Gordon Cuts Agenda Space Walk In Half

Heat, Sweat Obscure Vision of Spaceman

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI) — Astronaut Richard F. Gordon cut his planned 115-minute working walk in half today because he got "so hot and sweaty" he couldn't see.

Commanding Pilot Charles Pete Conrad ordered Gordon in early from America's fourth walk in space, which was designed to test how well men can work in the void.

"I just brought Dick back in," Conrad reported. "He got so hot and sweaty he couldn't see."

It was the third straight spacewalk that failed to accomplish all planned experiments.

Gemini 11: Astronaut Michael Collins was forced to cut short his spacewalk in July because of irritating fumes in his breathing system. Gemini 9 spacewalker Eugene Cernan was forced to eliminate some tests because his helmet visor fogged up.

But Gordon did manage to get over to the Agena rocket to which the Gemini 11 spacecraft was docked and, "riding it like a cowboy," attached a tether between it and the Gemini craft.

It will be used later for a unique station-keeping experiment with the two satellites linked by the 100-foot line.

Gordon climbed out of the spacecraft a few minutes after the hatch was opened at 8:44 a.m. CST. His labored breathing boomed across the radio channel to earth, he made his way to the Agena.

"I'm riding it like a cowboy," he told Conrad.

After the early end to the spacewalk ground communication John W. Young — pilot on the last spacewalk to be cut short — radioed up to Gordon from the manned spacecraft center at Houston:

"I know how it is — when you get to where you can't see."

He carried with him a power tool with which he planned to turn some experimental bolts on the Gemini, and he also had planned to see if he could clean off the Gemini's smudged windows.

It was the second time a power tool had been carried aloft in a Gemini spacecraft and not used.

Biggest Primary Day of '66 Pits Nine Governors

By United Press International

Primary election battles were being waged in 11 states today with the impact of big names, GOP hopes for gubernatorial gains and the sting of "white backlash" all getting a trial by ballot.

Nominations for nine governorships, six U.S. senators and 74 seats in the U.S. House of Representatives were at stake in this, the biggest primary day of 1966. Winners stand for election in the Nov. 8 general elections.

In the Massachusetts and Wisconsin Democratic gubernatorial battles, the lingering appeal of the Kennedy name was put to the test. Vice President Humphrey was linked with one of the Wisconsin hopefuls.

President Johnson's policies figured in most of the Democratic contests, including the Republican attempts to displace Democratic governors in Arizona, Maryland, Minnesota and Vermont.

Humphrey figured heavily in the Minnesota race for the Democratic nomination for the governorship sought by Lt. Gov. A. M. (Sandy) Keith and incumbent Gov. Karl Rolvaag. The vice president's support for Keith in the Democratic-Farmer Labor party fight could affect his political prestige, should Keith lose.

Rolvaag, refused reendorsement at the D-F-L's June convention, was riding an apparent wave of voter support prompted by the Keith-led move to dump him after one term in office. The winner of the primary was expected to face Republican Harold Levander.

"White backlash" could play a role in the Massachusetts and Maryland voting. In Maryland, Democratic contenders clashed over open housing during their campaigns.

When polls close today in these states and in New Hampshire, Colorado, New Jersey, Rhode Island and Utah, only Georgia, Washington State and Hawaii must vote to complete the 1966 primary

Rights Bill's Fate Depends On Sen. Dirksen

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson has made it official — if there was any doubt — the fate of his "open housing" civil rights bill in the Senate depends largely on GOP leader Everett M. Dirksen.

Though he expressed hope for its passage, the Chief Executive conceded Monday that the measure had run into "some problems in the Senate that appear to be very serious."

Johnson made the assessment during an impromptu news conference in his White House office.

"I would hope," the President added, "that we could find some way to get his (Dirksen's) support because I think whether it passes or fails will depend largely upon what the minority leader does about it."

A vote to cut off the filibuster is scheduled for late Wednesday afternoon and both sides expect it to fail, Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield is expected to drop the bill before the end of the week.

Dirksen's principal opposition is aimed at the provision calling for a partial ban on discrimination in the sale and rental of housing. But he also has called the two sections which would eliminate bias in the selection of federal aid state jurisdictions "bad."

Other sections of the house-passed bill would give the attorney general new power to initiate civil rights suits; strengthen federal laws protecting civil rights workers and Negroes; and provide criminal penalties for persons crossing state lines to incite riots.

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Russians said today a former Roman Catholic priest would publicly explain on Moscow television why he defected from the United States.

The Soviet news agency Tass announced an interview with the former priest, Harold M. Koch of Chicago, would be screened at 7:15 p.m. today (10:15 p.m. CST).

American embassy officials here said before the interview was shown they would welcome an opportunity to make sure Koch, 34, had defected of his own free will. They said they had not yet asked to interview him personally.

"We aren't even sure he is in Moscow yet," an official said, noting the television interview could have been filmed elsewhere.

Tass said Monday Koch had requested and had been granted political asylum in the Soviet Union.

Koch, who celebrated his first Mass eight years and five months ago today, was alleged to have defected as a "protest against criminal United States aggression in Viet Nam."

In what the Soviet Foreign Ministry said were photostatic copies of Koch's request for asylum, the former priest condemned the war in Viet Nam and asked Soviet authorities for the chance to propagandize against it.

Koch, who was ordained in Chicago on May 12, 1958, and offered his first solemn Mass the next day, left the priesthood in August 1963 after he had been advised by his superiors to seek psychiatric treatment.

Koch reportedly had secured a teaching job with the Institute of Modern Languages in Washington and was to have worked in Jidda, Saudi Arabia.

INSTANT PUBLIC HEARING

Taxpayers Absent At City Budget Session

Some kind of a record was set today when Mayor Jim Nation opened and closed a public hearing on Pampa's $1,721,338 budget for fiscal 1966-67 all in the rapid-fire time of 17 seconds at today's city commission meeting.

The reason: no taxpayers attended the hearing and there were no objections or questions. Final approval of the budget is scheduled for Tuesday, Sept. 27, when the tax rate for the coming year will be set.

Publicly already has been given to the budget details and the proposed tax rate increase from $1.47 to $1.60 per $100 property valuation.

The new fiscal year begins Oct. 1.

Commissioners today also approved right of way purchases totaling $49,000 on nine pieces of property along the east side of N. Duncan St. The purchases included three outright property purchases in the block between Virginia and Louisiana.

The new right of way settlements included property owned by F. C. Washburne, Jack W. Nichols, Florence Jackson, Joe M. Marler, A. L. Schneider, G. C. Austin, T. B. Menyard, Ted N. Gikas and L. M. Satter.

City Manager Jim White said right of way negotiations still are under way for four additional parcels on the street. He said only property on the east side of the street will be affected in the right of way purchases. Duncan St. is to be widened (See TAXPAYERS, Page 3)

Chinese Cohorts Dropped From Red Hierarchy

HONG KONG (UPI) — Communist Chinese President Liu Shao-chi, Premier Chou En-lai and two other longtime comrades of Chairman Mao Tse-tung have been dropped as vice chairmen of the Chinese Communist party's ruling Central Committee, information reaching here indicated today.

The move would leave Chinese Defense Minister Lin Biao as the sole lieutenant of the aging Mao and further consolidate his position as the second most powerful man in Communist China.

Two oldtime party cohorts of Mao — Chu Teh and Chen Yun — were also believed to have been removed as vice chairmen in the top-level shakeup.

For Liu, the suspected loss of the high party post was considered a definite political downgrading. But for Chou, who has earned a reputation as China's most capable statesman, the move does not necessarily mean a loss of face.

This analysis was based on an official news report from Peking today and a careful study of public documents from the Chinese capital during the past few weeks.

It has been suspected since mid-August that the Central Committee had elected a new political bureau (politburo) and carried out a top level shakeup during its 11th plenary session, Aug. 1-12.

This appeared to be confirmed today by a report from Peking that identified Kan Sheng, a sometimes up, sometimes down party oldtimer, as a full member of the politburo, the supreme policy-making organ of the party and the nation.

It was the same report distributed by Peking's New China News Agency (NCNA) that triggered speculation that Chou and the others had lost their posts as party vice chairmen.

Until now, the last official listing showed Mao with five vice chairmen — Zhou, Liu, Chen and Chu and Lin. But the NCNA report today identified Chou as merely a member of the politburo standing committee.

Greatest Air Raid Launched Against Cong

SAIGON (UPI) — The United States launched the greatest air raid of the war against oil, depots and missile sites in North Viet Nam Monday, a military spokesman disclosed today. Reliable estimates put the number of planes at 500 or more.

The exact number of planes involved was classified as a military secret but the spokesman said 170 missions were flown — somewhere between 340 and 608 planes. A mission is a strike by from two to four planes. A record 171 missions were flown Sunday, but with fewer planes.

One plane was shot down over North Viet Nam and a second was shot down in heavy strikes against Viet Cong targets in the south. Both pilots were presumed killed.

A spokesman said Monday's mission against the North — ranging from the Hanoi-Haiphong area to the Southern panhandle — included the sixth consecutive day of strikes against a Russian built surface-to-air missile (SAM) site near Dong Hoi.

An American soldier ran amok in the streets of downtown Saigon with an automatic rifle tonight. He killed another GI and wounded two others, one critically. A military spokesman said the berserk soldier was himself shot and killed in the incident.

Death-dealing C47 "dragonships" drove Communist attackers away from a U.S. Special Forces camp near the North Vietnamese border for the third straight night Monday.

MIAMI — Miami High School has dropped its 11-man football schedule. Weldon Snodgrass, superintendent of schools announced today.

The Warriors were in district 5-B with Booker, Follett, Groom and Lefors and also had games scheduled with Canadian, Vega, Spearman B, Wellington and Hart.

Miami lost in their opener, 52-0 last Friday in Canadian and Snodgrass said, "We had only 13 players on the roster and one of them was hurt Friday so we decided the best thing to do was drop our 11-man schedule."

Snodgrass said the school was attempting to pick up an eight-man schedule for the remainder of the season and if this wasn't possible the Warriors would play eight man football in 1967.

"We have only 31 boys in grades nine through 12 and with not even enough boys out to scrimmage felt the best thing we could do was drop out," Snodgrass said.

The Warriors have been playing an 11-man schedule for four years and in that time have not picked up a conference victory. They won two games last year, both against B teams.

Miami was in six-man football in 1959 and played an eight-man schedule from 1960 through 1962.

Snodgrass said the school hated very much to give up its 11-man schedule, but added that the school would not give up football.

"We have quite a few more boys coming up in junior high and have started a junior high football program," the superintendent stated.

Miami hired a new coach this year, James Anglin.

Should the Warriors go to the eight-man schedule they would be in a conference with Darrouzett, who quit 11 man football this year, Morris and Roaring Springs.

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (UPI) — Justice Minister B. J. Vorster today was named to succeed the late Hendrik F. Verwoerd as prime minister of South Africa. He pledged to continue his slain predecessor's policies of strict racial segregation.

"My aim is to walk along the path on which Hendrik Verwoerd fell," Vorster told cheering crowds outside Parliament after his election by the ruling Nationalist party leaders. He said he would become South Africa's "guiding light and inspiration."

Vorster, 50, was jailed for 18 months during World War II as a pro-Nazi sympathizer. He appealed today for support for the "fatherland," speaking both in Afrikaans and English.

The vast crowd broke into applause when Vorster appeared. Many began singing the national anthem, "Die Stem" (The Voice).

Verwoerd was assassinated in Parliament Sept. 6 by a knife-wielding religious fanatic.

Balthazar Johannes Vorster was the iron man in Verwoerd's eight-year government. As justice minister, it was Vorster who was chief enforcer of laws which have made South Africa almost totally segregated.

A caucus of the Nationalist Party elected Vorster by a unanimous vote. The balloting was held in the same building where Verwoerd, 64, was slashed to death by Dmitri Tsafendas, a messenger in the press section of Parliament.

Vorster Named As Successor To Verwoerd As South African Head

Vorster becomes the third youngest prime minister in South African political history. Louis Botha, at 47, and Jan Christiaan Smuts, at 49, were younger.

Informed sources said the only other top candidate in the political maneuvering to succeed Verwoerd, Transport Minister Ben Schoeman, withdrew Monday night. A large crowd gathered outside Parliament to hear the decision.

His election to succeed Verwoerd seemed certain to stir bitterness among many English-speaking South Africans, particularly those old enough to recall his activities during the war.

The Johannesburg newspaper Rand Daily Mail said in an editorial published today that neither Vorster nor Schoeman were qualified to succeed Verwoerd seemed certain to justice minister since 1961. A lawyer by profession, he entered Parliament in 1952. He is considered as anti-British as any South African political leader.

Vorster is probably the most controversial figure ever to become prime minister here. He is on record as condemning liberalism as "only the forerunner to communism."

Television in Review

By RICK DU BROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The latest attempt to dislodge television's top-rated "Bonanza" show is Garry Moore's new CBS-TV comeback series, which had its premiere opposite the long-running western hour Sunday night. Last season, even "Perry Mason" was swamped in the ratings by "Bonanza," and it is difficult to image Mr. Moore's program doing much better.

That wouldn't be so bad if the new show were exciting, provocative, well done or otherwise worth going to bat for. Unhappily, none of these descriptions apply to the premiere hour, which at times seemed roughly the quality of a high school revenue in which a middle-aged principal imposed his attitude, however benign, on his young cast.

I bring up this sort of comparison because, aside from some of the embarrassingly poor material, which can always be improved in the future, the chief underlying difficulty seemed to be that Mr. Moore and his aide, Durward Kirby, appeared generations distant from the younger comedy regulars they presented. And since Mr. Moore, however benign, is the star, it is his tone that must prevail. His comedians seemed generally confined by this, with a few moments of breakthrough. As for Mr. Kirby, his appeal mystifies me, but I once knew a maiden aunt who thought he was the cat's meow.

The notion of Mr. Moore's series is commendable, being an attempt—like the old Fred Allen and Steve Allen shows—to set up a group of house comedians whose wares are offered regularly. It is difficult to judge the talents on the opener, since the material was so lackluster. One of the comedians, however, was the very funny Jackie Vernon, and even he seemed too often the victim of strained lines. Nobody, however, had worse material than Mr. Moore himself, unless it was a lady named Christine Nelson who sang a song called "Marvin," which was supposed to be a funny number about a child, and was quite awful.

A more pleasant premiere Sunday night was NBC-TV's half-hour "Hey Landlord!," a situation comedy about a young midwesterner who gets involved with the tenants of a New York brownstone he inherits and manages. Will Hutchins is the landlord of the title, and Sandy Baron portrays his New Yorker roommate, and they are an appealing pair as they seek, with distractions, to find their places in the world.

The producers of the series, Garry Marshall and Jerry Belson, are another couple of writers who indicate they learned a good deal from their assignments on the Dick Van Dyke show. Last week, two other former Van Dyke writers, Bill Persky and Sam Denoff, presented their hopeful new series, "That Girl," starring Mario Thomas, Danny's daughter. And yet another Van Dyke graduate, Jerry Paris, will be the chief director of "Hey Landlord!"

In the opening episode, Hutchins tracked down a beautiful model whose picture on a poster had smitten him, only to discover she was rather a hard young lady. Michael Constantine, by the way, was very good as a photographer, who, when slipped a dollar by Baron in exchange for the girl's address, replied: "What's that—your allowance?"

Another new comedy series Sunday night was CBS-TV's half-hour "It's About Time," dealing with two astronauts who crack the time barrier and land back in the caveman era. The reigning philosophy, of course, is television's usual one: Stupid people are smarter than intelligent ones.

On Saturday night, ABC-TV offered the debut of "Shane," an hour entry based on the great western movie. The series, however, resembles the film in name only. It is a frontier potboiler, and naturally in the premiere the bad guys tried to give the homesteaders a bad time.

Examiners Delve Into Prices Of Haircuts Here

AUSTIN (UPI)—The State Board of Barbers Examiners delved deeply into the price of haircut in Pampa Monday in a hearing on a barber charged with running an unsanitary shop.

The charges were lodged against Marshall Johnson of Pampa, who contends the case stemmed from a price war.

Archie Warnick of Fort Worth, a member of the board, said the board decided to hear testimony on haircut prices because of the publicity it had received.

"This case is probably being tried in every barber shop in the state," he said. "We feel we've been pressured by publicity."

"The board has been confronted with undue publicity which amounts to nothing more than petty jealousy among barbers."

Johnson is charged with failure to use proper sterilization procedures during state inspections March 23-24.

Johnson charged that West Texas inspector Paul Green of Lubbock had told him he would leave him alone if he would get in line with his prices "and cut down on your hours." Johnson quoted another Pampa barber as saying the examiners had told him they would put him out of business.

Green denied the charges, and said the inspection was a spot check and not planned.

Motorist Cited In Collision

A car driven by Sybile Deletha Howell of Rt. 1 and one driven by Cecil Wayne Shultz, 627 N. Banks were in a collision shortly before 6 a.m. Monday in the 900 block W. Wilks, according to police.

Police said that Mrs. Howell received a bump on the head. Shultz was cited by city police for following too closely.

The Howell car sustained approximately $185 damage while the Shultz car had approximately $150 damages.

A car driven by Joseph E. E. Wekesser of Miami and another driven by Glen Furriss of Oklahoma City were in a collision at the intersection of E. Frederic and Tignor shortly after 4:30 p.m. yesterday, a police report stated.

No citations were issued in the accident that caused minor damage to both cars.

School Trustees Reset Interviews

The board of trustees of Pampa Independent School District has scheduled four breakfast meetings for interviewing architectural firms and bonding representatives in connection with future school building needs.

The breakfast meetings will be held Sept. 16-20 and Oct. 4, according to John Damron, superintendent of schools.

Originally planned for consecutive Tuesday mornings, the meetings have been re-set in order that architectural and bonding representatives could meet with the board.

Illegal Gun Charge Against Pampa Man

Hoyt Haynie, 619 N. Somerville, was arraigned in Gray County Court yesterday on a charge of having an illegal gun for taking migratory birds.

Bond was set at $500.

Haynie should further the education of both themselves and the public toward the better understanding of the industry.

Other routine business included approving the treasurer's report and payment of monthly bills.

MRS. FRANCES WALLS, librarian

Librarian Added To Pampa Schools

Mrs. Frances B. Walls, a Pampa teacher, has been named elementary library coordinator, according to John Damron, superintendent of schools.

She will administer Title II Library Fund purchasing; coordinate the purchasing of all elementary library books and will work with elementary principals and teachers in coordinating homeroom libraries.

Book carts will be established so all pupils will have access to them.

Mrs. Walls, who has been an elementary teacher in Lamar School for the past 10 years, holds a Bachelor of Science Degree and a Master's of Education from West Texas State University. In addition, she has done graduate work in psychology, elementary supervision, modern math and children's literature. She will enroll in college work this summer in elementary library science.

Mrs. Walls resides east of Pampa with her husband, G. M. Walls Sr. and sons, G. M. Walls Jr., Wilbur and Steve.

Obituaries

Mrs. Dora McPeak Frasier, Mrs. Dora McPeak Frasier of 1700 Christine, resident of Gray County since 1911, died at 12:10 a.m. today in Highland General Hospital.

Funeral services will be at 2 p.m. tomorrow in First Christian Church with Rev. J. W. Duke officiating. Burial will be in Fairview Cemetery under direction of Carmichael - Whatley Funeral Directors.

Mrs. Frasier was born March 5, 1893, in Moore, Okla. She was married to Oscar N. Frasier on June 29, 1909, in Moore, and the couple moved to a farm west of Pampa in 1911, moving to town to make their home several years ago. Mrs. Frasier was a member of First Christian Church.

Survivors include her husband of the home; two daughters, Mrs. Al Kipp of Amarillo and Mrs. Odell Walker of Dalhart; one sister, Mrs. I. S. Jamerson of Pampa, three grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Pailbearers will be A. W. Skewes, D. E. Schultz, Paul Keim, Ray Wilson, Warren Hasse, Bill Taylor, Lloyd Kuntz and R. L. Edmondson Jr.

J. Howard Warner, Funeral services for J. Howard Warner, 68, of 1208 E. Kingsmill, will be at 2 p.m. Thursday in Scheffer-Thompson Funeral Home at Caldwell, Kan. Burial will be in Wichita, Kan. Cemetery.

Mr. Warner died Sunday evening in his home.

The body will remain at Dueneke Funeral Home tomorrow before being sent to Caldwell Thursday morning.

Fair Weather Due

No showers are in prospect for Pampa and vicinity, as well as most of Texas, through Wednesday.

Skies should be fair tonight, with increasing light cloudiness tomorrow. High is expected to reach the mid 80s, with an overnight low near 60. Winds will be westerly 8 to 18 miles an hour.

Pampa's high yesterday was 82, with an overnight low of 61.

Lipscomb Grand Jury Returns Six Indictments

LIPSCOMB — Six indictments were heard yesterday by the new grand jury impaneled for the September term in 31st Judicial, District Court.

J. H. Redelsberger was appointed foreman.

Dale Mitchell, 17, and Bobbie Gene Brauner, 18, both of Woodward, Okla., acting together, were indicted on a charge of burglary of Harvey Eggleston Jr.'s Texaco Service Station in Higgins.

Don Ferguson of Lubbock, Larry Yarbrough, also of Lubbock, and Jerry Carver of Bookers were indicted on a charge of burglary of a drug store in Booker. The same trio with Chester Eugene Bond, 17, of Bookers were charged with burglary of a cafe in Booker.

Each pleaded guilty and were placed on six years' probation. J. D. Broyles, 22, of Follette, was indicted for receiving and concealing stolen property.

Broyles was given a two-year probation sentence.

Don Howard Standley, 28, of Bookers pleaded guilty to a charge of conversion by a worthless check in connection with a 1966 station wagon.

Standley was given a two-year probation sentence.

Escapee Gets Sentence In County Jail

Eddie Lee Wells, 21, entered a plea of guilty yesterday in county court to charges of unlawfully carrying a blackjack and escaping from the city jail.

He received a 30-day sentence on the blackjack charge and 60 days on the escape charge.

Wells, picked up about 9 a.m. on Sept. 2 for paying a home-made blackjack in his possession, escaped an hour and a half later from the county attorney's office where he had been taken for questioning.

Wells returned to the police station of his volition on Sept. 6.

Another escapee, William O. Gurley of Perryton, who became AWOL on the same day, is still at large, according to Chief of Police Jim Sommer.

Gurley was being held in city jail on charges of intoxication failure to control speed to avoid an accident and leaving the scene of an accident.

Packers Inc. Standley was placed on six years' probation.

Billy D. French was indicted on a charge of swindling with charge of conversion by a worthless check in connection with a 1966 station wagon.

Five bids for the purchase of a new city fire truck were opened today. They ranged all the way from $18,880 to $29,639. Officials will study the bids and a contract will be let at the next commission meeting.

An ordinance was passed on final reading to rezone S. Hobart from Crawford to McCulloch from residential to semi-commercial.

The commission approved payment of $30,555 to Ray Boswell Construction Co. for work done on the paving of Harvester and N. Spemerville Sts. through Aug. 31.

City bills in the amount of $28,263 and Lovett Memorial Library bills for $132.46 were approved for payment.

Other business included payment of $1,358 to Merriam & Barber, architects, for engineering fees. Payment of current city and library bills.

Authorization for purchase of $450,000 in U.S. Treasury Bills. Transfer of $80,000 from Water and Sewer fund to General fund. Transfer of $4,000 from General fund to Library fund, and approval of a $2,425.50 payment as Pampa's share of Canadian Municipal Water Authority expenses.

CRMWA Project Near Completion

PLAINVIEW — Canadian River Municipal Water Authority directors were told here yesterday that all of the more than 300 miles of aqueduct that will serve 11 cities in the system had been completed with the exception of 5 miles east of Lubbock and 2 of a mile near Pampa.

Construction of the entire system is expected early in 1967. Leon Hill, regional director of the Bureau of Reclamation said.

Four pumping stations west of Lubbock are essentially completed and the east aqueduct including two pumping stations to serve Borger and Pampa should be finished by the end of 1966.

Hill stated.

He reported that Lake Meredith covers 233,737 acre-feet and is 71.86 feet deep. Deducing dead storage of 79,240 acre feet, there is 154,497 acre-feet of water in conservation storage.

Bids for construction of the authority headquarters office building will be opened Sept. 27.

Fred Thompson, Pampa CRMWA director, attended yesterday's meeting.

Income Tax Questions, Answers

EDITOR'S NOTE — This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the Pampa office of the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published by The News as a public service to taxpayers.

Q—Are fees paid to a veterinarian for a pet a deductible medical expense?
A—No.

Q—I reached an agreement with your Appellate Division. How can I be sure that someone won't decide to open the case again?
A—Agreements executed on Form 870AD reached with Appellate are final. Cases are not reopened unless there is evidence of fraud, malfeasance, concealment, misrepresentation of material facts or an important mathematical mistake.

Q—I joined a country club this summer so I would have a suitable place to entertain my clients. Will my dues be deductible?
A—Country club dues are treated as an expenditure for an entertainment facility and come under special rules. For any part of your dues to be deductible, you must show that during the year you used the facility—the club—more than 50 per cent of the time for business purposes. If you qualify under the 50 per cent rule, then you can deduct the pro rata portion of your dues that is "directly related" to the active conduct of your trade or business.

Q—I make less than $3,000, yet my return was audited this year. Why do you bother to examine the returns of small income taxpayers when the correction of errors and omissions produces so little additional tax revenue?
A—In the administration of the tax laws, the Revenue Service seeks to assure each taxpayer that he pays neither more nor less than is required of him. Regardless of the amount of income, some returns are selected for audit as a pattern to measure this standard of compliance. The fact that a possible adjustment to a return is small is never a reason in itself for not examining the return. No taxpayer should feel that his return is exempt from examination.

Q—My home was damaged in a storm. Will before and after pictures be enough to establish our casualty loss?
A—The photos will be helpful but you should be prepared to show evidence of the cost of the home, including improvements, the value of the property before and after the casualty, cost of the repairs, and insurance reimbursement, if any. Records to show these things should be kept for tax purposes.

Q—In a divorce, what expenses are deductible: How about the alimony I pay, under the court decree, lawyer's fees for getting the divorce, and child support payments? Also who is entitled to claim the children's medical expenses?
A—Periodic payments of alimony may be deducted if you itemize your deductions. Child support payments, specifically designated as such in the decree legal fees to get the divorce, and lump sum cash settlements are not deductible. The medical expenses you pay for your children may be deducted if the children qualify as your dependents.

Q—When is the next installment of estimated tax due?
A—It is due September 15.

Q—My daughter is having a big wedding and I have invited quite a few of my business associates. Since there is this business connection, will any of the wedding expenses be deductible?
A—No. These are personal expenses and not deductible.

Does Pampa Have Magic Formula?

By DORIS E. WILSON
News Staff Writer

Now, if the Pampa Chamber of Commerce could just package it or bottle it, there might be a new industry in the making in Pampa.

It seems the magic formula for a "Miss Oklahoma" to win the title and crown of Miss America is to have a relative living in Pampa.

Still basking in the prideful knowledge that the current Miss America, Miss Jane Ann Jayroe of Laverne, Okla., has a sister, Mrs. Don Weiser living at 1912 N. Christy, it was called to The News' attention that another "Miss Oklahoma," who captured the title in 1926 has a stepbrother, Dick Dickerson, who lives at 214 N. Starkweather.

The Miss Oklahoma of 1926 is the former Norma Smallwood of Tulsa, Okla., now Mrs. George Bruce of Wichita, Kan.

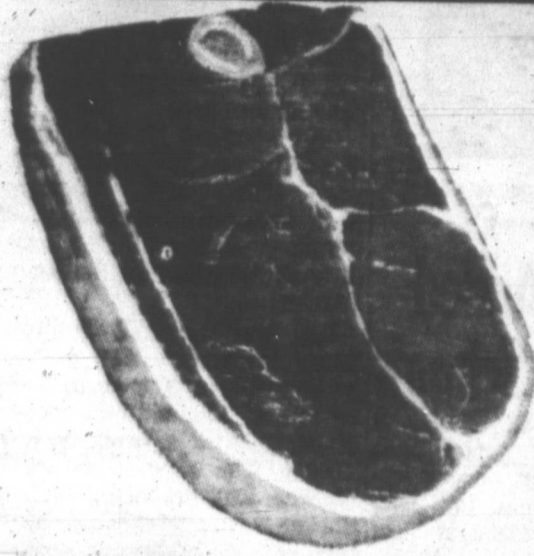

GETS NEW POST
WASHINGTON (UPI) —Dr. Jimmie S. Hillman, head of the University of Arizona's Agricultural Economics Department, is the new executive director of the National Advisory Commission on food and fiber.

President Johnson named Hillman Monday to succeed the late Harlow W. Halvorson as head of the commission, which was set up last November to evaluate U.S. agricultural and recommend long-range goals.

ment of estimated tax due?
A—It is due September 15.

Q—My daughter is having a big wedding and I have invited quite a few of my business associates. Since there is this business connection, will any of the wedding expenses be deductible?
A—No. These are personal expenses and not deductible.

Just Testing...
One, Two, Three
Motorists and passersby in the area of Somerville and Kingsmill yesterday were shaken from their usual Monday morning doldrums by the blasting of the toronado signal alert atop the Hughes Building.
"Just testing," Mrs. M. B. Pollard, day dispatcher at the Police Station said, when questioned about it. "I'm supposed to press the signal buzzer every Monday morning at 10 a.m."
"That way, we know the alert signal is functioning and everyone else knows it's 10 o'clock Monday morning."

Vandals Set Bears Loose
BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (UPI)—The owner of two bears that escaped from their cage said today vandals set the animals free.
Wilson Fry, of San Benito, owner of a traveling 84-animal zoo, said the bears were captured Thursday by police using a tranquilizer gun, but not before they did a little damage.
Fry said, "they tore up most everything, but did not harm any of the other animals." He said a rope had been tied around each bear, and vandals apparently untied the rope.

Square Dancing Provides Fun For Silver Bells Club Members

By LARRY HOLLIS
News Staff Writer

Although many married couples spend their nights at home watching television or sitting around, perhaps with a jaunt to a movie once in a while, some Pampa couples attempt to set aside a couple nights each month for the activity of square dancing.

One such square dance club formed in Pampa is the Silver Bells Square Dance Club.

In the past, members of this club met twice a month to swing around the floor to the rhythm of music and the directions of a caller.

They would like to continue doing so, said Mrs. Robert Steger, who, along with her husband, serves as joint president of the club, but at the present they are in search of a building in which to perform their "swinging" exercises of formation dances.

Previously, they had a place, but with the price of hiring a caller, they have found it hard to meet the cost of renting the building twice a month, Mrs. Steger explained.

Presently, the club has 12 to 15 active couples, but desires to have more interested persons join the club.

To further the activity of square dancing, the club attempts to give lessons twice a year — in the spring and in the fall. One such session is supposed to be in progress now, but is had to be postponed for lack of a suitable place in which to meet.

A fee is charged for the lessons, Mrs. Steger said, to pay for the instructor and the rental. The club, however, operates on a non-profit basis.

"We just try to make enough to operate," she added.

Club membership, according to the by-laws, is opened to any married couple who has attended two consecutive dances. They are then voted upon by a majority of the active members. Afterwards, there is an initial fee plus monthly dues.

Club meetings are usually held on the second Friday of each month, Mrs. Steger said, with dancing on the first and third Fridays. A caller is usually hired for each dance.

Attire at the dances is usually moded toward Western styles as befits square dancing.

In addition to Silver Bells, the club sponsors the Junior Silver Bells for teenagers between the ages of 13 and 18, Mrs. Steger said. The juniors have their own by-laws and officers, with separate meetings. They usually dance with the older Silver Bells, though.

Behavior is important at the dances, said Mrs. Steger. According to the by-laws, any member who brings liquor to a club-meeting or dance shall be asked to resign. Any disrespectful or ungentlemanlike (or unladylike) behavior shall be grounds for suspension of a member.

The club is associated with the Panhandle Square Dance Association, P.S.D.A. which was founded in 1948 in Amarillo. P.S.D.A. consists of five districts including Pampa, Amarillo, Borger, Dalhart, Dumas, Shamrock, Panhandle, Canyon, Spearman and other Panhandle towns.

In addition, Silver Bells is also a part of the Texas State Federation of Square and Round Dancers, formed several years ago.

Each district of the P.S.D.A. holds a jamboree once a year for other member clubs, mak-

Price Offers Five-Point Plan To Check Inflation

AMARILLO — Congressional candidate Bob Price offered a five-point program to halt or slow down inflation last night in one of the major policy speeches of his campaign.

"The program I support should reduce the possibility of a recession or a depression and keep our economy growing," Price told members of the Republican Women's Club at Wyatt's Cafeteria here.

The 18th District candidate's five proposals included:

1. The Federal Government should spend less money than it takes in to protect the value of the dollar and reduce inflationary pressures.

2. The costs of the Viet Nam War should be financed within annual budgets by reduction or postponement of domestic programs and foreign aid.
3. Policies should be supported by the Administration which will make 'voluntary' or 'mandatory' wage and price controls unnecessary. Wage and price controls are inconsistent with a free market economy.
4. Inflationary fiscal policies should not be relied on to reduce unemployment. Emphasis should be placed on counseling, job training, and placement by private industry.
5. As many overlapping and duplicating government functions as possible should be eliminated. As many programs as possible should be returned to state and local governments.

West Coast Custom Car Kick Is Back Again

By BOB COCHNAR and DAVE UGIN
 NEW YORK (NEA) — Jan Dean put it in song with their hit record, "Little Old Lady From Pasadena." The song, you may recall, was about a southern California grandmother who zipped along the freeways in a car that not only had plenty of goodie under the hood, but was sleek, too. Granny had gone custom. In a rebirth of the post World War II kick, so has the rest of the country. But this time the art of customizing, according to Jan

"In fact," reports our West Coast correspondent Dick Klein, "Southern Californians have taken to customizing their automobiles so much that George Barris' Kustom City in North Hollywood just finished customizing somebody's stagecoach." The first custom craze began to wane in the mid-fifties when Detroit turned its attention to speed and horsepower.

That's when drag racing got off the line. Customizing lingo such as "lowered," "chopped," "channeled" and "raked," got buried in talk about axle ratios, stroke and bore. Now, once again, car-conscious California is leading in making automobiles individual. Here's Dick Kleiner's report: Today, you can even customize-it-yourself, to a degree. Through mail-order firms which do an estimated $50 million-a-year business, you can — order "boltons" (larger wheels, fender skirts, air scoops, decorative

Dear Abby... Clergyman Might Help Teenager Find Answer

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have taken a teenage cousin into our home as she is in trouble. We have children of our own and are financially able to care for this girl and pay all her expenses. She has one year of high school left, which she will finish after her baby is born. Now the problem: She wants to keep her baby. We have had our doctor and lawyer talk to her, and no one can get through to her. She thinks it is a "sin" to give away her own flesh and blood.

Abby, this child is 16, the boy will not marry her (for which she is lucky, as he is only a kid himself and not much good). My husband and I would adopt the child as a compromise, but we want her to put her past behind her, go on to college, and start life over where no one knows of her mistake. We need your help in convincing her that this would be best for her and the baby. Please help us.

NO NAME, NO TOWN
DEAR N.M., N.T.: It would appear that the girl, under the guise of selflessness and sacrifice, feels guilty and is determined to punish herself for her mistake. Actually, she would be punishing the child more.

For you to adopt the baby would be as grave a mistake as for her to keep it. I know of no one more qualified to deal with a "sin" than a clergyman. Ask yours to talk to the girl.

DEAR ABBY: What do you do with a boss who hasn't a thing to do all day but sit around and stare at his secretary? Actually, there isn't enough work for me to do here. He's about 60, owns a small business and has no outside interests.

I've tried bringing him magazines and even crossword puzzle books, which he hands back to me without even looking at. He won't go home because he fights with his wife. He is so ignorant it's impossible to hold a conversation with him. One day I mentioned contact lenses. He'd never heard of them, and thought I was crazy when I tried to explain how they fit into your eyes.

He gets mad when I refuse to go to lunch with him. He's had nine secretaries in the year before I came I've been here ten months and I'm bored stiff. I hate to quit because the pay is good and it's near my husband's work, but this man is making me nervous. Any suggestions?

OUT OF IDEAS

DEAR OUT: Yes. Be number ten.

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow, 55, and am quite lonely. I knew a widower a few years older than myself — just a speaking acquaintance. His wife was a friend of mine.

My son gave me two tickets for a show, so I wrote this gentleman a little note, telling him how I came to have these tickets, and I asked if he would like to accompany me.

He never acknowledged my letter. I felt foolish, so I wrote another note asking him to please accept my apologies for not answering that note either.

I see him occasionally, and he always smiles and says hello. People say he is very shy. Should I do anything more, or shouldn't the next move be his? I'm afraid I've made a fool of myself.

LONELY

DEAR LONELY: The gentleman is shy all right — shy of good manners. He should have acknowledged your first note one way or the other. You may be "lonely," but you're better off alone than in the company of one who appears to be an ill-mannered scardy-cat.

Problems? Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

E. E. Shelhamer Is P-TA Speaker

E. E. Shelhamer, chairman of the Pampa Independent School Board, presented the program at the first meeting of the new year of Horace Mann P-TA Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Gene Snell, vice president, presided over the meeting. Mrs. Ray Robertson gave the devotional taken from John 1:8-12 and I John 1:6-7.

Dr. John Damron, superintendent of school, was introduced by Sam Begert, Horace Mann principal, who also recognized the school's teaching staff. Mrs. Archie Maness gave the treasurer's report and Mrs. H. L. Meers gave the report of the secretary.

In his address Mr. Shelhamer discussed the working policies of the school board, needs of the local school system, what has been accomplished and a study of long-range plans which will require a bond election.

"Parents should know and realize what the board and school represent," the speaker stated. "Teachers are the heart of the school system. The students of today lead us tomorrow." Mr. Shelhamer concluded. A question and answer period followed.

Mr. Davis' sixth grade room won the room contest. The Puncer and cookies were served during the social hour preceding the meeting by the hospitality committee composed of Mrs. B. B. Eds and Mrs. Charles Mumford.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

FOR WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 14
GENERAL TENDENCIES: This is a quiet day and evening to wind up any and all details of such courses in back of you so that you can start afresh to put into effect a whole new plan that is more in accord with modern ways of operating. The evening can well find you preparing for the future in depth.

ARRIS (Sept. 21 to Apr. 19) — A busy day getting caught up with work at home or office will release time for more enjoyable interests later on. Be diligent and others will respect you. Exercise greatly for power in all things.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) — Put yourself in expert hands and get yourself beautifully groomed so that others will be very impressed with you. Some important person can be contacted. Be amusing for her/his benefit.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) — Work on plans that will make next week's activities more successful so that you can start on your weekend without anxiety or dissatisfaction. Show kin you are truly devoted. Do whatever is practical.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) — Gauding about is fine today, but be sure you drive with utmost care and are careful both in motion and speech. Your ideas are quite good, but being taken down. Don't retire too late tonight.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) — You want more of the good things of life and a fine, but don't get it at the expense of others. Show instead that you care for the interests of others as well. Use practical business sense.

VERGIL (Aug. 22 to Sept. 21) — Be ingenious and show that you will not take any risk of any sort and that you have your feet on the ground. Others will be of great help to you. But be sure you do not let their good will in any way.

LINER (Sept. 22 to Oct. 21) — You have much work piled up whether in office, shop or at home. Get busy early and put it behind you efficiently. Some boring task also needs your immediate attention. Clear the decks for future progress.

SCORPIO (Oct. 22 to Nov. 21) — If you do not come through with some promise you have made to a discerning person, you can get into a dilly of an argument. Many social matters need your special touch. Show that you have excellent ideas.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Some civic task is being forced upon you that will bring in fine benefits, so don't be reluctant about carrying through with it. A very successful person can give you wonderful aid. Ideas. Show gratitude.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 31) — Showing that you comprehend others' ideas can be instrumental in making them workable and successful in bringing about fine deals for the future. Get busy with out-of-town correspondence. Grow.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 31 to Feb. 29) — This is a rather a strange day, so get busy paying obligations and collecting what is owed to you. Then be very kind with mate, and all is well. Forget any trip or other plan. Stay pretty close to home.

PISCES (Feb. 29 to Mar. 20) — Doing whatever will most assist those you like can turn this somewhat difficult day into a most worthwhile one. Put aside that hobby you had planned. This can await a far better day when you have right companions.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... be or she will be one of those youngsters who will be so busy about every little thing that it almost becomes a fetish, so be sure to early teach to first pay attention to what is truly important. Then it's all right to go into minute details. Ideal chart for the research laboratory, detective work, organization, medicine, writing, etc. Give us fine an education as pocketbook allows.

Mad, Mod Bash at Southampton

MODESTY GOES to blazes when the Beautiful People take the Long Island Railroad to a swinging weekend party. Raison d'être, a Mad Mod fete for the movie "Modesty Blaise" in Southampton. Intent artist here tattoos a model subbing for the reel Modesty.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Joan Crosby, NEA's Entertainment Editor, contributes to The Boutique her report on an evening with Southampton's Jet Set.)

By JOAN CROSBY
Newspaper Enterprise Ass'n
SOUTHAMPTON, N.Y. (NEA) — The Beautiful People are packed in, body against beautiful body, squirming a little to the music.

Lights flash on and off. Patterns are projected over the walls. The noise level hurts. Films run constantly on three screens.

It reminds you of the torture scene in the film, "The Impress File," when a man's eyes were assaulted to the breaking point and his brain was washed to believe what the enemy wanted.

But The Beautiful People, the Jet Set darlings, are here because they want to be, enjoying an evening at a discotheque.

At the invitation of 20th Century-Fox, they are gathered to see a midnight premiere of "Modesty Blaise," a pop-op High-Camp - limp-wristed film taken from a comic strip, which will open in a few days to critical roasts.

The women are indeed beautiful and the men handsome.

Fashions run from simple pants suits and expensive party pajamas to bare-midriffed outfits. They are having a simply mahh-ve-lous time, darling (most of them speak in an accent best described as "nasal-social"), but an onlooker can feel a little sorry for them.

They dance, oh how they dance... the frug, the jerk, the monkey, the swim. Beat... lights... sensuous brass... shaking beautiful bodies. But it's all so athletically lacking in sex it could be a mad scene in the YMCA gym as directed by the Marquis de Sade.

Suddenly Bob Goldstein's Lightworks swings into what's that? ... a waltz? A WALTZ?

In an instant the floor is emptied as if someone called intermission.

"Hey, any of you beautiful guys want to dance with an old-fashioned, red-headed gal reporter?"

Two fashion trends are running neck and neck. One is highly artificial fabrics—vinyls, metallics and plastics. The other: the rich girl or rich boy look of wools and cashmeres. The metallic trend, especially in silver and copper tones, adds a glint to both woven and knit.

Watch for a great revival of all types of knitwear constructions — jersey, double knit, sweater knits. Ribs and baby cables continue strong. The new sweater dress, meanwhile, is turning more sophisticated, toward dressmaker types.

A child should start learning to use a tooth brush as soon as all primary teeth have emerged. This usually is between two and three-years of age.

Starting off with a smile: Shoe department manager to customer: "Yes, we have quite a collection of loafers. I see if I can get one of them to wait on you."

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Lawrence celebrated their 57th wedding anniversary Thursday, and was given a rousing ovation at the Center. Again we extend congratulations.

Lewellen Sutton and wife Madge, and son Charles of Shawnee, Okla., spent the weekend with Mr. Sutton's parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Sutton. The grandson Charles Sutton is an accomplished artist. A charcoal portrait of a Pampa girl, Miss Paula Sealey, copied from a picture in the Pampa paper, was on display at the Center Thursday.

Mrs. E. B. Smith and daughter Mrs. Corinne Bell, spent the Labor Day weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Larry Parsley, Kerry Lea and Jody at their cabin at Fort Cobb.

Miss Lucy Herlacher spent Sunday with her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Tarbox in Spearman.

Mrs. W. M. Stein was welcomed back at the Center Thursday after a long absence.

Dinner guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Lawrence were Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Nice.

Mr. and Mrs. George Higgins of Pampa and Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Barke of Wheeler spent last weekend fishing in Oklahoma.

Mrs. A. A. DeMoss and A. E. Ellison were reported ill in Highland General Hospital. Mrs. Verda Adair is ill at home.

In the rush of events forgot to report the surprise, but short visit of my cousin Bob Knott and family from Tulsa, Okla., recently. Mr. Knott is employed with the Cities Service Oil Co. in Tulsa. He was with the City Tax Office when they resided in Pampa.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Henderson were missed; they were in Gruver visiting friends.

A new member, Mrs. Mary Bedell, mother of Mrs. Barbara Cockrel, Lovett Memorial Librarian, was welcomed this week.

Hostess group this week was Pampa Chapter 65, OES. Serving sandwiches, cookies and coffee during the refreshment hour were Mmes. Viola Pennington, Ruth Ayers, Lillian Smith, Mary Kretzer, Blanche Morrison, Lorea McNaughton, Hazel Parker, Gertie Shaw, Katie Vincent, Stella Wagner, Olive Hills, Cora Lawrence and Mr. W. W. The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST

United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI)—It was more than seven months ago that Rep. Craig Hosmer, R-Calif., brought forth his novel proposal for ending the war in Viet Nam.

His plan, you may recall, was to bomb the Viet Cong with bad luck symbols, the theory being that praying on their superstitions would cause them to surrender. Or something.

Nothing much came of the proposal and at last report the fighting was still in progress. Which suggests that perhaps a new approach is needed.

If so, I recommend for study and evaluation a letter recently received by a U.S. senator from a group of students who refused to give their right names.

They conceived the idea of bombing Viet Nam peace efforts with Lady Bird Johnson's beautification program. In short, to collect the empty beer cans that litter the countryside and drop them on the enemy.

Beginning with the formula for uniform particle motion in one dimension and proceeding into certain parametric equations, the students mathematically calculated the military potential of beer cans.

The figures showed that in theory "a beer can dropped from 25,000 feet... would have a devastating effect on heads, bodies, limbs and other extraneous articles which it might contact."

"This theory was tested at some expense and time by dropping such projectiles from a third story window," the letter added. "The findings proved beyond a shadow of a doubt that considerable damage may be caused to parked cars, bicycles and sundry assorted."

The students suggested that a beer can bombardment would help force the aggressors to the conference table.

The senator to whom the letter was addressed commended the proposal but, as senators usually do, injected some amendments. "Surely our bombers have the capacity to carry junk cars as well as beer cans," he wrote. "And even a massive drop of gum wrappers and used picnic tables—while perhaps not doing much physical damage—would certainly be a depressant on enemy morale."

"Or how about a shower of old political posters? Of frayed magazines rounded up from dentists' offices? Imagine the despair we could generate by having 100,000 North Vietnamese turn to page 100 of the Saturday Evening Post only to find that the story continuation has already been torn out."

Bell Telephone Says Shooting Disrupts Lines

Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. officials today urged hunters not to shoot at birds sitting on telephone wires and cables, according to George Newberry, local manager.

"If you fire at birds on telephone lines," Newberry said, "you may knock out vital local and long distance telephone service for an entire area. Many important calls may be missed while the service is out."

Newberry said each year thousands of telephone conversations and other communications are interrupted because hunters are careless when shooting near telephone wires. It is costly in both time and money to repair damages done by negligent hunters, he said.

"Good luck on bagging the limit," Newberry quipped, "but please remember, there's no open season on telephone lines."

Mrs. Elaine Ledbetter Honored by ACS for Teaching of Chemistry

Mrs. Elaine Ledbetter, head of Pampa High School's science department and a chemistry teacher, has been named one of the winners of the American Chemical Society's $1,000 James Bryant Conant Award in high school chemistry teaching sponsored by E. I. duPont de Nemours and Co., Inc.

MRS. ELAINE LEDBETTER, chemistry teacher

The announcement was made last night at the 152nd national meeting of the general assembly of the society in New York City.

Established in 1965 to "recognize, encourage and stimulate outstanding teachers of high school chemistry in the United States and its territories," the James Bryant Conant Award is presented to six teachers annually, one in each of the six geographic districts containing about the same number of chemistry teachers.

Other winners are from Batavia, N.Y.; Washington, D.C.; Austell, Ga.; Roseville, Minn.; and Las Cruces, N.M.

Mrs. Ledbetter, a native of Tonkawa, Okla., received the B.S. degree from the University of Oklahoma and the M.Ed. from North Texas State University. She has also studied at the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies, the University of Arizona, and the University of California, Berkeley. A teacher for 25 years, she has taught in the Pampa school system since 1951.

Mrs. Ledbetter was instrumental in the organization of the Panhandle Science Fair in 1957 in Amarillo. At least one of her students has been selected to participate in the International Science Fair in eight of the past nine years. Mrs. Ledbetter is a member of the Science Fair council, a 21-member body representing more than 200 science fairs throughout the United States and in some foreign countries. She is co-author of "Matter and Energy — The Fabric of the Universe," a textbook for introductory physical science.

The recipient of numerous honors, Mrs. Ledbetter was the Pampa Key Club Adult Leader of the Year in 1961 and was selected to Uho's Uho of American Women in 1965. She was chosen Chemistry Teacher in Texas in 1965, the Texas Teacher of the Year in 1966, and named to the Look Magazine National Teacher of the Year Honor Roll in 1966.

A member of the American Chemical Society, Mrs. Ledbetter is also a member of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the National Science Teachers Association, and the National Education Association.

Mrs. Ledbetter was selected from the fifth geographic district which includes Arkansas, Iowa, Kansas, Louisiana, Missouri, Oklahoma, and Texas.

The Milwaukee, Wis., marchers protesting the membership of local politicians in lily white fraternal organizations could conduct a more orderly and probably more effective protest if they would consider their options. Or, it may be that they just prefer marching, the risk of violence and the assured publicity.

Not much knowledge of American political practice is necessary to know that the proper and accepted method to deal with offending politicians is to vote 'em out of office. That is the inalienable right of American citizens.

A protest by vote would be the most appropriate means to persuade elected officials in Milwaukee that they should not join fraternal orders that exclude Negroes. The offending fraternal order in this instance is the Eagles. The offending public men are two judges and one member of Congress.

Among the protest marchers was the Marquette Faculty Association for Interracial Justice. These college teachers surely are aware of the power of the ballot. It might be too much to assume that they also are aware that no civil right is violated when a judge or a member of Congress joins a racially restricted fraternal order. The federal law, in fact, is against the professors.

Title II of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 enjoins racial discrimination in places of public accommodation. But Title II exempts bona fide private clubs or other places not open to the public, except to the extent that their facilities are made available to customers or patrons of a covered establishment.

That provision would seem to exempt fraternal orders such as the Eagles and the Elks, the latter being challenged now in New York as the former is being challenged in Wisconsin.

The marching professors and the Negroes who preceded them in Milwaukee no doubt are on the side of the angels. But they appear also to be attempting to deprive their fellow citizens of the civil right to choose and to maintain a private association with other citizens in a fraternal order. If anyone's civil rights are being trampled in Milwaukee in the present incident the rights trampled would appear to be the rights of the two judges and the member of Congress.

The professors, the Negroes and their supporters have an inalienable right to vote the bad guys out and the good guys into office. But they have no right other than through the ballot to order the bad guys to cease and desist from a hand of high-low-jack with brother Eagles in the Milwaukee area. The same goes in New York State where agitated civil righters would compel political candidates to withdraw from the society of brother Elks.

The Civil Right's Bill of 1966, now pending in the Senate, would deprive such marchers as the anti-Eagles crusaders in Milwaukee of protection against violence during such demonstrations. Title V would provide punishment for using force or violence because of race or color against persons openly engaged or seeking to engage in certain enumerated federally-protected rights activities. A march in protest against the Eagles or the Elks racial discrimination is not a federally-protected activity.

The march has its uses, some of them spectacularly successful. But it is difficult to understand why a march-in would be preferred by college men to the more orderly and normal voting process.

Among the protest marchers was the Marquette Faculty Association for Interracial Justice. These college teachers surely are aware of the power of the ballot. Several things came to light in Pampa's breathtaking 20-14 victory over Perryton Friday night. First, the Harvesters must improve upon their pass defense. And don't they know it.

No Passing

Perryton could do nothing running, except for a time or three around end, which pointed up another Pampa weak spot. But these are things the coaches and players knew all along and are working harder each day to correct. Coach Eural Ramsey said before the season started that his pass defense would not be the best in the world but, "all we can do is put the best we've got out there and hope for the best."

When you look at the statistics the Rangers did have some trouble passing against Pampa, completing but seven of 19 throws, which isn't 50%.

However, Perryton did not have the best passer or receivers the Harvesters will come up against this season. Pampa's line play, both offense and defense was near perfect with only a few assignments being missed.

In 1965 Harvester backs found no place to go for there were few holes to run through. But the 1966 Pampa line took care of this little item and only a time or two were Pampa backs unable to maneuver through for yard's gained.

Defensively any Pampa opponent will be hard pressed to run the middle on the Harvesters as the beef trust proved Friday night.

Pampa's defense alignment was wonderful when it came to stopping plays from tackle to tackle. As far as the running game goes it has been known for quite a few weeks that this year's crop of back's were the best in quite some time at old Pampa High.

General Hyatt

L. D. Rowden and Gary McCarrell took a lot of the heat off fullback Ted Heiskell and the big runner was stopped but once for no gain.

Rowden and McCarrell were the workhorses and both showed plenty of drive and capability. As far as the quarterbacking goes at Harvester land. Like the commercial says, it's in good hands, in the form of General Gary Hyatt.

If there had been any doubts, and we're sure there were, of Hyatt's capabilities to move his team, there aren't anymore.

The senior Hyatt called all but a play or two, passed well and showed good running form. He is not afraid to carry the mail, but slow down there, Gary, we still have nine games left.

Pampa will test their true value Friday night in Wichita Falls when they meet sixth-ranked Rider, a 6-0 winner in the final minutes of play.

A Pampa victory here should give the Harvesters all the impetus they need to go on to a successful season.

Cazzie Decides On Knicks First

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Knickerbockers won Cazzie Russell in a coin flip — but it took a lot more coins to get his name on a contract Monday.

The Knicks signed the former University of Michigan all-American to the richest rookie contract in the history of the National Basketball Association — a three-year pact costing about $200,000.

Russell, who was also entertaining an offer from the Harlem Globetrotters, was represented by Chicago attorney Art Morse, who represented both Dick Butkus and Jim Brabowski when they signed their lucrative football contracts.

The Knicks were originally talking about a $20,000 contract until Morse kept mentioning the Globetrotters and what they were willing to pay.

Bill Russell at $100,000 (he gets the extra buck so he's No. 1) and Wilt Chamberlain at $100,000 were the two highest paid players in NBA history last year although Russell will make more this year since he'll also coach the Boston Celtics.

The Knicks, the last-place finisher in the East, and the Detroit Pistons, the last-place finisher in the West, flipped a coin for the rights to the No. 1 draft choice this year. Piston coach Dave DeBusschere called tails, the coin came down heads and the Knicks drafted Russell.

QUARTERBACK DROPPED DENVER (UPI) — Quarterback Buddy Humphrey, cut from the St. Louis Cardinals of the National Football League two weeks ago, was dropped Monday by Denver of the American Football League. Humphrey had been working out with the AFL team since Tuesday.

BIRDS CAN'T BREAK SLUMP

Dodgers Pad Lead, 3-2

By United Press International Hank Bauer was angry Monday night — but he should have been sad.

And American League President Joe Cronin couldn't have been too happy, either.

Bauer is watching in frustration as his Baltimore Orioles, the toast of baseball earlier this summer, limp into the World Series. Bauer got kicked out of the game disputing the call on the winning run in the Orioles' 6-5 loss to the California Angels in the only American League game scheduled.

But what happened in the only National League game was even more distressing for Bauer — the defending world champion Los Angeles Dodgers tightened their hold on the National League lead with a 3-2 victory over the New York Mets.

Hold Commanding Position The Dodgers are in a definite commanding position in the senior circuit scramble. They lead Pittsburgh by 1½ games and San Francisco by 2½.

That isn't the kind of news to brighten September for Bauer and Cronin. For the Dodgers are the last team they want to run up against in the World Series.

The Orioles would be an even-money choice against either the Pirates or Giants. A series involving those teams would most likely be wild, free-swinging affairs with the clubs collecting runs and hits like they're going out of style.

A best-of-seven series against the Dodgers, however, is another question. Sandy Koufax can start three times in a seven-game series and the rest of the Dodger pitching staff isn't exactly shaky, either. In a seven-game series, pitching can tell the whole story.

Lost Three Straight This is a World Series Cronin and the American League desperately want to win, too. They've lost three straight, two to Koufax, Inc., and the prospect of losing a fourth one doesn't exactly cheer up Cronin.

The Dodgers won in typical fashion Monday. When starter Don Sutton faltered and gave up four hits and two runs in four innings, the Dodger bullpen quickly came to the rescue.

Ron Perranoski came in and struck out the first six batters he faced to equal a National League record. He wound up pitching four innings and allowing just three hits to get the victory, his sixth in 13 decisions. When the first batter in the ninth got a hit, manager Walt Alston quickly called in Phil Regan and he chalked up an easy save.

Trailing Tug McGraw 2-1 after four innings, the Dodgers won it in the fifth. Maury Wills and Jim Gilliam walked and Willie Davis forced Gilliam and Tommy Davis then singled. Wills trotted in and Daffis, one of the fastest players in baseball, raced all the way in from first base with the winning run. Perranoski and Regan took care of the rest.

While the Dodger pitching again excelled the club is 8-2 in September while the Pirates are 5-6 and the Giants 4-6. Bauer lost another pitcher.

Jim Palmer's shoulder stiffened while he was warming up and Wally Bunker had to be rushed in to replace him. With Steve Barber probably out for the season, Bauer can't afford to be losing pitchers at this stage.

Bunker couldn't get J. Fregosi out. He doubled in the second inning and hit a grand slammer in the fifth. Baltimore used it 5-5 in the last of the inning as Frank Robinson hit his 44th homer and Paul Blair hit a sacrifice fly.

The Angels won it in the eighth when Bob Rodgers slid across the plate to beat first baseman's Boog Powell's throw to the plate. Bauer was convinced that Andy Etchebarren tagged Rodgers out and he charged out of the plate to yell at umpire Bill Valentine, who's already had two other run-ins with Bauer this season. But all he got for his complaint was an ejection from the game.

Minnie Rojas got the victory in relief for the Angels while Eddie Fisher lost it for Baltimore.

The loss cut the Orioles' lead to 9½ games over the second place Minnesota Twins. The Orioles are in no trouble, though, since the "magic number" is only nine.

But the prospect of facing Koufax in the World Series can't be a cheering one for the Orioles.

COLORADO MAY THREATEN

Nebraska Best in Midlands

By BILL OSTHOFF United Press International KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — It's still the invincible, not the inevitable in the Midlands.

The invincible is Nebraska. The inevitable is at least a year away.

With the first big college football weekend less than five days off, Coach Bob Devaney is ready to open his bid for a fourth consecutive Big Eight championship at Nebraska. It's almost like he had four acres up his sleeve.

The ace is 33 lettermen returning from Nebraska's first perfect regular season in half a century. Ambitious Colorado is the threat to a possible Nebraska cakewalk.

Sugar Bowl champion Missouri, optimistic Iowa State and once-mighty, but now hopeful Oklahoma rate, the darkhorse roles in the Big Eight where second division finishes seem destined for Oklahoma State, Kansas and Kansas State, each inexperienced.

Tulsa Picked Tulsa, and Coach Glenn Dobbs' aerial circus, is favored for a third straight title in the Midlands' other major conference, the Missouri Valley. Adopting the "if you can't beat 'em, join 'em attitude," Louisville and Cincinnati will pass more in an effort to derail the Tulsa Golden Hurricane. Improved play is also predicted in the valley from North Texas State and Wichita State.

The Cornhuskers, who led the nation in rushing last season with a 29-yard average per game, seldom had to pass and there are no lightning-quick teams like Alabama in the Midlands. Despite his "problems," Devaney admits "we'll have a pretty good football team."

He says his offensive backfield talent and defensive players are better. Bob Church, the league's passing champion in 1964, will quarterback and halfback Harry (Lighthouse) Wilson is a bonafide all-America candidate. Ron Kirkland will be the other starting halfback and Pete Tatman and Charlie Winters will do the fullbacking.

Strong Defense The Husker defense is led by middle guard Wayne Meyland, end Langston Coleman, linebacker Lynn Senkbell and safety and kicking specialist Larry Wacholtz.

At Colorado, Coach Eddie Crowder will field a veteran team, 30 lettermen, bolstered by some outstanding sophomores. He has 10 starters returning from his defensive unit and seven offensive regulars back from a 6-2-2 season and a third place finish in the Big Eight.

coach Dan Devine's always tough Missouri Tigers must stay that way because the going, with only 18 lettermen back (least in the league), will be tougher. Gary Kombrink will take over at quarterback and Devine has a pair of veteran halfbacks in Charlie Brown, the league's No. 1 rusher, and Earl Denny. Tackle Bill Powell, guard Don Nelson, linebacker Rich Bernsen and safety Gary Grossnickle are the nucleus of a rugged defensive unit.

Key Personnel MacKenzie's key personnel, among 32 lettermen, are halfback Ron Shotts, middle guard Granville Liggins and defensive tackle Jim Riley. His big problems, he says, are the lack of team speed, depth and an experienced quarterback.

Coach Clay Stapleton of Iowa State has more experience than ever before in his eight previous years at the cyclone helm. Only a handful of sophomores figure prominently in Stapleton's plans with 27 lettermen ready after a 5-4-1 season.

Sophomore mistakes will be the big problems for Oklahoma State, Kansas and Kansas State.

BEARS TAKE IT EASY

Hogs Work For Opener

By United Press International The Baylor Bears took it easy Monday and reflected on their opening game victory over Syracuse but other members of the Southwest Conference kept up a steady pace in preparation for their first games this weekend.

"These boys deserve and need a rest," Baylor coach John Bridgers said. "They have been going hard since Aug. 25. We will work lightly and then start getting ready for a very seasoned Colorado team."

Baylor's next game is against Colorado in Waco Sept. 24.

Among the hardest workers Monday were the defending champion Arkansas Razorbacks. Coach Frank Broyles said the team "didn't look as good as I hoped. The team has got to get better and we've got to straighten some things out." Broyles put his offense and defense up against the main plays he expects Oklahoma State University to use against the Hogs Saturday.

Texas Christian University's coach Abe Martin also found areas for criticism in the Horned Frogs workout.

"We couldn't seem to do anything right," Martin said of his offense. But he also found bright spots. "On defense we could not find anyone to criticize," he said.

TCU's starting right guard Burch Gilliam turned an ankle in the practice but is expected to be ready to go at top speed Saturday when the Frogs meet nationally ranked Nebraska.

Texas Tech's Red Raiders spent Monday morning watching films of themselves in last Saturday night's scrimmage. In the afternoon they worked against Kansas' offensive and defensive formations.

Only one Red Raider, safety Guy Griffith of Dallas who injured a knee 10 days ago, was not expected to be able to play Saturday when they take on the University of Kansas.

The SMU Mustangs expect to be at full strength when they host Illinois Saturday. Three lettermen who had been out with injuries returned to practice Monday and Coach Hayden Fry, called a halt to further contact to avoid injuries.

The returnees were halfback Jim Hagle, quarterback Mike Livingston and halfback Larry Jernigan.

Texas A&M Coach Gene Stallings also ended contact work to let bruises heal before his Aggies meet Georgia Tech Saturday.

The Aggies have no major injuries.

Junior Highs To Open on Thursday Pampa Junior High teams give the home folk a chance to see just what's up this year when they open their 1966 grid season Thursday.

Lee ninth and eighth grade teams open Thursday with Lee ninth playing at White Deer in a 4 p.m. game and the Lee eighth playing at 4 p.m. at Borger Houston.

Pampa Junior High ninth hosts Groom B in a 4 p.m. encounter with Pampa eighth not scheduled to play its first game until Sept. 22.

Pros Beaten In Texas Cup Play

GRAND PRAIRIE, Tex. (UPI) — The pros went down 9 and 6 before an amateur golf team Monday at the Great Southwest Golf Club in the 1966 Texas Cup Matches.

The amateurs were paced by Chip Stewart of Dallas and Marty Fleckman of Port Arthur. Amateurs won two foursomes.

Fleckman and Hal Underwood of Del Rio won the team match over Joe Conrad of San Antonio and Buster Cupit of Longview, after both had defeated the pros in individual matches.

Stewart and Randy Gieselman of Houston won over Calvin Garrett of Houston and Willard Wood of Houston 4 and 3.

In the preview event the Texas PGA championship Thursday, Fleckman shot a two-under par 69 to defeat Conrad and Underwood won one-up over Cupit.

Stewart played even par to defeat Garrett 4 and 3, while Gieselman and Wood split in their individual match.

In other matches, pro Horace More of San Antonio defeated amateur Ras Allen of Dallas 3 and 2; amateur Mason Adkins of San Antonio over Maurice Hudson of Dallas 1-up; Moore and Hudson won the doubles 1-up.

Earl Stewart Jr., of Dallas and Raymond Gafford of Fort Worth won their team match over Dave Lawson of Lubbock and John Farquhar of Amarillo 1-up, but both of the individual matches came out even.

Pro George Clark of Midland defeated Benny Castool of Minnesota 4 and 3 and amateur A. J. Triggs Jr., of Tyler defeated Charles Brittain of Center 2 and 1. The doubles match in this foursome came out even.

A Watchful Newspaper
EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself no more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

The View From Outside

Suppose for a moment that you are a college student from Mars, taking a space ship to America for a summer course on the political habits and trends of Earthpeople. And you selected the U.S.A. for study.

With a fresh outlook you'd see things we Earthpeople do not, because we're too close to frantic day-to-day actions of government — so much engrossed in detail that we cannot pry ourselves loose to envision the path we're traveling.

But a student from Mars wouldn't be trapped in his spider's web of daily thoughts and habits. Naturally, from aloft he'd get the general broad geographic outline of our country, noting its shape, its climate, its resources, the great concentrations of people.

Then he'd see the political establishment, set up in accordance to a Constitution nearly 200 years old. It has the outward look, the symbolism, the traditions of a free country. Then he'd note that since the Great Depression in the 1920s, politicians who promised more relief, larger pensions, more aid, more unemployment insurance, more crop subsidies, more aid to tax-supported schools, and generally more government of all kinds have been returned to office. He would note that as a rule, the voters are influenced by what the government promises them in the way of economic benefits.

He would note, too, that the depression people gathered under the banner of fear, and that banner is still in the background of present-day politics. This, in spite of a greater degree of apparent affluence now than any people ever before enjoyed.

Then this student undoubtedly would peek into one-party strategy in Washington to discover what it is doing to maintain itself in office. He'd see some of the things all of us have noted in the news recently, viz: the auto industry under heavy fire; the tire industry criticized; the drug industry attacked for too high prices; plans to hit the food industry, from farmers through retail outlets, probably before the elections in November; merchants in general attacked because they are making money.

The Mars student would probe a little deeper — into the consumer's advisory council recommendations, for instance. President Johnson will be asked to create a cabinet-level official to "protect" consumers. Congress will be asked to investigate, probably will establish some sort of agency to review standards of products, with a whole batch of new proposals to "protect" the voter from business.

The master's thesis the student writes likely would include a number of observations. Like an active dissident element in the society which believes, in essence, that people can be trusted, and their judgment also can be trusted when they get the facts. But, he would note, the party in power with a too-weak opposition, controls all the public news platforms. The party, or the establishment if you prefer, selects the mode of attack and stresses criticism against individual enterprise wherever it conflicts with what the establishment wants government to handle. Because of political strength, government "news" is "managed" news. Government always stresses that everything government does is for the "benefit" of the people.

The thesis also might emphasize that the November elections are only a few weeks away, and that in the meantime there is no possibility of the Great Society's government-help program being curtailed in the slightest, even though the war in Vietnam takes another turn for the worse and U.S. involvement increases. Also the student might observe that one of the reasons for attacking business right now is to take the "heat" of inflation, and that nothing will be done to halt government spending or curtail inflation by curtailing federal pump-priming, until after the election.

If the student should come from an advanced society on Mars, a highly intelligent society which developed space travel beyond anything we dream about, he might also begin to wonder when the people of the U.S. will come to understand that government regulation chokes off human liberties, smother independence, promotes conformity.

For progress is made only when individuals develop in an independent society, when people use their own judgment, enjoy the dignity of earning their own way through life, and depend upon their own ability instead of leaning upon government.

Pull Up A Chair

By FRANK JAY MARKEY

Thumbing through the catalogue of a mail order-house came across an ad for an old-time, hand-cranked ice cream freezer. It evoked memories of our youth when it was our great privilege to turn the crank while our aunt made the rich creamy dessert. Such outmoded household machinery these days has nostalgic appeal for many who remember how placid and tranquil life was in the not so long ago. Making ice cream on Sunday was one of the big events of the week. And while we're on the subject, it may surprise some who enjoy Howard Johnson's 28 flavors to learn that ice cream is not a native American frozen food. It dates back to Roman times, when the emperor Nero mixed Alpine snow with fruits. Later Marco Polo brought the idea to Europe from the Orient. And in merrie England it was served at the court of Charles I. However, the idea was brought to this country in the 1700's and it has since become America's No. 1 dessert.

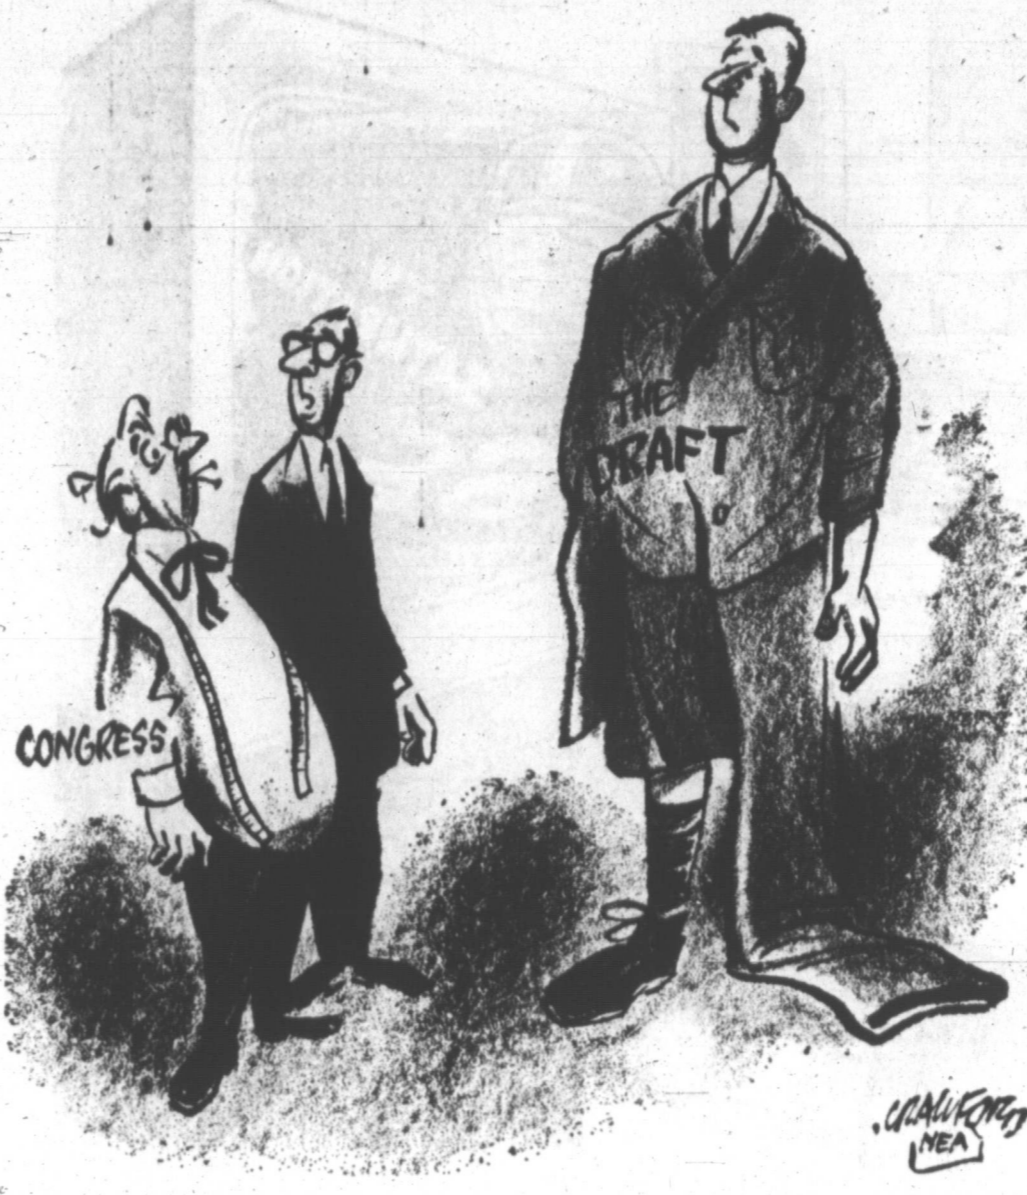

Today's smile: A woman tried on a mink coat and looked at herself in the mirror. Finally, she said to the salesman: "This mink looks well on me. But will it stand the rain?" The salesman answered: "Madam, did you ever see a mink carrying an umbrella?"

You hear a lot these days about teen-age marriages, but Uncle Sam's figures show the average lad who gets hooked is about 23 years of age, which is generally considered to be the age of reason. And the gal who hooks him is about 20. His grandfather, according to Uncle Sam, was about 25 when grandma, a 21-year-old beauty, nabbed him a half-century ago.

Thoughts while shaving: One of the reasons why the coast of Florida is one of the world's finest fishing spots is due to the shallow swamps, tidal flats and bays that produce an abundance of food for fish. . . . Frank Gordan, an American businessman now based in Munich, Germany, told us about visiting a West German night club where the management has thoughtfully installed a record player near the public telephone that plays typewriter noises and business conversations. He says it's tops for fooling wives. They don't hear the music and think their husbands are working late at the office. Instead of the nickel cigar, that's what this country needs. . . . American squeezed 1,244,126 tubes of toothpaste last year, according to Cornell University's 1966 Perspective, and the tubes are still with us. Their survey revealed each American discards 1,600 pounds of paper, glass, metal, ashes, garbage, brush and grass cuttings annually. That's why we have a litterbug problem. . . . The New York POST reported in a story: "With fleet cabs not operating and the airport limousine service also struck by its drivers, bottlenecks are expected." If it's not one bottleneck it's another.

House Also Needs Ethics Committee; Legislators Want Tool to Control Activities Such As Powell's

ROBERT ALLEN PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — What is good for the Senate is also good for the House, particularly when it involves maintaining a high standard of ethics by the lawmakers.

The morals and activities of congressmen, like those of senators, should be above reproach; and the House, like the Senate, should have a special watchdog committee to make sure of it.

On the basis of the record of both chambers, there is ample evidence to warrant such policing.

The Senate came by its Ethics Committee belatedly and under widespread public pressure. It was only after the malodorous disclosures of the Bobby Baker investigation that the Senate was finally forced to set up an Ethics Committee — which quickly found itself immersed in the still-being-proved ramifications of the affaire Dodd.

Now, due to the curious fiscal and other antics of Representative Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., demands are being made in the House for the establishment of a similar committee.

The dapper chairman of the Education and Labor Committee and pastor of Harlem's largest congregation has long been noted for his free-wheeling personal, social and official proclivities. Currently he is under sharp fire by critical colleagues on two counts — one public, the other still backstage.

The first was the disclosure that Powell has been endorsing and depositing his estranged wife's government paycheck in his banking account with the House sergeant-at-arms. Although Mrs. Powell lives the year around in Puerto Rico, she has been on her husband's office payroll, under her maiden name of Y. Marjorie Flores, at $20,578 a year, the highest salary of the staff, for more than five years.

What she does to earn that top pay no one seems to know. Powell admits depositing her monthly checks to his account.

and only the most dedicated and resolute men are equal to it.

The "Green Berets" forerunners were World War II's Rangers, the first regiment which suffered casualties of about 9 out of 10 of its 2,000 men. Their World War II counterpart in the Pacific was the Marine Raiders who hit beach after beach on island after island, writing an illustrious new page in this country's history of heroic men who fight their country's battles.

Today the Green Berets deserve recognition and gratitude from all segments of the citizenry, but it is especially gratifying that our youth so accord it in their own way.

As the Ballad says, these young fighting men are "America's best," their personal sacrifices are many, and it speaks well for our country's future that its youth take such pride in the men of the Special Forces who serve it nobly and with honor.

reverberating around the world.

Despite the fact that prominent French auto, cosmetics, fashion, wine and other concerns ran big ads in the special edition, its lead article was a scathing attack on De Gaulle's France and its concepts, policies and deeds. The Corriere laid it on the line in unsparring terms — muck on the outrage of De Gaulle's officialdom and astonished French advertisers, but greatly to the glee of NATO and other chancelleries around the world.

Following are highlights of this bull's-eye exhortation: "Rarely in history has a country renounced its own life in order to live the life of an old man as France has done. The fact is that it is De Gaulle's old age, rather than any 'genius' he might possess — the French are the first to admit that he does not possess much — that has made his countrymen bow before his wishes. It has made them reluctant to be 'disrespectful.'

"Under these conditions France, sweet and marvelous France, gives one the impression of a nation paralyzed. Ruled despotically — despotically in substance, if not in form — by an official who has more than passed the limits of old age and who has had the great good fortune to consume his reserve officer's pension while acting as the head of the State, France seems to be immersed in an atmosphere of 'remembrance of things past' that is as pathetic as it is harmful for itself, for Europe and for that is as pathetic as it is harmful for itself, for Europe and for the evolution of history as a whole."

WE PREDICT — The Senate Ethics Committee will hold no more public hearings in its probe of Senator Thomas Dodd, D-Conn., before the November election. Neither will the committee issue an interim report on its inquiry so far — on Dodd's relations with a Chicago lobbyist. Staff investigators are digging into Dodd's financial affairs, but the civil rights fluster and electioneering demands are barring public hearings and a report. . . . The Johnson Administration will dish out more economic aid, in the form of surplus grain and other food, to Egypt's dictator Nasser after the November balloting. Such assistance was shut off in June when a $55 million grant under P.L. 480 expired. Under this law commodities are paid for in local currency, which stays in the beneficiary country. To get more U.S. grain Nasser was forced to buy it with dollars — $50 million worth, to last until February. But undercover discussions already are underway for a new P.L. 480 grant next year. That explains why, for the first time, Nasser permitted two U.S. destroyers to make a three day visit to Port Said Russian warships appear frequently in Egyptian ports. . . . Next high Peking official slated for ouster is Liu Shao-chi, the head of state. He will be axed after publicly confessing his shortcomings.

Despite Ambassador Averell Harriman's recent rebuff, he will go to Cambodia for talks with Prince Norodom Sihanouk before the end of the year. Following Sihanouk's meeting with De Gaulle, the Cambodian chief of state flew to France for a lengthy stay. After he returns in November, the door will again be opened for a meeting with Harriman. . . . Rumania's Communist leader Nicolae Ceausescu is quietly taking soundings on the formation of a Balkan alliance consisting of Communist Bulgaria and Yugoslavia, and non-Communist Greece and Turkey. Ceausescu has had lengthy discussions on this spectacular move with Bulgarian Communist party chief Todor Zhivkov. . . . More Cuban women will be prodded by the Castro regime to become field workers. Already more than 250,000 women work in the fields, five times as many as before the Communists seized control. . . . The forthcoming trial of Indonesia's pro-Peking former Foreign Minister Subandrio will prove very embarrassing to President Sukarno. The testimony will disclose that Sukarno had a big hand in the abortive Red coup.

"What, in fact, is the France of today? We might begin by saying categorically that it is no longer the 'mirror of the world,' that is, that it no longer reflects in universal terms some of the fundamental conditions of man of society.

"France is no longer the mirror of freedom for the rest of the world. It is no longer the mirror of democracy, of intelligence, of art, of taste, of literature, of military glory. It no longer sets the pace of theater or of fashion for the world, nor event that of anticommunism, frivility or illicit mores. In a word, France is no longer the testing ground for humanity that it was until the outbreak of the First World War and that it claimed to be until the end of the Second.

"The facts prove that France is no longer a great power. . . . France is rebelling, a little absurdly it must be said, against the idea of being small. And while it has already accepted China and India as 'great powers,' even though these large countries can hardly become qualitatively great within the next few years, it furiously rejects the prospect of a United Europe that could become a great power equal both quantitatively and qualitatively to the United States and the Soviet Union within a period of twenty-four hours.

"French taste has also fallen behind the times. . . . From architecture to bookshelf design, from army uniforms to movie sets, from office furnishings to interior of airports and jet airliners, from popular songs and gas stations to highway design and the latest dances, France

The Wrong Remedy

(The Wall Street Journal)
At their conference in Los Angeles, the nation's governors officially called for huge, no-string-attached grants from Washington. So it's worth noting that in just the past few months several states have opposed all too clearly the weaknesses of this approach to governmental finance.

The states we have in mind are those that have moved to implement Title 19 of last year's Social Security amendments. Since another section of the same legislation set up Medicare for the aged, few people paid much attention to Title 19, intended mainly to finance coordination of a hodgepodge of existing medical programs.

In this case Congress did not entirely omit strings from its financing; it merely left them so loose that it now looks as though the states will create a medical aid program of a scope that will dwarf Medicare itself.

As Mr. Priot noted in this newspaper the other day, Federal officials had expected Title 19 to cover some eight million Americans, young and old, who were "medically indigent" — unable to pay their doctor and hospital bills. Instead, the states' approach has been sufficiently enthusiastic that Washington now expects 35 million persons to be swept into the program, or nearly double the Medicare total.

The program, often called "medicaid" is growing far beyond forecasts because the states have been remarkably generous in defining medical indigence. In New York, for example, a family of four with an and, indeed, all of Europe — no longer sets the pace for the world.

"On the one hand hardly aware of it and on the other acknowledging it with genuine horror, France is in the process of submitting to something it detests with all its proud soul: American taste. It is a taste which all the countries of the world today are adopting, be they overdeveloped or underdeveloped, capitalists or Marxist."

income of as much as $6,000 a year can get aid.

While the New York program is more open-handed than most, other state set-ups are liberal enough to lift the anticipated Federal outlay to $1 billion a year or more. "It's quite a mess," laments a Democratic Congressman who helped draft the legislation.

Why are the states in such a give-away mood? Comments by New York state officials suggest part of the reason. They blithely figure that the increase in the state's medical care outlay will be more than offset by fresh funds from Washington. Thus New York will actually "come out ahead."

Presumably, the sophisticated New York officials realize that the Federal money isn't really free. New Yorkers, after all, pay about 13 per cent of all Federal taxes, a larger share than any other state. The politicians, however, also know that they don't have to pass the tax laws that send the citizens' cash flowing toward the Federal Treasury; they can't be held accountable at the polls for Federal levies.

This lack of political accountability in the states is the prime weakness in the proposal for non-strings Federal grants. Conversely, many members of Congress are unhappy about the idea of unrestricted allocations because they know that voters can bring them to book for the money they spend.

If that realization hasn't made Congress anything like parsimonious, it has at least led the lawmakers to insist on a fairly clear notion of how, why, when and where Federal appropriations will be spent. They certainly haven't been stingy with state and local governments; grants have tripled in less than a decade, reaching a total of nearly $15 billion. But the outlays usually have been accompanied by some specific Federal rules.

The rules chafe the states, and it's true that they inflate Washington's power at the expense of other levels of government. Creeping Federalism is an ill that not only state officials but everyone else should be concerned about. The proper cure for it, plainly, is to limit both Federal taxing and spending, leaving more room for the states and localities to assume their legitimate responsibilities.

Certainly that would be a fresh reminder of the ancient warning about the "remedy" that turns out to be worse than the disease.

Harry—I have a terrible toothache and want something to cure it.

Larry—Now, you don't need any medicine. I had a toothache yesterday and I went home and my loving wife kissed me and so consoled me that the pain soon passed away. Why don't you try the same?

Harry—I think I will. Is your wife at home now?

A young debutante was enthusiastically describing her new boy friend to her father.

Mr. Rich — He sounds very nice, dear, but does he have any money?

Sally — Oh, you men are all alike. He asked me the same thing about you.

Lady Customer — Remember that dress you sold me last week?

Village Merchant (cautiously) — Yes, I think so. Why?

Lady Customer — Well, when you said the color was fast, were you referring to the speed with which it would leave the material?

Al (to a friend)—Is this dance formal, or can I wear my own clothes?

Dolly—Pearl sweats she has never been kissed by a man.

Molly—Well, isn't that enough to make any girl swear?

Phil — Why didn't you shave this morning?

Bill — I thought I did but there were twelve of us using the same mirror this morning and I must have shaved some other guy.

BALLAD OF THE GREEN BERETS

The Hit Parade has long been a barometer of the musical tastes and sentiments of our nation's young people.

A few weeks ago, a song called "The Ballad of the Green Berets" was No. 3 on the Hit Parade. The fact that a patriotic song, reflecting pride in our fighting men, has made a good showing on the popularity poll indicates in our young people an admirable interest and enthusiasm for those men who defend our freedom. How much better the proud praise of our freedom's defenders than the depressing warnings of doom and destruction popular in songs a few months ago!

The "Green Berets" are the Army's Special Forces — an elite group of specially trained young men skilled in guerrilla warfare, survival techniques, communications and languages. Educational and physical requirements are high, the training is tough and demanding and

Foreign News Commentary

By JACK BRANNAN
United Press International

CARACAS (UPI)—Other Latin American nations have given a polite cold shoulder to Venezuela's efforts to export its Betancourt doctrine, a type of diplomatic sanction against government established by force.

Basically, the doctrine provides that Venezuela deny diplomatic recognition to any regime that gains power by forcefully ousting a constitutional government. The sanction is diplomatic only. Commercial and cultural relations are not affected.

Venezuela considers this 7-year-old policy a means of thwarting the traditional Latin tendency to use military revolution in place of the ballot. And describing the policy as furthering the principles of representative democracy in the continent, the government of President Raul Leoni is trying to convince Venezuela's Latin neighbors to adopt similar policies.

But its sales campaign hasn't gotten very far. Venezuela viewed the recent military takeover in Argentina as a major selling point for the Betancourt doctrine. And the Little Summit Conference with Chile, Colombia, Ecuador and Peru last month in Bogota seemed a convenient place to make a determined sales pitch.

But three days before the summit opened, Colombia followed the earlier example of Chile, Ecuador and Peru and recognized the Argentine military government of Lt. Gen. Juan Carlos Onganía.

Venezuelan government officials were privately dismayed at Colombia's action because it effectively closed the summit door to the Betancourt doctrine before Leoni had a chance to get his foot inside. Publicly, however, the Venezuelan government accepted the Colombian move as the nation's sovereign right, although the government party press here criticized it as a blow against democracy.

Since its adoption in 1959 by former President Romulo Betancourt, the first constitutionally elected president in Venezuela's 156-year history to complete his term, the doctrine that bars his name has been the often controversial cornerstone of Venezuela's foreign policy for Latin America.

The doctrine's diplomatic sanctions currently are in force against Argentina, Brazil, Cuba and Haiti. Venezuela only recently lifted the sanctions and restored diplomatic relations with Bolivia and Ecuador.
