Red Troops Hit Saigon Fringes

By RICHARD V. OLIVER
SAIGON (UPI) — Communist troops ringing Saigon attacked U.S. and allied positions on the fringes of the capital Saturday and fighting raged into the night. But the attacks were small and it appeared the Communists who launched two earlier major offensives against Saigon had lost their punch.

The firepower of Communist anti-aircraft guns apparently increased and the U.S. Command announced the loss of five American aircraft over South Vietnam and an Australian observation plane.

SAMs Miss
North Vietnam also was disclosed to have brought surface-to-air missiles into the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) area and attacked high-flying E52s but missed.

The larger Communist attacks hit the northern suburbs and the southern and northwestern outskirts of Saigon. Scattered firefights were reported in swampland 25 miles from the center of the city but there were few details. Australian tanks were brought up for the first time for use in the defense of Saigon and one was lost to a mine.

The fighting broke out early Saturday when a company of Viet Cong about 100 men entered Gia Dinh, Saigon's northern suburb, and holed up in a string of houses. U.S. helicopter gunships bombed and strafed the buildings, setting many of them afire, barely three miles from the heart of Saigon.

A 24-hour curfew was imposed in suburban Gio Vap near Tan Son Nhut just to the west of the area but again civilians were caught up in the crossfire as South Vietnamese moved in to oust the Viet Cong while firemen worked to keep the fires from spreading.

Dirty Fighting
The fighting was house-to-house and dirty. But by nightfall the Communists still held the area around a swimming pool and a theater in Gia Dinh, site of a South Vietnamese officers club. B40 rockets fired by the Communists blasted a national police station. Casualties were unknown.

On the southern outskirts of Saigon, National Policemen and American troops of the U.S. 9th Infantry Division battled a Viet Cong squad of about 40 men. The Communists, using small arms and rifle grenades, had struck a small bridge guard about four miles southwest of the city. The defenders drove back the attack, killing at least 14 VC. One American was killed and five wounded.

Northwest of Saigon U.S. 25th Division units ran into a Communist force of unknown size nine miles from the city and killed 12 of them.

TEC Directive Indicates

Job Aid Is To Go To 'Disadvantaged'

Most of the advantages of job placement in the future will go to the disadvantaged, according to a statement Saturday by William Ragsdale, manager of the Texas Employment Office here.

Ragsdale said notice of the new policy was issued by the Texas Employment Commission in Austin.

The local TEC manager said instructions from the commission were to give priority to members of minority groups and other persons categorized "disadvantaged."

The directive received from Austin by Ragsdale stated: "National emphasis is to bring all possible resources to bear to provide service and assistance to the disadvantaged to aid them in becoming active participants in the economic and social structure of the nation. Employment Service efforts must be directed to a greater degree to achieve this purpose."

Ragsdale said he interpreted the directive to mean that his office in Pampa will now direct efforts, insofar as it can, to helping the disadvantaged.

"We'll try to place qualified applicants," Ragsdale said, "but greater effort will be made to place the disadvantaged, with the poor having a priority for placement."

Ragsdale said he expects his office, which covers an area of five Panhandle counties, will need additional help to handle the disadvantaged applicants.

Ragsdale said that redire Jon instructions were issued about two months ago and that the full effect of the new policy would be felt in the TEC's 1969 fiscal year, which begins July 1. He said he expects that efforts on behalf of the disadvantaged will be doubled in the next fiscal year, over previous years.

The TEC defines a disadvantaged individual as "a poor person who does not have suitable employment and who is a school dropout, a member of a minority, under 22 years of age, 45 years of age or older, or handicapped."

To meet the test of being poor, an applicant must be a member of a family which receives cash welfare payments or which has a net annual income below the poverty level. Income criteria vary according to the size of the family and (See JOBS, Page 2)

Scout Troop Leaving For HemisFair

Six months of planning is about to pay off for the members of Cadette Girl Scout Troop 26. Today they will load a bus and leave for San Antonio and the HemisFair. They decided in December that this was a trip they would like to take and have been working toward it since. In addition to seeing the HemisFair and San Antonio, they have since added a tour of Austin and an overnight stop at Six Flags on the way home.

When they made the decision about the trip, they also decided that they would earn the money for the trip themselves. They have held a garage sale, bake sales, sold Girl Scout cookies, done baby sitting and many other things in order to raise the money.

This trip will climax a very busy year for this troop. Early in the fall, they began their activities by going to a "Do-It-Yourself Camporee" in Quanah that was sponsored by NorCen Tex Girl Scout Council. They gave a Tea for Quivira Council's Executive Director at Lovette Memorial Library, through the winter they helped several Brownie and Junior Troops with songs and games, they took a Child Care course, given by the Red Cross, they participated in the Cadette Fair, helped as program-aides at the Junior Camporee at (See SCOUTS, Page 3)

Danger Of Civil War Is Cited By Premier

By ALLAN A. PRIAULX
PARIS (UPI) — Premier Georges Pompidou, cracking down after a wild night of anti-Gaullist rioting, ordered police Saturday to break up any further demonstrations "without delay" and charged agitators were trying to start a civil war in strikebound France.

The government action, amounting to suspension of the right of public assembly, was announced after crowds of students, workers, farmers and anti-government agitators rampaged through 14 French cities in rioting that killed two persons and injured more than 1,000.

Police reported that in Paris itself, where street battles raged until dawn, at least 47 civilians were wounded, 176 of them seriously enough to be hospitalized. Another 400 persons were believed injured and treated at improvised aid stations. A total of 785 persons, including 80 women were arrested in the capital.

Union Meeting
Shortly after he issued his emergency order, Pompidou began negotiations with union leaders in an effort to end the paralyzing strike wave that has idled an estimated 10 million Frenchmen and thrown the country into chaos.

Pompidou said there was an "evident attempt to start civil war," especially in the big southeastern city of Lyon, in the nationwide riots and demonstrations that raged for nine hours after De Gaulle, in a television address, threatened to quit unless he received a "massive" mandate in a referendum he called for June.

The premier ordered police to break up crowds "with the greatest energy" as soon as they began gathering. He said such action must be taken "without any weakness and without delay."

Pompidou, who conferred with De Gaulle later at the Elysee Palace, acted under constitutional provisions placing the police administration at his disposal. He is empowered under Article 34 of the constitution to issue orders to "protect fundamental liberties."

The prime minister said the Latin Quarter of Paris "presented a picture of devastation this morning: trees chopped down, windows smashed and cars gutted." Huge expanses of paving stone had been ripped up from the Boulevard Saint Germain, lined by some of the world's most famous cafes.

Inspector Dies
One person was killed in Paris and another in Lyon. Pompidou said the Paris fatality "was not a victim of security forces" but was knifed to death by someone in the crowd of demonstrators. A police inspector was crushed to death in Lyon by a driverless truck sent smashing into the ranks of police by rioting students.

After the procession of seniors files into the PHS fieldhouse at 8 p.m. Monday, Guy Caskey, minister of Harvester and Mary Ellen Church of Christ, will give the graduation invocation.

Jennifer Benton, a 1968 senior, accompanied by Ricky Land, will sing "Let All My Life Be Music," for the graduation special.

Seniors, their parents and guests and school officials will hear the Senior Class President Beau Bond, Salutatorian Stephen Craig Walls and Valedictorian Nell Duncan, give commencement talks.

After the talks, school officials—Cameron Marshall, PHS principal; Weldon Trice, assistant principal; and McHenry Lane, curriculum coordinator, will present diplomas and confer honors.

Honor students are Karen Sue Abernathy, Stanley James Cable, Nell Ann Duncan, Dennis Elliott, Rosalee Franke, Sylvia Graham, Patrick Thomas Homer, Jo Ann Jordan, Jerry Don Lambright, Janet Louise Morgan, Sharon Kay Powell, Renee Secrest, Betha Lee Stubbe, Marion Kay Truby, Stephen Craig Walls, Stephen Randolph Walls, Joseph Wendell Watson Jr., and Sherry Lynn Williams.

After the last diploma is presented, seniors will march out as a class to the music of Richard Wagner's "Tannhauser March," played by the PHS Harvester Band. The band will also play the processional music, "Pomp and Circumstance."

After graduation, parents of seniors have planned a party, movie, and other special events in their honor.

Texas' Attorney General Seeks Tougher Laws To Handle Riots

AUSTIN (UPI)—Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin Saturday called for a state curfew law, public property trespass statute and legislation to prohibit disturbance of public meetings as part of a legislative program to deal with riots.

Martin said the measures are "badly needed" to prevent and deal with race riots and civil disorders such as the student rebellion at Columbia University.

"Texas is the only populous state in the nation whose people have not been subjected to the violence and destruction of riots and major outbreaks," Martin said, telling how he thinks state officials can help keep it that way.

Martin met with Lt. Gov. Preston Smith and House Speaker Ben Barnes Saturday at Seton Hospital where Barnes is undergoing treatment for a back ailment.

Own Suggestion
Smith revealed a suggestion of his own at a news conference held for newsmen at the capitol after the hospital meeting.

The lieutenant governor called for legislation to make it a felony offense to interfere with a policeman, fireman, ambulance driver, nurse, doctor "or other persons performing a public function during a riot or other civil disorder."

"One of the big reasons why injuries, death and property damage have run so high in riot-struck cities is because police, firemen and other public servants have been severely hampered in carrying out their duties by rioters and sympathizers," Smith said.

Martin also called for an "officer exchange law" to permit cities to lend policemen to neighboring cities in the event of disturbances.

Not Compulsory
"There's nothing compulsory about it—it's up to the cities,"

Martin explained, but he said many cities don't want their policemen to assist officers in other areas control riots because insurance doesn't cover damage to equipment and injuries the men get outside their jurisdiction. Martin's proposal would change that.

Martin and Smith reported Barnes "very enthusiastic" and "in full accord" with the proposals.

Martin said he has spoken to Gov. John Connally about including the officer exchange proposal on the agenda.

Meeting Tomorrow Will Concern Educational Needs In Local Area

A special meeting on vocational and technical training and other progressive programs for Pampa has been called for 10 a.m. tomorrow in the West Starlight Room of the Coronado Inn by the Chamber of Commerce.

board and Superintendent of Schools James F. Malone; city commissioners and Mayor Jim Nation; County Judge S. R. Lenning Jr. and county commissioner; directors of the Pampa Industrial Foundation; members of the Chamber's Industrial Commission and Education committees; and directors of the Chamber of Commerce.

The meeting is a followup from the recent hearing held in Pampa by members of the Texas Legislature in which a local program was recommended.

Students Receive $476-Million In Social Security

Social security benefits being paid to young people 18 to 22 who are still-in school amount to more than the scholarships at all colleges and universities in the United States, Howard L. Weatherly, Officer-in-charge of the Pampa Branch Office said Saturday.

"In the 1968-69 school year, the social security program will pay about $479 million to approximately 466,000 students entitled to payments on the earnings record of a disabled, retired, or deceased parent," Weatherly said. This will be an average of more than $1,000 to each eligible student.

The school year that begins next fall will mark the fourth year of payments under a 1965 change in the law providing for the continued payment of social security child's benefits past the age of 18. Until that change.

Weatherly said, a young beneficiary's payments stop when he becomes 18 unless he is totally disabled.

"There is nothing in the law prevents the student from receiving his social security benefits while he is still receiving assistance from a scholarship fund," Weatherly stated. "Benefits may be paid during vacation periods. If a student works during the summer months or part time during the school year, and earns $1,680 or less for the year, he can still collect all of his social security benefits, depending upon the amount of his total earnings and how steadily he works."

Weatherly said a 1967 change in the dependency requirements for children of women workers make about 175,000 young persons eligible for payments. A large number of them are in the 18-22 age group and are attending school. They must apply for benefits before payments can start.

Young people in the 18-22 age group whose mothers died after working under social security, or whose mothers are retired or disabled, should get in touch with the nearest social security office if they are not already receiving social security student's benefits, Weatherly advised.

whether the family lives on a farm or not.

A single person living in a non-farm location with an income below $1,600 per year would be in the poverty category. For families, the figure range from $2,000 for two to $7,800 for 13 or more. For farm families, poverty-level incomes are several hundred dollars lower in each case.

To be lacking suitable employment, an applicant may be 'unemployed, underemployed or hindered from seeking work.' A person is disadvantaged only if he is within the definition of poor, lacks suitable employment and meets at least one other of the enumerated conditions.

"Clearly," the TEC notes, "any one individual might meet several of the tests at once, e.g., a poor, unemployed, Negro handicapped teenage dropout."

There are four goals, according to Ragsdale which the TEC has for assisting disadvantaged applicants. These goals include:

- Enhancing an applicant's employability.
- Placing the applicant in a meaningful job.
- Providing useful and timely job market information to the applicant.
- Providing administrative and technical support to an applicant in his search for employment.

Ragsdale said the increased emphasis on aiding the disadvantaged originated in Washington and was passed to the states and to local offices.

To illustrate the effect of the redirection nationally, Ragsdale said it has been estimated that governmental employment agencies will place 5,320,000 persons in jobs during the next year.

"Of those, 1,570,000 will be youths, 1,180,000 will be older people, 300,000 will be handicapped and 2,275,000 will be members of minorities. That leaves only 19,000 placements leaves only 19,000 placements for those not considered disadvantaged."

Locally, Ragsdale said he did not believe that, at present, the TEC would be completely unable to place persons who are not in the disadvantaged category.

Employers as well as applicants must be educated, Ragsdale said, if TEC is to be successful in placing the disadvantaged persons.

As an example, he said that if an employer says he has a vacancy for one skilled employee TEC will try to persuade him to use two or three semi-skilled people to do different parts of the job.

Ragsdale said the Pampa area is fortunate in having almost no racial discrimination in employment to contend with.

According to Desk and Derrick secretary Jean Phillips, his speech will deal with the functions and responsibilities of the ad valorem tax man and the application of his work by the company.

Desk and Derrick is a national organization of women employed in petroleum or petroleum-related industries and has chapters throughout the U.S.

De Gaulle Is Titan At Bay

By JOSEPH W. GRIGG PARIS (UPI)—The titans of Europe are gone now, all but one, and he is at bay. The very glory he sought may be his undoing.

At whatever cost, Charles Andre Joseph Marie de Gaulle sought glory for France. He never complained when likened to Joan of Arc.

"All my life I have thought of France in a certain way," he wrote in his autobiography with the typically De Gaulle title, "Call to Honor."

Exceptional Destiny

"This is inspired by sentiment as much as reason. The emotional side of me tends to imagine France, like the princess in the fairy tales or the Madonna in the frescoes, as dedicated to an exalted and exceptional destiny."

He went on, "but the positive side of my mind also assures me that France was not really herself unless she is in the front rank. In short, to my mind, France cannot be France without greatness."

This was written, in the eclipse of his powers, in the mid-1950s while he sat in his country home at the village of Colombey les Deux Eglises and pondered France, fate and destiny.

Almost 10 years to the day of his return to power, when he took over as premier June 1, 1958, to save France and restore her greatness, De Gaulle is hounded by his words and deeds.

Saturday's Poppy Sale on the streets of Pampa netted $333.91 for the American Legion Auxiliary's annual project.

Mrs. J. M. Turner, president of the organization, Saturday expressed her appreciation to the "people of the community for their generosity" and to the workers who took part in the campaign, including Red Cross youth, young representatives of the local Methodist Churches, and others.

Great Society Is Applauded By Baggary

H. M. Baggary, editor of the national award-winning weekly The Tulia Herald, told Gray County Democrats Friday that Great Society programs both at home and abroad were designed to make poor people and poor nations active participants in the solution to their problems rather than welfare recipients.

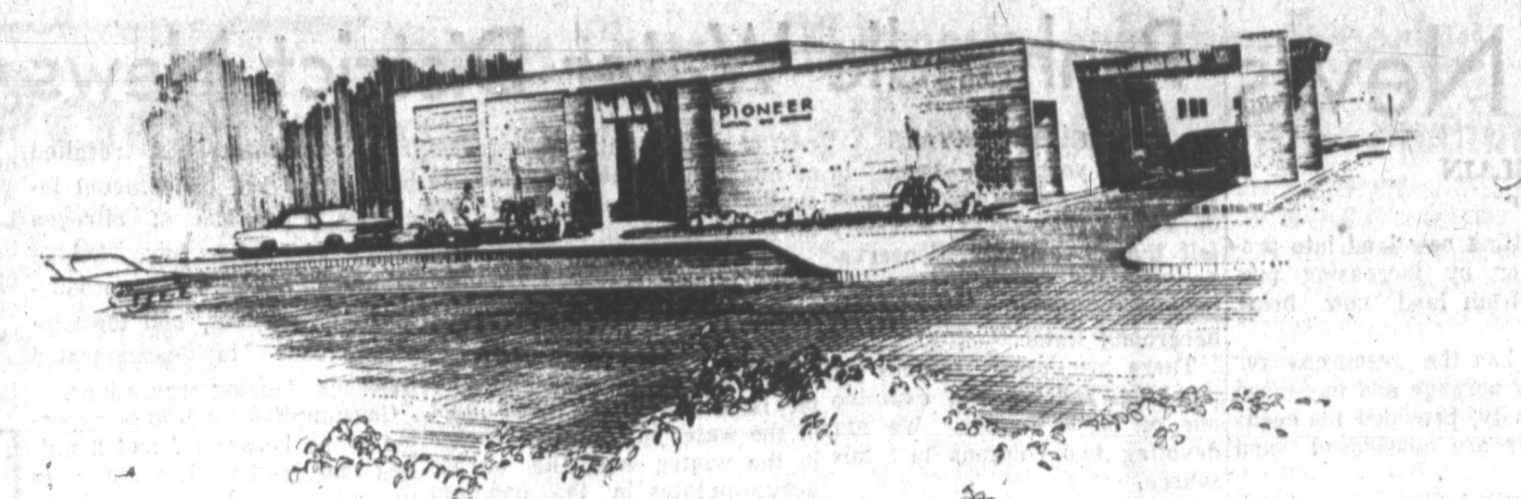

Baggary denounced those who called advocates of social programs "Do-Gooders," saying they were "short-sighted" and "unfamiliar with economic principles."

"The Great Society believes that it is better to have a taxpayer than a welfare recipient. It is much better if possible to take welfare people and do something with them, to educate them and give them skills, so that they won't be a burden to the community and will become taxpayers."

Baggary said morality demanded "that we help others," but added that it was good business both internationally and domestically because such programs became self-amortizing.

"He said the U.S. cannot depend upon isolation and military might and ignore the rest of the world."

PIONEER'S NEW HOME — This is an architect's drawing of Pioneer Natural Gas Company's new Pampa office to be located at the corner of Ballard and Francis.

Construction is scheduled to start immediately, and it is estimated the building will take six months to complete.

Pioneer To Start Work On New Pampa Office Building

Pioneer Natural Gas plans to start construction Tuesday on a new office building in Pampa, according to an announcement Saturday by Norman C. Henry, Pioneer manager.

Containing approximately 7,000 square feet, the new building will be located at the corner of Ballard and Francis, about a block from the present Pioneer office.

According to Henry, the building will have a reinforced concrete foundation and will be of masonry construction with light buff face brick. The exterior of the building will be ornamented by patterned brickwork utilizing the same type of brick being used on the face of the building. Floors will be concrete slab, covered with colorful asbestos tile flooring. The walls will be finished with vinyl covering and decorative paint.

An interesting part of the building construction will be that the building and roof will be supported by steel columns, with the roof support being completely independent of the exterior walls. The building will be comfort controlled with year-round gas air conditioning.

One of the outstanding features of the new building will be a large Flame Room, equipped with the very latest in appliances and kitchen cabinetry. In addition to the modern kitchen center, laundry equipment and gas incineration will be installed.

The Flame Room will be used for group demonstrations and recipe planning sessions for interested organizations. This room will also be made available as a meeting room for Pampa groups.

Another outstanding feature of the building will be a covered drive-up pay window, planned with easy access for customer convenience. There will also be a large paved parking area, with ample parking reserved for customer and visitors to the building.

Howard M. Ensign is the architect on the project, and M. W. Hamilton and Co. will be the general contractor.

In making the announcement, Henry said, "Pioneer is proud to build this new facility in Pampa so that we can serve our customers in a better atmosphere and with the improved efficiency that a well-designed building provides." He estimated construction would take about six months.

Some people plant flowers in the spring

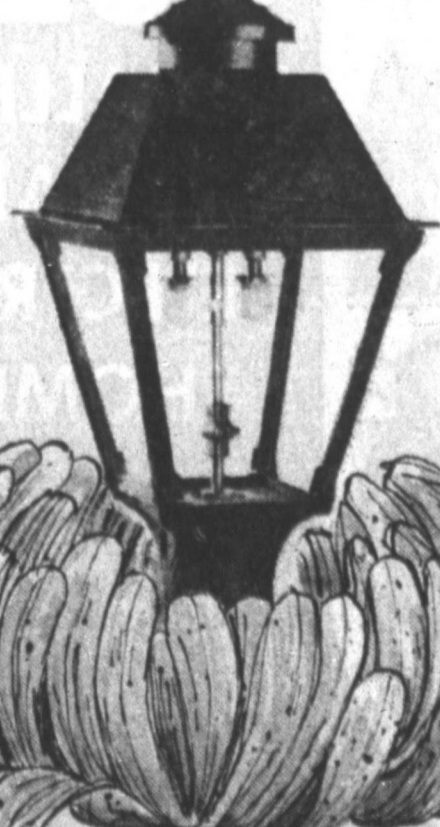

But then what does a flower have that a gas light doesn't? Flowers brighten up your yard. So does a gas light. After you install a gas light, it might be the first time you've seen your flowers at night.

Flowers come in different sizes and shapes. So do gas lights... designed to lend distinction to any landscape. Take your pick. If they're taken care of just right, flowers will bloom the whole season. A gas light blooms year 'round, and requires absolutely no care.

Flowers have a wonderful fragrance. You've got us there. A gas light doesn't have an odor at all. But we know you'll overlook that, since a gas light has so many other nice features.

New lower prices on the '68 models are in effect through July 31st. Prices start at $52.70 cash (includes installation and tax) or only $22.00 per month. Pretty inexpensive when you consider how many springs it will last.

Plant a gas light this spring. Buy a PATIO PAIR (One gas light and one gas barbecue grill) and save $38.00. Prices start at $103.70 (includes installation and tax) or $4.00 per month.

Pampa Man Is Treated After Beating

A 26-year-old Pampa man was taken to Highland General Hospital early Saturday morning after he was found beaten and semi-conscious in the 1500 block of N. Hobart by Pampa police.

He was treated for bruises and contusions and later released.

The man, Phillip Michael Arthur of 1121 Sierra Drive, said he was beaten by several men in a fight that erupted at a local lounge, shortly after it closed Friday night.

According to a police report, the man later recalled that he had been dumped from a car somewhere on N. Hobart.

Police said witnesses who were at the bar described the fight as stemming from belligerent and taunting behavior on the part of one of the principals.

No charges have yet been filed.

Agriculturally Speaking

By FOSTER WHALEY
County Agriculture Agent

A few weeks ago I mentioned in this column a few ways that would help smaller farmers to stay in competition with corporate-type farming. One of the things I mentioned was the fact that each farmer should keep a cost accounting on each of his enterprises.

Since then I have had numerous farmers visit with me about this particular article. I was really flabbergasted when one of them called and asked me to look over an IBM computer set of record keeping that he is in the process of establishing here in Pampa.

I was amazed at the detail he had used in setting up this system. He's in the process of painting a number on each piece of his equipment. Each field had been given a number and each enterprise had been given a number.

This sounds a little complicated but actually it will work in a very simple manner when he has completed the minor details of getting the system organized.

Just what will this system reveal to this particular farmer?

It will tell him exactly what it cost him to produce a bushel of wheat. It will tell him what it cost to take a 350 pound steer and make a 600 pound steer. It will tell him down to the very last cent what it will cost to finish that steer when he has gone through one of the local feedlots. It'll itemize these costs per pound of gain. It will tell him the exact cost and net return to produce one hundred pounds of irrigated milk. Another thing it will reveal that is probably more important...

It'll reveal to him where he is losing money. I will speculate that he will find his irrigated wheat is in this category. If this isn't revealed to him, he will find he is selling the precious underground water at a mighty low price.

At the expense of making this fellow's face flush, I will also make one more speculation. He will soon eliminate the cow-calf part of his operation and go to a straight stocker-calf operation. In short, it will make a hard-nosed business man out of anyone that will adopt a similar system.

After working with this system for several nights in an attempt to help devise a simplified system that other farmers will adopt, I am convinced a small farmer that would submit to this type of management system could compete with any corporation engaged in farming. This is especially true of the family-type farmer since he has a minimum of labor problems.

Another big advantage of adopting such a system would be in the field of credit. Financial statements and repayment abilities could be prepared by punching a few buttons. Individual cards representing individual transactions, pieces of equipment, land and capital could reel off all kinds of data in a matter of seconds. Think how very impressive it would be to a loan representative for a farmer or rancher to walk in and drop one of these down on his desk. I would say the banker would need to take a heart pill to prepare himself for this.

I would highly recommend this system to any farmer or rancher in this area. Think it over and if I can be of any help to you in establishing such a system, give me a call.

Water, Inc. News

By CLIFF CHAMBERLAIN
Executive Director

Two study documents recently available give added validity to water import plans in our area. The first of these is the Progress Report on West Texas and Eastern New Mexico Import Project Investigations, by the Bureau of Reclamation.

This study for the first time indicates that there is a surplus of water in the Mississippi River. The amount of water which is surplus and the seasons of the year when this water can be exported is still under study by the Mississippi River Commission and the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

The second paper is a study of Agricultural Resources Related to Water Development in Texas. This study was produced by the Texas A&M University, the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station and the Texas Agricultural Extension Service of Texas A&M University. This study is of great value to water resource planners for Texas as it is an evaluation of the effects of water availability on the future state economy. Further research relative to the impact of water availability to agriculture is underway at Texas A&M University and the results of this research will be published when available.

A potential for development such as in California and Arizona today exists in Texas. We have the resources for both a growing agriculture and industrial municipal development. The A&M University report analyzes both the agricultural potential and the resources so that they can be used in developing the state water plan.

Increase in food production is necessary to meet demands of a growing population, improve our standard of living and eliminate mass malnutrition. This increase can come from putting new land into production or by increasing production from land now being farmed.

Texas has the resources for both new acreage and increased productivity, provided the needs for water are considered and met.

The United States has developed faster than most nations who also have abundant natural resources. The primary reason for the faster U.S. development has been the realization by our early leaders of the importance of food and fiber production to the nation's strength. Among other things, these leaders over the years have provided research and educational institutions in the form of land grant colleges to help to assure a strong agricultural base to our economy. A result of establishing these institutions has been development of a technology and understanding that has enabled agriculture to move forward.

Looking into the future to determine the requirements for increased world food production can be done with considerable confidence because of the direct relationship between agricultural products and life itself. A study recently completed by Texas A&M University discusses present agricultural production and projects these agricultural figures into the future.

Agricultural production is closely related to water availability for irrigation. The projections into the future were based on assumptions of water availability as water availability determines Texas' production capability.

If all water was available that was needed without consideration of cost, the maximum potential of the state to produce agricultural products would be realized. At the opposite end of the scale is an assumption that no state development of water resources is undertaken and no additional water becomes available for agriculture. This will cause a decreasing contribution of Texas to agricultural production due to decreasing ground water supplies.

The real picture is somewhere between the extreme of all the water needed versus no development of water resources. The amount of development depends upon the amount of effort we all put into securing additional sources of water and in realistic planning for import and use of that water.

USDA Considers Food Supplement Program Revamp

WASHINGTON, D.C. (UPI)—Administration farm officials, under heavy pressure to step up aid at home, are considering addition of a high-protein food supplement to surplus commodities now being donated to 3.5 million of the nation's poor.

The food donation program currently operates in some 1,200 counties and cities. Needy families certified by local officials are given allotments of 16 foods including dried beans, butter, cheese, nonfat dry milk, chopped meat, corn meal, flour and rice.

The donations are not intended to be a complete diet, officials say, and do not include perishable foods. The distribution points, operated in almost all cases, by local authorities, have no facilities for handling perishables. Agriculture officials say they hope the direct donation program eventually can be replaced completely by their food stamp program under which needy people can use government aid to buy a complete and varied diet at commercial groceries.

Panhandle Water District News

By FELIX W. RYALS

Several years ago, those in the oil and gas production side of our West Texas economy felt that the Water Conservation people were looking at only one pollution source of underground water.

There are other sources of pollution and we will examine one of these sources. We are devoting two columns to this source.

Recently, B. A. Stewart, F. G. Viets, Jr. and G. L. Hutchinson—all expert soil scientists—released the following report of their studies titled "Effect of Agricultural Practices of Nitrate Pollution of Ground Water".

In the introduction they stated: "The American people are concerned about pollution of their environment. Recent campaigns against pollution and the pollution control laws passed by local, state and federal agencies are testimony of the public's genuine concern."

Nitrate Hazards

One form of pollution is the enrichment of surface and ground water supplies with nitrate. Drinking water standards of the U.S. Public Health Service state that the nitrate content of water should not exceed 45 PPM (10 PPM when expressed as Nitrate-Nitrogen).

Domestic water containing an excessive concentration of nitrate is potentially dangerous when used for infant feeding, because medical scientists have shown that nitrate can be reduced to nitrite in an infant's stomach.

Nitrate converts the hemoglobin in red blood cells to methemoglobin which cannot transport oxygen from the lungs to the body tissue, resulting in methemoglobinemia ("Blue Babies"). Adults are generally not affected, and in many cases, infants can apparently tolerate excessive levels of nitrate. Several domestic sources of water with high levels of nitrate are being used in southern California with no harmful effects.

Ruminants, particularly cattle, are also susceptible to nitrate toxicity. Sheep and swine are less susceptible. Nitrate pollution of livestock water is most serious when part of the water in the tank freezes in the winter and the nitrate accumulates in the unfrozen water.

Nitrogen in the water of streams, rivers and lakes contributes to the tremendous growth of algae, mosses and aquatic weeds that are becoming prevalent in many areas. These nuisance growths foul up fishing lines and boat propellers and make the water smell badly and unfit for many recreational uses.

Sources of Pollution

Sources of pollution include industrial wastes, municipal sewage effluents, and certain agricultural activities. In assessing the effect of these sources, however, we must recall that some water supplies contain high concentrations of nitrate as a result of natural pollution, and these sources must also be evaluated.

Agriculture has been blamed by many people as a prime contributor of nitrate to ground and surface water supplies.

TIMING CHANGE

Heavy rains have reversed the trend of growing mesquite and may necessitate a change in the timing of aerial spraying for its control, reports G. O. Hoffman, Extension range, weed and brush control specialist. Usually spraying should begin about 40-90 days after green growth at the buds is noticed. But now, says the specialist, mesquite in Texas is behind schedule, and controls will vary from the set times and standards. Local county agents can supply the new suggested spraying schedules.

GREENHOUSE GROWERS

On June 24 and 25, the Texas Greenhouse Vegetable Growers Council will hold its annual meeting and short course at Texas A&M University. John E. Larsen, Extension horticulturist, said the sessions provide an opportunity for growers to exchange ideas and pick up the latest research information on greenhouse vegetable production.

Research by life insurance actuaries—who should know what they're talking about in this field—have come up with some sobering statistics as a result of a twenty year study on body build and blood pressure.

The study has made obsolete the figures on average weights now in use throughout the country. Women weight less today than they did thirty years ago, but men are generally heavier. There is a definite correlation between overweight and high mortality rates.

Women can stand overweight better than men, but men 20 pounds heavier than the average have a ten per cent higher rate; and those heavier by 50 pounds have a 50 to 70 per cent higher death rate.

Texas Farmers Still Plagued By Bad Weather

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI)—The Texas Agricultural Extension Service said Friday rain, spotty hail, high wind and flooding continued to keep farmers out of their fields.

Heavy rains, hail and low temperatures along with seedling diseases, have caused much and flooding and hail in far West Texas have kept cotton planters running the Service said.

Peanut planting in all sections of the state are being delayed by the rains and wet fields.

On the other hand, the extension service said pastures and ranges continue to improve with grazing in many districts described as excellent and the best in many years.

A prolonged period of hot, dry weather is needed the service added.

Ohioans Charge Texas Oil Deal Was Fraudulent

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Two suburban Shaker Heights insurance agents have filed suit against a Texas firm they claim induced them to invest in oil leases that returned "a sum total of nothing."

Brothers Roger and Donald Bercu seek $1 million in punitive damages from Ormand Industries, Inc., of Dallas. According to the suit, filed in federal court here, the company owned the leases and was to develop them. The suit contended the company and its agent, Jarrell D. Ormand, defrauded the brothers by making untrue promises of a sound investment that would bring a return of 25 per cent.

The brothers also ask the return of $25,000 they paid for shares in the company. Ronald Stillman of Great Neck, N.Y., and Alan Melnick of New York City, joined them in the suit. Each contended he invested $25,000 because of similar promises.

Oil Imports Legislation Expected To Highlight Texas PROA Meeting

SAN ANTONIO (UPI) — Members of the Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners Association (TIPO) will discuss legislation regulating oil imports at the group's annual convention opening.

TIPO officials said the group will likely reaffirm independent producers' objective urging congress to establish legislative guidelines to hold oil imports to 12.2 per cent of domestic production. A hearing on the proposal is scheduled by the U.S. House Ways and Means Committee June 4.

A recent Supreme Court decision establishing a pricing system for Permian Basin producers will also be discussed at the convention, TIPO spokesmen said.

Speakers at the gathering include Gov. John Connally, Edward Clark, former ambassador to Australia; Howard Boyer, chairman of El Paso Natural Gas; and S. David Freeman, director of the White House's Energy Policy staff.

The convention continues through Tuesday morning at El Tropicano hotel.

Oilmen Bemoan Delay On Offshore Leases

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — The Interior Department pored over tentative high bids on Texas offshore land leases totaling more than $602 million during the weekend while oil company representatives moaned that the delay was costing them some $100,000 a day in interest.

Johr Rankin, local manager of the Bureau of Land Management, said the final okay of the high bids is being delayed by a controversy over whether Sun Oil Co. was entitled to 50 tracts of Gulf of Mexico oil land on which the company was the lone bidder.

Sun bid about $50 an acre on the plots. Bureau regulations called for a minimum of only $25 an acre, but officials were unsure whether to grant the leases. The leases entitle the

Borger In Expensive Improvement Project

By MAX JENNINGS
BORGER, Tex. (UPI) — Downtown Borger looks like the bombed-out ruins of a European city during World War II.

Merchants are trying to peddle their goods through the back doors of their shops. Dust fills the air. The street through the heart of the Panhandle city is barricaded.

And, surprisingly, it's all in the name of progress. The local newspaper carries such ads as "Pardon our dust and feathers." "We've got something to crow about in Borger."

The merchants are promoting such things as backdoor sales and are trying to smile through it all.

It all adds up to a giant overhaul which will cost $163,000, half of it coming from the merchants, a part from the city and part from the chamber of commerce.

Big Transformation
Eyebrowns are raising all over the Panhandle as the project begins to take shape. It will transform a drab section of three blocks on a main street and another block on a side street into an ultra modern shopping area, complete with serpentine streets, off-street parking, shrubs, trees and shopper plazas.

"We have been having some trouble in declining population, sales going down, property devaluation. In general, something just needed to be done," says banker David Thompson, one of the 30 planners who started the job two years ago.

Seventy per cent of the merchants agreed to a special assessment for the job, Thompson said.

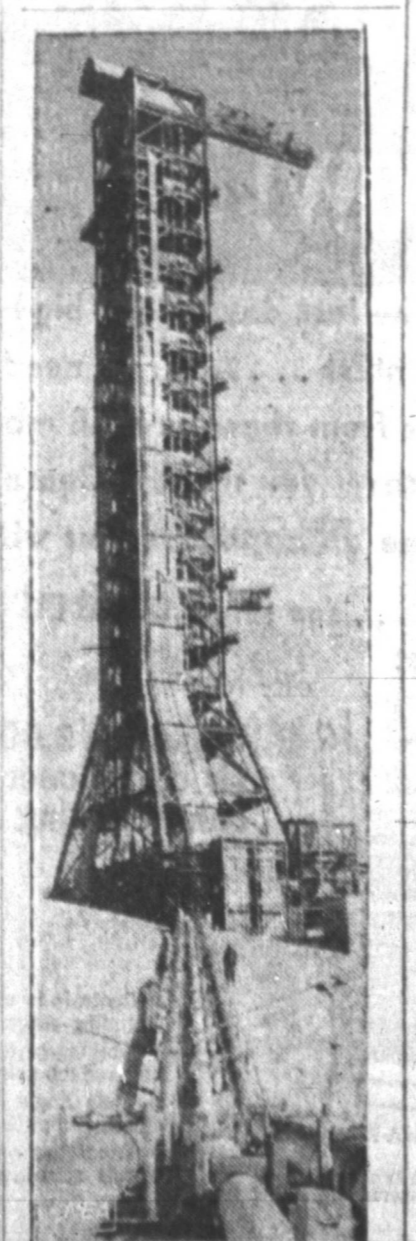

New Prosperity
Thompson is optimistic that the giant machinery ripping up sidewalks and pavement in the heart of his town is going to signal new prosperity.

The judgment will be on whether the businessmen continue on their own after the initial project is completed," Thompson said. "Whether they go ahead and do everything, improve store fronts, train better clerks, expand trade territory."

Stewart Buckley, who helps his father run a shoe store in the heart of the "disaster area" says there has been some resentment.

"People don't understand it," he says. "They think it is tax money. We haven't got through to them."

'Resurrection City, USA' - Is Unlike Any Other Town in America

(EDITOR'S NOTE: "Resurrection City, USA" — The hut village which poor people have erected near the Lincoln Memorial in Washington—is unlike any other town in America. A UPI reporter describes his sojourn there.)

By MICHAEL ANDERS
WASHINGTON (UPI)—I had wondered if the people got cold, sleeping in those drafty plywood huts with nighttime temperatures dropping to 40 degrees.

My question was answered soon after I got inside the wooden snow-fence, patrolled by the camp's own marshals, which keeps camera-snapping tourists from wandering through Resurrection City.

I saw an elderly woman kneeling by the side of a hut. She had a bucket of mud. She was daubing the mud into the cracks of her plywood hut to seal them.

"I almost froze last night," she explained.

Sleep On Floor

The A-frame huts provide head-room for an adult only in the very center. Move a bit toward either side, and you have to bend or squat to keep from banging your head. Some of the people have cots, but most sleep on air mattresses, spread on the creaky plywood floor.

Meals are served in a blue circus tent which somebody loaned to the poverty marchers.

For breakfast, you help yourself to a box of corn flakes or some other cold cereal, and milk if you can get some before it's all gone. There also are raisin-filled cinnamon rolls, or doughnuts, and coffee.

Lunch is also a cold meal—like peanut butter sandwiches and oranges, or bologna sandwiches and apples.

Supper is the only hot meal. It's cooked several miles away in the kitchen of Howard University, and brought to the hut city in trucks.

You pass down an Army-type chow line and get your supper, and then hunt a quiet place to eat it—maybe in your own hut, or under a tree near the Reflecting Pool.

Noise Blares

There are not many quiet places in Resurrection City, though. All day and well into the night, noise blares from loudspeakers attached to telephone poles in all parts of the 15-acre site.

The loudspeakers take the place of telephones in providing internal communications for the city.

If marshals are needed at a certain point, the summons is roared over the loudspeakers. If a particular individual is wanted, he is paged over the loudspeakers. Meals and meetings are announced.

The noise, the floodlights which illuminate the camp at night, and the circus tent combine to create the atmosphere of a traveling carnival.

But it's no carnival for the folks who live there. Aside from the rather rugged living conditions—nothing new to most of them—there is the feeling of being cooped up in a strange place with nothing to do.

The children, particularly, find the time heavy on their hands. I saw one group of boys listlessly tossing a softball around. Three smaller children had found some darts, and were using an old shoe for a target.

The teen-agers and young adults grab at every opportunity to go for a ride in a car. There are scores of cars—many of them fairly new and expensive models—parked on the grass around Resurrection City.

The marshals are big and tough. They seem to have a particular distaste for nosy reporters and cameramen. A few representatives of the news media have been roughed up, and others have been threatened, for trying to go where marshals thought they shouldn't be.

Writer Given Access To Space Agency Top Secrets

By EDWARD K. DELONG
UPI Space Writer

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI)—The Space Agency has allowed a writer for a commercial publishing firm, unprecedented access to documents classified as confidential and secret to help him with a history of the Apollo moonflight program.

Robert Sherrod, the writer, is producing his book for the MacMillan Co. of New York. It is scheduled for publication in two years, after American astronauts land on the moon.

Chief Space Agency Spokesman Julian Scheer told UPI Wednesday he knows of no other person writing about the multi-billion dollar moonflight effort with such access to secret material.

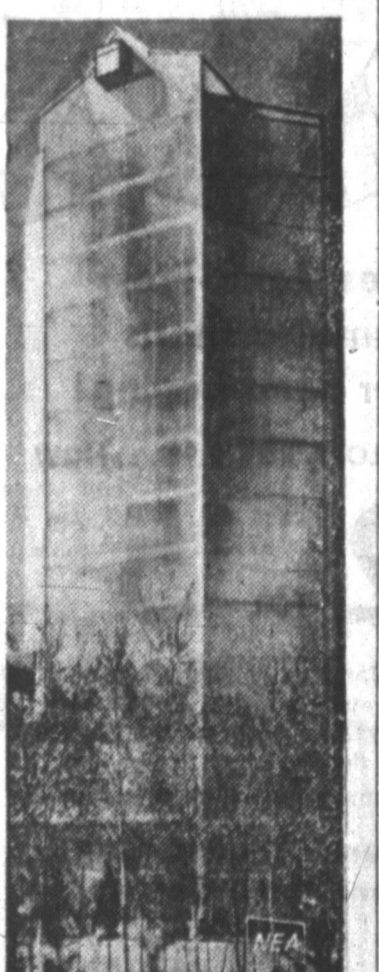

Because Sherrod has access to classified documents, Scheer said, guidelines set down by Space Agency Chief James E. Webb require NASA to approve his manuscript before it is published.

Scheer said this approval would merely make sure no still-classified material is contained in the book. He said it

Heavy Fighting Is Still Ahead In Vietnam War

WASHINGTON (UPI)—

Defense Secretary Clark M. Clifford say that more hard fighting is ahead in Vietnam and the United States must be prepared to fight and negotiate at the same time.

He called the high intensity of the war since the Paris talks began disappointing but not surprising.

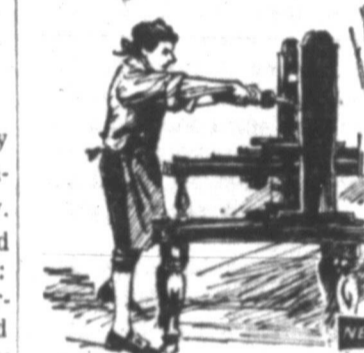

Clifford made the statements in testimony prepared for a closed session of the Senate subcommittee on defense appropriations.

"The war in South Vietnam continues at a high level of intensity, notwithstanding our unilateral cession of air and sea bombardment north of the 20th Parallel," the Pentagon chief said.

"We have yet to see any sign of reciprocity on the part of the North Vietnamese."

The United States has insisted that Hanoi show some signs of "restraint" in their end of the war before all bombing of North Vietnam is halted.

Although Harris intended to publish monthly "or if any glut of occurrences happen, oftener," the paper was suppressed for "reflexions" objectionable to Gov. Simon Bradstreet of Massachusetts.

Helpful Information About Corns

Corns are horny thickenings of the skin, usually caused by shoes that fit poorly, or wearing of run-down heels, which make the feet assume an unnatural position, creating friction. Hard corns usually occur on the outer side of the small toe. They can easily be treated by a good corn remedy and we can select a reliable product for you; one that also removes callouses.

Soft corns are formed on the inner surfaces of the toes. They rate the rate of a polliard. Diabetics should never use corn removers or cut their corns. When applying a corn or callous remover, always soak the feet in warm water about 15 minutes. Then thoroughly dry them and place a drop of the corn remover directly on the center of the corn for four successive days. Soak the foot again in hot water and lift out the corn.

TMA Calls For Expansion Of Medic Facilities

AUSTIN (UPI)—The Texas Medical Association has called for "immediate expansion" of existing medical facilities in Texas, and recommended that a new medical school be approved as soon as possible.

The group also recommended that consideration be given to the need for a second new medical school.

TMA said a study completed last year shows Texas is providing less than half of its own recent medical manpower.

"Expansion of existing medical schools must begin as soon as possible to overcome the severe deficiency in the number of physicians provided at this time," the TMA said.

"We stand ready to support the efforts of the coordinating board of the Texas college and university system, the state legislature, and the governing boards of the medical institutions in providing appropriate increases in funds for faculty and facilities," said Dr. Weldon G. Kolb of La Marque, chairman of the TMA council on medical education and hospitals.

Kolb said the TMA has provided almost $100,000 in low-cost loans to medical students during the past year to assist in meeting the medical manpower needs of the state.

Boy Scouts Okay Plan to Recruit Negro Youngsters

CHICAGO (UPI)—The Boy Scouts of America have announced a vast recruitment program which will seek to bring more Negro youth into the program.

The program calls for one-third of all of the nation's boys between 8 and 18 years old to participate in scouting by 1976. The program also calls for a revamping of scouting to make it more relevant to city boys. Known as "Boypower '76," the program calls for a staff expansion of 50 per cent, plus a restructuring of the scout movement.

Washington Report

From Congress
BOB PRICE 10TH DISTRICT, TEXAS
1801 LOHMEYER OFFICE BUILDING, WASHINGTON, D. C. 20540

A preliminary appraisal of million acre-feet of water a year in order to meet its agricultural and municipal and industrial requirements by the year 2020." Commissioner Dominy said. "This is no small matter, and before any plans are developed for diverting any such quantities from the lower Mississippi River system, we intend to be sure that only water in excess of the foreseeable needs of any States involved can be considered surplus and available for possible importation into the High Plains."

The Progress Report found that there is no question but what water will be available in the Mississippi River for export during some periods of most years, but determination of the amounts and times when water can be exported will require exhaustive studies to establish future needs in the valley States.

The Mississippi River Commission is now engaged in studies to determine these future needs and the availability of water for export. The Commission also is investigating multiple-purpose storage possible that the High Plains region will need to import 16.5

terminal storage requirements in West Texas and Eastern New Mexico.

As encouraging as this report is, I believe other possibilities should also be investigated - at least to the extent of feasibility studies. One of these is a new water resource plan for the Great Plains including the Panhandle for diverting water from the Missouri River from Fort Randall Reservoir in Nebraska.

A study has already been made by a firm of analytical and consulting engineers who believe their plan also has great promise for the future needs of this area.

Senator John Tower and I have introduced bills in the Senate and House to authorize the Corps of Engineers to conduct a feasibility study of the R. W. Beck and Associates plan.

This plan was recently presented to the Deaf Smith County Water Association by one of the Beck engineers and received a favorable response.

While not as large an undertaking as the Mississippi plan, it appears to be one that could be achieved much sooner than the other plan and one that could later be expanded, possibly even supplemented with surplus water from Canada.

Another study proposed in the Colorado River Basin bill in the 89th Congress was never considered by the House. The House this year included only the 7 Colorado River Basin states. The ranking Republican member of the House Interior and Insular Affairs Committee, which wrote the bill, assured me of his support of the water import studies which would apply more appropriately and specifically to the Panhandle and High Plains area.

We will need all the support we can get in our efforts to obtain the water necessary for the continuing development and prosperity of this great section of Texas.

Stop-Humphrey Coalition Seems To Be Impossibility

By United Press International
With the McCarthy camp mounting its strongest attack to date against the Kennedy forces, a stop-Humphrey coalition appears to be an all but impossible development in the Oregon presidential primary.

Sen. Robert F. Kennedy renewed his call for a united front to torpedo Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey's presidential bid. But even as he spoke Sen. Eugene McCarthy was reiterating he would "offer no deals, accept no deals."

McCarthy, stumping California briefly before returning for Oregon campaigning, took note of placards Los Angeles supporters waved reading: "Bobby's got the bread, Gene's got the head."

"Every place I go someone asks 'When are you going to surrender,'" he said. "I don't have in mind a surrender. Even if I did, my troops wouldn't surrender."

Drumming on the central theme of his escalated campaign against Kennedy, McCarthy said the New York senator was himself associated with questionable administration policies of recent years.

Kennedy, campaigning in Portland, Ore., said "What concerns me is that I don't think the administration has learned the lessons of Vietnam."

CHINESE TALKS

TOKYO (UPI)—Representatives from Guinea and Mali met with Communist Chinese Foreign Minister Chen Yi "in a friendly atmosphere" Sunday, Peking Radio said.

I don't think the administration realizes that times are changing.

"That is why I am opposed to Humphrey being elected president instead of some other candidate," he paused — "me."

For his part, the vice president said it was too bad he couldn't have entered the presidential race in time for the primaries. "I think we could have won," he said. "The poles show that."

Other developments:
Richard M. Nixon—The former vice president, due back in Oregon for more campaigning today in the state's May 28 primary, picked up endorsements of 21 more New Jersey Republican leaders—including seven state committeemen and two mayors.

Humphrey—In his first major foreign policy speech of the campaign, the vice president said in New York that a mutual East-West reduction of armed forces and armaments was needed in Europe to "hasten the replacement of the Iron Curtain with an open door."

Washington Odds and Ends Turn Out To Be Mostly Odd

By LEON BURNETT
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Odds and ends from the nation's capital—mostly odd:

If you wanted to be helpful, you could write the Agriculture Department and explain what the term "spring lamb" means to you.

You'd think the department might have a fair idea. But it's not real sure, an doesn't want to offend by using the term inaccurately.

So it has sent a letter around to certain journals explaining the p light.

"Seasonal and geographic or similar terms as applied to meat and poultry products must not be meaningless, confusing or deceptive.

"It appears that the term 'spring lamb' could indicate to the consumer that the lamb had either been born or fed or slaughtered in the spring.

"However, in truth, lambs may be born or fed or slaughtered during any of the four seasons.

"We permit lambs slaughtered between the first day of March and before the end of the first week in October to be labeled 'spring lamb.'

"It would be greatly appreciated if you would advise us of your opinion on whether the term 'spring lamb' has any specific meaning that is rather uniform to the understanding of most consumers."

The latest Texas gusher is a sort of fountain of youth, it appears from a report by Rep. Olin E. Teague.

Austin Housing Ordinance May Face Roadblock

AUSTIN (UPI)—Real estate interests claim they have enough signatures to block Austin's new fair housing ordinance, the first such ordinance in the South.

If the real estate groups turn in 9,000 valid signatures by midnight Monday, the city council must either rescind the ordinance or submit it to a vote of the people.

At a joint news conference, representatives of the Austin Board of Realtors, Austin Association of Homebuilders and Austin Apartment Association said they have collected 12,000 signatures but will continue to seek more signers to make sure they have 9,000 valid ones.

Hub Bechtol, a former all-American football player who now heads the board of realtors, denied that the issue was racial. "Oh no, that's not it at all," he said.

But Bechtol refused to say specifically what objections the realtors have to the ordinance. "This is not the time to go into that," he said.

cardiac attack," he had this report after 10 days at a place called Indian Hot Springs, near no place in particular in the Lone Star State:

"I lost 18 pounds during my stay at the Springs, an average of one pound per mineral bath. My blood pressure, which had been well over the danger point, is down.

"Before I went there the tape tests for diabetes were running dangerous dark green. After three days they were back to healthy yellow, and have remained so ever since.

"The doctors tell me I am in excellent physical shape, and when I left here I was in exceedingly poor shape."

This prize of a place is being rebuilt by millionaire oilman H. L. Hunt.

President Johnson, recalling his March 31 pullout from the presidential race, commented:

"I said in very measured words that I shall not seek or shall not accept the nomination of my party. I repeat, my party.

"I've been expecting, ever since then, that Everett Dirksen would drop by."

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—Wright Investors' Service believes the current downturn could steepen considerably but "will not be much worse than a sharp and much needed 'shake out.' The company advises using current market weakness as buying opportunities.

Wright feels, since the market always looks ahead for around six months, the situation should improve by July when next year comes into focus.

Goodbody & Co. says, barring a rapid and complete peace in Vietnam, there is little basis in the current news picture on which to predict another major upturn in prices. But the company is impressed with the orderly manner of the current correction and does not think the market overvalued at these levels.

Newton D. Zinder of E.F. Hutton & Co. said "It is apparent that the market has suffered relatively little technical damage over the last two weeks." He feels the next major move will be upward.

Petition Calls For Assassination Files

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—A gas station owner has started a petition campaign urging the federal government to open all its files on the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

Baltzer J. Conrad Jr., president of an organization called "We the People Speak," said the group was formed "for the sake of freedom and justice."

INNOVATION FOR CAMPERS is this multiple refrigerator. Designed for camping lots, the unit contains many compartments, each with its own key. It was shown in Paris recently.

THE LIGHTER SIDE A Child-Rearing Theory

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI)—There are almost as many child-rearing theories as there are children, but I have finally found one I agree with.

Dr. Haim Ginott, writing in the current issue of Redbook Magazine, says that when parents become angry with their children they should take the occasion to teach them good English.

He says children are especially attentive when their parents are angry. Therefore, if the parent expresses his anger with such words as "animosity," "acrimonious" and "consternation," it will enrich the child's vocabulary.

I subscribe to this theory because it fits so well with my own childhood experience.

Strong Impression
Once when I was in the fifth grade I contradicted something the teacher said. She whirled around, shied an eraser at my cranium and yelled "How dare you insinuate that I prevaricated!"

The words "insinuate" and "prevaricate" have been in my vocabulary ever since. In fact, that was the only thing I learned in fifth grade.

Three years later, when I was a high school freshman, I became conversant with the "pusillanimous" under similar circumstances.

I now realize I have been remiss in furthering my progeny's education. When they incur my wrath, it has been my custom to employ four-letter rather than polysyllabic remonstrances.

I blurt out maledictions like "Drat" and "Tush!" which doesn't do a thing for their vocabularies. It just goes in one ear and out the other.

New Regime

After reading Ginott's theory, I resolved to mend my ways. When aroused to ire, the least a father can do is give the source of his acerbity the benefits of an edifying fulmination.

Fortunately, my children provide many opportunities for this type of pedagogy. As the other afternoon when one of them threw a baseball through the storm door.

I didn't turn red in the face and shout "Fie Fie!" as I might have in the past. Instead, I shouted: "Miscrrent! See what cataclysmic devastation your peccancy has wrought!"

"How many times have I admonished you against catapulting a spheroid in proximity to our domicile? For this peccadillo, which smacks of subordination, you must suffer the consequences of my disapprobation."

"Gee, dad, he said, 'I'm sure glad you're not mad at me.'"

PREDATOR INSECTS

Bollworms and tobacco budworms in cotton may be more resistant to available insecticides these days, but they are no match for one of nature's equalizers — the larva of the green lacewing, a natural predator. Two USDA entomologists at Texas A&M University have obtained a 96 per cent reduction of bollworms and budworms by releasing great numbers of the Chrysopa larvae into a cotton field. The larvae, also known as phid lions, showed a respectable tolerance to insecticides. The entomologists, Dr. R. L. Ridgway and S. L. Jones, said the practice was still in the experimental stage and is not meant to replace but to reduce the use of insecticides.

Yanks Top White Sox
 NEW YORK (UPI)—Jake Gibbs' tenth inning double, his third hit of the game, drove in Steve Whitaker from first base with the game's only run Saturday as the New York Yankees scored their second successive 1-0 extra inning victory over the Chicago White Sox.

Gibbs' double, an opposite field liner, which Tommy Davis overran, came after Whitaker had lined a one out single.

Pirates 5, Reds 4
 CINCINNATI (UPI)—Donn Clendenon's sacrifice fly scored Manny Mota in the 12th inning to give the Pittsburgh Pirates a 5-4 victory over the Cincinnati Reds Saturday night.

Tom Sisk, last of five Pirates pitchers, blanked the Reds over the last two innings to pick up the win, his second against one loss.

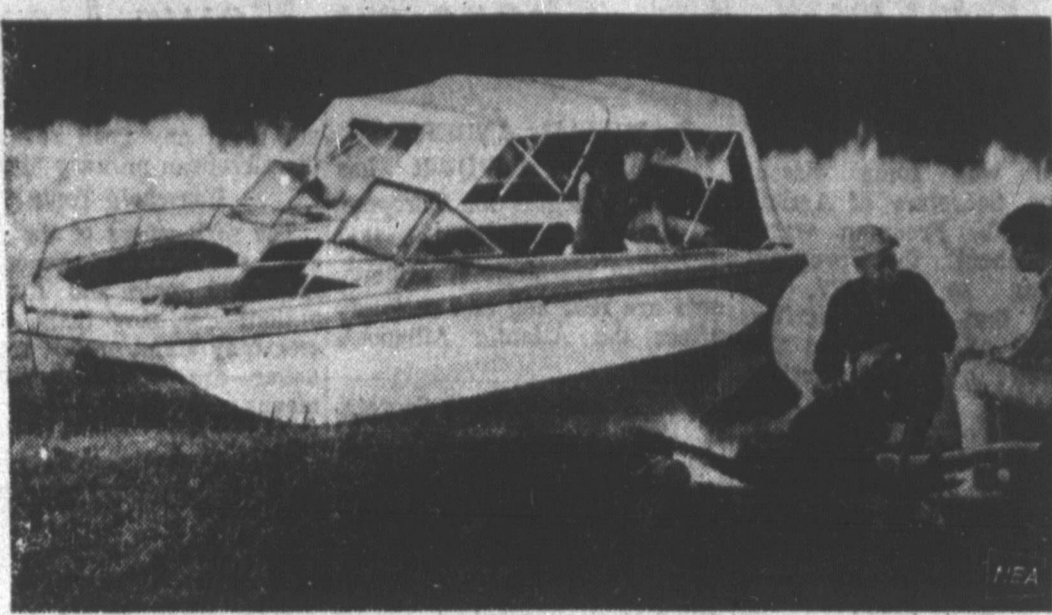

Twins Triumph
 MINNEAPOLIS (UPI)—Tony Oliva's single drove in Rod Carew with an unearned run with two out in the eighth inning Saturday and gave the Minnesota Twins a 1-0 triumph over the Boston Red Sox behind the six-hit pitching of Jim Kaat.

Phils Edge Cards
 ST. LOUIS (UPI)—Don Lock drove in the only run of the game with a sacrifice fly in the sixth inning Saturday night as the Philadelphia Phillies beat the St. Louis Cardinals 1-0 behind the five-hit pitching of Larry Jackson and Dick Farrell.

Jackson, who beat the Cardinals for the second consecutive when Orlando Cepeda and John Edwards singled with one out in the ninth, Farrell preserved the victory by retiring Julian Javier and Dave Ricketts.

Hickey shot a 67 on a course which has a par of 72.

The tournament which drew a field of 167 entries and a total of 13 flights will end play Sunday.

First round results in the championship flight: 2. James P. Linn, Spearman, 71. 3. J.D. Holmes, Amarillo, 72. 4. Bob Loerwald, Pampa, 72. 5. Jerry Brice, Borger, 73. 6. W. A. Vandivere, Borger, 74.

Hardi Wins Sixth
 BALTIMORE (UPI)—Jim Hardi, breezed to his sixth victory Saturday night as the Baltimore Orioles defeated the Washington Senators for the sixth straight time this season, 5-2.

Hardin allowed only three singles until the Senators scored twice in the eighth inning on a pinch single by Del Unser and Ed Stroud's second homer of the season. Hardin wound up with a six-hitter.

Ex-Cheerleader Leads In Dallas

By ED FITE
 UPI Sports Writer

DALLAS (UPI)—Sandra Palmer, who has never tasted the fruits of a tour victory, turned an "unreal" putting round into a 4-under par 33-34-67 Saturday and a one stroke lead in the second round of the Dallas Civitan Open golf tournament at 139.

The comely, 27-year-old blonde from Fort Worth, Tex., had a 40-foot eagle put on No. 2 and birdie putts of 5, 10 and 30 feet on the 12th, 13th and 14th holes of the 71-hole Glenn Lakes Country Club course.

But she had to curl on a 20-footer on number 17 to salvage a bogie in route to her one-stroke margin over Kathy Whitworth.

Miss Whitworth rolled in a 25-foot birdie put on the 17th to post a 35-35-70 and gain second place at 140.

Mickey Wright birdied the final hole for a 35-36-71 that pulled her into a tie for 3rd place at 141 with Clifford Ann Creed, who shot a 33-36-69.

Carol Mann, who has led the opening rounds with a 3-under par 68, lost her lead early when she bogied the first hole and double bogied the second. She finished with a 37-37-74 and was in undisputed fifth place at even par 142.

"My putting was unreal," Miss Palmer commented after her round in which she used but 13 putts on 18 holes. "I've never had a day like this...it was unbelievable, fantastic. It's the lowest competitive round of my career, which started in this tournament five years ago."

Miss Palmer, who was a cheerleader at North Texas State and later a school teacher before turning pro, also credited her wedge with much of the ease with which she scored her 67. She was pitching up close most of the sultry afternoon as the field raced a tornado watch to the finish line.

She got a big thrill out of her eagle on the second hole but got an even bigger one out of her bogie on the 17th.

"I was rocking along and forgot a mandate Mickey (Wright) gave me to play one shot at a time," Miss Palmer said. "I was thinking about getting home in par for a 66 and hit the ground with my club and the ball plunked into the lake. I dropped a penalty ball, wedged it to within 20 feet and then snaked it in."

Miss Palmer's only other association with a tournament lead came last year at Raleigh, when she shared first place going into the final round.

"I shot an 80 the next day," she humbly remarked.

Sul Ross Edges Highlands In Home Run Duel By 5-4
 STEPHENVILLE, Tex. (UPI)—Sul Ross State College came out on top of a home run duel Saturday to defeat New Mexico Highlands 5-4 and advance to the national playoffs of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics.

Lobo pitcher Odie Langley tossed Sul Ross to a 2-0 lead until the eighth inning when New Mexico scored four runs on three homers.

Sul Ross came back in the bottom of the eighth with a home run by Chuck Cornet which added two more runs. The Lobos went on to score another run in the ninth inning to take the win.

Sul Ross will play in the NAIA playoffs in St. Joseph, Mo., June 3-7.

Foster May Fight Cassius Clay In Utah

By WILLIAM VERIGAN
 UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI)—Bob Foster, newly crowned light heavyweight champion, is already planning how to make up for lost time.

"I finally broke out of the amateurs last night by winning the title from (Dick) Tiger," said Foster. "It's been too long coming, and now that I got it, I'll fight anybody, right in their own backyard."

The 6-foot 3 1/2 inch bomber, who knocked out Tiger in the fourth round, isn't thinking about defending the title yet, but he will return to Albuquerque, N.M., where he spent his rather tempestuous childhood, to meet an undetermined opponent in a non-title bout in July. After that he is likely to go on an international sock hop.

meeting foreign contenders in non-title bouts.

A fight with Cassius Clay is even looming in the background. Although Clay was stripped of the title by most of the commissions around the world, an enterprising promoter supposedly has got permission from Utah Gov. Calvin Rampton for Clay to defend the heavyweight crown in that state. A representative for the promoter said that Chauncey Eskridge, Clay's lawyer, has tentatively agreed to a meeting with Foster.

"We got an offer to fight Clay in Salt Lake City before Bob won the title," said Musky Salow, Foster's manager. "But I said I wasn't interested in talking about it until the Tiger fight was out of the way. If they come up with the money now, we're interested."

Graham Tops Field In Memphis Open

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI)—Lou Graham charged into the third round lead of the $100,000 Memphis Open Saturday, finishing with a four-under par 66 after a violent thunderstorm halted play two hours and brought a tornado within four miles of the crowded course.

The slow-talking 30-year-old Nashville pro, bidding for the $20,000 top prize, takes a two-stroke lead into Sunday's round with a 54-hole total of 199, 11-under par and the lowest 54-hole total on the PGA tour this year.

Tied for second were Californian Bob Lunn who shared Thursday's lead after carding a 65 and rookie Pro B. R. McLendon, three-time winner of the Southeastern Conference golf championship while at Louisiana State.

Lunn fired a 68 Saturday and McLendon carded a 69.

Graham, a local favorite who played his college golf at Memphis State University, was 11-under with five holes to play when the storm hit.

Legion Holds 1st Workout Tuesday

The American Legion baseball team here in Pampa will hold its initial workout at Harvester baseball field Tuesday night. Time for the practice is 6 until dark, according to Travis Lively Jr., manager of the team.

Coaches for this year's team are Lloyd Summers, head coach, and Joe Achord, assistant coach. The schedule for the Pampa American Legion team is still in the process of development but Lively said the team plans to play between 20 and 24 games in the two month period of baseball activity.

Teams for district 18 include the following zone: Pampa, Wheeler, Amarillo High, Palo Duro, Borger, Dumas, Spearman and Perryton.

In the southern zone is Groom, Clarendon, Tulsa, Canyon, Hereford, Amarillo Tascosa and Amarillo Caprock.

TWINS share a single problem—how to retrieve a baseball and keep the game from going down the drain. Boys were oblivious to cameraman W. Forrest Stewart of Bradford, Pa., who recorded their efforts.

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—It isn't very often that a television program concerning a national problem gets viewers so involved personally that they want to do something about it.
 But CBS-TV's excellent one-hour documentary of this past Tuesday night, "Hunger in America," in a study of malnutrition in the United States, was a resounding exception.
 The broadcast focused on some of about 10 million Americans who either don't get enough food, or proper food. Some of the footage was appalling and heart rending, and enough to stir the most moderate soul to anger that such an incredible state of affairs can exist in such a rich country.
 Those on whom the hour focused were Mexican-Americans in Texas, Navajo Indians in Arizona, tenant farmers in Virginia and sharecroppers in rural Alabama.
Response Instantaneous
 And the viewer response was instantaneous around the nation: many persons, more than 500 in the New York area alone, called stations to ask what they could do.
 There was some dissent, however, Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman wasn't happy about the program. According to CBS-TV, he charged that the report was 'shot full of errors' and that CBS News made no effort to check the facts with the Department of Agriculture.
 However, Martin Carr, producer of "Hunger in America," replied that "The Agriculture Department was contacted directly on various phases of the broadcast. Much of the information used came from the department's own publications."
 Through CBS-TV, Carr also noted some of the offers of help that came to his office:
 "We had numerous calls from legislators, government officials and private organizations inquiring about how they could obtain prints of the broadcast. Camps throughout the nation offered their facilities to poor children seen on the broadcast, and many private citizens offered their homes as vacation facilities."
Offer Foster Homes
 "Some people called asking how they could become foster parents to the children, and others wanted to send monthly anonymous checks to families seen on the broadcast. A woman in New York who intended to adopt a South Vietnamese or Korean child expressed a desire to adopt Navajo baby instead.

Foreign News Commentary

By WILLIAM ANDERSON
BRUSSELS (UPI)—It has taken six months for European NATO nations to realize that American warnings of military cuts are real and can seriously affect the Atlantic Alliance's Europe.
 U.S. Deputy Defense Secretary Paul H. Nitze, flashed the red light last December when he told NATO governments some U.S. troops would be redeployed from Europe back to the United States.
 Nitze gave what, to many military shield in western somewhat vague reason—"The U.S. balance of payments."
 Since many European financiers last December thought the payments deficit was a purely American problem, there did foodstuffs wherever they were most needed. High school classes asked if they could 'adopt' pupils in Alabama by sending daily lunch money to children unable to buy their own food.
 The network also added that KENS-TV, a CBS-TV affiliate in San Antonio, Tex., "whose Mexican-American population was one of the groups examined," has rescheduled the broadcast for tonight.
 But advance notice that a further 27,000 U.S. military and 13,000 dependents will be pulled back has abruptly brought home the gravity of the situation to Europeans.
 Coming on the heels of the French military withdrawal from NATO, European leaders now realize their alliance, while still powerful is not the force it once was.
Household Topic
 The seriousness of the deficit has subsequently become a household topic and European nations—realizing their currencies may stand or fall with the dollar—are hurriedly studying means of helping the U.S. economically.
 Most of this promised aid is long-term such as adjustments in tariffs.
 Thus, while waiting for this type of aid, it was natural the United States should look for quick means of cutting overseas expenditure. It was obvious this would have to be in military spending on the European continent—currently enjoying its greatest prosperity.
 Europeans did not react immediately when Nitze's warning began to take effect. Six thousand American military personnel have been "redeployed" saving some $75 million a year. They are now spending dollars in Ft. Riley, Kan., instead of scarce Marks and Francs in Europe. While still committed to NATO they are now some 4,000 miles from the potential front line.
 Belgium, Britain and other allies began to strip their forces in West Germany.
More Cutbacks

Before Graduation, 1968 Seniors Study, Play, Dance and Buy Mementos

FOR THEIR LAST EXAMS—Nancy Oustey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E.H. Ousley, Jr., 2228 N. Russell, and George Bailey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Bailey, 2221 N. Russell, tackle an English problem as they study for finals. These two seniors and the other 322 PHS seniors may think of their years at Pampa High School in the terms of Shakespeare's quote, "parting is such sweet sorrow."

WITH TAPPING FEET — In May, PHS seniors not only studied for finals, but were caught up in the glitter of the "Springtime in Paris" theme of the annual all-school prom held in the Girls Gym. The 1968 seniors may have amazed their elders with their stamina for dancing the "hitchhiker" and "skate" at the annual prom, but for that kind of action, energy is needed.

IT'S ALMOST TIME — Steven C. Walls, Pampa High School salutatorian, and Nell Duncan, PHS valedictorian, don't seem too nervous as they prepare for the seniors' sermon, the annual vespers service which starts at 5 p.m. today in PHS Fieldhouse. Rev. T. O. Upshaw, pastor of Central Baptist Church, will deliver the vespers lecture.

GIFT FOR A GRADUATE — A reflection of Renee Secrest, 1968 senior, looks up at her from a mirror in a Pampa store as she tries to decide which of the gift display to buy for another graduating friend. Miss Secrest, pictured with Leroy Slater, clerk, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Newt Secrest, 2231 Christine.

PLANS AFTER GRADUATION — PHS seniors, Wendell Watson Jr., left, and Stanley Cable, examine a year-book from Rice University. Both boys have received yearly renewable tuition grants to the university. Watson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Watson, 1100 Terry Rd., has a $1,400 grant, and Cable, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard C. Cable, 1101 Sandlewood, has a $1,500 grant. Watson plans to enter public relations or law, and Cable will major in physics.

ON A RAINY AFTERNOON — These three seniors may look like they are practicing for careers in Las Vegas, but it was their way of spending a rainy afternoon after the brain-racking days of final exams. Left to right are Shari Lawley, Beau Bond and Mike Sublett. Their parents are Mr. and Mrs. Harold Lawley, 421 E. Kingsmill; Mr. and Mrs. Pete Bond, south of city, and Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Sublett, 2124 N. Faulkner.

WITH THE SOUND OF MUSIC — After final examinations, seniors of Pampa were inclined to do a variety of things, but several did just what these girls are doing, dropped in on each other to visit, play records and read yearbook inscriptions. Pictured left to right are Gail Francis, 1004 Darby; Jenniter Benton, 525 Magnolia; Vicki Bennett, 916 Wilcox; Sherry Cobb, 623 N. Faulkner; Carol Levick, 1100 Starkweather, and Helen McClendory, 805 E. Albert.

A COUPLE OF PICNIC FANS — Getting a head start on summer holidays are Connie Winegeart, left, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Travis Winegeart, 1116 Darby, and Donna Bowen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Lowe, 1117 E. Francis. The girls chose Tuesday after finals and their first free day, to start operations for a picnic lunch. Both are 1968 seniors and will graduate Monday.

Linen, one of the oldest apparel fabrics, has always been prized for its durability and washability. It is now slated to offer still another serviceability feature—a durable press finish so that linen garments will require little or no ironing after laundering, if properly dried in an automatic dryer.

Mrs. Jarvis Johnson gave the devotional.

DEAR ABBY: What does a woman do when her husband won't keep his hands off her in public? Whenever George (not his real name) and I go out, he is forever slapping or pinching my behind, and he doesn't care who sees him. It is very embarrassing.

Also when we go visiting, he keeps at least one hand on or above my knee the entire time we are there. It has gotten so I am ashamed to visit friends. When we go to a movie, it's just terrible. I have to keep fighting him off soon as the lights go out because his hands begin to roam.

George and I have been married for 2 years now, and he has done this ever since we were married. I've tried to talk some sense into him, but he laughs it off and says I should be glad he finds me so desirable. I can't laugh it off. It's too embarrassing. What should I do?

PERTURBED

DEAR PERTURBED: Bad taste is no laughing matter, and your husband is exhibiting bad taste. Warn him beforehand that you will remove his roaming hands, or pinches you in public. Then, gently but firmly do so. I would not ordinarily advise a woman to deliberately sit beyond her husband's reach in public — in your case I will make an exception.

DEAR ABBY: I've got a problem that beats all. I am 32 years old, divorced, with two children. My mother won't let me go out with men. She says it's disgraceful for a divorced woman to be seen with men. (My mother is a widow and I live with her.)

I can't stay in the house 24 hours a day. I'll go mad! It has been like this for 4 years. What can I do? Sign me.

A "PRISONER"

DEAR "PRISONER": I don't in the morning—especially if it's complete with a sinkful of last night's dishes.

know what your financial circumstances are, but there must be a way for you to leave your mother's bed and board and make a life of your own. You may have to make some material sacrifices, but it's preferable to being a prisoner. If you can't see this, at age 32, stay where you are. Your freedom might bring you more problems than your restrictions.

DEAR ABBY: I am 15 and I like this boy named Ricky, but he likes me only as a friend and that isn't what I want. I want him to like me as a girl friend. Ricky likes another girl right now as a girl friend but she isn't at all cute, makes average grades, has long hair (that's usually greasy) and everybody says she doesn't have as good a personality as I have. Besides that, she tries to act sexy. Who do you think deserves him? And how can I get him away from her?

SECOND FIDDLE

DEAR SECOND FIDDLE: Regardless of who "deserves" him, the other girl has him, so be satisfied with second fiddle. (At least you're part of the orchestra.) And don't knock the competition or you'll never get a "beau."

DEAR ABBY: At every marriage ceremony, I have ever attended, the preacher says, "I now pronounce you man and wife." Now if you stop and analyze it for a moment, it's all wrong. A preacher has the authority to pronounce a couple husband and wife, so why does he say "man" instead of "husband?" A man is a man, and a husband is a husband, and no one has the authority to pronounce a male a "man."

It would make just as much sense for the preacher to say, "I now pronounce you man and woman."

The point I wish to make, Abby, is this: Just because something has been said for a hundred years, doesn't necessarily make it right.

MINERALS IN WATER

Minerals in water cause a film on clothes, making them stiff and nonabsorbent, dull bright colors, turn whites to gray. More soap or detergent not only is wasted in this case but will further stick in the clothes and also clog drains. Often it is necessary to add a water conditioner. Set control soap. Many housewives use more soap or detergent than they need.

ROBERT STACK COMFORTS Bibi Andersson in a tense scene in "Story of a Woman," being filmed in Rome. The picture also stars James Farentino.

Actors Roam Rome In Search of Home

By DICK KLEINER
NEA Hollywood Correspondent
ROME, Italy — (NEA) — For American actors working in Rome for any length of time, there arises the problem of where—and how—to live. Robert Stack and James Farentino shooting "Story of a Woman," have solved the problem differently.

Farentino and his good friend, David Jansen, have rented a Villa. Jansen is working here, too, in "Shoes of the Fisherman."

"It was a mistake," Jimmy says, "it's too posh. I'm really not seeing how the average Roman lives. I should have done what Bibi and Bob did."

"Bibi" is Swedish actress Bibi Andersson, the third star of the film. She rented a small apartment in a little piazza in what is known as "Old Rome"—the heart of the city. And Stack, with his family, also took an apartment in a compound in the old city.

"We took the kids out of school," Bob says, "and they have a tutor for three hours a day here. They're already way ahead of their classmates in Los Angeles—which isn't hard, as you know."

Stack and his wife, Rosemary, both feel strongly that this Roman fling is good for the children.

"We believe," Bob says, "that kids have to see another way of life. We want them to appreciate why their normal life is really extraordinary. We don't live high back home, but we have a pool and a nice house and that isn't the way most people live."

"They're shooting 'Story of a Woman' at full speed ahead because Stack has to get back to Hollywood to begin his series, 'The Name of the Game.' Naturally, Stack is it on of the most expensive optimistic about the series—it is one of the most expensive ever conceived—but his optimism is controlled.

"I've learned," he says, "to temper excitement with caution. I haven't seen many scripts yet, so I really can't tell just how good it will be."

He is, however, enthusiastic about this picture, and especially about working with Bibi Andersson. He has seen her in "Persona," and one reason he took the part was so he could work with her. He calls her "one of the three best actresses in the world," but won't specify the other two.

He also likes the character he's playing—an American becomes involved with a romantic Italian.

"The character seems so well adjusted," Stack says. "Nothing bothers him—until one event strikes the right button. I was like that, too. Once I almost strangled a girl who hit the button."

The three stars seem to be enjoying their work, and their on-camera relationship. Stack and Bibi were in bed, reading. She was supposed to have a Swedish book.

"But this is an Italian book," Bibi said. "It just has a Swedish jacket."

"Think Swedish," Bob said, so he could work with her. He surveyed the scene and said, "How dare she be in bed with her husband?"

Later Stack kidded Farentino about his making love to his movie wife.

"Yeah," Jimmy said, "but you get all the bed scenes."

"Maybe so," Bob said, "but she's always thinking about you, and I'm getting pretty tired of it."

College Girls Defend Practice Of Non-Marital Living With Boy Friends

By BOB EWEGEN
United Press International
Living with a man in college "provides a home atmosphere not given in other types of university housing," an unmarried University of Colorado coed said yesterday.

She was one of several students at different campuses in the state who admitted they are living with a member of opposite sex on at least a semi-permanent basis while in college.

An informal survey was made in Colorado after national publicity resulted from the admission of a Barnard College girl, Linda Le Clair, that she was living with a boyfriend off campus.

Colorado students talked freely after being promised they would not be identified. They drew a line between open promiscuity and living with just one person. Students actually involved in the affairs and various student leaders indicated such behavior was fairly widespread and accepted by their fellow students.

No figures, however, were available on the extent of such actions on the campuses.

One Colorado University coed said, "We find living together an easy way to avoid an early and probably unsuccessful marriage, for which we are not ready. We both have one previous marriage behind us and are not interested in repeating past mistakes."

A male student, also from Colorado University, said, "People live with other people all over the country. The fact they are married supposedly gives an aura of respectability about it, but I don't really feel that makes much difference."

"The fact is people like to make love and if they can they will."

The student said most persons he knew having affairs were faithful to each other for its duration.

"You grow very fond of a girl that you're sleeping with and you don't really need to be chasing after other women," he said. "Generally, when a couple sleep together for any length of time there is a very good chance they'll get married anyway."

The girl he is living with said she felt no guilt or strain in the relationship "because I don't think it's wrong. I'm willing to take responsibility for my actions, because it doesn't hurt anybody and it seems the natural way of showing affection."

The coed said her mother "suspects and does not disapprove" of the relationship.

Another coed living with a man said, "I would never get married without living together first. In an age where people are getting married younger and younger, it's a shame it doesn't occur more often."

One of the Colorado University coeds who admitted living with a man full-time said there was no ostracism by fellow students.

"I have not found it any problem while being very active in student government," she said.

New Treatment For Hemorrhoids Is Being Tested

By RAE F. AMOS
JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (UPI)—A St. Louis drug executive said today a preparation for use in the treatment of hemorrhoids developed by a recently released inmate of the state penitentiary is being tested by physicians in Central Missouri.

Leroy Weidle Jr., president of the Knight Drug Co., said his firm has purchased 25 per cent interest in the product developed by L. R. Koefod of Jefferson City.

Koefod was released from the state prison April 19 after completing a three year sentence. He had served two other terms in the state prison previously.

Weidle said his company has not given Koefod any money for the interest in the product, but in payment would pay the cost of developing it. He described the prospect of the product's potential as "not great," however, adding, "It's like grandma's remedy."

Weidle said Koefod developed the product while an inmate of the penitentiary. He said it was made up basically of "everyday products," mixed in a base of grease.

An attorney for the company said Koefod had received a small amount of money to help him while the product was being tested. He said the company had agreed also to stand the expense of marketing it should it develop into a worthwhile product.

Koefod also entered into an agreement with M. J. Elliott, associate warden for custody at the prison, selling Elliott a 5 per cent interest in the product for $375.

Koefod is a skilled masonry worker, and corrections director Fred I. Wilkinson said he had worked on many such projects at the prison. However, Wilkinson said Koefod never worked in the hospital, laboratory or anyplace where he knew the preparation might be developed.

School Board Under Attack In Texarkana

TEXARKANA, Tex. (UPI)—Contending the school board "doublecrossed" those who want separate schools for the races in Texarkana, backers of the "freedom of choice" are planning to fight to abolish the school district. That would enable them to set up a new system.

The school board has outlined plans for the next school year and adopted a policy that teacher assignments to individual schools be made without regard to race. The board had voted recently to eliminate the predominantly Negro Dunbar High School and send its students to Texas High School. The "freedom of choice" system was kept for grade schools and junior highs.

Dr. Mitchell Young, former head of the group advocating the dual system, said the board's action in the high school decision was a "doublecross." "With their closed sessions and imaginary deadline they have misled us from the very beginning," Young said. He contended the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare is "using intimidation to enforce its plans."

Iowa Park Receives First Load of Wheat

IOWA PARK, Tex. (UPI)—The first load of wheat to reach an elevator in the state's "grain belt" was brought in to the Robert Johnson Elevator this week.

Grown by Howard Lyles of Holiday in northern Archer County, the wheat measured 14.2 per cent moisture content and brought $1.35 per bushel.
