stevenson's knowledge."

Sevareid said it was obvious that Stevenson believed these opportunities should have been seized "whatever their ultimate result."

Springlike Weather Prevails

Almost springlike weather covered Pampa and the Panhandle today with more of the same in store for at least the next few days.

The U. S. Weather Bureau said the unseasonable weather would continue for the next three to five days.

The local area was not the only spot in the state with the warm weather. The weather bureau said most of all of Texas was enjoying much of the same.

Overnight readings over the state ranged from 45 degrees at El Paso to 73 at Corpus Christi and Laredo.

Rainfall amounts for the 24-hour period ended at 8 a.m. included Alice .03 and San Antonio .01.

Skies were cloudy to partly cloudy with fog at Texarkana and Corpus Christi.

Children Both Young and Old Love New Dolls That Will Do Everything

By HELEN HENNESSY
Women's Editor
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK (NEA) — Any one old enough to recall a child's enchantment on Christmas morning because her new doll could open and close its eyes must be staggered by what has happened to dolls since that first innovation.

Now they walk, count, spell, answer questions, wet diapers, drink from bottles and cry real tears.

In a showroom in New York, a long way from the legendary North Pole toyland, I met a bright-eyed, petite young lady of 70, who has been Santa's helpmate in making little girls happy since the days of World War I.

Beatrice Alexander, master dollmaker, has not only brought joy to the hearts of countless children, but an avid gleam into the eyes of adult doll collectors and a resounding clang to the cash registers in stores where her dolls are bought.

"I have always felt that dolls are little people to the children who love them and make friends of them," said Madame Alexander.

For this talented Santa's helpmate, dollmaking became a way of life quite naturally. Her Russian-born, German-educated father owned the first doll hospital established in this country. No wonder one of his daughter's biggest successes was Marybel, the doll who gets well.

CHARACTER DOLLS — Madame Alexander's "Sound of Music" dolls are charming replicas of the six children and Marie, their governess, characters of the Rogers and Hammerstein musical.

Marybel comes with spots for make-believe measles and casts and crutches for make-believe broken arms and legs.

"It may have been an idea born of nostalgia," Madame Alexander said. "The first dolls ever dressed or played with were those brought to my father for mending."

"I recall the tears of the little girls whose favorite dolls' bisque heads had broken. And I resolved one day to make dolls that were unbreakable."

Her famous "group dolls" are not only loved by children and grownups alike, but they spark the youngsters to be interested in a wealth of subjects. Curiosity about faraway lands is stimulated by her international dolls.

An interest in reading is developed by her storybook dolls — Miss Muffet, Bo Peep, Little Women, Alice and even Scarlett O'Hara — beloved characters for all ages. Even the world of entertainment is represented by her "Sound of Music" group of the six children and governess, Maria, and the Leslie dolls which are remarkably like the singer, Leslie Uggams.

But there is another side of the story of Madame Alexander's success. Some of her most exquisite dolls have become the property of private collectors and others are now museum exhibits.

At the Children's Museum in Brooklyn, N. Y., I saw her finest group of dolls depicting the coronation of Elizabeth II in all its glittering pageantry. Historically correct to the smallest detail, the collection of 36 figures is valued at $25,000.

Into private collections have gone her characters from famous paintings — Gainsborough's "Blue Boy," Reynolds' "Pinky," — and little figures of such well-known people as Ellen Terry and Geraldine Farrar.

One woman who collects antiques bought the Little Women group, enclosed it under a glass dome and feels it adds the charm of Americana to her living room.

At the request of the U.S. government, Madame Alexander designed replicas of the Statue of Liberty which were presented to a little Latvian girl who was the 150,000th displaced person to find refuge here after World War II.

Deserved fame has come to this renowned dollmaker, a grandmother who stands but 5 feet 2.

Dear Abby....

Abby Pleads Not Guilty To 'Burning' Sentence

DEAR ABBY: I recently read some advice in your column which just didn't sound like you, and it's bothered me ever since. A mother who signed "out-maneuvered" asked what to do about her two little boys, ages four and five, who'd sneak out of their beds in search of "goodies" after the family had retired. They'd get into the cupboard and refrigerator and help themselves to whatever was available. You told that mother to take the door off the boys' room and install a metal gate, which could be opened only from the outside! Abby, I'm surprised at you. You should have told her it was time she started to discipline her boys. A mother can't lock up her kids until they leave for college.

DISAPPOINTED IN YOU DEAR DISAPPOINTED: That advice didn't "sound like me," because I didn't write it. (It must have appeared in another column.) I wouldn't have told a mother to lock up her kids because, if a fire should break out, it could be disastrous. There are some crimes for which people are sentenced to "burn" — but raiding the refrigerator is not one of them.

DEAR ABBY: I wish you would say something to those merchants who start in with Christmas the day after Halloween. They should be ashamed of themselves for using the natal day of our Lord to boost their sales! Why, I haven't even started to plan my Thanksgiving when I have Christmas things shoved in front of me. With a two-month running start, Christmas is all worn out before it even gets here.

DISGUSTED IN NEWARK

DEAR ABBY: I have heard so many people complain that the merchants are starting so early to cash in on the Christmas season that Christmas has become just one big commercial sales promotion. Abby, I for one am so thankful that Christmas gifts, wrappings and ribbons are available in October because that's when I have to do my Christmas shopping. I have a son and daughter-in-law in Japan, and if they're to get their Christmas gifts in time, I must mail them no later than November 1st. I couldn't enjoy my Christmas at home knowing my children were alone in a foreign country without their gifts. Please tell your readers not to think the merchants are trying to make all they can out of Christmas. They are making it possible for parents to give their children in faraway lands a merry Christmas.

AIR FORCE MOM IN RICHMOND, CAL.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "PERPLEXED": No, it's not some newfangled custom; neither is it proper to send a gift with the price tag and sales slip enclosed. Had this occurred only once, I would assume it was a case of careless clerkmanship. But since you've received three such gifts from the same party on three separate occasions, you may assume that it was intentional. (Could the giver be trying to tell you something?)

Art Influence Is Apparent in Women's Ready-to-Wear Collections for Spring

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Paris designer Yves St. Laurent says now he hates Mondrian. But New York designers seemed to have spent the summer touring art galleries.

In almost every direction you look in the ready-to-wear collections for spring, there's an art influence — pop art, Nouveau art, abstract art, and some of the influences of Piet Mondrian, the modernist whose geometris inspired St. Laurent and set off an international rash of copying.

St. Laurent's comment was made in the New York Times after he'd toured the United States for three weeks and saw store windows filled with cheaper copies of his Mondrian inspired designs.

But other designers are art authorities also and use it to shape their new collections. Adele Simpson, who also does her own manufacturing, collects the works of Edward Maresca, an artist she discovered in Denver, Colo., and for spring showed clothes in the same vibrant reds and greens the artist uses.

Whether museum-inspired or not, there's plenty of color around in the new clothes. The florals are numerous, colors sharply defined rather than blurred. And the geometric look goes on, in huge checkerboard and graph paper-type patterns, in barber pole stripes.

These were among the trends as New York's pace-setting manufacturers opened their collections for buyers and press. More previews will be held on through to Thanksgiving.

Mosaic and floral prints were scattered through the collection of Christian Dior-New York. Peacock blue, royal and khaki combined in a print for floor-length evening clotures cut on slim lines.

'Four Dreams of Men's Recording Heard in Lefors

Lefors Art and Civic Club met Tuesday evening at Civic Center with their president, Mrs. R. H. Barron, presiding.

During the business meeting, the flower bulb sale was discussed along with the Thanksgiving project of delivering baskets of food, and the Christmas project of sending gifts to the state hospital at Wichita Falls. Two food items and two Christmas gifts are to be brought by each member to the Nov. 23 meeting. Names will be drawn at that meeting for the club Christmas party, to which the members are invited.

Miss Norma Lantz had charge of the program which was the recording of an address given to a live audience by Dr. John Furby, the "Jet Age Circuit Rider," from Trans World Airlines. He is the holder of the all-time record for speaking engagements, making 66 speeches in 65 days in 22 different countries.

Mrs. Bud Cumberledge and Mrs. Jack Thacker served refreshments to Mmes. Stella Airington, R. H. Barron, R. W. Beck, Ray Chastain, James Gattlin, Keith Geisler, G. N. Mougner, Merray Stroud, Hugh Terry, Tony Timmons, Joe Watson, Harry Youngblood, John Horan, Howard Archer, Jack York, Dale Garrett and Mickey Johnson.

The Gold Rush Is On In Holiday Fashions

By HELEN HENNESSY
Women's Editor
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK (NEA) — Girls on the go will soon be seeking glamorous clothes for the gay holiday season. And one choice not to be overlooked is metallic yarn. It's the brightest star to appear on the holiday fashion horizon.

Designers have used fabrics glowing with this yarn to interpret all the important looks of the season.

The gold rush is on in clothes inspired by the Wild West. One stylist has created a group with low-slung western pants and long sleeve dresses accessorized with kerchiefs tied casually at the neck.

Traditional denim and gingham are replaced by a slinky knitted fabric gleaming with Melton. And tailored wools in oversized plaids take on an after-five glow with the addition of a subtle metallic thread.

The golden touch appears again in embroidery in sari-inspired motifs or geometric designs.

Anyone lucky enough to be headed for a holiday cruise to warmer climes will find that peek-a-boo fishnet gets the metallic treatment, too, in beach cover-ups.

This will be a glittery year for the go-go set from discotheque to parties and from at-home soirees to beaches. You can choose the gold standard or take a shine to new-minted silver.

Knife and Fork Meets Tonight

Philip B. Gilliam, noted Colorado jurist, will speak to members of the Pampa Knife and Fork Club at 7:30 p.m. in the Coronado Inn.

Gilliam became the youngest judge in Denver's history when he accepted the appointment to that city municipal court.

He held that position only four years. He was elected to the judgeship of Denver's juvenile court to follow in the footsteps of nationally known Ben Lindsey.

Now Judge Gilliam is finishing his twenty-second year on the juvenile court. During this time he has heard more than 100,000 cases involving both juveniles and adults.

In spite of his long tenure on two benches, Gilliam still is a comparatively young man. He was born in 1907 in Denver, studied in that city's public schools, went to College and was admitted to the Colorado bar in 1932.

Earth Probe Logging Unit Almost Ready

HOUSTON (UPI) — Two giant units designed to keep a running record of Project Mohole — means to accept bite into the earth's crust — are scheduled to be delivered in January.

Project Mohole, an earth probing experiment in which the National Science Foundation hopes to drill some 35,000 feet below the earth's surface, is scheduled to get under way next year.

The logging units will be dropped into the drill hole for Mohole. The drilling site is to be a point in the Pacific Ocean some 115 miles north of the Hawaiian Island of Maui.

The Mohole operation will be handled from a floating platform in water some 14,000 feet deep. The primary objective of Mohole is to get samples of the earth's crust and of the underlying mantle.

Each of the logging units to be used is 18 feet high, 23 feet long and nine feet wide. The units will record data on drill depth, wear and also will take down geophysical and geological information.

The units are manufactured by Schlumberger Well Surveying Corp. Brown and Root Inc. is the prime contractor.

Pampa Librarians To Attend Area Meeting in Plainview

Librarians, library board members, and friends of libraries from a 44 county area of the Texas Panhandle which is District I of the Texas Library Association will meet Saturday at Wayland Baptist College Library in Plainview.

Attending from Pampa will be Mrs. Carolyn Spidell, Lovett Memorial Librarian; Mrs. Winifred Crinklaw, assistant Lovett librarian; Mrs. Helen Wilson, Pampa high school librarian; Mrs. Ila Pool, Robert E. Lee librarian and Mrs. Ruth Watson, Pampa Jr. High School librarian.

Registration will begin at 9 o'clock in the Van Howeling Memorial Library in Plainview with the program starting at 10 a.m. in Gates Hall Auditorium at the college. Primary purpose of the meet will be an institute to focus attention on the forthcoming Governor's Conference on Libraries for Texas.

The Governor's conference is scheduled next March 23 in Austin and has been called by Gov. John Connally to hear "Texans from all over our State... present their thoughts on ways and means to solve Texas' library problem." to quote Connally's telegram announcing the conference.

Institutes similar to the one being held in Plainview are being held in the other seven districts of the Texas Library Association. Goal of the institutes is to organize ideas for presentation at the Governor's Conference and to stimulate local interest among laymen in attending the conference and working for big improvements in school, college and public libraries in Texas. Miss Thelma Andrews, Director, will depend in large measure on Texas librarians, friends, with the help of their friends (of libraries) and trustees can build local interest to the point that community leaders are eager to participate in the conference.

Mohole Officer To Talk to Rotary

"Project Mohole," this country's scientific effort to explore and sample all the layers of the earth's crust and the underlying mantle, will be the topic of a talk by Donald M. Taylor before the Pampa Rotary Club Wednesday noon in the Coronado Inn.

Taylor is the project information officer for Brown & Root. Prior to joining the firm in 1963, he was a freelance writer and editorial consultant for a number of oil industry publications.

The speaker is a former president of the Pipe Liners Club of Houston and recently was appointed to the Houston Chamber of Commerce Committee for the Sciences. The idea of "Project Mohole" was first conceived in 1957 and Phase I of the operation was completed in 1961 off the coast of California. Phase II is now underway.

Unitas Understudy Paces Colts Near Title

By United Press International
No one will ever accuse the Baltimore Colts of extravagance when it comes to signing quarterbacks.

The story of how Johnny Unitas was acquired as a free agent while playing semipro football in Pittsburgh for 36 weeks in 1954 is legendary and now they've come up with another bargain in Unitas' understudy Gary Cuozzo.

Cuozzo, who had appeared in 18 games as a substitute over three-season span, was given his first NFL starting assignment Sunday when Unitas was sidelined with a painful back injury. The script was straight from Hollywood as the former Virginia star that nobody wanted fired five touchdowns passes (a team record) in leading the Colts to a 41-21 triumph over the Minnesota Vikings.

In other NFL games, Green Bay edged Los Angeles 6-3; Cleveland walloped New York 34-21; Chicago dumped St. Louis 34-13; San Francisco downed Detroit 27-21; Philadelphia defeated Washington 21-14; and Dallas whipped Pittsburgh 24-17.

Cuozzo was overlooked by all 14 NFL teams in the 1962 draft of college seniors and only the fact that he was chosen to appear in the post-season Senior Bowl game that year gave him the opportunity to play pro ball.

Weeb Ewbank was the Colts' coach at that time and filling in as one of the honorary coaches at the Senior Bowl. Cuozzo impressed Ewbank enough to get an invitation for a tryout and the signing soon followed.

Few quarterbacks have come cheap — especially for Ewbank. Cuozzo lived up to his notices as one of the game's finest second stringers at Minnesota as he picked up 201 yards through the air while completing 16 of 26 aerials, including five TDs. The five scoring strikes eclipsed Unitas' best effort and increased Cuozzo's career total to eight.

The victory, Baltimore's eighth in nine games, enabled the defending Western Division champs to maintain a one-game lead over Green Bay. The Packers snapped a two game losing streak with one of the shortest field goals in league history. Stalled six inches from the end zone with 37 seconds remaining, the Packers called on Don Chandler who stepped back to the seven yard line and pierced the uprights for the second time during the afternoon.

Tech, Arkansas Game Big Show in Conference

By United Press International
Texas Tech tries to hog-tie the Arkansas Razorbacks at Fayetteville next Saturday and the Southwest Conference title, the nation's longest active winning streak and a Cotton Bowl berth will depend upon the outcome.

Arkansas clinched no worse than a tie for the Hogs' fifth title in seven years last Saturday by blunting South Methodist's bid 24-3 last week, but still the menace of Tech's Red Raiders hangs over the Ozarks stronghold and the Hogs' 21-game victory string.

SMU visits Baylor at Waco and TCU hosts the Owls, who lost a 14-13 decision to Texas A&M last week, at Fort Worth. The Aggies and Texas, nursing its unprecedented fourth league loss under Darrell Royal after a 25-10 loss to TCU, will be idle this week.

Jackie Kemp dabbles in politics, public relations, skiing and newspaper writing but to the Buffalo Bills he's all football player.

Acquired from the San Diego Chargers in a tricky $100 waiver deal in 1962, the 30-year old former occidental star is the big reason why the Bills have virtually clinched their second straight Eastern Division title in the American Football League.

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself no more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

A Farmer Speaks His Piece

One of the first to receive help from the federal government was the farmer. Ever since the passage of the Agricultural Adjustment Act in 1933 and the subsequent subsidy program, the farmer has come more and more under government control. Annual payments direct to the farmer under the support program have gradually grown until today the expenditures total over $3 billion a year. It is quite refreshing, therefore, to see that many of the farm leaders of today are among those who are decrying this entire government giveaway program. Among the most prominent farm leaders to recently sound off his opposition is Charles Baker Shuman, president of the 1,647,455-member American Farm Bureau Federation, the nation's largest and most influential farm organization.

In an interview published in Time Magazine, Shuman explained that he regarded the agricultural bureaucracy in Washington as a kind of socialist Santa Claus engaged in a monstrous plot to make the nation's farmers live off "sugarplum subsidies" rather than the honest fruits of the soil. Unfashionable, by today's standards, Shuman distrusts government in any form and spurns its handouts.

'Christmas Airlift' Proposal

We think Senator John Tower's suggestion to have Defense Secretary McNamara authorize a "Christmas Airlift" of packages to servicemen in Southeast Asia is a good one.

If the regular mails are clogged and cannot handle Christmas mail to our boys in Vietnam, certainly something should be worked out, and quickly, to see that they are not disappointed at holiday time. Their lot over there is tough enough without adding Christmas sadness.

Here's what Senator Tower wrote to McNamara: "Many Americans are experiencing difficulties already in getting packages to their relatives in Vietnam. Postal facilities are heavily pressed. Military transportation must be primarily utilized for necessary weapons, equipment, supplies and manpower replacement and rotation. As Christmas approaches the demand is constantly rising."

"However, many Air Force Reserve troop-carrier wings exist throughout the nation which could take Christmas packages to Southeast Asia as a part of their regular training flights. These Air Reservists are fully capable of filling this need, and many of the wings likely would volunteer for a Christmas Airlift. In addition to presents, books and magazines might also be beneficially included in the Christmas packages along with regular letters and cards. If a question of funds restricts your action, I will introduce in January a measure calling for special appropriations, to reimburse your budget and I feel certain Congress would promptly authorize those funds."

Such an airlift would materially improve the morale of our men fighting Asiatic Communism, and certainly the flights would be fully consistent with the normal training requirements of our Air Reservists, as suggested by Senator Tower. The senator's plan has our full endorsement.

Do Tests Need Testing?

Here's an encouraging word for parents who may have gone into shock when Junior emerged from his psychological aptitude tests branded with having more talent for digging a ditch than running a bank.

An expert in such matters says that such tests often aren't worth a whoop and may, in fact, do as much harm as good.

Dr. Henry Weitz, director of the Duke University Counseling Center and an associate professor of education at the university, suggests therefore that a national commission be established to study misuse of such testing and come up with a set of ground rules.

Noting that our current society seems to have a "kind of addiction" to psychological testing, Dr. Weitz lists several reasons for what he calls "psychometric malpractice."

— Many of the tests themselves have little scientific merit.

— They are often misused by the people who give and interpret them.

— They are misunderstood by the general public. After all, Dr. Weitz points out, such tests are only one factor to be considered in determining a person's capabilities.

Professional support is thus publicly given to what some laymen have felt — that the country and the world may

WASHINGTON:

Only a Few Reds Needed For Control

BY RAY CROMLEY WASHINGTON (NEA) — The number of Communists it takes to control a Vietnamese village turns out to be very small.

A captured report by a Red Viet Cong local official illustrates this dramatically. With only 26 Communist party members and a Communist Youth Group of 30, he controls a village of 6,000.

These party groups work through a farmers association of 274, a Liberation Youth Group of 150 and a Liberation Women's Group of 119.

Through these front organizations, the report says, the 26 Communist party members direct 2,000 people (two-thirds of the villagers) in party-led activities.

The Communist Viet Cong have put a major effort into organizing active local farmers, women and youth groups. The Reds manipulate these groups by playing on their hopes and aspirations and through having the executive secretary of each organization be a Communist.

In a village that's under their military control, Communist party members set up a National Front for the Liberation of South Viet Nam committee to serve as the ruling village council.

In China Mao Tse-Tung learned in 20 years of guerrilla fighting that he could control a village council if one-third of its membership were Communists.

Mao therefore made it a rule that no city or county governing council would have more than a third Reds. This gave the appearance of "democratic" government, yet insured Communist control.

Captured documents indicate the same thing is happening in the Communist-controlled areas of South Viet Nam.

These red documents report: No more than two-fifths of the membership of a village "ruling committee" (village council) shall be card-carrying Communists.

Sixty per cent of each village committee is to be composed of representatives from the various classes and organizations in the village. There is to be a representative for the landowners, one for the farmers, one for the women, etc.

This gives the appearance of wide representation. It also insures that no one group will be strong enough to outnumber the Communist bloc (40 per cent) on the committee. (To further insure their dominance, the Reds make certain that a good share of the 60 per cent "non-Communists" are people who can be readily dominated.)

The secretary of the ruling committee is always a Communist. He is the executive who runs the committee. He reports to the local Communist party leader, who gives him his orders.

The local Communist party leader, in turn, receives his orders from the district Communist party — and so on up the line to Hanoi.

The Communists use the Front committees to collect taxes, conscript manpower for military and economic requirements and to run rudimentary schools, hospitals and courts.

Thus the Communists attempt to escape blame for exorbitant taxes, high military conscription rates and local government bobbies while keeping authority firmly in their hands.

U.S. officials hope each such Communist village will tend to weaken within if vigorous democratic villages, able to protect themselves militarily, are created in nearby areas.

Wall Street, New York City, owes its name to Peter Stuyvesant who, in 1652, as governor of the little Dutch settlement of New Amsterdam, ordered a palisade built on the site to protect the town from feared invasions by the British. The last portion of the wall was removed in 1699 and both sides of the street were quickly built up.

Indonesian Military Defies Sukarno in Seeking 5 Million in U.S. Equipment

WASHINGTON — Indonesia's military leaders are going over President Sukarno's head and asking the U.S. to sell them $5 million in specialized communications equipment to bolster their drive against the Communists.

The decision is up to President Johnson. So far there is no indication what he will do. The Defense Department favors the sale. In a memorandum to the President, it has recommended the urgently-sought communications equipment be sold directly to the Indonesian army.

The State Department is against that, on the ground the U.S. should deal only through the Indonesian government — meaning Sukarno.

In effect, this would bar the sale of the equipment to the Indonesian army. Sukarno already has bluntly made it known he does not want the anti-Communist army to obtain this U.S. equipment.

The Red-leaning Indonesian President did that in a tantrum-charged meeting with U.S. Ambassador Marshall Green several weeks ago.

Green informed Sukarno the U.S. was willing to resume economic aid. A tentative figure of $50 million was mentioned. Green also stated the U.S. was willing to authorize the sale of military communications equipment — which has been pending since last summer.

Sukarno replied with an angry outburst in which he berated the U.S. and contemptuously rejected both proposals.

"We don't want your aid or anything else," he fumed. "We didn't ask for it, and we don't need it. If the Army wants communication equipment, we can get it from Russia."

When General Abdul Nasution, anti-Communist Defense Minister, was told of this rebuff, he immediately declared the Army was prepared to buy the equipment regardless of Sukarno. Nasution formally confirmed this in a written message to Green.

MYSTERIOUS SUBMARINES — While the Indonesian army is largely Soviet-equipped, its communications system was provided by the U.S.

The system was around 70 per cent complete when the U.S. cut off military aid several years ago following Sukarno's increasingly hostile attitude toward this country and close ties with Peiping. Some months ago the Army proposed buying $5 million of communications equipment to link its major installation with Army headquarters in Jakarta.

The State Department favored this. It also recommended to President Johnson that additional atomic fuel be supplied to Indonesia for a research reactor the U.S. presented in 1961.

Nothing was done on either matter after a series of anti-U.S. demonstrations that resulted in the burning of U.S. Infor-

Elusive Excellence

NEW YORK (NEA) — We remarked here the other day on the impossibility of getting into college nowadays without being at least excellent in everything from kindergarten recess to binomial equations.

A great many young people manage to get into college, of course.

But, as we pointed out, it must be very hard on the spirit to spend your entire youth being weighed in the balance by the great Admissions Office of the future, even if you are not found wanting.

However, somebody has to be in charge of the nation's standards. And if the contract is awarded to the colleges and universities, then theirs is the price of admission you must pay to have excellence.

And having said so, we felt the matter to be rather neatly explained. But on second thought, the picture is not quite so crystal-clear.

We have seen the caliber of youth rise to college entrance excellence before our very eyes, and watched them ascend to the campus.

But, for some strange reason, we cannot seem to find any tion of the Dominican crisis.

"When the United States government chose Garcia-Godoy to impose him as provisional President," continued Wessin, "it did not take into account that he lacked popular backing and this has caused the failure of the policy followed by the OAS and the U.S. negotiators in the Dominican Republic. Hector Garcia-Godoy is only a marionette whose strings are pulled by Juan Bosch and Bunker."

"As long as Bunker continues to back Garcia-Godoy against the will of 97 per cent of the Dominican people, the state of the crisis will go from bad to worse. On the democratic Dominicans and the armed forces rests the responsibility to end this situation and re-conquer the principle of authority, which will impede the repetition of a disastrous Cuba."

In unpublished sworn testimony to the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee, Wessin named two members of the provisional government as Communists.

According to him, they are Attorney General Thomas Morel Corda and Interior Minister Manuel Joaquin Castillo.

This charge was supported by another witness — a former rebel captain who defected and is now in the U.S. In sworn testimony at a closed-door committee session, he asserted that Garcia-Godoy's press secretary Franklin Dominguez, and assistant press secretary Marcio Veloz Maggiolo held similar positions under Colonel Francisco Caamano, former rebel commander.

This witness declared that Dominguez and Maggiolo are pro-Castro and were appointed by Garcia-Godoy over the vigorous protests of Dominican military leaders.

EVERYBODY'S BUSINESS

Federal Czars Outwitted By Lettuce-Leaf Cigarettes

By SAM CAMPBELL Business Editor

I don't recommend cigarettes for your T-zone. Nor do I think a lady looks especially high style when she purses her lips like a cowboy and sticks a weed between her teeth.

Nevertheless I had my reservations when the chain-smoking chair crews in the surgeon general's office blamed cancer on tobacco, and five-cigars-a-day congressmen decreed that a health warning should be inscribed on every cigarette package.

What I surmised they were really getting at was the advertising business. Our Washington friends already had succeeded in muzzling financial advertising. So I supposed this was just another chapter in a long-range plan to throttle back the information-carrying media by cutting down the revenue flow.

Good News Well, there's good news today on that front! A chap in Hereford has invented a tobaccoless cigarette. That's a double shocker. Hereford is one the windy plains of the Texas Panhandle made famous in yesterday by the roving herds of Charlie Goodnight.

The new cigarette innards come from lettuce leaves, and somehow or other — knowing Hereford as I do — it's very difficult to associate that historic village with lettuce leaves, especially in connection with smoking material.

The inventor of the tobaccoless cigarette is a New York pharmaceutical chemist, name of Puzant Torigian. Thirty-five Hereford businessmen put up $105,000 to finance operation lettuce leaf which goes under the brand name of Bravo Smokes.

Newsmen Puff United Press International reported 30 newsmen gathered in the cattle city to brave a Bravo. The resulting fumes were described as smelling "a little like perfume or perhaps imported tobacco."

Torigian told the press conference his aim is a modest "one per cent of the consumer market for tobacco." He said his product is not a substitute for tobacco, but a replacement for same.

Well, he's entitled to congratulations — especially from me. I spent many long years of research in the same line of endeavor. My first replacement was corn silk. That neither tasted nor smelled like imported tobacco or perfume. After that, I had a flyer at grape vine, finally burning out on Catalpa bean mellowed by intermittent bites of green apple.

But the real thrill in Bravos is not so much perfume or other imported orders. Rather it is the advertising possibilities. It will take some time before the surgeon general can come up with a plausible crackdown on lettuce leaves.

It's a brave stand by Bravos. Enterprise runs a desperate race against regulation. Still, I predict that the health czars will catch up. Eventually, that old devil lettuce will be classified with other graduations of official sin.

In the meantime, live it up. If you can't resist the fag habit, reach for a Hereford — I mean a Bravo.

BY M. L. HUNT

COMMUNIST CONTEMPT FOR CHRISTIANITY

At this time Gus Hall, National Chairman, Communist Party, USA, and speakers he selects, are welcomed to colleges, and college leaders raise large audiences to hear their messages.

They laugh long and loud at our stupidity and gullibility and try to provoke derisive mirth against our nation in their youthful captive audience. The college leaders, the regents, the donors and the state officials who make existence of the colleges possible should thoroughly evaluate Gus Hall and the principles for which he stands.

Gus Hal heads the illegal revolutionary conspiracy within America to turn this country over to the communists. He twice expressed his contempt for America and its traditions as follows: "I dream of the hour when the last Congressman is strangled to death on the . . . (word deleted) of the last preacher and since the Christians seem to love to sing about the blood, why not give them a little of it? Slit the throats of their children and drag them over the mourners' bench and the pulpit and allow them to drown in their own blood; and then see whether they enjoy singing these hymns."

This dramatic statement was first given before the 8th National Convention of the Young Communist League in New York during May 1937 and was repeated in 1961 at the funeral of Eugene Dennis, then National Chairman of the Communist Party, USA.

Americans who have not abandoned their principles in a fog of apathy owe it to themselves, their fellow citizen and the nation to ascertain if these statements were made and decide for themselves if communists are only kindly, underprivileged people.

Otherwise we would not be trying to find a Burton Rascoe on the horizon, or an H. L. Mencken, a Robert E. Sherwood, a Eugene O'Neill, a Franklin P. Adams. There appears to be a considerable difference between today's docile literacy and a thundering literacy.

Well, there is no need to extend this recitation. We have already admitted to not knowing the right places to look for evidence. So we will not point to the state of the public schools, the philosophy of opposition candidates, or the quality of nominees for appointment to the bench.

There are doubtless plenty of college graduates around. Our suspicion is that we don't really understand what the Admissions Office means by excellence.

Come to think of it, no high school drop-out could have devised the portable television, the Cobalt bomb, or plastic clothing.

And as we recall, somebody did tell us that the fellow responsible for the Beverly Hills billies is a graduate of both Phillips Exeter Academy and Yale University.

Foreign Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM
 UPI Foreign News Analyst

When West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard pledged West Germany's continued devotion to the United States, he also tossed a king-sized problem directly into the lap of President Johnson.

The pledge came in the peaceful provincial air of Bonn where before Parliament Erhard outlined his new government's program for the next four years and demanded a greater voice for West Germany in nuclear plans for NATO.

Erhard plans to visit the United States soon and his demand for nuclear partnership is one he will place directly before the President.

It is a demand almost as explosive as the bomb itself and so intertwined as to be inseparable from world disarmament, the future of NATO and western Europe and the course of the United States' own relations with the Soviet Union.

The problem dates from West Germany's 1955 entry into NATO and stems from an almost pathological fear, not only in the Soviet Union but among allies as well, of a resurgent nationalistic and ambitious Germany.

If opportunism can be linked with logic, then both sides have a case.

NATO was conceived as a defensive force against expanding Soviet Communism. Its greatest contributors have been West Germany and the United States.

Erhard declared that NATO must "accommodate itself to new political and military situations."

"In particular," he said, "we must solve the problems which derive from the fact that now some members of the alliance have nuclear weapons while others do not."

Complicating the picture is the fact that possession of the nuclear weapon is a matter of prestige.

When Red China successfully exploded its first nuclear device, it boasted that this was a weapon constructed entirely by Asians.

It is probable that President De Gaulle insisted upon an independent French nuclear program less for the defense of France than as a means to force his way into the councils of world powers.

A further difficulty is that few of the powers involved are willing to say exactly what they mean.

Erhard demands a voice in nuclear planning. He thus expresses West German national pride and negates West Germany's professed confidence in the nuclear umbrella provided by the United States. He also ignores the built-in fears of former victims of

YOUR CAR'S APPEARANCE

Ford's Can Protect Or Restore Beauty

The beautiful lines and speedy looks of today's cars can easily be marred by small dents and chipped paint. Does your car still look like new?

Ford's Body Shop at 111 N. Frost has all the facilities to put that new look back in your car. They can iron out the small wrinkles or remold a whole side. If your pain tis chipped or faded, they can return the smooth finish and beautiful luster it had the day you bought it.

The next time you start to go in your car, stop and look to see if it still looks as new and beautiful as it did when you bought it. If not, take it to Ford's Body Shop for a free estimate to have those dents taken out.

Ford's also has a twenty-four hour wrecker service. If you are ever in need of their services call MO 4-4619 or MO 4-4610.

Remember for major body repairs or just small touch-ups, Ford's Body Shop has the men and equipment to do the job right.

Graham Film Set for Week In Amarillo

"The Restless Ones", heralded as the most successful motion picture yet produced by Billy Graham Evangelistic Films, Inc., will be shown twice nightly for a full week in Municipal Auditorium in Amarillo.

Sponsored by an inter-church Steering Committee of business men and ministers, headed by Mayor F. V. Wallace, the picture will be shown at 6:15 and 8:30 p.m., Monday through Saturday, November 29 to December 4, with a Saturday matinee at 2:00 p.m.

The feature-length film, with the accent on youth, deals imaginatively and dramatically with the teen-age crisis. Featuring a background setting provided by the Billy Graham Los Angeles crusade, and artfully woven into the story pattern, "The Restless Ones" is a hard-hitting, bold approach to present-day social problems.

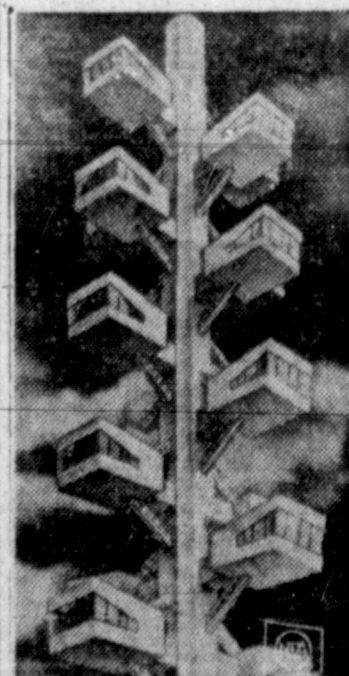

The plot is called one that dares to be different, a story which stirs the heart and mind, driving right to the core of current social problems.

The Christian message comes through in the midst of a realistic teen-age situation, cleanly and without cloying. Swift-moving plot episodes highlight the opportunities facing the church.

Screen writer James Collier has skillfully brought into focus the contemporary plight of both teen-agers and parents.

Mayor Wallace pointed out that the admission price of $1.00 will help defray the $11,000 cost of the one-week showing. Tickets are available at the committee office, 1007 Harrison, open daily from 9:00 a.m. until 5:00 p.m. through December 4.

JET-AGE TREE HOUSE — A West German architect has come up with this model for a hotel along the lines of an ultra modern tree house. Designed to be transportable and quickly put together, it could be set up wherever there is a temporary shortage of accommodations for travelers. Individual units also could be converted into three-room apartments.

FIRE PRECAUTION

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York City Police Department has taken precautionary steps to cope with any further protest immolations at the United Nations.

Fire extinguishers and blankets have been installed at a police booth across the street from the U.N. headquarters and a police emergency truck has been permanently assigned to a post in front of the building.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) — Goodbody & Co. says there is no reason for the aluminum price-boost controversy to snowball into proportions sufficient to jeopardize general business confidence.

However, the firm says the stock market may remain sensitive to the situation over the next few days.

BACHE & Co. says it considers the recent market weakness a healthy development that will do much to strengthen the market's foundations.

Kenneth Ward of Hayden, Stone Inc. says that until the market's pendulum swings too far in the speculative direction or a definite trend change is indicated, the search for undervaluation will continue with new groups and unexploited issues occupying an increasing share of the limelight of buying interest.

Stanley Heller & Co. says the recent market pattern of making internal corrections could provide enough rotation to soften the appearance of any setback.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Indicator Digest Inc. advises investors and traders not to jump to conclusions until they examine the market's action this week to determine its ability to withstand sudden adverse events.

The market survey firm says that probably the most pertinent comment it can make is that every stock should be taken on its own merits for the time being and the averages disregarded.

Purcell, Graham & Co. says the market still seems to be developing an important top from which the next major move for prices will be down.

Jay F. Gershkoff of Philips, Appel & Walden says the recent buoyancy displayed by many individual issues may spread throughout the list, causing some surprising movements by those issues affected by the whims of traders and investors alike in the days, weeks and months ahead.

Hornblower & Weeks-Hemphill, Noyes says that under the circumstances one would be justified in maintaining a constructive attitude toward the market in expectation of a traditional yearend advance.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court meets today to hand down opinions and orders and to begin the second week of arguments in the November session.
