

Supreme Court Okays Merger

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Supreme Court today approved the long-delayed merger of the Pennsylvania and New York Central Railroads, making the combine the largest private rail system in the world.

The huge company will serve 20 states and two Canadian provinces. It will have about 20,000 miles of track and operating revenues of nearly $2 billion.

The rail network will range from Montreal and Boston in the north, Norfolk, Va., in the southeast, and Mackinaw City, Mich., through Chicago and St. Louis on the west.

The merger plans have been before the Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC) and the courts for more than five years.

At the same time, the court upheld an ICC order requiring the Norfolk & Western (N&W) system to take in three small lines on which the impact of the merger will fall heavily. These are the Erie-Lackawanna, the Delaware & Hudson and the Boston & Maine.

The court rejected various arguments against the ICC order advanced by these companies.

The N & W—which has applied to the ICC for permission to merge with the Chesapeake & Ohio-Baltimore & Ohio—contended that the three small roads were being forced down its throat.

The N & W questioned whether the commission had complied with an earlier Supreme Court ruling in the case, since one or more of the three might decide not to join the N & W but possibly try to get into the Penn-Central combine.

Justice Abe Fortas delivered the court's opinion. Justice William O. Douglas dissented in part.

Today's was the second Supreme Court ruling on the Penn-Central plan within a year. Last March 27, the court sent the matter back to the ICC with instructions to make better arrangements for three smaller lines.

Acting speedily, the commission on June 9 provided that the three be included in the Norfolk & Western system.

The E-L has already decided to join the N & W, which will compete with the Penn-Central.

The Supreme Court gave priority to the Penn-Central case because of the precarious financial condition of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, which the merged company is scheduled to absorb.

Loyalty Oath in Texas Ruled Unconstitutional

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The U. S. Supreme Court ruled today Texas' loyalty oath for state employees is unconstitutional.

The court in a brief order affirmed a decision to this effect handed down Aug. 31, 1967, by a special three-judge federal court in Dallas. The panel held that the oath has the same faults as others stricken down by the Supreme Court recently.

The test of the oath was initiated by five men, including Everett M. Gilmore, Jr., who was dismissed in 1966 from employment as a tuba instructor at Dallas County Junior College when he refused to take the oath.

The others are Robert Palter and Stuart Pullen, members of the University of Texas teaching staff at Austin; Thomas Mantle, who worked only a few hours as a student employee in the university library until he was let go for refusal to take the oath, and Michael Kahn, who was offered a job on the teaching staff at the university. Kahn's contract never went through because of his refusal to execute the oath.

Texas Atty. Gen. Crawford C. Martin said the junior college, because it did not receive

Combat Veteran Threatens Jump From Tower

A young man home on leave from Fort Sill, Okla., apparently despondent over the death of his father several months ago, threatened to jump off the disused water tower near Central Fire Station in the pre-dawn hours of this morning.

Pampa police received a report that the young soldier was on the water tower at 3:37 a.m. today.

A companion of the man, who said he was driving around with him after he had received a telephone call from him asking him to pick him up because he was despondent, turned in the alarm to police.

The man, Tom Henley, 1605 Coffee Street, said they had been driving around for a while when they stopped at the parking lot of the Downtown Lounge at the Pampa Hotel.

Henley said his companion got out of the car and was walking around. Henley said, according to a Pampa police report, that he looked around and the man was climbing up the ladder of the water tower.

Henley said he told his friend, "Don't go any further, I'll come and get you."

"You do, and I'll jump," Henley reported the man said. He then called the police.

When police arrived, the young Vietnam combat veteran was about 60 feet up on the tower "and crawling around," the police report said.

Police said the young soldier kept saying "You guys be quiet. I'm talking to my Dad." The police report said he followed such utterances with 5 or 10 minutes of talk.

Firemen were summoned and were ready to catch the man with a net if he decided to jump.

After being on the tower for approximately an hour and 15 minutes, the man finally responded to pleas from police and Henley to come down.

He was taken to Highland General Hospital and given a sedative. He was held in police custody until this morning, when officials from Fort Sill arrived to return him to the post.

Sixteen Violent Deaths Occur During Weekend

By United Press International
Two auto mishaps which killed three persons each and the crash of a private plane Sunday contributed to the weekend violent death toll in Texas.

Sixteen persons died violently from the period beginning at 6 p.m. Friday through midnight Sunday, a count by United Press International showed.

Of these, 14 persons were killed in traffic accidents. There was one death by fire and one death from the crash of a light plane near Arlington.

John Lea Aitken, 29, of Fort Worth, was killed in a muddy field near Pylon Field six miles southwest of Arlington Sunday when his airplane apparently went out of control.

Three persons were killed in San Antonio Saturday in the collision of two pickup trucks. Dead are Michael Wayne Meek, 18, Jack Weakley, 46, both of San Antonio, and Richard H. Schneider, 29, of Schertz.

A car-truck crash near Weatherford Sunday killed three members of a Fort Worth family. The victims are Mrs. Mary Wooten, and her two sons, Douglas, 6, and Anthony, 7.

A La Feria girl, Esmeralda Cantu, 2, died Sunday from burns she suffered Saturday night when a charcoal fire ignited kerosene that was being thrown on it.

School Board Expected To Act Soon on Damron's Resignation

The Pampa School Board at noon today had not yet set a date to consider the resignation of Dr. John Damron, school superintendent, but expects to have a "night meeting sometime this week," according to H. C. Grady Jr., board president.

Dr. Damron submitted his resignation by letter to all five board members late Saturday afternoon and left decision on its acceptance and date of termination of his contract up to the board.

Grady said today he did not know yet when the board will meet on Dr. Damron's resignation, because he had not contacted all board members as to when they could meet.

"As soon as I can talk to everyone and see what they want to do about this and see how they want to handle it, we will let you know when we will decide to meet," Grady told the Pampa News.

Grady explained he had "visited with two board members Sunday and planned to visit with the other two today."

"I personally contacted John Spearman and John Gikas and called Dr. R. M. Hampton, but he was on duty. Jimmy Thompson was not available Sunday, but I expect to contact him today," Grady said.

Thompson, the new school board member and a Pampa attorney, was inducted Jan. 11 to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of C. E. (Gene) Steel. Thompson has resigned his post as chairman of the Gray County Democratic Executive Committee.

Dr. Damron's resignation was tendered two days after the board refused to consider renewal of his contract until July, anniversary date of the contract.

The superintendent's contract would run until July, 1970, if allowed to go until completion.

He moved here from Tulla, where he was superintendent of schools, and started his first term as Pampa school superintendent in July, 1966.

Bush To Run For Re-election, Not in Governor Race

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Rep. George Bush, R-Tex., announced today he would seek reelection to the House, thus removing himself from contention for the GOP governorship nomination.

"Today I am mailing in my filing fee and announcing my intention to seek reelection as United States congressman from the Seventh District of Texas," Bush told a news conference.

The first term lawmaker from Houston returned only last week from a tour of Southeast Asia which included stops in Vietnam and Thailand.

His announcement to seek reelection was his first public statement as the second session of the 90th Congress convened.

"I gave serious consideration to entering the governor's race in Texas—it is a real challenge, and, in my view, in these days of increasing tendency toward even more highly centralized government, the quality of state government, becomes increasingly important. But, in spite of the challenge at the state level, I feel I should try to win reelection to the house in order to continue my work at the federal level," Bush said.

LBJ Thought Most Hawkish Candidate

PRINCETON, N.J. (UPI)—A Gallup Poll indicates the majority of Americans regard President Johnson as more of a "hawk" on Vietnam than any of the four leading Republican presidential candidates.

The poll released Sunday showed that 66 per cent of 1,534 adults surveyed in 3 localities considered the President to be a "hawk" while 18 per cent thought him a "dove." Sixteen per cent were undecided.

The American Institute of Public Opinion, which took the sampling defined a "hawk" as one who wants to step up the country's military efforts in Vietnam and a "dove" as one who wants the efforts reduced.

Although none of the top four Republican presidential possibilities were regarded as hawkish as Johnson, those polled thought former Vice President Richard Nixon and California Gov. Ronald Reagan also tended to be hawks.

Opinion was about evenly divided on New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller while Michigan Gov. George Romney was thought to be a dove.

Major Escalation Of Fighting Is Indicated

VIENTIANE, Laos (UPI)—Four North Vietnamese Antonov fighter-bombers attacked the town of Muong Yut in northeastern Laos Friday in the first known use of Hanoi's planes against ground positions, the Royal Laotian Government announced today. It said two of the planes were shot down.

The announcement followed reports by the Chinese Communist government that three Laotian planes bombed and strafed Chinese border areas a week ago Sunday killing and wounding many civilians. The two reports indicated a major escalation of the war in Southeast Asia.

A Laotian communique also reported a commando attack against the royal capital of Luang Prabang and a major assault on the fortress of Nam Bac, 60 miles to the north, by a force of Communists estimated at more than 5,000.

Reliable military sources said the fortress of Nam Bac had fallen and that the government defenders, also estimated at about 5,000 men, had split into two groups and were retreating southward through the mountains.

Nam Bac, 50 miles from the Chinese border, was a blocking force against Communist threats to Luang Prabang. It was a valley surrounded by mountains full of caves from which Pathet Lao and Viet Minh (North Vietnamese) artillery could fire on the defenders below, safe from air attacks. It was supplied entirely by air since Communist forces held the peaks around it.

The action was in northeast Laos near the borders of North Vietnam and just below Communist China. It has long been a stronghold of the Communist Pathet Lao protecting the Ho Chi Minh Trail by which men and material moved to South Vietnam.

An inconclusive civil war has raged for many months in the northern area and on the Plains Des Jarres. In recent weeks the Laotian government has reported

Medical Bills in Texas Continue Sharp Increase

United Press International
The cost of hospital care in Texas has increased about 17.4 per cent since Medicare started 18 months ago and the best available figures indicate that doctors' bills have increased about 5 per cent, a United Press International survey showed today.

Hospital costs are expected to increase, possibly sharply, but increases in doctors' fees probably will follow the general trend of inflation, medical sources said.

The best source of information on medical costs in Texas is Blue Cross-Blue Shield, Blue Cross (hospital bills) and Blue Shield (doctors' bills) insure 2 million persons in Texas and in addition serve as administrators of the Medicare program.

Blue Cross figures showed that in July, 1966—the month Medicare started—per-day per-patient hospital care in Texas averaged $46.66. This figure included all services, a hospital performs for a patient: room, food, laboratory tests, etc.

More Increases Seen
In November, 1967, this figure had risen to an average of $54.78, an increase of about 17.4 per cent. Blue Cross spokesmen said they expected additional increases in the future.

Blue Shield did not have similar figures for physicians, because it pays specified amounts for each of the various surgical procedures. But Fred Higginbotham, Medicare coordinator for Blue Cross-Blue Shield, has precise fee reports from all of Texas' 12,000 physicians.

Higginbotham said a profile of each physician is put on a computer—his training and experience and what he normally charges for each medical procedure he performs.

The state is broken-down geographically and the prevailing charge in each geographical section for a host of medical procedures also is put in the computer.

If a physician submits, for example, a $300 bill for a gall bladder operation, the computer checks the physician's profile against the bill. If the charge the physician has previously provided for the computer was $300 or more, the bill passes that check.

But it also has to pass a computer charge against the prevailing geographical region charge, to be paid without question. If the bill falls either or both comparisons, it is handled individually.

It may be that the physician had to go a long way to perform an operation or it required special procedures.

Daughter To Fly To Visit Patient

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (UPI)—Philip Blaiberg today entered the 14th day since his heart transplant operation with a smile on his face because his daughter Jill was flying home to see him.

Jill, studying Hebrew language at Tel Aviv, was en route from a stopover in Rome.

Dr. Christiaan Barnard said Sunday night his team would not perform any more heart transplants until Blaiberg's progress sheds more light on problems of post-operative care.

Blaiberg's wife Eileen told her husband of their daughter's visit Sunday.

"He didn't say anything but his face just lit up," she said. "His smile was 'too terrific' I could tell he was very excited. He's been asking for her."

Arlington School May Try Radical Experimentation

By TOMMY GEDDIE
ARLINGTON, Tex. (UPI) —
The University of Texas at Arlington may become a school where students make up their own courses, set up their own seminars, and go to class if they want to, backers of a new approach said today.

In short, Texas-Arlington may try an experimental college approach such as in practice at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and at San Francisco State University.
At Arlington, Glenn Day,
president of the Student Activities Board, and Tom Wallace, president of the student government, are working with Alan Steinbeck, assistant of liberal arts, to bring about such a program. It would not replace, but be an adjunct to, existing programs.

How It Developed
"This idea is the product of discussions I had with students at the National Training Laboratory at Bethel, Maine, this past summer," Day said.

"One of the students, David Kiel from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, had founded an experimental college there, and he familiarized me with the theory behind it."

Day said he was convinced there is a need for "such an innovation in the educational process" on the Arlington campus.

"This is a no-holds-barred quest for knowledge about the things students feel a need to learn," he said. "I want to shake the dust off the wheels of education and get the courses out that are buried in prerequisites, not included in the planned curriculum, or simply not offered at all, so interested students may further advance their education."

An Exciting Idea
"This idea is very exciting to me personally," Wallace said.
"I feel it will be of great value to the student community because it will allow, for the first time, a student to broaden his own goals and choose his own path."

"This is a chance to initiate rather than be led," said Wallace.

At North Carolina
—The courses are what the students want them to be. The professor will propose a general topic the students may change or modify if they wish.
—The students meet with a professor who is there not to lecture but to join the students in learnings.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Shearson, Hammill & Co. forecasts that the 1968 market "is likely to move ahead moderately and selectively unless there are dramatic new developments in the Vietnam war."
If the war was to end the economy "might reasonably be expected to gain more rapidly."
Then, it writes, "interest rates would tend to fall, benefiting those securities, such as utilities and bank stocks, that have suffered from the recent tight-money climate."

Bache & Co. feels that in the particularly in the monetary area, to prevent a sustained advance from taking hold." The firm, instead, expects a "sawtooth" kind of improvement, punctuated by profit taking. A resurgence in some of the "glamour" areas is one prerequisite for gains, it feels.

E.F. Hutton & Co. suggests "near term upside progress may soon become more difficult." In addition, it offers that the advance-decline index is now approaching what might be read "on a short term basis as overbrought territory indicating that gains may be more selective from here on."

for "outstanding non-materialis-

Semester Exams Begin Tomorrow At High School

Cramping for exams was in its last stages at Pampa High School today.

Semester exams are scheduled to begin tomorrow morning and will run through Thursday.

There will be no school Friday. Classes will be dismissed for the day which will be spent by teachers grading test papers.

High School principal Cameron Marsh said make-up examinations will be at 1 p.m. next Thursday for students who failed an exam in a course in which they previously had been receiving passing grades.

API Schedules First 1968 Meet

"Lease Automation Equipment" will be the topic for discussion at a meeting of the Panhandle Chapter of the American Petroleum Institute at 8 p.m. Thursday in the Starlight Room of Coronado Inn.

Tom Fraser, manager of new production, and Les Murphy, manager of tubing sales, for Continental Emsco in Dallas, both will speak about latest developments in lease automation.

A. D. Pickett, chairman, said members are invited to bring guests to the first API meeting of the year.

Spring Is Due Back Tomorrow

Springlike weather is in prospect for tomorrow after temperatures in the 50s today.

The forecast calls for clear to partly cloudy and warmer through Tuesday. Tonight's low was expected to drop into the mid-20s and tomorrow's high will climb into the 60s.

The Amarillo Weather Bureau says no precipitation is in sight.

Saddle, Other Articles Stolen South of City

W.F. Southard, 838 W. Foster, reported a saddle valued at $300 was stolen from his saddle shed four miles west of Pampa sometime between 5 p.m. Saturday and 8 a.m. Sunday.

Southard also reported to the Gray County Sheriff's office that 3 saddle blankets, a bridle and 2 halters were taken from the shed.

Oath

(Continued From Page 1) state funds, had no authority to require the oath from Gilmore and did so by mistake.

Made No Difference

The lower court said that fact made no difference so far as the ruling was concerned.

The opinion pointed out that the school was scheduled for a "considerable appropriation" starting Sept. 1, 1967.

"A statute which automatically disqualifies applicants on the basis of membership alone enforces the innocent with the guilty," the panel said, referring to the state law requiring the oath.

"While such membership may furnish a basis for further inquiry into an applicant's present or past activities, it does not in itself constitute a threat to the state."

Ora Conduct Counts

"An individual is entitled to be judged by his own conduct, not that of his associates."

Palter, a professor of philosophy, and Pullen, an assistant instructor in government, signed the oath. The lower court found they had not shown they were injured by so doing and therefore had no standing to attack the law. Mantle and Kahn, along with Gilmore, were found to have such standing.

The panel relied on 1966 and 1967 Supreme Court decisions striking down Arizona's loyalty oath and a New York program, respectively.

Romney Prepares Major Speech To Be Given Tonight

LACONIA, N.H. (UPI)—Gov. George Romney of Michigan continued his quest for New Hampshire primary votes today and prepared for a major speech tonight in which aides said he would outline a proposal for a "guaranteed neutralization" of Vietnam.

In a Boston radio interview Sunday, the Republican presidential hopeful called the American involvement and the handling of the war in Vietnam a "mistake" but said the United States could not abandon the Southeast Asian nation.

Romney gave a preview of his speech tonight at Keene State College in remarks to the Laconia Chamber of Commerce.

"What I have in mind essentially," he said, "... is the countries directly involved in the conflict there would be taken out of the conflict between East and West and would not be permitted to have military alliances with other nations and their future would be focused on economic and social development as probably the most practical way to try to work out something."

The governor did not elaborate, explaining he would discuss the matter in more detail in tonight's speech.

"It's going to be a long talk," he said. "It's not a short talk. Really, this is the most complex situation we have ever become involved in as a nation."

Romney started out the day by greeting Laconia factory workers before dawn, then meeting with the Chamber of Commerce.

The foreign news outlook: The Abdication: British Prime Minister Harold Wilson's government this week will announce an austerity program which, in effect, will mark Britain's abdication from her global role. The cuts will affect both domestic and international affairs and will recall the grimmest of the post war years as British leaders struggle to get the economy back on its feet. In the future, Britain will concentrate on Europe where she hopes to play an important part once President Charles de Gaulle has left the political scene in France.

Anti-U.S. Demonstrations: Japanese riot police, 5,000 strong, already have been assigned to duty for the forthcoming visit of the nuclear-powered U.S. carrier Enterprise to Sasebo. Some 50,000 left students are expected to demonstrate against the visit in a foretaste of what still is to come when the U.S. Japan security treaty comes up for renewal in 1970.

Salgou Frustrations: The U.S. diplomatic mission to Saigon is not satisfied so far with progress made by the government of South Vietnam. President Nguyen Van Thieu during his first two months in office. U.S. officials are exerting increasing pressure to eliminate behind-the-scenes bickering between followers of Thieu and supporters of Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky.

France in Latin America: Diplomatic circles in Paris expect complications to develop from a French-Soviet accord permitting Soviet space scientists to use the space base in French Guiana now being completed. The agreement will make French Guiana the only territory in the American hemisphere where the Soviets will have facilities for the tracing of their satellites.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Each year before the advent of a new session of Congress I make an inspection tour of Capitol Hill to check on the facilities we taxpayers provide for the creature comforts of our lawmakers.

If I fail to find everything in proper order, I become outraged, as any good citizen would.

We certainly can't expect our lawmakers to operate at top form if they are subjected to inconveniences, such as stale snuff.

The need for tender loving care is particularly acute this year when so many members of Congress have just returned from the battlefield. And a number of them also visited Vietnam.

Big Battlefield

Those who visited the battlefield, which includes just about any American city, probably are more badly shaken than the Vietnam returnees.

Generally speaking, the capital maintenance force has used the brief adjournment period to good advantage in sprucing up the premises for the second coming of the 90th Congress.

As I passed through the rotunda, a couple of status-swabbers were giving Thomas Jefferson and Alexander Hamilton a sponge bath. I was pleased to note they had not neglected to scrub behind the ears.

I must register one complaint, however. During my inspection of the senate chamber, I sampled the contents of the two snuffboxes that flank the rostrum. Both tasted stale to me.

I immediately began upbraiding one of the attendants for this dereliction and he assured me the situation would be corrected.

Painting Removed

The biggest improvement I saw was the removal of a huge painting, "The Signing of the Constitution," which hung over one of the marble staircases.

The bottom part of the canvass had been slashed with a knife by someone who was either a vandal or an art critic. So the painting was taken down for repairs.

The wall where it hung was then done over in a rich shade of rec room brown. Interesting tonal qualities. Fascinating brushwork, too.

The rails which supported the picture frame provide a lineal abstract composition of the neo-Picasso school, suggesting a monochrome arrangement of three boxes of Wheaties.

In short, from purely aesthetic considerations, the wall looks better than the painting. Too bad they plan to rehab it.

Peacenik Queen Plans New March

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Jeanette Rankin, dowager queen of the peaceniks who voted against entry into World Wars I and II, has found a new cause for peace in the Vietnam conflict.

The 67-year-old Miss Rankin, the first woman to be elected to Congress, held a news conference Saturday to discuss plans for a women's march on Washington to open the second session of the 90th Congress on Tuesday.

She said the "Jeanette Rankin Brigade of Women" opposed to the war in Vietnam hopes to turn out 10,000 women wearing black to oppose the war in Southeast Asia. However, she conceded that the cold weather in Washington might cut the crowd considerably.

The women had hoped to march on the steps of the U.S. Capitol, but when told that is illegal, they settled for congregating at Union Station and marching the four blocks to an area near the Capitol.

Miss Rankin, who has maintained throughout her life that violence is no way to solve human disagreements, was one of 50 House members to vote against entry into World War I in 1917, and cast the only vote against entry into World War II after the bombing of Pearl Harbor some 24 years later. She was a congresswoman from Montana.

RECOVER BODIES

BELGRADE (UPI)—The bodies of two Greek seamen, drowned when the 1,100-ton ship Pelastis sank in a storm in the Adriatic were recovered. It brought the death toll to six with two missing. Officials said there were 12 men aboard, not 13, as originally reported. One seaman was taken ashore shortly before the storm.

LEAVES FOR VIETNAM

BANGKOK (UPI)—Thai Premier Thanom Kittikachorn leaves for Vietnam to review this country's 2,300-man "Queen's Cobra" fighting contingent. He will remain in the country for three days as a guest of the South Vietnamese government.

The situation was so serious in the north that Premier Prince Souvanna Phouma flew today to Luang Prabang to confer with King Savang Vatthana, although a guerrilla attack on the airstrip there damaged two planes.

The flareup of fighting in Laos added to the worries of world leaders concerned that the war in Vietnam would spread to Laos and Cambodia.

The events reported by the government communique quies indicated a major new Communist drive in northern Laos.

The communique announcing the three attacks was read to reporters by Finance Minister Sisoukha Champassak, a right hand man of Premier Souvanna. It spoke only of a "serious attack" on Am Bok where King Savang had ordered his men to hold off any Red advance on mountain ridge below Nam Base.

The average age of Americans at the end of 1967 was 27.7 years, according to the U.S. Dept. of Commerce.

19 Accidents On Rural Roads are Listed in County

The Texas Highway Patrol investigated 19 accidents on rural highways in Gray County during the month of December according to Sgt. J.W. Wilson, Highway Patrol Supervisor in the Pampa area.

These crashes resulted in three persons injured and an estimated property damage of $9,070.

The rural traffic accident summary for this county during the calendar year of 1967, shows a total of 202 crashes resulting in four persons killed, 106 persons injured and an estimated property damage of $130,725.

When the final fatal traffic accident reports are tabulated for 1967 it is estimated that the death count for Texas is expected to be 3,340 or about two per cent less than the all time high of 3,406 traffic deaths in 1966. If this proves true, then, it will be the first reduction in traffic deaths since 1960. This decrease should be a challenge for every driver to put forth his best defensive know-how and efforts to reduce accidents in 1968, Wilson stated.

Directors of church choirs who will work with the volunteer singers are Fred Watkins, First Methodist; Randall Purvis, First Baptist; Sam Patterson, Central Baptist and Miss Rosemary Lawlor, First Christian.

Those unable to attend auditions the stated hours, 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. and 1:30 to 4 p.m. Tuesday may contact Curt Beck or Tracy Cary for an appointment. Auditions were held the same hours today.

History or Myth — Which Is Which?

It has been proved time and time again that much of what we call myth is based on actual history. One famous example is that of Heinrich Schliemann, the amateur archeologist who discovered the site of the ancient city of Troy by using Homer's "Iliad" as a guide.

But how much of what we believe to be history is actually myth—things that never happened? For that matter, how much of history is what historian Daniel J. Boorstin calls "pseudo-events"—things that actually happened but were essentially phony? A stage-managed "confrontation" between demonstrators and the police, with the alerted press looking on, falls in the pseudo-event category.

The questions are provoked by three recent items in the news. One is the announcement by New York's Metropolitan Museum of Art that its famous bronze statue of a horse, once believed to be a superb example of Greek sculpture dating from about 400 B.C., is actually a forgery made in this century.

The second is a story from France about some documents which have come to light that indicate that Joan of Arc was never burned at the stake. Moreover, she was not a peasant girl but a noblewoman, who married one Robert des Armoises and lived happily ever after.

Doubts, Dreams Go Hand in Hand

The United States may be on the verge of another depression—a depression of the spirit. So contends the National Committee for an Effective Congress in a recently released, 3,000-word analysis of the national political situation. The committee is a nonpartisan organization which supports those candidates for the Congress who it thinks will raise the legislative rights of that body.

At all levels of American life, the committee finds, "people share similar fears, insecurities and gnawing doubts to such an intense degree that the country may in fact be suffering from a kind of national nervous breakdown."

America has suffered two great internal crises in her history, says the committee: the Civil War and the economic Depression of the 1930's. The country may now be on the brink of a third trauma, a depression of the national spirit.

If memory serves, 107 years ago the nation was actually breaking up. The exodus of the southern states from the Union had begun, with the blessing of not a few Northerners. It was becoming more and more apparent that war was inevitable—an actual, full-scale war, the killing of Americans by Americans.

Thirty-seven years ago the nation again seemed headed for the trash heap of history, not by pulling apart but by collapsing inwardly upon itself. The entire economy was moribund, 11 million men were unemployed, widespread poverty stalked the land.

ENOUGH GOLD?

Those who want gold to be put back of their paper monies in countries around the world are being told by "experts" that it can't be done: that there isn't enough gold to go around for the vast trading in the world. This is the "experts" answer to those who are searching for some way to get something other than paper (money) in return for their toils — paper that gets cheaper year by year:

"There isn't enough gold to go around." Is this true? The quantity of gold (already mined) in the world is about three-quarters of an ounce per person. About half of this is in monetary stocks of various governments and the other half is held by persons and businesses privately. Is this amount enough? How can we tell?

Let us begin by testing it with two different assumptions. First, if gold were free, how much would you take? You would take more than three-quarters of an ounce, I suspect. So would almost everyone else in the world.

Second, let us assume that gold can be obtained only at $1 million per ounce. Now how much would you take? None, I suspect. Neither would almost anyone else in the world.

Under our first assumption, there would be an acute shortage of gold in the world. Under the second assumption, on the other hand, there would be an acute surplus. Yet the physical quantity of gold available is the same under both assumptions.

World events tell us these days, loudly, that a price of $35 per ounce is too low and that at that price a world "shortage" of gold will persist. We know this because people the world over are scrambling to get it at that price. At that price the supply is inadequate for the demand. At some higher price there is just enough gold. At a still higher price there would be a surplus and sellers would be complaining that there was too much gold in the world.

The free market holds the only answer to our question. No politician or group of politicians can find the answer in any other way.

I see where that Surveyor made a Touchdown on the Moon. I didn't know it went there to play football.

The three-day trip took it through 244,000 miles of space and 244 million dollars of taxes. The Surveyor landed near the edge of a place called Tycho—it should be called Psycho—where it took some pictures of its spider legs. It could have taken them while it was standing on earth.

America's "Sampan Dwellers"

Pull Up A Chair

By FRANK JAY MARKEY

Isham Jones, one of the big-name band leaders in the era of the big dance bands, once probably spent the most profitable night of any song writer in history. Back in 1924 his wife gave him a piano for a birthday gift. He was fascinated with the new "toy" and doodled on it for hours. His doodling resulted in creating four songs, which became instant hits and remain popular today.

Today's simile: Two politicians were debating and one said: "I am the only honest candidate." The other asked: "What do you mean by honest?" The first replied: "See, I knew you would not know."

Perfume is a favorite gift to a wife or girl friend at Christmas or any other occasion. The girls love it, but statistics show they are fickle in their choice of a fragrance. A study reveals that less than 10 per cent of American women using perfume use the same kind all the time.

Thoughts while shaving: A junk dealer who specializes in cutting up old automobiles for scrap metal tells us the average age of the cars brought to his plant is seven years. The old saying "The coast is clear" dates back to early days when smugglers were active in landing illicit goods from ships. It referred to the fact the Coast Guard was not in the vicinity.

After about 12 foggy pictures it finally took a good one of a inch rock. "Excellent" shouted everyone in the Jet Propulsion Laboratory. "Look at that rock! Ain't it a beauty!"

HUNT FOR TRUTH

By H. L. HUNT
Congressman Ed Derwinski, who opposes the tariff concessions for Poland, stated: "The last time I was in Poland, they were exporting hams to the United States and they were also rationing meat in Poland." It is obvious that the Polish people are getting little economic benefit from this foreign trade.

The real beneficiaries of this trade are other communist countries, including North Vietnam. A recent booklet smuggled out of Poland shows that profits from foreign trade are used to build ships for the Soviet Union. Polish officials admit that their country is supplying arms to Hanoi.

If the U.S. Government really wants to help the Polish people and at the same time protect its own citizens who are fighting communism in Vietnam, it will avoid giving any form of aid to the Communist government of Poland.

Wit and Whimsy

When a very throaty tenor finished his song in a talent contest, there was only a smattering of applause, but one man in the audience kept repeating to himself in a voice scarcely audible to those nearby:

Mr. Cross — Extraordinary! Wonderful! Unbelievable! Mr. Cash (sitting in the seat next to him) — Pardon me, sir, I know a little something about music and take my word for it that fellow cannot sing. I don't see how you can sit there and say his voice was extraordinary and wonderful!

That you are running, but really don't mean it. Sure, running in New Hampshire will be tough. So what? If you mean what you say, that you are genuinely against the war and want to dump Johnson, then you've got to take these primaries as they come, the bad and the good. This is a test of principle and not a rhetorical exercise.

McCarty argued that the time, effort and money expended in New Hampshire would not be worth it. He cited the small number of delegates involved, the predominant hawkish sentiment in the state, that the Democratic organization there is almost unanimous against him, and his chances of winning remote.

These contentions were brusquely rejected. "It isn't a question of winning," McCarty was told. "It is a question of carrying the fight to Johnson and focusing national attention on the Vietnam issue. That is the primary purpose of your whole campaign. The psychological impact at home and abroad is the real goal, and it does not matter whether you win or lose in these primaries. You can lose them all and still win in the fight to end this immoral war and to get rid of Johnson."
