Thant to Take New UN Term

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—U Thant, under heavy diplomatic pressure to stay on as United Nations Secretary General, will accept a new five year term, diplomatic sources said.

There has been no official confirmation of Thant's decision, but the sources said the Burmese diplomat assured the Security Council Thursday night that he would remain in the top U.N. post.

The sources said, 57-year-old Thant would make a major statement today outlining his reasons for staying on as secretary general after a meeting of the 15-nation Council.

The meeting started at 9:30 a.m. CST.

The council was meeting to adopt a resolution recommending Thant serve another term in office. A meeting of the full 121-member General Assembly was planned later this afternoon to elect Thant by acclamation.

The disclosure of Thant's dramatic change of mind came after the Security Council had unanimously appealed to him Thursday to serve a second term.

Pedro P. Berro of Uruguay, this month's president of the Council and U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg, Lord Caradon of Britain, Roger Seydoux of France and Soviet Ambassador Nikolai T. Fedorenko presented the appeal to Thant.

Well-placed sources said the Council's Thant-edited resolution would "reinforce" the authority of the Secretary General amplifying the powers set out for him in the U.N. charter.

This was one of the reasons Thant gave when he announced Sept. 1 that he would not offer himself for a second term. He said he did not think the U.N. Secretary General should be merely a "glorified office boy."

Another drawback was his misgivings about the financial stability of the world organization in the wake of French and Soviet refusal to pay their shares of the cost of peace-keeping forces.

Kosygin, DeGaulle Meet to Discuss East-West Aid

PARIS (UPI)—Visiting Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin met today with President Charles de Gaulle to discuss the French leader's call for an East-West alliance to preserve world peace and help underdeveloped nations.

The two men met at De Gaulle's Elysee Palace office in a two-hour session—their second since Kosygin arrived in the French capital Thursday.

French sources said they discussed in detail the French president's proposal for a European block of Western and Communist nations which could eventually keep peace throughout the world.

De Gaulle made the proposal at a banquet Thursday night at the start of Kosygin's nine-day state visit to France. It was the latest version of De Gaulle's grand scheme for "a Europe from the Atlantic to the Urais" and excluded the United States.

In his banquet address, De Gaulle proposed a European unification plan under which the Western and Communist countries would pool their strength to impose peace through out the world and help speed the development of Africa, Asia and Latin America.

Such a European plan embracing both the East and the West could have prevented the Viet Nam war, the French president said.

Kosygin made no immediate response to De Gaulle's proposal but he did praise France's "independence" which he said was "the most important factor in international security and above all, in European security."

His reference to a "strong and independent" France which "is the sole judge of what is useful to it and what is damaging to its national interests" was taken as firm support from De Gaulle's decision to withdraw from the anti-Communist North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

In his call for an East-West "entente," De Gaulle urged a joint space program that would open "unlimited opportunities" for Europe and a "concerted action throughout the whole world for the advancement of backward peoples and the maintenance of peace."

Little Hope Remains for Last Quint

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Doctors were pessimistic today about the chances for survival of Roni Sue Aranson, the only survivor among the quintuplets born here last Saturday.

The one pound, 11-ounce infant took a turn for the worse Thursday when she went into convulsions and began having difficulty breathing.

"Her condition remains very grave and the outlook for life remains very poor. She's breathing erratically and must be stimulated to breathe," doctors said in the latest medical bulletin.

The convulsions, along with difficulty in breathing, "makes it almost certain that there is brain damage," doctors said.

Roni Sue was the first of five girls born Saturday to Mrs. Patti Aranson, 22, a former kindergarten teacher, and her husband Michael, 22, a first year law student at Duquesne University.

Three of the girls died within 37 hours of birth and a fourth died Monday, all of brain damage brought on by respiratory deficiency.

Berkeley Officials Discuss Rebellion

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI)—University of California officials held emergency conferences today to determine how they would cope with the continuing student strike.

The administration and faculty representatives also studied the demands made by the leaders of the last student rebellion on the Berkeley campus.

Thousands of students boycotted classes Thursday, and an estimated 6,000 turned out in the rain for a noon rally on the steps of Sproul Hall, the university's administration building.

Rebel leaders said the student strike would grow today and continue as long as the university ignored demands for changes in disciplinary policies and demands that charges against persons arrested during a wild campus demonstration Wednesday be dropped.

The melee in the Student Union building basement was the worst student uprising since the Sprout Hall sit-in exactly two years ago when nearly 800 persons were arrested.

December's Chill Strikes at Pampa

Yesterday was the first day of December and for Pampans, it wasn't hard to tell it, as temperatures dropped to an overnight low of 13 degrees recorded at the Pampa weather station.

Temperatures are expected to rise to the middle 60s Saturday however. It will continue partly cloudy becoming mild Sunday.

A new cold front sent temperatures in the Texas Panhandle to the lowest depths of the season today but most of the state was expected to escape the latest surge of cold air from the Arctic.

At last report the front was along a line from Shreveport, La., to San Angelo to Wink and forecasters in the regional weather bureau at Fort Worth did not expect it to push much farther south. Amarillo and Dalhart reported overnight lows of 13 degrees.

The forecasters said the front lacked "push." Skies were mostly cloudy over East Texas, westward through San Antonio, Waco and Abilene. There were patches of fog over most of the upper coast and it extended inland to San Antonio.

Skies were generally clear elsewhere in the state. Colder

Commissioners Award Contract

In a Thursday session, Gray County Commissioners awarded only one contract for the purchase of a pickup truck and tabbed discussion for additional truck purchases until a meeting on Monday.

Commissioners authorized purchase of one half-ton pickup truck from Culberson Chevrolet Co. for Pct. 2.

Other county business included authorization to build a yard fence around the airport residence at Perry Lefors Air Field and designated a sign be erected at the courthouse annex listing the names of all offices housed in the annex.

Authorizations were given for transfer of funds from the Road and Bridge Fund to R&B-1 in the amount of $4,913; to R&B 2, $7,389; to R&B 3, $2,713 and R&B 4, $3,984.

Joe Clark presided in the absence of county judge Bill Craig, who was out of town.

Commissioners are to reconvene at 2 p.m. Monday.

If it comes from a hardware store we have it. Lewis Hdw. (Adv.)

Weather was predicted over north and central portions of the state, with a warmup Saturday. Temperature changes will be small elsewhere. Overnight lows varied 55 degrees.

RISING TEMPERATURES
grees from one end of Texas to the other. While Amarillo and Dalhart had 13 degrees, it was 68 degrees at Galveston.

The Thursday high was 76 degrees at Victoria.

Venue Change Granted For Speck Trial

CHICAGO (UPI)—Richard Speck charged with eight counts of murder after eight nurses were found slaughtered on Chicago's south side last summer, will be tried outside the Chicago area.

Criminal Court Judge Herbert C. Paschen granted the defense's change of venue Thursday. The prosecution did not object. The new location for the trial was not determined immediately.

Paschen said he had "no choice" but to grant the motion after Asst. State's Atty. William Marlin said the prosecution wanted to eliminate the risk that a Speck conviction would be thrown out by a higher court on the ground that he could not be tried fairly in Chicago.

Court officials said it was the first time in at least 35 years that a murder trial had been moved out of Cook County.

Public defender Gerald W. Getty had argued since pretrial proceedings began that the massive publicity given the discovery of the eight bodies and Speck's arrest three days later made it impossible for his client to receive a fair trial in Cook County.

Getty carried his charges further, saying the grand jury that returned the indictments had been prejudiced and that the mental competency hearing, which resulted Wednesday in Speck being ruled capable of standing trial, also had been influenced.

Cavalry Kills 81 VC Without Single Loss

SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. planes from carriers in the Tomkin Gulf and air bases in Thailand hit oil and transportation facilities as close as four miles from Hanoi today in the nightiest such raid since July. U.S. ground troops scored a major victory near Saigon.

Armored units from the U.S. 11th Armored Cavalry carrying out a sweep 40 miles west of Saigon ran into a Viet Cong battalion of 400 men and killed 81 of them in a blazing battle in which not a single American was killed, a spokesman reported. Armor tonight was still chasing the Reds north on Highway 1.

The Communists used 70 and 57-millimeter recoilless rifles, 60 mm. mortars and machineguns and Chinese submachine guns but their shells and bullets bounced off the American armor that ran them down and routed them.

Freak weather conditions which had protected North Viet Nam for the past few weeks cleared suddenly and the Navy F4 Phantoms and Air Force F105 Thunderchiefs roared in through gaping holes in the cloud cover and dropped thousands of pounds of bombs.

There was no report on damage to the principal targets: an oil storage area 14 1/2 miles north of the city and the Van Dien vehicle depot near the southern outskirts. Spokesmen put the distance at 4 to 5 miles—almost as close as the 3 1/2 mile distance of previous raids June 29.

Military spokesmen also made no mention of any aircraft losses or of anti-aircraft fire. Both Hanoi and Haiphong are ringed with circles of Soviet-built surface-to-air (SAM) missiles and great batteries of radar-directed conventional anti-aircraft guns.

A spokesman said the attack on the oil depots and vehicle storage areas was the first near Hanoi since last Aug. 30. Reirble military sources called it the biggest since July 29 when planes destroyed huge oil storage complexes seven miles away.

U.S. war planes also struck the Communist North on Thursday although there were so many thunderstorms and low ceilings that attacks were limited to 41 missions, primarily against traffic in the Haiphong area and storage and communication sites in the southern panhandle.

Today was a different story. The weather—made more turbulent than usual this year by an unusual number of cold fronts—cleared and the planes swept in in waves somewhere between 66 and 110 planes. The exact number was kept secret. (See RAIDS, PAGE 3)

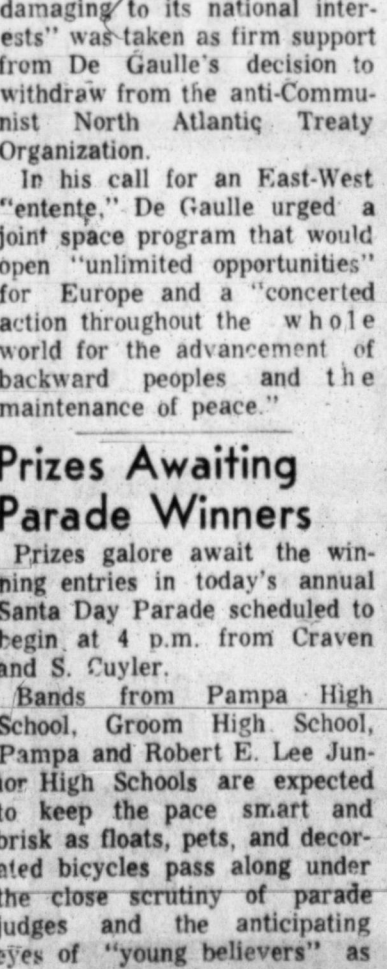

Junior Highs Receive State Accreditation

Pampa and Robert E. Lee Junior High Schools have been accredited for membership in the Southern Association of Secondary Schools and Colleges, according to word received from the association late Thursday by Dr. John Damron, superintendent of schools.

Damron said that in order to be accredited schools applying for membership must meet high state standards with regard to teaching personnel, curriculum and auxiliary personnel such as school secretaries, nurses, and maintenance employees.

Accreditation entitles local schools to educational research information garnered by the association, Damron said. "They will also benefit by visits from educational experts, as well as always have an open invitation to visit other schools in the state for a comparison in educational progress, he added.

Damron also stated that Pampa elementary schools have been affiliated and would apply for accreditation next year. Pampa High School had been approved by the association for several years, he added.

FRENCH PRESIDENT DeGaulle, left, was on hand at the airport in Paris yesterday to welcome Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin to France on what's being billed as a nine-day state visit to promote greater co-operation between Russia and France.

Prizes galore await the winning entries in today's annual Santa Day Parade scheduled to begin at 4 p.m. from Craven and S. Cuyler.

Bands from Pampa High School, Groom High School, Pampa and Robert E. Lee Junior High Schools are expected to keep the pace smart and brisk as floats, pets, and decorated bicycles pass along under the close scrutiny of parade judges and the anticipating eyes of "young believers" as they wait for the arrival appearance of Santa and his reindeer at the end of the parade.

Parade winners will be announced in Sunday's edition of the Pampa Daily News.

Seafood Restaurants Waiting In Anxious Anticipation of Patrons

By United Press International
This is the day that Texas fish dealers and seafood restaurants will find out how many of their patrons eat fish as a religious duty and how many simply because they like it.

American Roman Catholic bishops have given Catholics permission to eat meat on Fridays, provided they observe other kind of penance. This is the first Friday Catholics have had a choice.

Some Dallas fish dealers said the outlook was cloudy. Sales are not up to normal, but they can't tell yet whether it is a seasonal slump or whether the Bishop's order is responsible.

"I think people are still eating turkey," D. E. Wicker Jr., owner of a wholesale retail market said.

I. H. Hollingsworth of Gulf Fish and Oyster Co. said he thinks the drop is due to the permission Catholics now may eat meat on Friday.

"I can see some difference now and I think it will become more noticeable in the next few weeks," Hollingsworth said.

Johnny Varcasia of Sea Coast Fish Market said he expects a 30 per cent drop in sales for the next two months. Then he expects the novelty to wear off and Catholics to start buying again.

Restaurants that specialize in fish take the view that people eat fish because they like it.

"Eating fish on Fridays is more than a religious habit; it's a tradition, a spokesman for the Bounty Restaurant said. "I don't think it will change."

The manager of one of the Zunder Zee Oyster Bar and Seafood restaurants said he had laid in as many supplies as always for the weekend.

"We didn't cut back a bit," he said.

Stray is Rounded Up

EL PASO, Tex. (UPI)—Capt. Edward Cleveland of Craig AFB, Ala., left a year ago for Ecuador. The luggage compartment of the plane sprung open in flight and his luggage fell out.

Recently, Jay Gardner was rounding up cattle northwest of El Paso. He saw a battered suitcase, clothing and a magazine.

He notified Ft. Bliss at El Paso. Military authorities tracked down the owner of the case, Cleveland. He was still at Craig AFB and he got the luggage back, along with valued personal papers.

Planning Earns 'Perfect Hostess' Title

By AILEEN SNOODY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
NEW YORK (NEA) — It's the little things that add up to a good time for all at a party. Few guests take time to itemize why they stayed and stayed at Jane and John's soiree but couldn't wait to leave Joe and Mary's.

The perfect hostess, though, knows the answer. She is the one who plans a party or dinner so she can mingle with the guests and not spend all evening in the kitchen. This organized gal also avoids being over-solicitous, forcing food and drink upon guests, constantly whipping off to empty an ash-tray. No one really relaxes if the host and hostess don't.

Admittedly, some couples seem born to the role of gracious entertainers. However, they know the secret. It takes a lot of work behind the scenes.

A clean, tidy house sets the mood for a fun evening with friends or business associates. According to Dr. Robert F. Prindle, director of the Lysol Home Health Information Bureau, many a homemaker doesn't get her home as clean as she thinks she does. He recommends an effective germicide for use in the bathroom and also to remove odors from cooking in the kitchen and cut down on mold and mildew in under-sink pipe areas and garbage containers. All this is part of the preparatory cleanup.

When serving a buffet the perfect hostess, we have learned, serves food that requires only a fork, with the rolls already buttered. Avoid using glasses or coffee cups that may be unique in design but difficult to hold. Before the party, store extra ice cubes in a plastic bag in the freezer so there is no concern about running out.

Everyone knows the problem of rescuing coats from those heaped upon a bed. A solution is to empty one closet and hang guests' wraps in it. Having an extra umbrella on hand helps keep guests dry when they are ready to leave and it starts to rain unexpectedly. Comfortable guests are happier guests, so have chairs and floor cushions for those who like to sit at a party and also watch the room temperature. A too-warm house can stifle the gala mood.

As a final note, remember many parents are happy to be away from their children for a few hours. Don't push yours up on them for the evening. Introduce the youngsters to guests and then send the tykes off to their rooms or to visit friends.

Groom Resident Is Named Carson County HD Council Woman of Year
GROOM — Mrs. Glynn D. Harrell of Groom was awarded the Carson county Home Demonstration Club "Woman of the Year" plaque at a luncheon recently of HD club women of Carson County in the War Memorial Building, Panhandle.

Mrs. Charles Warminski of White Deer, 1965 Club Woman of the Year, made the presentation. Qualifications of candidates were judged by out of district judges. Candidates included Mrs. L. B. Weatherly of Panhandle Friendship Circle; Mrs. Harrell of Groom County Neighbors; Mrs. E. E. Crawford of Skellytown, member of the Panhandle club, and Mrs. Lloyd Collins of the White Deer Club.

The invocation was given by Mrs. R. W. Callihan of the Conway Club. Mrs. Robert Kuehler of Groom, 1956 Woman of the Year, provided background piano music. Mrs. Kermit Lawson of Pampa former Carson County 4-H leader, presented the program, a review of the book, "The Super Americans," by John Bainbridge, a satire on Texans and their way of life. Mrs. Harrell presented Mrs. Lawson a book on behalf of the council.

Memo to brides

If you can't train your husband in a few important matters during the first year of marriage chances of his changing later are pretty slight. For instance,

If he has the bad bachelor habit of throwing things around instead of putting them where they belong, you had better let him know in the beginning that you didn't sign up to be his lifetime valet.

If he claims up whenever you disagree with him on any matter and refuses to discuss it at all, you had better let him know that, being a woman, you need to talk things out.

If he offers you a weekly or monthly allowance on which to run the house, you had better insist gently that you would prefer a joint checking account so that you will feel like a partner instead of a dependent.

If he starts right in making important decisions without talking them over with you first, decisions that will affect you both, you had better say right off that in the future you hope he will take you into his confidence before he takes an important step.

If he thinks he should be able to go out with the boys as often as he did in his bachelor days, leaving you at home alone, you should get busy lining up things for the two of you to do in the evenings with other couples.

If he treats you with a lot less courtesy than he did during

Dear Abby....

Give Short Boys and Plain Janes a Chance

DEAR ABBY: With the school social season just commencing, you would be doing a real service to remind girls not to pass up a boy just because he's short. Through high school and college a truly wonderful fellow tried many times to date me. He was bright, well-liked, kind, and had a great sense of humor, but he had one "fault." He was shorter than I. So I never went out with him. Well, I married one of the big, brawny athletic stars. He's conceited, lazy, and dumb. We live from hand to mouth.

The short fellow is now a very successful professional man, admired and respected by all. He married a beautiful girl who positively adores him. She's half-a-head taller than he is, but nobody seems to notice. She lives in luxury and has status and security. Every time I see her I think, "There but for my asinine childishness go I." Print this. Many girls can learn from it.

MISSED THE BOAT
DEAR MISSED: And speaking of boats that have been missed, let's look at the guys who've left themselves on the dock. I refer to fellows who scorned a girl because she was a little too short, or tall, or skinny, or plump. She may have been intelligent, kind, lots of fun and eager to please, but because she had less-than-lovely limbs, or an unfortunate complexion, she was bypassed.

These men married the beautiful-but-dumb girls. And when the beauty faded there was nothing left. So now that the school social season is commencing boys, look around. Give the plain girls a chance. You may do yourself a favor that will last about 50 years.

your dating days, speak up and let him know how you feel about that. If he is lazy about doing the things a man should do to keep up a house and yard, don't take over his chores. They'll grow to be more and more of a burden through the years.

The pattern of a marriage is pretty well set in the first year, so speak up or forever hold your peace.

DEAR ABBY: My husband refuses to tie his shoe laces. He steps into his shoes and lets the laces drag. We have a son in the 1st grade who lets his laces drag on purpose. When I tell him to tie them he says, "Daddy don't."

Now I don't know what to say or do. At school the children are graded on neatness, and junior always get a black mark because his shoe laces are never tied. I've tried to tell my husband he is setting a bad example for our son, but it does not help.

So how do you train a child to tie his laces when his father doesn't? And when he gives me this "Daddy don't" talk, what do I say?

DEAR BEAT: When the boy says, "Daddy don't," say, "I know — but daddy should. And Daddy is too big for me to spank. But you're not!"

DEAR ABBY: My husband does the kind of work that takes him into homes everyday. He's very friendly and a good talker. He is always coming home with the name of some medicine written down by the lady he's worked for that day.

I didn't mind too much when he brought home the names of some remedies for gall stones, indigestion, and ulcers. But yesterday he brought me the name of something a woman recommended for — of all things — my constipation!

Abby, I don't like for my husband to discuss my ailments with other women. Please print this. Maybe he will see it and realize how disgusting it is. My constipation, indeed! Do not print my name. I am shamed enough.

TV and Movie Violence Tame Compared to Gory Fairy Tales

By PATRICIA MCCORMACK
United Press International
NEW YORK — If violence makes you shudder, don't read the original Grimm brothers' version of "Cinderella."

The contemporary model of the tale doesn't contain the original gruesome touches. Sample: The wicked stepmother persuades one stepsister to cut off her toes and the other to amputate a part of her heel at slipper fitting time.

Prince Charming realizes that neither of these girls is the right one when he discovers his hands covered with blood.

Jim Eiler, director of the Prince Street Players, a talented repertory theatre specializing in musical fairy tales for troupe selected to stage two to support his view that some violence on television and in movies is tame compared to grim and gory bedtime tales from great-grandma's day.

Eiler, an ex-performer, has delved deeply into childhood folklore since founding the Beanstalk will be aired television specials in the near future. The first, "Jack and the Beanstalk," will be telecast in February.

He noted that "Jack and the Beanstalk" turns up in the folklore of widely disparate cultures. The explanation for its popularity:

Giants abound in fairy tales. A child lives in a world full of "giants"—people two or three times his size; people whose authority the child must obey.

The defeat of a giant by a small person is a kind of symbolic victory for the youngster over the world around him. Eiler said "Jack and the Beanstalk," the television version, typifies the way in which the Prince Street Players have re-worked some of the tales to replace horror with whimsy—and thereby substitute sweet dreams for nightmares.

"In our version," he said, "the giant is an amiable oaf whose problem is that because he's so big, people don't get close enough to him to understand what a gentle guy he is."

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RICHTER

FOR SATURDAY, DEC. 2

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You now find that you need to make sure that every comment you make is absolutely accurate for most everyone is questioning the motives and the specific details in a rather harsh light. The decline in the most annoying period and by evening you are more kindly disposed.

ARIES: (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) — While you want to go out for pleasure during the day, it is best you keep promises made to the ladies. Be neutral when others do not agree with you. Evening is the ideal for having a wonderful time as you prefer.

TAUROS: (Apr. 20 to May 20) — Getting to whatever please kin most in p.m. is best but be sure to devote time to an associate who has certain deals to discuss with you during the day. Show that you are considerate at all times.

GEMINI: (May 21 to June 21) — Making certain that your labors are completed during the day will give you a chance to enjoy company of kin and friends in p.m. Improve your health is very important. Take exercise that is invigorating.

CANCER: (June 22 to July 22) — Be patient and do whatever family requires of you during the day, but tonight look to the future. Some evening affair could be very important. Attend.

LEO: (July 23 to Aug. 23) — A little more excitement when your fun life is concerned would be best for you today. Making good plans for the days ahead is very important. Also, it would be well to do some writing in the p.m.

VIRGO: (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23) — Get busy and about reports, etc. Don't just sleep the day away. Evening is then fine for romance. Certain deals that need completing should be handled during the day, also.

LIBRA: (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23) — Property and financial matters are best dealt with during the day, since tonight much fun can be had with close to you. Be on your best behavior with good friends. They then support your loyalty.

SCORPIO: (Oct. 24 to Nov. 23) — Some time spent at improving your good looks, health is wise before you step out to do some social gallivanting, or meeting business bigwigs. Some evening affair could be very important. Attend.

SAGITTARIUS: (Nov. 24 to Dec. 23) — You need to get into puzzling situations before you go out for a little light entertainment. Ideas should be nicely pruned. Conferences are in a very gay mood later in the day and much gaiety is possible.

CAPRICORN: (Dec. 24 to Jan. 20) — Avoid going off with new and untried persons and stick pretty close to your closest friends. Then you do not get into any trouble. Evening can be ideal romantically speaking provided you are more cheerful, take care of your shoulder.

AQUARIUS: (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Shopping, visiting, civic outlets are fine during the day, but evening should be devoted to having a good time, being with loved ones. Gain that coveted peace of mind you desire. Elevate your spirit.

PISCES: (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) — Using new mechanisms to get all operating more efficiently is wise during morning and then get busy putting surroundings in better order. Be sure you shop wisely, make use of new washing machine, vacuum cleaner, etc. properly.

Concert Member Drive Date Set

The week of March 13 next year was set last night for the annual membership campaign of the Pampa Community Concert Association.

Renewal of season memberships will be taken the week of March 6, it was decided as association board members met in the First National Bank hospitality room with Mrs. Lillian Kilgarriff representative of Community Concerts, Inc., New York City.

Mrs. Kilgarriff tentatively committed the appearance of three top-notch attractions during the 1967-68 concert season with a fourth to be added later. Mrs. M. McDaniel, association president, said the four attractions would be announced in advance of the March membership drive.

Next attractions in the current season will be Ruth Page's International Ballet with a company of 50 on Jan. 28. The final concert will be the Columbus Boychoir on March 1.

Board members also discussed the association's needs with relation to Pampa's proposed civic auditorium.

The president was instructed to forward answers to a questionnaire sent out by the executive board of the M.K. Brown Memorial Auditorium advisory committee.

New Gray County HD Agent Arrives

Miss Jimmie Lou Wainscott, who has been engaged in county home demonstration work for the past 19 years, assumed duties yesterday as the new home demonstration agent for Gray County.

She is filling the vacancy caused by the recent retirement of Miss Lou Ella Patterson. Miss Wainscott comes to the Gray County office from the Hidalgo County office in Edinburg, where she was employed for five years. She previously had worked in Parmer, Farwell, Jones, Anson, Childress, Wichita Counties.

"It's nice to be back in the Panhandle again," she said. After taking a year's leave of absence, Miss Wainscott has just completed her master's degree in home management and family economics at Texas Women's University, Denton. She received her bachelor's degree from North Texas State University.

The new home demonstration agent is from Olney, where her mother Mrs. M. C. Wainscott, still resides. As hobbies, Miss Wainscott lists oil printing and learning to play the organ.

Panhandle API To Elect Officers

The Panhandle Chapter of the American Petroleum Institute will elect officers for 1967 at its annual banquet at 7 p.m. tomorrow in Buena Vista Cafeteria in Borger.

Cullen Akins, humorist from Odessa, will be the principal speaker and C. C. Mitchell, secretary of the Southwest Region of API, will be a special guest.

Fred J. Neslage of Pampa will be the banquet toastmaster. Current officers of the API Panhandle chapter are Milton Kihneman, chairman; P. P. Blanda, first vice chairman; A. D. Pickett, second vice chairman; J. W. Burrage, third vice chairman, and Leonard L. White, secretary-treasurer. All present officers are from Pampa with the exception of Burrage who resides in Amarillo.

Tomorrow night's banquet will attract oil industry representatives from over the entire Panhandle.

Planes

Many other details of today's action were secret. How effective the attacks were or even what the exact targets were not disclosed. The Military Assistance Command (MACV) and Air Force officials had a "no comment" to queries. The Pentagon referred queries back to Saigon.

Air raids as close as today's to the Hanoi area have been a rarity, although officials reports of the July 29-30 attacks showed they destroyed about half of North Viet Nam's available oil reserves.

When asked why the raids had become so few and far between a military spokesman said, "that's something you'll have to ask President Lyndon B. Johnson or the Joint Chiefs of Staff. The reasons for picking targets is not ours."

Pinhop Area
Later, informed sources pinpointed the strike areas and said the F4C and F105s, 17 flights strong (a flight is three to five planes), hit the petroleum center. The F4C's, the world's fastest tactical fighter, can carry more than 12,000 pounds of bombs and an assortment of missiles. The F105s can carry upwards of 8,000 pound in the bay and 4,000 pounds strapped beneath the wings.

Although an improvement in weather was described as a factor in the intensified raids, military officials recently were reported to have sought presidential approval for a step up in bombing of the North. It has also been reported that some 200,000 of Hanoi's 650,000 residents have been evacuated in anticipation of U.S. aerial attacks.

The raids last June 29 were the first launched in the area of North Viet Nam's principal cities—Hanoi and the port of Haiphong. They were considered a major escalation of the war. Repeated on successive days, it was said they succeeded in destroying a substantial part of Communist fuel handling and storage facilities.

B52 strategic bombers continued raids against Communist concentrations in the South. Spokesmen said the Guam-based planes struck today at an enemy base camp and supply dump 340 miles northeast of Saigon.

In the ground war today, U.S. 101st Airborne Division paratroopers killed nine North Vietnamese troops who were snared in a trap in Operation Geronimo 230 miles north of Saigon.

No U.S. Losses
Spokesmen said there were no American losses in the ambush, part of a continuing offensive to protect the harvest of the Vietnamese rice crop. The enemy loss raised the toll to 121 Communists killed in the month-long lowland operation.

Four miles north of Saigon, South Vietnamese militiamen smashed a Communist dynamite plot Thursday night. Tipped by residents, the militiamen raided the hamlet of Thao Dien and found 516 pounds of TNT blocks, wired and ready for use.

Spokesmen said the water-tight nature of the bomb parcel indicated that the terrorists apparently planned to blow up the huge Bien Hoa bridge just north of Saigon. Nearby port facilities which cost the United

Committee Backs Tax Hike and Cut In Federal Costs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A blue-ribbon business group has recommended a one-year across-the-board tax increase and reduced federal spending to head off a federal budget deficit and cool the economy.

The prestigious Committee for Economic Development (CED) said Thursday the combined program could produce a budget surplus of $3 billion.

The CED report made it clear the group would prefer a spending reduction to the tax hike but noted such cuts could not realistically be expected to come "in the next six or eight months" when it is needed most.

Rep. Hale Boggs, La., House Democratic whip, said Sunday he "guessed" Congress might be asked to raise taxes enough to take in $10 billion to $15 billion.

Estimates of budget deficits for the fiscal year ending next June 30 have been placed at from $10 billion to $13 billion, much of it due to the high cost of the Viet Nam war.

As for the tax increase, the CED said it "should be of a kind that will yield the revenue needed, that can be quickly imposed, that will be accepted by the country, and that can be easily withdrawn when the emergency has passed."

The CED, composed of 200 businessmen and educators, said:

"Since mid-1965, when our commitments in Viet Nam increased, inflationary pressures have been clearly evident in the economy. During this period we have experienced substantial cost and price increases and such increases are continuing..."

Tax Collector To Attend Institute

Pampa Tax Collector-Assessor Aubrey Jones will leave for Austin tomorrow to attend the eighth annual Texas Association of Assessing Officers Tax Institute.

The three-day workshop sessions will run Sunday through Tuesday under the sponsorship of the TAAO and the University of Texas.

There will be a meeting of association officers and committee members in conjunction with the institute.

Speakers will explain recently enacted tax legislation and new tax laws including the recently adopted Amendment No. 1 dealing with the assessment of farm land property adjacent to cities.

Other tax authorities will explain the effect of new interest rates on real estate values.

The institute will open with a general session at 9 a.m. Monday to be followed by concurrent workshop sessions Monday and Tuesday.

Johnson To Review US Fiscal Policy

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—President Johnson meets today with his top economic adviser for a review of the administration's fiscal policy.

The Chief Executive planned to commute for the fourth consecutive day to his federal building office in Austin for budget discussions with Gardner Ackley, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers.

Ackley is bringing with him from Washington the latest figures on prices, spending, balance of payments and revenues and plant investments.

Johnson will decide—probably sometime this month—whether to seek an income tax hike next year on the basis of Ackley's recommendations.

Pampans to Attend Boy Scout Banquet

Boy Scouting Pampans are expected to turn out en masse for the annual Recognition Banquet of the Adobe Walls Council at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow in the Stephen F. Austin Junior High School in Borger.

Kenneth L. Oliver, regional scout executive of Region 9 B.S.A., which includes Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico, will make the principal address. Attending his first Adobe Walls Council recognition banquet will be William G. Walker, new district scout executive of the Santa Fe District.

Special recognition will be given to adult scout workers and new council officers will be elected. They will be installed by E. E. Shelhamer, president of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce.

Journalism In Church Debut

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International
Churches are forging a new instrument of religious education that may prove more effective than Sunday schools or sermons in communicating Christian insights to contemporary society.

The instrument is journalism—specifically, magazine journalism. Nearly every major denomination now has one or more first-rate magazines aimed at a broad family audience. Many of these periodicals have been launched within the past decade. Some are drastically transformed versions of venerable organs which previously had a narrow appeal. If you haven't read one of the new-style church magazines, you may be in for a pleasant surprise—and perhaps a few shocks as well.

The pleasant surprise is the high professional quality of these publications. With rare exceptions, they are "slick" magazines both in the technical sense of being printed on glazed paper and in the more general sense of being skillfully edited. Most of them make extensive use of color, photographs, subheads, white space and other tricks of modern layout to enhance readability. The contents often are a far cry from what you might expect to find in a church magazine. Instead of filling their pages with bland little homilies and short stories, today's religious periodicals are wading boldly into such controversial issues as drug addiction, homosexuality, pacifism, black power and "death of God" theology. By commissioning articles

Rev. White Tells Topic For Sunday

The second Sunday of the Advent Season will find Rev. Walter Gene White preaching at the 10:55 o'clock morning worship service at Harrah Methodist Church, 639 S. Barnes, on the topic, "Serendipity". At this service little Miss Loyce Husted will light the second Advent Candle. The Church's choir under the direction of Miss Peggy Patrick will sing the anthem. Rev. White will preach at the Evening Vesper Service at 6:30 p.m. on the subject of "And Here We Go". The Harrah Methodist Church invites everyone to hear Rev. White and to worship with the congregation at this Sunday's services of worship.

Time To Take Stock of Self

By RALPH W. LOEW, D. D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Political campaigning always produces a torrent of charges and countercharges. It becomes a way of life that caused President Truman to state, "If you can't stand the heat, you ought to stay out of the kitchen." Perhaps so. Yet to be accused of all manner of crimes of judgment or even of integrity day after day must require a kind of inner resourcefulness. Virgil Thomson once said that "one of his acquaintances could not take criticism any better than a suburb or a church. That acid comment can be debated. If there are those who believe that institutions or groups are ever above or too respectable for criticism, then something is wrong. The church dare not be out to win a popularity poll. To witness truth is not exactly the way to win friends even though it does influence people. If God is where the action is, then that probably won't be where the applause is deafening. If it's avoidance of criticism one wants, then one had better flatter appetites, avoid controversial issues and discuss matters of another period of history. None of these exercises is calculated to win friends for truth.

If either churches or suburbs try to attract members, or residents by promises of isolation from the real issues of life, they will suffer something worse than criticism. They will be ignored. To live in the midst of life demands a quality of inner security, an ingredient which is missing from too many. Hemingway once described courage as grace under pressure. When the pressure is on, the presence or absence of that grace is quickly apparent. The recent withdrawal of Mr. Welton from the congressional race in Georgia is a contempo-

Has The Face Of Christmas Altered Or Have Grownups?

Among the lamentation that the Christmas spirit has been lost are such remarks as "Christmas isn't like it used to be," it is too commercial, children are concerned only with what they will get. "From a human perspective, the event itself is incongruous," says a church leader in the Methodist magazine "Together."

Pointing out that people assume they have the Christmas spirit when they give to charities or missions, the Rev. Mr. Walker states that "We have heard so long that the joy is in giving that we almost train ourselves not to enjoy receiving. "The joy of giving is one which we need to experience as we find ourselves in the midst of plenty," he concedes. Yet people ought to prepare themselves "to receive that which God has given us in Christ," he states. Being willing to receive this "with expectancy and great joy," he calls the real spirit of Christmas. "The art of graceful receiving takes cultivation," says the Rev. Mr. Walker, pastor of the prominent Farmington Avenue Methodist Church in St. Paul, Minn. but it is essential "to receive a gift graciously" to have the real Christmas spirit, he adds.

Christmas Theme Subject Chosen For FB Church

Rev. J. R. Manning, assistant pastor of the First Baptist Church, will be in the pulpit for both worship services Sunday. He has chosen "Preparing for Christmas" with a text taken from Matthew 33 for his eleven o'clock morning worship service topic. Sam Allen, minister of music, will direct the Chancel Choir and lead the congregational singing. Miss Eloise Lane, organist, has chosen "Lo, How a Rose" a 16th Century Carol for the offertory.

Men of Goodwill Have Much Work To Do For Poor

"Today we know that the giving of gifts (or Christmas baskets) is no answer to poverty," asserts Dr. Dale White, a nationally-noted youth counselor. "We know that social justice is the right road to take," he continues in commending students who have volunteered for roles in the war on poverty or who aspire to rise above economic or social handicaps. "Every person has a right to make something of his life through equal educational and vocational opportunities," Dr. White stresses in the December issue of TOGETHER, Methodism's monthly magazine for families. Although gratifying gains have been made in recent years, Dr. White points out that "men of goodwill have much work to do" before poverty will be banished from the face of the earth. And he challenges teen-agers to think about their roles in this program as the rich promise of Christmas "entangles with the sad story of poverty." The birth of Christ, he adds, calls young people to minister to the needs

There Are Varying Degrees Of Christianity Today: Says Canon

United Press International
One of the prevalent heresies of contemporary Christianity is the notion that the church is "a kind of heavenly Boy Scout troops." So says the Rev. Richard N. Bolles, canon of Grace Episcopal cathedral San Francisco, in the current issue of his denomination's official magazine, the Episcopalian. Canon Bolles says many church members seem to be under "the delusion that there are different degrees of Christians" just as there are different classes of Boy Scouts. In this popular but mistaken view, he says, the average baptized Christian is the tenderfoot. "Not much is expected of him except attending church occasionally, contributing minimally, and labelling himself as 'Christian when a printed form asks for his religious preference.'" One notch up is the second class Christian. He's been around for a while and a little more is asked of him. "This rank is expected to attend church regularly, to pledge, to say grace and to pray whenever the situation calls for it." The first class Christian may teach Sunday school class; help to raise money, serve on the official board of the parish or even represent his church on a diocesan or interdenominational committee. But even a devoted layman is apt to think that as far as he's expected to go in the ecclesiastical "troop."

Sheriff Jordan Guest Speaker For Men's Meet

Sheriff Rufe Jordan will be the guest speaker for the men's monthly fellowship meeting at the Church of God in Monday Dec. 5. Blake Laramore, chairman of the Men's Fellowship committee, will be in charge of the meeting. The meeting will begin at 7:45 p.m. in the fellowship hall with coffee and cake served to all present. A cordial invitation is extended.

Presbyterians To Observe Holy Communion

The Sacrament of Holy Communion will be observed at both the 8:30 and 11 worship hours at the First Presbyterian Church. The Rev. Donald S. Hauck will preach at both services, and will be assisted in the serving of communion by the Ruling Elders. Special music 11:00 service will be brought by the sanctuary choir, under the direction of Tommy Neugent. They will sing, "While Shepherds Watched," arr. by T. Kach. The Junior High fellowship will meet at 5:30 p.m. for a snack supper and fellowship. The Senior Highs will meet at the home of Nancy Lemmons, 1837 Fir at 6 p.m.

THE BLIND MAN'S CREED

Chapter 9 of Saint John's Gospel contains one of the most unique stories of the Bible. It is unique in the fact that the disciples wanted to know if this man had sinned, or his parents, that he had been born blind. Of course Jesus responded that neither he nor his parents but the Works of God should be made manifest. Following this, Jesus stooped and from his spittle upon the ground made a clay, anointed the man's eyes, and told the man to wash in the pool of siloam. The blind man did as he was told and came seeing.

It is unique in the fact that his neighbors were not thoroughly convinced that this was the same man who sat and begged for a meager living. When they questioned this man and found he was the same man born blind they wanted to know how his eyes were opened. He answered, "A man that is called Jesus." The Jews would not accept this and questioned the man's parents. Because of fear they said, "he is of age, ask him." These Jews called Jesus a sinner. The blind man couldn't have cared less, for he replied, "... Whether he be a sinner or no, I know not: One thing I know, that, whereas I was blind, now I can see..."

It is hard for some people to accept the simple truths of God's word. I'm sure that you today know if many who are blinded spiritually. They are like the story of the skeptic, who, after hearing a sermon at a church service, requested permission to speak. He said, "Friends, I don't believe what this man has just told us. I don't believe in punishments or rewards after this life. When we die, that is all there is to it. I have never seen any of these things that the man speaks of as coming after life." Then he sat down.

Another man arose and said: Friends, you say there is a river not far from this place. It is untrue. You say there are trees here. I say that also is untrue. You say there is grass around this building. I don't believe that either. Its not so. There is no one here-except myself. I suppose you wonder why I am talking this way. Well, I was born blind, I have never seen any of you. I have never seen the trees, river or the grass. The way I am talking shows that I am physically blind, or I would not say such things. But with my mind's eye I can see all of these things, so I know that they exist. The man who just spoke must be spiritually blind." It is the eye of faith that sees when doubt is blind. What is your creed?

The Pampa Daily News

A Watchful Newspaper

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP OF TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself no more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Under the Thumb of 'Big Brother'

Russia is East and America is West and a favorite prediction of many observers is that the ideological twin will eventually meet somewhere between pure communism and 19th-century capitalism.

The Russians do seem to be adopting the same goals — and many of the same methods of reaching those goals — of material well-being which the West too often holds up as proof of the superiority of its system.

But statistics concerning gross national product per capita income, consumer goods and whatever are not the measure of the real distance between East and West. This is something that can only be experienced first-hand.

A recent traveler to the Soviet Union writes that the Russians and Ukrainians his group met were undoubtedly better off materially than they could have been under the old imperial regime. They have the basic needs, much leisure and many of the little "extras" of life.

"They have something else, though, that is hard to define but easy to sense. They have an invisible wall around their emotions," says James V. Hauser, president of the Iowa Grain and Feed Association.

The Russians can be helpful, they can be friendly, they can be curious — but only so far as they have been told to be helpful, friendly and curious, he reports. The desire is there, but the actual practice of meeting and knowing people never quite comes off.

As an introduction to the country, Hauser's group of 51 people was held up for an hour and a half at Moscow Airport because of some mysterious irregularity in one of their passports, while the petty official who had started the uproar searched for someone with sufficient authority to override his own decision.

This same close-minded fear to make an on-the-spot decision not prescribed by the book dogged them all through their visit and could not help but cast a pall over their association with the Soviet people.

The young manager of a collective farm made excuses about showing the group his artificial insemination setup for hogs not because he did not want them to see it but because he was unable or unwilling to make the necessary unilateral decision.

Examples such as these, thinks Hauser, demonstrate the real weakness in the Communist system.

"However you might feel about the quality of their work, it is still better than they have ever known, but their ideology has played them false.

"They are not free to decide their own destiny. They are not free to make mistakes. Until they may do these things, they are not free."

Lizzie Borden At The Bar

There's quite a bit of criticism of the courts lately. The critics have aimed their barbs at the recent court rulings which seem designed to prevent the public knowing what is going on. Other critics are taking aim at the soft-hearted treatment which seems to encourage rather than discourage — criminal actions. The attitude of the critics seems pretty well put in a bit of doggerel now circulating.

The Washington Newspaper Publishers Assn. recently published the old rhyme about Lizzie Borden:

Lizzie Borden took an axe
And gave her mother forty whacks.
And when she saw what she had done,
She gave her father forty-one.

Then it gave the same story as it would be written in the present style of crime reporting:

The Borden, Emily and Max,

Were found dead Tuesday,

Police say eighty blows were slayed.
Their daughter did it, it's alleged.

And, then it was written as it would be with the press under the extreme rule of no pre-trial publicity

A terrible thing has come to pass
At the Borden home in Fall River, Mass.

Involved are father, mother, child. . .
For further details, attend the trial.
One of our staffers then wrote a fictitious post-trial account

Dead are the Borden, Em and Max,
Felled by their daughter's fatal axe.

Lizzie, though of the killing sort,
Will live. "She's ill," proclaimed the court.

High Form of Altruism

We've all seen them — a card above the window of a bus asking us to "Give to the College of Your Choice"; a newspaper ad urging us to "Put Your Faith to Work Every Day"; a magazine ad promoting safe driving or equal employment opportunities or the hiring of the handicapped.

They are only a few of some 102 similar messages — from Aid to Higher Education right through the alphabet to the Zip Code — sponsored by the Advertising Council last year through the media of newspapers, magazines, radio, television, transit cards, outdoor posters and direct mail.

In the fiscal year ended June 30, the advertising and communications industries contributed no less than $236 million worth of such public service advertising. All if it was donated through the Advertising Council, a nonprofit, nonpartisan organization which for nearly a quarter of a century has been demonstrating how the private sector of the economy can work voluntarily for the public good.

Body English

Everyone is familiar with the person who saws the air with his hands when he talks. We only have to look in the mirror to recognize him.

This is only a grosser manifestation of a subtle and universal phenomenon, however. According to Dr. William S. Condon of the University of Pittsburgh College of Medicine, body movements have a pattern that corresponds precisely to the speech pattern.

"kick" somewhere in the body. Dr. Condon has been studying films of people talking for the past four years, reports Science Service. He found that the dancing phenomenon is most prominent on the syllable level but sometimes takes place on a sub-syllable level.

In talking, the vowel l, for instance, breaks down into four a's and two e's. Body movement always changes direction after the a's.

"You have to see it to believe it," says Dr. Condon.

A thought for the day—President Woodrow Wilson said: "Only a peace between equals can last."

The American Way

By HARRY BROWNE
It's that time again. The inevitable period is approaching when my closest friends and relatives will start asking me, "What do you want for Christmas?" Since shopping is often a difficult problem, especially for the man-who-has-nothing, I will make the job easier by outlining five (count 'em, five) different gifts that would bring me joy.

1. I would like more salesmen to call on me. For when they do, they bring me news of offers and bargains that I was not previously aware of. Some people dread talking to salesmen. But ever since I discovered that I was the sovereign being in my life and I could say "no" to anything I didn't want I have enjoyed talking to salesmen.

Salesmen make their livings by bringing buyers and sellers together to create mutually-profitable exchanges. Since the seller usually already has a large inventory of his product, his work is cut out for him. But not mine. I can choose between many alternative courses of action. So the salesman must please me to make the deal. And you never know what juicy offers will come out of that attempt to get my business.

2. Right along with that I want to see more advertising. Advertising's benefit is almost wholly to me — the buyer. Advertising saves me hours and hours of looking for the things I want. Advertising tells me right where to find it and for how much. Advertising makes it possible for me to know of thousands of wonderful things I would like to have, once I know of their existence. The proof of advertising's value is in the fact that I buy the things advertised.

My resources are limited so I must shop among all the alternatives available. Advertising permits me to shop at home — in the newspaper, in front of the TV or while I'm driving.

3. Oh yes, I'd also like more knowledge of what other people want. The better know what people want, the more likely that my services will satisfy those desires. And the more I can satisfy other people, the more money I'll make and the more I'll have for myself. So give me knowledge, please — knowledge of what people want, as expressed in the free market (not what politicians say people want or ought to have).

4. And that brings me to number four, which is a negative. Take away, please, those guys who are continually interfering coercively in my life. They take my money and spread it all over who-knows-where. So please eliminate the guys (in Washington, the state capital and city hall) who want to take the few resources I have and spend them for me.

5. And, lastly, get rid of that same bunch in the capital who are always trying to do things for me. You know the ones who make campaign speeches telling me that I should have this and that and everything else — and that they're going to see that I get it. The ones who think I can't look out for the safety of my own car or buy products wisely or that I can't make decisions for myself.

Everytime they try to help me, they only succeed in taking away from me something I wanted or needed. I'm not perfect, but I can run my life a heckuva lot better than they can.

So there's my Christmas list. More salesmen, more advertising and more news of what people want. And less stealing from me and less "benevolence" in running my life for me.

Now that's not too much to ask for Christmas is it?

Wit and Whimsy

Salesman — Ladies and gentlemen, I have here the famous flexible comb that will stand any kind of treatment. You can bend it double — you can hit with a hammer — you can twist it — you can —

Interested Listener — Say, mister, can you comb your hair with it?

Officer Cobb — How long have you been driving without a tail-light, buddy?

The driver jumped out, ran to the rear of his car, and gave a low moan. His distress was so great that the cop was moved to ease up on him a bit.

Officer Cobb — Aw, come now, you don't have to take it so hard. It isn't that serious. Driver — It isn't? What could have happened to my trailer?

It's Things Like This That Start Fights

Cost-Related Prices Are Foreign to Free Market

By OSCAR W. COOLEY
Assoc. Prof. of Economics,
Ohio Northern Univ.

"We are simply passing on our cost increase to our customers," said a chain store manager in Denver, trying to justify increases in the prices of goods sold in his store. Just as his customers were under contract to pay his costs!

He would do better to advertise to the public that food is cheap compared to other goods and that the proportion of the average family's budget that it spends for food has dropped about one-fourth in the last ten years.

Buyers are interested in what THEY have to pay for goods, not in what the sellers pay. In view of this fact, it is amazing how often a firm's announcement of a price increase is accompanied by a lame apology. This effect: "Sorry, folks, but our cost of doing business has gone up — wages, taxes, raw material prices, etc. — and so we have to charge you more."

This is as much as to say: "We are only your hired men, your robots, here to wait on you. You wouldn't want US to take a cut in our wages." Of course the answer is: "You are nothing of the sort. You are entrepreneurs, out to make every dollar you can make. This is legitimate and we respect you for it. But don't try to tell us there is some God-ordained margin of profit which we are supposed to allow you."

"In fact, to be an entrepreneur means that you take your chances on making profit. Whether you make a lot or a little depends on your skill as managers. If you want to live a guaranteed life, you'd better sell your business and join a labor union."

Sellers raise prices, not because their costs are up but because they think that demand for their products is so strong that they can raise prices and buyers will go right on buying as much, or nearly as much, as before. If demand is not that strong, they will lose so much sales volume that their profits will fall. Whether their costs are up or down does not affect demand for their merchandise.

This is a perfectly logical and legitimate reason for raising price. No apology is necessary. No pleading with the consumer to "please help me bear my extra burden of cost" is called for.

Why should a seller feel called upon to justify a price raise any more than a price cut. Neither are harmful to the public; on the contrary, both are beneficial. Let us see:

When goods are plentiful and demand for them is weak, prices fall. Buyers snap up the low-priced goods. Low-income people especially respond to the price drop and increase their buying. Sellers do a brisk business and make good total profits, even though their profit with them. He nicked the man on the lip, then the chin, and finally the nose. Then he asked, Barber — Have you been in my shop before?

Lumberjack — No. I lost my arm in the sawmill.

per unit is less. No surplus piles up, and no unemployment develops.

When, on the other hand, goods are less plentiful and demand is strong, prices rise. People are checked in their buying. They economize, as indeed they should when goods are scarce. Because everybody buys in smaller quantities, the scarce supply of goods is stretched out. Meanwhile, the higher prices are a signal to producers to step up their production, which they do (unless the government limits their acreage or otherwise stymies their efforts). The increasing production checks the price rise.

This is the very thing happening in the food market now. The population explosion and rising incomes have caused Americans to demand more victuals. Meanwhile, we have sent enormous quantities of foodstuffs to hungry people overseas. And production has been restricted by the government's acreage allotment, "soil bank" and price support program. Thus, rising demand and restricted supply have pushed food prices up.

And it is high time. If under such circumstances, food prices did not rise, the American people would be heading for hunger. For with low prices consumers would fail to economize. And producers would not bother to increase production. Hence a shortage of food would develop.

To adopt price control and hold the price of food and other goods down now would be to insure disaster. Not only would we soon be unable to help feed the starving millions abroad but a vacuum on the shelves of our own supermarkets would begin to develop. Forced rationing would have to be adopted in order to prevent some from hoarding while others went hungry.

Price control and rationing belong under socialist regimes, not in free, capitalistic countries. And the theory that selling prices should rise and fall with cost, always bearing a fixed relation, is one of the theories of the planned, managed economy, not of a free economy. For in a socialistic, managed economy, there are no entrepreneurs, no profit-seeking is allowed, and there are no "prices," as we know them, guiding the market.

Yet, in the United States economy it is widely assumed that costs determine selling prices. Retailers made a practice of "marking up" their goods from cost; since they can usually sell at a fixed mark-up, they feel aggrieved if they are not always able to. Every experienced seller knows, however, that he must often take a "mark-down."

Worse yet, the myth has been written into law. About two-thirds of the states have laws forbidding sales below cost. The Robinson-Patman act, passed by Congress in 1936, forbids selling to Buyer A for less than to Buyer B — unless cost of selling to A can be proven to be less — just as though it were a crime if selling prices were not proportional to cost. Such laws betray the ignorance of law-makers, as well as their propensity to meddle with business practices.

The Doctor Says:

By DR. WAYNE BRANDSTADT
Unimpaired Sight Vital
To the Learning Process

About 85 per cent of your child's learning is done with his eyes. If his vision is defective, learning will be more difficult for him. Many visual defects can be corrected if they are recognized early and appropriate treatment is applied. It is estimated that the visual defects of about 100,000 children in this country pass each year beyond the stage where treatment will help them.

It is, therefore, important to recognize any difficulty your child may have with his vision. This does not necessarily mean a trip to an ophthalmologist. In making routine checks of your child most pediatricians now include visual testing — using picture charts for children who have not yet learned the alphabet. It is important that each eye be tested separately because subnormal vision in one eye is a danger signal.

When one eye has fallen behind, the brain soon learns to disregard the images sent to it from that eye. Covering the good eye is often necessary to allow the backward eye to catch up and to re-establish its image in the brain's visual center. This patch must completely cover the good eye and be worn continuously except while asleep until the vision in the backward eye has been brought to 20 - 20, the normal level.

Start protecting your child's vision in infancy. When you take him outdoors don't let the direct rays of the sun fall on his eyes. As he grows older, avoid letting him play with scissors, ice picks, knives and pencils until he can handle himself. When he starts to school be alert for signs of eye trouble, such as watery eyes, recurrent styes, squinting, rubbing his eyes and difficulty reading. When in doubt take him to an eye doctor.

Q — I have nursed all my children, but if I were to have twins could I nurse them?

A — Since the amount of milk supplied by the breasts depends largely on the vigor of a baby's nursing and the mother's eagerness to breast-feed her baby, there is no reason why two can't live as happily as one. Mothers who have nursed twins have been able to continue to nurse them as long as they did their single-born babies. On the other hand if you were to have triplets or quadruplets — well, I suppose there are limits.

Pull Up A Chair

By FRANK JAY MARKEY

Everyone knows that Buffalo Bill and Annie Oakley were crack shots. Not many today remember the Topperweins, a husband and wife team that could put the celebrated pair to shame when it came to consistent marksmanship. "Plinky" made her first world's record at the St. Louis World's Fair in 1904, when she broke 967 clay birds out of a possible 1,000 at trap shooting. Her greatest feat was another trap-shooting record of 1,952 hits out of 2,000 targets. Her husband Adolph, once shot steadily for eight hours a day for 10 consecutive days at 2 1/2-inch wooden blocks tossed in the air. Using a .22 caliber rifle Ad shot 72,000 blocks and missed only nine. He missed only four out of the first 50,000 and had runs of 10,000 and one run of 14,540. After more than 50 years of traveling the world for the Winchester Firearms Co., they retired in 1940. Many of their records still stand.

Today's smile: The saleswoman in a dress shop told her customer, a pretty secretary: "Of course you can wear this dress at your office. It was made to be just a bit daring so that your boss will think twice about installing automation."

The biggest hot dog in the world was made in Germany in 1701 for the coronation of Frederick I of Prussia. It was 2,000 feet long, weighed 800 pounds, and was carried through the streets by more than 100 butchers. There's no record of the king having eaten it, though. The Russians have developed a sleep machine that induces slumber more peacefully than natural sleep. Mild doses of mixed alternating and direct electrical current are applied to the eyelids and the back of the neck to induce slumber. They hope to market it in this country. It might be just the thing for insomniacs. All of which proves the Soviets really want to put us in dreamland.

Thoughts while shaving: Now that most folks have oil burners, researchers are finding a new use for coal. Chemists have determined that a usable 100-octane gasoline can be produced from coal at no greater cost than manufacturing the same product from petroleum. Australian dental researchers are inserting tiny radios into molars to get a closer look at the movements made and pressures exerted by teeth and jaws while chewing. Some of the Asia and African delegates to the United Nations have urged strongly that the international organization's headquarters should be moved out of New York City. That may be a good idea. In the General Assembly of 121 nations, Africa has roughly 30 per cent of the votes; Asia 20 per cent, and Latin America 20 per cent. In this General Assembly, a two-thirds majority can be formed by nations with only 10 per cent of the world's population. These nations altogether contribute about five per cent of the U.S.'s assessed budget.

The United States has given much to the U.N. and asked little and received less from it! The only thanks we have received comes in the form of accusations that we are trying to boss the world. There has been no benefit to us in acting as the "host country" to the United Nations. Some 865 Soviet-bloc personnel and more than 1,200 dependents, all with diplomatic immunity against arrest, are stationed in the United States. Most of them are accredited to the U.N. The FBI estimates that about 80 per cent of the Soviet-bloc personnel are intelligence officers rather than diplomats. Occasionally one of these is caught in the act of espionage or subversion and is sent home. But we have to wonder how many are not caught. It may be that the suggestion for the U.N. to move its headquarters out of New York and out of this country is the best that has come out of the organization up to now.

Question Box

[We invite questions on economic and the proper functions of government which will not injure anyone.]

QUESTION: "If the Marxist claim their end, a classless society, justifies any means, why doesn't it justify EVOLUTIONARY development of a classless society? The U.S. had all but accomplished such an evolution before the communists re-started the class struggle here. Is this the ideological difference between Red Russia and Red China?"

ANSWER: The Marxist idea is to destroy the concept of ownership of property by anyone except the state. And Marx claimed that the establishment of the proletariat as a ruling class would be only temporary and that once rights of individuals to own property were eliminated, there would be no excuse for having a ruling class.

Of course, this is a fallacy, for ruling classes do not voluntarily give up their rulership.

The objective of communism is destruction of the rights of individuals to own property. In the Communist Manifesto Marx wrote: "The proletariat will use its political supremacy to wrest, by degrees, all capital from the bourgeoisie, to centralize all instruments of production in the hands of the state, i.e., of the proletariat organized as the ruling class. . . ."

The Communists objective obviously is not to create a classless society or it would have recognized that the capitalistic system as far as it was adopted in the United States came nearer to bringing a classless society than any other system. But capitalism does not subject itself to rulership by any specific class. It is subject only to rulership by consumers in the market place. With opportunity for each individual to climb outside his own economic group, it provided opportunity for all, to improve themselves and thus to improve the well being of all others.

As Mr. Thacker points out, there was an evolutionary trend toward eliminating the distinctions between persons or different economic, racial, religious and ethnic backgrounds in a mostly capitalistic United States. But communists, socialists, fascists, etc., only use "the masses" as a tool to gain rulership over others. They are not interested in eliminating inequalities by improving others, but by pulling others down to an equal level of poverty and dependence.

If there is an ideological difference between the Red Russian rulers and the Red Chinese rulers, we are not aware of it. The difference is over the means to be used, and which set of rulers ultimately will be supreme.

Harvesters, Elks Battle Tonight

Pampa Spills Dumas In First Round Tilt

By RON CROSS
SPORTS EDITOR

Pampa and Elk City will wind up second night action in the 12th annual Top O' Texas Basketball tournament starting at 8:30 p.m. tonight in the Harvester Fieldhouse.

Childress and Channing, a couple of first round losers got things started today with a 3 p.m. contest followed by two more round losers, Dumas and Burk Burnett at 4:30 p.m.

In the first game tonight Borger and Canyon, both victorious Thursday met at 7 p.m.

Borger already owns one victory over Canyon, now 1-1, who beat co-favorite Channing, 55-48 in Thursday action.

Borger downed Childress, 59-50 and in other action Elk City ripped Burk Burnett, 56-32 and Pampa ran to their fifth straight decision, 59-47 over Dumas.

Pampa's foe tonight, Elk City, showed a lot of promise as they completely dominated their game with Burk Burnett. The Elks were seeing action for the first time this season while Burk Burnett went into the game with a perfect 3-0 mark.

The Elks led 9-8 after one period and upped that to 23-12 at halftime, led 35-23 at the three-quarter mark.

For Pampa it was a night of waiting, waiting for Dumas to shoot the ball. The Demons tried to work for the good shots, slowing down the action and slowing down the Pampa offense.

The Harvesters never trailed and were never tied, jumping to a 2-0 lead and going on from there.

But after four minutes it appeared it might end in a football score with the Harvesters leading only 3-1.

But the high-flying Pampa offense started rolling and at the end of the quarter the Harvesters were on top, 12-6.

Bo Lang and George Bailey paced the Pampa scoring with 15 each and senior Steve Williams added 10 more.

The Harvesters hit only 21 of 49 from the floor but made good on 17 of 26 from the charity stripe while Dumas managed only 18 of 46 field goals and 11 of 21 from the free throw stripe.

When Pampa took their 3-1 lead that was as close as the Demons were going to get the rest of the night.

At halftime Pampa had charged to a 29-18 margin and made it 49-32 at the three-quarter mark. The Harvester led by as much as 22 deep in the third and early in the fourth periods but coach Terry Culley substituted freely.

Dumas had only one player in the double figure bracket, Randy Welch, who scored 10 with Phillips — Pampa and Borger met in second round action this afternoon in the Phillips B basketball tournament. The game got underway at 4 p.m. in the Phillips gym.

The Shockers, defending champions of the tournament, edged Dumas, 49-46 Thursday in first round action while Borger ripped Perryton, 61-47.

Coach Bill Brown's Shockers won their fifth game in as many outings but hit only 35 per cent of their shots from the floor.

Jim Hollis paced the scoring with 14 points while Mike Sublett had 13, Johnny Epperson 10, Beau Bond, six, Buddy Newton four and Sugar Mathis two.

Pampa led 13-11 after one period but Dumas rallied for a 23-21 halftime lead and stretched it to 36-28 at the three-quarter mark.

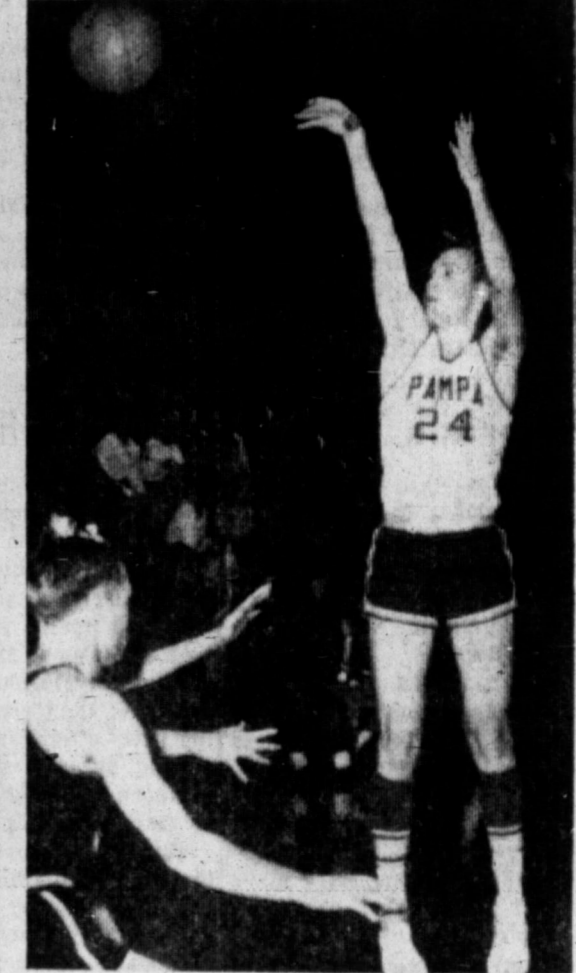

But the Shockers got their hitting eye back in the fourth period and outgunned the Dumas crew 21-10.

Pampa trailed with just over four minutes left in the game but Hollis bucketed to make it 38-38 with four minutes left.

Dumas took the lead quickly but a basket by Newton put Pampa on top 44-42 with 2:41 left in the game and the Shockers were never headed.

Dumas pulled to 44-43 but Epperson hit two free throws and the Shockers stole the ball but Epperson missed the layup, Mathis took the rebound and hit his only shot of the night, a 30-foot jumper from the side.

In other games Canyon downed Tulsa, 55-47, and Phillips downed Hereford, 74-35.

IN COWBOY LAND

Dallas, Cards Eye Battle

By United Press International
Dallas and St. Louis battle toe to toe Sunday for the National Football League's Eastern Division lead, with the outcome of this crucial game probably depending on the boots of field goal kickers Danny Vaneuva and Jim Bakken.

The Cowboys and Cardinals enter the game tied for the lead and just two games remaining after this contest. It could be the last chance saloon for St. Louis, because if the Cards lose, their opportunity of recovery will be at long odds. They meet Cleveland in the final game of the season after a game with Atlanta.

Dallas will be anxious to carve an early title helping. A victory would make it easier for the Cowboys to brand Washington and New York at closeout victims.

Meredith Main Factor
Don Meredith makes the big difference in a 13-point spread that carries Dallas in the favorite's role. The sick quarterback leads the league in touchdown passes with 23.

Harking back to their earlier meeting, when the two teams played a 10-10 tie it may take a timely field goal to decide the timely field goal to decide the league's better placement artists. Vaneuva has kicked 14 issue. This game has two of the both field goals in a slim 6-3 triumph over Pittsburgh on Sunday.

St. Louis pass patterns will be led by quarterback Terry McSinger, who ably took over when Charley Johnson suffered a leg injury in the Oct. 9 game with New York that put the Cardinal starter out for the season.

Cleveland clinging to slim title hopes, gets its turn at the three-pointers.

Bakken kicked a record-scoring 72-41 onslaught by Washington. The Browns also will settle for second best because it means a trip to the playoff bowl as division runner-up. The odds-makers have made interior Giants, who fell before this one.

Green Bay, bidding for its fifth Western Conference championship in seven seasons, can clinch a tie for the division title

Tascosa, San Angelo To Battle Saturday in AAAA

By United Press International
Pat Pattison, who has tutored three other state championship clubs at Lubbock and Wichita Falls, hopes to take another step toward his fourth in one of the feature games on this week's Texas schoolboy football quarterfinals cards.

This time, Pattison will be plotting undefeated-untied Vernon against giant-killing Monahans at neutral Lubbock Saturday afternoon in one of the northern bracket contests in Class AAA. Monahans, which knocked off highly-regarded Odessa Ector to win its own district, pulled off a similar accomplishment last week when it beat second-ranked Dumas on first downs in a 6-6 tie game.

Vernon is favored.

There will be plenty of action on the schoolboy front prior to this one, however, with 10 of the 16 games scheduled Friday night—two each in Classes AAAA and AAA and three each in A and A.

There will be a pair of Class AAAA quarterfinals Saturday afternoon along with the Vernon-Monahans tilt and then on Saturday night the 16 semi-finalists will be completed with

Cazzie Gone So Wolves Lose

By United Press International
Michigan flopped without its star, but Vanderbilt managed to stage a show with a cast of spear carriers.

All-America Cazzie Russell of Michigan and Clyde Lee of Vanderbilt were among the departed when the major college basketball opened its four-month stand Thursday night. The Wolverines are still in mourning but the Commodores wasted little time in turning their thoughts to the future.

Despite the loss of Lee, now playing with San Francisco in the National Basketball Association, Keith Thomas and Ron Green, Vandy bushwacked ambitious Western Kentucky 76-70 in the biggest form reversal of the night. Western Kentucky had been ranked ninth in the United Press International pre-season ratings.

Michigan, the defending Big Ten champion, reacted more emotionally to the loss of Russell, a member of the New York Knickerbockers, as the Wolverines were walloped 72-54 by Tennessee. The victories by Vandy and Tennessee indicated that third ranked Kentucky might encounter more difficulty than expected in the Southeastern Conference this season.

Texas Western Winner
The other three members of the top 10 to see action fared a good deal better. Defending NCAA champion Texas Western whipped Sam Houston State 78-54, fifth-ranked Michigan State 77-55 and Houston (No. 6) toyed with Western Michigan defeated Albuquerque 96-84.

Jerry Southwood, a 6-2 senior, took firm command of the lead role for Vanderbilt, scoring a team high of 22 points and directing the well-drilled Commodores through their paces. Playing deliberate ball, Vandy opened up a 36-30 lead at halftime and never trailed thereafter.

Southwood sank 12 free throws in as many attempts as the frustrated Hilltoppers, favored to sweep the Ohio Valley Conference and make a strong run for national honors, desperately fouled trying to get the ball. Clem Haskins scored 24 for Western Kentucky whose cap-

All-District Teams To be Named Sunday

The Pampa Daily News All-District football teams, with the added attraction of the Top O' Texas Area All-District team will be named Sunday.

Sports Editor Ron Cross has been busy talking with coaches and other Panhandle writers in preparing the district lists.

Players will be named to the 1-A, 2-A and 5-B All-District teams and boys from the three districts will be featured on the Pampa News Top O' Texas Area team.

Names and pictures of the players will appear on the News' Sunday sports pages.

Alabama Risks Perfect Record

By United Press International
Alabama's Crimson Tide, frustrated in a bid for the national championship despite being the only major team in the country with a perfect record, hopes to prove the pollsters wrong Saturday in its nationally televised finale against Auburn.

Alabama, which trailed Notre Dame and Michigan State in the rankings, is a two-touchdown favorite over the off-beaten Tigers (4-5). But you can bet Bryan's boys will be gunning for a larger margin than that.

While it's too late to do anything about this year's UPI rankings, Alabama can't afford a slip. In addition to that perfect season, a tie for the Southeastern Conference championship with fourth-ranked Georgia also is at stake.

Bryant, a master strategist, has warned his players not to take Auburn lightly.

"Auburn probably has more football players than any team in the Southeastern Conference at this stage," Bryant said. "Auburn lost a lot of good players early in the year due to injuries and they had to get others ready to play."

"Now their injured boys are back healthy and that gives them a lot of outstanding players."

There are only three major games Saturday, the closing day of the regular 1966 season.

In addition to the Alabama-Auburn headliner at Birmingham, Ala., Oklahoma, which handed seventh-ranked Nebraska its only defeat, Thanksgiving Day, will be at Oklahoma State and 17th-ranked Houston, upset last week by Memphis State, will be host to Utah.

Sonora Next for White Deer

By A Staff Writer
SNYDER — White Deer tapered off a week's hard work with light drills today and set their sights on the Sonora Bronco and a giant step to the semifinals of the state class A playoffs.

The Bucks and Sonora meet here at 7:30 p.m. Saturday in a quarter-finals match.

This will be a match of unbeaten, both boasting perfect 11-0 records, the Broncos rated No. 3 and White Deer No. 2 in class A football.

Both have high scoring offenses and until last week the Bucks had one of the most herald defenses in the state.

Last week the Bucks downed Spur, 48-30 and it marked the first time this season a team had scored more than one touchdown against White Deer.

Buck coach stated, "Pass they do. The Broncos have been led by senior quarterback Lanny Cook who has completed 61 of 127 passes for 1,280 and 17 touchdowns. He has had only two passes intercepted."

Cook has been backed by 165-pound sophomore halfback Ed Rentro, who has scored 115 points and gained 1,204 yards on 101 carries. He has also caught 15 passes for 365 yards.

Most of Cook's passes have gone to 140-pound junior end Noe Chevez, who has caught 41 for 860 yards and 12 touchdowns.

The Broncos have run up 381 points, an average of 34.7 per game while giving up an even 100, an average of 9.9 per contest.

Sonora returned seven starters from a team that finished 11-1 last football season. Coach Jim Hopkins in seven years has never had a losing season and posted a 58-15-2 record in that time.

With Cook and Rentro in the backfield are Mike Goosney, 182-pound junior at fullback and Ernest Parrera, 150-pound junior at the other halfback spot. Chevez, Stokes, Johnson, Bloodworth, Castro, Cook, Goosney and Parrera are all starters from the 1965 club and Johnson, Bloodworth and Cook all were all district players.

Sonora will average about 168 pounds per man from end to end and 166 pounds per man in the line.

Bottoms, in his first year at White Deer, has a wealth of talent, especially in the backfield. He will start, probably, Ron Anderson, 146-pound senior and Bud Thomas, 185-pound sophomore at ends; Mike Hawpe, 182-pound junior and Monte Kries, 182-pound junior at tackle with Buryl Pipes and Gary Stewart, 175-pound senior at guards. Kenny Carter, 180-pound senior is the starting senior.

John Paul Guinn, 150-pound junior will start at quarterback with Gary Smith, a hard-running 175-pound senior at fullback and Vernon Marlar, the team's leading scorer and Rody Elliott, 160-pound senior at halfbacks.

Marlar, 185-pound senior, has 96 points for the season and has gained 1,303 yards in just over 100 carries. Guinn has 70 points and Elliott 64 and Smith 42. Smith is the team's second leading ground gainer.

Through their 11 games White Deer has scored 420 points, an average of 38.2 per game and given up only 59, an average of 4.5 per contest.

Anderson, Pipes, Stewart, who also does the extra point kicking, Kries, Smith, Marlar and Elliott are all returning starters from the team that was state champ runners-up in 1965.

From end to end the Bucks will average about 172 pounds per player and 167 pounds per player in the backfield.

 Thursday night it still has plenty of muscle even when its hot-shooting, play-making guard Bobby Joe Hill can't play.

Hill, who has an injured ankle, sat on the sidelines as the second-ranked Miners whipped Sam Houston State 78-54 in their season-opening game at Huntsville. It was the first loss in four games for the Bearkats.

David Palacio and Willie Worley paced the Miners with 15 points each. Willie Cager flipped in 14. High man for the losers was Oscar McClendon with 12. Sam Houston jumped to an early 7-2 lead, but Cager's layup tied the game at 11-11 and the Miners swept to a comfortable 38-25 halftime lead.

Southwest Conference teams had a rough night in their openers. Kansas ripped Arkansas 73-57. Oklahoma outshot Texas Christian 90-76. Georgia Tech clobbered crippled Southern Methodist 87-70, and tall Louisiana Tech nipped Texas A&M 53-50. Texas Tech nicked Colorado 72-67 and Rice downed Trinity 85-73 to save some SWC prestige.

Sixth-ranked Houston won its first start of the season with a 96-84 rout of the University of Albuquerque. Elvin Hayes led Houston with 32 points. Sophomore Melvin Bell scored 20.

In other games, East Texas whipped Drury, Mo. 69-62. Hardin-Simmons beat Midwestern 61-57. Pan American went into two overtimes to take Lamar Tech 94-87, and North Texas snapped a 19-game losing streak by defeating Southwest Louisiana 77-67. North Texas' Rubin Russell was the hero with 21 points.

Lion Club Reminds Peace Essayists Dealine Near

Tom Snow, president of the Pampa Noon Lions Club, today advised possible entrants in the $50,000 Peace Essay Contest they only have 10 days remaining in which to submit their essays.

"Closing date for the entries will be Dec. 10, and judging for the Pampa Lions Club's winner will begin soon thereafter," he said.

A total of $50,000 in awards will be made, including a first prize of $25,000 in educational and/or career assistance grant, eight semi-finalist awards of $1,000, and travel expenses to Chicago, Ill., for these semifinalists in July 1967. At that time, the first prize winner will be chosen from the eight. Also, more than 20,000 local, district and multiple district awards will be made.

A panel of three judges Wynn Veale, D. V. Biggers, and John Horn will select a winner from

Appeal Planned For Yule Gifts Unusual Navy Opportunity Is Announced

Mrs. Naomi Sautter of the Pajaro Indian Reservation in Ouitao Village, Ariz., will be in Pampa Sunday as a speaker at the Pampa Southwest Indian Organization meeting at 2:30 p.m. in the Gray County courthouse.

Mrs. Sautter will make an appeal on behalf of the Indians requesting Pampa to give one small gift to the villagers.

Marland Hays, chairman of the local organization, said that suggested gift items may be bottles of shaving lotion for young men; packages of hair curlers for young girls; hand towels or six wash cloths for older women; flashlights for older men; toys for small children or any new article for babies.

"The items have been chosen because of their importance to each individual," Hays said. "The flashlight for protection against rattlesnakes at night since there is no electricity; articles for women and young people for self improvement, and toys for children for love."

"We'd like to specify that these be new articles so that at least one a year, on Christmas, these people may receive something new to call their own."

Hays said that the articles may or may not be Christmas wrapped and that names and addresses may be included on a Christmas card, if the person so wishes.

A Christmas box will be placed in the courthouse lobby on Sunday, Dec. 4, or those contributing gifts may call Hays at MO 9-9692 and he will go to homes and pick them up.

Residents in Lefors may leave gifts at Cut Rate Grocery or at Florence Grocery.

Sen. Robert F. Kennedy is training for another end run around the Johnson-Humphrey administration. Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., a blocking back of much experience, will run interference. Ribicoff got his reputation blocking for John F. Kennedy in the 1960 Kennedy-Nixon contest.

Ribicoff and Kennedy will mark the Christmas season with a grab for big city support generally regarded as the rightful property of Johnson-Humphrey. Ribicoff is chairman of a Senate committee with a long name and a longer reach into urban politics. It is the executive reorganization subcommittee of the Senate Governmental Operations Committee. Kennedy is the star performer. Chairman Ribicoff and Kennedy paired last summer in an investigation billed as the crisis of the cities.

Out of this Ribicoff-Kennedy crisis inquiry came big headlines. Some of them reported Bob Kennedy's hard line with witnesses who displeased him. Other headlines capsuled adverse criticism of Great Society methods and achievements in the critical areas. When mayors began telling what they needed from the federal Treasury even Kennedy was astonished. Detroit's needs were estimated at $15 billion above present allocations over a 10-year period. New York Mayor John V. Lindsay had similar ideas. It was calculated that if all great cities bid for like sums the total would be more than $1 trillion. A trillion is one thousand million.

That was too much for Kennedy who told the mayors no such sums would be available. Bob K. did not indicate the maximum aid figure which would be satisfactory to him. You may be sure, however, that Bob's maximum will be in excess of anything Johnson has proposed or is likely to propose unless political emergency compels him to outbid Kennedy. That would be quite a bidding contest. LBJ and RFK are equally free with other people's money, other people being the hump-backed taxpayers.

The theme of last summer's Ribicoff-Kennedy inquiry will be the theme this month when the inquiry is resumed. The theme is a complaint against lack of planning and lack of coordination in Johnson's Great Society. This theme is dominating subcommittee public hearings resumed this week. Ribicoff accompanied disclosure of his plans with a complaint that: "One of the great problems (of city planning) is the tendency of the executive branch to run the whole show."

This complaint against centralization of government power in Washington at the expense of the cities and states is out of character for Ribicoff and equally so for Kennedy. Both are orthodox liberals.

They believe in the big brother concept of big government. But bad management and the unsatisfactory results of some of LBJ's Great Society adventures comprise a weak area in the Johnson-Humphrey political defenses. Ribicoff and Kennedy could not be expected to ignore such a target.

"Ever had a Newspaper Route?"

When a young man applies for a job he really wants—a job with "a future"—he is very apt to be asked, "Have you ever had a newspaper route?" His answer to that question may well decide whether or not he'll get the job.

Why? Because more and more employers are realizing that former newspaperboys already have a solid business background.

They've bought newspapers at wholesale—sold them at retail—and operated a business of their own. They've already learned that the only way to conduct a successful business is to give service . . . to keep present customers satisfied . . . and to get new customers. They even learned the value of insurance by carrying an accident policy that protected them 24 hours a day.

Many of today's executives were yesterday's newspaperboys. They know that a newspaper route is the one part-time job open to a Young American that teaches initiative, the value of money and the importance of getting along with people.

Yes sir, there's no doubt about it. For jobs with "a future" employers prefer former newspaperboys.

TODAY'S NEWSPAPERBOYS ARE THE SUCCESSFUL BUSINESSMEN OF TOMORROW

If you know of a boy who might profit by carrying a Newspaper Route, suggest that he pay us a visit and register his name. Then we can consider him when we have a route opening in his neighborhood.

The Pampa Daily News

Happy ready when your Newspaperboy makes his delivery and will also help him maintain his profits.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI)—From the outset let me make it clear that no criticism of George Washington is intended or implied by what I am about to say about his birthday.

And I feel certain that Rep. Samuel S. Stratton, D-N.Y., who has proposed that the birthday be changed, doesn't blame Washington either.

After all, it wasn't Washington's fault that his birthday more often than not comes at an inconvenient time.

Washington was a child of the 18th Century. In those days a man had no control over when he would be born.

Furthermore, he had no way of knowing he would grow up to become the father of his country and that his birthday would become a national holiday.

Settled Washington

And even if he had had some voice in the matter, he probably would have regarded Feb. 22 as about as good a date as any for a birthday. Which it is. About once every seven years.

The trouble, as Stratton pointed out in a news release this week, is that Washington's birthday keeps shifting around from one day of the week to another.

In one year it may be on Tuesday, the next year on Thursday, depending on how the calendar is running.

Either is a poor time for a holiday. As are Wednesday and Friday. And to a lesser extent,

Saturday and Sunday.

In fact, the only sensible time for a holiday is Monday, which adds an extra day to the weekend.

This is why I was greatly cheered by Stratton's vow that he would make "a new and even more vigorous fight in the new 90th Congress for legislation designed to set the dates for four of the country's most important holidays on Mondays."

Rearrange Holidays

In addition to Washington's birthday, the list would include Memorial Day, Independence Day and Veterans Day.

Next year, for example, we would celebrate Washington's birthday on Feb. 20; Memorial Day on May 29; Veterans Day on Nov. 13 and Independence Day on July 3.

The following year it would be Washington's birthday on Feb. 19; Memorial Day on May 27; Independence Day on July 1 and Veterans Day on Nov. 11.

I'll concede it might take a little time for us to become adjusted to the idea of celebrating the fourth of July on, say, the second of July.

But a little confusion is a small price to pay for a three-day weekend.

The famous Venus de Milo statue was found armless in the ruins of the Greek island of Melos (Melos) in 1820

Foreign News Commentary

UPI Foreign News Analyst
 On a brisk fall day in Budapest, the sun tried vainly to cut through the sooty haze overhanging the Danube. At the American legation, Josef Cardinal Mindszenty descended from his top floor apartment to walk alone in the boxlike courtyard.

Hungarian television ran an old Laurel and Hardy film.

Later on in Sofia, it rained.

And in an atmosphere as depressing as the weather, a Bulgarian Foreign Office spokesman discussed his country's past and present relation with the United States.

"You can't force beauty," he said.

Among the East European Communist nations, only Hungary and Bulgaria did not have U.S. ambassadors.

In both cases it rankled.

Sign of Displeasure

Since 1956, when the United States withdrew its minister as a sign of displeasure with the ruthless suppression of the Hungarian revolt, it had been content to leave its Budapest legation in the hands of a charge d'affaires.

After a 10-year break, the United States renewed diplomatic relations with Bulgaria of the two.

Hungary might achieve ambassadorial status first.

Premier Janos Kadar had released most political prisoners, had installed as his political philosophy "if you are not against us, then you are for us."

Hotels for the first time in many years displayed English language newspapers.

Twenty-six students and researchers worked in the United States with financial help from the Ford Foundation.

Tow stumbling blocks remained.

By RICK DU BROW

United Press International
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Jack Benny turned up in an hour NBC-TV special Thursday night and did just about everything you'd expect him to. I mean, there's no point in changing now. He's 72 or thereabouts.

He's a marvel. I mean, I won't con you that the hour was great, because it wasn't. But it was amiable enough. And I have such admiration for Benny's grace that it simply has such admiration for anything he does, so far as I am concerned. He is such a blessed relief from the loud, aggressive comedians, and the new breed of big mouths who think they are worth listening to just because they talk on contemporary topics.

Benny's guests were Phyllis Diller, the Smothers Brothers and Trini Lopez, and the material was pretty hit-and-miss, but I sat there with something near awe as he cavorted in a beauty pageant, and with his violin, looking young enough to run for governor. I mean, you wouldn't in your right mind dare to call him a senior citizen.

Supporting Member

However, his age was the subject of some of his choice jokes. He noted that it might not mean much to you that he was showing up after another year—but his insurance company was thrilled. He wouldn't say how much insurance he carries—"but when I go, they go."

There were also some other well-timed lines. In one exchange with Miss Diller, commenting inevitably on her looks, he drew the retort: "I've never been so insulated in my life."

Replied Benny, with his classic timing and emphasis "Oh, you must have been."

In an exchange with the Smothers boys, Benny asked "are you really brothers?" and brother Tom replied: "I am...I don't know about him." The brothers then began singing "I talk to the trees," which Tom promptly branded a "stupid song," and only he could get away with it.

There followed a sequence that was my favorite of the hour, even though the basis was as old as the Benny radio program. Introducing a group of mariachi-type musicians called "The Tijuana Strings," Benny promptly fell into his ancient routine with Mel Blanc, who played the leader and whose vocabulary was comprised primarily of the word "si." His name, of course, was "Cy." You know the rest.

Inevitable Musical Note

This group played a couple of numbers, by the way, and in the second one they were accompanied by Benny on his violin, and there is no question that no matter how silly the occasion, he literally beams when he is musically involved. The story around Hollywood is that Benny still practices about two hours a day on his violin, mostly for sheer pleasure, despite the practicality, as well, of keeping in shape for his personal appearance, of which he makes many.

The climax ketch of the hour was a takeoff on Bert Parks and a sort of combined Miss America - Miss Universe pageant. The name of the pageant Thursday night was the "Miss Northern and Southern Hemisphere" contest, and there was Benny, with a jazzy hairpiece, singing, in the worst possible Parks manner "Here she is, Miss Northern and Southern Hemisphere." There was also the inevitable girl who doesn't understand English, but keeps repeating "I am very happy to be here in Long Beach." Or wherever they hold those farces nowadays.

Stockholders To Name Directors

Five directors will be elected for three year terms at the annual Stockholders' Meeting of the Pampa Industrial Foundation planned for 10 a.m. Monday, Dec. 5, in the Coronado Inn.

The slate of nominees will be presented to the membership for selection.

E. L. Green Jr. said that other agenda items will include a financial report by the auditor and a report on corporation activities.

NEW YORK (UPI)—William R. White of Hornblower & Weeks, Hemphill, Noyes says price behavior in late November and early December usually is dictated by tax loss considerations—rather than normal economic forces. Many traders, he says, are probably more pessimistic this year because they feel tax loss selling may reach abnormal proportions. He feels, however, that since the market is now in a defensive position, any cheerful developments in foreign affairs or the income tax delima could spark a brisk upswing preliminary to the traditional year-end rally.

Newton D. Zinder of E. F. Hutton & Co. says the market continues to be a tug of war between uncertain or negative factors and a favorable technical position. He feels the performance of the odd lotters—selling on bad economic news is usually not the pattern which precedes a new downward trend. Thus he feels the near term outlook of the market is still viewed constructively.
