FOR DEPARTMENT HEADS

In-Service Training Started at City Hall

An innovation in department management was launched this afternoon at City Hall with the first session of an in-service training course for Pampa's 11 city department heads.

Classes will be conducted at 4 p.m. every Thursday in the City Commission room by Ronnie Wood, personnel director. Each class will run for an hour and a half weekly for 15 weeks.

Today's session was scheduled as an all-around discussion and general briefing on purposes of the course and how it will be conducted. Discussion leaders today were Wood and City Manager Jim White.

Wood said starting next week each class will be led by a different city department head. All of the weekly training sessions will be taken up with conference type discussions.

Wood, who will be the class instructor, stated the course will be based on "Municipal Personnel Administration," sponsored by the International City Managers Association.

"Chief purpose of the course," Wood said, "will be to upgrade the management of city affairs at all levels of municipal government."

Top management at City Hall hopes the information provided will assist department heads to improve the operation of their departments.

City Manager White said today's session was set up principally as an orientation session with all city department heads in attendance.

"We start the ball rolling today," White said. "Next week we plan to get down to details of the course."

Health Officials Fear Outbreak Of Flu to Spread Over Nation

ATLANTA (UPI)—Health officials feared today that the return of children to school from the holidays will give momentum to outbreaks of Asian flu that apparently are affecting more than half of the nation.

The National Communicable Disease Center (NCDC) reported Tuesday that 12 states have documented outbreaks of Asian flu, three states have "probable" outbreaks and 12 others are listed in the "possible" category.

Doctors said the intensity of the current virus appeared to be remaining relatively mild.

NCDC experts said that the most exact view of the scope of Asian flu is gained through School absenteeism figures, which have been blank for the past two weeks because of the Christmas holidays.

Medical authorities in several states viewed the reopening of schools with apprehension.

"After the kids get back together, I expect the roof to blow off in about a week," said Dr. Paul White of the Virginia Health Department. Virginia schools reported as high as 20 per cent absenteeism before the holidays.

"We anticipate that any flu virus that's around will gain momentum as school resumes," said a spokesman for the Massachusetts Health Department.

NCDC officials said that much of New England had been spared the epidemic so far, but predicted it would strike the area before winter ends.

The Western United States will continue to be spared, the NCDC said, because of immunity built up in a 1964-65 outbreak. The California Department of Education said Tuesday that absenteeism was running about normal with no evidence to indicate that flu is a factor in the absences.

The NCDC listed the states with documented outbreaks of Asian flu as Michigan, Florida, New Jersey, Alabama, New York, Oklahoma, Illinois, Kansas, Iowa, Georgia, Wisconsin and Louisiana.

US Jets Make First Hanoi Raid of Year, Down Migs

Communists Lose 280 in Rocket, Ground Attacks Near Da Nang

SAIGON (UPI) — U.S. jets bombed the Hanoi area today for the first time in 1968 and reported shooting down two Communist MIG 17s. To the south the Communists hit the Da Nang air base with rockets and launched four ground attacks which cost them 280 dead.

A spokesman for the embattled units below Da Nang said they captured the Communist battle plan from a prisoner a month ago and they were ready when the Communists followed it exactly. The Americans lost 25 dead in winning a major victory.

The Communist attack on Da Nang destroyed or damaged 20 American and South Vietnamese planes, but follow-up attacks against U.S. Marines and soldiers of the 1st Air Cavalry Division in areas ranging 20 miles to the south of Da Nang proved costly.

A U.S. spokesman said the Leathernecks and cavalrymen killed 280 North Vietnamese soldiers to run to an estimated 1,250 the number of Communists slain in the first three days of the new year including the hundreds who died in an attack 60 miles north of Saigon during the new year cease-fire.

Full details of the Hanoi raid were not in yet but a spokesman said U.S. fighter-bombers took advantage of an opening in the monsoon cloud cover over the North to raid the Hanoi area and to shoot down two of the Soviet-built jets that rose to challenge them.

Communist Claims

Communist reports from Hanoi claimed "many waves" of American bombers struck the city in "barbaric fashion." They claimed three U.S. planes lost. There was no immediate U.S. confirmation of plane losses but losses are usually announced a day late.

The rocket attack on Da Nang was costly in planes damaged or destroyed but only a few Americans were wounded. The ground fighting cost the Americans 25 dead and 157 wounded, mostly in three attacks against cavalry camps stretching across rice paddy land 20 miles below Da Nang.

The Communists opened up with mortars shortly after midnight and followed up at two positions with ground attacks. UPI photographer Dana Stone said the Communists continued to fire mortars after the ground attacks were beaten off.

The Communists penetrated one of the three base camps, an artillery position at Landing Zone Leslie, but were driven off by U.S. jets and helicopter gunships which swept the perimeter with cannons and napalm.

Launch Ground Attack

The Communists launched a ground attack at Landing Zone Ross, four miles northeast of Leslie, but were thrown back before they could penetrate the well-fortified battalion base camp.

Sihanouk Says Troops May Enter Cambodia

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (UPI)—Prince Norodom Sihanouk today issued a statement giving American troops freedom to chase Communists fleeing Vietnam into Cambodia's border jungles.

The chief of state, in the statement containing remarks made in a provincial speech Sunday, said he would not send his 35,000-man army against U.S. troops engaged in such "hot pursuit."

Sihanouk lashed "some Cambodian and foreign" critics of his decision to allow the Americans freedom of border action.

Sihanouk said his refusal to oppose any such American "hot pursuit" was in no way an invitation for mass border crossing by U.S. forces in neighboring South Vietnam.

The Cambodian leader said he would use his troops against the Americans if U.S. forces seize Cambodian territory and refuse to surrender it.

For the first time, the 42-year-old prince revealed that this policy decision apparently drew opposition from North Vietnam and Communist China.

He said "some left-oriented foreign friends" advised him to fight American troops.

In Bangkok, diplomats reported Sihanouk, in Cambodian broadcasts monitored there, —President Johnson and Secretary of State Dean Rusk stopped an alleged CIA-Pentagon plot to kill him and trigger a coup in this neutral Southeast Asian nation.

—He thus is now willing to meet an envoy from Washington. Sihanouk broke diplomatic relations with the United States in May 1965.

—The United States accepted a Sihanouk proposal to beef up the International Control Commission (ICC) set up the 1954 Geneva Conference of Indochina to monitor Southeast Asian borders.

—The Soviet Union and Poland are opposed to strengthening the ICC. The Soviet Union is co-chairman of the Geneva agreement and Poland is the Communist member of the ICC.

—He will oppose the sending of students from Cambodia to the Soviet Union and Communist East Germany. He also charged Cambodian students in the United States are being used to teach "CIA spy classes."

Observers said Sihanouk possibly was engaged in a struggle against "friends" who want Cambodia to swing onto the Communist side in the Vietnam war and perhaps oust his neutral, nationalist regime.

Civic Clubs Plan 'Bucket Brigade'

Pampa civic club members were readying plans today for the "Bucket Brigade" which will be held Saturday in behalf of the 1968 March of Dimes fight against birth defects.

Six clubs will be represented at business sections throughout the city from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., according to "Bucket Brigade" chairman Weldon Trice.

Locations and participating organizations are Hobart and Kentucky, Optimists; Kingsmill and Cuyler, Jaycees; Browning and Ballard, Kiwanis; Brown and Cuyler, Lions; Foster and Cuyler, Knights of Pythias; Francis and Cuyler, Key Club.

Trice said that club members wishing to volunteer are asked to contact their respective presidents. Buckets will be delivered to the corners by 9 o'clock Saturday morning.

McLean also is scheduled to hold their "Bucket Brigade" on Saturday. The Lions Club will be in charge in that city.

Pampa Veteran of Vietnam War Battling to Walk, Talk Again

By JEFF HOLLADAY Daily News Staff Writer Jesse Martinez, 28-year-old Pampa wounded in combat in Vietnam, is fighting one of his toughest battles learning how to walk and talk again.

Wounded in the head in fierce fighting near Thi Loi with the 1st Infantry on March 29, 1967, he received brain damage that paralyzed his left side, impaired his vision and took away his speech.

He was evacuated by helicopter and operated on in a field hospital.

Five days later he was flown to Japan for three months of further treatment. He was later flown to Fort Sam Houston, Texas, for further medical attention.

Now, after 10 months of treatment, the former staff sergeant is able to walk again with the help of a cane, his vision is better and he is learning to talk again.

"They told him that he would be able to walk again, but that it might take from 6 months to 6 years — it was up to him," his younger brother, Pete, 20, said. "He wanted to walk real bad, too, so now he gets around pretty good with the help of a cane."

Vision in his right eye still bothers the wounded sergeant, his younger brother said, "but it's getting better all the time."

"The toughest fight is getting back his speech."

"They told us he'd never be able to speak more than a word at a time," young Pete Martinez said. "But already he's talking two or three words at a time and we believe he'll continue to get better."

Tuesday, the ex-sergeant left for the Veteran's Administration Hospital in Oklahoma City for continuing treatment after visiting his parents and family, Mr. and Mrs. Pedro Martinez of 721 Malone.

The former Pampa National Guardsman and staff sergeant, who was given a 100 per cent disability pension, will continue his fight in the VA hospital in Oklahoma City.

Auto Union, American Motors Resume Contract Bargaining

DETROIT (UPI)—The powerful United Auto Workers union today resumes contract bargaining with the smallest and financially weakest of the nation's car builders, American Motors Corp.

AMC bargainiers bring to the bargaining table the report that production for 1967 was even lower than the 1966 tally—a record debit year in which more than $12 million in sales was lost.

The UAW, meanwhile, goes back to the bargaining table after pocketing gold star contracts from general Motors Corp., Ford Motor Co., and Chrysler Corp. The union picked up pacts that will cost the "big three" an estimated $3 billion over three years while giving the average auto worker an annual income of more than $8,000 by 1970.

Plagued by management changes, wildcat strikes and forced price cuts, AMC is hoping a new year and a new contract will get the car firm moving again. The federal government, in a bill signed by President Johnson last week, is returning about $19 million to AMC in a tax rebate.

That financial boost from the government, plus a recent bank extension on short-term loans and a possible advantageous settlement with the UAW-boosted AMC's business prospects.

In past years, AMC has held 2 (See UNION, Page 3)

Heart Transplant Patient Reported Improving Now

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (UPI) — Philip Blaiberg, in "good condition" with the strong heart of a young man beating in his breast, today spoke his first words since the transplant operation, "I am thirsty. Please give my regards to my wife."

A Grootes Schuur Hospital medical bulletin said Blaiberg was "fully conscious and in good condition" following the five-hour operation performed Tuesday by Dr. Christian Barnard's 30-member surgical team.

The bulletin reported Blaiberg's first words and said the dentist's wife, Eileen, had spent the night in a special furnished room near her husband's in the newly built outpatients wing of the hospital.

Stroke Victim's Heart

Barnard's team transplanted the strong heart of Clive Haupt, 24, a colored man, into the chest of Blaiberg, who is white. Haupt had died of a stroke earlier Tuesday. Blaiberg had been driven into retirement by a serious heart condition.

A doctor reported today Blaiberg was kept under sedation all night because doctors said Louis Washkansky may not have received enough rest after the world's first human heart transplant Dec. 3. Washkansky died Dec. 21 of pneumonia.

Gas Rationing Begun In Cuba

HAVANA (UPI) — Cuba's Communist government began gas rationing today and women faced military service in new programs ordered by Premier Fidel Castro.

Castro, in a speech Tuesday marking his ninth year in power, said the order to ration fuel was made necessary by a shortage of hard currency and the indignity of depending on petroleum shipments from the Soviet Union.

The austerity of the celebration in Havana's Revolutionary Square underlined Cuban economic problems. There was no military parade and no flyover by warplanes, presumably because of the gasoline shortage.

Castro said in a one-hour and 42-minute speech that there would be a bigger celebration next year on the 10th anniversary of the day in 1959 when he and his band of revolutionaries overthrew dictator Fulgencio Batista.

Castro's draft order made Cuba one of the few nations in the world with compulsory military service for women.

The rationing order made gasoline only one of dozens of basic items already officially limited. An economic boycott by the United States and some other Western nations has been in effect against the island nation since 1961.

Winter Blasts Area With Cold, Snow, Ice

Jack Frost, with freezing drizzle and light snow on his palette during the night, painted a typical winter wonderland scene for Pampans early today.

Daylight revealed the city had been bathed in glistening white—icy trees, ice and snow-covered rooftops and lawns.

Everywhere it was typically winter in the old-fashioned image. It also brought the coldest day of the season. The temperature was 12 above zero at 11 last night. Early this morning it registered an unofficial 9 degrees in the city and 5 above at the Cable TV weather station just west of the city limits.

The mercury climbed a little during this forenoon and stood at 22 above in Pampa at noon today.

The noonday weather forecast indicated more cold drizzling rain and snow expected tonight and Thursday.

Travelers warnings also were issued by the Amarillo Weather Bureau with prospects of slippery highways and streets throughout the Panhandle tomorrow morning.

The probability of measurable precipitation was 10 percent this afternoon and it was expected to increase to 40 per cent by Thursday.

The mercury was expected to (See WEATHER, Page 3)

New Adviser Not Expected To Bring Change in Policy

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson's appointment of Arthur M. Okun as his top economic adviser presages no changes in the administration's policies, especially when it comes to taxes.

Okun, 39, currently a member of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, made that clear Tuesday during a brief news conference here shortly after the Chief Executive announced at his Texas Ranch that Okun would succeed Gardner Ackley as the council's chairman. Ackley is to become U.S. ambassador to Italy.

"I hope and expect Congress will see the need for that action (approval of the President's proposal for an inflation-fighting 10 per cent income tax surcharge)," Okun said. "I think we have what you might call the best medicine in this case and I hope we take it."

Neither Okun nor Ackley would estimate just exactly when the changeover in jobs for both would take place. Ackley said he intended to continue work on the President's economic message, which is to go to Congress in the next month or so.

When Okun takes over, he will become the youngest chairman in the 22-year history of the Council of Economic Advisers.

Described by his friends as "an economist's economist," Okun follows the "new economics" theory that a balanced budget is not essential to the well-being of the nation's economy.

This school also emphasizes the government's role in setting tax and expenditure policy to achieve balance in the economy.

Brownsville Teacher Suing City for Trees Workers Took

BROWNSVILLE (UPI) — Being sorry about Mrs. Laura Lee Teegarden's ebony trees isn't going to keep the city of Brownsville out of court. Mrs. Teegarden is sorry too—but at this point, the only comfort she wants is a check for $3,050.

Longtime Race Bar Falls in Miss. House

LONGTIME RACE BAR (UPI) — Educator Robert G. Clark shatters another "whites only" tradition in Mississippi today when he becomes the first Negro in the 20th century to be seated in the state House of Representatives.

Clark was scheduled to take the oath of office with 121 white members of a state legislature that was so restricted in the past that Negroes were not even allowed in the galleries.

Clark, a 38-year-old coach and teacher at a Negro junior college at Lexington, won a narrow margin last November over incumbent Rep. J. P. Love for the seat from Holmes County, a predominantly Negro county in the Mississippi delta.

Clark, well aware of the spotlight that will be on him as the state's first Negro legislator since the post-civil war era, said he regards his election as "a personal challenge to do the best I can to represent the people of my county—all the people of my county."

tends to go to court to collect it.

"Some of those trees were growing there when we moved this house 23 years ago," she said Monday. "They were just beautiful. I can't re-plant them. I'd be dead before they got ten feet high."

The 11 closely-grouped trees in the back yard of the Teegarden home allegedly were laid low on Nov. 23 by a crew of city workmen sent out to clear alleys of hurricane debris.

"They just went hog-wild," Mrs. Teegarden said. "They told my two sons the trees were in the alley, and they were going to clear out the entire neighborhood. I guess they get paid by the load."

Johnson Administration Selling Stern Vow On Balance Of Payments Deficit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Johnson administration took up the task today of selling at home and abroad its stern New Year's resolution to reduce the nation's balance of payments deficit by $3 billion in 1968.

Presidential emissaries were embarked on missions to Europe and Asia to explain President Johnson's belt-tightening economic program to dollar-hungry industrial and underdeveloped nations alike.

And at home the administration went to work persuading Americans it is their patriotic duty to keep their dollars in the Western Hemisphere by postponing vacations or business investment in Europe or Asia.

The far-reaching program described by Johnson as a "temporary" remedy designed to bring immediate and "decisive improvement" in a deficit balance of payments condition that could threaten the dollar's stability, was announced by the President at a special news conference at his Texas ranch Monday.

A deficit occurs in a nation's balance of payments when the total value in gold of its currency spent, loaned, or invested abroad exceeds the total value in gold of the foreign currencies it receives from similar transactions.

Continued deficits can eat up a nation's gold reserve, forcing it to devalue its currency. In the case of the United States, that would mean raising the fixed $35 price at which it now sells or buys an ounce of gold.

The U.S. payments deficit for 1967 will be on the order of $3.5 billion to $4 billion, Johnson said, the largest since 1960.

Chamber To Hear Report on Junior College Proposal

The Education Committee of the Chamber of Commerce will meet jointly with chamber directors at 10 a.m. Friday to hear a report concerning a new state plan for junior colleges.

Don Lane, committee chairman, will report on the plan prepared by a special staff committee and which will be presented to the State Coordinating Board for Junior Colleges in Austin next Monday.

Purpose of Friday's meeting is to acquaint the local chamber with the report and enable local approval or disapproval of the proposal which would divide the state into 52 junior college districts.

Under the plan, Gray County is in District 8 which is the Clarendon Junior College District.

Chamber Manager E. O. Wedgeworth said the Friday meeting does not mean Pampa is preparing another bid for a junior college, but each city and county has an opportunity to voice its opinion on the proposal.

"The report of the state board's special committee will be explained at Friday's meeting," Wedgeworth stated.

Color Photos Not Necessary Until Licenses Expire

It is not necessary to have a driver license with a color photo until your present license expires, Mrs. Betty Mackie, clerk of the drivers license office of the DPS re-emphasized today.

"Any license held now is valid until the expiration date shown on the license," she said.

Mrs. Mackie said that a renewal notice would be mailed to the last-known address of a person about 30 days prior to the expiration date now shown.

"The card should be brought to the office when your expiration date comes up," Mrs. Mackie said.

All new licenses will bear a photo of the driver when it is renewed. The photographs will be taken in the local driver license offices. Vision examination must also be given at each license renewal.

Foreign Mission Film Will Be Shown Tonight

"They Have Overcome," a new missionary film just released by the Assemblies of God will be shown at 7:30 p.m. tonight at Lamar Full Gospel Assembly, corner of Bond and S. Sumner Sts., the Rev. Wesley E. Pollet, pastor, has announced.

The 43-minute documentary film describes in graphic detail the violent Simba revolt in Congo, the tragic martyrdom of Missionary J. W. Tucker, the growth of the Congo church while in hiding in the jungle, and the return of four Assemblies of God missionaries just a few months ago.

The major role in the new film is played by the Congo church itself. Separated from the missionaries, driven into the savage horrors of the African jungle, exiled from homes and families, chased down and martyred, the Congo church still met every Sunday in the seclusion of the forest and held its regular services.

The film begins with the personal testimony of Mrs. Angeline Tucker, who is the widow of the martyred missionary. She tenderly recounts her last hours in Congo and vividly portrays the time when she received the word of her husband's death.

When the four missionaries returned to Congo, the Assemblies of God Foreign Missions Department sent a photographer in with them to document their arrival and capture on the film the spontaneous joy of the African church.

The title of the film comes from Revelation 12:11 (Amplified Version) — "And they have overcome (conquered) him by means of the blood of the Lamb and by the utterance of their testimony."

Pastor W. E. Pollet cordially invites the public to attend this free premier showing of the Congo film.

Two Plead Guilty Of Intoxication

Orris Lee Wedge of Canadian and Mandred Edward Davis of Pampa were charged with intoxication in a public place this morning before Justice of the Peace Nat Lunsford.

Both pleaded guilty and each was fined $20 and costs.

Fines on both men were suspended by Lunsford with the stipulation that they must not be picked up again within 30 days on the same charges. Lunsford pointed out that if they were charged with the same offense within 30 days, they would be assessed the suspended fines plus another, a maximum fine.

Local Teachers To Hold Workshop

About 40 Pampa teachers will attend an art-in-service workshop at Baker Elementary School cafeteria Thursday, Jan. 11 and Jan. 18. Mrs. Enid Bates, an art specialist with Panhandle Educational Service Organization, Amarillo, will teach the workshop on three consecutive Thursdays.

Pampa elementary schools will have five teachers each to attend and will have alternates available. Teachers will participate in all art activities.

Thursday they will study the philosophy of art education and elements of art; review bulletin board suggestions and practice making cut letters, Mrs. Marjorie Gaut, elementary education consultant, said.

In the Jan. 11 session, they will learn how to make puppets and Jan. 18, will practice stichery, with burlap and yarn.

Teachers attending the voluntary workshop will receive six clock hours of in-service credit toward professional growth requirements, Mrs. Gaut said.

Rocky Sounds Like Candidate Now

ALBANY, N.Y.—(UPI)Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller sounded like a presidential candidate today, as he warned the state and nation to hold the line on spending and strike a balance between "what is do-able and what is desirable."

The New York governor has repeatedly denied White House ambitions—but his annual message, opening the 1968 New York state legislature, gave all the signs of a man with an eye on the presidency.

"We may well be reaching a point where the level of expectations of the American people is rising at a rate which is outrunning our capacity to raise the revenue on a sound basis—on a basis that will not seriously affect economic growth and increase job opportunities," he said. "This is not just a state and local problem; it is a national and international problem as well."

Rockefeller called upon Washington to reduce the gap in international trade, reduce the federal deficit in order to restore confidence in the dollar abroad, ease the money market, lower interest rates at home, and "halt the quickening pace of inflation."

The governor said the United States is "overspending abroad, with a serious imbalance in our foreign trade." Foreign pressure on the dollar, he added, is dwindling the nation's gold supply.

"The federal government is faced with a $30 billion deficit, resulting in an outflow of money, increased inflationary pressures, and high interest rates," he told the state lawmakers.

"All these are the storm signals of economic distress, with world-wide implications. As a people, we must face the fact that government at all levels—just like a family—cannot spend way beyond its means for long without weakening its credit and undermining its strength."

A thick fog moved in to coat the eastern two-third of the state.

South of the front temperatures remained mild, and they were generally expected to stay that way today as the front pushed very slowly southward.

High temperatures were forecast.

More Chicago Police Said To Be In Ku Klux Klan

CHICAGO (UPI) — Police Supt. James B. Conlisk identified two more members of the Chicago police force Tuesday as Ku Klux Klansmen. Both had been uniformed patrolmen for at least a decade.

In naming Ernest Semet, 32, and William Harvey Plogger, 43, Conlisk completed the identification of six policemen found to be members of the white supremacist organization.

Both men were assigned to the Shakespeare Avenue district encompassing a predominantly white area.

Conlisk said Semet, a 10-year veteran, and Plogger, with the force for 13 years, refused to resign when confronted with the accusation of their Klan membership.

The superintendent said they were excused from duty pending the results of a police disciplinary board hearing.

The police membership in the Klan came to light last Thursday when Conlisk said there were six Klansmen in the department but named only three.

Those named included Donald Heath, 30, later identified as the head or grand dragon of the Illinois Klan; Richard Staton, 33; Dennis Aloia, 25; and Jon T. Johansson, 26. Heath was accused of recruiting the other policemen into the Klan.

Heath has the same present status with the police department as Plogger and Semet. Staton, Aloia and Johansson resigned last week.

Ford Raises Prices on New 1968 Models

DETROIT (UPI)—Ford Motor Co. has joined the rest of the nation's automakers in raising prices on its new cars by about $25—a move that will cost the car-buying public about $225 million a year.

Like General Motors Corp., Chrysler Corp. and American Motors Corp., Ford said Tuesday, in announcing hikes ranging from $23 to $32—the boost was to cover the cost of shoulder harnesses. The Ford hikes are effective immediately.

Federal law requires the installation of shoulder harnesses in the front seats of all 1968 autos made after Jan. 1.

In Washington, auto critic Ralph Nader immediately fired off a letter to Ford, charging that car buyers could purchase the harnesses for about $2.75 each.

The auto makers are trying "to make excess profits while implicitly blaming the government" for the higher prices, Nader said.

In September, all four automakers padded their prices an average of $119 per car. They said federal safety requirements were partly responsible for the boosts.

Mother of Heart Donor At Work After Son Dies

CAPE TOWN South Africa (UPI)—Muriel Haupt had no time today to mourn her dead son. She began her 14-hour work day for the usual 75 cents.

"I have too many mouths to feed to rest," the frail, slight 52-year-old mother of Clive Haupt said. Haupt's heart was transplanted Tuesday into the chest of Philip Blaiberg.

Haupt died Tuesday of a stroke. His mother signed the papers that gave the doctors approval to use his heart for the operation.

"I am so proud that it was my son and that it was a colored man who gave his heart," she said. "I am praying for Dr. Blaiberg. I have never met him or his wife, but I dearly hope I will soon."

"At the hospital yesterday we were treated wonderfully," she said. "Everyone was so kind to us. They treated me and Dot (Clive's widow) just like whites."

Her life returned to normal today. Mrs. Haupt's has 10 living children—four of them under the working age. They live in a dilapidated one-story duplex in a colored suburb. It has two bedrooms.

Mrs. Haupt's work day begins at 6:30 a.m. with a two and one-half mile walk to the nearest tram station. She earns 75 cents a day doing housework for weather colored families. Then she goes to a newspaper office to fold supplements by hand. It is dark by the time she gets home.

She took a few hours off Tuesday morning when Clive died. By the time the transplant operation had begun she was back at work.

Clive Haupt's family may have been treated "just like whites" at Groote Schuur Hospital but his heartbeat in a white man's chest made no difference to the way South African law provides for him in death.

He must be buried in a colored cemetery. The funeral will be Saturday.

French Club Plans Epiphany Celebration

Pampa High School French Club will celebrate Epiphany with a supper from 6-8 p.m. Thursday in Wanetta Bayless' home.

The program will include traditional burning of Christmas trees, a presentation in French by third year class, an explanation of Epiphany by Terry Pulse, and election of officers.

About 30 club members are expected to attend the annual program celebrating the 12th day after Christmas.

The club has to have its celebration on the 10th day instead of 12th because of scheduling difficulties, Mrs. Susan Hanners, French teacher, said.

Members will also crown an Epiphany king and queen which will be selected by chance, she said.

UP TO THE MACKENZIES

by Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: First of all I want you to know that I'm 14, but am very mature for my age. Most people think I am 18. Anyway, the evening before Thanksgiving, our high school had a basketball game. Most of the kids always go for a coke and stay around town for a while after the game. I had never done this but that night I felt like it, so I told my 10-year-old brother to tell my folks that I would be staying around town afterwards. (I could not find my parents to tell them myself.)

Well, I came home at 11:45 p.m. and the way my folks carried on you would have thought I had committed some kind of crime or something. You should see the list of punishments they gave me.

I am not a run-around, do not date, and do not have a bad record. I can't figure out what I did that was so wrong, can you tell me?

DEAR ABBY: After going Mrs. Tidwell Has Family Celebration

Mrs. O. E. Tidwell, 1037 Schneider, sponsored a family reunion for her five children and their families recently.

Children of Mrs. Tidwell's who attended included Messrs. and Mrs. E. B. Howard, Coppell; Bill Tidwell, east of city; Bob Tidwell, Cushing, Okla.; Clyde Tidwell, 1164 Neel Rd.; and J. L. Stillwell, Pampa.

Grandchildren present were Mr. and Mrs. John Daniels, Christy and Rusty, El Paso; Mr. and Mrs. Billy Tidwell and Tonya, Arlington; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Garrett, Tulsa, Okla.; Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Perrell, and Matthew, and Bobby W. Tidwell, all of Cushing, Okla.; Alan Tidwell, 1164 Neel Rd., and Sharon, Tawny and Jim B. Stillwell, 1037 Schneider.

Other guests were Mrs. Jimmie Howard, Coppell, and Mrs. N. L. Welton, Pampa.

POLLY'S POINTERS Woman Suggests Ways To Make Paper Flowers

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY— I want to tell J.D. how to make big paper flowers. Get at least green, brown or yellow crepe or tissue paper for the centers, then the colors you want for the flowers. Fine and coarse wire is needed for the stems and for tying. Florist's tape is good for winding the stems but strips of crepe paper, cut across the grain, will do. Also have at hand scissors, pliers, paper and glue.

Make a petal pattern with a small plate or saucer and shape it out longer on one side so as to have a piece to gather around the center. To make the fringed center, cut about four inches off the paper and fringe to a depth of about two inches. Make some green fringe, pointed at the ends, for the calyx around the flower.

Make petals. I like them double, with each petal having a light color on the outside. If making a rose, roll the edges around a pencil and crimp them to the outside edges. Take the stem wire and wire or tie the fringe center around it, arrange the petals around this and tie or wire together. Cup to the inside if it is a rose. Put on the green fringe for the calyx and wrap the stem tightly with green tape or paper, beginning as close to the flower as possible. They are so big that leaves are not necessary. Sunflowers and daisies are easy to make, a strip of paper is cut in scallops instead of each petal being cut.

DEAR ABBY: Our son, who is not yet four years old, must wear a patch over one eye in order to make his "lazy" eye work harder, and thus improve his vision.

Abby, would you believe that not one day goes by without the boy being approached by perfect strangers who ask with a horrified gasp, "What happened to your eye, little boy?"

I realize that most people do not mean any harm, they are just curious, but all the same the child is developing a complex over this.

Please, please tell people that it hurts enough to see one's child with an impediment without having others add insult to injury.

AN AVID FAN
DEAR FAN: Thank you for writing. You said it very well. Curious strangers would do well to remember that all obvious scars, blemishes, deformities and disabilities of others should be ignored. And to ask questions pertaining to them is not only unkind, but in the worst possible taste.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069, for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for all Occasions."

Astrological Forecast

By CAROL R. RIGTER

FOR THURSDAY, JAN. 4
GENERAL TENDENCIES: The early part of the day finds it necessary for you to be very tactful and diplomatic with others if you are to get the things done that are of first importance to you but later you find you can communicate with those about and get them to see and do things your way much more easily than you thought possible.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Endeavor to forget about that worldly matter temporarily that you are trying to keep out of the limelight and handle important affairs at hand. Higher-ups appreciate your fine talent. Does much to further it.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Good pals are having difficulties of their own, so don't expect them to be much for you right now. Use own abilities for advancement. Some new contact can give excellent advice. If you go after it.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Get those skills working for you instead of expecting others to be of assistance. Right now, since they are very busy, find a better method for pleasing one of whom you think a good deal. Be impressive.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Ideal time to get some novel ideas that are helpful in taking you out of present dull routines. Follow your intuition also for that added spark to your affairs. Stop being so timid.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You have to work more on that particular plan you have before you contact the person you want to have allied with you. Get busy and work ahead of you. Make sure co-workers understand your ideas, intentions and expectations. Be sure you are not expecting too much of a partner and naturally he will not come through with your desires. Stop criticizing. Accept some good invitation for the P.M. and start a happy outlook for the future.

LIBRA (Sept. 22 to Oct. 22) Before throwing yourself into that new work, be sure you study every angle thoroughly or you get into much trouble. Talk certain matters over with a reliable member of your family. Get right advice.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Getting out for recreation is all right, provided you avoid the unreliable, both as to person and activities you know nothing about. Be sure you do your shopping first. Stop on a rainy day.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Plan how best to carry through with expectations of kin and yet not go completely away from duties you also have toward others. Pay more attention to increasing present income. Be practical.

CAPECORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Take no risks in any sphere of your endeavor and do not spend money foolishly, drive recklessly. Give more attention to improving health. Think before you speak or you might utter the wrong words.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 18) You may feel the pinch of money lack in A.M. but later in the day allies will give you a good idea to improve your position considerably. State aims to those who comprehend you. Accept right assistance.

PISCES (Feb. 19 to Mar. 20) Although you feel puzzled and discontented in A.M. later a dynamic friend gives right advice and ideas to follow. Out in the social whirl tonight and make big strides for what you want. Stop feeling sorry for yourself.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY
he, or she, will be one of those charming people who early in life will speak out without first thinking and get everyone upset, parents in particular. Teach to know the facts before coming out with any statements. The field of business is fine here, since there is much ability at organization.

DEAR POLLY— Is there anything that will keep baby from curling his toes when I'm trying to put on his shoes?

MRS. R. J. M.
DEAR POLLY— I made a cute doll for the wee ones to play with in the sand box. An old plastic tablecloth was cut into the shape of a doll (gingerbread man style). Mine was about 15 inches tall but they could be any size. Sew buttons on for eyes, felt for the mouth and have a drawing in the top of the head. The little ones love to fill it with sand, empty it all then do the same thing all over again.

D. G.
DEAR POLLY— We all have special recipes we use for various holidays like Christmas and then spend precious time looking for a particular one. Keep all those for each holiday in a separate envelope, mark on the outside, and you will save time and temper when any holiday cooking is to be done.

Betty Canary

Refuge For Mother?

Canary

By BETTY CANARY
The thought came to me that there might be a future in a displaced persons' center for mothers. One Monday I was roaming around the supermarket when I met my friend Jane, who joined me as I sorted over the produce, looking for unripe fruit. In case you're wondering, I must avoid the more tempting kind now because for Christmas I received a monstrous machine called a fruit ripener.

Jane asked, rather wistfully, if she could come to my house for coffee.

Of course, I said "yes" because I thought she must have a problem or something and at last we were settled comfortably in my kitchen. I say "at last" because we had to wait until my son Rick and his friends finished stirring up orange juice and wheat germ, and then Jane wiped down the walls while I mopped the floor. At last, however, we had our chat, accompanied by the rhythmic thump-thud of boys working out with weights in a room overhead.

"I don't complain!" I shouted confidentially. "At least I know where they are."

"Let's not talk about children," she shrieked pleasantly. "Tell me if you like your new ripening machine."

I recounted the difficulties I have had in finding green fruit and told of the many trips I must make to the various stores. Before Christmas I could just have some bananas weighed up and count on the kids eating them before they turned. I saw no point in asking Jane if she liked the electronic garage door opener her mother gave them for Christmas. After all, they have no garage so I knew they hadn't had opportunity to try it out. I was wondering if she'd tell me her problem when the boys came in for more wheat germ. Rick hissed at me. "Please stop yelling, mother!"

I explained sweetly why we were yelling and as he left the room he explained how I embarrassed him. Resisting a motherly impulse to rip out the refrigerator and hurl it after him, I told Jane that usually I just stay away from home on Mondays when Rick's weight-lifting pals are around.

"That's why I was down at the market," she sighed. "On Mondays my son brings a group home and THEY all have amplifiers and guitars."

Woman Directs Little Soap Firm

By RUTH FEUERSTEIN
AURORA, Ill. (UPI)— After washing dishes, laundry, floors and children, most housewives have had their fill of soap.

For Mrs. Ruth Ascott, that is just the beginning. As president of a soap company, Mrs. Ascott has jumped on her own private soapbox and spends most of her day engaging in soap talk.

Since Mrs. Ascott became chief executive of her firm 10 years ago, she has completely automated her soap-making process and now successfully competes in the midwestern market with much larger and better known companies.

"When I started out as a secretary in 1934," the 51-year-old Mrs. Ascott said, "I had never taken any kind of soap. Soon, I found myself poking nothing about it. But, I guess I became interested because I'm a woman and have always been surrounded by soap. Soon, I found myself poking around the machinery and even taking out books about soap from the library."

Mrs. Ascott left the firm (The Lite Soap Co.) in 1940 when she married. But after her two children were grown she returned and when the former president retired, Mrs. Ascott took over and bought controlling interest.

Mrs. Ascott employs 10 to 15 workers to help her run the four-story factory.

Soap making has come a long way since the days of mixing lye with animal-fat a century ago. Now, the entire process is completely automated and there's little need for a large staff.

This slender, grey haired woman, who picked out all the machinery and does all the purchasing, admitted that one thing she had no hand in was the "secret formula" for her all-purpose powder soap.

"That was one thing that was handed down to me by the previous owners," she said. Mrs. Ascott said she's "stopped worrying" about competition problems. "Of course it's always something to consider," she said, "but I'm not that aggressive, and I can't always worry about what the other guy is doing."

"I'm happy as long as the soap does well and I can keep an active hand in the business. After all these years of washing and cleaning for my own family and now running this company, I still haven't had enough of soap."

WORK SAVER
Resilient vinyl floor tiles left over from flooring installation are work saving coverings for closet shelves and floors, and atop kitchen cabinets say tile floor engineers.

FINISH WITH A FLOURISH
Studies show that baseboards covered with cove base protects wall surfaces from mop splashes, gives neater joints where resilient tile floors meet walls. Vinyl cove base never needs painting and is unbreakable. Tile flooring engineers report.

TOO MUCH CARE
Six out of ten women over wax resilient textured tile flooring according to studies made by a tile floors research bureau. Occasional sweeping and washing of the new tile flooring is sufficient.

Teens, Career Girls Take 'Status Symbol' Handbags

By Helen Hennessy
NEA Women's Editor
NEW YORK — (NEA) Handbags have become a status symbol among teens and young career girls.

The more a girl owns, the higher her fashion rating. So the handbag is sure to make a hit.

For the girl who feels she's nowhere unless she has a bag for every outfit, designer Julius Resnik has come up with a collection of the swaggiest, most imaginative styles around for budget-conscious teen-agers.

These bags are ideal mates for minidresses, pantsuits, culottes and even cocktail dresses.

The Hardware Happening" is in full swing, with silver coin dots on quilted vinyl, cut-out metal disks on a neat flat-surfaced bag, bracelet rings on a twin-mini, and flexible chains that can be worn on the shoulder or doubled over the arm. Medallion closures provide the hardware look on shoulder-strap bags with tweedy and grained textures.

More sophisticated styling appears in the town bags—horizontal stitching on super-soft vinyls. A feminine look is achieved with a rounder silhouette, delicate pin tucking and a new welt-type trim. And many of these bags boast colorful abstract print linings.

Patent is rightfully dubbed the "bag for all seasons" as it spans the 12 months in dark and pastel colorations.

Light-up the night shades spark the evening look in a hammered satin twin-mini with silver frames and bracelet handles. A gold or silver cocktail bag in "delicord" vinyl is a fashion item, too.

Pampa Keeps 3-4A Record Intact at 5-0

By Ron Cross
AMARILLO—Tascosa's defense-minded Rebels did several things to the Pampa Harvesters Tuesday night but they didn't do the most important thing.
 The Rebels, who held Pampa to its second lowest scoring output of the season, lowest of the season at halftime and most important held District 3-4A scoring leader George Bailey to his lowest output of the season, nine points.
 But the Rebels forgot to score more points than the Harvesters and Pampa made off with a 60-48 victory to push their District 3-4A conference mark to 5-0, good for a two game lead.

 Plainview had been tied with Tascosa for second place in the league standings at 3-1 but lost also.
 Pampa's low output of the season has been 57 points. The victory was Pampa's 15th in 17 outings and broke a one-game losing streak for the Harvesters. Although Bailey couldn't get in double figures for the first time this season, four other Harvesters did with senior center Beau Bond leading the way with 13 points, followed by Bo Lang and Johnny Carlos with 12 each and Jim Cornutt added 10.

 The Rebels, who hit only 36 per cent of their field shots (21 of 57) against a tight Pampa defense, had two players in the double figure bracket, with Jack Pierce leading all scorers with 15 and Jim Ryan added 13.
 Tascosa also fell short at the free throw line hitting only six of 15 charity tosses.
 Pampa also had trouble hitting from the field canning only 23 of 49 for 46 per cent, way below their season average of 56 per cent. The Harvesters canned 14 of 23 charity tosses. After a tight game for the first five minutes that saw Pampa lead only 4-2 with 3:50 left, the Harvesters broke loose for a 10-5 margin with 2:56 to go and forged to a 14-9 lead when the period ended.

 Tascosa played Pampa to within three points most of the second period but the Harvesters led 30-26 when the quarter ended after leading by a scant two points, 28-26 just 53 seconds from the end.
 After widening their lead to 34-28 with 6:44 left in the period Pampa surged to a 10-point margin, 43-33 with 2:15 to go and managed a 44-33 lead when the period ended.

 Pampa led by 10 again at 48-38 just 3:50 from the end of the game but the Rebels closed it to 54-46 with 1:16 left.
 But Cornutt and Carlos connected on charity tosses to put the game on ice.
 The Harvesters continue district play Friday when they host Lubbock High in a 8 p.m. contest.
 Coach Bill Brown's Shockers dropped a 60-43 decision to the Tascosa B club.

Houston Runs Mark to 14-0 With 91-65 Win

By United Press International
 Like a condemned man eating his last meals, Houston is continuing on its merry way towards its fateful rendezvous on Jan. 20.

The Houston basketball team, now just two games and 17 days away from its clash with UCLA in the Astrodome on Jan. 20, ran its record to 14-0 Tuesday night by crushing Michigan 91-65.

The Cougars, who also set a school record of 15 straight since they won their last game of last season with an 84-62 triumph over North Carolina for third place in the NCAA tourney, now has to face only Centenary on Jan. 6 and West Texas State on Jan. 13 before the UCLA meeting.
 Houston has an unenviable task in trying to spill the mighty Bruins who are aiming for San Francisco's 60-game winning streak.

UCLA is bound to be up for this one. The clubs are ranked 1-2 in the nation and the largest crowd ever to watch a basketball game will view it in the Astrodome.

Meanwhile, the Houston club has no trouble with Michigan as the Cougars sank 53 per cent of their shots. Houston took a 49-29 halftime lead and led by at least 11 throughout the second half.

Elvin Hayes led the winners with 31 points. Rudy Tom Janovich had 20 for Michigan.
 Only one other club in the top ten, third-ranked Vanderbilt, was in action Tuesday night and it had to overcome a nine-point halftime deficit to turn back Alabama 67-61. The Tide had a 35-27 halftime lead. Tom Hagan, whose basket put the Commodores ahead for good with 5:44 left, had 28. Mike Nordholtz scored 19 for Alabama.

Detroit surprised 14th-ranked Indiana 99-93 as all five Titans hit in double figures. Bruce Rodwan paced the winners with 36 points.

Drake, boosting its record to 9-1, edged Memphis State 76-75 on a Will McCarter's 15-foot jumper with four seconds left in overtime.

In other games, Virginia Tech beat Ohio University 74-66, LaSalle topped Miami 92-84, Yale topped Georgia Tech 79-78, and North Carolina St. topped Atlanta Christian 111-529.

McLean Races To Easy Win

McLean raced to a 37-24 halftime margin Tuesday night then walked off with a 72-58 victory over Samnorwood in area basketball action.

The Tigers led 17-12 after one period, 67-40 after three. Brad Dalton paced McLean with 22 points and Robert Dwight had 22 also for the losers.

Miami dropped a pair of games to Panhandle, the Miami girls losing 49-25 and Miami's boys, taking a 46-37 licking.

The girls' game found Panhandle with only a 10-6 first period lead but that stretched to 20-11 at halftime and 37-21 after three quarters.

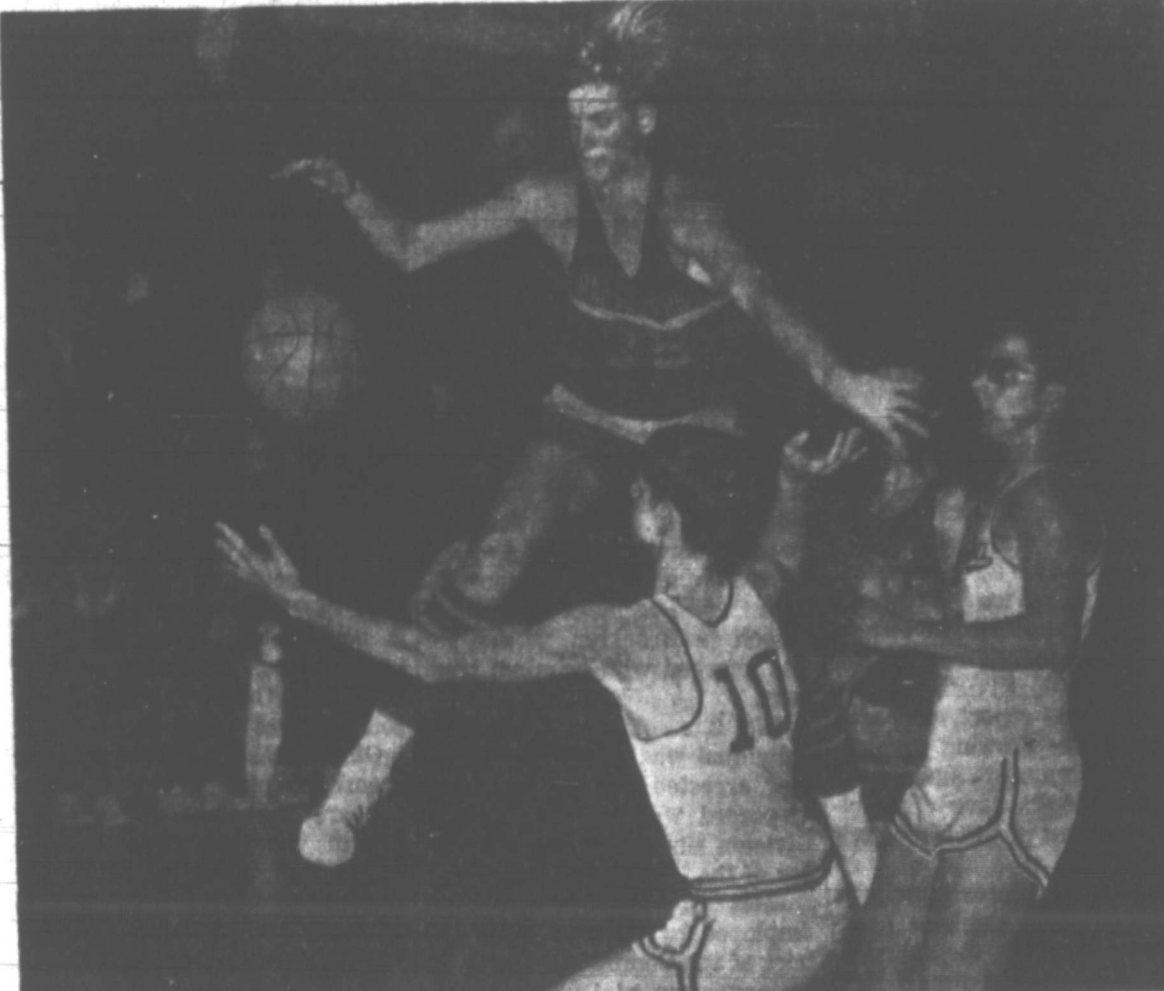

Sandy Deadman paced Miami with 18 points and Jana Mills led Panhandle with 24.

Miami's boys had a 9-9 first period tie with Panhandle and trailed only 19-17 after two quarters but Panhandle held a 31-27 third quarter lead and went on from there.

Rex Holland led Miami's scoring with 14 points.

HELPING HAND — Jim Cornutt gets a helping hand from Tascosa's Jack Pierce (40) on this try for a rebound during the Harvesters' 60-48 victory Tuesday night over the Rebels.

UP AND DOWN — Bo Lang goes up and then down as he makes a play for a loose ball as does Tascosa's Roger Case (10) and Jim Conkling. Lang helped pace Pampa to a 60-48 district victory over the Rebels.

SWC Race to Start Tonight

By United Press International
 The Southwest Conference race starts tonight with a full slate of games in what could be the first chance to see exactly what team has got what.

Pre-conference contests have brought little but mystery, as many of the top teams in the early season rankings stumbled badly. Only Baylor (6-3) and Texas A&M (6-3) have come up with winning records thus far in the season, and both open up on the road tonight.

Baylor travels to meet SMU (1-8) whose only win came over Indiana, ranked third in the nation at the time. A&M will in particular tough battle should await.

Rice (2-8) will be at TCU (4-5) and Texas (3-7) will go to Texas Tech (3-6) to round out the first evening of conference play.

Also on the slate are a pair of Big State conference games — St. Edwards at Southwestern and East Texas Baptist at Texas Wesleyan.

It was a limited night of action in Texas Tuesday night, but the second-ranked University of Houston Cougars did breeze to their 15th straight victory by drubbing the University of Michigan 91-65.

The win broke a school record of 14 straight wins set in the 1965-66 season. Houston, which won its last game of the year last season in the consolation finals of the NCAA championship, has won 14 straight this season.

Elvin Hayes led the Cougars with 31 points and 13 rebounds and Houston shot at a torrid 53 per cent clip.

Trinity University, ranked eighth among the country's small colleges, won its seventh game of the year Tuesday night over Sam Houston State 94-76. Darrel Hunt paced the balanced Tiger attack with 17 points.

In other action, Texas A&I overcame a halftime deficit to defeat the University of Corpus Christi 74-65. Stephen F. Austin won its eleventh contest of the year defeating Houston Baptist 86-55 and Hardin-Simmons dropped a 98-85 encounter to East Tennessee State.

Meredith Mum On His Future

HUNTER, N.Y. (UPI)—I'm Meredith, admittedly emotionally spent after failing to lead Dallas to the National Football League title for the second straight year, says he will make up his mind in about two months whether to continue playing.

Meredith, the dandy quarterback of the Cowboys, denied Tuesday night a newspaper story quoting him as saying he plans to retire in order to join a brokerage firm in Dallas and do some sports broadcasting.

While not ruling out the possibility of retirement, Meredith said he was misquoted and that any definite decision on his playing status is at least two months away.

Meredith, contacted at an upstate New York resort where he was filming commercials for a sweater manufacturing firm, said the story of his retirement was premature.

"Before I make a final decision I would certainly first speak to Coach (Tom) Landry and Mr. (Tex) Schramm (the Cowboys' general manager)."

The story of Meredith's retirement plans broke in the Dallas Times-Herald Tuesday. He supposedly told of his plans on the flight back to Dallas from Green Bay Sunday night following the Cowboys' heart-breaking 21-17 loss to the Packers in the NFL championship game.

"Naturally I was disappointed at the outcome of the game," Meredith said, "but what I told the reporter on the plane was taken out of context."

Meredith, 29, has played eight years with the Cowboys and the past season completed a three-year contract calling for a reported annual salary of $40,000. He played his college ball at Southern Methodist University.

The Pampa Daily News

A Watchful Newspaper
EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license, nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself. No more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

How About a Little Action?

The local political pot has begun boiling and no doubt will bubble higher and hotter within the weeks to come.

Don Cain, a Democrat, is off and running for the post to be vacated next Dec. 31 by Dist. Atty. Bill Waters who will retire to the private practice of law.

Announcing at the same time as a candidate for the county attorney's job now held by Cain was Ben Sturgeon, Pampa attorney. Sturgeon is a Republican.

That's the score at this writing, and that's the point of this editorial.

A Way To Cut Taxes

At a time when governments at all levels are insatiably searching for new ways of separating the growing tax payers from their hard-earned incomes, we have suggested from time to time that governmental plunder has reached the point of diminishing returns and that the only resort, short of chaos, left to government, local and otherwise, is in doing what any individual or business inevitably has to do when outgo continues to outpace income—reduce overhead expenses and spending.

Socialist Britain, after more than two decades of profligate governmental spending, is finally being forced to face up to that iron law of nature. It may not survive the lesson.

We are well aware that denizens of the bureaucracy, and those who have grown to expect benefits from a plundering government, do not take kindly to this kind of advice; nevertheless, the time is upon them when they will have to listen—like it or not—and it matters not whether the advice comes from us or elsewhere.

You can rob people only to a certain point. The point will vary with different individuals but, when that point is reached, the individual will rebel; and whether the rebellion will manifest itself in violence or in peaceful refusal to continue producing only to be robbed, no one knows in advance.

There are various means by which governmental expense AND taxes could be cut.

The market place inhibiting, expensive and cost-raising zoning and building code bureaucracies should be eliminated. The benefits, to the taxpayers and the economy as a whole would be tremendous.

Firstly, relieved of an irritating and often idiotic burden of regulations, edicts and decrees, business would be made freer and more flexible and thus encouraged to grow and expand.

This just about completes the potential physical wreckage of kid television-watching as proclaimed from time to time by viewers-with-alarm.

It has been claimed that sustained television watching is hard on the back, the legs, the eyes, the ears, the posture, grades, the attitudes and viewpoints of youngsters—and, at times, the child-parent relationship.

This, of course, is largely a matter for the experts to decide. But one thing even a non-expert knows:

Legal And Moral Laws Different

By JOSEPH DEJAN

A semantic confusion bears disastrous consequences because of the general acceptance of the state's dictatorial power. The same word—law—expresses two unrelated concepts. When applied to science, law describes order, or the relation between phenomena, in nature. Used in politics, law means the rules of conduct prescribed arbitrarily by a governing authority and enforced by sanctions.

The failure to distinguish metaphysical facts from man-made rules is well-illustrated in the too-popular cliché, "You can be sure of two things—taxes and death." Natural laws cannot be escaped by any individual nor by any majority. Man-made rules can be changed, however, and the first step toward such change is to understand their immorality.

Moral laws define the good or evil, the right or wrong, of men's actions. But such definition becomes meaningless when there's no choice. Morality ceases when freedom to choose ends. As Davidson says, "That which is not free is not responsible, and that which is not responsible is not moral."

Laws made by a political body, however good the intention, are an infringement of individual freedom. Every tax law is an increasing loss of the freedom to use one's own income. Involuntary servitude is imposed legally in both government-controlled schools and the military. Social security laws force participation in an un-sound insurance plan. Labor laws deny the businessman's choice of workers and impose artificial wage rates. Millions of man-made laws exist and are the depressing record of a fading freedom.

In spite of the numerous barriers set up by our founding fathers, the power of centralized administration in this country has grown in large part because the "legal" is equated with the moral. But no system no matter how benevolent it claims to be, that "legally" robs the individual of his freedom of choice, can be called moral. Every attempt to "improve" the world by legalizing morality has invariably ended in disaster.

Since no natural law guarantees automatic security, success, or survival to man, political administrators presume to "correct" this lack by dreaming up infinite rules. To give them a semblance of validity, they call these rules "laws."

But the scientific laws now known, or yet to be discovered, describe the natural order which makes life possible. Man-made rules are irrelevant. They describe only the wishes or wills of political leaders, and must be enforced by sanctions. They are falsely advertised as "law and order," when they are actually just rules and disorder. When this distinction is grasped, the right of the state to legislate its own whims or the whims of a majority will be challenged.

Only a system of freedom of choice for each individual is moral. Such a system also releases the individual's creativity and enables both him and the society in which he lives to prosper.

Britain has had 17 poet laureates from 1619 when Ben Jonson was so named until the late John Masefield's appointment in 1930. Only five of that number are remembered: Jonson, John Dryden, Wordsworth, Tennyson and Masefield. However, Colley Cibber, who held the post from 1730 until 1757, is recalled these days as the author of a very neat crack: "Fine words butter no parsnips." That's as pertinent today as it was when Cibber wrote it.

Did you ever see a mayfly crawling around a peach looking for an opening. That's what this country is doing. We are crawling around the globe looking for trouble. And we're gettin it.

Now we have got almost 2 million servicemen around the globe in 'trouble spots.' We got 475,000 of our boys in Vietnam and 75,000 more in the area and offshore.

That's a bigger bunch than we had in Korea in 1952. If you pay any attention to figures then we won the war last year. It seems to me this administration said that after the people in Vietnam had their vote we would get out and let them run it themselves.

But that ain't what they're after at all. What they are after is to have the war jump the lines over into Laos and Cambodia and Thailand. Then they will have to call the reserves and guardsmen and most of the 3.4 million standing force.

That way, if everybody is in

When Expo '67 closed at Montreal it was estimated that U.S. tourists left some $400 million north of the border. And the dollar drain will continue because U.S. tourists always leave more money overseas than foreigners spend in this country. The resulting "tourist gap" is one of the main causes of our damaging gold and dollar outflow. This "tourist gap" is expected to reach a record-breaking high mark of $2 billion this year as compared to the $1.6 billion last year. It's about time to revive that slogan: "See America First."

Danger to Vice President Seen in Secret Service Report on Agitators Arrested Recently; Additional Security

PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — A confidential Secret Service report being studied by Vice President Hubert Humphrey throws new light on the growing security problem he now faces in traveling throughout the United States.

It reveals that four persons who tried to force their way into a New York ballroom where Humphrey was to speak recently had been on the "dangerous persons" list of the Secret Service for more than a year.

One of the four militant agitators, all of whom had to be forcibly restrained, had been arrested earlier during a violent demonstration against President Johnson. All the individuals are either members of the Communist Party or the Red-controlled W.E.B. DuBois Clubs.

The list of dangerous persons, which now runs into the thousands, contains the names of individuals who the Secret Service and FBI believe could cause harm to the President or Vice President.

Under security plans adopted after the assassination of President Kennedy, those on the list are kept under observation by local or federal authorities whenever either President Johnson or Vice President Humphrey appears in areas where these individuals reside.

The INSIDE STORY — The Secret Service report, prepared to show "the growing involvement of Communists against the Vice President" gave the following account of the New York incident:

"At 8 p.m., approximately 30 minutes prior to the Vice President's arrival at the dinner, four members of the W.E.B. DuBois Club were arrested inside the hotel at a checkpoint which enters the ballroom where the Vice President was due to speak.

"After slipping past a police guard in the hotel lobby, they at Dijon, France. It has kept excellent time since 1383. Some mathematical genius has figured out that in its lifetime the clock has struck more than 32,284,980 times. We won't dispute him. . . . Although both sides disdain using poison gas in the Viet Nam war that is one of the oldest forms of overcoming an enemy. The Spartans used it, in conquering Belgium and Plataea in 431 B. C. . . . The Lexington (Ky.) HERALD reported in a story: "The top-ranking politicians have been saying Romney is in over his head in seeking the GOP Presidential nomination." Yes, both of them.

Question Box

QUESTION: Since we are not on the gold standard, what would be the effect if we boosted its price to a realistic figure which would again make it profitable to work many now abandoned, but still rich, mines? How would that affect our National debt, or rather our international debt with inflated gold? But if it is worth more in world markets, as it evidently is, wouldn't we be on a more realistic basis?

ANSWER: Obviously the $35 an ounce price of gold is unrealistic, as is any other price which is fixed by government rather than in a free and open market. No one knows what the price of gold should be. Gold is a commodity, like anything else, and the price should be determined by what a willing buyer will pay and what a willing owner will sell for. The principal reason gold has not been mined extensively in the United States is that cost of production exceeds the government fixed price.

It is difficult to know in advance all of the effects of increasing the price of gold to make it profitable to work now dormant or abandoned mines. No doubt many mines would reopen, unless the expectation of continued inflation would make it doubtful that the mine owners and operators could get back their costs of re-opening. Another result would be that the United States would be putting foreign nations on a similar footing to that in which the national government has placed its own citizens if it would be paying off its obligations at less than it promised. It would be confessing bankruptcy.

The federal government reneged on its promises to its citizens to redeem its bonds and currency in gold in the 1930s. It then increased the gold price and has continued to redeem its promises to foreign holders of the paper.

Increasing the gold price would mean the U.S. government then would redeem its obligations to foreign holders with a lesser amount of gold. It would be a stop-gap measure which might temporarily slow the outflow of gold. Unless there is immediate return to fiscal sanity and elimination of inflation through deficit spending, the relief would be only temporary, in our estimation. Continued deficit spending by government is more responsible for the loss of confidence in the dollar than is the fixed price of gold, we believe.

Some monetary experts point out that the United States faced a similar situation after the Civil War, and at that time Congress announced it would return to a currency redeemable in gold after a short term of years. It was accompanied by fiscal responsibility of the government. The result was hoarded gold immediately started returning, and confidence was restored in the dollar and in the government.

Another 'Truth' Proposal

The federal bureaucracy has been busy of late launching "truth" crusades; truth in advertising, truth in packaging, truth in lending. Now another area is opened up: truth in spending.

Freshman Rep. Robert V. Denney of Nebraska has proposed legislation requiring all Congressmen to include in any bill an estimate of what the legislation would cost the taxpayer in the first two fiscal years of its existence as law.

Further the Denney bill would require the clerk of the House to make twice monthly reports on the estimated total cost of all legislation previously passed in the session, as well as the total cost of all pending bills.

The estimates would be inaccurate is admitted. All governmental spending estimates are on the low side. But there is merit to the Nebraska's idea; the merit of keeping the dollar sign well before the taxpayer's eyes.

We might suggest an addition to Denney's bill: copy the edict of another federal crusader and require a label on every bill warning that "This measure may be dangerous to your fiscal health."

ings concerning agitators involved in protest against the Vice President have caused the Secret Service to increase the number of agents protecting him.

As in the case of President Johnson, Humphrey's route of travel and schedule are never given out till the last minute in order to avoid having this information fall into the hands of demonstrators.

"When the Vice President travels around the country," an aide of Humphrey's says, "he is now better protected than any previous President or Vice President. Only President Johnson receives more protection."

Other reasons behind the increased protection for Humphrey are the disturbing reports from several police departments that black militants in their cities have drawn up lists of local and federal officials "to be executed in 1968."

Most of these reports were not taken seriously until police in New Haven, Conn., assisted by Treasury agents, seized five persons last month and charged them with conspiring to blow up "an important public building."

At the time of the arrests New Haven police found a list of local and federal authorities marked for execution. The list has been turned over to the FBI and the Secret Service because of the persons involved. Large amounts of explosives and machine guns were also discovered in a room occupied by one of the persons arrested.

The Doctor Says:

Operations on the Aged Use Improved Techniques
As a result of the ever-increasing advances in medical science there is an ever greater number of persons who are surviving past age 65. Such persons often need surgical operations. Whereas in the past, operation on elderly persons was limited to life-saving emergencies, they are now undertaken for all types of surgical conditions with confidence in their success. This change in attitude has been brought about by better knowledge of the normal physiology of the aged, better surgical technique and modern drugs.

Two or three centuries ago, it was common to observe senility in persons who were in their early 40s. In any era some persons reach senility at a much earlier age than others. This is because it is the diseases one encounters, not the number of one's years, that gives one the appearance of being old.

When an elderly person needs an operation, therefore, the surgeon's first duty is to determine how well his body is functioning. This is especially important as regards his heart and blood vessels. Clues will be furnished by the electrocardiogram, blood pressure and pulse rate. A chest X-ray, measurement of lung capacity, electroencephalogram and tests of liver and kidney function are also important.

When these tests indicate that the operation can be safely undertaken, the question of an anesthetic arises. Here again, great advances have been made in recent years. Respiratory complications have been avoided by giving the anesthetic through a tube introduced into the windpipe and by greater use of local or spinal anesthesia. Lowering the patient's body temperature also has certain advantages.

Whenever possible, it is a great boon to an elderly patient if the operation can be performed in his home instead of a hospital. The fear that an operation might send an aged person into a mental crisis has been dispelled by the fact that in most cases it results in improved mental outlook, a keener interest in one's surroundings and greater physical ability.

The dangers of bed rest (internal blood clots and bed sores) cannot be overemphasized. Most patients can be gently placed in a comfortable chair within 24 hours following operation and can safely use a commode chair instead of the despised bedpan.

 UPI White House Reporter
 WASHINGTON (UPI)—Back stairs at the White House: The comfort involved may have its limitations, but Jacqueline Kennedy now has someone to help share the attention of the fan magazines—Lynda Johnson Robb.

For the last three or more years, Jackie Kennedy has been the object of steady and, for her, unwelcome attention of motion picture and television fan magazines. The 38-year-old former First Lady still rates right at the top with Elizabeth Taylor as an American glamour queen.

To say that Mrs. Kennedy dislikes this sort of publicity is to state the case mildly. But fan magazine attention shows no sign of declining and she lands on the cover of a dozen or more of these publications each month.

Speculate On Romance
 Typical example is this month's "Movie Mirror" which headlines across its cover "Did Jackie Finally Say 'Yes'?" The man who is going with her tells all!

The story inside somehow does not live up to the heart-beat of the cover headline. The story refers to Lord Harlech who went to Cambodia as a member of Mrs. Kennedy's party last fall. His "tell all" consists of thoroughly publicized quotes from the past in which the former ambassador to Washington said there was "no foundation" to stories that he and Mrs. Kennedy were engaged.

In the January "Photoplay," one of the real giants of the fan magazine world, President Johnson's elder daughter took the cover play entirely away from Mrs. Kennedy with an enormous color photograph of Lynda and her bridegroom, Capt. Charles Robb, gazing adoringly at each other.

The cover headline screams in large letters, "How LBJ Hurt Lynda Bird Before the Wedding." (How did the President "hurt" his daughter? By saying, according to "Time" as quoted by "Photoplay," that "Lynda is so smart she can always take care of herself.")

"Photoplay," however, is not one to leave the fan magazine field open to any other publication when it comes to Mrs. Kennedy. The January issue may play Lynda on the cover, but inside, there is still has come to be standard every month for most magazines of this sort—a wallowing picture layout and article headed simply "Jackie." All about Lord Harlech, too.

The January "Motion Picture" divides the cover photographically between Mrs. Kennedy and Mrs. Robb to lure interest in one article, "Jackie and Lynda's weddings—how each bride learned to love on the rebound."

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST
 WASHINGTON (UPI)—At this month's meeting of the Charles de Gaulle Appreciation Society, the other member and I found ourselves confronted with an ugly situation.

We learned that Harold Minsky, producer of girlie shows in Las Vegas, had resolved not to use any more French nudes in his topless chorus lines.

Minsky made it clear he had nothing against French bosoms personally. He even acknowledged that intrepid sojourners from the Folies Bergere had helped pioneer night club nudity in Nevada.

Individual Foreign Policy
 It was all a matter of foreign policy, he explained. He was imposing sanctions on French dishabille as retaliation against De Gaulle's anti-American policies.

Now, we members of the Charles de Gaulle Appreciation Society both recognize that every citizen has a fundamental right to formulate his own foreign policy.

Men like Minsky with their personal international relations are what made this country great.

We feel, however, that the Minsky doctrine will tend to undermine the good work our society has been doing in helping others to appreciate De Gaulle as much as De Gaulle does.

"If Minsky's foreign policy is widely adopted, retribution will become rampant," I said, it being my turn to preside at the meeting.

Eating Habits Change
 "The next thing we know, Americans will stop eating French toast, French dressing and French fried potatoes."

"Yes," agreed the other member, who prefers to remain anonymous. "and American women will stop wearing French heels, and men will abandon shirts with French cuffs."

"I anticipate that people will stop playing the French horn in the United States," I said.

"And I anticipate they will call in the carpenters to have all of the French windows and French doors removed from their homes."

"U.S. servicemen will stop taking French leaves," he suggested.

I adjourned the meeting at this point to forestall discussion of the ultimate consequence of the Minsky doctrine. It could be the end of the French postcard.

Cat Wanders In, Shuts Off Power
 NEW BRAUNFELS, Texas (UPI)—A ring-tailed cat wandered into a power plant early today, shorted out a transformer and created a power failure in parts of San Antonio, Seguin and San Marcos and all of New Braunfels.

The failure began at the main Comal County plant of the Lower Colorado River Authority, which in turn blew out two more transformers in San Antonio.

More than 300 square miles of South Texas were without electrical power for as much as an hour.

"We only lost power for about 15 or 20 minutes," said a New Braunfels police officer, "but some of the outlying areas were out a little longer."

Most sections of San Antonio were without power for about an hour.

The transformer blew out shortly before 4 a.m.

Most of the rural sections between San Antonio and San Marcos were affected, but there were no reports of emergencies caused by the power loss.

The blackout caused several burglar alarms to begin sounding in San Antonio, and local law offices were flooded with calls despite the early hour.

It was the third major loss of power in San Antonio in less than a month. The other two affected chiefly the southern and southeastern sections of the city and were blamed on moisture leaks in major power lines.

COLOR EXPERTS AT MONTGOMERY WARD — Eighteen years of combined experience between Ken Brazell and Bill Rice, color technicians for Montgomery Ward guarantees you quality service. John Jewett, a recent graduate of Denver National Electronics Institute, Denver, Col., is on hand to serve you.

Color Experts Are at Wards

Considering the awesome complexity of the product, the color television set generally has compiled an enviable service record over the past four to five years, during which time it became a mass market item.

Still, there have been and continue to be those days when some set owners are forced to part company with this popular home companion while the service technician hauls it off to the shop for repair.

Better days are here. There is a series of 1968 models on the market with a solid state, all-transistor chassis built in a modular or "building block" manner wherein the hundreds of components are grouped or segmented into 10 sections or modules. All the technical terms confuse the average American, and the housewife cannot be expected to comprehend all the details, the complex problems that develop with their color television.

The competent staff of color technicians at Montgomery Ward will see that your set is serviced with the utmost care and efficiency. They understand all the aspects of integrated circuit components that are fabricated onto a tiny crystalline wafer, and the record changer to one arm of television-phonograph combination models.

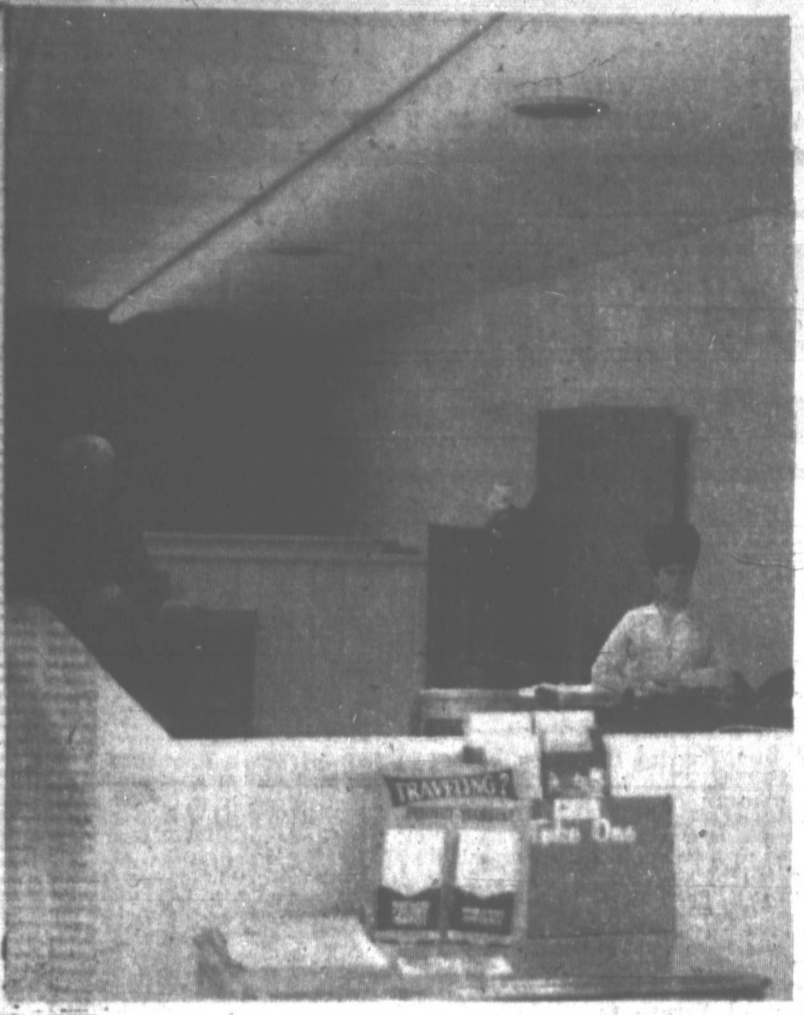

Home entertainment instruments have come full cycle from the black boxes of radio's earliest days to the fine furniture cabinetry that encases today's television receivers, phonographs and radios. Particularly since the advent of color television, the consumer public has looked for—indeed demanded—fine quality merchandise and qualified personnel capable of servicing their products with the utmost confidence. The citizens of Pampa can be proud of the "turnkey" work turned out by the staff of Montgomery Ward Service Department. From color television to the small clock radio, the phonograph or the latest multi speaker stereo, they do their best to see that you get your money's worth. Give them a call at MO 4-7401 and give them a chance to give you the best. You deserve it.

Council Pleased By Traffic Toll

By United Press International
 The National Safety Council, "tremendously encouraged" by a New Year's holiday traffic toll considerably below its expectations, cautioned Tuesday that nothing short of a year-around, 24-hour vigil by drivers can consistently reduce highway deaths.

A final United Press International count showed 372 persons killed in traffic accidents between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight Monday.

A rash of accidents New Year's Day cost the nation what might have been its safest three-day New Year's holiday since 1962. The toll in the 1961-62 holiday was 337.

Social Security, Tax Changes Told

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (UPI)—Here is a summary of the increased Social Security benefits and payroll taxes President Johnson signed into law Tuesday.

Benefits

—Monthly benefit checks will be increased a minimum 13 percent starting in March.

—Benefits to uninsured persons over 72 are increased from $35 to $40 a month for a single person, and from $52.50 to $60 for a couple.

—Retired persons can now earn up to $1,680 annually and still receive benefits. The old limit was $1,500.

—Certain disabled widows and widowers of deceased workers are now eligible for partial benefits at age 50.

—Certain children now deemed dependent on the father will also be classified as dependent on the mother, making them eligible for additional benefits.

—Medicare beneficiaries now have a new "lifetime reserve" of 60 days of partially paid hospital care after their 90 days of free hospital care expires.

Romney Blames Press for Woes

PARIS (UPI)—Gov. George Romney of Michigan today blamed "very negative" press for popularity poll setbacks in his campaign for the Republican presidential nomination.

He vowed his fight for the White House is "just starting."

Romney was asked about opinion polls in New Hampshire showing he had slipped far behind Richard M. Nixon, the former vice president and an unannounced candidate.

"Oh, I think that is a reflection of the press more than the people," he said. "I think that the press has been very negative for a long time."

New Hampshire will hold the first presidential primary March 12. Romney is the only major announced candidate for the nomination.

Asked if he meant the press was negative toward himself personally, Romney replied, "Sure there isn't any question about it. I think that when I indicated what I believe in and what I stand for I can change the picture."
