Guard Maintains Uneasy Calm in Riot-Torn Chicago

2 Dead, Scores Hurt In Wave of Violence

CHICAGO (UPI) — National Guardsmen rolled out of their armories late Saturday and headed for Chicago's West Side for another round of riot control.

As the trucks left, a spokesman for Maj. Gen. Francis P. Kane, commanding the guard, said the officers expected the duty to be quiet. "It will be—if last night's experience is any indication," he said.

The vehicles carrying the guardsmen arrived in the West Side riot area at 4:45 p.m. The men poured off the trucks and were grouped into 10-man platoons.

Each platoon leader told the men there would be no firing unless the troops are fired upon.

The entire area, scene of racial violence three nights this week, was quiet Saturday. The neighborhoods in the nine-square-mile area were relatively quiet Friday night, when the guardsmen began their riot duty.

The guard officers were confident they had halted the lawlessness that had left two Negroes dead of gunshot wounds. Six policemen had been shot in the worst night of the violence and Police Supt. O. W. Wilson asked that the guard be called out because, he said, his men should not be expected to contend with snipers.

Negotiations In Air Strike Break

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Negotiations in the airlines strike broke off abruptly Saturday in a dispute over one of the carriers allegedly using military charter flights to carry paying passengers.

Assistant Labor Secretary James J. Reynolds recessed the talks after the union accused Northwest Airlines of violating an agreement on carrying military passengers during the walkout. However, Reynolds said the talks would resume Sunday morning regardless of whether or not the union settled the dispute with Northwest.

"We will not allow a development of this nature to impede the talks," he said. Reynolds added he didn't care what the climate is, tomorrow we will begin talks.

Reynolds did not say, however, what he planned to do if the union and the airlines refused to negotiate after the recess.

Earlier, the mechanics union threatened "to take appropriate steps" if Northwest stopped soliciting paying passengers under the alleged guise of military charters.

Joseph W. Ramsey, the union spokesman, accused Northwest of misrepresenting the classification of the passengers it is carrying aboard military charter flights, which the union had agreed to service despite the walkout.

After Reynolds announced the recess, Ramsey told reporters he would meet with the airlines Sunday, "but they may not like what we have to say."

Asked about this threat "to take appropriate action," Ramsey declined to explain, but added, "We're going to let them guess."

"But we are not walking out," he said.

US Warns Of Decimation If Pilots Executed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Hanoi was warned Saturday that the American public would demand decimation of North Viet Nam if the Communists should execute captured American pilots.

The warnings against such vengeance came from high-level U.S. officials while free world revulsion against the threat mounted. United Nations Secretary General Thant and British Prime Minister Harold Wilson joined the growing appeals to North Viet Nam not to carry out its plan.

President Johnson refrained from immediate comment. But he and other high officials were standing by for a special broadcast promised for late Saturday by Hanoi.

The broadcast, scheduled for 9:30 p.m. EDT, was expected by some to be formal announcement that the Communists planned to try the American prisoners as war criminals.

Wilson, in Moscow to make a new bid to get the Russians to help bring off Viet Nam peace talks, urged the Soviets to intervene with Hanoi to drop the trial plans.

Thant, who has frequently scored U.S. involvement in Viet Nam, appealed to the Communists to observe international agreements on treatment of prisoners of war. A Thant spokesman said the Burmese leader felt that trial of the pilots would be sure to escalate the war.

Both Sens. George D. Alken, R-Vt., and Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., asserted that if the worst should occur—that the pilots were shot—the American public would demand total destruction of North Viet Nam. Russell added that this would be "completely justified."

U.S. Ambassador at large W. Averell Harriman, one of the President's ace diplomats, declared that the trials would bring on serious and long-lasting consequences for North Viet Nam. Harriman was interviewed on the Voice of America.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey said the emotions that such trials would turn loose in this country "would be hard to control."

Girl Is Believed Dead After Mine Fall Into Mine

CALUMET, Mich. (UPI) — A little girl berry picking with her brother fell into a mile-deep abandoned copper mine on the remote Keeweenaw Peninsula Saturday.

Two rescue workers were lowered 300 feet into the dark, dripping hole but said they found no trace of Ruth Ann Miller, 7.

Her father said he had given up hope for the life of his daughter, who stepped into a small "beebay trap" hole beneath a berry bush.

Police said they did not know whether the girl was alive. Rescue workers split the concrete cap covering the long-abandoned mine shaft and lowered two men twice. But State Trooper Richard Carstens said the bucket hit a big beam and could go no further.

The mining company, Calumet and Hecla, rushed a bigger crane to the site in an effort to pull out the beam and lower another rescue team into the shaft.

"We put two men down twice but they couldn't get down far enough," Houghton County sheriff's Deputy Rod Paavola said. "There's so much water dripping that visibility is next to zero."

He said the mine, closed in the early 1930s, drops 3,000 feet straight down. A pool of water 2,000 feet deep, accumulated from more than 30 years of seepage, is at the bottom.

The father, Eugene Taylor, an unemployed electrician, said the mine is about one-third mile from his rural home outside Calumet. The area is at the northern tip of Michigan's sparsely populated Upper Peninsula.

GOOD CATCH — Fishing was reported "good" during the weekend at Lake McClellan attested to by this two-pound channel catfish, being brought from the lake Saturday afternoon by an unidentified fisherman. Lake officials reported between 175 and 200 boats were put on the water Saturday with several hundred fishermen lining the banks. Lake McClellan is 23 miles south of Pampa.

Sizzling Weather Still In Forecast

Although it may have seemed like it was hotter, Saturday's high temperature in Pampa was 97, three degrees short of Friday's official 100-degree maximum.

The city also got its first measurable rainfall in more than a week with .16-inch being registered in the early evening.

Continued hot weather is expected through Monday, with chance for a few afternoon and evening thundershowers.

Clear to partly cloudy skies are forecast through Monday, with light and variable winds. High is again forecast for the upper 90s, with a low in the upper 60s. Probability of showers is 20 per cent.

Final Preparations Made for Rodeo Week

The stock's as tough as ever, top-notch cowboys are planning to be here, and everything's ready to go for the 22nd annual Top O' Texas Rodeo July 27-30 at Recreation Park, according to Bill Tidwell, rodeo association president.

The grounds and pens "will be put in shape this week," Tidwell said. He added that this year's rodeo is expected to be the best in the 22-year history of Pampa rodeos.

The rodeo will run from Wednesday night through Saturday night of next week. Tickets go on sale July 22, one week from tomorrow, at the rodeo headquarters in the Chamber of Commerce offices.

More general admission seats are being provided this year for those who want to go early. The additional area is expected to increase attendance.

While the reserved section is being reduced, there are still approximately 1,800 reserved seats in choice parts of the grandstand. Sections A and B on the west side, Section D on the east side remain the reserved seat area.

Rodeo stock, provided by Buetler Brothers of Elk City, Okla., is expected to start arriving the latter part of the week.

Registration of RCA cowboys will be completed July 26, in rodeo headquarters, then drawing for stock will take place.

Miss Molly Bee will arrive in Pampa sometime late Tuesday, July 26, in time for rehearsal with Johnny Lee Willis' Band on Wednesday. She will appear nightly at the rodeo and later at Rodeo Dances in the National Guard Armory.

Pampa High School Band, which has become the official Rodeo Band during the past few years, will swing into practice tomorrow evening in preparation for appearances. Harris Brinson, director, says he will use a 40-member band.

The Kid Pony Show will kick off rodeo activities on Tuesday, July 26, with two performances set for 2 p.m. and 8 p.m.

The Top O' Texas Rodeo Parade will move 3 p.m. Wednesday, July 27, with the Amarillo Air Force Band leading the procession.

The parade will form west of the Coronado Shopping Center and proceed to the downtown section. All organizations and business concerns are urged to place an entry. No application form is necessary.

Traffic and parking details will be handled by the sheriff's officers; city police and the State Highway Patrol.

All Pampans are expected to go Western during Rodeo Week, with a cash prize of $20 presented for being "the most Western."

Nationwide Search On For Tattooed Seaman In Multiple Slayings

CHICAGO (UPI) — Chicago police Saturday named a tall young seaman with the words "Born to raise hell" tattooed on his arm as the man who stabbed and strangled eight young student nurses to death in one of modern history's worst mass slayings.

Police Supt. O. W. Wilson identified the man as Richard F. Speck, 25, who was described as a "loner" who has drifted from place to place across the nation.

'Loner' Sought In Chicago Killings Texas Ex-Convict

DALLAS (UPI) — Holding knives to the throats of women was nothing new to Richard Franklin Speck, the 25-year-old "loner" who is charged with the massacre of eight student nurses in Chicago.

Speck's mother, Mary Margaret Speck Lindberg, lives in the Fair Park area of Dallas and the home telephone is listed in Speck's name. Speck himself has been in and out of trouble with the law in Texas.

He was convicted of burglary and writing hot checks and sentenced to the state prison in Huntsville, Tex. He was once paroled, but was charged with assault during the parole and immediately sent back to prison.

The assault charge accused Speck of holding a knife to the throat of a woman who screamed and caught the attention of a neighbor. The neighbor called authorities and Speck was soon back in prison. He was finally discharged July 2, 1965.

Jack Hurd, assistant director of the state prison system, said Speck listed his education as through the ninth grade. He worked in both construction and at farm labor while in prison and lived much of the time in a dormitory instead of a cell. His behavior was "described as 'good'."

It was because of this "good" behavior and occasional blood donations that Speck got a year cut off his sentence.

"He was an average type of inmate," Hurd said. "He adjusted to prison life and behaved himself."

The section in which Speck's mother lives varies from business shops and lower-income residences to slum areas on the south. Fair Park is the home of the Cotton Bowl and the annual Texas State Fair. There are plans to raze parts of the surroundings area.

Wilson said police traced Speck's movements until 9 p.m. Friday—more than 36 hours after the South Side massacre—then lost him. He was last seen, the police superintendent said, as he walked out of the hotel. Police did not know how he was dressed.

"I am hopeful of his immediate apprehension," Wilson said.

Miss Amurao, to whom likely would fall the task of pointing out the slayer at any police lineup, was told of Speck's identification in her closely guarded room at South Chicago Community Hospital.

Pampa News Sales Training Clinic Set Tomorrow Night

A capsule course in "Human Relations and Over-the-Counter Selling" is set for 7:30 p.m. tomorrow in the Starlight Room of the Coronado Inn.

The sales training project is being sponsored by the Pampa Daily News as the initial event of a city-wide promotion in which leading merchants are participants.

It's a brand new approach to improving the image of Pampa as a friendly, progressive community, with emphasis on shopping facilities. The sales clinic for partici-

Speck, believed to be armed with a revolver and possibly a knife, was still at large and the FBI joined in a nationwide manhunt for him.

Police placed a stakeout watch on a North Dearborn Street hotel on the fringe of the near North Side Skid Row. They said they missed Speck by only 30 minutes when they tracked him to the Raleigh Hotel.

Wilson said identification was made through fingerprints found in the far South Side

Pampa police, along with police over the nation, received an information bulletin from Chicago Saturday on 25-year-old Richard Franklin Speck, sought for the slaying of eight nurses in Chicago. Lt. Robert C. Crouch said last night the bulletin identified the killer by name and carried a full description.

townhouse-dormitory which the killer turned into a slaughter house Thursday as he killed the nurses one by one.

The police superintendent said Speck's picture also had been identified by the lone survivor of the massacre, Filipino exchange student Corazon Amurao, who hid under a bed and miraculously escaped her friends' fate.

"The identification is positive," Wilson told a news conference.

Wilson said police traced Speck's movements until 9 p.m. Friday—more than 36 hours after the South Side massacre—then lost him. He was last seen, the police superintendent said, as he walked out of the hotel. Police did not know how he was dressed.

"I am hopeful of his immediate apprehension," Wilson said.

Safety Standards Set for Government Cars

WASHINGTON (UPI) — New auto safety standards, including the requirement for a soft dashboard designed to save lives, have been set for government cars, and may perhaps apply to all 1968 model cars sold in the United States.

The General Services Administration (GSA) Friday announced the safety features it will require on the 60,000 cars the government buys each year.

Legislation pending in Congress would adopt these requirements as interim federal safety standards for all new autos.

The GSA standards are intended to make car interiors safer for persons being hurled about in the "second collision"—the one that comes a fraction of a second after the car crashes.

The major feature is an energy-absorbing instrument panel and dashboard made of thin steel and covered with padding which deforms when struck.

GSA standards require similar construction for the corner posts on each side of the windshield, the steel strip connecting the roof to the windshield, and the area facing the knees of front seat riders.

The steering column will also have to conform to a collapsible design that General Motors will introduce in its 1967 models this fall. Other auto manufacturers are expected to design a similar column, which will collapse more than eight inches when struck by a driver during a collision.

Other GSA standards include: —Headrests to reduce whiplash injuries.

—Improved engine emission controls to help prevent air pollution.

—Padding on the rear of front seats.

—Recessed or break-away designs for such protrusions as ash trays, window and door handles and other switches and controls.

—A fail-safe braking system that requires additional hydraulic or mechanical linkages in case the primary system fails.

—Upper torso seat belts in addition to lap belts.

Here's How They Size You Up When You Ask for Credit

EDITOR'S NOTE: In belief that credit—springboard to material wealth not heretofore known in the world—has facets which its grantors and users fail to consider, The News here publishes the second in a weekly series of articles prepared by Wynn Veale, manager of the Credit Bureau of Pampa.

By WYNN VEALE
What are the key elements that are used when professional men size you up? What references count most? How do you know when your credit is good? If temporary circumstances have made it impossible for you to pay as agreed, can you do anything about it?

It's usually so unobtrusive you don't know what's going on, but any time you ask someone to charge it or want to borrow money, you're carefully and shrewdly appraised. A credit investigator checks on everything you tell them and lots more besides. Basically they want to know: Who are you? Where are you? Can you pay? Will you pay and can you be made to pay?

To get the answers to these questions they largely rely on their local Credit Bureau which may be privately owned or operated by the merchants. There are more than 4,000 of these Credit Bureaus of Credit Information Centers in the United States and Canada. They investigate and maintain voluminous up-to-date records of everyone who ever had credit dealings with one of their subscribers.

The Credit Bureau of Pampa keeps approximately 70,000 credit files on people in Gray County and the surrounding trade area, and processes more than 22,000 credit applications each year. If you move to another city as some thirty four million Americans do each year, your credit record follows you from one Credit Bureau to another. No matter where you go, your record tags along. Your history is on file in at least one of these 4,000 Bureaus, perhaps even more. The facts have been neatly catalogued from members records, directories, and public sources. Each day Credit Bureaus pick up from public sources marriages, divorces, births, deaths, suits, judgments, and any other item of public record. If you are involved in any of these items, a notation is made on your file.

As a rule of thumb, married men are considered more stable than single men, single girls are usually regarded as responsible and careful spenders. Are you employed? Most firms prefer a minimum of two years with the same firm. Less than two years usually raises a red flag. Your age—past thirty is best, but many firms will consider married men as young as twenty two or twenty three. Size of family is also important. Families larger than four people are given a harder look.

How long have you lived where you do now? Do you own your home? Are you buying, or do you rent? Do you move frequently? These are items that professional credit men examine when they evaluate a person for credit.

Last, but certainly not least, he looks at your pay habits. Ratings are important. Do you pay promptly, as you agreed to do? Are you 30 to 50 days slow? Have you had repossessions? These all go into the balance in figuring your credit worthiness.

FLOODS IN KOREA

SEOUL (UPI)—Heavy rains caused floods in low lying residential and rural areas around Seoul and central Korea Friday, leaving about 25,000 persons homeless and at least 12 persons dead. Eight others were listed by police as missing.

Police said most of the victims were in the Korean Capital where a downpour of several hours duration caused the Han river to over flow and flood some low lying residential districts. The waters also triggered landslides in several places, police said.

25 Wrecks Probed In June in Gray County

The Texas Highway Patrol investigated 25 accidents on rural highways in Gray County during the month of June, according to Sgt. J. W. Wilson Highway Patrol Supervisor of this area.

These crashes resulted in 10 persons injured and an estimated property damage of $14,520.00.

The rural traffic accident summary for this county during the first six months of 1966 shows a total of 90 accidents resulting in three persons killed, 48 persons injured, and an estimated property damage of $52,465.00.

The number of traffic deaths in Texas continues to rise. For the first six months of 1966 there have been 1470 traffic deaths compared to 1325 traffic deaths for the first months of 1965. This 11 percent increase is very alarming, and chances are it will become very critical because of vacation months and holiday periods still ahead to intensify the magnitude of the accident picture.

The Sergeant stated, "It is estimated that at the end of 1966 traffic deaths in Texas will increase about 10 percent over 1965 which means approximately 3300 persons will be killed in traffic accidents." The Sergeant added one other comment. "To control accidents, we must first learn to control ourselves."

In 1941, Sir Winston Churchill launched the "V for victory" campaign in Britain.

It's The Law In Texas

Of Law and Love
Farmer John, in search of a wife, met Ella through a matrimonial agency. She seemed to be just the kind of girl he wanted: modest, virtuous, a pious church-goer whose hobby was teaching Sunday School. All John's doubts vanished when she showed him a letter of recommendation from her pastor.

But soon after the wedding, John discovered that the letter was a forgery. As for her hobby, it was not teaching Sunday School at all. It was prostitution. Understandably upset, John hurried into court for an annulment on grounds of fraud. But he failed to win a decree. Instead, the court gave him this cold consolation:

"He got possession of the same flesh and bones he bargained for."

That happened in 1904. Today, no doubt, John would get more sympathetic treatment in the courtroom. Yet, by and large, the law continues to be stubbornly hostile to the granting of annulments. Ordinarily a contract induced by fraud may be cancelled. But the marriage contract is something special. The fraud must be really serious for the law to act.

Thus, you are not likely to win an annulment with a grievance like "She lied about her age" or "He didn't tell me how much he liked to drink." Even in New York, where annulment is relatively easy, courts have taken a dim view of such complaints.

Why this reluctance to annul? Mainly because society has a unique stake in the preservation of matrimony. The family is mankind's oldest social institution and the law is awed by its sanctity.

Besides, the language of love should be taken with a grain of salt. The law finds a kind of contributory negligence in the person who blindly believes every honeyed word.

"It is to be expected," said one court, "that every suitor will put his best foot forward. Bonstiffulness and self approbation are as natural under such circumstances as the strut of the rooster in the barnyard."

For if the law frowns on ending marriage too easily, it also frowns on entering marriage too hastily. Benjamin Franklin gave sound legal advice when he said:

"Keep thy eyes wide open before marriage, and half shut afterwards."

Border Event Reminds Germany That Cold War is Still Lingering

By RICHARD M. SUDHALTER
United Press International
Frankfurt, Germany (UPI) — Two apparently unrelated border incidents within hours of each other have reminded Germans—and the world—that the cold war is ever-present in this divided country.

The game is still just as deadly, the stakes just as high. First, a Soviet helicopter crossed from East into West Germany Friday and forced a U.S. helicopter to the ground at gunpoint. U.S. authorities lodged an immediate and vigorous protest.

A short time later, an armed East German patrol boat swooped on a disabled West German customs craft on the Elbe River, still a disputed border point two decades after World War II.

With drawn guns and supported by machine-gun-toting East

German troops on their own bank, the Communists tried to board the Western vessel. Only sharp protest from the West Germans kept them off.

Hold Four Hours
But they held the Western boat immobile at midstream for four hours before moving off. No explanation was given. None will probably be forthcoming.

Coincidence? Perhaps, but then again, as veteran cold-war observers are quick to point out, maybe not.

First, it was only a week ago that the Communist Warsaw Pact defense alliance—the Eastern bloc's answer to NATO—capped four days of meetings in Bucharest with a renewed and especially slashing attack on America's role in the Viet Nam war, most notably the bombing attacks near Hanoi and Haiphong.

It was during this meeting, attended by top leaders from all East European Communist nations except Peking-leaning Albania, that the Warsaw Pact members unanimously voted to send volunteers to fight for the Hanoi regime if requested.

Their resolution came amid tension—and Pentagon reassurance—about the actual size of America's troop withdrawals from its vital West German commands due to increased Viet Nam commitments.

Despite repeated Washington denials, reports in Germany persist that the United States is pulling far more men out of West Germany—and replacing them with far fewer—than it wants to let on.

Along the East-West border, twisting its mine and barbed-wire-stitched way 888 miles through the heart of a land, death continues to lie patiently in wait for those who will court her.

The flow of East Germans risking the machine-guns of the Communist sentries in the towers, risking the booby-trapped mine-fields, continues unabated.

A generation has grown up under the shadow of those machinegun towers. They are children for whom the barbed wire and mines are a way of life. They have never known another. Often it seems they never will.

Mass Held For One of Murdered Chicago Nurses

"Why this death, this mourning?"

By RONALD YOUNGBLOOD
United Press International
Dyer, Ind. (UPI) — The words "Lord have mercy, Lord have mercy, Lord have mercy" rang through the small church.

With these words about 130 relatives and friends prayed at the requiem mass for Gloria Jean Davy, one of the eight student nurses murdered in their Chicago townhouse Thursday.

Beneath the blue vaulted ceiling of St. Joseph Roman Catholic Church, they gathered to pay their last respects to the young student nurse.

Six of her fellow student nurses sat in the front row dressed in their crisp gray and white uniforms.

The Rev. Ambrose E. Switzer in the eulogy used the words of a prayer written by Gloria Jean at the time of the assassination of President Kennedy:

"Why this death, this mourning, why this overwhelming feeling of sorrow in years so short? I do not know, but in years it will show."

The Rev. Switzer said man was given the power to do good or evil. "Evil causes sorrow when the battle against the world of the flesh and the devil is lost," the Rev. Switzer said.

Gloria Jean's body lay in a shrouded coffin, flanked on both sides by tall candles. It was wheeled out by two men wearing dark suits, preceded by the six uniformed student nurses.

The six formed two ranks on the steps of the church. Behind them came the rest who had been inside. The six waited for all to leave the church, then went to a black limousine that formed the procession to the cemetery.

Traffic on U.S. 80 directly in front of the church had been halted for the procession.

When the parade of cars left the churchyard, signals were given and the traffic resumed. The sun shone brightly on the Indiana sky.

First Practice Session for Pony Show Tomorrow

The first of three Practice Nights in preparation for the Kid Pony Show will be held at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the Rodeo Arena, east of the city. Practice sessions will also be held Thursday and Saturday evenings.

Only one parade will be held this year. Kid Pony Show contestants will participate in the Big Top O' Texas Rodeo Parade on Wednesday, July 27. Entries will assemble west of Coronado Center at 2:30 p.m. for the official starting time of 3 p.m.

Four trophies will be awarded to Kid Pony Show contestants riding in the parade: First and second place trophies to the Most Typically Dressed Junior Cowgirl and Cowboy Rider.

Kid Pony Show contestants will present two performances: 2 p.m. and 8:00 p.m. on July 26.

"Copies of the Pampa-Lefors-Skellytown telephone directory will be mailed to customers on July 20, 1966," George Newberry, manager for Southwestern Bell Telephone Company said today.

The cover will be of white stock, overprinted in blue ink. There will be 76 "white" or alphabetical pages and 152 classified or "yellow pages," he said.

25,000 copies of the new directory have been printed but not all of them will be mailed to customers at this time. He explained that additional copies are always prepared to have on hand for new customers moving to new ones are received.

Newberry also stated almost 25,000 copies of the new directory have been printed but not all of them will be mailed to customers at this time. He explained that additional copies are always prepared to have on hand for new customers moving to new ones are received.

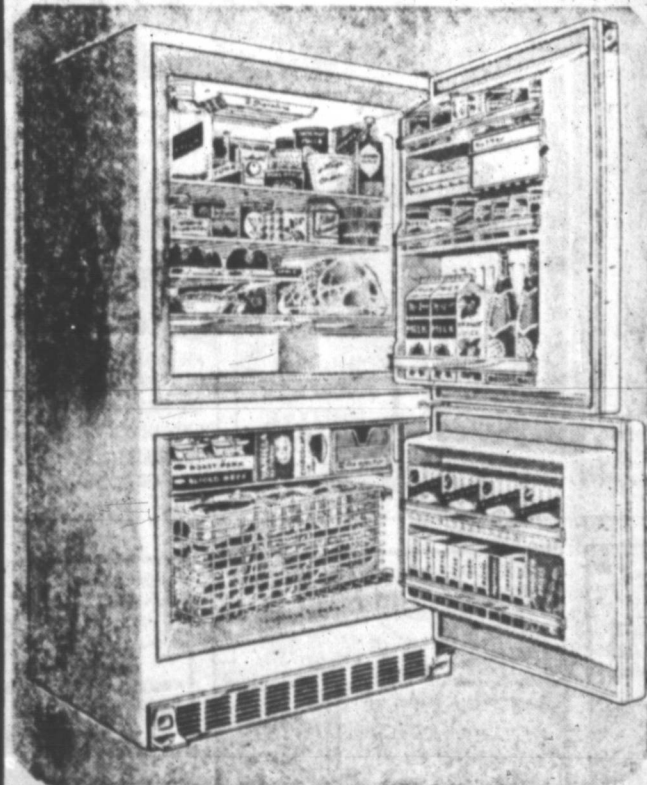

Customers should throw their old directories away when the new ones arrive, they throw the old ones away without checking basket. "Quite often," he said, "customers will keep lists, val-

Fruit Fly Causing Concern in Texas

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Agriculture Commissioner John C. White Monday called a public hearing for July 21 in Brownsville to determine if an extension is needed on a quarantine caused by the infestation of the Mediterranean fruit fly.

The 30-day quarantine ends late in July. The hearing will be held at 2 p.m. in the Brownsville courthouse.

An agriculture spokesman said indications were that the officials were not yet positive the danger from the Med. fly is over.

Extensive spraying operations of about 8,000 acres in the Brownsville area has been underway since the infestation was discovered.

Now that the wheat crops have been harvested, it is time to take a look at your farm to see if there might be some old gullies that you have been plowing in every year, for many years, so that you could keep on farming across them.

Don't you think it would be wiser to construct a diversion terrace to carry off the excess water instead of letting your top soil wash away? Probably to wind up down into some lake, there to do no one any good.

That top soil in the place where it will produce might someday be the difference in some of your loved ones not having to go to bed hungry. You know that doesn't seem possible here today in the land of plenty, but it can happen to us anytime. A good diversion, designed with eight to one front and back slopes with a fifteen-foot bottom channel, will provide a good wide terrace that the operator can run a big sweep plow on the front slope and back slopes. Also the combine can cut wheat from the terrace, thereby making the terrace farmable.

To get a terrace of this type built will cost a little more money to construct because of the greater amount of dirt required to construct over a diversion with steeper slopes. I think you would rather have a diversion that was farmable than to have a terrace that was too steep to farm and grow only weeds. The main reason for con-

Panhandle Water Conservation News

By FELIX W. RYALS

The Texas State Teachers Association has gone on record as backing the development of the Texas Water Plan. This proposed Water Plan is supposed to take care of the water needs for Texas Teachers Association supporting the Water Plan, the Texas Teachers Association feels that the schools of Texas would be helped by developing industry for tax bases.

A vast expansion of the Texas Water Pollution Control Board has been proposed. If this budget is approved by the next legislature, the Pollution Control Board will be able to move more swiftly in stopping existing pollution.

The federal government is moving ahead to set up the necessary machinery to fill any vacuum left by the individual states in eliminating pollution of the fresh waters, both surface and underground. The Senate Interior Committee has given favorable consideration to a Senate Bill that proposes to set up a National Water Commission to review national water resource problems.

To insure a constant and plentiful supply of fresh water for domestic use will require constant sampling of water sources. According to our health authorities, several principles are involved in keeping the modern supply of good drinking water. The first one is to keep the sources of such water as free as possible from contamination by chemicals, bacteria and silt.

The other one is to treat the water supplies by such measures as sedimentation, filtration, aeration and chlorination. Before water can be purified, it must be sampled to determine the day to day contaminants. Large cities, depending upon heavily populated rivers for their water supply, must carry on constant surveillance of the quality of water coming down the river.

The eastern seaboard area has been beset not only with a drought in recent years, but also by heavily polluted rivers which has been their main source of supply. Philadelphia obtains its water from the Delaware River and the Schuylkill Rivers. The point of removal of the water from the two rivers is located near tidal estuaries. The city maintains four automatic monitoring

Insurance Coverage Given More Counties

AUSTIN (UPI) — Farmers in eight more counties will be able to get all-risk federal crop insurance for 1967 crops, Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., announced Wednesday.

He said protection would be available for cotton crops in Pecos, Reeves, and Ward counties and on grain sorghum in Carson, Dallam, Hansford, Moore and Sherman counties.

This brings to 64 the number of counties in Texas where federal crop insurance is available; Tower said. More than 1,200 Texas farmers collected crop insurance payments.

we delivered to the Bushland Experiment Station where they were thrashed and the yields computed. Dr. Kenneth Porter speculated the plot needed one more watering in order to maximize yields. He based this speculation on the fact the maturity date of each variety coincided with the yield.

For example: Improved Triumph was the highest yielder and also the earliest in maturity. Warrior, one of the latest in maturity, was the lowest in yield. Abe Lewis agreed the plot needed one more watering. The D 123, a newly developed variety at the Bushland Station, is to be released to certain farmers over the area this Fall. Yield data from the Bushland Station shows it to be way out in front of the closest competing irrigated variety. It is one of the poorest varieties for dryland. Results of our wheat variety test will be published in a Result Demonstration Handbook this Fall.

RON CROSS

It is true we need water, but almost as badly Pampa needs a public golf course, maybe even two.

Probably one of the smartest things he ever did, speaking of Tom Rose, was the purchase of a golf course in Canyon and making it a public golf course.

Friends it's a lot better than selling cars and probably in the long run will be a heckava lot more profitable.

Pampa has Pampa Country Club, mostly for members only, unless you can afford the $5 green fee and that's a little steep for us poons.

There is the Celanese course, for employes of that company and they can bring a friend.

The only solution here is find somebody who works for Celanese and plays golf and do your darndest to make friends with him.

Need Public

Pampa needs a public links badly with more golfers in this city than bowlers and that's a pretty high figure.

Many Pampans drive to Borger to play golf at either Huber or Phillips courses. This is taking some of the good old green out of the city.

It might be a good idea for city commissioners to study on the idea of building a public course, owned by the city with the revenue going to the city.

Who knows it might even out the old water bill some.

Pampa Country Club sports one of the finest courses in the state and we have often wondered why there are no more major tournaments held on the course than there is.

Besides club tournaments you have the Top O' Texas, the Panhandle Women's Association meet and the annual Jaycee Junior tournament, which this year was a laugh.

The women and the youngsters seem to have been slighted. Why not a major tournament here for both.

The Jaycees and PCC tournament committee chairmen need to work closer together and next year make the Junior meet something other than a race to see who can get through first so the men can play.

It has been said that the Top O' Texas meet for this year was almost voted out. This is progress?

Just who makes up the tournament committee we haven't been able to find out, but, fellas, instead of voting 'em out lets vote some more in.

Some day somebody is going to wake up and realize what a great golfing city Pampa is. He'll build a golf course and in a few years live in luxury.

Uh, how about a loan there Floyd?

Negro Driver Is One of Racing's More Popular Guys

By DAVE BURGIN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
DAYTONA BEACH, Fla.—

(NEA)—The biographical blurb about him in the Daytona International Speedway press handout is something Wendell Scott will show his grandchildren.

It begins, "Wendell Scott is the only Negro in Grand National racing and one of the most popular drivers on the circuit."

In the Speedway garage, a man whose grimy shirt advertised a muffler shop in Atlanta talked about Scott's popularity and presence.

"He knows how to get along with people and that's why we let him drive."

Scott knows comments like these wouldn't bring cheers in CORE headquarters. But to him, they sound "fine, just fine." So does the patter of applause he hears when he turns into the pits after a race.

"Long time coming," he said. "It makes me feel good."

At 44, Scott is one of the oldest drivers in stock car racing. He has been on the Grand National Tour since 1961, finishing higher in the point standings each year. Currently he stands eighth.

To get this far, he fought off hardships and ignored indignities in a sport that virtually belongs to southern whites.

Wendell Scott has not cracked any racial barriers in the sense he has opened the way for other Negroes. He merely has won a measure of personal acceptance.

It has occurred to him that he could concentrate on being a Jackie Robinson of racing, but he says the thought stops right there.

"The only way I can help is to be a man and be a good driver. Anyway, things are getting better. I still run into a smart aleck now and then, but it's nothin' like it used to be."

In those early years—there were threats and slurs from fans, sneers and cursing from drivers, late night phone calls to his Danville, Va., home which frightened his wife and six children.

"I spent more time duckin' wrecks than I did racing," he said. "I've been run off more tracks than I can remember. Worst I ever got was a busted chin. Damage to my ears was what hurt because I couldn't afford to fix 'em."

He traveled to the Carolinas or Georgia for a race to be told to go back home, unless an extra car was needed to fatten the field.

He got into a modified stock race in Maryland once and won it, competing for $250 first prize. The promoter gave him $36 and told him to hit the road.

Wendell Scott figures those days are behind him now.

"No sense diggin' up the past. Don't forget people down here built stock car racing and this is what I love. I'm not much good to anybody without it."

Just once, before he quits, Scott would like to win a big race, like the Daytona 500 or the Rebel 400. He won one Grand National race at Jacksonville in 1963.

"He is a good, consistent driver," the press blurb reads, "and undoubtedly would do better with first-class equipment." His pale blue 1964 Ford runs 10 to 20 miles an hour slower than leaders.

"I just stand on it, try to stay out of everybody's way and hope it don't blow," he said. "I've been tryin' to get factory help for five years. It takes more than guts and luck in this business."

Ford has given Scott two used engines. After they had been raced by one of NASCAR's top drivers, Curtis Turner. One engine held together for a half year of racing.

To keep his expenses down, Scott is his own mechanic. He even has been his own pit crew, climbing out of his car, gassing it up or changing a tire and taking off again.

Lean and stooped, Scott shifts nervously as he speaks, his calloused hands tinkering with mechanisms under the hood. His face is drawn and weathered and a smile is partially hidden behind a ragged mustache.

"Figured I'd have to give up racing in December when I got sick. Had to have an ulcer taken out. I'd been sick all my life and didn't know it because I thought that was the way you were supposed to feel."

"You should see the cards and letters I got when I was laid up, people asking if they could help. Made me feel good."

Some of Wendell Scott's best friends, it turns out, are stock car drivers.

Is Worst Yet To Come for NY?

By TED WILLIAMS
The once mighty Yankees have fallen to a new low and the bottom may not yet be in sight. Johnny Keane is off the hook and though he was the original sacrificial lamb, there's sure to be plenty of changes made. When Ralph Houk first took over the Yanks jumped off and began winning ball games, Houk's hope was to have the Yanks at a .500 mark by the All Star break and then come on strong and win the pennant. Unfortunately, the only .500 mark he attained was a .32-.32 mark since taking over from Keane. Mickey Mantle's resurgence with the bat has been the only bright thing for the Yanks so far this season. Their attendance will be lucky enough to slip past a million.

On the other side of town are the Mets. The Mets, unlike the Yanks, fall but when they fall they fall to new heights as against new lows. It's not so much that they have half a million more fans than the Yanks but their fans are young ones, growing up with the Mets. At the beginning of the magnetic personality of Casey and the almost hopeless antics of the team itself drew the fans to the side of the Mets. But the attraction was not just the personalities of a great losing team. And it was not just the attraction of having National League baseball back in New York City. The stadium itself, Shea Stadium had plenty to do with it. The House That Ruth Built was great when it opened and throughout the history of the winning Yank teams. Today, Yankee Stadium is an old park surrounded by impossible parking situations. It doesn't compare with Shea; in fact, it does not compare with lots of other parks any longer.

The fans of today are demanding better facilities in every way whether with parking or simply in what to eat. But the paradox in New York is that the Yanks will jump back on top in a few years while the Met outlook is still dismal. And the rub is that no one likes a loser when it's the Yanks and everyone loves a loser when it's the Mets. After all, Houston started off even up with the Mets and are in the first division so far this year.

For some reason—the young Met kids are not coming through. The Whiz Kids of the Phillies pulled it off in 1950 and the kids for the Astros are coming through for their team. The Met kids are on a constant shuffle between their minor league teams and New York.

In the case of the Mets it's the veterans that have been coming through like Boyer, Bob Shaw, Eddie Bressoud, etc. That's not good enough for the future. But do the fans seem to mind? Evidently not. They expect it from the Mets. The Yankees cannot get away from it that easily and they won't either. What CBS purchased in 1964 was not the same purchase they made with "My Fair Lady." Something will have to be done. The Met fans don't mind sitting it out in a comfortable, new stadium but Yankee fans get restless and irritable. It looks like the Yanks have the Mets just where the Mets want them.

Roberts Still Something Of A Whiz

By United Press International
 Robin Roberts isn't a kid any more but he's still something of a whiz.
 Roberts, only two months shy of 40, was a member of the famed Philadelphia Whiz Kids back in 1950 when the Phillies won the National League pennant.
 Given a chance in 1948 when the Phillies accented youth, Roberts ironically found himself a victim of the 1961 Philadelphia youth movement and was sold to the New York Yankees, who in turn released him unconditionally in 1962.
 Baltimore hired him immediately and used his services well for three seasons before releasing him in 1965. Roberts didn't stay unemployed long before taking a job with Houston. But only two weeks ago the Astros handed him his walking papers.
New Home
 Chicago, however, has found a home for Robert, who made his debut with the Cubs Friday night, turning a typical, gutsy

Roberts-of-old performance by stopping Pittsburgh 5-4.
 Displaying the form that won him 28 games in 1952, Roberts scattered eight hits and dropped the Pirates from their one-day perch atop the standings.
 Elsewhere, the San Francisco Giants moved back into first place by walloping Philadelphia 8-1. Los Angeles shaded New York 4-3 in 11 innings. St. Louis bombed Cincinnati 9-2 and the Houston at Atlanta game was postponed because of rain.
 Roberts, tops among active pitchers with 285 victories, underwent an operation on his right arm last winter and has worked himself back into winning form.
 "For a 39-year-old man, I'm in as good shape as a pitcher could be and better than some that are younger," boasted Roberts, who also has the responsibility of tutoring the inexperienced Chicago hurlers.
 Roberts' clutch pitching Friday night snapped Pittsburgh's five-game winning streak and sent the Pirates nine percentage points behind the Giants.

 Ron Santo supported Roberts' fine performance with a three-run homer and four RBIs, while Adolfo Phillips broke a 4-4 tie with an eighth-inning double that scored Don Kessinger.
 Juan Marichal limited Philadelphia to five hits in winning his 15th game against four setbacks Willie Mays and Jim Ray Hart each walloped their 21st homer of the season and Marichal chipped in with two RBIs. Jim Bunning took the loss, only his second to the Giants in 2½ years.
Blooper Wins It
 Pinch hitter Dick Stuart obtained two weeks ago by the Dodgers exclusively for his hitting ability, came across with a bloop single with one out and the bases loaded in the 11th to score Ron Fairly. John Roseboro slammed a two-run homer for the Dodgers while

The Wilson was shipped to Detroit from Boston June 14 and since has become a main cog in the Tigers' pitching staff.
 He's right-thander Earl Wilson, who Thursday night demonstrated his mound skill as he beat Baltimore to earn his ninth win of the year, and Friday night made a slightly different and much more dramatic contribution.
 Frank Skaff, in his second day as interim manager, eckoned Wilson to pinch-hit for Bill Monbouquette with two on and two out and the score tied 1-5 in the last of the 13th inning.
Two in a Row
 Wilson made Skaff a genius and stunned the 43,647 fans in attendance by slugging a three-run homer that gave the Tigers a 8-5 triumph and two in a row over the first-place Orioles, putting their lead to six games.
 Hitting home runs is nothing new to Wilson, who has hit 18 in five full big league seasons, but this one provided the 6-foot-2, 215-pound pitcher with his greatest thrill in baseball, even greater than the day in 1962 when he no-hit the Angels.
 The home run off slow ball

Stu Miller Friday night followed a single by Jim Northrup and an intentional walk to Freehan. It was the 30-year-old Wilson's third round-tripper of the season, boosted his batting average to a respectable .290 and hiked his RBI total for the year to 10.
Other Action
 In other American League action, Kansas City beat New York and Minnesota defeated Washington by scores of 5-4 and Chicago topped Cleveland and California trimmed Boston by identical 4-2 scores.
 Monbouquette, who pitched four hitless innings in relief to get the victory, was a teammate of Wilson's for four years at Boston and the homer was return payment for one Wilson slugged off Mombou earlier this year when Earl was still a member of the Red Sox.
Extra Stanzas
 The game went into extra innings after Don Wert slapped a two-run single with two away in the last of the ninth to tie the score 5-5.
 Danny Cater drove in three Kansas City runs with a double and a sacrifice fly to hand New York All-Star Mel Strottemyre his 11th loss. Cater's two-run, two-bagger in the eighth inning easily tallied Mike Hershberger, who had singled. When right fielder Joe Pepitone fell down chasing the ball Roger Repoz, who had walked, came around to score the winning run.

 Don Mincher drove in Minnesota's winning run for the second straight night with a two out eighth-inning single. Mincher's hit followed singles by Harmon Killebrew and Earl Battey and gave Jim Kaat (12-6) another complete game win. Four Washington errors helped the Twins score three unearned runs.
Pitcher Delivers
 Tom McCraw had half of Chicago's four hits and drove in the go-ahead run when the White Sox scored three times in the seventh. John Ramano tied the game 2-2 with his seventh homer off Cleveland reliever Luis Tiant before Floyd Robinson walked and was sacrificed to second. McCraw scored him with a single and after Ken Berry singled, winning pitcher Bruce Howard delivered McCraw with a sacrifice fly.
 Southpaw George Brunet (10-5) allowed three hits, two of them homers, in the seven

Ralston Says He'll Quit Playing Tennis

MIWAUKEE (UPI)—Denis Ralston, 23-year-old five-season Davis Cupper and rated the best men's tennis player in the country the past two years, may hang up his amateur racquet at the end of the season.
 "I'm either going back to school, go into business or turn professional at the end of this season," Ralston said Friday after losing his bid for a third consecutive men's clay courts title at the national tournament here. He was beaten in the quarterfinals by Frank Froehling, Coral Gables, Fla., 2-6, 6-3, 6-6, 6-4.
 Ralston, also seeded first in this tourney, said his decision to quit the amateur ranks was not a result of Friday's loss.
 "I'm not disgusted about losing here. Frank played better than I did," he said. "But I've been thinking about this for a long time. I plan to rest for a week at least, and I'm not going to play the amateur circuit as extensively next year if by then I haven't turned professional."

 "It would be absurd to think I would quit tennis just on the basis of one loss," he said.
 He proved he was still interested in the game a few hours later by teaming with Calk Graebner, Beechwood, Ohio, to take a 6-3, 3-6, 6-0 quarterfinals victory in men's doubles.
 Ralston, Bakersfield, Calif., last Sunday had been upset by Cliff Richey of Dallas in the finals of the Western meet.
 Richey, seeded second here and third nationally, Friday beat seventh seeded Stan Smith of Pasadena, Calif., in straight sets to gain the semifinals. Richey was to meet Marty Riessen of Evanston, Ill., the fourth-seed player here. Riessen knocked off top foreign seed Tony Roche of Australia for a semifinals berth.
 The other semifinals will pit Froehling against Australia's Owen Davidson, second ranking foreigner, who beat third domestic seed Charles Pasarell of Puerto Rico Friday.

JACKIE GOES TO WEDDING
NEW YORK (UPI) — Mrs. John F. Kennedy and her children, stranded in Hawaii by the airlines strike, plan to return to New York in time for the marriage of Mrs. Kennedy's sister next week.

Pamela Turnure, secretary to the former first lady, said Friday Mrs. Kennedy should be back in time for the July 30 wedding of her half sister, Janeh Auchincloss to Leis Rutherford, a member of one of New York's Knickerbocker clans. The nuptials will be held in Newport, R.I.

U.S. ACCUSED

TOKYO (UPI) — The clandestine Pathet Lao radio accused the United States Friday of intensifying its bombing in Laos as a prelude to a war of "aggression" against that tiny Asian kingdom.

The radio commentary, broadcast by the New China News agency and monitored here, said the bombings would be followed by "the sending of American troops to Laos to against it and to occupy Central and Lower Laos."

Skindiving Engineers Make Fine Dam Team

By MICHAEL ANDERS
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two for the price of one is what the Department of Interior got when it hired an engineer whose hobby is skindiving.

For years the Department's Bureau of Reclamation had used professional divers to make routine and emergency underwater inspections of its facilities. But this posed perplexing problems.

The divers not being engineers were unable, for example, to provide precise information in terms of how badly a spillway was eroded. Engineers who had to interpret their findings were never completely satisfied.

The question whether divers could be trained as engineers was asked often but there was no answer, until the advent of Tom Morris.

Morris wasn't an engineer. He had worked for 10 years as a construction technician for the U.S. Air Force and 10 years as a construction inspector for the bureau. But he did have 20 years of experience as a commercial and sport diver, beginning when he was a Navy frogman on a mine demolition team in World War II.

Morris transferred from the bureau's San Luis, Calif., Dam region and set out to organize an underwater specialist team of engineers. He sent a letter to regional headquarters in Sacramento, Calif., which eventually found its way to Frank Howland, assistant regional supervisor of irrigation.

Howland, whose hobby is skindiving, liked the idea, and saw himself and Morris as the nucleus. It takes years to become an engineer but only a few months to learn diving.

The project was launched after 60 applicants answered a call for volunteers from engineers who wanted to learn skindiving.

IN OCTOBER, 1964, Howland and Morris made their first dive together to inspect the Shasta Dam Calif., spillway bucket and powerplant tailrace. Those facilities had been inspected by "professional divers" in 1953 and some damage had been reported.

Purpose of the 1964 dive was to determine whether conditions had deteriorated since the first diagnosis and also to see how a team of professional engineers might function as underwater inspectors.

The dive was successful on both counts. Not only did it show that conditions were no worse than they had been in 1953 but in some cases the damage was not as great as bureau engineers had feared.

With this success, the duo carefully chose from the 60 applicants four men to join them. They were Jim Andrews, a structural engineer; Tom Spicher, a mechanical engineer; Brent Carter, a geologist; and Galen Fuller, a civil engineer.

The underwater engineers have seen plenty of duty since then but not all dives are routine.

Once when louvers at the bureau's Tracy, Calif., fish collection facility couldn't be com-

Pampa Teachers Attend Canyon Textbook Meeting

CANYON (Sp) — Mrs. Fay Dellis Adams of 1124 Duncan, a teacher at Horace Mann School, and Mrs. Wendell Watson of 1100 Terry Road, a teacher at William B. Travis Elementary School, attended the third annual Living Textbook Conference Sunday through Wednesday (July 10-13) at West Texas State University in Canyon.

The conference, sponsored by WTSU and the Amarillo Globe-News Publishing Co., was aimed at showing the various uses of the daily newspaper in the classroom.

Dr. John H. Haefner, professor of social studies education at the University of Iowa, opened the meeting Sunday night. He is considered the leading authority on newspaper use in classroom instruction.

The contents and operation of a newspaper were explained to the group of 75 educators at the Monday morning session by members of the Globe-News staff. Phil Newsom, foreign news analyst for United Press International, spoke on Monday night.

Dr. Lee Williamson, assistant superintendent of instruction in the Amarillo public school system, and conference director, was the speaker at the Tuesday morning session. The group toured the Globe-News building Tuesday afternoon.

The conference was ended at noon Wednesday with a panel quiz with department heads from the Globe-News papers as moderators.

Dr. Emmitt Smith, director of program developers at WTSU, was conference coordinator.

Completely lowered — allowing hundreds of fish to be drawn into the pumping plant — the diving team was called into action.

The specialists found a small block of wood wedged under the louvers.

On another occasion the divers found that a rock was keeping the outlet works draft tube gates at Numbus, Calif., dam from closing completely.

The Bureau said the team is saving the government many thousands of dollars and improving on safety by changing from business suits to black skindiving outfits.

Center Wrap-Up

George Smith, Director
Pampa Youth and Community Center

The Junior and Senior Life Saving Course has now been scheduled for the Pampa area and will be held at the Youth Center Aug. 1-12. Classes will meet from 9-11 a.m. with Pete Erwin as instructor. Cost of the course will be $2 per child. If you are interested in taking this course, you may come by the Center anytime between 9-12, 1-5 and 7-10 to enroll.

If you are interested in working on any water front at Scout camps, City Pools, Country Clubs, etc. you need to have your Junior or Senior Life Saving badge. There is a definite need for qualified lifeguards in and around the Pampa area so sign up today to take these courses. This will be the only Junior and Senior Life Saving Courses in Pampa this year.

With Summer heading toward the mid-point you parents need to make your final plans for swim lessons for the children. There are two more swim sessions available before school in August. The Red Cross lessons will have one more session following the current one from July 18-29 and then the Youth Center will have one session Aug. 1-12.

For the Red Cross lessons the charge is $1 for everyone and classes are: 9-10 a.m. Adv. Beginner and Intermediates 10-11 a.m. Swimmer and Adv. Beg.

For the Youth Center lessons they are free to Center members and $3 to non-members. Lessons available are 9 a.m. Adv. Beginners and 10 a.m. Swimmers. Center members are encouraged to take these because of the savings.

The newest scheduling of swim lessons has just been made and are as follows: Sept. 12-28 the Center will offer a Polywogs class at 4 p.m. and a beginners class from 5-6 p.m. Polywogs are children not in school who measure 33 inches to the chin while beginners are children who have passed the polywog class or they are 6 years of age or older in school. Enrollment is free to Center members and $3 to non-members. Enrollment is now going on.

Center memberships are always available at the front office. There is no foundation to the rumor that the Center was not taking any further memberships. This is never true for we never limit our memberships. A family membership which includes all members of the present family living at home or at college and who is not married costs only $20 per year or $12 for six months. An individual membership is for those persons who are 8 years of age or older and costs $8 per year or $5 for six months. All memberships run for the full term of one-half year or one year so that you receive full benefit from the membership.

BEEF OUTLOOK

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In the coming months consumers will find a better supply of meats in their local markets than they did a year ago, according to an Agriculture Department forecast.

The report said cattle and calves on feed for slaughter as of July 1 numbered 11 per cent above a year ago.

In 1964, race riots broke out in predominantly Negro sections of New York City beginning four consecutive nights of violence.

In 1918, the German armies began to retreat across the Marne River in France after their last great offensive had been successfully turned back by the allies.

JACKIE GOES TO WEDDING
NEW YORK (UPI)—Mrs. John F. Kennedy and her children, stranded in Hawaii by the airlines strike, plan to return to New York in time for the marriage of Mrs. Kennedy's sister next week.

Pamela Turnure, secretary to the former first lady, said Friday Mrs. Kennedy should be back in time for the July 30 wedding of her half sister, Janet Auchincloss to Lois Rutherford, a member of one of New York's Knickerbocker clans. The nuptials will be held in Newport, R.I.

U.S. ACCUSED

TOKYO (UPI)—The clandestine Pathet Lao radio accused the United States Friday of intensifying its bombing in Laos as a prelude to a war of "aggression" against that tiny Asian kingdom.

The radio commentary, broadcast by the New China News agency and monitored here, said the bombings would be followed by the sending of American troops to Laos to assist against it and to occupy Central and Lower Laos.

Skindiving Engineers Make Fine Dam Team

By MICHAEL ANDERS
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Two for the price of one is what the Department of Interior got when it hired an engineer whose hobby is skindiving.

For years the Department's Bureau of Reclamation had used professional divers to make routine and emergency underwater inspections of its facilities. But this posed perplexing problems.

The divers not being engineers were unable, for example, to provide precise information in terms of how badly a spillway was eroded. Engineers who had never completely satisfied.

The question whether divers could be trained as engineers was asked often but there was no answer, until the advent of Tom Morris.

Morris wasn't an engineer. He had worked for 10 years as construction technician for the U.S. Air Force and 10 years as a construction inspector for the bureau. But he did have 20 years of experience as a commercial and sport diver, beginning when he was a Navy frogman on a mine demolition team in World War II.

Morris transferred from the bureau's San Luis, Calif., Dam region and set out to organize an underwater specialist team of engineers. He sent a letter to regional headquarters in Sacramento, Calif., which eventually found its way to Frank Howland, assistant regional supervisor of irrigation.

Howland, who's hobby is skindiving, liked the idea and saw himself and Morris as the nucleus. It takes years to become an engineer but only a few months to learn diving.

The project was launched after 60 applicants answered a call for volunteers from engineers who wanted to learn skindiving.

IN OCTOBER, 1964, Howland and Morris made their first dive together to inspect the Shasta Dam Calif., spillway bucket and powerplant tailrace. Those facilities had been inspected by "professional divers" in 1953 and some damage had been reported.

Purpose of the 1964 dive was to determine whether conditions had deteriorated since the first diagnosis and also to see how a team of professional engineers might function as underwater inspectors.

The dive was successful on both counts. Not only did it show that conditions were no worse than they had been in 1953 but in some cases the damage was not as great as bureau engineers had feared.

With this success, the duet carefully chose from the 60 applicants four men to join them. They were Jim Andrews, a structural engineer; Tom Spicher, a mechanical engineer; Brent Carter, a geologist; and Galen Fuller, a civil engineer.

The underwater engineers have seen plenty of duty since then but not all dives are routine.

Once when louvers at the bureau's Tracy, Calif., fish collection facility couldn't be com-

Pampa Teachers Attend Canyon Textbook Meeting

CANYON (SpI)—Mrs. Fay Dellis Adams of 1124 Duncan, a teacher at Horace Mann School, and Mrs. Wendell Watson of 1100 Terry Road, a teacher at William B. Travis Elementary School, attended the third annual Living Textbook Conference Sunday through Wednesday (July 10-13) at West Texas State University in Canyon.

The conference, sponsored by WTSU and the Amarillo Globe-News Publishing Co., was aimed at showing the various uses of the daily newspaper in the classroom.

Dr. John H. Haefner, professor of social studies education at the University of Iowa, opened the meeting Sunday night. He is considered the leading authority on newspaper use in classroom instruction.

The contents and operation of a newspaper were explained to the group of 75 educators at the Monday morning session by members of the Globe-News staff. Phil Newsom, foreign news analyst for United Press International, spoke on Monday night.

Dr. Lee Williamson, assistant superintendent of instruction in the Amarillo public school system, and conference director, was the speaker at the Tuesday morning session. The group toured the Globe-News building Tuesday afternoon.

The conference was ended at noon Wednesday with a panel quiz with department heads from the Globe-News papers as moderators.

Dr. Emmitt Smith, director of program developers at WTSU, was conference coordinator.

pletely lowered—allowing hundreds of fish to be drawn into the pumping plant—the diving team was called into action.

The specialists found a small block of wood wedged under the louvers.

On another occasion the divers found that a rock was keeping the outlet works draft tube gates at Numbus, Calif., dam from closing completely.

The Bureau said the team is saving the government many thousands of dollars and improving on safety by changing from business suits to black skindiving outfits.

Center Wrap-Up

George Smith, Director
Pampa Youth and Community Center

The Junior and Senior Life Saving Course has now been scheduled for the Pampa area and will be held at the Youth Center Aug. 1-12. Classes will meet from 9-11 a.m. with Pete Erwin as instructor. Cost of the course will be $2 per child. If you are interested in taking this course, you may come by the Center anytime between 9-12, 1-5 and 7-10 to enroll.

If you are interested in working on any water front at Scout camps, City Pools, Country Clubs, etc. you need to have your Junior or Senior Life Saving badge. There is a definite need for qualified lifeguards in and around the Pampa area so sign up today to take these courses. This will be the only Junior and Senior Life Saving Courses in Pampa this year.

With Summer heading toward the mid-point you parents need to make your final plans for swim lessons for the children. There are two more swim sessions available before school in August. Couple United in Candlelight Ceremony

Mrs. Donald Allen Maul
... nee Miss Donna Anne Cole

In a candlelight ceremony solemnized yesterday evening, Miss Donna Anne Cole became the bride of Donald Allen Maul. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald M. Cole, south of the city. Mr. and Mrs. George A. Maul, west of the city, are the parents of the bridegroom.

Rev. J. R. Manning officiated the double-ring ceremony at 8 o'clock in First Baptist Church. Miss Eloise Lane, organist, presented a program of traditional nuptial selections and accompanied Mrs. Phillip Anderson, aunt of the bride, as she sang "Because" and "All the Things You Are."

Seven-branched candelabra, entwined with cascading garlands of salal foliage, filled the altar background of the wedding scene. Tiered arrangements of candles and green foliage appointed the choir rail and baptistry and arrangements of white chrysanthemums on tall white pedestals flanked the wedding party.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown fashioned of bridal taffeta and imported chantilly lace. The fitted bodice featured a sabrina neckline trimmed with the chosen lace re-embroidered with seed pearls and irridescent, and full-length sleeves terminating in petal points. The full skirt, edged in chantilly lace re-embroidered with seed pearls and butterfly sequins held the bride's finger-tip veil of illusion. She carried a white Bible topped with an arrangement of cascading stephanotis centered with white roses.

Mrs. Randy Giesler, sister of the bride, attended as matron of honor. Mrs. Robert Benyshek of McPherson, Kan., bridegroom's sister, served as bridesmatron while Miss Connie Pairsh and Miss Becky Selman of Electra were bridesmaids. Attending as junior bridesmaids were Miss Candy Cole, sister of the bride, and Miss Angela Cunningham. The matron of honor, bridesmatron and bridesmaids were attired in floor-length gowns styled with sapphire blue brocade bodices featuring puffed elbow-length sleeves, and ice blue crepe skirts. Pill box coils of sapphire brocade with brief illusion veils completed their costumes. The junior bridesmaids wore floor-length gowns of ice blue crepe with empire styling trimmed with sapphire blue velvet ribbon and pill box hats of ice blue crepe. Each carried a cascade arrangement of blue carnations and draped clusters of blue grapes.

Miss Tracy Anderson of Holiday, cousin of the bride, attired in a floor-length gown of white organdy and carrying a white colonial basket filled with rose petals, was flower girl.

Ronald Maul served his twin brother as best man while groomsmen were Randy Giesler, Robert Benyshek of McPherson, Kan., and Dee Allen. Phillip Anderson of Holiday and Sam Anderson, both uncles of the bride, shared ushers duties.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Cole chose a frosty pink knit suit accented by matching accessories. Mrs. Maul, mother of the bridegroom, selected a blue silk suit complimented by white accessories. Corsages for both mothers were of white mystery gardenias.

Guests were greeted in Fellowship Hall of First Baptist Church at the reception held following the pledging of vows. The bride's table, covered with a floor-length white satin cloth, was centered with a tall white cherub candelabra bearing an arrangement of blue carnations. Mrs. Harry Ward of White Deer served the three-tiered all white wedding cake which was topped by a miniature bridal couple. Presiding at the punch bowl was Mrs. Benny Stout while Mrs. Sam Anderson was guest registrar. Other members of the house party included Miss Jennifer Cunningham and Miss LoDema Cole.

For traveling on a wedding trip to Denver, Colo., the new Mrs. Maul wore a white linen sheath dress accented by an overcoat of white lace and lifted the rose corsage from her bridal bouquet.

Mrs. Maul is a 1965 graduate of Pampa High School. Mr. Maul, a 1964 graduate of Pampa High School, is engaged for the summer with his father in farming and cattle ranching. The couple will make their home in Okmulgee, Okla., this fall where the bride will be a sophomore and the bridegroom will be a senior at Oklahoma State Tech.

Out-of-town wedding guests included Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Cole of Clay Center, Kan., Mrs. Adolph Pomereck of Great Bend, Kan., Mr. and Mrs. Steve C. Benyshek and Stevie of Cuba, Kan., Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Noel of Canyon.

PRE-NUP TIAL EVENTS

Pre-nuptial courtesies extended the bride included a shower given in the home of Mrs. Joe Hawkins with Mrs. E. W. Hogan, Mrs. Denver Allen, Mrs. Buford Archer, Mrs. W. R. Pairsh, Mrs. J. W. Cunningham and Mrs. Milo Carlson serving as co-hostesses; and a shower hosted by Mrs. Lee Harrah, Mrs. A. B. Carruth, Mrs. Joe Shelton and Mrs. W. E. Jarvis given in Mrs. Harrah's home.

Area Specialist on Plant Diseases to Be Here Tuesday

Dr. Robert Berry, Area Plant Disease Specialist, Extension Service, Lubbock, will be in Pampa all day Tuesday for the purpose of helping city and rural residents identify and control plant disease.

From 10 a.m. until 3 p.m., Dr. Berry will be in the meeting room of the Agricultural Building, south of the Rodeo grounds on the Miami Highway. Any resident can bring in specimens of diseased shrubs, grasses or trees for identification of the problem. Recommendations will be made on how to correct the problem.

From 3 until 5 p.m. a limited number of home visits can be made. However, it is suggested where specimen can be brought to the County Extension office, this procedure should be followed. The greater number of people could benefit in this manner.

For more information contact either County Home Demonstration Agent Miss Lou Ella Patterson, or County Agent Foster Whaley. The office number is MO 4-2871.

RS Program Is Presented for WMS Circles

"Thriving American Cults" was the program presented by Dellanna O'Brien Circle when Hobart Baptist Church Women's Missionary Society met Wednesday morning at the church for a Royal Service program and general business meeting.

Those participating on the program included Mmes. Tommy Richardson, Charles Glascock, Merl Smith and W. R. Brown. Mrs. Brown read the prayer calendar and Mrs. Roger Hedrick gave the opening and closing prayer.

The WMS president, Mrs. Dale Butler, presided over the business session at which the secretary's report was given by Mrs. Cairl McAnally and Mrs. Merl Smith gave the treasurer's statement. Those present made plans to send GA girls to the Amarillo GA Encampment.

A luncheon was served following the meeting.

Members attending included Mmes. Dale Butler, Tommy Richardson, Merl Smith, W. R. Brown, Charles Glascock, H. C. Wilkie, Warren Thomas, Roger Hedrick, Jim Clark, Bob Marlar, J. N. Tackett, A. G. Purvis, L. H. Woodward and Cairl McAnally.

The jeweled bib provides a modest fill-in for some of fall's low cut dresses. Designer Pauline Triger uses bibs riding high about the throat and on down to neckline plunge with black jersey cocktail dresses. You don't HAVE to buy a Triger dress to get the bibs; they're sold separately.

Former Pampa Marries in Andrews

Mrs. Carl Vin Betenbough
... nee Miss Barbara Ann Clay

Miss Barbafaa Ann Clay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Coy A. Clay of Andrews, former residents of Pampa, became the bride of Carl Vin Betenbough, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Betenbough of Andrews, in wedding vows pledged at 6 o'clock the evening of June 25 in Andrews Downtown Church of Christ.

Doyle Kelcy, minister of the church, performed the double-ring ceremony, under candlelight from glowing tapers held in branched candelabra and a center candle tree, entwined with emerald foliage. White gladioli graced a basket behind the altar and white satin bows marked pews.

The bride, escorted down the aisle by her father, wore a floor-length wedding gown of white satin peau de soie. The empire style featured detachable long sleeves, and a detachable train that fell from the shoulders. A satin and pearl tulle held a triple-tiered veil of silk illusion. A white cattleya orchid and cascades of white roses, stephanotis and miniature ivy, formed the wedding bouquet she carried atop a white Bible. The bride carried out the wedding custom with an "old" handkerchief belonging to her late grandmother, Mrs. Swift of Shamrock, a "new" pearl drop from a close friend, a "blue" garter and "borrowed" a Bible from a friend.

Miss Sherry Langston attended as maid of honor, with Misses Gayle Wester, Linda Bisbee, Marcia Bennett, and Sandy Hays attending as bridesmaids.

The attendants wore floor-length gowns with empire styling of aqua crepe, and brief veils of aqua tulle secured to pill box hats of matching crepe. The maid of honor carried a bouquet of white, feathered mums, backed with aqua tulle, and the bridesmaids each carried a single, aqua-stemmed white mum.

Terry Betenbough attended as his brother's best man, Ushers included Coy Don Clay, brother of the bride, Kip Sanders, Ralph Page and Earl Scott.

Clifford Coleman, Is Honored on Birthday.

SKELLYTOWN (Sp) — Clifford Coleman was honored with a surprise birthday party and cook out supper Saturday evening.

Attending were Mr. and Mrs. Bill Smith, Steve, Terry and Julie Lyn, Mr. and Mrs. Foy Barrett and Louann, Mrs. Charley Coleman of Pampa, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Coleman, Cavin of Amarillo, and Mr. Clead Steward of White Deer.

Rub a bit of solid perfume on the palm of the hand before putting on wedding gloves. The warmth of the hand will diffuse this into a flowery sweetness when the gloves are removed.

minical just because there is some constructive criticism -- on the contrary, instead, the merchandizing field is forest here and whatever is connected with serving the public in general. An excellent look in this chart, also, whether a man or a woman. This could also be a career.

A group from Andrews high school A Cappella Choir including Julie Fee, Pam Six, Becky Kellum, Bobby Dillard, Walter Modgling and David Cole, brought selections, "Because," "I Love Thee," and "The Wedding Prayer."

A reception followed the ceremony, with Mr. and Mrs. Carl Betenbough as host and hostess in their home in Andrews. The four-tiered cake was decorated with cherubs and roses, and topped with a bridal couple, under an arch of stain roses and lilies of the valley. Mints and the table floral arrangement carried the bride's colors of aqua and white. Aqua satin under white net covered the table which held appointments of silver for the cake and punch service.

Betty Young and Kay Walters presided at the table service while Mrs. Terry Betenbough, sister-in-law of the bridegroom was at the bride's book.

The bride wore a knit suit of celery green with matching accessories and an orchid corsage for her going-away costume, for a wedding trip to Dallas.

The couple both graduated from Andrews High School in 1965 and attended Texas Tech in Lubbock where they will reside and attend school this fall. Out-of-town wedding guests included the bride's aunts and cousins, Mrs. Charles Harris and Andy of Pampa and Mrs. Haskell Sammons and LeQuita of Shamrock.

Powell-Shultz Vows Read in Snyder

Mrs. Gordon Everett Shultz
...nee Miss Brenda Kay Powell

Double-ring wedding vows were pledged recently by Miss Brenda Kay Powell of Snyder and Gordon Everett Shultz. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Ruth Powell of Snyder and the late Ray Powell. Mr. Shultz is the son of Mrs. Geraldine while groomsmen included Richard Snider of Sequin and William Patterson of Lubbock. James Weaver of Fort Worth, Gene Cox of Canyon and John Powell of Snyder, brother of the bride, were ushers.

Mrs. Powell selected a bone colored dress with matching accessories for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Shultz, mother of the bridegroom, chose an aqua lace sheath dress accented by matching bag and shoes and bone colored hat and gloves. Both mothers wore orchid corsages.

Wesley Hall of the church was the setting for the reception held immediately following the wedding rites. Miss Margaret Pilcher presented background piano selections throughout the receiving hours. The bride's table, covered with a hand-embroidered white linen cloth, was centered with an arrangement of coral gladioli. Miss Pattie DeLancey of Dallas served the three-tiered wedding cake while Miss Ann Boyd of Dumas and Miss Judy Brock of Borger alternated at the punch bowl. Guests were registered by Miss Mary Ann Moffett of Snyder. Mrs. Syble Golden and Mrs. Clarice Roberson of Snyder were other members of the house party.

The new Mrs. Shultz changed into a yellow linen suit accented by black patent accessories and the orchid corsage lifted from her bridal bouquet before departing on a wedding trip. Upon their return the newlyweds will reside at 2902 Third Place, Tech Village, Lubbock.

The bride is a graduate of Snyder High School and a 1966 graduate of Texas Technological College. The bridegroom, a graduate of Pampa High School, is working toward his Masters Degree at Texas Technological College where he is a member of Pi Mu Alpha, music fraternity, and Cappa Cappa Psi.

Attending the wedding from out of town were Gilbert Bradley, Miss Jo Ann Bradley, Wentford Bradley and Harley Bradley, all of Seagraves; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Reed of Amarillo; Mr. and Mrs. Gene Cox of Pampa, Mr. and Mrs. Joel Fontron of Lubbock and Mrs. Billie Cox of Pampa.

PRE-NUPTIAL EVENTS
Pre-nuptial courtesies extended the bride included a bridal shower given on June 10 in Wesley Hall of Snyder First Methodist Church. The bride was hostess at the bridesmaid's luncheon at 2 p.m. on her wedding day in her home. Mrs. Shultz, mother of the bridegroom, honored the wedding party at a rehearsal dinner the evening preceding the ceremony. The dinner was given in Snyder Steak House.

Ray Powell Jr. gave his sister in marriage. She was attired in a formal gown fashioned of pure silk organza veiled over white taffeta combined with imported French lace. The molded bodice featured an overlay of the lace at the neck, creating a Sabrina neckline. The long fitted sleeves tapered to form petal points at the wrists. The sheath skirt featured a detachable chapel-length train. The bride's floor-length veil of English silk illusion fell from a caplet of organza petals rimmed in seed pearls. She carried a cascading bouquet of white gladioli centered with orchids.

Resilient Tile Is More Economical Than Carpeting

Resilient tile flooring is substantially more economical than carpeting for initial installation, maintenance and repairs, it has been proven by a thorough study conducted by a research team of the Wharton School of Finance and Commerce, University of Pennsylvania. Cost data were obtained by interview surveys and time and motion studies. The group made studies of installed costs, service life, maintenance costs and costs of expendable equipment and supplies. The researchers took into account, among other things, the volume of traffic, desired appearance and types of areas. The study team found no instance where the total cost for carpet was less than for resilient flooring. Instead it found that the annual use cost of carpet ranged from 123 percent to 270 percent more than the annual cost of resilient floors. The study also made comparisons of the cost of repairing resilient and carpeted floors. It was found that the average annual repair costs for carpeting were about 3 1/2 times that for resilient flooring.

Impressive Ceremony Unites Couple.

Dear Abby
 By Abigail
 Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Our son, who served with the marine corps in Viet Nam, came home last month. As you can imagine, Don was pretty well tuckered out, so he just sat around the house resting and getting use to civilian life again. He also taught our parakeet how to swear.

Now, fun is fun, but you should hear what he taught that bird to say! What if the preacher drops in one Sunday afternoon?

DON'S MOTHER DEAR MOTHER: Get another parakeet and teach it how to pray for the one that swears.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of parents who have decided to call it quits after 51 years of marriage? They have four married children, thirteen grandchildren, and three great-grandchildren. They were never exactly lovebirds, but it never came to a real separation before.

I am the eldest daughter and Mama called me and told me to come and get her as Papa moved to a motel and she wasn't going to stay in the house alone. It's been three days, and Papa is still holed up in the motel.

My oldest brother called Papa and asked what he should tell people. Papa said, "Tell them I've entered my second childhood and I have the measles!" Then he slammed down the telephone. What should we tell people, and how can we get them back together?

EMBARRASSED DEAR EMBARRASSED: Papa's explanation will do. Tell them nothing. "Love" will find a way.

DEAR ABBY: I was born 35 years ago in a midwestern state at a home for unwed mothers. As an infant I was adopted by a wonderful couple, and we moved away. This fall my husband and I are planning a vacation to the midwest and find we will be near the city of my birth. My adoptive parents have both passed away, but my real mother is still living.

I have full information on how to reach her. Being a woman, I am naturally curious. I have not decided whether I would meet her face to face and identify myself, or whether I would arrange to meet her without letting her know who I was. Or should I just forget the whole thing?

I have no intention of intruding on her life or causing her any unhappiness or embarrassment. Perhaps you or one of your readers who have experienced something like this can help me decide.

JUST CURIOUS DEAR CURIOUS: If you sincerely wish to cause your real mother no unhappiness or embarrassment, I advise you to forget the whole thing. It would hardly be worth the risk to merely satisfy your curiosity.

CONFIDENTIAL TO SEPTEMBER BRIDE: If you are concerned only with what you will get out of the marriage, your marriage will fail. You may never be divorced, but your marriage will fall nevertheless.

Problems: Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 900-69. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Pre-Nuptial Event Fetes Miss Jarvis

Mrs. Harry Douglas Bray Jr., nee Miss Sharon Gayle Wheelley

First Methodist Church in White Deer was the setting for the recent wedding uniting Miss Sharon Gayle Wheelley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe E. Douglas Bray of San Antonio, and Miss Sharon Gayle Wheelley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Butler amid a background of spiral and tree candelabra with garlands of salad and egg-nomous variegated foliage cascading from the candelabra. Tall white Grecian pedestals held massive urns of white gladioli, stock and majestic daisies. A bride wore a six pence in her bouquet of the mixed white flowers with the open, Bible across the front centered the altar and tiered candles and garlands of the green foliage on the communion rail completed the altar setting. Pews of honor were noted by tall three branch aisle candelabra with cascading green foliage. An arrangement of white stock and majestic daisies contained in a white cherub was used on the guest register table, presided over by Miss Rita Carriker of Nederland.

Miss Ida Mae Powers, organist, presented traditional nuptial music previous to the ceremony, along with the striking of the chimes at eight o'clock. She accompanied Mrs. R. T. Laurie, vocalist who sang "If I Could Tell You" by Firestone, "Indian Love Call" by Ermi and "Wedding Prayer" by Dunlap. Escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father with the "her mother and I" approval, the bride carried a cascading bouquet of white stephanotis and miniature English ivy. She was attired in a formal white gown of peau de soie featuring appliques of white aleon lace encrusted with seed pearls, crystals and rhinestones. The dress featured a scoop neckline with long tapering sleeves terminating in petal points over the hands. Her chapel train which flowed from the neckline—front fold was encrusted with matching jewels of that in the dress. Her pillbox hat featured an elbow-length veil of French illusion. Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom. Carrying out the tradition of something old, new, borrowed and blue, the bride wore a six pence in her shoe and carried a lace handkerchief which her maternal grandmother carried in her wedding.

Bridal attendants were Mrs. Oscar Richardson of Austin, matron of honor; Mrs. Leonard Hines of Dallas, bridesmatron; Miss Donna Bray of San Antonio, Miss Linda Carriker of Nederland, and Miss Jan Wheelley of White Deer, bridesmaids; and Miss Nina Wheelley, White Deer, junior bridesmaid. The attendants were attired in identical white floor-length shantastic and crepe sheathis designed with an empire bodice, scoop neckline and elbow-length sleeves and featured a back wattleau train with self fabric bows. They wore "My Fair Lady" hats of matching white maline and carried tree style cascading bouquets of white Marguerite daisies and miniature English ivy.

Petite little Miss Lisa Carriker, flower girl, wore a replica of the bridal attendants gowns. A circlet of miniature white flowers worn in her hair was her only adornment.

Master Scott Allan Carriker of Nederland was ring bearer.

Harry, Douglas Bray Sr. served his son as best man. Ushers were Joe Hubert Wheelley and Joe Gary Davis of White Deer, Richard McKinney of San Angelo and Oscar Richardson of Austin.

The bride's mother was attired in a blue crepe sheath with blue lace scalloped bodice with matching accessories and wore Misses Judy Smith and Mary Johnson of White Deer, Miss Judy Segal of Coral Gables, Fla., and Miss Marilyn Arnold of Alice. Other members of the house party were Misses Sara-da and Jean Hughes of White Deer.

Guests were greeted in the parlor of the church at the reception held following the pledging of vows. The bride's table, covered with a floor-length white mirrored satin cloth, was centered with an arrangement of white roses, stock and English ivy entwined in a white cherub candelabra. The elegant five-tiered white wedding cake was a creation of a friend of the bride's mother of long standing, Mrs. J. O. Duniven of Miami. Members of the house party presiding at the table were

Prior to departing on a wedding trip, the new Mrs. Bray donned a beige crepe sheath accented with flared lace three quarter-length sleeves. A broad brimmed matching hat and a corsage lifted from the center of the bride's bouquet complemented her ensemble.

Evolution Of The TVA Octopus

(The Chicago Tribune) The Tennessee Valley Authority, the nation's biggest user of coal, announces that it will invite bids early next year on both a nuclear and a coal-fired power station...

There are two obvious comments to be made on the TVA declaration that it is open-minded about turning to a nuclear-driven generating plant.

But beyond these generalities, the TVA expansion scheme bares the dimensions of an enormous fraud perpetrated upon the people of the whole country.

When TVA went to steam plants, it confessed the duplicity of the contention that it was generating hydroelectric power as a "by-product" of navigation, irrigation, and flood control.

When a man wrote to an insurance company asking for some information, he added a warning note, "I don't want any advertising material — and no salesman."

Mussolini Ouster Documents Show Up 23 Years After Event

By ZANDER HOLLANDER
United Press International
ROME — Twenty-three years after the downfall of Benito Mussolini, Italy, by a curious sequence of events, at last has it on paper.

The Italian government only recently acquired its first complete record of the resolutions voted by the Fascist Grand Council July 25, 1943, when it deposed "Il Duce," who led his country into a disastrous war on the side of Nazi Germany.

The documents might never have turned up had it not been for Mussolini's sharp temper, the serious illness last year of his onetime confidential secretary, Nicola de Cesare, and the financial need of an orphanage.

The story was told by the magazine Epoca, which learned of it by making a substantial contribution to an orphanage run by Msgr. Cosimo Bolandi at Como in northern Italy.

De Cesare was a conscientious secretary. When the Fascist Grand Council cast 19 of 28 votes against Mussolini that hot July dawn 23 years ago, he carefully collected copies of Dino Grandi's ouster resolution and the resolutions of pro-war Council members Roberto Farinacci and Carlo Scorza.

'Little Inferno'

The resolutions, plus personal jottings of the Duce, went into Mussolini's big leather dispatch case, nicknamed the "Little Inferno."

Mussolini carried the "Little Inferno" under his arm when, accompanied by de Cesare, he called on King Victor Emmanuel a few hours later and was arrested.

As both men entered an ambulance taking them into captivity, Mussolini handed de Cesare the "Little Inferno." The secretary kept it when the Duce left the ambulance under guard at a police barracks where he was to be held. The dispatch case was deposited with de Cesare's other personal belongings when the secretary was delivered to a prison.

Msgr. Bolandi was chaplain at the prison. He and de Cesare spent many hours in conversation and became friends. De Cesare and the "Little Inferno" stayed in the prison until Sept. 8, 1943, when the Germans, who by that time had taken over Rome, set him free. De Cesare got back the "Little Inferno" and found the contents intact.

A few days later, on Sept. 12, Nazi S.S. commandoes under Otto Skorzeny landed by glider at the Gran Sasso Plateau Hotel in the Apennines where Mussolini was being held, liberated him and flew him to Germany.

De Cesare soon followed Mussolini to Munich. But when he finally reached the Duce and tried to return the "Little Inferno," Mussolini, apparently in bad humor, brusquely ordered him to return to Rome and "stand by for orders."

Il Duce'd End

The orders never came. Nazi armies in Italy surrendered. Mussolini was captured by Italian partisans, machine-gunned to death and hung up by his heels in Milan to the jeers of the populace.

Youngsters to Vie For Title of Best Teen Driver

NEW YORK (UPI) — The temperature hovered below zero. Forty-two inches of snow covered the ground.

Through a difficult, snow-packed obstacle course a group of serious-faced teen-agers drove automobiles, parked them parallel to a cleared curb and performed other driving feats.

At the conclusion, a pretty 18-year-old brunette, Jean Wreath in a fur parka, emerged the winner.

The event was the Alaskan state finals in Fairbanks of the annual Road-E-O contest sponsored jointly by the U.S. Junior Chamber of Commerce and Ford Motor Company's Lincoln-Mercury Division to determine the nation's safest and most skilled young driver.

From Aug. 8 to 11, Miss Two-good and Road-E-O winners from the 49 other states will compete in the national finals in Washington, D.C. for top driving honors and the college scholarships and other prizes that go with them.

Sponsors of the Road-E-O estimate that almost 400,000 teen-agers in 2,500 communities are competing in the safe driving contest this year for the right to go to the Washington finals.

The second week of swim closed Friday, July 15th and one more session will begin Monday at the youth center and at the city pool. Classes are from 9 to 10 a.m. and from 10 to 11 a.m. with Mrs. Carl Williams in charge of the poly-wog and beginners class at the center and Jack Hilton will teach the advanced beginner and swimmer class at the Center. We do need another instructor and several aides to work with the beginner group. At the city pool, Mrs. Virginia Potter will teach the advanced beginners and Mrs. Ken Womack will have the intermediates and swimmers with Betty Bailey working with the beginners.

We lose another water safety instructor to Bartlesville, Okla. Carolyn Estes who has worked as a WSI and a first aid instructor will move to Bartlesville with her family this week. Carolyn has worked at the Youth Center for the past five months teaching and training our boys and girls to swim.

All adult swimmers who wish to begin a swim class and advanced swim class should be at the Youth Center at 6 p.m. to 7 p.m. Robert Neslage and his sister Marian Neslage will begin a class for adult-beginners July 18th. Price for the use of the pool is $1.00.

Committee To Discuss Second Band Contest

First full committee discussion for the second annual Doc Severinsen National Stage Band Contest is scheduled at 10 a.m. Monday in the Chamber of Commerce conference room.

E. L. Henderson, 1966 general chairman for the band festival, said Saturday, Feb. 4, has been tentatively selected as the date for next year's contests.

Two dozen high schools took part in the first contests here and the band from Paschal High in Fort Worth took top honors.

Severinsen is scheduled to be in San Antonio the first week in August and Henderson said members of the local committee will meet with him there and discuss preliminary plans for the festival.

The salary of Edmund J. Randolph, first U.S. attorney general was $1,500 a year. He was born Nov. 13, 1823.

water department personnel of unusual station whose function is to avert changes in the water coming down the rivers. The Ohio River Valley Water Sanitation Commission is in the process of completing a similar program for the Ohio River.

The Philadelphia monitoring system checks for upstream chemical contamination by the huge chemical plants located along the river. Big steel mills and paper mills also are located along the banks of the Delaware. All of these dump into the river. The monitors also check radio-activity in the water. They are also equipped to check the effectiveness of sewage treatment from the many municipalities upstream.

Cities running tests on municipal water supplies that come from rivers must do this in self-defense. Tests run by Philadelphia and other large river-water-cities are possible only for a limited number of compounds. Heavy metal contamination which includes cyanide, chromium, lead, arsenic, selenium and cadmium are among those that the United States Drinking Water Standards, has set limits on.

Tests are also made for certain substances which may be less toxic than those already listed above, since these also may cause illness or which may give technical trouble in the water system, or which may cause off-flavor or odor in the drinking water. This list of chemicals include fluorine, nitrate, copper, iron, manganese, zinc, magnesium, sulfate, chloride and phenol. Limits to the amounts of these allowable in the water have been set also under the standards approved by United States Drinking Water Standards and the World Health Organization.

One test that is always a must is one which is run on the total hardness, which may cause excessive scale formation and may even dissolve heavy metals. Limits above which give trouble may arise from these sources are known, and when the samples show too much of any one, steps may be taken to correct the situation.

The bacteriological examination of water samples is concerned with the total number of organisms and with the number of fecal organisms present—an indication of sewage contamination. Water contaminated with sewage may bear bacteria which cause any one of the following diseases: typhoid fever, bacillary dysentery, amoebic dysentery, cholera and gastroenteritis.

Those servicemen who served in the Pacific Theater of operations and eventually did occupation duty in Japan became painfully aware of the amoebic dysentery problem. Fruits and vegetables even after boiling were said to have still contained traces of the germ causing amoebic dysentery.

producers are doing some supplemental feeding. This has been our driest year since the drought of the fifties. The usual pattern of getting more rainfall on the range area than the farmland reverse itself this year. In Roberts County to the north, some areas have had no significant rainfall in 1966. To make their problem even worse, grasshoppers in alarming numbers have hatched over a wide area according to several ranchers.

While writing this new article, Jerome Schmidt called in regard to an order of fish for his farm pond. This reminded me to mention the fact that fish are available through the Parks and Wildlife Service for stocking of farm ponds. Should you need some, we would be happy to send your name to the proper authority.

Back to the wheat yields, most people made far better yields than expected. Gus Greene, who farms northeast of Pampa, reminded me the other day of something he had read in the Pampa News last winter saying that snows did about as much damage as good. As hot and dry as it has been you would think the ole boy would forget about snows last winter. At least the writer thought everyone would forget. A snow might not do any good on a maize crop right now but I'd sure settle for the same snow we had last winter, even if it did wind up in the fence rows.

K & F Club Announces Speakers

Richard Arlen, veteran star of stage, screen, radio and television, heads the state of speakers scheduled for the Fall and Spring of 1966-67, according to an announcement made by Roy Sparkman, president of the Top of Texas unit of Knife & Fork Club, international.

Other speakers and dates include: Dr. Ralph T. Overman, September 29; Neat Hielscher, November 15; and Heenan Elliott, March 10. Arlen is scheduled for January 10.

A longtime Hollywood celebrity, Richard Arlen is one of America's outstanding citizens as well. He was a box office attraction for many years, and will be remembered with such greats as Gary Cooper, Jean Harlow, Buddy Rogers and many others going as far back as the "silent days."

With more than 200 motion pictures to his credit, he required that each one meet his personal code of ethics before accepting the assignment. According to Arlen, who has made an exhaustive study of the subject, the only way to halt crime is to nip it in the bud those things that bring it about.

His speech in Pampa will cover his own suggestions as to how to get back on the right track, to reinstate sanctity in our lives and give a meaning to morals. His speech is entitled "Clean Entertainment and Hollywood."

The opening meeting of the fall season will feature Dr. Ralph T. Overman as speaker. Overman is former chairman of Special Training Division of the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies who is now in private practice as a consulting scientist. At Oak Ridge he helped train almost 6,000 scientists, engineers, teachers and physicians.

His speech, "Which Way the Atom," will cover how the atom affects our daily living, the food we eat, the clothes we wear and the air we breathe, in terms so simple and non-technical that even a "kindergarten kid" can understand it. This is expected to be the most revealing address and the most enlightening speaker the club has ever had.

Newt Hielscher will add the light note to the club's overall program. He is known as the humorist with a message, believing that laughter is a way of life — the best way. He has a wide variety of interests and activities and fills a heavy schedule of speaking engagements throughout the year.

His speech is entitled "The Contagious Cure," and offers fun and philosophy, loads of laughs with choice bits of wisdom intertwined. November 15 is the date of the Hielscher program.

Heenan Elliott, also a humorist-philosopher, will close the program year for the local Knife & Fork Club, on March 30, 1967. Elliott is a southern California product, speaks all over the United States, and is so well liked in his own "back yard" that on two recent occasions he was called on to substitute for ex-Governor Goodwin Knight and for Joe E. Brown.

All meetings of the club will be held in Coronado Inn with the exception of the January 10 meeting at which Richard Arlen will speak. This will also be the official Guest Night, when members may bring local as well as out-of-town guests.

In addition to Sparkman, the board of directors of the Knife & Fork Club includes Paul V. Bowers, vice president; J. E. Gunn, Bill Waters, Herman Whordan, Wynne Veale, Rufe Jerald, R. D. Wilkerson and Jerald Sims. Mrs. Fred Thompson is secretary-treasurer.

United Press International
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Notes to watch television by:

The headliners: Lucille Ball, whose show appears on CBS-TV, will be a guest on the premiere of Milton Berle's new fall variety series on the opposition ABC-TV network.

Tim Conway, who has been a regular on the now-cancelled "McHale's Navy" series, is currently set to star in his own half-hour weekly show the season after next on ABC-TV.

"Rango," a western comedy, according to ABC-TV, Conway will play "a dedicated Texas Ranger who is so inept he is sent to the most remote and inactive post in the state where he makes a friend of... an equally ineffectual Indian."

All three networks will offer live and specially-filmed programs of the wedding day of President Johnson's daughter Luci and Patrick Nugent Aug. 6 the night before the CBS-TV will have a one-hour broadcast at 10 p.m. EDT on the wedding day, CBS-TV coverage of the festivities from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. EDT — and possibly later — with ABC-TV coming on at 11:30 a.m. EDT on Saturday night. NBC-TV will have a one-hour summary at 7:30 p.m. EDT, CBS-TV a half-hour wrap-up at 7 p.m. EDT, and ABC-TV a 30-minute broadcast for which viewers should check local listings for the time.

Two winners of the third international Tchaikovsky competition held last month in Moscow — Misha Dichter, 20-year-old pianist from Beverly Hills, Calif., and Miss Masuko Yushioda, 19-year-old violinist from Japan — will appear as soloists with the Boston Symphony Orchestra in NBC-TV's "An Afternoon at Tanglewood" Aug. 14. Bardot Marries For Third Time

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — French sexpot Brigitte Bardot and German industrialist Gunter Sachs were married shortly after midnight Thursday in this desert gambling center.

It was the third marriage for the 31-year-old actress, whose previous husbands were French director Roger Vadim and French actor Jacques Charrier, by whom she has a six-year-old daughter.

Sachs, 33, who listed his home as Lusane, Switzerland, was married once previously. His wife died.

The marriage took place at the home of Las Vegas attorney William G. Coulthard.

Miss Bardot wore a short, purple shift dress, about knee length, and held a single chrysanthemum during the ceremony. She appeared very serious.

Sachs was attired in a blue blazer, white slacks, white sandals and wore no socks.

The couple was scheduled to spend the night at the Coulthard house and was expected to leave for Tahiti and their honeymoon sometime today.

Most Pampa Teens Have Little Against Drink

By LARRY HOLLIS
Daily News Reporter

If their statements are sincere, most Pampa teen-agers seem to have little against drinking alcoholic beverages.

"I don't drink myself," said a member of an athletic team in high school, "but I don't see anything wrong with others drinking. If they can handle it and don't get themselves or others in trouble."

Basically, this seems to be the consensus of the majority of teen-agers talked with over a period of several days.

Most seem to have no objection to drinking—if the drinkers use moderation and stay out of trouble.

"The main thing I have against drinking," one boy explained, "is that some just drink too much. Then they get in trouble — fighting, vandalism, reckless driving and so on. That makes it harder for us 'decent' drinkers who just want to have a little fun."

This seems to be the main "gripe" of most of those that do drink—that the few who cause the most trouble endanger the others in one way or another.

"Most of us just take a few drinks every now and then, and behave fairly well," stated a 17-year-old boy. "But it doesn't seem to make much difference with older persons."

"No matter how little we drink or how well we act," he continued, "we're all placed in the same category as those few wild ones who fight, cuss, look for and destroy property."

Estimates on the number of Pampa teenagers who drink vary. Some say that they would guess about 40 per cent of the boys, and some would place 80 per cent of the boys as those who drink. And there are other estimates in-between, and some lower.

For girls teen-agers place their estimates lower — from 10 per cent to 50 per cent.

The reasons for drinking also vary.

"A lot of my friends drink," said one 16-year-old, "so I decided to try it. I don't like the taste of alcohol — most of us don't — but the feeling of well, happiness, makes up for it."

Another said, "We're constantly being pressed into 'growing up.' And drinking is one of the privileges of being adult, so we drink to feel older. Then adults start griping. Well, what do they want us to do? Act grown up, but still play kid games?"

"Yes, I drink," a girl replied to a question. "Don't most of us, sooner or later? But I certainly don't booze it up every weekend. I watch what I'm doing."

Others give simpler reasons: "I like it," one boy said. "Why else would I drink?"

"What's wrong with it?" another girl questioned.

Contrary to the speculations of many adults who get tired of picking beer bottles off their lawns on Saturday and Sunday mornings, most teen-agers do not act as wild as it would appear.

"It seems funny," an 18-year-old graduate boy said. "You read all these magazine articles about how we teen-agers whop it up and throw a wild drunk every week. It's just not that way in Pampa at all.

pared with the other towns across the nation in those reports, Pampa seems mild as heck."

"Of course, we have a lot who drink — more than in some towns," one youth said. "But then, we're larger than a lot of towns. You'd probably find a lot more that drink in the bigger cities."

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Australian Prime Minister Harold Holt told President Johnson Thursday that in a recent conversation with Britain's Prime Minister Harold Wilson, "I told him you had been so generous to me that if I had asked for the Statue of Liberty, you would have given it to me." Holt said Wilson then inquired, "Why didn't you ask him for Fort Knox?"

In 1964, Alabama's Governor George Wallace announced he would withdraw from the presidential race.
