School Board Candidates Give Views In Meet Here

By WANDA MAE HUFF
Pampa News Staff Writer

Six of the 12 candidates for the April 6 school board election appeared at a meeting Saturday afternoon to answer voters' questions about their views on the Carver School closing, teacher contracts, status of Pampa schools and news coverage of board matters.

Candidates attending were Bill Watson, Bill McDonald, Jimmy Thompson, Joe Pafford, Joe Y. Rogers, and Elmer Wilson. Bud Hogan reported he was unable to attend, but sent Don Hill as his representative.

Candidates not attending were Tom Dunham, H. Creel Grady Jr., Warren Hasse, Obed L. Slatery and Jessie Middleton.

Mrs. D. W. Pilcher, 2544 Aspen, organizer of the open meeting, stated, "Dunham and Hasse said they had to be out of town; Grady gave no reason; Slatery was too busy; Hogan had to move cattle. Jessie Middleton, another candidate, was to attend but did not."

About 30 voters appeared to hear the candidates give their reasons for running for election and state their qualifications to fill one of two posts in the April 6 school trustee election.

In giving her reason for organizing the meeting, Mrs. Pilcher said "we understand the school board's job is to formulate and determine policies of education for our school children. We, too, believe we have a part and want to know more about the men running for the two posts available."

Posts now held by Grady and Thompson are to be filled in next Saturday's election. Grady has served six years and is board president. Thompson is filling an appointed post after Gene Steel resigned in January.

Watson said he "was running for one of the two posts, not running against anyone. I am most concerned about federal intervention in our school system. Maybe we should just scratch the word 'independent.'"

"I particularly object to the closing of Carver School because it is a hardship on the people of the Carver Community."

On the matter of seeking a new school superintendent to replace ousted Dr. John Damron, Watson said he did not believe the board should have to "scout around" for additional help but should promote from within. He also stated, in answer to questions from the audience, he did not think teachers should have to renew contracts annually.

"On the matter of news coverage, all board meetings should be open but I feel disclosure of pertinent news which would damage a person's reputation or expose him to public ridicule should be withheld," Watson said. "Also, where minutes are withheld, the reason should be told to prevent spreading rumors and conjecture which may be more damaging."

Pafford stated he thought his 13 years business experience as an accountant qualified him for the office, "because the school district is one of the largest businesses. We are spending the taxpayers' money, and we have to watch it like our own."

He added that the "press should be welcomed to all meetings" (See CANDIDATES, Page 3)

Pampa News To Increase Price Of Single Copy

Effective tomorrow, Monday, April 1, the single copy price of The Pampa Daily News will be changed from 5 cents to 10 cents for week day afternoons. The Sunday morning price of 15 cents will remain the same.

The Pampa Daily News is one of the last daily newspapers in the Southwest to effect such an increase.

This price change affects only single copy sales such as news stands, news racks and street sales. In no way does it affect the present home delivery rates to the regular home delivery subscribers.

President To Address Nation On New Strategy For Vietnam

Broadcast Follows Review Of The War

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson will go on nationwide television and radio at 8 p.m., CST, Sunday to announce his decision on future U.S. troop deployments and strategy in the Vietnam War as a result of the Communist Tet offensive.

"It would be well if the President spoke of that subject," Johnson said at an outdoor news conference Saturday in the White House Rose Garden.

The Sunday night broadcast from his West Wing office will follow several weeks of intensive administration review of the entire U.S. war effort.

Without disclosing details of his decisions, the President did say he would have to ask Congress for a supplemental appropriations of "a few billion dollars" to buy helicopters, guns, parts and ammunition needed as a result of the winter-spring terrorist offensive.

Limited Increase

He also indicated there would be a limited increase in the present 525,000-man troop ceiling in Vietnam and a limited callup of ready reservists. He said there will not be "the hundreds of thousands of callups and deployments" that have figured in some press accounts.

Asked whether the next U.S. move in Vietnam might include another bombing pause, Johnson said:

"I don't think that military strategy that is under review from time to time or troop deployments or matters of that kind ought to be speculated on until the President has made a decision. There is not anything to be announced at this time."

He added there were no indications whatsoever that North Vietnam is ready to agree to "prompt and productive talks" if the bombing raids are stopped. All indications are (See BROADCAST, Page 3)

Marines In Bitter Fight

Another F111A Down

By THOMAS CHEATHAM

SAIGON (UPI) — Outnumbered U.S. Marines, pushing out of their encircled Khe Sanh bastion fought a bitter hours long battle with North Vietnamese troops Saturday as Saigon headquarters announced "the loss of a second F111A bomber in the skies over North Vietnam."

The intensification of the ground and air wars coincided with a Radio Hanoi announcement that the Viet Cong were releasing two American women captured in the Tet (Lunar New Year) offensive. There was no word on their condition.

But North Vietnam ruled out the release of captured American fliers as a reciprocal gesture for the freeing of three North Vietnamese sailors repatriated by the United States Saturday.

Fierce Fighting

The fierce fighting around Khe Sanh Saturday erupted when a comparatively small U.S. Marine patrol probing Communist positions ran into a deeply entrenched North Vietnamese battalion only 1,000 yards from the barbed wire around the fortress.

The Marines reported killing 40 enemy before pulling back into Khe Sanh bunkers with "moderate" losses.

A terse announcement from U.S. headquarters on the loss of the F111A—second of the controversial $6 million planes to go down in three days—said it crashed after an "in flight" emergency. But spokesmen reported the two-man crew rescued.

The use of the words "in flight emergency" was taken as meaning the plane suffered some type of malfunction and was not shot down but there was no official announcement. The first F111A loss of the (See MARINES, Page 3)

'Requiem' Is Set For April 21

Pampa's Oratorio Choir has been rehearsing for months to prepare for its annual spring concert. This year the choir, which sang "The Messiah" in 1967, will sing Joannes Brahms' German "Requiem" in English. The performance is set for 3 p.m. April 21 in Pampa High School Field House.

Dr. Richard P. Condie, director of Mormon Tabernacle Choir of Salt Lake City, Utah, who directed Handel's "Messiah" last year, will also direct this year's performance.

Singers from Pampa and area churches and high schools will perform with several guest soloists. The annual program, sponsored by the Pampa Fine Arts Association, is being directed this year by Curt Beck, chairman of the association's musical arts committee.

Soloists named for the production are Fred Watkins, baritone, of Pampa, who will do both bass solo parts; Mrs. John Garcia, soprano (coloratura soprano), White Deer and Mrs. Eidean P. Reed, Borger, coloratura soprano, as alternate soprano soloist.

Accompanists are Jerry Whitten, organist, and Mrs. John Gill, pianist. Both are of Pampa. Rehearsal directors are directors of church and school choirs for Pampa and area towns.

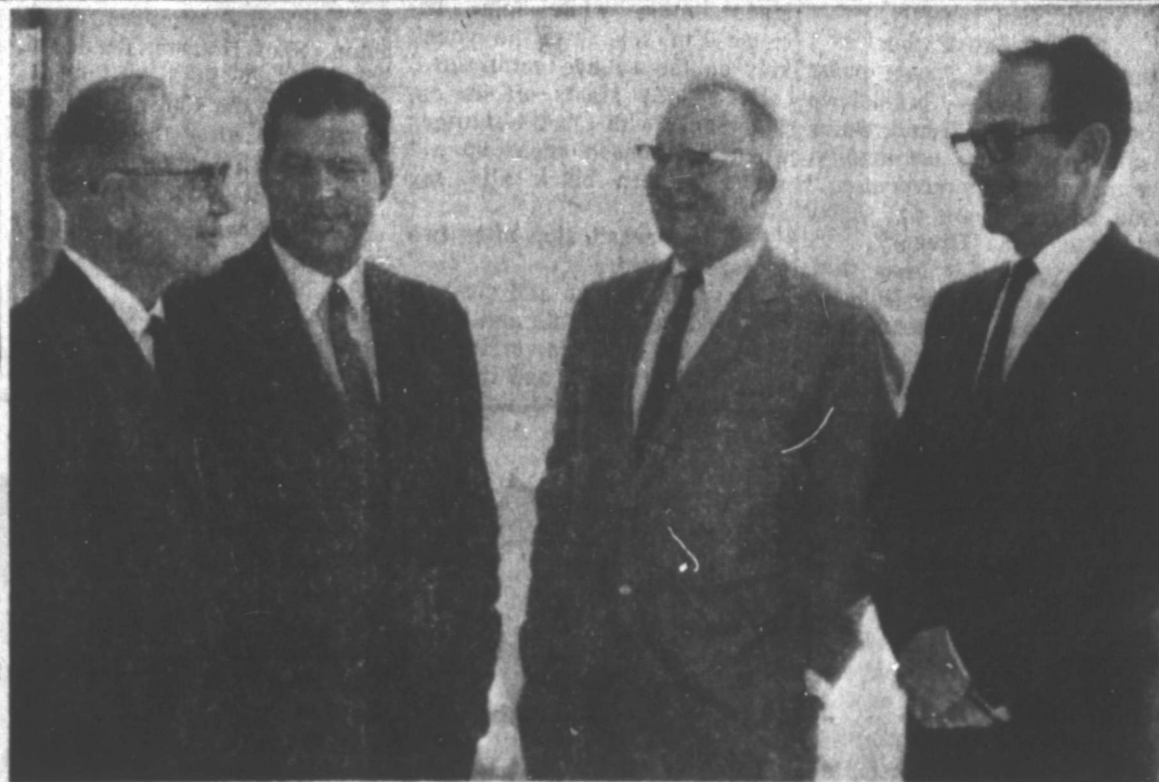

Pampa listeners will hear Mrs. Garcia sing the soprano solo "Ye Now Are Sorrowful" in the chorus' presentation of the "Requiem."

A White Deer resident, Mrs. Garcia sang the aria, "I Know That My Redeemer Liveth," in the "Messiah" presentation.

A native of Alexandria, La., she is choral director of the Sacred Heart Catholic Church in White Deer and is a graduate of Cathedral Academy of Alexandria.

She won the Alexandria Federation of Music Clubs' Young Artist Award and the Alexandria Catholic Youth Organization Competition Award. She is also a member of Amarillo Symphony Chorus.

Her vocal study started in Alexandria nine years ago and continues with help from her husband and three children. Watkins will sing five baritone solos in the "Requiem." He will (See 'REQUIEM', Page 3)

Congressman Hits Government's Farm Program In Address Here

By CURTIS MONTGOMERY
Pampa News Staff Writer

Congressman Bob Price stressed the need for changes in present farm programs during a weekend swing through his Panhandle district yesterday, highlighted by a speech at the Gray County Farm Bureau breakfast at Fur's cafeteria yesterday morning.

Price spoke twice in Memphis after telling the Pampa group how Secretary of Agriculture

Orville Freeman was seeking increased legislation to gain further control over the farm.

Price "laid it on" the federal government with no holds barred. The congressman from Pampa told the Pampans a joke about a lady who had a color TV set which had given her a lot of trouble. She called a repairman and told him when he arrived, "This TV set is no good. All I get is Lyndon and Hubert." The man thought for a moment after checking the back of the set and said, "Ma'am, there ain't nothing wrong with this set. You just have one wire hooked up to the windmill and one to the manure spreader."

Price emphasized the fact that he does not want to do away with the present farm program. "My statements were misinterpreted," Price stated before the Pampa delegation, "I don't believe the community programs are doing all they can for the farmer."

"How anyone traveling down the blind road following Freeman can think these programs are working is beyond me," commented Price. "We are going to destroy the farms permanently if we continue on the road currently followed by federal legislation. Some 800,000 people left the farms last year including the women and children. It has been proven that the farm programs are destroying the farmer."

"What we need to do is to get things back the way they used to be," declared the young spokesman from a place he said was referred to as "Malfunction Junction"—Washington D.C. Price spoke with deep conviction that Freeman and his team wanted to (See CONGRESSMAN, Page 3)

City Election Set Tuesday; Light Turnout Is Expected

With practically 90 per cent of the interest being focused on next Saturday's school board election, a reminder was issued Saturday that a municipal election also is coming up day after tomorrow.

Only two seats on the city commission are to be filled. The only contest is between former city commissioner Clyde Carruth and Earl D. Hilton, a Pampa contractor. They are seeking the post of Ward 4 commissioner.

Hugh Burdette, incumbent, is running unopposed for re-election in Ward 2. The balloting will be city-wide in all four wards.

The voting places will be at City Hall for Ward 1, North fire station on E. 17th St. for Ward 2, Optimists' Boys Club at 601 E. Craven for Ward 3, and South fire station on S. Barnes for Ward 4.

The polls will be open from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Because there is only one contested race, a light vote is expected in the city balloting on Tuesday, election officials said yesterday. Only 29 persons voted absentee in the race. The 12-man contest for two vacancies on the Pampa school board is expected to draw an unusually heavy vote next Saturday.

Connally Wishes Success To Student 'Beer' Effort

By United Press International

Texas Gov. John Connally has told student government leaders from Texas colleges he wished them "success" in their efforts to allow beer in student union buildings but said the statement did not constitute an endorsement of the proposal.

Connally, speaking to the Texas Intercollegiate Student Association convention in Dallas, said, "I wish you success in those efforts. . . I hope you can convince your faculty advisors and administrators."

"But if you don't succeed, don't feel too bad," Connally said. "You can join me in the ranks of the defeated," referring to his attempt last year to legalize liquor by the drink.

He said his statement did not constitute an endorsement of beer on campuses; Connally said he did not want to take sides on an issue between students and administrators.

Connally also called Friday for special elections May 14 to fill three vacancies in the Texas House of Representatives. The elections will be for:

—District 23, Place 1, Harris County, to fill the unexpired term of Glen Vickery, who resigned.

—District 48F, Brooks, Cameron, Kennedy and Willacy Counties to fill the unexpired term of Bill Rapp, who resigned. —District 33, Place 4, Dallas County, to fill the term of the late John Field.

Water and air pollution remained an issue in Texas politics Friday as Democratic gubernatorial candidates John Hill and Dolph Briscoe spoke out on the issue in campaign addresses.

In Beaumont, Hill said the State Air Control Board and the Water Quality Board should be merged to provide a more efficient method of controlling pollution.

"I think it would be easier, cheaper and better all around to have one agency for industries to talk to concerning pollution regulations and problems," Hill said.

Hill also said the governor should be free to appoint such a pollution control board "solely on the basis of their public interest. He should not be required to fit them into such special categories that only a left-handed, 48-year-old stock farmer from San Angelo with two dogs and a knack for riding a bicycle backwards is the only man who can fit into a certain spot."

Dolph Briscoe told supporters at his Houston headquarters the state needed stronger pollution laws and stiffer enforcement of existing laws.

Briscoe said "current legislation is not adequate to do the job" and said he would propose "new measures to make sure the state can effectively keep its air and waterways clean."

"The state can avoid any problems in the future if it acts now to meet the pollution of air and water," he said.

Eugene Locke predicted in Austin the Texas labor vote "will be widely split" between the candidates.

"Some labor leaders are disenchanted with Mr. Don Yarborough," Locke said. Yarborough (See CONNALLY, Page 3)

'Ghetto Humor' Is Multi-Purpose Weapon Used By Negro Comedians

By PRESTON F. KIRK
HOUSTON (UPI)—Humor has long been come-on, the bark before the bite, the soft sell of salesmen, lecturers and politicians, but only recently have some civil rights leaders turned to this multi-purpose weapon.
 Civil rights slanted material — or "ghetto humor" as it is usually termed — is used by many Negro comedians — among them Ossie Davis, George Kirby, Godfrey Cambridge, Flip Wilson, Dick Gregory.

Other Negro comedians such as Bill Cosby and Nipsey Russell, deny the use of such humor.
 "Humor can't stop riots and humor won't obliterate the ghetto," Cosby said recently.
Fumes Frustration
 But Davis said, "riots come from frustration — breakdown of communication. Humor which is a very precious commodity, is a means of communication."
 And no one seems to know that better than Gregory.
 However, Gregory once said, "humor can no more find the solution to race problems than it can cure cancer."
 "The average Negro can't af-

Indian Tribe Starting To Regain Its Tradition

LIVINGSTON, Tex. (UPI)—The Alabama Indians, an ancient tribe that gave a state its name, lived for decades in the depths of poverty on a reservation deep in a section of Texas so wild and forbidden it is known as the Big Thicket.
 But over the past three years, with the help of the U.S. government and various war on poverty programs, the Alabamas and their blood brothers—the Coushattas—have begun to regain some of their lost tradition, officials said today.
 The Alabamas are historically a peaceful tribe and centuries ago migrated to avoid fighting with the Cherokees.

Their migration reached Texas in the early 19th century. In the days shortly after Texas won its independence from Mexico and was admitted to the union, Sam Houston deeded 1,200 acres of land to the Alabamas and the Coushattas, who united soon after the Alabamas arrived in the state.
Real Wilderness
 The land was situated in an area of pine trees and brush mis humor was placed back to back it would be a little better than three-fifths of his lecture.

now considered one of the few wildernesses left in the United States.
 Few people thought about the Alabama-Coushattas — or seemed to care — after Houston deeded the land to the Indians.
 There was little to keep the tribe from falling on hard times. The land was not fertile for crops and there was little or no market for the colorful pine-needle baskets which are now looked upon as works of art.
 Midway through the century, the tribe's plight.
 The 350 men, women and children lived crowded together in 70 dilapidated frame homes and many of the men had to drive miles to work in pulpwood factories, to man gasoline pumps or perform other manual labor.
Better Homes Needed
 The housing situation has not improved much — there are measures currently before Congress to build better homes for the tribe — but now there are better jobs and a better standard of living.
 "In the last three years," said reservation superintendent Walter Boemer, "I would say the family income has almost doubled."
 The Head Start program and a neighborhood Youth Corps program have been developed on the reservation, with the key being tourism.
 They have created 125 full time jobs on the reservation working with a tourist director," said Boemer. He said an Indian arts and crafts factory would be established on the reservation.
 Many of the Indians on the reservation do not speak English, and one of the Head Start programs on the reservation has begun instructing the Indian children something other than their native tongue.

FLYING CONGRESSMAN — Panhandle Congressman Bob Price, left, is shown here with Maj. Tom Wheeler of Fort Worth, just before they took off and the legislator flew the controversial F111A fighter-bomber aircraft Friday from Fort Worth. Price, a Korean War fighter pilot, flew the plane from Texas over parts of Oklahoma and back. He said the plane was easy to handle and commented favorably on its roominess and visibility.

dominate the lives of the farmer. "I'm convinced Freeman wants cheap food for the consumer at any cost. They have people believing milk is worth 16 cents a quart and the farmer is suffering. The Agricultural Act of 1965 caused a decline in the number of farms," Price said.

The Pampan do not believe the major commodity programs are doing all they can for farmers. He also stated he thinks the farmers are not satisfied.

"Better farm prices are needed and as House Agriculture Committee meetings proceed, I plan to do what I can to prevent government manipulations which depress farm prices and are responsible, along with continually rising farm operating costs, for the present low level of farm income," Price said.

Price announced that he is currently working on a bill which he thinks will be enacted. Increase farm prices and give the farmer more income.

"The bill that I plan to introduce will not require any additional expenditure. It is simply taking the wheat and feed grain that we now have on hand and locking these stocks in from the market, both export and domestic, until farmers are receiving 100 percent of parity in the market for wheat and feed grains. This means that before any of the stocks of wheat and feed grain of CCC could be released under the provisions of my bill that wheat would have to reach a market price of $2.59 a bushel, corn $1.61. The other feed grains would be calculated on their feed equivalent to corn. These release prices are calculated on the basis of the February, 1968 parity.

"No one can be sure about the exact stocks of wheat and feed grain at the end of the current marketing year that might be taken over by Commodity Credit Corporation, but my best estimates indicate it will be in the neighborhood of 600 million bushels of wheat and 500 million bushels of corn. I want to emphasize that the proponents of the so-called strategic reserves only attempt to set aside these stocks from domestic consumption. My bill will also prevent the CCC from using these stocks in the export trade. I believe the enactment of my bill will have the effect of increasing farm prices on these grains and I believe that the farmers deserve more income.

Sidney Dean of Victoria, president of the Texas Farm Bureau, followed Price to the speaker's rostrum and urged the more than 150 county farm bureau members and their guests not to yield to government control.

He stressed the particular point by reference to the new proposed National Labor Relations Act now pending in the House Rules Committee as it applies to employment of agricultural workers.

He commended the House Agriculture Committee, of which Congressman Price is a member, for sending up a resolution

Arsonists Hit Store

By EDWARD V. MCCARTHY

NEW YORK (UPI)—Arsonists struck at four New York City department stores crowded with Easter shoppers Saturday, a day after a series of mysterious fires erupted in four big Chicago department stores. The FBI said it was taking "cognizance" of the two-day rash of fires.

The Manhattan fires, set off by crude Molotov cocktails, were quickly extinguished and no panic was reported. The fires were minor.

Negroes were seen planting the fire bombs at two of the stores. No panic was reported among shoppers at the three stores where the arsonists were successful—Gimbel's on Herald Square, S. Klein on 14th St., and Bloomingdale's on 59 St. The arsonists failed at Macy's, also on Herald Square, when their Molotov cocktail failed to explode.

The FBI said it was aware of the two-day rash of fires in Chicago and New York but refused to comment on whether FBI agents were actively investigating a link between the fires in the two cities. Damage in the New York fires was described as slight in all cases.

Auto Vandalized

An auto owned by Norman Shaw of 1429 N. Russel was vandalized early Saturday morning with $109 in damages estimated by Pampa police. The back window was smashed by a vandal. There was no other damage reported to the auto which was sitting in the owner's drive way when the incident occurred.

asking that agriculture be excluded from the bill. Dean explained the operation of the farm bureau on the state, district and county levels.

"We need to visit with our friends in the metropolitan and urban areas and explain to them that the farmers' problems also are their problems as consumers," Dean said. "There are so many who do not understand just how agriculture controls effect them."

Price will return to Washington from Amarillo Sunday following retirement ceremonies for Major General Loren G. McCollom, Amarillo Air Force Base Commander.

gular meetings, and executive sessions should be for matters of a confidential nature."

On the questions concerning federal aid, Carver school, and teachers' contracts, Pafford said, "I think we will not be able to get along without federal aid entirely. From what I know, it would not be necessary to close Carver but we could have gone another route and still comply with the federal requests. I have not seen the copy of the proposed law on continuing contracts for teachers, but I can not see where a continuing contract would benefit teachers, because it allows for just cause for dismissal.

"The board is not going to dismiss teachers promiscuously because teachers are too difficult to come by," Pafford concluded. McDonald, who ran for the school board four years ago, stated he "wanted then and now to be of service to people. We may all have different feelings about the way things were done up there, but I have no ax to grind and believe it is an honor to serve on the board."

McDonald, too, said he believed the Carver situation should have been handled differently. He said, "we should keep it open, and integrate from down there."

After a question came up on hiring Dr. Kenneth Laycock as the board's educational consultant to hire a superintendent. We should have people capable of stepping on up."

Rogers stated he thought if he was elected he may try to increase taxes because "I have been to the schools and something needs to be done to improve their physical appearance. Facilities for other than the three R's are inadequate. We need a school board behind a progressive program for the underprivileged, the underachiever, and we need understanding between teachers, parents and the board.

Wilson, who served on the board from 1959 to 1962, and was vice president in 1961, stated he had "no complaints with the overall picture" and believes a school board member holds great public trust.

"Most board members don't and can't know all the complexities of our educational system, but they should keep informed and should have clearly defined and written policies up to date and available for the public," Wilson said. A believer in "open sessions with possible exceptions to discuss personnel," he said he wanted to serve on the board because he believed in it and in our youth.

An advocate of a seven-man board, Wilson said it would prevent two or three people from controlling the board and would better represent the school district. On federal aid, Wilson said he would prefer as much be done locally as possible, "but we cannot get away completely from federal aid."

Thompson said his main reason for running was his three children because he "wanted to get the best system I know how to get. I don't know the details, but my main goal is to see the kids who graduate from Pampa High School and go on to college being as well qualified as any others. Those who do not go to college should have enough training in citizenship to be good citizens."

Thompson added he thought questions to the board "should be channeled through one individual."

In answer to the question, "doesn't the public have a right to know how much the board is paying Dr. Laycock as consul-that Johnson's so-called San Antonio Formula "is totally unacceptable to them now," the President said.

The broadcast is crucially timed politically. Wisconsin voters will choose two days later—in the Tuesday presidential primary—between the President and Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota, the Democratic peace candidate.

Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, the only major Republican candidate, canceled plans for a much-heralded radio speech on Vietnam at 6:30 p.m. EST Sunday to see what Johnson said.

Johnson said he would explain "generally" the government's position on Vietnam and "the course we plan to take." This involves troop deployments, other plans he is able to discuss publicly and "some actions" to be taken in Vietnam.

He said he would not name Gen. William C. Westmoreland's successor as the war commander. Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, his deputy, is regarded as the likeliest choice for the job, when Westmoreland becomes Army chief of staff on July 2.

Other Announcements During the news session, in which the President sat under a black fan-backed wicker chair, Johnson also said: "He had ordered an initial 12 per cent cutback in American government and contract employees, as well as foreign nationals, in U.S. embassies around the world, except in Saigon."

"That if Martin Luther King's poor people's campaign is held in Washington as planned, starting April 22, that 'the law will be obeyed, that the rights of individuals will be respected and that no violence will flow from it.'"

"Congress should act promptly on his request for a 10 per cent tax increase 'to support the fighting men and the domestic program.'"

Johnson said he would hold a series of important meetings next week in connection with his Sunday night speech on Vietnam, and indicated some of them might be outside Washington.

"ant?" Thompson answered "yes."

When asked during the meeting how much the board is paying, Thompson said he did not know. After the meeting, at the request of a reporter, he said he would find out, and called The News later Saturday with his answer.

"The board decided it needed help from a professional educational consultant to screen candidates. Based on time expended and results obtained, the salary would range between $400 and $600," Thompson said.

Hogan's representative said Hogan believed "there was no choice in closing Carver school; that he felt qualified because of his business background; and all meetings should be open to the public because the board is a public servant."

Woman, Girl Bitten By Uncaged Monkey

A Pampa woman and a four-year-old girl were bitten by a monkey Friday afternoon in an incident which took place in the 1000 block of E. Frederic. Mrs. "Rusty" Richardson was delivering papers for the Pampa Daily News. When she threw the paper toward a house in the block she noticed that an uncaged monkey grabbed it and started chewing the paper. When she tried to get the paper away from the monkey it attacked her, she said. Mrs. Richardson said she threw up her arm and avoided serious injury but received a bite on the hand. She was given a tetanus shot prescribed by her doctor. The girl, four-year-old Jeanette Plemons, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Plemons of 940 Frederic, sustained abrasions and scratches but there were no deep bites, according to her physician. The attack on the girl took place at about the time of the attack on the woman.

The monkey had bitten still another monkey running loose at the site of the incident bystanders said, at about the time of the attack on the woman and little girl.

The animals are owned by Harley Stanton Krouse, 1006 E. Frederic, who was charged with intoxication following the incident, according to Pampa police.

Both animals are being held for observation by a local veterinarian. If the animal which inflicted the injuries on the two Pampans is found to be rabid, both will have to undergo a painful series of anti-rabies inoculations.

Robb Bids Goodbye To Lynda Bird

NORTON AFB, Calif. (UPI)—While Secret Service men held off a crowd of spectators, Marine Capt. Charles S. Robb kissed his wife Lynda Bird and headed Saturday for Vietnam with 164 other Marines.

President Johnson's daughter and her husband made their farewells before a large contingent of newsmen and several hundred other persons at this San Bernardino County base.

They smiled and Robb, clad in green fatigues with shirt collar open strode onto a waiting chartered Braniff Airlines 707 jet for the first leg of his flight to 1st Marine Division headquarters at Phu Bai, South Vietnam.

Lynda Bird, wearing a blue sleeveless dress, dark blue hose and white patent leather low-heeled shoes, left about four minutes before the jet was airborne. She said she was going back to Washington immediately and entered the limousine in which she arrived here.

Phillips Gives Plant Contract

Phillips Petroleum Company and associates have awarded a contract for the design and construction of a plant for the treating of natural gas from the United Kingdom portion of the North sea. W. W. Keeler, president and chief executive officer of Phillips, has announced.

The contract, with the Ralph M. Parsons Co., U.K., Limited, calls for the building of the initial phase of the plant which will be designed to have a minimum ultimate capacity of one billion cubic feet of natural gas daily for delivery to the Gas Council distribution system. Construction will begin immediately and completion is scheduled for the second quarter of 1969. The site is located on the eastern sea-coast near Bacton, Norfolk, England.

Phillips is operator for a group of companies consisting of American Petrofina Exploration Co., AGIP Exploration (U.K.), Limited and a U.K. group consisting of Imperial Continental Gas Association, Courtaulds Limited, Tarmac Limited, and Oil Exploration Limited (formed under the auspices of the Ionian Bank to represent a group of private investors).

Police Better Prepared Now For Riot Outbreaks

By LOUIS CASSELL
UPI Senior Editor

America's law enforcement agencies are better prepared than they were last summer to cope with outbreaks of urban rioting.

But—contrary to widely-circulated reports—police departments are not arming themselves with such military weapons as tanks, flame-throwers and heavy machine guns.

A few cities are buying helicopters and armor-plated trucks which can be used to transport police quickly into riot areas. Several are stockpiling the kind of scope-equipped rifles which are most effective in countering sniper fire.

A nationwide UPI survey shows, however, that major cities will rely primarily on tear gas, billy clubs, shotguns and other conventional police weapons to control any disorders that may develop this summer.

The survey also disclosed that:

—Virtually every city now has one or more programs aimed at providing better job and housing opportunities for residents of black ghettos. But many of these programs are so poorly financed as to constitute mere token gestures. Few, if any, have had any visible impact on the miserable living conditions which are root causes of the ghetto's explosive discontent.

—Officials in most cities are publicly optimistic about the prospects of avoiding serious rioting this summer. But their hopeful statements are based in part on a belief that predicting trouble is a good way to bring it on. Privately, many admit to considerable anxiety.

Americas Anxious

—There is widespread fear among ordinary citizens, white and black, about what the summer of 1968 may bring. An ominous symptom of this fear in some communities is a sharp increase in private purchases of guns and pistols.

The national riots commission, headed by Gov. Otto Kerner of Illinois, in its recent report warned cities against over-reacting to the danger of riots by equipping police departments with "highly destructive implements of war."

Declaring that tanks, machine guns and other military weapons of "massive and indiscriminate lethality" have no place in police arsenals, the commission said:

"If violence by rioters goes beyond the capability of the police to control, trained military forces should be called in. We should not attempt to convert our police into combat troops equipped for urban warfare."

The UPI survey indicated that U.S. cities are heeding this advice.

"We're holding hard and fast to the regular police approach," said police Superintendent J.L. Moseley of Atlanta.

"We have made modifications in our police arsenal but have not gone into large, massive-power weapons," said Cincinnati Safety Director Henry Sandman. "We will not resort to excessive force in any situation."

There were many similar responses.

Although most cities have invested in additional police equipment since the summer of 1967, the survey showed, the majority of this expenditure has gone into non-lethal crowd control weapons such as tear gas; armored vests, helmets and other protective equipment for police; improved communications facilities, and new vehicles to speed deployment of large detachments of police into potential trouble zones.

Quinn Tamm, executive director of the International Association of Chiefs of Police, said his organization polled police departments of 120 cities without finding a single one that has acquired or plans to acquire heavy military arms.

He said some news media have "done a disservice by publishing reports of massive stockpiling of combat weapons."

The FBI manual on riot control, available to all police departments, states that tear gas is "the most effective and most humane means of achieving neutralization of a mob with a minimum of personal injury."

But the Kerner Commissions found that relatively few police departments had adequate supplies of tear gas and masks at the time of last summer's riots. This deficiency is being remedied, the UPI survey showed. In addition to conventional tear gas grenades and launchers, many cities are buying other non-lethal chemicals, such as "Mace," which take the fight out of an unruly

Drinking Trend Said Toward Moderation

By ROLAND LINDSEY

AUSTIN (UPI) — Although more Americans than ever before are drinking alcoholic beverages, the trend is toward moderation, the Licensed Beverage Industry, Inc., (LBI) says. The 1967 LBI report says, "enlightened public opinion has brought about a broadened general acceptance of moderate drinking in the lives of Americans."

The report says that 74.1 per cent of the adults in the United States use alcoholic beverages, compared to only 22 per cent in 1934.

But while the number of drinkers has increased, the LBI report says the amount consumed by the average drinker has increased "no more than half a drink per month."

Per capita consumption in the U.S. rose from 1.58 gallons annually in 1966 to 1.63 gallons in 1967. However, the report said consumption has increased only 3.4 gallons per drinker in 1934 to 3.7 gallons per drinker in 1967.

The LBI report credits a shift in public attitude toward drinking as the key to a "broadened general acceptance of the normal place of social drinking in the lives of American people."

An estimated 86 million Americans now use alcohol, the report says.

The report credits the increasing general acceptance of social drinking as a decisive factor in the expansion of "legal sales" areas in the nation.

For the first full year since 1951, every state in the union permitted the legal sale of spirits in 1967, the report said. Legal sales areas now include almost 180 million of the nation's 200 million population.

Mississippi last year became the final state to legalize the sale of alcoholic beverages on a local option basis.

Clarendon Aggie Club Rodeo Set

CLARENDON (Sp1) — The Aggie Club is conducting its fourth annual Clarendon College Rodeo April 12-13 at the Donley County Fairgrounds. Events for boys will include bareback broncs, bulls, tie-down calf roping, and ribbon roping. Barrel racing competition will be open to girls and a queen contest will be held following the Saturday afternoon performance.

The show promises to be the biggest and best ever held. Contestants have entered from a large number of area high schools and colleges over the Panhandle and South Plains regions. Campbell and Cordell, producers from Childress, will provide approximately twenty-one broncs, twenty-one bulls, eighteen tie-down calves, and fifteen ribbon calves. Lawrence Overcast will serve as rodeo announcer.

The winner of each event will receive a buckle award, as will the three top averaged winners of each event for two performances. The best all-around cowboy will also be awarded a buckle. Contestants are limited to two performances in each event. The all-around cowboy contestants must qualify in both a riding and roping event.

Delbert Reed, sponsor of the Aggie Club, stated: "We enjoy sponsoring the annual Clarendon College Rodeo. It gives the members of our club an opportunity to display both citizenship and leadership abilities; it gives young people a chance to compete in a challenging, exciting sport; and it provides exciting entertainment for rodeo fans. We think our rodeo can

THE LIGHTER SIDE Students And Elections

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — At this stage of the campaign, many of the pundits are saying that students will play a decisive role in the 1968 presidential election.

I assume they mean college students, although high school and elementary school students also have been demanding a bigger voice in national affairs.

And almost any day now I expect we will start hearing from the kindergarten set.

On a recent afternoon I had occasion to stop by Mrs. Kasper's Kiddie College where my preschool son is taking an under graduate course in show-and-tell.

As I entered the classroom, all of the young scholars were sprawled out on the floor.

"Good grief!" I exclaimed. "They're staging a lie-in."

Kiddie Mutiny
Mrs. Kasper assured me it was the rest period rather than a protest demonstration. She subsequently confided, however, that there was a rebellious faction in the kindergarten.

That evening I decided to have a talk with my son about it.

"What is the issue that is causing the conflict between the students and the kindergarten taking a blind leap across the generation gap."

"Academic freedom," he replied.

"Is the faculty perchance insulating the students from reality with archaic instructional procedures, the foundation of which is expressed through the adventures of Sally, Jane and Dick and their dog Spot?"

"Exactly," he said.

"And what demands are the students making to overcome the stultifying, repressive atmosphere and force the adoption of curricula more in keeping with the times?"

Fun-and-Games
"We are seeking the right to look at comic books during the first fun-and-games period and to wear 'Batman' sweatshirts during the fingerprinting period."

"Anything else?"

"Yes— We feel that the students should be given a larger role in establishing playground policy, such as regulating the use of the jungle gym."

"Have you talked this over with your teacher?"

"We don't trust anyone over 7."

"I see. By the way, what's that thing pinned inside your jacket?"

"It's my 'Juvenile Power' button."

School Board In White Deer Holds Meet

WHITE DEER (Sp1) — The Board of Administrators of the White Deer School board met Thursday night with all members present but one. The board, along with Markham Waddill, David Grayson, John Morris, John Banks, and Dorma Thomas, was served a meal in the Home Ec. Dept. by Mrs. Shirley Greene and members of the Homemaking III class.

Paul Hinton presided at the routine business session, after which the board accepted resignation of Stephen Hood, Skellytown coach, effective the end of the current school year. Acting in accordance with the compulsory retirement age of 65, the board approved the retirement of Mrs. Pansy Ballard of Skellytown, effective at the end of the school year.

The following teachers were employed for the year 1968-69 in the Skellytown Grade School, White Deer High School, and White Deer Grade School: Carolyn Bailey, Roy Dykes, Doyle Pittman, Lem Greene, Evelyn Chamberlain, Mary Rowell, Weldon Thomas, Wilma Cornette, Jimmy Marrs, Teddy Brown, Dianne Dalton, Dwayne Patton, Mary Burcham, Ruth Dykes, Marynell Young, Bob Burkart and Dorothy McMurray.

Teachers employed for the school years 1968-69 and 1969-70 were Helen Banks, Elizabeth Hawkins, Edith Morris, Evelyn Evans, Marion Johnson, Marguerite Hudgins, W. H. Evans, Jean Miller, Virgie McGee, Mary Helms, Kathleen O'Keefe, Lawson Shaw, Marguerite Ward and Iva Ruth Reid.

Appointed to the 1968 board of Equalization were Eugene Richardson, E. E. Crawford and Dare Locke.

Due to several traffic accidents in front of the high school, the board voted to request the White Deer City Commission to declare for safety purposes O-mohundro Street between 6th and 8th Avenues, one way for traffic going North, and Doucette St. between 6th and 8th one way for traffic going south. The boards approved the list of textbooks as recommended by the textbooks Selection Committee.

Washington Window

By JOHN A. GOLDSMITH
WASHINGTON (UPI)—

Democratic politicians, more accustomed to judgements based on money, power and votes, are again assessing an intangible quality called "charisma."

They well remember that John F. Kennedy was loaded with charisma. The late President's brother, Bob, seems to have some of it, and Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., is showing charismatic symptoms.

President Johnson, in the generally accepted view, scores close to zero on the charisma scale.

Charisma Definition
The dictionaries say charisma is a kind of "supernatural power" by which a man commands "enthusiastic popular support." It is divinely granted—a token of grace which envelops an individual like the halos given the saints by renaissance painters.

Whatever the scholarly definition, politicians see charisma as a quality which gets the adrenalin racing in the political rank and file.

It starts the mini-skirted girls jumping and stirs their mothers too. It produces the kind of frenzied, cheering political crowds that Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., has been attracting in his short bid for the Democratic presidential nomination.

The problem for political professionals is how to relate charisma to votes—in the first instance, votes at the Democratic National Convention in August. It is not a simple problem, because it raises questions which are hard to answer in quantitative terms.

How many of the people who mob Kennedy on college campuses are even old enough to vote? How many are registered? Will they all cast their votes and if they do, will they love him in November as they do in March?

Would Like Answer
The Democratic mayor or county chairman, who expects to be a convention delegate, would like to have the answers to those questions to consider along with the latest polls.

After all, President Kennedy—for all his charisma—won a very narrow victory, and Adlai Stevenson, who had a bit of it, never won the presidency at all.

State chairmen, national committeemen and other party strategists would like those answers too. More than anything else, they will base their moves on who can win the nomination and whether that man can retain the White House with its prestige, patronage and power.

Russian Natural Gas Industry Is Failing To Meet Production Goal

By FRED LANKARD
United Press International
Although it has experienced an 800 per cent increase in the past decade, the Soviet Union's natural gas industry is still failing to meet its forecast production goals.

A report by the Oil and Gas Journal notes that Russia's 1965 production was less than 4.6 trillion cubic feet, well below a 1959 prediction for 5.3 trillion in 1965.

Planners are now calling for production of up to 8.47 trillion cubic feet in 1970. The Journal said indications are that the figure is more likely to be in the 7.6 trillion cubic feet range.

The report shows the Russians annual rate of gain peaked at over 670 billion cubic feet in 1965. Then, instead of the expected steady increase, the rate of gain dropped to 544 billion cubic feet in 1966 and below 500 billion last year.

The Journal said expansion of the industry's far-flung transmission systems will probably reverse the annual output drop by 1969 or 1970.

Few Skilled Workers
The problems that have held back the anticipated boom in Russian gas production are numerous. There are shortages of money, a lack of skilled workers and delays in development and automation, completion of gathering lines and small transmission lines and construction of processing facilities.

Possibly the greatest problems, however, are the geography and very size of the U.S.S.R.

There is what the Journal termed a "tremendous disparity" between the regions containing the largest reserves and the major areas of gas production. Total Russian pipeline capacity "is still unimpressive by American standards."

Despite the failure to match its output predictions for the 1960s, the Soviet gas industry has still recorded a vast growth.

Speakers Named For API Meeting Set In Amarillo

AMARILLO — Speakers at the general session of the API Mid-Continent District Meeting, Thursday, April 4, at 9:30 a.m., will be David M. Molthrop, Howard W. Blauvelt, and H. C. Allen, Jr. The announcement was made by R. L. Higginbottom, Cities Service Oil Co., district chairman.

David M. Molthrop, community education consultant to the National Small Business Association of Washington, D. C. will open the meeting. His topic will be "Pouring Oil on the Troubled Waters of Politics."

Molthrop averages 300 speeches and 20 debates each year championing the cause of freedom and free enterprise. He has both a union and industry background and has gained a national reputation as a forceful and dynamic speaker. He has participated vigorously in state and national campaigns involving such issues as a guaranteed annual wage, unemployment compensation, and right-to-work. His articles have appeared in several national publications.

Howard W. Blauvelt, executive vice president, Continental Oil Co., N. Y., will talk on "Future Prospects for Major Sources of Energy."

One of the "new type" oilmen, who has taken a solid place in management ranks beside the explorationist, driller, production engineer, and refiner, Blauvelt has held various accounting, economic, and financial positions with Conoco since 1952. As a member of Continental's Finance, Planning and Policy Committee, Blauvelt sums up his ideas about his company's future as "recognizing the growing demand for all forms of energy and devoting each form to its most efficient use."

Dr. Harry C. Allen Jr., assistant director for research of the U.S. Department of Interior's Bureau of Mines, Washington, D. C., will discuss "Status and Future of Oil-shale Exploration."

Prior to joining the Bureau of Mines in 1966, Dr. Allen had been on the staff of the National Bureau of Standards since 1954 and has been an Atomic Energy Commission postdoctoral fellow at Harvard University. He has authored over 40 research papers and is co-author of a book on molecular spectroscopy. This 1968 meeting of the API Mid-Continent District will be held at the Holiday Inn West in Amarillo April 3-5, 1968.

MESINA CAPTURED
CAGLIAGI, Sardinia (UPI)—Graziama Mesina, a feared Sardinian bandit whose dark good looks brought him love letters from women all over Europe, was captured Tuesday in the village of Mamoida, the Italian news agency ANSA said.

Dr. Harry C. Allen Jr., assistant director for research of the U.S. Department of Interior's Bureau of Mines, Washington, D. C., will discuss "Status and Future of Oil-shale Exploration."

Prior to joining the Bureau of Mines in 1966, Dr. Allen had been on the staff of the National Bureau of Standards since 1954 and has been an Atomic Energy Commission postdoctoral fellow at Harvard University. He has authored over 40 research pa-

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—Goodly & Co. feels "At the moment there appears to be little basis for projecting an upturn in stock prices, particularly while international monetary uncertainties are yet to be firmly resolved. Therefore the firm continued to advise caution with regard to the general market over the near term." A solution to Vietnam, the "number one headache," the firm thinks, "would almost certainly have an immediate and strongly bullish impact on the stock market."

Thomson & McKinnon notes that "while institutions are in a very liquid position the consensus appears to be there is no pressing reason to commit large amounts of funds at this time even in light of some very reasonable equity prices." The current light trading, the firm senses, could continue through the summer.

Wright Investors' Service says the 1968 bear market is not yet over, and somewhat lower price levels almost certainly will be reached within the next few months. "This is not, however, the same thing as saying that all stocks in all industry groups will decline further, or that no new selections should be made," the firm stressed.

Birth Control Pill Use Results In Suit By Woman

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI)—A suit by a Tuskegee mother of two, charging negligence against a birth control pill manufacturer, has been transferred from Tuscaloosa circuit court to circuit court here.

Mrs. Peggy Pelouin, 30, is seeking $100,000 in damages from the Ortho Pharmaceutical Corp. of Raritan, N.J., for injuries she allegedly suffered from taking a birth control pill—Ortho-Novum—made by the company.

Mrs. Pelouin said she took the pill from 1962 through 1967 and charged that as a result she has had a stroke, was partially paralyzed for a time, and still suffers "post-traumatic depression." She says she has undergone a personality change, is in pain and fears having another, more serious, stroke. She charges breach of warranty saying the company guaranteed the pills to be of "proven reliability and safety in control of ovulation and conception."

She further charged the company "carelessly failed and neglected to prevent, guard against, give notice or warn the general public" that the tablets "contained deleterious, harmful and vascular spasm-inducing ingredients, and the tablets were likely to cause users to develop and contact serious illness."

Bronze Shortage

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)—Robert B. Greene has bronzed such objects as pitcher Don Larsen's shoes, glove and hat and a black marlin eye sockets. But the president of Born-Shoe Co., did a double take when he received an order from Kansas State University to bronze the shoes of a basketball player.

"It was the darndest thing I ever saw," Green said Tuesday after seeing the size 21 triple-E sneakers of 7-foot-2, 270-pound Nick Pino. "It was certainly the biggest shoe we've done."

Safety Meet Is Scheduled In Amarillo

The Panhandle Chapter of the American Society of Safety Engineers will sponsor a one-day safety clinic in Amarillo on Wednesday, April 3rd.

The Chapter extends an invitation to all business and industrial organizations to send representatives to the clinic, which will be held at the Southwestern Public Service Center located at 6088 West 48th and Bell Avenue, beginning at 8:30 a.m.

The clinic program will be of interest to small business organizations which do not have safety departments as well as to safety personnel. Supervisors and foremen will also find the program of interest and value, chapter officials said.

The clinic will deal principally with talks, demonstrations and discussions concerning the prevention of personal and vehicular accidents and the control of their costs.

Registration for the clinic can be made by writing to J.F. Waters, P. O. Box 1261, Amarillo, Texas, 79105. The fee will be $5.00 per person.

Cancer Signals To Be Featured In April Drive

With emphasis centered on cancer's seven warning signals, the American Cancer Society is preparing to launch its 1968 educational and fund-raising Crusade tomorrow, April 1.

According to Don R. Lane, Gray County Cancer Crusade chairman, the month-long campaign will focus attention on the fact that too many people are not familiar with just which early signs could indicate cancer.

"While the public is slowly acquiring knowledge of the signals," Lane continued, "surveys show that too many cannot name most of the signals."

"The basic, yet simple warning signals that could mean the presence of cancer serve as an alert to aid in early diagnosis when cancer is in its earliest and curable stage," Lane said.

Plans for the all-out April Crusade, Lane explained, include nationwide distribution of 40,000,000 leaflets listing the seven warning signals of cancer. It is hoped that every family in Gray County will receive this leaflet, most of them to be distributed in person by Cancer Society volunteer workers Tuesday evening.

The seven warning signals of cancer, as itemized by Lane are: (1) Unusual bleeding or discharge. (2) A lump or thickening in the breast or elsewhere. (3) A sore that does not heal. (4) Change in bowel or bladder habits. (5) Hoarseness or cough. (6) Indigestion or difficulty in swallowing. (7) Any change in a wart or mole.

Should any of these signals last longer than two weeks, Lane urged an early visit to the doctor. Only he can tell if cancer is present.

Income Tax Questions, Answers

EDITOR'S NOTE — This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the Pampa office of the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published by The News as a public service to taxpayers.

Q—Are cigarette taxes deductible if you itemize?
A—No, taxes on cigarettes and other tobacco products are not deductible for federal tax purposes. Page 8 of the Form 1040 instructions lists the taxes you can deduct on your income tax return.

Q—Are dividends from a savings and loan account considered dividends or interest?
A—This income should be reported as interest on Page 2 of Form 1040.

Q—My neighbor just received his income tax refund. How long should it take between the time you file and the time your check comes?
A—If the return is accurate and complete, it should take from five to six weeks to receive an income tax refund. To avoid delays, read the instructions that accompany the tax forms carefully. Mistakes delaying refunds this year are inaccurate social security numbers, missing W-2 statements, and missing signatures.

Q—My widowed mother lives with us and her only income is interest from a savings account. Can we claim her as a dependent?
A—You may claim your mother as a dependent if you provide more than half her support and her income from all sources is not $600 or more.

Q—What are the changes on medical expense deductions?
A—There are two major changes. First, the medical expenses of all taxpayers must be reduced by 3 per cent of their total income before they can be deducted. Prior to 1967, the medical expenses of taxpayers 65 and over were not subject to this rule. Second, one half of the premiums paid for medical insurance up to a maximum of $150 may be deducted without regard to the 3 per cent rule.

Q—Are tips taxable?
A—Yes, they are. Tip income should also be reported to your employer if they amount to $20 or more in any month. This will enable your employer to withhold social security and income taxes on the tips from your regular salary.

the Drama of DRUGS

by Tom Beard

That remarkable mechanism, the human body, is revealing more of its secrets to the medical and pharmaceutical profession every day, but the odd thing about this is that the more we discover, the more we are amazed by its complexity, toughness, and balance.

Far from least astonishing of all the secrets of the body are the endocrine glands.

The substances they secrete exercise over us the power of life and death, and the slightest imbalance of these secretions will produce startling, powerful changes in us that will result even in complete alteration of our whole personalities.

Despite knowledge of some of their functions, just how they operate in their multitude of complexity, is still largely a riddle.

For better health all men seek immediate treatment for any illness that may arise. At Richard Drug we help you meet these crisis by keeping complete stocks of medicines in our store.

Our Men In Service

Kenneth Harrell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Harrell, Canadian, returned to the United States March 13 and is now stationed at San Diego, California. He spent seven months in the Vietnam area on the communication ship, the USS Mt. McKinley.

He is now attending a postal clerk's school while serving as assistant postmaster of his division. Harrell is scheduled to return to Vietnam the first of the year.

US FORCES, GERMAN Y- Army Pvt. James F. Baker, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Baker, 413 Graham, Pampa, was promoted to the rank of Private First Class on Feb. 15th.

The 19-year-old soldier is assigned to Headquarters Company, 34th Signal Battalion, Corps, as a clerk typist where his duties consist of typing for the Adjutant General and assisting the battalion lawyer.

The 34th Signal Battalion, Corps, a combat-ready unit stationed near Ludwigsburg, Germany, is part of the NATO force protecting the free Western World. The 34th Signal Battalion has the mission to provide signal communications for major subordinate tactical units of VII Corps and all echelons of VII Corps Headquarters.

PFC Baker received his promotion upon completion of the United States Army Finance School at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Indiana, with a 95.34 average.

His wife, Donna, lives at 1435 E. Francis, Pampa.

FT. EUSTIS, VA.—Private Robert W. Carter, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eldon B. Carter, 2221 N. Christy, Pampa, completed a helicopter repair course March 12 at the Army Transportation School, Ft. Eustis, Va. During the 11-week course, he was instructed in the maintenance of the single-rotor, turbine-powered UH-1D utility helicopter.

CAMP PENDLETON, CALIF. (FHTNC) — Marine Private Thomas H. Reeves, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Reeves of 1001 E. Kingsmill, Pampa, completed two weeks of training under simulated combat conditions in the fundamentals of day and night patrolling, employment of infantry weapons, survival methods and assault tactics at this Marine Corps base.

This individual combat training is given every Marine after his graduation from recruit training. Taught by combat experienced non-commissioned officers of the infantry training regiment here, it prepares the young Leatherneck to become part of the Marine air-ground combat team.

While in the field he was taught how to use hand grenades, a compass and the principles of map reading and land navigation. He learned how to detect and disarm mines and booby traps and, while being exposed to live machine gun fire, he learned to advance safely from one point to another.

From this course, he is scheduled to go on to more advanced training before being assigned to his permanent unit.

AIRMAN MELVIN O. MINER

SAN ANTONIO — Airman Melvin O. Miner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Burton M. Miner of Perryton, has completed basic training at Lackland AFB. He has been assigned to the Air Force Technical Training Center at Lowry AFB, Colo., for specialized schooling as a photographic specialist.

Airman Miner, a 1965 graduate of Pawnee (Okla.) High School, attended Oklahoma State Tech. College, Okmulgee, Okla. His wife is the former Raetta Gibson of Ralston, Okla.

USS MOUNT MCKINLEY (AGC-7), San Diego (FHTNC) — Electrician's Mate Fireman Arthur S. Rhodes, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur A. Rhodes of 1137 Crane Road, Pampa, returned to San Diego, Calif., aboard the amphibious command ship USS Mount McKinley.

McKinley recently completed an eight month deployment in the Western Pacific as flagship for Commander Amphibious Forces and his staff. It was the "nerve center" for amphibious ready groups operating off the coast of Vietnam.

As flagship, the ship provided communication and specialized support for 16 amphibious operations and conducted 591 helicopter take-offs and landings. Mount McKinley participated in a number of operations including Beacon Guide, Fortress Sentry, Ballistic Charge, and Badger Hunt providing support for both amphibious and helicopter operations.

QUANTICO, VA (FHTNC) — Travis J. Tucker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Denver L. Tucker of 1015 Duncan, Pampa, was commissioned a Second Lieutenant in the United States Marine Corps after completing the Officer's Candidate Course, at Marine Corps Schools, Quantico, Va.

Candidates for the course are drawn from colleges and universities throughout the nation and from the enlisted ranks of the corps.

The ten-week course concentrates on individual responsibility as a leader and on tactical control and employment of small combat units.

STG-3 Lee G. Wright, son of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Wright, Las Vegas, Nev., has just completed four years active duty in the Navy, finishing at Long Beach, Calif.

Wright and his wife, Sandra, are making their home in Lakeview Terrace, Calif. Mrs. Wright is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Deck Woldt, Pampa.

Selective Service Answers

EDITOR'S NOTE: Below are questions now being asked at draft boards. The answers are by Colonel Morris S. Schwartz, State Selective Service Director, 208 W. 9th St. Austin, Texas 78701. He will welcome your questions.

Q—When is a Selective Service classification subject to court review?

A—Section 10(b) (3) of the draft law provides: "No judicial review shall be made of the classification or processing of any registrant by local boards, appeal boards, or the President, except as a defense to a criminal prosecution instituted under Section 12 of this title, after the registrant has responded either affirmatively or negatively to an order to report for induction, or for civilian work in the case of a registrant determined to be opposed to participation in war in any form: Provided, that such review shall go to the question of the jurisdiction herein reserved to local boards, appeal boards, and the President only when there is no basis in fact for the classification assigned to such registrant."

Q—May I volunteer for induction even though I'm deferred in Class III-A because of my dependents?

A—Anyone may apply for voluntary induction. If, however, after review of your case, the board retains you in III-A, you will not be inducted.

Q—Does the draft law provide special consideration for the National Guard?

A—It provides for the deferment of members of the Guard as long as they satisfactorily participate in prescribed training. They must serve six years, not less than four consecutive months of it active duty for training. The law states "that it is essential that the strength and organization" of Guard "be at all times maintained and assured."

Divorce Action May Eliminate 'Buried' Record

AUSTIN (UPI)—Bill White, who is trying to set an endurance record for being buried alive, commented today that he has a new problem.

Travis County sheriff's deputies presented White with a court order last week requiring him to be in district court April 2 to show cause why he shouldn't pay temporary support pending a hearing on a divorce suit.

The suit was filed Monday in District Court by his wife, Lottie M. Howard White.

White said he will ask for a continuance until he comes out of his grave.

White went underground Feb. 23 with plans to break his 55 day record. His wife was on hand when he entered the grave, and gave him several "goodbye" kisses for cameramen.

Mrs. White charges unspecified "acts of cruelty" as grounds for divorce. She asked the court to award her $125 per week, "the radio and TV," plus payment of her attorney's fee.

The petition says the couple was married June 17, 1966, and lived together until "March 25, 1968."

If White's attorneys don't get a postponement, the country singer will apparently have to cut his grave-dwelling stint short by about three weeks.

NATIONAL HONOR — Mrs. Ruth Phillips is shown receiving from her employer, Bob Clements, the Certificate of Achievement and ribbon awarded her by a national magazine as nationwide Countergirl of the Month for April. Service, dedication to work and courtesy to customers, brought her the recognition, according to the judges.

Pampan Is Recognized By Magazine

Mrs. Ruth Phillips, 729 N. Nelson, has been named Countergirl of the Month by the American Drycleaner magazine, national trade publication with a circulation of over 30,000. She was nominated for the honor by her employer, Bob Clements, 1437 N. Hobart.

Mrs. Phillips is being honored with a picture and story in the April issue of the magazine. Selection of Countergirl of the Month is made on the basis of the individual's dedication to a her drycleaning customers and her ability to serve as an ambassador for the industry.

In the opinion of the judges, Mrs. Phillips with her friendly manner is an outstanding example of a countergirl. Personal tributes which are frequently paid her by customers emphasize this talent. Mrs. Phillips was presented with a certificate of achievement and a special award ribbon in recognition of her honor.

Center Wrap-Up

George Smith, Director
Pampa Youth and Community Center

TEEN DANCES — Attention teens and parents. Saturday night was the last weekend for dances at the Center until further notice. This was brought about by two incidents. (1) Another dance is being held at a local club just outside of town on the same nights as our Center dance. Pampa cannot support two teen dances in any one given night so one had to go. (2) As teenagers will, some were telling their parents they were going to the dance on Friday night. The parents automatically thought of the Youth Center, but instead the youngsters were going to the other dance. This conflict in dances has brought about many problems and the Center was receiving the bad end of it.

The Center is sorry that the dances must be discontinued but until these problems are ironed out, we feel we must. If enough teens and parents become interested in the future of the Pampa teen dance, we will start again.

SWIM LESSONS — Spring is sprung and all thoughts are in terms of swimming. Now is the time to get all those youngsters enrolled in the swim program so they can enjoy the summer months in "a cool water hole." With the increasing amount of water at lakes around Pampa it is important that all persons who fish, ski, swim, picnic and boat know how to swim.

The Center offers a full program of swim lessons the year round. We use the Red Cross plan of swimming which includes beginners, advanced beginners, intermediates, swimmers, Jr. and Sr. Life Saving and the Water Safety Instructor's course. The Center adds a pre-beginners class called polywogs to this list.

Polywogs are children 4-6 yrs. of age not in school and who measure 33 inches tall to the chin.

All classes are taught by Jackie Marlar, Red Cross Water Safety Ins. Lessons are taught on a 2 1/2 week time schedule unless interrupted by holidays. Two classes are offered each session from 4:5 p.m. and 5-6 p.m. on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday. Courses are available to everyone with enrollment free to Center members and $4 for non-members.

GROUP PARTIES — Now is a good time to plan that home-room party at school or social at your church. Groups are always welcome at the Center and sponsors are admitted free. Private parties are available on Tuesdays. Call MO 5-2622 for reservations after 4 p.m.

VOLLEYBALL RESULTS — La Bonita took over the leadership in the women's league and Bell Pontiac continued in first place in the men's division following games this week. La Bonita defeated defending champion Yellow Cab 15-12, 12-15 and 15-9 while Jonas Auto Sales bumped First Baptist 15-0 and 15-0.

In the men's action Bell Pontiac thumped Skelly 15-5 and 15-4. Furr's quieted Jordan Conoco 15-9 and 16-14. Celanese No. 2 tripped First Baptist 15-10 and 7-0 while Kiwanis was winning their 15-10 and 15-10. Years of play over Celanese No. 1 7-0, 9-15 and 15-13.

CLOUD-SEEDING experiments to disperse fog around airports have produced promising results, according to the Air Transport Association. Dark areas in fogbank show reaction to seeding which causes water droplets to combine, thus reducing their number, affording greater visibility.

Power Company May 'Darken' Reynosa

REYNOSA, Mexico (UPI) — Wherever you are, if you don't pay the light bill, you're likely to wind up in the dark.

That—according to Francisco Longoria, local electrical commission director—is just what is going to happen to the city of Reynosa within the next few days.

Longoria said Wednesday the city owes the Federal Electrical Commission, which regulates power throughout Mexico, a total of 280,000 pesos, and if the sum is not paid, he will cut off municipal power in all areas save at the city's hospital and other emergency facilities.

It will not affect the average home-owner, since private users pay their bills directly to the city, last year. He said he is awaiting orders from Mexico City, and the lights probably will be turned off by the weekend.

Longoria said he repeatedly has asked Mayor Rodolfo Garcia Cantu to settle the bill, but Cantu has not replied.

Asked about the situation Wednesday, Cantu said: "We haven't got the money. We're going to have to ask the state for funds."

A Reynosa reporter said a wave of "nervousness" swept through the town Wednesday after Longoria's announcement of the impending blackout.

"The streets will be very dark without street lights," he said. "People don't like the idea of walking through them. They have no way of knowing exactly when the lights will go out, or when they will come back on."

Most of additional gun buying is by white people. A Fort Worth policeman said that nearly all of last summer's run on gun stores was by "good, substantial citizens who did not have a gun in the house."

Bob Taylor, who owns the Sportsman's Store in Preston Forest Square, a high income area of Dallas, said he could sell more pistols, if he had them. His shotgun and rifle sales for the year are not up.

A spokesman for Davis Hardware, another big Austin gun dealer, said sales were down and the reason pistols were hard to get was because the government was taking 95 per cent of pistol production.

Nobody reports selling more than two or three guns at once and usually sales are of one gun at a time.

"Last year, two people bought five boxes of pistol ammunition at one time," Badgett said.

"One was a doctor. He sent his nurse over to get it."

The Grant Iling Sporting Goods Store, located on the east side of Houston, where many Negroes also live, reports sales up about 20 per cent. Tom Emerson, manager of the gun department, said it might be because whites fear trouble with Negroes. Most of the buyers are white, he said.

Gun Sales Up In Scattered Areas Across Texas, Down In Places

United Press International Gun sales this year have increased at scattered points in Texas but at many points they are actually lower than last year, a survey indicated today.

"We've got about a 20 per cent increase," Robert Badgett, of AAA Wiley's Guns in Dallas said. "Older people are buying guns now. Gray-haired women are buying them to keep around the house."

"More store owners are buying guns this year. They favor shotguns and if it is single-barreled, cut a few inches off of the barrel. I think people are becoming conscious of not being able to do anything if something like a burglary happened at their homes."

On the other hand, the Texas Gun Clinic, the closest gun store to Texas Southern University, reports sales down 10 per cent this year. There was a riot at Texas Southern University in Houston last spring.

W. G. Cherry, a salesman in Oshman's Sporting Goods, Inc., in Houston, said their sales were down 7-8 per cent. He suggested it might be because people bought all the guns they needed last year.

"They are all prepared or not worried," said Bill Lindgren, who runs a gun store in Dallas. "I think everybody who wanted a gun bought one last year. When the trouble in Detroit was going on, we were very busy."

A spokesman at McBride's said pistol sales are about what they were last year, excluding the summer run. He said, however, that he probably could sell more pistols if he could get them.

San Antonio police, who are keeping up with gun sales in their city, report things are normal. Capt. Frank Eysen of the Dallas Police Department, who said the department has not surveyed gun sales this year, but if there had been a sudden boom, police would have heard about it.

Student Council Convention Set By Pampans

Five Pampa High Students will attend the annual Texas Association of Student Council Convention in San Antonio Thursday through Saturday.

Delegates are Dwight Rogers, Carlos Caballero, John Dugan, Johnny Epperson and John Carr. Epperson, Dugan and Carr will preside in two roundtable discussions on how to rebuild student councils.

James Hulett, sponsor, will accompany the boys who will attend HemisFair '68 and will bear an address by news commentator Walter Cronkite.

Pope Paul Abolishes Papal Court

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Pope Paul VI today abolished the papal court with all its worldly trappings of splendor and replaced it with a purely functional body of a "strictly religious character."

The Pope fired scores of papal retainers and dismissed members of Rome's proud "black nobility" from his immediate retinue in the most drastic reform of the papal household since the Middle Ages.

The act, following a reform of the Roman Curia that assists the Pope in governing the church, was regarded by observers as one of the most significant moves of Paul's five-year old reign.

The Pope said laymen no longer would participate in ceremonies in which he is carried in procession. The processions, marked by regal splendor for centuries, will be limited to clergymen and will include a larger number of Rome parish priests, he said.

Red Cross News

By LIBBY SHOTWELL Executive Secretary

Thanks to the good doctors and nurses at Highland General Hospital, I am back in the office and feeling fine again. Thanks for all the good wishes and for the many kind notes I received from friends while I was ill.

Work in the Red Cross office goes on as usual each day regardless of who is in our office. Several emergencies were taken care of and many letters were written to overseas Field Directors regarding our servicemen. Mrs. Noel Thompson did an excellent job while she held down the Red Cross office alone during the past 10 days.

A group of High School boys and girls with Red Cross Volunteers took supper of sandwiches, potato chips, cookies and drink to the St. Ann's Children's Home in Panhandle last Friday. Pat Homer entertained the children with games and a fine trip was reported by Mrs. Lynn Boyd, Mrs. Fred Ammeter, and Mrs. Juan DeLeon. Thanks to all of you who went, especially Polly Wagner, president of High School Red Cross.

Mrs. Shotwell will take a group of Red Cross Volunteers to Amarillo Air Force Base Thursday, April 4th for an orientation of Hospital Volunteers. 18 new recruits will be in the training Workshop. This is real cooperation between chapters.

This memo was received this week regarding civil disorders. "Civil disorders are not emergencies in which the American Red Cross assumes normal disaster relief responsibilities.

"However, where there is suffering and want from any cause and fundamental human need it will be met by the American Red Cross. Chapters should keep our National organization informed regarding current situations. When, in the opinion of the civil and military authorities, there is a definite need, the Red Cross will furnish shelter for refugees—this could result from evacuation of homes or evacuation of people from an area in which disturbances have occurred or are expected to occur.

"Immediate clothing needs and canteen service will be provided in shelters, however canteen service will not be provided troops or police on patrol. Medical and nursing service will be provided in shelters and welfare inquiry messages will be sent insofar as it is practicable.

"All disaster personnel will want to copy these newest memos for their referral. Let us all pray that none of us will ever have to be concerned with these measures.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: This is not a very important day of evening activities in which you have all kinds of opportunities to quietly look at a course of action that can lead to a very successful future. You may find it difficult to get your own financial desires, so it would be a day to remember. No action is to be taken that would not have your best interests at heart.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): A day to elevate your consciousness to the finer things of life so that you can acquire more of them and have a happier time as well. All expert in business gives fine advice drawn from own experience. Take it easy.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20): Know what your own financial desires are and test them against those who are very successful. Be a little formal in your entertainment tonight. Enjoy yourself as well as the Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Chase yourself for a while today and think over what your real needs are. Take first steps in such directions. Don't consider the others or you might lose the day.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21): Doing whatever will bring closer relationships with good friends will do more small miracles for you. Don't be so unopinionated at social affairs. Keep cool and poised and you win over others.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21): Others are too busy right now to give you the credit, recognition for the fine work you have been engaged in for some time. Be patient. Carry through with further good advice. Become even more successful.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 21): You are willing to listen to others' ideas and can make really big headway with them. Take that little trip you have in mind. Also get the results you want.

LIBRA (Sept. 22 to Oct. 21): Your wife likes to do everything and you know more than others, actually, and you know the opportunity to do just that. Be more romantic with mate. Don't take him for granted.

SCORPIO (Oct. 22 to Nov. 21): Get into matters of your own, but do not start any arguments, or fall into any traps when trying to put your foot on the neck of another. Be charming, kind and generous.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): You reach decisions early instead of deliberating so much, you can then accomplish a great deal today. Do whatever is depending on you, see that you please instead of disappoint them.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Others are willing to give you a lot of good time, but take care you do not have to live a big bill later. Stick to whatever is of a proven nature. Don't take unnecessary risks — avoid strangers.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Take care you act in such a way that you are not irritated in any way, or there could be some very bad arguments. Be steadfast in the right way of life, which you profess. Keep thinking and all is fine.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Be very meticulous in carrying through with statements, writings, correspondence, — also find the right associate who can back you as you must desire. Show diplomacy and you get what you want.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... — If your child is born today, you should be sure to be sure to teach early the value of money, how to take care of things, etc. Then the child becomes very fine for property management, banking, etc. Send to a good business college. Business training early, also.

Panhandle Water Conservation News

By FELIX W. RYALS
The political entities that are partners in the Cooper Reservoir Project are going all out to protect what they think to be a possible future encroachment by West Texas Water needs.

Victor Bouldin, attorney for one of the political entities in the project has drawn up a contract for the others to adopt, which proposes that the Water Development Board be required to pump water into the reservoir at the same rate it pumps the westward-bound water out. This could mean that in years of little rainfall that there would be very little East Texas water heading for the high plains of West Texas.

This points up once again the necessity for West Texas to get water from the enormous surplus that flows unused into the Gulf of Mexico below New Orleans.

To those of us who remember our studies of history in the late twenties from the textbook "Old Europe and Young America," by Mace and Petrie, we recall that the two French explorers, Iberville and Bienville, founded the City of New Orleans just around the bend of the Mississippi River from the Gulf of Mexico. Soll, picked up by the waters of the Ohio, Missouri, Arkansas and Red Rivers, has filled in the Gulf below New Orleans a distance equal roughly to the distance between Amarillo and Lubbock. The best top soil in the states traversed by those rivers has been carried a long way.

Should the import of water become an actual fact, the very diversion of the water would be a big assist in slowing down the loss of soil in a big portion of the North Central and Mid-Western States.

Violators Warned
Attorney General Crawford Martin, last week issued a warning to all users of stream water to be in possession of a permit from Texas Water Rights Commission. Violators are subject to a $100 a day penalty for each day water is used without a permit.

The first case in which civil penalties were levied for use of State owned water in streams, without a permit, came when E. H. Winn, a highway contractor paid $1,000 and costs in 155th District Court of Austin County. The Court also issued a permanent injunction restraining Winn from any further use of stream water without a permit. As a result of this action the highway contracting industry has been getting permits at the rate of 20 or 30 a month for use of stream water in construction.

Land Use Legislation Proposed by Federal
A "Surface Mining Reclamation Act" which would require Federal supervision of state programs for reclaiming some 150,000 acres of surface mining area annually has been submitted to the Congress by United States Secretary of the Interior Udall. Udall's move was quarter-backed by President Johnson in his March 8 "To Renew a Nation" message, in which the President asserted, "America needs a nationwide system to assure that all lands disturbed by surface mining in the future will be reclaimed. This can best be achieved through cooperative efforts between the States and the Federal Government."

Udall's proposal would give the states 2 years in which to establish "suitable" surface mining control programs, with the Federal government sharing up to 50 per cent of a state's cost of planning, administration and enforcement. Federal regulations would be applicable, Udall said, "only if a state failed to act." He said more than 3 million acres have been affected by surface mining, and less than a third of this acreage has been even partly reclaimed. But the bill will countenance only control of current and future surface mining.

Reclamation of previously mined lands, he said, "can be considered more appropriately at a later date." The Department of Interior said State plans should be "designed to promote a balance between natural resource and environmental values and the nation's mineral need."

"To that end," it was explained, "they should provide: (1) a system of permits, based on advance filing of mining plans; (2) means for controlling the adverse effects of surface mining; (3) reclamation of damaged areas; (4) evaluation of environmental changes, and (5) adequate funding and staffing for the program, including the enforcement of regulations."

Wheat Producers Urged To Check For Greenbugs

BUSHLAND — Wheat producers on the High Plains should keep a sharp lookout for increased populations of greenbugs, reports Norris Daniels, research entomologist at the USDA Southwestern Great Plains Research Center here.

"At present, greenbug populations range from light to heavy in most areas," says Daniels. "However, if the weather warms up for an extended period, greenbugs will become more numerous."

Lady beetles which feed on greenbugs are in low supply at this time, points out the entomologist, but their populations will also increase with warmer weather.

"It's real important for producers to check their fields every two or three days to determine if greenbug numbers are increasing," says Daniels. "The size of the wheat must be considered in checking for the insects and in determining the need for spraying. Wheat that is less than six inches tall and has 100 to 300 greenbugs per foot may require spraying. The same holds true for wheat ranging up to eight inches in height and having 200 to 500 of the insects per foot."

According to Daniels, methyl parathion has given excellent reduction of greenbugs in tests, and other recommended insecticides include malathion, parathion and phosphamidon. Malathion is less effective but may be used where a less toxic material is preferred.

Recent developments in the department, however, reveal a change of emphasis from strictly regulatory and law-enforcing functions to service programs. For instance, an expanded marketing division is working toward the development of better markets for Texas products, both at home and abroad. The division gives leadership to efforts aimed at upgrading and standardizing Texas agricultural products.

Food For Peace Act Is Extended

WASHINGTON (SpI) — The life of the Food for Peace Act, Public Law 480, was extended for one year in a bill approved by the House Agriculture Committee Tuesday.

Panhandle Congressman Bob Price, one of the sponsors of the bill and a member of the committee said several changes were made in an effort to ease present restrictions now imposed on the uses this country may make in the foreign currencies it receives in sales abroad of American farm commodities.

Price said they were proposed as a means of improving the dollar balance of payment situation in international trade.

"The PL 480 program has been one of the most useful and helpful programs we have had both for the United States and countries we have helped," Price said. "But the nations we help with the program must recognize that cooperation means help for the United States as well and that we can extend this aid only if we keep our own balance of payments sound."

Purcell Honored
Congressman Graham Purcell (D-Tex.) has been cited as one of the outstanding former 4-H Club members in the nation for 1968. Announcement of the honor comes from the National 4-H Service Committee, Chicago, which in cooperation with the Federal and State Extension Services, administers the national 4-H Alumni Recognition program.

As one of eight 1968 national 4-H Alumni award recipients, the congressman will be invited to attend the 47th National 4-H Congress in Chicago the first week of December. He and the others will be guests of Olin Mathieson Chemical Corporation, sponsor of the 4-H program since 1963. The alumni, four men and four women, also will receive a gold 4-H Alumni Key.

Rep. Purcell was a 4-H boy in Wichita County, Texas, back in the mid 1930's. His home is still in Wichita Falls, where he served as District Judge before his election to Congress in 1962.

Texas Department Of Agriculture Expands

COLLEGE STATION (SpI) — Ever increasing use of agricultural chemicals makes rapid detection of harmful residues in food products, drinking water and livestock feeds essential.

Recently, the Texas State Department of Agriculture put into use a modern mobile laboratory that moves with the season, providing fast and accurate testing of crops as the growing season progresses. This is typical of the agency's efforts to streamline operations and provide efficient service to producers and users of Texas agricultural products.

The Texas State Department of Agriculture was created in 1907, replacing the Bureau of Agriculture which for 20 years was a part of the Department of Insurance, Statistics and History.

TDA is unique among agencies serving Texas agriculture in that it alone is headed by an elective official, Commissioner of Agriculture John C. White. Programs of the Department are conducted through 8 regional offices located over the state.

Essentially an administrative and regulatory agency, the department enforces laws designed to benefit consumers, processors, retailers and others involved in the State's agricultural economy.

Recent developments in the department, however, reveal a change of emphasis from strictly regulatory and law-enforcing functions to service programs. For instance, an expanded marketing division is working toward the development of better markets for Texas products, both at home and abroad. The division gives leadership to efforts aimed at upgrading and standardizing Texas agricultural products.

Cattlemen Hear Meat Rationing Plan Is Ready

SAN ANTONIO (UPI) — The president of the American Meat Institute said last week the federal government has ration books already printed and is ready to use price ceilings on short notice.

Dr. Harrel DeGraff of Chicago made the statement in answer to a panel questioner at the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association annual convention.

"I don't think price controls will be in the offing before November," DeGraff said. "There are too many wage contracts which need to be negotiated before November and that would cost too many votes if price controls were put into effect before then."

DeGraff also said he expected total U. S. beef consumption in 1967 would be about 2 million pounds, up 3 to 4 per cent over 1916.

But he said cattlemen had produced beef too rapidly to take advantage of price increases over the past two decades.

Another panel discussion at the convention brought out that federal regulations on brucellosis, or bangs Disease, were likely to be tightened by April 18.

Such action would cause considerable hardship to Southwest Texas ranchers, because of the difficulty in getting cattle out of the affected counties, delegates said.

Screwworm Fly Far From Being Extinct

By KENNETH R. CLARK
MISSION, Tex. (UPI) — Few creatures in South Texas bring more dread to the heart of a cattleman than an ugly little maggot called the screwworm—and this week, the pest cropped up in two cases in the Lower Rio Grande Valley.

Two cases aren't many. In 1935, the southern cattle industry was riddled by more than a million. But the two this week were the first in 105 days for Texas, and in 101 days for the United States.

"We were expecting them," said Dr. Marion Meadows, of the screwworm eradication laboratory at Mission, but it still was a disappointment. We're likely to have seen 300 infestation-free days."

The two cases in the Valley proved two things, as far as scientists at the Mission lab are concerned: The eradication program, and they proved that the screwworm fly still is far from eradicated along the border.

Greenbugs

We have seen a number of wheat fields that had heavy enough infestation with greenbugs to warrant spraying. Although the price of wheat is ridiculously low, it will still pay many Gray County farmers to have their wheat sprayed. Many fields are not bad enough today. Check your wheat daily. We have hit a temperature range that causes rapid build ups. Moisture condition of the wheat point to a bumper crop prospect. We saw a good to excellent wheat crop go down the drain in the early 1960's because we didn't have the chemical to kill greenbugs. We saw an excellent crop made in the early 1960's because we did have the chemical to control the greenbugs. Our present situation parallels the early 1960 situation. We have had some excellent weather for spraying lately.

SHORT TERM PARKING

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A 571-space parking facility in downtown Los Angeles hasn't been built yet, but plans are already underway to tear it down.

The builder, Portable Parking Structures, Inc., of Compton, Calif., says the garage will be used less than three years before making way for a civic building. The firm sees movable garages as the solution to urban parking problems.

MONTGOMERY WORD

BIG E WINS 'GOOD GUY OF WEEK AWARD'

By CURTIS MONTGOMERY Daily News Sports Editor

Would you like to know what The Big "E" said to every one of the colored fellows who congratulated him after the smashing victory over the West Texas State University Buffs in Canyon March 4? Well, it was "Brother."

Elvin said he was not too close to Alcindor saying he and "ew were, "Acquainted." He showed some sign of disgust to the cat who is aiding the boy-

We wish Elvin the best in playing the greatest ones of all, Will Hamberlain and Bill Russell. Hayes gets "the good guy of the week" award which has been given to such notables as Mark Twain, The Apostle Paul, Cahill Gibran, the poet-philosopher-artists, Gandhi, and Pama's George Bailey, Beau Bond, Jimmy Cornutt, Johnny Carlos, and Bo Lang, Alvin Achord, Alan Woodard and Steve Summers tied for the award last week as the living honorees.

Of course, Randy Matson received the first "Good Guy of the Week" award from your local sports scribe and is a front runner for the "Living Legend Award" to be made in May.

Elvin broke six NCAA records and four Houston records this past season. Hayes set an NCAA career record with 1,215 field goals and season records for the most points, 1,214, and most field goals, 519.

Most field goals for the most points, 2,095, most field goals, 891, and most free throws, 599, in two consecutive seasons.

The school records shattered were most rebounds in a season, 624; most rebounds in a career, 1,611; highest rebound average per game, 18.9; and highest scoring average, 36.8.

WHERE'S THE ROSE? The Harvesters deserve the attention and the praise of the citizens of Pampa. Most of the ink goes to the Hippies and the delinquents but not enough goes to that guy in high school who sweats his heart out on that diamond or on that track, or in that swimming pool, or you name it.

They give roses to a nice lady who contributes a fat check to the home for unwed mothers or some such. Not that there's anything wrong with that. It's just that there is not enough said about the groovy cat in high school who really contributes to our town and state, country and world.

Oh, you see a bit every now and then about some fellow who is up for an award for the Top Young Texan in Pampa, like Bes. A. Bond, 6-6 postman for the Harvesters (in "Montgomery Word" several Sunday's ago).

But where is the front page ink on the girl who was named "Most Likely to Succeed" or Bears Take Over Lead In SWC

Ladd May Not Return

HOUSTON (UPI) — Ernie Ladd, 6-9, 300 pound defensive tackle with the Kansas City Chiefs, wrestled Gene Kiniski to a draw Friday night for the National Wrestling Association heavyweight championship.

Ladd said earlier this week he would quit football if he won the championship. "I'll say this, there is no way I will go back to Kansas City unless certain changes are made," he said this week, but declined to say what changes he was demanding.

Ladd pinned Kiniski after 9:55 of the one-hour-limit, three-fall match. Kiniski took Ladd down with 8:27 left and time was called before the third fall was completed.

Ladd was not available for comment after the match. Ladd said he was offered an annual contract of $100,000 plus expenses to wrestle in Madison Square Garden if he beat Kiniski at 270.

Estacado Beats Pampa

Pampa's staggering Harvesters baseball team dropped the third in a row in district 3-AAAA play yesterday with a 3-2 loss to the new Estacado High in Lubbock with the game going all but the final inning because of rain.

The game is official, however, and the Pampa team is now holding a 2-3 mark for conference play. Coach Bobby Stephens team lost to Coronado Friday afternoon reported in a story on page 13.

Stephens was not too pleased with a key decision from one of the umpires in that Friday outing which his team lost by 6-0.

In the Estacado game yesterday Pampa got five hits in 23 trips to the plate. They got two hits in 17 trips to the plate.

Fran McGahn was the loser for Pampa and Mike Boyd was the winner.

Estacado got their first run in the bottom of the second inning when McGahn walked a man, who stole second and third and scored on a wild pitch.

The Lubbock team scored two runs in the fourth frame as the lead off man was passed to first, and then got to third on two fielders choice and then scored on a wild pitch with two out. The Pampa hurler walked the man, balked, moving him to second, with the next batter knocking him in with a base hit to right center.

Another run was scored in the sixth, but the run which was scored in that inning did not count as the game was called because of rain. The rain did not last long but when it was over, there was "water everywhere" according to coach Stephens.

Pampa scored their two in the fourth inning with McGahn singling, Larry Turcotte, the left fielder hit; Hal Claubaugh got a base hit to knock in one run for PHS. An error on the right fielder.

Eddie Hopkins flew out to deep center field and sacrificed a run in. Hopkins was catching in the place of Steve Summers.

In other games in the district Caprock beat Lubbock 7-6; Monterey beat Tascosa, 12-10; Amarillo beat Plainview, 9-7, and Coronado beat Borger by 3-2.

Palo Duro and Amarillo are 4-0 and Caprock and Monterey are 3-1 and then Coronado 3-2, Tascosa with 2-2 and Lubbock, PHS, and Estacado, 2-3.

Red Alligator Wins Big Race

LIVERPOOL, England (UPI) —Red Alligator, ridden by Brian Fletcher, stormed to a 20 lengths victory in yesterday's Grand National Steeplechase, followed home by Moidore's Token.

Different Class, the 17-2 favorite owned by actor Gregory Peck, was 3rd neck behind Moidore's Token.

The winner returned odds of 100-7, Moidore's token was 100-6, Rutherford's, a 100-9 chance, was officially placed fourth in a field of 45.

California grandfather Tim Durant, 68, drew one of the biggest cheers of the day by completing the course on Highlandie—the first time he's managed to do so in three attempts.

Sanders complained of playing badly Saturday. "I just couldn't make a putt," he said. "I didn't keep right over the putter."

Two Knotted in Golf

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI) —Englishman Tony Jacklin made a birdie on the final hole Saturday to post his ninth consecutive round in the 60s and the Doug Sanders for the lead at the end of the third round of the $100,000 Greater Jacksonville Open.

The 23-year-old Jacklin, rated England's best golfer in more than a generation, and Sanders, garbed in purple and lavender, started the day tied for the lead and both shot 3-under-par 69's for 14-under 202s that gave them a slim one-stroke edge over charging Arnold Palmer and Hugh Royer.

Palmer, who has been gaining ground rapidly since changing his stance after the opening round, had a 68 Saturday and Royer had a 69.

Another stroke back at 204 stood Julius Boros and PGA champion Don January. Boros and January both had 68s Saturday.

Jacklin hasn't been out of the 60s since the second round of the Citrus Open two weeks ago. He had closing rounds of 67-68 there, put together rounds of 66-69-68-66 while tying for second place at Pensacola, and opened with rounds of 68-65 here the first two days.

Jacklin was a stroke ahead of Sanders at the turn Saturday but Sanders caught up with a 7-foot birdie putt on No. 12 and Jacklin fell behind on No. 15 when he hit a bogey.

Jacklin hit a tree on that hole with his driver and went only 15

Saints Make Normal Change

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—New Orleans Saints owner John Mecom, Friday called front office shakeups that moved Vic Schwenk into the general manager's chair "normal and expected" changes in a first year organization.

Mecom said Schwenk would retain his duties as director of player personnel in addition to the general manager's post formerly held by Bert Rose.

"Mr. Rose's contract is terminated as of today," Mecom told newsmen during a press conference.

The millionaire sportsman would not comment on the details of Rose's dismissal.

Bears Take Over Lead In SWC

By United Press International Baylor took over the lead in the Southwest Conference baseball race Friday and defeated an out-of-conference opponent, Lamar Tech, 2-1 while doing it. Texas A&M provided the Bears' big boost into the No. 1 slot with an explosive 11-run fifth inning that knocked Texas Christian out of the lead. The holes left around the diamond made the final score 16-3.

In other Southwest Conference action, the Texas Longhorns humbled Southern Methodist 7-2, to get a share of second place, and Rice downed Texas Tech 2-0 and 8-2 in a double header.

After the dust settled the top spot in the conference was occupied by Baylor, with TCU and Texas tied for second place, just bare percentage points behind.

Action today sees all the same partners meeting with more shakeups in the conference race a strong possibility.

Sul Ross State's Randy Senteney burlied a no-hitter to blank Tarleton State 7-0 but Tarleton recovered enough to take the second game of the twin bill 4-3.

Pan American, meeting the University of Arkansas on neutral ground in San Antonio, opened up with both barrels and downed the Hogs 10-5. The win swept a two-game series for the Broncs.

And in Houston, Tom Paciorek, who drew an intentional walk with two out and the bases empty, scored from first on a long double in the 10th inning to give Houston a 4-3 win over Oklahoma State.

Baylor is 4-2 in the conference, while both TCU and Texas are 5-3.

Bob Long paced the Aggie mauling of the Frogs with four hits, including a triple.

Surfing Contest Comes to Texas

Some of the state's most outstanding experts in the sport of surfing will serve as judges for the second annual Pepsi Texas State Surfing Championships to be held in Galveston, April 6 and 7.

Serving as judges in the two-day state surfing championships are Mack Blaker, head judge, Houston, Texas; George Loe, Arkansas Pass, Texas; Mrs. Margaret Harper, Corpus Christi; Dick Bishop, Houston, and Norman Akin, Houston.

In announcing the judges, Mack Blaker, who also serves as official Meet Director for the surf contest, said that the official Gulf Coast Surfing Assn. 20-point system will be utilized in the championships which is co-sponsored by Houston Radio Station KIKK.

Under the GCSA rules, which are similar to international surfing rules, the surf rider will be judged on his ability to catch a wave properly, stay within the curl of the wave, riding ability, tricks, the type of waves he rides and sportsmanship. There will be 12-minute regulation heats.

Over 300 surfers are expected to vie for fabulous prizes including two all-expense paid jet trips and entries to the National Surfing Championships to be held this September in Huntington Beach, Calif. The two Grand Prizes will be awarded the best "All-Around" boy and girl surfer.

Last year's best "All-Around" boy and girl surfer will be on hand to defend their titles at this year's state surfing championships. Pat Harral of Corpus Christi, and Pam Curtiss of Tinsy Alvin, Texas, both represented the Lone Star state in last year's national championships.

Other top prizes to be awarded in all four divisions—Boys, Junior Mens, Mens and Open Girls—are Blaker surfboards, 17-jewel Pepsi Calendar wrist watches, AM-FM transistor radios and cases of Pepsi-Cola.

Only Texas surfers are eligible to compete in the Pepsi Texas State Surfing Championships and entrants must have lived in the state for the past six months.

Entry deadline for the surfing championships is April 1. Entry blanks are available in Pepsi-Cola cartons wherever Pepsi is sold. Entry fee is $3.50 and all entrants will receive, free, an official tournament surfing shirt.

This year's Pepsi Texas State Surfing Championships, to be held in Galveston on the Flagship Hotel Beach, is sanctioned by the Gulf Coast Surfing Assn.

MATSON HONORED AGAIN—The National Collegiate Athletic Association has recognized world champion Randy Matson of Pampa and Texas A&M as a student and athlete. Matson receives a $1,000 check from A&M President Earl Rudder (right) who presents the NCAA in awarding the NCAA Postgraduate Scholarship. Matson is studying for his master's degree in business administration. Academic Vice President Wayne S. Hall of A&M also took part in the campus ceremonies. Matson also won the first nomination for a "Living Legend" award to be announced in May in the Daily News.

Western Stars Whip East by 7

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI)—Rick Mount of Purdue and Russ Critchfield of California sparked the West college All-Stars to a 95-88 victory over the East Saturday in a preliminary to U.S. Olympic basketball trials this coming week in Albuquerque, N.M.

Mount led the West charge in the second half, scoring a game-high 24 points before fouling out with 3:30 to play. Critchfield's play as floor general in the waning minutes was credited with helping preserve the West's comeback victory.

Pete Maravich of Louisiana State, playing for the east, was voted the game's "star of stars" award. Maravich shared scoring honors for the East with Tom Boerwinkle of Tennessee, each getting 16.

Nearly 15,000 fans and a national television audience watched the game.

League Heads Talk It Over

DALLAS (UPI) — Owners of teams in the Texas Football League Saturday rejected a merger offer by the Southern Football league, but said they would consider the possibility of a playoff between the two league champions.

The owners also approved the transfer of three of the league's franchises.

The decisions came at a regular league meeting. The owners plan to draw up the 1968 schedule on Sunday.

Officials said that although they did not feel a merger would be advantageous to the Texas League, they said they would consider bringing any of the Southern League's teams into the Texas League if the could meet the $10,000 performance bond.

The owners of the eight teams unanimously agreed to approve the transfer of the Sherman-Denison franchise to El Paso, the transfer of the Pasadena team to Ecalomon and the move of the Wichita Falls club of Austin.

Cambridge Axes Oxford

LONDON (UPI)—Cambridge snapped a three-year winning streak by Oxford Saturday by easily rowing to a three and one-half length victory in the 114th University Boat Race.

Cambridge covered the four miles, 374 yards Thames River course in 18 minutes, 22 seconds.

If the Light Blues hadn't beaten Oxford, it is likely that they would have been declared the winners on a disqualification. Oxford strayed "out of station" twice during the race and drew a warning for nearly colliding with the eight-man Cambridge shell.

Oxford captain John Bockstoe of Hartford, Conn., one of the two Americans on the Dark Blue crew, gambled by using a "caterpillar" arrangement with alternate members of the crew seated on opposite sides of the boat. New York's Bill Pink, who was a former Yale oarsman along with Bockstoe, was the other American on the Oxford crew.

Ruidoso Downs Starting New Season Soon

RUIDOSO DOWNS, N. M. —New Mexico's most famous race track, Ruidoso Downs is heading for a "super-season," says race track manager, Tex Barron, as he busily "tunes-up" the Downs for its 32nd season of racing.

Barron says, "We're scheduling 47 days of racing action this year and will possibly run a few extra Thursdays in August, since they were so successful last summer. I've just returned from an extended trip through out the West, including several days with the American Quarter Horse Convention in Las Vegas, Nevada, and I am convinced that 1968 promises to be the 'super season' for Ruidoso Downs. In all the years, I have never seen such enthusiasm among horsemen and public alike for our track. No way can we handle the flood of horses coming our way."

Ruidoso Downs stakes program is one of the most powerful ever seen in southwestern racing. Three races alone offer over $800,000 in purse money, and Ruidoso Downs total purse distribution for the season will be in excess of a million and a half dollars.

Among the major stakes events highlighting the 1968 season at Ruidoso Downs will be the $100,000 Kansas Quarter Horse Futurity on June 16, the quarter million dollar Ruidoso Rainbow Derby on Aug. 4, followed by the All American Futurity on September 2. The All American is the world's richest horse race and is expected to exceed $600,000 in its 10th Running on Labor Day.

WARREN SIGNS

CINCINNATI (UPI)—Quarterback Dewey Warren, holder of a dozen passing records at the University of Tennessee, has signed his contract with the Cincinnati Bengals of the American Football League.

Warren, a sixth-round draft choice of the Bengals, will compete with Gary Davis and John Stofa for the starting job.

Tent & Awning Tabbed Official Station By Mag

Sports Afield, one of the world's leading outdoor magazines, has announced the appointment of Pampa Tent and Awning Company as an Official State Fishing Awards Station.

The Texas and Oklahoma State Fishing Awards Program is not a contest to see who can catch the biggest fish. Rather, it is a program to commemorate memorable moments in fishing by citing meritorious catches in two ways: (1) The immediate awarding of a parchment certificate to each angler catching a qualifying fish; (2) The awarding of a special certificate, and a sterling silver Sports Afield Sportfish Pin to the "Best in State" of each species, annually.

The eligible species of fishes and their qualifying weight have been chosen by the Texas and Oklahoma fish and game departments. Entry blanks listing these fish are available at Pampa Tent & Awning Co., 317 E. Brown St.

Fishermen can qualify for these awards by entering their catches within 60 days after catching. Fish must be caught on sporting tackle in the state's public waters. There is no charge for entering.

Recipients of the top awards will be listed each year in Sports Afield, and kept in a national register for record purposes in the years ahead.

TB Patient Out for Year

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UPI)—Rico Carty, the Atlanta Braves outfielder stricken with tuberculosis, will miss this season but should be back in 1969, a team spokesman said today.

Don Davidson, Braves' traveling secretary, said the 27-year-old slugger from the Dominican Republic, will remain at the Southeast Florida Tuberculosis Hospital for "an indefinite period."

Davidson also said Carty's case, was "not as serious as originally expected."

Carty hit 255 last year with 15 home runs. He reported to the Braves' spring training camp 10 pounds underweight, and subsequently lost 10 more pounds. The loss of weight and sluggishness prompted the Braves to order a physical examination for the ailing outfielder. The examination and subsequent tests disclosed he had TB.

Hogs Hit, Fall

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI)—Pan American College swamped the University of Arkansas 10-5 Friday to sweep a two-game baseball series. The Pan Am attack was a balanced one with no extra hits.

A. C. Deanda of Pan Am rapped the only home run of the game with nobody on in the second.

The Broncos won Thursday 7-2. They are now 12-4 and Arkansas is 1-6.

Aggies Win

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI)—Texas A&M exploded for 11 runs in the fifth inning Friday to beat Texas Christian 16-3 and knock the Frogs out of first place in the Southwest Conference.

TCU dropped to 5-3 in league play, just percentage points behind Baylor at 4-2. Baylor beat Lamar Tech 2-1 in a non-conference game.

Bob Long led the Aggies at bat with four hits including a triple and Bob Arnold added three hits in the 16-hit attack. Winning pitcher Rick Schwartz aided his cause with two doubles.

Bing Bingham took the loss, his third against two wins.

Chopin Can't Carry The Bat of Ferrara

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Writer
VERO BEACH, Fla. (UPI)—People always get big Al Ferrara all wrong.

They hear he played piano in Carnegie Hall and they make him out to be another Chopin. "The Bull" and they make him out to be another Frank Howard.

They hear he's nicknamed "disciplinarian" and they say uh-oh, and make him out to be another wild man.

"I was," big Al admits. "No more. I settled down a long time ago. The only thing on my mind now is winning a regular outfield job with the Los Angeles Dodgers. I think I deserve it. And I think I got a good shot at it."

This is Ferrara's fifth season with the Dodgers and he hasn't won a regular job with them yet.

Big Al, who comes from Brooklyn and goes 6-1 and better than 200, led the Dodgers last year with a .277 average and 16 homers but it didn't matter. He still was only the club's No. 1 substitute.

Break Comes

Then the Dodgers traded Lou Johnson, their regular left fielder, to the Cubs, and that's when a job opened up for big Al.

"It bugged me that I didn't play every day," he says. "Some of it was my fault. Some of it wasn't. The biggest shock, I guess, was when this club sent me to the minors in the middle of 1965, for disciplinary reasons, they said. I had fun but it cost me. I've calmed down a lot since then. I wouldn't do anything over different, though. I remember what people said when I was sent down. They said I wouldn't be back."

They were wrong. Ferrara came back in 1966, hit his readily acceptable .270 in 63 games and had the satisfaction of appearing in his first World Series that fall. But only as a pinch hitter.

Last year, Walt Alton used him as a par-timer and pinch hitter. As long as Johnson was around, there could be no regular job for big Al. But he doesn't blame that on Johnson.

"You hate to see a guy like that go," says Ferrara. "Really. He helped me so much. But when he left he opened it up for me. He did a magnificent job the two years he was here. But I think I would've played someplace regular on the club this year. Don't get me wrong. I didn't say I'd have beat out Looey—I got nothing but the greatest respect for his ability."

The Dodgers felt pretty much the same way about big Al.

CUPPERS NAMED

LIMA, Peru (UPI)—Jaime Pinto and Cornejo Pinto were named by Chile to meet Tomas Gonzalez and Alfredo Acuna of Peru in Friday's opening round singles matches of the American Zone Davis Cup tennis competition.

when he first joined them late in 1963 fresh from Spokane where he bashed 19 homers, drove in 89 runs and batted .321. They had a lot of respect for him.

Always Misunderstood

They took one look at him and thought maybe they had another Frank Howard, economy size. But he was back with Spokane in 1964.

Ferrara has ability. Buzzie Bavasi, the Dodgers' general manager, always kept telling him that. So did one of his teammates, Sandy Koufax, who understood big Al better than most because he came from Brooklyn also.

Mostly, people get him wrong, though. Like that business about the piano.

"It's true, I played in Carnegie Hall," he explains. "I was 14 or 15 at the time and played classical stuff like La Traviata and things like that. But I wasn't giving any concert. I didn't play alone. There were a lot of us there playing piano at the same time. I dunno why, but they always make me out to be some kind of prodigy. I never was. Hell, I was just a wild kid from Brooklyn. The only reason I took piano lessons was because I got some extra privileges. They let me stay out a little later."

No, you know the truth about Big Al.

One thing more. He ain't a bad hitter. Ain't bad at all. Chopin could never carry his bat.

Amarillo Drags Have Big Success

By DAVID WEBSTER
Asst. Sports Editor

Last Sunday at Amarillo Dragway was quite a day with an estimated crowd of 13,500 fans and 459 individual cars entered in competition.

Although none of the Pampa entries made it through eliminations, probably the hardest luck went to Larry Brown of Tulsa, Okla. Brown's AA Fuel Dragster's engine blew an oil leak and blocked his vision. Brown's dragster went out of control and into a fence at a speed over 100 miles per hour. Brown was not injured seriously, but his car suffered front end damage.

George Rodriguez, a San Antonio drag racer who drove his own car, repaired an ailing engine just minutes before the top fuel finals to take the first Texas Pro Fuel Circuit race.

Rodriguez drives a full bodied car dubbed "The Good, the Bad and the Ugly." He registered the lowest elapsed time of the event in the championship run, rocketing to a 7.32 second clocking at 201.66 miles per hour and disposing of consistent Larry Brown of Dallas.

Rodriguez, Brown and many other fuel cars who are entered in the Texas Pro Fuel Circuit will move to Odessa April 7 for the second round of action and to Austin April 21 before returning to Amarillo April 28.

PARIS (UPI)—The International Lawn Tennis Federation Saturday unanimously accepted "open" tennis, which will pit amateur against professional.

But the compromise plan limits the number of annual open tournaments. It also permits amateurs to retain that status and guarantees them tournaments of their own. It sets up a "registered players" category for players who do not earn their living from tennis but do receive compensation.

The open tournaments, however, are expected to include tennis' "Big Four"—the United States, Wimbledon, France and Australian championships.

The ILTF hailed the decision as a historic moment for world tennis. Rober Kelleher, head of the U.U. Lawn Tennis association, agreed, though it varied a bit from the American proposal.

"We achieved a lot of things in a shorter time than expected and I can say it was a good decision," Kelleher said.

Sixty-six delegates from 47 countries met during the day under the chairmanship of Giorgio di Stefano of Italy. The principal figure at the meeting, however, was former Frenchman Jean Borotra, now vice-president of the ILTF.

E Says No to Charges

SCHENECTADY, N.Y. (UPI)—Elvin Hayes, college basketball's player-of-the-year, has denied that the San Diego Rockets had made him an offer before he closed his collegiate career at the University of Houston.

Hayes, in upstate New York for a pair of exhibition all-star games, made the denial in answer to charges made Thursday by the Houston Mavericks of the American Basketball Association.

Hayes, a two-time all-America player, signed a multi-year contract with San Diego of the rival National Basketball Association that is expected to earn him more than $100,000 annually.

The Mavericks reportedly wanted to give him a $750,000, three-year pact had he chosen the ABA. Hayes said subsequent charges appeared to be sour grapes.

Hawks Lose Mullins Along With Crown

NBA Playoff Roundup
By United Press International

Two years ago the St. Louis Hawks left Jeff Mullins unprotected in the expansion draft and lost him.

But Mullins, the former Duke star who's never really lived up to his college reputation in the pro ranks, is making the Hawks remember him.

Mullins, who was picked by the Chicago Bulls on May 1, 1966 and then shipped to San Francisco to complete the Guy Rodgers deal, is leading the Warriors to what could be a stunning upset of the Hawks in their Western Division National Basketball Association playoff series.

SF Takes Lead

Mullins scored 35 points Friday night including a banked jump shot with six seconds left to give San Francisco a 3-1 lead in the best-of-seven series with the Hawks with a 108-107 triumph. It's an incredible margin since St. Louis won seven of eight games from the Warriors during the regular season while winning the Western Division title.

The fifth game of the series will be played Sunday in St. Louis.

In the only other playoff game, Los Angeles took a 3-1 lead over the Chicago Bulls with a 93-87 victory.

High Average

Mullins, who averaged only 4.9 and 5.8 points a game in his two seasons with St. Louis in 1965 and 1966, has now scored 130 points in the four playoff games against his former teammates for an average of 32.5 points a game.

San Francisco took a 54-49

Twentieth Century Cotillion to Sponsor Antique Show

60TH YEAR

THE PAMPA DAILY NEWS
SUNDAY, MARCH 24, 1968

It's been said people mature and grow mellow, with age. So it is with antiques, which get priceless as they grow older, as Twentieth Century Cotillion members will show in their sixth annual Antique Show Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Eleven dealers from four states, Texas, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Kansas, will present their antiques in three showings, 10:30 a.m. through 9 p.m. Friday and Saturday and 1 p.m. through 6 p.m. Sunday, in Starlight Room, Coronado Inn.

dealers' dinner at 7 p.m. Thursday in the Coronado Inn Starlight Room. Mrs. J. G. Morrison, 2101 Christine, will have a coffee for the dealers in her home at 8:45 a.m. Saturday.

Mrs. Charles Brauchle, 1206 N. Russell, will sponsor her annual breakfast for the dealers Sunday morning in her home.

To be eligible for the plan, students planning to complete a four-year college must be recommended by their high school principal or superintendent and by three responsible citizens of their community.

Since the plan was initiated, 85 students from Gray County have participated in the program. Now, 260 students in the Panhandle area are participating in it. Since it started, $1,342,000 has been borrowed. About half of these students are still in school and about half of these are paying on their loans.

one per cent of the students who have participated in the plan are delinquent, and more than 4,700 students have used the program.

Twentieth Century Cotillion here is one of several philanthropic contributors in the Panhandle which contribute to the program.

Twentieth Century Cotillion officers for 1967-68 are Mrs. Jack White, president; Mrs. Lee Fraser, vice president; Mrs. John Spearman, secretary; Mrs. Howard Greenlee, treasurer; Mrs. Jim Alexander, public relations and Mrs. Don Morrison, parliamentarian.

Deer: Leitha Roberts, Dalhart; Donna Schwartz, Canadian; Linda Taylor, Perryton; Narvella Moseley, Marsha Jewell and Sandra Brewer, all of Pampa.

LOOKING THROUGH A MEMORY BOX — Seated on an antique love seat, Mrs. Dean Copeland, left, and Mrs. Jim Brown, examine letters and newspaper clippings in an antique box of Mrs. Jim Campbell's. The box is adorned with brass hinges on its top, and contains a clipping from the New York Sun, a newspaper published in 1833. The antique thumbprint pink lamp beside Mrs. Brown has a cranberry shade and is placed on a table which was made by Mrs. Campbell's great-great grandfather, Pat Arrington, of Navasota.

PACKING WITH CARE — Mrs. Bob Rogers, left, chairman, and Mrs. Jim Alexander, co-chairman, help wrap articles to pack in a pine dowry chest. Articles being wrapped for the annual Twentieth Century Cotillion's Antique Show are candle holders, brass compote, wine glasses, pewter cup, birch bark snuff box, and brass teapot. Eleven dealers from Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas and New Mexico will display items in the three-day show and sale at the Coronado Inn.

PEWTER COLLECTION — Mrs. Jack White, president of Twentieth Century Cotillion Club, places a candle in a pewter candle holder, one of three in Mrs. Jim Campbell's pewter collection. Mrs. Campbell's collection includes a set of matched measuring cups, coffee pots, salt and pepper shakers, spoons, plates and a cream and pitcher set. The oldest pewter plate is dated 1694.

NO MINI-SKIRTED DOLLS HERE — Three daughters of Twentieth Century Cotillion members, Katherine White, left, Neysa Copeland and Debbie Rogers, play with three antique dolls from Mrs. Jim Brown's collection. The dolls belonged to Mrs. Brown's grandmother, Mrs. O. H. Booth. Mrs. Brown's collection of 50 dolls dates to the late 1890's. The girls, dressed in pink flannel granny gowns with white lace and ribbon trim, are seated on a four-poster bed which is more than 100 years old.

COFFEE TIME IN GRANNY DRESSES — Taking a coffee break after planning activities for the annual antique show are left to right, Mrs. Lee Fraser, vice president, Mrs. Charles Walsh Jr., and Mrs. Doug Mills Jr. The women are seated around an antique walnut table belonging to Mrs. Jim Campbell. Their chairs are made of carved oak dating to the early 1900's. Mrs. Walsh and Mrs. Mills are assisting their club members with plans for the three-day show.

CHECKING STORAGE SPACE — Mrs. Jim Campbell, 1330 Williston, models her granny dress and displays an antique burl walnut wardrobe which she uses for storage. The wardrobe, which belonged to her husband's grandmother, Mrs. J. W. Campbell, was shipped to Pampa from Gainesville about 1912. The annual antique show, which will feature items like Mrs. Campbell's wardrobe, will be held in the Coronado Inn Starlight Room, Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

CRANKING UP FOR THE SHOW — Mrs. Ben Sturgeon, publicity chairman for Twentieth Century Cotillion's annual Antique Show, twists the hand-operated crank of a 1926 Ford coupe. The coupe, owned by Don Cole, will be displayed beside the sign announcing the show. The sign will be put up near the Coronado Inn where the three-day show will be held Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

MRS. RICHARD KELLER GOODWIN
 nee Leslie Jane Major

Miss Leslie Major Repeats Vows With Richard Goodwin in Oklahoma

Miss Leslie Jane Major exchanged wedding vows with Richard Keller Goodwin in an afternoon marriage ceremony March 23 at Nichols Hill Methodist Church, Oklahoma City, Okla. Rev. George G. Graham officiated for the double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Gorman, Oklahoma City, Okla. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Goodwin, of Electra and formerly of Pampa.

BRIDE
 Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a peau de soie dress with lace sleeves and jewel encrusted trailing veil. She carried an orchid bouquet. Her head piece was a pillbox hat attached to an illusion veil.

ATTENDANTS
 Bridal attendants were Miss Karen Clawson, Lubbock; Miss Dianna Goodwin, sister of the bridegroom; Miss Paula Stine, Nacona, and Miss Nancy Cowdrey, Tulsa, Okla.

They were dressed in blue voile with lace yolk and blue lace headpieces. They carried colonial bouquets of yellow roses blue delphiniums and daisies.

Flowergirl, Lisa Vaughn of Oklahoma City, Okla., wore a yellow lace dress. Ring bearer was Dick Gorman, brother of the bride.

Best man was Jerry Dan Goodwin, of Electra; brother of the bridegroom. Groomsmen were Robert Kalsu, and Gene Cagle, both of Norman, Okla. Ushers were Joe Fisher, Pampa, and Bobby Major, Oklahoma City, brother of the bride.

Church decorations were alabaster green urns filled with daisies, yellow roses and blue delphiniums and candleisle.

Organ music was played and the "Lord's Prayer" sung during the doubling ceremony. Bride's mother was dressed in green silk coat dress with lace sleeves. The bridegroom's mother wore a blue silk shift dress with lace sleeves.

RECEPTION
 For the reception in the church parlor, an antique Venetian lace cloth covered the serving table. Miss Karen Young served the tiered yellow white bride's cake as Miss Lana Ligon, Oklahoma City, served punch and Mrs. Archie Pierce registered guests.

For the honeymoon to San Antonio and Mexico, the bride traveled in a turquoise wool suit with pale green straw hat. She wore the center of her bridal bouquet as her corsage.

The couple plan to live in Norman, Okla.

The bride is a graduate of Marshall High School, Oklahoma City, attended Oklahoma University and is employed in City National Bank, Oklahoma City.

The bridegroom is a 1964 graduate of Pampa High School, and is a senior at Oklahoma University in Norman. He is a member of the O.U. football team, and of Sigma Chi Fraternity. He is majoring in finance and accounting, and plans to continue his education and study law at O.U.

Pampa guests were Mr. and Mrs. Gene Barber, Connie Barber, Ann Everhart, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Keller and Eddy, Jerry Simms, Mr. and Mrs. E.M. Keller, Sr., Joe Fisher, Larry Antonio and Mexico, the bride Johnson and Drew Harvey.

Altrusa Club Has Founders Program

Miss Vermell Meador and her committee presented the program for the Altrusa meeting in Coronado Inn this week.

The $40,370.12 in the Founders Fund Vocational-Aid Treasury for 1967-68 is assisting 88 women from 17 to 73 years of age improve their means of earning a livelihood.

May Wilson explained policies for making these awards were to provide funds for raising one's income through education or purchase of equipment, that the minimum amount given an individual recipient was $50 with a maximum of $350. No grants can receive aid a second time.

Fauncine Mack discussed detailed procedures to follow in receiving a grant and said even though preference should be given to the older woman, need and ability are primary requirements.

Marian Heare reported on a few teenagers, the youngest who has ever received a grant was a 17 year-old girl who had many unsightly, self inflicted tattoos on her body, done while she was in a juvenile home for unwed mothers. Altrusa had skin grafts made over the tattoos so that she could be employed and self supporting. An 18 year old divorcee with a 2 1/2 year old child was given aid so she could support herself and child without going on welfare.

Martha Kennedy gave a report on older women who were given refresher courses or purchased equipment after they were widowed or their husbands disabled so they could not earn a living for their families.

From the 88 women given assistance, the first half of the year, 50 took nurses training, which also helped in a great need in the hospitals throughout the country, reporters said.

Altrusa has been assisting women throughout the nation through this program for 15 years. Grants in the amount of $296,568.12 have been made to 1433 women.

To raise additional funds, Floy Heat, finance chairman, requested all members to bring at least one "White Elephant" to be sold after the meeting.

Upsilon Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi Elects Officers, Names Members

A Ritual of Jewels ceremony highlighted a recent meeting of Upsilon Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi in the Hospitality Room of the Citizen's Bank and Trust Co. Mrs. Charles Potter, president, presided over the business. During the candle-lit ceremony, Mrs. Potter read the Rituals of Jewels for candidates, Mmes. Ronald Fox, George Wood, E. C. Jenkins and Jack Eubanks. Assisting Mrs. Potter were members, Mmes. Bill Kindle, Kenneth Freeman, Robert Brogdon and Weldon Carter. Mrs. Freeman presented new members with their Beta Sigma Phi pins. Also, Mrs. Potter read the rituals for transferee, Mrs. Kenneth Heflin, and was assisted by Mrs. Kindle. Mrs. Carter introduced a guest, Mrs. Gary Tibbets. After members cast ballots for the Girl of the Year, new officers were elected. Mrs. Weldon Carter is president; Mrs. D. L. Hinkle, vice president; Mrs. Kenneth Heflin, recording secretary; Mrs. Kenneth Freeman, treasurer; Mrs. Jack Byrd, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Ronald Fox, extension officer; Mrs. Bill Kindle and Mrs. Jack Eubanks, city council representatives with Mrs. Robert Brogdon as alternate. Mrs. James Ownsby introduced Mrs. Bill Kindle who presented a program on pictures. Mrs. Kindle began her program by giving suggestions on how to look at, see and appreciate art. As she briefly described a landscape, members drew free-hand sketches of their impressions of the landscape. The impromptu drawings were displayed. Mrs. Kindle finished her program by displaying photographs which illustrated the various techniques which have been used in the development of photography. Hostesses were Mmes. Jack Byrd, Bill Kindle, B. L. Stephens and Tommy Richardson. The serving table depicted Beta Sigma Phi's theme for the year, "Turn the Key". The centerpiece was a bouquet of yellow roses flanked on either side with yellow candles. A large gold key was featured in the foreground. Refreshments were served to Mmes. Robert Brogdon, Jack Byrd, Weldon Carter, Charles Ellis, Kenneth Freeman, D. L. Hinkle, Bill Kindle, Scott Nisbet, James Ownsby, Charles Potter, Tommy Richardson, Jack Stafford, Kenneth Heflin, Jack Eubanks, Ronald Fox, E. C. Jenkins, George Wood and Richard Hadley and guest, Mrs. Gary Tibbets.

GILBERT'S

SMART CLOTHES AT POPULAR PRICES

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My son, who is 22, married a 19-year-old girl he met while he was stationed out west in the army. We asked him to wait until he had a steady job, but he didn't listen to us. So now he's discharged and they are living with us.

We don't mind helping them out, Abby, but she is a lazy good-for-nothing slob. They've been living with us going on three months, and she has never once offered to dry a dish or even make up their bed. The laundry piles up and she does not even lift a finger to help. I do everything.

I have hinted until I can't stand the sight of her. If she were a DAUGHTER I would give her a good swift kick in the pants.

She gets up every morning to watch Captain Kangaroo; then she goes back to bed again. She acts like a guest, and my son refuses to say anything to her. I could write a book but I can't find an ending.

NEEDS HELP

DEAR NEEDS: Perhaps she is acting like a "guest" because you've been treating her like one. So treat her like a DAUGHTER! And tell your son and his childish bride that if she does not pitch in and help with the household chores, they can find other quarters.

DEAR ABBY: I am dating a young woman I could be serious about, but here's the problem: She has a beautiful face, but she's a little on the heavy side. She's very much aware of it and is always on some kind of diet. Can "overweight" run in the family?

The reason I ask is because her mother is so enormous, she can't get through a door unless she goes sideways. And her grandmother is worse yet. She has to be helped up out of chairs.

Believe me, Abby, this scares me and the thought of having this girl for my wife and having her turn out like her mother and grandmother really turns me off. Please advise me.

HESITANT

DEAR HESITANT: Obesity is not hereditary in most cases.

but the tendency toward it could be. Perhaps a thyroid deficiency "runs" in her family. If you're serious about marriage, you have every right to ask her.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for five years and we both love to dance, so we work up fancy dance steps at home and try them out when we go dancing. Every one says we dance beautifully together.

Neither one of us likes to dance with anyone else, because they don't know our steps and we don't know theirs. Yet there is always someone who can't take no for an answer.

Last evening a man (I'll call Jack) asked me to dance three times and I said no repeatedly. Well, he came back again and just stood by my chair, then he took my arm and LED me out to the dance floor. I didn't want to create a scene so I danced with him.

My husband didn't say anything at the time, but I could tell he was angry. When we got home he let me know just how angry he was.

Abby, I really didn't want to dance with Jack, but my husband insists that I did, or I wouldn't have danced with him. How can I handle people like Jack in the future?

LOVES TO DANCE

DEAR LOVES: If the "Jacks" you meet won't take your "no" for an answer, tell them to ask your husband. That should settle it.

CONFIDENTIAL TO LAURIE: Yes, there IS hope. A problem honestly stated is half solved. I would like to hear from you again.

Everybody has a "problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

MR. AND MRS. KENNETH LEON COWEN
... nee Connie Jo Yeager

Couple Exchanges Marriage Vows in Home Ceremony

Miss Connie Jo Yeager exchanged wedding vows with Kenneth Leon Cowen in a double-ring ceremony in her home, 2120 Coffee March 15. Rev. M. B. Smith of Alareed Baptist Church officiated for the early evening ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Word, 2120 Coffee. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Marland P. Hays, 334 Rider.

Rickie Land was pianist for the traditional wedding march and accompanied Jennifer Benton as she sang "Walk Hand in Hand."

Decorations in the church were white carnations and candelabras.

Debbie McKendree, maid of honor, and Susan Killgo, bridesmaid, both wore blue dresses and carried white carnations. Best man was Marland P. Hays, the bridegroom's stepfather.

The bride was given in marriage by her step father, T. J. Word, and was dressed in a white street-length dress with long sleeves and white low heel shoes.

Her veil was white shoulder length illusion attached to a crown of seed pearls and illusion. She carried a white Bible with carnations, streamers and an orchid atop the Bible.

For the reception in the Black Gold Restaurant, Gidget Moore served the three-tiered wedding cake as Susan Killgo assisted at the punch service.

For the wedding trip to Littlefield, the bride traveled in a blue linen suit with the orchid from her bridal banquet.

The bride is a senior at Pampa High School and plans to attend West Texas State University next semester. The bridegroom, a 1967 PHS graduate, is a lance corporal in the Marine Corps, stationed at Camp Pendleton, Calif. He is being sent to Vietnam in April to join a special force.

GOP Women Hear Legion Deputy

Mrs. Pearl Stamford was hostess to the Republican Women's Club when they met Monday, March 25, at the WCTU building.

Mrs. Illa Jo Hart, of Gruver, who is the deputy president of Legion 5 of the Republican Women's Clubs, gave the program. Guests present were Mrs. Agatha Locke, Mrs. John Smith, and Mrs. Doyle Smith of Miami, and Mrs. Betty Coffee and Mrs. Mary Landers of Higgins.

Members attending were Mrs. George Arrington, Mrs. John Chambers, Mrs. Ben Mathers, Mrs. Malouf Abraham, Mrs. Sid Parnell, Mrs. Phil Waters, and Mrs. Stamford.

Old Idea still Valid

In 1897, before indoor plumbing and bathrooms were taken for granted, a book called "Search Lights on Health" was published. It contained instructions covering most human relationships, including this gem on bathing: "No person should think for a moment that they can be popular in society without regular bathing." This advice is still valid in 1968.

B&PW Members Attend Supper

Mrs. M. E. Powers, president of Pampa Business and Professional Women's Club, welcomed members and guests of the club this week at a salad supper in the City Club Room. The invocation was given by Mrs. A.C. Brown. Mrs. L. P. Robertson, co-chairman of the Personal Development Committee, was in charge of the program.

A rose garden with colored birds and butterflies perched among the roses formed the background for the serving area, and a large yellow bird cage with yellow love birds and daisies stood near by.

The club's Girl of the Month, Miss Janet Morgan, was crowned "Queen for March" in a ceremony by Mrs. J. J. Rance, chairman and her co-chairman, Mrs. Sam Williams. Miss Morgan is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry N. Noel, and is a senior in Pampa High School.

A recording by Earl Nightingale, entitled, "The Strangest Secret", was presented by Mrs. Robertson. In this recording, Nightingale tells how to achieve greater success and how to enjoy greater happiness and peace of mind. He says, "Your job, regardless of what it may be, holds within it the 'key' to success and abundance. You, and you, alone, determine the degree of your success."

Mrs. Flossie Weatherford spoke and demonstrated the "Care of Your Skin", by explaining the important steps in caring for the skin properly and using make-up correctly.

Guests included: Mr. and Mrs. Jerry N. Noel, parents of the Girl of the Month; Misses Becky Noel, Janet Morgan, Jean Skaggs, Martha Myatt, and Gail McDonald; Meses Audrey M. Fowler, Velma Arendall, Grace Bem, all of Borger; and Teresa Humphreys.

The Pampa Daily News

A Watchful Newspaper

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE
The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license, nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself. No more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

About That 'Vote of Confidence'

The word is out in certain circles to give the two incumbent school board members a "vote of confidence" and keep them on the board at the April 6 school election.

The "vote of confidence" is supposed to be payment for getting rid of Dr. John Damron as Pampa school superintendent.

Now, just how far out can you go for a "vote of confidence?" The mere suggestion should win the current "Funny of the Week" award.

If ever anything was mishandled, it was the way in which the school superintendent was fired.

Instead of giving the real reason for his dismissal — the fact that the superintendent and the board just didn't see eye to eye on the handling of administrative matters — the board kicked him out on two hours notice without having the courtesy to tell him or the public why. He was sacked on the spot without any arrangement for a mutually agreed upon termination date or salary adjustment.

For four or five weeks the public was allowed to wonder if he had been dismissed for some sinister reason that possibly could involve his reputation or even misappropriation of funds.

Even after litigation in the case had ended, minutes of the meeting at which Dr. Damron was ousted had to be forced into the open — and then, all they showed was that his services had been terminated "for good cause." This still did not clear the atmosphere. It was not until The News took a poll of all five school board members that it was learned from one member that the superintendent had been released simply because he and the board "differed on educational philosophy." This was the "good cause."

It was not one of the incumbent board members now seeking election who finally told The News the "real reason."

We suppose it was reason enough for dismissal. But, the point we wish to make here is that there was no other charge against the superintendent. There was no reason to kick him out on two-hour notice without explanation.

If the board and the superintendent couldn't agree on "educational philosophy," he should have been so advised and mutual agreement reached right then and there for termination of services and the amount of severance salary to be paid.

Instead, a temper or two flared and a lid or two flipped and the hasty, impetuous and rash board action that night turned out to be one of the most bungled, worst handled, impulsive official acts in local school board history.

There is no quarrel with the fact the superintendent was discharged. He realized it, too. He expected it, but not in the way it happened.

The quarrel is with the method in which it was fumbled and the shroud of secrecy with which it was clothed. The whole thing could have been conducted in a straightforward manner minus all the insinuations and innuendoes.

And, for this bungled affair — some are asking that the incumbents be rewarded with a "vote of confidence."

There are those who believe "confidence" is not the correct word.

Lesson for John Green of Dallas

What is the function of schools? Think it is "readin' writin' and rithmetic?" Guess again.

Primary function is to develop the child to fit in the Great Society. At least that's the opinion expressed at a meeting of school board members representing metropolitan communities in Washington, recently.

There was not a professional educator in the group, nor a long-haired governmental theorist with some federal bureau.

One of the board members — attorney John Plath Green of the Dallas School Board — went to the meeting with the naive belief that the main purpose of schools is education. He quickly found something different as reported by Dick West, editorial editor of the Dallas Morning News.

West wrote about Green's rude awakening:

"Green of Dallas was asked to talk about 30 minutes on what he thought the primary function of a school system should be.

"The most important function, he said, is to educate its products.

"Teach them to spell, to compose a sentence properly, to think creatively and with high motives, to know right from wrong. They should know what honor is, what civic service is, what discipline is and what it means to serve their fellowman and their country.

"When he finished, he got no applause! A few of them looked at me, as though I were some kind of kook," he said.

"He was told by one school board member from the East: Mr. Green, the 20th century has passed you by.

"The member from Dallas, in other words, was old-fashioned, way out in right field. The very idea of a man getting up and saying he believed in teaching honor and duty!

high-sounding terms — such as "ethnic essentials."

"Another said that public schools, from kindergarten on, should use the child to shape society. Very, very early the child should be taught the value of 'public welfare' and of poverty programs and should be bussed from one neighborhood to another, so that he or she should be associated closely with children of other races.

"The child should be educated, said another, so he will be an adult who exists for the state.

"Nearly all, except Green of Dallas, felt that children should be taken away from their parents at the age of 2 and put in kindergartens.

"Also, by the time they were in the second or third grades, they should be watched closely for a feeling of their aptitudes.

If they use their fingers well, put them in vocational work right away; if they can sing a tune, put them in the orchestra — maybe they'll make a Duke Ellington.

"Have experts study the young things when they are 7 or 8 years old and determine what careers they should pursue when they are 27 or 28.

"But, above all, develop the child to shape society. The Great Society, the Socialist Society or the Ethnic Consideration Society?

"Green of Dallas was a minority of one, a lawyer from our own state and a Texas city which still has some people who believe in free enterprise and in the theory that a child should be taught right from wrong, how to read, how to spell and how to write his name correctly.

"But that is old-timey and belongs to a faded past when a young man chose his own career; worked toward it and even had the gall to pay his own way; a faded past when a youngster was taught to salute the flag, read the United States Constitution and go home to his parents when classes were over.

Pine Tree Features

By MARGUERITE HARPER To Curb Power

Today we hear much about politicians and the government having too much power. What do we mean by power? Where does government get its power? How do politicians use it? Power might be thought of as the assumed right to exercise control over other persons or their property. It means making decisions affecting others, but not being responsible for the end results of those decisions. Power may be acquired through vote, delegation, or usurpation.

The essence of socialism is the power-form of control. Many years ago Lord Acton wrote that power tends to corrupt and that absolute power corrupts absolutely. It would be well to be constantly mindful of these two ideas. Together they mean that socialism corrupts.

Where does government power come from? We the people give it to government officials. Perhaps we give it to them innocently and unknowingly, but that does not make the control over our lives any less vicious. We have voted or delegated this power to them and as long as we continue to increase their power, we can expect them to exert more control over us — and to become more corrupt. When citizens and parents advocate their responsibilities by handing them over to government, they are spreading socialism. In fact, they are asking for it.

To many, it may seem simple and economical, on first thought, to shift responsibilities to the government. But are the consequences of this action what they really want? They are giving up their freedom of choice.

In answer to what is wrong with governmental controls or power, witness what has happened to our governmental schools, to our agriculture, to our monetary system, and to our tax burden. It would be well for us to consider Lord Acton's words on power and the definition of socialism as we give corrupting power to politicians.

The remedy for these controls is not through political power, but in educating individuals to recover their freedom and responsibility. We have been lulled into accepting controls a bit at a time, until few people realize how far we have gone in relinquishing our freedom. As individuals begin to understand the distance we have traveled down the wrong road and want to turn back, they will change the course of events; not before. This will be accomplished through sound education.

In my next article I shall discuss children and power.

By Injun Woody

I see where Sparky Matsunaga, Rep. (Hawaii) is working on getting buttons for members of the House of Beatedom. He says the senators are all button wearers and the reps ought to have some buttons too.

The senators have got gold buttons with the senate seal in the center and titles printed around the outside in blue letters. Everything surrounding gold is blue these days.

To get off on the right fit — Sparky formed a special 10 member committee to button-hole the situation. To do it right they ought to print some snappy slogans on the buttons as befit the reps' personal interests. Some ideas might be:

Ala. "He did it, yes he did." Cal. "Is it Bleating or Roaring?" Colo. "Have We Taxed it Yet?" Conn. "Let's Get Wound Up." Fla. "Try Hybrids." Ga. "Check Your Cotonpickers." Hawaii "Well, plunk mah Ukelele." Ind. "Send A Card." Ill. "Vote Twice."

Iowa "Eat Popcorn." La. "Sweet Pea or Daisy?" Mass. "Glad You Decided." Mich. "Need Any Parts." Minn. "I'm The Happiest." Miss. "Resist It." Neb. "How About a Weenie Roast?" N. H. "Back The Dead." N.Y. "I Love Garbage." Nev. "Seen Any Snakes Lately?" Okla. "Whee." Ohio "That's The Size of It." R. I. "String Those Beads." Tex. "Thank you, thank you." Wash. D.C. "It's Been A Bad Year." Wis. "Take A Toboggan."

I hope that commission gets on the ball. It would be a shame if them reps had to close up shop just because they're missing a few buttons.

Question Box

(We invite questions on economic and the proper functions of government which will not incur a charge.)

QUESTION: Have the meanings of many important words in the English language changed in the last 193 years?

ANSWER: They certainly have. A good example of this is in the Declaration of Independence. It is difficult to understand unless you know the change of meaning of words. Take the second paragraph of the Declaration of Independence which reads:

"We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness."

Certainly that doesn't mean that all men are created identical in ability or talent, physically or mentally or identical in achievement. The men who wrote the Declaration were not blind. It does mean that all men are created with equal RIGHTS to try to live by making peaceful efforts to live and peaceful efforts to get more liberty and to keep it. Though the Creator intended each man to have liberty, that is, endowed him with the right to liberty, we have never actually had it since interfering with mankind. Ayn Rand explains that all men are created with equal right to take moral action to try to live and to take moral action to try to get more liberty and to keep it. That makes it easier to understand, because all men die, and you are not endowed with life, you are endowed with the right to try to live. Man has to get food and shelter and clothing in order just to survive and man has to make a great deal of effort in order to live.

Another sentence in the Declaration of Independence that is confusing is this one: "That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed."

By today's usage that leaves the impression that the government is going to OBTAIN these rights and give them to men. But when the Declaration was written the verb "secure" meant "to make safe." So that sentence could only mean that governments are designed to make safe — to bind down — these rights that man got from Nature or God when he was born. Governments can't give any rights. They can't obtain rights for anybody. He already has them.

These are two examples in the Declaration of Independence that have changed their meaning and understanding in the last 193 years.

Wit and Whimsy
When the examination was over, the teacher in a mountain school told her pupils to write a pledge that they had neither received nor given help. One gangling youth who had squirmed in dismay and mopped a bewildered brow throughout the ordeal, wrote: "I ain't received no help in this matter, and God knows I couldn't have gave any."

Senators Cool to McCarthy and Kennedy Campaigns — At Least Until After Wisconsin Primary

ROBERT ALLEN PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — Among Democratic colleagues in the U.S. Senate, where they are best known, Senators Robert Kennedy, N.Y., and Eugene McCarthy, Minn., have been unable to pick up any strong support for their presidential campaigns.

Except for his brother, Edward Kennedy, Mass., Bobby has so far won a pledge of support only from Joseph Tydings, Md.

Another colleague, Joseph Clark, Pa., has promised Kennedy to reassess his support of President Johnson after his own hotly-contested primary is out of the way.

McCarthy, despite his strong showing in the New Hampshire primary, has been even less successful. So far he has been unable to obtain the backing of a single senator.

Most of the so-called Democratic "doves" in the Senate, who normally would be expected to support Kennedy or McCarthy because of their war views, have gone "neutral" and decided against taking sides in the growing Johnson-Kennedy-McCarthy confrontation.

These "neutral" senators include J. William Fulbright, Ark.; Philip A. Hart, Mich.; George McGovern, S.D.; Wayne Morse, Ore.; Frank Church, Idaho; William Proxmire, Wis.; Gaylord Nelson, Wis.; Warren G. Magnuson, Wash.; Walter F. Mondale, Minn.; Edmund S. Muskie, Me.; Albert Gore, Tenn.; Ernest Gruening, Alaska; and Abraham Ribicoff, Conn.

On the other hand, the White House claims President Johnson has received pledges of support from "at least" 38 of the 64 Democratic senators, with another 10 either leaning toward the President or still undecided.

WISCONSIN PRIMARY — Despite this poor showing among their colleagues so far, both Senators Kennedy and McCarthy are hopeful the results of the April 2 Wisconsin primary — graveyard of many presidential ambitions in the past — will change all that.

The voting there will be viewed as a significant test between the President and "peace candidate" McCarthy, who will have Kennedy's backing.

If McCarthy should defeat President Johnson, he will seek the active backing of both Senators Proxmire and Nelson, now "neutral."

Also Kennedy, who jumped into the Democratic race too late to have his name on the Wisconsin ballot, is counting on a McCarthy victory to win him backing among the senators who support his views on Vietnam.

HOW TO ADDRESS OUR LAWMAKERS

You may want to write your senators and representatives in Washington and Austin. Here are their addresses:

(FEDERAL)
Rep. Bob Price, 1223 Longworth Bldg., Wash., D.C. 20545.
Sen. John Tower, Senate Office Bldg., Wash., D.C. 20540.
(STATE)
Rep. Maud Abramson, Canadian, Texas, Wash., D.C. 20515.
Sen. Virady Haskewood, Canyon Hwy., Amarillo, Texas 79106.

What If Big Brother Is Wrong?

(Chicago Tribune)

The more we contemplate the likelihood of a computerized federal storehouse of facts about our personal lives and habits, such as many government agencies would like to have, the more alarming it becomes.

It is bad enough to think of all the things the computer may know about us that are true, and that it will spew forth to anybody with the authority to punch our number into it. Our drinking habits, our finances; how we are fixed for bathrooms; how we get along with our wife, and other matters which have been asked or may be asked by inquisitors for the census bureau and other agencies, public and private.

But it is even worse to think about the things the computer may say about us that are wrong, and that we might not even know about. This specter has arisen at a conference at the University of Chicago on "Privacy: Policy and the Law."

James M. Ratcliffe, assistant dean of the university's law school, told the conference that the federal government, credit bureaus and private employers have millions of files with information on individuals and the files are not available to the individuals.

"The major problem," he said, "is simple mistakes which the individual has no chance to correct."

Mistakes are inevitable in this sort of file. The Wall Street Journal recently gave examples of mistakes found in the files of private credit bureaus. Some mistakes were caused by confusing similarities in names and others resulted from the failure to check out unverified reports. In a computerized federal file, an inadvertent transposition of two digits in our social security number might saddle us with the police record of a swindler, or the internal revenue record of a tax dodger.

Most of the information on file with the federal government has come from the census bureau, which in 1960 required one person in 10 to answer a long list of personal questions and is likely to be even more nosy in 1970.

"Most constitutional authorities agree," Mr. Ratcliffe said, "that the census was originally conceived for the purpose of allocating seats in the House of Representatives. But now it has become a major inquiry into all facets of American life."

Considering that a person's career may depend on what is in his file, Mr. Ratcliffe believes it is of paramount importance that the individual be furnished a copy of his file and be given a chance to correct mistakes. If Big Brother insists on turning the computers loose against us, this is the least that he must guarantee in return.

WASHINGTON

Viet Foes 'Bleeding' U.S. With Gold Drain Tactics

By RAY CROMLEY Washington Correspondent

BANGKOK (NEA) — Some interesting sidelights on the gold crisis come to view in this ancient capital of Thailand.

For some time the Communist Chinese have been buying gold on the world markets and shipping it in to mainland China by ship and plane. No one knows how great these imports are. But this correspondent has talked with men who have seen some of these shipments first hand. This has been going on at a time when the Chinese were hard-pressed for foreign exchange to buy food and wheat therefore seeking credits.

The French, closely co-operating with the Communists in Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia, have been converting into gold a good portion of the funds they are making in legal and illegal trading with and for the Communists.

A small but significant part of the dollar drain resulting from the war in Vietnam is due to these French profits. Conservative estimates from banking and trading sources put the French dollar "take" from Southeast Asia at upwards of $200 million a year.

One major objective of the current North Vietnamese drive in Laos is to achieve economic disruption, which might have to be met with increased dollar aid, adding a new pressure on U.S. currency.

Ho Chi Minh and his defense minister, Gen. Nguyen Giap, have been saying for some time that one of their major objectives in Vietnam is to force a strong increase in U.S. troops, equipment and supplies, upping the already heavy dollar drain of this war.

A possibility exists that some of the recent Communist advances toward the Thai borders are aimed at getting Thailand to spend more in defense and thus put pressure on the country's economic stability, which currently is sound.

The Russians and the French may be attempting to convince the Arab countries with large sums on deposit in London that it would be wise to transfer all or part of these balances. Such transfers could put dramatic new pressure on both the pound and the dollar.

These and other economic moves by Communist countries and their allies should be studied in the context of past statements by Ho and Giap.

A major point in Communist subversive insurgency doctrine is economic subversion of the enemy. In Red doctrine, economic warfare is considered far more important than guerrilla or conventional military actions. Ho and Giap have asserted time and again that a strong enemy such as the United States can be defeated by dissipating its strength. By stimulating already-existing economic pressures on a wide number of fronts, the Ho-Giap doctrine holds, the United States can be so hurt domestically that it will be tempted to cut its losses by hedging on its foreign commitments in Vietnam, Laos, Thailand, Latin America, the Middle East and Africa.

For the short term, for the years just ahead, the United States will have to take much more stringent economic measures than those announced thus far. It will not be enough to curb foreign investment and travel, raise taxes a little and up the Federal Reserve's discount rate.

H. L. Hunt Writes

WINNING IN VIETNAM
This month's issue of "Science and Mechanics" magazine publishes a report of interviews with 12 leading ex-officers of the U.S. armed forces on how the war against North Vietnam can be won "in six weeks" and the remaining Viet Cong guerrillas in the south could be conquered "within six months."

Among those interviewed were Generals Maxwell Taylor and Nathan Twining, former chairmen of the Joint Chiefs of Staff; Admiral Arleigh Burke, former chief of naval operations, and General George H. Decker, former army chief of staff. These and the other officers were said, for the most part, to have listed five measures the U.S. should take for a quick victory. These were the recommendations:

—Officially declare war against North Vietnam.
—Close the port at Haiphong.
—Invade North Vietnam.
—Destroy all important targets in the north, after warning civilians in target areas to evacuate.
—Warn Red China and the Soviet Union that any attempt to aid North Vietnam would be interpreted as an act of war against the United States.

The recommendations of these high-ranking ex-officers, if correctly reported (and there is no reason to believe otherwise), deserve the most serious consideration in Washington, D.C. These military men no doubt remember General Douglas MacArthur's ringing statement: "There is no substitute for victory." What they recommended is a win instead of a "no win" policy. They believe the time has come to put an end to this heartbreaking conflict, so costly in American lives and in money. And they suggest specific ways to achieve victory.

Australia And Vietnam

(American Opinion)

The substantial electoral reverse suffered by the Australian Government at the Senate Election on November 25, 1967 can be directly attributed to the continued no-win policy in Vietnam. Only twelve months previously Prime Minister Harold Holt's Government had won a sweeping victory on the Vietnam issue, campaigning under the unfortunate slogan: "All the way with L.B.J." But more and more Australians are beginning to ask where L.B.J. and his advisors are going. And, unfortunately, the Australian Government does not seem to know.

As a result, the Senate-election campaign started disastrously for the Government with Labor-Socialist leader Gough Whitlam charging that the Holt Administration had deliberately suppressed the fact that the United States Ambassador to the United Nations, Arthur Goldberg, had early in November proposed a major switch in American policy by advocating that the National Liberation Front (Vietcong) participate in any Security Council discussion on Vietnam. Prime Minister Holt was caught flat-footed on the Goldberg policy and was from then on constantly on the defensive.

Mr. Whitlam claimed that his own very "Liberal" policy on Vietnam not only provided an independent Australian posture, but was in harmony with the view of "progressive" Americans. The Labor-Socialists were given valuable assistance in this regard by a stream of Leftist lecturers who arrived from America to tell Australians that large numbers of Americans are turning against any strong anti-Communist policy in Vietnam.

Report Not Available

Probably unaware of the subversion inside the Washington Administration, and relying upon his own rather dubious Department of External Affairs, Mr. Holt had found that his efforts to go "all the way with L.B.J." produced not so much as a briefing on war-related developments inside the United States. For example, at the start of the Senate campaign, investigations revealed that not one member of the Holt Cabinet had seen a copy of the shocking Summary Report by the U.S. Senate Preparedness Investigating Committee issued on August thirty-first. Perhaps this was not surprising when even the American Embassy at Canberra could not produce a copy!

Knowledge that that Report would have answered Mr. Whitlam's demands for a halt to the bombing with these words of the Committee: "Those who propose a temporary bombing lull, as evidence of our good intentions in the hope that it would bring Hanoi to the conference table, overlook the hard facts of increased U.S. casualties and past history. The net effect of such truces was shown clearly by the Tet Shutdown in early 1967. We were told that during the 4-day lapse in air attacks during that period North Vietnam pushed through a volume of supplies that would have required at least 38 days to move during periods of our air activity."

Of course, those like Mr. Whitlam who support the proposal of a cessation of bombing to bring North Vietnam to the conference table ignore the fact that the Communists are openly contemptuous of the proposal. For example, on the very eve of the Australian Senate Elections, Peking Radio broadcast a sneering comment under the topic: "Quarrel in Washington Reflects Wretched U.S. Predicament." Listeners were told that "Contrary to the 'hawks', these so-called 'doves' proposed that the United States once again resort to the scheme of 'inducing peace talks through bombing pause.' They put forward an assortment of proposals for a bombing pause in a vain effort to cajole the Vietnamese people into holding peace talks with the US aggressors." This statement reflects the hard line consistently taken by North Vietnamese Prime Minister Pham van Dong, the major political leader in North Vietnam now that Ho Chi Minh is seriously ill. The Communists are confident in taking this line because they are fully informed on the influence being exerted by their agents inside the United States.

Even if the Communists do decide to enter into negotiations, these will be used in accordance with the classical Communist strategy of protracted conflict. During Operation Cedar Falls in Vietnam last January, United States troops captured, among hundreds of other Communist documents, a tape-recording of an address by a deputy commander of the Viet Cong, Major General Tran Do, in which Tran stated that even if negotiations temporarily halted the war the Communists would begin it again at their first opportunity and fight until they got their way. The Viet Cong leader said, "After any war, there are some negotiations. After negotiations, there is again war. And if there is some fighting while negotiations are in progress there is nothing astonishing in that."

Of course there is nothing astonishing—it is exactly what the Communists did in Korea, where the Americans and their allies suffered more casualties after negotiations started than in all the fighting previous. Back in 1960, leading Vietnamese Communist theoretician Truong Chinh foreshadowed exactly what would happen to Vietnam in his work, The Resistance Will Win. (Hanoi, Foreign Languages Publishing House) He wrote: "To protract the war is the key to victory... if we prolong the war... our forces will grow stronger, the enemy forces will be weakened, their already low morale will become still lower, their already poor finances will become still poorer. The more we fight, the more united our people at home will be, and the more the world democratic movement will support us from outside..." Events have developed exactly as Truong Chinh predicted.

The latest reaffirmation of this concept of protracted war was outlined in a 25,000-word military analysis issued early in October by General Vo Nguyen Giap, North Vietnam's Minister of Defense. Although it contains some obvious propaganda for Communist consumption, the document leaves no doubt that the Communist leaders do not visualize an early end to the Vietnam war. General Giap states that having forced the United States and its allies to fight a protracted war "is a big defeat for them."

Unless the strategy of the protracted war can be defeated with the institution of a win-policy, Communist propaganda and psychological warfare will continue to erode national will in the United States and Australia. The Australian Senate Elections produced striking evidence of how fast the erosion is developing among the population of the United States' major ally in Vietnam. If the erosion should manifest itself at the Presidential and Congressional elections in the United States later this year, Mr. Gough Whitlam can look forward to restoring the Socialists to power in Australia next year—for the first time since 1949.

The Improvident Provider

(Wall Street Journal)

When the government tries to provide for the future security of elderly Americans, a minimum requirement would seem to be forethought. Unfortunately, Washington appears all too willing to let tomorrow take care of itself.

One result of this improvident attitude is the current condition of the civil service retirement fund, as outlined by a story in this newspaper recently. Unless something is done, the fund, a dozen years from now, will be paying out more than it's taking in and, a few years later, will simply run out of money.

Up to now Congress, so deeply involved in the present general budget mess, has shown no inclination to deal with dangers further off. Indeed, its chief action has been to raise federal pay, and thus pensions, making the retirement fund crisis all the more imminent. Says Civil Service Commission Chairman John Macy, somewhat plaintively: "It is essential that Congress recognize the liberalization of benefits has a future cost." The fund's future concerns a great many Americans; it currently pays $2 billion a year to 850,000 retirees or their survivors. Yet even more is at stake in Social Security, and the lawmakers show little more concern about the way things are going in that program.

As the Tax Foundation indicates in a new study, "Issues in Future Financing of Social Security," basic decisions on old-age benefits must be made before very long. These payments now total more than $20 billion a year and go to some 12 million Americans; both figures are sure to rise considerably in the future.

The trouble in this case is not that Congress has refused to bolster the fund's income as it increased benefits; payroll taxes, as every wage earner can attest, have been jacked up regularly. The difficulty is instead that the government has reached the point where payroll levies can't be raised much more without antagonizing a sizable share of the populace.

Up to now Congress, so deeply involved in the present general budget mess, has shown no inclination to deal with dangers further off. Indeed, its chief action has been to raise federal pay, and thus pensions, making the retirement fund crisis all the more imminent. Says Civil Service Commission Chairman John Macy, somewhat plaintively: "It is essential that Congress recognize the liberalization of benefits has a future cost."

Few people try any more to make the old argument that this is an "insurance" system, under which workers put away money for their retirement in years. Many young workers, under present schedules, have little hope that the discounted values of their benefits will equal the taxes they pay, plus interest. Many other workers, of course, receive much more than they pay in.

What has happened is that Congress, more or less unconsciously, has twisted Social Security into a strange mixture of a pension program and an elaborate, expensive welfare scheme. If the lawmakers go on inflating benefits, sooner or later they are going to have to tap other types of financing, presumably General Government revenues.

Before the government goes far in that direction, though, the planners should at least sit down and see if it can't be done on a reasonably orderly basis. Canada manages to operate a pension plan, with benefits closely geared to contributions, and a separate old-age benefit setup that's more like a welfare scheme — and is financed by income and sales levies.

Thought should also be given to the fact that private pension programs in recent years have been spreading rapidly through the economy. At some point that constant expansion of Social Security will begin to displace such programs, as well as individuals' efforts to set aside funds for their old age.

Most important, it's high time for the government to realize that there would be much less need for increased benefits if federal financial policies were not so deeply eroding the buying power of present and future dollars. The government could provide far better for the elderly if it weren't so improvident itself.

Scattershot Census

The "machinery is being set up for taking the U.S. Census of 1970, and again there will be innovations unless Congress acts. Far from the simple purpose of the first U.S. Census, which was to equalize the representation of congressmen, today's is a compendium of all the things bureaucrats have become curious about during the preceding decade.

Counting noses has become almost incidental to the Bureau of the Census. It wants to know all manner of things about us, about our homes, appliances, travel habits and our income. This comes under the head of providing facts valuable to commerce, industry and planners in general, which may account in some degree for the junk mail which inundates all homes.

The Census Bureau's earnest protestations that all information it gathers is held in strict confidence does not meet the principle at issue. This principle is the right of free citizens to personal privacy.

Let the Bureau henceforth count heads in fulfillment of the census as set forth in the Constitution. But why not leave the other questions to the revenue men, the market research people and the pollsters, who do not carry a club of a $1,000 fine or 60 days in jail to force the answers?

Left Luggage

A Caustic History of British Socialism from Marx to Wilson by C. Northcote Parkinson (Boston: Houghton Mifflin Company, 1967). $4.95, 236 pp.

Reviewed by Robert M. Thornton (The Freeman)

Frankly, this book is dry reading in parts for even the witty formulator of "Parkinson's Law" cannot make British socialism an entertaining or inspiring subject. Dullness may be one of the reasons for socialism's failure. All it now promises people, says Parkinson, is a classless society in which economic security is guaranteed by the state; where no one is to have anything that all cannot have. A socialist society also dries up the sources of idealism, and idealism is necessary to a healthy dynamic society. Men have been willing to lay down their lives for God or the emperor, for their regiment or for the flag, but you cannot expect such sacrifice on behalf of a higher standard of living.

A generation ago Robert A. Taft offered a similar criticism of a society too much concerned with things: "Before our system can claim success, it must not only create a people with a higher standard of living, but a people with a higher standard of character — character that must include religious faith, morality, educated intelligence, self-restraint, and an ingained demand for justice and unselfishness. We cannot hope to achieve salvation by worshipping the god of the standard of living."

In 1944, F. A. Hayek dedicated a book to "The Socialists of All Parties," and warned his English friends that central planning is the road to serfdom. Parkinson, quoting liberally from Herbert Spencer's The Man vs. the State tells us again that socialism and freedom are incompatible. For those who have the eyes to see and the ears to hear we have a recital of England's collectivist experiences to warn us again of the dangers in our present trend toward statism.

Another fatal error of socialism is its insistence that no one be allowed to enjoy the advantages of birth, upbringing, environment, intelligence, determination, hard work, foresight, patience, thrift, and ambition. Then, as Joseph Wood Krutch has observed, about the only thing to strive for in such a society is power. The classless society produces only the bureaucrat, the nonindividual castigated by Parkinson in earlier books. But the good society needs such uncommon men and women, as Parkinson himself pointed out a couple of years ago in A Law unto Themselves (Boston, 1966). Without pathfinders and innovators in the arts and in science as well as in business and industry a society will stagnate. To discourage the outstanding individuals and attempt to reduce them to the level of the great majority is to hurt everyone.

Socialism, concludes Parkinson, is intellectually bankrupt. The thought has been put more thoroughly and profoundly by Mises, Hayek, and Röpke. But it doesn't hurt to add another volume to the growing stack of books which demolish socialist theory and practice.

Passing The Ammunition

Free Trade More Vital Now Than Ever

(Western Manufacturing)

Since the days of Teddy Roosevelt and the great White Fleet, many Americans have promoted principles of freer trade with our European and Asiatic cousins.

Now, since the devaluation of the British pound, the promotional campaign for freer trade is probably more vital than ever.

The stability of many international markets is uncertain. And faced with devalued British currency floating around Europe and Asia, Great Britain is jumping on the foreign business band wagon with renewed vigor. Hopefully, most major industrial countries will be able to retain the value of their money in a free trade atmosphere. But a flood of manufactured goods marked "Made in Britain" pouring into markets may make some of these nations decide on a highly-protectionist policy.

The United States could be a leader in this rush back to the tariff wall. Any actions of this sort by the United States may make uncommitted foreign countries decide to erect their existing tariff barriers even higher. Washington currently is under tremendous pressure by some segments of industry for tough import quotas against foreign goods. Our best interests may lie in fighting these pressures to erect a wall of protectionism.

Many firms suffering from aggressive importation are also complaining that overseas markets are tough to enter with American goods. It might be a great deal easier for the Government to sell certain hard-pressed American industries on the idea of freer trade if they did an aggressive selling job overseas to persuade foreign nations not only to shelve some proposed trade restraints but to erase more of those now on the books. Our competition overseas is made very tough not only from clearly stated import tariffs and quotas, but from a myriad of complex taxes, stringent shipping requirements and other hampering devices.

As a solid argument for convincing European nations of the benefits of widening trade horizons the United States can point to success of the European Common Market which has been enjoying fine growth patterns in a freer trade atmosphere. The European Common Market certainly will not benefit from a protectionist policy which will deny entry of goods from the United States as well as the rest of the world.

The road toward freer trade is going to be full of detours. Proponents of freer trade will have their ideas barricaded by strong arguments from industries such as the textile group, which is pushing for import quotas against foreign goods. But this country's overall obligation in the current monetary crisis, we believe, is to avoid leading the world markets back to an era of universal protectionism.

'Compliment' For Congress

(Chattanooga News-Free Press)

The current Congress has just received one of the nicest compliments it could get: The leftwing group called Americans for Democratic Action says the 90th Congress has been lousy.

If Congress has been doing things to displease the ADA, chances are it has been serving the interests of the great majority of Americans at least some of the time. Specifically, the ADA deplored the fact that the "Dixiecrat-Republican" coalition, as ADA termed it, was able to head off some of the most radical things of the LBJ program. While the ADA was displeased with the degree that conservatives of both parties had been able to put on the brakes, the lefties were not displeased with everybody in Congress. There were two senators, for example, who rated 100 per cent with ADA. One was Democrat Bobby Kennedy of New York. The other was Republican Clifford Case of New Jersey.

This 100 per cent ADA rating for Bobby should alert the American people to the fact that there is much more than Bobby's personal arrogance and Machievellian attitude to indicate he not only would be a bad President but that he is a bad senator. Only New Yorkers can act on the latter office; citizens throughout the country should be eager to counter Bobby's ambition for the former.

Has The Bar Boxed Itself In?

(Chicago Tribune)

A member of the house of delegates of the American Bar Association who voted against the resolution to restrict news coverage of criminal procedures calls our attention to some contradictions in the bar's outlook. The supposed "finest legal brains" in the country apparently can't make up their minds whether they favor coercion or voluntary action.

The report submitted by Justice Paul C. Reardon of the Massachusetts Supreme Court to restrict what may be published before and during a criminal trial was adopted after a motion to defer action for one year had been defeated, 176 to 68. The delay was urged to a bit completion by the American Newspaper Publishers Association Foundation of a study to measure the impact, if any, of news on trial juries.

Having elected to take the punitive approach the house of delegates passed on to other matters. The members were tired, were not too attentive, and some may even have been dozing. The next immediate order of business was a resolution tendered by the A.B.A.'s standing committee on public relations. It passed unanimously.

The resolution thus passed provides that the president is authorized, after discharge of the Reardon committee, to appoint a continuing legal advisory committee on fair trial and free press, the stated purpose of which is to "(1) assist in effectuating the recommendations of the house of delegates in this field through liaison with state and local bar associations and (2) encourage cooperation of the bar and the media of communication in voluntary measures to protect the rights of fair trial and free press."

Our lawyer informant, who had his eyes open during these proceedings, comments, "The adopted resolution struck me instantly as being in conflict, at least inferentially, with the Reardon resolution, because it calls for assistance on the Reardon plan but also urges voluntary plans, in what seems plainly to be an intended parallelism. It will be noted that the two ideas stand on an equality basis."

"Unless the A. B. A. house later takes the position that the Reardon plan must supersede all voluntary plans—and that was the import of the proponents' arguments—the association has unwittingly boxed itself in."

The dichotomy of the brethren learned in the law is not without its amusing aspects. We submit that the algebraic postulate applies: things equal to the same thing are equal to each other. So, in law and logic, the A.B.A. has managed to say that, though it votes 3 to 1 for compulsion it leaves large space for freedom and voluntarism—i. e., compulsion equals voluntarism action.

We would assume that in law equal quantities have the same value, so that the house of delegates would appear to have drawn a deficient brief. If it subscribes to the proposition that compulsion and voluntarism are of equal weight and merit, it adopts the thesis of the American Newspaper Publishers Association that, between equals, neither can override the other.

For the A. N. P. A., observing that free press and fair trial are both constitutional concepts, has said that between them no conflict exists, nor can it exist, because both are of equal weight in the Constitution.

We recall the compliment of a college professor, who wrote on an examination paper, "You seem to hear and understand very well while sleeping." Can as much be said of the sleeping lawyers who voted to write contradictory concepts into their canons?

Does He Know Something?

Politics has been described as "calling in which a little 'ham' never hurt anybody." While not all politicians would concur, a recent incident in the nation's Capitol gives credence to its veracity.

House Whip Hale Boggs of Louisiana appeared on the floor in an unaccustomed blue shirt, a gift from his wife. Within half an hour, 15 House members had led to their offices and returned wearing blue shirts, just in case Boggs knew something about an impending TV situation they were not aware of.

Who says politicians aren't actors?

"Must Be A Rabbit In There Somewhere!"

SIX OF THE TEN Oscar nominees for best actor and best actress are seen here in scenes from the films nominated for best picture of the year according to the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences. From the left at top are: Dustin Hoffman and Anne Bancroft in "The Graduate;" Faye Dunaway and Warren Beatty in "Bonnie and Clyde;" and Rex Harrison in "Dr. Dollittle." Same order at bottom are: Katharine Hepburn, Katharine Houghton and Sidney Poitier in "Guess Who's Coming to Dinner;" and "In the Heat of the Night," with Sidney Poitier and Rod Taylor. Nominated for best actress Oscars were Miss Bancroft, Miss Dunaway, Miss Hepburn, Dame Edith Evans in "The Whisperers," and Audrey Hepburn in "Wait Until Dark." Best actor nominees are Hoffman, Beatty, Steiger, Spencer Tracy in "Guess Who's Coming to Dinner," and Paul Newman in "Cool Hand Luke." The award presentations will be made April 8 and will be hand by ABC.

'Cool Hand Luke' Was Vehicle 'Oscar' Nomination Pays Big For Actor

By VERNON SCOTT
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—One part in one attention-getting movie is the dream of a thousand good actors, who cannot detach themselves from the mass of unknown faces that cross movie and television screens. That part and that movie came along for George Kennedy.

On the strength of his role in "Cool Hand Luke," the brawny, unpretty Kennedy has won a nomination for best supporting actor this year.

His competition is Cecil Kellaway (Guess Who's Coming to Dinner), John Cassavetes (The Dirty Dozen) and Michael Pollard and Gene Hackman (both in "Bonnie and Clyde").

It is academic whether Kennedy wins the Oscar.

The nomination, "Cool Hand Luke" and his striking performance have already changed his world beyond measure. No longer is Kennedy a face in the crowd, a "good character man" or a side supporting player who can be had for a reasonable price.

"I'd done about 17 movies, usually playing heavies, before 'Luke' came along," Kennedy said at 20th Century-Fox where he has a fat part in "The Exton Strangler."

"The nomination is flattering, and I appreciate the honor. But win, lose or draw, the nomination makes me happy for what it's done already."

Major Change
"Actually, the major change took place before the nomination. The people who hire actors saw 'Luke' on the Bel-Air circuit and the offers began coming into my agent."

"Since then I had a big role in 'Bandolero,' now the 'Strangler,' and in a few weeks I play the lead in 'Quest of the Magnificent Seven,' playing the role Yul Brynner had in the original movie."

Kennedy will never win any beauty contests. His features are strong, his body muscular and square. But there is sensitivity in this rugged package. "The guy can act."

By the time Christ was born, most carpenter tools already had assumed the form known today.

SCHOOL CLOSED

MADRID (UPI)—The 30,000 student University of Madrid was closed Thursday by Spanish authorities because of repeated clashes between police and students. The Ministry of Education did not say how long the school would remain shut down.

APOLOGY ASKED

TOKYO (UPI)—North Korea Thursday broadcast a letter it said was from a member of the captured USS Pueblo crew identified as Earl Murray Kistler, a third class petty officer. It asked the United States to apologize to protect the 82 imprisoned crewmen.

'The Comedy Of Ernie Kovacs' Set For Television Viewing Over ABC

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Ernie Kovacs died six years ago in an automobile crash. But thanks to television, the medium he loved, his genius will be displayed once more in a video special.

"The Comedy of Ernie Kovacs" will be telecast April 9 (10-11 p.m. EST via ABC), a compilation of the best fits from eight specials he did for the network.

Appearing in the special with the late comedian is Joe Mikalos, a card playing, nightclub owner pal whose acting was limited to Kovacs' shows and a couple of bit parts elsewhere.

Puckish Humor
It was part of Ernie's puckish humor that he would have a non pro playing comedy bits with him on a network show.

Mikalos is fully aware that he was a one-man put-on.

"I also know that Ernie was about seven years ahead of his time when it comes to television comedy," Mikalos said the other day.

"They're doing a lot of the same stuff on the new 'Laugh-In' series today that Ernie did years ago. Sure, I was on all of those eight specials, but I haven't been on television since. I wouldn't know what to do."

"With Ernie it was different. He'd tell me what I was supposed to do, and that was the end of it."

Viewers will be treated to the entire scope of Kovacs' humor, including Percy Soppetonski reading a poem while dipping on a flower-bedecked martini.

Zany Salesman
Also on hand will be the Nairobi trip not to mention the zany used car salesman bit with Ernie's hand knocking a car through the floor.

In television's brief history Kovacs stands alone as a pioneer and innovator.

Ernie Kovacs understood television as no man before him or since.

You will discover that for yourself April 9.

TV And The Negro

Television In Review
By RICK DU BROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Every day, now, television finds itself having to develop its new relationship with the Negro community. All areas of the broadcast industry—entertainment, news and the behind-the-scenes people—are involved.

"I Spy" brought the first Negro costar in a series, Bill Cosby. "Julia," which begins on NBC-TV this fall, will offer the first female Negro series star. Diahann Carroll, in a situation comedy. There will also be a new western in the fall with a Negro star, "The Outcasts."

A trade paper, meanwhile, reports that ABC-TV's "Peyton Place" may have its first Negro family enter the cast come autumn. The report adds that the show's executive producer got an okay from the network to develop the concept and "is now working out plots with his staff."

FACTS YOU SHOULD KNOW
IN TODAY'S HOME BUILDING MARKET!

RIGHT NOW IS THE TIME TO BUILD!

YOU WILL BE SITTING ON TOP ... IF YOU

DON'T wait any longer to build

If You Are Waiting For Prices To Come Down, You May Have A Long Disappointing Wait. Economists Predict A Continuing Rise In Real Estate Prices. The Same Is True Of Interest Rates, No Decline Is Expected In The Foreseeable Future.

ALL INDICATIONS ARE THAT IT WILL COST YOU MORE TO BUILD THE HOME YOU NEED IF YOU WAIT!
