Settlement Reached in New York Transit Strike

Two-Week Holocaust Costs City $1.2 Billion

NEW YORK (UPI) — Subways and buses rolled today for the first time in two weeks. A strike by 36,000 transit workers ended at 5:24 a.m. CST when chief Transport Workers Union negotiator Douglas MacMahon announced that union leaders had accepted the recommendations of Mayor John V. Lindsay's mediation panel for a new two-year contract providing a 15 per cent wage increase.

The strike was estimated to have caused a loss of $1.2 billion in business in the nation's largest city. MacMahon said it was a $70 million settlement, but the city Transit Authority said $60 million would be more accurate. Observers said an increase in the 15-cent subway and bus fare was inevitable and predicted a 20 or 25 cent fare, which would be more in line with fares in other large American cities.

All the principles in the bitterly fought dispute gathered at City Hall two hours after the settlement was announced to receive commendations from Lindsay for agreeing to a contract that was "best for the workers, best for the city, and best for the country."

"For the first time since I took the office of mayor of the city of New York, I have good news to report," said Lindsay, his youthful features eroded by fatigue, as he confirmed the settlement.

"The agreement represents the triumph of reason and good will over intransigence."

This was an obvious slap at the TWU and its jailed leader, Michael J. Quill, who picked a feud with Lindsay before the mayor took office and called him a "juvenile pipsqueak."

The ailing Quill, who is in custody in Bellevue Hospital, and eight other jailed union leaders will be released by terms of the settlement. The $322,000-a-day in fines against the union also was expected to be withdrawn.

Lindsay estimated that the contract will cost $52 million but warned against "playing the numbers game." He also came up with his own estimate of how much the strike cost the city—$500 million in 12 days—although the Commerce and Industry Association of New York has been estimating losses at $100 million a day.

The strikers, who received no benefits during their two week's unemployment, will get an average paycheck hike of $21.60 per week. They will be earning 40 cents an hour more than city garbage collectors but 28 cents an hour less than city truck drivers.

Senate May Hold Foreign Policy Public Hearings

WASHINGTON (Sp) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee may hold public hearings on President Johnson's widely controversial policies in Viet Nam.

Such hearings would make it possible for administration critics to publicly grill Secretaries Rusk, McNamara and other close presidential advisers on their views and plans.

This procedure, while not unprecedented, would be exceptional under existing circumstances. Administration leaders have appeared before the Foreign Relations and other committees for discussions of Viet Nam, but always behind closed doors and on a confidential basis.

Public hearings would be a drastic change, and probably vigorously opposed by the White House.

Senator J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman and critic of Viet Nam and other foreign policies, favors the idea of holding public hearings — which is still in the backstage discussion phase. Some senators are crediting Fulbright with proposing this plan; others differ on that.

It is definitely known that Senators Joseph Clark, D-Pa., member of the Foreign Relations Committee, and George McGovern, D-S.D., former head of the Food for Peace program, are urging public hearings.

Clark is said to have indicated the intention to formally request the committee to conduct such hearings. It's up to the committee to decide what is done.

Meanwhile, House Republican Leader Gerald Ford, Mich., is privately serving notice he wants the Appropriations Committee to ascertain whether the President contemplates increasing U.S. ground forces in Viet Nam to more than 200,000, and if so, why.

Russians Still Ahead in Space

DALLAS (UPI) — The United States will probably beat the Soviet Union to the moon, but the Russians are still ahead of this country in the space race, James E. Webb, administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) said Wednesday.

Webb spoke to the Dallas County Medical Society. He said he was not as sure now as he was a year ago that the U.S. would be the first to land on the moon.

Webb said the Russians have "a very vigorous program." "This year, they flew Cosmos 104. This year they have flown Proton 1 and 2, both four times the size of Gemini, and they have announced a big new rocket."

$99,000 FEDERAL GRANT

School Aid Project For Deprived Ready

Pampa's $99,000 federal aid to education project for approximately 600 educationally deprived pupils in nine of the city's 11 public schools will go into full swing at the beginning of the mid-term semester Jan. 24.

School Superintendent Jack Edmondson reported to school board members at their monthly meeting this forenoon that organization for inaugurating the federal program is in its final stages.

Finishing touches will be put on inauguration of the local program and for other schools in the same unit with Pampa at a meeting scheduled here next week, Edmondson said.

Claud Zeverly, former principal of Panhandle High School, has been named coordinator of the local unit which includes schools at Shamrock, Lela, Briscoe, Allison, Kelton and Pampa.

Superintendents of schools in these towns form a board to administer the program under the supervision of Coordinator Zeverly.

Weatherman Sees No Rain In Pampa Area

While Panhandle farmers bemoaned the continuing fair and warm weather, the Big Bend country was digging out from a snowstorm.

Locally the weatherman sees no precipitation in sight at least through Saturday. At that, he said it looks like any rain or snow is a long way off.

A surprise snowstorm dumped two inches of snow in the Big Bend area of Texas early today.

Two inches of snow covered the ground at Alpine and at 7 a.m. big flakes were still coming down. The snow began to fall about 4:30 a.m.

The temperature was 33 degrees in Alpine, and the moisture was welcomed by ranchers.

Thundershowers raked portions of South Texas as a cold front moved near the Kingsville area. Fog was reported at Beaumont.

Ku Klux Klan Accused of Plot to Kill Ladybird

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congressional investigators charged today that an alleged member of the Ku Klux Klan proposed dynamiting the "Ladybird Special" train carrying the wife of President Johnson as it passed through Mississippi in 1964.

The man was identified as Louis Anthony Disalvo of Waveland, Miss. On the witness stand today at the House investigation of the Klan, Disalvo refused to answer or comment on the charge, citing the Fifth Amendment's consti-

Three-Day Cease Fire in Viet Nam Will Be Observed

SAIGON (UPI) — U.S. forces in Viet Nam will join South Viet Nam government troops in observing a three-day cease-fire during Tet, the Chinese Lunar New Year which begins Jan. 19, a U.S. Embassy spokesman announced today.

The Viet Cong previously said in a radio broadcast that Communist troops planned a four-day truce during the New Year holiday.

The American spokesman said the 190,000 American soldiers in South Viet Nam "will certainly go along with the Vietnamese."

The government-run news agency, Viet Nam Press, earlier in the day quoted armed forces chief of staff Lt. Gen. Cao Van Vien as saying South Vietnamese forces would be ordered to hold their fire during most of the holiday period—three days at least.

A Lunar New Year truce has occurred for the past several years. All have been informal. Sporadic action and revised casualty figures meanwhile added 31 Viet Cong dead to the total slain by 8,000 American and Australian troops.

During the five days of the operation in the Ho Bo Woods, the allied task force has killed 138 Viet Cong, captured 80 and detained 796 suspects.

The lull in the air war against Communist North Viet Nam entered its fourth week tonight with no signs of resumption. It came as President Johnson pledged in his State of the Union message that U.S. forces would remain in Viet Nam "until aggression has stopped."

At the U.S. air base in Da Nang Wednesday night, two terrorists threw a grenade at an American military billet but it exploded harmlessly against a wall. The bomb hurlers raced away on a motorbike.

Reaffirms US Vows To Stay in Viet Nam

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson has given North Viet Nam a choice between an olive branch and the sword.

In his State of the Union message to Congress, the President emphasized this country's desire to reduce rather than expand the scale of hostilities in Viet Nam. He invited the Communists to move toward a cease-fire with or without a formal peace conference and promised that "we will respond if others reduce their use of force."

But in almost the same breath he reaffirmed the U.S. commitment to stay in Viet Nam "until aggression has stopped"—even if the war drags on for years.

And he called on Congress to put muscle into the commitment by boosting U.S. defense spending $5.8 billion during the next fiscal year to a new total of $58.3 billion. That would be an increase of nearly $10 billion in military spending levels since last January.

The Chief Executive estimated total federal spending in the 12 months starting July 1 at $112.8 billion but said the current prosperity would bring in $11 billion in revenue, leaving a deficit of only $1.8 billion. He called this the smallest deficit in many years.

Johnson assured the lawmakers that this country is wealthy enough to carry the extra defense burden while continuing to "build a great society at home." Accordingly, he outlined a massive agenda of domestic legislation, including new civil rights laws, an expanded war on poverty, and a national drive to clean up polluted rivers.

To pay for his guns-and-butter program, he recommended that Congress wipe out the cuts which took effect Jan. 1 in federal excise taxes on new automobiles and telephone calls. He did not ask any increase in income tax rates, but he proposed that larger amounts be withheld from paychecks to put more taxpayers more nearly on a pay-as-you-go basis. He also called for a speed-up in collection of corporate taxes as a break on inflationary pressures.

Johnson expressed the hope that these measures would be sufficient to finance the government and keep the lid on inflation.

"But if the necessities of Viet Nam require it," he warned, "I will not hesitate to return to the Congress for additional appropriations and additional revenues"—in other words higher taxes.

The tax proposals were not enthusiastically received. Republican congressional leaders said the excise tax cuts, which took effect only 13 days ago, will prove to be "the shortest-lived tax relief in history" if Johnson has his way. Even on the Democratic side of the aisle, there was grumbling about the idea of increasing taxes in an election year.

Police reported 30 arrests for looting since the rain began Monday. It was believed many other looters had escaped arrest while police were concentrating on rescue work.

Several thousand homes, from mansions to slum shacks, lay open to the looters. In the hardest-hit areas, the streets were littered with clothing, television sets, refrigerators and other appliances, many of them in usable condition.

"I don't know how we can control this," said a spokesman for the police chief. "We are totally occupied answering calls for help."

Sixteen inches of rain, half of a year's normal precipitation, drenched Rio in the 72 hours beginning Monday night. Rain was still falling at nightfall Wednesday.

Ironically, Monday's weather forecast had predicted only "intermittent light showers with thunderstorms in the afternoon and evening."

Earth loosened by the torrential downpour thundered down hillsides in Rio and other cities in southern Brazil, sweeping away homes and killing residents by the score.

At the latest word, 182 persons were known dead in Rio, 50 in Niteroi across the bay and 60 in Petropolis, a resort city in the mountains above this seaport city. Another 430 persons were missing and feared dead.

Thousands more were injured, many seriously enough to require hospitalization. An estimated 20,000 were homeless in the three cities.

Quotes From The News
By United Press International WASHINGTON — President Johnson, indicating that he will ask Congress for additional taxes if prosecution of the war in Southeast Asia demands it: "If the necessities of Viet Nam require it, I will not hesitate to return to the Congress for additional appropriations and additional revenues."

WASHINGTON — Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., senior Republican on the Senate Finance Committee, warning of the danger of inflation if the President holds to a "butter and guns" policy: "We ought to finance this war by laying aside all expenditures that are not necessary. Members of these classes will be made up of pupils who are in need of remedial reading instruction.

While Horace Mann and Stephen F. Austin elementary schools in Pampa do not have enough pupils in need of remedial reading to qualify for the government aid, Edmondson said there are some students in these schools who are in need of reading assistance. Provisions will be made, he said, to provide comparable facilities for them. Equipment devices for the remedial reading classes now are being installed in the various schools.

Edmondson said the government has approved an allotment of $160,000 in federal aid to all of the schools in the local unit. Pampa receives the lion's share of the total with the $99,054 allotment.

In other school board business today:

Superintendent Edmondson reported that the Pampa school textbook committee is engaged in making selection of new textbooks and will file recommendations with the board before March 1.

The superintendent also discussed with the board the resignation of Band Director Fred Stockdale and asked for guidance in selecting his successor.

The board approved continuation of the school district's $300 a month contract with the City of Pampa for use of the city's tax facilities.

Business Manager Homer Craig reported tax collections to date of $1,282,859.67 or 76.7 per cent of the total due.

The board approved payment of current bills totaling $16,795.01.

CoC Conventions $57,000 GOAL SET

Group Meets

A campaign to attract conventions and meetings to Pampa was mapped out this week by the Chamber of Commerce Conventions Committee.

The crux of the program was to encourage Pampans who are members of state and national organizations to work within those organizations to bring their meetings to the city.

The committee will assist in these efforts in any way possible and, in the event a meeting or convention is scheduled, will provide full support with arrangements.

The committee will present the program at the Chamber's February membership luncheon.

At the luncheon, the committee will further outline its program and the assistance it can provide.

Antique Stool Reported Stolen

Jerry Bond of near Skellytown reported the theft of an antique stool from the back of his pickup truck while it was parked in the 100 block of E. Foster Wednesday evening.

Bond said the stool was valued at $100. He described it as about 30 inches long, 18 inches wide and two feet tall. He said it had a pink velvet seat and carved dark walnut legs.

Carubbi Addresses Pampa Rotarians

Texas Jaycee president A. J. Carubbi Jr. talked on the need for "moral reawakening" among the American people at the Pampa Rotary Club's regular luncheon meeting yesterday in the Coronado Inn.

Carubbi said that the public has become too complacent about morals and our growing crime rate. He added that one of the purposes of the Jaycees is to become involved in public affairs and to help upgrade our moral standards through strong leadership.

Gene Imel introduced the program.

New officers were elected and a $57,000 budget for the coming year was approved Wednesday at the first 1966 meeting of the Pampa-Lefors United Fund.

Elected president to succeed Norman C. Henry was Williams Ralph McKinney. Henry was elected first vice president; Dr. Joe R. Donaldson, second vice president; and R. H. Nienstiel, treasurer.

Elected directors for three year terms were McKinney, Hugh Peeples, James E. Trusty, Roy S. Boland and George Newberry.

The nominating committee was chaired by Ralph Thomas and included A. A. Schuneman and Clinton Evans.

A final tally showed that the 1965-66 fund drive collected $60,905. After subtracting campaign expenses, operating costs and pledge losses and adding a small balance from the 1964-65, this left $57,625.86 to be distributed to the United Fund agencies.

Based on the anticipated 1965-66 Fund Drive goal of $77,000, a tentative budget of $68,869 had been set for the agencies.

Because of low contributions, an across the board cut of 16.32 percent was made. This means a total of $57,625.84 will go to the agencies, only two cents less than the amount available.

Payment of the first quarter allotment of funds was approved in the amount of $14,406.46. The United Fund agencies, their budgeted allotment for 1965-66 and their first quarter payments are:

Assault Case

Vincent Smith, Mobeetie, was assessed fine and costs of $29.80 by Justice of the Peace G. L. Lunford on a charge of aggravated assault. The complaint was signed by Mrs. Fay Smith.

Three Change Plea In County Court

Three more persons docketed for trial before the Gray County jury next week changed their pleas Wednesday before County Judge Bill Craig. All three were charged with driving while intoxicated.

Lloyd Jackson Wolfe changed his plea from not guilty to guilty. Charles W. Rogers, Canadian, and Dale Henry Pison, 609 Bradley, changed their pleas to nolo contendere and were subsequently found guilty.

All three were assessed fines of $100 plus court costs, were sentenced to three days in jail and applied for and were granted six months probation.

Good Idea Repeated

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
That a good recipe is worth repeating everyone will agree. The onion-apple casserole, using two plentiful and low-priced items, goes well with roast ham, pork or turkey. Therefore we reprint it from some years ago when many readers told us it was a wonderful dish.
The coconut pie, also, was a big favorite. Believe that a sweet thought bears repeating? Here it is again. Enjoy it again.
ONION-AND-APPLE CASSEROLE
(Serves 6)
Large Bermuda type or sweet red onions
1/2-inch boiling water
1/2-teaspoon salt
4 tart medium apples
2 tablespoons sugar
1-teaspoon ground cinnamon
1-teaspoon ground black pepper
1-3-cup onion liquid

1-3-cup butter or margarine
Peel onions and slice about 1/4-inch thick. Cook 10 minutes in covered saucepan in 1/2-inch boiling water and 1/2-teaspoon of the salt. Peel apples and cut them into slices 1/4-inch thick. Drain onions, reserving the liquid to use later. Fill a 1-quart casserole with alternating layers of apples and onions, and remaining 1/2-teaspoon salt. Add onion liquid. Melt butter or margarine and pour it over the casserole. Cover. Bake in a preheated moderate oven (350 degrees) 45 minutes or until apples are done. Serve with pork, ham or turkey.
Family meals are a good way to teach children good eating habits. If Dad is late, it's best to forego a family dinner that night in favor of feeding the children on time and avoiding crankiness.

Food Buying Guide
The following guide to the nation's food shopping buys for this weekend was prepared by the U.S. Departments of Agriculture and Interior for UPI.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Weekend shoppers for the new year will find a varied supply of meats and vegetables. Beef in many areas will be attractively priced this weekend. Roast and steak cuts are the best priced. In pork roasts again are the best buy. Broiler-fryers and turkey continue to be the best buys for the budget-minded.
Winter harvests in warm areas are bringing in a cornucopia of fruits and vegetables. Green beans, cabbage, carrots, cauliflower, celery and corn lead the list. Cucumbers, endive, onions, potatoes, radishes, squash, sweet potatoes, and tomatoes are runners-up in the vegetable plentiful.
Apples lead the list of abundant foods in the fruit section. Avocados, bananas, grapefruit, oranges, tangerines, and peaches also are plentiful.
The larder should be full and the range of choice is good. Remember the national fish plentiful are canned red salmon, canned tuna, and fish sticks and portions.

Chicken Parmesan
By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Company coming to dinner? Then you'll want something different, delicious and easy to prepare. If it can be put together in advance and run into the oven at the last minute, so much the better.
Baked chicken Parmesan is such a dish. Remember also, broiler-fryer chickens are one of the best meat buys in the market.

BAKED CHICKEN PARMESAN
(Serves 12)
1/2 cup salad oil
3 broiler-fryer chickens, cut in serving pieces
1 1/2 teaspoons dried oregano leaves, divided
1 1/2 teaspoons salt, divided
Paprika
2 cans (3 or 4 ounces each) sliced mushrooms
4 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese
Line a 15x10x1-inch shallow pan with aluminum foil. Pour salad oil into pan. Place in a 425-degree oven to heat, about 10 minutes. Remove pan from oven. Place chicken pieces, skin side down in hot oil. Sprinkle with half the oregano and salt. Sprinkle lightly with paprika. Return to oven and bake 30 minutes. Turn chicken pieces. Sprinkle with remaining oregano, salt, and lightly with paprika. Bake 15 minutes longer. Remove from oven. Spoon fat and drippings in pan over chicken. Pour mushrooms with liquid over chicken; sprinkle with Parmesan cheese. Bake 5 minutes longer.

Winter Calls For Soup, Snacks

CHICKEN WING SOUP heats up cold guests.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
It's time now for a let-the-hostess-take-it-easy party or gathering after the movies, skating or the hockey game. Good hot soup is the big idea. It can be made in advance and heated just as the crowd knocks at the door while they stamp the snow off their boots.
Hot soup in plastic paper cups and finger snacks on attractive paper plates — that means no dishwashing afterward and no need for silverware. Squares of cheese with

2 tablespoons flour
Broth from chicken wings
1 cup half-and-half cream
Cook chicken wings in salt and tomato juice with salt and peppercorns until tender, 20 to 30 minutes. Cool. Remove meat from bones and cut fine. Strain peppercorns from broth and reserve broth.
In a saucepan, heat butter. Add onion and celery and saute until tender but not browned. Stir in flour, chicken broth and half-and-half. Bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Add diced chicken. May be made in advance, refrigerated and reheated at serving time.

Slices of raw peaches, apple or banana won't brown if dipped in orange or lemon juice.

Educated Nose Helps Tea Tester
BOSTON (UPI) — Mary C. Harrigan believes she is the only woman tea inspector in the nation and she says "there's nothing that replaces the nose for testing tea."
She told how she checks on the quality of her favorite — Dajeeling.
At the U.S. Food & Drug Administration office, she measures slightly more than two grams, using a brass scale. Then she brews the tea seven minutes. The tea is served in white china cups — no handles.

Gardening News

By THELMA BRAY

Here in the Panhandle outdoor tasks are few in the garden during January. Since we have had very little moisture, watering should be done when necessary.

Soil preparation for the spring may be undertaken whenever the ground is in suitable condition to work. Few practices promote good gardening more than having beds and borders spaded and manured well in advance of planting time. Any new construction work or cleaning up of the garden that can be accomplished at this time is all to the good; it saves precious time later.

We have had such delightful weather so far this winter but it can't last forever. Even though we know that our climate and weather can't be surpassed, we had better be prepared for that blizzard which is sure to come. The branches of Christmas trees make good winter protection for low evergreens and for perennials that retain their foliage throughout the winter.

The following bits of interesting information have been gleaned from the magazine "Progressive Farmer":

A few dawn redwood trees growing in South Carolina are relics of a species thought to be extinct for 20 million years. This rare conifer was found growing in a remote section of western China in 1945. The South Carolina specimens were grown from seed obtained from the Chinese trees before Communist takeover. Clemson University's Department of Forestry hopes to use its dawn redwoods as a source of seed to establish a plantation for study, especially as a potential pulpwood species.

The dawn redwood also has considerable horticultural value. It is one of the most ornamental of the conifers, having fernlike foliage in spring. Leaves turn pale pink before dropping in fall. It is also resistant to most diseases, and is free of insect attacks.

Oklawa, a new drought-hardy shade-tolerant centipede turf grass has been approved for release by Oklahoma Agricultural Experiment Station. Sod and sprigs of the new variety will be available to certified seed growers for the 1966 season.

Called a lazy man's grass, Oklawaha is easy to grow. It's a bluish-green, medium-textured, slow-growing perennial which spreads by above ground runners.

Air conditioning for farm buildings seem like a radical idea now, but some researchers have hinted that it's coming in the future. Of course, expense will be a major hurdle to overcome. However, the cheapest possible kind of air conditioning unit may be right under our feet! What could it be? — the earth!

At Cornell University's Poultry Farm, some 400 feet of 18-inch steel pipe is buried 8 feet underground. This is part of a test to see if it's practical to reach a ground depth at which temperatures are fairly constant the year-round.

Air moved through such a pipe would be warmed in winter and cooled in summer, if the idea proves practical. Such a system would remove moisture condensation, too.

Installation of a system based on this theory would cost about the same as for a standard heat pump system. But after installation, it would be much more economical to use, since a fan would be all you'd have to operate.

Mohawk is the name given a new pecan variety recently released by U. S. Pecan Field Station at Brownwood. Tested at Bartlesville, Ponca City, and Hugo, Okla. the new variety is doing well. Mohawk starts fruiting at an early age. The tree is medium size with large leaves and appears to be disease resistant. The nuts are of large size and of high-quality.

Nothing but praise is being heard from growers, shippers, and buyers when they talk of the new cantaloupe, Perleta. The new variety was developed by R. T. Correa, horticulturist at the Lower Rio Grande Valley research and Extension Center. Correa hand-pollinated, selected, and tested the melon seven years before releasing it to seedsmen last September.

Perleta cantaloupe is a firm melon with a good flavor, does not become overripe quickly, and matures seven to 10 days earlier than most varieties.

They're talking of a new coat length for spring. It's the "nine-tenths", just about two inches shorter than the daytime dress it covers.

Word to Teens From the Bandstand

CUE FROM TELEVISION DANCERS — Hairpiece for teenage swingers takes a cue from the Hullybaloo dancers on television. Wig is of man-made fibers, can be cleaned and restyled to help maintain a neater appearance on the dance floor. Dancer here favors a neat shift with popular Henley collar.

Parents may plug their ears

but dancing to the thumping said it, they may stop dancing.) beat that's come a long way. It is recognized as good exercise and keeps them out of good for youth. (Now that we've more mischief than adults realize. The next step is spiffing up their grooming.

Singer Joey Dee gives some tips from his vantage point on the bandstand. He urges young women to wear neat, fluid dresses or skirts that don't look as though they've been through a cement mixer 15 minutes after the first dance set. Sleeveless dresses are cool and comfortable. Low or medium heels are flattering to the legs and comfortable for dancing, he suggests.

Joey Dee also urges the dancers to take extra precautions against perspiration and says he uses a medicated body powder to help absorb extra moisture.

Joey also picked up a tip from a model to help you keep your hair tidy. Use hairpins. Bend one side about halfway down to form a "U." This slips in the hair easily but the little hook holds it in.

Mrs. Gist Is Named 'Queen for 1965' by Local TOPS Club

The Lota Pounds off (TOPS) Club met recently to crown the queen for 1965. Mrs. Jack Gist was crowned yearly queen with Mrs. Glenn Giblin as runner-up. Mrs. N. R. Lowe was crowned for the month of December as the best weight-loser and awarded a fruit bowl.

Mrs. Wayne Brooks received the weekly fruit bowl at Monday's meeting. Mrs. Gene Leigh reported the club had lost 13 pounds and gained 11 pounds for the week with Mrs. Leon Brown taking the pig home. Following a short business meeting the ritual was conducted with Mrs. Leigh and Brown leading the losers, turtles and pigs.

Mrs. Leigh will give a talk and analyze hand writing at the next meeting on Jan. 17.

Ladies interested in visiting the club should call MO 4-4339 or MO 4-4181 for information.

BUST FOR BRUMIDI
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Paul Douglas, D-Ill., and Rep. Frank Annunzio, D-Ill., are supporting a move to honor artist Constantino Brumidi, who spent a quarter of a century decorating the Capitol.

Legislation sponsored by the two lawmakers would authorize a bust of the artist in a corridor on the Senate side of the Capitol. Brumidi, who migrated to the country from Italy during the last century, painted murals in the building's rooms and corridors.

TANK CRASHES
ROTHENBERG, Germany (UPI)—A U.S. Army M60 tank skidded off an icy road down a 78-foot embankment Tuesday and crashed into the side of a moving freight train. Three soldiers aboard the tank were slightly injured. None of the freight train's crew was hurt.

East African tribesmen use the tenacious jaws of soldier ants to close their cuts, says the National Geographic.

Television in Review

By RICK DU BROW
United Press International
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Ivan Tors, producer of television's successful "Flipper" series, about a dolphin, presented a new weekly entry on CBS-TV Tuesday night: "Daktari," featuring a chimpanzee named Judy and a cross-eyed lion. The people were incidental although they got top billing and, undoubtedly, more money. Judy clearly was the star.

were not to blame for their slight predicament. The script level of the one-hour program, which centers around the activities of an animal study compound set in Africa, was aimed at children, with only the animals as diversions for youngsters of all ages. Furthermore, any news photographer can tell you that a human being hasn't got a chance in a picture with children or animals.

"Flipper," on NBC-TV, became a gradual success with a similar, basic, utterly simple approach aiming at total relaxation, and I wouldn't be surprised if the same thing happens to "Daktari." The "Flipper" series now is so entrenched it is giving ratings headaches to no less a star than Jackie Gleason, its competitor.

Supporting Roles

"Daktari" is the Swahili word for doctor, and the title role is portrayed with easy competence by Marshall Thompson as a jungle scientist, although Cheryl Miller, who plays his daughter, had better put in a rush course at acting school. The series was based on the movie "Clarence the Cross-Eyed Lion," although the story now has a good deal more adventure to go with its comedy.

Since human beings really don't count for much in a series like this, despite the presence of such accomplished performers as Thompson and Hari Rhodes, the most important craftsmen involved are the director, the animal trainers and the photographers. For it is they who must get something out of the only thing that is there—namely—the animals. If they don't, the show is dead.

On the premiere, Director Otto Lang shrewdly assessed his situation. With splendid assists from the trainers and photographer, he went heavily for an animal story—in a lightweight plot about a villain who tries to kidnap and the lion—and he got the maximum out of very little.

Judy turned in a smashing performance, worthy of an Oscar—foiling the villain at every turn, swiping his car key, letting air out of a tire, tripping the bad guy in a jungle chase, and then roping him and tying him to a tree. The episode, incidentally, was filmed at Africa, U.S.A., an animal compound near Los Angeles.

What's the best 5-letter word for fertilizer?

And for wheat—NIPAK 45.

Get better wheat crops and earn bigger profits. Topdress your wheat with Nipak 45 right now—for greater yield and higher protein. Nipak 45—45% nitrogen fertilizer from Urea—gives you one-third more nitrogen per pound than any other form of solid nitrogen fertilizer—which enables you to handle less fertilizer and cover more ground in less time. Nipak 45 is uniformly prilled, too. It flows easily, won't cake, clog—or corrode your equipment. Nipak 45 dissolves in the soil moisture and moves quickly to the root zone where it stays put until your crops need it. So for more grow power, ask your local Nipak dealer about Nipak 45. He can help you plan a complete fertilizer program because he can provide a complete fertilizer service.

Randy in Running For Outstanding Athlete of '65

By SANDY PADWE
COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (NEA) — There is only one Sullivan Award and there is only one Bill Bradley and only one Randy Matson.

Both are on the ballot to determine the nation's outstanding amateur athlete for 1965. Only one can win, but both are legends.

While the legend of Bill Bradley grows with a Rhodes Scholarship at Oxford University, the legend of Randy Matson grows in another way — Bill Bradley's way — on the basketball court.

Matson, after two years of inactivity as a basketball player, has earned a starting forward position for Texas A&M this winter, averaging nine points and 11 rebounds per game.

"It's the first time I've played since high school," Randy said, "and it still feels a bit strange."

Matson, the world's record-holder for the shot put, has the perfect dimensions (6-6, 240 pounds) for basketball.

"I've lost 20 pounds," Randy said, "and I'm just hoping it won't affect me when I start training in March."

"But I'm enjoying basketball a lot and I think in the long run it's going to help me as a shot putter because it will increase my agility and speed."

"I really had to work to get in shape for basketball. It was especially tough on my ankles and feet because there is so much more running to build up your endurance and wind."

Outside of rustiness, Randy's biggest problem in basketball has been the mental preparation for games.

"It's a little harder than when I'm training by myself. Then I'm my own boss. In basketball, you have to get used to being part of a team, but the guys understand this and they have really helped me."

"Basketball has been a welcome break. I had two years of very tough competition in track. Now I won't begin track again until March. I may compete in a few indoor meets and then I'll be ready for the outdoor season."

Just 20, it is nearly impossible to predict just how far Matson will go in the shot put. (His world record is 70-7 set last spring.) And he is coming a threat in the discus with a 201-5, despite a minimum of discus training.

Few athletes in any sport — Bradley excepted — have stood so far ahead of the other competitors.

"Right now," he said, "my immediate goal is a gold medal at the 1968 Olympic games."

Another goal is the Sullivan Award.

"Every amateur athlete," he said, "dreams about that the same way you think about the gold medal."

But there is only one award and two exceptional candidates who enjoyed equal success and excellence in the same year.

Rambling With Red

RON CROSS

The song on TV these days goes, "Double your pleasure, double your fun," and that's exactly what Briscoe basketball coach Don Johnson is doing for his Broncos followers.

They Just Win

It's a double pleasure for Johnson and the Briscoe fans every time the boy and girl cagers play a basketball game for between them only four times have they been defeated, all four times have been losses by the girl-type cagers.

Johnson's boys are running along at 22-0 while the females are 17-4, both in first place in the district. Winning just comes naturally for Johnson, who in his third year at the helm of the Broncos has never had a losing season, nor has he even come close.

In his first season at Briscoe Johnson's girls finished 20-10 and the boys, 22-10, then things began to pick up. Last season saw the Briscoe girls go to the state playoffs, where they were beaten in first round action and finished with a 32-5 record while the boys were beaten in bi-district play by Darroutzet and closed the season at 26-6.

Just how far in state play they'll go this year is still anybody's guess but from the looks of things it'll be far. Johnson's girls are 7-4 for the current campaign and the Broncos are 22-0 with three tournament victories under their belts.

The only serious threat thrown their way has been by old foe Darroutzet, who lost by only two points at Shamrock in a tournament final.

Johnson's record for this period at Briscoe is 69-16 in boys play and 68-19 for the girls and adding these together you get 137-35.

The Broncos are not overly blessed with height so how does Johnson explain his overwhelming success? "I'd say intense desire plus some pretty good shooting and a very good defense," says coach Johnson.

Tallest of the Broncos is 6'3 center Arville Atherton, who paces his team in scoring with a 21.3 average.

Only one other member will measure six foot or better, that being 6'0 forward Harvey Puryear with a 14.2 average.

Girls Good Too

Then you have one of the best outside shooters in the business in 5'7 guard Tom Hays who is averaging 18.6 points per game and another 5'7 guard, David Zybach with an 11.8 average.

The fifth starter is divided between 6'2 Larry Meadows and 5'11 Vic Helton, both averaging just over six points a contest.

On the girls side of things little (she's only 5'3) Lou Meadows is a senior forward with a 16.2 average headed only by Diane Dodd, 5'7 forward with a 21.6 mark.

This has to be counted as a rebuilding year for Johnson's girls with Meadows the only starter on the squad, the rest of the team made up of three juniors and two sophomores with the two sophomores at the guard slots.

Johnson is very proud of his defense, saying, "We score well, but our defense has limited opponents to under 50 points a game and that's pretty good."

GROOM, BRISCOE HAVE TOP SCORERS

Tigers Roberts Excels In Basketball and Football

By Ron Cross
News Sports Editor

Every once in a while you find a boy that excels in everything and such is the case of Groom's Jerry Roberts, a 6'5 by 195 pounder who should have no trouble finding a college to attend.

Roberts is an all-state end from Groom's class B champs and was a unanimous choice at that position.

Now that basketball season is here Roberts has the distinction of being the area's leading scorer with 374 points in 12 games, an average of 31.2 per contest.

Roberts has helped the Tigers run to a 10-2 season record and is one of the brightest spots on now-turned basketball coach, Ronnie Mills five.

Briscoe, sailing along at 22-0, dominates the scoring chart with four youngsters in the top 18 while Groom is next with three.

Allison, 9-9, has the area's leading girl scorer in Lynda Miller, who in 18 games has scored 452 points for an even 25 point per game mark, just barely ahead of Lefurn Brady of Kelton, who in 17 outings has 409 points and a 24.1 average.

Area teams will open their season Friday night with Briscoe (22-0) and (17-4) playing host to Wheeler (6-6) and (13-2); McLean (2-12) and (11-6) at Canadian (7-9) and (5-11); Quail plays host to Groom (10-2) and (4-7) and White Deer (6-4) plays at Wellington.

Roberts has a comfortable lead over Kelton's Kenneth Ab-

Cain in Top 10 In League Scoring

Amarillo, winner of first half competition in district 3-4A, with an 8-0 record, also had the leading scorer in the league in 6'1 1/2 guard Charles Wells.

Wells scored 152 points in the eight games for an even 19.0 point per game average. The Sandies had two other players in the double figure bracket in conference play, pointing to the reason they have been so successful.

Second place Monterey had only two players, third place Lubbock two and fourth place Pampa one, David Cain who totaled 86 points for a 10.7 per game mark.

Second to Wells is Palo Duro's Harold Mason, the 6'5 center who totaled 119 points for a 14.8 average and Caprock's Danny McDuff, 6'0 guard who averages 14.1 points a game with 113 total points.

Danny Dawson of Borger claimed a 13.5 average and Pat Estes, 6'2 Tascosa forward had a 13.2 mark. John Pettigrew of Borger scored an even 100 points and a 12.5 mark.

With first half play over Pampa turns its attention to non-league warfare Saturday night by playing host to Phillips.

The Blackhawks gave the Harvesters one of their better battles of the season before falling, 48-44 in the finals of the Top O' Texas basketball tournament.

The Harvesters return to 3-4A action Tuesday when they play host to Lubbock, starting at 8 p.m.

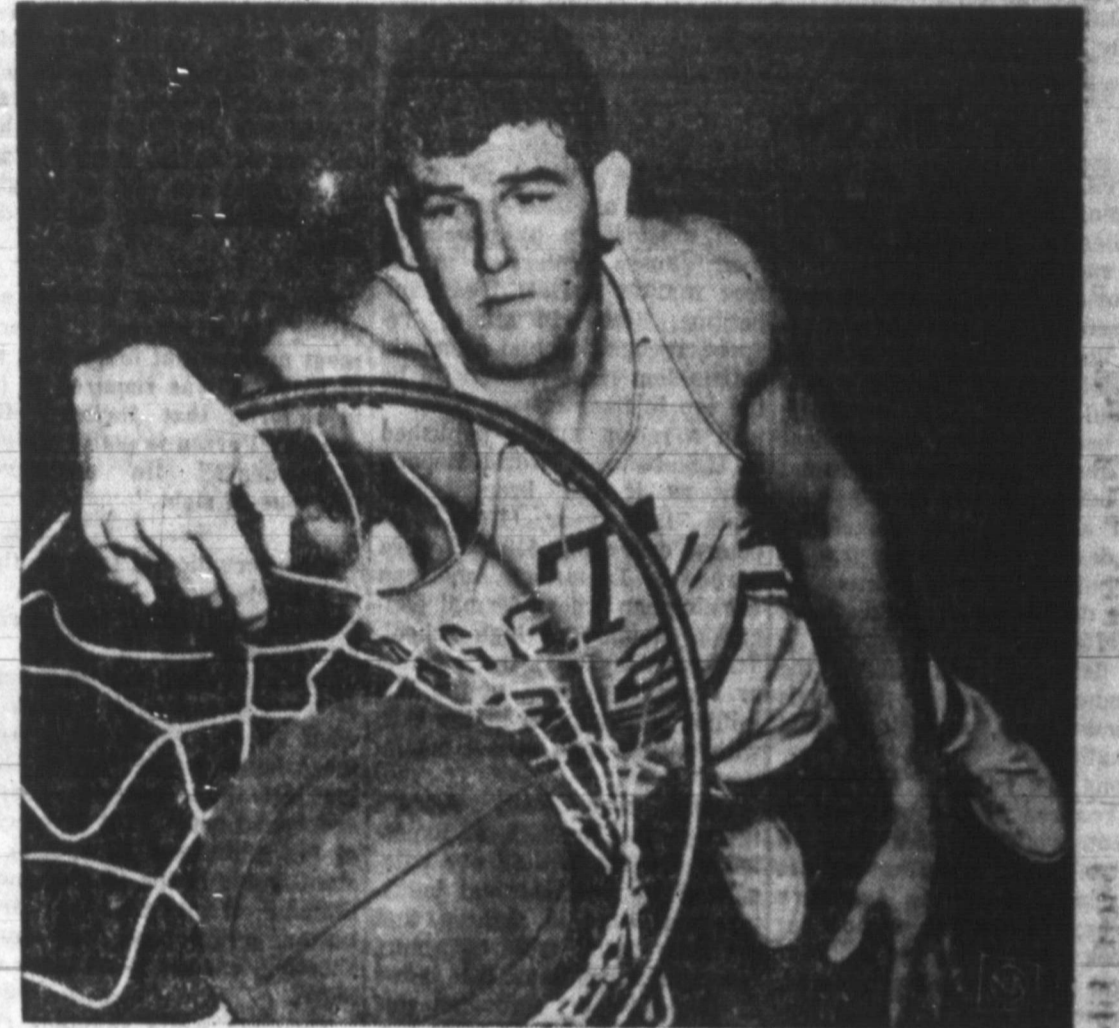

The Westerners handed Pampa one of their three league losses, 48-35 at Lubbock. The Westerners are one of the surprise teams of the league, finishing third at 6-2.

CHEVY PICKUPS RIDE SMOOTHLY

... A BIG REASON WHY THEY'RE LIKED BEST!

Smooth ride is one big reason why Chevy is America's most popular pickup. You get true independent front suspension; front wheels that step lightly over bumps. And most models provide big coil springs at all four wheels to soak up the jolts. You get a ride that's ideal for camper duty as well as work ... a tough suspension proved over the past 5 years on rugged jobs. Try a smooth-riding 1966 pickup at your Chevrolet dealer's.

To Each His Own

Well paying jobs are going begging for the lack of qualified applicants throughout the entire nation.

During the past decade, our educational systems have stressed that a college degree is an absolute prerequisite for a successful career. This emphasis has been so strong that student and family alike tend to brand the individual who does not attend a college or university, but desires to follow the trades, a "failure." There seems to have developed an "educational social status" that is working to the detriment and against the economic welfare of thousands of individuals, as well as that of nations.

Long ago business and industry realized that to have an efficient profitable operation, all the well paid brains could not be contained in the executive offices; "chiefs" were fine but it took a lot of "smart Indians" to get the whole job completed, but the educational system tagged "Rosy the Riveter" as a bygone non-progressive to the point that things are getting out of balance.

There are hundreds of thousands of people who are not attending to training as offered by a college or university, yet have potential skill ability that, if developed, would earn them more than many with the coveted college degree. To take advantage of these skills the individual must be trained to become proficient. Actually he is on complete par with his college counterpart. An individual goes to college or a university to train himself in a chosen skill; one goes to a formal educational institution to learn and the other learns by attending a trade school or serving an apprentice-

Attention Needed

Now, as never before, this observation by Jean de La Bruyere needs attending: "A wise man neither suffers himself to be governed (by others), nor attempts to govern others." The late Albert Schweitzer said the same thing in different terms: "Humanitarianism consists in never sacrificing a human being for a purpose. The great conflict of our times is personality versus collectivism."

It Doesn't Make Sense!

The electric power blackout that struck the Northeast a short time ago has produced some opinions and proposals which, to understate the case, are totally without merit.

For instance, it is questioned whether interconnection of power systems — which, despite the occasional failure, has given this country the most dependable, efficient and economical service on earth — is a good thing after all. That brought an informed answer from Congressman Clark of Pennsylvania, a member of the House Public-Works Committee. The blackout, he observed, "certainly does not mean that we should go back to the early days of isolated power systems. People are confused by contradictory and unfounded statements which pointed to the need for more hydroelectric facilities under government control. The hydroelectric output — far removed from Northeast load centers. . . To conclude that we need more public power hydro installations, far removed from the people who will use the electricity, just does not make sense!"

Mr. Clark went on to say that "There can be no question but that interconnected electric companies, operating within reasonable geographic limits, . . . is a sound concept." Under this concept, companies transmit power between themselves as demand requires. Power shortages are thus avoided and maximum economy obtained. The overall benefit to electric consumers — measured by cost or by service standards — is immense.

The blackout must not be used as a reason to retreat from the power industry's superb technological achievements — or to fasten more socialized power systems on the back of the nation's weary taxpayers.

Communists on Campus

Daily News columnist H. L. Hunt, who also is one of the nation's wealthiest men, had some comments about communist influence on the campuses of tax-financed universities.

He pointed out that in June, 1963, the University of California Board of Regents voted 15 to 2 to end an 11-year ban on communist speakers. "President Clark Kerr said that the lifting of the ban would prevent communists from becoming civil rights martyrs," wrote Hunt, who called Kerr's words "a classic example of wishful thinking." Recent events at the Berkeley campus are cited to show the failure of the policy of the regents.

However, there are some points which Mr. Hunt apparently overlooked.

Universities were private property, the board in charge and the president would have a right to say who could come onto the campus, and what theories could be espoused there. But when the institution is supported by the state's plundering the tax payer, the administrative board and officers have lost any right to control the schools.

It is only natural that an institution which is based on the socialist theories of taking from some to give to others should have socialist (communist) speakers. The only thing the tax-supported schools will not be able to teach in competitive free enterprise, which would be the antithesis of the tax-financed schools.

Mr. Hunt may believe the compulsory schools can avoid teaching communism. We do not.

Pull Up A Chair

The popularity of curry dishes in the Near East and Orient is accredited to the fact that the hot pungency of these foods is said to aid perspiration, cool the body and rid it of its toxins. Most spices used today in making curry sauce were employed in Biblical times and are still the basis of most oriental cuisines. "Kari" pronounced curry, means sauce in India. And the secret to good curry is the sauce. Curries vary widely from district to district and even dish to dish. The basic ingredients are tumeric and hot peppers or chiles. Among other spices used are coriander, ginger, saffron, garlic and cardamom.

Today's smile: A laborer, applying for a job on a government project that involved a lot of blasting, was required to fill in a form that included the query: "Person to notify in case of accident?" He answered: "Anyone in sight."

A conservationist tells us that if Daniel Boone had taken a continental hunting trip during his explorations in 1800, he would have seen only 15 species of big game and 23 species of what we call small game from the Atlantic to the Pacific. During last fall's hunting season sportsmen could hunt 13 species of big game and 22 species of small game in the 48 contiguous States. Daniel, the trail blazer, might have had more shooting, but not much more variety.

Thoughts while shaving: One out of every five American families moves to a new home each year, according to a recent study of the nation's major cities. For some unknown reason families in San Francisco and Los Angeles move more frequently than those in New York and Philadelphia. Young adults comprise most of the migrants that relocate and that is probably due to job transfers on the part of the wage earner. . . . When it was established in 1924 the FBI had a small force to combat the nation's crime, but now there are more than 6,000 special agents and several thousand more clerical workers. In the past 40 years it has become the world's greatest investigative organization and its efficiency is due wholly to the leadership of Director J. Edgar Hoover. . . . One of the oldest campus jokes is the one about the lost, bewildered freshman who wanders into ladies' rooms instead of lecture halls. But at Michigan Technological University, located in about 10,000 square miles of forest in the State's upper peninsula, a lost freshman is no joke. That's why they give first-year students a special course in wilderness survival. . . . Ever hear of the Lykes family of Florida? Well, they are the greatest collection of millionaires in the world. Each of the 83 members is estimated to be worth $5,500,000. . . . And speaking of millionaires, the elder John D. Rockefeller gave away $750 million in his lifetime and left enough to his grandsons so that they could be philanthropists, too. The El Paso (Texas) TIMES reported in a story: "It seems that the dead man ran a red light." You can bet he won't do that again.

How was polio wiped out as a dreaded disease? Not by the government — but rather by a free market agency of individuals. These people were so persuasive in stating their case that millions supported them voluntarily.

A new book, "Reclaiming the American Dream" by Richard C. Cornuelle, calls attention to the polio example and literally hundreds of other examples of free individuals solving their own problems. (The book is published by Random House, 457 Madison Ave., New York 22, N. Y.; $3.95.)

In the chapter "That Was The Dream That Was", the author shows how the original American dream, based on the principles of non-governmental action, created the greatest, most prosperous society ever; but that has been kicked aside in recent years.

He says: "We became most prosperous simply because we were most free. . . . But then "The Depression trauma ran deep and touched nearly everyone. It marked the end of automatic confidence in our traditional way of doing things."

Mr. Cornuelle looks over the mounting agenda of "things to be done" today — and says there is a third path between "Middle age is the period when young fool and begins acting like an old one."

Hold Still A Little Longer—

Between the Bookends

How to Promote the General Welfare

For the past thirty years or so, we have been witnessing a game of social studies in which two opposing groups debate whether or not a particular social problem exists. If it can be demonstrated that it does, the automatic answer is to create a governmental program to handle it. The fact that such programs never cure the ills they are created for, is always overlooked; and so one new program follows another.

How was polio wiped out as a dreaded disease? Not by the government — but rather by a free market agency of individuals. These people were so persuasive in stating their case that millions supported them voluntarily.

A new book, "Reclaiming the American Dream" by Richard C. Cornuelle, calls attention to the polio example and literally hundreds of other examples of free individuals solving their own problems. (The book is published by Random House, 457 Madison Ave., New York 22, N. Y.; $3.95.)

The Doctor Says:

By DR. WAYNE BRANDSTADT

KNOCK - KNEES COMMON IN OVERWEIGHT CHILDREN

Children under three years of age often have knockknees. This is due to a weakness in the muscles of the inner aspect of their knees. The Germans refer to these as "X" legs in contrast to "O" legs when the bowing is outward.

Knock-knees are especially common in infants who are overweight or flat-footed. They cause the child to walk awkwardly and to stumble a lot. Fortunately, unless the child has rickets, which may cause an inward bowing but more commonly causes outward bowing, his knees will become stronger with walking and the legs will straighten out.

The treatment is directed at the cause (rickets, overweight or flat feet). Exercises for flat feet, such as picking up marbles with the toes and teaching the child to walk on his heels and to walk heel to toe, are recommended. If the condition persists after the child is five and is severe enough to be considered a handicap, he may have to wear braces for several months. As a last resort the legs may have to be straightened surgically.

Q—My son, 8, had rheumatic fever about 20 months ago and developed chorea. What causes chorea? Is there any cure for it? Should he be allowed to attend school?

A—The rheumatic fever was the cause of the chorea (St. Vitus's dance). Treatment of the rheumatic fever and the prevention of a recurrence with antibiotics is more important than treatment of the chorea. Chorea is usually outgrown in time but bouts of rheumatic fever can seriously damage the heart.

President Johnson has paid off his debt to former Gov. Matthew E. Welsh who stood in for the President in the last Indiana presidential primary, remember?

Mr. Welsh was appointed by LBJ to a $27,000 a year chairmanship of the United States section of the United States-Canadian commission, a part-time job. Did the former governor accept? No faster than a hungry robin can gulp a fat night crawler.

Because the job is not full time, Mr. Welsh will continue to live and practice law in Indianapolis.

It would be nice if we all could pay off our debts with some one else's money, wouldn't it?

Question Box

QUESTION: "Is it true that socialism and-or communism starts in the local political governments and if so, why?"

ANSWER: We believe that it does start in the local political governments.

There are several reasons for this. First, local political governments are usually pure democracies where each man has an equal vote, while in the federal and most state governments we have two legislative bonuses which the people elect. The state and federal legislators of one house can't pass a law without the consent of the members of the other house, nor can they pass it without two-thirds vote over the veto of the executive.

So, local majority-ruled political governments are not limited in their ability to pass laws that confiscate the property of the producers as the federal governments are protected to some degree.

Another reason is that people are naturally more sympathetic and more emotional to the destitution and needs of those in their immediate environment. Therefore, they are emotionally willing to pass laws not looking ahead to the end results that retard the accumulation of tools and thus make it more difficult for wages to rise and prices to drop. As we have more employers, we have more competition in obtaining employees and there is more competition in selling the product. This reduces the price of things, so when we are protected from a pure democracy we have a much better chance of having individual liberty and individual responsibility.

President James Madison said: "Democracies have ever been found incompatible with personal security or the rights of property and have, in general, been short in their lives as they have been violent in their deaths."

To summarize, socialism and-or communism starts in the local political governments because people are more emotional and because they do not have a double system of legislators as they do in state and federal governments. The U. S. senators were originally elected by the state legislators, and no state can be deprived of its two senators without its consent. This was a protection against the democratic form of government. The founding fathers knew well that a pure democracy would not be practical because most people think only of the present instead of taking a long term view.

Around the World

By ROBERT MORRIS

This is the time to take assessment, not only in our personal lives but in overlooking the world scene. Despite a growing trend which admonishes that we should leave public affairs to Washington, it is still incumbent on us to see to it that our children are bequeathed the bountiful heritage that we and our forefathers have enjoyed.

Geopolitically, the world situation is infinitely better than it was two years ago. Sukarno and the Communists have sustained a real defeat in Indonesia. The crimson tide that threatened Africa seems to be subsiding. In the Congo, the UN adventure under the Soviet-leaning Indian, R. Dayal, has been thwarted and that world body has beaten a retreat. Even in South America, notably in Brazil and British Guiana, the pattern of Communist regression is the same.

This is not to say that the Communist threat is subsiding at all. For here in the United States, despite a stiffening in foreign policy, the forces working to undermine our will to resist are moving ahead. Churches, for instance, which were once a bulwark in the struggle, are being neutralized. Those who insisted that if we stop nurturing the Communists they will disintegrate, have been proven correct. Yet those who should be unifying their forces are panicking and assailing each other, hoping thereby to earn for themselves the label of "moderate," the term the Communists reserve for those who are neutral in the world struggle.

One of the most sensitive areas where this weakness is likely to burst out is in disarmament. In fact the Soviet retreats, geopolitically, could have the effect of causing us to let our guard down in the tedious disarmament negotiations that seem never to end. The pressures in this field are enormous and all one need do is to read the information marshaled in the new book "Strike From Space" by Phyllis Schlafly and Admiral Chester Ward, former Judge Advocate of the Navy, to realize the enormity of this danger.

The heavily financed forces that are behind these pressures to delay even further our anti-missile missile are powerful indeed. The fact that there is evidence that the Soviets have already deployed their anti-missile missile does not deter those people from insisting that we enter a unilateral moratorium on this necessary defensive armor.

Moreover, we have only a few years left before the Red Chinese become a nuclear power. When they do, the danger from Asia will be enormous. Yet we do not seem to realize this. But hope springs eternal as we commence another year. Let us all stand by our posts.

Hunt for Truth

BY M. L. HUNT

"CONSTRUCTIVE, 1950,"
7th INSTALLMENT

These are some principles "constructives" may stress, keeping in mind that issues constantly change in relative importance:

- a. "Constructives" will work for our government to become fortified with ability and armaments, consistency and character, know-how and straight thinking, that it shall become so strong that it cannot be undermined or over-run from within or without.
- b. "Constructive" conduct will insure that the government shall endure because "constructives" will protect it from being bled white through inconsistency, profligacy and incompetent actions abroad and attempts to bribe its citizenry at home.
- c. "Constructives" will recognize and teach that the government does not produce and therefore cannot provide, and that waste and inefficiency would bog down its attempt to produce.
- d. "Constructive" society will reward its honorably retired in an honest, dependable way through the management of government. The currently producing generation will pay dividends to those who produced before from the heritage handed down to them. The security afforded the individual stems not from the government, but from his productive fellow-man who must not be hobbled nor destroyed, but protected in every honest and worthwhile endeavor.

"Constructive" social security will work because it will not be used as a weapon in class warfare. It will not be used to pauperize either those who receive or those who pay. It will be administered without "take" and intimidation, and will be firmly rooted in freedom and individual liberty. Without these there can be no security.

e. "Constructives" will teach that the government can extend the greatest benefits to its people by fairly and righteously administering their legal rights as to each other and protecting the sanctity of their God-given rights.

f. "Constructives" will strive for honesty, including intellectual honesty in national administration, to nurture honesty among the people, which is necessary to insure continued honesty in administration.

CUT YOUR OWN TAXES: 9

Dependents Counted As Blessings

By RAY DE CRANE
NEA Special Writer
Internal Revenue Service probably challenges more tax returns because of improper claims for dependents than for any other single reason.

The problems generally arise when a student leaves school and starts to work, when a dependent marries toward the end of the year and when a parent is claimed.

IRS regulations prescribe five conditions which must be met before a $600 dependency exemption may be claimed:

1. The person being claimed der 19, unless one should be a movie star or has a substantial income from another source. It is when the special arrangements for students apply that questions arise. This is particularly true in the year of graduation or separation from school.

Up to that time they have generally met the conditions of being in school for five months and being chiefly supported by their parents. It's what happens after June that creates the confusion.

Assume your son or daughter started to work immediately after graduation and earned $1,700 the rest of the year. What claims against the rental income — such as depreciation, repairs, taxes — could reduce the net figure materially or even result in a net loss for the year. The law speaks of gross income.

The Social Security income a parent might receive is not considered gross income but it becomes a factor in determining chief support.

If, for example, the parent received $65 a month in Social Security payments ($780 for the year) and spent it toward his own support, the child claiming the parent as a dependent must have received less than $600 in income. (This qualification does not apply to your children who are under 19 or who are full-time students.)

2. The taxpayer must have furnished more than one-half the total support for the year.
3. The person claimed did not file a joint return with his wife or her husband.
4. A nationality requirement must be met.
5. The claimed dependents must be related to you, or if not a relative, must have lived in your home for the entire taxable year.

There is never much of a problem with your children un-can you do on your return? First off, you must realize that you cannot take part of a $600 deduction for a portion of the year. You either get a full year's credit or you get none.

The determination then is who furnished chief support on the basis of the full year. To get the answer, compare the total of your support expenditures with the total expended by your son or daughter in his or her own behalf.

If your total is the larger figure you get the full year's dependency credit. Your son or daughter files his own return and either pays a tax or claims a refund on his or her individual earnings.

Now what happens in the event of a marriage toward the end of the year when you have furnished the chief support for the greater portion of the year?

If on the full year's basis you furnished the chief support you may still claim the student bride or groom as your dependent PROVIDING the newlyweds do not file a joint return.

Still different problems frequently arise when a parent is claimed as a dependent. The two common sticklers are income and degree of support.

If the parent has as much as $600 gross income he or she may not be considered as a dependent no matter how much a son or daughter may have furnished in support. This can work a severe hardship should the parent be the owner of some rent-producing property.

This means that if the parent-landlord received as much as $50 monthly from the investment property, he or she would be ruled out as a dependent. It would make no difference if the would have to prove his contributions toward the parent's support exceeded $780.

If two or more children together furnished the chief support of the parent but no one of them individually contributed over half of the support, the $50 monthly from the investment, be made by any one of them who furnished over 10 per cent of the support, if the others make a declaration they will not claim the person as a dependent for that year. The declarations, known as Forms 2120, must be attached to the return of the one making the dependency claim. Such forms are available at all IRS offices.

Wall Street In Review

NEW YORK (UPI) —Wright Investors' Service says a policy "of prudence" is clearly indicated as the stock market moves into a new year which has an unusual abundance of uncertainties which are ever present.

However, the firm emphasizes, this does not mean that general liquidation of common stocks is now indicated, "but it does call for special care to avoid overstaying the market", in many of the 1965 favorites which are now clearly overpriced.

Edward A. Viner & Co. Inc. counsels a policy of buying only those companies which are relatively low-priced on present earnings and which are beneficiaries of either economic, psychological or government tides which may assist improved profits in the next 12 to 18 months.

Kenneth B. Smilen and Kenneth Safian of Purcell, Graham & Co. say that from a longer-term view it still seems that a generally cautious view should be taken regarding investments in common stocks.

PARIS SNOWBOUND
PARIS (UPI) —The city of Paris called out 1,000 army troops today to combat shind deep snow and slush which slowed the French capital to a frozen crawl for the third day.

Ten persons were reported dead from cold alone and many more killed in weather-caused accidents across the nation, two-thirds of which was gripped in an unusually fierce onslaught of snow and ice.

The cocktail was not accepted as a "before-dinner" drink in America until the 1880's.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI) —Disclosure that the White House switchboard now records the names of all callers created a bit of a stir here this week.

Eress Secretary Bill D. Moyers denied that the practice was a "gunshoe operation." He explained that it was adopted for reasons of economy and security.

If, for example, a certain office had three telephones and a check of the incoming call list showed that two would suffice, one phone could be disconnected.

That may work at the White House, but if the system spread to other government agencies I fear the results might be entirely different.

Status Symbol
It so happens that the telephone is an important bureaucratic status symbol. A civil servant's prestige rises or declines in direct ratio to the number of phones in his office.

Let us say for illustration purposes that the assistant deputy undersecretary of agriculture is a three-telephone man. He would undoubtedly view with alarm any move that might downgrade him to a two-telephone ranking.

As soon as he heard that the department switchboard was recording calls, he would have his wife and friends start phoning him several times daily to beef up the tally.

Chances are he would then be elevated to four-telephone status. Since the names of the callers would be taken down, he could instruct his confederates to give fictitious identifications.

"This is President Johnson calling the assistant deputy under-secretary," they might say, or, "This is Chairman Cooley of the House Agriculture Committee. Let me speak to the assistant deputy undersecretary."

Those names would look so good on the record it might prompt his superiors to assign him a private line. They wouldn't want to risk the other four lines being busy when a VIP called.

On the other hand, however, the White House system could work to his disadvantage. Suppose that someone had a grudge against the deputy assistant undersecretary. He might start getting calls like this:

"Connect me with the deputy assistant undersecretary please. This is Billie Sol Estes calling."

Once those calls started showing up on the record, he would have quite a lot of explaining to do.

It would be tantamount to calling a White House aide and identifying yourself as Bobby Baker.

teen-agers fled safely through Tuesday, West German Communist mines and barbed toms officials reported Wednesday to West Germany late day.

YOU CAN START LOSING WEIGHT THIS WEEK!

IT'S EASY WITH SLENDER-X® by P.D.A.
This amazing slenderizing formula, available with no prescription, can help you become the slim and trim person you want to be. Simply take a small Slender-X tablet before each meal. Slender-X goes to work immediately to put an end to your excessive food craving. As Slender-X helps you stop your extra food intake, it starts you on the way to a more attractive you. Add, it does it without giving you that "beared up," nervous feeling you get with other tablets.

IT REALLY WORKS!
How many pounds do you want to lose? 10, 20, 30, even 45 pounds? Or more? You can do it with Slender-X. Just like people are discovering all over the country, you have nothing to lose except those unwanted pounds. And, if you aren't completely satisfied, you'll get your money back. So get on the road to a better-looking you this week! GET IT TODAY AT YOUR DRUG COUNTER.
