Nation Step Away From Full Force Viet Fighting

BABY, IT'S COLD OUTSIDE — A couple of shivering Pampans check the thermometer in front of the First National Bank as the reading stood at only 10 above zero at high noon today. Tommie Nichols, 2300 Mary Ellen, left, and Arthel Gibson, 712 Sloan, take a second look at the big 10 and become convinced winter really is here. The weatherman's forecast for sub-zero temperatures in Pampa tonight makes it all the more convincing.

Labor Victory Set Stage For Early Election

LONDON (UPI) — The Labor party's sweeping victory in the Hull North by-election today set Britain speculating on the possibility of an early general election.

Political observers said Prime Minister Harold Wilson would be under tremendous pressure to cash in on the labor government's prevailing public favor in expectation of boosting his present overall parliamentary majority of four.

The swing to labor in Thursday's balloting was a solid 45 per cent. If this were repeated nationally in a general election, the government could expect to return to parliament with a majority of up to 150.

Wilson gave no hint of his future plans. But his telegram congratulating successful candidate Kevin McNamara on his "champion victory" clearly indicated his feeling that the country was overwhelmingly behind the government.

McNamara, 31, parlayed Labor's 1964 general election majority of 1181 into a 5.451 margin, the highest majority in the constituency for ten years. Most of his additional support came from the Liberals who slumped almost 5,000 votes on their 1964 figures.

The Conservative candidate, Toby Jessel, dropped only 300 votes on the 1964 ballot.

Leftwinger Richard Gott, who tried to split the Labor vote in protest against the government's support of United States Viet Nam policy, polled only 253 votes despite an intensive campaign.

"This is a tremendous vote of confidence in Harold Wilson and the Labor government," a jubilant McNamara told 2,000 cheering fans when the results were announced.

Sub-Zero Readings Forecast for Pampa

The light to moderate snow which blanketed the Pampa area through noon today was expected to taper off by evening, opening up the way for fair skies and sub-zero temperatures late today and tomorrow, the weatherman predicted this forenoon.

The low in Pampa Friday morning was 7 degrees with the mercury sluggishly edging into the midteens for an afternoon high. Tonight, the forecaster sees a low between zero and five below.

The only optimistic part of the forecast is the end of the snow for the time being. Through Sunday, skies will be fair to partly cloudy with a very slight warming trend.

The snow which hit Pampa is part of a huge new winter storm system which is expected to bring precipitation in one form or another to all parts of the state by Sunday.

Heavy snow was falling in Amarillo where the mercury was at five degrees. Two inches of snow was on the ground and it was still coming down at 7:30 a.m. Dalhart also reported snow and five degrees. Wichita Falls had freezing rain and sleet. Childress recorded two inches of snow.

The fresh mass of arctic air was located near Denison and just west of Mineral Wells at 8 a.m. Freezing rain, sleet and snow peppered the area just north of the front. The colder air should spread southward over the remainder of the state by Saturday.

Light rain and drizzle fell from the country east of the Pecos over North Central and clear to partly cloudy along the Northeast Texas. Skies were

Toughest Fighting This Year Strikes South Viet Nam

SAIGON (UPI) — Two American forces dropped by helicopter in the midst of large Viet Cong concentrations along the South China Sea coast today triggered the first heavy fighting of the new year in South Viet Nam.

A military spokesman in Saigon said the American forces picked the fight. The report of the fighting followed soon after the disclosure of indications that the commanders of some North Vietnamese and regular Viet Cong units have been ordered to scale down their activities and avoid large battles with American and Allied forces in South Viet Nam.

The spokesman said elements of the U.S. Army's 101st Airborne Division swooped down in a landing zone about seven miles north of Tuy Hoa and were forced to fight their way forward under a hail of fire from small arms, machine guns and mortars.

The Viet Cong fought desperately throughout the morning hours in an effort to escape the American assault.

The spokesman said by the afternoon the fighting had dwindled to sporadic engagements with only snipers left behind to delay the American advance.

He said the second fight involved a multi-battalion sweep of the Army's 1st Air Cavalry Division north of Bong Son in Binh Dinh Province.

The cavalrymen, in "Operation Masher," were heli-lifted into two landing zones today and were reported under heavy enemy fire almost immediately.

The divergent views were prompted Thursday by President Johnson's economic message to Congress. He appealed for adherence to the guidelines.

George Meany, president of the 14 million member AFL-CIO, said the guidelines suggested by Johnson were one-sided. He said the group would back them if similar restraints were imposed on business.

He called for across-the-board limits on costs, prices, profits, executive salaries and dividends as well as wages.

I. W. Abel, president of the United Steelworkers of America, said the guidelines were set too low and, in practice, have meant average wage increases lagged behind productivity growth.

Inflation Bound Economy Booming

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Everyone agrees the economy is booming but it appeared today there was little consensus on how to head off the heat which could turn expansion into inflation.

The AFL-CIO rejected the Johnson administration's guidelines which suggest a 3.2 per cent limit on wage hikes. Business spokesmen warned of the danger of increased intervention in their freedom to set prices.

In Congress, Republicans called for restraint in federal spending while Democratic spokesmen claimed the bombing economy and guidelines could support expansion of domestic programs and the war in Viet Nam.

US Convinced Peace Hopes Have Failed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson, perhaps a step away from ordering renewed bombing of North Viet Nam, is giving prime attention to the questions of when to act and how far to go.

According to high authority, Johnson is convinced the 36-day-old pause in air strikes has failed in its aim of bringing the Communists to the conference table.

The President was described as holding back until the last possible moment before making a final decision for resumption of the raids above the 17th Parallel boundary between North and South Viet Nam.

As late as Thursday afternoon, Johnson was reported as undecided as to when or to what extent to resume the first time.

He was understood also to have made no decision whether to state his position to Congress and the public or to simply let events take their course if and when the bombings start.

It was stated on excellent authority that Johnson has received no sign from any world capital that North Viet Nam, the Viet Cong guerrillas, or Red China want to talk about ending the war.

It is Johnson's belief he has the backing of a vast majority of Congress on the basic question of American determination to stand fast against aggression in Viet Nam until it ends.

But Johnson was said to be concerned with "hawks" in Congress who have called for

W. C. Epperson Enters Race For Pct. 2 Commission

W. C. EPPERSON, GOP candidate

W. C. Epperson, Pampa farmer, today became the first Gray County Republican to announce his candidacy for an office in the upcoming elections.

Epperson has filed for the nomination to Gray County commissioner, Precinct 2, in the May 7 primary. Epperson ran for the office in the 1962 election against Democratic incumbent Clyde Organ and polled 48 per cent of the votes in that election. With the announcement of Epperson's candidacy, five persons are now seeking the Precinct 2 commissioner's post.

The other four, all Democrats, are Organ, Don Walberg, Noah B. Goodin and Bill Jarvis.

The 42-year-old candidate was born in Kentucky, but has been a Gray County resident for 36 years.

The Eppersons live at 1900 N. Nelson in Pampa. The four Epperson children attend Pampa schools. Epperson, himself, is a graduate of Pampa High School.

Epperson, in announcing his candidacy, made the following statement:

US Might Triple Viet Nam Troops

United Press International JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., warned Thursday the United States might have to triple its 200,000 man force in Viet Nam and he called for unrestricted air strikes in an effort to halt the war.

Stennis, chairman of the Senate preparedness subcommittee, said if the all-out strikes bring mass intervention from Red China, U.S. must be prepared to meet the aggression with every striking force, including nuclear weapons.

Stennis asked for an end to restrictions against bombing the port of Haiphong and other areas of North Viet Nam. "The restrictions which have prevented us from waging a hard-hitting and all-out air attack in North Viet Nam.

"We cannot win with the current limited objectives and restrictions," the grim-faced senator told a cheering joint session of the Mississippi legislature.

"Once the President, as commander-in-chief, decides the policy, our professional military men are the ones to select the target," Stennis said.

The senator said if the battle was fought at present levels, it could be a 10 to 15 year war of attrition which would deplete the country's military and financial powers and lose it the respect of the world.

"We have not as yet committed a sufficient number of troops to actually reverse the tide of war and achieve a decisive military victory," he said.

Stennis predicted that by the end of 1966 there may be 350,000 to 400,000 Americans in Viet Nam and "I would not be surprised if we were ultimately required to commit 600,000 men to the battle."

Dallas To Decide on Pure or Treated Water

DALLAS (UPI) — City authorities say that if Dallas voters decide in a special election Saturday to stop adding fluoride to the municipal water supply, anti-corrosive and water softening chemicals also may have to go.

Most dentists recognize a little fluoride in drinking water as a means of preventing dental decay. To that end, the city council last Aug. 2 ordered fluoride added to the water supply to bring the proportion up to one part of fluoride to one million parts of water.

Opponents of fluoridation, they prefer to call themselves advocates of "pure water" — got in it—a voter has to vote against the proposition.

Entirely apart from fluoridation, it is important that the city council and Dallas water users realize the full effect of this proposed election," city manager Elgin Crull said in a letter to the council.

"This proposed ordinance has ignored and omitted a fourth important use of chemicals in the treatment of municipal water: that is, for the prevention of corrosion of certain types of pipes, water tanks and water heaters and for the reduction of hardness."

He thought the proposed ordinance allowed for adding chemical compounds to reduce bacterial content, to eliminate sand, trash and other foreign matter and to take out unpleasant taste and odors.

Dewayne Dallas, a spokesman for the "pure water" forces, said this is an "unfounded rumor." He said his legal experts had advised him the proposed ordinance is broad enough to let the city continue using anti-corrosion and water-softening agents.

Because of the technicality of having to vote against the proposed ordinance to be for fluoridation and the possibility that other chemicals may have to be excluded, the election has aroused heated interest.

He thought the proposed ordinance allowed for adding chemical compounds to reduce bac-

GOP Senator Says Viet Nam Policy Deserves Support

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., just back from South Viet Nam, reported today that the struggle there is "worthy of the United States" and deserves support of his fellow liberals.

His endorsement of President Johnson's military stand came as 15 liberal Democratic Senators appealed to the President not to resume bombing of North Viet Nam at this time.

Their round-robin letter, delivered to Johnson late Thursday, appeared to underscore the imminence of an end in the 36-day bombing pause.

"South Viet Nam is the zone of contact in the struggle for the freedom of Asia," Javits said in a speech prepared for Senate delivery. "Those who see it as anything else are fooling themselves."

The Senator said he "cannot agree" with other liberals who at times have "severely challenged our objectives and policies in South Viet Nam." The war there is a "war of aggression" by Communist forces, he said, not a war of liberation.

Javits said the peace offensive apparently has failed and the President has every right to consider it "fully rebuffed." He said:

"I believe the struggle in Viet Nam is worthy of the United States. I believe it is worthy of the cause of freedom. I believe it needs to be waged and I believe it deserves the support of the liberals."

Unlike Chairman John C. Stennis, D-Miss., of the Senate Preparedness Subcommittee who called Thursday for a massive escalation of the war effort, Javits said he would support resumption of "limited bombing," not attacks on Hanoi and Haiphong at this time.

'Hello Dollie' 'Goodbye Dollie'

Goodbye, dollie! That about sums up what Gerald Alewine, 834 S. Hobart, told city police Thursday. Alewine, a soft drink truck driver, reported that a dollie had fallen off his truck and was lost.

The dollie, a two-wheel affair valued at $28, was decked out in solid green with red hand grips.

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW
United Press International
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—You can talk about marketing and commercials and products on television, and all that stuff, but in the final analysis it is the great stars who command the medium and set the figures. And that's why CBS-TV is nervous these days.

The network, which has made the "top 10" shows in the national ratings virtually its private property for some time now, finds itself with several of its top stars definitely quitting their weekly series next season, and some others leaning in the same direction.

Dick Van Dyke is quitting his series, and no doubt about it. Jackie Gleason is quitting his, too, and there's not too much doubt about that. Lucille Ball says she's quitting her series also, and the talk is that CBS-TV is doing headstands to try to get her to change her mind. It's a woman's prerogative, and she's done it before, and you can't tell whether she's just angling for a good deal.

That's the pain of it for CBS-TV. As more stars quit, the remaining ones realize their worth is increased, and they threaten to do this or that, and CBS-TV has to come up with a better deal, or else. Andy Griffith has threatened to end his series, but he seems to have been pacified, at least for the moment.

Last Legged Log
 Some other top CBS-TV shows of the past and present also may be on their last legs, making the network further vulnerable to its lip-smacking competitors, NBC-TV and ABC-TV. "Rawhide," long a top draw, is dead, already. "Hazel" with Shirley Booth, is not the surest bet to return. "I've Got A Secret" is said to be shaky. And "Perry Mason" is thus far considered ended at the conclusion of this season, although reports persist the network now would like it back.

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Until you've seen rotund, imperious Robert Morley in his drawers you can't truly appreciate the aplomb of the English as a race.

I found Morley perched atop a whirlpool bath in his doctor's office soaking a broken ankle in water. And while his attire consisted only of his shorts, you would have thought he was wearing cutaway and striped trousers.

Here, indeed, was the symbol of John Bull.

The actor had fled the 20th Century-Fox set of "Way... Way Out" to visit his doctor in Beverly Hills during the noon hour and was chomping away on a chicken sandwich as the water swirled about his foot.

Back in Colonies
 "It's good to be back in the colonies," he observed, looking down his nose. "I understand Wilfred Hyde-White is here, too. A good thing. When he's in America I get more jobs in England. Since I've lost weight and he's gained some poundage we have become very competitive."

"They wanted me for 'My Fair Lady,' you know, but they couldn't afford me, so they gave the part to Wilfred."

Meteors sometimes follow one another so quickly their luminous streaks give the impression of rainfall, hence the term "meteor shower."

Actually, I'm teasing. They wanted me for the Rex Harrison role, but I sang too well.

Morley observed his ankle with disdain and contained, "Wilfred's always taking my parts. I get only the ones he's turned down, and then thought better of."

Brain Drain
 Morley is one of those Englishmen who is convinced that one day the United States will return to the British Empire. He considers his presence in this country as part of the "brain drain" on England but graciously acknowledges that we are all the better off for it.

"I only came to America when they ask for me," he explained.

"As for your movies, I believe that if I don't read the script or see the finished picture there's nothing to keep me from taking the money."

When captured or kept out of water, porpoises do not thrash or struggle.

HIGHWAY FACELIFT
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Commerce Secretary John T. Connor has made public draft standards for regulation of auto junkyards and highway advertising under last year's Highway Beautification Act.

Connors said Thursday public hearings would be held before final minimum standards are set. The act provides for control of billboards within 600 feet and junkyards within 1,000 feet of interstate or federally aided primary highways.

Commission Says Officer Requirements Are Too Low

AUSTIN (Sp1) - The newly created Texas Commission on Law Enforcement Officer Standards and Education reported today that a statewide survey has revealed that of nearly 300 police agencies employing 9,000 officers, less than half have established formalized minimum requirements for employment.

Gray County Sheriff Rufe Jordan is secretary of the commission. Hutchinson County Sheriff Hugh Anderson of Borger and Fector County Sheriff A. M. Gargiel of Odessa are members of the commission's advisory committee on education.

In addition, the Commission said, the survey showed that less than one fourth of the agencies require any type of formal training for their officers prior to assignment.

"Our preliminary study indicates that this is not due to a lack of desire on the part of the agencies for standardization of requirements and training for their officers, but that these things are simply not available to all agencies in the state," said Glen McLaughlin, Commission chairman.

The Commission, appointed by Governor John Connally is composed of the following: Glen H. McLaughlin, Chief, Personnel and Staff Services, Texas Department of Public Safety, Chairman; A. C. Howerton, retired Captain, Fort Worth Police Department; Henry Wade, District Attorney, Dallas County; Walter Suttle, Chief of Police, Vernon; Wallace Beasley, Coordinator for Law Enforcement Training, Texas A & M University; Dewey Presley, President, First National Bank of Dallas; C. V. (Buster) Kern, Sheriff, Harris County; Dr. George Killinger, director of Institute of Correctional Studies, Sam Houston State College, Huntsville; Rufe Jordan, Sheriff, Gray County, Pampa; and ex-officio members, Waggoner Carr, Attorney General; Dr. J. W. Edgar, State Education Commissioner; and Col. Homer Garrison Jr., Director, Texas Department of Public Safety.

Pampan's Brother Will Help Judge Severinsen Event

Herbie Harper, trombonist with the NBC Orchestra in Hollywood, will be one of the judges and clinicians in the Doc Severinsen Stage Band Contest and concert here Saturday, Feb. 5.

Harper is a brother of Mrs. Joe Tooley, 1318 N. Russell, and will be coming back to his old stamping grounds when he arrives in the Panhandle Friday.

Harper was graduated from Amarillo High School and played with dance orchestras in the Panhandle. He is replacing Urbie Green, another NBC trombonist, who will be unable to come to Pampa.

Tickets for the concert a week from tomorrow night were still selling briskly at Pampa's two banks, according to Harry Vanderpool, general chairman.

The High School Field House where the concert will be staged was reportedly 70 per cent sold out today, but there are still many good seats left.

Christian Science Lesson Is Based On Theme of 'Love'

"Father-Mother is the name for Deity, which indicates His tender relationship to His spiritual creation," says Mary Baker Eddy, discoverer and founder of Christian Science, in her book, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures." The passage will be included in all Christian Science services this Sunday as part of the lesson on "Love."

Several Bible stories will be read, among them the conversion of Cornelius and the parable of the Good Samaritan. A correlative reading from Science and Health includes these words: "The rich in spirit help the poor in one grand brotherhood, all having the same Principle, or Father; and blessed is that man who seeth his brother's need and supplieth it, seeking his own in another's good."

Peter's statement — "Of a truth I perceive that God is no respecter of persons: But in every nation he that feareth him, and worketh righteousness, is accepted with him" — finds a parallel in this line from Science and Health: "Love is impartial and universal in its adaptation and bestowals."

Society Founder

NEW YORK (UPI) — A Connecticut clergyman is credited with being the principal force behind the formation of the international and interdenominational American Bible Society, which will be 150 years old next May. He was the Rev. Samuel J. Mills, Jr., a minister who distributed Holy Scriptures in more than 20 states from Vermont to Louisiana in the early 1800's.

YEAR

Religious membership, climbing at a faster rate than the nation's population, has reached highest point in history, according to figures compiled by the National Council of Churches for the 1966 Yearbook of American Churches. The current total is up about 2% from the previous year. Protestants make up more than half the total, but Roman Catholics are still the largest single denomination. Largest group in the "others" category is Buddhist, which jumped from 60,000 to 110,000 in a year largely because of inclusion of figures for Hawaii for the first time. Flaw in the otherwise rosy religious picture is attendance, down to 45% of membership on an average Sunday from 46% the year before.

FINDING THE WAY

Jesus Posed Question Still Pertinent Today

By RALPH W. LOEW, D.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Among the many significant questions which Jesus posed in his day, there is one which prods the complacent in any age. He asked simply, "What do you do more than others?"

In that time the question revolved about loving one's neighbor. Jesus asked simply what merit there was in loving only persons who love you. What glory is there in just being polite? What real struggle in the business of loving one's enemy is illustrated by being nice to the family? The questions have the uncomfortable manner of nudging us beyond the mere standards of respectability.

A precise example of all of this is involved in the efforts to bring and to maintain peace, in giving oneself to the quality of living and thinking that encourages peace.

The world has witnessed an extraordinary commitment to the matter of peacemaking by professors, students and citizens around the country. Many of these people risk status, jeopardize security and exhibit a commitment that shames the complacent. One doesn't have to agree with a man in order to admire the quality of his devotion to his cause. The commitment is impressive. The question which is posed to the rest of us who assert that we love peace, "What do you do more than these?"

Youth Sunday Program

At First Presbyterian

Sunday is Youth Sunday at the First Presbyterian Church. Youth people will give leadership to a service built around this year's theme, "What in the World are We Waiting For?"

Assisting in the services will be Terry McClure, Margaret Ann Brewer, John Braly, Robert Doley and Barbara Graham.

The Junior High Chorus, accompanied by Harriet Henderson, plans to sing, "Now in the Days of Youth" as the morning anthem. Senior High young people will handle the ushering.

An Inquirer's Class continues at the 9:45 a.m. Church school hour and a study of the "Proposed Confession of 1967" continues at 5:30 p.m. Junior and senior high young people meet at their regular times.

RELIGION IN AMERICA

'What Is Faith?'

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

What is faith? Christian theologians have been trying for 20 centuries to formulate an adequate answer to that question.

One of the first attempts was made by the anonymous author of the New Testament's epistle to the Hebrews. He said that "faith gives substance to our hopes, and makes us certain of realities we do not see."

To Martin Luther, faith was not so much a matter of believing in propositions as of trusting in a person. "Faith," he said, "is a lively confidence in the goodness of God."

In our own century, the great Scottish theologian John Baillie described faith as "a primary mode of apprehending reality," which is as "self-authenticating" as the physical senses of sight, touch and hearing.

Latest Undertaking
Latest to undertake the classic task of defining faith is the distinguished English theologian, Austin Farrer, warden of Keble College at Oxford University. His thoughts on the subjects are contained in a short, very readable book entitled "Saving Belief," which is herewith nominated as an excellent choice for Lenten discussion groups. (It is published in this country by Morehouse-Barlow, New York.)

Dr. Farrer takes issue with the view, very widespread today, that faith is primarily an act of will, a sort of dogged determination to believe things for which we find little or no persuasive evidence. "Faith is neither an attitude we adopt in looking for an object of conviction, nor an attitude we work up to bolster a conviction already lodged in our minds," he says.

"Faith implies genuine persuasion, and persuasion is not genuine unless it comes from the thing which persuades us. It cannot be got going by stoking up the furnaces of the will."

He also finds inadequate Luther's attempt to equate faith with trustfulness. Harold Starbuck, who is now in a new ministry at Portales, N.M.

Mission Service At Church of God

Rev. George W. Alford, renowned Bible speaker, will speak at a special mission service at the church of God Tuesday night.

Rev. Alford is well known throughout the Church of God for his outstanding Bible teachings and Bible lectures. He is known to be able to quote the entire New Testament from memory. This special service will begin at 7:45 p.m. Special singing will be provided by the Ladies Quartet and Girls Trio. All are welcome.

Christ Wore Beard

NEW YORK (UPI) — Archeologists writing in the Catholic Digest say the one positive opinion about the face of Christ is that He was bearded, since it was the custom at that time for all Jewish men to wear beards.

"How can an attitude of trustfulness, evidently appropriate to God if he exists, be appropriate to a decision whether he exists or not? We cannot, in the same sense, trust him to exist."

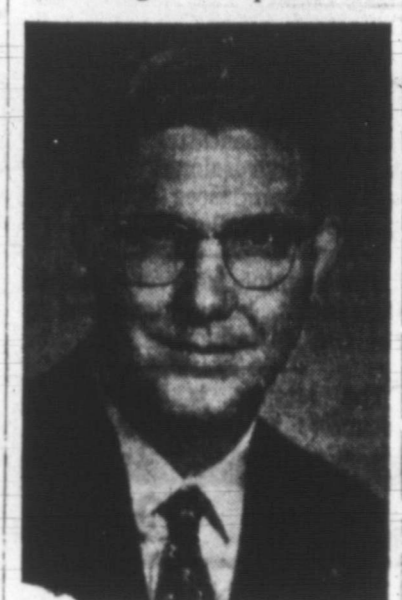

So much for what faith is not. What is it?

Dr. Farrer says it is an "attitude of mind" which is open and responsive to the evidence of a creator that is writ large and small throughout the universe.

Everything that exists, from the galaxies to our own self-conscious human minds, is persuasive proof, to some, that behind all this there has to be "a supreme creative will... an infinite and changeless cause."

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

FOR SATURDAY, JAN. 29
GENERAL TENDENCIES: This is a Saturday when you only make out well if you are very considerate and thoughtful of all with whom you come in contact, so make a point to exude charm and magnanimity and force nothing whatever on you can get yourself in a real pickle. A smile turns away opposition, a scowl brings big trouble.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) — Don't be so interested in the material side of everything, to the detriment of humanity at large. Be down-to-earth in your ideas, too. Others will respect you more and you will have a greater abundance.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20) — Don't expect so much of others while doing little or nothing yourself, and be sure to get your charm improved as well. Show courtesy when you are out socially. Have magnanimity that is infectious.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) — You are able now to make a good schedule so that you get all those boring duties behind you in record time. Use precision however. Don't trust your intuition now since it is not apt to be accurate.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) — Don't pay any heed to the possible ill temper of good friends — they are only letting off steam. Just make sure you don't criticize unguardedly and make matters worse. Be kind, understanding.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) — If you are critical of higher-ups you will only incur ill feelings and not get ahead at all. They may be perfectly in the right, anyway. Keep busy at your work or you can lose out where credit is concerned, too.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Although you want to run off to what seems to be a greater field, it is better to carry through with whatever is on hand. Then listen to ideas of new friends. There may be much merit in them.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — Although your intuition is at work, be careful because it may be leading you in the wrong directions. Trust your logic in all situations. Be very charming with a higher-up and you win out.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Be more analytical of yourself, instead of expecting others to live up to your expectations. Be sure to think kindly toward others or you get in trouble. Don't talk too much, especially about personal affairs.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — A good day to concentrate on whatever will permit recovery to complete matters with you in the future. Do something nice for them. You can get much accomplish-

Dear Abby... He's Been Engineering The Wrong Figures

DEAR ABBY: I am a bachelor, 34, and a construction engineer. After six years in the Middle East I have been assigned back to the U. S. I am not handsome, do not own a flashy car, and can't even dance. With these deficiencies one can hardly classify me as a ladies' man. Since returning I have dated many young women, all of them over 21, attractive and from good homes. As a normal male, I have occasionally made "passes" at girls, but have always ceased and desisted when the girl has drawn the line. Now I find no line is drawn. I considered marriage with two girls, but abandoned the idea when I found them so easy. Last evening I was a guest in the home of a good friend. His wife and I were alone. She made some suggestive remarks to me, which I took as a joke. When her husband left the room to feed the family dog, she let me know she wasn't joking. I left early and disgusted. Am I old fashioned? Or in my absence from the States has chastity and fidelity been outdated?

DEPRESSED
DEAR DEPRESSED: I am sorry, but I must question the veracity of your reporting. Neither chastity nor fidelity has been declared unconstitutional in this country, and both remain solid virtues observed by normal, well-bred girls. There are exceptions, of course, and always have been. Either by luck (bad) or by design (perhaps unconscious), you've met the wrong kind of women. A good engineer ought to be able to figure out a way to meet the right kind.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter is 15. There is a 16-year-old boy at school who has been coming to visit her. He drives his car into our driveway and races the motor until she comes out. I think this is very disrespectful. Don't you think he should come to the door and ask for her? Who should tell him? My daughter doesn't have the nerve.

HER MOM
DEAR MOM: Tell your daughter that if she doesn't tell her boy friend to ask for her at the door, you will tell him not to ask for her at all.

DEAR ABBY: My in-laws came to visit us over the holidays because they were "lonesome" for the grandchildren. They stayed two weeks. My mother-in-law arrived coughing and sneezing and complaining about

Pampa High School Campus News

By VIRGINIA DEWITT

With semester tests finished, grades recorded and schedules changed, Pampa High students have bravely charged headlong into the second semester. Perhaps the most common wall facing most students has been different classes. Students, however, are not the only ones who faced unfamiliar classes this past week. Three new teachers took their positions in front of new classes Monday.

Mrs. Bernice Powers will teach sophomore and junior English, Miss Sandra Wright will teach homemaking and Harris Brinson will direct the Harvester Band.

Mrs. Powers, a graduate of West Texas State University, taught English in El Paso before coming to Pampa. Miss Wright, a native of Crandall, is a graduate of Texas Tech. She will teach the sewing division of the homemaking classes. Brinson, a graduate of West Texas, taught at Pampa Junior High before replacing Fred Stockdale, who accepted a position in Oklahoma City.

The basketball team isn't the only one getting off to a good start this semester. The Harvester volleyball team won their first game of the season by beating Littlefield. In the first game the Pampa girls beat Littlefield 15-4. In the second game Littlefield beat Pampa 15-11. But the Harvesterettes rallied in the third and decisive game and by a score of 15-9.

Tomorrow night will see the girls in action at Phillips. The game was originally scheduled for last Saturday, but was called off because of snow.

The Harvesterettes will journey to Odessa Feb. 3-5 to compete in the Permian Basin volleyball tournament, according to Miss Lynn Prysock, instructor.

Norma Reed and Janice Mackie captain the A team. Members of the A team are: Carol Levick, Karen Matheny, Cheryl Porter and Barbara Vickery. Debbie Roper and Earlene Sutton are B team captains. Members are Jeanie Bell, Doris Bray, Carol Campaigne, Ginger Furgeson, Sandy Oler and Pam Thomas. Jackie Coombes, Ann Keim, Mary Jane Rose, Mary Shewmaker and Earlene Sutton play on both teams.

This morning Richard Barrett, junior, left for Austin to represent the Adobe Walls Boy Scout Council in a report to the state. The purpose of the meeting is to report summary of Scout activities of the previous year to Gov. John Connally.

The delegates will be honored at a Governor's luncheon after touring the Governor's mansion, tomorrow.

Richard, a senior member of Troop 120, is a member of the Order of the Arrow. He teaches swimming and life saving methods at Pampa Youth Center.

For the past week seniors have been getting certified. The Reg-

TWILIGHT ZONE—It becomes a hard day's night when Scandinavians play golf. They often cram in as many as 45 holes a day during the golf season, which lasts only 20 weeks. The great northern twilight gives them a 20-hour golf day and it's nothing to finish in broad daylight at 10 p.m. Here, Marilyn Smith lines up a putt at the Oslo Golf Club. Norwegian courses are hilly and nearly always situated around lakes, which makes them picturesque but challenging for golfers. In winter, the Oslo course is turned into a skiing and sledding playground. The end of an Olympic-sized ski jump course is just beyond Miss Smith's admiring gallery.

Pennel Determined But Not Discouraged

NEW YORK (UPI)—Determined but not discouraged just about sums up the story of John Pennel, the first man ever to pole vault 17 feet outdoors and the world record holder approaching that height indoors.

Pennel swept athlete of the meet honors in the 59th Millrose Games at Madison Square Garden Thursday night soaring over the bar at 16 feet 5 inches for a meet and arena record. However, he failed to clear the magic 17-foot barrier on three attempts.

Now competing for the Southern California Striders, Pennel topped 16 feet 1 1/2 inches for a Millrose mark on his first try with inches to spare. He topped 16 feet 5 inches for the best leap ever in the Garden, but 17 feet was beyond him and he knocked down the bar on each try for a record.

Pennel shared the spotlight with Belgium's Gaston Roelants, who bettered the Millrose two-mile mark with a handy win in 8:40.6 and Kipchoge Keino, the Kenyan distance runner who hung on to win the Wanamaker mile in 4:03.9.

Roelants, the Olympic steeplechase champ, pulled away from his field and won as he pleased in the two-mile.

Slow fractions of 62.9, 2:04.2 and 3:04.7 prevented Keino from nearing any records in the mile. The 26-year-old police academy instructor took the lead from UCLA's Bob Day on the gun lap and had to withstand a late surge by Day to gain his victory.

Bob Feller pitched 12 one-hit games during his brilliant career with the Cleveland Indians.

What Do They Do Now?

BY MILTON RICHMAN
NEW YORK (UPI)—Okay, so what do the bedeviled Braves do now?

The answer is perfectly obvious. They go right ahead and do the same thing they intended doing all along. That is, they play all their home games in Atlanta this year.

But that would be in direct defiance of Milwaukee Circuit Judge Elmer Roller's latest order, you say. He told the Braves to make plans to play in Milwaukee this year.

Well, it so happens the Braves are under still another Georgia court order to play in Atlanta this summer.

One thing is sure. They're going to have to disobey one of those court orders and guess which one it'll be?

Now that you figured out that answer, let's see what happens next. The Braves decide to follow the Georgia court order, as board chairman William C. Bartholomay already has said they will, and thereby run the risk of being held in contempt of court by Judge Roller.

Not A Party
The Braves' ball players can't very well be tossed in jail because they're not even really a party to this action. And once the Braves' officials leave Milwaukee, the Wisconsin court no longer will have any jurisdiction over them.

If bolting Milwaukee to play in Atlanta was a crime, Wisconsin legally could seek to extradite. But this is no crime; it's a civil offense and you can't extradite for that.

Besides, can't you just picture the Governor of Georgia turning over the Braves to the Governor of Wisconsin?

Nonetheless, Judge Roller's order must be satisfied in some manner or other. What happens?

Well, if the judge does find the Braves in contempt of court and jailing them becomes impracticable, there's always that alternate penalty, a fine. How much? That depends. This case actually is unprecedented but some of the sharper legal minds around estimate the fine would run somewhere about $5,000.

If the Braves can get out of Milwaukee that cheaply, they'll figure it was a bargain. If you listen to them, they claim they've had $5-million worth of aggravation already.

Contrasting Orders
These two contrasting court orders with which the Braves now find themselves faced are not unprecedented. One of the orders tells the Braves to go right, but such legal snarls have occurred before.

In one previous such conflict, no settlement could be reached until both judges were laughingly advised to employ "gentlemanly restraint."

In other words, Judge A was urged to listen to Judge B a little more and Judge B was asked to do the same with Judge A.

The Braves have still another possible out in this labyrinthian mess and the only wonder is that they haven't used it up to now.

Due largely to television, baseball long ago has been ruled as inter-state commerce. And in inter-state commerce, a state has no right to interfere with the business proceedings of those involved unless, of course, a crime is committed.

Milwaukee officials may think it's a crime that the Braves are going to Atlanta, but they'll never get a conviction in any court.

The Braves can't be considered completely guiltless in their flight southward, but since when is it against the law to take a trip for one's health?

Mixed Up Milwaukee May Still Have Braves

MILWAUKEE (UPI)—National League officials ordered to plan for immediate expansion to include Milwaukee and met in New York Friday under court warning that the Braves could be directed back from Atlanta for 1966.

Milwaukee Circuit Judge Elmer W. Roller ordered the expansion plans Thursday, saying it was his belief expansion is feasible now. He also ordered the Braves, who plan to open the 1966 baseball season in Atlanta, to arrange to play instead in Milwaukee should he so order at a later date.

The state of Wisconsin had asked Roller to issue a temporary injunction prohibiting the Braves from playing in Atlanta until the state's anti-trust suit against the team and other members of the league is settled.

Roller's order stopped short of ordering the Braves back, and of ordering actual expansion. He did order that plans be made to facilitate the location "within their scope the location of a franchise in Milwaukee," and which would give the city team with players "of comparable quality" to the Braves "on or after the start of the 1966 season."

He also ordered the Braves, the league and its other clubs to make "tentative and conditional arrangements" to play here in 1966 "and thereafter if so ordered by this court."

The ruling came one day before the league's winter meeting in New York. League President Warren Giles and representatives of all 10 teams were scheduled to attend, and the Milwaukee-Atlanta legal snarl was to be the main order of business.

Layoff Didn't Hurt TW; Arizona St. Falls, 84-67

By United Press International
Most people travel to Arizona for rest and relaxation, but the Texas Western Miners go there strictly for exercise.

The sixth-ranked Miners traveled to Tempe Thursday night to loosen the kinks resulting from a 21-day layoff. The tall Texan were favorably affected by the desert country's dry climate and rolled to an 84-67 triumph over Arizona State.

The Miners posted their 13th victory without a loss to equal second-ranked Kentucky's 13-0 mark this campaign. Texas Western and the Wildcats are the nation's only unbeaten quintets.

In other top games Thursday night, Ken Gustafson netted 26 points to power Wisconsin to an 83-63 victory over Hardin-Simmons, a sturdy man-to-man defense enabled Arkansas to whip Mississippi State 69-61 and Utah State broke a three-game losing streak with a 109-97 triumph over LaSalle.

Arkansas moved to a 33-24 halftime advantage despite losing the battle under the boards. The Maroons, finding themselves behind, tried a fast

Harvesters Seek Fourth Straight 3-4A Victory

Pampa seeks its fourth straight second half 3-4A conference victory, starting at 8 p.m. tonight when Capreck comes to visit.

The Longhorns, 0-2 in second half play, have been beaten by the Harvesters once this season, 43-29, at Amarillo.

Pampa stands 15-4 for the season and has knocked off five straight foes while the Horns are 7-14 and have lost two consecutive times.

The Harvesters also have the distinction of never having lost to Capreck, downing them all five times the two teams have met.

Pampa also set the school's all-time scoring mark against the Horns, doing so in February of 1964, by the tune of 111-47.

The Harvesters have lost but once at home this season, that to Monterey and have a 55.2 at home scoring average and 44.1 defensive mark. For the season Pampa is averaging 60.2 points per contest while limiting the opposition to 46.3.

David Cain, Pampa's 6'5 center continues to lead the Harvester scoring with a 13.9 average and 11.6 league mark. Mike Wise is second at 11.5 and 9.4 and Steve Williams is third at 8.2 and 8.9.

The Pampa Shockers will be out after their 17th victory against four losses when they host the Capreck B, beginning at 6:15 p.m.

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself no more, no less. It is consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Can A Minority Survive?

Let us consider once again the troubled times of the Amish in Iowa.

Perhaps this is a manifestation which can generate serious consideration of what has happened to the American society. For no matter which shade of the philosophic spectrum one places himself, here is an issue we can examine without emotional involvement.

The question before the forum is:

Can an American citizen live in this nation and hold to ideas and practices which are in conflict with the edicts which theoretically represent the majority point of view?

Most of the people with whom we discuss the idea of individual liberty are quick to state that they believe in freedom for the individual. BUT...

This is almost always followed with the qualification that the individual must not infringe on the freedom of others or that this freedom does not include the license to be harmful to the community.

We are in agreement. Now let us examine the case in point.

What harm is done by the old order Amish who are continuing to resist the pressure to comply with state school laws for compulsory teaching by state approved instructors?

In this writing we will attempt to avoid the great moral principles and argue within the shifty "arena" of those who subscribe to "political intervention" as the best method for producing an improved society.

Were we to measure the Amish question on moral principle, the subject could be quickly dismissed without question as an immoral act by political government; a denial of individual rights to a small, helpless group of people.

Well, let us hear the case for the state.

"The Amish children, once they get into school with other children, find they really enjoy it."

This may be true. Children turned loose in a candy store for the first time no doubt would enjoy stuffing themselves with sweets. But their parents may consider this harmful.

Another argument: "The Amish children are being denied an opportunity to prepare themselves for the modern world..."

Possibly. But this is the whole point of the Amish religion. They consider the "modern world" unwholesome. They wish to remain simple farmers.

Argument No. 3: "When Amish children occasionally break with the old order, they are not trained for work other than as domestic labor."

Again this may be true. But are we to suppose that our society will progress to where there will be no need for domestic labor? Or, will we have a society in which PhDs are performing chores of common labor? This is extreme, of course, but the point is that regardless of the amount of schooling the state forces upon children, our society will always have varying levels of work ability, interests and aptitudes.

Argument No. 4: "If the Amish are permitted to violate the laws of the state of Iowa, other groups will feel they have equal rights."

And there you have it. Certainly this is what the political interventionists are really concerned about. The state currently has a monopoly on the school business. Parents either send their children to government schools or else to schools which give the parents a part of what they want as long as the schools conform to state "guidelines."

This is the one argument we cannot answer within the unprincipled arena of the interventionist. If the state is to determine what is to be taught, by whom it is to be taught, where it is to be taught to whom and when, then it must do so for all, and it dare not permit any to escape.

Within the framework of the people who believe politicians know best what is good for all of us, there is no room for individual dissent.

This was Adolf Hitler's whole point.

Russian Roulette

The solution to the ever growing national debt, the continuing balance of payment deficits, and the world lack of confidence in the dollar is a simple one. Every solvent family knows the answer: Quit spending more than you take in. But that, of course, would mean abandoning the fantasies of domestic and global Utopias. The medicine will have to be taken sooner or later. Why not now? Well, the answer to that is our "leaders" hope that, by the time the crash actually comes, they will already have theirs and be out from under the gun.

Genuine Scappers

As sure as the flowers will bloom in the spring, the appearance of a new gas station at any given location will shortly be followed by at least one more of a rival brand.

This is called competition and, says a new study, it has become a "rough, tough and hazardous" kind of competition among the nation's 211,000 retail dealers scrambling for their shares of the 175 million gallons of gasoline sold daily throughout the United States.

Business writer Harold Fleming, who conducted the study and has published it in his book, "Gasoline Prices and Competition," reports that an average of 29 different gasoline brands are fiercely competing in every state. The most brands he found in any one state was 47; the least, 14.

According to the latest American Petroleum Institute figures, California as top gas consumer has the largest number of stations — 17,545. At the bottom of the list is Alaska, with only 104.

The majority are owned by independent businessmen, who are free to set their own prices. As a result, savage price wars are a recurring headache for them.

Surprisingly, the number of service stations in the country hasn't changed much in the past 10 years but their locations have as new highway networks have come into being. So have the services they offer motorists.

Another consequence of the new highways has been a widespread redesigning of brand signs. What was visible to a driver doing 30 miles an hour was not so obvious at 50 or 60.

We've come a long way from the days when a pioneer motorist had to carry a reserve can of gas in case he couldn't find a general store doing a side-line business in catering to the new-fangled gas buggy.

Dem's Worry Over Viet, Disunity

BY BRUCE BLOSSAT Washington Correspondent WASHINGTON (NEA) — No leading Democrats try these days to conceal their worry over the possible political consequences of the Vietnamese war, particularly as they may affect composition of the U. S. House in 1967.

From a fairly widespread party complacency that led to earlier forecast that relatively few seats would change hands, the pendulum has swung to some times gloomy predictions that losses could range up to the 77 Republicans need for House control.

What gnaws most at Democratic leaders is the growing fear that, short of an unexpected victory or other settlement of the war, the GOP may benefit at the polls in November no matter what specific positions they adopt. Their great advantage may simply be that they are out of power.

To deal with the shifting uncertainties of the war is bad enough for President Johnson and his party strategists. To keep the "outs" from becoming "receivers of protest" may be well-nigh impossible.

Moreover, except for the President's well-managed effort to shore up the re-election prospects of the 71 freshmen his party elected to the House in 1964, the Democrats are not in the best state for rough combat.

An impeccable source reports that the party deficit earlier reported in this column and elsewhere as 1.7 million may in fact be somewhat larger. It is said further that the various efforts to erase some of this deficit have misfired even more disastrously than has been reported.

Already well-told is the story of the Democratic National Committee's decline as an effective agency for promoting better organization and vitally needed voter registration. A recent party traveler found the moans loud and steady from veteran Democrats at state and local level.

The heavy personnel cuts in the committee were explained as basically an economy move. Yet there is already one wispy report, possibly premature, that some rehiring may begin at the committee before too long.

Should that happen, the economy justification would appear transparent. Skeptical state party men might view it as not simply the "Johnsonizing" but the "Texanizing" of the committee.

This notion brings frowns to top Democrats in many northern big-city states who still do not believe that either President Johnson or his two Texas-rooted political aides, Marvin Watson and Clifton Carter, really understand them or their political problems.

Carter, of course, is the President's man inside the committee fold, he takes orders from Watson, a top White House assistant and former Texas state chairman.

One respected Democratic leader says that both the President and his Texas political aides "still ask naive questions about eastern politics." He adds:

"It's a foreign country to them. I sometimes think they don't ever expect it to be different."

A few party professionals suggest that the main reason the President keeps Democratic National Chairman John Bailey in nominal command of the fragile shell called the national committee is that he really does not know how to pick a proper successor.

These men assume, naturally, that Johnson could not dare to name Carter or some other Texan but would have to venture into the northern political unknown for a choice that almost inevitably would be controversial.

Despite the difficulties, the Democrats' situation is still very much retrievable. Viet Nam might turn out a good deal better than feared. It is incredible that the President's party should have money trouble. And there is still time to erase much of the damage done through present loss of organizational and registration firepower.

Not to move fairly quickly to brace the party more firmly for the possible political shock of Viet Nam is, however, a risk that few Democratic professionals are eager to take.

Leakage of Graduates from Federally Financed Merchant Marine Academies Blamed for Undermanned U. S. Ships; House Committee Investigating

PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — Federally supported merchant marine academies are largely responsible for the serious undermanning of ships transporting U. S. troops and urgently needed supplies to Viet Nam.

A large percentage of graduates from these government-financed schools — the U. S. Merchant Marine Academy at Kings Point, Long Island, N. Y., and five state academies — are breaking solemn pledges to serve three years at sea. Instead they are taking more comfortable and less demanding jobs ashore.

More than a third of the graduates never set foot aboard merchant vessels. And over a ten-year period, less than six per cent spent as much as five years at sea.

And that isn't all. The Kings Point Academy — the "West Point of the merchant marine" — is encouraging its graduates to seek shoreside employment and "fostering a feeling of contempt for seagoing officers."

Those are the sensational charges being made by J. M. Calhoun, president, Marine Engineers' Beneficial Association, AFL-CIO. Ninety per cent of the licensed engineers are members of this organization.

Pointing out that two out of every three U. S. soldiers in Viet Nam and 98 per cent of their weapons and supplies are transported by ship, Calhoun declared that more than 2,800 engineer vacancies went unfilled last year. He warned there will be an even more critical shortage this year.

"The need for trained engineers is steadily increasing," said Calhoun. "Yet while the Kings Point Academy pays lip service to its goal of preparing officers for the merchant marine, it follows a course exactly 180 degrees from that ordained by Congress."

To illustrate this, Calhoun charged that the academy permitted "recruiters from shore-side industries" to come on the campus to solicit personnel. Also that the academy's alumni association, with offices on the campus, put an advertisement in a trade paper offering "to fill your personnel requirements both afloat and ashore."

"The fact is," asserted Calhoun, "that Kings Point trains its cadets in an atmosphere completely hostile to the basic reason for its establishment, to produce seagoing officers, and instead sends an overwhelming majority of its graduates into shore-side jobs."

CONGRESS TO TAKE A LOOK — As a direct consequence of these seething charges, the House Merchant Marine Committee has launched a full-scale investigation.

Shan 'Army' Blocking Left Swing

BY RAY CROMLEY Washington Correspondent WASHINGTON (NEA) — In one of the Orient's ironies, a small native guerrilla "army" of Shan tribesmen in the north-east Burma hills may be preventing the erratic leftist Rangoon government from swinging closer into Mao Tse-tung's Red China orbit.

Ne Win's "socialist" government, it's understood, is afraid that if it moves nearer to Red China, the United States will secretly send sturdy amounts of weapons and political-military advisers to the two million Shan tribesmen.

The Shan hate Ne Win's Burmese government and Mao's Chinese with a passion.

This hatred is not ideological. It's that the Shan don't like to be interfered with. The leftist Ne Win and the Communist Mao have not learned the lesson of noninterference with native peoples. They want to "save" them regardless of their desire not to be "saved."

No one is certain how strong these Shan guerrilla forces are. The Burmese government and its army can't move freely in the region. The Burmese army now contents itself with occupying isolated outposts in the tribal areas. Rangoon frowns on American officials going in.

Experts in Washington, admitting their lack of information, believe these tribal guerrillas are weak and divided. But private sources recently in the northeast of Burma, where the Shan live, say there are five lightly armed guerrilla "battalions" united loosely in a Shan "national army." These claims are not verified here.

The private sources report that in wide areas of the Burma northeast, this Shan "army" has the support of Shan and other tribal villagers. The people in more than 400 hamlets are said to regularly give the Shan troops advance warnings of Burmese army attacks.

Like the Red Viet Cong in South Viet Nam, the non-Communist Shan guerrilla forces in Burma have a guerrilla tax system. Both taxes and intelligence are gathered by the village headmen, who must also help the Burmese government with its tax collecting.

Though the Burmese army is not strong enough to occupy the Shan territory, the Shan "army" is not strong enough to drive the Burmese army out. There is a stalemate for now.

To make matters more complicated, former troops of the Chinese Nationalist government, left behind after the Mao victory in China, still operate as independent groups in northeast Burma. They vie for control of communications routes.

The Shan have a tradition of semi-independence. In one way or another, this struggle has been going on for years. The present Shan head, reportedly, is a onetime British civil servant named U Ba Thieng. He is not a strong man and the five "battalions" commanders have partial political and military autonomy.

These Shan "army" leaders hope eventually to be able to drive the Burmese occupation troops entirely out of the Shan area and spark enough national unrest to cause the fall of the Ne Win government at Rangoon.

They dream of being able to influence the formation of a national Burmese government willing to let the Shan have local self-rule as the Burma constitution provides.

The worrisome point in this situation is that U. S. intelligence has not sufficiently penetrated this Shan area. American policymakers must work in the dark.

Shan 'Army' Blocking Left Swing

BY RAY CROMLEY Washington Correspondent WASHINGTON (NEA) — In one of the Orient's ironies, a small native guerrilla "army" of Shan tribesmen in the north-east Burma hills may be preventing the erratic leftist Rangoon government from swinging closer into Mao Tse-tung's Red China orbit.

Ne Win's "socialist" government, it's understood, is afraid that if it moves nearer to Red China, the United States will secretly send sturdy amounts of weapons and political-military advisers to the two million Shan tribesmen.

The Shan hate Ne Win's Burmese government and Mao's Chinese with a passion.

This hatred is not ideological. It's that the Shan don't like to be interfered with. The leftist Ne Win and the Communist Mao have not learned the lesson of noninterference with native peoples. They want to "save" them regardless of their desire not to be "saved."

Pull Up A Chair

Frank Markey The nearest thing to personalized flying that has yet been invented is the Gyrocopter, a contraption that looks like a three-wheeled bicycle with a small propeller mounted behind the driver's seat and a stationary helicopter blade overhead. It can operate along a highway like a scooter, take-off on any stretch of road, be housed in any garage and parked anywhere you can park a car.

where you can park a car. Igor Bensen, North Carolina inventor of this flying egg beater, doesn't think it will replace the automobile, but says it can provide an additional means of transportation for the individual at no more cost than that of operating the family car. It's operable for all ages from an 11-year old boy who owns one to a 72-year old grandfather, who uses one regularly. Besides the Federal Aviation Agency made a special ruling for licensing whirlybird pilots. They simply demonstrate their flying skill by making three take-offs and landings. Sounds like just the thing to get you out of a commuters' traffic jam, doesn't it?

Today's smile: A moron consulted his doctor because he was infected with a virus. The M. D. told him: "Exercise kills germs." The moron asked the medico: "How can I get the germs to exercise, Doc?"

Madame Tussard's Wax Museum has been one of the sights to see in London since the early 1800's. It contains life-size images of the world's leaders in all ages of history and is constantly being added to. Many such museums are now operating in this country, but they are departing from the original wax material the Tussard family used and substitute plastic.

Thoughts while shaving: Before 1967 rolls around you'll be dialing direct person-to-person long distance calls. Through the latest bit of telephonic magic the caller will dial a special digit, then the area code. Next an operator comes on the line to contact the party called . . .

There's nothing like starting them young. An eastern business executive has four children who made a good thing out of selling second-hand comic books to other youngsters in their locality. To give them an early idea of what business is all about he incorporated their enterprise as a regular Delaware corporation and pay taxes on it . . .

One of the greatest needs in business today, a California personnel executive tells us, is finding young and efficient secretaries. He says only those trained in top secretarial schools are competent. He adds it's hard to find girls who can type 40 words a minute and take dictation correctly . . .

We hope this idea doesn't spread but the student body at a western university has published a book grading the entire faculty, rating their teachers from A (excellent) to E (flaps). It was a campus best seller and the enterprising publishers were swamped with orders from other colleges where undoubtedly the same kind of catalogue can be expected. That's enough to make any double-dome take to selling shoes . . .

The Los Angeles (Calif.) TIMES headlined a story: "Needlework Guide More Than A Sew-Sew Group." Are they extremist or subversive?

Country Editor speaking: "Solitude is much more fun if you can enjoy it with someone."

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Agriculture Department recently published a booklet on skiing. That's right. The Agriculture Department.

This may strike you as a bit paradoxical, the connection between farming and skiing (not being immediately visible to the naked eye).

Actually, however, the department has a vested, or at least a sheltered, interest in skiing. It maintains skiing facilities in some of the national forests.

The booklet contains a director of these, plus some safety tips for skiers. Put To Use

It was the safety section that prompted a journalist friend of mine to take home a copy to his teen-age son, who had developed an interest in skiing. The lad read it over carefully, went out skiing the next day and broke one of his legs.

I don't mean to imply, however, that all skiing manuals are menaces. Collier Books has just brought out one, called "Skiing With Control," that can be used advantageously.

Let us pause here for a moment and consider why skiing has become so popular in recent years. Certainly this phenomenon cries out for some sort of logical explanation.

Skiing is ridiculous on its face, and skiers are ridiculous on theirs. Which is where they are a good bit of the time.

Quotes in the News

SAN FRANCISCO—G. J. Winterfield, California director of the United States Divorce Reform, explaining why his organization is backing state amendment which would ban divorce:
"We have got to stop this slaughter of our homes if we are to survive as a nation. We are destroying homes to get ride of relatively minor problems."

JACKSON, Miss.—Sen. John Stennis, D Miss., urging unrestricted air strikes over North Viet Nam to end the war:
"We cannot win with the current limited objectives and restrictions. Once the President decides the policy, our professional military men are the ones to select the target."

COLUMBIA, S.C.—State Sen. Roger W. Scott, filibustering against a federal court order to reapportion the South Carolina legislature:
"Reapportionment started when Moses took the Israelites to the Promised Land from Egypt."

WASHINGTON—Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., recommending support of the war in Southeast Asia to Senate liberals:
"I believe the struggle in Viet Nam is worthy of the United States. I believe it is worthy of the cause of freedom. I believe

Your Child And School

By DAVID NYDICK
UPI Education Specialist
The extent to which parents can assist their children in the area of math has been limited by the new approaches and materials that have been adopted in many schools. It is not always necessary for parents to understand the new programs in order to provide help.

Parents can learn about the new math and help their children learn by asking probing questions. This is an extremely effective teaching technique. In order for the student to properly explain his answers, he must fully understand the material. If the student is unable to provide answers which the parent understands, he needs to go back to his books or the teacher for help.

One of the most valuable aspects of this method of teaching is that it helps the student organize his thoughts. In so doing he is actually reviewing the work he learned in class.

Becomes Better Student
Provide the student with an opportunity to be the teacher and you may find that he becomes a better student.

What is the purpose of these many new math programs? In order that math instruction help to develop creative and imaginative math minds, it seemed necessary that some of the traditional methods be changed. For years math instruction has been a two part process. The teacher used examples to show how a particular kind of problem should be solved and then students imitated this procedure to find answers to a great number of similar problems. This was the basic pattern of math teaching. Naturally many teachers and schools expanded upon this, recognizing that it was not really an adequate method. Drill or repetition reveals little or nothing about the meaning of a process.

Thousands of people work problems daily in which they borrow and carry numbers without any understanding. In the division of fractions, how many people remember which fraction has to be inverted and with the remainder in a division problem? Promotes Promotes Understanding
A modern math program promotes understanding. It involves the student as a participant in the learning process. He is guided step by step through the discovery of the reasoning behind the math processes.

Wall Street Chatter

By United Press International
NEW YORK (UPI)—Analyst be.

Eliot Janeway says that under the present emergency conditions, no market setback is likely to be limited to the stock market as was the "Martin market" of May-June, 1965.

Janeway says the immediate question raised by any normal setback in stock prices is whether it may be a portent of recession but any upset in stock prices today would cause overnight political turmoil no matter how mild its economic consequences might promise to be.

Bache & Co. says it feels that the longer the market builds up in its narrow range, the more decisive will be the upside breakthrough.
