PAPEETE, TAHITI (UPI)—France hoped to stage its first test of a hydrogen bomb today at a Pacific atoll 800 miles from Papeete.

Thursday, for the fourth time poor weather conditions forced postponement of the blast.

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI)—The heart of a 20-year-old Marine corporal was transplanted in the chest of a retired Oregon postal clerk early today at Stanford University Medical Center.

CHICAGO (UPI)—Sen. Eugene McCarthy's drive for the Democratic presidential nomination was jolted anew today by further setbacks in his bid to oust Southern convention delegates generally friendly to Hubert H. Humphrey.

The best he could achieve was a credentials committee decision to resolve a challenge involving Georgia by blending the state's old guard delegation headed by Gov. Lester Maddox with an insurgent group and give each equal voting power.

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI)—A three-judge federal panel took under advisement Thursday motions to scrap the freedom of choice method of desegregating most Alabama schools and promised a speedy but cautious decision.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson summoned Republican and Democratic leaders of Congress to the White House today to brief them on the latest developments in the Czechoslovakian situation.

VIENNA (UPI)—The Soviet Union brought along only token forces from its satellite nations for the invasion of Czechoslovakia, informed diplomatic sources reported today.

They estimated that the Soviet bloc, operating under the Warsaw Pact, marshaled a force of about 200,000 men, but did not commit all of them. Some are believed to be still outside Czechoslovakia — but close enough to move in quickly if needed.

WICHITA, Kans. (UPI)—Police traded fire with a pin-down sniper early today in the uneasy slums of northeastern Wichita, shaken by three consecutive days of disturbances. No one was hit.

BOGOTA, Colombia (UPI)—The vanguard of an expected one million peasants gathered in a Colombian cow pasture today to hear a "family unity" talk by Pope Paul VI stressing his ban on artificial birth control.

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—The Soviet Union used its 106th Security Council veto early today to block an attempt to condemn its seizure of Czechoslovakia by force.

Svoboda In Moscow For Talks With Top Soviets

PRAGUE (UPI)—President Svoboda today flew to Moscow "of my own free will" for negotiations over Soviet bloc occupation of Czechoslovakia. At home his countrymen staged a "national strike" demanding the invaders free their captive leaders and get out.

Svoboda's mission to Moscow marked the first public top level Russian-Czech meeting since Soviet and hardline satellite forces invaded Czechoslovakia four days ago to crush its reform regime.

After Svoboda left, clandestine "freedom" radios proclaimed the start of the general strike. There was no immediate account of its extent.

But at Waidhaus, on the Austrian-Czechoslovak frontier, a Czechoslovak border guard hung up a sign reading "strike" and walked away.

"We are all on strike all over the country," he told a UPI correspondent. "We are not acting on higher orders. We are doing this on our own."

The guard and his comrades lowered the border barrier and, carrying their arms, disappeared into their border house.

In Prague, for the first time since the coming of Soviet, Polish, East German, Hungarian, and Bulgarian forces, there was relative quiet in the streets.

But the "freedom" radios and newspapers proclaimed defiance of the invaders and those "collaborators" they accused of submitting to Moscow demands for obedience. The voices of defiance stated loyalty to Communist Party First Secretary Alexander Dubcek and other reformers "interned" by the Russians.

With Svoboda to Moscow went both Dubcek supporters and his party foes, men accused by the "freedom" radios of being "traitors" who betrayed him to the Russians.

There seemed little doubt about the loyalty of most Czechoslovak Communist officials. A secret party congress met in a Prague factory Thursday and unanimously re-elected Dubcek party secretary. They also expelled his foes from the presidium.

Czechs Are Staging A 'National Strike'

VC Hit Da Nang

By JACK WALSH
SAIGON (UPI)—The Communists launched an offensive today against Da Nang, South Vietnam's second largest city.

U.S. Marines and South Vietnamese Rangers battled snipers downtown and a 130-man Communist company in suburban Cam Le in house-to-house fighting.

City officials clamped a 24-hour curfew on the coastal city, 360 miles north of Saigon, and warned Americans to stay off the streets.

The Da Nang offensive was only part of 50 shelling and ground attacks reported from the Mekong Delta to the northern frontier. About half of them were in the top five provinces, spokesmen said.

U.S. Headquarters said it was too early to tell if this was the beginning of the long-expected nationwide offensive. It was the first time since the Tet offensive Communist forces had moved so close to Da Nang in large numbers.

Sharp Battles
U.S. and South-Vietnamese forces fought two sharp battles in the Central Highlands and 70 miles north of Saigon. They reported a total of 63 Communists killed against light allied casualties.

The Communists kicked off their Da Nang offensive with a 26-round rocket barrage into the U.S. Marine and Air Force war and air base. Four rounds landed within 20 yards of 100 Marines waiting to go home. None was hurt.

Within 30 minutes, the guerrillas attacked two bridges, a radio station, a prisoner of war camp, a Marine supply base and a Marine helicopter base with rockets and on the ground just outside Da Nang.

Registration Is Set For Local Schools
Pampa schools start registering for the fall term Aug. 30 on the junior high school and elementary school levels. Students in senior high school will register Aug. 28-30.

The first general faculty meeting is slated for 10 a.m. Aug. 28 in Robert E. Lee Junior High School, Superintendent Dr. James F. Malone said.

At PHS, seniors register Aug. 28; juniors, Aug. 29 and sophomores, Aug. 30. Classes for all schools start Sept. 3, the day after Labor Day Holiday.

JCs Due For Area Session

By LARRY HOLLIS
Pampa News Staff Writer
Approximately 250 Jaycees and their wives are expected to attend the Area I Jaycee Summer Convention starting today at Coronado Inn.

The convention will stress many of the Jaycee programs, job advancement clinics and activities.

Activities today include registration from 5 p.m. to 9 p.m. A "Howdy Neighbor" party will be held from 8 p.m. until midnight in the Starlite Room for delegates to get acquainted.

Further registration will be held tomorrow morning. A mock trial, open to the public, will start at 10:30 a.m. in the Starlite Room at Coronado Inn. The trial will be styled as the State of Texas Jaycees vs. Tom Higley.

Higley, newsman of KGNC-TV in Amarillo and a state Jaycee director, will be tried for "failure to perform his director duties."

Several Amarillo attorneys, headed by John Broadfoot, assistant city attorney of Amarillo, will head the prosecution. Two Amarillo lawyers have been assigned for the defense.

Witnesses and jurors will be chosen from the early delegates to the convention. Pampa Corporation Court Judge John Warner will preside over the trial.

Contests will begin at 1:15 p.m. Saturday. Judging the Speak-Up Jaycee contest will be three Pampans. They are Joel Combs, city editor of the Pampa News, who last year was named the outstanding district supervisor in the Dale Carnegie public speaking program; Jim Moring, area governor of the Toastmasters Club in 1966; and Jim Hughes, manager and co-owner of radio station KGRO.

Warner is area chairman for the Speak-Up contest. The Sparkplug contest will be held for those who have been Jaycee members for more than a year. They will be tested on Jaycee knowledge and activities.

LBJ Still To Meet Soviet

By STEWART HENSLEY
UPI Diplomatic Reporter
WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson hopes to meet with Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin within the next 60 days to discuss nuclear disarmament, the European situation and other matters of critical interest, informed sources said today.

The Czech crisis has delayed but not ended negotiations between the two countries for such a summit session, they added.

Communist sources reported that an announcement of the plan to meet was postponed when Johnson was advised that Russia and four of its Warsaw Pact allies had intervened militarily in Czechoslovakia.

All indications in authoritative quarters here were, however, that the President still planned to undertake such a high level confrontation with the Soviet leader despite—and possibly even because of—the newly strained relations between Moscow and Washington.

President Johnson was meeting this afternoon with congressional leaders of the Democratic and Republican parties to discuss latest developments in Europe and U. S. strategy the next few months, presumably including his intention to meet Kosygin if possible.

Taking Tough Stand
The United States appeared to be taking an increasingly tough diplomatic stand against Russia, hinting at congressional delay in ratification of the nuclear nonproliferation treaty and raising the possibility of United Nations sanctions of some sort against Russia.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk said after a cabinet meeting Thursday that Russia's invasion of Czechoslovakia was bound to damage Soviet-American relations and he didn't know what the U.S. Senate would do about ratifying the treaty to prevent the further spread of nuclear weapons when it reconvenes in September.

While the United States is very interested in getting the treaty into effect, Russia has even more to gain from it in the way of security. Virtually all of the countries which do not have nuclear weapons but are capable of producing them are allies or friends of the United States and failure of the pact would increase the nuclear forces of countries opposed to Soviet policy.

Demos Seat Regular Delegation

CHICAGO (UPI)—Having successfully fought off a challenge by a "liberal" group, leaders of the regular Texas delegation to the Democratic national convention today defended themselves against an even fiercer attack, aimed at the unit rule.

Texas Gov. John Connally, who Thursday got a standing ovation for castigating "doves" and denouncing Sen. Eugene McCarthy as an advocate of appeasement and surrender to North Vietnam, also was to be a front-line defender of the unit rule.

Actions involving Texas were before three convention committees. The credentials committee Thursday night rejected a challenge to the regular Texas delegation by a group headed by U.S. Sen. Ralph Yarborough, who said it denied representation to minority views. Tom Gordon of Abilene, one of Texas' two members on the rules committee, said Texans may walk out of the convention "if they do that to us."

Growing Liberal Sentiment
Gordon said it would be like "changing the rules in the fifth inning" but agreed that growing liberal sentiment poses that possibility.

Gordon asked Hughes if changing the convention rules after delegates had been picked would not create chaos, and the governor said he considered it one of the changes needed to make the convention system more "workable."

'Fall Festival' Is Slated Sept. 7

A Fall Festival Style Show and Beauty Pageant will be held in the Pampa High School Auditorium Saturday night, Sept. 7, at 8 o'clock under the sponsorship of the Retail Trade Committee of the Chamber of Commerce.

All Pampa stores have been invited to participate in the Fashion Show and to sponsor a contestant in the Miss Top of Texas Beauty Pageant. The entry fee is $10, which entitles a firm to participation in both the Fashion Show and The Beauty Contest.

At this time, approximately 20 firms have indicated that they will participate. Others are expected to enter before the deadline of Aug. 30, according to W. C. Bass and Norman Fritzier, co-chairman of the chamber's Retail Trade Committee.

To date the following firms have officially entered: Las Pampas Galleries, Brown-Freeman Men's Wear, J. C. Penney Company, Levine's Department Store, Wright's Fashions, Ford's Boy's Wear, Montgomery Ward, Bentley's, Behrman's, C. R. Anthony Co. (Coronado Center), Coronado Men's Wear and Highland Young Fashions.

Among others expected to officially enter within the next day or so are: Anderson's Western Wear, Smith's Quality Shoes, C.R. Anthony Co. (Coronado Center), Drug, Kyle's Shoes, Heath's Men's Wear, Field's Men's Wear, First National Bank, Citizen's Bank and Trust Co., Pampa News, Radio Station KPND, Radio Station KGRO, Gilbert's, Southwestern Public Service and Pioneer Natural Gas.

All Pampa stores are invited and urged to enter the Fashion Show and also sponsor a beauty contestant in the Miss Top of Texas Contest, CoC spokesmen said.

Girls entered in the Beauty Pageant must be sponsored and at least sixteen years of age and not more than twenty-five. The beauties will make one appearance each in one-piece swim suits.

In the Fashion Show, each store will be entitled to sponsor four different showings in any fashion category. Special entertainment features will supplement the fashion show and beauty Pageant to "round out" the evening's performance. Kay Fancher will serve as Master of Ceremonies.

Mrs. Thelma Bray, is assisting local business firms in securing girls for models and beauty contestants. Ticket sales are being handled by Ken Shearer with the assistance of the Jaycee-Eltes & (See FESTIVAL, Page 3)

You, Your Child and School

By DAVID NYDICK
UPI Education Specialist

Does your child get very upset when you leave him with a babysitter? Is your child constantly asking for a drink or using other excuses to call you after he has been put to bed? He may be reacting to a typical fear of young children.

The young child's life revolves about his parents. They are a symbol of security. If any unpleasantness occurs, the parents are the ones whom the child turns to for sympathy and assistance. The fear that a parent may not be available or may not return it particularly frightening. This fear affects many aspects of the child's life. Many of his actions are closely connected with fear.

If parents think back over their child's development, it will become obvious that parents are symbols of safety and security. The child who cries usually stops when his mother or father hold him. A child who hurts himself runs to his parent for help and sympathy. He usually stops crying when his parent examines the injury and shows understanding. There are many similar examples which parents may think of as they review their child's past actions.

With this fear as a background, it is only natural for a child to react to any indication that his parents are leaving his side. He is not sure that they are returning until he has many experiences which prove that they do come home. Even then, there are times when he may be fearful of being separated from his parents. This is a fear which continues in varying degrees through the teens and even later. Naturally, the impact depends upon the individual. As typical examples, there are the many college students who become homesick.

This kind of fear in children is quite normal. There is no reason to become concerned when a child exhibits such insecurities. He will gradually adjust as he grows older and has many temporary separations from his parents.

Parents should be aware of their child's concerns in this area. The parents must be careful not to let their own concerns become too important for the child. A planned program of developing confidence in a child is often very helpful. One approach is to expose the child to short and frequent separations which are gradually lengthened. This can be accompanied by babysitters, grandparents, etc. When you are leaving, make the goodbyes short. Reassure the child that you will return and be sure to return at the time you said.

Children are often disturbed when a parent does not keep his word. A promise to a child is a serious obligation. Many parents make off-handed promises which they don't keep simply because they seem to be of minor importance. Actually, they are important to the child. Fear of being away from parents is very real to children. Parents should be warm and sympathetic in helping the child overcome the fear. This does not mean that the parent should allow the child to take advantage of the parent.

Foreign News Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

It was 1 o'clock in the morning in Prague's Old Town Square. Around the statue of the martyred John Huss, youngsters still clustered as if reluctant to bring to an end this moment of triumph which seemed to have been signalled from Bratislava. Czechoslovakia leader Alexander Dubcek had faced down his five hard-line critics and won.

"For 20 years we have done nothing," said a young artist. "Now we can go back to work again."

Beside him stood a tourist from East Germany. "Will the same thing happen in East Germany?" He shrugged his shoulders. "We have seen the tanks," he said.

Prophetic Statement
It was a tragically prophetic statement.

Traditionally, Czechs flock to the old royal Hradcany Castle high above the Ltava River to seek spiritual guidance and to the Old Town Square to express their emotions. It was from the long balcony facing the statue of Huss that Klement Gottwald announced the Communist takeover in 1948.

And it was from a smaller balcony in the same square that Smrkovsky assured the people just a little more than two weeks ago that Czech freedoms had been preserved. This correspondent spent many crisis-filled hours in Prague in recent weeks.

And even as the Czechs swarmed by thousands to sign petitions in support of Dubcek and savored their new freedoms, it seemed all along they really didn't think they'd make it.

Troops Lingered On
Russian troops over stayed by more than a month their scheduled departure date after the Warsaw Pact military maneuvers.

In early August they finally departed.

"Reason has won," proclaimed Prague's labor union newspaper.

But there also were sober second thoughts.

"Even if they come back," said a student, "things can never be the same as they were."

He meant as they were in the days of the old Stalinist regime headed, by Antonin Novotny, ousted by the new leadership last January and now a likely candidate to return as a Russian puppet.

For the Russians, the occupation of Czechoslovakia clearly is an act of desperation.

By it, they fragment still further the division of world communism and bring upon themselves, with more reason, the same criticism they have heaped upon the United States for its action in Vietnam. By it they still further alienate Yugoslavia and Romania.

Two Possible Reasons
Behind their action lay two overriding necessities.

Rightly or wrongly, they fear a revived Germany. And a Czechoslovakia divorced from the Warsaw Pact would split in two their carefully constructed buffer line of satellites reaching from the Baltic to the Black Sea.

Internally, both Pravda and the East German press have declared repeatedly that their people could expect neither the freedoms being enjoyed by the Czechs nor any relaxation of tight Communist party centralized control.

Ironically, it was the revolt more than a year ago of the Russian writers that triggered a similar revolt among Czechoslovak intellectuals and the eventual overthrow of the Novotny government.

The long delay between the Warsaw letter threatening military action against the Czechoslovaks and the final act further signals a sharp split between hawks and doves within the Moscow regime.

Temporarily, at least, the hawks have won.

Television In Review

By ROBERT MUSEL
NEW YORK (UPI)—Anyone over 20 probably needs "closure."

Today's sub-teen-agers mostly do not.

"Closure" is the tag line of a television comedy sketch. It's the final fadout of a film when the plot is resolved. It's the unmasking of the villainous butler by the detective at the end of 90 minutes of devious deduction.

In other words it's the neat wrapping up of everything that has gone before so adults can switch off the set without having to lie awake through the night speculating on what it all meant.

Today's youngsters do not need closure because an average of 37 hours a week of viewing has imprinted on their receptive minds every possible permutation of plot or joke. They have, as a result, the irritating ability to tune in a program midway and compute mentally what has gone before by what is going now on the screen.

Frankly, when it comes to television, the kids know too much and network executives are having to take this familiarity into account in their studies of why Saturday cartoons are falling from favor and what should replace them. New things are a stir in the world of children's television.

"They're simply not watching as they used to," said Paul Klein, vice president in charge of audience measurement for NBC-TV. "The ratings are down two years in a row. The kids are tired of the same type of program. It's like having too much candy."

"They have enormously sophisticated tastes. For example they like Rowan and Martin's 'Laugh-In.' It's extremely high rated among kids. They like the freedom of movement among the cast. We've created a generation of kids who don't need 'closure' who don't need conclusions to know what has been happening on the screen or what it means. They've learned it from the media."

Klein said this precocity extends to language.

"They know what the word is that the blip is intended to hide on TV," he said. "They speak it in their heads."

Klein said eventually this will have an effect on language since frequent use reduces obscene or blasphemous words to power words. Overusage further downgrades their impact and they become weak words. "Bloody" was a horrendous word in Britain when George Bernard Shaw used it in "Pygmalion" and now its hardly worth scrawling on walls any more. "The same fate awaits our abrupt Anglo-Saxonisms," Klein said.

NBC has scheduled at least one new departure for Saturday morning viewing next season. "The Banana Split Adventure Hour" which premieres Sept. 7. This is an hour-long combination of live action and animation to ease the transition from straight cartoons. Larry White, who supervises daytime programming for NBC, regards the program as "unique."

The show has a quartet of "animal" hosts called "The Banana Splits." They are live performers costumed as a dog, a gorilla, a lion and a baby elephant. There will be a live action 10-minute serial of the cliff-hanging type once popular in the movies, an adventure cartoon serial "The Three Musketeers" and a space serial combining live action and animation.

The way NBC sees it, the kids may not like all of this but they'll have a hard time not liking some of it.

TWIN FALLS, Idaho—The City Council, concerned about the wettest August on record, ordered the city attorney to draw up an ordinance prohibiting rain.

The attorney referred the matter to the police chief for endorsement, and the problem ended up in a special file—at his city water department.

Optometrists' 'Feud' Continues Across Texas

United Press International
An end to a standing feud between so-called "commercial" optometrists and private practitioners in Texas appears to be out of sight.

An official of the State Optometry Examiners Board has offered "major concessions" on the part of the "commercial" optometrists, but private eye doctors refused to agree with the proposals.

The squabble is among optometrists in private practice and the large, multi-office companies who staff "commercial" optometrists.

The fight is one reason why the state board has no licensed new optometrists for eight months. About 45 optometry school graduates are awaiting approval.

Dr. N. Ray Rogers of Beaumont, board chairman and a "commercial" optometrist, said he made a three-part proposal to officers in the Texas Optometric Association, composed of 774 optometrists in private practice.

Controversy on Birth Control Shows Few Signs of Abating

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

Nearly a month has gone by since Pope Paul VI reaffirmed and strengthened the Roman Catholic Church's ban on artificial birth control.

But the controversy stirred by the Papal encyclical shows no sign of abating. Bishops, theologians, priests and laymen are still hotly arguing whether the Pope's view is binding on all Catholics, or whether a Catholic couple may in good conscience decide to practice contraception.

The question would not arise had Pope Paul characterized his teaching as an infallible definition of divinely revealed moral truth. But the Vatican said the pontiff was not claiming infallibility for his pronouncement. Moreover, he did not base his stand on divine revelation. He rested his case against contraception solely on "natural law" as discerned by human reason.

Even so, the Catholic bishops of the United States have lined up solidly behind the assertion that the Pope's teaching is "authoritative" and must be obeyed without further question or debate.

The bishops cite in support of this position a paragraph from the Vatican Council's constitution on the church, which says: "In matters of faith and morals, the bishops speak in the name of Christ, and the faithful are to accept their teaching and adhere to it with a religious assent of soul. This religious assent must be shown in a special way to the authentic teaching authority of the Roman pontiff, even when he is not speaking ex cathedra (infallibly)."

Archbishop Karl Alter of Cincinnati expressed what seems to be the consensus of the American hierarchy when he told his people in a pastoral letter:

"For any loyal and conscientious Catholic, the question of the morality of contraception has been disposed of with a clear and precise answer. The use of contraceptive means is sinful because it is contrary to the law of God written into the very nature of man... any further deviation from the papal declaration on this subject is a manifest act of disloyalty and insubordination."

But such stern appeals to authority have failed to silence the voices of dissent—even among theologians and priests. More than 400 of America's leading Catholic theologians have signed a joint statement asserting that "it is common teaching in the church that Catholics may dissent from authoritative, non-infallible teachings (of the Pope) when sufficient reasons for so doing exist."

In the present instance, the scholars' statement says, there are abundant reasons for differing with Pope Paul's understanding of the natural law.

The dissenters also cite a Vatican Council document in support of their position. They quote the following paragraph of the council's constitution on the Church in the Modern World:

"For man has in his heart a law written by God. To obey it is the very dignity of man; according to it he will be judged. Conscience is the most secret core and sanctuary of a man. There he is alone with God, whose voice echoes in his depths."

The Jesuit-edited magazine America, trying to reconcile the duty to obey with the right to disagree, said in an editorial last week that the Pope's teaching should be most carefully and respectfully studied by all Catholics. But it added:

"Theologians and married couples who are convinced, after careful study, that other conclusions than those drawn by the Pope are possible for them are not only free to follow their consciences, they must do so... The abdication of personal moral responsibility has never been a doctrine of the church." To accept personal responsibility—for deciding that it is morally right to do something which has been explicitly condemned by the Pope is apt to be very difficult for millions of less-sophisticated Catholics who have been taught to regard obedience as the first Christian virtue.

It was "concern for the poor and scrupulous" that prompted Fr. Bernard Haring, one of Germany's foremost Catholic theologians, to make a public appeal to the Pope to reopen the birth control question, perhaps by summoning a special council to deal with it. "The whole credibility of the church is at stake," said Fr. Haring.

Pope's Announcement Stirring Alienation

By DAVID POLING

"What do you think about the Pope's statement on birth control?" is the question that dominates conversation between the Protestants and Catholics these days. My own reaction is sorrow. For, next to the hydrogen bomb, the population explosion is the most serious threat to world peace.

Crowded, hungry people are living in misery and despair in so many countries. Without family planning, we are faced with mass starvation and increased world tensions. The poor need to be able to regulate the spacing of their children as well as the size of their families. To have the leading religious personality in the world tell them that this is sinful is just one more burden to be carried.

The modern affluent, well-educated Roman Catholic couldn't care less what the Vatican says about birth control. Long ago he discovered that many of his priest friends are in frequent dissent with church authorities over celibacy, parochial education and use of the Pill. Countless Catholic families have worked out their own philosophy of Christian life—that includes family planning.

The Pope's statement comes after five years of deliberation. During that time, many within the church expected a progressive document, showing the hierarchy to be sensitive to the currents of change and upheaval in the world scene. An outstanding advisory committee had produced a thoughtful report, recommending new directions for the moral theologians as they faced scientific advances in contraceptives.

Instead, Pope Paul VI moved the church toward the 18th century at a time when his people are almost in the 21st century. As a result, three things have happened in less than a month: 1—A new separation between the Holy Father and his flock. Almost daily we read of committees and conferences that have registered their dissent within the Catholic Church. A constant stream of communications has flowed from Rome to remind the faithful of their obedience. This confirms our feeling that a spiritual rebellion is in the offing. In New York City, Archbishop Terrence J. Cooke has just released a pastoral letter urging the congregations to "receive faithfully" Pope Paul's encyclical on birth control. The archbishop acknowledges the difficulties that were being faced by married couples. To help them in obedience, he suggested that they "receive the sacraments often."

2—A new uneasiness between the Vatican and the major branches of the Christian Church. In London, the bishops attending the 10th Lambeth Conference took strong issue with the papal encyclical. Meeting every 10 years, the 250 bishops representing the Anglican churches in some 50 countries. Over the years, the Anglican communion has considered itself a bridge between Catholics and Protestants. The Archbishop of Canterbury, its head, has developed cordial relations with Pope Paul. Now, Anglicans are in strong opposition to this new turn within Roman Catholicism, putting a strain on personal, as well as official, relationships.

3—A widening gap between the older leadership of the churches and the younger people, who are becoming the majority around the world. The birth control "thing" is just one more confirmation, in the minds of millions of college students, that organized religion has lost touch with the demands of this century. They feel that the church should be deeply involved with the sick, the hungry and the forgotten poor of this globe. To them, the Vatican statement on birth control will be as successful as the Protestant campaign for Prohibition in the early part of this century. That, you recall, was repealed because it was unrealistic, unpopular and, most of all, unenforceable.

The Church's greatest strength is the power of persuasion. The recent statement on birth control may be the most severe testing of that power—and the papacy—since the Reformation.

Conway Community Church To Close After 56 Years

PANHANDLE (SpI)—After serving the Conway Community for more than 56 years, the Conway Community Church, nine miles south of Panhandle, will be closed during the fall and winter months, following the Sept. 1 services.

Final decision on the fate of the church will be made after a search for a new pastor.

The church has not had a full-time pastor in more than a year. If interest in it cannot be rekindled, it will not re-open, a spokesman for the church said.

The non-denominational church was built in 1912 and was dedicated in 1913. For many years it was the center of community activities. After the Conway School was consolidated with the Panhandle schools, however, families began going to church in the surrounding towns.

In its 56-year history, the church has been the scene of weddings, christenings, baptismal services and funerals for persons throughout the area.

In addition to regular Sunday services, many special programs have been presented. Plans have been made to continue the regular Thursday evening services, in the form of Bible study and prayer meetings. The Rev. Joe Snead, a former pastor of the church now living in Amarillo, is conducting the services.

Seven persons who attended services in Conway have gone into the ministry, with a number becoming lay ministers, the spokesman said.

Attendance at the Sunday services has dropped to about 20. Church officials are seeking a resident pastor who will live in the parsonage and be able to increase the regular attendance at the church.

First Christian Slates Meetings

The Rev. J. W. Duke will be in the pulpit for the 9 a.m. worship hour Sunday at First Christian Church. Special music will be presented under the direction of Miss Rosemary Lawlor, accompanied by Mrs. John Gill.

Evening activities will consist of J.Y.F. meetings. No Snack Supper will be held.

The Chi Rho Age Group, under the leadership of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Reimer, will meet at the church at 5:30 p.m. and then go to the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Baker for a "hippie weiner roast."

The Executive Board of the Christian Women's Fellowship, with Mrs. Glen Maxey, as president, will meet at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday in the church fellowship hall.

The education committee of the church will meet at 8 p.m. Wednesday at the church with Mrs. Frank Grantham as chairman.

Choir members of the Sanctuary Choir have resumed rehearsals for the fall program of the church. Rehearsals are held at 7 p.m. each Wednesday.

Cameron Plans Button Sermon

Rev. Dan B. Cameron will preach for both services of worship Sunday at First Baptist Church. His subject for the 11 a.m. service is "Don't Cut Off the Buttons."

Randall Purvis, minister of music, will direct the Chapel Choir in singing the anthem, "O Divine Redeemer." He also will sing a tenor solo, "Miss Eloise Lane, organist, will play "Lento" by Stebbins for the offertory.

At the 7 p.m. service, Rev. Cameron will speak on "The Great Invitation." The youth choir will occupy the choir loft to provide special music. The organ offertory selection will be "Prayer" (Finlandia) by Sibelius.

The pastor will conduct the mid-week service at 7:15 p.m. Wednesday. A fellowship supper from 5:30 to 6:15 p.m. and the departmental meetings from 6:15 p.m. to 7:15 p.m. will precede the service.

NAME CHANGE

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—Sister Ernest Marie Schmidt, president of Fontbonne College, has changed her name to Sister Roberta Schmidt. She is a member of the Sisters of St. Joseph of Carondelet, which approved the option of returning to baptismal names.

Pentecostals To Hold Revival

The Highland Pentecostal Church, 18th and Banks Sts., will hold a revival next week, beginning on Monday.

Rev. Ray Ingram, Hinton, Okla., will serve as evangelist for the services. Services will be held nightly at 7:30, with "lots of music and singing." Rev. J. B. Caldwell, pastor, said.

Church Group Takes Trip To Six Flags Park

Seventeen members of Lamar Full Gospel Assembly Church, including 13 youngsters, visited Six Flags Over Texas amusement park as a project of their church group.

The group left Wednesday night and are scheduled to return today.

The youngsters raised money for the trip through ironing, mowing lawns, washing cars, doing yard work, and so on.

The project was conducted by the Christ's Ambassadors group of the church, ages 12 to 35.

Youngsters making the trip are Renel Tigrett, Steven McDaniel, Alan Duck, Kay Duck, Lydia Myers, Sharon Bruce, Wayne Bruce, Lori Crawford, Lynn Crawford, Pat Wheeler, Glenna Hudgins, Mackie Hudgins and Todd Ritthaler.

Adults accompanying the group are Roger and Linda Crawford, CA leaders, and Wanda Tigrett and Pat Ritthaler, sponsors.

Gerald Grizzle Visiting Witness Congregation

GERALD D. GRIZZLE... visiting congregation

Jehovah's Witnesses in Panama have been conducting a week of special activity with the arrival of Gerald D. Grizzle, circuit minister for the Texas-Oklahoma Panhandle area.

Grizzle will conclude the week with a discourse on "Learning from the Miracles of Jesus" at 10 a.m. Sunday at the Kingdom Hall, 17th and Coffee Sts.

Grizzle addressed 45 members of the congregation Tuesday evening to outline the schedule of activities in the community during the week.

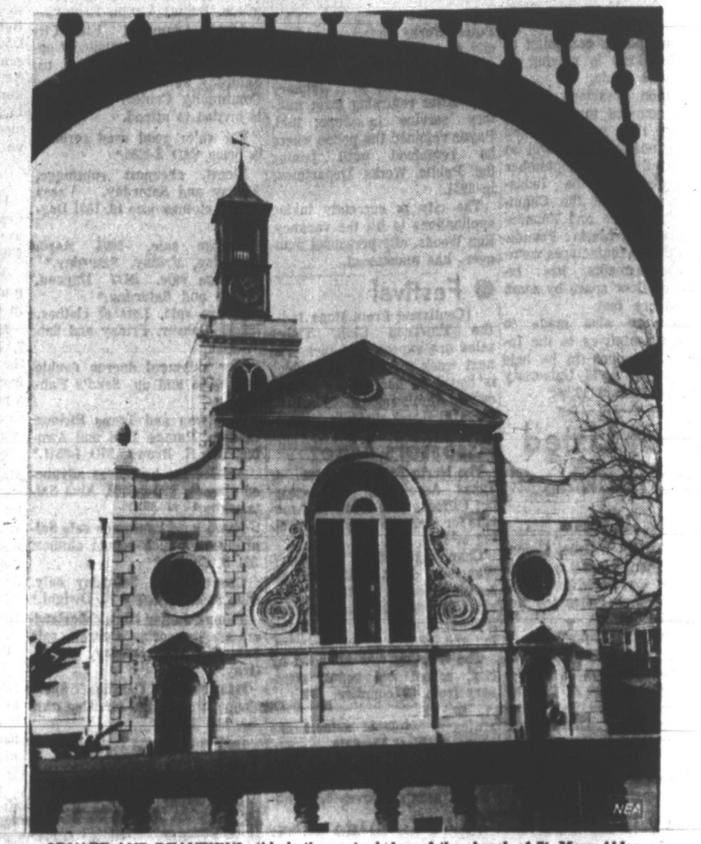

Home visitations were featured during the week, with Grizzle and his wife accompanying the local congregation in visiting the homes of Panama residents.

"The purpose of this program is to encourage Bible reading on the part of all right-hearted persons," Grizzle said. "World conditions certainly manifest the need for greater application of Bible principles in our daily living."

A special meeting at 8 p.m. Saturday will feature a review of Bible topics that have been discussed in the past few months by the congregation.

Grizzle and his wife regularly visit the congregation here in Panama every four months as a part of a concentrated program sponsored by Jehovah's Witnesses.

ORNATE AND BEAUTIFUL, this is the east window of the church of St. Mary Aldermanbury. First built eight centuries ago, the church once served as a meeting place for some of the towering literary and political figures of 17th-century England. Poet John Milton was married in its halls.

TEENERS HONORED

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (UPI)—Michael Cunningham, of Tucson, Ariz., and Janet Goodrich, of Dallas, Tex., both 18, have been named Mr. and Miss Christ's Ambassador-USA by the Assemblies of God. Each will receive a $300 scholarship to Evangel College, Springfield, Mo.

The scholarships are awarded for academic achievement, character and participation in school, youth, Sunday school and church activities. The winners were selected from 176 applicants in the 11th annual scholarship contest for high school seniors sponsored by the Assemblies of God Christ's Ambassadors and Education Departments.

Rev. Hager To Continue Series

Rev. Martin Hager, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, will continue his sermon on the Kingdom of Heaven at the 8:30 and 11 a.m. worship services Sunday.

His sermon topic, taken from Matthew, is entitled "The Kingdom of Heaven Is at Hand, Part II." Ruling Elder Bill Ellison will assist at the services Sunday.

Mrs. Fidelia Yoder, church organist, will present "Ave Verum" by Mozart as the offertory.

The church school committee will meet at 4 p.m. Sunday. The adult work committee will meet at 7 p.m. Monday.

The new church choir is being organized. All those interested in singing in the choir should contact the church office or Daniel Snider.

Priest Nixes Lady Priests

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—A prominent Catholic theologian has turned thumbs down on the idea of women becoming priests.

Writing in the Vatican magazine L'Osservatore della Domenica, Msgr. Ferdinando Lambruschini said he felt such proposals were "pure fantasy and extremely hazardous." He said they could only add to "the confusion in many fields of theology."

Msgr. Lambruschini said the fact women hold high lay positions does not "automatically mean they must or can be called to take part in the priesthood."

He said it was ultimately up to higher church authority to decide the matter but its position "could not help but confirm his."

Episcopalians Study Schools

NEW YORK (UPI)—A group of distinguished churchmen is working to modernize theological education in the Episcopal Church to insure top quality in its ministry, according to the Rt. Rev. Frederick J. Warnecke, bishop of the Diocese of Bethlehem, Pa., and chairman of the group.

The committee was formed at the Church's 1967 General Convention in Seattle to implement recommendations of a special theological education study group headed by Dr. Nathan Pusey, president of Harvard University. The study was financed by the Episcopal Church Foundation, an organization of Episcopal laymen dedicated to aiding the spiritual and social work of the Church.

Bishop Warnecke, who is taking a six-month leave from his diocese to devote full time to the board's work, said his committee wants to help develop "better methods of recruitment and screening to as-

Scientists to Study Lesson-Sermon 'Mind'

A lesson-sermon entitled "Mind" will be studied at the 11 a.m. service Sunday at First Church of Christ, Scientist, 901 N. Frost.

The Golden Text, from Daniel, is, "Blessed be the name of God or ever and ever for wisdom and might are his."

Selections from the denominational textbooks, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, include:

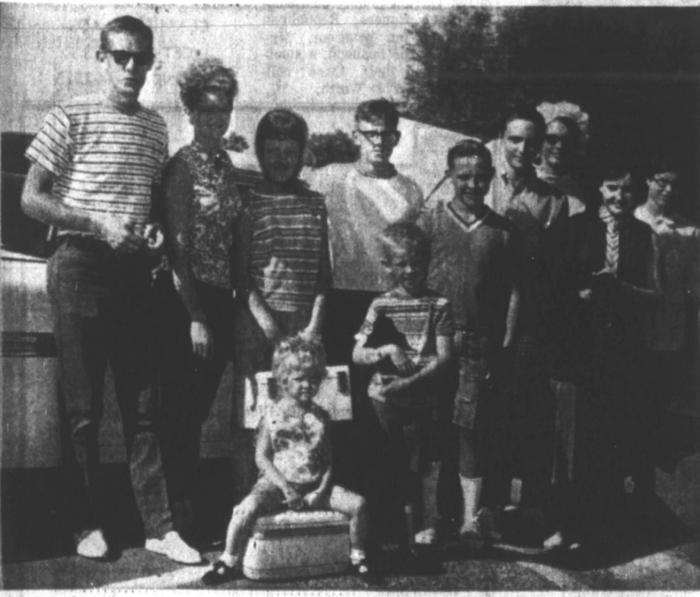

"Having one God, one Mind, unfolds the power that heals the sick, and fulfills these sayings of scripture, 'I am the Lord that healeth thee,' and 'I have found a ransom.'"

"When the divine precepts are understood, they unfold the foundation of fellowship in which one mind is not at war with another, but all have one source, in accordance with the Scriptural command: 'Let this Mind be in you, which was also in Christ Jesus.'"

The Weekly Message Of Inspiration

CAPT. JESSIE DUNCAN
SALVATION ARMY

"... Walk Even As He Walked ..."

I Peter 2:21 For even hereunto were ye called: because Christ also suffered for us, leaving us, an example, that ye should follow his steps.
Some folks say that life is a journey, a song, a sob, the flight of an arrow, the burst of music down a busy street and so on. But Lillian Wright who spoke of life as a pen, put a library of wisdom in four lines.

Write well, my pen; be sure and true make no mis-statement, and no lies;
This is a manuscript that you may not revise.

In the walk of life we do the reporting of our action, words and deeds in the Book of Life. The apostle John put a fundamental christian in sharp focus when he said simply that a christian walks through life in the same manner as Jesus walked.

The question is asked, How did Jesus walk? By the rule of obedience to His Father's will. Jesus always guided His steps by the will of His Heavenly Father. As a lad He said "I must be about my Father's business." As a full grown man carrying His responsibilities He said, "It's my meat to do the Will of Him who sent me." Those who follow Jesus should make it their rule to guide every step of their lives by what they know to be God's will.

How did Jesus Walk? Toward the goal of redeeming men and His obedient steps carried Him over toward the Cross. We, as Christians obey God because we hope life will thereby be easier.

We do not obey God that we may gain personal material benefits. We walk obediently to God in order that we may join with Him in the work of reconciliation. Our air, our prime purpose, is to help in whatever capacity we can to bring people to Christ.

How did Jesus walk?
He was motivated and empowered by a divine principle within Him. He was impelled to obey His father and had the power to reach His aim because He was the Son of God. Christian born from above, by the Holy Spirit, are the children of God. We enjoy unspeakably precious confidence and peace that the very witness of God himself brings.

What marks a Christian Life? Put very simply: The fact that he walks even as Jesus walked. He regulates his life in the fear of God; he seeks not his own, he is motivated and empowered by a divine life, within, even the life of indwelling Christ. May you and I walk, even as Jesus walked, that others may say of us that we have been with Jesus.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: You always tell girls that men in uniform are O.K. I would have agreed with you a few years ago, but not any more. I learned my lessons with a guy in the Air Force. Boy, was he ever a wolf! I never saw a guy work so fast in all my life.

He was a perfect gentleman as long as he was in uniform, but the minute he got out of uniform he was a changed person.

DEAR ANNIE: You never should have let him take his uniform off.

DEAR ABBY: We have two sons, 11 and 14. My husband opened a savings account for each of them when they were born, and he keeps putting money into it for their education, plus any money they get from their grandparents for birthdays, Christmas, etc.

However, every cent they get their hands on (allowance or money for doing odd jobs) they fritter away on foolishness, so their father laid down a rule. Half of their allowances and half of all the money they earn has to go into the bank.

Now they sit on their duffs and refuse to do odd jobs to earn extra money. They say, "Daddy will only make us put it in the bank."

What can parents do about kids who have that attitude. We want to teach them to save. Have you or other parents any ideas?

describe intolerable situations with in-laws, friends or neighbors who impose upon them. They ask you, "What shall I do?"

I used to be irritated with your stock answer: "Tell the person how you feel!"

I think in almost every case, the writer knows that this is the only solution, but he hopes you will have some magic words that will make it easier for him. Telling others how you feel doesn't necessarily mean telling them off.

I was faced with a very annoying situation. Some of our friends used to drop by our beach home every Sunday morning. They'd spend the entire day there, drinking our beer, eating our food, and messing up our shower with wet towels. Then one day I fed the issue and told them firmly, but quietly that the situation had gotten out of hand, and in the future they were welcome only when invited. I didn't apologize for telling them. I just "up and told 'em," which wasn't easy. Now I'm sorry I didn't tell them sooner. At first they were a little hurt, but they got over it, and we are still good friends. They come only when invited and we like it that way.

I just wanted to say, "There are no magic words to put into people's mouths. From Dear Abby, or anybody else."

DEAR STUMPED: Forcing a child to save makes saving a bitter experience. Let them "fritter away their allowances on foolishness." And let them "sit on their duffs" instead of doing odd jobs to earn extra money, and they will soon realize that they are cheating only themselves.

The best way to learn the value of money is to be without it for awhile.

DEAR ABBY: I would like to comment on letters appearing in your column in which people

Time for Bridal Pot 'n' Pan Quiz

NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSOCIATION
By AILEEN SNOODY

Cooking, the young bride soon learns, is more complex than merely mixing ingredients. Like golf, tennis or motorcycling, the right equipment makes the difference between enjoyment and drudgery.

When buying your pots and pans you will find that aluminum has the best heat conductivity which makes you a better cook since things don't tend to burn and stick. Whatever the material, when selecting your saucepans, skillet and dutch oven, choose those with tight-fitting lids, easy-to-hold handles and knobs firmly attached to the utensil and with level flat bottoms for best contact with the range surface.

Depending upon what her kitchen cabinets offer in storage, a bride will find divided trays for cutlery and utensils, vegetable bins, dinnerware racks, bread boxes or canister sets realistic space-savers.

REFRIGERATOR CENTER: rubber plate and bowl scraper, two wooden spoons, three measuring cups (standard dry), two liquid measuring cups (1-cup, 4-cup), kitchen shears, egg beater, one set standard measuring spoons, one food grater one set mixing bowls (4 sizes) one rolling pin, two casseroles with covers (1 1/2 quarts, 3 quarts), one funnel, one cutting board, one flour sifter.
RANGE CENTER: One coffee maker, one teakettle, one potato masher, one double boiler with lid (1 1/2-quart), three sauce pans with lids (1-, 2-, 3-quart sizes), two fry pans (7-8 inch, 9-10 inch), two cookie sheets (15 by 12) shallow baking pan, small roasting pan with lid, serving utensils (slotted vegetable spoon, large serving spoon, cake turner, spatula, long-handled two-tined fork, tongs, pancake turner, pie plate (9-inch), muffin pan (6-12 cups).

SINK CENTER: Vegetable brush, gelatin mold, strainer, sharp knives for paring, slicing and carving, bottle opener, can opener, colander, sink strainer, covered garbage pail, pot scraper, sponges, dish towels, dish drainer and drainboard tray, plate scraper, sink stopper or dishpan.

PARTY-BOUND are shrimp cocktails served by young bride who learned early secret of using one item for many purposes. Casual plastic cup, originally for drinks, holds shrimp cocktails for first guests. She also uses the inexpensive items for dips, nuts and such.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

(FOR SATURDAY, AUG. 24)

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day and evening which are only good for spiritual ideas and some careful expression of them in which you take no chances with the practical aspects of anything whatsoever. Unexpected problems arise but take them in your stride. Be calm. Do nothing that can have others think you are not serving their best interests.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) — Impress others with the fact that you can control your temper and will not go off on some silly goose chase. Make it your business to get on the right side of intellectual persons. One in particular can be very helpful.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20) — Some personal duties are necessary now if you want to have more fun in the coming days. Be recreationally delighted. Be sure not to take any risks when certain situations come up. They could be drastic with danger.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) — Oh, you need a little shot in the arm. Remember your obligations to you, but do so carefully you are feeling mighty low, so peek up your spirits through action. Rid yourself of whatever stands in your way.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) — Arguing with others or starting on some trip is not wise today. Take care you do not get taken in by some very convincing person. Forget trying so much on hunches and do some tall thinking.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 23) — Tardiness monetary affairs should wait for a better day, so don't let others, like pressure you. Get busy with little chores around the house. Find those persons you have wanted to "see for some time and keep the talks that are vital.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 22) — Others are just not interested in helping you gain personal aims so forget it for the time being. Do only those things that you can handle yourself. Not a good day to plan expansion, either.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) — Better do some meditating today instead of trying to force others into doing your bidding, etc. Be of assistance to persons having rough sledding. However, do not make a big production about it.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21) — A factious net could give you some trouble if you enter into any argument with this person. Keep cool and all in the "that social matter" thought has you a some doubt. Follow the old adage "When in doubt, don't."

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — You are engaged in some big project, so be sure you do nothing today that can jeopardize your present good position. Plan what should be done to become a more worthwhile citizen. Stop being so belligerent.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — You have some new inspiration and should plan now just how to get it operating properly tomorrow. Do not try getting things started right now. It would only lead to frustrations just at his time. Be patient.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Do not follow your hunches right now since they would be misleading. Find relief from tensions by being with people. Keep mum with attachment of you can really get yourself raked over the linguistic coals. Be smart.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) — Shooting your mouth off with an associate can create a bad association very quickly and unnecessarily. Even if you want to be more successful quickly, patience is nice now. Then you get the right results.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY, he or she is a wise problem solver. You should slant the education along troubleshooting lines, if you give discipline and duties to perform exactly, early in life, progeny will understand better the plight of others.

'Milk Bath' Restores Shine to Hearthstone

DEAR POLLY — Milk was spilled on our flagstone hearth. When it was wiped up I noted the spot was shiny and lovely. I took a small bowl of skimmed milk and a clean sponge and rubbed the milk all over the hearth, rinsed lightly with clear water. Now it is bright and beautiful. Several friends have tried this same method and all had wonderful results. Polly's note—Try a small spot on your particular hearth first. Thank you so much for all the handy hints to help us with our homemaking problems.

KARIN

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—I would appreciate it if someone could tell me how to remove smoke stains from my natural gray stone fireplace?

BONNIE

DEAR POLLY— Sylvia should save some of her empty plastic pill bottles to use for sugar, salt and pepper holders (properly labeled) and take them on trips. They are also good for holding vegetable seeds after you have had a particularly good crop, or seeds from your flower garden you want to plant next year.

DOROTHY

DEAR POLLY— and Sylvia—I have a long list of uses for plastic pill bottles. The clear ones are wonderful for machine bobbins and needles, separating buttons as to size and color, eyelid, hooks and eyes, snaps loose beads and sequins, small tubes of ointments and cotton swabs. They can hold earrings when traveling, toothpicks to go in purse or glove compartment in the car and also matches for the car. Did you ever go on a picnic and not have a match? I have, but not any more.

MRS. D. S.

DEAR POLLY — My mother used to write on a small piece of paper the name of any plant or flower that was new to her, roll the paper and put it in a covered plastic pill bottle and tie or stick by the flower or plant to know what it was as it was growing to full bloom. The paper was protected from the elements.

ROSELEA

WASHINGTON (UPI) — USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service reports that weekend shoppers should find excellent supplies of meat and poultry and good stocks of fresh vegetables and fruit in food stores and supermarkets.

Heading the list of abundant meat and meat products are broiler-fryer chickens and turkeys. Also in the abundant class are beef roasts and steaks as well as ground beef. Featured among the pork items are chops and roasts; bacon and smoked picnics also may appear in good supply in some areas. Fish fillets and halibut steaks are fish buys to watch for, according to the U.S. Department of the Interior.

Cabbage, corn, lettuce, peppers, and potatoes should be readily available in all areas along with celery and tomatoes in some areas. Also, look for large stocks of bananas, cantaloupes, peaches and watermelons.

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license, nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself. No more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Jobmongers Are Wrong

Somehow in this country which grew prosperous to an extent undreamed of elsewhere by following the principle that the purpose of expending effort and resources was to earn a profit, the Marxist-Fabian myth has been perpetrated and perpetuated that the primary function and "civic duty" of business and industry is to provide employment. Nothing could be further from the truth. And nothing, it is also safe to say, could in the long run be more destructive to the self-respect and productivity of individuals and harmful to the economy as a whole.

Socialistic, fascistic, communistic—the idea is! Civically and socially beneficial—it is not!

While perusing the editorial, "The Jobmongers—Make-Work Schemes Will Cost Private Enterprise Dear," in the July 29 issue of Barron's, the national business and financial weekly, it occurred to us that in emphasizing the job-creating nature of successful business and industrial enterprises, we may have inadvertently lent credence and respect to the "civic duty" myth. If so, let us hasten to put the record straight.

The primary objective of any market place enterprise entitled to the name is neither to provide jobs for the unemployed nor to serve society. Its primary function and sole reason for existence is to earn a profit for the owners of the capital invested. Were this not so—and any entrepreneur or corporate head forgetting it is courting disaster—no individual in his right mind could be induced to go into business for himself, and no investors this side of Bedlam could be induced to assume the stockholder role with their savings.

While it is true—and this is where the "civic duty" myth creeps in—that successful market place enterprises do provide jobs for the unemployed and do provide a social service by creating jobs, products and services needed by the community and society at large, the fact remains that these, rather than being the primary and motivating factors of the business world, are the necessary and inescapable effects, by-products, as it were, of a successfully operated business enterprise.

It is important that this distinction be kept in mind because, as Barron's editorial pointed out, once the idea takes hold that it is the "civic duty" of businessmen and the primary function of the business world to provide jobs rather than earn profits for those who have their risk capital invested, the tendency on the part of businessmen and corporate heads will then be to concentrate on fulfilling this myth to the neglect of the efficient operation of the enterprise and its competitive stance. Then, too, the acceptance of the myth creates an atmosphere favorable to governmental intervention and, eventually, "nationalization" (i.e., Sovietization) of the economy.

But, let us not be misunderstood. Nothing said here should be construed to mean that business and industry should not engage in training members of so-called "minority groups" for productive employment. It is to say that when such training is undertaken, it should be on the assumption that those so trained will be capable of pulling their own weight on a strict profit and loss basis, not because it is the "civic duty" of the company to employ them.

A final word is in order. And, in this respect, we are in full accord with Barron's. Any corporate head, any chairman of the board, who has accepted the myth that the primary reason for being in business is to "employ the unemployed" or "fulfill a civic duty" rather than make profits, should be swiftly disillusioned or immediately fired by the stockholders who have their hard-earned savings invested.

A Promising Step

The Philco-Ford Corp. is operating a very unusual kind of job training center. Located at Madera, Calif., it is designed for the most "displaced" and most "disadvantaged" of all Americans—the Indians.

The main idea is, as one could surmise from the title of the corporation, to train Indians, both men and women, in some job skill having to do with automobiles or electronics.

But that program is supported by strong work in basic education—things like reading, arithmetic, language, and how to get along and communicate with other people.

For many Indians the opportunity, however tempting it might sound to them, would be impossible if some provision were not made for their families.

So, provision is made.

At a given time, the center has 164 single men and women, 26 families, and four fathers and/or mothers alone with their minor children.

The total number of children is 85, and those among them who are of school age attend regular school classes just like any other children.

The Bureau of Indian Affairs pays what might seem like a large sum of money—$1,775,000 for the current fiscal year—to the Center.

With what results? It takes the Indian four months to 12 months to learn how to support himself and his family, depending on what kind of work he goes into and how fast he learns.

Comparing that with government-operated training centers, where learning to do house plumbing costs more than a Harvard degree, it seems that Philco-Ford is having remarkable success.

We have just one question:

If it is profitable to train people to do automotive and electronic work, as obviously it is, then why doesn't the Philco-Ford outfit cut loose from the government subsidy entirely, thus demonstrating a belief in individual initiative and the private enterprise market place?

Court Setback For IRS

A tax payer may not be compelled to answer questions about his personal income and to produce personal records demanded by the Internal Revenue Service, it was ruled last month by a U.S. District Court judge in Minnesota.

Attorney Jerome Daly of Savage, Minn., was being charged with contempt of court for refusing to produce records and to answer questions about his income demanded by the IRS.

But Daly, when he appeared before the revenue agents, cited several legal statutes and internal-revenue codes under which criminal action may be taken against individuals. "In the face of those criminal statutes," he said, "I am going to refuse to answer upon the grounds that it infringes upon my rights as secured by the Constitution of the United States, and more specifically the Fourth, Fifth and Sixth Amendments."

The Wichita, Kan., Eagle noting that Daly was cited for contempt of court and he appealed. Wrote the Eagle:

"In remanding the case to the lower court, the appellate court judges stated that under specific court decisions... a blan-

The Doctor Says:

Ganglions, Not Serious,
Are Best Let Alone

Ganglion, a rather common lesion, is a hernia or rupture of the enveloping capsule of one of the joints between the small bones of the wrist. It is sometimes called a synovial cyst. It is seen more often in women than in men but the cause is not known. It is not serious and, in most persons, produces no symptoms. A few, however, may complain of weakness in the wrist and of mild pain on making a tight fist.

A ganglion sometimes disappears spontaneously or when it accidentally receives a hard blow. Many ganglions have been treated at home by administering a sharp blow with the family Bible, but this treatment is not recommended because of the danger of a more serious injury. Following this treatment the ganglion usually returns. If it causes no trouble and is not too noticeable, it is best to leave it alone.

Complete surgical removal is advised by some authorities but this involves a prolonged recovery period. Most doctors prefer a simpler method of treatment, such as withdrawal of the fluid through a syringe, then injecting hydrocortisone into the cyst.

Another method that has been highly successful is drawing a suture through the cyst, tying it loosely in place and gently pressing the fluid out. A sterile dressing is then applied and every day the dressing is removed so that the suture can be drawn back and forth. After eight or nine days, the cyst is empty and the suture has caused a foreign body reaction which prevents a recurrence.

Q—I do a lot of housecleaning with ammonia. Are the fumes harmful to the lungs?

A—Although a heavy exposure to ammonia fumes following an industrial accident may cause damage to the lungs, liver and kidneys, the household use of ammonia would irritate only the nose, throat and eyes. This can be minimized by working with the windows open or by using an electric fan in the room.

Q—Can a 55-year-old woman catch chicken pox? Several days after exposure to this disease, I broke out with a large number of very itchy pimples all over my body.

A—Anyone who has never had chicken pox can get it. It is called a childhood disease only because that is when most people have it. Your description would surely fit this diagnosis.

A wise old Scot once was asked to settle a dispute between two brothers involving fair division of a large estate left by their father. The Scot's classic decision was:

Mr. McDonald—Let one brother divide the estate and let the other brother have first choice.

ket objection filed with an income tax return is not valid.

"However," they continued, "even (these rulings) indicate that certain specific questions may bring into play the proper assertions of the privilege (against self-incrimination)."

"In a five-hour hearing before Judge Lord (the District Court Judge), Daly was permitted to explain his objection regarding self-incrimination to each of the revenue agents' questions.

"Judge Lord then directed that an order be drawn dismissing the contempt charge against Daly."

Whether the IRS will appeal the decision has not been learned. It's likely that the revenue collectors will not take their setback without fighting. After all, the whole income tax collection machinery is based on invasion of privacy of the individual tax payers.

The Kansas paper was interested in the case because Daly had been an attorney for A. J. Porth of Wichita, who is fighting the IRS in a "tax-evasion" case. Porth has spoken in Orange County (Calif.) and will speak there again Sept. 4 (at the Santa Ana Ebell Club).

Porth has been convicted of evading income tax, and he has appealed to the 10th Circuit Court of Appeals. He says the ruling in the Daly case "is the beginning of the end of the income tax."

We have our doubts that such a desirable end will occur. However, if it happens, it will be because of fighters like A. J. Porth and Jerome Daly.

Utilities Face Anti-Trust Action in Giving "Payola" to Builders For All-Electric Homes

ROBERT ALLEN

WASHINGTON — The Justice Department is considering a major anti-trust action challenging promotional "payola" used by utility companies across the nation in persuading developers to build all-electric homes.

Promotional inducements to developers, according to information under study in the Department's anti-trust division, have included cash payments, easy-term loans, free cable installation, free home appliances and other considerations for new subdivisions.

An anti-trust suit, if filed, would be an unusual action by the federal government. Public utilities function, for the most part, as local service monopolies regulated by state and local utility commissions.

Activities under scrutiny by government attorneys, however, go beyond utility service and rate-making operations which are subject to state and local regulation. At issue are complaints that the utilities are unfairly "buying" customers.

A major program, which figures prominently in the government inquiry, is the "Gold Medallion" home promotion. More than 850 utilities — investor owned companies, municipally owned utilities and electric co-ops—are certified under the program.

Those utilities award medallions to new homes which feature electric heating, cooking, and refrigeration plus certain extras such as freezers, washers, dryers, waste disposers and dishwashers. Home builders must conform to construction standards administered by the National Electric Manufacturers Association (NEMA).

According to the Justice Department's data, some developers have been offered per-home payments, free installation of costly underground electric lines, free color televisions and other incentives to sign up for the all-electric "Gold Medallion" for their new subdivisions.

Then additional inducements have been provided in the form of advertising and local promotion.

In deciding whether to proceed in the case the anti-trust division must decide: —Whether such promotional campaigns unfairly restrict the competitive opportunities of other suppliers, such as the jobbers who sell and supply oil heating units.

—Whether the cost of the promotional inducements eventually finds its way into the rates paid by other customers of a participating utility company.

In that connection, the Department is studying statistics which show that at least one major utility company was seeking approval for an increase in its regular electric rates at a time when it was asking to reduce its electric heating rates.

ANSWER: In our opinion it is largely responsible for the predicament we are in. As we have said before, a double standard can promote nothing but confusion, and will destroy integrity, virtue, self-reliance and goodwill upon which all civilizations is based.

The reason that this belief, held by so-called educators, is responsible for the predicament we are in, is that too many people do not think things through for themselves and they follow the example and accept the ideas of others they regard as educators. And too many of these so-called educators set a bad example.

Napoleon Bonaparte, one of the largest users of force in the world, said that what amazed him more than anything else was "the impotence of force to organize anything."

And as Albert Schweitzer said, the best way to accomplish things is by setting a good example. He explained that force is not a practical way and that very few people care to reason things through, so more people are influenced by example than by anything else.

But most newspapers and the schools and colleges are certainly not setting a good example of justice and right. They are wishy-washy or socialistic and paternalistic and do not seem to believe in setting an example of individual responsibility. This is especially true of those school teachers and professors who are paid by taxes backed by a gun, which, as we have explained before, is certainly a double standard.

They evidently do not believe in a free market education and therefore do not believe in a free market in anything. They simply want license to indoctrinate the youth with their ideas of socialism and collectivism and force other people to pay for it. They cry about "academic freedom," but the only ones who have any claim to determine what children shall be taught are the parents. And too many parents have been indoctrinated by bad examples of newspapers and schools and colleges so that they, too, practice a double standard, but they do not even realize it.

James J. Condon, executive vice president of The Peoples Gas Light and Coke Co., of Chicago, said his gas company has been forced to engage in similar promotional offers "to meet competitive pressures." He said bidding in such subsidies for the big John Hancock Center in Chicago reached an estimated $1,550,000.

Condon termed the practice of offering payments, loans, appliances and the like to builders "nothing more than a subsidy or a bribe."

In addition to the Justice Department and the House Subcommittee, the Federal Trade Commission has taken an interest in one aspect of the "Gold Medallion" home program. The FTC complaint is that some builders, certified before the NEMA took over that program, have not complied with all the currently advertised "Gold Medallion" building standards.

Nor does that cover all the problems of electric—and gas—utilities. The Justice Department is also considering a separate anti-trust action based on certain land sales by utilities in the northeastern United States. This entirely separate investigation involves complaints that certain sales unfairly bound the buyer to install electricity — or gas — in homes built on the land involved.

Time Out Improves Statesmen

By PAUL HARVEY
Statesmen, a few years out of office, seem to make so much more sense.

Listen to the postterm public utterances of Harry Truman, Dwight Eisenhower; definitive, positive.

Delegates and eavesdroppers to the recent GOP National Convention were dumbstruck by the increased depth perception of Tom Dewey; "If he'd talked like that in '48, he'd have been elected President!"

Hopefully Richard Nixon has similarly benefited from a few years in which to vegetate, assimilate.

God required of Moses 40 years of preparation for leadership.

Winston Churchill was shaped for his finest hour by many defeats.

American history records many examples of men whose greatness was not recognized at first. Abraham Lincoln's several setbacks are the classic example. History rewards persistence.

John Adams sought and lost the Presidency twice before winning it in 1796.

Thomas Jefferson, who lost to Adams, came back four years later to win.

John Quincy Adams lost in 1820, won in 1824.

Andrew Jackson, defeated in 1824, was elected in 1828.

William H. Harrison lost in 1836, won four years later.

Grover Cleveland, defeated for re-election, returned four years later to defeat the man who had defeated him.

Of course, the formula is not infallible, as William Jennings Bryan and Tom Dewey and Adlai Stevenson could attest. But, more often than not, those politicians able to pick themselves up after a knockdown went on to win.

Arnold Toynbee observed that every political leader should have a few years of reflection—a period out of the public eye that he can spend coming to terms with himself and the world.

Nixon has ripened. He speaks with more self-assurance, more authority.

Let this not be construed as an endorsement of Mr. Nixon. Perhaps from Chicago a comparably seasoned statesman will emerge.

Then we will all go forth from November with great expectations deriving from the contagious self-confidence of the new leader.

Must that enthusiasm soon be supplanted by disillusion?

Why cannot we, collectively as a nation, pick ourselves up and dust ourselves off from the myriad defeats which we have suffered abroad and at home and go on with renewed self-assurance toward an expanding horizon?

As these individuals have surmounted setbacks, cannot we as a nation do likewise?

President John Kennedy, whatever his other debts and credits, gave our nation a sense of "onward and upward" during his historic thousand days.

If the next President, with four years in office assured, lets the magic evaporate—lets himself get bogged down in a morass of inevitable frustration—what a tragic waste of momentum!

We've allowed lightning communication and transportation to overinvolve us with the world to the neglect of ourselves.

A few years of enlightened selfishness could renovate our America the Beautiful and renew the esprit de corps which formerly characterized our now divided people.

As statesmen have been motivated by adversity to undreamed-of heights, let us all now bel-

The basic action of striking a typewriter key has remained unchanged since the writing machine was invented just 100 years ago.

Christopher Latham Sholes, the inventor, contracted with the Remington Co., New York sewing machine manufacturers, in 1868 to produce and market his brain-child.

That's why the first typewriters were built on sewing machine bases and the keyboard resembled that of a miniature piano.

A decade later typewriters began to look like today's models when the Remingtons introduced a shift key to make capital and small letters instead of the capitals—only type then in use.

Through all the changes of development three basic aspects of typing action have remained unchanged. Sholes' original machine, was designed to make the keys act directly on the type striking the keys caused interaction with parts other than the type bars.

Today's smile: A fellow discovered he had an impacted wisdom tooth and on his way to the dentist stopped off at his favorite bar for a few shots of Bourbon to bolster his courage.

Arriving at the dentist's office he took a seat next to a fussy old maid. She smelled the Bourbon and said: "Whiskey is terrible. It's a vice and it nauseates me." The poor guy looked at her and said: "In that case, I would suggest that you quit drinking."

Thoughts while shaving: The next time you go fishing for walleyed pike you can startle your companions if you tell them that a walleye is not a pike, but a perch. . . . The longest running play in dramatic history is the famous Passion Play presented every 10 years at Oberammergau, Bavaria, since 1633. It has a cast of 125 speaking parts and a single performance lasts 12 hours. . . . There's considerable doubt amongst historians that Betsy Ross made that first U.S. flag, but none-the-less Betsy was a flag maker. There is in existence an old voucher showing the Philadelphia seamstress was paid 14 pounds sterling for making some flags for the Pennsylvania navy in 1777. Off The Top
By WES DUMONT
Pampa News Sports Editor

In the thirty year history of the Top of Texas golf tournament, only four linksmen from Pampa have won the championship and only one is slated to be in the starting field in the annual amateur event scheduled from Aug. 30 through September 2.

He is C. F. "Mac" McGinnis, who plans to enter the event despite a pinched nerve in his hand which forced him to drop out of the championship fight of the recent golf tournament at the Huber golf course at Borger. McGinnis, who says he's "a little over 60", will probably play in the first eight of the event.

McGinnis has been playing the Pampa golf course since 1933. He learned the golfing game while a caddy in Tulsa, Okla., as a youth.

McGinnis won in 1945, the final year of World War II when he says many good amateur golfers were in the service. "It was a small field and I believe I led all three days."

He has played in every Top of Texas tournament since its inception in 1938. He plays at the course twice a week.

A golfer who probably won't compete in the Top of Texas event is Don Prigmore, who represented Pampa as the winner in the 1958 event.

Don, who comes from a golfing family, won the Top of Texas tournament at the tender age of 18.

He has recently taken over as assistant golf professional at the Ridgewood Country Club at Waco, Texas.

He played on the Pampa High School golf team and later at Baylor University where he was a member of the first team.

He accepted a golf position after working in the sales field for a number of years.

Brothers Don Prigmore and Richard Prigmore from Dallas and Brownfield respectively may represent the family in the Top of Texas event.

A definite entry is Don's father, O. M. Prigmore.

Grover Austin Jr., winner of the 1950 tournament while representing Pampa, recalls the event that year.

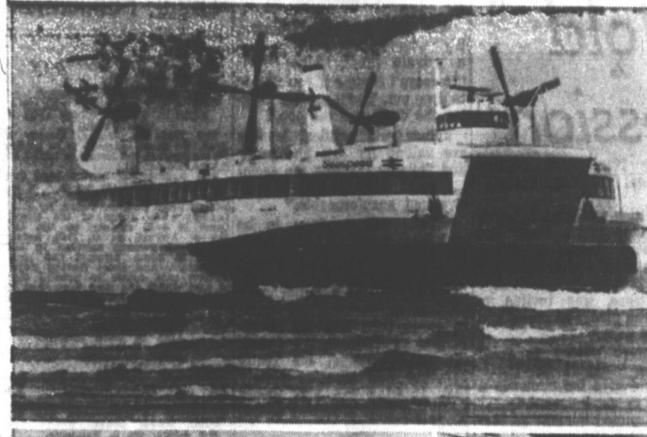

"It rained every day except the final one. We played despite the rain but we felt like drowned rats."

In the 1953 tournament, Austin was runnerup to Rex Baxter. Amarillo, Austin recalls Baxter turned professional and won the Cajon golf classic a few years back.

"I think he (Baxter) earns between $25,000 and $60,000 now on the professional golf tour," says Austin.

Austin is unable to play golf now but still has an active interest in the game.

Les Howard, winner from Pampa in 1961 (marking the most recent year that a native has won), is reportedly with a company in Kentucky now and is not expected to enter this year's tournament.

By Hovercraft is the newest way to cross the English Channel. Britain opened regular service July 31 for the vessel left, that skims along the water's surface on a cushion of air. The cross-channel run from Dover to Boulogne takes 35 minutes, one hour less than conventional ferries. Car capacity, lower left, is 30. Passenger compartments, lower right, can seat 254.

Randy Matson Is Rated Sure Gold Medal Winner

By DARRELL MACK HOUSTON (UPI) — Sprinter Jim Hines said he will go after world records in the 100 and 200 meters in a U.S. Olympic team exhibition track meet Saturday night.

Hines, a former star at Texas Southern University in Houston, said he thinks he can run a 9.8 in the 100 and a 19.9 in the 200.

When I ran at the nationals, gold medal," Paul said. "There is no shot-putter in the world who can come close to him."

Paul said he thought Bob Beamon, with a push from Ralph Boston, would win the long jump, that either Bob Seagrone or Jon Vaughn would win the pole vault and that either Al Oerter or Jay Silvester would win the discus.

John Pennell also was entered in the pole vault and Gary Pender and Ronnie Ray Smith, Carlsen in the discus.

The world's top two 400-meter dash men, Lee Evans and Vince Matthews, will run their specialty and in the 1,600-meter relay.

The 800-meter entries include Felix Johnson of Prairie View A.M., George Hunt of the Houston Striders and Ron Kutchinski of Michigan, who Pampa, Texas, whom I consider the only sure bet to win a Houston earlier this summer.

Ex-Texas Pro Golfer Leads At Philadelphia

By ED MCFALL UPI Sports Writer PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Dudley Wysong, Jr., took a two-stroke lead into today's second round of the Philadelphia Classic hoping he would be able to "feel" his way toward the eventual $20,000 first prize money.

The young Texas pro, now playing out of Hawaii, who admitted to being a "streaky putter," scrambled into the lead after the first round of the 72-hole $100,000 tournament at the Whitemarsh Valley Country Club with an erratic seven under par 65.

"It was the best putting round of my career and the worst driving round," said the 29-year-old Wysong. But, it was good enough to give him a two-stroke lead over runners-up Al Balding, veteran pro from Canada and South Africa's Bobby Cole, who had 67s.

Eight players were bunched at 68, including 1967 Masters champion Gay Brewer, Billy Jasper, leading money winner in the tour this year, former PGA Champion Bobby Nichols and Charlie Sifford.

The other four tied with 68s were Jerry Abbott, a rookie pro from Florida whose wife was expecting a baby "any minute," Jim Ferrier of California, Billy Maxwell of Indianapolis, Ind., and Bob Stanton of New Orleans.

Current U.S. Open Champion Lee Trevino was in a bunch at 69, along with rookie pro Bob Murphy, Dave Stockton and England's Tony Jacklin.

Last Minute Entry
Jack Nicklaus, who decided at the last minute to enter the tournament, was one stroke over par at 73 while Julius Boros, the current PGA champion and winner of last week's Westchester Classic, was at 74, nine strokes off the pace.

Arnold Palmer was one of the few big-name pros who is not competing in this week's stop on the tour.

Wysong, whose best finish this year was sixth at Westchester, missed eight fairways with his drives and said he was "under trees and through trees."

But he maneuvered his approach irons well and got his putter going as hot as the above 90 degree weather. Wysong one-putted 13 greens, including six on the back nine, where he had four of his seven birdies in his bogey-free round.

"Golf is such a funny game," he said. "It's all in the feel of things. If you feel like you are going to make a putt, you usually do. But, if you don't feel like it, nine times out of 10 you won't make it."

Wysong has been plagued with a nerve ailment in his arm and a whiplash since 1966, the year he finished second to Al Geiberger in the PGA championship.

Unbeaten Oilers Play Unbeaten Bills Tonight

TULSA, Okla. (UPI)—The Oilers will be hurting at unbeaten Houston Oilers, with an offensive guard whose regulars rejuvenated offense, and the Billy Shaw and Joe O'Donnell unbeaten Buffalo Bills, with a strong defense, meet tonight in an American Football League exhibition game in Skelly Stadium.

The Oilers (3-0), who won the Eastern Division championship on defense last season, have Ed Carrington and flanker scored 28 and 24 points in their last two games.

Buffalo (2-0-1), dethroned as Eastern Division champions last year, have allowed less than 10 points in its two victories, 13-9 over Detroit and 10-6 over Cincinnati.

The Bills defensive front four is Jim Dunaway, 282, Tom Sestak, 270, Ron McDole, 269, and Dudley Meredith, 285.

Beathard Responsible
Quarterback Pete Beathard is responsible for the Oilers' offensive improvement. He has completed 40 of 92 passes for 473 yards and four touchdowns and has run for two other touchdowns, accounting for an average of two touchdowns a game.

Split end Charley Frazier, who had an awful season in 1967, also is untracked with 10 catches for 163 yards and two touchdowns.

The Buffalo offense will have a new look which includes rookie Gary McDermott of Tulsa, a 211-pound halfback who is the team's leading pass receiver and No. 2 rusher. He ran for 40 yards and caught two passes for 50 yards against Cincinnati last week.

New Faces
Other new faces are Mini Max Anderson, the team's leading rusher with a 15-yard average; fullback Ben Gregory; flanker Haven Moses who will be starting for the first time; and quarterback Dan Darragh, who guided the Bills on their 83-yard touchdown drive last week.

Allen Leads Phillie Win

By VITO STELLINO UPI Sports Writer Larry Jaster and Ron Willis couldn't be blamed if they filed their own assault and battery charges against Richie Allen.

Allen, the controversial slugger of the Philadelphia Phillies, Thursday was ordered to appear in court for a hearing on Aug. 29 to answer an assault and battery complaint by a Philadelphia bartender who claims he was slugged by Allen early last Sunday.

Allen then went out and started an assault on St. Louis pitchers. He blasted his 26th homer off Larry Jaster and his 275th—leaving him just three behind Willie McCovey, the National League leader with 30—in leading the Phils to a 7-3 victory over the league-leading Cards.

Patrick Bolton, 37, the owner of Bolton's Bar in Philadelphia, claims Allen punched him when he refused the slugger a drink. The tavern owner claimed he refused Allen because he appeared to be intoxicated. Allen and the Phils' officials have refused to comment on the case.

Dallas Coach Likes 'Balance' On Team

By ED FITE UPI Sports Writer DALLAS (UPI)—Coach Tom Landry, getting his Dallas Cowboys ready for Saturday night's grudge renewal with the Green Bay Packers in the revamped Cotton Bowl, admits he still does not know "how good our offense really is."

"It is better than last year, but it isn't where it should be," Landry said, adding that "the Rams game (which the Cowboys won 42-10 last week) was not a good gauge."

"We got two quick touchdowns and that makes a difference," he said. "Our running has improved each week and we are making progress in our passing, but it still isn't where it should be. At this stage, I'd say balance is our strong point."

Needless to say, Landry and the Cowboys feel better coming off that Rams victory about going against the Packers before 70,000 plus fans and a national television (CBS) audience at 8:30 p.m. CDT Saturday.

The Cowboys have a score to settle with Green Bay, which has nipped them 34-27 and 21-17 in the final seconds of NFL championship games the past two winters, but they know that this game can't begin to make up for those two losses. It can only ease the pain a bit.

Dallas has beaten the Packers two of the last three pre-season tilts, but overall trails 61-2 against the world champions.

Dallas has a 2-1 pre-season record with two straight victories over San Francisco and Los Angeles after a loss to the Chicago Bears, while the Packers are 1-2 with consecutive losses to New York Giants and the Bears after beating the College All-Stars.

It has been nine years since Green Bay has lost three in a row.

Sidelined Last Year

It was just a year ago that Allen was sidelined for the season when he severed tendons in his hand while pushing his car when his hand went through the headlight.

Allen's first homer—boosted the Phils' lead to 4-2 in the third inning and then he added a two-run blast off Willis with Roberto Pena on base in the seventh.

Elsewhere in the National League, Cincinnati edged Pittsburgh 7-5 and San Francisco topped Los Angeles 3-1.

In the American League, Detroit, stopped Chicago 4-2, Oakland edged California 2-1, Cleveland nipped Boston 3-1 and Minnesota beat New York 3-1.

Chris Short went all the way for the Phils while scattering 10 hits to boost his record to 13-11. Jaster, who gave up four runs in the first three innings, suffered his fifth straight defeat and is now 8-10.

The Cards, who've now lost seven of their last 12, still have a comfortable 13 game lead in the National League race. San Francisco is second while Cincinnati and Chicago are tied for third, 13 1/2 games back.

Commit Errors
The Cards didn't play sharp ball, either, in this game. With a 2-1 lead, they committed a pair of miscues to give the Phils two runs.

That put the Phils ahead 3-2 and Allen's two homers accounted for the next three runs that wrapped up the triumph.

Tony Perez extended his hitting streak to 20 straight games with a two-run triple that highlighted a three-run row.
