KID PONY ENTRIES — Pampa youngsters between 5 and 15 years of age have until Tuesday to officially enter the Top O' Texas Kid Pony Show scheduled Tuesday afternoon and evening. Making sure their entries are in are Jane McIntire, 11, left, and her 13-year-old sister, Kathy McIntire, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Bill McIntire of Pampa. The Kid Pony Show will be held in conjunction with the 22nd annual Top O' Texas Professional Rodeo slated next Wednesday through Saturday, July 27-30.

More Guardsmen Sent to Cleveland

Uneasy Calm Prevails

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Mayor Ralph S. Locher asked for more National Guard troops today to restore peace in the riot-torn East Side where shootings, fires and widespread looting marked two nights of racial turmoil. The request was complied with immediately, and 400 guardsmen were ordered into the city to join the 1,600 sent Tuesday night after Gov. James A. Rhodes declared a state of emergency existed in this city of nearly one million residents. Locher acted after coming under criticism because he did not ask Rhodes earlier for the National Guard troops.

Hanoi Silent On Fate of US Pilots

TOKYO (UPI) — North Vietnam maintained silence today on the fate of American pilots shot down over that Communist country. Indications were the Hanoi regime would try them as war criminals but spare their lives. Hanoi ambassadors in two Communist countries said Tuesday the captured Americans would be tried as "war criminals." At the same time President Ho Chi Minh, under world wide diplomatic pressure to spare their lives, said Hanoi's policy would be "humanitarian."

Republic of Viet Nam with regards to the enemies captured is humanitarian." There was no further explanation. Thomas had appealed to the North Vietnamese leader not to try American pilots as war criminals. In Washington, however, a State Department spokesman said the United States had evidence "direct or indirect that Hanoi had decided to try captured American airmen as war criminals other than the threats voiced over a period of days. The attitude in Washington was that any firm decision (See HANOI, Page 3)

Earth Tremor Hits Panhandle

An apparent earth tremor was felt across the Texas Panhandle early today, but few persons were roused from their sleep and no property damage was reported. Pampa police said they had a few calls reporting a tremor, but most felt it was a sonic boom. A deputy in the sheriff's office at first thought it was a sonic boom without the boom. The tremor was felt in Amarillo, Borger, Dumas, Hereford, Canyon, Dimmitt and throughout most of the Panhandle. A Department of Public Safety spokesman in Amarillo said he at first thought the slight quaking was caused by a sonic boom, but when so many calls came in from surrounding areas, he decided differently. A sheriff's deputy in Amarillo said his chair moved about four or five inches, the windows of the county courthouse rattled and the "building made some noise."

It was a sonic boom," said Massey. "But no one heard a boom. Apparently not too many people were disturbed by it, he said. Massey said he called the long distance operator in Borger, about 50 miles to the north, east, and the operator told him the building in which she was in shook and a book fell off a shelf. Massey said the Amarillo operator then cut in to say she had had calls from Dimmitt reporting the same thing. "This is the first time I've ever experienced this," said Massey. "And I've lived in this section of the U.S. all my life."

Speck Pointed Out by Nurse As Murderer

CHICAGO (UPI) — Corazon Amurao needed all the courage she could muster. Dressed in her starched white nursing uniform, she stepped into the hospital room with two other nurses and a doctor. The room was deathly still. On the bed lay Richard Franklin Speck, the man accused of slaughtering eight of Miss Amurao's fellow student nurses during a night of horror in their apartment last week. She was the only one to survive. For five minutes, the doctor bent over the hospital bed and talked to Richard Speck. And for five minutes, Corazon Amurao stood by the doctor's side and a little behind him. She said nothing. Later when they had left the room and Speck was alone once more, Miss Amurao turned to a police official and said simply: "That is the man."

WALK IN SPACE TODAY

'Go' Given for Full Orbit

United Press International SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI) — Gemini 10 astronauts John Young and Mike Collins were given a "go" today to fly out their full 43-orbit mission. The astronauts headed for a space walk and attempted rendezvous this afternoon. Reporting "everything's fine" now with their breathing system, the pilots prepared for a stroll through space by copilot Collins and an attempt by capsule commander Young to fly formation with the four-month-old Agena target left in orbit after the Gemini 8 mission. As they began a busy day of maneuvering in preparation for Collins' venture outside the capsule, the Gemini 10 pilots were asked about their artificial atmosphere equipment, which acted up Tuesday and temporarily blinded both of them. "Everything's fine this morning," Young replied. Sounding sprightly after a good night's sleep, the astronauts had breakfast and began jotting down instructions from the ground on the jockeying necessary for space walk and rendezvous. Gemini 10 began its 25th orbit at 7:56 p.m. CST. If all went well, Collins was to climb out of Gemini 10 at around 4:56 p.m. CST and "zot" himself around at the end of a 50-foot tether, using a hand-held jet gun. Hopefully, this would occur while the spacecraft was flying formation with Agena 8, with which astronauts Neil Armstrong and David Scott docked on March 16. The astronauts were breathing nice clean air again after a bout with "space smog"—a chemical which somehow leaked out of their "atmosphere" system. But there still was a question as to whether sufficient steering fuel remained aboard Gemini 10 to carry out both the space walk and the rendezvous. Just prior to the walk, Young and Collins were to separate from their own Agena, whose brawny thruster has served them with steering power to round out the lopsided orbit in which they set the world manned altitude mark early Tuesday. Aside from an hour out for breakfast, their flight plan called for a day of orbital adjustments to swing them onto a rendezvous course with Agena 8. Gemini 10 entered its 24th orbit at 6:18 a.m. CST, as it flashed over the Arabian Peninsula and shortly before the pilots finished up their sleep period. If things go by the book, this flight that started from Cape Kennedy Monday afternoon will terminate with a splashdown in the Atlantic Thursday afternoon. On the ground, Pat Collins was invited over to Barbara Young's house to follow reports on her husband's stroll in space. It will be America's third such walk and will increase the U.S. lead in pedestrian hours in space. "Little things" continued to plague U.S. spaceflights Tuesday when pungent fumes in the breathing system irritated the eyes of Young and Collins and forced them to cut short an open-hatch test. But the dangerous stench cleared out and they sailed on toward the end of their three-day mission due to end Thursday afternoon. Veteran space pilot Young said he will put the Gemini capsule "down the 'pork barrel' for a splashdown in the Atlantic. The astronauts retired just before midnight Tuesday. But they were not asleep long before ground control awoke them and suggested they turn on a pump in their capsule cooling system. "Sorry about that," ground control said, then told Young and Collins to go back to sleep. Knotty fuel shortages aboard both the Gemini 10 and Agena 10 vehicles caused space officials to "think over" the planned spacewalk early today. But flight director Glenn Lunney said it would go ahead as scheduled "in all likelihood." He said Collins would walk in space even if the astronauts fail to get near Agena 8. Lunney also said "cutoff limits" would be established today to "assure ourselves we have enough fuel to come back down..." if too much fuel is used during the Agena 8 chase, it will be scrapped, he said. The astronauts, who became space history's highest fliers when they soared to a record altitude of 475 miles Tuesday, also passed over a French nuclear explosion. But they were on the record altitude path—167 miles above the Russian record—and out of danger when the French test (See ORBIT, Page 3)

An uneasy calm prevailed in the four-square-mile Hough district of the East Side where two persons were shot to death and four wounded by gunfire and scores injured by bricks and bottles. Scores of business establishments were looted, and more than 60 fires were set during the two nights of rioting. At least 10 buildings were razed by the flames, and some fires still smoldered at 12 midnight CST. Negro city councilmen and property owners in the Hough district complained they had pressed the mayor all day Tuesday to request National Guard troops but he did not act until about 5 p.m. The first troops did not enter the city until about 11 p.m. In Tuesday night's rioting, a Negro man was shot to death by a sniper and two other Negroes were wounded. Negro gangs roamed the streets tossing fire bombs and police and snipers exchanged gunfire. Continued looting also was reported but a policeman said "there isn't much left (See GUARDSMEN, Page 3)

Pampa Artists Readying Christmas Nativity Scenes

By DORIS E. WILSON
News Staff Writer
While Pampa's populace continues to swelter in 90-plus temperatures, there are artists and workmen thinking ahead to chilly December evenings when results of their July "labor of love" will be evident. For the past several weeks and until the project is finished, Pampa artists have set up a restoration workshop in the old Culberson Bldg., Ballard and Francis. They are busily engaged in repainting and refurbishing one of the city's beloved traditions... The Nativity Scenes, which have become an integral part of Pampa's Christmas observance. The passage of time and weather elements have almost destroyed the religious tableau. About 70 percent of the scenes have to be completely rebuilt and repainted. "We want to restore this tradition," Red Wedgeworth, chamber manager, told The News. "The people want it, too. But the condition of the scenes had reached the point where they had to be renewed or discarded." Discarding the tradition was unthinkable. Since the tableau is for the community, it is community effort that is keeping it alive. Arrangements have been made with Cameron Marsh, Pampa High School principal, for the school shop department to cut out the scenes, working under the direction of Stanley Cook, shop instructor.

The City Park Department, assisting with the construction, will be responsible for storing the collection until time to erect them again for holiday viewers. It is also necessary for the seven scenes to be re-wired so that the annual lighting ceremony may be held to officially open the Christmas season in Pampa. The tradition of circling Central Park to relive the significance of the birth of Christ, began with a single scene, which was first placed on the courthouse lawn in 1947. A few years later, the series was enlarged until it included the current seven: The Shepherds and His Flock; The Wise Men; King Herod's Court; Nativity Scene, and The Flight into Egypt. The enlarged series was moved to Central Park, where it attracted Pampans, as well as citizens from neighboring communities, night after night in the weeks before Christmas. The project, from the very beginning, has been sponsored and financed by the Pampa Chamber of Commerce and the City of Pampa. Mrs. A. D. Hills and Mrs. Thelma Bray are spearheading the efforts of local artists to restore the scenes on these warm July afternoons so that they may be enjoyed in the holiday season at Christmas time. New Phone Books Due Out Soon

Copies of the Pampa-Skellytown-Lefors telephone directories were due to arrive today for mail-outs to customers and businesses, according to George Newberry, manager for Southwestern Bell Telephone Company. Approximately 25,000 copies have been printed. The covers are of white stock, overprinted in blue ink. There are 76 "white" or alphabetical pages, and 152 classified or "yellow" pages.

Newberry stated. Pampa has 13,980 telephones this year, an increase of 350 from last year, he said. In addition, Skellytown has 483 phones, and Lefors has 418. There are approximately 225 disconnections a month, for those who move away or change phones, with 240 to 250 new connections a month, he added. In addition to the copies mailed out, extra copies will be kept to replace wornout books, to give to new customers or to send to various companies in the nation. Others will be sold to out-of-town persons who want a copy of the directory, Newberry said. Newberry advised persons to throw away their old directories, as several hundred numbers have been changed. He reminded them to check through the directory for lists, and valuable papers before throwing it away.

Congressman Thinks Justice Douglas' Morals Should Be Investigated

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas, 67, is on his fourth honeymoon. His bride is 23. Some congressmen say that merits an investigation of his "moral character." One said Douglas critics are just plain jealous.

Douglas — also famed for his flair for mountain climbing — should quit the bench and spend full time "hiking the highways of matrimony," the critics said in a flurry of official umbrage at his fourth marriage.

The critics were a handful of congressmen, most of whom already disliked Douglas' liberal views in Supreme Court decisions. They took the floor to express their views of Douglas' marriage last Friday to Cathleen Curran Heffernan, a coed from Portland, Ore.

"If he's a man of bad character, he should be impeached," said Rep. George Andrews, D-Ala., one of five lawmakers sponsoring a call for a Douglas investigation — a call accompanied by demands for his resignation.

The critics got their lumps from one Douglas defender who said, "from her pictures, she's a good looking chick. She's better looking than some of their admirers." The lawmaker asked not to be identified.

During the house discussion, Douglas found only one public defender, Rep. Theodore Kupferman, R-N.Y.

his liberal opinions, and are using his marriage to criticize those opinions."

Rep. Paul Findley, R-Ill., solemnly said that Congress should write a new law making it easier to remove a judge. The present impeachment process, he said, is too "cumbersome."

Rep. Thomas G. Abernethy, D-Miss., arose to say that "surely thousands were quite amazed and even disgusted, as I was, on reading over the weekend of the fourth matrimonial venture of this justice of the highway of matrimony."

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—Charles J. Jenson, Tessel, Patrick & Ostrau, Inc. says the technical situation of the market remains favorable and notes many issues are hitting new highs. This, the analyst says, could be the prelude of a widening of trader confidence in the market.

He feels that continued stability on the list this week could add to the probabilities favoring the return of the Dow Jones industrial average to the 940 level, whence, aided by further constructive developments, it could rise to new highs.

Bache & Co. feels that traders are weighing the bullish and bearish influences to the market and while they find it reasonable enough to maintain present positions, they will require a lot more confidence before any aggressive commitments are made.

Highlights and Sidelights From the State Capital

By VERN SANFORD
Texas Press Association

AUSTIN, Tex.

There could be a new look around many Texas county commissioners courts under a reapportionment opinion laid down by the Texas Supreme Court in the case brought by Mayor Hank Avery of Midland.

Avery maintained that it is not constitutional for one Midland County Commissioner to represent 95 per cent of the county's population — the City of Midland — while the other three commissioners represented only 5 per cent of the people.

Supreme Court agreed, 8-1, but with reservations. It held that the ratio was not fair representation, but that the re-division of county precincts, which it told Dist. Judge Joe B. Dibrell of Coleman to order, could consider factors other than population.

Declining to extend the population-only rule which the U.S. Supreme Court has applied to state legislatures, Supreme Court held that a commissioners court is not a legislative body. Court's majority wrote that the road, bridge and tax activities of the commissioners courts have more concern to rural residents than to city dwellers. In recent years, such courts have concerned themselves mainly with non-urban areas, leaving city matters to the city governments.

Supreme Court concluded that not just population, but also factors such as miles of county road, taxable values and geography, plus the "convenience of the people" set out in the Texas Constitution, can be taken into account by a commissioners court in dividing the county into four precincts. High court agreed with Judge Dibrell that the present Midland County situation obviously is arbitrary and should be declared invalid.

Case either will go back to Judge Dibrell for final decision or will be appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court by either Mayor Avery of Midland County — since neither won a clear-cut victory.

INTEGRATION WARNING

Sixty-four Texas school districts have received letters from the federal Office of Education warning of slowness in faculty integration, reports Leon R. Graham, assistant state education commissioner.

Graham said 33 other districts around the state were notified that they had violated federal law by failing to submit plans for integrating teachers.

He said the Office of Education expects districts to employ at least one Negro teacher for each school which was previously all-white and at least one white teacher for each previously all-Negro school. Some flexibility, however, is allowed, he added.

No federal funds will be given schools which fail to comply with the regulations of the Office of Education, Graham noted, and the federal government wants full-time teachers integrated, not part-timers or substitutes.

NEW EGG REPORT

Texas Department of Agriculture's Marketing Division begins publication of a new one-market egg price report July 19, Agriculture Commissioner John C. White said.

Formerly, quotations from six separate state egg market areas were used in reporting egg prices. "Advantage of the new policy," White said, "is that the single state-wide price quotation for each grade represents a true market for the state. So the information is more useful to producers and buyers alike."

NURSES NEEDED

Former Gov. Allan Shivers has launched a statewide campaign to pull Texas up from rank of 46th in the United States in number of registered nurses on the job.

More than 200 civic and business volunteers from all corners of the state joined with Shivers in seeking $12,000,000 within the next five years to recruit and teach enough nurses to make up for the 10,500 shortage now. Their meeting was the first of the Development Council of the Texas Hospital association health careers program. Gerald Mann of Dallas, newly appointed chairman of the development council, said the group will ask the Legislature for more funds to fight the critical shortage of nurses.

MORE AIR SERVICE

Texas Aeronautics Commission approved applications by two small airlines to provide three new state routes.

Houston Commuter Airlines, a new organization, will run two flights daily between Houston and Laredo with a "whistle stop" at Alice. Hood Airlines of Killeen will extend its present service to include a Houston-Ft. Worth flight and a separate Killeen-Houston run. ATTORNEY GENERAL RULES — Out-of-state witnesses in felony trials and grand jury hearings must be paid by counties up to limit of $2,000, at usual rate for out-of-county witnesses, Atty. Gen. Waggoner said from your State Capital Carr held.

In other official opinions, Carr ruled that:

—A city judge sitting as a magistrate has jurisdiction to accept local complaints in cases in which he cannot try, issue warrants of arrests and transfer the cases to other magistrates for examining trial.

—Vocational Rehabilitation Division of Texas Education Agency can pay tuition for handicapped persons to attend denominational schools for training.

—Thirty-one-year-old dormant Galveston Junior College still is in legal existence and may be reactivated by disannexation of overlapped territory of another district.

Governor's Committee on Public School Education adopted further research project guidelines for its three-year study of school needs. One committee member insisted on adding to the list of study topics:

—How to get rid of incompetent teachers.

—Budget of $253,338 for 1968 and $40,000 for 1969 to finance its work through the 1969 legislative session.

SHORT SNORTS

900 Communists Die in New Battle

SAIGON (UPI) — U.S. Marine commanders said today the Communist death toll in Operation Hastings, the biggest Leatherneck battle of the war, now was estimated at more than 900. Another 1,500 Marines today were thrown into the jungle fighting in the strategic northwest corner of South Viet Nam.

Lt. Gen. Lewis C. Walt, commanding general of the 3rd Marine Amphibious Force, said casualty reports from the scene — just below the 17th parallel, showed 352 Communist dead by body count and another 549 North Vietnamese as "probable" kills.

The 1st Battalion of the 1st Marine Regiment joined some 10,000 other Leatherneck and South Vietnamese troops who have been sweeping a vast area of mountain jungles since last Friday. Walt said the campaign would "continue for a long Division sustained "heavy" casualties Tuesday in bitter fighting with hundreds of Viet Cong only 21 miles north of Saigon. At least 51 Communists were killed. One U.S. helicopter was known to have been shot down.

American planes flew 96 missions Tuesday against oil depots, troop supply and communication centers in North Viet Nam. One petroleum storage area was only 10 miles from Hanoi.

A record 518 sorties were flown by U.S. Navy, Air Force and Marine pilots in South Viet Nam Tuesday, including 14 in support of the outnumbered infantrymen in the Ho Bo woods, Communist stronghold north of Saigon.

Report 122 Killed

The pilots reported killing 112 Viet Cong and destroying or damaging 710 buildings used by the Communists.

Spokesmen said the dogfight occurred while U.S. planes were bombing the Nguyen Khe oil depot 10 miles of Hanoi. Three MIGs were sent aloft to block the attackers and the F105 went down 20 miles north of the Communist capital during a 15 to 20 minute air battle.

Maj. James H. Kasler, 39, of Indianapolis led the Thunderchief flight. Capt. David J. Allinson, 33, of Goldsboro, N.C., said he saw pieces flying off one MIG's left wing and a puff of smoke pop out of the Communist jet. The Red pilot headed for Phuc Yen airfield, 13 miles north-northwest of Hanoi.

Other pilots in on the dogfight included Capt. Normal L. Wells, 33, of Unionville, Va., and 1st Lt. Roger A. Ayers, 26, of Salem, Ore.

Search Teams Out For Lost Youth

YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL Park, Wyo. (UPI) — Search teams made up of 30 experienced park rangers were to retrace their routes today in an attempt to find a young California boy who disappeared eight days ago in the Yellowstone National Park.

"We are still hopeful," said one ranger. "But so far we have not been successful." Horses, dogs and a helicopter have been used in the search, but there has been no definite trace of the 8-year-old.

Real Estate In Conspiracy Plot?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate constitutional rights subcommittee was told Tuesday that real estate interests have conspired to deny Negroes a chance to live where they choose.

Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach said the fair housing portion of the Johnson administration's pending civil rights bill was "absolutely essential" to wipe out racial ghettos created by this "conspiracy."

Katzenbach said that the provision was still a good one even with House Judiciary Committee changes that would exempt owner-occupied dwellings with four or fewer units from administration-sought ban against discrimination in the sale or rental of any housing.

EXPENSIVE DELAYS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Aviation Agency reported Monday that delays at major airports cost the airlines more than $41 million last year. It said the increased operating costs were due to traffic control delays, airport limitations and weather conditions.

Youth Believed To Have Won His Fight on Cancer

CONSTANTINE, Mich. (UPI)—Larry Rink was only 21, married and awaiting the birth of his first child when doctors said he might die of cancer.

In a desperate attempt to foil the normally fatal disease, he and three other cancer patients took part in a series of experimental tumor transplants in the spring at Roswell Park Memorial Institute, Buffalo, N.Y.

The other patients died. Monday word reached Rink who lost one leg in an amputation because of cancer, that his body appears to have freed itself of the disease.

Dr. Ray Houghton, Rink's physician, said he received a telegram from Roswell Institute saying, "no further signs of cancer in his system at this time."

"Does this mean I am 100 per cent cured?" Rink asked. "No, but there is no sign of any cancer now and we will keep a close watch for the next five years," his doctor replied.

The young patient, suffering from a bone cancer known as osteogenic sarcoma, had undergone a series of blood transfusions and tumor transplants with other victims in the hopes each man's body would build up antibodies to fight the disease.

Rink's 20-year-old wife, Jeanne, who is expecting their first child in September, told her husband about the good news that Dr. Houghton received.

"I started crying and I was excited but he (Larry) just wouldn't believe it," she said.

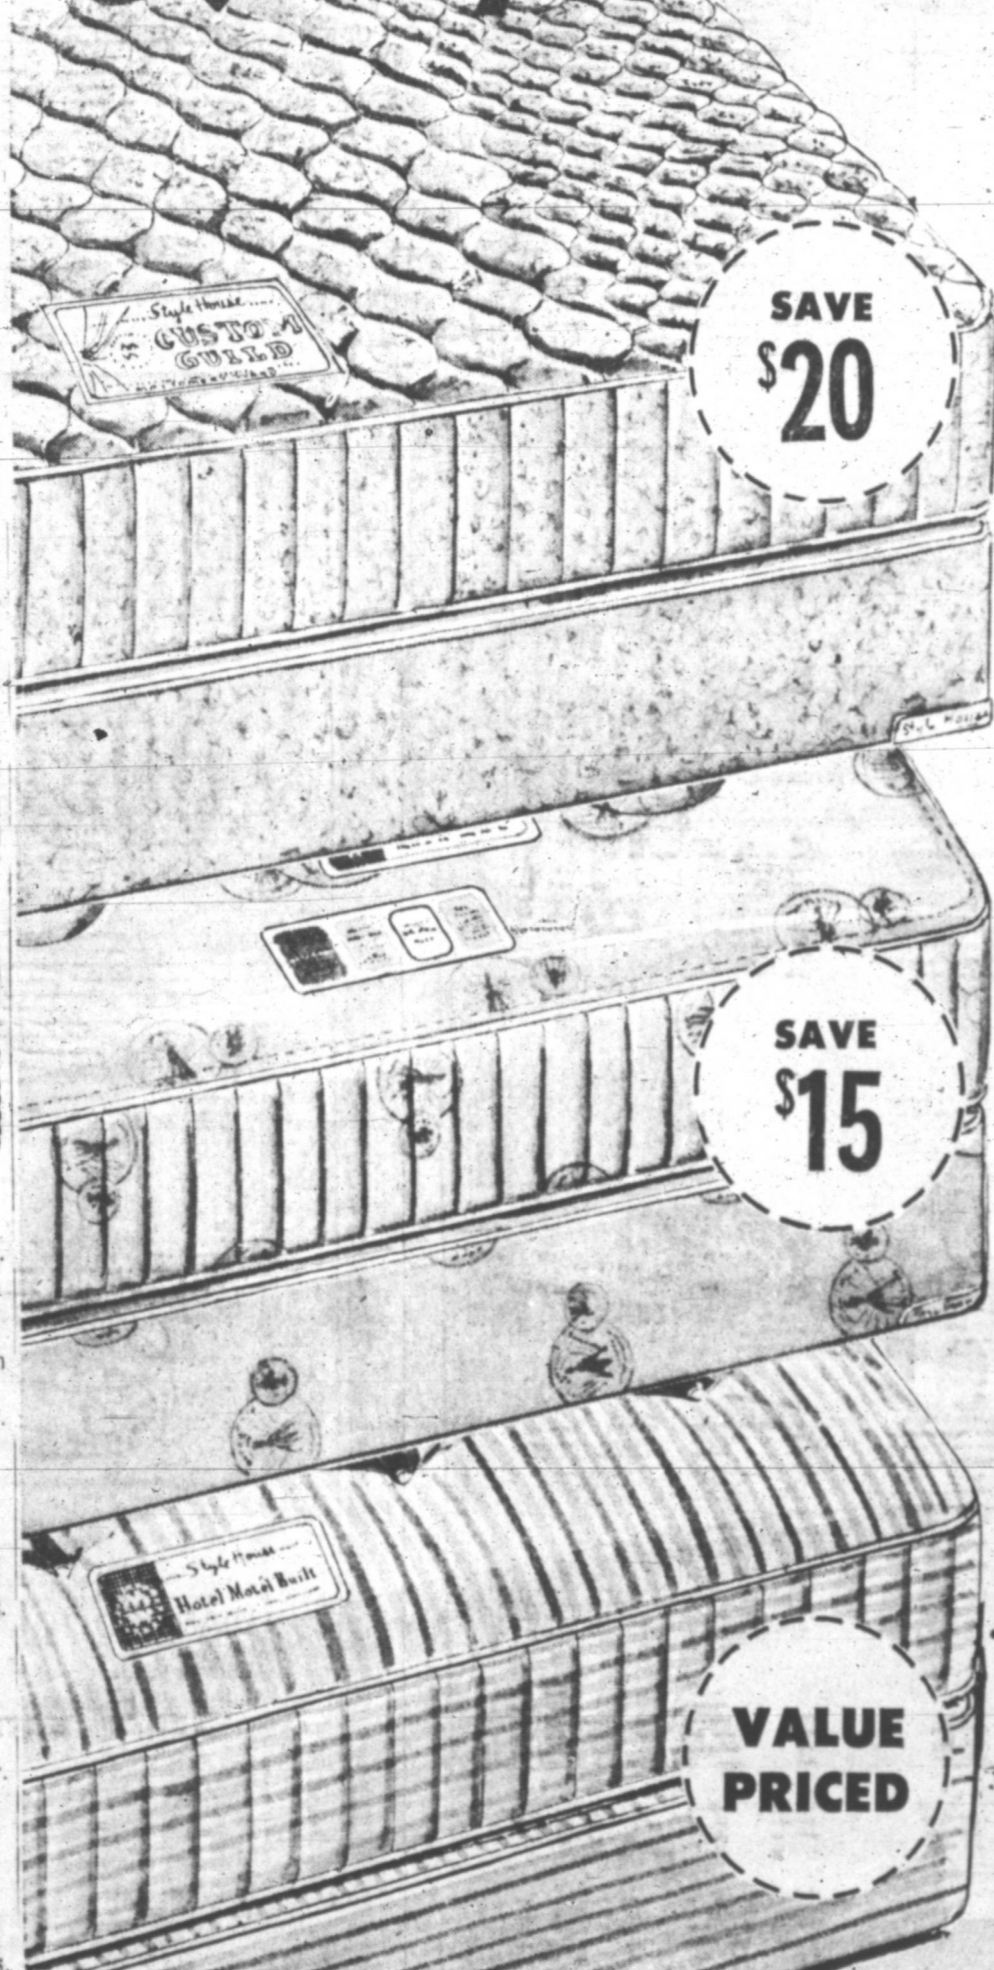

"Now I'll get my new leg and then I hope I can find a good job and take care of my wife," said Rink.

Vietnamese Taking Care of Refugees

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Foreign Aid Administrator William S. Gaud Tuesday said most of the effort of caring for Vietnamese war refugees "can and should be done" by the Vietnamese themselves.

He said, the United States is helping in the problem, both with aid donations and with efforts to coordinate the work of private relief organizations and donations from other governments.

Gaud testified in continuing hearings by the Senate judiciary subcommittee on refugees, headed by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.

July Designated As Land Bank Month

For several hundred people who make their living from agriculture in Roberts, Hemphill and Gray Counties, July will be a month-long testimony to the fact that they, and most other farmers, have turned out to be good businessmen.

July is "Land Bank Month", the 50th Anniversary of the Farm Loan Act which helped put farming on a business basis in the U.S., for the first time in history.

J. E. Gunn, manager of the Federal Land Bank Association of Pampa, said that farmers at the turn of the century were regarded as poor business risks. "No one would lend them money to operate the way a businessman must, if he is going to grow and contribute to this community," he said. "Interest rates for farmers were twice as high as for city businessmen, and the loans were for very short terms."

"Three presidents — Theodore Roosevelt, Taft and Wilson, studied the problem, and finally the Farm Loan Act was signed by Woodrow Wilson on July 17, 1916. This Act created the Federal Land Bank System, through which farmers could make long term, real estate loans from their own organizations."

The several associations comprising the Federal Land Bank Association of Pampa were organized in 1918. It is one of seventy-three associations in the Federal Land Bank District of Houston, which in turn is one of the 12 Federal Land Banks that serve the 50 states.

"Altogether," Gunn said, "The Federal Land Bank System nationally has loaned farmers more than 1.1 billion dollars. Our own association has loaned the farmers and ranchers of this area many millions over the 49 years that it has been in business."

Not only have farmers proved to be outstandingly good business risks, but given money to work with, they have proved to be production geniuses of a quality rarely found anywhere in American business, Gunn said. Land bank foreclosures are almost unheard of today.

"There are half as many farmers today as there were 50 years ago, and they are feeding a population that has doubled in this century," he said. "They rank among the greatest users of technology the world has ever known. Anyone who doubts it should visit a modern farm today."

"What goes on there — in new breeding, feeding, and other production techniques — makes many of the rest of us look as if we, and not the farmers, are living in the horse-and-buggy days."

"I don't know of another industry in the country that is producing today with 1975 methods and selling, for the most part, at 1955 prices."

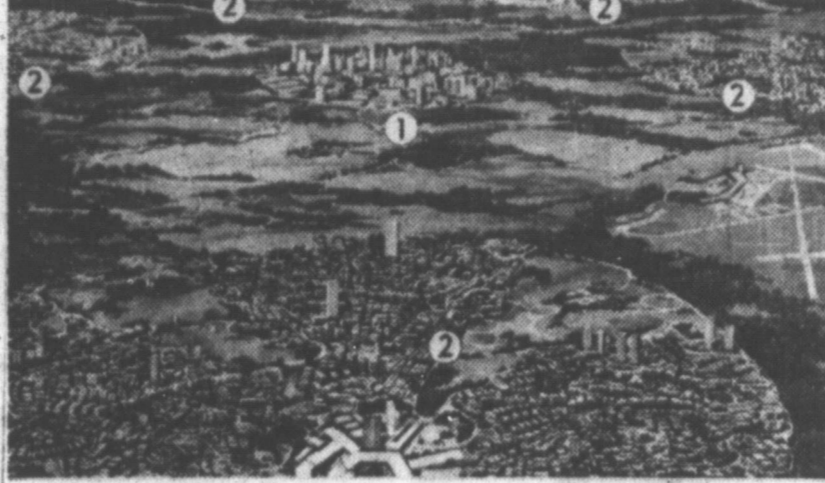

Pope Asks US Pilots be Spared

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy (UPI) — Pope Paul VI today "ardently and respectfully" urged North Vietnamese leaders to spare American prisoners and thus avert "still worse evils" for the world.

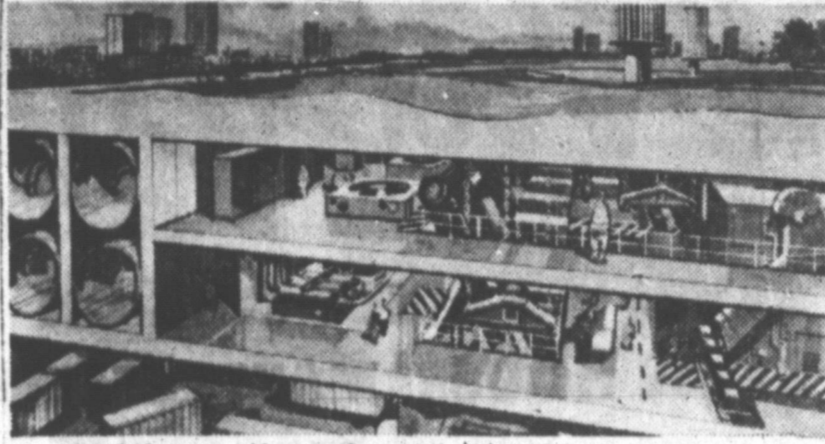

The pontiff made his appeal in an address at his weekly general audience at his summer residence here.

"It is only out of impartial love for peace and to spare merit for a cease and to spare mankind still worse evils, that we feel it is our duty to address to the leaders of that nation (North Viet Nam) an ardent and respectful prayer to grant American prisoners the safety and the treatment called for by international rules, applying those rules in each case in the more favorable way, such as a feeling of generous and clement humanity may suggest," the Pope said.

NEW CITIES for new millions

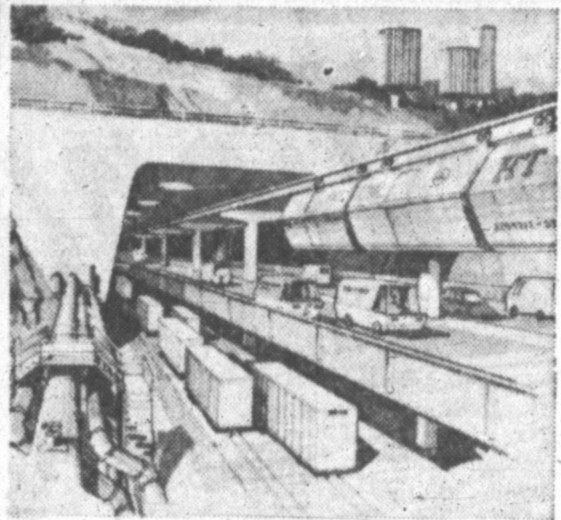

A model new city would consist of a central business core (1) surrounded by "subcities" (2) with populations between 100,000 and 150,000 each and containing residential areas, industry and retail stores.

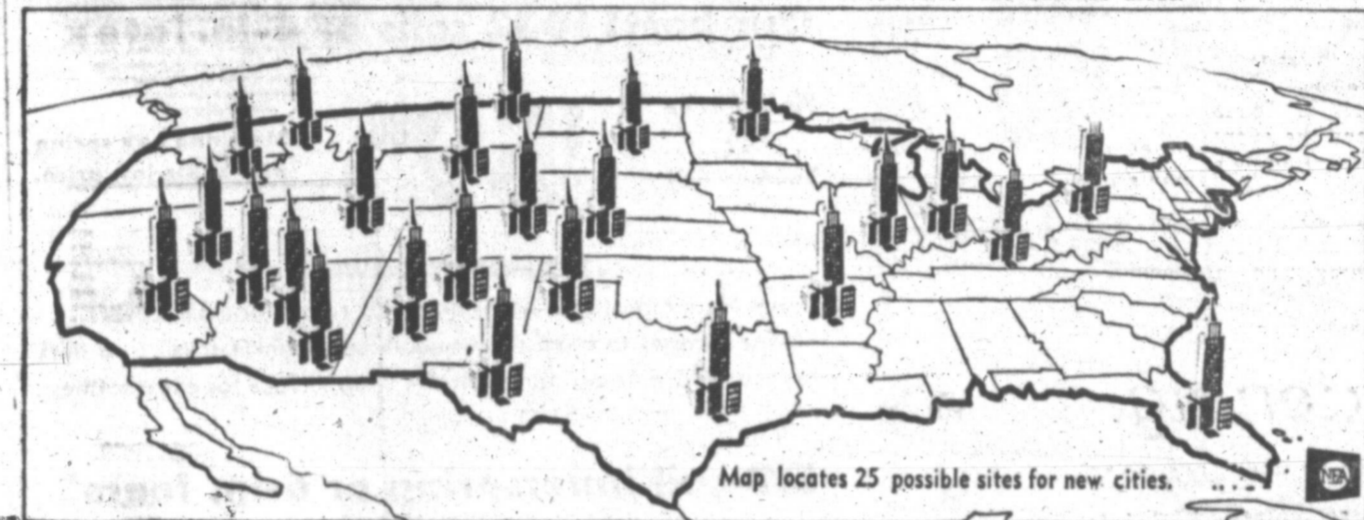

Industry would go underground with multilevel factories.

With the nation's population burgeoning, a private organization has come up with an ambitious proposal to solve an increasingly pressing problem of public planners — what to do for living space for the tens of millions of new Americans forecast in the next few decades. The Committee for National Land Development Policy suggests nothing less than building a score or more brand-new million-plus cities in still sparsely settled areas, away from existing urban concentrations where facilities already are strained and space for orderly expansion is almost exhausted. Here is an artist's conception of the new model city outlined by the committee, composed of leaders in business, construction, banking and services throughout the nation.

Rail, road and utility supply lines would feed directly into the subsurface factories. Rapid transit systems, also underground, would link residential and business areas.

Map locates 25 possible sites for new cities.

Bonds Sold to Help 'Deserving Students'

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — The Higher Education Coordinating Board recently sold $10 million in bonds to finance the first loans under a program to give "any deserving student" in Texas the chance to attend college.

Harris Trust and Savings Bank of Chicago bought the bonds at 3.74 per cent interest. The sale will make it possible for college students to borrow money this fall.

The bond sale was the first under an $85 million program approved by voters in a constitutional amendment election last fall. Other bonds will be sold as needed.

Under the federal subsidy, the government pays interest charges while the student is in school and half interest after he graduates.

An undergraduate may borrow up to $1,000 a year for a $5,000 total and a graduate student may borrow $1,500 a year up to a total of $7,500.

Loans will be limited to the difference between the student's financial resources and reasonable costs of his education.

Repayment must be made monthly at not less than $15. A student must begin repayment within four months after he stops carrying less than half a fulltime academic load.

'BACK HOME IN INDIANA' Longtime Pampa Resident's Family in Hoosier History

Although she has been a Texan for 33 years and a Pampa resident for 41 years, it is of particular interest to Mrs. Phoebe Morehead, 2123 N. Russell, that Indiana is celebrating its 150th anniversary this year.

Born in Pleasantville, Ind., her ancestors played an important role as educators in the development of Martin County, Ind.

She move from Indiana while still a young child, but has relatives there and maintains an interest in the state where she was born.

As part of the Sesquicentennial Celebration, Harry Q. Holt of West Lafayette, Ind., a tried and true Hoosier, has compiled a "History of Martin County" and is sending a copy to Mrs. Morehead.

He describes it as "small and financially poor in comparison with most Indiana counties. Nevertheless it is rich in romance, tradition, tragedy and scenic beauty."

"Approximately 50 per cent of the Indiana county's population has emigrated to other counties and states since 1900 and these ex-countians have become successful leaders in various fields of endeavors."

The history book has 400 pages, many illustrations and contains over 3,000 names of Martin Countians both within and outside the county. One of the special features includes sketches of early forebears and their descendants who settled the area.

It is this section that will be of special interest to Mrs. Morehead.

The Pampa woman's grandfather was an early day teacher in Indiana schools as well as her father, who later became a county superintendent of schools in Oklahoma.

"We came to Oklahoma in the late 1890's, to Texas in 1913, and to Pampa in 1925," Mrs. Morehead said.

It's a safe assumption that Mrs. Morehead awaits postal delivery every day... looking

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW
United Press International
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The networks keep saying they really do want to put on adult satire, and they keep pointing to the failure of "that was the week that was," but the answer to the problem of what to do is very simple:

The answer is Jack Paar. When Paar recently interrupted his sabbatical with an NBC-TV special, "A Funny Thing Happened on the way to the White House," he demonstrated emphatically that his wit was still well honed—that he was still the nation's most tasteful and sophisticated monologist in the realm of political satire.

Following his special, critical acclaim flowed like nectar, and more than one columnist suggested that the show was the ideal type to be updated each year, with Paar at the helm.

I go further. I suggest that what "That Was The Week That Was" tried abominably to do, with its humorless invective that it mistook for satire, Jack Paar could do each week for a half hour, an hour—almost any length you want—with consummate ease. He is a master.

Engaged In Rivalry
During the time that "That Was The Week That Was" preceded the old weekly Paar hour on NBC-TV, the two programs engaged in a rivalry. And the professional juveniles of "TW3" were simply decimated

THEN AND NOW—Modern U.S. Army paratroopers are seen on the streets of Saint Mere Eglise in Normandy, the first French village to be liberated by Americans after the June 6th landings in 1944. But today these soldiers are not so welcome.

U.S. Citizens Are Asked To Share Hope of Freedom

Our prized American heritage of liberty and justice has no equal in the world, as we all recognize, and the long-time bipartisan policy of the United States is to support aspirations of peoples everywhere for freedom, national independence, and the right of self-government. Communist conquest has opened yokes of oppression on millions of persons who still yearn for a longed-for freedom and whom one day it is hoped will ring bells of liberty will ring. Freedom! How great a blessing it is.

But hundreds of millions of persons in the world have only a dream of possessing individual liberty, of having a voice in the affairs of their governments, of ending the conditions of political and economic slavery in which they exist. A few examples of life behind the Iron Curtain will suffice to show the extent to which liberty continues to be denied. In Poland recently, two university lecturers were sentenced to prison terms for preparing and circulating pamphlets critical of the Polish communist regime. In Czechoslovakia, a literary monthly closely followed by the young generation was closed down by orders of the Communist Party. In Bulgaria, a simple anti-racism joke may cost a Bulgarian citizen up to five years in jail. In Hungary, the Communist authorities are using secret trials in which articles of the criminal code are interpreted according to the directives of Communist Party policy. Closing of churches in the Baltic States and their conversion to public buildings is reported to be proceeding at a rapid pace. In Albania, some 16,000 political prisoners are being kept in prisons, forced labor camps, and special detention camps. Some 100,000 Lithuanians, forcibly deported during the Stalin era, are still in Siberia.

Behind the Iron and Bamboo curtains the chains are kept on the people by their Communist masters, yet there is strong evidence that substantial numbers of the enslaved peoples yearn for Western ideals of human dignity and an open society. This is the seventh year that the United States, by a resolution of the 86th Congress, has marked the third week of July as "Captive Nations Week," a week in which we make it clear that the people of the United States share with the captive people their aspirations for freedom and independence. In the words of the resolution of Congress, "It is vital to the national security of the United States that the desire for liberty and independence on the part of the peoples of the conquered nations should be steadfastly kept alive."

We Americans have always been able to distinguish between the cruel and insidious oppression of totalitarian Communist regimes and the people who are the direct victims of their enslavement. These peoples have our sympathy, and evidence points to the fact that the action of Congress in supporting the goal of their independence has buoyed their hopes for an eventual attainment of the liberty and free institutions to which we Americans feel all men are entitled.

The words of our own Declaration of Independence continue to shine like a beacon in the darkest corners of enslaved nations: "We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights that among these are Life, Liberty, and the Pursuit of Happiness." We Americans are feared by Communist tyrants as much for the moral force of our commitment to liberty as for the force of our arms.

Auto Safety Act Meets Opposition By Ford Company

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (UPI) — Two parts of the recently passed Senate Auto Safety Act have been met with displeasure by one of the country's largest auto manufacturing firms, a Ford Motor Co. official said.

Thomas Reid of Detroit, director of Civic and Governmental Affairs for Ford, told a panel at the National Automotive Trade Association convention that Ford had "no quarrel with the general aim" of the Senate Traffic Safety Act.

But, he said, Ford was not satisfied with two of the principal elements of the Senate bill — determining safety standards and deciding when they should be incorporated in production vehicles.

Reid, in talking of the House version of the bill, said: "Each bill has its strength and weaknesses. While we cannot predict the final form the house bill will take upon passage, the time for concerted action... will come when differences in both measures are being resolved in committee."

He also said he recognized the Senate wished to "speed the design and manufacture of safer vehicles."

Aid can be summoned simply by pushing a button for police, ambulance, fire or repair service. The Maryland State Police receive the signal. Cost of the initial system, scheduled for completion in September, will be $379 million.

Foreign Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst
As of the first of this week, the United States listed 62 Americans as prisoners of the North Vietnamese, including 45 airmen. Among the latter may be many more now listed as missing.

The airmen now are threatened by Hanoi with trial as war criminals.

The diplomatic activity touched off by the Hanoi threat and an obvious misreading of the likely American reaction exceeds that which followed American bombing of Communist oil depots at Hanoi and Haiphong and is not wholly humanitarian.

It seems probable that even Moscow, despite its official hands-off attitude, has gotten the word to Hanoi that the trial of Americans on any such trumped up charges could be the quick way to annihilation.

Within the Viet Nam conflict always has lurked the danger of World War III, and this, plus the tough U.S. warning of the "disastrous consequences" to follow any such North Vietnamese action, accounts for intense activity by United Nations Secretary General Thant and in world capitals ranging from Washington and London to Moscow and Cairo.

As for Hanoi, there is speculation the threat is a form of political pressure which the North Vietnamese regime is seeking to bring on the Johnson administration in advance of the November elections.

There remains the possibility the North Vietnamese really mean it.

A war crime usually is defined as a crime such as genocide (Nazi Germany's murder of six million Jews), maltreatment of war prisoners or any atrocity committed during a war.

International conventions regarding treatment of war prisoners are even more specific as worked out in meetings at The Hague in 1899 and 1907 and further clarified at Geneva in 1949.

Although aimed specifically at protection of civilian populations, the Geneva meeting also outlawed the taking of hostages or reprisal action.

North Viet Nam adhered to the Geneva convention in 1957, but contends that the rules do not apply in this war because war has not been declared formally.

Our doves who so angrily denounce the strategy and tactics of the war in Southeast Asia should consider now whether their intemperate choice of words is appropriate to the situation.

For example, what did a senator intend to convey when he applied the word "outlawry" to the air attacks on North Viet Nam oil depots? A preferred meaning in Webster's Third International is: The act of outlawing, the process of putting a person outside the protection of the law.

The senator, of course, did not mean that to apply to captured airmen now held in Hanoi and threatened with trial and punishment as war criminals.

But his intemperate language might recommend itself to the North Vietnamese in search of arguments, however fragile, in support of their threat to try the captured Americans.

On the day the senator was denouncing "outlawry," a Soviet spokesman in Moscow was denouncing the raids as piracy. The North Vietnamese have been parading captured American fliers through Hanoi streets, manacled and an invitation to public abuse.

The incendiary language of dove complaints against the war in Southeast Asia is less a factor than the question whether there would be any legal precedent, however slight, for the trial of American airmen. A precedent is not a justification but precedent can lead to argument and confusion and trouble.

The legal precedent, if any, lies in the trial, conviction and execution of German and Japanese war criminals after World War II. The French, British, Soviets and Americans combined in 1945-46 to effect a new chapter in international law. This was in response to popular demand in the open societies and, perhaps, in the Soviet Union, as well.

The indictment of Nazi leaders tried in Nuremberg charged: Conspiracy to wage aggressive war crimes against peace; crimes violating the laws of war; and crimes against humanity. Twelve Nazis were sentenced to hang, seven to prison. Three were acquitted. Genocide was the principal crime against humanity, more specifically the inhuman Nazi effort to exterminate European Jews.

Popular clamor for punishment of war criminals roared loud and long in the United States. In the Pacific there had been the death march from Bataan. Americans had seen news pictures of Japanese swordsmen executing kneeling prisoners. Some of the American military had doubts of the justification of punishment for soldiers who had executed orders from the top.

There was much popular clamor but not much debate of the issues. The late Sen. Robert A. Taft thought the Nuremberg sentences were an outrage against justice. Characteristic-

Prostitution In Dallas Is Big Business, Charge

DALLAS (UPI)—John McKee, president of the Dallas Crime Commission, said Monday that prostitution is a "thriving, $750,000 a year business" in Dallas. He told the Rotary Club in Richardson, a Dallas suburb, that a police report shows only 25 arrests for prostitution and commercialized vice in 1965. But McKee said, there were 800 arrests of women for vagrancy and Special Service Bureau records show 571 arrests for prostitution.

"We can scarcely avoid the conclusion that arrests of females for prostitution actually are appearing under vagrancy in the annual report, thereby creating an erroneous picture of virtually no prostitution in the city of Dallas," McKee said. He said so publicly. The Nuremberg verdict was especially welcome in New York where Gov. Thomas E. Dewey denounced Taft. President Truman said the trial blazed a new trail in international justice. And now that trail may lead to a war prisoner pen in Hanoi. It is not likely that there will be in Hanoi any man to play the part Taft played in 1946 — to shout against the wind. It seems raw that Hanoi has it in its power to invite against its whole population a devastating war of vengeance.

Brewer Picks Self in PGA

AKRON, Ohio (UPI)—Gay Brewer, annoyed over finishing second so often lately and even more irked at hearing everybody and his brother being picked as the next PGA champ, made a selection of his own today by pointing to a seldom-mentioned eight to one shot—himself.

Brewer, the pug-nosed, 34-year-old Kentuckian, doesn't care that the odds-makers have made power hitting Jack Nicklaus the favorite for the 72-hole event starting Thursday and Nicklaus apparently doesn't care, either, because he spent Tuesday fishing. Nor does it matter to Brewer that Arnold Palmer, second choice in the betting, is driving well-and is all charged up in a bid for his first PGA crown. "I like my own chances," Brewer insisted, thrusting a forefinger into his chest when someone asked him who he thought would win. "Why shouldn't I? I'm playing well and if you look it up, I think you'll find I'm right up there on the money winning list." He is, indeed. Only U.S. Open Champion Billy Casper, Doug Sanders and Palmer top Brewer's official $84,620.16 so far this year. The only victory Brewer has to show was in the Pensacola Open, but he finished second in the Jacksonville Open, tied for the lead in the Masters and then lost in the playoff, and was second again in the western open, which is the last tournament he played. "Second isn't bad," he said, "but I prefer finishing first."

That's what I'm shooting at here. I know Nicklaus and Casper are playing well, and Palmer is driving good. That's fine—I'm playing good also and we'll see what happens."

Good Enough Brewer believes a 72-hole total of 280 will be good enough to win the PGA title and that would mean anyone who could match the card over the 7,180-yard, par 70 Firestone Country Club Course could take all the marbles plus the $25,000 first prize being awarded on this, the golden anniversary of the event.

The field was trimmed to 165 Tuesday with the withdrawal of five competitors—Gene Sarazen, the be-kickered three-time winner of the PGA crown—Wes Ellis, John McMullin, Roberto Devicenzo and Chandler Harper.

With Nicklaus taking the day off on Tuesday, much of the attention was centered around Palmer, partly because he's something of a sentimental choice in these parts and partly because people are anxious to see whether he has fully recovered from his dramatic blow-up which cost him the U.S. open title at San Francisco only a few weeks ago.

Good Spirits Palmer was in good spirits as he played 18 holes with Art Wall, Tom Weiskopf and R. H. Sikes. He drove consistently well but was a little dissatisfied with his putting which cheated him of birdies on several holes. The four players frequently conceded putts, however, so it was impossible to figure out any exact scores, but from the general way Palmer was hitting the ball, he would have been right around par.

"Sometimes, I wonder what I'm doing playing in the same foursome as these power hitters," laughed Wall, referring to Palmer and Young Weiskopf particularly. Bobby Nichols, winner of the PGA championship in 1964 and also winner of the greater Minnesota Open at St. Paul last Sunday, also caused a stir when he went out for some practice licks. Nichols fashioned one of the most fantastic putting rounds in all golf history enroute to his PGA victory two years ago. He was using an old hickory-shafted $5 putter at the time. And last Sunday, he won the Minnesota Open with a new putter that looks like a cross between a branding iron and something a guy might use to sift the ashes in his furnace.

What's This-Leo Finally Speechless

United Press International The Cincinnati Reds temporarily silenced Leo Durocher, with the minimum of effort. The volatile manager of the Chicago Cubs, who is never at a loss for words, was practically speechless Tuesday after Don Pavletich's two-out homer in the 18th inning gave the Reds a 3-2 victory over his Cubs. The blast by Pavletich was the only hit Cincinnati managed in the nine extra innings while the Cubs led 18 on base during the marathon contest. "What can I say?" Durocher inquired after the game. "We had our chances, and we didn't do it. One hit could have won it any time. We just didn't get the hit when we needed it."

The four-hour, 53-minute marathon, that was the longest game for either team in 15 years, surpassed the 17 innings played by the New York Mets and San Francisco Giants in the National League and the Cleveland Indians and California Angels in the American League earlier this season. Other NL Games In the only other National League action, the Houston Astros beat the Philadelphia Phillies 8-2 and the St. Louis Cardinals beat the Atlanta Braves, 10-9 in 12 innings. The Reds, who collected just eight hits in the 18-inning contest, went without a hit for 8-2-3 innings against Robin Roberts, Bob Hendley and Ferguson Jenkins before Pavletich hit his eighth homer of the year off Jenkins. The Cubs, however, managed only three hits over the final nine frames with Joe Nuxhall pitching the final three innings to record his second victory.

Actually the Cubs were only one out away from victory during regulation play when Gordie Coleman stroked a double to score Pete Rose and tie the game at 2-2. The two clutch hits by Coleman and Pavletich kept the Reds from falling into ninth place.

Snapped Streak Jim Wynn and pitcher Dick

Farrell each blasted a three-run homer as the Astros snapped a five-game losing streak at the expense of righthander Jim Bunning. Wynn's 15th homer of the season climaxed a four-run fourth inning that wiped out a 2-0 Philadelphia lead and Farrell's smash, off reliever Ray Culp, boosted the Astros' lead to 7-2 in the sixth. Farrell went the distance for the first time this season to record his fourth victory in 10 decisions. Charley Smith tied the score with a two-run, seventh-inning homer and won it when he singled with two outs in the 12th. Nelson Briles his fourth victory. Joe Torre's grand slam homer in the first inning paced the Braves to a 7-0, four-inning lead but Tim McCarver touched off a seven-run Cardinal sixth with a homer. Torre followed with his second homer of the game and 24th of the season to put the Braves ahead, 9-7, in the seventh but Smith tied the score with his homer in the bottom of the inning.

Burgess was pinching for Hoyt Wilhelm, who pitched two perfect innings in relief to win his first contest of the season and send the third-place Indians 11 games off the pace. Jim Perry, making only his ninth start of the season, limited the Senators to two hits in the ninth. Perry, who gave up an infield single to Frank Howard in the fourth and a bunt single to Don Blasingame in the ninth, evened his record at 4-4. He also drove in two runs with a single and a sacrifice fly.

Smoky Burgess, the best pinchhitter in history, delivered again in the ninth when his sacrifice fly scored Don Buford with Chicago's winning run.

BIRDS ARE FLYING

MVP to Robinson, Powell?

By JEF FMEYERS. By United Press International The Baltimore Orioles, having conquered the American League, can now fight among themselves for the spoils of war. The most prized booty of all—the junior circuit's most valuable player award—is contested by both Frank and Brooks Robinson. Boog Powell is challenging both Robinsons for the RBI trophy while Russ Snyder must battle Frank, Powell and Brooks for the batting crown.

The Orioles are sacking the rest of the AL thanks to brilliant individual performances and old fashioned team work. Baltimore stretched its runaway lead to 9½ games by walloping the second-place Detroit Tigers 13-3 Tuesday night.

Baltimore players have monopolized individual hitting departments. Brooks is first in RBIs with 76, Powell is second with 72 and Frank is third with 64. In batting, Snyder's .336 average leads second-ranked Frank by 18 points while Powell (.302) is fifth and Brooks (.300) is sixth.

Frank stands alone in the home run derby with 25, while Powell remains tied for second with 21 and ready to pounce should Robby falter.

The biggest battle, however, continues between the Robinson boys. The fight for the MVP award threatens to go down to the final out of the season, much to the delight of Baltimore Manager Hank Bauer.

Just when one Robinson slows down, the other picks up speed and carries the Orioles to victory. Overshadowing Brooks Tuesday night, Frank drove home five runs with a pair of homers. Brooks "merely" collected three hits and two RBIs.

In other AL action, Chicago shaded Cleveland 5-4 and Minnesota swept a pair from Washington 5-4 and 4-0, while the Kansas City at New York and California at Boston games were rained out.

Frank Robinson's awesome batting display paced a 19-hit Baltimore attack on four Detroit hurlers. Curt Blefary chipped in with his 13th homer of the campaign and pitcher Eddie Watt, who went the distance allowing eight hits and winning his seventh game in eight decisions, slammed his first homer.

First Clout Frank's first clout, with two on and none out in the opening inning, sent Earl Wilson to the showers. His second game in the fourth with a man aboard, the Orioles then wrapped up the game with five runs in the fifth and three more in the sixth.

Rain Halts Tilt Between Miami, Mobile Oilers

A lot of people will tell you it can't happen in Pampa, but a lot of Miami residents said it couldn't happen there either. But it did Tuesday night, rain that is, and the Miami Merchants-Mobile Oilers softball game was rained out.

The two teams will play a makeup game Friday, beginning at 8:30 p.m.

Two games were played Tuesday and first place Bell Pontiac whipped the Pampa Jets, 15-3 behind the pitching of Jerry Thomas. Walsh Insurance slipped into first place with a 7-3 decision over Mayfair.

Bell is still first at 8-0, next comes Walsh at 6-2, then Mobile at 5-2, Miami, 3-5; Mayfair, 3-5; Jets, 2-6.

Thursday night Jets and Mayfair play at 7:30 p.m. and Walsh and Mobile meet in the late game.

Starting Monday all teams will begin playing four nights a week, Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday in an effort to end league play in time for the annual Top O' Texas Tournament, slated the last week in August. All teams will play 18 contests.

A complete schedule of next week's game will appear Thursday in the Pampa News.

Repeat Performance

As everyone knows, there's nothing new under the sun. As further proof of this we'd like to review a letter which came into our hands recently, telling of a series of demonstrations proclaimed by the Communist Daily Worker, to be staged in 35 cities the week of September 22-28.

The date, however, was not 1966, but 1946, and the demonstrations were aimed not at Vietnam but at China. The Communist commissars at that stage in history were calling on their stooges to agitate in a nationwide "Get Out of China Week."

The letter, incidentally, had been sent out by the American China Policy Association, an organization of patriotic Americans which was trying to counter the lies of the Red-infiltrated Institute of Pacific Relations. It was addressed to editors, suggesting that they keep their eye on developments.

Thanks to the help given the Communists by a host of home-grown simpletons of 20 years ago, we did, indeed, get out of China and our leaders connived at setting up on the China mainland the Red monster that soon afterwards killed thousands of

Voice of the Pupil

The day may come when a teacher will be able to tell if he is getting his lessons across by measuring the size of his pupils' pupils.

A new instrument called the "Pupillograph" has just been unveiled by scientists. Far from being just another ophthalmic measuring device, it sounds almost like a kind of mind-reading machine.

Recent research indicates that the size of an individual's pupil at any particular moment is an objective, accurate guide to the degree of his interest or emotional involvement in a subject, his likes and dislikes and even his thought processes.

Times Have Changed

Remember back when firecrackers were legal? One of the old timers around the office recalled that the little explosives were always brightly packaged in red wrapping paper, with a pretty Chinese scene on the label. And the inside wrapper was almost always a clipping from a Chinese newspaper.

But the inner wrapper used by those thrifty Orientals was not from a Chinese or a Portuguese paper. It was a clipping from a Los Angeles newspaper.

Straight Talk

By TOM ANDERSON

Communism and Religion
Many "modernist" church leaders continuously crusade against all the world's evils — except one: Communism. On Communism their combined voice produces a crescendo of "silence that could be heard in Heaven." Wonder why? Hundreds of church "pacifists," who plead better red than dead in every confrontation with Russia, China and Cuba, were wargongers against Franco's Spain and Chiang Kai-Shek's China, and came back reporting glowingly that he noticed no persecution in Cuba and that Cuba was making much progress.

Years ago this same man told me that Catholicism is a greater menace to this country than Communism. People like him are the greatest menace.

Some of these same churchmen helped set the stage for our abandonment of China's great Christian leader Chiang Kai-Shek and the take-over by a criminal who makes Genghis Khan look like a Sunday School choir boy.

Lenin said: "We will find our most fertile field for infiltration of Marxism within the field of religion, because religious people are the most gullible and will accept almost anything if it is couched in religious terminology."

Dr. Nels F. S. Ferre, abbot professor at Andover Newton Theological School, writes: "If Marxism should conquer the whole world, this might be merely the prelude in economic arrangement to the blossoming of the seed within it of the deeply sowed seed of Christian faith and expectations."

The "Methodist Adult Quarterly" in September, 1962 stated: "At least Communism promises, and sometimes Communism delivers where democracy — even Christianity — has failed. . . We withhold understanding and help from underdeveloped nations which find some socialistic type of government essential. Certainly in its ideal form, a system which stresses equality and cooperation should come nearer Christian principles than one which is frankly based on competition and the 'survival of the fittest.'"

A person doesn't have to be a Communist to be subversive. The National Council of Churches is a far greater menace to America than the American Communist Party. The American people won't follow known communist leadership.

Society cannot be transformed by Great Societies, N.C.C.s or U.N.'s, nor by social reform and the movement of history. Society can be transformed only by spiritual rebirth. Spiritual rebirth can be kindled not through humanism but through faith in and obedience to the will of God. (For reference, see the Bible.)

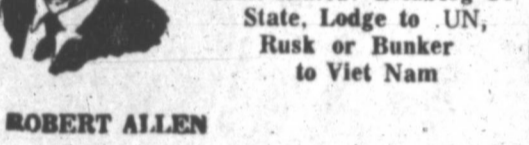

Acapulco has the best harbor on the Pacific coast of Mexico and one of the finest natural anchorages in the world. It is on a deep semicircular, almost landlocked bay. It is known as the "Riviera of Mexico." A favorite tourist attraction is watching spectacular dives into the sea from a high cliff by young boys who perform in return for a collection taken up from spectators.

State Department — UN Shift Hinted: Goldberg To State, Lodge to UN, Rusk or Bunker to Viet Nam

WASHINGTON — Those frequent private meetings of President Johnson and Ambassador Arthur Goldberg could be the forerunner to a series of major State Department changes.

Intimates of the U.S. representative to the UN say these backstage White House talks involve the exciting possibility that Goldberg may soon be tapped as secretary of state.

While no firm offer or commitment was given Goldberg, the President reportedly discussed with him the diplomatic developments that could bring about this shift.

Most important of these would be a decision by the President to send Secretary Rusk to Saigon to replace Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, who is contemplating leaving after the September elections in South Viet Nam.

White House aides report that Rusk and Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker, one of the State Department's top trouble-shooters, are both under consideration to replace Lodge.

Secretary Rusk has privately volunteered to take on this diplomatic assignment because of the important role the U.S. Ambassador to South Viet Nam will play in future Asian peace negotiations.

The American Way

By HARRY BROWNE
How many people do you control?

Count the number of individuals whose actions you direct. Obviously, the only realistic answer is one. You control one individual—yourself.

It is physically impossible for one individual to control another. For each human being has his own mind, his own concept of happiness, his own desires, his own power to move his arms and legs in ways that will respond to his own direction.

The greatest mistake an individual can make is to believe that he controls someone else. Just as wrong is to believe that you can control someone else and that you are inefficient if you fail to do so.

Most psychological problems of anxiety and frustration stem from this unrealistic desire: the attempt and ultimate failure to control someone else.

How easy it is to fall into the trap! You look at someone else—a friend, business associate, spouse. You see what you believe to be a defect in the relationship between you—a defect caused, of course, by the other person.

What do you do about it? Well, of course, there's only one thing to do: change the other person. Bring them around to change their ways, in order to improve the relationship.

If you respect that other person, you may try to show him the error of his ways. If you don't think he will respond reasonably, you may try to deceptively maneuver him (for his own good, of course) into a new course of action—one in keeping with what you want.

HUNT FOR TRUTH

By H. L. MUNT

MEASURE OF LOYALTY
The question arises in view of the danger faced by America as to whether there is a specific point at which a citizen of the United States ceases being loyal to his country. It is an important question because we are in a time when only loyal Americans can save this nation.

Some actions are instantly recognizable as disloyal. If an individual citizen should advocate every form of subversion, including the forcible overthrow of our constitution; form of government, no one would question that he is disloyal to America. But suppose a citizen goes only part way along the road of the wreckers, is he to be considered one-half loyal or three-quarters loyal?

Clearly it is not realistic to think of loyalty to America in such terms. The dictionary definition of loyal is "faithful to the lawful government." Faith is not a quality that can be cut up into fractions.

Loyalty to country, which is the force behind patriotism, cannot be measured or divided. In terms of loyalty, there is no actual dividing point between big traitors and little traitors or big subversives and little subversives.

An American citizen either is loyal to his country or he is not loyal. There is no way that loyalty can be watered down with the philosophy of the anti-freedom forces and still remain loyalty. And the idea which some would have us accept, that there is something disloyal about patriotism is too absurd to be given serious consideration. Yet the pro-communists continue their efforts to popularize the notion that "patriots are controversial."

WHEN THE HEAT'S ON—At 400,000 feet, 3,000 seconds from home, America's three Apollo astronauts, fresh from their journey to the moon, will face the severest lap in their entire trip when they pass through the heat barrier. Scientists of the Avco Corp., of Wilmington, Mass., have developed an ablative material that will keep the 20,000-degree temperature from bringing the moon mission to a fiery conclusion. In the top photo, engineers analyze the 380-square-foot exterior of the primary heat shield to determine exact heat loads. In the bottom photo the primary heat shield is shown being lowered over the crew cockpit of the Apollo command module. The primary heat shield can withstand temperatures up to 600 degrees, but for the higher heat of re-entry the shield is protected by the ablative material.

In 1929, President Hoover Treat, which denounced war, declared that Kellogg-Briand was in effect.

Jerry Lewis And Friends Safe In Yachting Incident

GORDA, Calif. (UPI)—Comedian Jerry Lewis and four companions escaped injury Tuesday after beaching their 65-foot yacht deliberately when it began taking on water, the Coast Guard reported.

Lewis and the others made their way to a nearby service station near Cape San Martin on the central California coast.

In addition to the comedian, the Coast Guard identified those on board only as skipper Stuart Glennon, Al Bell, Harold Sarabino and Joseph Proulx.

Pliny the Elder, famous Roman author, perished in the eruption of Mt. Vesuvius which destroyed Pompeii.

Speck Case May Try New Supreme Court Ruling

CHICAGO (UPI)—A killer was at large. A killer so savage that eight girls had died at his hands in a few hours. And who was to say that he would not strike again?

Was this the time for safeguarding his constitutional rights? For assuring that, once caught, he would get a fair and impartial trial? For moving gingerly in the wake of the June ruling by the U.S. Supreme Court on the treatment of suspected criminals?

Police Supt. O. W. Wilson thought not. Wilson felt the overriding objective was to catch the man.

And so he flatly named Richard Franklin Speck as the slayer of eight Chicago nurses. Speck's picture and the description of his tattoo led to his identification and arrest.

Wilson was asked Tuesday about criticism about naming Speck as the killer even before he had been apprehended. Wilson flushed slightly, then said:

"He is. He is."

The first big crime to be spotlighted by the Supreme Court ruling may well be the case of Richard Speck and the slaying of the nurses.

Case Compounded

Compounding the legal problem was the fact that Speck had been held in detention for three days now without seeing a judge or being charged with anything. However, police had no control over that. Speck's wrists were slashed when he was found, and doctors say he has been too weak to go to court.

Since the apprehension of the 24-year-old drifter, following a suicide attempt in a skid row flophouse, Cook County authorities have bent over backward in their attempts to conform with the high court ruling.

Its essentials provide that a suspect must not be interrogated if he does not wish it, that he must be represented by counsel.

Spacemen's Wives Watching Flight

SEABROOK, Tex. (UPI)—Barbara Young invited Pat Collins over today to keep track of their husband's progress in the nation's most ambitious space flight. Both went to church to pray for their Gemini 10 astronauts' safety.

The space wives caught up on their sleep Tuesday night. They were "happy but awfully sleepy" from staying up late Monday night.

"It was spectacular," Mrs. Young said of the progress of Gemini 10 so far.

"I needed lots of sleep," Mrs. Young said. "I stayed up so late last night."

She didn't go to bed until the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) Manned Spacecraft Center assured her the astronauts were asleep.

Roman Catholic Msgr. George Hickey, an Air Force chaplain, planned to hold a special Mass for Mrs. Collins and her sister, Mrs. Bernard Golden of Wellesley, Mass. at the chapel at Ellington Air Force Base.

Mrs. Young planned to visit St. Christopher Episcopal Church in nearby League City, Tex.

Mrs. Young drove to the Collins home Tuesday to be with Pat during the mission's extravehicular activity.

Later, Mrs. Young went home.

Mrs. Young and Mrs. Collins both went to church Tuesday. Mrs. Young went with the wife of astronaut Tom Stafford to special communion at St. Christopher. They were a little late because road construction slowed them down.

Mrs. Collins, wearing a brilliant green dress, went to the Ellington AFB chapel with Mrs. Golden, her sister.

John Young, 7, and his sister, Sandy, 9, stayed at the Stafford home while their mother went to church. The Collins children—Kathleen, 7; Ann, 4 and Michael Jr., 3, went swimming while their mother was gone.

Both astronaut wives have loudspeakers from the Manned Spacecraft Center in their homes so they can follow the flight.

Mrs. Collins, a peppy woman with dark hair said she stayed up Monday night "until they said there was going to be a silent period, and I thought, 'there's also going to be a silent period here, I'm going to bed'."

Dutch Government Ousts Chinese Diplomat

THE HAGUE, The Netherlands (UPI)—The Dutch government yesterday ordered the highest ranking Chinese Communist Diplomat in Hague to leave the country within 24 hours, blaming him for the mysterious death of a visiting technician from Peking.

Li En-chiu, the charge d'affaires of the Red Chinese legation, left on a flight for Moscow as local authorities opened an investigation into the death of Lu Chang-hsu, a technician who was reportedly here to attend a congress.

As Li was whisked to the airport in a diplomatic car, members of his staff were seen burning bundles of papers in a metal trash can in the backyard of the legation's villa.

The incident that led to Li's expulsion took place on Saturday at the Hague's new Red Cross hospital. The technician was found badly injured on the doorstep of the Chinese legation's third secretary.

He was brought to the hospital, where X-rays and examinations by doctors showed he was suffering from "serious concussion and injuries to the back and spinal column." He died July 17.

If Communists Would Stop Fighting US Would Leave

SAIGON (UPI)—The South Vietnamese government said today American troops would be asked to leave the country if the Communists stop fighting.

Gen. Nguyen Van Thieu, chief of state, said the Communists have lost all hope of winning the war in Viet Nam.

The announcement came in the form of a proclamation on the anniversary of the Geneva agreements which partitioned the country at the 17th parallel into North and South Viet Nam 12 years ago. The Vietnamese call it "the day of shame," or "national shame day."

Thieu and Prime Minister Nguyen Cao K. presided at a ceremony in front of Independence Palace. More than 3,000 persons were on hand to witness the pomp and ceremony of a Vietnamese national observance.

Sixteen North Vietnamese prisoners were freed in honor of the national observance, but three of them refused to return to their homes in the north. The others crossed the Ben Hai River separating North and South Viet Nam and were greeted by Hanoi representatives.

The proclamation, broadcast over Saigon radio shortly before the ceremony, said there could be peace when:
