Forecast Calls For More Rain

More showers are predicted for Pampa and the vicinity tonight and tomorrow after clouds dropped 1.57 inches of rain on the city yesterday afternoon.

Widely scattered afternoon and nighttime thundershowers are predicted for tonight and Friday, with 30 per cent probability of showers tonight and 20 per cent Friday.

Skies are to be clear to partly cloudy, with a high in the upper 90's and an overnight low near 70. Southerly winds of 10 to 20 miles are expected. Outlook for Saturday calls for hot temperatures with a few thundershowers.

Pampa streets were filled with water from the rain which began about 1:30 p.m. and lasted nearly two hours. The rodeo parade, which was to begin at 3 p.m., was delayed for more than an hour until the rain stopped and water left the streets.

No damage was reported in the city limits. A Department of Public Safety patrolman, though, investigated one accident attributed to the rain.

An unidentified farmer apparently lost control of his vehicle about 10 miles west of Pampa and ran off the road. He came to rest upside down in a field.

Sukarno Loses Most of Power

JAKARTA (UPI) — President Sukarno attempted to verbally rescind a series of congressional decisions which stripped him of most of his power during ceremonies today installing a new 27-member Indonesian cabinet.

In an emotional, arm-waving speech which lasted 90 minutes, Sukarno declared he remained premier as well as president press corps for the first time since several Western reporters and denounced the foreign were ordered out of Indonesia six months ago.

"I am still president!" Sukarno shouted. "I am still premier. . . listen carefully and make no more mistakes about this."

The speech was heard by about 300 persons—government officials, diplomats and newsmen—who jammed the great ballroom of the state palace for the cabinet swearing in session.

A Moslem student leaped to his feet as Sukarno spoke and cried, "God almighty!" A soldier clapped his hand over the student's mouth and dragged him from the room.

Sukarno announced the surprise appointment to top government posts of two of his favorites who had been dumped from the new cabinet by military strongman Lt. Gen. Suharto. The jobs are virtually on the cabinet level.

Political observers were at a loss to explain Sukarno's sudden about face. Nor was anyone ready to offer an immediate opinion on whether he would get away with what appeared another grab at the rule he once held.

Suharto was under pressure himself from anti-Sukarno student organizations disappointed that the ailing, 65-year-old president was not ousted completely.

The Indonesian military wants to keep Sukarno in office for the present because it fears his supporters in east and central Java may launch a guerrilla war if the army moves too quickly against him.

Going-Over Not Over for LBJ's Foreign Aid Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — For the 1966 foreign aid bill, already limping from the most bruising Senate going-over in the history of the program, the hostile trip through Congress is far from over.

Ahead lie negotiations, sure to be long and agonizing, to reconcile vast differences in the bills passed by the House and Senate.

Wednesday, the Senate rounded out its version of the air program with approval, 82 to 7, of a $792 million, one-year foreign military assistance bill.

The vote followed an earlier setback to President Johnson and the Democratic Senate leadership when the Senate knocked $100 million off the $892 million recommended by its Foreign Relations Committee. Johnson originally asked for $917 million.

On Tuesday, the Senate had shown its disengagement with foreign aid by passing a separate economic aid bill it had trimmed by $400 million. Johnson had asked for $2.47 billion. He got only $2.06 billion.

Last year it took members of a House-Senate Conference Committee nine weeks to reconcile differences in their foreign aid bills.

The challenges this year are even more formidable. Here are a few major differences.

—The House put authorization for both military and economic assistance for the year ending next June 30 in one bill. The Senate handled them separately.

—The House granted Johnson's request in part and approved five-year authorization for the development loan fund and the Alliance for Progress, and two-year authorization for everything else. The Senate passed only one-year authorization for all programs except the Alliance for Progress, which got two-year authority.

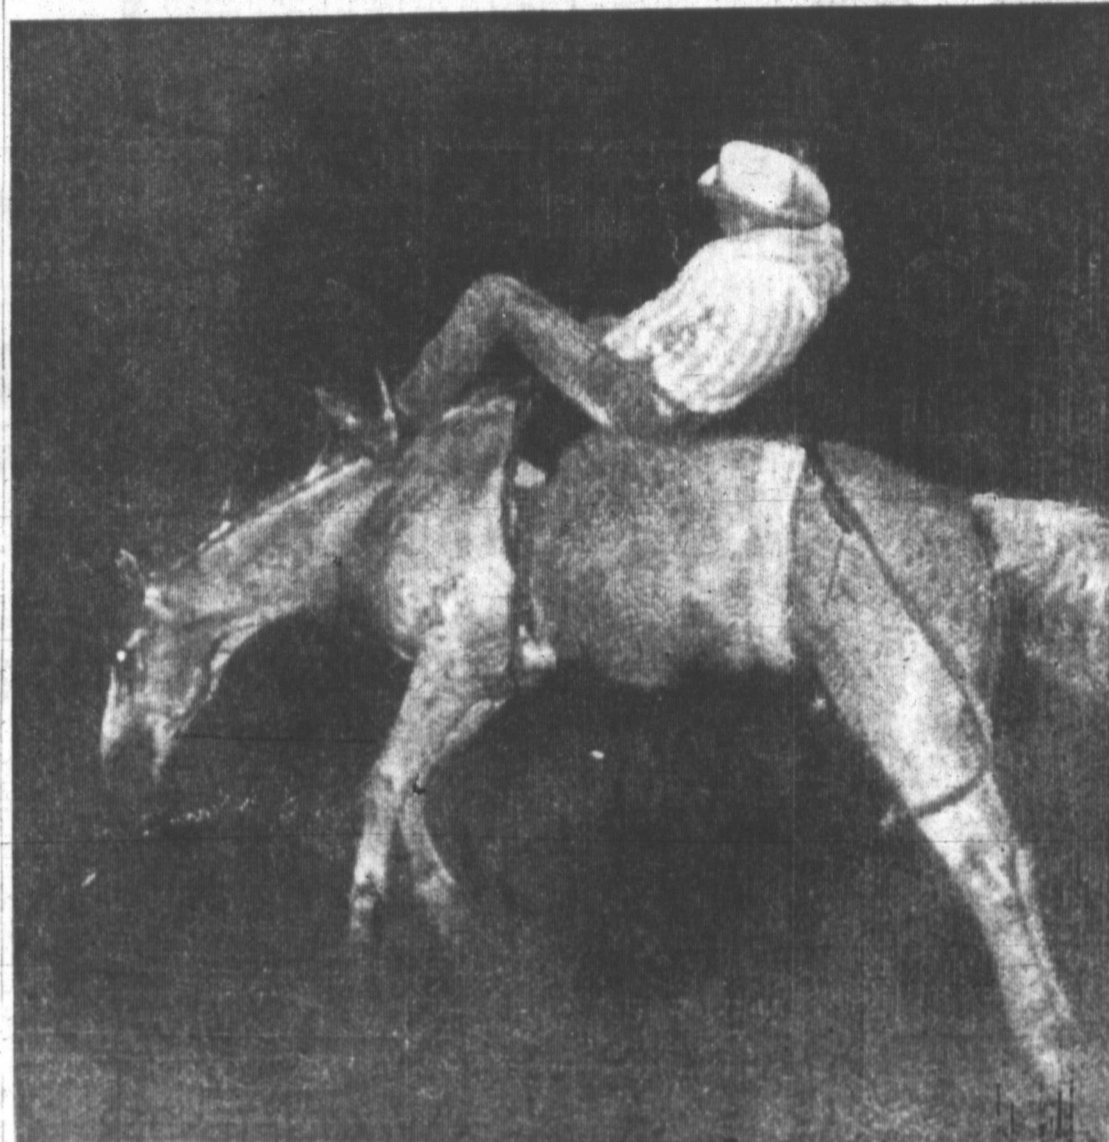

—The House gave Johnson most of the total $3,256 billion he asked, compared to the Senate's total of only $2.85 billion.

Vegas Minister Really Isn't?

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Sixty-nine couples from at least 10 states were married by a rebel Nevada minister this month, and consequently may not be married at all.

Most of the couples came from California. But a few list home towns in Indiana, Montana, Florida, Wisconsin, New York, Illinois, Alabama, Arizona and Hawaii.

The Rev. Robert Truesdell, operator of a Las Vegas strip chapel, performed at least 60 weddings without being properly certified by the state. Dept. Dist. Atty. John Porter said Truesdell's state certificate was not renewed July 1 by district court. Porter said the minister married at least 69 couples without authority, and perhaps more.

Cowboys Face Second Go-Round Here Tonight

By LARRY HOLLIS
News Staff Writer

The second performance of the 22nd Annual Top O' Texas Rodeo will get underway at 8 o'clock tonight at Recreation Park after a "slow" performance last night as a result of the wet ground in the arena.

Rain may have dampened the ground, but not the spirits of rodeo fans, as the crowd almost filled the grandstands for the first night's events despite the cool air.

The soaked arena provided some difficulties for the entrants, but not enough to prevent an exciting show.

Over 120 contestants are competing for a share of the $7,500 purse which will be divided among the top winners in each event, as well as to the best all-around. Performances are officially sanctioned by the Rodeo Cowboys Association.

Molly Bee, television radio motion picture star, sang several songs during an interlude, accompanied by Johnny Lee Willis and his Western Swing Band. The Joe Zoppe Family also performed during the night, though hampered in their horsemanship and acrobatics by the wet ground.

Announcer was Cy Tallon of Denver, Colo., who will be presiding at the performances every night of the rodeo. This is his fourth appearance at the Top O' Texas Rodeo.

The rodeo parade, scheduled for 3 p.m. yesterday, was delayed for over an hour because of the rain and water in the streets.

Shamrock Sheriff's Posse of Shamrock, Tex., placed first in the riding clubs division. Second place went to the Beckham County Wranglers of Sayre, Okla. Leather 'N' Lace Club of Pampa won third.

In the civic club or organization division, Dalhart Chamber of Commerce float was chosen for first place. Second was Top O' Texas Antique Car Club, and third were the Sub Deb pledges of Pampa.

First place for the most typical ranch entry went to C. T. Rascoe. The Maul brothers received second place.

The most attractive commercial entry was Borden's Milk train. The Santa Fe train was selected for second place, and third was Coronado Center.

Wiley McIntire of Pampa was chosen as the most typically dressed junior cowboy with Frank Morrison of Pampa selected for second. The most typically dressed junior cowgirl rider was Janice Price of Pampa. Cindy Horton of Pampa placed second.

After the grand entry and the introduction of officials, the show began with the cowboys' bareback bronc riding event. Larry Mahan of Brooks, Ore., received 63 points to obtain the top score for the opening event. Second high score, 61, was earned by Duane Hennigh of LaVerne, Okla. Third was Bob Mayo with 57.

Mahan ranks fourth in national all-around championship standings with winnings of $17,650. He ranks fourth in saddle bronc with $6,798, and sixth in bareback bronc with $7,095.

In the calf roping event Bill Riddle of Wichita Falls, Tex., gained top score with a time of 18.8 seconds. Second was Sherrill Overturf of Odessa, Tex., with 20.2, and Elmer Fisher of Pampa placed third with 21.8.

The girls' barrel race was the only event in which all contestants received a score. In the other events, some entrants (See COWBOYS, Page 3)

TOPS U.S. AVERAGE

Pampa Is Rated High In Purchasing Power

A new area-by-area survey of business activity in the United States stamps Pampa as a vigorous, expanding market with family earnings and expenditures above average.

This vitality is reflected in the volume of business that was done by local retail stores in the past year.

The figures detailing this are presented by Sales Management in its new "Survey of Buying Power," a copyrighted report that covers every part of the country.

It shows that residents of Pampa had a record amount of money at their disposal during the year. Their net income, after payment of personal taxes, came to $60,512,000.

It was equivalent to net earnings per household of $7,962, a figure arrived at by dividing the total income locally by the number of households. This was more money than was available to people in most sections of the State of Texas after taking care of their tax obligations. The average was $7,008 per household. In the West South Central States it was $6,639.

With the boom still going strong, the employment situation improving and nothing in sight to cause concern, economically, local residents indulged in large-scale spending for all kinds of goods and services in 1965.

They bought more automobiles, more household appliances, more cooks, fancy foods, clothing and furniture than ever before.

As a result, retail sales were at a high level in the year. Most local merchants were able to post new highs as the overall sales volume reached $43,122,000, an increase over the 1964 total of $39,906,000.

The relative standing of each community, in terms of market strength and growth potential, is indicated in the survey by means of a "quality of market" index. It takes into consideration such factors as per capita income, population, volume of spending and the like.

Pampa is given an index rating of 110, or 10 percent above the national average.

Thus far this year, a University of Michigan survey shows, people generally have become somewhat more restrained in their spending. Cited as reasons are inflation, falling stock prices, higher interest rates and the prospect of tax increases.

Penalty Plan Is Adopted by SBI For Auto Owners

AUSTIN (UPI) — The State Board of Insurance today adopted an automobile insurance penalty plan designed to boost major traffic violators' insurance as much as 90 per cent and reduce the rates for the non-offender.

The plan, which will go into effect Aug. 1, 1967, will use the system of changing penalty points for accidents, speeding and major violations on a territorial basis. The penalties will begin Sunday midnight for figuring on 1967 policies.

One penalty point will increase the premium for auto liability, medical payments and collision insurance by 15 per cent. Two points will mean an increase of 35-per cent, three 60 per cent and four 90 per cent. All penalties will be figured on the I-A rate—cheapest offered Texas drivers, and added onto the classification of the penalized driver.

One point is assigned for each automobile accident resulting in bodily injury, death or property damage in excess of $50 in which the driver is at fault, board chairman Hunter McLean said. Speeding penalties will not begin until the second conviction within the latest 12 months prior to the policy date or the third conviction in 37 months, and will cost one point.

Three points will be assigned for conviction of driving while intoxicated or under the influence of drugs, failure to stop and render aid or disclose the identity when involved in an accident, negligent homicide, murder by driving while intoxicated or aggravated assault with a motor vehicle.

Two points will be charged for conviction of driving while the license is suspended, driving without a license or any other moving traffic violation as a result of which an operator's or driver's license was suspended or revoked.

Eventually, the board will use a 36-month period for penalties, allowing Texans to erase bad records through the years. No more than four penalties will be charged for all violations.

The board took into consideration the charges of lack of uniformity of law enforcement by setting the penalties by district. McLean explained that the penalty payments in a district will be used in the overall district rate to reduce the base rate of the violation-free driver.

Although not promising any rate reduction next year, McLean and other board members emphasized they were optimistic that the new plan will cut accidents and what the rates would have been if the plan had not been adopted.

Uniform Charges
McLean said the penalties would be figured on the I-A rate because it would make the charges uniform. He also pointed out that it would have been unfair to use the high 2-C rate for such charges, since it would make it unfair on the lower I-A driver. The use of the I-A charge gives all drivers a cheaper penalty rate also.

The plan is a modified version of the New Jersey plan presented for consideration at the June insurance rate hearing. It is not as stiff, as the penalties range from 15 to 90 per cent instead of 30 to 180.

If it comes from a hardware store we have it. Lewis Hdwe. (Adv.)

per cent in the New Jersey plan but the new plan includes speeding, giving Texas a broader base for penalties.

McLean gave several examples of the penalties drivers getting points after Sunday can expect after Aug. 1, 1967.

In Harris County, drivers can expect a $22 surcharge for one penalty, $51 for two, $83 for three and $132 for four or more points. In Dallas County, it would range from $21 for one to $123 for four points, and in Bexar County from $18 to $107. In Tarrant county, the other example given from the 26 Texas districts, it would range from $18 to $111.

UNION OPENS DRIVE

Organizing Begins In Panhandle Oil Fields

Efforts are under way to push unionization of roughnecks, drillers and well service crews in the Texas Panhandle oil fields, according to R. D. Rittenhouse of Berger, business manager for Local 351 of the International Union of Operating Engineers.

Rittenhouse said union officials began organizing workers about three months ago in the unorganized Permian Basin areas of West Texas and New Mexico.

Meetings were scheduled for 10 a.m. today and 8 tonight in the VFW Hall in Perryton.

Rittenhouse said efforts were to be made at today's meeting to get 30 per cent of the workers of any contractor to sign up for unionization.

He stated that if there is a 30 per cent sign-up, a petition can be filed with the National Labor Relations Board asking that an election be held among employees according to the Taft-Hartley Labor Act.

The law requires that 30 per cent of the workers in a unit must sign before a petition can be filed for holding an election local act as a bargaining agent with their employer.

Union officials said among problems slated for consideration in the organizing efforts are higher wages and at least one day off a week.

Rittenhouse said oil field workers in West Texas, New Mexico and the Texas Panhandle presently work seven days a week.

Other objectives are travel pay, paid vacations and holidays, pensions, better hospitalization and insurance coverage, seniority rights, and a grievance procedure to remedy violations of union contract such as improper lay-off or discharge, safety violations and job recall failures.

The National Labor Relations Act insures workers the right to form, join or assist union of their choice for the purpose of bargaining with employers for higher wages, better working conditions and other conditions of employment.

US Death Toll in Viet Higher Than in Revolutionary War

SAIGON (UPI) — The United States last week lost 136 men killed in action in Viet Nam, raising the toll in the Southeast Asian conflict higher than that of the Revolutionary War.

Total U.S. combat deaths in Viet Nam as of last Saturday totaled 4,440. The number of American dead in the Revolutionary War totaled 4,435, according to the World Almanac.

Many of the casualties came out of the massive U.S. Marine Operation Hastings, under way since July 15 in mountain jungles in the northwest corner of South Viet Nam near the 17th Parallel. The Leathernecks are estimated to have killed some 1,500 Communist North Vietnamese troops, at least half that figure by body count.

The United States had 2,260 battle deaths in the War of 1812; another 1,733 in the Mexican War and 385 in the Spanish-American War.

U.S. military spokesmen in Saigon said the Communist last week lost 1,272 men killed by body count. The South Vietnamese had 195 combat deaths and the other allied forces three dead.

The toll of U.S. dead in the previous week was 65. A total of 578 Americans were wounded and 14 listed as missing in action or captured last week, for an overall casualty toll of 728.

The highest number of casualties for a single week sustained by U.S. forces in Viet Nam was 966—148 dead and 830 wounded during the week ended last May 21.

In the week ended Nov. 25, 1965, it was reported that 240 U.S. servicemen died in action. This was the highest death toll of the war and resulted from the bloody Ia Drang Valley campaign.

NO PANIC DURING ORDEAL

51 Rescued From Gulf After Boat Sinks

PORT ARANSAS, Tex. (UPI) — Swift rescue operations prevented a tragedy Wednesday night when a pleasure boat crowded with fishermen and a good day's catch from the Gulf of Mexico burst into flames and sank in 60 feet of water.

The 49 fishermen and two crewmen abandoned the White Marlin Queen "without panic" and huddled together in life rafts in six-foot swells until they were picked up by two Coast Guard vessels and four shrimp boats.

The fire, blamed on an electrical failure, sent flames and smoke billowing high in the air. The blaze could be seen from the coast seven miles away.

As the fire spread from the engine room to other parts of the boat, the passengers lowered the life rafts and abandoned ship while Capt. James McNalt radioed a distress signal on the Coast Guard frequency.

"The crew handled it extremely well," said John Davenport, 42, one of the rescued passengers. "Everybody crowded to the stern while the crew got out fire extinguishers and started trying to control the flames. But it was hopeless."

Finally the flames began sweeping the whole structure of the boat and the smoke became unbearable," said Davenport, an Austin, Tex., lawyer. "The crew then gave the order to abandon ship."

"Everyone was calm and did everything they were supposed to do," said McNalt. "All was calm and we got off in fine shape."

The fire touched off a series of explosions and the White Marlin Queen went down in less than three hours.

US Planning to Loan India $500 Million

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States is preparing to advance India almost $500 million more in development aid, despite its intense displeasure over Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's recent actions in Moscow.

In addition, the United States will continue its shipment of approximately 1 million tons of wheat per month to India under the program which permits the Indians to pay in rupees for the grain.

Officials said today that passage of the loan aid bill would clear the way for America to put up its share of money supplied by a 10-nation consortium and the International Bank and Monetary Fund.

It is still not yet clear, however, whether West Germany is going to come through with her 500 million share of this loan. Bonn, too, is extremely irked with Mrs. Gandhi's pro-Communist declarations during her Kremlin visit earlier this month.

The Johnson administration considers the continued stability of India so vital in Southeast Asia that it has no thought of penalizing New Delhi for Mrs. Gandhi's action in associating herself with the Communist

US Astronomers Not Worried About Planet

WASHINGTON (UPI)—There is a great big rock out there in space and it is headed hell-for-leather for the general vicinity of the earth.

But the U.S. government has neither the intention nor the ability to make an AAM (anti-asteroid missile) to intercept and blow it up.

The big rock is the asteroid Icarus, a minor planet about three-fifths of a mile thick. On June 15, 1968 it will pass within 4 million miles of earth on one of its regular flights, around the sun.

A dispatch from Sydney, Australia, quoted a theoretical physicist as saying U.S., British and Soviet scientists have been studying the possibility of blasting the invader with a nuclear rocket.

Sure they have. They also have studied the possibility of using asteroids as free-energy spaceships, and even of capturing asteroids and turning them into guides missiles against enemy continents.

Theoretical scientists study anything and everything. But no reputable astronomer known to United Press International believes for a moment that Icarus represents any threat to earth.

Icarus is one of more than 1,650 asteroids, or minor planets. They may be the fragments of old planets which collided in times past, or they may be leftovers from the primordial gas dust clouds out of which the sun and its associated bodies were created.

Most asteroids fly around the sun between the orbits of Mars and Jupiter, far from the orbital track of the earth. But a dozen or so are known to head in this general direction now and then.

Two citations were issued yesterday by city police following traffic infractions by Pampa motorists.

Alvir Joe Achord, 1041 S. Farley was cited by police for following too closely after a collision with a car driven by Allen Jenkins, 920 W. Buckler.

The accident occurred around noon Wednesday in the 1300 block N. Hobart resulting in $250 damage to the Achord car and $180 damage to the Jenkins car.

Failure to yield right of way was charged to Lucy Prater Cotten, 416 N. Christy, following a collision with a car driven by Roy Nichols, 311 Bryan.

The cars collided around 1 p.m. Wednesday at the intersection of Gwendolyn and Hobart. Damage to the Nichols car was estimated at $200; the Prater car incurred $100 damage.

Two citations were issued yesterday by city police following traffic infractions by Pampa motorists.

Alvir Joe Achord, 1041 S. Farley was cited by police for following too closely after a collision with a car driven by Allen Jenkins, 920 W. Buckler.

The accident occurred around noon Wednesday in the 1300 block N. Hobart resulting in $250 damage to the Achord car and $180 damage to the Jenkins car.

Failure to yield right of way was charged to Lucy Prater Cotten, 416 N. Christy, following a collision with a car driven by Roy Nichols, 311 Bryan.

The cars collided around 1 p.m. Wednesday at the intersection of Gwendolyn and Hobart. Damage to the Nichols car was estimated at $200; the Prater car incurred $100 damage.

Dear Abby....

In Marriage There Is No His and Hers

DEAR ABBY: After eight years of marriage I am ready to leave my husband. Saturday morning while he was sleeping, I rearranged the furniture in my front room. When I went out in the afternoon, he moved everything back the way it was before I moved it. Naturally I was angry, so I moved every thing back again my way.

This was no small job, Abby, as I have a grand piano, an overstuffed sofa with two matching chairs and several tables and lamps in that room. Well, at 2 o'clock in the morning my husband was moving the furniture around again. I figure that the office is his, and the house is mine. And I don't tell him how to arrange the office furniture and he shouldn't tell me how to arrange the house furniture. I'd like your opinion.

DEAR ANGRY: You don't have to share your husband's office, but he has to live in the house. If he is dissatisfied with the furniture arrangement at home, let him say so and perhaps you can effect a compromise. In a marriage, there is no his and hers. And if you two do not quit shoving that grand piano around, there will be a his and hers hernia.

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow, 45. I work and live in a small town where every move I make is seen. I have lived in the same house for 20 years and naturally my friends and neighbors are interested in what I do and with whom I come and go.

I date occasionally and have resorted to meeting my gentlemen friends in nearby towns rather than answer questions such as "Who was he," and "Is it serious?" I have nothing to hide. I just like privacy. Am I wrong?

DEAR WANTS: If you have nothing to hide, don't go ducking behind potted palms in nearby towns, lest you give the appearance of guilt. ("The wicked flee when no man pursueth.")

DEAR ABBY: Why don't people who are too old to live alone put themselves in a rest home instead of waiting until their children are ready for a mental institution trying to care for them along with their own family?

I work in a rest home and I wouldn't mind living here. Elderly people need more heat than younger people. They have special diets, can't stand too much noise and many of them need some kind of medical care. They go to sleep early and get up early. Their whole routine is different. Trying to fit them into a home with teenagers is unfair to them and the young people, too. Why do so many older people who can well afford it, fight against going to a rest home? Once they get here they are sorry they didn't come sooner.

DEAR WORKS: Many elderly people "fight" going to a rest home because they think it's an institution for unwanted, homeless old folks who have nowhere else to go. And in some cases, their children are to blame. They are afraid their friends will think they put their parents in a rest home because they did not want to bother caring for them at home.

Timely Beauty Hint
Don't ruin your lovely skin by over exposure in the vacation sun, says beauty authority, Max Factor.

Remembering that holiday time soon ends, and an elegant, even-toned skin will be magnificent with the striking fashions of this season and next, here are the do's and don'ts of sun bathing.

Bathe all exposed skin with suntan lotion or oil before you step into the sun's bright rays. Then, repeat the application when needed, and after each dip in the surf or pool. Do your sunning in short intervals, taking time out to sit in the shade. Long exposure can damage the smooth beauty of your skin for life.

Protect your hair with the popular and glamorous hats and scarfs. Sunburned, straw-like tresses do not make a pretty frame for the face when you dress for a special dinner date, and the dull, dead look will be most unflattering when you don the new season's exquisite fashions.

Keep a jacket and scarf handy to fling over bare shoulders long before they start to sizzle, and keep your tone of make-up handy to blend over your nose, chin, forehead and the front of the neck to protect them from excess damage, and to make you look lovely at the same time. Enjoy the sun, but take it in easy doses and your skin will be forever beautiful.

Clean Make-up Brushes
How do you score on your brushmanship? Brushes are much in the spotlight these days in the application of make-up and most especially eye-sculpture. Your brush must handle well, scoop color and apply it smoothly, thickly and evenly. Be sure to keep your brushes clean and in good shape and they will keep you in the spotlight.

Add Color to Drab Hair

SUMMER SUN AND SALT and chlorinated water play havoc with the sheen and color of your hair. A preparation that conditions as it colors can prove helpful in restoring sheen and beauty to dried-out tresses. One such preparation can lighten or darken, cover gray hair or blend in with your natural color. Apply with applicator (left) on dry hair and leave on for 30 minutes. Add a little water to create a color foam, then rinse until water runs clear. Cateless mixture is then distributed evenly over the hair to lock in color. Another warm-water rinsing leaves your hair soft, tinted and ready to style. For summer evenings (right) Charles of Garrison and Ramon creates this hairstyle for soft, shining hair. The hair is brushed back and up, with eyebrow-tip bangs and easy top curls.

MATURE PARENT

By MURIEL LAWRENCE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE: My neighbor says you wrote a column about in-laws who show favor to one child in a family. As I have this problem, please send the column to me. My husband's sister has always held something against our 12-year-old girl though I don't know what it is. But she is devoted to our 9-year-old boy, wants to hear about everything he's doing, never forgets his birthday and makes such a fuss over him. Yet she goes out of her way to ignore his sister.

ANSWER: She wants your children to dislike each other. Division between our children is what our relatives are up to when they make those shows of partiality toward one at the expense of another. This desire to create enmity between them is usually unconscious. But it is there. They want the favored child to join them in an alliance of dislike of the unfavored one. In the favored one they are seeking to arouse triumphant feelings and in the unfavored one, hurt and jealousy.

Myself, I think that children should be informed of this hostile purpose in partial relatives. So, were I you, I would take my son aside and say, "Do not take aunt Rose's affection for you too seriously. The nice way she treats you doesn't mean that she likes you so much. It means that she dislikes Joanie. She's nice to you because she wants you to dislike Joanie, too. So watch yourself. Liking or not liking your sister is your business. It's not aunt Rose's."

Children are very quick to accept this kind of hint. They know much more than we think they do about people's craving for support of their hate. So when we tell our 9-year-old that his aunt's flattering attention is her attempt to win his support of her dislike of his sister, we are not telling him anything that will shock him. As a matter of fact, the only shock he will experience is that we're willing to put into words what he himself knows.

If we love a child, we do not want to divide him from his sister or brother. We want him to enjoy as many happy relationships as he can. You don't need that other column I wrote on in-laws' partiality toward one child at the expense of another. What you need is to take that boy of yours aside and tell him you know the truth that he knows. That's all. That's it.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: This is certainly the day and evening to expand your efforts in directions where you will find new methods and means by which to handle practical matters on a much more constructive and satisfactory basis. Make sure you do nothing that could cause a separation with one whom you love very much.

AIRIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) — You are apt to feel frustrated if you shuttle back and forth from home, duties and those in business world if you do not plan time properly and are more amiable. Be the peace maker in both spheres. Show wisdom.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20) — New interests are all right provided you do some important studying concerning them first. Find new and fascinating personalities who can revive your lagging spirits. Don't be a stick-in-the-mud. It doesn't pay.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) — Certain material affairs have become a little difficult for you to handle and it would be well to consult some expert. Follow up, very wisely. Your mate could be somewhat petulant in p.m. — be comforting.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) — Being overly-sensitive today could get you in Dutch since others are feeling pretty magnanimous. A big smile will do much to soften 'em up. Keep busy, have fun, be master of your own soul.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Handling your labors meticulously will gain you favor of higher-ups, but be sure you do not excite co-workers who are not so efficient as you. Take physical exercise that improves health. Be more dynamic.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 21) — You must have a more cheerful attitude if you want to be more successful in social life. Show encouragement to those who are having difficulties. Avoid new trend of being as hard as nails.

New York Taxicab Operator Is Also A Millinery Designer-Manufacturer

By GAY PAULEY

UPI Women's Editor
NEW YORK (UPI) — Edward Stutley's two jobs are hacks and hats.

Ten hours a day, from 4 p.m. to 2 a.m., he operates a New York City taxicab. Then, to coin a phrase, he switches hats, and becomes a millinery designer-manufacturer, from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Which comes first, hacking or hating?

"In affection, hats," Stutley said.

"In practicality, hacking. My driving job is the way I'm financing my other love, millinery."

Stutley, 38, opened his own business in 1964, after a couple of jobs in interior decorating and studying with milliners in the United States and Paris.

It's been touch and go at times, he said in an interview, but now buyers are beginning to take notice of his designs, which are by no means conventional. But they're pretty, and Stutley said, "something revolutionary must be done if the millinery industry is to survive."

To show his new fall line, Stutley's firm, Maskal, Inc. (named for the national flower of Ethiopia), hired six handsome cabs to cart the models through the wholesale millinery district.

His collection—and he designed the dresses to go with the hats—is marked by bold colors, geometric shapes (he calls this his cubist mood), and earrings substitutes in which the side of the hat itself carries the dangers. These big triangular, square and circular replacements for earrings are covered in the same material as the hat itself. Some of them are chains or circles reaching all the way to the shoulder.

"With some close-fitting hats, like this cloche," he said, "women just aren't comfortable with earrings. This is my answer."

Two of the Stutley designs are real traffic stoppers—one a head-hugging helmet also covering the neck; with plastic discs and beading giving its mauvy tones a three-dimensional look.

Try Indian Curry

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
India curries are well-suited to hot weather and with the new interest in international foods are growing in popularity. There are almost as many curries (the word "curry" means sauce in India) as there are Indian cooks. All of them call for numerous spices — turmeric, fenugreek, cumin, coriander and red or cayenne pepper are basic. Allspice, cinnamon, cardamom, cloves, fennel, ginger, mace, yellow mustard and black or white pepper may be added also.

Some modern-minded Indian cooks use curry powder as a background seasoning, but traditionally individual spices for each day's meal should be pounded. American homemakers, however, haven't the time or patience to pound whole spices. They prefer to use a good lively curry powder.

An arrangement of marigolds is an appropriate centerpiece at an Indian dinner. Marigolds grow all over India and their golden-yellow color has religious significance.

Several condiments are always served with curry. They can include chutney, shredded coconut, salted nuts, chopped green pepper and many others.

The following Lamb Curry recipe uses a quick method and is relatively mild.

CURRY OF LAMB
(Quick Method)
2 tablespoons instant minced onion
2 tablespoons water
2 pounds lean lamb, cut in 1-inch square pieces
2 tablespoons shortening
1 tablespoon curry powder, (more if desired)
1 apple, peeled, cored and cut in pieces
1 can (12-ounce) tomatoes
1/2 teaspoon garlic powder
2 cups water or stock
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon ground black pepper
1 bay leaf
3 tablespoons flour
1/4 cup cold water.

Mix instant onion and the 2 tablespoons water; let stand 8 minutes for onion to soften. Brown lamb lightly in shortening with softened onion and curry powder. Add apple, tomatoes and garlic powder. Stir in the 2 cups water or stock, salt, pepper and bay leaf; mix well. Simmer, covered until lamb is tender, 1 to 1 1/2 hours. Mix flour with the 1/4 cup cold water until smooth; add and cook until thickened, stirring. Serve with boiled rice or rice pilaf. Serves 4.

SNAPPY SAUSAGE CASSEROLE
1 package (12 ounces) smoked sausage links
1 can (16 ounces) cut green beans, drained
1 can (16 ounces) macaroni and cheese
1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1 tomato, cut into 6 wedges
1 tablespoon melted butter or margarine.

Cut smoked sausage links diagonally into 1-inch pieces. Drain green beans. Combine green beans and macaroni and cheese, smoked sausage and Worcestershire sauce. Place in a 1 1/2-quart casserole. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 20 minutes. Remove from oven. Arrange tomato wedges on top and around edge of mixture. Brush tomato with melted butter or margarine. Return to oven and continue baking 10 minutes. Makes 4 servings.

PEPPERED LOAF and CREAMED VEGETABLE TREAT
12 ounces peppered loaf, cut into 1/2-inch cubes
1 package (10 ounces) frozen peas and carrots
1-3 cup milk
1 can (10 1/2-ounce) condensed mushroom soup
1 can (16 ounces) whole potatoes, drained
1/4 cup crushed corn or whole wheat cereal.
Cook peas and carrots according to package directions.

Some of Capt. Bond's findings read like science fiction:

Pots had to be tied down to keep them from sliding off the stove. A birthday cake, baked ashore and lowered in a pressurized container, collapsed when the container was opened; a few hours later, it mysteriously rose again to its original shape.

Canned goods collapsed under the atmospheric pressure, which was seven times as great as that at sea level. Although the food was safe to eat, crewmen balked at it because they had been conditioned to avoid food from dented cans.

The helium-heavy atmosphere, necessary for survival at that depth, created cooking hazards and prevented the use of certain foods, including fresh eggs. It kept electric stove and oven coils from turning red when the heat was on.

It cooled hot objects so rapidly that regular pancake batter wouldn't cook on top and coffee

COOK'S TOUR

By JEANNE LESLEM
UPI Food Editor
NEW YORK (UPI) — The navy is going to teach some of its aquanauts to prepare meals under conditions that would challenge even experienced cooks.

Their galley will be in a pressurized capsule for United States Navy undersea research. The navy hopes that trained cooks will help improve the high-calorie diet and erratic eating habits developed by the three teams of aquanauts that manned Sealab II last year.

An article in Nutrition Today, a magazine for the health professions, says that Sealab II had no experienced cook and no one in charge of cooking. Few crewmen followed the three-meal-a-day schedule as planned, teams rarely ate together and most men ate standing.

The article was written for the Florida Citrus Commission publication by Navy Medical Corps Capt. George F. Bond, an undersea authority, and writer James H. Winchester.

Operation Sealab is a navy program to extend man's ability to explore, exploit and live beneath the seas. Sealab II is scheduled to submerge next January to a depth about double or more than that of last year's Sealab II, which rested 205 feet below the surface of the Pacific Ocean off La Jolla, Calif.

Blend beautifully
Pour le sport you'll love the soft crunch of imported Italian chennille. Airy, open knits of wool, rayon and nylon, these tops blend beautifully with skirts and pants.

Drain. Combine milk and mushroom soup. Fold peppered loaf, peas and carrots and potatoes into mushroom soup mixture. Place in a 2-quart casserole. Top with crushed cereal. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degree) 20 to 25 minutes or until heated through. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Food Buying Guide

The following guide to the nation's food shopping buys for this coming weekend was prepared by the U.S. Department of Agriculture and Interior for UPI.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Supply problems and hot weather are causing minor upsets in the distribution of meats and vegetables. Chuck roasts, chuck cut steaks and other steak cuts are "specials" in many areas this weekend.

In the pork section, Boston butt cuts in roasts are the best buys for the cost-conscious. Look also for promotions on shoulder cuts and in pork steaks.

Broiler-fryers and turkeys are the main stays in the budget field. Don't forget them. Both can be flavored to a variety of tastes, and cooked in an endless number of ways.

Cabbage, carrots, celery and corn lead the plentiful vegetable list. They are followed by lettuce, onions, green peppers, potatoes, radishes, squash and tomatoes.

Fruits fared somewhat better in the struggle against hot weather. Many need the sun's rays to bring out their full color and sweetness. Others did need more water, and they did not reach their top form.

Avocados, bananas, cantaloupes, grapefruit, grapes, and lemons are in good supply.

Delectable

Pears with cherry cinnamon sauce are delectable.

Drain a 1-pound 14-ounce can of pear halves, reserving syrup. Stud pears with 1/4-cup of toasted slivered almonds. Arrange in shallow baking dish. Into measuring cup drain syrup from an 8-ounce jar of red maraschino cherries; add pear syrup to make 3/4-cup of liquid. Blend 2 teaspoons of cornstarch, 1/2-teaspoon of cinnamon and 1/2-cup of grapefruit juice. Heat and stir until sauce boils 1/4 minute. Add cherries and 1/2-teaspoon of grated lemon peel; pour over pears.

Bake in pre-heated 350-degree oven 15 minutes. Warm or cold, serves 6.

vegetables, peaches, pears, plums, and watermelons are also on the plentiful fruit list. Nationally, fish sticks, and portions, canned tuna, and scallops are the fish plentiful for this weekend.

Hawaiian Pea Blossom Soup

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Ass'n.
As one of the judges of the recent National College Queen Contest, we met Laurel Tom, an 18-year-old freshman from the University of Hawaii in Honolulu. The Oriental delicacy, quick intelligence, and poise of Miss Tom, who is studying to be an elementary school teacher, impressed us. The soup, sandwich and salad she prepared symbolized the mixture of the various cultures. Caucasian and Oriental, which are shaping the life, and philosophy of Hawaii. Her recipes are Pea Blossom Soup and Chinese Vegetable Salad will fit happily into your summer menus.

PEA BLOSSOM SOUP
1 envelope smoky green pea soup mix
1 envelope golden onion soup mix
5 cups water
2 eggs, beaten
3 tablespoons minced parsley
Empty soup contents into saucepan. Stirring with a spoon, gradually add water. Bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Reduce heat, partially cover, and simmer 10 minutes. Gently stir in beaten egg; remove from heat immediately. Serve garnished with parsley.

CHINESE VEGETABLE SALAD
1 medium head iceberg lettuce
½ cup Chinese parsley, chopped
2 green onions, finely chopped
¼ pound roast pork (Char Siu), sliced
1 cooked chicken breast, sliced
1 tablespoon sesame seed, toasted
Chinese Dressing
Wash lettuce; drain thoroughly, crisp in refrigerator. Cut lettuce in ¼-inch strips. Place in large salad bowl. Add parsley, green onion, sliced pork and

New Sandwiches

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Ass'n.
Recently 50 young college girls representing every state invented 50 new sandwiches. That was part of the home economics event of the "1966 National College Queen Contest."
Besides ability in home economics, selection was based on scholastic standing, general knowledge, extra-curricular activities (which included an automobile safety driving test) and personality. As one of the judges we were so impressed by the contestants that we pass along the glad tidings to those critical young men who will be seeking brides in the next few years.
Vicki R. Lieberstein, 18, of the University of California (Los Angeles), whose ambition is to marry and become a teacher, was crowned the 1966 National College Queen at the Coronation Ball in New York. Here is her recipe for Cheese Fondue Sandwich.

CHEESE FONDUE SANDWICH
(Serves 4)
8 slices enriched sandwich bread, crusts removed ½ stick corn oil margarine
¼ pound sharp natural Cheddar cheese
1-1/3 cups milk
1-3 cup dry sherry
¼ teaspoon salt
Dash pepper
Dash paprika
Large pitted black olives
Cherry tomatoes
Parsley
Spread both sides of bread thinly with margarine. Place 4 slices in an 8-inch square Pyrex baking dish. Slice cheese and divide on 4 pieces of bread, covering with remaining slices. Beat together eggs, milk, sherry, salt, pepper and paprika. Pour mixture over sandwiches. Let stand 30 minutes. Bake in 325 degree (slow) oven 35 to 40 minutes or until puffy and brown. Garnish with olives, tomatoes and parsley.

We tasted this Hawaiian Sunshine Sandwich and liked it too. It is from Laurel Tom, freshman at the University of Hawaii in Honolulu.

HAWAIIAN SUNSHINE SANDWICH
3 slices enriched sandwich bread
3 tablespoons margarine
3 strips bacon, cut in halves
3 slices American cheese
3 slices pineapple, drained
3 sprigs parsley
Fry bacon until partially cooked. Toast bread on one side using broiler. Spread margarine on untoasted side and top with pineapple, cheese, strips of bacon. Broil until cheese has melted and bacon is crisp. Garnish with a sprig of parsley.

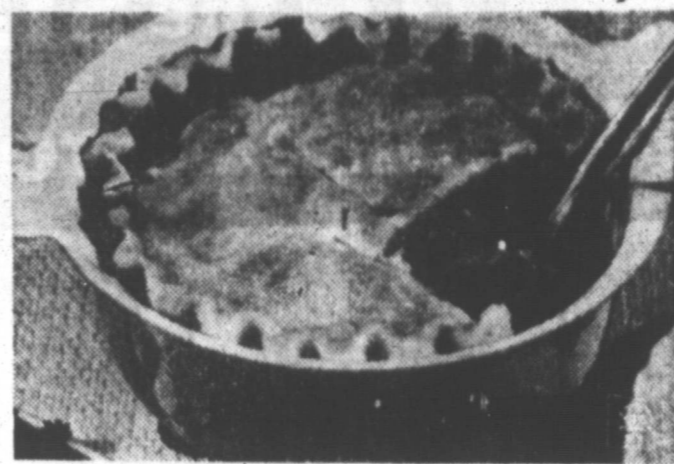

LAUREL TOM is a Hawaiian college queen.

Sunday Dessert

FRESH GRAPE-BANANA BAVARIAN

2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
4 eggs, separated
1-3 cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup (about 3 medium) mashed bananas
½ cup milk
1 teaspoon pure vanilla extract
1-3 cup sugar
1 cup heavy cream, whipped
2 cups halved Thompson seedless grapes
Whole Thompson seedless grapes
Combine lemon juice and water; add gelatin to soften. In top of a double boiler combine egg yolks, the 1-3-cup sugar, and salt. Beat until thick and lemon-colored. Add gelatin bananas, and milk. Cook over hot (not boiling) water, stirring constantly, with a wooden spoon, until gelatin dissolves and mixture is thick. Stir in vanilla. Cool until mixture mounds slightly when dropped from a spoon. Beat egg whites until they form soft peaks. Gradually beat in remaining 1-3-cup sugar. Fold into banana mixture along with whipped cream and grapes. Turn into two-quart souffle or serving dish and refrigerate until set.

An English Favorite Made American Style

STEAK AND KIDNEY PIE comes to America.

By GAYNOR MADDOX

You don't have to travel to England to enjoy steak and kidney pie. We have enjoyed it in London several times. Now we have adjusted the basic English recipe slightly using American corn meal for a flaky topping and to add an extra flick of flavor.
You'll find it a good dish, no matter on which side of the Atlantic you eat it.

FIFTY-TWO YEARS AGO — There was no rodeo parade in Pampa back in 1914. But, if there had been, the riders and floats would have passed down a Cuyler St. that looked like this. J. E. Langley, Santa Fe freight and passenger agent, came up with this old photo today. The photographer was standing where the Santa Fe underpass is today and the scene looks north on unpaved Cuyler. The third telephone pole on the right stands at the present day location of the First National Bank. Apparently the automobile age hadn't arrived in Pampa yet.

Simple arithmetic is catching up with foreign aid, with irresponsible federal spending and with insane stimulation of private borrowing. Catching up? Simple arithmetic is overtaking such items in the field of good intentions' gone wrong.

Best evidence of what is going on was last week's sudden Republican assault on foreign aid, said assault being led by Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill. Dirksen is a cagey man, attuned to the political winds. It is reasonable to believe that Dirksen's so tie against Johnson spending and foreign aid policies means that public opinion in Illinois is taking similar positions.

A broader and equally reasonable interpretation is that many millions of Americans are fed up to here with foreign aid, a swooning dollar, rising prices, loss of gold reserves against economic or international calamity.

—Dirksen is developing for Republican candidates some campaign issues in this election year. Consider: —The Labor Department reported last week that the consumer price index (the measure of the cost of living) rose faster during the first half of this year than in any other six months since 1958.

—U.S. gold reserves were down to $13.3 billion netas h down to $13.3 billion as the current fiscal year began last July 1. That was the value of gold available to meet short-term gold claims of foreigners against the United States. These foreign claims amount to about $29 billion to be paid in gold. The United States cannot honor its gold indebtedness.

—The United States held about $20.5 billion in gold when the war ended and before temporary emergency foreign aid began under the Marshall Plan. Temporary? Emergently??

—Nations which have acquired free or cheap dollars in the form of foreign aid also have found surplus funds with which to siphon U.S. gold into their own coffers. France has been the largest operator in this field.

—From July 1, 1965, to June 30, 1965, France received foreign aid of more than $9.4 billion. In that same period, France used its accumulated U.S. dollars to siphon out of Fo t Knox $2.6 billion in gold.

—The British government imposed crisis remedies to avoid further devaluation of the leaky pound or, worse. The United States suffers from a malady similar to that which almost brought down the British this summer.

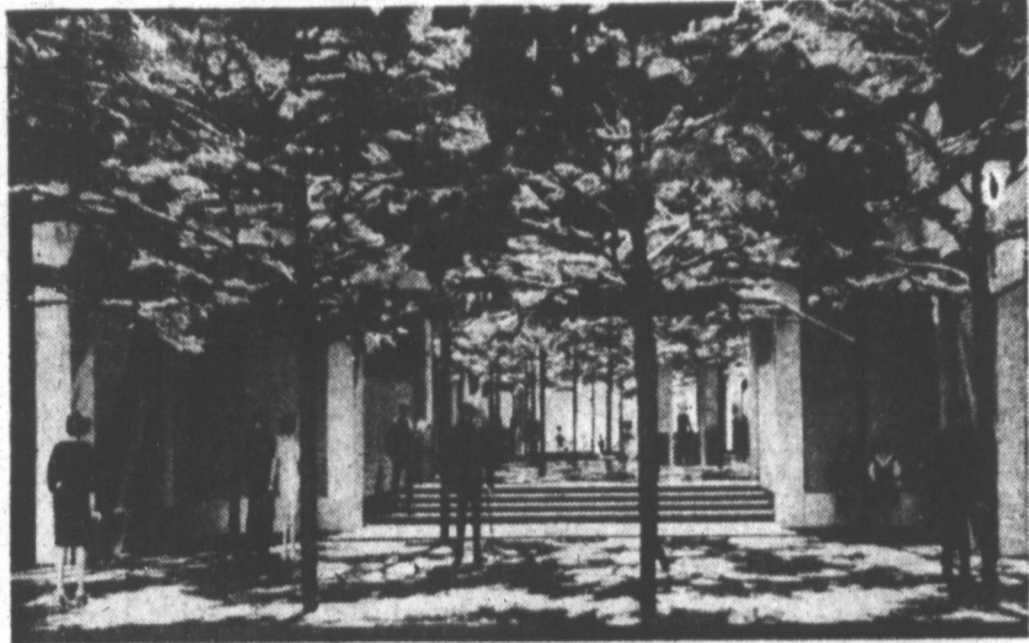

—The American high cost of living is beginning to bug housewives.

—The high cost of living also is beginning to bug President Johnson but not enough so far to persuade him to do anything about it.

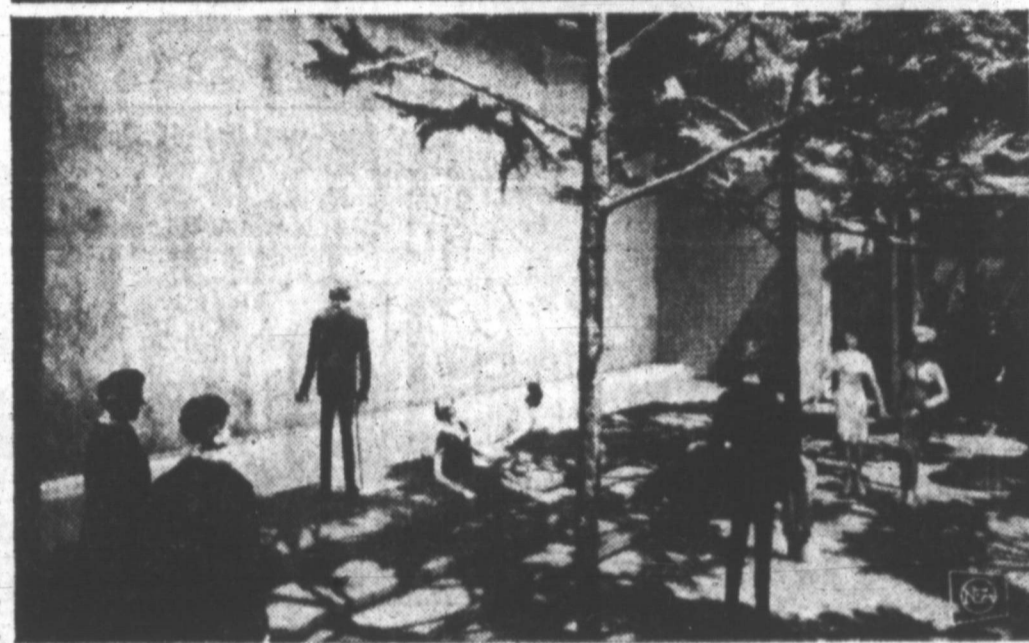

—Private debt increasingly demands attention as citizens increasingly mortgage their future earnings for today's goods. Item: A $2,600 automobile can be purchased on the Florida Gold Coast for $7 down. That's correct: Seven dollars. A more expensive line of cars requires a down payment of $11, no doubt to keep out the riff raff.

This is the economic environment in which Americans prance foolishly down the primrose path toward national disaster. These dancing fools

Oasis In the City

New York is soon to have something new in the way of parks — set in the heart of Manhattan but shut off from the noise and bustle of the city. Pioneering a new concept in utilizing small areas as quiet, green oases in crowded cities, the park will occupy only 42,000 square feet on the site of a once famed night spot, the Stork Club, now closed and to be demolished. Locust trees will provide a foliage canopy. Side walls of gently rounded concrete arches set with brick and occasional mirrored paneling will shut out the city while contributing a sense of spaciousness. Scale model view at top shows the park from the 53d Street entrance. A waterfall, bottom, fronting the rear will replace traffic noises with a pleasant, relaxing sound background. The park, being built and donated to the city by William S. Paley, Columbia Broadcasting System's board chairman, will be named Samuel Paley Plaza in honor of his father.

It's The Law In Texas

VISITATION RIGHTS
When Alice divorced Jim, she was given custody of their three-year-old son. However, Jim had visitation rights every Sunday afternoon. He would call for the boy at 3 p.m., take him out for a few hours, and then return him at dinner time.

But one thing rankled Alice. "It's those between-meal snacks," she complained in a court hearing. "Jim never fails to feed the boy something while they are out. That is bad for his health. Therefore, I would like to have Jim's visitation rights ended."

But the court decided her complaint was not serious enough to justify such drastic action, that the "punishment" was too great for the "crime."

Generally speaking, the law prefers—primarily for the sake of the child—to keep parental ties intact. While visitation rights are often modified, they will not be cut off altogether without a compelling reason.

What is a compelling reason? Here are three cases in which the court did decide to bring parental visits to an end:

1) an embittered father made a calculated attempt, during these visits, to turn the child's love for his mother into hatred;

2) a quarrelsome mother used her visits to create violent scenes that left her small daughter in torment;

3) a hard-drinking father not only used vile language to his three young children but also plied them with whiskey.

But minor grievances—such as a mother's complaint that the father's visits "annoyed" her—won't suffice. Furthermore a court that does cut off visitation rights may well restore them later if the offending parent mends his ways.

For example: A court revoked its ban against a mother who, although once an alcoholic, had quit drinking, found a good job, and gained a respected place in the community.

In fact, even if a parent has been barred because of flagrant adultery, visitation rights may be restored when there is enough evidence of reform and repentance.

Thus, an adulterous mother who remarried and led a blameless life for several years was able to regain the right to visit her children. The court said:

"An unusual opportunity for photographers is scheduled next Tuesday in the Pioneer Amphitheatre in Palo Duro Canyon State Park.

To comply with the many requests for pictures of the cast and scenes of the popular musical drama, "Texas," the directors, Mr. and Mrs. William A. Moore are inviting all photographers to the Amphitheatre on Tuesday. Although the drama will not be presented, every scene of "Texas" will be posed for the photographers.

Especially interesting scenes giving opportunity for unusual shots will be the Fire Dance; Elsie and Calvin in the surry; Eva, the cow, tethered to the covered wagon; the engine "The Prairie Cannonball"; the Indian dance; the horsemen bearing the six flags of Texas; and many other scenes. Shots of the amphitheatre and of the 600 foot canyon wall backdrop have proved to be a challenge to lensmen.

The Texas Heritage Foundation will use for publicity releases the pictures they find exceptional of the cast, scenes and amphitheatre.

Starting time is 5 p.m. Tuesday. Food will be available at the amphitheatre and there will be free admittance at the park gate for everyone with a camera.

Mass Strike Of Nurses Nearer

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Bay area hospitals today prepared for a sharp cutback in services as the deadline for the mass resignation of nurses drew near.

"Most hospitals are restricting admissions to emergency cases," hospital negotiator Laurence Corbett said late Wednesday.

He said some hospitals also were transferring convalescent patients in preparation for a massive reduction in nursing services. He added that hospitals were advising doctors to find somewhere else for convalescent patients.

More than 2,000 nurses have submitted resignations at 33 hospitals. The notices will take effect Wednesday unless an agreement is reached in the pay dispute.

Negotiators for the California Nurses Association (CNA) and the hospitals will return to the bargaining table Friday in an effort to head off the walkout which would be the first of its kind in the nation's history.

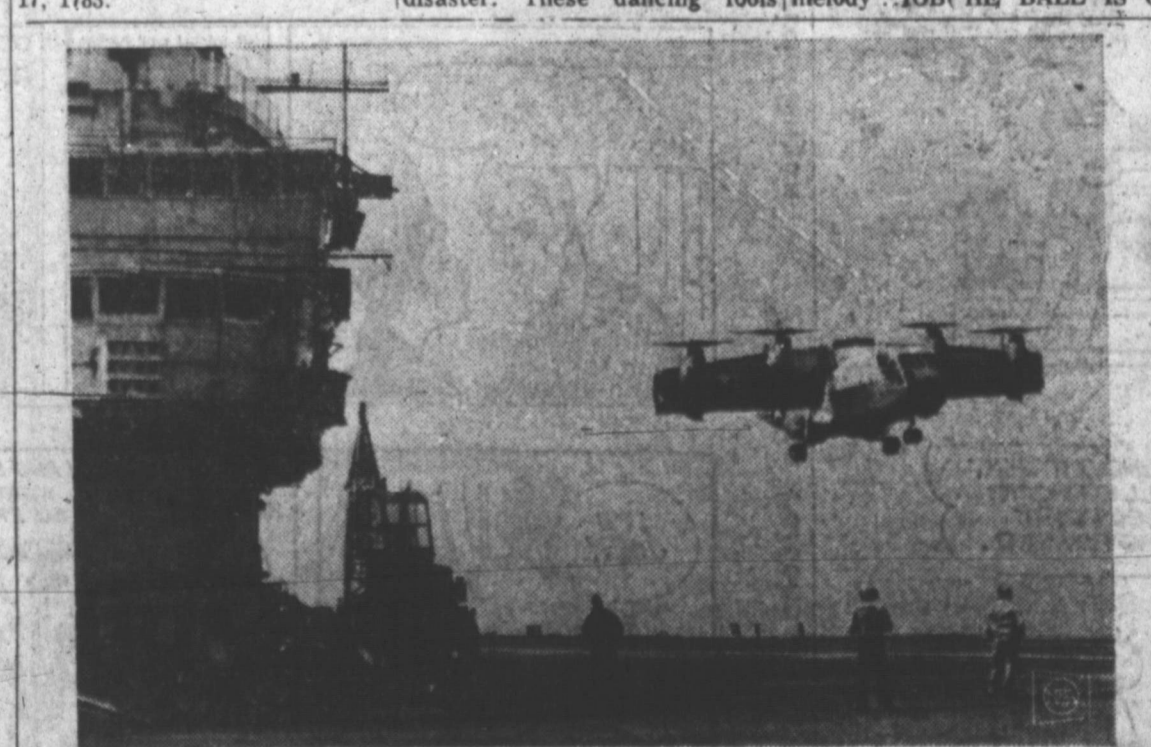

"We are so far apart on the matter of an interim increase that the hospitals must, on an individual basis, prepare for a walkout on Aug. 3," Corbett said.

He added that hospital administrators have formed a coordinating committee to seek agreement from the CNA that a pool of nurses would be made available for emergency duty. The nurses indicated last week they would provide personnel for such duty.

NO OBJECTION
TOKYO (UPI) — Prime Minister Eisaku Sato told Parliament Tuesday he has no objection to American use of military bases in Okinawa in connection with the Viet Nam war. He said the islands play an important role in maintaining security in the Far East and he would not demand immediate return of the U.S.-administered islands to Japan.

MARKET TALKS
TUNIS, Tunisia (UPI) — Plans were under way today to set up a sort of common market between Tunisia, Algeria, Morocco and Libya. A week-long conference of representatives from the four nations ended Tuesday with agreement to set up a commission of experts to draw up a list of products which could pass freely across their borders.

The American Revolution lasted from April 19, 1775, to Sept. 17, 1783.

'You're a Big Boy Now' Running Up the Block

By JACK GAVER
UPI Drama Editor

NEW YORK — Geraldine Page runs as though in quicksand. Julie Harris has a gazelle-like stride. Rip Torn sprints in accepted track style, chin down and elbows close to his ribs. Elizabeth Hartman is a speedster whose shoulder-length auburn tresses trail horizontally behind her.

These facts were disclosed during location filming on the motion picture, "You're a Big Boy Now," at 42nd Street and Fifth Avenue on a Sunday morning as strollers looked on in some amazement.

The four stars, along with Peter Kastner, Karen Black and an English sheepdog named Emily, did most of their running through the pillars of the main branch of New York's Public Library. Young Kastner was the object of the chase that led down the long cascade of marble steps, around the corner of the pedestal holding the library's lion statue, on the right, through a parading Police Athletic League band toward 40th Street.

As director-writer Francis Coppola called for re-takes, the troupe of stars limped the block back to the library, panted their way up the steps and started out again.

"I'm so far behind," commented Miss Page, "that I'm in the sequel."

"Not again," pleaded Torn. "What can they expect of a 35-year-old actor with a broken arm?" Torn, doubling off-Broadway in "The Kitchen," was working despite a shoulder-to-wrist cast. He was injured during a theater performance.

"Thank heaven for musicals," panted Miss Harris. She had

Wilson, Johnson to Meet Friday

LONDON (UPI) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson, firmly in control of his tough economic program at home, was flying to Washington today to reaffirm British support of U.S. policy in Viet Nam.

Wilson's special jetliner was leaving London this afternoon for the U.S. capital. He meets with President Johnson Friday at the White House.

The trip is the fourth to the United States for Wilson since he took over as prime minister 21 months ago. It originally was planned as yet another drive to secure peace in Viet Nam but took on new importance with Britain's latest economic crisis.

Wilson's austerly program to trim $1.4 billion from the British economy won vital endorsement from Parliament

Wednesday night. Earlier in the day, the influential Trades Union Congress (TUC) representing 8.7 million workers said it would back a six-month wage freeze and other measures aimed at saving the pound from threatened devaluation.

The House of Commons voted 325-246 against a Conservative party motion censuring Wilson's Labor government for its handling of the economic crisis. The moves virtually assure success for Wilson's wage and price freeze package.

Rookie Breaks In Right With Birds

By United Press International
After only one game with the Baltimore Orioles, Larry Haney is already in the swing of things.

Haney, a 23-year-old catcher brought up from the minors Wednesday to fill-in for the injured Andy Etchebarren, didn't remain a stranger to the Orioles very long.

In his second major league plate appearance, Haney slammed a two-run homer to snap a 1-1 tie and carry Baltimore to a 7-1 victory over Cleveland.

Haney didn't take long to discover how the "in" crowd in Baltimore performs. The powerful Orioles, swinging at a rate of more than a homerun a game, have walloped 121 this season. The most prolific Oriole of them — Frank Robinson—gave Haney a lesson in pyrotechnics by poling his 30th home of the campaign, tying him with Atlanta's Hank Aaron for the major league leadership. Robinson's blast came with two runners aboard and helped stretch Baltimore's American League lead to 12 games over runner-up Detroit.

Other AL Results
Elsewhere, Chicago blanked the Tigers 5-0, New York stopped Minnesota 6-3, Kansas City walloped Boston 14-2 and Washington bested California 7-5.

Haney, batting only .210 for Rochester of the International League, was with Baltimore for a month during the 1964 season but didn't play a game and passed up the rest of the campaign to serve six months in the Army.

"I couldn't believe it when I was told to report," Haney said after the game. "Camilo Carreon has major league experience and I figured he would be recalled before I would. In fact, Carreon told me about my promotion Tuesday and that's why I was almost certain it was a joke."

For the first time in his career, McNally collected three straight hits to extend his hitting streak to six games, during which he's gone nine for 18.

Aparicio Homers
Luis Aparicio clouted a first-inning leadoff homer for the Orioles while Del Crandall connected for the Indians.

Tommy Agee collected four RBI on a double and sacrifice fly for Chicago to back up the seven-hit shutout pitching of John Buzhardt. Tom McCraw, going 3-for-3, doubled home a run and scored twice for the White Sox. Buzhardt, limiting Detroit to seven singles, won his fifth game and fourth by a shutout.

Bobby Richardson and Joe Pepitone drove across two runs apiece with homers as the Yankees provided Fred Talbot, who hurled a sixhitter, with his ninth victory against seven setbacks. New York scored four runs in the first to erase a 2-0 Minnesota lead on Richardson's fifth homer of the year and Horace Clarke's two-run triple. Pepitone walloped No. 24 after a walk to Mickey Mantle in the fourth.

Mike Hershberger and Jim Gosger hit homers to pace a 15-hit Kansas City attack on five Boston pitchers. Dick Green drove in three runs for A's while Hershberger and Roger Repoz collected three hits each. Kansas City erupted for five runs in the first and seven in the fourth.

Fred Valentine swatted a grand slam homer and a double to drive home five runs and carry rookie Barry Moore to his second straight triumph without a loss. The Senators roughed up five California hurlers for 13 hits, including four by Ed Brinkman and three by Ken McMullen. Joe Adcock and Bob Rodgers homered for the Angels.

HE STAYED FOR A WHILE — But Larry Mahan, the world's champion bull rider in 1965, was thrown from his bull last night in Pampa's 22nd annual Top O' Texas Rodeo.

Wonder Drug Helps Koufax

By United Press International
Want to strait a stampe?
SEhow National League pitchers where they can get some cortisone.

The wonder drug was injected into Sandy Koufax' arthritic left elbow last Sunday when the Los Angeles south-paw complained his arm was bothering him more than ever after throwing 168 pitches against the Mets the day before.

Koufax' ability to pitch against the Phillies Wednesday night was in doubt almost until game time. Manager Walter Alton said all along that he would leave the final decision to Koufax.

Fortunately for the Dodgers, Sandy answered the call and turned in one of the most magnificent performances of his already sensational career, allowing only four hits in 11 innings, walking just three and striking out 16 batters, 15 of them coming in the regulation nine innings.

Sandy's show almost, but not quite, overshadowed the fact that the Dodgers won their sixth in a row, 2-1, on Lou Johnson's 12th inning pinch-hit single and moved to within a half game of the league lead.

Johnson's hit scored Nate Oliver, who had opened the inning with a walk and moved to second on Clay Dalrymple's passed ball. Actually, Johnson had orders to bunt Oliver over to third but after picking up two strikes on unsuccessful attempts he stroked the game winning hit down the left field line to give relief pitcher Phil Regan his eighth win in nine decisions.

In other N.L. play, Pittsburgh moved back into first place by two percentage points with a 5-3 win over second place San Francisco, New York nipped Houston 3-2, St. Louis slammed Atlanta 9-7, and Cincinnati clobbered Chicago 11-2.

7-1, New York trimmed Minnesota 6-3, Chicago shutout Detroit 5-0, Kansas City smothered Boston 14-2, and Washington whipped California 7-5 in American League games.

Dick Evey came strong on other side: Ed O'Bradovich might recapture form. RATING—B Plus RUNNING—Devastating, if Gale Sayers continues his pace. Out of this world if Andy Livingston learns the little nuances of football. Has the raw ability of a Jim Brown. Vets Jon Arnett, Ron Bull provide the steadiness and the relief to keep Sayers fresh. Don't need more.

SOUTH ORANGE, N.J. (UPI)—If Mrs. Billie Jean King is the new queen of tennis, San Francisco teen-ager Rosemary Casals must rank as the new princess.

Mrs. King of Alhambra, Calif., playing in her first American tournament since winning the coveted Wimbledon title, was ousted in the third round of the Eastern Grass Court championships Wednesday by Miss Casals in a stunning upset, 6-3, 6-8, 6-3.

Miss Casals, 17, who just graduated from high school last quarter-finals against seventh-seeded Tory Ann Fretz of Los Angeles by dominating the match with a variety of down-the-line placements and hard to return lobs.

In the men's division, top-seeded Cliff Richey of Dallas advanced to the quarter-finals with a 6-4, 8-6 triumph over Jim McManus of Berkeley, Calif. In the quarters, Richey will play Robert Lutz of Los Angeles, who upset sixth-seeded Marty Riessen of Evanston, Ill., 12-10, 4-6, 6-4.

In the other three quarter-final matches, second-seeded Tony Roche of Australia meets fourth-seeded Owen Davidson of Australia battles Egypt's Ismael El Shafei and fifth-seeded Clark Graebner of Beechwood, Ohio meets Charley Pasarell of Puerto Rico.

SUMMARY—Because they were most sensational team in pro ball last two-thirds of season, Bears are feared. But they will miss George Allen to guide Idefense. And can they expect as men in 11 innings gave up a tying run to the Dodgers in the sixth when Jim Barbieri doubled. Maury Wills was hit by a pitch and Dick Stuart walked. Jeff Torborg's sacrifice fly gave Los Angeles the run they needed to match Richie Allen's 22nd home run in the second inning.

Darold Knowles gave up the unearned run in the 12th and suffered his fourth loss against six victories.

The 16 strikeouts enabled Koufax to pass the 200 mark for the sixth consecutive year and moved him ahead of Lefty Grove into 10th place on the all-time whiff list with 2,278.

Pittsburgh took advantage of two errors by Giant third baseman Jim Davenport to score a pair of ninth inning runs. Donn Clendenon opened the inning with a safe bunt and went to second on Davenport's wild throw. Jim Pagliaroni also was safe when Davenport fumbled his bunt and Gene Mihalch was sent in as a pinchrunner.

Bill Mazerowski's single broke the 3-3 tie and pinchhitter Manny Mota's sacrifice fly knocked in Michael to snap the Giants' three game win streak and gave reliever Pete Mikkelsen his sixth win against five losses.

Clendenon belted his 17th of the year for the Pirates in the second inning and Gene Alley gave Pittsburgh a 3-2 lead with his sixth homer with a man aboard in the sixth.

Surprise, Court Rules for Braves

MADISON, Wis. (UPI)—The Wisconsin Supreme Court, in a landmark decision that freed baseball from all antitrust laws, ruled Wednesday that while the sport may have violated state law by moving the Braves to Atlanta, the state law did not apply.

The court, in a split 4-3 decision, overturned a Milwaukee Circuit Court ruling that had ordered the Braves back from the South unless the National League expanded to include the city that team called home for 13 years.

"A violation of Wisconsin law has occurred," wrote Justice Thomas Fairchild in the majority opinion, "if our law can be applied." He then said Wisconsin law did not apply because "of the requirements of the federal Constitution."

First State Suit
It was the first time baseball had been tried under state antitrust laws. A 1922 decision in the U.S. Supreme Court gave the sport exemption from federal antitrust laws. It was that decision that Fairchild and the three other majority justices relied upon in making their ruling.

Atty. Gen. Bronson Lafollette, who brought the suit on behalf of the state, said he was not "tremendously surprised" by the decision and admitted he known there was a jurisdictional question.

"If they (the Supreme Court) don't hear it, it's the end of the ball game," the dejected Stafford said. "If they do, it may only be the beginning."

Baseball Happy
Attorneys for baseball expressed "delight" at the decision and had little other comment.

In Atlanta, Mayor Ivan Allen called it "great news" and Braves President John McHale said the decision was a "vindication" of the team's move there after the 1965 season.

McHale did bristle a bit, however, when he heard that the court criticized baseball and the Braves for the move. "The record strongly suggests the defendants gave little heed to the interests of the Milwaukee community and to the injury which the move would cause," Fairchild said in his opinion.

The opinion then went on to suggest to Congress that any law passed on the subject of baseball should include "some provision which would protect communities, either those who have or hope to have home teams, from arbitrary and unfair dealings."

SWC Football Guide Indicates Close Race

By CARLTON WILSON
DALLAS (UPI)—The Southwest Conference 1966 football guide, dedicated this year to retiring Rice coach Jess Neely, indicates one of the closest races in years.

The 178-page booklet issued today contains records, outlooks for all teams, historical and schedules.

Neely, who completes four decades of college football coaching this fall, is pictured on the back cover. He is dean of America's active football coaches, owns all SWC records for years of service with 26-and-for games played and won.

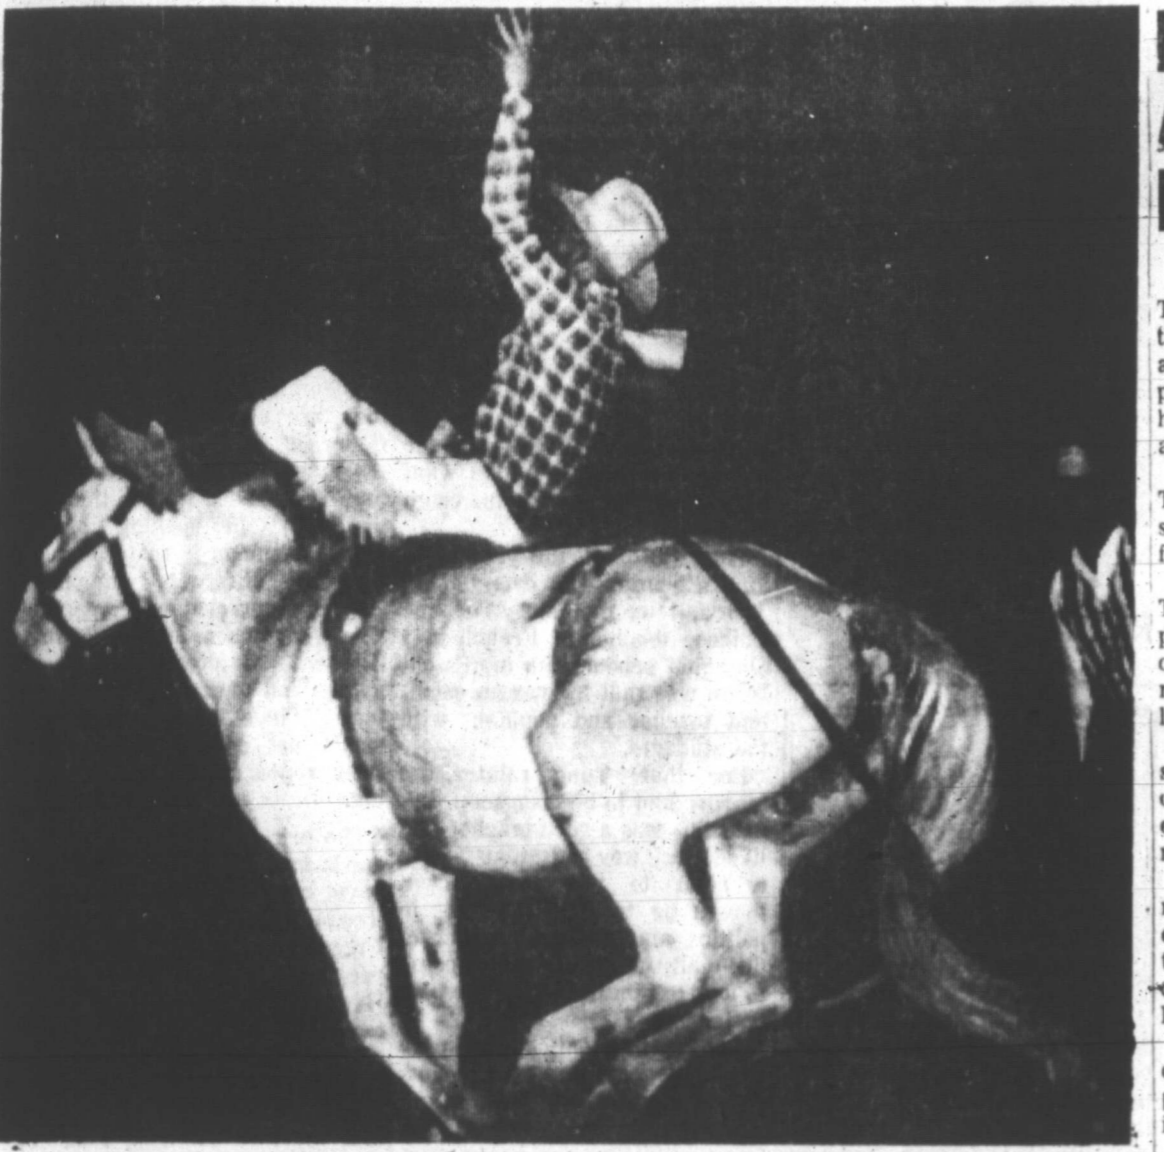

Rice teams under Neely have won .552 of their games with a record of 143-115-10. The only better percentages belong to three younger coaches, Darrell Royal of Texas with .789 (75-19-3), Frank Broyles of Arkansas with .744 (64-22) and Abe Martin of TCU with .539 (72-56-7).

Scheduling information in the book edited by information director Wilbur Evans also lists these games involving SEC teams to be televised: Syracuse at Baylor Sept. 10, Southern California at Texas Sept. 17, Arkansas at Texas Oct. 15, and Texas A&M at Baylor Oct. 22.

No favorites for this year are picked by the conference guide, but a rundown on each team indicates a close race. The team-by-team outlook: Baylor—Back from a 5-5 season is another aerial minded

Bear team quarterbacked by Terry Southall. Baylor lost 21 lettermen, but returns such senior two-letter winners as ends Jack Eisenhart, Tommy Smith and Willie Walker; guard Tommy Schaffner, interior linemen Mike Thomas, Jerry Janey and Dwight Hood, center Clavin Kirkham and other backs Roger Marshall and Richard Defee.

Outstanding newcomers are tackle Gary Holliman, guard Earl Maxfield and backs Jackie Allen, Pinky Palmer, Steve Lane and John Westbrook. Rice—A pair of senior half-backs in Churk Latourette and Glen Hine head a young squad with lots of outstanding newcomers on a team that lost 15 lettermen from a 2-8 season. The sophs coming up to watch are ends Walter Osborne and Steve Prichard, tackles Leland Winston and Gene Aulridge, guard Frankie Mandola, centers Bobby Plaster and Jud Byars and backs Robby Shelton, Terry Shelton, Pascual Piedfort and Ken Ulm.

Fans Hope Movie About Race Driver Accurate

By DAVE BURGIN
CHARLOTTE, N.C. (Nea) — Those who know Curtis Turner, the stock car driver, anxiously await the movie Hollywood plans to make about his life, hoping that it paints an accurate picture of the man. "If it's true to life, it'll put Tennessee Williams to shame," said a honey-blond bookkeeper from Charlotte. "Naw," a young member of Turner's pit crew drawled, "it probably will be just another one of those phoned-up racing movies and Curtis will come out looking like a slick Yankee." Turner fans, mostly rural southerners, feel that the role of Curtis Turner should be played by a star who can also act, not a glamor boy. "Marlon Brando, Paul Newman or maybe Burt Lancaster," said the blonde. "It'd have to be somebody who could do a country accent, raise hell and know how to handle women." As for Turner himself, he doesn't much care who gets the part or how accurate the movie is. "All I care about," he said, "is the check for the movie rights. When it comes, I'll throw the biggest party Charlotte's ever seen." This is, the Curtis Turner fans know. At 42, and still active, he is a legend around the tracks. He is a skillful, nifty driver, a veteran of 20 years of racing. Turner is a country Aly Khan. His speech makes Gomer Pyle sound like a Harvard professor. He'll match anybody in candor. He could probably beat Bear Bryant in salesmanship. It all makes Turner stand out among a gang of characters on the Grand National circuit whose exploits would humble some of baseball's most celebrated flakes. "Curtis is the king," said Crash Grant, a former driver and Turner's friend. "They ain't nobody like him." Not Junior Johnson, who once supplemented a racing income with revenue from a moonshine still. Not the late Joe Weatherly, who was fond of driving rental cars into motel swimming pools.

Arkansas Gains Ground as Sonics Lose, 5-4

By United Press International
The steady Arkansas Travelers increased their Texas League lead to 4½ games Wednesday night with a 3-0 victory over Austin. Arkansas moved further out in front of the rest of the league when second place Amarillo dropped a 5-4 encounter with Dallas-Fort Worth. Albuquerque smashed El Paso 7-2 in the other league game. Fred Wall turned in a three-hit masterpiece for the Travelers to handcuff Austin. Arkansas gave Wall all the runs he needed in the second inning when they pushed two tallies across. The Dallas-Fort Worth Spurs pecked away for a 3-0 lead and then had to hold off a frantic Amarillo rally to pull the game out. The Spur-Sonic contest was a wild affair, with a total of 27 hits being picked up. Both clubs had numerous threats to score more runs, and both continually left men on base. Albuquerque jumped on starting El Paso hurler Tom Burgmeier for four runs in the second and coasted in from there. Four El Paso errors during the evening hampered the

WHY IS THE PRINTED WORD SO IMPORTANT IN ADVERTISING?

- IT'S CLEAR
- IT'S PERMANENT
- IT'S BELIEVABLE

The newspaper is the greatest advertising medium for many reasons. One of them is that it carries the power of the printed word. People believe in a message that is permanent—One that is written. They understand it better. Also, the newspaper because of its permanence lets the reader choose his own time for absorbing the message. And once put down it can always be picked up again. The message that lives is the one that is written in the newspaper.

Medicare Giveaway Blunder

Like any newborn baby, Medicare is causing some financial worries for its parents. Chief among these is the fear that a little-known section of the program will cost far more than even the wildest original prediction. This section is Title 19, sometimes called Medicaid, and already Sen. John Williams, R-Del., is charging that the administration made a multimillion-dollar blunder in estimating its cost.

Many of the problems in Title 19 may never surface since House and Senate committees are currently debating whether Congress really intended to be so magnanimous with Medicaid. What Title 19 provides essentially is matching federal money to states aiding "medical indigents" under 21 and over 65, as well as any adult in between who is blind, disabled or part of a family with dependent children.

It bears little resemblance to Medicare, since it is not tied to Social Security and, of course, is not limited to the elderly.

Title 19 leaves it up to the states to decide who is medically indigent. And that's the financial rub. New York's state legislature had originally approved a plan which would allow a family of four to earn $6,000 a year and still be medically indigent.

Some observers had estimated that more than a third of the state's 17 million people would have qualified for aid under this yardstick. The plan was recently amended, and now requires families with gross incomes of more than $2,500 to pay part of their bills.

So far, eight states have had Medicaid plans approved by the Department. Six others, including New York's are under HEW review.

$5,304 Per Family

The federal government's debt was $321 billion as of the end of March, or $5,304 per U.S. family. Tax Foundation, Inc., reports. Up to the March date, the gross public debt had increased $3.7 billion during fiscal 1966. Five years ago, in fiscal 1961, Federal debt amounted to $289 billion, or $5,112 per U.S. family.

A Long Look to Future

Prediction: The short, short skirt is not for long. Why? Because fashions never stand still. They must change, if for no other reason than that it's good for our morale and for the nation's economy.

Now, husbands, you may as well face it that while the ladies can shorten skirts ad infinitum, they can lengthen them only so much. And if you know fashion changes, even vicariously, you know only so much won't be enough.

And there's really no direction for today's skirt to go but down—unless, of course, it's to disappear entirely. And even in the era of the undressed look, this has to be regarded as improbable.

So get set, men, to help the economy. And enjoy yourselves while you can, girlfriends. (But you know, fellows, it'll be kind of fun to have to guess a little again, at that.)

Whatever comes of these deliberations, some form of medical assistance for those who need it but can't pay for it—regardless of age—seems to be here to stay. The health care concept and the medical profession will perhaps never be the same.

Nor, for that matter, may the U.S. Treasury.

INSIDE OUTSIDE T-V execs, worried about constantly diminishing number of viewers, have ordered a market survey by Norman Clature Associates. Its still too early to spot the trouble, but some observers think the fault lies with too many programs being over the audiences head.

NOBODY ASKED ME BUT: If George Washington were alive today, he'd be 234 years old. . . . if you want to get your clothes really clean, try washing them in soap and water. . . . If Frank Sinatra were 10 years younger, Mia Farrow would be 11.

But don't get me wrong. I loathe Hollywood.

The Nation's Press JOB TRAINING (Rockford, Ill., Register-Republic)

How private industry could help to eliminate the need for the federal Job Corps was simply and logically explained in a cent issue of Galley roof, a publication of the Printing Industry of Illinois.

The story cited the case of a typographer who was asked to prepare and run free an advertisement telling young people 16 to 21 years of age how to learn a trade in the Job Corps with food, lodging and $50 in spending money a month.

It pointed out that the same typographer, as a business man, would gladly take young people to teach them a trade if he could get by paying them $50 a month with room and board.

If the politicians in Washington really wanted to launch a meaning war on poverty, they could start by giving business and industry the same privileges that are enjoyed by government.

If an in-shop, on-the-job training program could be instituted by business and industries at reasonable salary rates, a lot of jobless youths walking the streets could be gainfully learning a trade—at absolutely no expense to the tax payers.

That the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare made a $3,101 grant to the Israel Institute of Applied Research to be used for making a test of husband and wife relationship? The aim is "to develop a diagnostic, pictorial test of intrapersonal and interpersonal aspect of the role of relationship between husband and wife."

Another place this great scientific venture could get fruitful results would be in Newark, N.J. There is an intrapersonal and interpersonal family there which has 23 children—15 of them produced out of wedlock. Welfare payments have been diagnosed at $969 a month.

The Doctor Says

Farm Animals Spread Most Undulant Fever

Q—Through a blood test and a skin test four years ago my doctor made a diagnosis of undulant fever. Is there any danger of spreading this disease to my family or friends?

A—Human carriers of undulant fever or brucellosis do exist. They shed the germs in their urine, but transmission of the disease from one person to another is extremely rare. The natural reservoir of infection is in cattle, sheep, goats and hogs.

Complete recovery is the rule and treatment for more than a year is usually necessary. Good victims who have been treated with a combination of two antibiotics, streptomycin and tetracycline.

Q—Is it true that hamsters can spread undulant fever? Can the germs be transmitted from them to human beings?

A—Undulant fever is a disease of farm animals. The human victims are usually farmers, veterinarians, meat packers or drinkers of unpasteurized milk. I have never heard of a case being transmitted by a hamster. If it occurs it must be extremely rare.

Q—A recent article stated that 3 per cent of the population has undulant fever. What are the symptoms of this disease?

A—The proportion of the population with undulant fever has dropped with the almost universal use of pasteurized milk and milk products in this country. The disease involves the entire body and starts, often insidiously, with headache, aching in the joints, chills, fever and easy fatigability. In some victims there is a dry cough and in some there is vomiting. Since these symptoms are common to many other generalized infections, the diagnosis must be based on laboratory tests.

Q—If typhus they be cured inherited? Can they be cured?

A—Since the proportion of persons who have schizophrenia (dementia praecox or split personality) and manic-depressive spells with relatives who also have these diseases is higher than the proportion of such persons in the total population, a hereditary factor is presumed in these diseases.

In the treatment of schizophrenia shock therapy, psychotherapy, tranquilizers and surgery (frontal lobotomy, in which white nerve fibers in the frontal lobe are cut may all be beneficial but they rarely bring about a complete cure. Persons in an acute manic (highly excited) state often have to be restrained. When this phase subsides, a severely depressed (inactive) state may follow during which efforts must be made to prevent suicide. In these persons, also, treatment may be of some benefit but a cure cannot be guaranteed.

Pull Up A Chair

By FRANK JAY MARKEY

People with short memories will develop long ones if some research scientists have anything to say about it. They're trying to develop pills that will improve the human memory and intelligence. If they ever succeed we wonder what it will do to court trials where the stock answer of star witnesses has always been, "I don't remember."

One researcher believes a memory-enhancing pill would be the biggest-selling drug in history. So do we. . . . Honey made by honeybees has 85 per cent sugar, according to a beekeeper friend, but wild bumblebees produce two types of honey, one with 54 per cent and the other 70 per cent sugar. That's good to know.

Today's smile: The Sunday School teacher asked her class: "What do we learn from the story of Jonah and the whale?" One little lad responded: "People make whales sick."

Remember when "hubba-hubba" was a "wolf call" back in World War II days? Well, it had its origin in the Pacific, where Marines considered the native languages of the islanders as so much "hubbub." Someone simply picked two nonsense syllables and used them whenever he saw a native girl. The idea caught on and spread throughout the war area and finally came back to the U.S., where it became a part of our language.

Thoughts while shaving: Elizabeth Queen Elizabeth is one of the highest paid persons in the world. Parliament grants her about $1,330,000 a year for living expenses and traveling money. She and Philip seem to get along on it. . . . Until this year men's bathing caps were very rare. However, the Beatle influence on teen-agers, plus the increasing number of long-haired beatniks, has brought them back. Many of the public and private pools won't permit the boys with the long tresses to take a dip without one. . . . The 300 guests at a recent Long Island posh party came very close to swearing off champagne en masse when they saw a pink baby elephant, complete with howdah and turbaned elephant boy, lumber across the lawns of the estate just when the party was really swinging. It wasn't a mirage, but just something the hostess dreamed up as a cute little feature for her soiree. . . . Studies indicate a breakfast of 750 calories will enable one to do more efficient work in the late morning before lunch than a much heavier breakfast. The nutritionists found that fruit or fruit juice, bread and butter (toast), bacon and eggs, or cereal will keep anyone going for the next few hours at top efficiency. They advise the size of the portions can decide the calories. . . . We read recently that an analysis of pleasure cruises showed that, of every 50 persons taking a cruise, 350 are women and 150 of these are either unmarried or widowed. Justice Nil If Ho Tries U.S. Flyers

By RAY CROMLEY

Washington Correspondent WASHINGTON (NEA) — It may take quite some doing to prevent Ho Chi Minh from trying captured American flyers as "war criminals."

A former ranking officer in Ho Chi Minh's setup outlined the technique. "When we took over a new place," he said, "we'd pick one of the best old officials and bring him to trial and convict him."

"This would bring people into line quicker than anything else. The fact that he wasn't guilty of anything made our point, it convinced people that we were in control — that we had the power and the will to do what we wanted and that no one could stop us."

Tung Chi-ching, the young Peking diplomat who defected in Africa, tells the story of the Chinese teacher of French in a Shanghai school. The man's only sin was that he was an excellent teacher and popular with the students.

For that, Tung relates, the teacher had to be disgraced. Because he was a good teacher and liked, he was in that sense a rival to the party, even though he took no interest in politics and showed no hint of disloyalty. Students might come to look to him instead of the party leaders.

Tung also mentions the case where a number of students worked down their "voluntary" labor in protest against an arbitrary action by their Communist leaders.

The Communist didn't take action against the guilty. They picked the most popular boy in the class and ordered that he be disgraced. They forced his classmates to falsely accuse him from stealing, and of other fictitious crimes.

His fellow students, who liked and admired this boy, were forced into a screaming frenzy against him. They spit on him and hit him repeatedly.

After the trial he was expelled from the school and sent to manual labor clearing land on the frontier. Tung says "everyone in the class was sick with revulsion."

But the Communists made their point. The fact that the boy personally was innocent of any wrong-doing or any personal action against the Reds was immaterial. He was popular. He was a leader. He was strong. By disgracing him, the Reds brought the students into line.

If Ho runs true to form, he will subject some American flyers to elaborate trials, with false accusations and false fabricated "confessions."

In Ho's experience, such trials should bring doubting and defeatist North Vietnamese, high and low, into line.

By humiliating these brave American flyers the trials would be aimed at making Ho's officials and the North Vietnamese people less afraid of U.S. power.

But these trials would likely not have the effect that Ho imagines. They might brace his people for a short period. When the raids continue, as they will, the trials will probably boomerang.

That's how it is with some teeth. Whoever planted them was either in a hurry or didn't always know right side up, because very few people have teeth that are in perfect alignment. Some grow up, some down, others to the side, and still others don't grow at all but remain embedded in bone.

These are called impacted teeth. While the most common impactions are wisdom teeth, the upper eye teeth are frequent casualties, and so are the premolars.

Since wisdom teeth are little more than appendages in modern man, the problem of their impactions is eliminated by taking them out. This isn't always as daisy as it sounds, as many of you no doubt know. When the tooth is buried deep in bone, and in order to get to it overlying bone must be removed, extraction can be difficult.

That's why I still have one remaining wisdom tooth that was not extracted with the three that were, while I was still in dental school. Why wasn't the fourth one extracted? Because. . . . If more harm is done by extracting a tooth than by leaving it in, then leave it in.

Teeth are a different problem. Room in the jaw can usually be made for them and they can be teased into place by cementing a "plug" on them and bringing them into normal occlusion. Orthodontists do this routinely. Premolars are more of a problem and sometimes have to be extracted.

When and if to remove an impacted tooth depends on the judgment of dentist, surgeon and orthodontist. The orthodontist should be consulted because he can best determine if the tooth can be saved and still be a useful member of our chewing apparatus.

There are dangers in leaving impacted teeth in the jaw. Cysts sometimes form and destroy bone around them. Sometimes they press on other teeth, wearing away roots and causing much pain. The most disconcerting effect is that they sometimes lie embedded for almost a lifetime, only to begin growing out soon after a patient begins to wear artificial dentures.

X rays should be taken of impacted teeth every once in a while to see what's happening to them and the surrounding areas.

Check Out Impacted Teeth To Guard Against Trouble

One day last week a patient arrived 10 minutes late. Breathless and worried, she explained, "I just had to finish planting my new home bulbs, but I'm not sure if I planted them right side up."

That's how it is with some teeth. Whoever planted them was either in a hurry or didn't always know right side up, because very few people have teeth that are in perfect alignment. Some grow up, some down, others to the side, and still others don't grow at all but remain embedded in bone.

These are called impacted teeth. While the most common impactions are wisdom teeth, the upper eye teeth are frequent casualties, and so are the premolars.

Since wisdom teeth are little more than appendages in modern man, the problem of their impactions is eliminated by taking them out. This isn't always as daisy as it sounds, as many of you no doubt know. When the tooth is buried deep in bone, and in order to get to it overlying bone must be removed, extraction can be difficult.

That's why I still have one remaining wisdom tooth that was not extracted with the three that were, while I was still in dental school. Why wasn't the fourth one extracted? Because. . . . If more harm is done by extracting a tooth than by leaving it in, then leave it in.

Wit and Whimsy

One woman says there's no percentage in being a woman these days. "You've gotta look like a girl, dress like a boy, think like a man and work like a horse."

History Prof. — Who was Talleyrand? Student — A fan dancer, and cut the baby talk.

Automation: man's effort to make work so easy that women can do it all.

Guest—Well, good night—hope I haven't kept you up too late. Host — Not at all. We'd have been getting up soon, anyway.

For the right gal to meet the right guy. . . . The Evansville (Indiana) COURIER reported in a story: "He suffered the inhumanity of having his nose bitten off in a bar fight." It's bad enough to suffer "inmomy" without losing your "note," too.
