'Last Minute Change' Took Senator Kennedy To The Assassin

In Mailing Of Guns

Little Effect Seen From Postal Labels

By United Press International
The Post Office Department's new labeling requirement for the mailing of guns will have little effect on the mail order traffic in these weapons, according to a sampling of opinions from the nation's leading gun dealers.

But one firm said the requirement could aggravate a problem pistol manufacturers are having "a lot of trouble" with—theft of firearms from the mails.

Postmaster General W. Marvin Watson issued the new regulations Wednesday, ruling that rifles or shotguns will not be accepted for parcel post unless the package is labeled "firearms". He also ruled that postal authorities must notify the addressee's local police chief when a firearms parcel is to be delivered.

Postal regulations already required handguns sent through the mails to be plainly marked as firearms, and prohibited their being mailed to anyone but gun dealers, persons certifying they intend to become dealers, or law enforcement officers.

It is these shipments that have been the target of thieves, according to Robert McGee, public relations director for Hunter's Lodge of Alexandria, Va., a major arms dealer.

He said his firm thought the labeling of rifle and shotgun parcels "a fine idea, but it does bring up another problem."

"Some leading pistol manufacturers have had a lot of trouble in recent months with theft of handguns while they were going through the mails," McGee said. "I understand from postal officials there has been a rash of such thefts in the Washington (D.C.) Post Office, to name one."

McGee said "the label 'firearms' seems to single out the parcel for postal thieves."

Labor Falls Again In British Vote

LONDON (UPI)—An election drubbing in a district that had never before gone Conservative left Prime Minister Harold Wilson's Labor party another vote weaker in parliament today. It added new evidence the Wilson government would be ousted in a general election held now.

The Labor defeat came in one of two by-elections held Thursday to fill vacancies in House of Commons seats that were considered among the safest in the Labor camp. The Laborite candidate won in the second election, but by a margin far narrower than in past elections.

Political observers said the vote reflected general dissatisfaction with devaluation of the British pound and other stringent economic measures ordered by the Wilson government to revive the nation's shaky economy.

Conservative party Chairman Antony Barber said the elections showed "the nation's verdict." He called on Wilson to order an election immediately.

Wilson is not required to order an election until April, 1971.

10 Die In Midwest Tornado

By United Press International
Heavy thunderstorms rumbled through the Midwest today after a tornado killed ten persons at Tracy, Minn., and other twisters caused injuries and damage in Iowa.

The twister at Tracy Thursday night drilled straight through the southwestern Minnesota town of 2,800, leaving a 1½-mile-long, three-block-wide cut that killed ten persons, injured 72 others, 11 of them critically and damaged some 50 to 75 buildings, including churches, schools and Tracy's power plant.

"Houses disintegrated," eyewitnesses said.

"It sounded like seven freight trains going over my house," said one man whose home was destroyed while he and his family huddled in the basement.

Overflow Hospital
At Tracy Municipal Hospital, which has 40 beds, patients lay in the hallways. The hospital's emergency generator went on, but lights were not fully restored until seven hours after the tornado struck (at 7:02 p.m., CDT).

Warning By US Might Have 'Jarred' N. Viets

PARIS (UPI)—North Vietnamese negotiators may have been jarred by the United States' warning that continued shelling of South Vietnamese cities is imperiling peace talks, diplomatic sources said today.

W. Averell Harriman, chief U.S. negotiator, told the Communist diplomats that such attacks might jeopardize the Paris talks if they kept up their "massacre" of civilians in Saigon.

Diplomatic observer said it appeared Harriman had won the edge over North Vietnam's delegation leader, Xuan Thuy, in Wednesday's meeting with the warning.

Harriman appealed to Hanoi to get down to substantive talks and to cut down the propaganda "output" following each of the once-a-week meetings.

A limitation of Viet Cong shelling in and around Saigon, which Harriman charged was directed by North Vietnamese generals, would prove in turn a major diplomatic success for the United States, diplomatic sources said.

Harriman's appeal that the outpouring of propaganda be restrained is a necessity if the two sides wish to have meaningful bargaining, most observers said.

Liquor - By - The - Drink Comes To Vote In Legislature On Monday

By ROLAND LINDSEY
AUSTIN (UPI)—Liquor by the drink, an issue that has been bottled up for decades in Texas, finally comes to a vote in the legislature Monday and indications are it will be very close.

Rep. Roy Garwood of San Antonio said today he believes the bill has 73 votes. That would not be enough if all 149 representatives were present, but Garwood said he assumes there will be some absences, and hopes they will be among the drys.

If the bill passes in the House, it will still face a close vote in the Senate, where there are believed to be 13 or 14 votes for it, 13 or 14 against, and three to five uncommitted senators.

Garwood said he will need the votes of Reps. James Clark of Dallas and Jake Johnson of San Antonio, two vets who have voted with drys on some questions.

"I think we'll have them," Garwood said.

Meeting Schedule
Garwood and other sponsors of the liquor bill, Reps. Cletus Davis of Houston and Dick McKissack of Dallas, scheduled a meeting with Clark and Johnson today to consider changes sought by the two wavering lawmakers.

Clark and Johnson say they will insist on provisions in the liquor bill prohibiting legislators from appearing for pay before the Texas Liquor Control Board or its hearing officers, and requiring all license and permit holders to file annual financial

They said the North Koreans aimed at undermining the 45,000 South Koreans fighting with the allies in the South. The documents gave plans to use young women to ply South Korean troops for information.

The spokesmen said the North Koreans have been at work here for at least two years. South Korean officers have reported the North Koreans here before but never in an official announcement.

The announcement came after the Viet Cong shelling of Tan Son Nhut.

North Koreans Said To Be In S. Vietnam

By JACK WALSH
SAIGON (UPI)—The current Viet Cong terror shelling of Saigon killed its first American civilian today. But allied troops captured guerrilla artillery, apparently thwarting a greater pounding of the capital.

Four Communist Chinese-made 107mm recoilless rifle shells ripped into the flight line of Saigon's Tan Son Nhut airbase before dawn, killing a U.S. civilian employe of the Air Force and two South Vietnamese. Three planes were hit, one of them destroyed.

In the outskirts, American and South Vietnamese troops killed at least 49 guerrillas Thursday in their sweeps against the Viet Cong "sweeps" which have been shelling the capital for two weeks. They also seized 61 rocket, mortar and recoilless rifle shells.

"These might have been the ones they planned to use in shelling the city last night," an intelligence source told UPI. In the night no shells hit the city business-residential areas—giving the city of 2 million residents a rare good night's sleep.

In the air, U.S. fighter-bombers flew 136 missions Thursday against North Vietnam's southern panhandle supply lines. Navy scouts spotted with photographs a huge diamond-shaped underground supply dump near the city of Vinh and the jet bombers ripped the area.

In South Vietnam, B52 Stratofortresses late Thursday and today pounded North Vietnamese army positions near South Vietnam's northern border and in the highlands near Dak To, the allied bastion being threatened by growing red forces.

In Saigon, South Korean spokesmen announced they have captured documents showing that at least 14 North Korean Communist troops are at work in South Vietnam—the first Communist unit thus far proven to have joined the North Vietnamese in invading this country.

Commissioners Okay Bid For Mineral Rights

Midland Production Corp. of Houston submitted the only sealed bid for mineral rights to Gaines County school lands at this morning's session of the Gray County Commissioners Court.

The firm submitted a bid of $2.40 for a five-year lease of 320 acres. It was accepted. Under Texas law, each county is granted oil and gas rights to certain lands in the state to be used for public school revenue. Gray County has almost 6,000 acres of oil and gas rights in Gaines County.

Oil and gas rights to 18 other tracts on which leases have expired attracted no bidders.

In other business this morning: Commissioners made budget amendments which would transfer $782 from the general fund to pay for insurance on the lounge at Perry LeFors Airfield; transferred $260 from the general fund to pay for sanitation services; and transferred from the sheriff's office $144 to pay for ammunition and $66 for equipment.

The court passed a resolution (See Commissioners, Page 3)

Stock Exchange Sales Volume Soars

By ROBERT J. REGAN
UPI Business Writer
NEW YORK (UPI)—Traders sent stock exchange sales volume to record levels Thursday, causing new headaches for brokerage house staffs barely able to cope with a prolonged surge of buying and selling.

The securities firms had cut into the mountain of paper work Wednesday, when the exchanges suspended trading for one day of catching up. Then came the deluge Thursday.

The New York Stock Exchange turned in a 21,350,000 share day, highest in its history and well over the previous record of 20,410,000 shares on April 10 of this year.

Traders ran the American Stock Exchange volume up to a record 10,810,000 shares, topping the previous high of 10,197,185 shares on May 28 of this year.

Trading volume, undoubtedly was at a record level on the unlisted, or, over-the-counter market as well, street sources said.

Larger Transactions
The New York Stock Exchange reported that its tape ran only 7 minutes behind during the busy session, compared with delays stretching out to 41 minutes on April 10. It noted that transactions were larger Thursday, but less numerous—almost 63,000 compared with about 65,000 on April 10.

But Wall Street's main problem isn't how fast high-speed tickers can report the trading volume, it's how long the back office staffs of member firms take to process all that volume, the consequent deliveries of the securities sold, the transfers of ownership, the deliveries to customers, the billing of accounts, and the dozens of other procedures involved.

The back offices began creaking under the strain of heavy trading volume last summer. Overtime costs began climbing and efficiency began going down, creating more errors and more work.

The Wall Street community tried curtailing trading hours. For nine days last August, the exchanges closed 1½ hours earlier and this approach was tried again between Jan. 22 and March 1 of this year. Apparently the efforts fell short of their goal because the exchanges last week announced they planned to close down entirely on June 12, 19, and 26 and again on July 5.

To the extent that the shorter hours and the "trading holidays" are designed to insert some more working time between currently heavy trading sessions on the exchanges, they are working.

Long-Range Problem
But they are no answer to the longer range problem of forging better ways to deal with the heavy trading volume many Wall Street sources believe is here to stay.

The brokerage firms have begun taking steps to beef up their back-office staffs, many of which were neglected after the 1950s shift to computers and the slow-down in trading volume late in the 1950s.

Trading volume on the New York Stock Exchange from the start of the year through June 13, totaled 1,351,418,563 shares—242,275,881 shares more than at the same point in a busy 1967.

Amex volume from the start of the year through June 13, totaled 696,415,004 shares, or 258,973,796 shares more than at the same point last year and over 16 million shares more than the big board had contributed to the extra workload. Over-the-counter trading also has made a substantial contribution and trading volume has been running higher on the other smaller exchanges as well.

Sirhan Practiced With Pistol The Day Of Slaying

By JOAN SWEENEY
LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A last minute change in the route taken by Sen. Robert F. Kennedy after his victory speech led him to the pantry where he was felled by an assassin, grand jury testimony revealed.

Sirhan B. Sirhan practiced firing a .22 caliber pistol at a target range, littering the ground with hundreds of shell casings, 12 hours before the slaying, a witness said.

A dark-haired girl "with a very good figure" wearing a polka dot dress stood smiling next to Sirhan moments before he aimed a gun inches away from Kennedy's head and pulled the trigger, according to another witness.

A waiter standing a few feet away from the senator when he was shot said Sirhan had "a sick-looking smile on his face" as he fired the first two shots.

Release: Testimony

The 273-page transcript of the secret grand jury proceedings that one week ago resulted in a first-degree murder indictment against the 24-year-old Jordanian immigrant was released to the public Thursday. It contained the testimony of 23 witnesses and other persons investigating the slaying of the 42-year-old senator.

The transcript disclosed: —Kennedy was shot three times, not twice as believed earlier. The fatal bullet penetrated his brain. Another entered his right armpit, apparently as his hands flew up instinctively to protect his face. The third struck a half inch below the second.

—Powder burns indicated the weapon was fired not more than two or three inches from Kennedy's right ear.

'Titan' Orbits Eight More New Satellites

By CHARLES E. TAYLOR
CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—The brass in the Pentagon has eight more space communication links to get its orders to Vietnam.

Helped perhaps by a colonel's rabbit's foot and midnight knife burial, a Titan 3C rocket—mightiest of the Air Force's space birds—hung the $1 million-apiece satellites in orbit high above the equator Thursday.

With 17 of the same kind of satellites in orbit already from three previous Titan 3C launches, Washington could count on bouncing voice, teletype and photographic radio signals from a satellite directly to Saigon 40 per cent of the time.

The new satellites also will take over when the earlier space stations start to fade. The satellites have a life expectancy in space of from one and one-half to three years.

The launch was another notable success for the 124-foot Titan 3C and for Col. Walter R. (Buck) Talliaferro, director of the Titan 3 systems program office of the Air Force space and missile systems organization at Los Angeles.

Talliaferro lives in a world of computer statistics and instruments much of the time, but he also has his superstitions.

He happily confessed following the near-perfect launch Thursday—that he had been hanging onto a rabbit's foot since the night before. He said he used it every launch, "and so far it's worked real well."

He also admitted being the leader of a group which the midnight prior to Titan launches goes through the ritual of (See TITAN, Page 3)

Washington Window

By MERRIMAN SMITH
UPI White House Reporter
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Backstairs at the White House: After the urban violence of late last summer and the 1967 youth demonstrations against the draft and Vietnam, it became increasingly apparent to some key government officials that 1968 would be a bad year for conventional political campaigning.

During the winter there seemed to be so much unrest and dissent against established authority, it was the considered judgement of these officials that conventional campaigning by President Johnson or any of the major candidates would be all but impossible without major risk.

Private Talks
 This came up at time in private conversations with the Chief Executive. For a time, he maintained he would be able to go anywhere in America; that he was not about to become a frightened prisoner of 1600 Pennsylvania Ave.

But still he gave the matter some deep personal thought and it was in this somewhat inprospective consideration of the problem that he started talking to congressional leaders about legislative authority to give the candidates Secret Service protection.

Anyone familiar with capabilities of the Secret Service knows, however, that totally effective protection of any public figure simply does not exist if the figure insists on exposing himself to danger by mingling freely with crowds; by moving about in open automobiles and by speaking to mass audiences in locations where airtight crowd control is impossible.

Reject Protection
 Candidates as a general rule are so prone to dismiss the possibility of ugly crowd consequences that they reject local police protection even when it is available.

There was a sharp shift in candidate opinion on the subject of personal safety after Sen. Robert F. Kennedy was killed in Los Angeles. The New York Democrat might possibly be alive today had he availed himself of the protective services of a squad of well-armed, crowd-wise Los Angeles city detectives. In any case, his chances of avoiding a murderous hail of bullets would have been better.

Even before the Kennedy tragedy in Los Angeles, Johnson was becoming increasingly security conscious. This can be expected to continue for this Chief Executive is determined to leave office alive.

THE LIGHTER SIDE Humor In The US

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI)—A hospital patient recently was sitting up in bed preparing to swallow a capsule approximately the size of a jelly bean when he chanced to notice something was printed on it.

Closer scrutiny revealed that it and some of his other capsules bore either a trade name or the name of the manufacturer.

At first, the patient was somewhat perturbed by the thought of having miniature drug commercials sloshing around among his gullets.

But after reflecting upon the matter for a spell (hospital patients usually devote a good bit of time to reflecting), he concluded that the imprints must have some kind of therapeutic value. Why else would they appear on the capsules?

 I haven't checked this out with the Food and drug administration, but it seems to me to be a logical deduction.

The body is to some extent conditioned by the mind, and our minds are constantly being exposed to brand names in drug commercials.

It therefore stands to reason that if a medical brand name comes in direct contact with some malfunctioning internal organ, the results will be beneficial.

In writing to me of this matter, the patient did not identify the nature of his illness. Apparently, however, he had a bad case of something.

At any rate, he felt he would have been more greatly benefited if the capsules had carried another type of inscription.

"If these pills, capsules, et al signed go no deeper than the had upon them some spiritual skin," he noted.

message (the larger ones could have the Lord's Prayer or the apostles' creed), they could be of more value," he wrote.

For less serious cases, where secular treatment will suffice, the patient suggested that capsules be imprinted with "get well" messages.

"Get well cards as now de-

While these may cheer the patient up on the outside, they fail to bring any inward comfort, being unable to reach the troubled spots.

I suppose such a plan might work, but a physician would need to exercise extreme caution in prescribing messages that are taken internally.

Some of them can cause harmful side effects.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—Indicator Digest says that while the market soon will be due for some sort of secondary correction, such a correction should be rather narrow because of the huge sideline money waiting for the next dip before investing.

Thus, the investment adviser "would look for the next minor downswing to be followed by at least one more large upward leg before the final curtain descends."

Goodbody Co. says that from an intermediate-term standpoint, the market still has to take into account the deflationary effect of the expected tax hike-spending cut measure, continued high interest rates and international monetary problems among other factors. The company says the fundamentals do not appear to favor sustained uptrend in corporate earnings or in stock prices generally.

Bachen Co. says it would not be surprised to see a short pause to enable the market to digest the new margin restraint on stock purchases imposed by the Federal Reserve Board. Still, it expects the "favorable seasonal trend" will reassert itself, with July turning out to be the second strongest market month of 1968.

Kennedy

"He was supposed to—the first plan—was that he was supposed to go downstairs, the next floor, and he was supposed to make a speech over there and their minds were changed at the last minute.

Last Minute Change "When I came out I just remember that somebody told me, 'Turn to your right—bring him toward the Colonial Room.'"

Uecker said he believed the order was given by Uno Timanson, manager of the hotel's food and beverage department.

Police said an all-points bulletin is still out for the mysterious girl in the polka dot dress reported seen in the pantry by several witnesses to the shooting.

Vincent Thomas di Piero, a waiter, told the grand jury he was four to six feet away from Kennedy when he was shot.

"He looked as though he either talked to her or flirted with her because she smiled," Di Piero said. "Together they were both smiling."

As Sirhan stepped down the four inches from the stand to the floor, "he was smiling. In fact, the minute the first two shots were fired, he still had a very sick-looking smile on his face," the waiter said.

Question Three Detectives have questioned three women who stepped forward and identified themselves as being in the Embassy Room of the Ambassador wearing polka dot dresses the night of the victory celebration. All were released.

Henry A. Carreon, a playground director for the Los Angeles city schools, said he saw Sirhan the day before the slaying at a target practice range in San Gabriel.

He said Sirhan was shooting "very rapidly" with a .22 caliber pistol. He estimated 300 to 400 bullet casings were on the ground around Sirhan.

Carreon had come to the range with a friend, David Montgomery, an expert on guns, and said Sirhan asked him: "How do you hold your gun to get better accuracy because this gun doesn't have a sight on it?"

Police Investigate Prowler Report

Mrs. Robert H. McGahen of 1121 Sumner St. reported to Pampa police shortly after midnight that she and her daughter thought they heard noises outside and feared a prowler was in the neighborhood.

According to police, footprints in the flower beds and in soft dirt indicated the presence of a prowler but police were unable to locate him.

Commissioners also heard representatives from two insurance firms present insurance plans for county employees.

And heard three farmers from the southwest corner of precinct 2, near Kingsmill, petition the court to put caliche on a dirt road for a stretch of two miles so that they could traverse it during inclement weather.

The farmers were Tom Anderwald, D.W. Swain and Robert Rapstein.

Liquor

(Continued From Page 1) statements with the TLGB. Clark balked at supporting the bill in the State Affairs Committee when Davis refused to include the provision requiring annual reports showing all debts of license and permit holders.

Promise Made Clark voted for the bill only after being promised a chance to offer amendments.

Both Clark and Johnson said they will vote with the dyes on the House floor if the liquor bill is not "cleaned up" and their amendments added.

The appropriations bill, expected to have an earlier time on the House floor, may also be up for a vote late Monday or Tuesday, Speaker Ben Barnes said.

The appropriations bill was reported out of committee Thursday, and calls for $133.8 million in new taxes for fiscal 1969.

The two bills are the first to come up for a floor vote in the two-week old special session.

Vietnam

(Continued From Page 1) Communist-made guns was the lightest in 14 days. But it was not known if this had any connection with U.S. warning of North Vietnam that continued shelling of Saigon was endangering the preliminary peace talks in Paris.

In Paris, diplomatic observers said the North Vietnamese appeared jarred by the verbiage of the American warning. Moscow, the Soviet news agency Tass said Hanoi would not call off the shelling.

In earlier barrages, hundreds of South Vietnamese civilians have been killed or wounded and one American serviceman was killed in a Tan Son Nhut barrage Thursday.

Today's shells hit on the base's military flight line. The U.S. civilian, employed by a firm working for the U.S. Air Force, was cut down when a shell exploded at a hangar door. The same blast destroyed two engine Cessna courier plane. Two transports, a C-119 and a C-47, were damaged by other shells.

U.S. artillery returned the fire. The guerrillas fired from the Gia Dinh suburbs to the northwest.

Miami School Hires Architect

MIAMI (SpI) - In a called session, the Board of Trustees of the Miami Independent School District voted to employ Gail Palmer, Oklahoma City architect, to design a new school plant for Miami.

Patrolmen Investigate 18 Accidents

Two Texas Highway Patrolmen investigated 18 accidents on rural highways in Gray County during the month of May, according to Sergeant J. L. Dalrymple, Highway Patrol supervisor of this area.

These crashes resulted in one person killed, 16 persons injured, and an estimated property damage of $34,975.

The rural traffic accident summary for this county during the first five months of 1968 shows a total of 73 accidents resulting in two persons killed, 40 persons injured, and an estimated property damage of $62,765.

During the next three months millions of motorists will be heading for the road on vacations and outings. More vehicles on the road mean congestion and congestion leads to accidents. In order to prevent accident producing circumstances the Sergeant has listed some summer vacation driving tips:

- 1. Know and obey traffic laws and rules. 2. Maintain speeds consistent with legal limits and conditions. 3. Signal for turns in ample time and turn only from the proper lane. 4. Have yourself and your car under control at all times. 5. Be alert while passing, turning, pulling out, and backing. 6. Be courteous and considerate to all other drivers and pedestrians.

Militant Students Are Blamed For Unrest At School

DENVER (UPI) - Maurice B. Mitchell, chancellor of the University of Denver, Thursday blamed the militant Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) for unrest on his campus and said the group was "a bit like the Viet Cong."

Mitchell estimated the size of the SDS organization at the Denver school as from 10 to 50. "You can't get your hands on the SDS," Mitchell said. "You walk through a university, and you can't see the place loaded. Yet they're in every tree."

The chancellor said he felt certain the group was involved in a sit-in demonstration at the university's administration building earlier this year. Thirty-nine students were suspended from school as a result of the incident.

"If we had waited another day, there would have been hundreds of people in that building," Mitchell said. "The cycle worked beautifully here except that it collapsed before a critical mass of students were involved."

But he said a university would kill itself if it were duped into "encouraging a liberal attitude toward dissent."

In The Best Places

By HELEN HENNESSY
NEA Women's Editor
NEW YORK (NEA) — Not since Scarlett O'Hara has there been so much emphasis placed on the waist. With fashion's new soft look a handsomely curved waistline is important. And, as a result, belts are back. Belts are seen under the bosom, on the hip and at the natural waist. Soft crushed-leather sashes, bright shiny patent strips and chains add fashion impetus to the season. With the return of the '30s riding in high on the crest of a fashion wave belts play an important part in setting the mood of a fast-paced flapper.

On the flip side of the coin we have the romantics — soft, tender and totally feminine. Frothy shirtwaist dresses are gathered into dirndl skirts and pulled neatly together with crunchy leather circlettes. Cool linen skimmers are often self-belted just below the waist. And black patent belts dramatize white wool coats. So, if you want to take a giant step into '68, hop on the belt band wagon. Whether they are wide or narrow, buckled, buttoned or sashed, belts are back for the first time in several years. But, remember, to wear them with flair, you have to be in good shape. A little bending and stretching may be in order before you can look your best in the pretty fashions ready for spring and summer.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband let the law decide how much (if anything) this woman is entitled to. And pay up like a man.

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow and I go out very often so my neighbor (an elderly lady) baby-sits with my two children, a girl, 7 and a boy, 4. Here is my problem: Every time this lady comes to my home to sit, she brings a little gift for my daughter, but never anything for my son. Sometimes it's candy, a toy, or something of that order. Naturally, it makes the little boy jealous and causes trouble.

I have told her in as nice and subtle a way as I could to bring for both or neither one, but it's like she doesn't hear me. A good sister is hard to find and I don't want to have to look for another one, so tell me how can I make her understand the trouble she's causing me?

DEAR NEEDS: You may not be able to, in which case you would be ahead to start looking for another sitter. Perhaps if you skipped the "subtle" approach and simply TOLD her, "either or," you would accomplish more.

CONFIDENTIAL TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN: If you are not properly registered to vote, call your local DEMOCRATIC OR REPUBLICAN headquarters and find out where you should register and when. "All that is necessary for the triumph of evil is for good men to do nothing." (Edmund Burke)

DEAR ABBY: Here is my story: 2 years ago I became involved with a married woman. (I'll call her June.) I was so married and I left my wife and children to live with June, who left her husband to live with me. I realized after 3 months that I had made a terrible mistake, so I went back to my wife who was big enough to forgive me and take me back. Soon after I left June, she called me at work and told me she was having MY baby. (It could be.) I didn't have the heart to tell my wife about it, but I have been giving June money to keep her quiet, and to support the child. She keeps asking for more, and I can't afford it. I have been so nervous and preoccupied lately that my wife suspects something is wrong, but I've already hurt her so much that I can't tell her. What should I do?

DEAR IN: First tell your wife. She shouldn't be shocked because she knew you left her to live with another woman. Get yourself a lawyer and

St. Vincent de Paul Church Moves to New $350,000 Building

Masses are now being celebrated in the newly-opened St. Vincent de Paul Catholic Church, located in the 2300 block of Perryton Parkway.

The new church building is the culmination of a 10-year, million-dollar building program of the church members. The cost of the new church is approximately $350,000.

Pastor of the church is the Rev. William V. Brennan, C.M. Assistant pastor is the Rev. Charles J. Welter, C.M.

The first mass, a communion class for young children, was said June 2 in the new building.

Construction and excavation started June 1, 1967, and ended June 1 of this year. Other buildings in the 10-year programs were a new school, convent and rectory.

Formal dedication of St. Vincent's will be held in September or October. All former pastors and assistant pastors still living are expected for the dedication ceremonies.

Graham Warns Of 'Dictatorship'

SAN ANTONIO (UPI)—Evangelist Billy Graham said here that the nation's increased fear of violence should not hide the increased possibility of a dictatorship to which such fear often leads.

"People will vote for law and order regardless of the possibility of dictatorship," Graham said. "All over the world people are searching for purpose and meaning in their lives."

Graham, in San Antonio to begin a four-day crusade at Alamo Stadium tonight, said reaction to the riots in the United States and Europe is similar to that which "led to Hitler."

The evangelist called this year's presidential election the "most crucial" in history and said the country's fear could be demonstrated in the balloting.

Don't Give Up Hope; Mail Will Get To You . . . Eventually!

ALAMOGORDO, N.M. (UPI)—Note to postal patrons: Don't give up hope; the mail will get through—eventually.

On June 7, 1943, a Cpl. Brewer with the Army's 57th Armored Squadron stationed at the Alamogordo Army Base mailed a letter to a Miss Eva Clark in Batavia, N.Y. The letter arrived in Batavia exactly 25 years later on June 7, 1968.

The Batavia Post Office returned the letter to Alamogordo stamped "unclaimed." Alamogordo postmaster J. A. McRae said the letter, bearing the World War Two issue air mail stamp, was sent to the dead letter office.

Women's Day Event Slated at St. Mark

The Rev. Monroe Woods Jr., pastor of St. Mark C.M.E. Church, has announced that the second Women's Day Program has been slated at 3 p.m. this Sunday at 408 Elm St.

Mrs. M. E. Cooper of the First Methodist Church will speak on "What the Church Means to Me."

Deadline

All news items for the Church page should be turned in at the Pampa News office by 1 p.m. on Thursdays.

The hanging lights above the pews are decorated with matching facets of stained glass.

In addition to the main entrance, there are two canopied side entrances. All the entrances have terrazzo floors.

A "cry room" for mothers with young children is located to the side of the front entrance. The room is insulated from the main section of pews and has a speaker so the occupants may hear the mass. There is a private lavatory for their use.

On the opposite side, under the tower, is a baptistry. On one of the walls is the cornerstone from the old Holy Souls Church, which was replaced by St. Vincent's. The cornerstone, which contains a small metal container with various old newspapers and other articles, is dated 1928.

The choir loft and organ are located in the balcony. At the side of the balcony is a bride's room, the second floor of the tower. Here the bride-to-be may retire to freshen up before the wedding.

The third floor of the tower is a store-room.

Other electric-eye flood lights are located at the base of the tower and in the grill work at the top of the tower. Flood lights also are stationed around the parking lot. All electric wires and transformers are either located in the walls and floors of the building or buried underground.

NEW CHURCH BUILDING OPENS — Masses have been celebrated since June 2 in the new $350,000 St. Vincent de Paul Catholic Church in the 2300 block of Perryton Parkway. The building is the culmination of a 10-year, million-dollar building program on the 19-acre site. Formal dedication is not scheduled until September or October.

Birth Control Statement Still Awaited

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International
Four years ago, on June 23, 1964, Pope Paul VI announced he was restudying the Roman Catholic teaching on birth control and would have a statement on the subject "soon."

Never issued

But the promised statement has never been issued. Officially it still pending, but inquiries at the Vatican yield no indication when it may be forthcoming.

Meanwhile, the Pope is receiving emphatic warnings from members of the hierarchy that the old rules are becoming more difficult to enforce with every passing day.

England's Cardinal-Archbishop of John Heenan asserted recently in a bluntly worded public statement that "Catholics resent this prolonged period of suspense."

He said the most conscientious Catholics are suffering most from the delay—an implicit admission that large numbers of Catholic couples have already decided to ignore the old rules.

Many priests have ceased even trying to make the old rules stick. Although Pope Paul has said repeatedly that "the former norms apply" unless or until he modifies them, it is a well-known principle of Catholic theology that "a doubtful teaching does not bind."

and a teaching which the Pope has been studying for four years, without being able to make up his mind, seems to many Catholics to be demonstrably doubtful.

Public Issues Given Support

DENVER (UPI)—Methodist Bishop R. Marvin Stuart Tuesday pledged his full support to any minister under his jurisdiction who is willing to take a position on a public issue, no matter how controversial.

The bishop made his statement to delegates attending the Rocky Mountain Annual Conference of the United Methodist Church. Representatives from Colorado, Wyoming and Utah are attending the four-day gathering.

Bishop Stuart's remarks followed a speech by Duane Gall, 24, of Fort Collins, Colo., a Yale Divinity School student who turned in his draft card last December to protest the Vietnam War.

Gall said his local draft board had reclassified him 1A since his action.
Bishop Stuart told the conference, "We've reached the sorry day when a young man preparing for the ministry faces either going into military service or being imprisoned."

WEAPONS OF OUR WARFARE

The Weapons of our warfare are not carnal, but mighty through God to the casting down of strong holds. 11 Cor. 10.4

What are our Weapons in the Christian warfare?

1. The word of our testimony is one of our weapons.
The Christian has none that is more effective. The greatest damage Satan can do to a Christian is to defeat the word of his testimony. Christ needs and must have witnesses.
2. Another weapons is the Word of God, the sword of the spirit. More people come to know Christ as saviour in the Worship service where the Word is preached than any other place. There is no other book in all the world that reaches our hearts like the Bible.
3. Prayer is another Weapon of our warfare.
How blessed is a people whose leaders pray. How happy is the church whose deacons pray and whose leaders pray and whose pastor knows how to reach the throne of grace.
What wonders are wrought by prayer!!
We just cannot win over evil without prayer.
No one comes to know Jesus unless some one prays.

The Pampa Daily News

A Watchful Newspaper

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license, nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself. No more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Public Service Awards

Public service awards recently were presented to two Miami men, an Amarillo newsman and the Department of Public Safety for public service which helped prevent loss of life in the May 5 tornado that ripped through nearby Miami. No lives were lost in the tornado, which caused damage estimated at $500,000.

We join in commending Roberts County Sheriff Cy Carr, Miami school superintendent Glenn Sanders, Roy McCoy of the Amarillo TV station and the Department of Public Safety. Their actions helped alert citizens and save lives.

However, we believe the awards do not give additional credit where credit is due.

Pampa's two radio stations, KGRO and KPDN, were out in mobile units keeping area citizens informed of the progress of the tornado. There is strong possibility the radio stations may have had their thunder stolen.

The Pampa radio stations were tracking the path of the tornado and giving advance warnings of the storm heading toward the Miami area, we believe, long before the Amarillo TV station tipped the Amarillo Weather Bureau that a tornado was in the Miami vicinity. Proper recognition should also be given to the Gray County Sheriff's office, which kept careful tabs on the progress of the tornado and followed it until it finally struck Miami. After the tornado, sheriff's officers served a vital function in coordinating rescue and salvage.

Thanks should also be given to the Pampa police. Although their tornado watch was confined to the Pampa area, and they had only an indirect hand in alerting the citizens of Miami to the dangers of the tornado's approach, a large contingent of the Pampa police force assisted in directing and controlling traffic immediately after the tornado.

There were many other organizations and individuals who helped after the disaster had struck. — The Red Cross, the Salvation Army, Boy Scouts, etc. — but it seems appropriate here to pay tribute to those whose public service helped alert the citizens of Miami to the tornado's approach.

We believe the recognition set forth here is fair and proper, and that it is consonant with a "give credit where credit is due" credo most folks believe in. — J.H.

There's No 'Free Lunch'

With the clamoring of special interest groups inside and outside the doors of government, making demands for an increased share of the total goods pile, it is well to keep in mind that the wealth of this world has to be produced by someone.

Harry Lutz, professor emeritus of public finance at Princeton University, recently authored an essay in the Wall Street Journal which rather well demolishes the something-for-nothing idea. We are reproducing below some of his more incisive observations.

A wisecrack often heard some years ago purported to sum up all economic theory and wisdom in the observation, "There is no such thing as a free lunch." In the pre-prohibition days the term "free lunch" referred to the repeat almost universally found at one end of the bar in the establishments purveying alcoholic beverages. It was usually abundant, often of good quality, and the privilege of tucking into it cost a minimum of one drink at the bar. Even so, "free" did not mean without cost, for this was obviously recouped by the proprietor in his bar sales. The disproportion between available supply and cost to the consumer provided the appearance, if not the reality, of a free lunch.

From the dawn of history men have dreamed of an earthly existence in which all wants would be provided for without work. The story of Adam and Eve in the Garden of Eden is the earliest example of such wishful thinking. The story has its special meaning for theologians and philosophers, but it also has an economic moral. It is that mankind never had a chance of existing on this planet without working for food, shelter and all else called for by expanding wants. Until the industrial revolution ushered in the era of labor-saving devices and techniques, production involved unremitting, backbreaking toil, which may account for the view that the decree of expulsion from Eden — getting food (and all else) by sweating for it — was a curse.

This decree reflected the simplicity of the original distribution of wealth: Each man was to work for his subsistence, and each owned and was free to enjoy what he had produced.

The dictum about no free lunch merely asserts that everything man needs and wants has a cost of production that must be met if the flow of goods and services is to continue. It does not deny some can live without working, nor does it resolve the distributional problem of cost apportionment in relations to the gains or benefits from production. Illustrative of the answers proposed are such slogans as "Production for use, not profit," and "To each according to his need."

As an oversimplified formula for equitable solution of the problem the following is proposed: The distribution of wealth and income should be on such terms as would best promote the optimum increase in productive resources, secure maximum utilization of resources in production and provide to each productive factor a share of the product reasonably approximate to the contribution of each to output.

But, we now have an official definition of poverty and a classification of the poor as an identifiable group with vested rights to public support and to the management of antipoverty funds. The idea that those in this depressed condition know best how to get themselves out of it is a political sop, and the feuding among the professional leaders of the poor accounts for the lack of progress that has been made.

It is characteristic of the government's free lunch approach to assume that every economic ill can be remedied and every problem solved by spending more money. Rent supplements, subsidized housing, negative income tax, government payroll and other ways of spending money are deemed to be the best procedure for getting people out of the "ghettos."

The only way to improve permanently the lot of these individuals is to provide them with jobs, and the only place where lasting, productive, well-paying jobs, are to be found is in the private sector. The two prime essentials for this result are first, training for a job and second, additional capital appropriate in amount and character for the job. The best training is "on the job," but lingering racism, union disinterest in apprenticeship and the minimum wage prevent employers from undertaking this kind of economic salvage in a large way.

The attitude of a welfare-state government is not conducive to accumulation of the additional capital on which new jobs depend. Steep progressive individual taxes, a heavy corporation tax, restrictions on interest rates, control of investments, continual harassment through burdensome regulations and mountains of paper work, a strong bias against business in its relations with organized la-

Nation's Press

THE GUARANTEED ANNUAL INCOME Southern States Bulletin

The great marvel of the free enterprise system in America is that it virtually guarantees a reasonable annual income to everyone in this country, providing he or she is willing to work. No country in history has been so successful in creating job opportunities for its people.

But our society has one criterion, namely, that the individual have a willingness to work morning while others are out. Our economic system is not designed for the drones, for the shiftless, and for the fellow who wants to lie abed in the morning while others are out on the job.

Yet there are some people in this country—people who should know better—who want to redesign our system so that it gives the drone full equality with the worker. A year ago last February, the National Commission and Economic Progress came up with a 210-page report endorsing a guaranteed minimum annual wage for every American. If the commission's report is translated into law, the citizen who chooses not to work will get a cash allowance from the government. It will be his constitutional right, say advocates of the plan.

It is not surprising to find Walter Reuther, head of the United Auto Workers, endorsing this plan. Mr. Reuther long has been associated with radical schemes to redistribute the wealth. But it is shocking to find several prominent businessmen advocating such an unbusinesslike proposal.

Just how unbusinesslike it is may be gauged from the commission's estimate that providing a guaranteed annual income to all could cost between $2 billion and $20 billion a year. Now, that's quite a gap—something more than the difference between two cents and twenty cents.

But even this prediction is based on the assumption that not many citizens will choose to draw their cash allowances while relaxing in an easy chair. But the promoters of the guaranteed annual income scheme seem to know as little about human motivation as they do about the cost of the plan.

Sloth is a sin that has been recognized for centuries. And this country has plenty of slothful people. It already has a large contingent of reliefers who extract money from the taxpayers. In many big cities welfare officials have had much trouble with relief chisellers. Getting able-bodied men on relief to go to work has been a vexing problem in numerous communities. Imagine if every chiseler and bum realized that he never had to work again, that all he needed to do was file an application for a guaranteed annual wage! One can be sure that the ranks of the drones would swell enormously.

AND what would be the reaction of working men and women? Consider the practicalities of the situation. Throughout this country, people get up early to go to work. Others work at night. Many people hold down rather unpleasant jobs, simply because they know that working is the only way to support themselves and their families. Wouldn't many of these people be outraged if they saw bums making a career of bumming at public expense? Wouldn't many of them ask Why should I work to support the loafers? Wouldn't some men with the rough jobs conclude that it would be easier to stay at home and collect a guaranteed annual wage?

The advocates of the guaranteed annual wage have devised a scheme that would do terrible damage to this country. A guaranteed annual income would be an incentive to stop working. It would make non-working morally acceptable. Such a scheme is an insult to everyone who does his part in this society by holding down a job, whether as bank president or garbage man. To subsidize the drones in this manner would be to steal the rightful earnings of those citizens who use their physical and/or mental energies each day to support themselves, their families, their communities and their country.

More free lunch will not achieve these results, but more freedom for the private economy to rediscover and live by the principles inherent in its nature will do it.

bor—these are some of the ways by which a government that has arrogated to itself the function of determining the distribution of wealth and income is hindering the most important action that can be taken to relieve poverty, diminish discontent and promote the general well-being.

More free lunch will not achieve these results, but more freedom for the private economy to rediscover and live by the principles inherent in its nature will do it.

Cohen Quietly Pushing Program To Combine All Welfare Under Unified Federal Agency

ROBERT ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Wilbur J. Cohen is proposing a "single, national welfare system" under a new name still to be selected.

"The controversial Cohen has recommended privately to President Johnson that the new national system be completely financed by the federal government, which now pays approximately 60 per cent of the state and local welfare bill.

Under Cohen's plan, the thousands of state and local welfare programs would be made "agents" and eventually employees of the federal government.

According to the tentative estimates prepared for the White House, the new national program would cost approximately $4 billion more a year than present federal grants for welfare programs.

In an effort to gain support for his revolutionary plan, Cohen is privately telling state officials that his program would free state money for other purposes, reduce red tape, end disputes about eligibility, and create uniform benefit standards.

As an added selling point, Cohen stresses that the all-federal program would slow down the rural-to-urban migration that is now increasing city problems, especially the movement of Negroes into industrial areas.

It is also Cohen's contention that the plan would allow a shift of emphasis in welfare programs to more job training and more effective birth control programs. An all federal program, he states, would make it easier to make birth control information and devices available to all who want them.

Although the details are still being worked out, Cohen is saying privately that his national welfare proposal would be combined with features of the negative income tax and the guaranteed annual wage.

PREPARING THE WAY — The closest the HEW secretary has come so far to hinting in public at his new welfare plan was during the Sidney Hillman Lecture he delivered last month at the University of Minnesota.

Titled "The Emerging World of 1976," the Cohen speech forecast that "new and ingenious provisions" in Social Security, tax and welfare systems would enable the public and private sectors to assure a minimum income to all who work, and for all those who are too sick, too old or too young to work.

"The provision of an adequate income will change the role of social welfare agencies," he reported. "Welfare, relief and other categories will be eliminated from the vocabularies. State welfare agencies will become departments of social service or departments of individual family services."

With the welfare programs passing to the federal government, he pointed out, the state agencies would include home-maker services, foster care, and day care for children and adults.

"And these services will be available to every person in the community who chooses to use them," he added.

In addition to the new national welfare proposal, Cohen is also urging that Social Security, which he terms "the biggest anti-poverty program we have," be expanded "by raising the minimum benefits and by keeping benefit levels in general line with prospering economy."

Significantly, Cohen has turned over his proposals to Vice President Humphrey as well as the White House. Also, Cohen endorsed the Democratic front-runner before President Johnson put the lid on pre-convention politicking by cabinet members.

QUIZZING THE CANDIDATES — The newly formed Consumer Federation of America, a union of 56 national and state consumer groups, has decided to test its political strength in the 1968 presidential election.

Headed by Father Robert J. McEwen, S. J., chairman of the Boston College Department of Economics and a member of the President's Consumer Advisory Council, the new lobby organization has sent a letter to all presidential hopefuls asking them to express their views on the following questions:

"Will you make it a point to include the consumer as interested party in all discussions, meetings, committees, dinners and other group activity where business, labor, and other interested groups are involved?"

"Will you continue the Office of Special Assistant to the President for Consumer Affairs with its present or expanded powers?"

"Will you recommend budgets for the Special Assistant's Office equal to or greater than its present allotment?"

"Do you feel that federal funds to encourage the establishment of state consumer agencies should be recommended?"

"Will you reconstitute the Office of Consumer Counsel in the Department of Justice with adequate staff and budget?"

"Would you approve of further consumer representation at the highest levels of government, independent of the White House, for instance a Federal Department of Consumers?"

Question Box

(We invite questions on economic and the proper functions of government which will not injure anyone.)

QUESTION — We live in a time in which tyrants perpetuate wars to perpetuate tyranny. Our young men are taught that "you are obligated to serve in armed forces in defense of freedom."

Does any person—tyrant, politician—should be placed in the hands right to place in jeopardy the life of another person, except in the case that freedom and liberty of our country are threatened? Is a person a draft dodger because he does not believe his life should be placed in the hands of persons who do not want to win the Vietnam war, or any war where victory is not the goal?

ANSWER: We do not concede that any person has a right to place in jeopardy the life of another person. We do not make an exception, as the questioner did because we believe each individual has a right to determine if freedom is threatened. And individual freedom is threatened if the state adopts compulsory service as it does with the draft. As we often have said, coercion is the antithesis of freedom.

Obviously a person who attempts to avoid compulsory military service is a "draft dodger." But the onus should be placed on those demanding the draft rather than on those who try to avoid coercive service in which they do not believe.

We believe any military service should be voluntary, just as we believe the police department and any other governmental operations should be on a voluntary basis.

The soft-spoken Jesuit, who cites St. Thomas Aquinas' moral interest in economic as a historical precedent for his own deep involvement in the secular business of consumer protection, says his organization will present a complete consumer program to the platform committees at both national political conventions.

"For the first time in history," McEwen points out, "all the major consumer groups in the U.S. will be jointly urging both political parties to adopt specific consumer protection programs." The group hop to acquaint delegates before they make their final selection with the consumer-views of all presidential hopefuls.

With little public notice, McEwen opened the consumer federation's national headquarters here last month, the first of its kind. Supporting lawmakers here believe it could grow into one of the most important lobby groups in Washington.

"It could easily turn out to be a lot more effective in passing meaningful legislation for all consumers, including the poor, than the Poor People's campaign, stated Representative John Dingell, D-Mich. "When a priest like Father McEwen speaks, Congress will listen. For he has been working to bring fair prices to all for many years."

Question: Is America Sick Enough Yet To Regurgitate?

By PAUL HARVEY

Psychologists tell us that compassion is mostly "fear" for ourselves in a like situation. What they are saying is that our sympathy for our fellow man derives from imagining ourselves in a similar plight.

This has always seemed unduly cynical to me. I prefer to believe that I suffer when a friend is hurting BECAUSE HE IS HURTING.

But when an assassin's bullet crashes out of the crowd into the brain of a public figure—whomever—then I concede that our grief may be less personal—but no less real.

For at such a time, when the first shock is spent, we hurt from the bleeding wound across the sad, beautiful face of our beloved republic.

"What has happened to our country?" so many said that recent morning.

Generations of hard-working, dues-paying Americans have been logically let off steam by shouting, "Kill the empire!" But, of course, they didn't.

Now a sinister breed of American speaks in whispers—then explodes violently. Of course, I am aware that a comparative few dissident students do not represent all students.

That a few professional loafers should not reflect on our hard-working majority.

That the fact that a minute fraction of our population is comprised of potentially dangerous criminals should not cause us to despair for the future of the whole human race.

But one gunshot still makes more noise than a thousand prayers.

And the ugliest facts of modern life are brought into such sharp focus when the ultimate crime is committed against a person of prominence.

The facts are that crime is increasing in the United States nine times faster than our population is increasing.

In our preoccupation with protecting the rights of criminals we have left the law-abiding rest of us at the mercy of men who are without mercy.

Is it inevitable that when a nation grows older and more crowded and more tolerant that it suffers an increasing disrespect for lawmakers and lawmen?

If we deal leniently with small crimes, do we invite the ultimate crime?

If we allow semivoluntarist demonstrations do we encourage revolution?

History says that is precisely what happens over and over and over again.

Irreversibly? No. At least three times the British have suffered this sort of sickness, what Jenkin Lloyd Jones calls "Erosion of principle" which brought them to the brink of anarchy, but each time the British when they finally reached "the stomach-turning point" pulled themselves back upright again—and went from the edge of the abyss to unprecedented heights.

America is right now just a bout sick enough for such a regurgitation.

Nursing Bottles Take On New Look

There has been a revolution in the design of nursing bottles. One of the new models has a neck that is at a 45-degree angle from the bottle. The baby sits upright to nurse and is able to control his swallowing as in breast feeding. He also stays awake and feeds more smoothly than with the old straight-angle bottle. The advantages reported by mothers who have used this bottle are fewer attacks of colic and less spitting up.

Another new model is a soft, sterile, collapsible bottle. It has the advantage that the formula flows freely as long as the baby sucks on the nipple. In contrast to the rigid bottle which requires that the baby suck, then release the nipple so that air can enter the bottle to replace the milk that was withdrawn. The fact that the new bottles can be used only once adds a little to the expense but eliminates the necessity of washing and boiling.

It should be remembered, however, that no bottle can ever match the breast! Breast-fed babies have been found to cry less because they are less likely to be overfed and because they have a closer contact with their mothers.

Q—Is there any danger in giving a small child a home-made cough syrup that contains honey, lemon juice and whisky?

A—The value of cough syrups in general is slight and the advantages of not introducing a child to alcohol in any form are great. For a tight cough, the old-fashioned croup kettle is a better means of loosening secretions and checking a cough. When the cough is loose, it is on the mend and no treatment is necessary.

Q—My 18-month-old son was born with epidermolysis bullosa. I bathe him in Lubath once a day and put Neosporin on the open sores. Is there any cure for this disease?

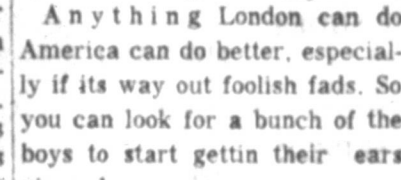

A—Since this is a hereditary disease, there is no way to prevent the characteristic large blisters except to shield the child from trauma insofar as possible. When the blisters form, the outer layer of skin should be removed and a sterile dressing applied. Although there is no cure, some victims outgrow the disease in their late teens.

So if you happen to be looking around for a new upcoming business to get into you might take up ear piercing. It could take up the slack in the blacksmiths who used to shoe nag's. They could now pierce 'jacks.' Don't spill any blood. Whoever does it though, be Heavens!

The lobe driller says that only one in 500 of his clients bleed, which is a good thing as no doubt the customers would faint away at the sight of blood.

'Confederate Air Force' Has Nuclear Bomber In Fleet

By KENNETH R. CLARK
HARLINGEN (UPI) — If Robert E. Lee had been able to command the "Confederate Air Force," roles might have been reversed at Appomattox—especially since the CAF has just added a nuclear bomber to its arsenal of aerial hardware.

The 400-member CAF already boasts the world's only complete "flying museum" of World War II aircraft — but Tuesday, the collection graduated from the 40s to the age of the atom when a sleek, six-engined jet for a landing at Harlingen Industrial Airport.

The B47 some 10 years ago, the primary muscle in the big nuclear arm of the Strategic Air Command—has been donated to the Confederate Air Force by the logistics command of the USAF and CAF historian Walter Plitt said it will become the organization's star static display.

flying membership of pilots from all over the United States, as well as from several foreign countries, already has an impressive collection of vintage war planes, including a C119, two helicopters, a B17 "Flying Fortress," a B24, a B25, several Navy fighters, an F82 "Twin Mustang," and "the only remaining flying B26 Marauder in the world."

The 92-ton B47 from Wright-Patterson AFB will be about the only aircraft in the collection which CAF pilots will not fly in air shows they stage all over the country. In modern air parlance, it is a "medium bomber," but it burns in one hour almost what a motorist would regard as a year's sup-

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—"Black Journal," a significant monthly series dealing with news and cultural happenings in America's Negro community, had its debut Wednesday night on National Educational Television.

It was the first arrival of three network series this summer that will examine Negro life in the United States and the racial issue. The others are "Time for Americans," which debuts on ABC-TV June 27, and "Of Black America," which begins on CBS-TV July 2. The hour-long "Black Journal," broadcast coast-to-coast by NET, aims at providing "Negroes and whites with a continuing view of what is going on in Black America, from politics to business and from education to the arts." The production staff is integrated, the reporters on the premiere were Negro, and so was the very good anchorman, Lou House.

Impressive Opening
And aside from an excruciatingly poor satirical sketch that ended the program—about several white television executives discussing how to use Negroes on the home screen—the debut was solid, even impressive, with a feeling for film and cinematic emotion as well as content. The final sketch—the only showbiz in the hour—was based on a fine idea by Godfrey Cambridge, but was executed in a heavyhanded manner.

The remainder of the program was sharply edited by Lou Potter, a Howard University graduate. With A. H. Perlmuter as executive producer, it got off to a strong start, showing the widow of Martin Luther King, an impressive speaker in her own right, addressing Harvard's graduating class, and mentioning the "reflection of the violence our media celebrate."

There then followed informal discussions among graduating Negroes at Harvard, and also at Morehouse College in Atlanta.

Destroy Stereotypes
And some of the heated differences of views emphasized the good that television might have done over the years in showing Negro America the way it is beginning to now. For what we had Wednesday night was, simply, people, not stereotypes. People who differed the way all of us do. And one thought of how much television could have destroyed stereotypes, and with it fear. The Wednesday broadcast also offered a brief rundown on the black press. And there was a report on the Poor People's Campaign in Washington, D.C., as well as a fascinating segment about a fashion line called "New Breed" clothes. This is a firm that features the African look, gets involved in Negro affairs and, in fact, was partly financed by the sale of stock to the black community. There also were sequences about Negroes in the news, the Black Panther party and a Negro jockey.

If there was one curious aspect, it was that "Black Journal"—just like most television—seemed preoccupied chiefly with glamorous, affluent or big name Negroes. One hopes, however, that this is one place where the situations of more ordinary blacks will be brought into focus.

Cost Of Education Predicted To Continue Its Climb Across State

AUSTIN (UPI) The "higher" in higher education could stand for the cost and it looks as if it is still going up.

Presidents and other administrators of Texas universities Wednesday asked lawmakers to double the tuition fees for undergraduates. The request reversed a long-standing policy against increasing fees by administrators.

Frank C. Erwin Jr., chairman of the Committee of Governing boards of state colleges and universities, told a news conference the proposed legislative budget for next year will leave schools $60 million short of funds needed to meet costs of achieving more students.

"Our situation has become so critical we have changed our position and endorsed the tuition increase as a means of getting additional funds," said Dr. Ralph W. Steen, president of the Council of College Presidents.

Erwin, who is also chairman of the University of Texas board of regents, said tuition

Coach Hired For Football

James Pullen, ex-Galveston High School coach, was hired recently by the Pampa school board as assistant football mentor.

Pullen, a football scholarship winner, will also coach another sport at Pampa High School, it was announced by coach Swede Lee.

Pullen was a football coach under Swede Lee, athletic director and head football coach, while at Galveston High School.

Pullen played college football at the University of Arkansas from 1961 until 1964 where he was linebacker, defensive and offensive guard.

The University of Arkansas, winners of the Southwest football conference in the 1961-62 season, according to Lee, play the same type of offensive formation that the Pampa High School football team will use this fall.

Pullen, a native of Houston, coached at Smiley High School at Houston where he lettered in three sports—football, basketball and baseball.

He was awarded a football scholarship at the University of Arkansas where coach Lee describes the player as "the toughest football player he ever saw."

Lee said the new coach gave him take a two-stroke lead with his three-under-par 35-32-67.

Yancey, a product of Chipley, Fla., now playing out of Radnor, Pa., handled the rain-dampened, 6,962-yard Oak Hill Country Club course as if he was born, raised and educated on it for his two-stroke margin over a pair of Texans, Lee Trevino of El Paso, and Charles Coody of Fort Worth, each of whom had 69's.

But Yancey didn't do it alone. He had help.

Outside help from Byron Nelson, the 56-year-old former golfing great who now does the commenting for ABC which begins televising this event today, Nelson told Yancey the best way to get out of the rough and Albert—that's my real name but I go by Bert—listened.

Texans Score High In Open Golf Tourney

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Writer

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UPI)—It wasn't a young lion or an old walrus they were all chasing today in the second round of the U.S. Open, but rather 29-year-old Albert "Bert" Yancey, who falls somewhere in between.

He said "everything went right" for him during Thursday's opening round, a statement which comes as no particular news to any of the 149 other competitors who saw him take a two-stroke lead with his three-under-par 35-32-67.

Yancey, a product of Chipley, Fla., now playing out of Radnor, Pa., handled the rain-dampened, 6,962-yard Oak Hill Country Club course as if he was born, raised and educated on it for his two-stroke margin over a pair of Texans, Lee Trevino of El Paso, and Charles Coody of Fort Worth, each of whom had 69's.

But Yancey didn't do it alone. He had help.

Outside help from Byron Nelson, the 56-year-old former golfing great who now does the commenting for ABC which begins televising this event today, Nelson told Yancey the best way to get out of the rough and Albert—that's my real name but I go by Bert—listened.

Other Needed Help

Some of the old guard could have used Nelson's help also. Jack Nicklaus, the defending champ, read the greens wrong and came in with 72; Arnold Palmer didn't cotton to the silicone-type sand which fills all of Oak Hill's 66 bunkers and took a 73. Billy Casper, the favorite, hurt his back blasting out of a bunker on the 10th but wasn't exciting anybody before that with his 75; Gary Player never really got started with his 76; and Bob Goalby, the Masters titlist, also came in with a 76.

The smallest pro in the field, 5-foot-3 John Felix from Gallitzin, Pa., occasioned the biggest buzz when he led the pack temporarily and then checked in with a mighty respectable even par 70.

That not only made the little 140-pounder happy, it also made him one of only nine golfers to equal or better par during a day when there were dark clouds continually overhead and it rained off and on.

Al Baiding, the 44-year-old Canadian campaigner, also had a 70 along with former PGA champ Dave Marr, Billy Farrell, Don Bies and Labron Harris.

Nicklaus Two Over

Don January, the present PGA kingpin, was one stroke back at 71 in a group which included Gardner Dickinson, Dan Sikes, Bill Collins, Gay Brewer, Julius Boros and Australia's Bruce Devlin. Along with Nicklaus in the 72 bracket were Robert de Vicenzo, Al Geiberger and Aussie Kel Nagie while 56-year-old Sammy Snead, still seeking his first U.S. Open title in 26 tries, Doug Sanders, involved in the dispute when he hit a slow roller down the third base line in the fifth inning.

The hard-charging infielder kicked the ball on what appeared to be the third base chalk line. Assistant coach Joe Achord, who was coaching at third base, charged in and wanted it to be recorded as a hit since the infielder touched the ball when his foot kicked it.

The dispute is something that won't ever appear in the box score but it enlivened the contest somewhat.

There has been an uncommon degree of strikeouts as well as hard hits by teams so far in action at Optimist Park in the two opening district baseball games.

A total of 28 strikeouts were recorded in its opener in a 7-2 win over Perryton. The Rebels whiffed 13 times while Perryton went down a total of 16 times.

In its second win over Wheeler by a score of 8-3, Pampa batters struck out a total of six times.

This was fairly good for this time of the season but 13 strikeouts in their first game showed that Perryton hurler Terry Rorabaugh may prove a force to be reckoned with in the return game at Perryton.

For this early in the season, both games have been remarkably free of any real bad errors, so common in high school, sandlot and American Legion ball.

and in the American League, Detroit beat Minnesota 3-1 to stretch its first place lead to 5½ games over idle Baltimore; Oakland edged Cleveland 1-0, and California beat Boston 4-2 in the first game of a scheduled double-header while the second game was suspended after 5½ innings with the score tied 1-1.

Tony Taylor singled home Tony Gonzalez with the winning run in the eighth inning to give Philadelphia's Chris Short his 100th National League victory.

Short, now 4-7, needed relief help from Dick Farrell in the ninth after allowing infield hits to Rusty Staub and Bob Aspromonte.

Banks Scores Four

Ernie Banks drove in four runs with his 12th homer and two singles and Jack Lamabe won his first game as the Cubs belted the Reds.

Banks' homer followed a triple in the 12th inning by Ron Santo off starter Tony Conner, now 1-4, who was making his first appearance for the Reds since being acquired from Atlanta.

Veteran reliever Elroy Face struck out pinch-hitter Ray Sadecki with the bases loaded in the ninth inning after two runs had scored to preserve Pittsburgh's triumph.

The two teams combined for 34 hits with Mury Willis, Matty Alou, Bill Mazeroski and Gene Alou led a 19-hit Pirate attack with three safeties each.

Tommie Sisk won his third game of the season in relief against two losses while Frank Linzy took the loss for the Giants, making his record 3-6.

involved in the dispute when he hit a slow roller down the third base line in the fifth inning.

There has been an uncommon degree of strikeouts as well as hard hits by teams so far in action at Optimist Park in the two opening district baseball games.

A total of 28 strikeouts were recorded in its opener in a 7-2 win over Perryton. The Rebels whiffed 13 times while Perryton went down a total of 16 times.

In its second win over Wheeler by a score of 8-3, Pampa batters struck out a total of six times.

This was fairly good for this time of the season but 13 strikeouts in their first game showed that Perryton hurler Terry Rorabaugh may prove a force to be reckoned with in the return game at Perryton.

For this early in the season, both games have been remarkably free of any real bad errors, so common in high school, sandlot and American Legion ball.

Pampa's American Legion baseball team has failed to connect with any bona fide home runs but the Rebels are gaining a reputation as a strong hitting club.

True, in the record books, Larry Turcotte's inside-the-park home run will go for a home run but it was purely a misjudged fly ball on the part of the Perryton center fielder.

The truth is that it was lost in the lights not a unusual circumstance in the center field area of Optimist Park.

After two games, Pampa has an aggregate total of 16 hits, including extra base hits by Larry Turcotte, John Jenkins and Alvin Achord.

Achord's hard hit may be regarded as the best hit so far in the two-game season. It was a shattering smash, one that had two parts in a drama.

For one thing, the Wheeler right fielder played the ball like a major league player would—playing it perfect as it bounced off the upper limits of the right field fence, 350 feet from home plate.

Achord has been hitting in the third position in coach Lloyd Summers' lineup and there may be some value in moving him to the cleanup spot if his long hit is an indication of his hitting prowess.

A disputed call at home plate, incidentally, was an interesting case. Al Gomez, who played center field before entering the contest as a relief hurler in the top of the fifth inning, was in-

Trojans Defeat St. Johns By 7-6

OMAHA, Neb. (UPI)—The Southern California Trojans were in the driver's seat today in their quest for the 1968 collegiate baseball championship after getting past St. John's of New York 7-6 Thursday night.

That left the Trojans, the nation's top-rated team, the only undefeated club in the 22nd annual NCAA double-elimination College World Series tournament.

They will play the North Carolina State Wolfpack at 8 p.m. CDT tonight after St. John's and the Southern Illinois Salukis battle for survival in a 5:30 p.m. game.

It appeared for a few minutes Thursday night that St. John's might deal the Southern California team a defeat when Dan Colombo connected on a grand slam homer in the bottom of the sixth to put his club ahead 6-2.

But the Trojans rallied on four hits and a walk to tie the score in the seventh. Aided by a three-base throwing error by relief pitcher Paul Fricchione, they got the winning tally in the eighth.

North Carolina State slipped past Texas 6-5 and Southern Illinois defeated Oklahoma State 7-1 earlier Thursday to stay in the series.

John Crawford Roberts, 2301 Christine, a member of United Commercial Travelers of America, has written 107 certificates for members in the men's fraternal order during the past year. Out of 246,000 members only 35 other members in addition to Roberts were century writers, who wrote more than 100 certificates.
