GOP Heads Into Campaign

'Peace' Sought By 'New' Nixon

By RAYMOND LAHR
MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—Richard M. Nixon today led his Republican party into an election campaign aimed at satisfying a national hunger for peace at home and abroad.

It was an orthodox Republican Nixon, who took a hard line toward putting an end to violence and lawlessness in America. But it also was a new Nixon, who took a soft line toward the Soviet Union instead of depicting communism as the root of all evil.

Culley Honored By CoC

Negroes Dismayed At Agnew's Nomination

By STEPHEN MORROW
BALTIMORE (UPI)—Gov. Spiro T. Agnew won overwhelming majorities in Baltimore's Negro areas when he ran for governor two years ago. But Thursday Negro leaders here greeted his nomination for the vice presidency with dismay.

Agnew's nomination, they said, was a repudiation of the first step toward an open occupancy law in 1967—the first such law ever passed by a legislature south of the Mason-Dixon line.

A communique said 200 Viet Cong opened fire on the convoys traveling the Can Tho River nine hours apart at a spot 80 miles southwest of Saigon. The U.S. Navy boats overshoot their targets and hit Cai Rang village.

No Communist casualties were reported as the boat convoys raced through the half-mile long ambush. Seven American crewmen were wounded and one boat was damaged, spokesmen said.

The alternative chosen by the rebels was Gov. George Romney of Michigan, who has never been able to sell himself to the Republican professionals as easily as he once sold compact cars.

Not Everyone Wanted Him But Agnew Got Nod

MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—He wasn't the man everybody wanted. He was the man nobody wanted. He was the man nobody wanted. He was the man nobody wanted.

Agnew was elected governor of Maryland two years ago on an open-housing platform against the opposition of a Democrat who said a man's home is his castle. That made him look good to minority voters.

MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—Sen. John G. Tower of Texas, among those who made a seconding speech for Gov. Spiro T. Agnew of Maryland for the GOP vice presidential candidacy, said Thursday Agnew was a "credible" addition to the ticket.

Incident Continues Resort Area Unrest

MIAMI (UPI)—A new disturbance in this city where three Negroes have been killed in racial violence broke out early today, sending police squads roaring to the Coconut Grove section.

At least three pistol shots rang out in the vicinity of a busy highway where about 50 Negroes gathered and milled around. No one was injured, however, and police quickly broke up the crowd.

There was no immediate explanation of the pistol shots but officers arrested three men of the group that had gathered at the Corner of Main Highway and Grand Avenue.

The incident in Coconut Grove was more than seven miles from the Liberty City area where more than 300 National Guardsmen and deputy sheriffs patrolled littered streets to maintain peace in renewed waves of bitter racial violence that first broke out late Wednesday.

Officers had to pick their way through the stench of rotting foodstuffs, broken bottles and bricks and rocks to maintain order in this city, better known as a place where the rich and affluent come to have fun in the sun than as a racial hotbed.

Spraying tear gas from bug sprayers and clubbing Negroes who refused to retreat indoors, the troops and deputies had quelled most of the rock-throwing and looting by early today—for the second time in 24 hours. There were isolated reports of violence throughout the night.

The two days of disorder within a few miles of the site of the Republican National Convention left three men dead, at least 29 persons injured and nearly 200 arrested.

Increase In Expenses Set To Hit Texas College Students

By ANN WATSON
AUSTIN (UPI)—Inflation will hit Texas college students this fall with a double whammy—higher fees and increased living costs.

Figures compiled by the College Coordinating Board for Texas Press International show Texas college and university students' expenses will be up 13 to 16 per cent from last September's levels.

Costs for nine months will range from $1,630 at public junior colleges to $2,428 at private senior colleges.

The college students' costs have increased more than four times as much as the cost of living of the general public, which has risen 3.2 per cent since last September.

Most of the added costs are for room and board, which frequently are more expensive on and around campuses than elsewhere. Bus fees and book prices are up at nearly all schools.

Junior Colleges Expensive
The biggest percentage hike is at private junior colleges where costs have jumped nearly 16 per cent. On an average, students at these schools can expect to spend $2,160 this year, $277 more than it cost them from September, 1967 through May, 1968.

Costs for students at public and private senior colleges are up 14 per cent. The average will have to spend $1,631 for nine months schooling in September—$200 more than they could have expected last fall.

Private senior colleges' average student cost will be $2,428—up $299 from last year.

Average expense figures for medical and dental schools and James Connally Technical Institute have risen 7 per cent, from $2,919 to $3,119.

Schools Furnish Figures
The averages are computed from statistics on student expenses submitted by each school.

Cost figures from the private schools are confidential, but some of the increases noted at public schools include:

—North Texas State University, from $1,320 for 1967-68 to $1,601 for 1968-69.
—East Texas State University, from $1,324 to $1,614.

No increase was reported for the University of Texas at Austin for this fall, but the board of regents in July approved 7 to 18 per cent rate hikes for school-owned housing effective in September, 1968. The regents also approved a new $26 levy for students for building funds starting in June, 1969.

"Increased costs are off set by more kinds of aid to the student," said C. R. Gahagan, coordinating board director of student aids.

Aid Programs Up
Total figures on the amounts of scholarships, grants and fellowships awarded to Texas college students are not available, but Gahagan pointed out "tremendous" increases in numerous aid programs.

Loans granted under the Texas opportunity plan, for example, totaled $5.3 million last year. This year $10.8 million is available.

Students got $3.3 million in educational opportunity grants last year. This year $5.9 million will be available to aid particularly needy students through this program.

But as critics of existing loan and aid programs point out, there are large numbers of students from middle class families who do not want or cannot qualify for the help.

And they, and their parents, will be paying more this fall.

Boys Ranch Rodeo Set Labor Day

AMARILLO (SpI) — Excitement and desire to win are running high as the nearly 350 boys at Cal Farley's Boys Ranch prepare for their 24th annual Labor Day Rodeo.

Four times a week the boys are rehearsing for the rodeo and trying to qualify as contestants on the bucking horses, Brahma bulls, steers, and calves. Even the Ranch's youngest are saddling their stick horses and getting ready to set some new records in the barrel race.

Traditionally the biggest Labor Day event of the Texas Panhandle, the Boys Ranch rodeo is expected to attract a record number of visitors, topping the over 9,000 spectators who attended the two performances last year. Aside from the action that will be provided by young riders on bucking animals, the boys will operate a barbecue concession, work in the chutes, act as ushers, sell cold drinks and pop corn, park cars, and assist with the production of a rodeo.

Believed to be the only rodeo in the nation in which boys are the only contestants riding professional rodeo animals under R.C.A. rules, two performances are scheduled at 2:30 p.m., Sept. 1 and 2. Box seats may be purchased in advance for $2.50 by calling 374-4687 or writing the Boys Ranch office at 600 West 11th, PO Box 1890, Amarillo. General admission prices are $1.50 and 75 cents for children and servicemen in uniform.

Industrial Conference Scheduled In Austin

AUSTIN (SpI) — The Senate Committee on Vocational-Technical Education will host the Industrial Conference to begin at noon Tuesday, Aug. 13, at the Commodore Perry Hotel in Austin.

Sen. Chet Brooks of Pasadena is chairman of the Senate Interim Study Committee.

The Industrial Conference is designed to give industry, business and labor an opportunity to present their views and suggestions concerning the projected need for vocational and technical training in our State.

The key-note address will be given by Lt. Gov. Preston Smith to the expected 100 to 150 industrial leaders from around the State. Small, informal groups will be formed to establish dialog between the committee members and the industrialists in order to learn the vocational-technical needs of industry and to give industrial leaders an idea of what the committee and State are doing in this field.

The Texas Senate established the Vocational-Technical Education Committee in 1967 to help plan Texas' future industrial and business development as well as to meet today's demands for trained personnel. The Committee represents the first formal inquiry into the problems, needs and administration of technical education in Texas since 1936.

The Committee members include Senators Brooks, Chairman, Murray Watson, Vice-Chairman of Waco, Joe Bernal of San Antonio, David Ratliff of Stamford, and Bruce Reagan of Corpus Christi. During the past year the committee has held hearings in Austin, Waco, Brenham, Houston, Amarillo, Corpus Christi, and Harlingen.

PARIS (UPI) — After 170 years, French authorities have gotten the message. They're paving the streets of the Latin Quarter with asphalt, making it impossible to tear up the paving stones which have been the ammunition of rebels and other rioters ever since the first French revolution in 1789.

Television In Review

By ROBERT MUSEL
NEW YORK (UPI)—When it comes to a big news set-piece like the Republican National Convention at Miami Beach, NBC-TV is hard to beat. All the usual audience measurements show the team headed by Chet Huntley and David Brinkley wound up the fateful week well ahead of the opposition in the ratings.

CBS-TV did a little better against its arch-rival than it managed in 1964 but not enough to make any claims—and the silence from CBS was more eloquent than words. Yet for those who tried to watch both networks there was technically little to choose between the NBC crew and Walter Cronkite's CBS cohorts.

Both turned in fine reporting jobs. Huntley and Brinkley, who first teamed for the 1956 convention, batted the ball back and forth complementing each other in their usual easy, authoritative and informative style. They were visually more concentrated and, perhaps, more attractive than the solitary Cronkite alone in his booth passing the baton from time to time to Roger Mudd and Eric Sevareid in their own corner.

No Changes planned
But should this have made so much difference? In 1964, in a similar ratings depression, CBS switched its anchor man—with even unhappier results. There will be no changes for Chicago this time since it obviously is not a matter of personalities, whatever it is.

NBC's lead was expected and modestly accepted in a statement by its news president, Feuvlen Frank. ABC-TV started the week with a striking success of its own—it increased its audience tenfold over its tiny 1964 figures. And it might have done even better had it been able to inject more vitality into the 90 minutes nightly summary it carried rather than face the intimidating expense of gavel coverage.

The convention windup came across strongly Thursday night

Quirks In The News
By United Press International
DENVER (UPI) — Denver University Chancellor Maurice B. Mitchell said Tuesday American universities produce "people who really can't read, people who really can't write, people who really can't explain anything."

Mitchell said he doesn't include his own university in that description—but he added that in 11 months as chancellor, "I have yet to receive a communication from a student that is grammatically totally correct."

PITTSFIELD, Mass. (UPI)—In this western New England community, early to bed and early to rise may make a man only healthy and wise.

Nacha Kaminski told police someone ransacked his house Monday and robbed him of $150 while he was out milking his cows.

with some dramatic shots of president nominee Richard M. Nixon promising law and order in the streets (which ABC's special commentator—William Buckley Jr., had accurately predicted would be the big issue campaign issue rather than Vietnam).

Good News Reporting
There was another example of good exciting television reporting in the way the networks floor men tracked down those who objected to the selection of Gov. Spiro Agnew of Maryland as Nixon's running mate—before the convention overwhelmingly approved Nixon's choice.

Spokesmen for all three networks said that none of the lessons learned at Miami Beach would significantly affect their coverage of the Democratic National Convention in Chicago starting Aug. 26.

If the pattern of viewing of the Miami Beach show demonstrated anything it is that the public does not watch a convention simply because it's there. Something worth watching is what it wants. How to replace the predictably dull portions of a convention with more attractive non-convention material could be the problem for 1972.

Hearing For Youths Today

A preliminary hearing for three juveniles who have admitted 30 burglaries here was scheduled this afternoon behind closed doors at the county court room.

Under terms of Texas law, no criminal charges are filed against juveniles. The preliminary hearing will determine if there is sufficient evidence to warrant further investigation, an official explained.

Two of the youths are 14, the other 15. They were apprehended by police here July 16, following an attempted break-in at a local drive-in grocery.

Two of the youths involved were flushed out after a three-hour, block-by-block dragnet by police. They later implicated the other youth.

The trio admitted to police that between them they committed 30 burglaries here. Most of the burglaries involved coin-operated machines.

Said that as president he would never have permitted erection of Resurrection City in Washington and called the Poor People's Campaign a massive lobby. ## Christian Views Vary On Violence Attitude

By LOUIS CASSELS United Press International

What is the appropriate Christian attitude toward violent revolutionary acts?

Some church members are surprised that anyone should even raise the question. To them, it seems perfectly clear that followers of Christ should at all times abhor violence, uphold law and order, and obey the government.

But another point of view is expressed in a statement adopted recently by the policy-making general board of the National Council of Churches. It holds that violence, under some circumstances, may be a lesser evil than continued toleration of injustice.

Political Processes

The statement suggests that Christians should first try through political processes to change laws or policies they consider unjust. If that fails, they may move on to "civil disobedience," defined in the statement as "peaceable violation of a law deemed to be unjust ... with recognition of the state's legal authority to punish the violator."

Finally, the statement says, "we recognize that when justice cannot be secured either through action within the existing structures or through civil disobedience, an increasing number of Christians may feel called to seek justice through resistance or revolution."

The National Council statement has been applauded in some quarters as a courageous affirmation that God's law has a higher claim on a Christian's obedience than any human law.

Righting Wrongs

Supporters point to biblical evidence that Jesus was not an advocate of peace-at-any-price. He told his disciples, "I come to bring not peace but a sword"—and the context makes clear he meant that he was more concerned with righting wrongs than with avoiding conflict.

Other Christians question whether it was wise or helpful for the National Council of Churches to go out of its way at this particular point in history to condone violence as a last resort for those who feel ill-used by society.

These critics note that the council statement was issued shortly after Sen. Robert F. Kennedy was assassinated by a gunman who may well have believed that he was resisting injustice by the only effective means available to him.

If carefully read, with attention to all of the qualifications its drafters intended, the statement says only that violent acts of revolution may be justifiable "when justice cannot be secured" by any other means.

The big question which the statement doesn't answer is how to determine when it's impossible to achieve justice by peaceable processes.

People living under a ruthless dictatorship obviously have little chance of changing things through ordinary political action (although they may get results from covert passive resistance.)

Moral Guidance

But the National Council statement was not addressed primarily to oppressed peoples of dictatorships. It was issued for the moral guidance of Americans, who live under a system of government that may be bumpy at times but is ultimately responsive to the will of the people.

It can be contended that American democracy has been disgracefully slow about righting the wrongs inflicted on Negroes and other minorities, and that it is even now doing far too little to alleviate poverty and inequity.

But the progress toward social justice achieved in recent years is adequate proof that patient, persistent, peaceful effort can get results.

Holy Land Trip Offers Traveler Narrow Escapes

ABILENE, Tex. (UPI) — Alarming only for archeological finds, Dr. Lindell O. Harris recently returned from a journey to the Holy Land in which he faced international intrigue and some "very narrow escapes," he reported recently.

Harris is chairman of religion at Hardin-Simmons University in Abilene.

The trip was the first of three Harris plans to search for artifacts, in Jordan, three miles east of the Dead Sea and 42 miles south of Amman, the capital of the Arab nation.

Lived in Cave During his stay here at his "dig site," Harris lived in a cave wired for electricity furnished by a portable generator. His food consisted of mutton twice a day, Arab bread and water brought in by donkeys.

His work day began at 5 a.m. and ended at 1 p.m. "in order to avoid the heat," Harris said. The team was forced, however, to spend one night in Iraw at Baghdad.

"When we checked into the hotel, the police checked through their enemy agent file to see if our names were listed as known spies," Harris said.

Under Surveillance Throughout their journey through the Arab nation, the archeological group was under constant police surveillance.

Harris said he was "elated" over the group's finds for the first summer. The final team, comprised of some 130 workers, dug at six sites at the same time, concentrating on the time period from 100 B.C. to 100 A.D.

They found one piece of pottery with the name "John" inscribed on it at the site where John the Baptist was executed. Harris said he does not know if the inscription refers to John the Baptist, however.

The search team also found coins, large stones and arrowheads used by the Romans in their siege of a fortress located at the site.

Absentees Dominated World Council Debate

By DAVID POLING NEW YORK (NEA) — The most prominent people discussed and debated at the meeting of the World Council of Churches were not even present. They were Father Hans Kung, the Rev. William Sloan Coffin Jr. and the next president of the United States.

Each of these men represent the significant issues that worry and inspire the leadership of the Christian church. So even though none was in Sweden for the World Council gathering, all were in the conversations and deliberations that lasted for almost three weeks.

First of all, Dr. Hans Kung, Dean of the Catholic Theological Faculty in Tubingen, Germany, has emerged as the leading scholar in the ecumenical movement. Many believe that he was the principal adviser to Pope John XXIII in that pontiff's pursuit of Christian unity.

This past year, Dr. Kung has been guest lecturer at Union Theological Seminary in New York where he has gained a vast following among seminarians. His appearances in Protestant churches have drawn capacity crowds and his books sell with increasing popularity. His most recent, "The Church," proved too much for the conservatives in Rome. Official charges are being made against Dr. Kung. He has refused to appear in Rome until his critics sign specific allegations of heresy or disloyalty.

One statement of Father Kung's sets the tone of his work: "The Church, therefore, is the pilgrim community of believers, not those who already see and know. The Church must ever and again wander coins I have been able to date at 59 and 68 A.D.," Harris said. None of the finds have been brought back to the United States, Harris said, because the Jordanian government must approve all artifacts before they leave the country. The archeologist also admitted some of the finds are still somewhat of a mystery as they "have not been fully deciphered yet."

Harris plans to return to the Holy Land next summer to look for artifacts from the Hellenistic period. He will use the information he gained from this summer's explorations for lectures and slide presentations, both in and out of the classroom, he said.

through the darkness of sin and error. For the Church can also err and for this reason must always be prepared to orient itself, and to renew itself."

Just as Dr. Kung is too popular and too influential to be silenced by the conservatives at Rome, so is the Rev. Coffin of Yale too forceful to be imprisoned in the United States.

His opposition to the war and his support of conscientious objectors may not be your favorite viewpoint. But we cannot deny the historic right—even duty—to dissent when one's convictions lead to a challenge of the official line, be it political or theological.

The cause of Dr. Benjamin Spock and Chaplain Coffin is widely supported by delegates of the World Council. Some 250 Americans signed a petition at Uppsala endorsing the right of the doctor and the pastor to dissent as Christian and American citizen.

The constant discussion at Sweden—often initiated by foreign churchmen, newsmen and youth—was the next president of the United States. By their interest and fervor you would believe that they were voting. But if not voting, certainly their lives and destiny are shaped by the policies of our country and the leadership of our chief executive.

To the non-American, the question of peace in Vietnam is the biggest problem around. Near that is our handling of the racial crises and our attitude toward the underdeveloped nations of the world.

Many of our overseas friends fear that we really are on the skids if Vietnam remains unsolved or enlarged. We have spent our moral reserves. We are winded financially and burdened with old cities and a decaying social order. The new administration must really lead the United States out of this snakepot. If it does, we will shape world history in the process.

The Weekly Message

Of Inspiration

DERREL LEWIS, Pastor
BARRETT BAPTIST CHURCH

Why Actively Serve God?

When Jesus began to really prepare Peter for the task of serving, He sought to instill a strong motive. Jesus realized that motivation was the determining factor of loyalty. He did not base his call to service on the fact that someone had to do it; nor upon the fact that society expected it; nor that it would one day bring reward; nor a hundred other reasons we sometimes use to motivate people to serve. His motive was simply "Peter do you love me? Then feed my sheep." There is no higher reason for Christian service than the love for our Christ. Jesus said, If you love me, keep my commandments."

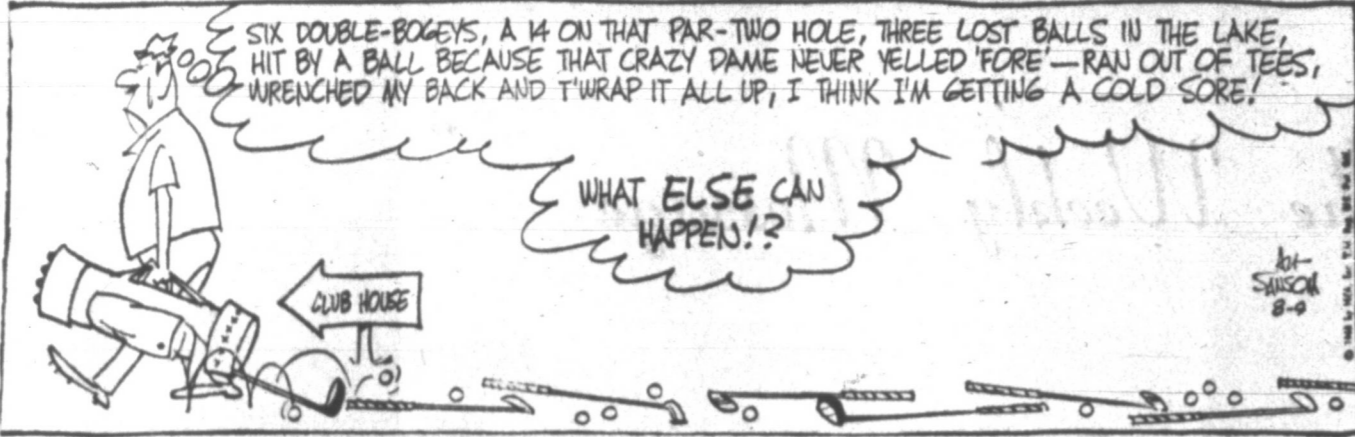

Too often we try to live a Christian life that will please those around us, or that will pacify our conscience but the greatest need of our day is for Christian people to fall in love with Jesus to the extent that He is truly first. We need not try to convince anyone of our love for Christ if we are not faithful to Him in service. If we love Him, we will keep his commandments. If we love Him, we will be faithful in church attendance, prayer, Bible study, and giving of ourselves and our possessions. If we are not willing to do these things, perhaps we need to pray as did the Psalmist, "Create in me a clean heart, oh Lord, and renew a right spirit within me."

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am deeply involved with this man who lives next door. He is old enough to be my grandfather. When he touches me, I break out in a rash from nerves. His breath smells just terrible and he gives me the creeps, but he is so good to me, you wouldn't believe it.

He asked me how much my take-home pay was (I work part time in a grocery store) and he then offered to pay me TWICE that amount if I would stay home and keep him company. I am 22, and my husband died last year and left me with two children and no money. Only debts.

I have to be careful not to let any fellows come around because this old man sits in the window and watches my house and he gets awfully jealous. I would move, but I can't afford to.

What should I do? This old man has lots of money which he says he will leave to me if I treat him right, but he makes me sick.

wrong with me? What do you think?

"TOUCH ME NOT" DEAR "TOUCH": You are probably a little more "frightened" by the "affectionate" advances of a boy than most girls your age. In a year or so, if you are still so physically repelled by a "good-night kiss," write to me again.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 30-year-old man with an unusual problem. I love to dance, and I must admit I am a very good dancer. Well, every time my wife and I go some place where there is dancing, I don't get a chance to dance with my wife. She is always saying, "Go dance with so and so," and then she shoves me off to dance with some old maid, widow, or wallflower. (These wallflower types are usually lousy dancers.)

I think my wife is very big-hearted and all to want to give those single women a treat, but it's no fun for me. Any suggestions?

DEAR ABBY: I am a 16-year-old school girl. I am reasonably attractive, which adds to my problem.

Abby, I get this sick feeling all over whenever a boy touches me. I went to a movie last Friday night with a boy and he went through the usual affectionate states. First, hand-holding, then he put his arm around the back of my chair. By the time we got to the good-night kiss, I wanted to vomit.

This happens with every boy I go out with. I don't mind telling you that when I tell a boy "hands (and lips) off," he gets very angry. Judging from what the other girls say about how much they enjoy this sort of thing, I am wondering if maybe there isn't something

IN NEED DEAR IN: If you want to "sell" yourself, you have a ready buyer. But if you want to call your soul your own, choose your own company and keep your health, you will free yourself from an involvement which makes you "sick." Do not accept anything from him and quit seeing him. Then go to work, and do the best you can for yourself and your babies.

The Pampa Daily News

A Watchful Newspaper

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license, nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself. No more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Science? Tain't Funny, McGee

The "credibility gap" may always be with us, no matter who heads the next administration in Washington, if only because old stock phrases never die (or even fade away), if political commentators can help it.

It is a bit of a shock to realize, however, that outside of governmental affairs, at least, we are suffering from another form of gaffitis. It's the reverse image of the credibility gap—the "credulity gap." It's especially operative in that vast area of things and events that can be labeled with the word "science."

Thanks to the amazing discoveries of science and the fantastic advances of technology, which no one can escape even if he dwells on top of a mountain like a hermit (that's where nuclear fallout is highest, remember), "we are now prepared to accept the fact that nothing is impossible and the less we know about it the less impossible it becomes."

So alleges Ken Calkins in a recent issue of Boeing Magazine, which he edits.

Americans are infected by the "They laughed at Thomas Edison" syndrome, he says. Consequently, we never laugh at anything remotely "scientific." Even scientists are not immune to the "credulity gap." Last year, for instance, a saddle horse named Snippy was found dead in a Colorado pasture, his carcass seared by strange burns. Snippy's owner immediately deduced that he had been done in by a flying saucer or its occupants and the mystery received nationwide attention.

Six scientists from the University of Nevada Desert Research Institute were called in and soberly and seriously examined the unfortunate animal, analyzing hair, flesh and soil samples. They came to a "tentative" finding that Snippy might just possibly have been killed by lightning.

Nobody believed them, of course.

It would not have taken Daniel Boone 10 minutes to reach that conclusion, says Calkins. But then, old Dan never heard of flying saucers.

The public has become accustomed to accepting the incredible with a shrug. It is the credible we find hard to believe.

Let Paying Citizen In On Secret

A test case against government secrecy has been filed by the nation's best-known consumers organization under the provisions of the 1967 Freedom of Information Act.

Consumers Union is suing the Veterans Administration because it has refused to disclose information on the performance of various makes of hearing aids which was prepared for the VA by the National Bureau of Standards.

While the suit involves only hearing aids, its outcome could have an effect on the availability to American consumers of data on thousands of items the federal government tests and evaluates regularly — from appliances, tires and paints to frozen fish, insecticides and skin lotions.

"What we are seeking," says CU president Dr. Colston E. Warn, "is access for the consumer to as much unbiased information as possible concerning products which the government and consumer both use. If taxpayers' dollars support such elaborate testing to improve the hearing ability of thousands of veterans, why should the ordinary consumer be denied the benefit of this governmental research?"

The question has a point — one that goes beyond hearing aids or any other consumer product and to the very heart of excessive — or obsessive — government secrecy regarding matters that are the legitimate concern of citizens and have nothing to do with national security.

Guidelines For Police

Washington policemen have been instructed to "make every reasonable effort" to handle disorderly individuals and crowds without making arrests. Police are warned in every case not to make indiscriminate arrests and to request assistance if they come upon unruly gatherings shorthanded.

The Kerner Commission alleged that indiscriminate disorderly conduct arrests touched off many of the Nation's riots in the past four years. At one point the order says "it is incumbent upon the police officers to make every reasonable effort" to maintain order without having to make arrests. In the meantime, Major General A. A. Sproul resigned his commission because of orders issued to troops during street rioting in Washington and Baltimore.

"I will have no part of protecting lawlessness," General Sproul told the Harrisonburg Kiwanis Club.

He said that during the Washington and Baltimore riots, troops were "not only told that they could not even use their weapons but they were told that they could not even use their rifles as clubs to protect themselves or stop looting."

Highway vs. Golf Course

So next holiday you're going to escape all the juts on the highway and spend a safe and sane day on the golf course?

Putt around with these statistics, as reported by Saga magazine:

Before the end of the year, more than 10,000 golfers, caddies and groundskeepers will have been skulled by flying balls; 1,600 will have been accidentally slashed by flailing clubs; 500 will have been felled by lightning; 2,000 by heat prostration and 1,200 by overexertion and 1,500 either run down by, or overturned in, golf carts. Fore!

Do They Go 'Clop Clop'?

Who says the horse is the forgotten man?

Through the miracle of modern technology, a new, light, all-weather horseshoe with built-in shock absorbency is now available.

The "elastomeric" shoe is made of synthetic rubber and will not break, split, shatter or fray at either high temperatures or below zero and is essentially self-cleaning, says its manufacturer. It minimizes the old problem of hoof dry rot and also reduces shoeing time because it requires no heating or bending. It comes in three styles and a variety of sizes.

Horses have nothing to kick about now.

In 1962 a Soviet astronaut was launched into space for a 4-day trip. He was followed into space 24 hours later by a second Russian astronaut.

In 1961 the United States recovered its first payload from a space vehicle a 300-pound capsule ejected from Discoverer 13.

Quick—Feel Your Age or Lose It NEW YORK (NEA) — By the time the month is over, the Democratic Party will have picked a new standard-bearer to replace President Johnson. And so, no matter who wins the election, the Age of the Great Society will be over.

Speaking personally, it is very sad to see it end. The older we get, the harder we find it to live through an entire Age and have to retool for the next. Most especially as there is never any advance indication of what the next age will be.

In that regard, the Great Society has been a lush oasis in the desert of constant change, having lasted four years—an amazing record when it comes to recent Ages, Eras, Societies, Periods and Generations.

Since 1945, by actual count, we have lived through the Postwar Generation, the Beat Generation, the Silent Generation and the Pepsi Generation. Also the Atomic Age, the Space Age, the Jet Age, the Plastic Age, the Age of Conformity and the Age of Anxiety.

Moreover, the Hippie Era, the Teeny Bopper Period, the Mod Age, the Camp civilization, the Angry-Young-Men Decade, to say nothing of Op, Pop and the New Left.

Counting the Great Society, that averages out to just about one Age, Period, Generation or Decade per year.

By contrast, our forefathers had it quite easy. George Washington, for example, had only three Periods to get through: Colonial, Federal and Chippendale.

Napoleon and Queen Victoria had only one Age each to survive. And anybody born even a short century ago had to retool only four times—five at the most—for the Gilded Age, the Edwardian Era, the Jazz Age, the Lost Generation and, with luck, the Depression Decade.

Well, those simple days are gone, and probably for good. Nowadays, Ages speed by at an alarming rate. Youth is over at 18. Middle Age begins at 30. And what was once known as the "Prime of Life" is now only a brief moment and seldom recognized until it has whizzed past.

Just how this change in time came about is hard to understand. We had thought at first it was simply the fact that people were living longer nowadays, and consequently surviving more Ages.

But that is not the case at all. On closer inspection, we have discovered that the year is actually getting shorter.

The Mauve Decade, for example, lasted 15 years. The Turn-of-the-Century began in 1893 and finished in 1909. And, as every student of high school history knows, the 18th-Century began on Jan. 1, 1700, and did not end until June 18, 1815, at Waterloo.

In addition, not only did years last a lot longer, but many of them are not finished yet.

The Victorian Age is still quite alive, we notice, and so are the Harold Stassen Era, World War II, the Age of De Gaulle, the Early American and Ante Bellum Periods, the Roaring '20s Decade, and the John Wayne Era.

And, as any shut-in during the political conventions knows, the 19th Century is far from over.

As far as we can see, people aren't living longer nowadays. It just seems like it.

The Nation's Press

AS A LAST RESORT, TRY EFFICIENCY IN GOVERNMENT (Industrial Bulletin)

Every sports enthusiast is familiar with the dire predictions of some injury or other being certain to keep a vaunted athlete from playing in next week's game. Then, to nobody's surprise, the star is restored to good health and active duty in time to make the starting line-up.

This is not so unlike promised cuts in federal extravagance. We are first assured that an economy-conscious Congress has refused to approve the vast sums the Executive claims are needed to prevent national catastrophe. We are next pleased to learn that many millions have been slashed from foreign aid, or from some other program always dear to the White House heart. Ah, but our relief and satisfaction are short-lived. The amounts slashed are mysteriously restored. Fagm from emerging as a severely pruned tree, the Presidential financial shrub comes out in full leaf, replete with plenty of green—our green.

In exchange for passage of his surtax measure, the President reluctantly had to promise a cut in expenses. To the taxpayer, entitled to skepticism, now comes the first anguished screams (and threats) from a federal agency. The Postmaster General has announced that mail service will be greatly curtailed unless budget cuts can be rescinded.

It is significant, we think, that the U.S. Post Office should lead the attack on the enforced economy program. It's one department that touches all of our lives. If an aroused citizenry can be made to complain loudly, the Feds will tell us that by increasing the postal budget, we can be sure that the postman will "... make his appointed rounds..." regardless of sleet or snow, or whatever it is that normally won't keep the mails from getting through.

We can only hope that the public won't be conned by this obvious ploy. Unless the economies demanded by Congress are honestly practiced by the federal government, then the surtax will be one of the cruellest hoaxes ever unlimbered on a trusting people.

The Post Office Department, for example, has not been the victim of niggardly appropriations. On the contrary, with frequent pay increases for personnel, vast outlays for buildings and equipment, rocketing postal rates, we'd say it has farred pretty well. We are not singling out the Post Office alone: we feel much the same about other federal agencies.

When some business in private enterprise senses an approaching economic blind, it takes steps to find out why, what must be done to improve the situation, and what should be done in the future. Meanwhile, it initiates intelligent economies that it may have neglected in more prosperous times. One such economy is a scrutiny of the personnel roster to see how many surplus bodies can be turned adrift. In the case of federal agencies, this should make more people available to private employment with a consequent boost to our gross national product.

We knew of few instances when an actual reduction in total federal employment has ever occurred. When some departmental budget is cut, we are told how many people will be turned loose in the cruel, cold world to make their livings. Closer study will usually reveal that the surplus civil servants have either gone into a "pool" to await further developments, or have been absorbed by another department that fared better in the appropriations battle.

Surely, this floating crap game of moving people about in lieu of lay-off or termination in the interest of economy has run the string out in the federal government. Now, complete with surtax, let's try efficiency.

Question Box

(We invite questions on economic and the proper functions of government which will not require answers.)

QUESTION: Do labor unions and state socialism have about the same objective? If so, why?

ANSWER: Yes, labor unions and socialism have about the same objectives. Both want to control production, wages, distribution, and prices.

What this really means is that labor unions and socialists want to control people. Inanimate objects—things—are incapable of DOING anything by themselves. Only people make decisions and act, and make things, so only people can be controlled. When labor unions and socialists tell what can be produced and how it shall be distributed, they are really telling which people can have what.

To be able to do this successfully, they must control all people completely. This is the same as slavery.

Labor unions usually support a party that has the most socialistic ideals. In England the Labor Party lines up with the socialists, and they have the majority, and keep control of production and distribution. They thus interfere with individual initiative and greatly reduce production and deny a free market where all people have the right to help establish values and thus they are a form of collectivism and eventually lead to communism.

The reason is that labor unions and socialists know that those who have control of the government have the power to tell how things shall be produced and distributed and have the power to control people. Then they can say who shall get the soft, easy, well-paying jobs, and special favors and privileges.

There may be some sincere, well-meaning labor unionists and socialists who believe that socialism will help improve the well-being of all people. They evidently do not realize that in order to work, socialism must control everyone, and no one is wise enough to control even one other person, much less everyone else, so it is impossible for socialism to work at all.

God or nature has given all men free will—that is, the right to make one's own decisions and control himself. When, in trying to make socialism work, the socialist attempts to control others and make decisions for them, he is setting himself up as God. In fact, he is attempting what even God, or nature, does all types of this disease.

Q—Is it true that a regular ration of iodine makes the hair thicker? What foods are high in iodine?

A—Iodine is one of the elements essential to the body, but one milligram a week is enough to supply all the body's needs. If it made one's hair thicker, thinning of the hair would be no problem in this country with its heavy consumption of iodized salt. Iodine is present in most seafood but supplemental doses of iodides must be used with great caution or iodine poisoning will result.

Pine Tree Features

By DR. F. A. HARPER

FEAR: A LIVING DEATH water, and roads. In rearing our children, they should be spared all possible fear because it is a form of living death. The child must, of course, learn how to avoid dangers. But this is a very different thing from fearing persons or places where danger lurks.

We tend to fear anything we do not understand. The task of the parent, then, is to teach them in such a way as to avoid and displace fear with understanding. Children who do not know all the laws of physics can still understand such things enough to observe these laws for protection. A child who understands the consequences of jumping off a cliff, diving into the water if he cannot swim, or dashing across a road in heavy traffic without first looking in both directions, is not likely to risk his life by such acts. He is then protecting himself through understanding rather than by fear of cliffs.

Fear is a powerfully destructive force in itself. That is why it should be avoided in every possible way by a better means of protection. Fear retards the health and the healthy development of a child. It thwarts his enthusiasm and happiness. It causes illness or even death.

If you will watch a child whose parents try to protect him by instilling fear, by fearful threat of dire consequences alone, you will note the effect on the child. He will be unenthusiastic about life, unhappy, and show ill health even in the absence of dangers.

We know how fear affects us as adult persons. Most of us have had experiences with fear, enough to know how it can cause loss of sleep, loss of appetite, headaches, or indigestion. Yet these can be the mild effects of fear. If it continues, the illness becomes acute and serious.

In his booklet, "On the Phenomenon of Sudden Death in Animals and Man," Dr. Curt Richter of the Johns Hopkins Medical School gives some examples of how fear causes death. He tells of the young African who unknowingly ate the forbidden—banned—wild hen; when he discovered his crime he began to tremble and was soon overcome with fear to the extent that he died within a few hours. He tells, also, of the Brazilian Indian who, when condemned and sentenced, died within a few hours. These persons apparently died of fear.

The same phenomenon is reported to have caused the deaths of many of our Korean soldiers after capture. In an extremely rare type of death, they lacked understanding or faith to the extent that they died of no evident cause except fear—"giveupitis."

In rearing our children, then, we should try to teach them about dangers rather than to control them through fear. It's easy for us as parents in these troubled times to spill our concern over on our children, perhaps in thoughtless and casual conversations. In a way that creates fear in them instead of understanding. We may fume and bluster about inflation, wars, government tyranny, riots, looting; in ways that do no more than instill fear in our children. Instead, we should explain these things so as to be understood in a protective way, as early as the child is understood.

The next article will continue this discussion of fear: HOW TO OVERCOME IT.

Unwarranted Discrimination

At a recent meeting of the Associated Press in New York, those present were shown photographs of modern weapons in the hand of North Vietnamese soldiers. They were told that these weapons had been supplied by the USSR and by Red China. Both of these nations are members of the International Olympic Games group.

At a recent meeting of the Executive Committee of the International Olympic Committee, because of the threat of boycott of some two-score African countries, South Africa was excluded from the coming autumn's competition in Mexico City. South Africa had offered completely to integrate its team, to send a multi-racial group marching under the banner of South Africa, and performing as a national unit. The USSR was among the large group of nations that announced the boycott of the games if South Africa were allowed to compete. To our shame our country backed down before the Communist pressure.

We honor the amateur code. Although we know the Communists do not honor the amateur code and send professional athletes to compete in these games.

South Africa is certainly not threatening the peace or engaging in aggressive action against other nations. The Communists are doing exactly that in many areas throughout the world. Moreover, South Africa is maintaining the honorable traditions of amateur sports. The Communists are not, but still we back them against South Africa.

not try to do. The only way to improve the well being of all mankind is for each man to be free to control his own life and all the fruits of his life. That gives me incentive to improve myself morally and spiritually and materially, also, for they then have incentive to produce more and accumulate tools to produce more goods that make life easier and more pleasant for everyone.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Many Americans of foreign birth or descent have legally changed their names, usually to English-sounding ones, often citing business reasons. The Word Almanac notes that one for whom this practice backfired was George Kerstiopolis, who changed his name to Harris, but returned to court to request his old name back; his Greek customers found Harris hard to pronounce.

Hubert the Humph came on the Telly-Vee with a message. He says he wants to build another Marshall Plan. This time it is for our own cities.

He says we went over to Europe after the war and built all their cities. Sure we did. And what good did it do? Everybody hates us. A survey in 27 countries in Europe and the Far East shows our prestige is sinking fast.

Of course, that don't bother me none any way. I never did believe you could buy friendship; it only lasts as long as the money does. But the point is, if we had used the billions to build our own cities we wouldn't be worryin' about the need to do it now, when we are all broke.

Humph says it's the feller who works and lives in a house must sacrifice and build the cities for those who don't. The cost? Humph says he don't know, but it will be high. Do you smell another tax boost?

Then Humph says, "But this isn't all — I'll tell you more next time." There's more? Just as the Humph said the word, "Garbage —" the station blew a tube or something and the program went off. This leads me to believe the machines are gettin' smarter than we are.

Two new coaches are scheduled to be added to the football staff of the Pampa High School Harvesters which begins practice August 26.

The two must be approved by the school board but chances are that Jim Cunningham, head grid coach at Tulia the past two years, and Buddy Williams, head football coach at Hayden in 1966 and 1967, will join coach Swede Lee's seven-man staff.

The staff will then include Jim Cunningham, offensive line coach; Marvin Lay, offensive backfield coach; Ed Lehnick, offensive back; Bob McAlister, offensive line coach; James Pullen, linebacker and end coach; Bob Stephens, defensive secondary coach and Buddy Williams, defensive line coach.

Coach Swede Lee was asked in an interview how can you tell if a football team is in good condition since the team is continually being rated by fans on its condition.

"You observe them in practice the final thirty minutes and also can tell by their performance in the fourth quarter," Swede said.

The football squad is scheduled for physicals on Aug. 26 and four days of practice from Aug. 26 through Aug. 29 is scheduled. The team will work out in shorts and shoes the first four days as required by state law.

The team, under no circumstances, will be able to practice, hold skull drill or any activity related to football on Sunday. This is another rule of Texas state law.

Drills are open to the public and Pampa will meet Tulia either Sept. 6 or 7 in a scrimmage contest.

All the football coaches will be utilized at times as scouts and even the new basketball coach, Sterling Gibson, may do some scouting. He did this, incidentally, while at Portales, New Mexico.

Hereford, the first opponent or Pampa, will be scouted in its initial scrimmage contest.

Opening practices before school starts are slated to be held from 8-10 in the morning and 5-7 in the evening.

The complete Pampa football schedule is:

Snow Welcomed In Practice Drills

By STU CAMEN
UPI Sports Writer

Few, if any, football clubs relish snow, but the Los Angeles Rams are a unique case.

Snow appeared at the Rams' training camp at Fullerton, Calif., Thursday in the person of starting split end Jack Snow and things immediately brightened for the team many feel has the best chance of ending the Green Bay Packer's three-year reign in the National Football League.

Snow ended his holdout by coming to terms and, shortly afterward, All-Pro defensive end David "Deacon" Jones, a member of the Rams' Fear-some Foursome, informed head Coach George Allen he was on his way to camp, his three week holdout at an end.

Rams Battle Browns

Despite their availability, Snow and Jones will be on the sidelines tonight when the Rams meet the Cleveland Browns at the Coliseum to help kick off a busy weekend of exhibition play.

Tonight's only other game is at St. Louis where the Cardinals tangle with Century Division opponent Pittsburgh.

Pat Studstill, acquired in an off-season trade with Detroit, will start in Snow's split-end position while Gregg Schumacher, a third year man, drew Jones' left end spot.

Roman Gabriel will start at quarterback for the Rams, but at Mill Plum, the veteran signal-caller, acquired from the Lions.

The Browns are expected to go for most of the game with their regular starting backfield of Frank Ryan at quarterback and running backs Leroy Kelly and Ernie Green.

Leagues Compete

Competition between the National and American Leagues resumes Saturday night with Kansas City's Chiefs playing the Vikings at Minnesota and the New Orleans Saints playing host to the Boston Patriots. Following last weekend's opening of exhibition activity, the AFL holds a 3-1 edge over the NFL.

Rounding out Saturday's schedule, Atlanta plays Washington at Tampa, Fla.; Baltimore tangles with Chicago at Birmingham, Ala.; the New York Giants visit Green Bay, Cincinnati plays at Denver and Oakland welcomes San Diego.

Smouthounds Win

The Pampa Plant Smouthounds defeated the Pampa Post Office, 11-2, in a softball game at Lions Park Thursday night.

Winning pitcher was right-hander Norm Coulter who gave up two hits, walked two and struck out 14.

Phils Edge Dodgers As Wise Hurls Win

By JOE GERGE
UPI Sports Writer

Rick Wise paid the penalty despite a full confession by accomplice Roberto Pena.

Wise, a young right-handed pitcher for the Philadelphia Phillies, was charged with yielding a hit in Thursday night's 1-0 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers, even though Pena testified otherwise.

The incident occurred in the third inning when the Dodgers' Bart Shirley hit a bouncer to the left of second base. The ball took a high hop at the last instant and glanced off the glove of shortstop Pena. "Hit" ruled the official scorer. "Error" cried Pena.

"The ball bounced to me and I booted it," he said. "It was an error."

Almost No-Hitter

It didn't seem especially important at the time what the play was ruled, but it later developed that the call was all that separated Wise from a no-hitter as he struck out five, walked two and set down the last 10 Dodger batters in order.

The St. Louis Cardinals continued to pace the National League by 14 games after edging the Cincinnati Reds 1-0 in 11 innings while the Chicago Cubs blanked Atlanta 4-0 and the Pittsburgh Pirates nipped Houston 4-3. New York and San Francisco were not scheduled.

Tigers, Orioles Win

In the American League, Detroit crushed Cleveland 13-1, Baltimore bombed Minnesota 10-3, Boston shaded Chicago 1-0, Washington defeated California 7-2 and Oakland beat New York 6-4.

In the National League, first place St. Louis shut out Cincinnati 1-0 in 11-innings, Chicago whitewashed Atlanta 4-0, Pittsburgh edged Houston 4-3 and Philadelphia shutout Los Angeles 1-0.

Winning pitcher Tom Phoebus also hit a solo homer and centerfielder Paul Blair drove in three runs to help the Orioles keep pace.

Bill Freehan slugged a pair of home runs, good for four RBI's, to pave the way for Denny McLain's 23rd victory of the season. It was the fifth straight Tiger victory and the 20th complete game for the stocky righthander in 29 starts.

Robinson's Homer Aids Oriole Win

By AL DALY
UPI Sports Writer

It's finally happened! For the first time this season, a player on a contending team has publicly admitted the Detroit Tigers are for real and will be tough to catch.

Frank Robinson, outspoken rightfielder for second-place Baltimore, slugged a home run to help the Orioles to a 10-3 victory over the Minnesota Twins Thursday night to stay within 6 1/2 games of the front-running Tigers.

However, the controversial star stated, "If anybody else besides Detroit is going to win it, they're really going to have to go. Because, Detroit isn't going to blow it, you'll have to beat them. If they were going to blow it, they'd be doing it now. Instead, the way they're playing, the thing that we just get concerned with is just getting close."

Tigers Top Cleveland

In other American League action, the Tigers buried Cleveland 13-1, Boston blanked Chicago 1-0, Washington topped California 7-2 and Oakland beat New York 6-4.

In the National League, first place St. Louis shut out Cincinnati 1-0 in 11-innings, Chicago whitewashed Atlanta 4-0, Pittsburgh edged Houston 4-3 and Philadelphia shutout Los Angeles 1-0.

Roger Maris, who had gone 0-for-11 since announcing his retirement last Monday effective the end of the season, snapped out of it with a run-scoring double in the 11th inning as the Cards posted their 21 victory in the last 31 games.

Joe Hoerner posted his fifth victory in relief.

Bill Hands shutout the Braves on three hits for his 13th victory and Billy Williams drove in two of the Cubs' runs with his 16th homer and a single.

Donn Clendenon's single scored Matty Alou from second base with two out in the ninth as Ron Kline recorded his ninth victory in relief for the Pirates.

Clay Offered Title Fight

COPENHAGEN (UPI)—Swedish boxing promoter Bertil Knutson has offered Cassius Clay a title bout in Stockholm against either Joe Frazier or Jimmy Ellis.

Knutson said Thursday his offer to Clay stands even if the former world heavyweight champion has to be guarded by American security agents during his visit to Sweden.

Student Riots Cancel Pro Football Contest

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—This city's efforts to enhance its sports image by holding the first American pro football game ever played outside the United States, received a rude setback Thursday when the game had to be called off because of student rioting.

An estimated 106,000 persons were expected to attend Sunday's exhibition clash between the Detroit Lions and Philadelphia Eagles at Aztec Stadium. Stadium officials made the cancellation announcement Thursday, saying simply the game was called off because of "circumstances beyond our control."

However, a source connected with the game said government officials ordered the cancellation because they were afraid of letting so many people gather in one place at the same time in the light of recent events.

Students with rifles and molotov cocktails fought paratroopers in the streets of Mexico City last week. About 100 persons were injured, and, at least one student was killed. Student groups claimed more than 25 persons were killed using the demonstrations.

Officials of both the Lions and Eagles said the game will still be played once another location is found. An announcement was expected sometime today regarding the rescheduling.

Organizers said there was no chance the game could be rescheduled here.

Cowboy Player Suffers Injury

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (UPI)—Mel Renfro, the Dallas Cowboys' regular free safety, Thursday was ruled out of his club's Sunday exhibition football game with the San Francisco 49ers at San Francisco.

He suffered a leg injury in a loss to the Chicago Bears last weekend at Canton, Ohio.

Renfro will be replaced by Dick Daniels, a third year man from Pacific University (Ore.). The Cowboys staged a single workout Thursday.

By ASHLEY P. Cheshire
United Press International
In Texas, weather is changeable, the old story goes—and a Texas lie builds from there.

A man is plowing with two big old mules out in West Texas. The weather that day is so bad that one mule dies of heat prostration and before the farmer can get him out of the harness, the other mule freezes to death.

That Texas tall tale from Ted Maloy in Dallas, is a sign that the big story has yet to disappear from the scene.

Another says, in a more topical vein, a Texas group will attempt to make Congress add an amendment to the gun control bill in order to save the fish.

Wick Fowler, Austin chili manufacturer, said, "The amendment will prohibit mail order fishing lures and require fishermen to register their minnows."

The style seems to have changed a bit from the old traditional tale and is now tending toward the quick one and two-liners.

Another one propagated by Maloy concerns an outlander traveling around the country. As he passed through Texas, he joined up with a Texan and began telling the man how he just was not impressed with the state.

Maloy said they traveled together until they reached Hawai where a volcano was erupting. The visitor looked over and asked the Texan, "Well," he said, "have you ever seen anything like that in Texas?"

"No," the Texan said, "but we got a fire department down in Waxahachie that can put it out."

Big Wind
Paul Crume, columnist for the Dallas Morning News, told one about the theory that West Texas has had no tornadoes. Crume said this real estate agent was trying to sell a piece of land to a land prospector from out of state.

It was really "blowing up a good one" that day and in his sales talk the agent said, "... and another thing, we just do not have any tornadoes out here." The prospector held this that down on his head with one hand and said, "Well, I believe you, because if one came along this wind would blow it off."

Fowler said sand storms sometimes get so bad in Midland, Tex., that they have to declare a "Monsand Season." Fowler also remembers a town in Texas as what would not clean weeds off the side walks. The city finally fertilized them and grew the tallest weeds in the U.S. Fowler said the town became quite a tourist attraction.

"Out at Terlingua (the real live Texas ghost town where the Chill Appreciation Society meets we don't put flouride in the water," he said, "we put chili sauce in it. Just plain Texas chili sauce and our groups have fewer cavities... Of course, we have fewer teeth."

He also reported a move to establish a "Bonnie and Clyde Airline to Cuba," and in view of all the recent hijacking we need, "gun registration booths in all the airports."

Build Civic Center
Hondo Crouch, a rancher from near Fredericksburg, has a routine about this little town Cedar Creek. The town is "just between Big Flat and Bear Creek." Crouch said Big Flat is "a big city something like New York." It never will amount to nothing because it's just too far."

Crouch said Cedar Creek is small but it is a nice town. "The government built us a road side park and we use it for our civic center. And right next to the center is our little man-made lake." He said the lake was formed when all the beer cans and bottles washed up in the ditch and made a dam.

He said most of the people get checks from the government — "green checks with square holes in them for not doing things."

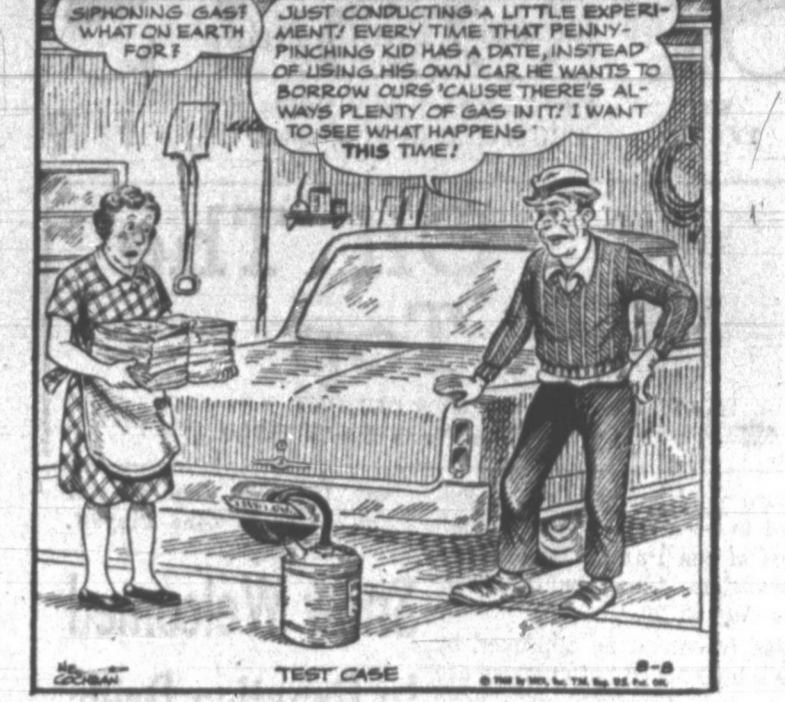

"Me and Ma (his wife) got money last year for not raising five pigs. We thought we would not raise 10,000 this year," he said. "We went to Washington to find what the best breed not to raise and the Department of Agriculture gave us eight pounds of plans for what kind of pens not to build."

During leisure hours, Crouch said, the main sport in Cedar Creek is "standing out in front of the post office on Wednesdays watching the airplanes fly over. Of course, if you do not like that you can always do it on Thursday."

One of the most interesting Texas stories turned out to be a true one. Henderson Shuffler, historian, told this story on Sam Houston.

"Houston was ending his term as the first governor of Texas," Shuffler said, "and the lieutenant governor, Mirabeau Lamar, was elected to succeed him."

"Now Houston did not like Lamar too much and said he spent the first year of service heroing through Georgia and the second running for governor

Social Security Office Is Offering Medicare Forms

A new easy-to-complete form to collect medical insurance benefits under Medicare is now available at the Pampa social security office. The Request for Payment form is used for claims under the voluntary doctor bill insurance part of the Medicare program, according to Howard L. Weatherly, Officer-in-charge. People 65 and over who have enrolled will get payment for 80 per cent of the reasonable charges on their doctor bills and certain other medical expenses, after having met the first $50 of these expenses for the year.

"There are two ways to claim payment for doctor bills and other medical services under Medicare," Weatherly said. "The Request for Payment form is used for either method. Under one method, the doctor (or other supplier of services) may collect the Medicare payment directly from Medicare. If he agrees to do so, he accepts the reasonable charge as determined by the Medicare carrier as his full charge.

"The second method is for the patient to apply for the payment. Under the old law, if the doctor didn't want to submit his bill to Medicare, the patient had to pay him before applying for the Medicare payment. But now, the patient can apply even if he has not yet paid his bill.

The patient needs to get an itemized statement (paid or unpaid) from his doctor and submit it with the Request for Payment form (SSA-1490). "These forms are available at the Pampa social security office and at most doctors' offices."

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—Blair & Co., sees investor pessimism increasing steadily "over the next couple of months to a point where its peak may well coincide with an important market bottom."

The current rally, having developed out of an "oversold condition, must be regarded, according to the firm, as merely technical and likely to break down into a trading range, with further weakness still a possibility in light of present uncertainties.

Hayden, Stone notes that with time a less restrictive Federal Reserve Board credit policy might control and counterbalance the depressing influences of the recent 10 per cent tax surcharge, the budget cuts, and Secretary Fowler's statement that "disinflation" is the name of the game.

The firm points out that uptrending patterns of many stocks remain intact and others are approaching stronger support levels "that should hold or at least produce a strong trading recovery."

E. F. Hutton thinks the market will continue downward along the path of least resistance. "There isn't enough volume yet nor a strong enough base to support a major advance," the firm comments.

The Family Lawyer

PROVING PAIN
As the result of an auto accident, you are left with continuing pains in your shoulder. At least, so you say. But the driver of the other car thinks you are faking. If it comes to a showdown in court, would your evidence be enough grounds for collecting damages?
That is a difficult question. Accepting a person's unsupported claim of pain may mean throwing the door open to fraud. On the other hand, the pain may be real enough to the victim, even though he has no way of proving it. Predictably, courts differ as to just how much weight to give to this kind of complaint.
Fortunately, however, there are usually other ways—besides the claimant's own testimony—to establish that he does have pain.
Most persuasive is medical evidence. Although a doctor cannot actually feel a patient's pain, he can find out a great deal through his instruments. For example:
Pain may speed the patient's pulse. It may affect his blood pressure, his metabolism, and his respiration. It may even put extra zigzags into his electrocardiogram.
Moreover, a doctor can learn much simply by watching a patient's expression. As one judge put it:
"There are symptoms of pain that write their story on one's countenance as clearly as lightning scribbles in the sky."
Will a court listen also to the non-scientific observations of a layman? Generally yes, because these too may be revealing.
Thus, in one case, an accident victim's pain was proven through the testimony of a fellow patient in his hospital room. The patient vividly recalled the victim's moans, groans, and weeping.

RE-ORIENTED
FRESNO, Calif. (UPI)—Charles Cole, Monterey, Calif., had a ready answer when asked why he was some $8,850 behind in his child support payments. But the judge was unsympathetic.
"I'm not income-oriented," Cole told Superior Court Judge Kenneth Andreen, who sentenced him to five days in jail and fined him $500.

SURVIVAL PROBLEM
LANDER, Wyo. (UPI)—Students in John Adell's outdoor survival course learned Thursday that living off the land may be hazardous.
Adell was showing his charges how to kill sagechickens for use as food in an emergency. A justice of the peace pointed out sagechickens are out of season and fined Adell $64 for poaching.

IN WORKING ORDER
ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI)—When an electric power failure blacked out an antique auction in suburban Castlewood, the sale continued by the light of several old kerosene lamps which hadn't been used for years.
Of course, any method of proving that pain is present may also be used to prove that it is absent. Both instruments and observation, both doctor and layman may—in proper circumstances—help to expose false complaints.
One woman, claiming injury in a bus accident, said she had severe pains in her back. But a doctor noticed that when he was touching that area, she winced far too much in some places for too little in others.
Result: she collected nothing at all.

Prison Is Offering College Program For Its Inmates

By JUDY JONES

SANTA FE, N.M. (UPI)—Full time college students are, nothing new unless they happen to be inmates at the New Mexico state penitentiary. State penitentiary warden J. E. Baker said the college program began last spring would be expanded this fall to allow 44 prisoners to carry a full college load with classes taught behind prison walls by college of Santa Fe faculty members.

Baker has high hopes for a two-pronged college program with some students actually attending classes at the college of Santa Fe and others completing a four year college program at the prison.

Baker said, "a full time college program for prison inmates at a penitentiary is not entirely new, but it is unique; and we're the only prison in the country attempting a program leading to a degree within prison walls."

But Baker has some problems and will have to go to the 1969 session of the legislature with proposals for implementation of the in-prison college program and expansion of the educational program at the prison.

The legislature would have to authorize a college program which involved taking prisoners from the penitentiary to the college campus. Baker said if he gets the go-ahead, he hopes to send some students to the campus for day classes by the fall of 1969.

He said the cost for full-time students would be about $75 a semester and said this fall's program would be financed by the prisoners themselves, donations that have been received for the program and possibly some financial help from the college.

"There that been some question whether we can use state allocated funds for the program at the prison without specific legislative authority, and we've been told I can't spend more funds for the program until they are made available by the legislature," Baker said.

He said the cost for full-time students would be about $75 a semester and said this fall's program would be financed by the prisoners themselves, donations that have been received for the program and possibly some financial help from the college.
