Troop Withdrawal In Cleveland Underway

U.S. Cautious Of Hanoi Reply On Prisoners

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Johnson administration appears to have adopted an attitude of cautious optimism concerning the fate of American airmen and the war prisoners in the hands of Communist North Vietnam.

There has been a notable absence of any official warnings of serious consequences for Hanoi such as characterized the remarks for a number of weeks.

This more restrained attitude has become particularly evident since last Saturday, the day the White House said President Johnson received word Hanoi might not carry out its threat to try the captive U.S. fliers as "war criminals."

Take Grave View

It was clear the President and his aides still took an extremely grave view of the problem and were in no way less insistent that North Vietnam abide strictly by the Geneva convention rules on treatment of prisoners of war.

It seemed equally clear, however, that the administration recognized the emotional dynamite in the war prisoner issue and was anxious to do or say nothing to arouse public opinion any further.

Administration officials believe that even critics of the President's policies would unite behind him in almost any action he deemed necessary if the prisoners were mistreated.

Bland Statement

The State Department, asked to comment Monday on North Vietnamese President Ho Chi Minh's weekend message that there was "no trial in view," said, "we welcome any indication that American prisoners will not be tried on the false charge that they are guilty of war crimes."

A department spokesman, Robert J. McCloskey, would not go beyond that statement. He merely referred to White House Press Secretary Bill D. Moyers' statement on the Ho message "we're not exactly sure what this means. We will be watching it very closely. Beyond that I cannot go."

McCloskey declined to say when the United States was trying to exchange 19 captured North Vietnamese sailors for the U.S. prisoners. The sailors were captured June 30 when their torpedo boats tried unsuccessfully to attack a U.S. Navy destroyer in the Gulf of Tonkin.

TRIBUTE PAID — Former superintendent of Pampa schools L. J. (Jack) Edmondson was honored yesterday at the monthly membership meeting of the Chamber of Commerce for 26 years of service and contributions to the Pampa-school system and Community life. Edmondson, who recently resigned to accept a position in the public relations department of West Texas State College in Canyon, was presented a plaque by Floyd Watson, left, past president of the school board and Chamber of Commerce.

200 Attend Farewell Dinner for Edmondson

Two hundred Pampans attended a Chamber of Commerce luncheon yesterday to pay farewell tribute to School Superintendent L. J. Edmondson who has resigned effective Aug. 1 to take a post in the public relations department of West Texas State University.

Edmondson was honored for his 26 years of service to the Pampa school system and community life. Edmondson received a Tip Top Texan Award, a dozen roses, an electric rotisserie and the chamber's traditional Top O' Texas plate as symbols of appreciation.

Serving as superintendent of schools for the past five years, Edmondson also has served as president of the Rotary Club; a member of the Chamber of Commerce board of directors and committees; and president of the Texas State Teachers Association.

Special guests at yesterday's luncheon were the Edmondsons' twin daughters, Terry, who is a junior at West Texas State University and Mrs. Gerald (Jerry) Allen of Pampa. Their son, Tony, a senior at Texas Technological College, was unable to attend.

Norman Henry, chamber president, was master of ceremonies.

"Service Above Self" is the Rotarian motto, which Jack adopted for his professional life," E. E. Shelhamer, chamber vice president and president of the Pampa School Board, told luncheon guests. "Other people's problems are his problems."

Mayor Jim Nation, in paying tribute to the departing Edmondsons, said: "In picking up your newspaper, you can read of worthwhile projects in which our young people are involved. It is always a project of which we can be proud. Perhaps, this is a fair yardstick to judge the job Jack has done as superintendent. . . the job that is being done by our schools in teaching good citizenship."

Miss Judy Neslage, president of Pampa Classroom Teachers' Association, presented the honorees with an electric rotisserie on behalf of the PCTA with the remark: "He was a friend above all."

"His greatest responsibility was to his students," Floyd Watson, past president of Chamber of Commerce and Pampa School Board, said. "This was reflected in the students themselves in the areas of competition and the impressive records they have established in the fields of band, choir, drama, publications, yearbook, science."

Majority Vote Due Wilson?

LONDON (UPI) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson, whose Labor party has a 96-vote majority in the House of Commons, today was expected to survive an opposition censure motion condemning his handling of Britain's financial crisis.

Despite dissatisfaction from leftwing Laborites in Parliament, the huge Wilson majority seemed assured of blocking the Conservative challenge. It was considered unlikely that a coalition of rightwing Conservative and Labour M.P.'s would go so far as to bolt the party.

Wilson late Monday night explained and defended his austerity program before the leftwing group, which has heaped scorn on the government's wage and price freeze proposals. The freeze is part of Wilson's plan to cut $1.4 billion from an over-heated economy.

After the meeting, the leftwing Laborites called for a special conference to debate the "mini-budget" proposals and announced a program with the following:

—Drastic cuts in foreign spending, recall of British troops from West Germany, and withdrawal from east of Suez.

—A government review of the pound's role as a major world currency.

—Planning to discriminate against inessential and import-consuming enterprises.

Soldiers To Be Out By Sunday

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Authorities began withdrawing National Guardsmen from the riot-scarred Hough area today. About 450 men were ordered out at noon. All 2,000 guardsmen will be withdrawn by Sunday, Col. Robert H. Canterbury said.

"It will be a gradual rather than an abrupt withdrawal," he said.

The announcement came after a meeting between Canterbury and Mayor Ralph Lecher, who said city police would remain on 12-hour work shifts at least through Sunday.

The guard's withdrawal began as a grand jury investigating the riots took a guided bus tour of the East Side riot area.

For some members of the jury, called back into session from summer recess, it was their first trip to the East Side slums, currently Cleveland's No. 1 social problem. Most of the populace in the Hough district, where last week's rioting was concentrated, are Negroes.

The jury was taken to the corner of Hough Ave. and 79th St. where the riot was triggered and down the streets where four Negroes were killed and where firebombs destroyed or badly damaged scores of buildings.

The jury encountered only curious pedestrians instead of the mob savagery faced by police and firemen during the rioting.

Police Chief Richard Wagner said he would recommend gradual reduction of the National Guard force.

Col. Robert Canterbury, commander of the National Guard troops, said he believed the curback could begin today if city officials approved.

Some officials, mainly Negro city councilmen, insisted the guard be kept in Hough at its present strength until all municipal services are restored. They said workmen feared going into the area to repair electric lines and other facilities without protection.

Police in this northeastern Brazilian port city were holding 14 persons today in connection with a terrorist bombing at the city's airport that claimed three lives and may have been an attempt to assassinate Brazil's leading presidential candidate.

The bomb exploded Monday in the midst of a group of dignitaries awaiting the arrival of government candidate Marshal Artur Costa Silva who was flying to Recife on a campaign visit.

The federal government today ordered an immediate and thorough investigation of the blast—believed the work of Communist terrorists—and named air force Colonel Alberto Lopez Perez to head the inquiry.

Costa Silva, who is considered certain to win the upcoming presidential election, was scheduled to arrive at the airport shortly after the bomb exploded.

He apparently had advance notice of the terrorist attempt, however, because he canceled plans to fly to the city at the last minute and arrived by car instead. Costa Silva campaigned without incident after his arrival.

Doctor Is Facing Charges in Death Of Wife, Neighbor

SARASOTA, Fla. (UPI) — Dr. Carl A. Coppolino appeared to be tragedy's stepchild. Until four years ago, he was leading an enviable life—a beautiful wife, a good medical practice and a $50,000 home in Middletown Twp., N.J.

Then a heart attack left Coppolino a semi-invalid. Shortly after his best friend died of an apparent heart attack, the doctor moved his family to Sarasota where his wife died last August also the victim of an apparent heart attack.

Neighbors were sympathetic, and unprepared for Coppolino's arrest last weekend on charges of murdering the friend, retired Army Lt. Col. William E. Farber, and his wife, Carmella, who also was a doctor.

Coppolino, 34, victim of another heart attack, was under guard in a hospital today while Florida and New Jersey authorities engaged in a tug of war over who would bring him to trial.

The charges, both of first degree murder, came after disinterment of both bodies and lengthy autopsies performed in New York. Death certificates said heart attacks caused both deaths.

Mrs. Coppolino was the doctor who signed Farber's death certificate. Coppolino, who has suffered four coronary attacks and was reported writing a book on the subject, has not yet indicated whether he will waive extradition.

State Atty. Frank Shaub said, "I think we should try him here while we've got him here."

Schaub disclosed Monday that a "confidential investigation" in the case had been under way since December, when Mrs. Coppolino's body was exhumed. He said that although the indictment Monday said Mrs. Coppolino died of an "unknown cause," investigators worked on the theory she died from "a drug anesthesiologist and medical scientists heretofore thought would not be detected after death."

A New Jersey prosecutor, Vincent P. Keuper, said Farber died of strangulation. Schaub said the investigation into Mrs. Coppolino's death was prompted by a tip from insurance agents, and that information relayed to New Jersey authorities started the investigation into Farber's death.

Schaub said he knew of at least two life insurance policies on Mrs. Coppolino listing her husband as the beneficiary and totaling $65,000. The Farbers and Coppolinos lived across the street from one another in Middletown Twp., and neighbors said they spent a great deal of time together. After Farber's death, his wife and the Coppolinos moved to Sarasota.

Less than a month after his wife's death, Coppolino married wealthy Mrs. Mary Poellnitz Gibson, 52, a divorcee. They have four children, two of them Coppolino's and two hers from a previous marriage.

City Accepts Sewage Plant

City commissioners today closed out the contract and accepted the completed job on the city's new sewage disposal plant.

A final bill of $19,651.35 was paid to Fort Worth contractor A. W. Boren.

City Manager Jim White said total cost of the plant will run approximately $2,000 below the original $318,750 estimate.

Bill London, representative of Forrest & Cotton, Dallas consulting engineers on the plant project, placed the firm's approval on the new plant and commended the contractor on a good job.

"You have a good plant," London told commissioners, "and the contractor has done a good job."

City Manager Jim White said the new plant now is carrying about three-fourths of Pampa's sewage disposal load and the old plant about one-fourth.

London told commissioners the old plant should be kept in operation just enough to keep equipment from deteriorating.

The new installation has been in operation for several weeks. City Manager White said a formal opening will be held within the next three or four weeks.

In other business today, the commission accepted, with a formal resolution of thanks, a $25,000 contribution from the Gray County Foundation. Mayor Jim Nation announced the donation on behalf of Aubrey Steele, Foundation chairman. The money was designated to be used for street improvements.

Commissioners approved payment of $5,913.58 to Merriman & Barber for engineering work and field inspection on the Harvester and Somerville street improvements. The sum equals 8 per cent of the total cost of the two projects.

Permission was granted to the State Highway Department to tie into the city's storm drainage system on West Highway U.S. 60.

Authorization was given for purchase of $500,000 in U.S. Treasury Bills and a 90-day $200,000 time deposit of street improvement bond funds.

Average Citizen On Losing End

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The average American lost $10 in purchasing power during the three months that ended June 30. Inflation and higher taxes more than wiped out income gains.

The government said Monday that the loss over purchasing power in January, February and March amounted to a drop in per capita income from $2,287 to $2,277.

Higher withholding and other taxes and the adjustment for inflation's higher prices were the major factors in the drop, according to President Johnson's Council of Economic Advisers.

In a June 30 speech at Des Moines, Johnson said Americans had been outrunning inflation because incomes had risen faster than prices. He was talking about the last five years.

SOMETIME IN OCTOBER

Pampa Democrats Plan Political Rally

Gray County Democrats met last night and put into motion preliminary plans for a giant political rally and barbecue in Pampa early in October.

Tentative date for the rally was set as Oct. 1 or Oct. 15. Bill Steger, president of the Gray County Democratic Club, said Texas Attorney General Waggoner Carr, candidate for the U.S. Senate at the Nov. 8 general election, has been invited to head the speakers' list.

District Attorney Bill Waters said an answer from Carr is expected next week.

Gov. John Connally and other candidates on the Democratic state, district, and county levels also will be invited.

It was announced that Congressman Walter Rogers will be among Democratic dignitaries attending the rally.

Invitations are going out to Democratic chairmen in surrounding counties and legislative districts, urging attendance along with delegations from their respective counties.

John Callarman, principal speaker at last night's meeting, stressed the importance of precinct co-ordinators and block chairmen to make voter contacts on behalf of Democratic candidates.

"The candidates cannot contact every voter," he said. "We must have dedicated, inspired, hard-core workers to make contacts, answer questions and help put Democratic candidates into office."

Club president Steger also placed emphasis on precinct organization among Democratic workers.

To further the plan, Steger said, a Precinct Workers Workshop will be conducted within the next three weeks.

Siebert Worley of Shamrock, candidate for the state legislature, and Grainger McIlhany of Wheeler, candidate for district judge, spoke briefly to club members and guests in the Hospitality Room of the Citizens' Bank.

Refreshments were served by members of the Sigma Delta Sub Deb sorority.

Residents Sad As Trees Are Felled On N. Somerville

It was a solemn group of friends and neighbors who stood watching the bulldozers knock down trees in the 1000 block of N. Somerville.

There was a requiem air as the 30-year-old trees were up-rooted and hauled away. Trees, which had been sentimental landmarks for some of the residents, who had planted them and through the years had watched them grow to stately heights.

Removing the trees was the first step in the N. Somerville project, which calls for widening the street from Cook St. north with a bridge as a connecting link with N. Hobart St. at Corocado Dr.

Letter Gains Visit, Tour Of White House

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A 9-year-old Iowa boy dropped President Johnson a note that he and his family would hate to go back home from Washington without visiting him at the White House. Johnson had them over Monday.

Ricky Paulsen, the youngster who wrote the letter, brought with him his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Paulsen; his brothers, Christopher Allan, 13, and Larry Andrew, 10; and his sisters, Lisa Ann, 7, and Karin Brita, 3.

Ricky, in a bright red jacket, and Karin, in a blue print dress, held Johnson's hands as the Chief Executive took the family on a tour of his office and the rose garden outside, then introduced them to the White House dogs.

Johnson had met the youngsters before—a chance encounter when the President was leaving the Lincoln Memorial on Lincoln's birthday.

After reading his letter, he extended an invitation to Ricky and his sister to visit him.

Ricky took him up on the offer this week.

Ricky's father, an agricultural economist for the government here for the last year, is returning Aug. 1 with his family to Ames, Iowa, where he is a professor at Iowa State University.

Sooner Office Hunt Lost Man

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — Authorities issued an all-points alert Monday for a young man who gave two Marines a ride in a blood-stained car shortly after a Del City, Okla., youth disappeared July 1.

Earle Goerke, director of the Oklahoma Bureau of Investigation, said a truck driver told agents he gave two Marines and a third man a ride after the trio abandoned Kenny Kienlen's disabled car near Checotah Okla., on July 2.

Kienlen, 19, disappeared while driving his sports car from Del City to Little Rock, Ark., to visit a girl friend.

Goerke identified one of the Marines as David E. Waffle. The other Marine's name was withheld until officers could interview him in Arkansas where he was on leave. Both are stationed at the Memphis, Tenn., Naval Air Station.

There was $175 damage to the Molsbee car and $150 to the Morrison car.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — An armada of planes and ships searched a Pacific Ocean area the size of Colorado today in an effort to find tracts of a downed DC3 carrying hero-soldier Brig. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell.

Stilwell, 54-year-old leader of the Green Berets in Viet Nam and son of the famed World War II Burma commander "Vinegar" Joe Stilwell, hitched a ride aboard the plane Saturday night. The massive search intensified Monday.

Search conditions were reported less than ideal. The Coast Guard said a low cloud cover cut surface visibility at times to less than 10 miles. But there was no rain and the sea was running at a moderate eight feet.

The Coast Guard expanded the search area from 70,000 square miles to 104,000 square miles late Monday. It reported that 20 land-based planes, two cutters, three destroyers, and the aircraft carrier Yorktown were involved in the hunt.

Stilwell's long-time friend, Hal Grimes, Pacific Palisades, Calif., planned to ferry the aircraft to Hawaii for eventual delivery to the Royal Thailand Air Force, and Stilwell wanted to go along as co-pilot to earn extra flying time.

It was believed two others also were aboard the two-engine plane, but the Federal Aviation Agency said it could not be sure because only the pilot's name showed on the flight plan.

First confirmation that Stilwell was on the ill-fated aircraft came early Monday from his mother at Carmel, Calif. Mrs. Stilwell was reported by her physician to be withstanding the ordeal "with the remarkable courage and discipline that came from being the wife and mother of military men." Her husband died in 1946 at the age of 52 after gaining fame as a tough jungle fighter in the Burma theater of World War II.

Carrying Life Raft
The Coast Guard said the missing plane, civilian version of the military C47, was carrying a bright orange 10-man emergency life raft, flashlights and flares.

The craft carried about 2000 gallons of gasoline but the FAA spokesman said he did not think the plane was so overweight that normal ditching procedures would be impaired.

The spokesman also revealed that the DC3 had taken off Saturday afternoon, but returned an hour later because Grimes thought engines were "running rough."

Grimes, veteran of more than 200 ocean crossings, had the plane refueled and took off again. Early Sunday, he reported he was 550 miles out to sea and that he was going to return to San Francisco because one engine was dead. The plane then vanished.

Downtown Pampa Gets Spruce Up

Additional redwood planters with Radiant Junipers were added to the downtown section of Pampa yesterday afternoon as part of the Downtown Merchants' Association's civic beautification project.

Joe Tooley, chairman, reports it is planned to have planters in the 100 block of S. Cuyler; the 100 and 200 blocks N. Cuyler.

Home Entered

Mrs. L. P. Sandford, 714 E. Frederic, reported to city police that someone had entered her home Monday afternoon between 12:45 p.m. and 6 p.m. by unhooking a screen window.

Nothing was taken, Mrs. Sandford reported.

More Showers Due In Pampa, Panhandle

More showers are predicted for Pampa and the vicinity with 40 per cent probability of showers forecast for Wednesday.

In addition, isolated thunderstorms are expected tonight, with scattered thunderstorms Wednesday.

Weather is expected to remain hot during the daytime, though, with a high in the upper 90's. Low is to be near 70.

Clear to partly cloudy skies will remain, with southerly winds 15 to 25 miles an hour. Little change lies in store for Thursday.

High Monday was 95, with an overnight low of 63.

Monday, raising to nearly five inches the amount that has fallen on some sections of the city in two days.

Ennis, a Texas city between Dallas and Waco, got more than three inches of rain Monday. Several other areas of Central Texas reported between one and two inches.

A waterspout churned along in the Gulf of Mexico off Port Aransas Monday but caused no damage.

Lightning damaged the steeple of Rüdglea Baptist Church in Fort Worth Monday. Rainfall Monday in Fort Worth was up to 1.60 inches. That raised the total in 48 hours in the downtown area to 4.90 inches and in the Hurst area to 4.70 inches.

A few scattered showers were reported in North Central Texas after daybreak. There was a broken line of showers from Red River near Quanah southward to the Big Spring area.

Low temperature reports overnight ranged from 68 at Dalhart to 82 at Presidio. Precipitation recorded 106 degrees Monday and El Paso and San Angelo reported 100 degrees. The high in Corpus Christi was 88.

Forecasters expected the showers in North Central Texas and from Red River southwestward to the Big Spring area to continue. More showers were expected to develop along the coast and deeper in Southwest Texas.

Mansfield Says Airline Strike National Problem

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said today the airline strike constitutes a national emergency and assumes the administration believes likewise.

"They're doing everything they can to stop it," the Montana Democrat commented as the Senate Labor Committee prepared to consider special legislation to deal with the 19-day strike.

Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz and three other cabinet officials were scheduled to appear with airline and union representatives at a hearing this afternoon.

Mansfield doubted that any bill to end the strike would be read for floor action before Thursday.

Negotiations were in recess, awaiting results of congressional settlement efforts. The Senate committee called spokesmen for the five idled airlines and the International Association of Machinists AFL-CIO to testify, with government spokesmen, at an afternoon hearing. The committee appeared ready, if the existence of a national emergency was demonstrated, to recommend a strike settlement bill. Action could come later today or Wednesday morning.

A pocketful of bills has been proposed to deal with the strike, but there was broad committee support for a proposal by Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., to end the strike and send the dispute to a new mediation panel for 180 days.

Merits of the various proposals and the issues in the strike were not to be discussed at the hearing, however. It was to decide what Morse called "a question of fact: Is there a national emergency that warrants emergency legislation?"

Morse, who headed President Johnson's emergency board in the dispute, said he is sure the answer to the question is yes. He said he fully expects his emergency strike bill will be approved.

Sooner Youths Go To Prison

MCALISTER, Okla. (UPI) — Four Oklahoma City teen-agers who admitted rapping a 15-year-old San Antonio, Tex. girl last year have begun three-year terms at McAlester State Prison.

James Fellers Jr., 17, son of a former Oklahoma Bar Association president and Larry Wyatt Smith and twins Michael O. and Richard P. Stanley, 18, were brought to the prison unexpectedly last Friday, Warden Ray Page said.

They pleaded guilty after another defendant John Shapard, 17, was convicted by jury in El Reno, Okla. last fall. Shapard has appealed.

The four youths had received permission to remain free until after school closed this term.

"The fact that we are rated one of the best high schools in the state is due in part to the leadership of Jack Edmondson," Watson said.

In expressing appreciation for the luncheon, Edmondson's voice faltered slightly as he recalled that his children, too, had been educated from the first grade through graduation in Pampa schools.

"We are overwhelmed by this tribute," he said. "We are appreciative from the bottom of our hearts. We hate to leave this friendly city in the Top of Texas. It will always be home. We won't say goodbye, but just 'so long.'"

Luncheon music was provided by Mrs. Maxine Milliron.

Following invocation by the Rev. Don Hauck, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, Misses Joan Craig and Susan Benton presented a selection of songs, accompanied by Susan Patrick at the piano, the door.

Viet Cong Attack Cu Chi Army Base

SAIGON (UPI) — Communist guerrillas carried out a 90-minute attack with mortar and recoilless rifle fire on headquarters of the U.S. Army's 25th Infantry Division at Cu Chi tonight. A spokesman said the Americans suffered "very light" casualties.

The attack on the base camp 20 miles northwest of Saigon began shortly before 7:30 p.m. when the Viet Cong began firing round after round of 82 millimeter recoilless rifle and 120-millimeter mortar fire into the camp.

There were no immediate details as to the amount of damage sustained at the camp but a division spokesman said infantrymen suffered "very light" casualties.

Two of the division's three brigades are based at Cu Chi. One brigade reported that a dud recoilless rifle shell landed in its headquarters area.

A spokesman at division headquarters told UPI by telephone that Communist mortar fire was coming in about every five minutes and falling all over the post area.

The base camp at Cu Chi is located on the edge of a rubber plantation in a forested area that has long been a Viet Cong stronghold.

Communist guerrillas in recent days have intensified their activities in the Saigon area, apparently to take the pressure off a North Viet Nam regular division badly mauled by U.S. Marines in the northwest corner of South Viet Nam just below the 17th Parallel.

A Maxine spokesman said the Marine offensive which killed or captured an estimated 1,400 Hanoi regulars apparently had achieved its purpose of driving the Communists back across the border and blunting a monsoon offensive believed aimed at the ancient imperial capital of Hue.

In the air war, U.S. planes flew through typhoon weather and dodged surface-to-air (SAM) missiles and antiaircraft fire Monday to pound nine oil depots in Communist-North Viet Nam, American military spokesmen reported today.

American spokesmen in Saigon also reported new figures for the U.S. Marine operation lastings in which thousands of Leatherneck troops are chasing a North Vietnamese division in the northwest corner of South Viet Nam near the Laotian frontier.

The Marines said 736 Communists were known dead by body count and another 656 listed as "probable" kills. Eleven North Vietnamese were captured in the 12-day campaign, bringing estimated Communist losses to about 1,400.

It was in the Hastings sweep that North Vietnamese troops summarily executed at least six wounded Marines they had captured. Survivors reported Monday the Communists, in a throwback to Nazi atrocities, moved through the lines of wounded, shooting in the head anyone who moved.

U.S. Air Force B52 jet bombers today hit a suspected Viet Cong troop concentration in Binh Tuy Province 80 miles northeast of Saigon. The B52s Monday struck in three areas from one end of the south to the other.

The only U.S. plane reported lost Monday was an Air Force F100 Supersabre jet which crashed near Saigon after being hit by Communist ground fire.

The pilot, Capt. Gerald J. Farrell, 35, of Detroit, parachuted to the ground and came under intense Viet Cong fire.

Fine Arts Delegates To Discuss WT Growth

George Cree Jr. and Ted Gikas will represent the Pampa Fine Arts Association at a meeting Aug. 3 in Amarillo to assess the cultural growth potentials of West Texas.

Meeting from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the Junior League's historic Houghton House, Amarillo, a select group of volunteer leaders and executives of chambers of commerce have been invited to attend.

The conference was called by John Ben Shepperd of Odessa, president of West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

Topics to be covered during the five-hour sessions include the role of business and industry in the support of community cultural activities, encouragement of excellence in libraries, the establishment of more and better community, summer and children's theaters and the possible use of tax money to supplement private funds in financing the fine arts in West Texas.

At a meeting of Pampa Fine Arts Association yesterday afternoon in the offices of the president, George Cree Jr., the following committee members were named:

Dr. Carl Lang, chairman of the Miscellaneous Arts Committee, named Mrs. Don George, Warren Hasse; Mrs. Teed Hicks, Dewey Palmittier, Bruce Pratt, Horace Watkins, Mrs. Margaret Dial, Mrs. Wiley Reynolds and Mrs. Thelma Bray.

Mrs. Ray Hudson named Ron Graves, Mrs. Jack O. Miller, Mrs. Elbert Walker, Mrs. LeRoy Ogden and Mrs. Don Myers to serve on the Theatrical Arts Committee.

War in Viet Nam Is Taking Toll on Dollars

EDITOR'S NOTE: Although it doesn't grow on trees, money is like apples: When the supply is scarce, the price goes up. As everyone from Uncle Sam on down seems to be demanding more of spend. It's what the tight money situation is all about, as explained in laymen's language by a UPI economics reporter.

By JOHN PIERSON.
WASHINGTON (UPI)—It doesn't hurt as much as the war in Viet Nam, but more and more Americans are beginning to feel the pinch of the rate war and the money squeeze. Homebuyers suddenly find they have to pay more for a mortgage. If they can get one at all. Car loans are costing more. And where banks and finance companies still have leeway under state usury laws, they have boosted their charges for personal loans.

Businessmen want more money to build new plants so they can turn out the goods and services consumers want. As the war in Viet Nam gets worse, the government wants more money to raise and equip fighting forces.

The Federal Reserve Board, an independent agency created by Congress in 1913, has the job of regulating the money supply. If it had wanted to, the "Fed" could have supplied enough money to meet the demand. Interest rates would have held steady. In fact, prices were already rising too fast to suit the board. So instead of pouring more and more money into the system, the Fed began supplying less. At the same time, the board decided to make money more expensive in hopes this would discourage people—especially businessmen—from borrowing so much.

BRUSSELS—The protectionist decisions on farm tariffs just taken by the European Common Market powers are expected to have an important effect on the current world tariff talks at Geneva. The United States, especially, will find the new Common Market farm tariffs hard to surmount.

MINNEAPOLIS—Gamble Skogmo, Inc., has given up its attempt to buy control of First National Stores, the Boston supermarket chain, because it did not receive tenders for at least 800,000 shares in response to its recent offer.

WASHINGTON—Machine tool orders climbed in June with bookings 11 per cent ahead of May and 33 per cent above a year earlier, the industry trade association reports.

stocks and bonds had risen to the point where savers and investors were taking their money out of banks and savings and loan associations and having a fling at the market. To make banks more attractive places to investors, the Fed also raised the maximum rate banks might pay for time deposits from 4.5 to 5.5 per cent. Time deposits are deposits for a fixed amount of time—maybe three months, six months or a year.

But the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, which regulates the savings and loan industry, also looks out for its own. Fearing that banks would start taking deposits away from savings and loans, the bank board began a progressive easing of its interest rate restrictions on these institutions.

Deposits Slowed
While funds continued flowing into savings and loans, they came in much more slowly, more money more.

Garmon Goes on Trial For Two State Kidnapping Spree

DALLAS (UPI)—Delbert Harmon Garmon, a 26-year-old Wichita Falls former salesman accused of taking nearly a score of hostages during a more than two-week flight across Texas and Oklahoma went on trial today. Garmon, faces federal charges of kidnapping and three charges of illegal possession of firearms. He is charged specifically with kidnaping Elbert Dugan of Davidson, Okla. and forcing him to drive to Dallas at gunpoint. Garmon's trial was rescheduled from March 28 so he could undergo psychiatric examination at the U.S. Hospital for Federal Prisoners in Springfield, Mo. He was captured in an East Dallas bar after a barmaid recognized him from a wanted poster and called the FBI. He offered no resistance.

Garmon fled from a Wichita Falls policeman last Oct. 5 after the officer arrived in answer to screams of help from Mrs. Garmon. Garmon seized the policeman's pistol. The officer grabbed another gun from his squad car and exchanged shots with Garmon. Garmon, an ex-convict, cut his wrists in the Dallas County jail in an apparent suicide attempt last winter.

Israel, Syria Open New Domestic Talks

UNITED NATIONS N.Y. (UPI)—Israel and Syria opened a new round of their 19-year-old struggle in the United Nations ready with counter-complaints of aggression in connection with Jordan River diversion projects. The 15-nation council was scheduled to meet this afternoon with Chief S.O. Adebbo, the Nigerian ambassador, presiding.

Syria, in a complaint filed last Thursday, charged Israel with an aggression in an air raid against Syrian work crews, in which one person was killed and nine wounded.

Israel, acknowledging the July 14 raid by four of its regular air force planes, said it was in retaliation for Syrian attacks against Israeli equipment and personnel on its side of the river. Both Israel and its Arab neighbors, facing each other at gunpoint on almost any pretext since 1947, claim the right to use and divert the waters of the biblical river Jordan.

Dear Abby.... Female Mosquito Puts on the Bite

DEAR ABBY: How come when my husband and I sit outside together, the mosquitoes go right after me, but they leave him entirely alone? My husband says it is a fact that mosquitoes prefer women to men. Is that so?

I once heard that the worse a person smells, the safer from mosquitoes he is. Now that makes more sense to me. If you can find out anything about how mosquitoes go about selecting their victims please clue me in.

MOSQUITO-BITTEN
DEAR BITTEN: While it is said that gentlemen prefer blondes, mosquitoes prefer brunettes! And they aren't fussy about the sex. But only the female mosquito bites, so if more women than men are victims, it's peete justice.

Mosquitoes are attracted to strong odors—good and bad, so we must infer that lady who drenches herself in sweet-smelling perfume is no "safer" from mosquitoes than the nonbathing onion-eater.

DEAR ABBY: My husband has had a very close friend for years. They golf, fish, and hunt together. At a bridge party recently, one of the ladies said that this man cheated on his wife. I didn't believe it, so I asked my husband if he knew anything about it. He said, yes, he knew all about it.

Abby, I was no hurt that my husband could have a friend like that. We have had many bitter words about it. Am I wrong to expect my husband to give up his friendship with a man like this?

HURT
DEAR HURT: Yes. The man may have other qualities your husband finds worthy of his friendship. Judge not a man until you have walked for at least twenty miles in his moccasins.

DEAR ABBY: Can you get it across to the bird brain set that it is extremely bad manners to question a divorcee about her "ex"? After 20 years of what everyone (including me) thought was a happy marriage, my husband ran off with some doll. That was four years ago and people still ask me, "What do you hear from So and So?"

What do they expect me to hear from a man who deserted his wife and child, walked out on a lucrative business, turned his back on his parents and friends, left me with a mortgage to pay and a stack of unpaid bills?

Just before our daughter was married, people nearly drove me crazy asking, "Is her father going to give her away?" And, "Did you invite 'him' and his new wife?" But what really

Beauty Blueprint For the Summer Outdoor Girl

By PATRICIA KING
Beauty Editor

Newspaper Enterprise Assn. NEW YORK (NEA)—Being the all-American girl by day and a glamorous femme fatale by night is not as difficult as it may sound—even when your days include outdoor summer sports.

Vacation spots offer sunshine, tropical climates and salty ocean breezes.

To beauty problems, however, this means hot sun, hair-straightening humidity, salt spray and sand.

Daytime is for sailing, water skiing and swimming, but after sundown it is time for elegance. This takes planning.

Here is how to make a quick transition from beach-comber to sudden beauty:

—The only shortcut secret is not to get stringy, dry, sunbaked hair and skin. A sensible ounce of prevention to protect your hair from sun and wind is a half ounce of cream rinse whenever you shampoo. For extra protection there is nothing like your hair's natural oils. Stimulate them by tripling brushing time. Why not do this while sun-bathing?

—Keep your hair covered as much as possible. Those conversation-piece beach hats also hide big rollers and no one will ever know.

—To keep your curls from getting wet while diving, try wrapping a terrycloth headband underneath your bathing cap. It will absorb water that trickles in and make the cap fit more comfortably.

—For hard-to-manage hair, invest in today's version of the curling iron. It will put instant curl into limp strands.

—You don't want to be nursing a sunburn when you're getting ready for a night on the town. Apply sun lotion often during the day—but choose the one best for your type of skin. Creams pamper dry skin and let you tan slowly and safely. Oily liquids, on the other hand, also keep skin from drying but can encourage burning.

—A shower is the best way to cool off and freshen up quickly for the evening. However, if you prefer to bathe, use tepid water, never cold. Cold water makes you feel hot again in a few minutes.

—When the temperature climbs, make-up has a tendency to melt. So keep a constant check and reapply when necessary.

—Slip into an easy-fitting dress, put on your dancing shoes and have a ball. You'll look ravishing, despite having given equal time to daytime fun.

Op-Art Eye Protection

SHIFT INTO HIGH GEAR by mixing but not matching. The summer squint problem can be handled effectively, if not giddily, by borrowing from Op art. Smashing is this season's most dramatic black and white-checked (left) or striped sunglasses (right). For the unmatched, but chic, plunge into the dizzying effect of polka dots, checks and stripes all at once.

POLLY'S POINTERS Curling Iron Makes Old Hat Sparkle Again

By POLLY CRAMER

Newspaper Enterprise Assn. DEAR POLLY—Last year I bought an expensive hat covered with silk flowers. I felt I should get at least two years wear out of it. Even though I had packed it carefully when I took it out this spring the flowers looked beaten down. I tried to press the flowers on the hat with a regular iron but that didn't work. I finally thought of my old hair curling iron. I heated it and curled all the petals so that they looked beautiful again. In fact I have had compliments on my "new" hat.

DEAR POLLY—I have some answers for Mrs. W. H. S. on what to make out of plastic mesh vegetable bags. They are excellent for storing hair rollers, for school bags and make good see-through bags for holding mittens and scarves. Most important, I think, is using them for storing garden bulbs over winter.

DEAR POLLY—My children made pillows out of those plastic mesh bags. They wove yarn into the mesh and the ends were overcast with the yarn. The pillows were stuffed with old nylon stockings.

DEAR POLLY—Make a professional-looking curler caddy out of those mesh bags. Cut the top off a gallon plastic bleach bottle just below the handle. Draw flowers on the sides of the jug with magic markers or paste on pretty pictures cut from magazines or print your name or the words "curler caddy."

Sew across the mesh bag right above the staple and then remove the staple. Trim. Pull the produce bag over the jug and turn the bag over about two inches at the top and then run in Highland General Hospital.

Mrs. Charlotte Ayers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Clay and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Kidwell was injured in a car accident two weeks ago and is still a patient in Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo.

Mrs. Mary B. Puckett and Mrs. Merrel Royall and family of Berger enjoyed an outing Saturday at Rita Blanca Lake near Dalhart. The group reports catching over 25 fish.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Hanson and son Donald of Big Spring returned home Saturday after visiting two weeks with Mrs. Hanson's mother, Mrs. Edith Mills. Another son, Lee Hanson, remained with his grandmother for a longer visit and accompanied her to the Center Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Dalton Oates of Amarillo came to Pampa Wednesday to help her mother, Mrs. Jay Evans, celebrate her birthday. Mrs. Oates was accompanied by a friend, Mrs. Porter. Mr. Evans acted as the gracious host and treated the ladies to a birthday dinner at Jackson's Cafeteria.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Wilkie entertained a group of friends at a cook-out Sunday.

Door prizes were received by Mrs. Pearl Erwin and C. R. Foltwell.

Gray Ladies providing transportation included Mimes, Jess Hatcher, George Benham, Marquerite Nash, Luther Pierson and G. E. Tinnen.

Success in Classroom And Satisfaction With School Aren't Linked

By POLLY CRAMER

CHICAGO (UPI)—You might think academically successful students like school better than their less successful friends.

But that's not the case, according to two University of Chicago educators who say that a study they undertook shows that success in the classroom and satisfaction with school are not linked.

Philip W. Jackson and Henriette M. Lahaderne found that teachers tend to believe their successful students like school. But the students themselves—in this case, sixth graders—give different answers.

Look. You say you're 50. Grow

The Mature Parent Middle-Age Is Time Of Rising Doubts

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE: I am tired of being called jealous by my husband. He calls me this because I had to tell my sister to leave our home. She's unmarried and came to live with us a year ago. To make her feel welcome my husband kissed her goodby when he kissed me, took her with us wherever we went. Soon she started telling me what his favorite foods were and would run out to the yard to help him when he was working there. Was I wrong to tell her to leave? I'm 50 years old and have four grown children.

ANSWER: You're hooked on a word, friend. "Jealous" is just a word. It doesn't matter. What matters is that your husband is using it to reproach you for depriving him of your sister's admiring attention.

He's telling you he needs it. Are you willing to give it to him? To run out to the yard yourself to help him when he's working there? Can you see past these accusations of jealousy to their appeal for the kind of attention your sister gave him, the kind that told him that he was a desirable male?

I don't know whether you are or not. It's a cinch you won't give it to him if you resent his need of it.

Look. You say you're 50. Grow up then and look at the truth! That middle-age is the time of life when dissatisfactions with ourselves and our choices begin to make themselves felt. That includes marital ones and unless we're babies, we understand this doubtfulness as part of the who's business of middle-aged inventory-taking.

It's a critical time for all. We tend to feel cheated, restless, much less certain of our worth than we used to be.

Your own hurt at your husband's accusations tells you that you yourself feel cheated; have begun to question things—your husband's affection, for example—that you used to take for granted.

So his protests at losing your sister's encouraging attention have nothing to do with your growing middle-aged need for reassurance that he is a valuable person. Like you, like me, he's begun to wonder if he is. This is a human problem. It has nothing to do with sex except for the confusing male tendency to sexualize our common, human need for a loved person's affirmation of our importance when we have begun to doubt it.

ALMOST READY TO GO—Despite difficulties with finances, the new San Francisco Bay Area Rapid Transportation District is making rapid progress toward beginning operations. Full-scale model, top, of streamlined cars shows detachable forward pod with space for train attendant and automatic control equipment. Normally, trains will be operated automatically from a central computer, but attendant will be able to take over controls in any emergency. Car interior is shown at bottom.

Income Tax Questions, Answers

EDITOR'S NOTE — This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the Pampana office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published by the News as a public service to taxpayers.

Q—I hold down two jobs and Social Security is withheld by both employers. Is there any way I can stop this withholding on one of the jobs?

A—No. The law requires each employer to withhold Social Security on the first $6,600 of wages paid to each employee during the year. If more than the maximum of $277.20 is withheld for Social Security from your combined salaries, you should claim the excess as a credit against your income tax when you file your income tax return next year.

Q—My company is planning to send me to another city on a temporary 3-week assignment. If I have to pay the costs to come home weekends and my company does not reimburse me, can I deduct this on my income tax?

A—The situation you describe seems to qualify as a temporary assignment. In that case, the law permits you to deduct the traveling costs of returning home weekends as long as the costs do not exceed what you would have spent for room and board if you had not gone home. You may also deduct the travel costs of getting to your new assignment and returning home after it is over if the costs exceed reimbursement from your employer.

Q—Am I taxed on the Reserve pay I get for my two week stint of military duty?

A—Yes, pay for Reserve training is generally fully taxable.

Q—If I sell my house at a profit will I be taxed on what I make?

A—Profits from the sale of a personal residence are generally taxable. Under certain conditions, however, the tax on this gain may be postponed until a later year. This situation occurs when, for instance, you buy a new house within a year of the sale of your old home and pay more for the new house than you sold the old one for. In addition, if you are 65 or older, all or part of the gain realized upon the sale may, if certain conditions are met, be exempt from tax. Further information on this subject may be found in Document No. 5017, Selling Your Home, available free from local IRS offices.

Q—I was just reimbursed by my insurance company for some medical expenses I claimed on my 1965 return. Do I have to report this as income on my 1966 return or do I file an amended return for 1965?

A—The reimbursement should be included in income on your 1966 return to the extent you received a tax benefit from it on your 1965 tax. There is no need to file an amended return.

Q—I've been offered a research fellowship. Will this be taxable income for me?

A—Within certain limits, scholarship and fellowship grants are generally tax exempt. To make sure, check with the institution offering the grant or with your local IRS office to see what the law says in your particular case.

Q—I was given an extension of time to file my tax return. Will I owe any interest on the unpaid balance?

A—Yes, you will. Even though you were granted an extension of time for filing, interest will be due on the unpaid balance at an annual rate of 6 per cent. Interest should be computed from the due date of the return and paid with the tax when you file your return.

Morse Makes Changes in Strike Bills

WASHINGTON, (UPI) — Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., made last minute revisions in his airline strike proposal today, calling for a six-month back-to-work order without putting the five struck carriers into government receivership.

The new bill was expected to come up for consideration by the Senate Labor Committee later today.

It was scheduled to meet at 2 p.m. EDT on an administration minimum wage bill.

Negotiations on the strike, in its 18th day, were showing "no progress whatsoever" towards settlement.

Morse's original bill would have empowered President Johnson to obtain a court injunction to halt the strike and place the airlines in receivership until a settlement was reached.

Under the substitute, Morse's office said, there would be no receivership but the striking machinists could be compelled to return to work for a six month period while negotiations continued.

Representatives of the five struck airlines and the International Association of Machinists (IAM) went back into bargaining session with no indication of progress in sight.

Union spokesmen viewed Morse's proposal as a "strike breaking" move which would only prolong final settlement. They contended the airlines

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI)

Many people spend their vacations in frivolous pursuits, such as recovering from sunburns and being bitten by bears. Not I.

I devoted almost my entire vacation this year to an exercise in "cybernetics," the science of electronic computers.

Specifically, I used the time to organize a questionnaire that might serve as a model for programming data processing machines to help arrange cocktail parties.

Several experiments along this line already have been conducted, the idea being that if guest lists were drawn up by computers the parties would be "scientifically balanced."

In other words, a computer, using information obtained from questionnaires, would only invite people it found to be compatible. Thus the host and/or hostess would prevent potentially sticky situations from arising. Theoretically, at least.

So far, this valuable use of computers is still in its infancy. I have hopes that the questionnaire I have prepared will make possible a more rapid advancement.

It seems to me that in order for a socially oriented computer to function properly, the following information will be needed:

1. When invited to a cocktail party, which do you do? () Arrive too early. () Arrive too late. () Phone at the last minute and say the baby-sitter didn't show up. () Arrive the wrong night.
2. At cocktail parties do you () Overdress. () Underdress. or () carefully select a dress that three other women are wearing?
3. Check your drink preference: () One martini. () Two martinis. () One martini too many. () I'm driving. () I'm driving but at this point I couldn't care less.
4. Which of these party activities do you prefer? () Conversation. () Parlor games. () Singing. () Fistfights. () Looking through the hostess' bathroom cabinet.
5. Which of these do you prefer? Listening to someone play the piano. () Dancing while someone is playing the piano. () Dancing with someone who is playing the piano. () Dancing on the piano player.
6. If you have too much to drink do you: () Immediately go home? () Become ill? () Fall asleep? () Go put your head under the shower? () Have another drink?

were dragging their feet in the hope Congress would settle things their way.

THEY'RE SEEKING INSECT SECRETS

Because tiny insects each year are responsible for millions of dollars in crop damage, research into new means of control is, year in and year out, a major effort of the Agriculture Department research stations. At right, a white-lined sphingid moth is attracted to a sensor, bottom, which a tiger moth already is sitting on. The sensor, emitting a low-intensity red light beam, is an effort to duplicate the radiation which attracts insects over great distances to food sources. If it successfully fools them, it could be developed as an electric trap.

Patterns, no two alike, painted around hive openings at Beltsville, Md., are used to test ability of bees to recognize patterns and colors in being guided to their home hives.

Beltsville microbiologist A. C. Michael is surrounded by bee colonies under diets containing various combinations of substances lethal to insects. The search is for insecticides which will kill pests but not beneficial insects such as bees.

Rioting in Chicago Just Doesn't Make Sense

(EDITOR'S NOTE: UPI correspondent Jack V. Fox spent a week in Chicago following the outbreak of Negro violence there. He visited the riot area, talked with Mayor Richard Daley, the Rev. Martin Luther King and Police Superintendent O.W. Wilson.)

By JACK V. FOX
CHICAGO (UPI)—The fire hydrant at the corner of Roosevelt Road and Troop avenue was wide open and water was gushing into the street and no one paid any attention. It was the very same corner where an argument over police closing off the hydrant had led a week before to Chicago's Negro riot.

"Look at that," said the Negro taxicab driver, Hubert Norton. "It just doesn't make sense."

There isn't too much that does make sense about the violence that led to soldiers with bayoneted rifles patrolling the streets of the nation's second largest city.

One out of every four of Chicago's 3.6 million residents are Negro. Most of them live in ghettos on the west side or the south side and conditions are miserable these hot July nights.

Economic Opportunities Good
Poverty is at the base of Negro unrest. But in Chicago, economic conditions for the Negro are better than perhaps any other American city.

The Bell Telephone Co. sponsors commercials on television seeking employees. They underline that hiring is non-discriminatory.

Two Chicago Negro police officers ride their motorcycles down Michigan Avenue. On the rear are placards calling for young men to join the police force.

There is such a shortage of taxi drivers that in one week in Chicago I saw more women driving cabs than I have in 20 years in New York.

"The fact is that anyone in Chicago who can read and write can get a job," claims Mayor Richard Daley.

The city's Negro problem is aggravated by the fact that most of the new migrants have come from Alabama and Mississippi and are the most unskilled of all the Southern Negroes coming north.

Gangs in Rioting
It has Negro gangs that have caused constant trouble, particularly four of them ranging in size from 300 to 1,500 members. They were deeply involved in the looting, arson, vandalism and shooting at police during the rioting which, almost everyone agrees, was of an entirely different nature from the explosive uprising in the Watts area of California last year.

Adding to the pressure is the fact that Dr. Martin Luther King has declared Chicago the 1966 target city for improving the lot of the Negro.

Daley says that members of Dr. King's organization showed movies of the Watts violence to members of these gangs, and considers, at best, naive the explanation that the King people were trying to emphasize that "violence is not the way to approach the Negro cause."

While national guardsmen were still on the streets, Daley announced three civic programs whose benefits will go almost 99 per cent to Negroes:

1. Creation of two public health centers with funds of $1.6 million with emphasis on helping women in pre-natal hygienics.

2. A $41 million federal housing loan to clean up slum areas.

3. A job training program for 2,000 youths with half of them to receive the prevailing wage during their on-the-job training.

King, Daley Disagree
The mayor himself says he has called on Dr. King over and again to help him implement these and other existing programs and to suggest other approaches on jobs, housing, health and improvement of Negro conditions Daley says Dr. King evades cooperation.

King replies that these moves are only tokenism, do not begin to get at the heart of the Negro problem and are carried out with the worst possible timing.

—as if a reward for the riot. The Nobel Prize winning head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference says that what Chicago needs are "structural changes which will reshape the fundamental condition of the Negro in all areas."

Dr. King plans to continue his campaign. He says he has talked with the gang leaders and that they have agreed to "try non-violence as a tactical maneuver."

No one disagrees with Dr. King that the plight of the Negro in Chicago is deplorable and the sight of the hundreds and hundreds of colored children under the age of 12 on streets is the most depressing of all.

Foreign Commentary

The foreign news outlook:
Hague-Peking Break?

Diplomatic relations between Communist China and Holland may be heading for a complete break as the outgrowth of the abduction of a Red Chinese engineer from a Dutch hospital by a group of Red Chinese. After the man died in the Red Chinese legation in The Hague, the Dutch expelled the Chinese charge d'affaires. Peking retaliated by declaring the Dutch charge d'affaires there persona non grata. But at the same time the Chinese kept him virtually hostage for the eight Chinese keeping themselves in hiding in The Hague legation because the Dutch wanted to interrogate them in the abduction off air. Charges and counter-charges are being fired back and forth between the two capitals. And Peking also is putting part of the blame on the United States for alleged efforts to persuade the Chinese still in the legation to betray their country.

Looking Ahead To 1970:

Now that political passions have cooled somewhat in the Dominican Republic, there is growing acclaim for provisional President Hector Garcia Godoy who, through nine long months, helped to bridge the gap between inflamed leftists and rightists. He also helped to arrange the June 1 presidential elections that returned the country to constitutional government. Garcia Godoy stepped down July 1 to be replaced by elected President Joaquin Balaguer. Now he has been appointed ambassador to the U.S. and there is growing speculation he will be an official presidential candidate in elections scheduled for 1970. Under the Dominican constitution Balaguer may not succeed himself.

Discontent In Burma:

Burmese President Gen. Ne Win's government is becoming concerned over public discontent with failure to deal with graft and corruption in Burma. Usually strictly controlled Burmese newspapers recently have published reports of great amounts of food and other scarce consumer goods rotting in government warehouses because of poor storage facilities. The results were widespread resentment among the Burmese public and orders from high ranking officials to subordinate to check corruption or face a general housecleaning.

Name Fits New Guerrilla Force In Jungle Hills

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

In the jungled hills of southern and central Luzon Island during World War II a Filipino guerrilla force known as the Hukbalahaps battled the Japanese.

The name was a coined word fitted to the times. It meant "People's Army To Fight The Japanese." In the chaos which followed World War II, the "Huks" refused to drop their weapons and they were joined by thousands of disillusioned veterans and poverty-stricken farmers. At their peak, they numbers were said to total 200,000 and their power extended to the doorstep of Manila. But, as has been the fate of other movements based on legitimate grievances, the Huks became apt tools of the Communists.

The backbone of their strength was broken in 1954 by the most energetic of Philippine presidents to date, the late Ramon Magsaysay.

Magsaysay did it through a combination of toughness and persuasion, which also included land reforms, aid to veterans and the dismissal of corrupt officials.

Eventually Huk members dwindled to about 200, which is about their number today, deriving most of their income from the shakedown of bar girls and saloon keepers, businessmen, farmers, taxicab drivers and peddlers.

Their long-term threat consisted of the fact that they represented an organizing base should the long-suffering peasantry finally decide to revolt. Thus the more than usual attention being paid to their latest challenge by President Ferdinand Marcos, who shows early signs of energetic action in the manner of Magsaysay.

Last week a Huk band ambushed and murdered Mayor Anastacio Gallardo of Candaba, Panpagan Province, and his five escorts as they rode toward Manila to confer with Marcos on lawlessness in central Luzon.

Gallardo, who had fought the Huks for 20 years, was the 10th mayor to be murdered by them in central Luzon in the last two years.

His murder was the most blatant in a general increase of Huk terrorism noted in recent months.

More than an isolated case of terrorism, it demonstrated the enormity of the task facing Marcos.

Tony Lema Was Man's Man, Player's Player

BY MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Writer

AKRON, Ohio (UPI)—There were tears in Ken Venturi's eyes, and he kept looking straight ahead so they wouldn't spill down his cheeks as he talked about his friend, Tony Lema.

Down through the years, the two golfers who had grown up together in the same San Francisco Bay area had their battles, both on the fairways and off, but there was always a closeness between them.

"We were very close," said

Venturi, still looking off in the distance.

"As kids, we were always fighting. We had our arguments even when we grew up, but they were the kind of arguments brothers have."

"Heck, he lived at our house for quite awhile. My mother gave him his first pair of golf shoes. He was like a member of our family. My wife, Connie, is all shaken up over this."

Venturi learned of Lema's tragic death in a plane crash only hours after he had returned to his motel room following last Sunday's final round of the PGA championship in which both had competed.

No Immediate Shock

The shock didn't register easy, Venturi broke into tears. News of the tragedy which claimed the lives of Lema, his wife Betty and two others, naturally cast a pall over all the golfers still remaining here from last weekend's tournament.

Many didn't know about the disaster until they came down to breakfast Monday morning. One of those who found out at that time was Miller Barber, who had played in the same threesome with Lema for the first two rounds of the PGA.

"He kept saying how tired he was," Barber recalled. "He said he was all worn out and he was going home to rest for three weeks after that pro-Am in Chicago."

That was where Lema was heading when the end came. He was going to be paid $250 for his appearance.

The tall, good-looking 32-year-old Lema had hundreds of friends on the golf circuit, but he wasn't particularly close to any of them, unless it was of his golfing ability, walk with kings, which he did, or he could usually went out and did things by himself.

"I liked of Tony," declared Gay Brewer. "He was an individualist and sometimes he rubbed people the wrong way, but he was a good guy. It's hard to believe he's gone."

He could, primarily because of his golfing ability, walk with kings, which he did, or he could usually went out and did things by himself.

"I liked of Tony," declared Gay Brewer. "He was an individualist and sometimes he baseball and any time he was in a golf slump, he used to kid about maybe trying out for the Mets.

"I was a pretty good hitter in my day," he'd laugh. "Do you think I could do them any good?"

Maybe Tony Lema didn't know it, but he did many people a lot of good.

Mets Keep Jinx Over Astros; SF Takes Lead

By CURT BLOCK
UPI Sports Writer

Apparently all the San Francisco Giants have to do to win the National League pennant is stay healthy and happy.

The Giants forged to within two percentage points of first place Pittsburgh Monday with a 2-1 victory over the Pirates behind Juan Marichal (16-4) while news on two other fronts spelled trouble for their main rivals.

From Los Angeles came word that Sandy Koufax's arthritic elbow is worse despite increased doses of pain killing medication. The great lefthander has won 17 games this season but admits he has been struggling in his recent starts.

And how do you like the Dodgers chances without Koufax?

The Pirates problems may be even more far reaching. Cries of possible dissension were sounded after a weekend incident between manager Harry Walker and catcher Jesse Gonder on the mound at the Astrodome.

spoke of sending Gonder to the minors to which one of the players was to have said: "If Walker sends Gonder out and blames him for the home run ball to Wynn, we'll all rebel."

Walker claims the misunderstanding was ironed out behind closed doors after the game and that "the matter is closed and left in the clubhouse."

Earlier Discontent

There was unhappiness between Walker and his players last year but some of the veteran players called a special meeting where individuals voiced their gripes to clear the air. The result was that the Bucs were the league's toughest team the second half of the season.

In Monday's only American League game, Cleveland downed Washington 6-3. In other N.L. action, New York defeated Houston 6-4 and Los Angeles beat Philadelphia 6-3.

Marichal gave up six hits, struck out eight and didn't walk a batter as he turned in his 16th complete game in 23 starts. He pitched perfect ball until Jim Pagliaroni doubled leading off the sixth. A single by Bill Mazeroski and Matty Alou's fielder's choice got the Pirates only run home.

The Giants tallied both their runs in the fourth. Tito Fuentes' single through a drawn-in infield, scored Ollie Brown from second and sent Marichal from first to third. The hard throwing righthander scored the winning run when Hal Lanier hit into a double play.

Al Ferrara's eighth inning single broke a 3-3 tie and helped the Dodgers pick up a full game on first place, leaving them only 1 1/2 games back. Ferrara singled home Willie Davis who was hit by a pitch and sacrificed to second. Dick Stuart, who hammered his fifth home run of the year to send the Dodgers ahead 3-2 in the sixth, singled in another run in the three-run eighth.

Ron Perranoski, who replaced Los Angeles starter Don Sutton after seven innings, was the winner and Philadelphia's Darold Knowles took the loss. Dennis Ephant (6-4) batted in two runs with an eighth inning single and scattered eight hits in seven innings as the Mets beat Houston for the fifth straight time. Former Astro Jerry Grote also knocked in a pair of runs with a fourth inning double.

FASTEST HUMAN A FOOT now is Jim Ryun, foreground, shown just after he set a world mile mark of 3:51.3 in the All-American Track and Field Invitational meet at Berkeley Calif. Congratulating him is Richard Romo of Texas, who set a blistering pace for Ryun.

Started Saturday

The flare up took place Saturday night when Gonder signaled for a fast ball and Houston outfielder Jim Wynn hit Vernon Law's pitch for a home run that gave the Astros a 3-0 lead. The Pirates came back to win the game 4-3.

Walker wasted no time getting to the mound after the home run and minced no words telling Gonder what he thought of his pitch-calling and bawled out Law for not shaking the sign off.

"How can you call for a pitch like that," Walker screamed at Gonder in full view of both dugouts and the spectators.

"If you want to call the pitches, go ahead," Gonder came back.

The story is that Walker

Dolphin Swimmers Fourth at Perryton

Pampa fared well this past weekend in the West Texas AAU Junior Olympics long course swim meet at Perryton.

The Dolphins competed with teams from Midland, Lubbock, Amarillo, Perryton, Big Springs, Ulysses, Kan. and Guyton, Okla.

Pampa finished fourth in team points.

Brad Cooper won the high point trophy in the boys 10 and under class and Jim Cole was second in the 15-17 year old boys class.

Pampa winners were: Mark Klepper, sixth in 50 meter butterfly for boys 10 and under with Cooper taking first in the 50 meter backstroke and 100 meter free style. Cooper was second in 50 meter free style.

Dewayne Uzman was fourth in 100 meter free style and fourth in 200 meter free style and second in 100 meter back stroke. Leroy Thornburg placed sixth in 100 meter free stroke. Paul Newton was first in 100 meter breast-stroke third in 200 medley and first in 100 fly. Buddy Wilkerson was fourth in 200 medley and second in 100 fly.

Don Cole was first in 100 backstroke and Terry Braddock was fifth in the same event.

Pampa's 200 medley relay team was first with the team of Klepper, Wilkerson, Newton and Uzman. Cole, Thornburg, Braddock and Klepper finished second in the 200 meter free relay.

In the 13-14 - year-old boys Butch Wilkerson was third in 100 meter free, third in the 100 meter backstroke and first in 200 meter freestyle.

Barry George was fourth in 100 meter breast-stroke and second in 200 meter I.M., and second in the 100 meter fly. Barry George was second in 100 meter free style.

In boys 15-17, David Geyer was fourth in 100 meter free, third in 100 meter back and third in 100 meter fly.

Cole was first in both 200 meter breast and I.M. and second in 200 meter free.

In girl's events in 11-12-year-olds, Joanne Parsley was fourth in 100 meter breast stroke and 200 meter free style. In girl's 13-14, DeLia Thornburg was fourth in three events, 100 meter free, 100 meter back and 200 meter free.

Connie Ladd had two fourths and a fifth in the 15-17 year-olds. She was fourth in both the 100 meter free and back and fifth in 200 meter free.

Ted Chides Writers, Casey Thankful

COOPERSTOWN, N.Y. (UPI)—Casey Stengel, baseball's grand old man, followed Ted Williams into baseball's Hall of Fame Monday with a 20-minute version of the delightful "Stengelese" that made him a legend in his own time.

After Williams ended his 10-minute acceptance speech with the line, "I'll lose a good friend if I don't stop talking, I'm eating into his time and Casey Stengel will never forgive me."

Stengel went to the rostrum and enthralled the audience with his 20-minute oration.

Nearly 7,000 persons crowded into Cooper Park outside of the baseball shrine to see Williams and Stengel become the 103rd and 104th members of the Hall of Fame.

Baseball Commissioner William D. Eckert presided at the ceremony which lasted slightly more than an hour.

Stengel, still spry at 76 but needing a cane since aggravating a hip injury which forced him to step down as manager of the New York Mets last season, started his speech by saying:

"Since I've been in baseball from the year 1910 to 1966, I want to thank everybody including Worcester, Mass., which is the first team I managed and where I was fortunate enough to meet Mr. George Weiss.

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself no more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

It's Rodeo Time in Pampa

One of the highlights of Pampa's outdoor entertainment year is scheduled Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday nights of this week out at Recreation Park. It's the 22nd annual Top O' Texas Rodeo that finds some of the nation's top cowboys in action.

Sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce and Top O' Texas Rodeo Association under professional rules of the Rodeo Cowboys of America, this year's event promises rough and tumble rodeo activity at its best.

Rodeo Week in Pampa actually got under way this afternoon with a matinee of the Kid Pony Show for area youngsters. Another performance is scheduled tonight.

The annual street parade tomorrow afternoon will kick off the main rodeo which will have only night performances. Rodeo fans this year also will have an opportunity to see Molly Bee, one of the country's top television stars. She will appear nightly in the rodeo arena and at the dance in the National Guard Armory following the rodeo performance when she sings with Johnny Lee Willis' Western Swing Band.

If you like exciting action and the thrills of the rodeo arena, there will be plenty on tap at Recreation Park nightly for the rest of this week.

Do-It-Yourself Security

Midst the welter of Congressional bills pending and passed which seem to be calculated to stifle or penalize private initiative, now and again we spot one that actually encourages individual industry and thrift. Such a bill is H.R. 10, which passed the House of Representatives recently by the amazing margin of 291 to zero. It has to do with some changes in the Self-Employed Individuals Tax Retirement Act of 1962.

Just in case some of our readers may not be acquainted with the 1962 statute, it allows a self-employed person — such as a farmer, professional man, or owner-operator of a small business, to save money for his own retirement. This is accomplished by permitting him to deduct 5 percent of his income, up to a maximum of $1,250, when filing his tax return, provided he is putting at least twice the amount he deducts into a bona-fide retirement plan. Unfortunately, the deduction for a self-employed who must invest capital, as well as labor, in his business — such as a farmer or main street merchant — is further restricted to only 1 1/2 percent of his income. Apparently quite a few people aren't acquainted with that law, because the Treasury Department reports that in 1964 only about one half of one percent of eligible taxpayers took advantage of the opportunity.

Now the new bill, H.R. 10, would make this idea of do it yourself pension planning more attractive. It would allow all self-employed individuals to deduct not just half, but all, contributions to their own retirement plan up to 10 percent of their incomes, or a $2,500 maximum. This would benefit many others besides self-employed persons themselves. When the owner operator of a small business or professional office can afford, because of those tax deductions, to set up a private pension plan for himself, obviously this makes it easier for him to do the same for his permanent employees. Thus, the employees of the self-employed also have a major stake in H.R. 10's passage.

We think the Senate should pass H.R. 10. In all corporate enterprises, large or small, employer contributions to employee retirement funds are deductible. The same should apply for the "little" fellow! Also, it's high time for some government action encouraging a citizen to make private financial provisions for his later years, rather than discouraging it. Senate passage is not at all certain, however. One powerful opponent of the bill is the U.S. Treasury Department in an apparent attempt to assume the "watchdog" role.

Let those "watchdogs" dig for real bones. Beyond the direct benefits to self-employed persons and others employed by them, as we see it, H.R. 10 would be in the best interests of all citizens. Let it once become widely known — and shown — that it's still possible for an industrious and frugal American to plan and provide for his own "old age" security — that he really doesn't have to rely on Big Brother for it — and it could start a very healthy new trend.

No Pictures, Please!

One of the more shopworn gags of vaudeville, comic strip and TV comedian usage is the one about the housewife just returned from a shopping spree trying to convince her husband that she saved a lot of money while depleting the bank account because everything she bought was at reduced prices. Maybe because it is old hat none of the Washington press corps laughed openly when Defense Secretary McNamara used the routine recently to support his claims of great savings in his department during the past five years, despite a considerable overall increase in expenditures.

We're all for keeping costs down in any government department. But we expect previous occupants of that office have tried just as hard and done as well as Mr. McNamara, without calling a special press conference to pat themselves on the back. Perhaps none of them would have had the gall to put up a picture of a commercial airliner (as an example) with a big "X" mark over its firstclass passenger compartment and claim to have "saved" $16,136,000 through "reduced use of premium air travel."

It is to the credit of the reporters in attendance, we think, that they didn't waste time with a lot of questions about the statistical drivel Mr. McNamara poured upon them. Most of them asked, instead, about the war in Vietnam. This was probably the best way for a responsible journalist to demonstrate how he felt about the fancy Chart display.

Of course, the Defense Secretary said that he expected some skepticism about his claims of big savings in his big spendings. So he's hired a "private" firm of public accountant to audit his cost-reduction program. Now we wonder if the firm got the job through competitive bidding or by administrative selection, and how much they will be paid and just what services they will be called upon to perform. Will they, for example, investigate whether all those tourist class trips were necessary, or just check to see if $16,136,000 is the correct figure?

And will they tot up the cost of all those fancy charts and TV props that Secretary McNamara used?

China Has Top Flight Nuclearists

By RAY CROMLEY, Washington Correspondent WASHINGTON (NEA)—Communist China's nuclear development is no fluke.

Her economic flubbing and her propagandistic educational methods had led to a discounting of Peking's technical potential.

But new detailed studies here by the National Science Foundation show that Peking has a stronger-than-expected scientific base. The top layer may be thin but it's technically of high quality.

Though the Communist regime has prostituted many of the universities in Red China, that country has a fistful of top-flight scientists trained in first-rate universities in the United States, western Europe and Japan.

The most outstanding nuclear physicist in China, Ch'ien Szech'ang, director of the Institute of Atomic Energy, received his Ph.D. in physics from the University of Paris.

Almost equal in prominence are Wang Kan-ch'ang and Chao Chung-yao.

Wang earned his Ph.D. in physics at the University of Berlin. He was later a research associate at the University of California.

Chao received his Ph.D. from the California Institute of Technology.

Institute of Atomic Energy deputy director Peng Huangwu, in charge of Red China's theoretical research in atomic nuclei and fundamental particles, holds a Ph.D. from Edinburgh University.

Institute deputy director Chang Chia-hua was awarded his doctorate by Washington University. The chief of the Institute of Atomic Energy's cosmic ray laboratory received his Ph.D. at Cambridge.

Communist China's rocket development is headed by Ch'ien Hsueh-shen. He's regarded as one of the world's outstanding aeronautical and jet-propulsion engineers. He has a master of science degree from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and a Ph.D. in aeronautical engineering from the California Institute of Technology. He was later a professor of aeronautics at MIT. As a consultant to the U.S. Navy he went to Germany after World War II "to investigate rocket development."

Two other leading men connected with Red China's rocket work are Kuo Yung-hual and Shen Yuan.

Kuo, deputy director of Red China's Institute of Mechanics, has a Cal Tech Ph.D.

Shen, chairman of the board of directors of the Communist China Aeronautical Engineering Society, has a Ph.D. from London University.

Forty-eight per cent of the board members and members of the standing committees of the Departments of Natural and Technical Sciences of the Chinese Academy of Sciences in 1962 were trained in the United States. Twenty-eight per cent were trained in western Europe.

This is not to say Communist China does not have some very serious technical problems for the future. Her top layer of scientists is thin. It will be years before the junior scientists develop to the first rank.

Despite major gaps in training and some serious educational blunting, it would be unwise to underestimate what this top layer of scientists can accomplish.

The Nation's Press

MAKE IT THE BEGINNING (N.Y. Daily News)

In June of 1964, the Earl Warren Supreme Court ruled that both houses of state Legislatures must be apportioned on a basis of population only—the so-called one man, one vote decision.

Not a word in the U.S. Constitution justified the decree. It was and is judge-made law, pure and simple.

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen (R. Ill.) reacted to this judicial power-grab by drawing up a proposed U.S. constitutional amendment which would reverse the Warren Court and permit one house of each Legislature to be apportioned on other than basis of population.

Thus, the legislatures would follow the pattern of the U.S. Congress, as they had done for generations before the one man, one vote ruling.

The Dirksen amendment now has lost twice in the Senate—the second time when it failed by seven votes to get the two-thirds majority required to register the Senate as favoring

The 'Handiest "Whitey" To Chase Out

REG MANNING

ROBERT ALLIN

WASHINGTON — A French military mission has returned from the Soviet Union with an ominous assessment of Communist China's future military threat.

The young general staff officers, who spent several weeks in Russia prior to President de Gaulle's grand tour, were warned by their Soviet counterparts that "Peiping's massive conventional army would become the major threat to peace within the next 10 years."

"By then, the Chinese Communists will become a full-fledged nuclear power," the Russian staff officers reported. "The atomic arsenal of all major powers, including the U.S., will be neutralized because none of these nations will want to bring about their own destruction."

The Soviets see this radical power balance change returning the defense burden to conventional armies. And it is here, they stress, that China's superiority in numbers will give it the big edge, particularly in Southeast Asia where they see the war dragging on for years.

These and other grim impressions of Soviet military thinking are highlighted in a report being circulated by the French Council of Strategic Studies, an agency of the French General Staff, whose officers were guests of the Russians.

Prepared under the byline of General Andre Laffargue, the document is attracting wide attention in the Defense Department because of the Russian officers' expression of interest in reaching a modus vivendi in Europe.

One member of the Soviet general staff close to Marshal Rodion Malinovsky is quoted in the report as saying it would be to Russia's advantage to sign a non-aggression pact with NATO: that this agreement its submission to the legislatures for ratification.

Sen. Mike Mansfield (D. Mont.), who favored passage, said that, if the Dirksen measure failed a second time, that would be the end of it.

Why? We think the Dirksen forces' reaction ought to be like that of John Paul Jones in the Revolution, when he replied to a British demand to surrender his ship, the Bon Homme Richard: "I have not yet begun to fight!"

The Warren Court's ruling is as wrong and unjustified as ever — and as much a roadway to control of many if not most Legislatures by big-city political machines.

Sen. Dirksen — may his health and enthusiasm continue — is slated to serve through at least one more Congress. We move that Dirksen (as he hints he will) make it a top priority job to renew his fight for this next Congress. Let's hear no more about the initial defeats being the end of the matter.

NO VIET NAM LEAKS — The Soviet officers were tight-lipped about Russia's military aid to North Viet Nam, according to the Laffargue report. They refused to discuss the type or amount of arms being supplied, or whether this help was causing a strain on their own military forces.

Their general attitude on Viet Nam was that the U.S. had no business there and should find some face-saving way to disengage, the document revealed. If the U.S. stays, the Russians see an eventual U.S.-China conflict.

The Chinese Communists' military strength was put at 3 million by the Soviets. Significantly, they claimed Peiping was gradually increasing its military force because of Viet Nam, but that except for some 50 divisions the Red armies were still poorly equipped and no match for U.S. fire-power.

CORRECTING THE RECORD — Passport Director Frances Knight is up-in-arms over the way the State Department handled the announcement of the failing of two Czechoslovakian diplomats in their attempt to bug top department offices.

The veteran career official charges that either the roles of passport employees who helped uncover the Communist plot were not mentioned in the department's press statement or the employees were not identified as working for her office.

In a memorandum circulated among her staff Mrs. Knight bluntly pointed out these oversights, stating:

"I am attaching for your information a paper released by the State Department concerning one of our loyal, conscientious and valued employees, Frank J. Mrkva.

"The release fails to identify Frank Mrkva as the general service officer of the Passport Office. He has been a member of the Passport Office staff since May 1955."

Mrkva, identified by the State Department only as a long-time employee, exposed the Czechoslovakian diplomats after pretending to cooperate in their espionage activities.

In a direct slap at the State Department's Security Division, which tried to grab off part of the credit for uncovering the espionage, Mrs. Knight reported:

"In 1961, when the 'project' which was exposed today became apparent, Frank Mrkva immediately contacted Robert Johnson, the chief counsel and chief security officer of the Passport Office. Mr. Johnson, in turn, advised me and we contacted the FBI. A close liaison resulted, and for four years this project continued and was successfully directed by the FBI. There were no other individuals in-

It took safety engineers to come up with the solution to what to do about back seat drivers. Give them a belt.

Jane — No, it's the light-headed ones.

Involved. Great credit is due Mr. Mrkva and Mr. Johnson.

Mrs. Knight also used the memorandum to let her critics in the State Department know she isn't worried about their attempts to oust her, stating:

"We can hold our heads high in the knowledge that, within the Passport Office family, we have such dedication to country and devotion to duty. This spirit of loyalty and integrity — no one can crush. The Passport Office has an outstanding and long-standing record of being security conscious — in all phases of security. Every employee of the Passport Office can take justifiable pride in this record."

FOREIGN FLASHES — The first space television station to be powered by atomic energy is being planned by European broadcasting organizations.

Such a satellite would replace the Eurovision link, by which programs in one country are transmitted by land lines to relay stations in other European countries. The atomic-powered TV satellite is to be ready within five years. . . A million men, women and children, fatigued from working around the clock, are plucking the leaf worm and its cocoon and eggs from the cotton leaves in a struggle to save Egypt's cotton crop. According to U.S. Department of Agriculture estimates, at least one quarter of Nasser's national crop is believed to have been destroyed already. The final figure is likely to be much higher. Slightly more than half of Egypt's crop is tied up in deals with Russia and other Communist states.

Pull Up A Chair

Statistics reveal that nine out of ten persons have some form of foot trouble, says Dr. William M. Scholl, whose experience in treating common foot ailments covers almost 60 years. He says careless neglect is the general cause. He says the average person gives needed care to the hands, face, mouth and hair and only passing attention to the feet. The results of this neglect are self-evident. Many foot sufferers have a careworn expression, walk with a shuffling gait, and don't enjoy outdoor sports, dancing or daily exercise. His advice: have a foot check-up periodically.

Today's smile: A duffer, taking a golf lesson from the club pro, complained: "I'll never be able to play this game." The pro said: "Take it easy. Relax. Go through the motions of swinging the club without hitting the ball. The duffer winced and said: "That's my problem. That's why I'm taking golf lessons."

Boston's Northeastern University is the largest cooperative or work-study school in the nation. After their freshman year, the 11,000 students participate in the school's cooperative education system. Which assigns half of the students to jobs with 1,500 cooperating employers while the other half attend classes. Students are paired so that someone is always on a given job, with the working students paid salaries commensurate with their work. Some engineering students make $150 a week. Although the course takes five years to complete, it's a great way to get an education.

Thoughts while shaving: Congress recently passed a law making it a federal offense to steal cats or dogs for research purposes. And that goes for hamsters, guinea pigs and rabbits. You can get a year in the pokey and be fined $1,000. . . If you art stopped by police officer in Oklahoma this summer, you may be a lucky motorist. If your seat belt is properly fastened the cop will give you a card, instead of a ticket, entitling you to participate in a prize drawing. It's all part of the program to encourage Oklahoma motorists to use their seat belts for safety's sake. . . An Idaho fire chief found a way to get rid of the pesky motorists who follow fire trucks to a fire. He simply turned a high pressure hose on them. It worked. . . And an Illinois mayor found a way to keep 15 acres of city-owned land mowed this summer. Instead of an expensive lawn mower, he bought six bill goats. They're doing the job superbly at last reports, even nibbling the grass along the fences where a mower wouldn't work. . . The expression "like Sam Patch," meaning "quick and reckless," derives from the exploits of a famous jumper and daredevil named Sam Patch. His most famous feat was a jump down the waterfall at Rochester, N. Y., on November 6, 1829. . . The largest cash sale ever made at Tiffany's, New York's famous jewelry store, happened the day a fellow walked in and shelled out $350,000 for a diamond ring. We'll bet it took the salesman a few minutes to count the money. . . The Oak Creek (Wisconsin) PICTORIAL reported in a story: "A sinner will be served following the service." If he's lucky.

Country Editor speaking: "Childhood is that time of life when all you have to do to lose weight is take a bath."

When a boy escapes mumps until adolescence or adulthood the disease may "go down" and cause an acute inflammation of the testicles. Inflammation of the ovaries in older girls may also occur but is much rarer. This involvement of the sex glands can be prevented by keeping the victim in bed during the acute stage of the parotid swelling. A reader writes to say that his younger brother had this complication and to ask whether this would prevent his becoming a father later in life. In both boys and girls, there is no permanent damage to the sex glands and no interference with subsequent procreation.

When the hard swelling of the parotid begins to subside, strict bed rest is no longer necessary or advisable. A day-by-day increase in activity will help the victim to get his strength back.

Q — My 12-year-old son has always had underdeveloped genitals. Our doctor is giving him a series of injections to activate his pituitary. What could cause this condition and what are the chances the treatment will benefit him?

A — Genital development is delayed in boys with Froehlich's syndrome, which is caused by a congenital disease of the pituitary. These boys have a characteristic type of obesity that chiefly affects the breasts, abdomen and thighs. Every effort should be made to bring your son's weight down to the lower limit of normal.

In some victims this is all that need be done but, if there is a tumor of the pituitary, the gland must be removed surgically or by deep X ray treatments. Following this it may be necessary for the victim to take pituitary injections throughout life.

Q — My 3-year-old daughter has hypsarrhythmia. Brain specialists tell us there is no hope for her. She can't even sit up or hold her head up. How long do these children live?

A — Hypsarrhythmia refers to a type of abnormal brain wave seen on the electroencephalogram in children with severe mental retardation. When there are other children in the family, it is usually better for them to put the affected child in an institution. How long such a child can live is hard to say. Much depends on the care it is given but, sooner or later, pneumonia or some other infection will prove fatal.

Hunt for Truth

LONG HOT SUMMER

The USA, a Constitutional Republic, and governments functioning like it, provide the only safety minorities enjoy. In a dictatorship, if a minority constitutes the elite, they have no more security than Trotsky and later Khrushchev.

At present Negroes, large in number, are a powerful minority and are expressing themselves in demonstrations until excited to riot. For five years their unrest has been provoked by officials as high in government as U.S. Attorneys General.

George B. Schuyler, noted Negro columnist, complained of these agitators, "Never have so many innocent people been betrayed by so few for so little." He was referring to those who would despoil in order to attain power or glean votes. Many peace officials have condoned law-breaking and rewarded lawless men for their threats or acts of violence. It is a grave tragedy to find officials pledged to uphold the law urging the public to disregard them. They have repeatedly told Negroes they should not obey any laws of which they disapprove.

Vice President Hubert Humphrey is predicting major riots in the largest cities if Negroes continue to live in slum-housing. He expects, and apparently is willing for them to throw rocks, stones and Molotov cocktails in the stores and homes of Negro neighbors because they are what demagogues have always called "ill housed."

Los Angeles Chief of Police William H. Parker, the great law officer who was fatally stricken while accepting an award in recognition of his service to mankind, has, in view of court decisions, expressed the fear that "civilization will give way to lawlessness."
