

State Legislature Convened Today In Austin

By DAVID ANDERSON
AUSTIN (UPI)—The first special budget session of the Legislature, and possibly the last for some time, convened at noon today with the answer to its $125 million new taxes question lying in the sales tax.

Gov. John Connally was expected to unveil a proposal in the afternoon that would raise sales taxes only for Texans who are not now paying a city sales tax. However, some legislators favor raising the state sales tax a cent on everyone.

The special budget session will probably be the last of its type for some time since Lt. Gov. Preston Smith, the Democratic nominee for governor, Connally's urging, provided financing for only the first year of the 1968-69 biennium, thus necessitating the special session.

The basis of Connally's tax proposal, a poorly kept secret, would be to raise the state sales tax from 2 to 3 per cent and abolish the 1 per cent local option city sales tax. Then, according to the plan, the tax would be applied to such services as telephones, barber and beauty shops, auto repair and laundries.

This along with the rest of the governor's proposal would raise $138.9 million in new taxes. However, Connally has proposed a $3.2 million cut in the gross receipts tax on telephone companies, reducing his total tax bill to $135.7 million.

However, some legislators favor an increase in the state sales tax from 2 to 3 per cent and the retention of the city sales tax as it is. This would yield about $150 million and perhaps permit the state to move into the 1970 fiscal year with a small surplus.

The legislators, not the governor, hold the upper hand in this special session because Connally has already announced he will not run for governor again. One of the legislators who hold considerable power is House Speaker Ben Barnes, the Democratic nominee for lieutenant governor. Barnes has great influence in the House and many senators have indicated they will not commit themselves until they see what Barnes' position is.

Smith, as the presiding officer of the Senate, said his first objective will be to give the governor a try with his tax bill. "Then if that doesn't work, we'll try to come up with something else," he said.

Ceremonial leaders at today's opening session will be Sen. Ralph Hall of Rockwall and Jim Bates of Edinburg. Hall is president pro tem of the Senate and Bates was expected to be elected to succeed him today.

Hall was "governor for a day" Monday when both Connally and Smith were out of the state.

Estimates on how long the Legislature will last are... (See LEGISLATURE, Page 4)

Primary Victory Is Kennedy "Necessity"

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Senators Robert F. Kennedy and Eugene J. McCarthy collided today in the California primary in which victory was necessary to survive as a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination. Published polls put Kennedy in front by narrow margin.

A turnout of nearly three million Democrats was expected. The winner gets 172 of California's 174 Democratic National Convention votes, the largest harvest to be taken from any of the 1968 presidential primaries. The nominee chosen by the convention needs 1,312 votes.

Humphrey Makes Biggest Bid Yet In South Dakota

By DAVID SMOTHERS
PIERRE, S.D. (UPI) — Running under an assumed name, Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey made his most direct bid for primary votes of the 1968 presidential campaign in his native South Dakota today.

The assumed name is that of Lyndon B. Johnson.

Humphrey, a late comer to the presidential race, is not on the ballot. Johnson is, along with Sen. Robert F. Kennedy who is favored to win according to pre-election polls, and Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, running third in the rating, but making a stretch bid.

That left Humphrey, running under a shadow banner—a slate of delegates technically committed to the President but in reality pledged to him.

Humphrey sought a chance to come out from behind the President's shadow as a vote getter in his own right. But the Johnson identification could cause trouble in South Dakota.

Today, Humphrey's forces were trying to take as much advantage as possible of Johnson's lead.

Supreme Court Ruling Likely To Spare Death Row Prisoners

AUSTIN (UPI)—The U. S. Supreme Court's decision on capital punishment probably will spare the lives of all the men now under death sentence in Texas. Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin said Monday.

At last report there were 26 men awaiting execution on death row at Ellis Prison Farm. At least half a dozen more are believed to be in various counties awaiting transfer to prison.

There has not been an execution in Texas for four years. Martin said he didn't know for sure whether the court's decision would operate retroactively, but said he assumed it would.

No GOP Contest

There was no contest in the Republican presidential primary. Gov. Ronald Reagan was the unopposed favorite son who will take 86 California delegate votes to the GOP National Convention.

Democratic forecasts were complicated by the presence of the ballot of an uncommitted slate of delegates led by state Atty. Gen. Thomas H. Lynch, originally a proxy for President Johnson before the Chief Executive said he would not seek reelection.

Th Lynch delegates are largely pro-Humphrey, although the vice president has shunned any identification with a slate expected to run third. It offers only a convention outlet for Democrats eager to vote against both McCarthy and Kennedy.

The brunt of Abby's winds—which reached hurricane force of 75 miles an hour only in brief gusts—were being felt only to the northeast of the storm's center.

Squalls with winds clocked at 40 to 50 miles an hour swept the Cape Kennedy area, and a tornado was spotted in the air near the space center there. Winds up to 45 miles an hour were expected as far south as Miami.

But it appeared that a night spent mulling around off the coast left Abby too weak and flabby to deal harshly with the Hurricane Center at Miami Florida peninsula.

Selective Service Answers

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Below are questions now being asked at draft board. The answers are by Colonel Morris S. Schwartz State Selective Service Director 209 W. 9th Street, Austin, Texas 78701. He will welcome your questions.)

Q—What does the current draft law say about conscientious objectors?

A—Section 6 (j) of the law says: "Conscientious objectors. Nothing contained in this title shall be construed to require any person to be subject to combatant training and service in the armed forces of the United States who, by reason of religious training and belief, is conscientiously opposed to participation in war in any form. As used in this subsection the term 'religious training and beliefs' does not include essentially political, sociological, or philosophical views, or a merely personal moral code. Any person claiming exemption from combatant training and service because of such conscientious objections whose claim is sustained by the local board shall, if he is inducted into the armed forces under this title, be assigned to noncombatant service as defined by the president, or shall, if he is found to be conscientiously opposed to participation in such noncombatant service, in lieu of such induction, be ordered by his local board subject to such regulations as the President may prescribe, to perform for a period equal to the period prescribed in section 4 (b) such civilian work contributing to the maintenance of the national health, safety, or interest as the local board pursuant to Presidential regulations may deem appropriate and any such person who knowingly fails or neglects to obey any such order from his local board shall be deemed, for the purposes of section 12 of this title, to have knowingly failed or neglected to perform a duty required of him under this title."

Animal Hearts To Be Put In Humans, Doctor Theorizes

ARLINGTON, Tex. (UPI) — Dr. Denton Cooley of Houston, who has done four heart transplants said the day will come when doctors can solve the human rejection problems with borrowed animal hearts in ailing humans.

Cooley told a Dallas Morning News interviewer he has gotten some mail bringing up moral objections to heart transplants, but it is not frequent.

"The mere fact that it is new" is one reason the surgical technique brings criticism, he said. "It shocks our basic concepts," he added.

Cooley said the operation itself is not extremely difficult, but the big problems now are the body's rejection of borrowed tissue and the difficulty of having donors' hearts ready for persons needing them.

Cooley spoke to a cardiac conference of Tarrant County weekend. He said there will always be questions of how to select a donor and when the point of death is ruled so that a donor's heart is available for

Some Hope Seen In 'Forest' Of Racial Discontent Across U.S.

By H. D. QUIGG
UPI Senior Editor

In the general morass of racial discontent and the black forest of poverty and despair, there have appeared some shafts of light. They are only glimmers when viewed against the bleak whole, but they are on the increase.

These positive aspects of the Negro struggle are mostly steps of self-help. Much of this emergent movement is in corporate form, Negro spawned and most of it Negro-directed toward self-determination and betterment.

A look across the country discloses innumerable projects targeted on bringing hope to slum life. Here are a few.

Happening in Harlem

NEW YORK (UPI)—There's going to be a happening here on Tuesday the like of which has never been seen before. They are opening a supermarket in Harlem aimed to be a voice of—and the property of—the community. The hope is that it will be the first of six.

Dolled up for opening day, the ground floor space of about two thirds of a city block at the corner of 7th Ave. and 147th St. is stocked with quality goods to be sold at fair prices on the profit-sharing basis. Business volume is expected to be at least $50,000 a week.

When the project was announced last December, there were offers from luminaries all the way up to the vice president of the United States to officiate at the opening. But the board of this consumer cooperative has decided an average Harlem family that has bought stock will cut the ribbon.

"The Harlem Co-op" has had as its guiding spirit Cora T. Walker, a dynamo of a woman who came out of a family on welfare, worked her way through university while supporting that family, and has practiced law in Harlem for 21 years while repeatedly attacking government "handouts" to the poor and urging people to solve their own problems.

Members of the Harlem River Consumers Cooperative, Inc., will receive a "patronage refund" each year on their purchases at the store. Shares sell for $5, and one share can make the buyer a member.

"This money came from really little people," Mrs. Walker says. "This is a Negro owned and operated, first-rate supermarket."

cent of the 2,463 members are self-supporting through the sale of eggs.

Boston Bread
BOSTON—A leader in the field of Negro self-help, Boston feels its story never gets adequately told. Around 50 self-help organizations cover the whole range of housing, education, and economic self-reliance.

Pride and Prejudice
WASHINGTON—Pride, Inc., a government-financed youth job project organized last summer by Rufus Mayfield, an outspoken and colorful young ghetto black militant, has been a pronounced success.

Its Negro teen-agers wear surplus Army fatigue "uniforms" and do rat control and extermination work in slum neighborhoods. Mayfield, commonly known as "Catfish," since has quit in an internal dispute, but Pride has been a big hit with Negroes and won the administration even of white conservatives in Congress.

Out of a Dirty Alley
PHILADELPHIA—The Rev. Leon H. Sullivan, 45, stands 6 feet 5, preaches at the 4,000-member Zion Baptist Church, says he was born "in a dirty alley" in Charleston, W.Va., and is proud that his manpower training program was started entirely with private financing.

He opened headquarters of the Opportunities Industrialization Centers (OIC) in January 1964, and now has four branch offices here and about 70 programs in various stages of development in all parts of the country.

OIC began with solicitations to small businessmen in the ghetto that raised $102,000 corporation donations of $250,000 and $200,000 from the Ford Foundation. Last August, it had an annual budget here of $3 million, 80 per cent of it underwritten by the government.

The OIC job-learning facilities have trained and placed in jobs here about 5,000 persons, 90 per cent of them Negro.

Green Power Wallop
LOS ANGELES—One of the projects in the Watts ghetto is the Green Power Foundation, in which Negroes have begun their own factory—with several high-paid people quitting jobs to devote full time to it—making baseball bats called the "Watts Walloper."

The bat has been endorsed by several Negro big leaguers. The Watts labor community action committee has created its own credit union, built vest-pocket parks on city land, and started a chicken ranch, that's says Jim Brown, the famed pro football fullback who is now a movie star, "spend a tremendous amount of money and present a great potential for colored businessmen, but these men find it hard to get financing in normal channels."

"We aim to provide that financing while giving guidance generally. What the Negro needs is to be told by someone he respects that if he's not equipped when opportunity knocks there's nothing anyone can do for him."

Brown founded the Negro Industrial and Economic Union (NIEU) in 1966. He circulates nationally and internationally to attract money to NIEU and set up programs to attract funds. NIEU got a $520,000 Ford grant in March with a comment by the foundation that "NIEU seeks to reverse patterns of Negro attitudes toward business and investment."

Black Star Ascendant
DETROIT—Ghetto ingenuity stepped in after last summer's riot that burned out 20 small groceries in Negro areas. Low income Negroes began investing in a project called, the Black Star Coop market at a cost of $5 to join and $25 a share.

There are now 300 members, mostly belonging to the church of the Rev. Albert B. Cleage, one of the foremost Detroit advocates of black control of black communities. The cooperative went into the grocery business three months ago.

Chairman Ed Vaughn says it has done $70,000 in business in that time, averaging $500 to $600 daily and $2,000 to $3,000 per weekend. The store had no funding from city, state or federal agencies.

Another Detroit effort, announced last month, is a profitmaking private corporation set up to raise $10 million for slum rehabilitation and upgrading of Negro life through sale of stock at $1 a share to both Negroes and whites.

The corporation, tentatively named Accord, aims to buy and rehabilitate housing, use Negro labor for this, promote Negro-owned businesses, and develop a cadre of black professionals with managerial skills.

Fiscal Risk
BALTIMORE—The Baltimore Community Investment Co. has been formed by a group of prominent businessmen as a risk capital—money invested where chance of failure is high—to help Negroes begin new businesses or expand present ones.

They said potential Negro businessmen had little chance of getting risk capital through regular banking channels. Board chairman Owen Wilson, one of the 16 Negro directors, said the company plans to issue stock to the general public and envisions most loans at $10,000 to $20,000.

Aid Self-help
COLUMBUS, Ohio—One of the early federal fundings for a community administration of the East Central Citizens Organization, Inc. (ECCO), organized by a few Negroes of the community to help people help themselves and demonstrate that poverty can be overcome.

Elected its executive director was Clifford Tyree, a Negro, who resigned a few months ago to take the post of community relations director of Columbus. "The program provided me with tremendous background," he said of ECCO. "And it has shown those living in the inner city that one of the things we needed was self-conceived ideas and attitudes."

A subsidiary corporation, the Youth Civic Center, directed and operated by youths aged 16 to 22, has been operating about a year under a $128,000 federal grant. It has its own civic-project program.

Clergy Talks Money
ST. LOUIS—Jamed E. Hurt Jr., a top business leader of the St. Louis Negro community, says simply: "Money talks in America. And if the Negro is going to have a voice, he has to get into the main stream of the American economy. And make money while he is about it."

interests and is president of the St. Louis Board of Education and of the Jet Supermarket of Missouri, a corporation that has 2,500 stockholders who have purchased $10 shares. Most have only one share. Ground was broken recently for a Negro shopping center that will include a supermarket, furniture store, a Negro newspaper, the weekly St. Louis Sentinel, and a variety of shops.

Hurt has a Wednesday morning breakfast club attended by about 40 ministers. Every week for four years "The top people of the community have informed them of the Negro community's status so that when they go into their pulpits their sermons are based on facts."

The total supermarket drive has collected $100,000 toward needed capital is twice that.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren
DEAR ABBY: Two months ago while my husband and I were on a vacation we took the night club tour in a big city, and our lives haven't been the same since. They were going to seat us behind a post, and my husband refused to sit there, so they put us at a table practically on the dance floor.

During the floor show, a young girl came out with very little on and started singing a love song to my middle aged spouse. (She had been rejected by two other men, who turned their heads when she approached them, but my husband played right into her hands.) Then she pulled him up out of his chair, put her arms around his neck, placed HIS hands on her waist, while they swayed from side to side as she looked into his eyes and sang. They had a spotlight on them all the while, and I just died with embarrassment.

Why I didn't get up and run out of the place I'll never know. My husband wasn't high either as he had had only one Margarita, at the end of the song she gave him a big kiss.

Everyone applauded, and my jerky husband took a bow.

When we got back to our hotel we had a big argument over this. He has never in all our married life acted this way, and now I am wondering if he can be trusted. He says this wasn't "anything." I wonder what he thinks is.

CRUSHED: It wasn't planned, and although it did get a bit out of hand, I think you are making much too much of it. Forget it, and don't accuse your husband of imagined infidelities. You might give him ideas.

DEAR ABBY: In planning my wedding, I have come across a most unusual "mother problem."

My fiance's mother is an ordained minister, and she wants very much to preside at our wedding.

I am at a loss for a decision and I'm afraid that such a

Survey Describes Profile Of Accident-Prone Women

By PATRICIA MCCORMACK
NEW YORK (UPI) — All you shorter than average and quite feminine women, watch your step.

The accident-free women used the step stool.

—Ignoring cutting boards and using slippery table tops instead.

If the observers had to eat what was prepared, a stomach pump might have been in order.

When cigarette ash fell into cole slaw it was mixed right in by one accident-prone female.

The reason: you're accident prone.

A grant from the U.S. Public Health Service enabled psychologists to test 226 women and watch them at work in a kitchen. The profile of the accident-prone woman was one result.

The description of the accident-free woman, another finding, went like this: she is taller, calmer, faster at her work, well-organized, uses the correct tools and follows directions.

The women were put to work in a model kitchen in a trailer. It was of average size. Unknown to them, they were observed through a one-way mirror by two persons who noted their every move.

A kitchen was selected as the laboratory for the study since more disabling accidents occur in homes than on highways or in factories.

The victim of many of the mishaps is the housewife doing such everyday things as preparing meals, washing dishes, or doing the laundry.

The kitchen came complete with hazards, child's ball on the floor near the refrigerator, a towel bar pointing into the room, toaster, and iron set on high but unplugged.

Some needed items to perform prescribed tasks were placed high on shelves, out of reach.

Unsafe behavior observed in the process included:

- Using broom, mop or ironing board to knock bottles down from high shelves.
- Standing on a folding chair or card table to reach items.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

WED., JUNE 5
GENERAL TENDENCIES: The morning is not good for taking any chances not for buying articles of beauty, art, adornment, etc. However, later you are under beautiful aspects during the night for social and general prosperity and popularity through amusing others and enjoying the social and personal recreations that you like most.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Partners may be in a bad mood in A. M.; do not start any arguments, but later they relax and all is fine. Take them to some charming spot. While there, come to a perfect understanding about the future more wisely.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Take the bugs out of any superior work you may be engaged in plans that need revision. Believe tensions easily and wisely. Sit down with co-workers later in the day. Gain their cooperation through dramatic methods.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) There are some wise ways in which you can trim expenses here and there in A. M. Then get busy making finest talents pay off handsomely. Evening can then be devoted to the art of entertainment you like.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You have to use diplomacy in handling home affairs in A. M. And then the rest of the day goes very smoothly for you. Get your dinner. Evening is spent most pleasantly at home with family in a spirit of conviviality.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) Getting busy in the morning to clear up those cluttered-up matters that keep you from progressing is time very well spent. Then take care of that one too, or whatever. Socially tonight brings much happiness.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Some new course you want to pursue is good provided you first rid yourself of all that unnecessary trivia around you. Talk investigation you want to do is fine, also. Approaching experts so you can expand should also be done as early as possible.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) During morning others expect a great deal from you but you had better stall them off until after lunch. Then you can get things done successfully. The social scene is particularly wonderful tonight.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You can be very astute when you want to be and this is the morning when you can really make big headway by showing this quality in all that you do. Show that you are controlled. Then all goes just fine, especially tonight.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) All though ideas keep pecking away at you in A. M., be sure you study them thoroughly, before you start wheels rolling, or you could lose your shirt. Impress others with your intellect. Stop being so self-facing.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mrs. 20) Daytime would be best to do whatever makes your male feel really happy and comfortable. He's important to you use that intuition wisely in P.M. Don't get off the track or you really are in for it.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY...
he, or she, will be one of those charming young people to whom everyone is attracted, but teach early to rely on own abilities instead of just accepting the favors others bestow. There is much artistic ability in this chart and precision of action and much social grace which could even mean fame in the long run. College.

Scouting Scoops

The year-end trip for Troop 61 took members by train to Canyon and a tour of the museum and a picnic at Palo Duro State Park.

The Fly-up ceremony was held May 21 at the Rotary House for Troop 61. Mothers were invited to see the troop perform the playlet "How the Girl Scout Laws Were Written." Refreshments were carried out in green and gold Girl Scout colors.

Members of Troop 61 are Tamara Biggers, Valeria Butler, Carol Craig, Connie Jones, Kellie Jones, Cheryl Lewis, Peggy Lowrie, Donna Minnick, Penny Miser, Margaret Nabors, Beverly Owen, Nita Parsley, Rita Parsley, Kris Richardson, Teresa Shaw, Lori Taylor, Connie Thompson and Joyce Williams. Leader Mrs. J. D. Williams was assisted by Mrs. Robert Craig.

Brownie Troop 136 had a "Brownie night 1968" at the First Christian Church. Approximately 75 parents and friends were entertained by the troop with projects they learned during their first year in Scouting.

Guests were served refreshments prepared by the Brownies.

Yellow roses complimented the serving table. Music was provided by Connie Richardson.

Awards were given to Belinda Collins for perfect attendance, and to Pattie Estes, Cathie Henry, Rose Ann Miller and Pam Radcliff for having missed only one meeting during the year. PATS attending the training

NEW WAY TO A BEAUTIFUL BUSTLINE

Los Angeles—Are you a woman whose figure is on the good side but might look perfect if your bustline were improved? You'll be thrilled by the new easy way science has discovered for you to acquire this kind of figure perfection. If your bra size is less than 32 and larger than 36, A, B or C, then this new idea is not for you. If your bra size falls within this range, then you can realize a new, youthful, naturally rounded bust silhouette without special exercising or heavy, unnatural padding.

Young Secret is an all-new kind of weightless wonder bra constructed of science fibers One startling innovation is the manner in which this bra, once put on, feels just like you. It actually moves as if it were you and looks perfectly natural in every possible way.

The bra itself is of a beautiful nylon lace over a polyester fiberfill that will retain its natural shape for the life of the bra. The straps are comfortably stretchable and easily adjusted. The band is also stretchable for maximum freedom and comfort. This bra gives your figure everything that's possible with a bra.

"Young Secret" bras are the peak achievement of the designer-genius, Olga. They are available in both fully padded (sizes 32-34-36, A and B) and contour shell cup (C cup size, too) styles. In white, black and fashion shades. They can be found in our area at DRIVERS EDUCATION — Waiting for drivers' education students to start their training are several PHS teachers and Pampa automobile dealers who supply cars for summer school classes. The 470 students enrolled in PHS Summer school includes 316 drivers who will take drivers education training. Classes started Monday and will continue until July 20, six days a week.

Legislature

(Continued From Page 1) special session might last have varied between two weeks and two months, depending on how close the legislators agree with the governor's plan. An unofficial breakdown on the new taxes proposed in Connally's plan include: —$76.8 million from the sales tax revision. —$30.6 million by bringing automobiles under the proposed 3 per cent sales tax. —$1 million from a state stamp tax on land transfers. —$6 million from a 10 per cent gross receipts tax on private clubs. —$7.5 million by allowing restaurants and hotels to serve liquor in 1.6 ounce bottles and collect a tax of 10.5 cents per drink. —$7.5 million to be transferred from the drivers license fund of the Department of Public Safety to the general fund.

Knights Of Columbus Elects New Officers

The Knights of Columbus, Frank Keim Council, 2767, elected officers at their meeting Monday night. The following men were elected for the 1968-69 year: Chuck Albus, grand knight; Dwain Urbanczyk, deputy grand knight; A. J. Carubbi Sr., chancellor; Bill Hagerman, warden; Jules Fontenot, recorder; Jasper McBride, advocate; Hubert Johnson, inside guard; Jim Keough, outside guard; Lloyd Simpson,

Kennedy

(Continued From Page 1) broadcast Monday night by the National Broadcasting Co. indicated Kennedy 39 per cent, McCarthy 30 per cent, the uncommitted slate 15 and undecided voters 18 per cent. Poll Favors Kennedy Another poll taken Saturday and published Monday by the Los Angeles Times gave Kennedy 36 per cent, McCarthy 31, the uncommitted slate 15 and also showed 18 per cent in the undecided class. The Kennedy campaign crew, which had poor-mouthed about its prospects in Indiana, Nebraska and Oregon, displayed more confidence about the outcome in California, now the nation's most populous state. McCarthy said he usually finished strong, adding: "That's what I feel we're going to do here." McCarthy stopped campaigning at 6 p.m. Monday, saying, "You can't change voters after 6 p.m." Told that Kennedy had a late schedule of activities, McCarthy remarked: "It's an indication of his insecurity, I guess."

South Dakota Contest

McCarthy and Kennedy also were competing today in the South Dakota primary, with pledged slates of delegate candidates who will have 24 national convention votes. During this frenzied campaigning, Humphrey has been amassing most of the delegates in states choosing them by convention procedure or in primaries which do not bind the delegates. The UPI standings on the evening of the California vote showed: Humphrey, 560 1/2 delegate votes; McCarthy, 238; Kennedy, 19 1/2; George C. Wallace, 2; uncommitted, 24, and favorite son candidates, 291. Former Gov. Edmund G. Brown, a pro-Humphrey member of the Lynch delegate slate, announced Monday that he would vote for McCarthy.

AFS

(Continued From Page 1) a western cow calling contest, he said. Mrs. Eben Warner is chairman of host families committee. Mrs. Mack Hiatt, president this year, said, the motto of AFS "perhaps best describes our purpose, 'Walk together, talk together, ye peoples of the earth. For it is only then we will have peace.'" New AFS officers next year will be Mrs. E. L. Henderson, president; E. L. Henderson, finance chairman; Mr. and Mrs. Kirk Duncan, home selection chairmen; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hood, publicity chairmen; Howard Graham PHS faculty advisor; John English Americans Abroad coordinator, Mrs. Joe Donaldson is area AFS representative. The program is financed by contributions from Pampa civic clubs and the PHS student council, working with the AFS chapter here, Mrs. Hiatt said. The student council pays half of the school expenses, which include their senior rings, yearbooks, lunches, football tickets, and other school expenses, Mack Hiatt, treasurer this year, said.

Humphrey

(Continued From Page 1) son's name on the ballot while mentioning him as seldom as possible. For Humphrey, the South Dakotian born and bred, the greatest stumbling block here is the Johnson administration farm policy. Farm prices are down in this most agriculture of all states and the Johnsonian tag appears no blessing to any candidate. Scorching Weather The weather was blazing hot —100 degrees in this capital city —on election eve and another scorching was predicted in much of the state for election day. South Dakota's 1,581 precincts were open at 8 a.m., and voting was to continue until 7 p.m. local time. Democrats hoped their three-way brawl would stir up enough votes to top their 1934 primary record of 77,000. A Democratic turnout of around 60,000 seemed more likely and Republicans were expected to do at least as well or better. The Democratic winner gains 24 delegate votes hands down —and probably those of the automatically elected national committee woman as well. Nixon will pick up 14 GOP delegate votes.

Wedgeworth To Attend Conference

E. O. "Red" Wedgeworth, general manager of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce, will present a paper at the 62nd annual conference of the Texas Chamber of Commerce Managers Association, to be held in Longview June 8-10. Wedgeworth's paper will concern membership and finance. The Pampa CoC manager served as president of the organization for the fiscal year 1958-59. He is scheduled to receive recognition at the convention for 25 years of service to the organization. Mrs. Wedgeworth will accompany her husband to the meeting, which will have headquarters in the Contessa Inn. The conference theme will be "Motivation-Methods-Mechanics," and the program has been designed to equip TCCM members with the latest techniques in handling Chamber programs. TCCM President L. E. Gilliland, manager of the Texarkana Chamber of Commerce, described the conference program as being designed to "re-equip" Chamber managers to meet the challenges of change. Over 200 Chamber of Commerce managers and their wives from all parts of the state are expected to attend the conference. TCCM is the oldest state association of Chamber of Commerce executives in the United States and is also the largest such association in the nation.

Burglars Fail To Get Anything At 7-11 Grocery

Nothing was taken by burglars who entered the 7-11 Grocery at 915 W. Wilks last night according to a report by Pampa police. Entry was gained through an air vent and a soft drink machine was hit but the burglar or burglars were unable to get into the machine. In other news from local police, R. L. Grady of Pampa reported some credit cards were either stolen or lost and were being used without his permission. Also, a neighbor apparently scared off a burglar who was trying to enter a service station at 225 W. Brown. Nothing was taken and the neighbor saw the man leaving the scene. Additionally, a house owned by Jim Lyons at 1001 Darby was hit by vandals, who knocked out windows and did additional damage before leaving.

Red Cross Holds Breakfast Meet

The Board of Directors of the Gray County Chapter, American Red Cross, held a breakfast meeting in the Coronado Inn this morning to hear reports from standing committees and from delegates who recently attended the national convention in Denver, Col. J. S. Skelly Jr., chapter chairman, gave the treasurer's report in the absence of new treasurer Richard Hankins. The board members heard reports on the national convention from Skelly, Mrs. V. J. Drew, a director and Miss Polly Wagner, outgoing president of the high school Red Cross unit. Mr. Jack Foster, chairman of volunteers, reported on a new summer school project involving retarded children and minutes of the previous meeting and the annual meeting, held in May, were read by Mrs. A. D. Hills. The board voted to suspend the July and August meetings and will reconvene in September. Officers for the 1968-69 season are Skelly, chairman; D. V. Biggers, vice chairman; Mrs. A. D. Hills, secretary; and Hankins, treasurer. Board members are Norman Fritzer, Mrs. Hills, S. R. Lenning Jr., Joe M. Daniel Jr., Bill Fraser, James Trusty, Quincy Rogers, Mrs. Drew, and Mrs. Fred Thompson. Committee chairmen are James A. McCarley, membership and finance; Dr. Robt W. Harmon, blood; Joel R. Combs, public information; Mrs. Lee Harrah, chairman of hospital volunteers; Ted Gikas, first aid; Pete Irwin, water safety; Dan Johnson, Red Cross Youth; Mary McBride, high school Red Cross; V. E. Wagner, disaster committee; Mrs. R. O. Linville, nursing service; Mrs. Foster, volunteers; Mrs. Johnny Sybert, Lefors chairman; and Mrs. R. D. Wilson, service to military families. Dan Johnson gave the invocation to open this morning's meeting.

United Fund Will Hear Requests

The United Fund budget committee will review the requests of 21 agencies to be included in the 1969 United Fund program in a meeting at the Southwestern Public Service Company this afternoon. The six-man budget committee is scheduled to hold a meeting from 2 p.m. until late Tuesday night to consider and pass on the budgets of agencies to be under United Fund. This year, the United Fund accepted twelve agencies into their program. They were Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Red Cross, Salvation Army, USO, Pampa Welfare Index, Pampa Milk Fund, Gonzales Warm Spring Fund, Texas Mental Health, Medical Research Funds, United Community Funds and Council of America and Amarillo Cerebral Palsy Treatment Center. In addition, nine other agencies have requested United Fund approval. J. R. Ault, chairman of the budget committee and administrative manager of Celanese, announced that each major agency under consideration is invited to send a representative to the meeting.

Stickers Boost Rodeo In Pampa

Bumper stickers advertising the Top O' Texas Rodeo, scheduled this year for July 24-27, are available in the Pampa Chamber of Commerce offices in the Hughes Building. Rodeo association officials asked that any Pampans going on a trip come by the chamber offices and put a bumper sticker on their car to help advertise the annual event. Additional advertising, including window posters, will be distributed starting about July 1, officials said. In 1962 Gen Robert E. Bond was set at $1,000 by Justice of the Peace Ed Anderson today for Clinton Robert Doshier of Pampa on a charge of driving while intoxicated, second offense. Doshier was arrested last night by Pampa police after being observed on S. Cuyler street, the police report said.

Obituaries

BERTRAND N. BRADLEY Funeral services for Bertrand N. Bradley, 64, of Katy, were scheduled today at 4 p.m. at Katy Methodist Church, with burial in Memorial Oaks Cemetery under the direction of Smith Funeral Home in Brookshire. Mr. Bradley died Monday morning in a Houston hospital. He was employed as a gang supervisor for Humble Oil and Refining Co. Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Lettie Mae Bradley, of the home; two sons, James R. of Arizona and Curtis R. of San Diego, Calif.; four grandchildren, and two sisters.

Burglars Fail To Get Anything At 7-11 Grocery

Nothing was taken by burglars who entered the 7-11 Grocery at 915 W. Wilks last night according to a report by Pampa police. Entry was gained through an air vent and a soft drink machine was hit but the burglar or burglars were unable to get into the machine. In other news from local police, R. L. Grady of Pampa reported some credit cards were either stolen or lost and were being used without his permission. Also, a neighbor apparently scared off a burglar who was trying to enter a service station at 225 W. Brown. Nothing was taken and the neighbor saw the man leaving the scene. Additionally, a house owned by Jim Lyons at 1001 Darby was hit by vandals, who knocked out windows and did additional damage before leaving.

Conway Man Has A 'Menagerie' On Farm

CONWAY, Tex. (UPI) — One Panhandle farmer deals in more than the traditional cotton and grain commodities.

A. J. Britten devotes a few hundred acres of his 1,000-acre farm near Conway to a menagerie of exotic birds, buffaloes, monkeys and other animals.

To the north of Britten's farmhouse is a farmyard full of penned and loose animals of all kinds.

Brilliantly plumed peacocks strut free around the yard between cages where more exotic fowl are kept.

Perhaps the most beautiful of Britten's birds is the male Chinese golden pheasant. The bird has a bright red breast and back with splashes of blue and yellow on the wings and head. Around its neck is a feather harness of black and yellow stripes.

Birds From India

Small chukar partridges from India, as well as chickens and turkeys, are also penned in the yard.

When Britten enters the doorway to a small storage building where his smaller animals are kept, a large red, green, blue and yellow macaw screeches a shrill "hello."

In other cages in the middle of the room are small gray cockatoos, with white wing tips and green and orange heads.

In an adjacent cage are jacobins. They strut around the cage with their neck feathers fluffed around their heads.

Two monkeys, one a cinnamon ringtail and the other a blackface ringtail, are caged in the middle of the room. They screech and climb around the cage when anyone comes near.

Big Animals Too

Britten's big animals roam parts of his farm.

Eleven buffaloes he got from the federal government in Oklahoma are in a field just east of Britten's house. One cow, named Polly, is so gentle she will sometimes come when Britten calls and will allow herself to be patted.

There are six aoudad sheep in the same field.

In another field, Britten keeps his herd of whiteface cattle along with five Longhorn cattle and over 20 head of shetland ponies.

Asian sheep and several head of small European white deer are also part of the collection.

Britten said through the years he has acquired most of his animals in trades with zoos and private parties.

Efefore his health started failing recently, Britten had many more animals such as foxes, skunks and bobcats on his farm. But, he has been getting rid of most of the animals that require the most care and attention.

He says he collects animals because "I just like to look at them."

This Art Has Depth

There are no depths, apparently, to which a painter will not go for the sake of art. Addison Loomis, a free-lance artist for the last 21 years and full-time diver at a California marineland, decided to combine his vocation and avocation and now does his painting underwater. The 45-year-old former Air Force pilot soon found he had some obstacles to overcome. He devised a net-covered bucket to hold his equipment. The net keeps the gear in and the hungry fish out. Another innovation is a wrist loop which holds his brushes and palette knife, keeping them from floating away. One thing is certain: With the Pacific Ocean at his doorstep, Loomis should never run out of subject matter.

Odds And Ends On The American Scene

By GAY PAULEY
NEW YORK (UPI)—Some observations on the American scene:

The other day on a business trip through a small town I spotted a wonderful safety sign at an intersection near school. It said simply, "Caution, Deers crossing."

A gardening friend of mine was remarking on the unusual blossoms on a rose bush, half of the petals palest pink, the others a deep red. "These combinations are showing up all over gardens in the area," he said. "One of my neighbors has given the rose a name—Careless Love."

An associate of mine, who is the father of two children and who has been in the news profession long enough not to be startled by anything, still has to struggle adapting to the "unisex," the boys looking like girls, the girls dressing like the boys. The flowing locks of some of the young men confound him completely.

"The other day," he confessed, "I stepped aside to let a girl get off the elevator first. You know what I found as I walked out behind her? 'She' was a 'he'."

It is one woman's view that the only thing worse than breaking in a new pair of shoes is breaking in a new girdle.

Plainview Girl Scouts Send Candy To GIs In Vietnam

While Vietnam peace talks continue in Paris, Girl scouts in Plainview, Tex., are mounting a major offensive of their own.

A simple project which began last December when a Girl Scout troop sent candy to a soldier in Vietnam has grown into a major clothing collection to assist victims of the Tet offensive.

Capt. Bob Evans of the U.S. Military Assistance Command, assigned as an advisor to the 22nd Vietnamese Infantry Division near Qui Nhon, has received 47 large boxes of clothing for women and children from Girl Scout Troop 381 in Plainview.

Capt. Evans is the son of two more girl scout troops, 287 of Plainview and the Hart Girl Scout Troop of Hart, have joined the effort.

Capt. Evans is the son of Mrs. Monty Staniforth Jr. of Plainview.

The first package from the girl scouts contained a large box of cookies and candy.

"They sent so much that I took most of it to the children of soldiers in the ordnance company that I advise," Evans said. The captain wrote the girls and told them what he had done and they decided to periodically send other packages for the Vietnamese children

Drysdale Can Break Hubbell's Record

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Don Drysdale has a shot at two records tonight.

He'd settle for one and be delighted with both but the one thing he won't settle for is an asterisk alongside either.

The 31-year-old Dodger right-hander can break Carl Hubbell's record string of 46 1-3 consecutive scoreless innings when he goes against the Pirates in Los Angeles tonight. Drysdale already has 45 straight zips to his credit and if he blanks Pittsburgh he'll also set a major league high with six shutouts in a row.

Where some people, like the Giants, for example, think that asterisk might come in was in the last game Drysdale pitched Friday night. The game was with the Giants and although big Don shut them out there was what quite safely might be called some disagreement during the ninth inning.

The Giants had filled the bases with none out and Dick Dietz, their catcher, was hit by a pitch, apparently forcing in a run.

But the plate umpire, Harry Wendelstedt, said otherwise. He ruled Dietz had made no attempt to get out of the way of the pitch, therefore was not entitled to take first base and would have to keep basing.

Giants Ho!

You never heard so much raving and screaming in your life. Dick Dietz hollered his head off and jumped up a n d down. Herman Franks belted Dick Dietz out of the way and said, here, let a professional do it. He hollered his head off and jumped up and down.

Harry Wendelstedt, cool, calm and collected, simply did two things and not necessarily in the order of their importance. He wiped off home plate and kicked out Herman Franks.

The game went on and Drysdale nailed down his shutout by getting Dietz on a shallow fly ball and retiring the next two batters.

Now you know why the Giants are yelling asterisk. Drysdale suggests they get themselves a rule book and study it.

"It's definitely in the rules," he says. "If the Giants want to play the game by their own rules, that's fine. If they want to throw some of the other rules away, that's fine, too. But as long as they agree to play by these rules they can find this particular one in the book. It's rule 6.08. It says a hitter must get out of the way of a pitched ball. He (Dietz) definitely didn't make any attempt to get out of the way of the pitch. I've seen it rerun and rerun on television. I've seen it in slow motion. It's the same in every film. He didn't try to get out of the way. He just stood there. So I don't care what the Giants say."

Drysdale can't say enough for Wendelstedt. Not so much for his call but the way he made it.

Didn't Hesitate

"He called it right away," says Drysdale. "Regardless of whether he called it for me or against me, I give Harry Wendelstedt all the credit in the world. He showed me an awful lot of courage calling it the way The rule is in the book and he he did. Everyone knows he's an umpire who goes by the book.

As for tonight's game with the Pirates, Drysdale says the first thing he's thinking about is winning. Then, since he's human, he'd like breaking Hubbell's record and the mark for shutouts also if he gets the chance.

ADD PITCHER
HOUSTON (UPI) — Relief pitcher Pat House was recalled from Oklahoma City and added to the roster of the Houston Astros. It was announced Monday.

The 27-year-old House worked 14 games and had a 3-1 record with the Pacific Coast League team. He is filling the spot left by Danny Coombs, who was called to military duty along with Doug Rader and Norm Miller.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI) — Gene Kotlarek, 26, a five-time national ski jumping champion, Monday was named as coach of the United States ski jumping team.

Kotlarek, twice a member of the U.S. Olympic team, in 1960 and 1964, retired from competition only last year after injuring his foot.

LUNN ADVANCES
PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (UPI) — Bob Lunn, a winner for the second consecutive week on the Professional Golf Association tour, jumped into sixth place among the top money winners.

Lunn, who captured the Atlanta Classic Sunday, ran his earnings to $57,831. Billy Casper is in first place with a total of $104,243. Tom Weiskopf is second at $85,552 and George Archer stands in third place with $63,146.

names played at the Atlanta (Ga.) Country Club, where Dave Stockton shot a 6-under-par 138 to lead a 29-man field into the 1968 Open classic.

Collects Trophies
Snead has a mantle topped with trophies won since he put on his first pair of golf shoes. In recent years he captured the PGA seniors' championship (1964-65-67). He won the Masters three times, the PGA on three occasions and the British Open in 1946. The U.S. Open has been the jinx tournament.

The array of talent at Indianapolis included Bob McCallister, Al Bessellink, amateur Dale Morey and Peter Thomson of Australia.

At the Montclair, N.J., Golf Club, the field of 119 forced officials to post the competitors in two sections as they sought 19 Open berths. Jim Turnesa, Tom Nieports, Vic Ghezzi, Bill Hyndman, who gave up a chance to play in the British amateur to attempt Open qualification), Doug Ford and Dick Stranahan were in the lineup.

The Sewickley Heights Golf Club in Pittsburgh had Australian Bruce Devlin, Britain's Tony Jacklin and Bobby Cole of South Africa in its alignment.

Action also was geared for the Woodmont Country Club, Washington, D.C.; Eellerive Country Club, St. Louis; Silverado Country Club, San Francisco; Knottwood Country Club, Detroit; and Bakersfield Country Club, Bakersfield, Calif.

Lunn Qualifies
Bob Lunn, who achieved a rare double for a 25-year-old pro by winning back-to-back tournaments, qualified at Atlanta CC with a 71-72-143.

Those joining Lunn read like a "Who's Who in Golf. Hideyo Sugimoto of Japan was in with a 139; 1967 British amateur king Bob Dickson had a 143; Bruce Crampton carded a 140, as did Mason Rudolf; Billy Maxwell came through with a 144, the same as cigar-smoking Charlie Sifford; Johnny Pott had a 145 and Terry Dill a 146.

John Schlee paced the qualifiers at Dallas with a 138 and was joined by Jack Montgomery (139), Bill Blanton (140), Bruce Fleisher (141), Rex Baxter (142) and Jeff Voss (143) who won in a four-man playoff for the last berth.

Rookie pro Joe McDermott, who qualified for the U.S. Open as an amateur last year, set a course record 138 at Earrington Hills in Chicago.

Young Ft. Worth Pro Qualifies For United States Open Tourney

DALLAS (UPI) — Five pros, led by John Schlee's six-under-par 36-hole total of 138, and one amateur advanced through Monday's qualifying round for the US Open.

Schlee, a touring pro for four years, shot four straight birdies in the afternoon round on way to a five-under-par 67 to go with his first round of one-under-par 71.

Jack Montgomery, the young Fort Worth pro who led all golfers in the first Open qualifying round two weeks ago, finished second with a 71-68-139 over the par 72, 6,840 yard Dallas Athletic Club course.

The only amateur to qualify at Dallas was Bruce Fleisher of Miami, Fla. who shot a 71-70-

141. The other pros were Bill Blanton of Humble, Tex., 70-70-140; Rex Baxter of Amarillo, Tex., 73-69-142, and Jeff Voss of Dallas, 7-73-143.

Voss won the sixth position when he birdied the first hole of a sudden death playoff. He had been tied after 36 holes with Earl Smith of Oklahoma City, Bobby Goetz of Longview, Tex., and Ras Allen of Garland, Tex.

Ex-Texas League Head Dies At 78

DALLAS (UPI) — J. Alvin Gardner, who went from batboy to head the Texas League for 23 years, died at his home Monday at the age of 78.

Gardner served as Texas League president from 1930 until 1953, more than twice as long as any other man ever served in that position. He was one of the driving forces behind getting the league back on its feet after it had been inactive during World War II.

He was three times a member of the National Association three-man executive committee, which ran the minor leagues. Gardner first became involved in baseball when he was a batboy for Beaumont in 1903. He bought into the Wichita Falls club in the Texas League in 1920 and took over control in 1925.

Five years later he sold his club to become president of the league and moved its headquarters to Dallas. He and his brother Craig also owned Gardner Brothers, an oil drilling and producer company.

Funeral services were scheduled for 10 a.m. Wednesday.

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UPI) — American Hockey League secretary-treasurer Jack Button has stepped down from his post, it was announced Monday.

Jack Butterfield, league president, said Button gave no reason for resigning. It was not known who will succeed Button.

Cards Top Astros For Sixth In Row

By VITO STELLINO
UPI Sports Writer

It's time to stop wondering what's wrong with the St. Louis Cardinals and time to start wondering whether they're going to make another runaway of the National League race.

When the Cardinals went into a hitting slump and lost 11 out of 13 games last month to drop out of first place, it looked like the club had lost its touch of a year ago.

But since last Thursday the Cardinals have suddenly revived the memories of the "El Birdos" of a year ago who made a mockery out of the traditional tight National League race.

The Cards battered Houston 7-2 Monday night for their sixth straight victory since last Thursday and they're even in a better position in the race now than they were a year ago.

Early Decisio

The Cards lead the league by one game with a 28-21 record and a .571 percentage. On June 3, 1967 the Cards had a 26-17 record for a .605 percentage although they trailed Cincinnati by three games. But Cincinnati collapsed with injuries, the Cards beat off a challenge by the Chicago Cubs and the race was over by August.

If the Cards keep up their hitting of the last six games, they may be able to repeat. They've scored 31 runs in the last six games compared to 23 in the previous 15 at the end of May.

Mike Shannon drove in three runs with two doubles and a sacrifice fly and Cepeda drove in two with three hits including his sixth homer of the season to pace the Cardinal attack and make it easy for Nelson Briles to win his sixth game.

Elsewhere in the National League, Philadelphia nipped San Francisco 1-0, Atlanta edged Cincinnati 3-2 and Los Angeles blanked Pittsburgh 2-0.

In the American League, Boston nipped Detroit 4-3, Cleveland edged Chicago 3-2 in 14 innings, Baltimore blanked California 2-0 and Minnesota shutout New York 4-0.

The Cards got three runs in the fourth to start their rout. Singles by Julian Javier and Curt Flood, Cepeda's single, Shannon's first double and Dal-Maxvill's single scored the runs. Shannon doubled in another in the fifth and the Cards got two more in the seventh to knock out starter and loser Denny Lemaster.

Cepeda's homer in the ninth wrapped up things for Briles, who was touched for 11 hits but survived since he had a big cushion.

Short Wins One

Chris Short broke his five-game losing streak with a five-hitter as the Phils nipped the Giants. Roberto Pena singled in the only run of the game in the seventh inning—an unearned run—to pin the loss on Ray Sadecki, now 6-6.

Veterans Ken Boyer and Rocky Colavito singled in first inning runs as the Dodgers topped Pittsburgh. Claude Osteen pitched a seven hitter to gain the victory. Bob Veale suffered the loss. Osteen is 4-7 and Veal is 2-6.

Tito Francona singled in the tie-breaking run in the sixth inning and Claude Raymond pitched three innings of scoreless relief bell as Atlanta topped Cincinnati. The Reds got two runs in the first on doubles by Pete Rose and Tommy Helms and Alex Johnson's single but couldn't score again off winner Ken Johnson and Raymond. Joe Torre's two-run homer in the fourth tied the score.

World Series Hero Preserves Win After Getting Standing Ovation

By FRED DOWN
UPI Sports Writer

Manager Dick Williams called for Jim Lonborg and suddenly it was like 1967 all over again for the Boston Red Sox.

The crowd of 17,552 at Boston's Fenway Park rose Monday night in a standing ovation for the pitching hero of the Red Sox' American League pennant victory. This was Lonborg's first appearance at Fenway since the World Series and it was "for real," too, because his mission was to preserve a 4-3 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

Lonborg, who suffered torn ligaments in his left knee in a winter skiing accident after winning 22 games last season, was tied for the first time in 1968 last Friday night with the Red Sox trailing in a game they eventually lost to the Oakland Athletics.

Saves Win
Lonborg took over Monday night for Jose Santiago after Jim Northrup's two-run single cut the Tigers' deficit to one run and left two runners on base with two out. Lonborg hit Bill Frehan with a pitched ball, filling the bases, but retired Willie Horton on a fielders choice to end the threat he protected the lead until Gates Brown doubled and Dick McAuliffe walked with two out in the ninth and Sparky Lyle was summoned to retire Jim Northrup for the final out of the game.

Lonborg and Williams agreed that it was an impressive performance although the manager said Jim will remain in the bullpen for a while. His Monday night stint helped Santiago to his sixth victory and enabled the Red Sox to climb to the .500 mark.

The Red Sox scored all their runs in the fifth inning on a walk, doubles by Carl Yastrzemski and Ken Harrelson and singles by Rico Petrocelli and Elston Howard. McAuliffe homered for the Tigers' first run in the third.

The Baltimore Orioles defeated the California Angels 2-0, the Minnesota Twins nipped the New York Yankees 4-3 and the Cleveland Indians scored a 3-2 14-inning victory over the Chicago White Sox in other AL games.

Cards Swamp Astros

The St. Louis Cardinals beat the Houston Astros 7-2, the Philadelphia Phillies edged the San Francisco Giants 1-0, the Atlanta Braves nipped the Cincinnati Reds 3-2 and the Los Angeles Dodgers defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates 2-0 in National League games.

Dave McNally pitched a five-hitter and struck out 12 to even his season record at 5-5 for the Orioles. Boog Powell hit a two-run homer in the eighth, his eighth of the season.

Third baseman Bobby Cox' error with two on and none out in the eighth inning enabled Harmon Killebrew to score from second base with the Twins' winning run. Two plays later Cox was the middle man of the AL's first triple play of the season—started when relief pitcher Dooley Womack speared a line drive by John Roseboro. Ron Perranoski, who pitched shutout ball for 3-13 innings, was credited with his fifth win against one loss.

Jose Vidal homered off reliever Jack Fisher with two out in the 14th to give the Indians their victory over the White Sox. The Indians, who snapped the White Sox' four-game winning streak, tied the score in the ninth when Vic Davalillo singled, stole second and tallied on Willie Smith's single off 44-year-old reliever Hoyt Wilhelm.

REPLACE HILLER

Pittsburgh (UPI)—The Pittsburgh Pirates asked waivers on veteran infielder Chuck Hiller Sunday night and recalled Fred Patek from their Columbus, Ohio, farm club to replace him.

Hiller, 32, a seven-year major league veteran, was drafted from San Diego last November. He had five hits in 13 trips to the plate in 11 games for the Pirates this season.

Television In Review

Frightening Picture
 By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—"The Prisoner," CBS-TV's new one-hour weekend series, obviously means a great deal personally—besides money—to its star, Patrick McGeehan. He created it, is executive producer and wrote and directed several of the episodes. Those who came to admire McGeehan in the "Secret Agent" series once again will note his individualism.

Individualism, in fact, is what "The Prisoner" is really all about, as last Saturday's premiere indicated. Technically, the story—a sort of futuristic horror-spy melodrama—concerns a man who has quit his highly confidential job and is kidnapped by unknown assailants who take him to a mysterious, self-contained, fairland-like village from which no one escapes. For story purposes, the powers-that-be are after information he has. But actually the whole story is a parable.

Resists Conformity
 The prisoner resists compromising his individuality in this outwardly pretty village. And suddenly we realize we are watching the closest thing a television series has come to creating the world of "1984." But at least in "1984" one knew the enemy was really an enemy. In "The Prisoner," there is a terrifying technicolor, suburban-lawn type of atmosphere. What is Mr. McGeehan trying to tell us? We know, of course.

The village is a sort of ominous Disneyland, with piped-in soft music, and public announcements over hidden loudspeakers. The community is planned down to the last horrible detail. Television entertainment has yet to make a more devastating comment against collectivism, insipid togetherness, statism and communal living. Ayn Rand may well love "The Prisoner," but so will a lot of other people, if the style continues.

Village officials have files on everybody. The prisoner resists going along with the game, despite the offer of a good job. He refuses to be filed, indexed, stamped, briefed, debriefed. He

Pancho Villa 'Fiesta' Set In Texas City

By KENNETH R. CLARK
 EDINBURG, Tex. (UPI)—The legendary Pancho Villa had anything but fiesta on his mind when he and his hard-riding band of "dorados" swept across northern Mexico back around the turn of the century. The short-barreled, lever-action .32 cal. Winchester rifle which he carried was strictly for shooting people.

The rifle, however, now has passed into the hands of the is disgusted at what many may recognize as the terrified bourgeois dream of absolute security and protection. He is not turned on by "senior citizens" playing games.

There is a sign that says, "A still tongue makes a happy life." There are homes with all the suffocatingly cute, modern conformist devices—from furniture to memo pads. Suddenly the thought of freedom is like a tonic. The sight of this permanent retirement village for human beings is positively nauseating, as intended. One gets the creeps looking at the stereotypes of scared conformists who aren't that far removed from today.

The village is literally a living hell—but instead of an inferno, it is outwardly a comfortable bit of sweetness and light. It reminds you a bit of those antiseptic communities built around golf courses, with lots of communal activity. There are marching bands and silly parades, and it is done quite theatrically, with something of a Fellini touch in certain film moments. Television has never had anything quite like "The Prisoner." Or Mr. McGeehan, for that matter.

Hidalgo County Historical Society, and—along with a gallows in what once served as a city hall, and the revival of an old feud over where the county seat should be located—it will serve as the nucleus for an annual fiesta for the city of Edinburg.

All that remains now is the need of a name for the event, and a $10 reward is being offered for that.

The rifle, carried on many a campaign in Mexican revolutionary days, was given by Villa in 1915 to early-day Hidalgo County deputy Sheriff Albert Tagle—a former Texas Ranger whom the guerrilla leader of the "Army of the North" had admired. The weapon subsequently was passed on to Tagle's son, now retired Edinburg Police Lt. L. J. Tagle, who in turn has given it to the historical society.

It will be placed in the county's museum—to be located in the old Hidalgo County jail, which soon is to be restored.

The jail, built in 1910 at a cost of $75,000, sports a gallows trap door over the main entrance. It was used only once—in 1913—in the hanging of convicted killer Abraham Ortiz. The state, with its electric chair, took over capital punishment chores shortly thereafter, and the city of Edinburg took over the jail for municipal offices.

A false ceiling was placed over the trap door when gentler business moved into the building but when the now-crumbling edifice is restored as a museum, the old gallows trap will again be visible in all of its grim detail.

How's Business

Activity Resumes Upward Course

By THE BABSON STAFF
 Business activity resumed its upward course in May. In the preceding month, industrial production was unable to exceed the seasonal norm because of the riot-caused disruptions early in April. But this pause was offset by the May advance. The Babson Composite Business Chart climbed to 155.2, the highest level since the mini-recession of late 1966 through spring 1967.

Automobile output was the strong point in industrial production during the month. Encouraged by the high level of new car sales, automobile producers stepped up their output.

As a result, automotive accessories also enjoyed good business.

Elsewhere in the industrial scene, there was little upward impetus. However, activity in Non-electrical Machinery, aircraft, and business equipment continued at brisk rates. Consumer durable goods and staples, chemicals, and paper and paper products were also areas of sustained high-level production. Steel output held well, but the upward climb of recent months has apparently tapered off. The rush of strike-hedge inventory buying has subsided, although there may yet be a last-ditch spurt in the late spring and early summer weeks if there is no sign of a pre-deadline labor contract settlement.

Employment conditions were distinctly favorable. Moreover it is expected that the average length of factory work week which had been curtailed a little in the early weeks of April, will show a good rebound. Personal income figures should also reveal renewed vitality. Retail trade in May snapped back nicely.

Prospects remain favorable. There is still a husky backlog of unfilled orders at the manufacturer's level, and new orders have been holding in a near-peak range. Another bolstering factor is the strength in consumer spending. But from here on in, we must watch closely for any adverse effects of the tighter credit climate.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Alexander Hamilton Institute says downside risk apparently is limited with some $3 billion in mutual funds available for investment. The advisory service says that as long as the "flight from the dollar" continues, stock prices can be expected to work their way higher.

Reynolds & Co. says the "concept of performance" seems to be gripping the market, with the strength supplied by inflation, to which the government "is committed." The firm says that while inflation may "cause a lot of trouble some day" the day is far off, and says that this is a market "in which to be a frightened bull, but a bull nevertheless."

Shearson, Hammill & Co. says that while a collapse of the Vietnam talks in Paris would be upsetting to the market, it doubts that institutional investors, short sellers and odd-lotters would "stay on the sell side for long." Thus, the company would advise investors "to approach the stock market reasonably boldly, although not carelessly."

The Pampa Daily News

A Watchful Newspaper

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE
The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license, nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself. No more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Fruit of Managed Currency

It is now 34 years since Franklin D. Roosevelt declared in a fireside chat, "We are thus continuing to move toward a managed currency." It is less than two months since William McChesney Martin, head of the Federal Reserve Bank, warned that the nation is facing the worst financial crisis since 1931. For many months we have been hearing that the nation is enjoying the longest boom in its history, and that we've never had it so good. Why, then, the dire warning from the Federal Reserve chieftain?

For one thing, every administration subsequent to that of Franklin D. Roosevelt has continued the "move toward a managed currency." The most recent steps toward that goal were the removal of silver from the most of the coinage, and the removal of the remaining gold reserve from behind our paper currency.

It was the Britisher, John Maynard Keynes, who came out with his queer economics in 1936 prescribing something called "deficit financing." That, it should be noted, calls for spending more than is collected in taxes, and charging the difference to posterity. The prescription was accepted with great glee by politicians anxious to buy votes, although a dozen or more of the world's top economists have documented its inherent idiocy. Still, no administration in 30 years has had the knowledge and courage to toss the prescription in the waste basket.

With the king-sized deficit which faces us for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1969, the Congress will have voted to spend more of the taxpayers' money than it was willing to collect taxes in 33 of the past 39 years. Thus, since that happy evening in 1934, the national funded-interest bearing debt has escalated from a mere $30.4 billion to $352.5 billion as of March 1 of this year.

After the 1960 election, Maurice Stans, who had been Eisenhower's budget director, stated that the total of federal obligations was in excess of a trillion dollars. The late Senator Harry F. Byrd, Sr., computed it more precisely before he died. He came up with a total, including what he called legislated and contractual obligations, in excess of one and-a-quarter trillion dollars. That is $6250 for every man, woman and child in the nation.

How much more managed currency can you afford?

The Study of Witchcraft

For several weeks now various spokesmen for the Administration have been warning the Congress that any plan to cut the President's budget by as much as the $6 billion proposed will necessarily mean halting work on federally financed road building and public works projects in the home districts of Congressmen.

Unquestionably these threats are going to register with some Congressmen this election year. It is to be hoped, however, that each Congressman and Senator will make it his business to read some testimony just made public by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee concerning expenditures by the Defense Department. It's revealed, for example, that the Pentagon is financing "research" in forty countries under contracts with various universities and institutes. What are they researching? Well, among other things they're investigating the extraordinary ability of Korean women divers to adapt to cold water: the political influence of university students in Latin America; antidotes to poisonous snake venoms in the Middle East; the sensitivity of Italians to anti-malaria drugs, and various aspects of witchcraft and other psychological phenomena in the Congo.

And that is only a sampling of a $34 million-a-year program of social and behavioral science which is asking for a staggering $8 billion for research next year. Needless to say a very great deal of that money will go for studies that cannot possibly be defended as relating to military affairs.

Isn't it time for a moratorium on such nonsense, until we get our financial affairs in order in this country? The study of witchcraft already, as is evidenced by a pressing problem. The Administration knows enough about witchcraft already, as is evidenced by its intimidation of Congressmen while squandering millions of dollars on stupid studies in forty countries around the globe.

Indeed, it would be possible to fill this page of the paper with incredible "studies" which are being financed out of the public treasury. Every department in Washington has its quota of them. For the duration of the dollar crisis, the Congress might see how much of the $6 billion budget cut can be trimmed out of the "nonsense" research grants.

Distusted Cop Cops Out

Lt. Raymond Schreiner was so unhappy with his lot that he resigned after 16 years on the Bygonne, N.J., police force. His reason for quitting? "Lack of respect for policemen," he said.

"Trying to enforce the law within a growing number of often unrealistic ground rules also played a part in Schreiner's decision. 'Who ever heard of an army having to bow to the very people they are being paid to control?' he wanted to know.

"Police work is about the only occupation, aside from the military, that offers little prestige, lousy hours, low pay and an occasional chance to get one's head blown off.

"Schreiner performed his job for 16 years under these conditions. To him, it was all part of being a cop. But 16 years of being considered by some a free-loader at the public trough, of being called "flatfoot" and "suzz" by jeering young punks and of having his intelligence and legitimacy questioned by drunken drivers and wife beaters finally became too much.

"Schreiner's resignation points to one often overlooked fact—cops are human, even as you

The new high-intensity language training course devised by the Peace Corps shows that some volunteers learn to speak a language in four weeks as well as many college majors do after four years, and many speak the language well after 12 weeks. The intensity of techniques calls for 200 hours of class training in 30 days and 100 additional hours spread throughout the remainder of the instruction program.

Today's smile: A youngster asked his father: "Dad, what is an inscrutable smile?" The father answered: "It's the kind, my boy, your mother puts on when I tell her I'll be working late at the office."

The cigarette industry is rapidly going "filter happy." That is apparent from reading the ads or watching TV commercials. At any rate one of the big tobacco firms is about to introduce a filter with a window so the smoker can see the filter at work, which is liable to make sidewalk superintendents in miniature out of all cigarette smokers. And, brace yourself another innovator thinks he has the answer to cigarette smoking by inserting a flavor in a filter which is released in the tip of the cigarette and dissolved in water to create a pleasant taste. That could conceivably lead to 18 flavors, like Howard Johnson's ice cream.

Thoughts while shaving: If you missed EXPO '67 at Montreal you can really see the second edition of this great show this year. It's now in progress and will remain open until mid-October. EXPO's successor is named Man and His World. It features national presentations of 45 countries in breath-taking exhibits at national pavilions. Of course the fun or amusement side is running like last year. So, if you didn't see it in '67 we urge you not to miss it in '68. Insurance premium discounts are granted to students who complete recognized driver education courses, but they are available in only 13,000 of the nation's 18,000 public high schools. Wonder what the youngster does who cannot attend one of the schools offering such courses? ... Tampa, Fla., is now the cigar-making capitol of the world, but the U.S. cigar industry started in Key West in 1831. That city lost out in the late 1800s because of a lack of adequate transportation. Tampa had a railroad and the cigar makers moved there. ... Captains of sailing ships had compasses to keep them on course, but they needed something to measure speed and distance. Someone devised a log chip and line. The chip was a disk, weighted on the bottom of the curve to make it point upward. It was attached to a strong line knotted at intervals at 47 feet, 3 inches. The chip was dropped in the wake of the ship and the line unrolled. After 28 seconds the line was hauled in and the number of knots counted, which told the speed of the ship. ... The Lowell (Mass.) SUN headlined a story: "Says Men Have More Auto Accidents Than Women." Even if true no one would believe it.

Country Editor speaker:

"The easiest way for a man to appear prosperous is to buy his wife a Cadillac convertible."

Bevel Defines Poor People's Goals For Liberal Congressmen in Revolutionary Terms

WASHINGTON — Leaders of the "Poor People's" campaign are revealing goals to liberal members of Congress that are much more revolutionary than those highlighted in their public statements.

During a private meeting arranged by Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., the Rev. James Bevel, a member of the campaign's inner circle, visibly shook a number of the legislators by citing five unpublished objectives, as follows:

To re-distribute the wealth of the U.S. and turn the means of production over to the people.

To eliminate all armaments. The people, Bevel says, can only get rid of their fears if the military will put down their guns and missiles. All local and state police must be "re-oriented."

To eliminate all violence in the world defined by Bevel as all disciplinary relationships. Example: "We do not believe in a parent making a child conform to a certain norm."

To rid the world of all the "fascists and jitter bug fascists." The former being conservative members of Congress and the press. The latter are liberals that fail to join or support the "Poor People's" campaign.

THE GREAT DRAMA — Appearing in coveralls and with a Castro-type beard, Bevel lectured the GOP group for an hour and a half after Senator Percy had introduced him and endorsed the "Poor People's" campaign.

Unlike the emotional speaker, Rev. Ralph Abernathy, director of the campaign, Bevel spoke softly and never raised his voice while detailing the mass movement's objectives.

The whole struggle of this Poor People's campaign is economic class warfare," Bevel bluntly stated. "There must be a complete re-distribution of wealth in this country one way or the other."

When one of the GOP lawmakers questioned Bevel about the purpose of the "Poor People's" campaign, Bevel described it as "a great human theatrical drama being enacted to educate the people of the U.S. and the world."

"In this great dramatic play," he stated, "there are senators, congressmen, police, apathetic citizens, and the poor people. All have their roles to play."

In a forecast of things to come, the militant Bevel warned: "Various scenes of this great play will be violent. But in the end all will be peaceful because fear and hate will have been eliminated from the U.S. and the world."

PINNING HIM DOWN—Questioned about his loyalty to the U.S. the militant black power advocate replied: "I feel no responsibility to a nation-state. I represent conscious energy, which is a universal phenomena. As a result, I don't get too excited when I see a rag on a stick called a

Question Box

QUESTION: How does contract apply to the schooling of children?

ANSWER: Under the government monopoly, tax-supported school system, there is no contract. Schooling SHOULD be a matter of contract between the parents and the school, where the school specifies the services it will provide and the kind of training and education it will make available to the pupil and what it will cost. The parents would then be free to decide if this is what they want for their children and enter into the contract or not. If they enter into the contract and the school fails to live up to terms of the contract, the parents can then withdraw their children from the school and cease payment and find another school that does provide what they want and does live up to its agreements.

Such competition would vastly improve the quality of schooling available to all people.

Parents certainly cannot do this under the tax-supported school system. Such schooling is not on a valid contract basis.

In our answer to the Question Box on May 1 about contracts we said that a contract is an agreement between two or more people to accomplish a specific purpose where all the parties agree to the terms and conditions in the absence of force or fraud, and that one person cannot obligate another to a contract unless the principal has authorized the agent.

Tax-supported schools do not fulfill that definition. They collect their fees by force, and force parents to send their children to the school. A contract made under force or threat of force is no contract.

In addition, taxes are taken from people who have no children, from those whose children attend other schools on a proper contract basis, and from those elderly people whose children are long out of school. Such people are then obligated to a "contract" without their consent.

Another aspect of a proper contract is that all parties undertake to provide value to the other parties — where one party provides goods or services, the other provides payment for such goods or services, and both parties receive value. Without such an exchange of value no contract exists. Where parents are dissatisfied with the quality of schooling, and where outside parties are forced to support the government schools it is difficult to see how there is an exchange of value.

86,000 miles, — and made 74 port calls during the second year of commercial operation. SHOOTING LOOTERS
The great debate that raged during the post-King-funeral riots, and will continue to rage in the wave of ghetto rioting this summer, is: Should looters be shot?

Many defenders of property rights are backing the position of Chicago's Mayor Richard Daley that looters would be shot by the police, and are criticizing such officials as New York's Mayor John Lindsay, who maintains that his police will not shoot children for looting stores. The issue is being posed: the lives of the looters vs. the property rights of the merchants.

Those libertarians who favor maximum force to stop looting had best reconsider their position. Would they, for example, favor executing a young lad who steals an apple from a fruit-stand? If not, why not? Are not property rights sacred?

The confusion here comes not from a disagreement on the right of the merchant to his property, but from an absence, among libertarians, of a well-thought-out theory of punishing invasions of that property right. Among those who have thought about this problem, there is a division of opinion; some libertarians oppose any use of force even in self-defense. While I deeply respect his position, I do not agree with it. I believe that everyone has the right to use violence in defense of this property against invasion, but only in some kind of proportion to the crime itself. Any punishment must be limited to being proportionate to the crime; in the old phrase, "let the punishment fit the crime." Therefore, if a man is attacked by a criminal and his life is in danger, he has, in my point of view, a perfect right to defend himself by any means necessary, up to and including the killing of the attacker. But if a merchant sees a kid running off with his apple he has no right whatever to shoot that kid, because that would be tantamount to capital punishment for a minor property offense; the punishment would be grossly disproportionate, to such an extent that the merchant himself would then be an invader of the right of the looting kid to his own person and his own life. The merchant would then be an unjustified murderer.

Hence, the use of lethal weapons in self-defense, or in defense of others, is only morally justifiable if the victim's life is in danger. If it is not, then such excessive violence is in itself just as criminal and invasive of the looter's right to life as is any other capital crime.

Every man then, has a moral right to his own property, which includes, and includes above all else, his property in his own person and life. When a man invades the property right of another, he only loses his own rights, to the extent that he has invaded the similar right of his fellow man.

Therefore, shooting looters, whether by the merchant himself or by the police, is absolutely impermissible. The right to life, after all, is more important than the right to own a camera or a color TV set, as important as the latter undoubtedly are.

Participation in the Youth Freedom Speakers movement is suggested as possibly the best on all freedom crusades for this summer. The movement, with youth supplying the exuberance and spark, can expand worldwide at the same time that it is becoming nationwide. The young speakers, 15 to 23 years of age, are immensely popular and sought after to deliver three-minute speeches to service clubs, churches, on radio and TV, and they are natural components of the freedom side.

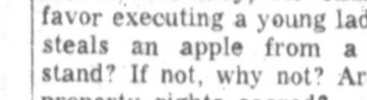

Every youth organization can become effective in the freedom fight by designating one or two members as participants in Youth Freedom Speakers. YFS speakers now number 7000. When their number reaches 20,000, they will begin attaining their goal of cutting the crime rate in half, saving countless lives and half the present $30 billion per year cash cost of crime. When there are 100,000, the church can withstand its infiltrating atheistic foes, and our soldiers abroad will find feeling the warmth of reward in a call to return home.

There is no reason to stop at 100,000 YFS speakers. The number can reach a million throughout the world and the maintenance of freedom will be assured.

When youth speaks, others gladly listen. A speech delivered by an earnest 15-year-old has five times more impact than the same speech delivered by a 37-year-old.

This movement can halt the erosion of our liberties and bring new hope to the world. A summer crusade directed at building up YFS offers a broader and fuller life for our young people.

Wit and Whimsy

Trying to teach his parrot to talk the bird owner said, "Good Morning" to it upon arising each day for several months. The parrot refused to cooperate however, and said absolutely nothing.

One morning the man, being out of sorts, walked right by the bird without his customary greeting.

The parrot eyed him coldly and said:

Polly — Well! What's the matter with you this morning?

Sales Manager (to applicant for job) — Are you married?

Applicant — No, but I can take orders, if that's what you mean.

Cash register sign in restaurant: "Do not ask for credit. You knew yesterday you would have to eat today."

In a Kentucky courtroom the judge asked the jury if there were any questions they wanted to ask before adjourning to reach a verdict.

Mr. Small (one of the jurors) — Yes, your honor. A couple of us would like to know if the defendant boiled the mail one or two hours, if he cooled it quickly or slowly, and at what point did he put in the yeast?
