College by TV Projected For West Texas Area

Television college classes with two-way audio and video communication was projected for West Texas yesterday by Dr. John R. Bradford, dean of the School of Engineering at Texas Tech.

Dr. Bradford addressed a luncheon meeting in the Holiday Inn West at Amarillo and spoke to approximately 125 persons from industrial, business and educational fields from over the Panhandle.

A delegation of eight Pampans attended the meeting and heard an explanation of a proposed Western Information Network which would connect 18 colleges and universities in the area and make their combined facilities available by two-way television to industry and educational institutions that wished to take advantage of the project.

Dr. Bradford stated that the first phase of the program will connect Lubbock and Amarillo by the fall of 1968 at a cost of $2 million.

The second phase, he stated, would connect Borger by 1969 at a cost of $2.8 million. This would have two to four legs to other points including Pampa.

Dr. Bradford said the need of such a program became evident about a year and one-half ago when industrial representatives of the Pampa-Borger and Midland-Odessa areas appealed to him for needed graduate-level engineering courses to employ.

He revealed that Texas Tech (See TV, Page 3)

More Cars Called Back For Defects

PONTIAC, Mich. (UPI) — The auto industry, engrossed in preparing objections to some government-required safety standards for 1968 model vehicles, Monday called back 16,000 cars to check for a possible safety defect.

General Motors Corp. issued the recall for 16,245 1967 model Pontiacs to check them for a production defect which could cause the steering column to snap.

The GM callback was the first in the industry since it was revealed Nov. 22 that the four major U.S. automakers had recalled about 500,000 late model cars, trucks and buses.

GM's announcement seemed to mark a new policy for the giant corporation, industry observers said. Previous callback announcements have filtered out of Washington after the automakers reported them to the National Traffic Safety Agency as required by recent federal legislation.

Monday's announcement, however, came from Pontiac directly in its home territory.

The callback included Tempest, Le Mans and GTO 1967 models produced before Oct. 18.

The corporation said some of the cars are still in dealer inventories but many are on the road. It urged owners of such cars to "promptly take them to their dealers for inspection."

"A possible misalignment in some of these vehicles occurred on the assembly line," Pontiac said. "The assembly process was changed in mid-October." Pontiac said the misalignment caused "abnormal stresses" on the steering shaft which, if "severe enough, the steering shaft could break at low mileage, particularly when the vehicle is being parked or turned at low speeds."

the Soviet-built jets rose to meet the Americans. The petroleum dump at Ha Gia, 14 miles from Hanoi, is adjacent to the Phuc Yen airfield and is where the MIGs draw their fuel supplies.

The U.S. Air Force announced the raid Monday when it occurred and reported new details today on the basis of pilots' assessment of the 120 missions — several hundred flights — flown against the Communist North during a break in bad weather.

The American planes ranged up and down the Red River Valley which is the main rail and river supply route linking Hanoi with Communist China. They also shot up Communist shipping along the coast and blasted supply and staging areas on the infiltration routes of lower North Vietnam — the panhandle.

Bomb Troops
B52 Strategic bombers returned to the same area today and bombed Communist troop concentrations on the six-mile wide Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) between North and South Vietnam where the Communists are still trying to mount an offensive. The B52s hit just below the DMZ late Monday.

No significant ground fighting was reported today but troops of the 1st Air Cavalry Division fighting in the coastal jungles 285 miles northeast of Saigon raised the toll of Communist dead to more than 300 in the battle which began on Saturday. American losses were called "moderate."

A spokesman said between 21 and 35 F105 Thunderchiefs struck Ha Gia in a raid aimed at knocking out fuel supplies for the MIG planes which defend Hanoi.

He said a dozen or more MIG17s and MIG21s rose to challenge the Americans. The main attack came 30 miles northwest of Hanoi where four of the delta-winged MIG21s — shaped like a paper dart — zoomed past at speeds of nearly 1,500 miles per hour.

U.S. Adopting 'Get Tough' Attitude Toward Grain Shipments to India

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States is taking a get tough attitude on future food shipments to hungry India in an attempt to convince the rest of the world that America can no longer bear this burden alone.

Johnson administration officials said that the world is certain to face a major food crisis in about 10 years unless countries such as India do more to help themselves and nations with surpluses do more to help them.

These officials emphasized that the United States intends to keep the pipeline of grain flowing to India, one way or another. But it is bringing pressure on other food-surplus countries to carry more of the load.

In Austin, Tex., Monday, Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman told newsmen after meeting with President Johnson that a decision on India's request for more U.S. grain would be held off until reports are received from a congressional team returning from that country later this week.

"The President is deeply concerned with the India situation and the lack of food there," Freeman said, "but we in this country have seen our reserves, our surpluses, come down to what now is getting close to the levels that we should have at hand in order to be in a secure position."

During the past 18 months, the United States has shipped India $1 billion worth of food.

Thant Studies US Appeal For Viet Peace Initiatives

Assembly Endorses Space Peace Treaty

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Secretary General Thant acting on a U.S. request, today tried to find common ground for peace between the United States and North Vietnam.

The request by U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg Monday for Thant's aid in arranging ceasefire talks overshadowed unanimous General Assembly approval later in the day of a treaty banning nuclear weapons from outer space.

Thant congratulated the assembly on the treaty but noted "with regret that the door is not yet barred against military activities in space." The treaty, which bars nuclear weapons from all celestial bodies and from orbit around the earth, allows military personnel to carry out scientific research in outer space.

The developments came as the world body lumbered toward adjournment. The General Assembly was meeting today to deal with 11 minor items remaining on the agenda for its 21st session.

The meeting started at 9:30 a.m. CST. Thant's maneuvering in response to the American peace appeal was expected to take place quietly outside the formal work of the United Nations.

Armed with a promise of full U.S. cooperation, Thant met Monday with Soviet Ambassador Nikolai Fedorenko and Algerian Ambassador Tewfik Bouattour to discuss the request.

In the past the secretary general, who has no direct communications with North Vietnam, has communicated to Hanoi through the North Vietnamese legation in Algiers.

Soviet support of any drive toward peace was considered essential. The Russians are believed anxious to see an end to the war, which has been a drain on their economy and a roadblock to better East-West relations.

Goldberg submitted the U.S. call in a letter to Thant, urging him to take the "steps necessary" to arrange talks for an extended ceasefire in Vietnam.

Kennedy Book Dispute Marked By Angry Charge Crossfire

NEW YORK (UPI) — Hopes for an out-of-court settlement between the Kennedy family and "The Death of a President" publishers appeared to be dashed forever today, lost in the crossfire of angry charges of deceit, ignorance and avarice.

Unless the unexpected occurs soon, it seemed likely that one week from today the court proceeding Mrs. John F. Kennedy describes as "horrible" will take place to resolve the dispute author William Manchester calls "cruel and unjust."

The widow has petitioned the court for an injunction to block publication of Manchester's 300,000-word book and its serialization. Harper & Row is scheduled to publish the book in April and the start of a four-part serialization in Look Magazine is due on the newsstands Jan. 10.

The latest round in the painful dispute came Monday night with the announcement by Cass Canfield, chairman of Harper &

CAROLERS — Baker Elementary School's fifth and sixth grade choirs went caroling this morning to various business places in Pampa. The musical tour was concluded in the newsroom of the Pampa Daily News, where staff members paused in the rush of putting out today's paper to listen to the medley of Christmas carols. ## Peoria Site For Speck Murder Trial

PEORIA, Ill. (UPI) — A new $3 million courthouse will be the site of Richard Speck's trial on charges of murdering eight nurses on Chicago's South Side.

Cook County Criminal Court Judge Herbert C. Paschen ordered Speck's trial moved to Peoria, 150 miles from Chicago after Public Defender Gerald Getty said the 24-year-old Dallas drifter could not get a fair trial in the Chicago area.

Paschen said the choice was made after extensive surveys and studies. He said Peoria, which in the 1800s called Chicago its "sister city," is not within the Chicago radio and television market and it has a minimum circulation of Chicago newspapers.

"Peoria County has a population of more than 190,000 people which will enable the court to draw upon a large body for jury duty," he said.

Also figuring in the decision was the courthouse, one of the newest in the middle west. It was opened for business in June, 1964, and has the security facilities needed for housing Speck.

The county jail is just across the street, 100 yards from the back door of the courthouse.

U.S. Balks At New Arms Race

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States, seeking to head off a fantastically expensive new arms race, is said to be urging Russia to limit further deployment of its anti-ballistic missile (ABM) system.

Johnson administration sources said Monday night that the United States would not make a final decision on whether to begin deployment of its Nike-X ABM system until January or possibly February.

These sources said international discussions were in progress on the perils posed by the Soviet Union's entry into the anti-missile field. The Russians are said to have already begun deployment in a limited way.

The American hope is that the Russians can be induced to hold off further deployment until the Geneva disarmament conference reconvenes Feb. 21.

The question of whether the United States should proceed with the deployment of Nike-X became a major subject of concern here after Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara disclosed on Nov. 10 that the Russians had started placing anti-missile missiles in position.

County Employees Go Under Group Hospitalization

Gray County commissioners have approved a group hospitalization and major medical coverage plan for fulltime county employees and elected officials to become effective this month.

County judge Bill Craig said yesterday the insuring company is Great West Life Insurance with New Secret and Fred Thompson as servicing agents. Craig said the county will pay the entire premium of $10.03 per month for each of the 89 county employees.

He said a life insurance plan had also been under consideration, but it was expected to take only the hospitalization plan at this time.

The current coverage includes $15 per day room rate; $4 a day for doctor's hospital visit; with actual benefits of $300 per accident and major medical benefits of $5,000.

The plan doesn't include maternity benefits but does cover present existing conditions of the employee and does not require evidence of insurability.

Aussies to Send More Viet Troops

CANBERRA, Australia (UPI) — Australia will send an additional 1,500 troops to South Vietnam next year and New Zealand will also boost its fighting force in the embattled Southeast Asian nation, it was announced today.

The troop increases were announced by Prime Minister Harold Holt here and by New Zealand Prime Minister Keith Holyoake in Auckland. Both indicated naval assistance will also be given to allied forces in Vietnam.

The additional Australian troops would raise to over 6,000 the number of crack "Aussie" jungle fighters now in South Vietnam. They form one of the best anti-guerrilla outfits in the war.

New Zealand has a token force in South Vietnam consisting of an artillery battery and 160 men.

Best Gather Income Tax Records Now

DALLAS — Now is the time to put your financial house in order and get a head start on the income tax filing season which begins January 1.

Things Go Better With Coke

BOTTLED UNDER THE AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY

Ellis Campbell, Jr., District Director of Internal Revenue for northern Texas, emphasized that cancelled checks, receipts, records of contributions and other financial records should be gathered now to help you prepare your 1966 Federal income tax returns.

Complete records help to insure that taxpayers do not overpay their taxes and also made the job of preparing the tax return easier.

Mr. Campbell said that a copy of your 1965 return is one of the best guides for preparing your 1966 return.

Saturn Moon Rocket To Get Second Test Firing

BAYST. LOUIS, Miss. (UPI)—The problem-plagued second stage of the Saturn 5 moon rocket will undergo its second test firing in three weeks Thursday—the final check before the stage is shipped to Cape Kennedy.

The million-pound-thrust S2, a vital link in getting a man to the moon, was fired for six minutes and 24 seconds at the Mississippi test facility Dec. 1.

It was the longest burn of a clustered rocket in history and officials said if the rocket had been in space it would have done its job.

In the Apollo program, designed to put a United States astronaut team on the moon in this decade, the S2 will take over from the Saturn SIC booster about 40 miles up. Its job will be to push the S4B third stage and the three-man Apollo spacecraft to an altitude of 100 miles and a speed of about 15,000 miles per hour.

Thursday's firing was set up as a final check on the S2 before it is shipped to Cape Kennedy to be put together with the other two stages.

If the test firing is successful, technicians will begin cleaning up the rocket immediately to have it ready for shipment next month. It will take almost three months to get the rocket to Cape Kennedy.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—Goodbody & Co. says the stocks reflected by popular averages are now selling at less than 14 times their current and prospective levels of earnings. The company feels the price decline that generally depressed the stock market this year has discounted any slowdown in business activity and corporate earnings that now seems likely for 1967.

Goodbody & Co. says while it is perhaps too early to expect a major upward move, such an advance might get underway later in the year. It says many equities currently offer sound values and have good appreciation potentials for next year.

Newton D. Zinder of F. F. Hutton & Co. says if the market is to penetrate the $20-$30 zone in the Dow Jones industrial average, it will have to begin the next rallying phase closer to this level than in previous rally attempts. Thus it is important that the current decline is not too steep and most technical indicators would tend to suggest that the decline will be mild and short-lived.

'Silent' Lieutenant Proudly Wears Medal of Honor

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Little Joey Marm, a quiet guy from Washington, Pa., today proudly wears the nation's highest military decoration for performance against the enemy above and beyond the call of duty.

In the finest Army tradition, complete with bugles, drums and a 19-gun salute, 1st Lt. Walter Joseph Marm Jr., 25, Monday became the 10th person to receive the Medal of Honor for valor in the Vietnam war.

Marm, who was fresh out of Officers Candidate School, and just two months in Vietnam, performed his heroic actions against the Viet Cong Nov. 14, 1965. He silenced an enemy machine gun, killing 12 enemy soldiers and saving his platoon.

The citation said the young officer performed "above and beyond the call of duty" when his 40-man platoon of the 1st Cavalry (Airmobile) Division came under fire in the Ia Drang Valley.

Marm killed four enemy soldiers who tried to overrun his position, then exposed himself deliberately to draw fire and to locate a concealed machine gun. He then charged into the open, running 30 yards while alternately firing his rifle and hurling hand grenades at the Viet Cong.

He eventually killed all eight of the enemy soldiers manning the machine gun. Two men in his platoon were killed and 10 were wounded. Marm, himself severely wounded in the face, was sent home five days after the encounter with the enemy.

The medal presentation Monday at the Pentagon was attended by top military brass, high government officials, members of Congress, his parents and a flock of relatives.

Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff; Gen. Harold K. Johnson, Army chief of staff and 29 other generals looked on as Army Secretary Stanley Resor presented the medal.

Resor, himself a decorated veteran of World War II, said Marm "set an example to bring new strength and resolution to all American fighting men."

Marm, now a Ranger instructor at Fort Benning, Ga., said he was not surprised by his own action.

"I had 40 men to look after," he said.

The elder Marm was asked about his son after the ceremony. "Joey . . . he began and he corrected himself. 'Joe was always a silent type, a born leader by example.'"

Christmas caroling at business places during the holidays is a tradition that Mrs. Gallman began approximately 20 years ago.

Largest Thermonuclear Blast In History Rocks Las Vegas

PAHUTE MESA, Nev. (UPI)—United States scientists triggered one of the largest thermonuclear blasts in history today which swayed gambling resorts in Las Vegas 100 miles away.

The Atomic Energy Commission said the nuclear device had a maximum force of one megaton, a weapon 50 times larger than the Hiroshima bomb.

Dust rose from the desert floor when the device was triggered at 9:30 a.m. CST. The earth bulged skyward between six inches to a foot at ground zero. The earth shock waves struck Las Vegas in a series of jolts seconds after the detonation.

The Exchange Club, a casino-restaurant in the small town of Beatty, Nev., was rocked but no severe damage was immediately reported.

The AEC ordered the club evacuated prior to the test. Stop signs and television antennas were visibly swayed in Beatty, located about 30 miles from ground zero.

U.S. experts rated the Russian test as the largest underground nuclear blast in history.

The Atomic Energy Commission ordered the evacuation of the Exchange Club, a 50-year-old, two-story adobe building in Beatty, a small town 30 miles from Pahute Mesa. It was the first time in history that the government ordered an evacuation since underground testing began in this desolate desert region.

Residents were warned in advance by the AEC that earth shocks probably would be felt in Las Vegas, Goldfield, Tonopah, Alamo, Lathrop Wells and the ghost town of Rhyolite. Ground motion in small Nevada towns near the test site—such as Goldfield, Tonopah and Beatty—was expected to be five times more severe than in Las Vegas.

The President scheduled an afternoon budget conference with Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara at the LBJ Ranch.

The Chief Executive was nearing a decision on the defense budget which experts say will top the $70-billion mark. It will remain secret until Congress meets in January.

Congressman-elect Bob Price, who will leave for Washington with his family shortly after Jan. 1, today extended Christmas greetings to his district constituents.

His Pampa office released the following statement: "I would like to take this means to wish all the citizens of the 18th Congressional District a Merry Christmas and Prosperous New Year."

"It has been my pleasure to get to meet thousands of you during the past three years. As we enter the holiday season I would like to once again thank all of you for giving me the opportunity to serve our country and you in the United States House of Representatives."

"It is my hope that as we celebrate the birth of our Saviour that each of us will rededicate our lives to following the example and teachings of this Man born 2,000 years ago."

"My wife Marty, the children, and I will be leaving for our new home in Washington shortly after the beginning of the New Year. We will do our best to represent you well in our Nation's Capital and we ask for your prayers as we embark on this new adventure in our life."

"Warmest regards for a wonderful holiday season."

HILVERSUM, Holland (UPI)—J.F.C. Van Velzen was just a bit surprised last week when he was told to report for induction into the army.

To make matters worse, his grandson was told to report at the same time.

"There must be some mistake here," said the elder Van Velzen, 84.

Indeed there was, apologized the recruiting officer. "A pity it isn't that easy for your grandson," he added.

during the current semester has been sending three professors to Pampa and Borger every Tuesday to conduct advanced classes in engineering for engineers employed in industrial plants in the two cities. He said the professors were flown in by charter plane which the industry pays for.

Intent of the WIN program, Dr. Bradford stated, is to forge combined efforts of institutions of learning into one tremendous force of maximum quality, achieving institutional enrichment, enhanced relationships between industries and colleges, and greatest public service.

Attending the meeting from Pampa were: Gordon Lyons, manager of SWPS in Pampa; E. O. Wedgeworth, Pampa Chamber of Commerce manager; E. L. Green Jr., southwestern manager for Cabot Corp.; H. V. Wilks, general manager of Celanese Chemical Co.; Jim White, Pampa city manager; Dr. John Damron, Pampa school superintendent; and McHenry Lane, Pampa school curriculum director.

unless she wanted to.

Although she is not living with her husband, Mrs. Powell is still on his office payroll as administrative assistant at the maximum salary of $20,578 a year. The law requires that congressional employees work either in Washington or the home state of the member.

Powell claims that Mrs. Powell handles correspondence from the many Spanish-speaking residents of his Harlem district. He says she does some of her work in New York and Washington.

The elusive lawmaker is reported to be still vacationing in the Bahamas. In a "Dear Wayne" letter Monday, he made it clear he was not about to leave the Caribbean sunshine to keep a Wednesday appointment with the subcommittee until he's assured other House committees and their chairmen are also under investigation.

Hays and the subcommittee rejected Powell's "conditions" out of hand.

Powell's letter arrived several hours after the subcommittee began closed hearings on alleged irregularities in the way the New York Democrat runs the House Education and Labor Committee he heads. The panel heard from several Powell staffers Monday, but neither witnesses nor nor investigators would discuss the testimony afterward.

Dear Abby....

Dad's Trickery Is Cruel and Dishonest

DEAR ABBY: A friend of mine has a 10-year-old son I'll call "Randy." Randy stole a $55 radio from an appliance store last summer. When his father discovered it, he made the boy take the radio back to the store and confess his guilt. Randy was then told that if he wanted the radio he could save his allowance until he had enough money to buy it.

Randy has been saving for nearly seven months, and by Christmas the radio will be his.

The father plans to do the following: On Christmas morning he will take a hammer and smash the radio to pieces right before Randy's eyes. He says this will teach the boy never to steal again. I would appreciate your opinion of this plan.

A FRIEND

DEAR FRIEND: To deliberately trick the boy into saving for the radio only to destroy it is both cruel and dishonest. This may teach Randy never to steal again, but it will also teach him that his father's word isn't worth anything.

DEAR ABBY: I am about 60 years old. A lady friend with whom I no longer speak, due to a falling out, has in the past treated me to several evenings of entertainment and expensive dinners. We were both in the company of her gentleman friend who paid for all.

I thanked him (and her) at the end of each evening, of course, but that was all I did to reciprocate. Would it be proper for me to send this man a few bottles of fine wine or some other gift in belated appreciation for his kindness? I feel I should.

NEW YORKER

DEAR NEW YORKER: Under the strained circumstances I would advise against it. His lady friend would almost certainly construe the gracious gesture as a subtle device to call her gentleman friend's attention to yourself.

DEAR ABBY: My father-in-law has stomach trouble, and is a very finicky eater which is why I seldom have them over for dinner. Last week I had a family get-together and therefore invited my in-laws. I assured my mother-in-law that I would have only the things I knew "Papa" could eat. I went to a lot of trouble and expense to make everyone happy.

Well, my mother-in-law shows up with a roaster and two omelettes. She had prepared Papa's dinner and was bringing it to my house. I was completely crushed to think that after being in the family for 10 years and knowing what Papa could and could not eat, she doubted that I had sense enough to feed him. What do you think?

HURT

DEAR HURT: If your meal had disagreed with "Papa," even though it had been perfectly prepared, you'd have never heard the end of it. I think you were lucky.

CONFIDENTIAL TO BILL JOHNSON IN IOWA CITY: You're half right. I am indeed from Sioux City, Iowa. But I did not attend the University of Iowa. My alma mater is Morning-side College.

How has the world been treating you? Unload your problems on Dear Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069.

Designer Says We Are Hangers for 'The Look'

Mr. Blackwell

NEW YORK (NEA) — You don't expect saccharin platitudes about fashion from Mr. Blackwell, the man who each year issues his well-publicized "Ten Worst Dressed List." And you don't get them.

"Today's clothes are all alike — and all dull," he said. "Not one woman emerges as an individual."

"You're all just hangers for 'the look.' And it's not even a pretty look," added the controversial West Coast designer.

Trigere, he admits, is a genius. He also concedes that Cassini did a fantastic dinner dress that can be dressed up or down and still look pretty. Otherwise, he believes, most of the designers have hopped onto the band wagon of "the look" — even Norell. "Maybe he gives you a few more beads. That's all."

Women have been forced into this conformity, Mr. Blackwell says. But they won't be sheep forever and their awakening will hurt the garment industry.

"Look at the number of custom dress-makers that has sprung up during the last year just because a woman can't find anything in ready-to-wear that looks like her."

He also thinks that some marriages will be jeopardized if fashions don't change.

"A man goes home and takes a look at his ultrafashionable wife and is more likely to hide behind a paper than enjoy an evening with her. Next he'll slam the front door and go out. She has been turned into what you'd expect her brother to look like. She has been given a bad hairdo (I think Sassoon got tired after cutting off a few odds and ends of hair and decided to leave it that way), her bustline has been flattened and her waistline moved all over the place."

The fashion magazines Blackwell brushes aside as "a dull comic books — Flash Gordon for the over 30." He deplores the fact that the "fashion goddesses" are jammed down our collective throat until we feel that we must dress as they do or we're out of it.

"All you hear today is the word chic — not pretty, not beautiful. A man doesn't look at a woman and feel his heart leap any more." And he's afraid only the European designers can halt the trend. "Most American designers and stores think that American women will accept anything from a Paris designer. So any great change will have to come from there."

This may happen by next fall, Blackwell thinks. "Women are getting restless. Even right now they are buying the cage dress simply because under the sheer cage a fitted sheath is visible that shows they really do have a figures."

ROWS OF BLACK jet beads and fringe on a bright white imported knit form a dynamic bolero. It's teamed by Mr. Blackwell with a touch-fit sheath and topped with a patent sombrero.

Mr. Blackwell became my ally when he brought up the same subject I covered in a column a few weeks ago. Why do designers cater to the small sizes and seldom display or even admit they make large sizes? He makes his designs straight up to 20. "I have even done sizes in 46," he said. "Sure, size 10 is pretty, but it's a challenge to a designer to make sure that his size 40 can look pretty, too. And large women have the right to look attractive." Bravo Blackwell!

Because he is known as well for his scathing comments on current fashion as he is for his thriving $2 million dress business, it was a pleasant surprise to hear him laugh at himself.

"Nine years ago," he recalled, "I said the sleeveless dress was chic. I said this because I couldn't set sleeves in right."

"If you ever wore a dress that made you feel you had to walk backwards," he added, "it was probably one of my earlier ones."

"When I started out in this business, everything was black wool jersey. I didn't understand patterns but wool jersey stretches and my dresses somehow managed to fit."

"When the fabric stretched under the iron, I began the shift. I said I intended the dress to look that way—Just take a look at how elegantly it moves and shifts with the body," was my line of the day. The bluff worked and suddenly I was in.

"But, please," he asked, "tell your readers I don't make these mistakes any more."

His verbal pot shots have hit many a target. For example, he credits Rudi Gernreich with saying that since we live in a decadent world, fashion design must go along with the times. Blackwell argues that doctor, not another dose of germs.

But sharp-tongued though the gentleman may be, in both his fashion philosophy and his charming manner, Mr. Blackwell can sure make a girl feel like a girl.

The Holiday Turkey Fattens by Advances

ELK RIVER, Minn. (UPI)—Give thanks to science for all that lush meat on the holiday turkey.

Undoubtedly, the Pilgrims were equally grateful for the turkeys served at that first festive Thanksgiving — but those wild specimens must have taken long hours of cooking and strong jawones for eating.

One poultry specialist, Dr. Norman Magruder of an animal research farm here, said the forerunners of today's quick roasting, plump and juicy specimens must have been stringy, tough and dry, the skin leathery. "They are whole grains," he explained, "and would be greasy from picking up a lot of resins and oils that domestic birds don't."

Even so, Magruder noted, that early bird had one thing going for it — the Pilgrims didn't have to wrestle with turkey leftovers the week after the feast. A wild turkey probably weighed about 10 pounds on the hoof, which didn't leave much for the table. It probably took about 10 hours to roast it, too.

The pampered specimens served up today are the result of genetics, breeding, disease control and scientifically formulated feeds. They're pampered with soybean meal, corn, fish meal, animal and vegetable fats, antibiotics, minerals and generous offerings of protein fortification.

The wild turkey's diet, Magruder figured, was acorns, berries and wild grains and the constant foraging for food turned him into a sinewy specimen.

As one Pilgrim wrote, a turkey could "runne as fast as a dogge and flye as well as a goose."

Benjamin Franklin once proposed that the turkey, not the bald eagle, be the national emblem, but he did not go so far as to propose that roast eagle be favored at holiday time.

He called the eagle a bird of "bad moral character" and the turkey a bird of courage that "would not hesitate to attack a grenadier of the British guard."

THE ESSENCE OF FEMININITY, a white crepe gown by Mr. Blackwell, is held close to the body by a spray of hand-jeweled leaves sparkled with emerald stones. From the halter neck flows a cloud of silk chiffon to drape around your head and shoulders or just to float seductively about the body.

Make a Charming Christmas Swag

The Society of American Florists suggests using glossy magnolia leaves combined with matte velvet ribbon and artificial grapes to make a swag to hang on the front door this Christmas holiday. Sparkle can be added to the swag with a few small Christmas tree decorations.

Wreaths are beautiful on doorways and should not be neglected, but there are times when it is fun to try something different. A swag can be as unusual and as different as the imagination allows.

Your nearest florist will design a swag to your design. The swag's leaves could be magnolia. A spray of silvery blue spruce might be an interesting foundation.

Decorating the swag is purely a matter of choice. However, the weather in your locality will dictate whether or not fresh flowers or fruits may be used. Christmas tree balls, ribbons, artificial fruits are all practical for outdoor use in any climate.

Luci Johnson Nugent Heads Texas Tuberculosis Assoc.

AUSTIN (Sp) — "You can't be around a hospital, as I was for a year, and not be shockingly aware of how much work there is left to be done in many health fields. Tuberculosis is certainly one of those."

Luci Johnson Nugent, Mrs. Patrick Nugent, made the statement yesterday, as she was announced as Christmas Seal Chairman for Texas Youth by Dr. Daniel E. Jenkins of Houston's Baylor University College of Medicine. Dr. Jenkins is president of the Texas Tuberculosis Association.

In accepting the appointment, Mrs. Nugent said, "I'm interested in anything which will better people's health — not just tuberculosis. But in accepting this chairmanship, I do so because it seems to me that tuberculosis control has 'come of age' about the time I am coming of age."

"About one-sixth of the people in Texas are carrying the TB germs in their bodies — one-sixth of the men, the women and children. From that group will come the TB patients of tomorrow. I'd sure like to see Texas have a generation of children who are free of TB infection."

Schools to Begin Yule Holidays On Wednesday

Before dismissal for the holidays, faculty Christmas breakfasts, classroom parties and school Christmas programs will highlight Wednesday in the seven elementary schools, two junior high schools and Pampa High School.

 DENVER (UPI)—The Colorado supreme court held this week that consumers will just have to put up with those shiny and sometimes slippery floors in supermarkets.

The court decided against Mrs. Harvey L. Sanderson who sued a Rio Grande County supermarket for negligence after she slipped on its freshly waxed floor. Waxed floors, the court said, is "a common condition."

Vols Like Air In Bowl Game

EDITORS: This is the first in a series of dispatches on the teams in the major post-season football bowl games.

By JAMES M. EVANS
KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UPI)—Tennessee quarterback Dewey Warren, led only by Steve Spurrier among Southeastern Conference field generals who favor air over land, leads the Vols south to the Gator Bowl the day after Christmas with hopes of snapping Syracuse's eight game winning streak.

Eighteen of the 136 passes Warren completed during the 1964 campaign—he threw 229 in all—were good for touchdowns. That was one more than Spurrier, but Dewey's total yardage, 1,716, was well below the Florida quarterback's total.

Though head coach Doug Dickey planned to drill the Vols only three times this week, the squad was to leave here Dec. 26, after a Christmas week with their families, for Jacksonville, Fla., and a New Year's Eve day clash with the Orange from Syracuse.

Warren, a 6-0, 204-pound junior from Savannah, Ga., answers to the name "swamp

He found a home in the Tennessee quarterback slot in 1963 when he was sent in to sub for scrambling Charlie Fulton, who hurt his leg in a game at Memphis against Ole Miss.

For the Vols it was a discovery as Warren led the team to a 7-1-2 mark that year and a bid to the Bluebonnet Bowl in Houston where Tennessee drubbed Tulsa in the rain.

Warren came back in 1966 to completely rewrite the Tennessee record book chapter on aerial warfare.

Fulton Made Tailback Dickey shifted Fulton to tailback after the 11-10 loss to Alabama in 1965 season, and he went on to become the Vols' leading ground gainer, piling up 463 yards and an average of 4.32 yard per carry.

And when, and if, the Vols find themselves in trouble—say 4th down and 8 to go on their own 15—they can count on the toe of Ron Widby to get them out of hot water.

Widby, with an average of better than 43 yards per punt during 1966, claimed the top spot among the nation's kicking specialists in the latest statistics published by the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau.

Little Big Gun For Syracuse Team

St. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (UPI)—A cloud of dust and a number 44 headed down field has been the Syracuse football trademark in the past, and it should be no different in the Gator Bowl Saturday.

Halfback Floyd Little, No. 44, and fullback Larry Csonka joined to pile up 1,823 yards this year. But Syracuse has quarterback problems.

Sophomore Jim Del Gaizo, who threw four touchdown passes against Navy, and his twin brother, John, an end, were both thrown off the squad earlier this month when they announced intentions to transfer to another school.

Therefore, Syracuse will go with Rick Cassata, who has been erratic and plagued by leg injuries. If anything happens to him, it will be Ed Reardon, who hasn't played a minute of varsity ball.

Syracuse therefore, probably will go with the ground game. Csonka, who may have more luck against Tennessee's head-on blocking patterns than Little, has carried his 235 pounds and the football for more than 1,000 yards this season.

Little, who recovered from injuries to roll up 198 yards against Florida State at the end of the season, is a different type of runner than his two predecessors who gave fame to number 44 at Syracuse. Jimmy Brown and the late Ernie Davis.

Brown and Davis would go crashing into the opposition, the pile would move eight yards and grind to a stop. The 195-pound Little goes into the pile, it shifts around, and Little darts out the other side.

But, as Coach Ben Schwartzwalder says, defensive breaks will probably decide the game.

NEW CHAMP

UCLA STILL NO. 1 BUT,

Miners Drop to Fourth

NEW YORK (UPI)—The University of North Carolina, off to its best start in eight seasons, replaces Texas Western today as the leading challenger to UCLA in the weekly United Press International Board of Coaches major college basketball ratings.

The Tarheels, national champions in 1956-57 and unbeaten in five games this season, whipped once-mighty Kentucky and clobbered New York University during the week. They moved from eighth place to second while the Miners dropped from second to fourth after suffering their initial setback of the season against New Mexico last Friday night.

Despite North Carolina's rise, the Tarheels remained far behind UCLA in the voting as the Bruins received 33 of a possible 35 first place votes to retain their No. 1 position. The Bruins, who didn't play during the week, received one less first place nod than they did last week as one coach tabbed Texas Western as the best team and another gave his vote to Louisville. The ratings include only those games played through Dec. 17.

Louisville Leap
Louisville, which boosted its record to 6-0 with three victories during the week, also made a major climb in the ratings by leaping from fifth to third as the Cardinals missed edging North Carolina out of the No. 2 slot by only six points.

The Vols, undefeated in four outings, moved into the No. 15 position. The Gators moved one place ahead of West Virginia in the 16th spot and Bradley took over the 18th slot. Colorado and Western Kentucky rounded out the top 20.

Five coaches from each of the seven geographical areas of the nation make up the UPI board of coaches. Points are awarded on a 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 basis for votes from first to 10th.

St. John's Handles K. Jayhawks Easily

By United Press International
There's a dove leading the war dances at St. John's University where the hungry Redmen are about ready to reclaim their proud heritage as one of the top college basketball teams in the nation.

Lloyd (Sonny) Dove, a springy 6-8 senior forward, has led a young, defensive-minded St. John's team through its first five games unscathed and now the Redmen, once the scourge of the East, feel they are headed for national honors.

They did nothing to discount that theory Monday night when they trampled ninth-ranked Kansas 68-44 for a shockingly easy victory over one of the biggest, and presumably one of the best, quintets in the land.

Dove, an acrobatic athlete who rose to prominence two years ago, continued his outstanding play by scoring 27 points, hauling down 16 rebounds and holding the Jayhawks' top scorer, Ron Bohnenstiel, to just one field goal and four points.

To Battle Northwestern
The Redmen, now 5-0 and ranked 14th in the United Press International ratings, now face another potent team, high-scoring Northwestern, in the opening round of the holiday festival at Madison Square Garden next week.

Northwestern, which leads all major teams in scoring with an average of better than 110 points per game, set a single game school record in drubbing Tulane 121-116.

Four members of the top 10, in addition to Kansas, saw action Monday night and all emerged with victories. Cincinnati, No. 7, had the toughest time in subduing Colorado 66-64, second-ranked North Carolina crushed Columbia 98-66, Texas Western, No. 4, whipped Wichita State 77-60 and sixth-ranked New Mexico mauled North Dakota 84-64.

Show Tight Defense
St. John's hit the cold Jayhawks, who lost their first game in overtime Saturday night to Texas Western, with a tight man-to-man defense and rattled the Big Eight team. Forced to shoot from outside, Kansas hit only six for 24 from the field in the first half and fell behind 31-21 at intermission.

Northwestern, which has lost only to Kentucky in four starts, opened up a 78-58 lead with 14 minutes left in the game but a couple of Tulane scoring spurts cut the deficit to just three before falling short.

Cincinnati, which has pulled out three of its six triumphs by one or two points, overcame Colorado on Ken Callway's rebound shot in the final two seconds. Calloway, a sub center, scored after teammate John Howard, who led all scorers with 24, had missed a free throw.

Elsewhere, Illinois formally opened the Big Ten season by blasting Wisconsin 87-74, 11th-ranked Vanderbilt vanquished 16th-ranked Florida 77-69, Seattle swamped Missouri 84-66, Wyoming stipped Texas Tech 67-57, San Diego State stunned Tulsa 59-57, Western Kentucky clobbered Murray State 94-83 in the Ohio Valley Conference Tournament. Georgetown knocked Rutgers from the undefeated ranks 90-87.

Cuozzo, Mira Are Tired of Playing Second Fiddle

NEW YORK (UPI)—If you holler loud and long enough someone's bound to hear you, which is exactly what Gary Cuozzo counted on and why he's already as good as gone to New Oae Chirago or New York.

Cuozzo, weary of waiting for Johnny Unitas to grow old after sitting around four years as back-up quarterback for the Baltimore Colts, finally told them he's had it and wants to be traded.

Similarly, San Francisco's second string quarterback, George Mira, demands he be traded also because he's tired of playing second fiddle to John Brodie, but he may not fare as well as Cuozzo.

First of all, Cuozzo hollered louder. And longer. Besides there is more of a market for him than for Mira. And even after Cuozzo's departure, the Colts figure they'll be all right at quarterback but the Forty Niners aren't so sure if they peddle Mira.

Like Unitas, Cuozzo was signed as a free agent by the Colts and on the relatively infrequent occasions he has filled in at quarterback, he generally looked good.

Discuss Trade
Baltimore Coach Don Shula wasn't shocked when Cuozzo asked to be traded the other day. He knew the 25-year-old former Virginia star was getting restless. They had discussed it before.

"Gary is like any other player," Shula was quoted. "He feels he can hold down first string on another club."

The chances are he can. Since the Colts still have a world of faith in Unitas, since they still feel he's the greatest quarterback in football, endonitis in his elbow and all, and since they privately believe Jim Ward of their taxi squad will be his eventual successor when the day finally does come for a switch, Cuozzo will have his wish granted.

The question now becomes where to send Cuozzo. And the answer is where he will do the most good. For the Colts.

Need Players
Times have changed with them and they have some obvious holes now. One of their primary needs at the moment is a big dependable running back. Also a linebacker, some good offensive linemen and even a couple of fellows to back them up.

New Orleans enters the picture because the Colts would hurt themselves last by talking Cuozzo three. But what could they get in return? Only a high draft choice, and that might not be enough for Baltimore.

The Bears, on the other hand, could offer much more, and Cuozzo is bound to appeal to George Halas, especially in view of Rudy Bukich's announced retirement.

Cuozzo probably will go to the newly-organized Saints, the Bears or the Giants. For sure he'll go someplace.

And Mira?
He'll simply have to keep hollering. Or find some way of talking Brodie into another line of business.

Meredith Sick, Now in Hospital

DALLAS (UPI)—Dallas Cowboys' quarterback Don Meredith, shaken up in the Cowboys' 34-31 loss to Washington nine days ago, was rushed to a hospital early today. But Cowboys management said it appeared he suffered only a stomach disorder.

The Cowboys were hoping Meredith would be able to play in the National Football League title showdown Jan. 1 against Cleveland in the Cotton Bowl in Dallas.

"There appears to be no relation between the head injury suffered in the Washington game and the stomach disorder," said Dr. Ronald F. (Skip) Garvey, team physician.

Meredith was only last week voted winner of the Bert Bell Award as the NFL's player of the year.

Meredith's wife, Cheryl, called Dr. Garvey when her husband became ill at their home. The physician suggested she drive her husband to St. Paul's Hospital, where the doctor would meet them.

Summons Ambulance
Mrs. Meredith, unable to get Meredith into the car, telephoned for an ambulance, which took him to the hospital. She told Dr. Garvey her husband was too ill to walk.

"Cheryl is not a big woman and it would not be easy for her to manage Meredith," said Cowboys publicist Al Ward.

Ward said the calling of an ambulance "perhaps dramatized the situation a bit but could not be helped."

Meredith was to be kept in the hospital for observation overnight and was to be released early today, said Ward.

Meredith was tackled by Redskins linebacker Sam Huff in the first half against Washington and was removed from the game. He never got back in the game.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself no more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Quiet War On Newspapers

It's a quiet war, a subtle and insidious war; but nevertheless deadly and real. The attack on the Freedom of the Press, and consequently, on your right to know, goes on even as this is being read.

It was not by accident that newspapers in Hitler Germany were government controlled; it is not by chance that they are so controlled in Soviet Russia, in Red China, in Castro Cuba today. Nor is it by accident that newspapers are coming under increasing attack in the United States.

Dictatorships, by their very nature, dare not permit a free and independent press. Already, by control of the school system, by licensing, by government contracts, by regulations, by decree, the bureaucracies of our various levels of government have been able to either completely control or exert terrible amounts of pressure on the communication media of this country; this, in addition to millions upon millions of words of tax-pai, governmental propaganda being ground out daily by the bureaucracies themselves.

But, unlike other countries able to suppress or control newspapers with relative ease, newspapers in the United States, due to the tradition of a free and independent press established in the infancy of this nation, have been a tougher nut for the planners and controllers to crack. Thus far they have not dared to mount an all out, frontal attack. This is not to say that they have not been busily chipping away at the edges. They have.

War, of course, with its sometimes real and sometimes contrived "necessity to protect national interests" always gives governments opportunities to suppress the news; and incidentally, opportunities to perfect their methods for later use. But, outside of news suppression or distortion under the "necessities of war," the freedom of the press is under governmental attack from other directions and by other means.

Essentially, it is a three-pronged assault; the first two of which we have commented on previously. Prong 1, is the "unfairness of the press to the accused" approach which claims that the press "pre-judges the accused" and, consequently, should be placed under restraint before and during the trial.

Prong 2, consists of the claim that advertising is not only an unnecessary expense, adding to the costs paid by the consumer for products and service, but that the disproportionate use of advertising by big companies and industries tends toward the formation of monopolies; and, therefore, that advertising should be governmentally controlled. The proponents of this stratagem—glossing over the obvious truths that government itself is the biggest and most predatory monopoly, and that the better advertising a job creating industry produces the better the consumers are served—know full well that if the government can control newspaper advertising, it can, after having thus once gotten its foot in the door, also dictate the news a paper can print.

Divorce Mill Output Lags

Nevada's second most famous industry — divorce — has fallen on hard times. The state bar association reports that the number of divorces has fallen to less than 10,000 a year, half of what it was 20 years ago.

What particularly alarms the lawyers is that marriages now outnumber divorces by eight to one. They haven't yet found a way to make money out of splicing couples as well as splitting them.

Apparently the reason for the decline is competition from Mexico, where divorce is quicker and easier. The way to make Nevada's divorce mills boom again, say the lawyers, is to change the residence requirement from six weeks to one day, at least for uncontested cases.

Such a change, the association's Economic Committee notes with disarming candor, would "add to the income of the legal profession of Nevada."

GUEST EDITORIAL

Your Hospitals and You

Hospitals are at your service 24 hours a day, 8,760 hours a year. The doors never close; they are on guard and stand-by to protect not only your health and life, but that of your family and friends.

Fortunately for all of us, this is true. Our lives would be in danger 75 per cent of the time if a sign hung in your hospital read, "Hours 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday to Friday only." It is impossible to imagine how seriously every day living would be affected if your hospital was open only a few hours during the day and closed for weekends. But we do know it would be chaotic.

Yet, keeping the hospital open 24 hours every day of the year is one of the big reasons why it costs money for care. Consider the expense side of constant hospital operation. Hospital personnel are employed like any people in business for the usual work week. They have vacations, holidays, and sick leave the same as others. The 24-hour work day requires three shifts of employees because the hospital day is three times as long as the ordinary work day in most places of business. Actually, it is more than three shifts because the service must continue seven days a week, with personnel on duty to cover the weekend period and time off for the reasons mentioned.

When the hospital is compared with a business, it must be remembered for every employee who works the usual work day, the hospital must have four employees. Because the hospital is open to serve the community at any hour of any day, it is easy to see why over two-thirds of the hospital's income for service to patients is spent on wages and salaries. These people are not over paid, but it does take a number of employees to provide Texans with the best hospital care available. Payroll is the largest single item of expense in hospital operation. There are many other expenses because of constant operation. For example, the continuous use of utilities, linens, medical supplies, drugs, food and the building with its furnishings.

People wonder why the hospital can't make money like any other business? This is part of the story, an essential service necessitates expense. Would you lock the hospital door at 5 p.m. or close for the weekend to save dollars rather than lives? We believe not. Your hospital has doors that are never closed.

Pull Up A Chair

By FRANK JAY MARKEY

Mistletoe, which is synonymous with Christmas, is excluded from church decorations during the holiday season because the early theologians associated the plant with the ancient Druids, who venerated it. The Druids, it will be remembered, went in for such rites as human sacrifices. Kissing under the mistletoe originated in the merrie England of the 17 century. The correct procedure was for the young man to kiss a girl under the mistletoe and then pluck a berry. He then continued to kiss the girl until he had plucked all the berries. Seems as though they used a lot of mistletoe in those days.

Today's smile: A youngster awakened at two in the morning and called to his mother: "Mom, I can't sleep. Tell me a story." His mother said: "Please be quiet. Your father will be home soon and he'll tell us both one."

History relates that Queen Elizabeth I of England relied upon the Christmas gifts she received to replenish her wardrobe. That doesn't make her any different from a lot of other girls before her time and since. By virtue of the association of ideas, red became associated with Christmas. First, it is regarded as the most cheerful of all colors. It reacts quickly on the optic nerve. Through custom, Christmas decorations feature holly which has a red berry. And, red is the traditional color of the Santa Claus costume.

Thoughts while shaving: The observance of Christmas dates back to about 200 A.D. and in liturgical importance it ranks behind Easter, Pentecost and Epiphany (usually about January 6). The singing of carols, the Yule log, Christmas decorations, the boar's head, the goose, are all of English origin. The turkey for Christmas dinner is strictly a U.S. custom. Christmas gift-giving is also derived from the British. The Christmas tree dates from Germany in the Middle Ages and some historians say Martin Luther originated the idea. Lighted candles in the window on Christmas Eve is an American custom brought here by Irish immigrants. The Franciscans popularized the display of the creche, depicting the scene in the manger at Bethlehem. The first Christmas card was designed in England in 1846 by J. C. Horsely, a member of the Royal Academy, but they didn't come into general use until about 1860. Today, Christmas greeting cards are a multimillion dollar business in the U.S. alone. We read recently that fresh mistletoe berries are poisonous to little children. Also, one leaf from a Christmas poinsettia can kill a child. During the holiday season, any sign of intestinal upset or illness of a child should receive prompt medical attention if there is mistletoe in the household decorations. It may be just too much candy, but no chances should be taken. The Baltimore (Md.) NEWS-American reported in a story: "The 64-year-old window was asked if he might run for office again." Well, this time he did not get a look-in.

Country Editor speaking: "Most of those people who favor birth control have already been born."

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The blue whale is the largest animal in the world. Many times larger than an elephant, it can reach a length of 100 feet and weigh as much as 150 tons, according to The World Almanac. While it has no teeth, it feeds by swimming through a mass of minute organisms (plankton) with its mouth open. The jaws then close while the tongue forces the water out through a whalebone sieve, leaving the food behind.

To Cost U.S. $1 Billion Because State, Defense Depts. Failed to Collect Earlier Debts

ROBERT ALLEN PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — President de Gaulle's imperious expulsion of U.S. forces from France apparently is going to cost this country $1 billion in abandoned bases, airfields, pipelines, communications systems and scores of other expensive NATO installations and facilities. Primarily responsible for this almost certain immense loss is the inexplicable negligence of the State and Defense Departments in requiring payment for such properties. Written agreements between the U.S. and France explicitly provide for the "recovery of the residual value" of NATO facilities turned back to France. But not until recently have the two departments — tepidly — made any attempt to enforce these long-standing commitments. These belated gestures have gotten nowhere. De Gaulle has flatly ignored them. In disregarding demand for payment, the haughty French ruler has some basis for the brush-off — a precedent built up over a period of years by the State and Defense Departments themselves.

HOW IT STARTED — Dating back to 1956, and well before De Gaulle's eviction of U.F. forces, 27 NATO installations that cost the U.S. more than $21 million were returned to the French government without the slightest move to recover their "residual value" — despite the written agreements requiring that. Of these facilities, 17 are now being used by the French army, airforce and municipal agencies; a school is part of the educational system of the town of Pessac; a $2 million hospital at Audrey has been taken over by the Ministry of Pensions; and six properties that cost the U.S. more than $946,000 have been sold to private interests by the French government—which has kept the money. These properties include a large printing plant in Bordeaux, and housing in Campagne and on the Marne. Not until August 1964, eight years after the first installation was turned over to the French, did the State Department finally bestir itself and raise the question of payment by "suggesting discussions" on the matter. De Gaulle shrugged it off. He didn't even bother to say "no." He totally ignored the suggestion.

The same thing happened when the U.S. embassy in Paris subsequently made several "informal inquiries" about the matter. And that is the status of this astonishing situation to this day. Absolutely nothing has been done about it. In this same eight-year period — 1956 to 1964 — the U.S. gave France $425 million in military equipment — planes, guns, tanks, ships, motor vehicles, communications supplies, etc. — SCATHING INDICTMENT — These and other blistering charges are detailed in a comprehensive staff study of the is that the State and Defense Departments have done nothing to ensure that the U.S. will be repaid for similar heavy expenditures in other NATO countries. "The State and Defense Departments have failed to cover by inclusion in treaties or agreements," says the report, "adequate provision for the determination of the residual value of facilities no longer needed in other countries. . . . The Defense Department has advised: 'We are unaware of any agreement covering the disposal of property in the case of a facility no longer needed for NATO purposes.' The department gave no reason why such measures were not taken at the time the U.S. constructed such NATO facilities."

Concluding, the study raises the following blunt questions: "It is both pertinent and timely to ask — what are the agreements which have been entered into with regard to disposal of U.S. bases in countries other than France? What have our experiences been in these other countries when we have given up valuable facilities paid for by us? What efforts have the Departments of State and Defense made elsewhere to protect the financial interests of the U.S. when such properties are disposed of? 'What arrangements has the State Department made for the eventual disposition of the new facilities being constructed (in Germany, Belgium, Italy, etc.) to replace those we are giving up in France?'"

When the new Congress reconvenes next month, Senator Gruening plans to summon State and Defense Department officials for clearcut answers on these "pertinent and timely" questions. WE PREDICT — Senator J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee and bitter critic of the Vietnam policy, will lead a Senate peace bloc drive in the new Congress to force an unlimited halt in bombing of North Vietnam. Fulbright, who faces a tough re-election fight in 1968, is gambling that his peace activities will help him voluntarily retire. The 68-year-old Marshal, who commanded Russian forces in an offensive against Japan in the final months of World War II, is in poor health. Senator Maurice Neuberger, D-Ore., who did not run for re-election this year, will be named treasurer of the U.S. when former Representative Kathryn Granahan resigns.

The Canadian government will soon begin evicting U.S. draft dodgers who fled there. Prime Minister Pearson has given such assurances to Washington. It is estimated there are upwards of 1,500 draft dodgers in Canada. Senator Ernest Gruening, D-Alaska, vigorous critic of the Viet Nam war, is writing a book on the history of the conflict. Due to be published early next year, the volume will be highly critical of both the Kennedy and Johnson administrations. Senate Republican Leader Everett Dirksen, Ill., will decide who will be the next chairman of the Republican Campaign Committee. Outwardly, the veteran GOP leader is maintaining a neutral attitude as between Senators

Terrorism Is Thai Reds' Lever to Extend Toehold

By RAY CROMLEY

Washington Correspondent

NORTHEAST THAILAND (NEA) — It was growing dark on the road. The Thai I was with took his suitcase out of the front seat of the car, opened it and, piece by piece, took out the parts of a rifle and began fitting them together. He loaded the weapon, then reached into the suitcase again and brought out a revolver. He laid it on the seat of the car between us and set a box of cartridges beside the revolver. "There are new cartridges," he said. "I have to get fresh ones frequently because they deteriorate in this climate."

"If someone tries to attack us, start firing. Just keep firing whether you hit anything or not. Enough noise and I think they'll go away." We were on a road we were told we shouldn't be on after dark. By day, there was considerable military traffic. But the traffic died out at night. There were burned-out bodies of cars and trucks along the road. There had been attack, by bands of men.

We picked up speed despite the worsening condition of the road. The next morning my Thai friend and I met with a police captain. He said, "Go down into that country with you? Are you crazy? I have a wife and child. The last policeman who went down there . . . they cut off his arms and his tongue.

"Oh, I'll go all right if you let me go my own way. I'll send a Jeep ahead full of armed men. I'll come a half mile behind. But that's the only way I'll go." Up here in northeast Thailand the situation is worse than has been pictured.

There are roads no sensible man will travel day or night and villages into which he will not go unless he's with an armed party. There are villages whose chiefs are the Communists' men. There are hills where no one goes unless he's a guerrilla.

Terrorists kill officials and teachers. My friend and I went by a police station a band of men had attacked. Some of the attackers were armed with better weapons than the police (Belgian-made and new.) Despite the persistent, effective terrorism, the Communist underground does not yet have political, economic or military control of the rural population, even in the far northeast.

They do not have effective Communist local government or an area tax collecting system. They do not control rural trade.

The Communists are still in the organizational stage of recruiting, infiltrating and terrorism. Their first aim is to destroy the confidence of the local people in the power of the government either to protect and help them or to punish them if they follow the Reds.

The Red ability at effective terrorism is limited to a relatively small area — occupied by less than a half million people.

Through the northeast, the Communists are about as far along as the Viet Cong were in South Vietnam six to eight years ago.

In short, the problem is not yet a military problem. It is a government, economic, police problem.

To bring this area under effective government control requires radical improvement in chiefs, local policemen. It requires agricultural self-help programs that would give the northeastern Thai farmer a chance to improve himself. It needs psychological programs that would make the people of the area more conscious of their Thai heritage and of their roles as citizens.

The Doctor Says:

By DR. WAYNE BRANDSTADT

New Treatments May Alleviate Meniere's Disease Q — I have Meniere's disease and have been taking histamine injections for over two years. I don't seem to be improving. Is there any cure for this condition?

A — In Meniere's disease or labyrinthitis the victim often has ringing in the ears for several months before any other symptoms appear. As the disease progresses he may complain of dizziness, nausea, hearing loss, headache and earache. Many victims of this disease are relieved when they are reassured that the disease is not a threat to life and that the attacks will subside in time.

During the attacks bed rest, a sedative and an anti-nausea drug are helpful. If the nausea is severe the drugs may be given by rectum or injected into a vein. To forestall or minimize future attacks a salt-poor diet and moderate restriction of fluids are advised. Drugs to dilate the arteries, diuretics (water pills), anti-histamines and supplementary vitamins are of value.

In some victims this line of treatment proves inadequate and surgery is advised. Surgical destruction of part of the inner ear will relieve the dizziness but will leave the patient deaf. Selective destruction of some inner ear structures by means of ultrasound is more conservative — the hearing is spared but it succeeds in relieving the dizziness in only about 75 per cent of cases.

Two new treatments for Meniere's disease have been reported. Bethahistime hydrochloride (Serc) taken daily for four or five months has brought about relief from all the symptoms except earache. Doctors who have used it claim that this treatment relieves patients who would otherwise have had to be operated on.

The other innovation, Innovar, is a combination of two drugs. When it is injected into a vein during an acute attack it relieves all the symptoms within 10 minutes and assumes the victim of at least a week without a recurrence of the attacks.

Q — My daughter is having trouble with her inner ear which causes her to lose her balance. What treatment would you recommend?

A — Your daughter may have Meniere's disease. Other possible causes, such as exposure to chemical fumes, allergies and anemia should be ruled out before any treatment is prescribed.

George Murphy, Calif., and Hugh Scott, Pa. Privately Dirksen is making no secret that he favors Murphy, and that insurance his selection by the Republican caucus.

YOUTH AND THE FAR LEFT New training schools are now being widely conducted over the country by communists and other leftists.

Established near many large college campuses, these are given such names as "New Left School," "Free University," and the "Institute for Marxist Studies." Essentially, they are indoctrination classes in Marxist-Leninism. Subversive, of course, the schools present the anti-American line exclusively. Yet such school should come as no real surprise, for the Communist Party has become increasingly active in the mass agitation of American society. The Party early sensed the new mood of radicalism in America, especially stemming from the so-called "New Left."

Party head Gus Hall has said, "The emerging new left trend is a powerful factor in the youth movement. In the 'new left' is a fertile field for Party exploitation. In protests, demonstrations, and hostility to . . . (the United States) government lie potential (Party) recruits."

He boasted that communist speakers on college campuses have been a direct aid to Communism, an important part of this "mass upsurge."

As always, the communist disdains to conceal his views and aim. In announcing Red plans, Hall stated, "In the months ahead, we can expect intensified Party ideological training, especially for youth members. In 1965, for example, the Party held secret training schools for key youth leaders. . . . With an ever-increasing number of persons of leftist leanings in positions of influence, there is an almost irresistible pressure on young people to convert to liberal and farleft philosophies. Those who believe in the freedom way of life must act to counter this indoctrination of the nation's youth."
