This year the final contest to pick winners in Lubbock will be held Mar. 26 in the high school. Between now and then Bula, Three Way and Muleshoe schools will each hold its own competition. Three winners from each school will meet in competition at the high school run-off.

In order to be eligible contestants must attend a school in Bailey County and be in the 8th grade or lower and under 16 before the time of the National Spelling Bee this spring.

Approximately 18 finalists are expected to compete in the finals here. Winners will travel to Lubbock to enter the area run-off. Winner of the Lubbock contest will be sent to Washington, D. C. for the national contest. All expenses will be paid.

The Lubbock district contest will include champs from Andrews, Bailey, Bordon, Cochran, Crosby, Dawson, Dickens, Ector, Floyd, Gains, Garza, Hockley, Howard, King, Lamb, Lubbock, Lynn, Martin, Midland, Matchell, Scurry, Terry and Yoakum counties.

On the Bailey County level each school winner will receive a Paper-Mate Pen and blue ribbon. The county champ and finalists will receive a plaque in Lubbock.

Each individual school champion here will receive a Paper-Mate pen and blue ribbon in addition to a $15 cash prize. First and second place runners-up receive ribbons and cash prizes of $7.50 and $2.50 respectively.

Names of local and area judges and times of local and area spelling bee will be announced shortly.

Practice spelling books are available at the Muleshoe Journal office as are official rules. Cost for both is 15 cents. The supply is limited and must be placed on a first come first serve basis.

Underground Water Pollution Hearings Opened in Capitol

A representative of the Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Association testified this week in Austin that "a very substantial reduction in open pit disposal has been made" in an eight-county area of the Middle High Plains.

D. L. Czirr of Odessa, reservoir engineering supervisor for Phillip Petroleum Corp. and a member of a Mid-Continent committee was the first witness at a hearing before the Texas Water Pollution Control Board.

The board is considering whether disposal of oil and gas field wastes is polluting water in Dawson, Hale, Bailey, Cochran, Hockley, Perry, Lynn and Swisher counties. This is part of the 48-county area which gets water from the underground Ogallala formation.

Czirr told the board there are 6,094 oil and gas wells in 137 separate fields in the eight-county area. He said the annual oil production is 88.8 million barrels, and the value of oil and gas production in that area is $88.9 million annually.

Czirr said 3,772 barrels currently are being disposed of daily into 214 pits in five of the eight counties. This was based on a of 86 per cent of the wells in the area. There are no surface disposal pits in three counties.

This compares with daily disposal of 8,960 barrels of salt waters in 1961.

Prior to Czirr's testimony a representative of Sun Oil Co. protested the hearing, arguing the board had no authority to hear arguments.

George McLesky, Lubbock lawyer for underground water district in Dawson and Terry counties, said he would offer testimony later in rebuttal to that of Mid-Continent.

Recently the department has not used the siren, but rather a network of auxiliary women telephoning volunteers with instructions.

Ladd stated that in 1963 the local department had answered 146 fires were fought. Their control needed over 6,000 man hours. The chief was introduced by "Doc" Botkin, program chairman. Ben Yeager was a guest of the group, which meets each Tuesday in the American Legion Hall.

Saturday was the deadline for filing.

Prospects Bright For Action On Voluntary School Prayers

Washington, D. C. — Prospects are becoming increasingly bright for Congressional action this year on legislation to insure right of voluntary school prayers and Bible reading, according to Sen. Strom Thurmond, (D-S. C.).

Professing to see a "tremendous groundswell of grass roots opinion" against what he called "secularist" opinions of the Supreme Court, Thurmond said that appears to be having significant effect in Capitol Hill quarters.

He predicted that as a result the Senate or House, and perhaps both, will consider proposed Constitutional amendments aimed at countering such rulings against religious exercises.

The South Carolinian, himself, is author of one such resolution but a number of others are pending on both sides of Capitol Hill. Conceding that the Constitutional change is a difficult procedure, he nonetheless argued that it presents the only effective way of meeting what he described as a growing effort to take recognition of a Supreme Being out of all aspects of public life.

HAYNES IMPROVED: BACK AT WORK

Doug Haynes, manager of Pig-gly Wigly, returned home Thursday after being confined to Lubbock Methodist Hospital undergoing a series of tests.

Results of the tests were much better than expected and he will be taking therapy treatments to alleviate muscle and nerve spasms which had created a numbness in his left side.

He noted that the Supreme Court itself has refused to allow the national motto "In God We Trust" in its own chambers. He also cited recent challenges of "self-governance" in The Nation, at Anheim and Pledge of Allegiance, and even the tax-exempt status of churches and other religious organizations.

Public support for the Constitutional amendment movement, is already being generated, however, Thurmond said, and credited much of that to an organization called "Project Prayer" for which he spoke in a series of California appearances recently.

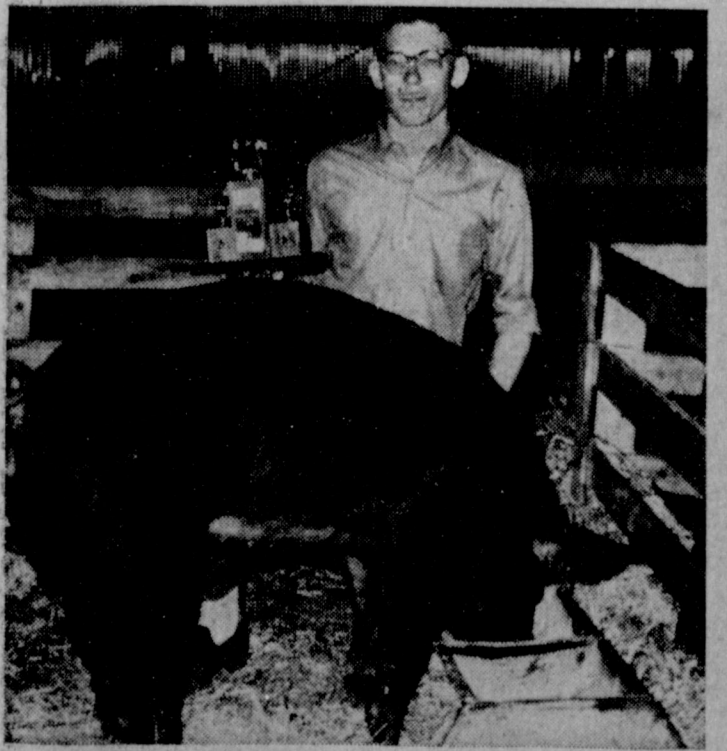

A recent Gallup Poll, he pointed out, indicated that more than 70 per cent of those questioned favored the idea of school prayers.

"This opinion, however," he concluded, "must be crystallized and expressed to Congress with an overwhelming show of strength if Project Prayer is going to be successful on Capitol Hill this year."

Eugene Bandzevicius Instructing Students In Ballet and Ballroom Dancing Each Week

Eugene Banzevicius, familiar to many as "Mr. Band" is presently teaching more than 60 area students ballet and ballroom dancing in Wednesday classes at American Legion Hall.

The "dance master" was born in Russia and after the Revolution he moved to Kansas, Lithuania. In 1925 he signed a contract with the Lithuanian State Ballet Theater and danced with this organization until 1944. He was the company's principal character solo dancer and actor, as well as ballet soloist. From 1942 to 1944 he was Lithuanian State Ballet Master for operettas. Famous teachers with whom he studied are: Paul N. Petroff, his first teacher, trained in the Imperial Ballet of St. Petersburg, Russia, who died while on tour to South America; George Kercht; Vera Karaly, Alexandra Fedorova, N. Zvereff and others.

During his career with the Lithuanian State Ballet, Mr. Banzevicius danced solo parts in twenty-eight large ballets and over thirty operas and operettas. For four years, at the period of the highest development of the Lithuanian State Ballet, he danced with Vera Nemtchinova and Antel Oboukhoff, and on tour with this group danced as soloist in Monte Carlo and London. Later, he appeared in Paris and in Berlin, danced in German opera and appeared in six motion pictures. In the summer of 1944, Mr. Band fled to Germany and while there organized the Lithuanian Theatre in Augsburg from other dancers who had fled. He produced "Coppelia" and with this company toured the larger cities in the American zone of Germany. He arrived in the United States in October, 1949.

Mr. Band and his wife make their home in Lubbock where he has operated his own dance studio for the past 12 years where he teaches ballroom and ballet and has instructors who teach modern jazz and tap dancing.

He has taught in Muleshoe prior to the newly opened Wednesday afternoon classes. Some eight years ago, he instructed a number of students each week in the local Boy Scout building.

Wedding Vows Are Exchange By Couple In Chapel

The chapel of First Baptist Church, Plainview, was the scene of the Friday night wedding of Miss Judy Ann Atkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack S. Atkins, Plainview, and Jackie Hal Brown, son of Wayne Brown of Sudan.

The Rev. Dr. Tim Trammell, pastor, performed the ceremony. The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white satin brocade street-length sheath styled with fitted bodice, tapered sleeves and high neckline. A sequined bow of white satin held her bouffant veil of illusion. She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses centered with cymbidium orchids.

For travel, the bride chose a white wool, two-piece suit complemented with red patent accessories.

When the couple returns from a wedding trip to Ruidoso, N. M., they will be at home in the Chateau Apts in Canyon.

Mrs. Brown was graduated from Plainview High School and is enrolled as a sophomore at West Texas State University, where she is a member of the Buffettes and was named ROTC Sweetheart.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Sudan High School and received a B. S. degree from WTSU where he was a member of Alpha Tau Omega, national social fraternity.

FRANKLY SPEAKING

By J. Frank Peery

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Gentlemen:

Some time ago I assigned my sixth grade class an essay on "What School In America Means To Me." In some cases, the results were what I considered superior thinking, if not superior writing.

I have taken a few excerpts from some of the better papers and you will find them enclosed. I think you will agree that they represent pretty good thinking for 12 year olds.

In keeping with national education week, I feel it would be appropriate to recognize these youngsters for their efforts.

Very truly yours,
B. M. Gramling

When I get to thinking about people schools, and education, I feel really lucky. Just think; overseas they have hardly any food and clothing, much less schools.

Cecelia Sandoval

A lot of people did not go to school when they were young kids. Now a lot of them are without jobs.

Pam Morphis

American schools teach us how to work together and to accept responsibility.

Jim Putman

If you don't learn you will be useless. You must study to learn.

Edith Carter

Why do they teach us? Because they like to know they have a part in the child's success. They are very happy when the child grows up to be very successful and famous. If the child grows up to be a failure the teacher worries and thinks maybe it's part his fault. He thinks from now on I'll work harder to make these children successful.

Donna Heathington

School teaches us to know ourselves better.

Shirley Lightner

Try to accomplish something every day.

Nelda Finley

I'm just happy that I attend one of the American schools, and am not one of those refugee children. I'm glad that my father makes an honest living to pay my way into one of these great American schools.

Leland Ferris

Our teachers in our colleges, they say on television that we need more of them, colleges and teachers both. I am surprised that people don't care enough about their education to contribute so that when we are old enough, for those who go, there will be more and better colleges.

Leland Ferris

Always, always try to do your best, no matter what goal you are working toward.

Leland Ferris

America was built on the pride and heritage of our forefathers.

Gary Ethridge

A person can do what he thinks he can do.

Gary Ethridge

The best time to learn is the present. A good education is worth all the money in the world, because money can be taken away, but education cannot.

Gary Ethridge

Common knowledge!

When a trip is in the offing, when the kids are complimentary and when a prize is won at bridge, it's real nice to be a woman.

Celia Lindley Is Birthday Honoree

Celia Dianne Lindley was honored with a classroom party at 2 p.m. Thursday at Richland Hills school in observance of her 9th birthday.

Celia was given a corsage of baby red roses for "being a young lady now" and a March bracelet with her birthstone in it. The pupils of the class were given mixed candy and all sang "Happy Birthday."

WHAT IS FREEDOM OF RELIGION?

The meaning of great historical events have a way of getting mislaid among the trivialities of daily living. And, when we need them most, we have difficulty laying our hands on them. We, too, mislay the meaning of our own great events. We agree that there have been great events in life, but we are more concerned with the "how" and the "where", than with the "why" of such great events. In this same sense, our meaning of freedom is slipping away. There are straws in our modern wind that are blowing dead against some of the deeper meanings of freedom.

Now, more than ever before Americans need to keep their values in clear focus. Our resort must be to reason, not to emotion; to persuasion, not to violence, and hate; to perseverance, not to panic.

Freedom of religion along with every other irreplaceable freedom prized in America must make its way against a headwind of misunderstanding, criticism, and hysteria that at times rises to gale proportions.

Our effort to establish religious freedom grew out of the passionate desire of men to worship God according to the dictates of their own conscience. Their own conscience, mind, you! Not the dictates of an absolute church or an absolute monarch or an absolute state.

Freedom of religion is being tried by tyranny and by toleration. Tyranny is the policy whereby a state accepts one religion or church as the true one and seeks to stamp out all others. If any one fact is clear in human history, it is this: persecution may curb but cannot kill religious insight and faith. Toleration is the practice whereby the state favors one church but permits others to exist. Whatever the degree of toleration, it is not freedom of religion as we must have exist.

Freedom of religion means the right of churches — all churches — to live with dignity and equality under God, in Jesus Christ, and before the law. Freedom of religion means the right of churches — all churches — to grow by the means of persuasion at their disposal. Under the discipline of freedom — the right to live, the right to grow — the church under the divine leadership of God and saving power of Jesus Christ will never cease to be. A church that cannot maintain itself in the face of modern criticism and evil winds belongs in the museum.

Frankly Speaking — Precious as is this right of freedom of religion, it can be lost. Lost by neglect of the practice of religion; lost through the abuse, distortion, and domestication of religion; lost by surrendering the idea of Christian freedom itself. How free are you and why?

SOCIAL SLANTS

Some very progressive-minded women are favoring having a woman on the school board. (In letters to the editor.) The consensus among most of the older men is that man made a mistake when he let the woman get out of the kitchen!

Business men take a long hard look at the statistics released by the government. Women of American control above 87.4 of the nation's wealth. Favorite sales promotional appeals are trips, furs, jewels, personal gifts, etc. Maybe in the future, we act look forward to more of the above mentioned!

Men, especially, are foolish creatures. Each came into the world naked and hungry. Most have had many of the good things in life, yet each struggle in the rat-race to accumulate more, though none will take one cent of the money or possessions with them as they leave this vale of tears!

To the man who feels that he lives dangerously, we suggest he study the mating habits of the spider. Women may have the urge to mimic her female spider counterparts, but there is already a scarcity of males!

Newspapers can afford to be charitable with other news medias because there will never be anything that can take the place of the newspaper in the home!

Most of the women in our acquaintance read the "local" or "hometown" paper from front to back, even to the "Want-Ads"!

The book, "Life Begins At Forty", was a huge success. Has one been written called "After Fifty, What?"

TIPS ... FROM THE OFFICE OF HOME DEMONSTRATION AGENT

Co. Home Demonstration Agent

How many of you have heard of County Program Building? Probably only those of you who are on Program Building Committees are familiar with it. The ultimate goal in program building is for the people of Texas to have an active part in planning programs that will result in higher living standards and more enriched lives. Success in reaching this goal depends on the effective application of knowledge, experience and imagination as essential ingredients in the program building process. These ingredients must come from the people and the people must be involved in the initial planning in order for extension agents to be able to have the benefit of the county people from all walks of life and all areas in the county.

Bailey County has two Program Building Committees — an overall committee and a family life study group. Those are aided by various sub-committees. The chief purpose of these committees is to determine how our county can raise its standard of living and its people can live more enriched lives. There are many ways this might be accomplished.

Some of those which have been health in the county by preventive medicine, solving the labor problem before the bracero program has ended by attracting native labor to this area, and by increasing income by the latest farming methods. Do you have any suggestions?
