Senate's No. 2 Demo

Long Opposes Fortas Choice

By JOHN HALL
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Democratic Whip Russell Long announced Saturday he would oppose the nomination of Abe Fortas as chief justice because of his Supreme Court positions supporting the rights of criminal suspects.

Long, the No. 2 Democrat in the Senate, thus became the second southern Democrat—Sen. Sam J. Ervin of North Carolina was the first—to side with 16 Republicans who are fighting President Johnson's election-year choice to succeed Chief Justice Earl Warren.

No Mention
Long made no mention of Federal Judge Homer Thornberry, who has been nominated to take Fortas' seat on the high court. Neither did he indicate whether he would join a filibuster which the Republican opponents have threatened.

Fortas will testify Tuesday before the Senate Judiciary Committee at the next session of its confirmation hearings. Thornberry is scheduled to be questioned Wednesday.

Southern Democrats, while generally unhappy with the nominations, have so far stayed out of what many view as a partisan GOP political squabble with Johnson. Even with their help, the Republican dissidents would not have enough votes on the Senate floor to block confirmation, which requires a majority vote.

Real Test
But the real test would be any vote to halt a filibuster, and some congressional sources believe that if it came to that, most southerners could be

'Pampa Night' At Show 'Texas' Slated July 29

Monday, July 29, will be "Pampa Night" at the production of "Texas," the musical drama about the Panhandle of the 1880s, now in its third year run at the Pioneer Amphitheater in Palo Duro Canyon State Park.

Mrs. Icie Harrah and Mrs. Russell Holloway, Pampa board members on the Texas Panhandle Heritage Foundation, are making arrangements for one or more chartered buses to take Pampans to the canyon for "Pampa Night." They are being assisted in ticket sales for the event by Jay Flanagan.

The bus will leave Coronado Inn at 6 p.m. on July 29.

For information on cost of the trip, which will include bus fare and ticket to "Texas," interested persons may call Mrs. Harrah at MO 4-6233, Mrs. Holloway at MO 4-6913 or Miss Flanagan at MO 4-6551.

"Texas," written by Paul Green, is the story of the settling of the Panhandle area. The drama is one of humor, pathos and excitement—reliving an unforgettable era in American history. It tells of the pioneers, their surge west and their love of the land.

There is a cast of 65, several of them from Pampa, and the characters include cowboys, Indians, horses and wagons, all in authentic settings.

Visitors to "Texas" this year have marveled at the perfect acoustics, stereo sound and dramatic lighting effects in the amphitheater with a 600-foot canyon wall for a backdrop in the spectacular setting under the stars.

"Persons taking advantage of the bus trip to see 'Texas' on 'Pampa Night' are going to be in for a thrilling experience," Mrs. Harrah said Saturday.

Husky Marine's Heroism Saved Command Group

By RAYMOND WILKINSON
LANDING ZONE STUD, South Vietnam (UPI) — U.S. Marines Saturday claimed victory in the week-long battle for Hill 689, two miles west of the abandoned Khe Sanh outpost.

It cost 40 Marine dead and 150 wounded, including a husky Michigan trooper whose heroism, according to one officer, "saved the whole command group." North Vietnamese losses were put at 140 killed.

The battle for the 2,000-foot mountain began July 5, the day Khe Sanh was abandoned by the Leathernecks. Communist troops opened up on Marines preparing to withdraw from Hill 689, just south of the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ), and both sides dug in.

Many Heroes
A lot of heroes were lifted off Hill 689 by helicopter late Friday, but the man most Marines were talking about was B. J. (Huey) Roark, a strapping six-foot, three-inch 200-pounder from Ada, Mich.

"A Marine patrol moved down the hill one night and the North Vietnamese began to throw in mortars like they were going out of style," said Lt. Col. Archie Van Winkle of Oxon Hill, Calif., commander of the mountain battle and a Medal of Honor winner.

"Everyone hit the deck but I saw Huey standing up firing his M16 rifle and tossing grenades at the Communists in their spider holes," recalled 1st Lt. Joe Fulginiti of Pennsauken, N.J.

"He fixed his bayonet and charged over a small hill. I heard a scream and when Roark came back he tossed a Communist AK47 rifle to me.

Saves Group
"A little later," the lieutenant continued, "Roark used the stock of his M79 grenade launcher to bat away, baseball style, a Chicom grenade which had been tossed at him. He saved the whole command group."

Following up his advantage, Roark charged a nearby Communist mortar pit and knocked it out, according to Sgt. Joe Daris of New Orleans.

At the height of the fighting, Roark was wounded twice. He was evacuated to a hospital ship (See HUSKY, Page 3)

LIVESTOCK AUCTION BARN — This is the 50 foot by 70 foot corrugated metal barn which has been constructed about five miles east of Pampa by the newly formed Pampa Livestock Market, Inc. Completion of livestock holding pens and facilities for custom cattle service are also being constructed at the 20-acre site and are expected to be completed within the next 60-90 days. The livestock auctions are slated to be held on Saturdays and will be one of the few conducted in the area. Shown in the picture, left to right, are two of the men instrumental in founding the auction firm, Jim Hopkins and Jim Bowers. (See story on Farm Page.)

Liberal Democrats To Support Eggers

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Liberal Democrats launched a Republican vote-getting drive Sunday with bumperstickers calling for "Good Democrats" to "Reject Preston to Smithereens."

"We do not have to waste our votes on blind loyalty to party labels," said Archer Fullingim, co-chairman of the "Rebuilding Committee" in a letter sent to 3,500 local party leaders.

The campaign urges "every good Democrat in Texas" to vote for the Republican candidate for governor, Paul Eggers, to end "one-party stranglehold government."

By defeating Lt. Gov. Preston Smith, the Democratic nominee for governor, the liberals reason they could drive conservative Democrats into GOP ranks and have a "real two-party system for Texas."

"We are not endorsing Paul Eggers for governor. Mr. Eggers is a conservative, an honest conservative, with whom we disagree on many issues," the letter said. "We are endorsing a two-party system for Texas."

Fullingim said the one-party system handicaps "real Democrats" such as Don Yarborough, who lost to Smith in the Democratic primary.

The letter called on "every good Democrat" to reject demand for party loyalty from the lobby, the Shreveports and the other insidious elements of one-party stranglehold government. (See LIBERAL, Page 3)

Two Conventions Are Slated Here During August

Headquarters for both of the meetings will be the Coronado Inn.

It Was A Very 'Sticky' Situation For Pampa Boy

By JEFF HOLLADAY
Daily News Staff Writer
It was a very sticky situation.

Ten-year-old Bobby Davis of 312 W. Thut was walking near the corner of Thut and West streets Saturday morning when he noticed where a large amount of asphalt had been dumped on the ground.

He took off his shoes and started walking on the material. It was around 7:30 and the asphalt was cool. It was a perfectly normal thing for a 10-year-old boy to do.

Suddenly, the crust gave way and the youngster found himself waist deep in the black goo. He tried to get out, but couldn't.

Several persons heard his cries for help and ran to see what had happened.

They tried to pull him out, but couldn't.

Then they called the fire department. Firemen Bob Young (See PAMPA BOY, Page 3)

City Manager To Submit Monthly Report To Mayor, Commissioners

Pampa's mayor and city commissioners will receive a monthly report from City manager Charles Hill covering activities of municipal government and progress of programs adopted by the city commission.

The first such report, covering activities in June, was completed Friday and sent to the city governing body.

The city manager said the reports also will be distributed to interested citizens in order that they may also be kept informed as to progress of city government programs.

The first report includes such as: The cooperative public parking improvement completed at the Santa Fe lot on W.

Atchison.

Completion of the seal-coating of 14 miles of streets.

Increased cooperation of property owners in the city's weed moving program.

Removal of dilapidated houses to improve community health. So far in 1968 the city has torn down 49 old houses, seven of them in June.

Removal of junk cars from streets and lots. Sixty-six persons were contacted in June and 53 removed the vehicles voluntarily.

The report shows June water consumption increased 50 per cent over May, but total annual consumption of water is about 5 per cent behind the same period a year ago. More than 132 million gallons of water were pumped during June. Approximately 88 million gallons were pumped in May. More than 25 million gallons were pumped at this time in 1967 than has been pumped this year.

During the first six months of the 1968 calendar year, full time employe turnover among city workers averaged 5.3 employes per month. On an annual basis, the report states this represents a 35 per cent turnover of all fulltime employes. In comparison, a 4.25 fulltime employes per month loss was experienced during the comparable period last year.

S. Viet Paratroopers Are Guarding Palace

By BERT W. OKULEY
SAIGON (UPI) — South Vietnamese paratroopers in full battle gear took up positions around the presidential palace in downtown Saigon Saturday night and National Police manned check points in a 100 per cent alert against a Communist attack.

Invasion jitters touched off several flurries of gunfire as American troops joined in an intensifying search for 1,000 Viet Cong known to have infiltrated the city for an assault

More than 100 gun shots popped here and there in the downtown Saigon area Saturday night, and police were seen firing into the air and at rooftops. The shootings started just before the 10 p.m. curfew.

On the northern front, just below the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) more than 400 miles from Saigon, U.S. Marines defending hill 689 near abandoned Khe Sanh claimed victory and reported 140 North Vietnamese killed in a week of fighting. Marine losses were placed at 40 killed and 150 wounded.

Deep in the Mekong Delta, 140 miles southwest of Saigon, a force of more than 1,500 Americans and South Vietnamese pressed an offensive against a mountain nestled along the Cambodian border where Communist forces were protecting a big underground fortress.

Saturation raids by B52 jets, biggest juggernauts in the U.S. air arsenal, reflected fears that North Vietnamese and Viet Cong commandos were ordering a new offensive against South Vietnamese cities.

The giant engine Stratofortresses flew 11 missions in a 24-hour period ending Saturday, dropping blockbusters from high altitude on targets in all four sectors of South Vietnam from the delta, through the Saigon area to the central highlands and up to and including part of the DMZ.

Strong Indications
Defense Secretary Clark M. Clifford, flying to Saigon for his first tour of the fronts as Pentagon chief, said in Washington there were strong indications of a new Communist offensive on South Vietnamese cities of the type they launched so devastatingly last January during Tet, the Lunar New Year.

Allied commanders pulled two

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Richard M. Nixon is aiming for the Republican presidential nomination no later than the second ballot at the GOP National Convention next month, one of his key lieutenants disclosed Saturday.

CHICAGO (UPI)—A federal mediator Saturday began efforts to end the 66-day-old strike of telephone workers that threatens to disrupt the Democratic National Convention.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defense Secretary Clark M. Clifford flew to Vietnam Saturday for conferences with allied military commanders on the intensifying war.

The trip to the war front, first for Clifford since becoming defense chief Feb. 1, was a fact-finding mission preceding the Honolulu conference next week-end between President Johnson and South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu.

PRAGUE (UPI) — Soviet troops began leaving Czechoslovakia on schedule Saturday but a summit-level delegation of Soviet leaders arrived in Warsaw for a meeting of Communist nations apparently to discuss the Czech democratization reforms.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller proposed Saturday a four-stage Vietnam peace plan beginning with withdrawal of 75,000 U.S. troops in return for a North Vietnamese pullback to end the war "within six months."

PARIS (UPI)—Thousands of student demonstrators battled riot police with cobbles on the Place de la Brasserie Saturday night then retreated to the Latin Quarter for a second encounter.

The new disorders came only hours after President Charles de Gaulle vowed to maintain public order in France "completely from now on."

LAGOS (UPI)—A massive international rescue operation was poised Saturday to save thousands of starving African tribesmen in breakaway Biafra.

GRAHAM, N.C. (UPI)—New York authorities arrived in North Carolina Saturday to take custody of Bobby L. Rogers, a 31-year-old Bronx janitor who surrendered in the shooting deaths of three Puerto Ricans.

He May Be Reaching For Higher Goals

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Despite Washington rumors that Hubert Humphrey may select Gov. John Connally as his Democratic running mate, Connally has given no indication that he is eager—or even willing—to accept the Democratic vice presidential nomination.

Humphrey is reportedly being pressed by southern Democrats to pick a southerner — either Connally or Oklahoma Sen. Fred Harris — to share the Democratic ticket if he gets the presidential nod.

The southerners view this as the only way the Democrats can dilute third party candidate George Wallace's appeal in the southern states.

Several circumstances point toward the possible selection of Connally as a vice presidential candidate.

He is popular among southern Democratic leaders, and is a close friend of President Lyndon Johnson. Connally has admitted talking with Humphrey, but says the vice presidency has not been mentioned in the conversations.

Position Strong
As Texas' favorite son candidate, Connally has control of the state's 104 votes at the national Democratic convention. This could put him in a strong bargaining position. When he began his favorite son campaign, it was eyed as a move to hold the Texas vote for Humphrey and to prevent it being split among several Democratic aspirants.

Johnson himself, although silent about the vice presidency, has indicated Connally may seek higher goals.

At a birthday dinner for the governor in February, Johnson praised Connally as a man whose "greatest gifts to democratic government are still to come."

On the other hand, Connally's conservative beliefs could be a detriment to Humphrey in the populous northeast.

Some Democratic leaders also fear the Texas governor would be regarded as a "Johnson plant" on the Humphrey ticket at a time when Humphrey is attempting to assert his independence from the lame duck president.

Connally has repeatedly denied that he is interested in the vice presidency. On various occasions, he has said he is "not seeking," "not interested" and "not running for" the position.

Image Change Denied
Connally's office denies that the governor is getting the secret service protection authorized for major national candidates. They also deny he is projecting a "city slicker" image more than he did while campaigning for the Texas governorship.

Some Texans feel Connally has changed hat styles — from western to business type — recently but aides contend he only wears western hats with casual dress. "He's always done it that way," an aide said.

At one point, the governor said he was "flattered almost to the point of embarrassment" at being mentioned for the vice (See CONNALLY, Page 3)

Plenty of 'Dry Holes'

NEW YORK — Eighty-nine per cent of the new-field wildcat wells drilled in the United States last year were dry holes, according to Oil Facts.

These were exploratory projects in areas not previously productive. On the average, only two or three out of every 100 such wells find enough oil or gas to be commercially profitable.

Houston Man Is Named Executive Vice Chairman Of Oil Organization

DALLAS—S.W. Totten, president of Standard Oil Company of Texas, has been named executive vice chairman of the Texas Oil Information Committee, according to J. C. Johnston, Houston, state chairman of the OIC of Texas.

brand had national distribution so in 1938 several oil companies agreed to honor each other's credit cards, making it possible to purchase, on the cuff, all the gasoline required on a cross-country trip.

The oil company credit cards itself has come a long way from the first "courtesy cards" that were printed on heavy paper and filled in by hand.

Metal plates in plastic envelopes came into use in the early 1950s and by 1960 the cards had become a thin, highly durable vinyl embossed with the holder's name and account number.

At the same time improvements were being made to speed up processing and reduce the chance of human error.

Shell Oil Co., considers its Tulsa, Okla., Data Service Center the world's largest facility for processing credit cards. Incoming mail averages 30 sacks a day and is enough to keep five computer systems working around the clock.

The center claims the number of invoices it handles each month, if stacked, would reach a height of eight Empire State Buildings.

Despite the credit card's popularity, Humble said there are still some three million families in the country earning over $7,000 a year which have no charge accounts. Humble pointed out, however, that the number of credit card buyers is increasing at the rate of 12 per cent a year.

'Credit Cards' May Be 700 Years Old

By FRED LANKARD
United Press International
The credit card, rapidly becoming a necessity of modern economic life, apparently originated nearly 700 years ago.

The famous Italian traveler Marco Polo reported in the 13th century that the Chinese issued traveling merchants "letters of credit" printed on mulberry paper as evidence of their financial responsibility.

The most direct ancestor of the modern credit card came into being in the United States in the early 1900s when a few select customers were issued metal "credit coins" by department stores, railroads and hotels.

Since then, banks, airlines, restaurants and insurance companies, to name a few, have joined the rush to credit cards.

The Humble Oil & Refining Co., in its publication, The Humble Way, reports that last year 140 million credit cards were issued or renewed to 70 million persons who used them to charge over $1.5 billion in purchases.

Of that total, Humble said, 35 million oil company credit cards represent the largest segment in industry.

Humble noted that the first oil company "courtesy cards" were issued in the 1920s and gained widespread use a decade later as improved automobiles and massive highway construction began increasing the nation's mobility.

At that time no gasoline

New Percussion Drill Developed

TULSA, Okla.—A revolutionary new liquid percussion drill, which greatly increases the speed of drilling for oil and gas in hard formations and at the same time prolongs the life of the drill bit, has been developed by Pan American Petroleum Corp., wholly-owned subsidiary of Standard Oil Co. (Indiana).

"This long-awaited technical breakthrough, which we view as a major contribution to oil and gas wildcatting and field development, is the result of eight years of laboratory research and many field tests," according to George Roberts Jr., Vice President of research for Pan American.

The new cost-cutting technique, which successfully adds a "hammering" effect to conventional "rotating" drill tools, will drill up to five times faster than conventional equipment in hard formations, Roberts said.

The new drill has been patented by Pan American, and negotiations are currently under way to make it available to the oil and gas industry through a licensing or partnership agreement with an appropriate service company, he added.

The Standard (Indiana) subsidiary is a leading oil and gas exploration and production company, with production in 18 states and Canada and a major research facility in Tulsa.

"Pan Am's efforts to develop a new cost-cutting drilling tool was stimulated by the growing cost of finding oil and gas in the face of the ever-increasing demand for petroleum energy in this country," Roberts said.

"We feel that new technology, such as the new percussion drill, will have very important bearing on the industry's efforts to discover sufficient domestic reserves for future use. The oil and gas industry has provided, and for some time to come will provide, about three-fourths of all the energy consumed in the U.S."

The new Pan Am technique involves a mud-activated motor placed in a conventional drill string immediately above the bit to give hammer-like blows directly to the rotating bit. This increases the penetration rate from 1 1/2 to 5 times

A similar group of liberal Democrats backed Republican John Tower in his successful race against Waggoner Carr for the U.S. Senate in 1966. Committee members suggest their campaign this year could bring Eggers 620,000 Democratic votes — the number Yarborough polled in the May primary against Smith. Fullingim said Yarborough was defeated because "Texas, with its long history as a one-party state, has nearly all of its Republican-minded, conservative voters participating in the Democratic primary. "The election of a Republican governor in 1968 will attract hundreds of thousands of conservatives into the 1970 Republican primary — taking them out of our primary," he said. "On that day Texas will be a two-party state, and in November of 1970, real Democrats can run against real Republicans." B. T. Lewis of McAllen and Bob Sanchez of McAllen are listed as co-chairmen on the letter with Fullingim. Fullingim is from Kountze. Tom Bones of Austin is named as director and J. S. The second man on the ticket is selected only after the presidential nominee is chosen, Connally says, and then it is the man the presidential candidate selects. He says the person to run with Humphrey—if Humphrey is nominated—will not be known until the national party convention in August. If the governor is interested in the vice presidency, he is apparently waiting until the convention to let it be known.

Long

(Continued From Page 1) roll call. Long, a maverick who often has differed with the administration, made his decision known in a recorded radio and television broadcast for his Louisiana constituents. He said he would vote against Fortas because he had sided with Warren and Justices William O. Douglas and Potter Stewart "in favor of the criminal and against the victims who suffer from the major crimes that have been committed in this country." Long cited the Supreme Court ruling that voluntary confessions are inadmissible as court evidence if the suspect is not warned beforehand of his constitutional rights to remain silent or consult a lawyer.

He Had A Problem . . . They Helped

The man was hailed before Justice of the Peace Nat Lunsford Saturday afternoon and readily confessed that he was guilty. He had been arrested by Game Warden Buck Williams at Lake McClellan for not having a fishing license. He didn't have much to show for it—only one small fish. "Well, why did you do it? Didn't you know you had to have a license?" the judge asked. "Yes, sir, but I couldn't afford one and my kids were hungry," the man replied. He then explained that he had come here from Lubbock looking for a job but hadn't been able to find one. He said he and his wife had several small children. The charges were suspended by the Justice of the Peace and both Lunsford and Williams gave the man some money as he walked out the door.

Carson County History Day Is Set Thursday

PANHANDLE — The residents of Carson County are going all out to make next Thursday a long remembered day for all. The annual History Appreciation Day will be held at that time. A meeting of the Carson County Historical Survey Committee was held recently to complete plans for the day. It was found at this meeting that committees were at work and indications are that all parts of the county will participate. The Square House museum, located a block east of the courthouse in Panhandle, will be open all day. The hostesses from White Deer are prepared to escort through the museum all interested visitors. Persons from west of the county or from out of the state, visiting Carson County families, will appreciate the opportunity of visiting this air-conditioned and well arranged museum. The 1968 registration book contains the names of men, women and children from many areas of the United States. From comments passed on to the hostesses by these visitors, there was every indication the casual stroll through the museum, the annex and the dugout was truly a pleasure. To complete the activities of the day, many will visit the Palo Duro State Park at Canyon the evening of July 18 to attend the musical drama "Texas" showing at the Pioneer Amphitheatre. A block of reserved seats, at a special price, has been set aside for the Carson County delegation. Tickets must be purchased in advance and are available at the First National Bank, the office of the County Judge, Southwestern Public Service Co., Dr. Max Reno's office, Lane Implement Co. and at the Ralph Randal residence. Bus tickets will also be available at these locations, at $2 for the round trip, for those who do not care to make the night drive to the canyon. The buses will leave the east side of the Carson County Courthouse at seven o'clock. All children of the Catholic Children's Home and staff members of the home will be admitted free at that evening's production of "Texas." To watch these youngsters seated near the stage would be worth the price of admission as they enjoy such a show, for many their first time. Those wishing more detailed information on the day's activities were asked to phone Mrs. Ralph E. Randal, chairman of the Carson County Historical Survey Committee, Panhandle, 537-3448.

The three said they tried to think of something they could do which would "cost a minimum amount of money and have significance." One of the creators, Mrs. Joan Moment of Boulder, said they were trying to create something that was new, exciting and unique.

Attorney Seeks New Charge For Pampa Youths

A motion to lessen the charges against two Pampa youths accused of the July 6 burglary of a liquor store in Liberal, Kan., was made at a preliminary hearing in Liberal Friday.

Sam Riggs, Sr., Seward County Attorney, asked County Judge H. E. Malin to dismiss charges of burglary and grand larceny against Jimmy Cook and Michael Lynn Ward, both 18, and change them to malicious destruction of property.

A ruling on the motion is expected within 10 days after Malin considers testimony from the arresting officers and Ward.

Kerry McQueen and Grover Bryan, defense attorneys, said they would enter pleas of guilty if the lesser charge is approved. County attorneys want the youths to make restitution for damages. Cook and Ward were charged last Saturday with the burglary of nearly 200 bottles of intoxicants from the store of Bert Imnell.

A third youth, a 17-year-old juvenile, will be tried as a juvenile in Seward County Juvenile Court.

Most of the intoxicants, valued at between $500 and $700, were recovered from a car parked near the store. In addition, an estimated $800 to $1,000 damage was done to the store.

According to the sheriff's office in Liberal, Ward was arrested near the store shortly after the 1 a.m. burglary.

Cook was arrested later that morning as he walked the streets of Liberal. The juvenile, who had returned home with friends, was returned from Pampa to Liberal.

THE LIGHTER SIDE 'The Great Pigeon Race'

By DICK WEST
 WASHINGTON (UPI)—A correspondent at the United Nations recently sent me a fascinating press release put out by the Nationalist Chinese Central News Agency (CNA). Even assuming that something may have been lost in translation, the English version still manages to convey the high drama and suspense that must have attended the events it relates.

Should it ever be given the Hollywood treatment, it obviously would be titled "The Great Pigeon Race."
 Last May 30, according to CNA, 364 Chinese homing pigeons were released in Hiroshima, Japan, for a flight back to Taiwan. They were pitted in a 994-mile transoceanic contest of speed and endurance against 99 Japanese pigeons.

The Family Lawyer

Behind Prison Walls
 On an average day, nearly half a million men and women languish behind bars in the nation's jails.

All of them suffer from an obvious legal disability: they cannot leave.

But what about legal rights? Do prisoners have rights, like those of people on the outside, which can be enforced in the courtroom?

By and large, courts have followed a "hands off" policy with regard to our prisons. As one judge put it:

"It is not the function of the courts to superintend the treatment and discipline of prisoners."

However, in recent years there has been a marked change in this attitude. With growing frequency, courts have struck down prison rules and regulations on constitutional grounds.

"One committed to prison," commented a federal court, "does not leave his constitutional rights at the gates."

Consider, for example, the writing and receiving of letters. Courts have long upheld the power of prison officials to censor the mail. But according to a recent decision, this power may not be used to block a prisoner's access to the courts.

In another case, a court ruled that a prisoner was entitled to reasonable use of legal books and materials.

And in a third case, a court sustained a prisoner's right to better medical care than he had been getting.

In fact, federal prisoners now have the right to collect damages if they suffer injuries as the result of official negligence. One recent verdict came to more than $100,000.

Nevertheless, while the legal rights of prisoners have been expanding, they are still limited. For if carried to excess, these rights might sabotage the very operation of the prison system.

Thus, while courts have upheld the right of prisoners to re-

Commuter, Computer Team Up For Safety

By PRESTON F. KIRK
 HOUSTON (UPI) — The freeway commuter and the freeway computer are teaming up in Houston for a quicker, safer journey to the office.

The National Safety Council said this week Houston had the lowest traffic death rate through May of this year among U. S. cities of more than 1 million population.

The city had 62 fatalities or 3.1 per 10,000 registered vehicles.

The secret is a computer that can tell a driver better than his own mind when to scoot into the traffic flow of a busy freeway.

Dr. Johann Buhr, research engineer for the Texas Transportation Institute (TTI), which has experimented with 6½ miles of the Gulf Freeway in Houston the last three years, said traffic flow has been improved and accidents reduced by using an (IBM 1800) electronic computer.

Smoother Traffic Flow
 The process of controlling access to the freeway—the engineers call it "ramp metering"—that resulted in "smoother traffic flow, less stop-and-go driving and a reduction in the accident rate," Dr. Buhr said.

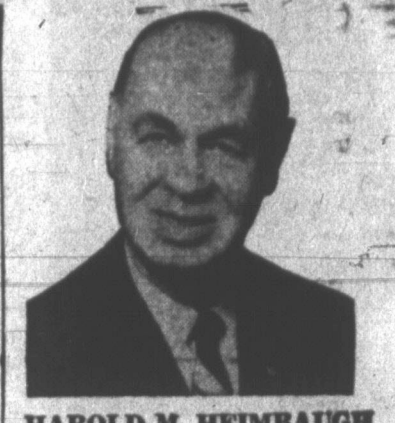

Since ramp metering started, traffic volume actually has increased 10 per cent, yet speeds have gone up 30 per cent and rush accidents have been cut nearly in half," he said.

Buhr said there were 140 Gulf Freeway accidents between 7 and 8 a.m. one Monday through Friday the year before the computer was installed.

One year later, accidents were down to 65 or 70, he said. Buhr said no East Coast cities have the computer but Los Angeles is experimenting with it. Seattle is making plans and Dallas is expected to acquire it soon.

Buhr, a Capetown, South African who is working toward U. S. citizenship, said the Houston project is sponsored by the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads.

District I 4-H Horse Show Is Scheduled Here Tuesday

By FELIX W. RYALS

On June 26, I started on a vacation trip that took me to East Texas, North Louisiana and South Arkansas. For several weeks prior to that date, those areas had received heavy amounts of rainfall. The bayous, creeks, sloughs, rivers and river bottoms were all filled with run-off water.

On June 29, our vacation tour took us to Huttig, Ark., a pine timber town just north of the Louisiana line. We visited the Willard La Grone family in Huttig over the week-end. La Grone is the school district superintendent and a former teacher in White Deer public schools. The whole area is a vast pine timber forest, cut across by bayous and rivers.

On June 30, La Grone and his wife took my wife and me on a tour of the area. We drove down one black-top paved road that fed into a gravel road. After several miles down the gravel road we were brought to a halt by water that covered the road. A number of boats were in evidence. We were told that this water flowing through the pine timber bottom land was back-water from the Ouachita River.

Too Much Water
The heavy rains that began in early May of this year had caused all streams to overflow. From where we were stopped, by the now-receding waters, it was approximately 5 miles to the Ouachita River. School children who lived on higher land on down the road had been brought out each day by motor boat during the last two weeks of school in May.

Pine timber to that area is what oil and gas has been to the Panhandle. Olin-Matheson and Georgia Pacific are the two giant timber companies of the area. These two companies carry on the best timber conservation practices known to man. Olin-Matheson has assisted the Huttig School System in building its own astrodome, an immense new gymnasium and physical education building. The new structure is one of the most modern to be seen anywhere.

A Source...
The water from the Ouachita, Saline, White, Red and Arkansas Rivers eventually empty into the Mississippi. This water at the rate of $50 to $75 million acre feet a year is carried on down the Mississippi and wasted into the Gulf of Mexico. We, in no way, can call this conservation of a great national resource. It is this wasted water that Water, Inc. is trying desperately to get re-routed to West Texas, Eastern New Mexico and Western Oklahoma.

There are no levees along the rivers in our area—none are needed. Going from our West Texas area to Western Arkansas and Louisiana is certainly a contrast. In those areas there are levees along the Red River and all the others and for obvious reasons. The farther one goes east and south along the rivers the larger the levees are.

I feel certain that the U. S. Corps of Engineers would much rather re-route some of the unneeded and eventually wasted water rather than to keep building bigger levees in that area to keep the water from drowning the inhabitants. In view of our water needs for the future, it is imperative that the Panhandle and West Texas areas support Water, Inc. in its efforts to import water.

The Texas Water Quality Board held three sets of hearings during the past week in Gregg, Anderson, Harris and Hill Counties.

Cattlemen In Texas Enjoying Best Year In Two Decades

FORT WORTH (UPI)—Cattlemen in Texas are enjoying their best year in two decades. The grass is green, prices are holding up and demand is good.

There are about 11 million cattle in Texas, which figures out to one for every human being, with a few left over, and the cattle population is steadily growing.

The biggest change in the past 10 years has been a tremendous increase in feedlots. There are many thousands of feedlots in Texas, many in the Panhandle and West Texas.

Time was when cattle were shipped out of Texas to Midwestern feedlots as soon as they got big enough to fatten. That picture, Nichols said, is changing fast.

There also has been a change in marketing. Fort Worth, for instance, was once a big cattle market but its importance in cattle selling is declining.

Smaller Auction Barns
The big market centers have given way to many smaller auction barns over the state. Hornazine, thinks this is a good deal for cattle raisers. They do not have to ship their cattle to market which saves both shipping costs and the weight cattle lose in transit.

Ed Nichols, asst. Texas agriculture commissioner, said that while most of feedlot feeding is in the Panhandle, he is not sure West Texas is the center of cattle production any more. There is heavy production in East Texas and along the Gulf Coast.

Grass production is not left to nature any more. Land — offen farmland — is plowed up, seeded and fertilized. It takes only a fraction of the land to support a cow that it requires on the range.

Herefords are still the most popular cattle strain in Texas because they will do well anywhere in the state under almost any kind of conditions. Charolais and Brahmans are making good headway, especially in cross-breeding.

Hopkins said the auction sale would be one of the few in this area of the state held on Saturdays.

He credited the booming cattle feeding business in this area for inspiring the idea of an auction sale in this area.

"We felt that this area needed and could support a livestock market," he said.

Hopkins said that initially the sales would be held on Saturdays and handle only cattle, but that the firm would probably later have facilities for handling sales of swine.

The wheat harvest has ended and now is a good time to start thinking about the advantages of terracing if your land has eroded since the wheat was planted.

Suppose you look at it and determine that, sure enough, there has been some erosion. Are you one of those people who still believes that you can't "farm between terraces?"

It used to be true. But not anymore. A good set of parallel terraces can be constructed which eliminate the old bothersome "point rows." No more of that. These terraces are exactly what their name implies — parallel. There is also a minimum of cut and fill.

To construct this type of terrace the first thing we do is make a topographical map of the land in question, using elevation shots every 100 feet. From this map, we can then determine what the complete cost of a terracing project would be for the farmer — before an ounce of dirt has been moved.

Our job is to help you. Should you be in need of this type of service, or if you're thinking about it, come by the Soil Conservation Office in the county court house annex and we'll talk about it.

Cattle Auction Corporation Is Formed In Pampa

The livestock auction sale will soon be coming back to this area of the Panhandle with the completion of a sale barn and pens by the newly-formed Pampa Livestock Market, Inc. Jim Bowers and Jim Hopkins, two of those instrumental in its founding, said the auction hoped to handle around 5,000 cattle sales a week.

Sales are expected to begin soon after completion of all the needed facilities, Hopkins said in a telephone interview Friday afternoon.

A 50 X 70 foot barn has already been completed at the corporation's site five miles east of Pampa and the pens to handle the expected 5,000 head a week livestock sales are expected to be completed within the next 60-90 days.

Hopkins said the auction sale would be one of the few in this area of the state held on Saturdays.

Numerous irrigation farmers have called concerning aphids on their milo. I have been told that some aerial spraying has been done.

Each year we have a large number of calls concerning this problem; and each year, to reassure farmers, I will call Norris Daniels, entomologist, Bushland Experiment Station, to see if any new answers have been found for the problem.

The Hard Kill
Yields have not been increased a single pound per acre where control measures have been applied in past years, according to Daniels.

He further states that a farmer is lucky if he can get a 50 per cent kill when control measures are followed. The reason for this is very simple: there is too much surface to cover in milo. It stands up high off the ground and makes it difficult to get chemical underneath the leaves and in the whorl of the leaves.

Daniels says, in effect, that you are pouring money in a rat hole trying to control aphids on milo. There are two kinds of these pesky insects: one is the corn leaf aphid, the other is nothing more than left-over green bugs from your wheat. Both are much easier to control on small grains.

We looked at some of these aphids with Dean Burger and Rex McKay and I believe they are worse than any I've ever seen.

Cattle Prices
We wouldn't label this as an inside tip, but we did visit with a person in the cattle feeding industry last week who said the 32-state report on July 17th would show a moderate four per cent increase of cattle on feed.

The report, according to his private forecasting agency, would be interpreted as a bullish or favorable report. His forecast was that a higher percentage of cattle on feed were heifers and that all were lighter weights. This means less tonnage of beef produced.

No doubt this is why the futures market has been jumping the last few days.

Youths from throughout the 22 Panhandle counties in Texas will vie for top honors here Tuesday in the District I 4-H Horse Show to be held at the rodeo grounds in Recreation Park.

Registration of entries will begin at 8 a.m., according to Foster Whaley, Gray County agriculture agent and show superintendent.

John Trimmer of Hale Center, Judge for the show, will begin placing entries in the halter class at 9 a.m.

Performance classes will follow in western pleasure, reining, pole bending and barrel racing.

The top 20 contestants from district shows will be eligible to compete in the State 4-H

Horse Show slated for August 8-10 in Fort Worth, according to Whaley. State finalists will be selected on the basis of points earned.

Alvin Reeves, a local 4-H leader, will serve as executive assistant to Whaley at the show.

Fifteen Gray County youths will be eligible to compete in the District competition. They were named Monday night following an county elimination horse show in Recreation Park.

In 1964 Sen. Barry Goldwater was nominated as the Republican presidential candidate with William Miller as his running mate.

Only Horse In The Navy Has Died

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Dexter was the last of a kind—the only horse in the Navy—and the retired sailors at the naval home here will miss him.

The 34-year-old chestnut gelding was their official mascot, and since his retirement from the Navy two years ago he spent his leisure grazing on a three-acre plot named Dexter Park.

Taps were played and a military funeral held for Dexter's burial in the park named in his honor.

Lt. Cmdr. Wilbur Joseph, executive director of the home, said there were a lot of tears Thursday after Dexter died in his stall. He had stopped eating last week and failed to respond to medication. He was given a pill Thursday to end this suffering.

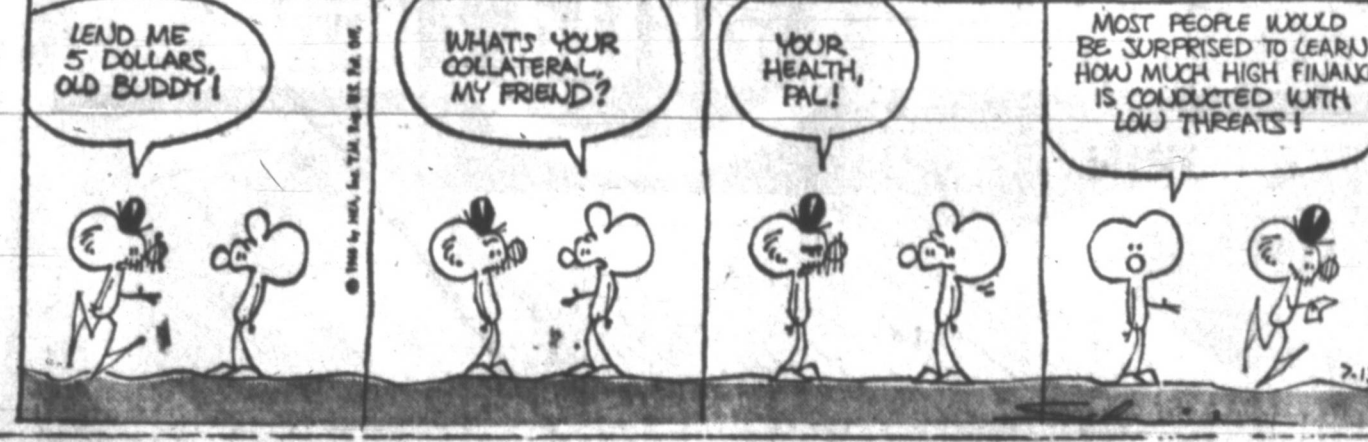

Dexter was born at Front Royal, Va. and became an Army artillery horse. He switched to the Navy in 1945 when the Army phased-out its horses, and was assigned to the naval home.

Instead of pulling artillery, Dexter pulled a trash cart until he reached retirement age two years ago like all his friends at the home.

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Representatives of the communications field appeared Thursday night in an ABC-TV hour, "Bias and the Mass Media—Part II," responding to views of Negroes on a previous program. It was the second broadcast of the network's six-part series, "Time for Americans," about the race issue.

On the first broadcast, two weeks ago, the all-Negro panel consisted of entertainers Harry Belafonte and Lena Horne; poet-critic-essayist Larence Neal and Dr. Alvi Pousaint, assistant psychiatry professor at Tufts University Medical School. And that hour was billed by ABC-TV as "an indictment of racism as it exists in the media in America—radio and television, advertising, newspapers and magazines."

Thursday night's panel consisted of Norman Cousins, editor of the Saturday Review; Herbert Kamm, editorial consultant of the Scripps-Howard newspapers; Elmer Lower, president of ABC News; Edward P. Morgan, chief correspondent of the Public Broadcast Laboratory; Dan Seymour, president of the J. Walter Thompson Advertising Agency, and James C. Hagerty, ABC vice president in charge of corporate relations.

League Director Sees Two Kinds Of 'Black Power'

NEW YORK (UPI)—Whitney M. Young Jr., executive director of the National Urban League, said last week both black and white Americans must realize there are non-violent and constructive versions of "black power."
He warned "white America has over-reacted to the phrase out of fear and guilt and shut its eyes to anything positive in the concept," trapping men like himself, who have begun to use it, in frightening stereotypes.
Young included the $2 million "new thrust" of the Urban League among the constructive expressions of "black power."
In an interview, Young described the new plunge his big, influential Negro advancement organization is taking into ghetto activism. He also dismissed as "ridiculous" reports that he has "embraced" black nationalist-style black power.
"What we have done," Young said, "is to announce a 'new thrust' for the Urban League which says we are going to move more and more into the ghettos, to try to organize the ghettos politically, to help them set forth their needs we're going to help the ghettos organize block-by-block."
"Instead of being the 'power broker' ourselves, we're going to help organize elections of black representatives" so Negro communities can send their own, clearly identified spokesmen to deal with city hall and Washington.
Beyond that, he said, the league will expand previous programs of training drop-out ghetto school boys and provide "technical assistance" for Negro-owned businesses. It has already begun a summer program of training 40 Negro college students in practical economics and sending them to 12 ghetto areas to teach such subjects as "consumer education."

in prime time, and are a sort of beginning. And how much more reassuring the whole project would seem if only such a mealy series were on the television schedule when the main season starts in September. At present, not a single commercial network has a weekly prime time series along these lines on the fall schedule.
What defied explanation on the Thursday hour, was the fact that not a single representative was on hand from the two visual communications areas with the most massive influence—television and movie entertainment. The incredible result was that this overall field escaped with barely a mention. And despite Mr. Seymour's presence, advertising got off easily too.
A consequence of all this, and of the composition of the panel, was that the news media—certainly, the most responsible, constructive and well-intentioned area of communications—found themselves the central subject most of the time. Of course the news media are not perfect, and surely there is a need for such discussion, constantly. But the idea of letting some truly crass, offending areas of communications get off scot free of self-criticism was appalling and dismaying.

Note Contradiction
Particularly sharp, after Mr. Seymour's comments about how the advertising situation was improving, was Mr. Kamm's observation that the first broadcast of this very series went unopposed. And concerning tokenism, Mr. Cousins was delightfully deadly in noting how an executive, seeking a Negro secretary, will look for a combination of Lena Horne and Marian Anderson—and, failing to get that, will hire a white girl, comforting himself with the thought that at least he tried.
There was agreement by all of the panel that more black workers should be trained, employed and given responsibility in the various media. Along these lines, moderator Frank Reynolds was effective in posing the black viewpoint that Negroes do not merely want to be fitted into the white structure, but wish to have positions of authority right away in order to put forth their own outlook on equal terms.
The third broadcast of the series, "Newark: Anatomy of a Riot," will be presented on ABC-TV Sunday at 4 p.m., EDT.

Injured Veterans May Be Losing Available Money

Veterans retired from the Armed Forces for disability who have not filed a claim for compensation from the Veterans Administration were reminded by the VA today that they may be losing money.
Many retired disabled veteran do not file claims for VA disability compensation because they mistakenly believe that they will lose all military retirement benefits if they do.
This is not the case according to Jack Coker, Manager of the VA Regional Office in Waco. Even though retirement pay and compensation cannot be paid at the same time, the veteran has the right to elect whichever benefit is greater and may switch from one benefit to the other whenever it is to his advantage to do so. If he waives his retirement pay and elects to receive VA disability compensation, he is still eligible for all basic retirement benefits such as commissary privileges and dependent medical care.

Severely disabled enlisted men generally will receive greater financial benefit by collecting VA compensation rather than retirement pay, Coker said.
There are other benefits which retired disabled veterans who have not filed for VA compensation should consider, he pointed out.

State Officials Are Worried About Servicemen's Sales Tax Exemption

AUSTIN (UPI)—State officials, with a special tax session of the state legislature behind them, are worried that a federal court decision exempting servicemen from sales taxes might cut into Texas' income.
"It's going to throw the states and all the businesses into a tail spin," said Kenneth I. Kimbro, chief clerk and tax administrator in the state comptroller's office.

A training school for 120 new patrolmen with the Texas Department of Public Safety will start July 30, Major Luther Moore, regional commander, has announced.
"We have several new benefits to offer qualified young men," Moore said. "For instance, the pay during training is $500 per month and upon graduation, this is increased to $571. It will be $590 after Sept. 1, 1968."
"Also, our selection methods are more liberal in that an applicant is not required to live in Texas for one year prior to employment, and the entrance examinations given every day at our larger offices."
To qualify for employment in the uniformed services of the DPS, a man must be between the ages of 20 and 35, not less than 5 feet 8 inches tall, have a high school education or its equivalent, be in sound physical condition with good vision and must be a citizen of the United States.

Examinations are given daily except Saturday and Sunday, at the Highway Patrol Office, 2200 E. 10th in Amarillo. Applicants should have their applications completed and plan to arrive in Amarillo by 9 a.m. to complete the exam in one day. They should also take gym trunks and shoes for the physical activity test.
Applications may be obtained from any DPS patrolman in the Pampa area.
"Among the many benefits that patrolmen enjoy," Moore pointed out, "are two weeks annual vacation, all holidays provided for by the Legislature, modern liberal retirement systems and group hospitalization and life insurance plans, traveling expenses and longevity pay, and uniforms and all the necessary equipment to perform their duties."
For complete information concerning the position of patrolmen, training and benefits, Moore asked those interested to contact the nearest DPS patrolman or DPS office.
"In return," he said, "they will receive complete information in regard to the application and examination."
Patrolmen are not exempt or deferred from the draft. He added that seniority and other benefits would continue, however, while the patrolman remains in the service.
Another school is scheduled for the latter part of August.

Highway Patrol Investigates 24 Rural Accidents

The Texas Highway Patrol investigated 24 accidents on rural highways in Gray County during June, according to Sergeant J. L. Dalrymple, Highway Patrol supervisor in the Pampa area.
The crashes resulted in seven persons injured, and an estimated property damage of $11,765.
The rural traffic accident summary for Gray county during the first six months of 1968 shows a total of 97 accidents resulting in 2 persons killed, 47 persons injured, and an estimated property damage of $74,530.
"During the first six months of 1968 in Texas there were 1472 traffic deaths, or four less as compared to the 1,476 traffic deaths for the same period of 1967," Sgt. Dalrymple stated. However, if past trends continue the last six months will probably raise the 1968 total to one percent over the 1967 total of 3,367 deaths.
The sergeant also stated that a training school for 120 new patrolmen with the Texas Department of Public Safety will start July 30.

Highway Patrol Investigates 24 Rural Accidents

The Texas Highway Patrol investigated 24 accidents on rural highways in Gray County during June, according to Sergeant J. L. Dalrymple, Highway Patrol supervisor in the Pampa area.
The crashes resulted in seven persons injured, and an estimated property damage of $11,765.
The rural traffic accident summary for Gray county during the first six months of 1968 shows a total of 97 accidents resulting in 2 persons killed, 47 persons injured, and an estimated property damage of $74,530.
"During the first six months of 1968 in Texas there were 1472 traffic deaths, or four less as compared to the 1,476 traffic deaths for the same period of 1967," Sgt. Dalrymple stated. However, if past trends continue the last six months will probably raise the 1968 total to one percent over the 1967 total of 3,367 deaths.
The sergeant also stated that a training school for 120 new patrolmen with the Texas Department of Public Safety will start July 30.
To qualify for employment in the uniformed services of the DPS, a man must be between the ages of 20 and 35, not less than 5 feet 8 inches tall, have a high school education or its equivalent, be in sound physical condition and be a citizen of the United States.
All interested young men who can meet these qualifications are urged to contact the nearest DPS patrolman or DPS office for complete details concerning the position of a patrolman, training and benefits.

FOREIGN NEWS COMMENTARY Two Kremlin Voices

By RICHARD RITTER
BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (UPI)—Argentina is currently suffering a milk shortage which is embarrassing in that the country has twice as many cattle as its 22 million people—including 3 million dairy cows.
For Argentine housewives this means long queues at city supermarkets and dairy shops to carry back home a quart of milk—the country's average family daily quota.
The government blames a three-month drought for the shortage of milk and other dairy products. The drought affects a large dairy-producing area in Argentina, about the size of Texas.
Dairy producers and farmers, however, tell a different story. "Some government officials have never seen a cow," said Guillermo Alchourron, a dairy producer who heads the Holando-Argentine Dairy Cattle Breeders Association (ACHA).
Breeders and farmers have been after the government for a rise in the price of milk, currently about 10 U.S. cents a quart.
They say the industry is going through its worst crisis and that a 2-cent per quart price rise would enable financing the movement of cattle to better pastures. They said it would also enable them to stockpile forage for more winter breeding.

The government has stiffly resisted the movement on grounds a higher price for milk would upset the cost of living.
Importing Dairy Products
To offset the milk shortage, expected to worsen in coming months, the government has authorized for the first time the importation of dairy products, up to July 31. The list includes powdered milk, skim milk, hard and semi-hard cheese, fresh butter and frozen cream.
The government itself is importing about 2,000 tons of unskimmed serum from Switzerland, Denmark and Holland, expected to give about 4 million gallons of milk after it is combined with water and mixed with other milk and proteins.
The "rebutted" milk supply, however, should last Argentinians 30 days at most.
Argentina currently produces about 1.07 million gallons of milk per year. That means an

Prospects Are Dimming For Pre-Convention Adjournment

By FRANK ELEAZER
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Legislative timetables are slipping, and prospects dimming for a pre-convention adjournment of the 90th Congress.

Many members believe President Johnson figured it right when he said that they might have to return to work in September.
The annual foreign aid authorization and a ban on mail order gun sales—two items on Johnson's "must" list for the rest of the session—skidded from last week's House program to this week's. Gun controls also failed to move in the Senate Judiciary Committee.
Both bills were in trouble.
Windup Doubtful
Most other measures on the priority list Johnson issued would seem assured of passage, sooner or later. But key members said it was increasingly doubtful they could all be dispatched by Aug. 3, the Saturday before the Aug. 5 start of the GOP nominating convention in Miami Beach.

That remained the official target date for the windup, but even the leaders said they had their doubts. Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield proclaimed the chances for a pre-convention adjournment no better than 50-50.
Johnson, in a statement, called for speedy approval of pending housing, education, antipoverty, health and consumer programs, among others, and said Congress should resume its work after the conventions if it had failed to act before then.
Johnson's list of priority bills added little if anything to the adjournment plea. Most of what he wanted already was ticketed for congressional action. The rest was beyond recovery.
A thought for the day: American statesman Daniel Webster said, "God grants liberty only to those who love it, and are always ready to guard and defend it."

Fishin' Roundup

By MELVIN CLARK

We have some reports that late in the evening the bass are hitting top water lures. One fisherman reported that he noticed the swallows dipping over the spot where the birds. He dropped a hula popper over the spot where the birds were diving and landed a 5 1/2 lb. bass.

Received a report from Roy Hunter, deputy at Greenbelt Lake. The fish aren't biting too good now, but there are still several nice ones being caught all along.

Frank Coleman, Childress, caught 2 pike, 24 and 25 inches long using a Rapala. Bill Allen, Clarendon, caught 1 pike 25" long with a Shad minnow plug. Dennis, Mickey, and Pat Bradshaw from Plano, caught 5 bass on a Pico Perch. Jack Imel, Pampa, caught 1 pike 21" on a minnow.

Mrs. Buster Emmons, Clarendon, 1 pike 25 1/4" with minnows, and E. W. Barbee, 1 pike 25" with minnows.

I noticed when I visited Greenbelt Lake that the water is real clear. And it's a good place for bank fishermen as well as for boats. You can get to deep water from the bank easily on the north end of the dam entrance.

North of the spillway, you can take a road up to the creek, which is real good for bank fishing. A boat or a floater is ideal for working the numerous brushy areas out in the lake.

Stephens Places 1st In Driving

Randy Stephens finished first place in the driving contest held by junior golfers at the Pampa Country Club Friday.

Stephens drove the ball about 215 yards. Other top drivers were Leslie Harris, second; Donnie Cain, third and Pat Casey, fourth.

In distance and accuracy, Cain was first; Casey, second; Tom Watson, third and David Hall, fourth. Distance by the top finisher, Cain, was 190 yards and three yards off the line, coach Eural Ramsey reported.

In the 36 hole putting contest, Dudley Warner was first with 73, one over par; in the other three top positions were Casey, second; Watson and Jerry George, tied for third; Cain and Stephens, tied for fourth.

Owners, Players Will Meet Sunday

By JOE ST. AMANT
LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The owners and players of the National Football League will try again on Sunday to iron out their differences over contributions to the players' pension fund.

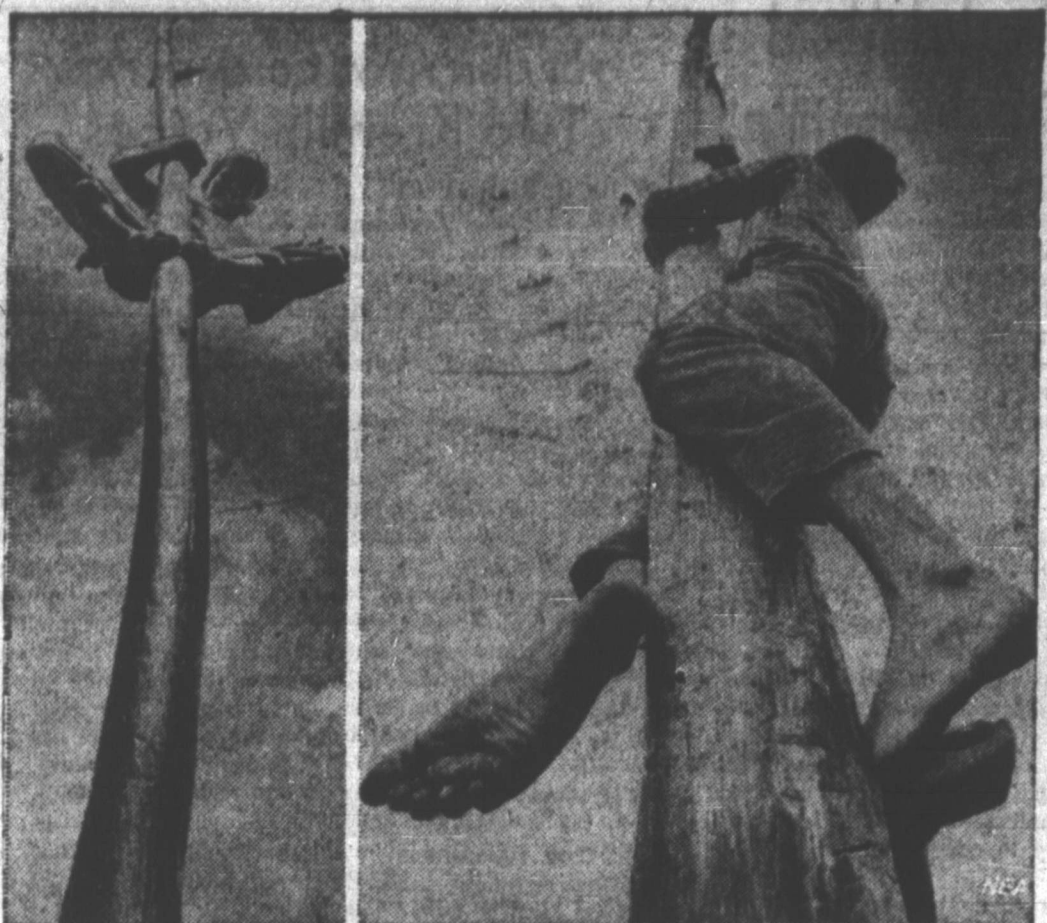

Arthur Modell, NFL president, responded to a demand from the players association Friday, and said another meeting had been scheduled in New York for Sunday afternoon.

Players Association President John Gordy of the Detroit Lions told a news conference in Los Angeles earlier in the day that the owners were trying to "break the union" by refusing to negotiate further.

"We will not weaken now or ever," the beetle-browed, 250-pound guard vowed.

Gordy said his union has 700 player members and that none of them would begin practice for the 1968 season until they reach "a reasonable agreement" with the owners on pensions.

AMERICANS COMPETE
DUBLIN (UPI)—Professional Rosemary Casals of San Francisco swept into the semi-finals of the Irish tennis championships Thursday by defeating Pat Walkden of South Africa 6-3, 6-3.

BORN TO CLIMB, boys can't resist a greased-pole contest. This one at the annual Everglades Jamboree in Monroe Station, Fla., offers prizes of $5 and $10 to anyone who can retrieve paper plates nailed to top of pole. Since anything goes, a boosting hand is considered legal.

GREASED-POLE climbing calls for inventiveness if you're to succeed. This fellow uses a shirt to wipe the pole and a spread-legged technique to boost himself upward.

Ex-Cardinal Runs For Congress

By STEVE HUNTLEY
WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (UPI) Be it baseball or politics, Wilmer "Vinegar Bend" Mizell doesn't like sitting on the bench. That's the attitude that brought the former pitching ace's retirement from the St. Louis Cardinals in 1962 because arm trouble was keeping him off the mound, and it's the attitude that has him running for a seat in Congress this year.

The husky 6-foot-4 athlete who "weighs a little more now than when I played baseball" settled down in 1962 near this tobacco town where he met his wife, Nancy. He played minor league ball here in 1960.

He became sales manager for a soft drink firm, built a house in the midway community in neighboring Davidson County and was elected to the Davidson County Board of Commissioners in 1966. He's now Chairman of the Board.

"I think one of the greatest things is being able to settle down with your family and really become a part of the community and be active in the affairs of your local government," he said.

His political horizons widened last fall when a group of local Republicans asked him to run for the 5th district Congressional seat.

Faces Tobacco Heir
Mizell, who describes himself as a "progressive conservative," beat GOP opposition handily in a spring primary and faces Smith Bagley, heir to the Reynolds tobacco fortune, in the November general election.

Mizell, who grew up in a little Alabama town with a population of 37 called Vinegar Bend, acknowledges his debt to baseball. During his 14-year career he played for St. Louis and the Pittsburgh Pirates and briefly for the New York Mets.

"If it hadn't been for baseball, I'd probably still be following that mule down the farm lands along the Mississippi-Alabama line," he said.

"I made a lot of contacts in baseball," he said. "And now when I'm out campaigning and meet a man with an interest in baseball, then I know I'm on a friendly field."

But Mizell, who'll be 38 in August, said there are more important assets to be gained from baseball.

"There are a number of things you can teach a young man on that baseball field with the right kind of leadership," he said. "You can give him a spirit of competition."

Builds Self-Confidence
"He can build self confidence — no one can make the pitch for him, swing the bat for him or field the ball for him."

"You teach him a sense of honesty and fair play," Mizell said. "You want him to take the man out at second base but you don't want him to spike the man in the process. Just as there are rules of the game, there are rules of life."

"And baseball can teach a young man one of the most important lessons of his life, something that will be important for the rest of his life," he said. "It teaches him to be able to work and get along with people. In baseball you have to cooperate as a team."

A young man who learns those values is a good citizen, or as Mizell puts it, "this type of individual will be a big leaguer in any community in which he resides."

"I can think of several men that have been in sports that would be good men in government — men that I believe could really make a contribution to their fellow men," he said.

Mizell said he was originally a Democrat and later became an independent, "but that was sitting on the fence."

"A man needs to be in the ball game. An independent can't. Either you're going to have to change the team or sit on the sidelines." He switched to the Republican party.

Why run for public office? "I just couldn't stand the thought of sitting on the bench."

CLARKE VICTORY
OSLO, Norway (UPI)—Australian Ron Clarke defeated Kipchoge Keino of Kenya for the second straight time Thursday by winning the 10,000 meter race at Bislet Stadium. Keino ran third behind Naftali Temu.

Matson Turned Down By 'Army; Concentrates On Olympic Berth

PAMPA, Tex. (UPI) — The Army lost a recruit, but the U. S. Olympic squad gained a shot put champion this week.

Randy Matson, world record holder in the shot, flunked his physical examination for the draft.

It was the second time in a month he had been turned down by the Army. The first time he volunteered for the examination himself.

"As far as I know, I was rejected because of a knee injury," the 23-year-old former Texas A&M track star said Friday.

He said he has had trouble with the knee for several years. It was injured while playing basketball.

He took the latest of his physicals Thursday in Amarillo, Tex. Matson, currently working toward his Master's degree in business administration at A&M, said he had no particular feelings about the outcome of the physicals.

"I was concerned a little bit with the Olympics and so forth, but a lot of people have to go," he said.

He said he plans to attend "It's hard to say. The main thing this year is to win."

CENTER MEMBERSHIPS — The Center is open the year around as well as the comfortable indoor heated swimming pool. This means year-around family fun. Participation for all these facilities at the Center is through a membership plan. By purchasing a membership you may have free use of all the facilities and free swim lessons given by our qualified instructors.

There are two different membership plans for your consideration. One, the individual plan is for those people who are at least eight years of age including adults. This plan sells for $5 for six months and $8 per year. The reason for the age limit is that those children under eight years of age must have an adult chaperon with them to swim. The other membership is the family plan. This entitles all members of the immediate family to participate and sells for $12 for six months and $20 per year.

To purchase any of these plans you need only come to the front desk at the Center, pay your dues and membership cards will be issued.

WOMEN'S SWIM TIME — Attention all you women, The Center sponsors a time each week especially for the women. On Monday and Fridays from 3:45 until 5 p.m. the Center has an exercise class and a women's swim time. You can quietly swim away the pounds you want to lose or exercise to the instructions on records. Exercising is from 3:45 until 4:15 and swimming is from 4:15 until 4:55. Participation is by membership only. You may purchase an individual membership or family one and enjoy this time especially for women.

TEEN DANCES — The Center is again sponsoring the teen dance and has been for several weeks. Each dance proves to be more successful than the other. The pattern of operation has changed with the Junior High age group dancing on Tuesday nights and the Senior and College teens dancing on Friday nights.

All dances are well chaperoned and the teenagers really have fun at these affairs. Some of the best bands in the Panhandle area are scheduled to play here in addition to some top name recording stars. One group in particular will be here this coming Tuesday, July 16 from 8-11 with a concert, dance and show. This group is called the Syndicate of Sounds who had the million record seller, "Hey, Little Girl." Advance tickets will be on sale at the Youth Center for $1.50 until 5 Tuesday, July 16. At the door admission will be $1.75. You won't want to miss this attraction.

Puerto Rican Is Posthumously Awarded Medal

WASHINGTON (UPI)—An Army captain from Puerto Rico was posthumously awarded the Medal of Honor last week while tears rolled down the cheeks of his young widow and his 4-year-old son stood at attention and saluted.

Army Secretary Stanley R. Resor, who presented the medal to the family of Capt. Euripides Rubio Jr., said: "No man more deserves to be called a hero."

The 30-year-old Rubio was the first Puerto Rican to win the Medal of Honor in the Vietnam War and the second in history to win the highest military award of the United States.

Mrs. Ileana Rubio, his widow, kept her composure while Adj. Gen. Kenneth G. Wickam read a citation praising the slain officer for "conspicuous gallantry" in action "above and beyond the call of duty."

But she lowered her head and broke down in tears when Resor handed her the medal in a brown wooden case.

Also present at the ceremony were the captain's children, Edgar, 4, and Anaell, 3.

A thought for the day: British novelist Charles Dickens said, "There are books of which the backs and covers are by far the best parts."

In 1865 Horace Greeley wrote an editorial in the New York Tribune that federal civil workers who didn't like Washington should "Go west, young man, go west and grow up with the country."

By MERRIMAN SMITH
UPI White House Reporter
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Backstairs at the White House: Is the White House destined to become more of a museum than the home of future presidents? This question has arisen in other political years, but it seems to have more relevancy in 1968.

None of the potential chief executives on current display has discussed the matter in so many words, but there is evidence pointing to possibility. The possibility is this: A new president may decide that despite custom and history, the White House is suitable as an office and a place for ceremonial entertaining, but not a house of pleasant family living.

While this would be to ignore nearly two centuries of tradition, there is no law requiring a president to maintain his residence at 1600 Pennsylvania Ave.

The subject came up some months ago before the tragic death of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy. Persons close to him said at the time that should he received the Democratic nomination and go on to win the election, he and his family would continue to live in their home across the Potomac River at McLean, Va.

Keep Washington Apartment
More recently, Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey told friends that if nominated and elected, he and his wife, Muriel, had no intention of giving up their large co-op apartment here in the Harbour Square section of Washington.

Add these hints to other facts: Sen. Eugene McCarthy, contesting Humphrey for the Democratic nomination, several weeks ago, albeit in the infectious atmosphere of a campaign crowd, spoke of tearing down the fence around the White House to let the general public closer to the seat of their government. Anyone familiar with current security problems would have to conclude that an unfenced White House would afford the residents almost no privacy.

On the Republican side of the matter, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller already has a handsome residence in the northwest section of Washington; a house which he uses during frequent trips to the nation's capital on New York state business. Although he and his family have lived in the executive mansion in Albany, they have had other family quarters in New York

Immigrant Leaves $1,000 To President

CHICAGO (UPI)—A Russian immigrant who came to the United States 44 years ago and prospered has left $1,000 to President Johnson.

Emanuel Radzinsky, 66, said in his will he wanted Johnson to have the money because of his "great love and efforts in behalf of all people, regardless of race, color or creed."

Radzinsky's estate was valued at $250,000. Friends said he accumulated it by denying himself everything but the bare necessities. He died June 22.

Amarillo Medical Center Is Becoming A Regional Hub

AMARILLO, Tex. (UPI) — One of the biggest concentrations of medical and psychiatric facilities in Texas is rising on U.S. Highway 66, northwest of Amarillo and 15 minutes by automobile from the downtown district.

It is Amarillo Medical Center, intended to serve the medical needs of people not only from Northwest Texas but also from parts of Oklahoma, Kansas, Colorado and New Mexico.

So far, the center includes: —High Plains Baptist Hospital, $16.4 million, 241-bed general hospital opened this year.

—The Psychiatric Pavilion of Northwest Texas Hospital, a 100-bed institution, which cost $2.5 million and provides both inpatient and out-patient care.

—Kilgore Children's Psychiatric Center and Hospital, which cost $600,000 and also provides both in-patient and out-patient care.

—Bivins Memorial Nursing Home, a $1.5 million institution to provide recuperative or long term care for the elderly is near completion.

—Amarillo State Center for Human Development, a $700,000 state pilot project to serve the needs of mentally retarded persons in 26 Panhandle counties, is under construction.

—A $325,000 Amarillo Garden Center is under construction by the Amarillo Council of Garden Clubs.

—A $250,000, 51-acre park and lake is being developed by the occupants may be a matter of personal choice, but the next president may be forced to do something about working conditions, particularly in the west wing where his offices are situated. His own space is quite adequate, but as things now stand, his ranking staff members must work in small crowded rooms which would not be tolerated in the upper structure of most American business firms.

St. Anthony's Catholic Hospital has started the preliminaries of building a children's medical center in Amarillo Medical Center.

Requests for space have to be approved by the Amarillo Area Foundation, which was chartered to provide management for charitable, educational and benevolent funds that would be involved in the center.

When the foundation is satisfied with the building plans of a group or organization, it deeds land enough for carrying out the plans.

Amarillo College wants to build a school of biomedical arts and sciences on the 417 acres in the Medical Center area. The Coffee Memorial Blood Bank also has asked for space.

The center is adjacent to Amarillo Veterans Administration Hospital, built in 1939.

The Amarillo Garden Center not only will provide offices and meeting rooms for the garden club, it also will provide a teaching facility for gardening therapy. Patients who are able to work and who will be helped by it are expected to work in the city-built garden.

So far, doctors have not moved their offices to the medical center area. But it has influenced the growth of the city. Amarillo was growing southwest. Its growth is now concentrated toward the northwest.

Lake Meredith Enjoys Recreational Status, Provides Water for Area Cities

SANFORD DAM was constructed by the U.S. Department of the Interior for the 11 cities of the Canadian River Municipal Water Authority. The project cost an estimated $85 million, which will be repaid to the federal government by the member cities over the next 50 years. The dam was constructed to provide a reservoir to store water for the area cities. Lake Meredith is named for A. A. Meredith, the late executive secretary of CRMWA.

Lake Meredith was originally intended as a reservoir to store water for use by the 11-city Canadian River Municipal Water Authority. Since it has been in operation, however, for the past three years, area residents seem to be more interested in its potential as a recreational facility.

Skeptics at the beginning of the project, way back in 1949 and even earlier, did not believe a dam could be built in the selected area and did not believe enough water would ever be stored to form a lake.

At present, Lake Meredith has about 375,000 surface acres, is approximately 25 miles long, and has an average depth of at least 82 feet. All thanks to the Sanford Dam Project.

During hot weather, many persons come to Lake Meredith for boating, water skiing and fishing. A boat dock is available for boating enthusiasts. A marina, containing a store and restaurant, has been erected on the lake. And a number of picnic areas can be found around the lake.

Despite its recreational status, Lake Meredith is still used as a reservoir to store water. Pampa as yet has not started using its share of the water, but plans for the necessary water treatment plant are being finalized.

BOAT SPACE for regular visitors to Lake Meredith can be rented at the special boat dock near the marina. Infrequent boaters or those who do not wish to leave their boats at the lake may use the various boat ramps around the lake to launch the boats. Boats are used on the lake to pull water skiers, to provide a place from which to fish or just to ride around.

A VISITOR to Lake Meredith, Mrs. Bernice Martin, Oklahoma City, looks at the monument erected to commemorate the Sanford Dam project. The monument denotes that the dam was constructed by the U.S. Department of the Interior from 1962 to 1965 to serve the Canadian River Municipal Water Authority.

HEADQUARTERS for the Canadian River Municipal Water Authority are located in this administrative building overlooking the Sanford Dam. The 11 cities of the CRMWA arranged for the project to provide a reservoir to store water for their use. Member cities include Amarillo, Borger, Pampa, Plainview, Lubbock, Slaton, Tahoka, O'Donnell, Lamesa, Brownfield and Levelland.

A MARINA has been erected to serve visitors to Lake Meredith. The marina, built out over the lake, has a small store, sells gas for boats and operates an automat restaurant. In addition, the Promenade Deck offers open-air eating space on the second floor. The marina is located near the main boat dock and boat ramp.

Miss Pat Dalton Repeats Vows With James Randel Winkleblack

A candlelight wedding ceremony was performed July 7 for Miss Patricia Lea Dalton and James Randel Winkleblack in the Church of the Brethren, 600 N. Frost. Rev. Bryce Hubbard officiated for the ceremony and exchange of rings.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul W. Dalton, 1024 S. Christy. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis F. Winkleblack, 605 N. Wells.

Miss Susan Patrick, organist, played the processional and recessional of Lohengrin's "Bridal Chorus", and accompanied Rick Roach as he sang "Because," and "You'll Never Walk Alone." As the couple knelt on a white satin kneeling bench in prayer, he sang "The Lord's Prayer."

BRIDE

Given in marriage by her father with the "her mother and I avowal," the bride was escorted to the altar in a formal gown of peau de soie designed with an Empire waistline. The bodice was of Chantilly lace with a modified scooped neckline and long sleeves which tapered to long petal points over the hands.

Back interest was the chapel-length train bordered with scalloped Chantilly lace ascending from an Empire waistline.

She wore a six pence in her shoe, and for something borrowed, she wore a single strand of pearls, belonging to Mrs. Joe Rochelle. Her "something blue" was a blue garter, gift from Mrs. Vance Wildert of Canyon. Her elbow-length veil of illusion fell from a pearl studded rose headpiece, edged in Chantilly lace. She carried a cascade of white roses entwined with green salal leaves.

ATTENDANTS

Mrs. Jan Dalton of Corpus Christi, the bride's sister-in-law, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Lamona Hendricks and Miss Susan Maynard, both of Pampa. All bridal attendants wore yellow dotted Swiss street-length dresses with empire waistlines. Back interest for each was a yellow satin bow with long streamers. Each wore a headpiece of a small yellow satin hat topped with a small daisy cluster and a veil of yellow illusion. They wore matching yellow shoes and carried a cascade of yellow and white daisies.

Best man was Wendel Winkleblack, the bridegroom's brother. Groomsmen were Gene Baten of Pampa and Robert Dalton, Corpus Christi, the bride's brother. Richard Barrett and John Schmitz, both of Pampa, were ushers.

James Lee Goin, of Cheyenne, Okla., a cousin of the bridegroom, carried the rings on a small white satin pillow. Martha Ann Hilton, the bride's cousin, was flower girl, and was dressed the same as other bridal attendants. She carried a basket of yellow rose petals.

Candlelighters were Miss Cheryl Hilton and Miss Becky Hilton, both cousins of the bride. They were dressed identically to other bridal attendants.

The bride's mother wore a short blue linen dress accented in the front with matching blue lace and blue accessories. Her corsage was pink rose buds. The bridegroom's mother was unable to attend.

In the church, matching seven-branched candelabras decorated with lemon leaves were placed on each side of the altar. Two large urns of white gladiolas and yellow mums decorated the church. The center aisle was decorated with tall cathedral candelabras draped with lemon leaves and yellow bows. Placed at the back of the altar was a three-tier candelabra. In a special ceremony, two of the candles were lit during the wedding service, and at the end of the service, the couple lit the remaining candle together.

RECEPTION

For the reception in the social room of the Church of Brethren, those who assisted were dressed in yellow dotted Swiss dresses with white carnation corsages.

Miss Aubrey Molett served cake as Mrs. Don Powell registered guests. Miss Paula Hoepfner poured punch. Miss Rhonda Hamrick, the bride's cousin, distributed rice bags.

The serving cloth was white net over a yellow cloth. Its white bells were tied with yellow satin ribbon bows which were placed at the table corners. A centerpiece of white gladiolas and yellow pom mums with matching yellow candles placed on each side of the floral arrangement completed the centerpiece.

The five-tiered wedding cake was decorated with white roses. Between each layer was placed yellow sugar bells. A miniature bride and bridegroom adorned the top.

For the honeymoon to Tulsa, Okla., the bride traveled in a yellow three piece knit suit with white accessories and the white rose bud corsage lifted from her bridal bouquet.

The bride, a 1967 graduate of Pampa High School, attended Frank Phillips College in Borger and is employed with Marie Foundations.

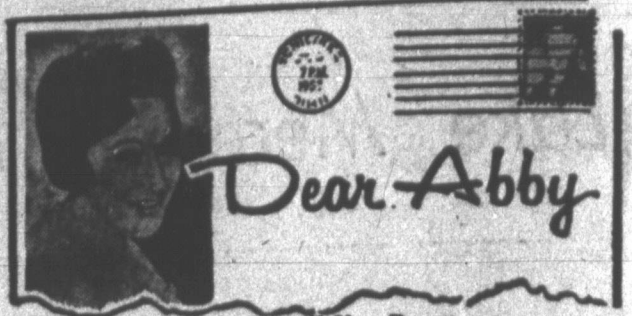

The bridegroom is a 1965 graduate of PHS, attended West Texas State University and is employed as a draftsman with Pan-Tex Corp.

Pre-nuptial events included a shower June 25 at the home of Mrs. James T. Weatherly with co-hostesses Mrs. Joe Rochelle, Mrs. Herbert Maynard, Mrs. Frankie Hill, Mrs. B. B. Bear-den and Mrs. Bob Thomas.

A miscellaneous shower was held June 29 in the church social hall with women of the church as hostesses. A rehearsal dinner was held in the church dining room, hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dalton, Mr. and Mrs. John Dietz.

MRS. JAMES RANDEL WINKLEBLACK
... nee Patricia Lea Dalton

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: The complaints I have against my husband could take up your whole column, but here are just a few. If I fill the bathtub more than a quarter of the way full, John yells at me.

All heck broke loose when I took our youngest to the doctor with a 104 temperature because it cost $7. We have been married for 23 years and have never had a vacation. John refuses to take the family for a little drive in his car as gasoline costs money.

The children have never been able to have company because John likes to sleep in his shorts in the living room. My father is sending our oldest to college as we "can't afford it."

We have no debts. My husband is a successful professional man with a good reputation in town. (His profession is helping people with their problems!) I admire him for the help he gives others, but can he not see, or does he refuse to see the problems in his own home? And what do you suggest I do?

JOHN'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Why you have put up with this for 23 years is a mystery to me. If you sincerely want help, and the situation is as you describe it, get some professional counseling on your own. If your husband is the only "counselor" in town—seek help in another town.

DEAR ABBY: Several years ago my daughter's mother-in-law passed away. In disposing of her possessions, an antique chair was given to me by her family. My daughter was offered the chair first, but she turned it down, saying it was a "monstrosity," and she wouldn't have it in her house.

Now that the chair is in my living room, every time my daughter comes over she admires it, as if she suddenly became aware of its beauty—and value. Now, she is pestering the life out of me to give her back her chair.

Abby, I can't keep that chair and enjoy it knowing that my daughter covets it. And on the other hand, if I break down and give it to her I know I will resent seeing it in HER house and never feel friendly toward her again.

DEAR FRUSTRATED: If you were to get to the seat of the matter, you would find more than an old chair between you and your daughter, but to answer your question: Get rid of the chair. You will probably resent having to part with it, but at least it will be in neither YOUR home to irritate your daughter, or in HER home to irritate you.

DEAR ABBY: I have a friend who is consistently late. When we have a date, she's anywhere from 45 minutes to an hour late. She's been this way all her life and she's nearly 40.

It provokes me, particularly because I'm always on time and I have as many things to do as she has. I've put up with it because I have a great affection for this person and she has other good qualities, but I would like to know if there is some way to break her of the habit of being late all the time?

PROVOKED

DEAR PROVOKED: After putting up with her chronic tardiness for so long, your chances for reforming her are slim. She has you trained. If you sincerely want to break her of the habit, tell her you will wait only 10 minutes after the appointed hour, and if she's late, you'll wait no longer. Then carry out your threat. But don't expect it to work unless the "affection" is mutual.

Everybody has a problem. What is yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

the Drama of DRUGS

by Tom Beard

Sensational reports of Soviet doctors' successes in "two-headed dog operations" and the like in recent releases lead us to think that these are bizarre experiments performed merely to make Western physicians look bad in comparison. Nothing could be further from the actual facts of the case. This is a matter of the news being slanted for the sake of sensationalism.

Actually a similar operation was performed by an American over half a century ago. This was a sincere experiment in the field of transplantation of tissues with the hope that new facts would come to light, making it more immediately possible for vital human organs to be transplanted with as little danger as possible.

Match Make-Up to Face
If yours is a round face, avoid highly arched eyebrows and the round-eyed look. Instead, concentrate mascara on your outer lashes and pluck beneath your brows for a short, straight brow line. For a square face, keep eyebrows and lip-line rounded. For an oblong face, avoid peeked or droopy brows and a pointed bow mouth. Chin long? Draw lower lip to look as full as possible. The right hairdo can also balance face shapes and compensate for imperfect features.

Neatness Insurance: When folding the youngsters' clothes, tuck hankies in the pockets as you go.

ABWA INSTALLATION — Mrs. Vernon Graham, right, past president, hands the gavel of the presidency of American Business Women's Association to Mrs. Eugene Franklin, who will direct ABWA and its officers in 1968-69. Other officers installed recently were left to right, Mrs. T. A. Mastin Sr., treasurer; Mrs. Shirley Nichols, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Norman Dulaney, recording secretary; and Mrs. George Shelton, vice president.

American Business Women's Group Installs 5 Officers with Ceremony

The American Business Women's Association heard a report on business growth in a recent meeting at Furr's Cafeteria. Mrs. T. A. Mastin Sr., president, presided.

Mack Hiatt, vice president of Citizens Bank and Trust, discussed statistics on the business growth of Pampa over an eight year period. His topic was

"What's Ahead in Pampa." He proved that "Pampa has prospered in business as well as grown in population during this time. The unemployed of the town has dropped from two percent to one percent for 1968."

Hiatt explained that "in the banking business an account is not considered overdrawn, but is under deposited."

He also stated that the number of houses for sale in Pampa is small in comparison to the population.

Mrs. Kenneth Butler, a member of the Long Beach International Chapter, gave a vocational speech. She and her husband moved from Pampa to Downey, Calif., a year ago. They are managers of a 48 unit apartment building. Her time is spent collecting rent, showing apartments and keeping records, she said.

The National Board of Directors of AEWAs approved an outright grant from the Stephen Bufton Memorial Educational Fund on behalf of Dana Taylor of Pampa, to enable her to attend the second summer session at East Texas State University which begins July 16.

A report from national headquarters indicates that this third year of the scholarship observance month will be an outstanding success. Many governors, mayors, and other public officials have issued public proclamations adding to the national impact the program is creating. A comprehensive report of ABWA Scholarship Month will appear in the magazine, "Women in Business."

Mrs. Raymond Johnson, sponsored by Mrs. C. A. Herd, was installed by candlelight ceremony as a member of the chapter.

Mrs. Allen Buske's name was taken from the Rocket Fund. Welcomed as a guest and former member was Mrs. Kenneth Butler from Downey, Calif.

"Company Linens"

Good advice on "company" linens: Keep using them—don't save them! Launder often to prevent yellowing and fading.

Miss Bennie Alice White and Mrs. R. B. White of Lefors, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Miss Bennie Alice White to William Chris Lynch, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Lynch of Perryton. Wedding vows will be exchanged Aug. 28 in Lefors Church of Christ with Bertis White, an uncle of the bride, officiating for the service. Miss White, a 1967 graduate of Lefors High School, attended West Texas State University one year, and will enroll in WTSU next fall. Her fiance, a 1967 graduate of Perryton High School, is a WTSU student, working for George Lease Service in Perryton.

FASHION'S BAG

The small bag is still the big bag of fashion, but it's roomier, chunkier, squatter to accommodate all the essentials. The new trend to softness is apparent in mellow, glowing antique leathers with two-tone shadings; in ocky shapes; in strap handles that are often narrowed or tapered for a daintier look. Tortoise appears in handles, locks and shell ornamentation.

IMPROVISED BATHTUB

There is no excuse whatsoever to be dirty even when good washup facilities are lacking. An enterprising Marine has found a way to scrub up all over with less than a quart of water using an empty juice can as an improvised bathtub.

The oftener you use your carpet sweeper or vacuum, the better. Don't let dirt get ground into your rugs.

Clergyman's Wife Explains Her Role

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor
NEW YORK (UPI)—Commitment. This one word sums up the prime requirement for the woman who marries a minister. Commitment to God, to family, to people. It is a difficult assignment, says one woman married to a clergyman for 35 years, but if you don't have commitment "you might as well go marry a broker."

The words are those of Alice Taylor, wife of the Rt. Rev. George A. Taylor, bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Easton, Md. Mrs. Taylor is author of a wise and witty guide to women who marry clergymen. It also should help the congregation, the others in the community in understanding that a minister's wife is human too.

Sets Example
A minister's wife must "set an example for the congregation," Mrs. Taylor says. "So much is expected of her—the health of an Amazon and the dedication of a Florence Nightingale, the patience of Job and the zeal of a Carrie Nation, the peace-loving thoughts of a Gandhi and the fighting spirit of a warrior, the charm of a debutante and the intelligence of a Phi Beta Kappa . . ."

A minister's wife lives in a goldfish bowl, Mrs. Taylor adds, "well aware that it is her sole responsibility to see that the goldfish behave. . . . The congregation expects a lot of the minister's wife, whether they admit it or not. If she's too pretty, she's trying to act like a model. If she's dowdy, they don't invite her places."

"She's expected to lead, but if she takes on too much, it deprives others, so she has to encourage leadership elsewhere. She has to have the skin of an elephant, because people will hurt her sometimes. And they'll hurt her husband, which multiplies hers."

Mrs. Taylor writes candidly of the role of a clergyman's wife in "How to Be a Minister's Wife and Love It." And she expressed many of the above thoughts in a telephone interview from her home in Easton, on Maryland's eastern shore. Her husband's diocese embraces "30 clergymen—28 wives and two bachelors," she said.

First Book
The book is her first. "I wrote

Baby Oil Keeps Hair Shiny
In the summer your hair suffers from excessive dryness caused by artificial heat and from perspiration from wearing those pretty hats. This creates the dual problem of dry hair that needs more frequent shampooing. The solution to the summer hair problem is to shampoo and condition all in one step. Add a capful of baby oil to your regular shampoo and the mixture will condition the hair.

Starch-Remover Hint
When starch discolors the bottom of your iron use the special paste cleaner for copper to remove it. Rub a thin paste on the iron, rinse out the sponge with clean water and wipe off the bottom until water forms in droplets. This film will make the iron slide easily.

When woodwork wax becomes gummy, wash it off with soap or detergent suds. Then rinse and dry before rewaxing.

it from compulsion," said Mrs. Taylor. "In recent years, I've had some time to think . . . and to think of all those ministers' wives who don't know what they're getting into. . . . I've seen clergymen ruined when a wife didn't undertake her role with commitment, patience, tact. . . . I know one whose wife hasn't been in church in four years. Now you know what his congregation says, 'If he can't sell her on religion, how can he sell us?'"

Mrs. Taylor was born in Albany, N.Y., and met her husband when he was assigned to the Ministry of St. Paul's Church there. He served as rector at St. David's Church in Baltimore and at St. Paul's, outside Chestertown, Md., before being elected bishop of the Eastern Diocese in 1965. The couple has two sons and two grandchildren.

The Pampa Daily News

A Watchful Newspaper
EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license, nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself. No more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commitments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Facts And Fright

We have a letter addressed, "To Whom It May Concern," After reading it, we were concerned and believe that you, our readers and fellow taxpayers, will be equally disturbed.

The letter, together with an accompanying analysis and recapitulation sheet, was gotten out by Louisiana Congressman Otto E. Passman, Chairman of the Foreign Operations Subcommittee on Appropriations. Their value exists in the fact that they put together, in comprehensive form, all the sorry, dismal, criminal facets of "foreign aid" and the disastrous repercussions resulting from this program by which our own government, carrying out the biggest swindle the world has ever known, has literally robbed the American people for the benefit of foreign bureaucracies.

Passman warns that the "verified, frightening but factual" statistics he provides only reflect matters through December 31 of last year. "The situation," he adds, "is worse today, seven months later," which we can well believe after reading an article by Henry J. Taylor in the Rocky Mountain News.

We will return to the Taylor story after a bit; right now some pertinent facts from the Passman report. Hold on to your hats!

1. Total amount given to foreign governments during the period 1946 through 1967 and projected through the remainder of this year, $118,432,000, plus $52,803,000 paid in interest on that amount, for a grand total of ONE HUNDRED AND SEVENTY ONE BILLION, TWO HUNDRED AND THIRTY-FIVE MILLION DOLLARS stolen from the American people via "foreign aid" alone.

'Frisk' By Congress

In selecting Justice Abe Fortas to succeed Earl Warren as chief justice of the United States, President Johnson has been willing to risk the charge that he was motivated by cronyism.

A Newspaper Enterprise Association editorial says Fortas, along with Clark Clifford, now defense secretary, has been closer to presidential decision-making than any man in Washington outside the cabinet. He has been Johnson's friend, confidant and adviser throughout Johnson's stay in Washington as congressman, senator, vice president and, finally, chief executive.

The conclusion must be drawn that Johnson knew from experience better than any of us how greatly capable Fortas is of wrestling with the momentous issues of our times. Otherwise, he would not have ventured to appoint a friend to fill so crucial a position in government.

How deeply involved in ultimate presidential decision-making on great issues Fortas has been does not show on any public record. What is known is that his association with Johnson as a back-door adviser has covered many matters, even so relatively small a one as the personal scandal involving a presidential aide several years ago. It was Fortas, with Clifford, who made an unsuccessful attempt to have the press suppress the story.

Fortas, assuming, of course, that he is confirmed, will now direct a Court that for the past 35 years under Warren has handed down a series of historic decisions dealing with human rights.

Warren, who told the Presi-

TWO HUNDRED AND FIFTY DOLLARS.

3. Short-term foreign dollar claims (for which they can demand gold we no longer have) THIRTY FIVE BILLION, FOUR HUNDRED AND TWENTY EIGHT MILLION DOLLARS.

4. United States accumulated balance of payments deficit (reflecting the difference between what we have imported over what we have exported), THIRTY-SIX BILLION, NINE HUNDRED AND EIGHTY-NINE MILLION DOLLARS.

5. United States, admitted public debt, $345,947,345,000; total public debt of ALL OTHER NATIONS OF THE WORLD, $302,128,345,000; showing that our government has run the people of this country into debt FORTY-THREE BILLION, EIGHT HUNDRED AND NINETEEN MILLION DOLLARS MORE THAN ALL THE OTHER PEOPLE OF THE WORLD PUT TOGETHER.

As Passman concluded, "It is later than you think."

All of which brings us back to the Rocky Mountain News story mentioned earlier. Despite President Johnson's promise, given in an effort to get Congress to pass his 10 percent surtax increase, to cut "foreign aid" spending, Taylor, the author of the article, reveals that the government plans to increase the "foreign aid" steal for fiscal 1969 by TWO BILLION DOLLARS from $7,000,000,000, to $9,000,000,000.

And this excerpt quoted verbatim from the Passman report tells how it is being done: "The request for foreign aid funds has been fragmented; it is scattered throughout the budget and is carried under TWENTY different titles, chapters, items or separate bills. The annual cost is increasing; the request for fiscal 1969 calls for the largest amount requested by the Administration since I became Chairman of the Subcommittee on Appropriations. This is a statement of fact, and I will support it with a recapitulation sheet in my next analysis. Stand by for a surprise!"

But his years on the High Court since his appointment in 1953 by President Eisenhower marked him as a quiet revolutionary. Students of government are certain to continue the controversy over many decisions of the so-called "Warren Court." Some will say, as Johnson did, "... how much the nation has benefited from your service as chief justice." Others may say with cynicism, "There goes a great legislator." This would be wry comment on the Court's pechanch. In recent years for accomplishing by judicial fiat what the legislative department of government seemed reluctant to enact.

Traditionally, the Supreme Court has, in the words of Justice Holmes, "followed the election returns." But the rate of change Holmes referred to was gradual or evolutionary. It became revolutionary in 1954 with the landmark decisions effecting civil rights, including the school integration decision. In a series of decisions, the Court moved to break down discriminatory practices against Negroes which had been in existence through local law, custom and habit for more than one hundred years.

Along with interpretations broadening the rights of Negroes, the Court in recent years began to chart an equally controversial course in protecting the rights of criminals. Law enforcement officials said the effect of this was to shackle

FAIR PLAY

When I was a young man I believed in the fundamentals of fair play. Where I came by that belief I don't know. But I remember it always used to annoy me when I was playing sandlot baseball and the big bully of the neighborhood would show up and insist on two turns at bat. We put up with it because he was bigger than the rest of us. But we didn't think it was right.

I suppose this is the reason, deep down in my subconscious, that I took an immediate dislike to labor unions when I first found out about them. They were engaged in getting two turns at bat, not because it was the right way to play the game, but because they were big enough to demand it.

Sure, I listened to all the arguments to the effect that the businessman and the employer had all the economic advantages and something had to be done to equalize his power. But even as a young fellow I could see that this was really not the truth. The businessman didn't have any more advantage over his employee than the employee could take over the boss, if he felt like it. And in many long years of work, I have seen more employees taking advantage of bosses than I have ever seen bosses taking advantage of workers. Of course, I've seen it work the other way, too. And I don't approve of it either way.

Well, the years passed and I found out how wrong I was. I was certain, as a young man, that the American people would have too strong a sense of fair play to go along with the union rackets indefinitely. I felt that by the time I reached my thirties or so, the public would have chucked out the union bully just the way a bunch of us fellows finally got together and drove off the sandlot-batter. And made it stick, too.

But what I hadn't figured on was the willingness of the American people to be unscrupulous if they could just see some kind of profit in it for themselves. What I hadn't grasped was politics. As a young man, I was filled with naive idealism and political maneuvering was something you read about in cheap pulp magazines.

But, of course, I didn't know then that the whole country was operating the way the sandlot bully operated when you took a look at the political arena. Political decisions, like decisions between unions and businessmen, were based not on fair play and following the rules of the game, but on the concessions that had to be made to power and pressure groups. If a man could get a big enough following, he could demand anything and, like as not, get what he demanded.

Actually, in my youth, it seems to me now, most people had the same kind of idealism that I had. At least a lot of attention was given to trying to behave in terms of what was right and virtuous, rather than in terms of what you could get away with.

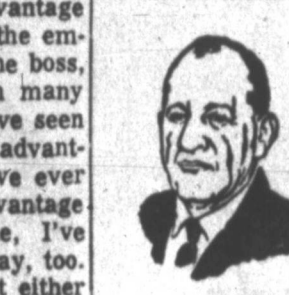

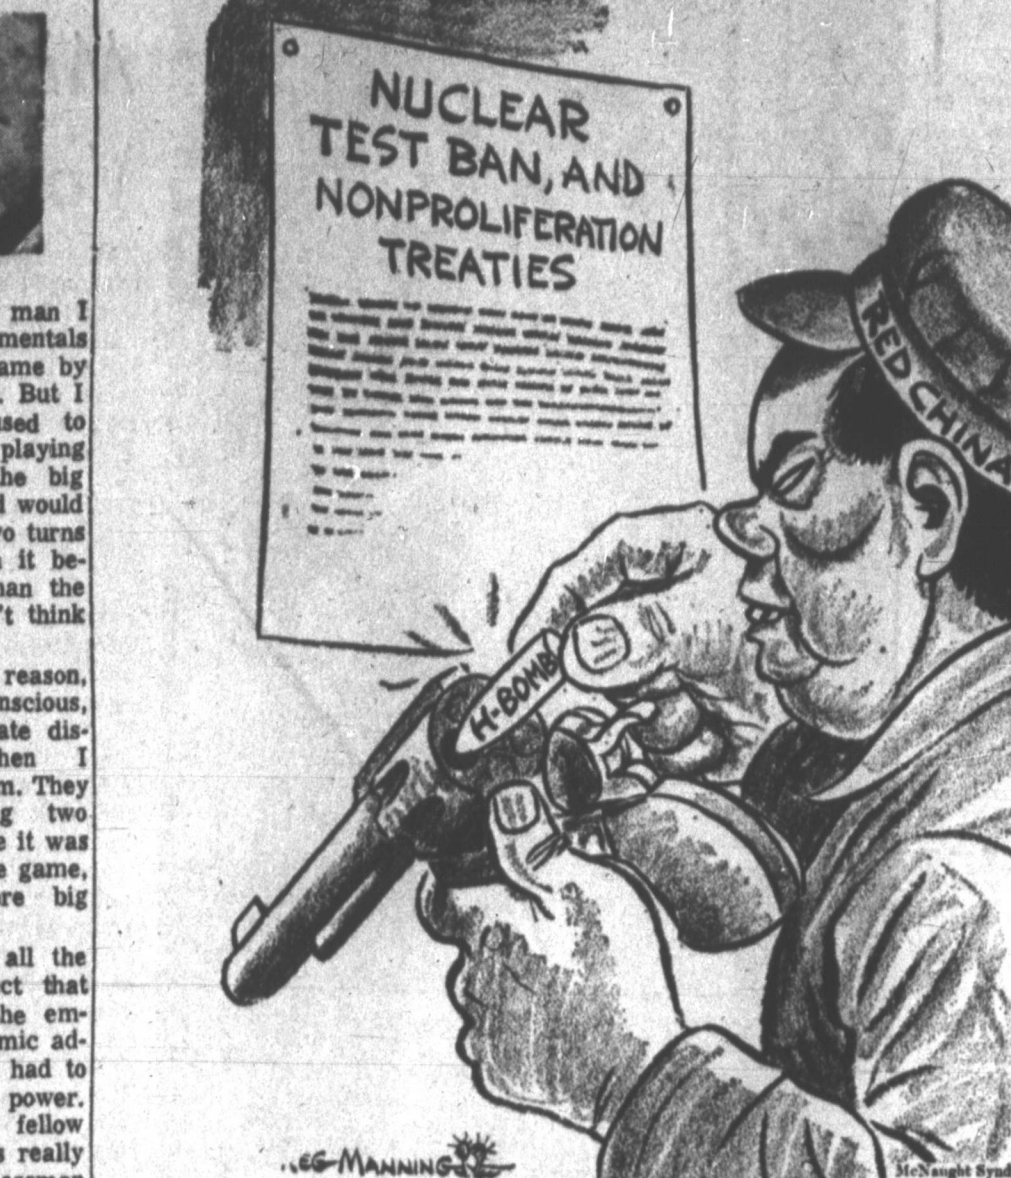

But with the emergence of union political power and the intellectual merger between trade unions and machine politics, we've all seen the country swing around the other way. And that, in turn, has given rise to civil rights movements and mass demonstrations and power blocs of every kind and description using force and the police in protecting society as a whole.

And only the other day, the Court reached back, to an 1866 statute to rule that its ban against racial discrimination in real estate transactions extended even to sale of private homes by individuals.

Congress has specifically exempted such sales and many saw the Supreme Court action as an outright invasion of the legislative prerogative—an attempt to do by judicial fiat what the legislative branch refused to do.

Supreme Court Review Pushed on Calif. Ruling Said to Threaten Effective Draft Procedures

WASHINGTON — Draft-director Lewis E. Hershey, is pressing for quick Supreme Court review of a lower court ruling which could, he says, seriously interfere with the military draft.

The ruling opens a loophole for time-consuming civil suits challenging classifications made by local draft boards. If it is upheld, the ruling will certainly be seized upon by individuals and organizations who are seeking to frustrate the draft machinery.

Using a provision of the selective service law designed to speed court action on draft cases, Lt. Gen. Hershey has asked Attorney General Ramsey Clark to appeal the constitutional issue directly to the Supreme Court.

Under the present draft law, no court review of draft classifications is afforded until a registrant has exhausted the appeals procedure of the selective service system and is ordered to report for induction. Once inducted he can seek a writ challenging his classification or, if he refuses induction, his classification becomes an issue in the resulting criminal proceedings.

When Congress extended and revised the draft law a year ago, it tightened up that provision on judicial review to make sure that all challenges to draft board classifications must be directed solely at the facts on which the classifications were assigned.

Late in May, however, the validity of the entire judicial review provision was brought into question. Judge Alfonso J. Zirpoli, a federal judge in California's northern district, ruled that the provision was unconstitutional. Acting in a case brought by Norman Lloyd Peterson, Zirpoli said the law's restriction on court review are a denial of unconstitutionally guaranteed due process of law. Hershey, already involved in other legal battles involving draft protests, asked Clark to appeal just a few days after the little-noticed California ruling was brought to the attention of lawyers here.

"LITIGIOUS INTERRUPTION"—In his letter to the attorney general, Hershey said the Zirpoli ruling is "a potential threat to the effective operation of the nation's military manpower procurement program."

The ruling will, if it stands, "open the door to do much 'litigious interruption' of the selective service processing as to hinder severely the efforts of the United States to provide itself with the military manpower required for its defense," Hershey said.

That is legalistic gobbledegook meaning that if a flood of similar civil cases must be fought in the courts the litigation could hinder procurement of men needed for military activities, including the war in Vietnam.

Question Box

(We invite questions on economic and the proper functions of government which will not below answer.)

QUESTION: According to Human Events news, Washington D. C. gave Lerol Jones $400,000 for his poverty program. On television last month viewers heard his (Jones) threat to burn 17 large cities and kill all the whites who have not committed suicide when "they" take over! Is this poverty?

—Mrs. R. L.

ANSWER: It is certainly a poverty of understanding. Of course, Jones' threat itself is not poverty, it is coercion. But if carried out, it would certainly increase poverty.

It is absurd for the government to give $400,000 to promote the destructive ideas of a man so ignorant of the laws of nature.

The only way poverty can be decreased is by more production. The creation of poverty can only be encouraged by respecting the private property of others. No one will want to work hard to create property if he knows it is going to be taken away from him or wantonly destroyed.

It is the government that causes more poverty. Of course we'll always have poverty, and the government cannot reduce poverty by giving $400,000 or any amount of money, to a poverty program.

By Jones' threat to burn 17 large cities and kill all whites who haven't committed suicide when "they" take over, he is just fostering race hatred and will increase poverty rather than decrease it.

If that is what you want to do, that is violating the covenant and stealing commandments and the violation of these commandments cannot increase the well being of mankind, but only reduce it.

young men that they would face a short period of maximum draft vulnerability as soon as they had finished college or a trade education.

Congressional leaders contend that the President can, and should, institute a youngest-first plan under the power he now possesses. White House experts say the youngest-first plan would be an administrative nightmare without authority to choose between 19-year-olds by means of a system of "random selection."

But congress refused to approve the lottery-like random selection plan last year, and told the President to come back to Congress if he really wanted such a system. Administration aides say no such request has been made because it would surely be denied by the House Armed Services Committee, which has strongly opposed selection by lot.

In the meantime the tough sergeants at army training stations await recruits who run increasingly to men with M.A.s and even Ph. D.s, and GOP presidential candidate Nelson A. Rockefeller, in full page campaign advertisements, pledged himself to a draft scheme very similar to the one envisioned a year ago.

JUSTICE TAKES A BEATING (Chattanooga Free Press)

The nostalgic fact that Abe Fortas is a Tennessean from Memphis hardly is sufficient to cause our citizens who believe in government according to the Constitution to be overjoyed that President Lyndon B. Johnson has nominated him for chief justice of the Supreme Court.

And while Mr. Johnson has done the unusual in naming a real judge to fill the vacancy as associate justice, the selection of Homer Thornberry is in no way an indication the court will move back toward proper judicial function instead of continuing to usurp legislative, executive and virtually all other functions of the government and the people.

Chief Justice-nominee Fortas is a brilliant man. But he is of the activist school. That is exactly what Supreme Court justices should not be. They ought to rule in strict interpretation of the Constitution and the law, never applying their own views where Constitution and law do not go, never making sociological or political change by decree.

Judge Thornberry has been on the bench for five years, first as district judge and later on the Fifth U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, giving him some previous judicial experience, a qualification many Supreme Court justices of recent times have not been able to claim, retiring chief Justice Earl Warren being one. But the most telling thing about Judge Thornberry is his career before he was named to the bench.

He took the Texas congressional seat that Lyndon B. Johnson vacated by moving up to the Senate in a rigged election in 1948. Rep. Thornberry was one who always could be counted on to deliver whatever House Speaker Sam Rayburn and Sen. Lyndon Johnson wanted.

As a member of the vital House Rules Committee, Rep. Thornberry was the only southerner who consistently voted to deliver leftwing legislation to the floor. If not a puppet, he certainly was hand in glove with his liberal Texas mentors.

In view of the radical nature of the current Supreme Court and the 5-4 decisions that frequently have marked alarming turning points in American law, the naming of a liberal like Judge Thornberry and the elevation of Justice Fortas combine to continue the threat of an appointed oligarchy to the American system of constitutional government.

The Supreme Court unfortunately has become an instrument of political intrigue, gross usurpation, tyrannical action and despotic mastery rather than a tribunal of stable and balanced justice.

Mr. Johnson's nominations for chief justice and associate justice increase rather than decrease this abominable and dangerous situation.

Big Cities? Phooey! Stay In The Country, Young Man

By PAUL HARVEY
Generations of small-town American youths were attracted by bright lights and economic opportunities to the big cities.

Now the big cities have less to offer than the countryside. Young man GO LIVE SOMEPLACE BEAUTIFUL.

When Lance Day came home from that war he asked himself, "Where do I want to live?" He did it right.

Lance Day had always liked green mountains, blue sky and fast water. He remembered reading about the Greenbrier in West Virginia and decided he would like to live there.

Who wouldn't? Since stage coach days the gracious resort had been a retreat for the most affluent and the most discriminating. How dare a young ex-GI with no money presume to LIVE there!

Lance Day sought and got a job in the lower level haberdashery in the Greenbrier Hotel, soon managed it, then owned it.

Day married, made a down payment on a nearby hillside home and started rearing a family in that beautiful environment. Later he opened a ladies' shop then a children's shop in Greenbrier — with wintertime branches in Lake Placid and Saratoga.

Lance Day is a frequent golfing companion during my own sometimes visits to the Greenbrier. Perhaps he is less rich in the bank than many of that spa's guests—but he is many-ways richer than us all.

By contrast, in Chicago 7 million people are piled on top of one another. The nearest hunting and fishing are at least a state away in Wisconsin or

Michigan. The last Chicago golf course is now a hard hour's drive from downtown. Those closer in have been phased out, subdivided.

Chicago's parks and forest preserves—once available for picnicking, hiking, kite-flying—are now mostly hangouts for hoodlums. A year ago Chicago had four riding stables; the last of these closed this year.

And even on clear days in the Big City, a pall of industrial weather filters the sun and hides the stars.

Go some place beautiful, young man. With transportation at the speed of sound and communication at the speed of light there is no longer any necessity for any advantage or any reason for most Americans to be cliff-dwellers in the concrete canyons of a megalopolis.

There is the magnificent American Northwest, the exciting anything-you-want variety here in our Southwest. There are a thousand Shangri-Las in the Northeast and Southeast all within reach of metropolitan areas—yet uncontaminated by them.

Just out of school, just home from war, try the formula Lance Day used for planning his future. Instead of asking yourself, "What do I want to do?" unless there is some compelling ambition inhibiting your choice, ask yourself, "Where do I want to live?" Then go there.

Horace Greeley advised young men of his generation to "Go West," while he stayed East and got rich. Paul Harvey says, "Go someplace beautiful."

Several Alternatives
For Diastema Treatment
DEAR DR. LAWRENCE: I have a large space between my two front teeth. Must I have braces? My parents can't afford to pay very much. Is there some other way of getting rid of this space?

ANSWER: First, it must be said that spaces between front teeth are not necessarily unattractive. In fact, one of the prettiest girls I know, my mother, has a space between her front teeth.

Yet in some faces a diastema, as it is called, can be a cosmetic liability. It seems to particularly accentuate long noses and broad faces.

Walter Matthau Becoming A Legend

By JOAN CROSBY
GARRISON, N. Y. (NEA) — The final scene of "Hello Dolly" had just been filmed even though the picture has several weeks more shooting on the schedule. Barbra Streisand had walked through a waving, swaying throng of 350 costumed extras to the steps of a small, white, steeped church where Walter Matthau waited to give her a kiss. As the music swelled and the camera picked up the whole vista of the Hudson River and rolling hills in the background, they entered the church to get married.

WALTER MATTHAU AND SON CHARLIE take a break during the filming of "Hello Dolly." Charlie, a precocious 5 1/2-year-old, claims he's really 82.

"At lunch break, a blanket was spread on a green hill and Matthau, his pretty wife Carol, their 5 1/2-year-old son, Charlie, and Charlie's nurse, Miss Ray, had a picnic.

Under a nearby tree, Barbra Streisand sat with friends and ate her lunch.

Visitors to the area, attracted by the stars, stood and stared. "I thought they came to see me until I saw them all looking at Barbra," Walter said.

Matthau is one of the world's originals, a man who deserves to be, as he is becoming, a legend. He's a tall, wrinkled, tough but lovable bear—who pokes fun at himself more often than he knocks other people. (Although he did once describe an actor he did not like as being "miscast in the human race"). For instance, he is not too happy with the ads for his current picture, "The Secret Life of an American Wife," which show him clad in pajama bottoms.

"Who wants to look at a 6-foot-2 Jew with flabby breasts?" he asks.

After years as one of the best and most respected actors on Broadway and in television, Walter's present star status in Hollywood delights everyone who has ever met him.

"It's boring to be an actor. You're always talking about yourself and the more you talk the less you know," he says. "But movies have other considerations. It's like being on Army maneuvers when you're playing a lead. You're the general, and everyone makes sure you're comfortable. You have cars and good dinners and comfortable chairs and a nice dressing room. If you don't let it go to your head you can have a lot of fun watching people make a big fuss over you. Occasionally I pretend I'm angry and I call and say, "I don't have a car," and then they scramble.

"I was getting tired of people telling me I am a good actor. Now I'm having fun making a fortune in money every time I open my mouth."

Walter says he is not lost to Broadway, although "for 25 years Broadway has been a showcase for movies. You hope you can hit on Broadway so you get called for movies. I have always considered myself an actor rather than a personality, though, and I went along on the assumption that only personalities made the grade as movie stars. I guess I wasn't as good an actor as I thought."

"Was your first movie 'The Kentucky'?" Charlie asked.

"The Ken-tuck-yan," Walter enunciated in the manner of a parent teaching his child his ABC's. "What was my second?"

Charlie said, "The In-Fighter."

"And the third?"

"That I don't know."

"'Big-ger-Than-Life,'" Walter enunciated.

"Poppy, was 'The Odd Couple' supposed to make you laugh?" Charlie asked. Charlie laughed at his funny question.

"Do you know how old I am?" Charlie said. "I'm really 82, but my fake age is 5 1/2."

"I'm really quite in love with Charlie," Carol said. "He's a wonderful little boy to be with."

"I think of myself as a writer," Walter said. "Carol is only in love with writers."

"That's not true. I loathe them," she said.

"She talks too much," Charlie said. "To everyone, including you, poppy."

Walter turned to a furiously scribbling writer. "Are you getting all this down?"

Prairie Trails & Pioneer Tales

By TRACY D. CARY Chairman, Gray County Historical Survey Committee - Box 616

"Who remembers the time when the red brick school house was still rather new and still Pampa's pride and joy being one of only two brick buildings in town, (the other was the bank)..." writes Mrs. E. W. Carter of Stratford in a wonderful sketch of the pioneer families of W. H. Carter (to Pampa in 1908) and of Charlie W. Smith (to Lefors in 1908). "It was Halloween and some of the boys, don't ask me how, put a burro in the superintendent's office and a goat in the belfry! And I can still see those big wheels of Mr. Eldredge's dray wagon hanging on the telephone poles!"

Mrs. Carter's notes are such a superb example of the kind of stories we hope all of you are recording from your rich store of memorabilia to include in your pioneer family sketches for the Gray County History that we couldn't resist sharing one or two with you. "One of the large ranchers brought a big herd of cows with calves at their sides into Pampa. They divided them, put the calves on the train to be shipped off, and left the cows in town as there was no use to drive them back to pasture. They would just come back to town again because there is a 'built-in-agreement' between cow and calf to both return to the last place the calf nursed when separated. But that did not make the housewives' feeling toward the cow boys any better. The cows bawled day and night. The yards, the fences, gardens, rain barrels, chicken coops and clothes lines were all torn down by the cows and ruined. The women were just plain old American 'mad'."

Mrs. Carter continues, "The Armistice! We had been thru a war and like all wars it was sad and trying. Then that eleventh hour! The news - the shouting for joy - the celebrating! Not for all though. The family of Charlie and Edith Smith was all shut off from news. No telephone and no radio. They had influenza - the flu as we called it even then was most severe and many lives were lost that winter of 1918-1919. People were afraid and well they might have been. So the neighbors brought food and set it inside the front gate and didn't stay to talk. So it was Nov. 19 when one brave soul came and told them the war was over."

When asked where he thought the next development in the Panhandle would come from the old timer replied, "In the Panhandle! All over the Panhandle! It may not be oil everywhere, but where it isn't oil it may be potash and where it is not potash it may be gas and where it isn't any of these it may be irrigation and the dog-gonest crops you ever heard tell of."

He continued, "The day is coming when they are going to irrigate the Panhandle. . . thousands of little electric pumps, supplied with power by big plants in the gas fields are going to be hoisting water out of the watersheds underlying so much of the high plains, and irrigating the land with it." Taking a fresh cigar, the old oil man bit off the end and started again, "Tell 'em that," he advised. "So here it is! A drive through the fields of golden wheat and the many other green crops in this area please the soundness of the old timer's vision. It's becoming increasingly rare for married couples to have the privilege of celebrating their Golden Wedding Anniversary, but one Pampa couple, Mr. and Mrs. James Benjamin Hilburn of 317 N. Starkweather, had the distinction of celebrating the 61st anniversary of their marriage (June 8, 1907) last month. Known affectionately as "Mother and Dad Hilburn" to their many friends throughout the Panhandle and especially to the congregation of Central Baptist Church where they have been faithful members since the early days of the church's organization, you can drive by most any day and see the Hilburns, both octogenarians, busy at work among the beautiful flowers and shrubs around their home. Mrs. Hilburn is an accomplished artisan with the needle and is busy at present making a large number of aprons for friends.

Mrs. Hilburn (nee, Nelly Moore) was born near Tupelo, Mississippi, the daughter of a Baptist minister. She recalls the hearty pioneer spirit of her mother who was left a widow with 10 children when Rev. Moore passed away at the early age of 49. Miss Nelly Moore was married to J. B. Hilburn, a native of Morrow, Texas, in 1907. They soon moved to Comper Ranch near Abilene in Jones Co. near Merkel and in 1911 removed to Oklahoma City where Mr. Hilburn helped in the construction of the S & S Packing Co.

His father, Pierce Hilburn, at this time was needing his assistance with his farming near Naylor Springs in Hall County, so it was back to Texas again. In 1916 the Hilburns moved to Groom and soon became associated with the Steed Ranch and that of Levi Angel. During the boom years of 1926 and 1927, Hilburn opened a combination tailor and barber shop in Groom and Alaunder, and in 1931 he was the wholesale and retail agent for Magnolia Oil Co.

The Hilburns moved to Pampa in 1933. They are the parents of two sons, Byron of Pampa and Mahon of Kingsland, Tex. Byron and his wife, the former Ruby Sciaf, are the proprietors of the L Ranch Motel here and Mahon, whose wife is the former Dorothy Beasley, is associated with a chemical firm. The Hilburns take special pride in their five grandchildren.

A Tip of the Pioneer Hat to these fine folk who have enjoyed 61 anniversaries together. . . may they have many, many more!

We also would like to wish many happy returns and best wishes to Mrs. Mollie Hethcock of 1120 W. Buckler who celebrated her 90th birthday Friday. Mrs. Hethcock never misses a Thursday afternoon at the Senior Citizen's Party at Lovett Library.

California Gals Take Honors In 'Puff' Air Derby

SAVANNAH, Ga. (UPI)—A flying instructor and a real estate broker, both from California, were named first place winners last week in the annual women's Powder Puff Derby air race. Mrs. Margaret Mead of Goleta, Calif., and her copilot Mrs. Billie Herrin of Santa Barbara, Calif., took top honors by logging a flying time 13.53 knots per hour faster than their handicap.

Other winners, in the order they placed were Sophie M. Patton of Indianapolis, Ind., and her copilot Pauline Mallory of Miami, Fla.; Gini S. Richardson of Yakima, Wash., and copilot Marian Banks of San Diego, Calif.; Fran Bera of Long Beach, Calif., flying solo, and Marge Mitchell of Plainview, Tex., and copilot Kathy Long of Irving, Tex.

The pilots of 55 of the planes reached Savannah Wednesday after bad weather had plagued them most of the way. Another 10 had arrived Monday and Tuesday. The race started Saturday at Van Nuys, Calif.

Flying time, with handicaps considered, was the factor used in judging the contest.

The winners will share in a $3,000 purse. In addition, other winners will be announced later for various classes of planes and for the shortest flying time between various points.

Republicans Ask Tax Credit For On-Job Training

SAN ANTONIO (UPI) — The Texas Republican party wants to initiate a state tax credit plan to encourage industries to sponsor on-the-job training.

The suggestion is one of nine presented by a Texas GOP task force report on unemployment last week by Republican state treasurer nominee Manuel Sanchez.

Report said state Democratic administrations have "avoided their responsibility to the State's labor forces by ignoring the changing conditions of employment."

State Tax Credits

The proposal suggested that tax credits should be given in industries on a national level as well, but if that were not possible they should be given state tax credits.

Lockheed said the missile was developed by the same engineers who turned out the Polaris, the Poseidon's predecessor. The Polaris, the company said in a statement, "in over 150 firings from land, ship and submarine, has proved to be extremely accurate."

The Poseidon is designed for launching from a submerged submarine. When aloft, it can shoot out H-bombs like shotgun pellets, each aimed at individual cities to outmaneuver enemy antissubmarine.

Forster said if it became necessary to use the Poseidon in battle, the missile would miss its target "and reasonably risk destruction of American and allied noncombatant populations, places and states."

A further result, he said, would be "the annihilation of the American population, cities and states by reason of the unopposed firing of enemy missiles which are designed in good workmanship-like fashion and which will hit the targets selected by the enemy."

Named as defendants in the law suit were Lockheed and the Defense Secretary Clark Clifford.

The complaint did not ask specific damages for Forster, a Lockheed stockholder who is also suing as a citizen on behalf of American taxpayers. Davis asked that the court award at least $100,000 for attorney fees.

killing is just not true," Cowden said.

Discredits Proposal

He also discredited the proposal that including investment profits of insurance companies into figuring auto insurance rates would result in a drastic rate reduction.

"If the investment profits of auto insurance companies had been figured into the rates last year, the rates would have been about 54 cents per $100 in premiums less than they were."

"That's the margin by which some companies are operating in the black instead of the red," Cowden said. "Auto insurance companies are making about one-half of one per cent in profits."

A gubernatorial candidate this year based a portion of his campaign on a pledge to lower Texas auto insurance rates by requiring that investment profits be included in the formula for determining the rates. He was defeated.

MODERN VARIATION

NAPLES, Italy (UPI)—Competitors in the Naples Song Festival have sung ballads for years about broken hearts, aching hearts and lonely hearts. Aurelio Fierro came up with a new angle Thursday night.
