Toll Stands At 3

Two More Die Following Blast

The death toll stood at three today in the aftermath of a fire and explosion that ripped through an engine room at the Cities Service Gas Co. compressor station a mile and a half southeast of Pampa, shortly after 1 p.m. Tuesday.

M. M. Stewart, 64, of 803 S. Barnes; Charles L. Reeves, 59, of 1100 McCullough; and Travis Patterson, 49, of 1304 Garland, all died within hours of each other yesterday at Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo. Still listed in very critical condition at the hospital was Leo Casey, 4, of 1200 Charles.

E. E. Campbell, 60, an engineer, of 2225 N. Christy, and L.C. Wassell, 51, who lives northeast of the city, were both listed in good condition today at Highland General Hospital here.

Listed in satisfactory condition at Worley Hospital today was Sam Goodan, 61, southwest of the city. A hospital spokesman said his burns were not extensive.

Stewart, a 25-year employe of Cities Service, was the first of the critically injured to die. He died at 1:30 a. m. Wednesday. Reeves died at 2:45 p.m. yesterday and Patterson died at 5:10 p.m.

Cities Service officials in Oklahoma City said they were "shocked at the tragic accident" and extended their "deepest sympathy to the bereaved." John W. Morton, president of Cities Service Gas Co., flew into Pampa yesterday to survey the damage and extend condolences.

Cities Service officials also issued a note of public thanks "to everybody in the community." (See BLAST, Page 3)

Johnson, Rusk Off To Hawaii

By MERRIMAN SMITH
UPI White House Reporter
AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — President Johnson and Secretary of State Dean Rusk flew to Hawaii today for a two-day meeting with President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam and a new look at the Southeast Asian war.

American officials doubted the Johnson-Thieu talks in Honolulu would produce any marked change in the war. Thieu some days ago said he had "urgent" matters to discuss with Johnson.

Shortly before Johnson's departure from Washington Wednesday, officials said they knew of no particularly urgent military or political questions requiring a summit conference at this time.

Rusk joined the President here this morning for a nonstop flight of nearly eight hours to Honolulu. Thieu was bound for the conference from the opposite direction and was expected to land in Hawaii about two hours after Johnson.

Secretary of Defense Clark Clifford; Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff; and Ellsworth D. Bunker, U.S. ambassador to South Vietnam, were expected to reach Hawaii from Saigon shortly before the White House travel party.

U.S. officials expected the Johnson-Thieu private talks to consist primarily of a review of the military and political situation in Vietnam, an appraisal of future moves by North Vietnam and the Viet Cong, and possible countermeasures by the United States, its allies and South Vietnam.

U.S. officials believed the staffs of the two presidents would confer while Johnson and Thieu met privately. This did not smack of high-powered plenary sessions usually associated with major international decisions. Thieu "urgently" requested the meeting with Johnson.

The Chief Executive and his senior advisers may have an opportunity to confer briefly in Hawaii before Thieu arrives in the late afternoon for a ceremony of welcome and brief remarks by both presidents at a heavily guarded section of Honolulu. (See JOHNSON, Page 3)

Funnels Sighted But Little Damage Is Reported In Area

At least six tornado funnels were sighted in the Pampa vicinity yesterday evening as broiling dark clouds passed over the area, but little damage was reported.

Most of the storm was centered south of Pampa, where rainfall amounts from .20 inch to .75 inch were reported. Areas north of the city and the city itself received little or no rain.

Pampa's emergency warning system sounded repeatedly for about 15 minutes after three funnels were sighted about 7:15 p.m.

The first funnel was sighted south of the Celanese plant west of the city. Soon after two funnels were reported, one about four miles east of White Deer, the other about 10 miles southeast of White Deer.

Three more funnels were sighted about 8 p.m. near White Deer. The only damage reported was

B52s Hit Into North Vietnam

By JACK WALSH
SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. B52 Stratofortresses flew their fourth successive day of raids into North Vietnam today and bombed surface-to-air missile sites for the first time in the war, U.S. headquarters said.

Highly vulnerable to the surface-to-air missiles (SAMs), the eight-engine bombers only on occasion defy the missile-filled northern skies. Today they went after the weapons that threaten them.

They hit SAM firing positions four and 11 miles above the Demilitarized Zone separating the two Vietnams, spokesmen said. No SAMs were reported fired. The United States has never lost a B52 in combat.

The U.S. command, meantime, disclosed the third lowest weekly American casualty toll of the year last week—188 servicemen killed and 1,337 wounded, continuing a four-week dropoff in fighting and American losses.

Communist deaths for the same week were set at 874, perhaps the lowest in 18 months, and brought guerrilla losses since Jan. 1, 1961, to 371,003, U.S. spokesmen said.

Stratofortresses also lashed deeper into North Vietnam, 12 and 15 miles above the DMZ, for strikes against truck unloading points, construction equipment and troop concentrations.

The strikes today centered where U.S. Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford said the Communists were regrouping and refitting for an offensive in South Vietnam's northern quarter.

To the south Viet Cong raiders abducted 20 Vietnamese teen-agers from a coastal hamlet Wednesday, killed two civilians on Saigon's doorstep and derailed a train carrying vegetables to Central Highland markets, military spokesmen said today.

The kidnaping of 20 youngsters from Lal Chanh hamlet on the central coast Wednesday night provided further evidence that Communists were building up their supply of forced labor to carry supplies during the impending offensive, spokesmen said.

Another Communist group dashed into a farming village five miles east-southeast of Saigon on the same night and killed two civilians, spokesmen said.

Clifford told newsmen today the United States could stop the bombing of the North entirely if Hanoi would make a reciprocal act of restraint. But he said, the Communist negotiators in Paris have been unwilling to do so.

Just 10 miles south of the DMZ, Leathernecks killed 77 Communists in two battles Wednesday in foothill country untouched by allied troops in two years. Marine losses, spokesmen said, were 9 killed and 40 wounded.

In other developments: —American fighter-bomber plots flew 117 fighter-bomber missions into North Vietnam Wednesday and destroyed 41 trucks, five anti-aircraft sites and a variety of boats, warehouses and weapons positions, the war communique said.

3 US Pilots Released By North Viets

TOKYO (UPI)—North Vietnam today released three captured American pilots, a Japanese correspondent in Hanoi said.

The correspondent for the Denpa News said the pilots were turned over to representatives of an American antiwar committee.

The North Vietnamese earlier said they would release the men identified as Maj. James Frederick Low, 43, of Maitland, Fla.; Maj. Fred Neale Thompson, 32, of Big Spring, Tex.; and Capt. Joe Victor Carpenter, 37, of Victorville, Calif.

The Japanese correspondent said the pilots were believed still in the North Vietnamese capital because there was no scheduled flight out of Hanoi Thursday.

The International Control Commission's regular flight is scheduled for Friday and there was speculation the Americans might get on it, the Denpa News said. The flight is bound for Vientiane, Laos.

A delegation of approximately 150 persons from Pampa and Gray County will be in Amarillo tomorrow night when California governor Ronald Reagan speaks at a fund-raising dinner honoring Panhandle congressman Bob Price of Pampa.

Jim Campbell of Pampa, district GOP committeeman in charge of local arrangements for the affair, said today 70 tickets had been sold locally up until this morning for the $100 a plate dinner in the Tri State Fairgrounds Coliseum at Amarillo. More than that number of tickets have been sold locally just to hear the governor speak, Campbell stated.

Tickets still can be obtained from George B. Cree, local ticket sales chairman. Amarillo sources reported today approximately 600 dinner tickets had been sold. Gov. Reagan, an expected

Russian 'Force' Is Seen By Diplomats

By JAMES O. JACKSON
PRAGUE (UPI) — Czech Communist leaders today rejected Soviet demands they drop their drive for more democracy. They told the Kremlin that Czechs would battle a return to Stalinism.

This nation's new Communist reform leadership said in an open letter to Moscow that bringing back the old system would "imperial the party's leading role and would create a situation in which a power conflict would really arise."

The Czech defiance of Moscow came amid diplomatic reports from London and the Soviet capital that the Kremlin leaders might use force on Czechoslovakia.

Guardsmen Are Called Into Akron

By United Press International
National Guardsmen today went into the streets of Akron, Ohio, to stop looting and stoning by gangs of Negroes. The incident was one of three outbreaks of violence in the nation.

Police shot and wounded a Negro looter in the Ohio industrial city, where officials feared the trouble would cause cancellation of an appearance today by Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York, crossing the country in his Republican presidential campaign.

The violence in Akron broke out Wednesday—police did not know why—on the same day police battled hippies in San Francisco and were beaten by an angry crowd in Stockton, Calif.

Connally Signs Tax Legislation

AUSTIN (UPI) — Trade the "e" and the "a" in Texas and it comes out taxes. That happened Wednesday when Gov. John Connally signed the legislative tax package from the summer special session.

The bill, which became law with Connally's signature, increases the state sales tax from 2 to 3 per cent and ups the automobile sales tax by the same margin. Also increased by the measures are corporate franchise taxes which jumped half a dollar from $2.25 to $2.75 per $1,000.

The tax hikes go into effect Oct. 1. That means residents of many cities will be paying 4 per cent on their purchases—3 per cent to the state and 1 per cent to the cities that have passed the cities sales tax.

The governor has yet to sign the most controversial bill passed by the special session—the appropriations bill. Connally must act on the $2.6 billion spending measure by midnight July 23. He has given no indication when he will sign or veto the measure.

Also awaiting gubernatorial action is a bill prohibiting carrying weapons into places where alcoholic beverages are served for on-premise consumption.

Television In Review

By RICKDU BROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Quota-ble quotes from the television scene:
—From the current issue of TV Guide Magazine, in an editorial about video violence:
"The television industry's initial response to public outcry against violence in America was to be expected. In effect it was: It isn't our fault. We didn't do it, and furthermore we won't do it again."
"Network officials, who usually are busy describing the tremendous impact of television upon the nation, quickly pointed out that there is no conclusive evidence that television violence has any impact upon the nation. Still, just in case, they rushed emissaries to Hollywood to urge writers and producers to reduce violence in future programs."

—From critic-commentator Marya Mannes, discussing acid rock music on Tuesday's ABC-TV evening news:
"It is the new illiteracy, and the young love it. They love it because they would rather feel than think. It is easier. It is also easier for those who cater to them. For, to blast the senses—to blow the mind—you don't need training. You don't need knowledge. You don't even need talent. All you need is a boundless ego, a manic temperament, and the loudest amplifying equipment you can get. Then you can do your thing.

"In this new illiteracy a man is called a musician if he can scream incantations and swing his instrument like a club. There is some very real talent in the contemporary arts. But there is a world of difference between, say, Simon and Garfunkel, or Peter, Paul and Mary, and this riot of the soul. And like all riots, it is essentially destructive and degrading."

From Mae West, who has a planned television special in the works for Robert Wise Productions, in an interview with Dave Kaufman of the Hollywood trade paper "Variety":
"College kids see my pictures on TV, and I'm getting lots of fan mail because of it. They have formed a fan club, and now it's worldwide. In the last five years, I made two rock-and-roll albums. I was a blues singer, and there is a similarity between blues and rock. One of my albums sold 100,000 copies."

—From W.C. Fields, in a televised movie in which he is hung over in a ship cabin one morning after considerable drinking the night before, and a friend enters:
Friend: "How do you feel?"
Fields: "Like a June bride."
Friend: "How does a June bride feel?"
Fields: "I wonder...I wonder..."

Miss Grider, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. (Mildred Holt) Grider, was graduated from Pampa High School in 1934 and received her BA degree from the University of Texas in June, 1963.

After graduate work at Kansas University, she became interested in Panhandle history through her courses there on the Plains region.

From 1963 to 1965, she taught Latin and World History at Caprock High School in Amarillo. In 1967, she was awarded her MA degree.

She taught at Abilene High School in 1967 and was appointed to the staff of the archeological excavation sponsored by the University of Texas at Corinth, Greece.

At present, she is a teacher at Crozier High School in Dallas. She is a 20 year member of the Girl Scouts.

Her personal interviews and research on the life of the late Cecil P. Buckler, a member of the Pampa Genealogical and Historical Society, resulted in the publication of his life in the Oct., 1967 issue of "The West Texas Historical Association Year Book," published at Abilene.

Hosts for the meeting will be Mr. and Mrs. John Hesse. Mrs. J. C. Pattillo will preside at the guest register and a short business session will be conducted by the president, Tracy D. Cary.

Company officials said the blast was apparently caused by a malfunction on an engine in the compressor plant, but they said they hoped to pinpoint the exact cause.

The plant has been plagued by three explosions since it began operations here in 1949. Twenty-six persons are employed at the plant.

Suit Filed Here

Lee and Mary McWilliams of Gray County have filed a damage suit in 31st Judicial District Court here against Robert Mack and the Coca-Cola Bottling Plant here for $8,500.

The plaintiffs allege in their suit that on May 29, 1968, they sustained personal injuries due to the negligence of the defendant.

The suit contends that there was "negligence in dispensing a defective product that was not fit for human consumption as impliedly warranted by the defendants."

Hearing For Youths Set

A preliminary hearing was scheduled today for three juveniles who were apprehended by city police Tuesday after an attempted burglary.

The youths—two of whom are 14, the other 15—have admitted committing a total of 30 burglaries between them.

Two of the youths were caught after a three-hour, block-by-block chase Tuesday morning and the other was later arrested at his home.

The trio told police that most of the burglaries were of coin-operated machines, but they disclaimed a rash of break-ins at a number of Pampa schools.

Under terms of Texas law, no formal criminal charges will be made against the juveniles but the hearings will determine if they are adjudged juvenile delinquents or not. If pronounced juvenile delinquents, they would probably serve a probationary period or be sentenced to the state reform school.

One Fire Reported

Flamen reported one fire this morning a 7:45 alarm at 1334 Christine, where an apparent electrical short caused slight damage on the wiring of a motor in a 1968 auto owned by Albert Reynolds.

Eggers To Visit Here Tomorrow

Republican gubernatorial Candidate Paul Eggers will be in Pampa tomorrow afternoon on a handshaking tour of the downtown area.

Eggers, who faces Democrat Preston Smith in this fall's general elections, will arrive in Pampa about 2 p.m., coming here from Perryton. A group of local supporters will accompany him on his tour here.

David Fatheree, working on the Eggers campaign in this area, said backers of the GOP candidate should meet him at about 2 p.m. at the Hughes Building if they would like to visit with him since he will be in a tight schedule while in Pampa.

He will go to Amarillo from Pampa to take part in the Republican fund-raising dinner honoring Pampa Congressman Bob Price tomorrow night. Gov. Ronald Reagan of California will be the principal speaker at that dinner.

Crab-meat Newburg in shells pleases eye and palate.

For a Summer Luncheon Special, Try Crab-Meat Newburg in Shells

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food Editor

Looking for something a bit special for your summer luncheon party? Then why not try Crab-meat Newburg served in shells. It gives a regal touch to your party. And tastes quite elegant.

Because its custardy sauce is made with cream and egg yolks, it can do with a bit of nutmeg. Ground red pepper and garlic powder enhance the flavor still further, while parsley flakes in the bread crumb topping contribute their subtle aroma.

CRAB-MEAT NEWBURG
1/2 cup butter or margarine, melted
2 cans (7 1/2 oz. each) crab meat, flaked
1 1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon ground nutmeg
1/4 teaspoon ground red pepper

1/4 teaspoon instant garlic powder
1 1/2 cups light cream
4 egg yolks, beaten
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1/2 cup buttered fresh bread crumbs
6 lemon slices
Parsley flakes. . . .

In a medium-sized saucepan, heat butter; add crab meat. Cook over low heat until hot, stirring constantly. Blend in salt, nutmeg, red pepper, garlic powder. Combine cream with egg yolks; add to crab meat. Cook, stirring occasionally, until mixture begins to thicken, about 10 to 15 minutes. Add lemon juice. Turn into individual casseroles; top with buttered fresh bread crumbs and brown under broiler. Garnish with sliced lemon and parsley flakes. Six portions.

Bacon With Lamb Makes a Quick, Broiled Dinner

"What's a quick meat and vegetable dinner?" asks a homemaker who's pushed for time.

Lamb patties, wrapped with bacon, answers Reba Staggs, meat expert with the National Live Stock and Meat Board. These are broiled on a rack, taking approximately 16 minutes. Cooked vegetables, peas with carrots, will heat in the pan right underneath the rack at the same time.

1 pound ground lamb
1/2 cup rolled oats
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1/4 cup grated onion
1/2 cup milk
6 slices bacon
6 cooked carrots
2 cups cooked peas. . . .

Combine meat, rolled oats, salt, pepper, onion and milk. Shape into 6 patties, wrapping each with slice of bacon. Fasten with wooden pick. Place on broiler rack. Place cooked carrots and peas in broiler pan. Place broiler rack over vegetables and insert broiler pan allowing 2 to 3 inches between surface of meat and heat. Broil the patties on one side until they are brown, 8 to 10 minutes. Turn and brown on second side. Vegetables will heat while the patties are cooking. (Six servings).

Food Buying Guide
Broiler-fryer chickens and turkeys are the most abundant meats. Beef roasts and steaks are again featured in most areas along with ground beef in some areas. Bacon is the featured pork item with ham and smoked picnics also in good supply. Fish fillets, canned tuna, and North Pacific halibut steaks are fish buys to watch for, according to the U.S. Department of the Interior.

Cabbage, carrots, celery, corn, lettuce, onions, potatoes, and squash make up the list of the most abundant vegetables.

Bipartisan Drive Is Set To 'Neutralize' Bid By Wallace

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Several congressmen are about to launch a bipartisan drive to neutralize third-party candidate George Wallace and avoid throwing the presidential election into a deadlocked House. House leaders from both parties are skeptical of the chances—at least for the present.

FAT OVERWEIGHT

The plan calls for a compact between the Democratic and Republican parties and, specifically, candidates for House seats in the 91st Congress. Reps. Charles Goodell, R-N.Y., and Morris Udall, D-Ariz., are leading the campaign. Goodell claims potential support is great. The plan would work this way: Should the presidential election be thrown into the House (which would occur if no presidential candidate received a majority of electoral votes), members who had signed the compact would cast their votes for the candidate who won the highest popular vote, regardless of party.

Under the Constitution, each state delegation in the House in such circumstances is allowed one vote, with evenly split delegations losing their votes. Politicians of both parties fear that in the event of a close race, Wallace might be able to capture enough state delegations to block either candidate from receiving 26 votes (a majority of the 50 states).

So armed, the theory goes, the former Alabama governor would be able to extract significant concessions (such as a pledge to abandon the nation's civil rights policies) in return for handing over his votes to one party or the other.

Skeleton Is Identified As Missing Man

WELLINGTON, Tex. (UPI)—A skeleton found in an abandoned car used to prevent creek bed erosion has been identified as James Oliver Harris of southwest Collingsworth County.

vent the banks of Buck Creek from eroding. The body was found in March by county road department employees. Collingsworth County Sheriff John Rainey said the body had been in the car about 6-7 months, about the same length of time Harris had been missing. The skull has never been found but Rainey said he considered the case closed.

Among the goals is abolition of laws banning nude bathing on public beaches.

Matching Pinafores Prevent Summer Cook-Out Spots

By JOANNE SCHREIBER
Dad may star at the grill but the ladies of the family still need practical and pretty cook-out cover-ups to wear during summer barbecue sessions.

One of the brightest ideas of the season is a pair of pinafores, in mother-and-daughter versions, both made from a single 54x72-inch vinyl tablecloth. These tablecloths, which come in a variety of sizes and shapes, are durable, machine-washable, and resist spills and stains. From Pat Gray, stylist for an American plastic company, come these easy directions for matching pinafores.

Mark and measure back of tablecloth with pencil and yardstick. An 18-inch depth for the mother's skirt and 12 inches for the daughter's skirt will be right for most people. Mark the tablecloth with 3/4 inches for waistbands, 2 1/2 for straps, 3 inches for ruffles, and bibs cut from the remaining center section. Cut out.

Measure waistline. Find center of waistband. Using a long basting stitch on your sewing machine, gather skirt to waistline measure, or even a little shorter if you prefer flattering fullness in front, with edges not quite meeting in back.

Match centers of skirt and waistband to wrong side of skirt. Turn waistband to front, turn under 1/4-inch hem, pin in place. Set machine for 12 stitches to the inch, and top-stitch across entire length of waistband and ties.

Fold straps in half lengthwise and top-stitch folded edge to long sides of bib. Mother's bib will be about 12x7 inches. Daughter's bib will be about 8x5 inches. Continue top stitching down entire length of straps. Cut strap length as necessary for front-waist-to-back-waist measurement.

Gather ruffles to fit strap-length. Insert ruffles between strap edges, pin and top-stitch. Try on top and bottom sections of apron center bib and skirt fronts and pin in position. Stitch straps in position, continuing stitching across top edge of waistband, catching bib section. Reinforce with second stitching row. If desired, add pocket from leftover scraps.

A plastic tablecloth of this size costs less than $5, a mod-

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Remember me? I wrote to you 6 years ago, and here I am again. I should have taken your advice because things aren't any better. I am still living with the same woman I wrote you about. I think the world of her, but her kids keep me upset all the time. I built this beautiful home for them, and it is always a mess. Her kids are now 17, 15, and 13 and they're lazy as pet coons. They have no respect for their mother, and she won't let me handle them. I would marry her tomorrow, but she is very independent and likes things the way they are. (The kids think we're married.) What is wrong with her, anyway? It's usually the woman who begs for marriage, but in this case, it's me. So what is your advice?

LIVING IN SIN
DEAR LIVING: Lots of things could be "wrong" with her, but don't waste too much time trying to figure them out. You can't force a woman to marry you, and from your description of her and her brood you could be lucky. Ask a lawyer what your legal obligations are to this woman and her children. A man in your situation ought to know where he stands.

DEAR ABBY: I taught school and didn't marry until I was 33. Andrew was 37 and had never been married before. He lived with his mother, but said we would have a place of our own when we married. We did, but in less than a year his mother got "lonesome" and moved in with us.

Our house is small, but it did have two bedrooms, so I fixed one up for Mother B. with a new TV, which she rarely turns on. She comes to our bedroom and sits on our bed (even when we are IN it) and watches whatever we're watching. After we turn out our light she sits on a chair in our bedroom and reads with a flashlight. And she doesn't leave until she thinks we are both asleep.

There is no lock on our bedroom door. Mother B. has four other children. They never ask her to their houses, but they run in to say "hi" to her on their way somewhere. Her health is good and she could afford to live alone.

I am at the breaking point, Abby. I have considered asking Andrew to make a choice between his mother and me, but I'm afraid he'd choose her. I can't take this much longer. What should I do?

DESPERATE
DEAR DESPERATE: Have a long talk with Andrew. Explain your need for privacy, and ask him to convey it to his mother. Insist on a lock for your bedroom door. If Andrew refuses, then face it, he has already made his choice.

DEAR ABBY: I was amused to read that letter from the girl whose boy friend supposedly didn't know how to kiss. All I can say is—I should be so lucky. More than once I've had to push my dates away in disgust because of their aggressive "bedroom" kisses. There is a time and place for everything, and a doorstep after a date is not the place for a kiss like that.

A "shy" kisser can become a bit more bold in time, but an aggressive kisser can never be toned down. I don't feel any sympathy for Jake's girl. I just wish I could meet Jake.

READER
DEAR ABBY: Our daughter announced her engagement a few months ago, and now there are indications that she is not quite so "sure" as she once was. The boy is pushing for an early wedding, and our daughter now says she wishes she could wait "a little while," but because she said they'd have "a summer wedding," she has to go through with it soon.

In our hearts we have never felt that this young man was "right" for our daughter, but when she told us she was going to marry him, we kept our opinions to ourselves, since her decision had already been made. Now we are sorry we weren't more honest with her in the beginning, and we don't know what to say or do. Please answer this as soon as possible.

TROUBLED PARENTS
DEAR TROUBLED: Let your daughter know that you are with her all the way if she wants to "wait a while." Encourage her to wait until she is absolutely certain that he is the man with whom she wants to spend the rest of her life. A broken engagement is relatively "painless" as compared with a broken marriage. If she doubts it, she can ask any divorcee.

Games Rescue Mothers Boxed in with Vacationing Children

By PATRICIA MCCORMACK
NEW YORK (UPI)—No need for boys and girls to climb the walls, swing on the drapes and hop all over the furniture when rain scratches their outdoor fun these vacation days.

Boxed games such as checkers, and creative crafts can keep them from driving mom into the ding-a-long wagon. There are even a few games that require very little equipment or expense.

Consider the tissue paper race. Give each child a piece of tissue paper and an 8 by 10 cardboard to use as a fan. Line the children up on one side of the room.

The object of this race is to get the tissue paper to the opposite wall by fanning it. Blowing it or giving it a push with hand or foot is against the rules. First one there wins.

Marble Blow
Another good game for youngsters bursting with energy: Marble blow.

Put a marble about six inches from the edge of a square table.

Opponents sit opposite each other and try to blow the marble to the other fella's side of the table. When one marble goes overboard, it is replaced at that point with another and the game continues until all marbles have been used.

The trick here: Give a sudden puff to stop the oncoming marble at the edge of your side of the table. Then, take a deep breath and give out with a tremendous puff that sends the marble out of the game like a shot.

Cards help if you want to keep the youngsters seated and quiet. Most youngsters feel flattered and grown up when a parent or grandparent joins with them in a game of Go Fish or Concentration.

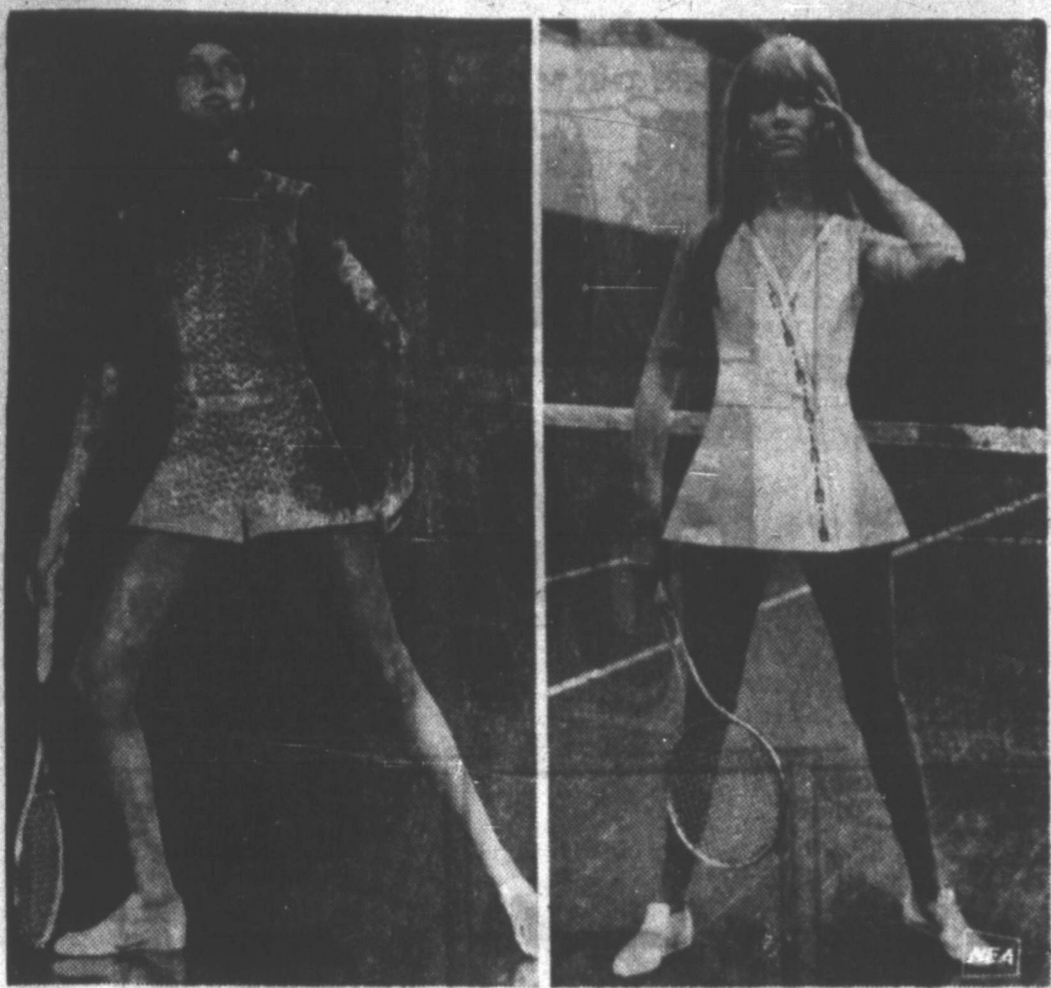

Cards are character-building to the extent that they teach how to lose without complaining and to win without crowing.

One new card set on the market combines a book describing 50 card games for children and two packs of playtime cards—mini-cards for mini-hands. The cards are half the size of standard ones.

Different card games for different age groups. Go Fish and Old Maid usually popular with six to nine year olds. Concentration is a favorite of the 10 to 12 age bracket. Hearts and I Doubt It are favored by 13 to 15 year olds.

Casper, Nicklaus Are Rated Co-Favorites

By JACK WILKINSON
SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI)—The golden anniversary PGA championship tees off deep in the heart of Texas today—some 15 minutes before dawn—with golden bear Jack Nicklaus and gold-miner Billy Casper rated co-favorites.

Odds makers have made Nicklaus and Casper 3-1 choices to succeed Don January as champ and lay claim to the $25,000 first prize after four grueling rounds on the heat-seared, light and tight Pecan Valley Country Club course, which reaches out some 7,096 yards with a 35-35-70 par.

But, those rumbling noises from the sidelines come from the "young lions," again waiting hungrily in the wings to capture another "big one" from the "old pros." Leading this latest surge from golf's new breed are U.S. Open champion Lee Trevino, the colorful caballero who already has been made honorary mayor of San Antonio; lanky Tom Weiskopf, trailing Casper by less than $500 in the all-important money-winning derby and Dave Stockton, winner of his last two tournaments.

Arnold Palmer, who has won more than $1 million in a brilliant career but has not been able to capture the PGA championship in 11 tries, is back for another go at it. And so is revitalized Sam Snead, whose game was never better as he goes for his fourth PGA title.

Nicklaus, the blond blaster from Ohio, won this title in 1963 and is currently in the longest victory drought since he turned pro in 1961. He hasn't won since last October—but it doesn't bother him.

"I sure wouldn't call it a slump," he grinned Wednesday. "Certainly, not with three straight seconds. I'm playing well and I don't expect too much trouble here. The rough's not so bad, either."

Nicklaus' view of the menacing rough was not shared by most of the other golfers, however. January called it "atrocious." Snead said it made the course "unfair." Palmer said the rough was bad because "if you hit a ball in there, it sinks." Casper called it "tough." Trevino, on the other hand, said he thought it would be easy to get out of and he counted 11 holes where the rough posed no problem off the tee.

Rotary Edges Motor Inn, 7-5

6 p.m. Bruce & Son vs. Hilland (National Field)
8 p.m. Hoover vs. Dixie (National Field)
8 p.m. Holmes vs. FWA (American Field)
Rotary rallied for four runs in the fifth inning to edge Motor Inn 7-5 in the Little League baseball tournament Wednesday night.

Singles by Snell, Stokes and R. Robertson paced the win in the fifth inning. The other three games were postponed until tonight when all three will be played at the same time.

TEXAN TRIUMPHS

BEAUMONT (UPI)—Richard Medrano of Austin used left jab combinations Tuesday night to defeat Rogelio Reyes of Mexico City in a 15-round decision and take the North American Junior Welterweight title. Medrano took 12 rounds and tied one for the victory. The win gave him a 28-1-1 record and may provide a title shot at welterweight champ Curtis Cokes of Dallas.

RULES VIOLATION
LONDON (UPI)—The United States and Holland were asked to take action against amateur tennis stars Marty Riessen, Evanston, Ill., and Tom Okker for playing a doubles match with professionals John Newcombe and Tony Roche.

The international lawn tennis federation, which made the complaint, also fined the Royal Netherland Lawn Tennis Association for allowing the match to take place.

Ex-Twin Player Haunts Old Mates

By FRANK DE GEORGES
UPI Sports Writer
Russ Nixon savored the fruits of revenge Wednesday night and he found the taste sweet.

The veteran 33-year-old Nixon, who was released by the Minnesota Twins in spring training, came back to haunt the old club with a three-run double in the ninth inning to give the Boston Red Sox a 6-5 triumph.

"Being released wasn't that big a thing to me," said Nixon, who had been activated Wednesday from Boston's Pittsfield, Mass., farm team. "But it was nice to get that hit."

Elsewhere in the AL, Oakland edged Detroit, 3-2. Oakland whitewashed Baltimore, 1-0. Washington trimmed New York, 2-1, and Cleveland beat California, 4-2.

Cards Rained Out
In the National League, Cincinnati gained a 7-4 triumph over Los Angeles. Chicago scored an 8-4 triumph and then lost to Philadelphia, 8-0. Houston defeated Atlanta, 5-2 and New York beat Pittsburgh 5-4 after losing 8-2. The first-place St. Louis Cardinals were leading 6-0 when their game with San Francisco was rained out after four complete innings.

SIGN VETERAN
NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—The New Orleans Saints announced Wednesday the signing of veteran receiving star Dave Parks of the San Francisco 49ers.

CANDID COMMENT
WARSAW (UPI)—Kazimierz Dejmek has been fired as director of the National Theater, government sources said Wednesday. His production of the Polish classic "Dziady" was criticized for anti-Russian lines such as: "The Russians have been sending here (to Poland) for 100 years fools, spies and jackasses."

Jim "Catfish" Hunter picked up his first victory in nearly a month as he hurled the Athletics to victory. Hunter held the league-leading Tigers to six hits in posting his seventh victory of the year. A go-ahead single by John Donaldson in the second and Rick Monday's two-run homer accounted for Oakland's runs.

End Orioles' Streak
Tom McCraw scored the only run of the game on Tom Phoebus' fourth-inning balk as the Orioles' seven-game winning streak came to an end. McCraw singled, stole second, went to third when a Phoebus wild pitch bounced off catcher Andy Eichelbarren, and forced the balk with his base-running.

Winner Joe Horlen allowed the Orioles four hits before he was relieved in the eighth. Del Unser's single drove home Ed Brinkman with the winning run in the seventh and Dennis Higgins chipped off a late Yankee threat as the Senators broke a nine-game losing streak. With Washington leading 1-0, Brinkman beat out an infield hit and advanced to second on a sacrifice by starter and winner, Camillo Pascual.

Shortstop Larry Brown drove in three runs and collected three hits to pace the Indians. The triumph enabled the Indians to move into a virtual second-place tie with Baltimore.

Houston Pitcher Fast As Koufax

By DARRELL MACK
UPI Sports Writer
HOUSTON (UPI)—A California Angel scout told Don Wilson five years ago he couldn't throw hard enough to make the major leagues.

Today Hank Aaron compares the 23-year-old Houston Astro right-hander to a young Sandy Koufax.

"As far as I'm concerned, Wilson throws faster than anybody in the league," Aaron said. "He throws as hard as Koufax did, but Koufax had a better breaking ball. When Koufax was getting his curve and other stuff over, he was unbeatable."

"When Koufax was Wilson's age, he couldn't get anything over. I would say they both threw about the same speed at this stage of their careers."

Wilson has reached two plateaus ahead of Koufax. He pitched his first no-hitter as a rookie at age 22 last year while the former Dodger great did not get his first no-hitter until he was 28.

Wilson Ties Record
Wilson tied the major league record of 18 strikeouts in a nine-inning game last Sunday in his second season. Koufax did it for the first time in 1959, his fourth season.

Wilson also tied a modern-day record of eight straight strikeouts Sunday, one of the few strikeout records Koufax missed.

Wilson and Koufax are similar in ways other than speed and strikeouts. Both are quiet and long-suffering. Koufax endured almost unbearable pain in his left elbow before he retired after the 1966 season.

Wilson has not had anything like that and probably never will, but he has had a rib separation since before the season started that no one except his closest friends knew about until after Sunday's sparkier in Cincinnati.

He even denied it for fear he would be accused of using it as an excuse for his 5-11 season and 4.32 earned run average. If anyone asked why he was having his first losing season in organized ball, he said his control was poor.

He finally admitted this week that the injury caused him to change his way of throwing and could have brought on the control problem.

Hurts Like Headache
"I've just gotten to the point where I can throw like I did last year," Wilson said. "It still hurts more like a headache or toothache after the fifth or sixth inning, but I don't have it taped anymore and my delivery is about back to normal."

Wilson signed with the Astros in 1964 after he quit Compton, Calif., Junior College to join the Army, hopefully for a career. His parents talked him out of it and he played semi-pro ball until Karl Kuehl discovered him on Los Angeles area sandlots and signed him without a bonus.

Wilson, a 6-3, 205-pounder, had given up on playing pro ball because of the Angel scout's evaluation and had gone to Compton to improve his grades so he could enter UCLA or Los Angeles State on a football scholarship.

UCLA lost a tight end. The Army lost a potential great-grenade tosser. The Astros got a pitcher who has reached some of Koufax's plateaus.

If he's a mountain climber, it'll be quite a career.

with two homers and a single, and Bill Hands went 7-2-3 innings for his ninth victory for the Cubs in their opener. The Phillies gained a split in the doubleheader when Jeff James pitched his first shutout and drove in a run with his first major league hit in the nightcap. James was backed by a 10-hit attack, including homers by Don Lock, Johnny Callison and Cookie Rojas.

Cincinnati Relief Hurler Earns Seventh Victory Over Dodgers, 7-4

By FRED DOWN
PI Sports Writer
Manager Dave Bristol has an underhanded reason for insisting his Cincinnati Reds should still be regarded as serious National League pennant contenders.

The reason is Ted Abernathy, a 35-year-old much-traveled submarine ball relief pitcher, who is compiling an eye-popping record during a season in which remarkable pitching performances have been commonplace.

The 6-foot, 4-inch righthander from Stanley, N.C., has appeared in no fewer than 45 games and sports a 7-1 record and a glittering 0.79 earned run average. He has allowed seven earned runs in 80 innings and prevented a Cincinnati staff plagued by sore arms from falling apart completely.

O'Abby, as he is known by his teammates, pitched 1 2-3 innings of shutout relief to earn his seventh victory of the season Wednesday night when the Reds ended a seven-game losing streak with a 7-4 triumph over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

The victory enabled the Reds to gain ground on all four teams currently ahead of them, including the first-place St. Louis Cardinals who were leading 6-0 behind Bob Gibson when their game with the San Francisco Giants was rained out after four complete innings.

Cubs, Phillies Split
The Chicago Cubs scored an 8-4 triumph and then lost to the Philadelphia Phillies 8-0, the Houston Astros defeated the Atlanta Braves 5-2 and the New York Mets beat the Pittsburgh Pirates 5-4 after losing 8-2 in other National League games.

In the American League, the Oakland Athletics edged the Detroit Tigers 3-2, the Boston Red Sox shaded the Minnesota Twins 6-5, the Chicago White Sox stopped the Baltimore Orioles 1-0, the Washington Senators nipped the New York Yankees 2-1 and the Cleveland Indians defeated the California Angels 4-2.

Pinch-hitter Mack Jones snapped a 4-4 tie with a two-run double in the eighth inning and scored the third run of the frame on Vada Pinson's sacrifice fly to give Abernathy and the Reds the win.

Abernathy, who started his career as an overhand pitcher, but became an underhanded thrower because of a sore shoulder, set a major league record of 84 appearances for the Cubs in 1965 and had a 6-3 record and 1.27 ERA for the Reds last season.

The Pampa Daily News

A Watchful Newspaper

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license, nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself. No more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Truth Is For Everyone

Many things are being done in the name of defense—defense of criminals and wrongdoers, of taraway countries (Vietnam, Korea, West Germany), of our country, our jobs, our economic standards, our skin color, our philosophical beliefs. As a result, in the attempts at assertion, a rolling cauldron of seething labels, factions, striving, struggle and futility sizzles on the domestic range. Men want peace and are at war. Men want freedom and seek enslaving bonds of restrictive laws, tariffs, immigration quotas. Listening to the clamor of defense for any pet "bag" one happens to hold, it sounds like what a man wants is peace for himself, freedom for himself and war and restrictive laws for other men.

The News has long espoused the philosophy of individualism, but this is not it. If peace and freedom are a part of truth, then they are true for all, not just for an individual or "chosen" group of individuals. We believe peace is the condition or state in which every man may act harmlessly without any outside interference or coercion. We believe that freedom is, as expressed by economist Andrew Galambos, having 100 per cent control of one's own life and property and zero per cent control of anyone else's life and property.

LSD Users Run Scared

If throwing a scare into the public hasn't made much of a dent in the nation's tobacco habit as yet, the tactic appears to have had sudden and dramatic effect in another area of considerable concern in health quarters. The U.S. Bureau of Narcotics reports a sharp decline in LSD usage in the wake of revelations during the past year of the mind-bending drug's effect on human reproduction—which probably says something about survival of the race being a more telling argument than a personal survival.

The bureau says the turning point came with evidence that LSD can disrupt the arrangement of chromosomes—the tiny rods in cells containing the multitudes of genes determining human development from sex to hair color and number of fingers.

A Reprieve For The Wild Rivers

Score one for conservationists. They sorely need it in the uphill campaign to preserve at least a small portion of natural America from the bulldozer and man's many and ingenious ways of fouling his environment. A House interior subcommittee has approved establishment of a scenic-rivers system to preserve in the wild state streams of particular scenic, wildlife and recreational value. Any changes in the landscape, specifically dam building, would require congressional authorization.

Different Attitude On Tribute

The Paris conference with North Vietnam drags on interminably, as the Americans continue their efforts to appease the communists.

The Dan Smoot Report for July 1 lists a number of concessions President Johnson's administration has made over the past three years to no end, while American men are dying in the futile and undeclared war.

Smoot notes that "On April 7, 1965, President Johnson offered the North Vietnamese government a billion-dollar bribe to stop fighting," and that "Ho Chi Minh ignored the offer."

Those of varying ideologies differ essentially because they cannot agree on which other men the force of government should put in chains. They just support different sets of prohibitions, which in the name of defense they term "protections."

When men agree "on what is wrong they will become aware of what is right. If, for example, slavery is wrong, then forcing a man to serve in an army is wrong, the voluntary choice to serve militarily or to attend a desired church or school is right. Economist-philosopher Leonard Read, in his new book "Accent On the Right," labeled one chapter, "Find the wrong and there's the right."

Trying to perceive truth is perhaps the most humanitarian arm of man, and implementing it the most humanitarian act. For excluding aggressive force and having absolute respect for other's lives and property leaves every man free to get on with his peaceable life and his own pursuit of truth. The beautiful part about truth as a goal is that it needs no defense. Truth is. And no amount of defense of what is wrong will make it right.

Victory is not total. There are still many hard-core addicts and many former users, primarily the collegiate set, may simply have turned to marijuana. But every little bit helps. Newspapers, by widely reporting the chromosome peril, are given considerable credit for LSD's downfall.

Who says there isn't good news to report—or that reporting bad news can't have beneficial results?

Croix in Minnesota and Wisconsin and Wolf in Wisconsin would be protected initially with provision for later additions. The rivers would be a natural and welcome addition to the present national park system, threatened with overcrowding by a doubling of the visitor flow in the past decade alone.

The gain is a small one and the game is far from over in a Congress much more attuned to the desires of interests with considerably more political clout than conservationists can muster in their three-front battle against official indifference, public apathy and time.

Once gone, the wild rivers will be gone forever.

Washington official circles. In 1796, Charles C. Pinckney, minister to France, was told that a gift to the French Directory might avert a war with France. He was quoted as replying to Talleyrand:

"Millions for defense, sir, but not one cent for tribute."

Pull Up A Chair

By FRANK JAY MARKEY

The man with the black eyepatch is a familiar advertising symbol for a brand of men's shirts, but we'll bet few persons know that Lewis A. Douglas, former U.S. ambassador to the Court of St. James, was the inspiration for it. He has worn an eyepatch for years as the result of an accident while fishing in which he lost an eye. The owner of the shirt company returning from Europe by boat some years ago discovered he was a fellow passenger of Douglas. The eyepatch advertising symbol came to him then.

Today's smile: Two youngsters were playing one morning in a park and one asked the other: "I wonder what time it is?" The other replied: "I don't know, but it can't be noontime because my mother told me to be home at noon and I'm not."

The U.S. is indeed an affluent society. One of Uncle Sam's recent surveys disclosed that nearly 2 million of the 59 million home owners in this country own second homes, usually at a summer vacation spot. Only 3 per cent are rented by the owners to get extra income. The rest are occupied by the owner's family during vacation periods. The study also revealed that two out of three second homes are in the state where the owner lives and three out of five are located within 100 miles of the family domicile.

Thoughts while shaving: The new postal rate of six cents per ounce just about completes the circle in the cost of mailing a letter. Back in the days when New York was a dutch colony the postal rate there was three "stivers," the equivalent of six cents in today's money. A recent medical survey in Britain showed that arthritis costs 30 million working days per year and that only two out of every 100 Britons do not have some form of arthritis or rheumatism by the age of 70. Similar statistics for this country would be equally alarming. Ceramic tile gives an aura of luxury to the modern bathroom, but it is one of the oldest building materials in the world. The ancient Babylonians used it 7000 years ago. Nearly all of our Presidents served long political apprenticeships before being elected chief executive, the one who probably held the greatest number of federal offices before serving in the White House was Thomas Jefferson. He was a member of the Provisional Congress, a delegate to the Constitutional Convention, United States Senator, Minister of a foreign nation, Secretary of State, Vice President. Even Lyndon Johnson can't top that experience. The Anandako (OKLAHOMA DAILY NEWS) reported in a story . . . two deputy sheriffs hauled in nine men in one trip on charges of public drunkenness and disturbing the peace in one of the deputy's four-door sedans. It's apparent those Oklahoma law officers don't drive compact cars.

As this writer has observed in the past, no generation of students in history has been overly fond of authority. Moreover, they have always tended to be idealistic, and therefore distraught with the conditions of an always imperfect world. So the desires for "freedom" and "student power" are nothing new. The conviction of the young that the world should be different is as old as the ages. Thus, the university disturbances cannot be blamed merely on dissatisfaction. The outbreaks did not occur because thousands of individual students came to individual conclusions about the evils of society. The conclusions came first; they were then implanted upon young minds. And the campuses were selected as the theatre for this, the first stage of revolution.

In this country, the next theatre has already been decided upon: the world of the "working classes." Carl Davidson, National Secretary of Students for a Democratic Society, recently announced that a number of SDS members will spend the summer working in factories and moving into working-class neighborhoods. "We will learn how the workers think and how they live, and then we can organize," he said. Organize what?

Now it's not considered so, except that most governments claim ownership of the bodies, minds and tangible property of individuals, through such laws as conscription, compulsory school attendance, and zoning laws.

Once the U.S. government decided it was illegal and immoral to use alcoholic beverages, and outlawed their possession. The failure to prohibition is well documented. Now it is illegal (some would say immoral) for individuals to own gold coin and bullion.

As to the moral and legal public, or the dispensation and use of drugs, the government is the nominal owner of the streets and highways and has the right as the owner to determine how they will be used. If the drunk or drug user so deports himself as to interfere with the rights of others, the government has the authority to deny him the use of the streets. It has no right to determine how individuals will act peacefully on their own premises, as long as they do not harm others. No amount of legislation can bring morality. Morality must be developed by the individual acting self-responsibly and peaceably in his own self-interest.

The Revolution For several months now radical students have captured the headlines. One is tempted to breathe a sigh of relief at the end of the academic year—at least it will be quiet for awhile.

But present developments do not suggest serenity and peace. The student riots were not singular incidents; they were only one small part of a larger picture. Nonetheless, the how and why of this small part is quite relevant to the picture as a whole.

Food Poisoning at Peak During Warm Weather

During the warm weather, bacterial food poisoning, which is a threat year-round, approaches peak prevalence. Much of it is caused by a group of organisms called Salmonella. The worst offender in this group causes typhoid fever. This one has been pretty well brought under control but in a new study has revealed that there are over 1,200 different strains of Salmonella. Infection with most of them is followed by spontaneous recovery within three or four days but occasionally serious complications occur.

These infections enter the body through contaminated food or water and within eight to 48 hours the victim develops fever, vomiting, abdominal cramps and diarrhea. The foods most commonly incriminated are dried eggs, dried yeast and dried coconut but outbreaks have also been traced to nonfat milk powder, meat products (including smoked fish) and dairy products (including eggs). Salmonella have even been found in drugs derived from animal sources, house dust and street dust. It's carried in the intestinal wastes of man, dogs, cats, turtles, birds, rodents and even insects, especially flies.

As an example of the difficulties of controlling this disease, consider the following: A contaminated chicken was prepared for stewing and thoroughly cooked. Several members of a large family got food poisoning, not from eating the chicken, since thoroughly cooking destroys the germs, but from eating an egg and potato salad that was prepared on the kitchen table used to prepare the chicken. The fact that the salad was allowed to stand for a couple of hours at room temperature before it was eaten gave the organisms an excellent chance to multiply.

In many cases, a mild infection with Salmonella has gone undiagnosed and untreated because it was thought to be a stomach upset, intestinal flu, summer flu or 24-hour fever. If you want to avoid this disease, you should observe these precautions:

Wash all raw foods. Wash your hands after handling raw food. Follow the directions on packages of quick-frozen foods. Refrigerate leftovers promptly and reheat thoroughly before serving them again.

When the only gleam in your eye is caused by the sun hitting your bifocals, you're about to give up.

In marriage, a woman gives the best years of her life. In a happy marriage, she gives them to the man who made them the best.

You can always tell a little town from a little city. The motorists slow up for the people. It takes treader pants to show when a girl is broad shouldered—all the way down. We've got a cute new puppy at our house. His mother was a champion poodle and his father was a leash law violator. While you're waiting for the right girl to come along, you can have quite a ball with the others. Too many people who have passed their driving tests think they can pass anything. The reason that God made woman last is that He didn't want any advice while creating man.

WHY THE HANGING President Garfield is credited with the story of a shipwrecked Englishman who had reached an island and was wandering along the coast. Presuming he was the only one there, he came upon the victim of a hanging. Thereupon he gratefully fell to his knees and thanked God for this "sign of civilization."

Though one may deplore a hanging for whatever reason as I do, the story gives no reason for the hanging. We are prone to jump to the conclusion that it was a dastardly deed of some evildoer. But we have no clues, no information about the victim's color, race, religion, or ideologies. In fact, for all we know it may have been a suicide.

Let us suppose that the hanging was imposed because of some crime the victim had committed against others. What crime? What accepted rules had he violated? We do not know. We can only speculate about it.

A person's rights in society, according to one view, should make him secure in a life of liberty and enjoyment of the fruits thereof, so long as he observes the same rights of others. But if ever he violates those rights, he makes, in effect, a public pronouncement that he rejects this rule. In rejecting it, he opens the door for others to treat him in like manner. His own conduct grants to any other persons a hunting license against himself and his properties. That is to say, "Do unto others what you expect others to do unto you."

Now let us suppose that the victim in Garfield's story was such a person. Suppose he had murdered some innocent person. By the reasoning above, anyone who felt so disposed might properly hang him.

Some persons, however, go even beyond parallel treatment of evil-doers, such as hanging a murderer. John Locke, a main source of ideas of the American Revolution of 1776, was one of these. In his Second Treatise on Government, Locke presented his view that property (the person himself and all things that are his) is indivisible in the sense of a right; that trespass against any form or part thereof is trespass against it all; that "This makes it lawful for a man to kill a thief who has not in the least hurt him, nor declared any design upon his life. . . (but had only acted) to take away his money, or what he pleases, from him. . . I have no reason to suppose that he would take away my liberty; would not when he had me in his power, take away anything else."

A posse of congressmen has taken issue with the research team and has asked for details. A group of Doctors has said—rather charitably, I should say—that the ace research team might have confused malnutrition with starvation. They point out that fat dames who use martinis and caviar, to excess suffer from malnutrition and so do corporation presidents who lean heavily on booze instead of green vegetables. It's not a matter of economic conditions, said the doctors, as much as it is lack of good eating habits.

The national diet of the Valley revolves around tortillas and beans. I can personally vouch for the statement that nobody has ever starved on a diet of tortillas and frijoles. It might not reach the high levels of gastronomy that research scientists are used to, but to us paupers it is a mighty satisfactory diet. It is interesting to note that the lowly bean and the pebbled tortilla are not companions of the very poor. They can be found on fine lace tablecloths alongside Tiffany silver and Steuben stemware.

I think I can safely say that no man with his belly well filled with beans and tortillas ever committed a crime of passion. (One might say he never committed any act of passion, criminal or otherwise, with a tummy full of beans.) There is something about a properly prepared frijole and a warm, buttered tortilla that drives all thoughts of violence and strife from the mind of man. As the corn and bean work their way past a man's heart, he becomes increasingly disinclined to all forms of physical endeavor. He is soothed and sustained, rather the way it is in church when the preacher drones on, not really saying much but spreading a little unction around.

While you're waiting for the right girl to come along, you can have quite a ball with the others. Too many people who have passed their driving tests think they can pass anything. The reason that God made woman last is that He didn't want any advice while creating man.
