Infantrymen Smash N. Viet Fortress

By JACK WALSH
SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. infantrymen riding atop tanks smashed into a North Vietnamese fortress in the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ), military spokesmen said today. The Americans killed 65 Communists and suffered no losses. It raised to 177 the North Vietnamese troops killed in two days of American strikes into the buffer zone between North and South Vietnam. Not one American was killed in the fighting.

In the latest strike, GIs riding piggyback on their tanks crashed into the fortress Thursday. The Red bastion lay a mile inside the six-mile-wide DMZ, just above the Marine outpost of Con Thien in South Vietnam.

In the south, South Korean infantrymen searching a network of natural caves near South Vietnam's central coast reported killing 89 Communists in another major action Thursday.

Bunker, Thieu Meet
Elsewhere in South Vietnam, a lull in major ground fighting continued. In Saigon American Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker met South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu for the seventh time in 10 days. Thieu's supporters called it a "decisive" session on aligning peace talk strategy.

American B52 bombers led up their strikes on Communist troop concentrations and storage areas across the nation, flying 122 missions Thursday and early today. For the second time in as many days, U.S. fighter-bomber pilots capitalized on a break in monsoons over North Vietnam and flew 122 missions against strategic supply targets in the panhandle region.

In Saigon, South Vietnamese spokesmen attempted to end speculation that the government's plan to release 140 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong prisoners was related to the latest peace overtures. "There is no connection at all between the release and negotiations in Paris," a spokesman said.

American troops fought six engagements with North Vietnamese forces Thursday in the area centered about four miles northeast of Con Thien in the DMZ, the six-mile-wide buffer zone that separates North and South Vietnam.

The spokesmen said artillery and air strikes were credited with killing 58 of the 65 Reds who lost their lives in the fighting. Wednesday allied troops killed 112 Communists in fighting in the DMZ.

A delayed report said troops of the U.S. 9th Infantry Division killed 13 Communist Wednesday in a daylong battle 40 miles south of Saigon. The action cost the Americans two dead and 10 wounded.

Radio Hanoi in a broadcast monitored in Saigon early today claimed its forces shot down four U.S. planes Tuesday and Wednesday to bring the total American aircraft downed over the north to 3,229. It said one of the planes was destroyed by "girl people's soldiers."

Czech Workers Lose Reforms

By JAMES O JACKSON
PRAGUE (UPI)—Alexander Dubcek rose to power with a vow to fulfill the old Communist promise that workers would run their factories. Today the vow was buried by the force of Kremlin armies.

The dumping of the workers' council system marked the fall of all the major reforms wrought by Dubcek's Czechoslovak party reformers. It marked the triumph of sorts of the Soviet bloc invasion of this country Aug. 21, an action designed to crush the reform.

Dubcek, still party first secretary but now under intense Soviet pressure, gave his people the news Thursday night. It came in a government statement read on Prague television: "It is not useful to further develop workers' councils. Other forms of participation of workers in supervising factories must be found and applied." The councils had angered the Kremlin. The only Red regime in East Europe that had dared give factory control to workers was maverick Yugoslavia. The Soviets condemned the councils, saying they fouled the Soviet

Huff Awaits Jury Action Here On More Charges

Ernest L. (Rusty) Huff, convicted last year for the armed robbery of the First State Bank of Miami, was returned to Roberts County last week to stand trial on additional charges of driving a car without the owner's consent and assault with intent to murder. District Judge Grainger McIlhenny granted a change of venue on the motion of Huff's court-appointed attorney, James R. Bowers, and Huff is now being held in Gray County jail pending trial here in 31st Judicial District Court. No date has yet been set for trial.

Huff received a 20-year sentence for robbery of the bank in a trial in 31st Judicial District Court in Lipscomb County in Oct., 1967. He has been serving the first year of that sentence at the state penitentiary in Huntsville.

A Roberts County grand jury returned three indictments against Huff a short time after the March 3, 1967 robbery of the First State Bank of Miami.

Hanoi Leaves Move Up to Washington

By LOREN JENKINS
PARIS (UPI)—The next move in bargaining for Vietnam peace talks is up to the United States. North Vietnamese sources indicated today. In Saigon, U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker today conferred an hour and 45 minutes with President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam in what may have been an allied effort to line up strategy for the diplomatic duel with Hanoi. The Communist sources here hinted Hanoi has answered an American plan for cooling down the war enough to permit peace talks. They suggested North Vietnam is waiting for Washington's reply.

The Red sources described North Vietnamese delegates to preliminary talks here as "waiting with mounting tension" for the American reply.

The North Vietnamese here and American leaders in Washington continued a sealed lips policy on the secret diplomacy. But according to Western and Communist diplomatic sources the bargaining still centered on Hanoi's demand that no peace conference can open until the Americans stop the air and sea bombardment of North Vietnam.

According to the diplomats, the United States has told Hanoi it would halt the bombing if North Vietnam in turn de-escalated its war effort at the same time and agreed to South Vietnam's participation in any peace conference.

LBJ Is a Grandfather Again

By HELEN THOMAS
BETHESDA, Md. (UPI)—A 7-pound, 8-ounce baby girl was born early today to Lynda Bird Robb, President and Mrs. Johnson's elder daughter, at Bethesda Naval Hospital. Both are reported doing fine.

The Johnsons quickly cabled the news to Lynda's husband, Marine Capt. Charles S. "Chuck" Robb, serving at Da Nang, South Vietnam, and telephoned the other grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. James S. Robb in Milwaukee. The President also said pictures of the infant were being sent to the father with Gen. Lewis Walt, assistant Marine Corps commandant, flying to Vietnam today. "It was a dream come true," Johnson said, beaming, as he announced the birth while passing out cigars and munching from a big box of chocolates at the hospital's presidential suite.

Balance Family
Both the Johnsons had hoped for a girl cousin for Patrick Lyndon Nugent, 16-month-old son of younger daughter, Luci. Mrs. Johnson, at her husband's side, said no name had been chosen for the granddaughter. "I am so glad, relieved and happy," she said. "We are very happy and the baby is quite normal," Johnson said. The baby was born in the fourth-floor obstetrics department at 12:03 a.m., EDT, with five Navy doctors in attendance. She measured 20 inches.

Lynda, 24, was given a local anesthetic, and was conscious and alert the 15 minutes she was in the delivery room, Mrs. Carpenter said. After the initial excitement died down in the first-floor hospital room where the announcement was made, the President said: "Mrs. Johnson and I and Lynda and Chuck are very

Liberals Disturbed By Arms Suggestions

By MERRIMAN SMITH
NEW YORK (UPI)—Richard M. Nixon wants the United States returned to "clear-cut" military superiority over every other nation in the world, particularly the Soviet Union.

By having the United States in a position of undisputed military superiority, the Republican presidential candidate believes America than would be in a much better position to avoid future wars.

Nixon's hard-line speech on American military power and the need for improving it was delivered via nationwide radio (CBS) Thursday night after the candidate returned to his New York headquarters from a day-long automobile speaking tour in the Lehigh Valley of Pennsylvania.

This was one of NIXON's more militant speeches of the campaign. His stand seemed certain to arouse liberals and other strong advocates of disarmament. The GOP nominee was home from the campaign trail for the first time since last Monday. He

Activities Slated For Homecoming

Pampa High School students and ex-students are participating in homecoming festivities today and will honor a gold medal winning graduate during the Pampa-Caprook football game halftime. Randy Matson, winner of the 1968 Summer Olympics gold medal in shot put, will be guest of honor at the PHS football game halftime.

Matson holds the world's record in the shotput and won his medal for the United States in the event in Mexico City last week. After registration this afternoon, they attended a barbecue until 6 p.m. and a homecoming game in the Harvester football stadium.

There will be a dance in the Youth Center after the game. The Mojos will play dance music until 12 p.m. During the dance, debate team members will sell soft drinks to finance their trip to Miami, Fla. Festival; and the band and choir will sell other refreshments to finance their trip to Los Angeles '68 project.

The band and choir will play halftime performance for the Los Angeles Rams-Baltimore Colts National Football League game, which will be televised nationally Dec. 15.

Door prizes for the dance will be given to the ex-student who travels the farthest and the graduating class with the most members attending.

will operate out of his New York headquarters until next Monday when he will hit the road again for a day-and-night rush toward election day. His speech on closing "the security gap" created by the Kennedy and Johnson administrations was taped early in the week and broadcast to the nation Thursday night.

"I intend to restore our objective of clear-cut military superiority—meaning by this, the aggregate that constitutes real superiority rather than competition weapon by weapon," he said.

Nixon proposed major reorganization of the Defense Department to correct overcentralization and overstaffing on top levels; return the National Security Council to a more prominent role in national security planning; revitalize military research and development.

"Our success in deterring war may wholly depend on our success in keeping the United States first in military science and technology," he said. "Our object is not belligerency, not turning ourselves into an international bully, not truculence or arrogance, but the very opposite," he said.

"Strength we want and strength we need to win and hold the peace. Our next president must be able to negotiate effectively with the Soviet Union and other nations on such issues as limitation of armaments. We will need to bargain our side not with concern but with confidence."

Priests Asking Resignation Of Archbishop Lucey

SAN ANTONIO (UPI)—The world-wide conflict between liberal Roman Catholics and the conservative Vatican focused in San Antonio today where liberal priests asked the resignation of their archbishop.

Fifty-one priests disclosed Thursday they have asked the Vatican for the resignation of Archbishop Robert E. The group said it sent an eight-page letter to Pope Paul and other Vatican officials, as well as Lucey, outlining what it (See PRIESTS, page 3)

Republicans Seem Headed for Gains in Election

By RAYMOND LAHR

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Republican candidates now appear headed for gains across the board in the Nov. 5 elections, but Richard M. Nixon might win the presidency while both houses of Congress stay under Democratic control.

Nixon's coalition pull to help the rest of the Republican ticket is reported strong in some states, weak in others.

Assessments of the outlook in the 50 states by UPI bureaus indicate the GOP would gain four to seven governorships if the elections were held now.

The Republicans would come out of U.S. Senate races with somewhere between an even break and again of four or more seats and would pick up seven to 17 seats in the House of Representatives.

Nixon In Front

Published polls and UPI surveys indicate Nixon still is in front of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, the Democratic presidential nominee, and George C. Wallace, candidate of the American Independent Party.

A pickup of five governorships would lift the GOP to a postwar high of 31, one more than it held after the 1952 election in which Dwight D. Eisenhower was elected by a landslide majority.

The Republicans now hold 26 governorships, a majority, as a result of an extraordinary comeback from their postwar low of 14 after the 1950 elections.

Twenty-one governorships will be filled this year. The Democrats now hold 13 of these and the Republicans eight. Only two of these are in populous, pivotal states—Illinois and Texas. Republican Richard B. Ogilvie is favored to unseat Gov. Samuel Shapiro in Illinois while Lt. Gov. Preston Smith is heavily favored to keep the Texas statehouse under Democratic control.

Iowa Governorship

Elsewhere, the GOP is expected to win the Iowa governorship now held by Democrat Harold E. Hughes, who is running for the U.S. Senate and is favored to win the seat of retiring republican Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper.

Republicans also are favored to displace Democrats in Vermont, where Gov. Philip H. Hoff is retiring, and in West Virginia, where Gov. Hulett C. Smith is ineligible for re-election. Rep. Arch A. Moore, R-W. Va., has moved out in front in his try for the governorship but left his West Virginia congressional seat ripe for Democratic plucking.

The Indiana governorship, now Democratic, is rated a tossup in the November voting. In Kansas, Democratic Gov. Robert B. Docking is in a tight race with Republican Rick Harmon, businessman and former basketball star.

In North Dakota Democratic Gov. William L. Guy is trying for an unprecedented fourth term against a strong bid by Robert P. McCarney, a Bismarck businessman.

An Even Bet

In Arkansas, Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller is viewed as no more than an even bet to win reelection over Democrat Marion H. Crank.

Montana also is a possible trouble spot for the GOP. One recent poll showed Democratic Atty. Gen. Forest Anderson with a 15-point lead over Gov. Tim Babcock, who is seeking re-election.

Republicans would enjoy control of more statehouses but what they want most after the presidency is control of Congress—at least of the House.

They have never had more than a faint hope of organizing the Senate, where the Democratic margin is now 63 to 37. The GOP needs a net gain of 13 seats and the tie-breaking vote of the vice president to take over control. Only 34 seats are to be filled this year, 23 now held by Democrats and eight by Republicans.

But all 435 seats are at stake in the House, and the party electing the President usually elects a majority. In the 1966 off-year elections, the GOP gained 47 seats, 31 short of the 218 needed for control. They have since gained one more in a special election to fill a Texas vacancy.

Most of the state-by-state reports in the UPI survey indicated little change in the lineup of House delegations. These reports anticipated a gain of one or two House seats each in New Jersey, Illinois and Texas and one in Washington. Possible Republican gains were listed at one or two in California, two in Florida offset by the possible loss of one, one in Hawaii, one or more in Indiana, one each in Iowa, Louisiana, Maryland and Montana, two in New York and one or two in North Carolina and Virginia.

Democrats were favored to replace a Republican in the House in one Alabama district, one in Missouri, one or two in Ohio, and one in West Virginia. Democrats were given a chance to pick up as many as three in Alabama, as well as two in Georgia.

Depending how strong Humphrey runs in his home state each party was given a chance to gain a seat in Minnesota.

Goldwater Favored

In Senate races, former Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, 1964 Republican presidential nominee, is heavily favored to win the seat of retiring Democratic Sen. Carl Hayden in Arizona. Rep. Edward J. Gurney, R-Fla., is considered ahead of former Gov. Leroy Collins for the seat of retiring Florida's Democratic Sen. George Smathers.

In the tossup class, Sen. A. S. Mike Monroney is trying for reelection against Republican former Gov. Henry Bellmon in Oklahoma, and Sen. J. P. Clark is paired against Rep. Richard S. Schweiker in Pennsylvania.

If Nixon wins South Dakota by a sizeable margin, former Republican Gov. Archie Gubbrud is expected to defeat Democratic Sen. George S. McGovern.

In other Republican target states, Democratic candidates for seats now held by Democrats are given an edge. These include Alaska, Connecticut, Idaho, Indiana, Maryland, Missouri, Nevada, Ohio, Oregon and South Carolina.

The incumbents among those are Sens. Abraham A. Ribicoff, Conn.; Frank Church, Idaho; Birch Bayh, Ind.; Daniel B. Brewster, Md.; Alan E. Bielev. Wayne L. Morse, Ore.; and Ernest F. Hollings, S.C.

The GOP could lose two

Senate seats it now holds. Democrat Hughes is favored in Iowa and in California, Max Rafferty, who defeated Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel in the Republican primary, is the underdog against Alan Cranston, former state controller.

SPARK RIOT

HONG KONG (UPI)—A dispute between two motorists over who had the right of way erupted into a riot involving more than 100 persons Thursday. Police said five persons were injured in the fistcuffs that broke out in the New Territories of Kowloon. There were no arrests.

Next President to Face Space Budget Problems

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The successful flight of the Apollo 7 moonship means that the next U.S. president will be confronted with a difficult decision in fixing budgetary priorities.

Should he allot millions of more dollars to continue the program aimed at the conquest of outer space? Or should he divert this money into another program aimed at the conquest of the common cold?

With their near perfect performance, the Apollo crew members reminded us that man's age-old dream of reaching the stars apparently is nearing reality.

But they also reminded us that man's age-old dream of curing the sniffles apparently is as far from fulfillment as ever.

By making an all-out effort, the United States likely could achieve one of these goals. It is doubtful, however, that the nation's resources are great enough to support both quests simultaneously.

It will be up to the president to choose between them, and I certainly don't envy him that task.

One thing the president must keep in mind is the historical perspective. Is history to record that the first human being to set foot on the moon had a runny nose?

Chances are that scholars of the future would find this incongruous, to say the least. How could a nation have been advanced enough for space travel if it were baffled by post-nasal drips?

Another consideration is the question of whether the space program can ever expand to its full potential as long as the cold problem remains unsolved.

It isn't easy for man to keep his eyes on the stars when his nose is buried in a handkerchief.

These factors would seem to weigh in favor of giving cold research priority over the space program. However, there is also a chronological precedent to take into account.

At some point in his deliberations the president will ask: which came first, the cold germ or the moon?

The current consensus is that the moon was formed before the advent of the cold germ. It may therefore be argued that the moon probes are entitled to first call on the Treasury.

There is even a remote possibility that a cure for colds will be found on the moon.

Our astronauts may discover that the germs are killed by earthlight.

MAN RESCUED

At Bressanone, Italy, a group of children playing on the banks of the River Isarco did not hesitate when they saw Josef Messner, 86, slip and fall into the icy waters Thursday. They pulled the old man ashore and took him to a hospital. Doctors said he suffered nothing worse than a cold.

THE GREAT PUMPKIN

At Wilmington, Calif., the Union Oil Co. took note of approaching Halloween and painted its 80,000-barrel pumpkin-shaped storage tank orange, with four-foot eyes, a nose and a toothy grin 73-feet wide.

BIG INVITATION

God has been invited to speak Nov. 4 at Iowa State University at Ames. Roger Bauer, a student, said he has written a letter to God asking him to discuss "various aspects of human nature. As of right now, I have heard no word that God is not coming, so as of today, he is going to come to Iowa State." Bauer cautioned: "It is of the utmost importance to keep this event serious."

The system of worker control of factories had won loud support from workers previously angered by Stalinist rule which permitted incompetent managers to keep their posts because of party loyalty.

Priests

called the "deteriorating situation of the Catholic Church in the Archdiocese of San Antonio."

Reason for Action

Part of the letter read: "We act after prayer and meditation. We do not act rashly. We act out of a concern for the church and love."

The differences between the priests and Lucy dite back to February of 1967 when two San Antonio priests aided in an attempt to organize an agricultural union in the Lower Rio Grande Valley.

"I was at work and I knew about 10 minutes after it was born," Robb said.

The combat veteran, for two months a supply officer, began handing out cigars. He told United Press International, "I'm up against an emergency resupply of cigars."

Lucey's archbishopric and South Texas have a heavy population of Mexican-Americans, many of whom are poor and nearly all of whom are Catholics.

Lucey, a long-time champion of better pay and working conditions for the common laborer, once said, "The only one effective way (to accomplish anything) is to organize. Without organization you are defenseless and alone."

Lucey, a long-time champion of better pay and working conditions for the common laborer, once said, "The only one effective way (to accomplish anything) is to organize. Without organization you are defenseless and alone."

A lay Catholic group in San Antonio, the Association for Lay Involvement, pledged support of the priests late Thursday night.

Robb Hears Of Daughter's Birth In Ten Minutes

DA NANG, Vietnam (UPI)—The father of President Johnson's granddaughter heard of today's birth within 10 minutes.

In another 10 minutes he ran out of celebration cigars.

"It feels great!" said Marine Capt. Charles "Chuck" Robb, husband of the President's elder daughter, Lynda.

Leaders Falling

DeCluitt said "our state leadership is falling us when our state ranks well below the national average on how much our teachers are paid and on the expenditures per pupil in school."

In other areas of state politics: —U.S. Rep. Jim Collins of Dallas, said 83 per cent of the 37,642 persons answering a poll in his constituency favor an "escalation of the air and naval war in Vietnam, based on the bombing of strategic centers and blockading harbors."

Police Probe Two Burglaries

Pampa police were investigating today two burglaries that occurred late Wednesday or early Thursday at two Pampa taverns.

Jo Rivall reported to police Thursday that Jay's Lounge, 621 W. Foster, had been burglarized.

According to the police report someone entered through a back door while the tavern was open and hid in a basement until closing time.

The burglar then pried open money boxes on the pool table and juke box and made off with approximately $15.

Pauline Martinez told police Thursday that the El Rancho Club, 740 W. Brown, had been broken into.

About $70 was reported taken from pool tables in the bar.

$1,000 Bond Set

Bond of $1,000 was set by Justice of Peace Nat Lunsford early today for Harriett Dulaney of Pampa.

The woman was arrested by Pampa police and later transferred to Gray County jail.

She was charged with forgery and passing.

"The baby has arrived in accordance with our hopes and she is 20 inches long and weighs seven pounds and eight ounces. Her father has been notified by radio and cable.

"She has black hair and apparently is healthy and vociferous. She seems to know she is here and has work out for her, because she has already expressed herself.

"Lynda is very happy and seems to be very normal and relaxed. We talked to her for several minutes."

Johnson said the only thing that made him sad was Robb could not be present on the happy occasion.

Wise Brides-to-Be Use Kitchen Aids

By AILEEN NODDY
NEA Home Editor
NEW YORK—(NEA)—A wise bride-to-be avoids boasting of her kitchen talents unless she is prepared to back her pretty word with a casserole, properly done steak or mom's apple pie. It is a danger she sidesteps as graciously as possible. And for good reason.

Having judged several "homemaking" contests for high school and college students it is obvious to me that cooking still defies a large number of pretty young things until the showdown. This comes quickly. Once the glamorous trappings of a wedding are secure in the memory book, a bride discovers there is more to showing off her china, crystal and silver than arranging it decoratively on a table. Properly prepared food helps as an accomplishment. For this you start from scratch. Buying cookware and kitchen utensils may sound mundane to the bride-to-be. It can be great fun, even for those less than at home before the range. A good cookbook and basic equipment help build confidence.

When buying your first kitchen equipment, select tools and utensils that will last. Wait until you are more experienced before filling empty drawer spots with gadgets. Buy equipment now to suit your budget, abilities, needs and storage space.

A home economist for a housewares manufacturer devotes a major part of her time planning and outfitting workable kitchens and suggests starting with the work areas these are around the refrigerator, range and sink. You'll need equipment at each spot and much of it wise shower guests will provide.

The next scheduled meeting will be the Thanksgiving party for members and their husbands.

Refreshments were served to Mrs. E.C. Goodlett, A.W. Knorpp, Lee Kirk, Meredith Kendrick, Leldon Hudson, Ross Nix, Emalea London, Bill Cornett, Robert Milton, Charles Fields, John L. Witt, George Eschle, Bob Newton and C.L. Culver.

Bologna Cups

Here's that something special for breakfast—bologna cups filled with scrambled eggs. Heat is what does the trick in making the bologna cups. Melt 2 tablespoons lard or drippings in a large frying-pan. Add bologna slices—1 to 2 slices per serving. Brown the meat slowly.

Jumper Set Leaps to Major Fashion, Can Be a Bargain

By HELEN HENNESEY
(NEA) Women's Editor
NEW YORK—(NEA)—Jumper jargon is being spoken in the best of circles, and it's more than just talk. Jumpers are assuming major status as part of the sportswear renaissance. One major sportswear house scores jumpers so high that it has over a dozen different styles scheduled to swing into action. There are V-neck, low pleated jumpers in wool plaid with 1930's overtones that are especially evident when a long rope of pearls is added to the costume and knotted low. Another style has a bias cut overall-type bib top. The skirt is flared and easy. Anyone can enter the fun and games and wear a "rompa"—a jumper with a divided skirt. If jogging is part of day's activities, a wool flannel or twill "rompa" is zoned for any current jogging.

The jumper craze works on the buddy system which rules that tops to wear underneath are of equal importance. First in line this season are shirts—the artist's shirt, the dandy ruffled shirt and the very important stock-tie shirt. All come in washable crepe and in a wide choice of colors.

Leave no stone unturned and discover other jumpers that have cinched belts, suspender tops, hardware zippers or suede trim.

This new fashion is easy on the budget, too. You can team just two jumpers with a variety of shirts and come up with several different looks for fall.

New dress uniform for Girl Scout adult leaders is pictured in long-sleeved fall version. Summer model has short sleeves. Both, in green, have matching beret, bone gloves and neck scarf.

Your Horoscope
JEANE DIXON

Saturday, Oct. 26

Your birthday today: In the coming year you will not be confronted with any particular personal problem. You will have full opportunity to demonstrate organizational skills. The prevention of accidents can be achieved only by constant common sense. Today's natives tend to be social planners.

ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 19): You will be lucky indeed if you can put together even the slightest material gain from this weekend's discussions. Legal matters are especially difficult; check everything before you sign it. Family tends to be restless.

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20): All new information today is to be taken only with a grain (or two) of salt. Nothing is quite what it is said to be. Talk distracts rather than helps.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Your feelings can get confused on a day like this when you are able to see both sides of so many questions concerning the people you care about. Likewise, decisions on correspondence and buying are difficult.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Differences of opinion escalate if you fail to use all the tact you can manage. You have to expect people to be critical today, so either avoid them or absorb their comments.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Check details and outside information. As a diversion, find time to get in some physical exercise in order to give your psychic nature a break.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Before the day is out, you are apt to see lots of details. Conserve your strength. Stay with minimal activities today and tonight.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): It's really a some-what uneasy weekend. It will help you to that most of what is talked about, particularly family issues, will never come to pass. SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Agreements of any kind are hindered by too much discussion. (There is something unspoken operating, along with other factors.)

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Your friends are the first ones to mix things up with incomplete tales. Your mail is likewise short of the full story. The narrow, thrifty course is the only one to follow now.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Travel and legal contracts are mostly unsuccessful today. Expect some baseless criticism, and don't dignify it with answers.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Correct decisions are harder to come by now and perhaps should be postponed altogether. Travel, even for a short distance, encounters obstacles. The fewer people involved today, the more success.

PISCES (Feb. 19-Mar. 20): People are in disagreement. There is nothing much you can do but try to understand. Let others talk; if they overdo it and you do not reply, they will later make amends unbidden.

Olympics Parades
2 Fashion Winners

By HELEN HENNESSY
NEA Women's Editor

NEW YORK (NEA) — The U.S. Olympic team, best of the country's young athletes, designed fashion winners when marching on parade at the XIX Olympiad in Mexico City, thanks to the talents of two design students, Jerylyn Crooks and Judith Schwartz, both under 21.

The men's uniform, designed by Jerylyn Crooks when she was a junior at the Parsons School of Design, features a double-breasted red blazer jacket, slightly shaped, with side vents, worn with blue and white pinstripe slacks, both executed by Palm Beach in men's wear fabrics. A marine blue Medic Ltd. turtleneck sweater, black mid-length socks and moccasins complete the men's outfit.

The women's uniform, designed by Judith Schwartz when she was a sophomore at Pratt Institute, features a long-sleeved, princess line white dress of ribbed polyester knit. Judith used a wide, flag red and blue chevron inset, symbolic of the American flag, at the neckline. Cameo white opaque pantyhose and bright blue patent squared-off pumps add the perfect touch.

The Comb in Public
The charming and elegant woman never combs her hair in public. Naturally, it goes without saying that if you are at a restaurant or any public place and a stray strand falls into your face, excuse yourself and go to the powder room for a quick repair job.

This unique concept of having youth design for youth — the United States is the first nation to have amateur designers creating for amateur athletes of roughly the same age is the brain child of the U.S. Olympic Apparel Committee.

The textile firm which supplied the yarns or fabrics used in the parade clothes, together with the committee, held a nationwide competition in college-level design schools and had the students submit sketches that later were judged by a distinguished panel of leaders in the fashion field.

Tall and soft-spoken, with a penchant for strong, rich colors, Jerylyn, who graduated from Parsons in June, is now an assistant to designer Kasper of Joan Leslie. Eventually, she plans to create couture clothes and looks to Galanos and Norell for inspiration.

Elong and effervescent Judith was taught dressmaking by her mother when Judith was only 10. Raised in Providence, she attended Saturday classes at the Rhode Island School of Design before coming to New York and enrolling in Pratt Institute where she is now a senior.

"I designed the parade dress with an eye to wearability and climate," she said. "I wanted a silhouette that would look as well on both slim and heavy figures."

The two young designers had the opportunity to see their ideas put to the test this October. They attended the Olympic Games, where they saw their designs modeled before the world.

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am worried. I read somewhere that a girl can get cancer from kissing a boy who smokes a lot if he happens to have an open cut on his tongue or lip. Is this true?

THIRTEEN AND WORRIED DEAR THIRTEEN: No, it's not true, although there are other diseases which are transmitted in this manner. Obviously you're old enough to read, but you're hardly old enough to go in for the kind of kissing you describe, so the word from here is to read more, kiss less, and you won't have to worry.

DEAR ABBY: I am very much in love with a married man. I know this sounds corny but his wife doesn't understand him (I do). He spends half his time with me and the other half at home because he has children. He tells me he hasn't loved his wife for a long time and that he has absolutely nothing whatsoever to do with her, but last night in his sleep he called me by her name. What do you think?

THE GIRL FRIEND DEAR GIRL FRIEND: I think you ought to pray that this never happens in reverse.

DEAR ABBY: I am a normal, red-blooded, 29-year-old man who would like to get married. I am not looking for a rich girl, or a beauty either, as I am nothing out of the ordinary. But I do want a woman no man has ever had before.

I was on the brink of marriage twice in my life. One was a divorcee and the other a widow. I simply could not bring myself to marry either one of them knowing they had been in the arms of another man. I fully realize it was not the widow's fault that her husband died, and the divorcee was also blameless because her husband ran off and left her. All the same, I want a woman who has never been with a man — if you know what I mean. Am I asking too much? Sign

"LOUIS THE FIRST" DEAR LOUIS: No, but your kind usually winds up "LOUIS XVII!" And now may I ask you a question? Have you ever been with a woman — if you know what I mean?

DEAR ABBY: I'm writing in reference to "WORRIED," who stated her dilemma about, whether to tell her neighbor with a 4-year-old boy about the teen-ager on their street who has molested children. You said, YES, by all means tell her.

I say, YES, YES, YES, tell her immediately! We lived on our street for 2 years with our two beautiful pre-school-age daughters when we learned that a neighbor had a history of child molesting. When I mentioned this to several neighbors to warn them to watch their children closely, they said they already knew about it, but no one wanted to tell US for fear of "upsetting" us.

To keep silent when one knows of an evil is to condone it. If one of my daughters had been molested, those silent neighbors would have been morally guilty.

NO NAME, PLS. CONFIDENTIAL TO STEVEN COHEN AND ALL THE OTHER PERPLEXED MEN IN "WESTPAC": Don't give your buddy a salt water bath. What he needs is a cold shower.

School girls some times look just like boys, from the chains around their neck to the boy shoes on their feet. "Seventeen" says, Long double breasted jackets in solid, striped or plaid came go with soft-look shirts and tailored skirts, while beads get together with shirts and skirts in mixed menswear patterns. The shirt-dress and the khaki cape are two more expressions of the "what's his is hers" fashion philosophy.

TWO-PIECE DISCOVERY

For special occasions you will want a style that stands out as being cleverly fashioned. Begin with a fitted jacket having a bow-tied collar, to be topped by a hip-length jacket. The jacket is shaped to boast the feminine form. Vary the version with a contrast collar. In any manner it proves flattering to the half-sizer.

Offering a variety of fabric, accessory and color suggestions is this exclusive Fashion Coordinator included with each Young Original Pattern.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Because New Yorkers were such wisecracks, New York City was called Gotham by Washington Irving in "Salmagundi Papers," 1807. The World Almanac says, Gotham is an English town whose people were once famous for feigning foolishness. When King John wanted to build a palace there the Gothamites, fearing the costs of a royal court, acted so stupidly that the king willingly left. Thereafter it was said: More fools pass through Gotham than live there.

MEXICO CITY—An official of the Mexican Organizing Committee, commenting on a report that college students had stolen the true Olympic flame and substituted a false one: "It's just another ridiculous prank by college students."

Some say: "I don't need God" Maybe you don't... if you think of God as merely some distant person, or unknowable. But, if you were to know God as Mind, the source of all ideas and intelligence, or as Life, the source of strength and health... wouldn't it make sense to know Him better? You can... Practical ways of knowing God are discussed at the Christian Science Sunday School. Visit a class this Sunday at First Church of Christ Scientist 901 N. Frost.

Schools Still Ignoring Court's Decision

By LOUIS CASSELS United Press International A large majority of America's schools are still ignoring the Supreme Court's invitation to teach objectively about religion. The invitation was extended five years ago in the same ruling that held it was unconstitutional to conduct devotional exercises in public school classrooms. While government-sponsored acts of worship violate the constitutional guarantee of religious liberty, the court said, there is no legal barrier to "study the Bible or of religion, when presented objectively" as part of a secular program of education. This means that any public school is free to offer academic courses in which students get acquainted with the Bible as one of the world's greatest masterpieces of literature, or make a comparative study of the various religious traditions that have helped to shape American history. Schools also can—and, the Supreme Court strongly suggested, should include consideration of religious viewpoints in social science, ethics, philosophy courses. Few Schools Respond Some schools are responding to this wide-open opportunity to help overcome the religious illiteracy of American youth. A survey by the Religious Instruction Association turned up 26 communities, ranging geographically from Newton, Mass., to Seattle, Wash., in which public high schools are offering courses on the Bible. At least six other communities, scattered across the nation from Claremont, Calif., to New Haven, Conn., are giving their students a chance to study comparative religion, the history of religions, or the role of religion as a formative influence in culture. There may be a few other communities that the Religious Instruction Association doesn't know about. But at best, only tiny fraction of the nation's

A dedication dinner for parishioners, under the direction of James J. O'Conner, in the school gymnasium will follow the Mass. Sunday's ceremonies mark the completion of St. Vincent de Paul Catholic Church and School's eleven-year, million-dollar building program. The final phase, construction of the new church, was begun in the Spring of 1967. It is located between the school and rectory on a 17-acre church-school tract in northwest Pampa. Built under the direction of Bishop DeFalco, the church structure is of white brick and steel frame construction and its architecture blends with other buildings on the site. It will seat 800 persons and off-street parking is provided for 250 cars. There is a 100-foot bell tower at the northeast corner of the church and the baptistry is located on the ground floor of the tower. A glass enclosed "cry" room and "bride" room are also featured. In addition, the church has year around air conditioning and carpeted interior. The roof is of tile construction. General contractor for the project was Allen Ritter Construction Co., of Amarillo, and the architect was Charles L. Monnet, Jr. and Associates of Oklahoma City. The original project was begun some eleven years ago by then pastor, Rev. Moynihan, and continued under the late Rev. Otto Meyer, C.M., Rev. Cashman, Rev. Brennan, all Vincentian fathers. The original building committee was composed of Fred J. Neslage, chairman; James B. Massa, E.J. Dunigan, Jr., and the late Roy E. McKernan, who along with his wife, Julia, was a generous benefactor. Present building committee consists of chairman Neslage, Dunigan, Massa, James J. O'Conner, John M. Sweeney, and assistant pastor of the church, Rev. F. J. Hynes, C.M. First phase of the program was completed Sept. 27, 1969, when the Most Rev. John-L. Morkevsky, St. D., Bishop of Amarillo, blessed and dedicated the church-school complex. Previous to August of that year, St. Vincent was known as Holy Souls parish and was located between West and Ward streets. The overall plant, in addition to the new church, includes a ten-classroom school with library, cafeteria, gymnasium and other facilities, an eleven-room convent; and an eight-room, two-story rectory. Daily classes are held at St. Vincent from kindergarten through the sixth grade. The school is under the direction of Sisters of Charity of Incarnate Word, who also staff the St. Anthony Hospital and St. Mary's Academy in Amarillo.

The anthem will be presented by the Sanctuary Choir under the direction of Miss Rosemary Lawlor and accompanied by Mrs. John Gill. Youth groups of the city are being asked to participate in the CROP program this week. The youth will meet at the First Methodist Church for instructions and will solicit from 3 to 5 p.m. Youth Groups of the church will have a Snack Supper at 5:30 p.m. Sunday, with individual meetings at 6 p.m. The Builders Sunday School Class will have their class party at 7 p.m. Tuesday. THE GREATEST THING IN THE WORLD

The greatest thing in the world is to know there is a God in heaven, that Jesus Christ, his Son is at His right hand, praying for the people in this world; and will return one of these days to take out those who are really looking and longing for Him.

The greatest thing in the world is to have hope of a better, richer life beyond this present life on earth. To know there is a Heaven which is prepared for the saints of God.

To know Heaven is a real place and not a myth. The streets are pure gold. Read Revelation chapters 21 and 22.

The foundations of the city are made of precious stones. There are 12 gates and every several gate is one pearl.

There is no night there.
There is no sickness or pain of any kind there.
No storm clouds ever appear in that city.
There are no riots, or thefts, no murders; no lawlessness of any kind.
There is no fear of pain.
Jails and prisons are not needed.
God will wipe away all tears from our eyes.

The peace and love of God fill that City. Everything is beautiful there. There are no sinners in heaven, but only those people who have been saved by the blood of Jesus.

Are you in that number?
If not, you can be.

Astronauts' Families View Rocket's Return

By PRESTON KIRK
SEABROOK, Tex. (UPI)—The families of the Apollo 7 astronauts followed their triumphant return to earth and concluded the spacecraft was a fine flier but a bad boat.

Among the detailed reports on radio and television was the fact the spacecraft settled onto the Atlantic nose-down rather than on its blunt heat shield.

Harriet Eisele, wife of Apollo crewman Donn Eisele, recalled the astronaut had formed an opinion of the seaworthiness of the spacecraft some time before.

"Well, he said it was a lousy boat," Mrs. Eisele said, as happy neighbors and relatives crowded about the den of her home in suburban El Lago and followed the successful end of a spectacular flight.

Little Jon Eisele, the astronaut's son who celebrated his fourth birthday just Monday, was not over-awed. He ran outside once in the excitement of the moment.

A few steps behind was the Eiseles' housekeeper. She called after him, "You get in here, you rascal you." And he did. Jon, looking smartly in little-boy style in a purple jump suit, did an aboutface and walked back into the two-story brick home. Jon was in "fine fettle," a friend of the family said.

The lights went on in the astronauts' comfortable suburban homes a good time before dawn today. The families gathered around television sets. Outside, the sky began to lighten and the first reddish color showed in the sky as the astronauts were settling into the ocean thousands of miles away.

It was a cool, rather dry, partly cloudy morning sky that greeted the families of Eisele, Walter Schirra and Walter Cunningham.

Newsmen gathered outside their homes and neighbors brought coffee cake and rolls. Barbara Young, wife of another astronaut, brought a bottle of pink champagne to the

New Materials Used For Building Houses

By BILL MULLINS
United Press International
The teen-agers of today probably will be able to choose between houses built of conventional materials and ones made of petrochemicals by the time they're able to buy homes. Experimental houses already are being built in many parts of the United States from such things as styrofoam, translucent plastic panels and fiberglass and polyester resin.

Eisele household to help celebrate. Suzanne Schirra, 11-year-old daughter of the Apollo 7 command pilot, exulted at the sight of her bearded father and his two crewmates getting on the deck of the carrier Essex.

The America Petroleum Institute has been watching some of these projects and many have proven successful.

"They're going to be real people again," said Suzanne. "It looks like he has lost weight," Jo Schirra said of her husband. A friend sitting nearby turned to her and said, "What a way to lose weight."

One is a 27-foot dome in Midland, Mich., built several years ago as a home for a local architect.

Schirra's beard growth looked luxurious to the home folks. "I hope he is not too attached to it," said Jo Schirra. It's great. I think he will be proud of it, he won't shave it off.

The structure was created out of styrofoam strips a special welding machine put together for doors and windows and the structure was sprayed with liquid cement.

She said of the flight, "I am very relieved. Everything went beautifully. Our only disappointment was, we could not see the parachutes (the chutes that settled the spacecraft into the ocean)."

A chemical firm built the styrofoam dome, but the University of Michigan has developed another method it feels will provide cheap but sturdy buildings.

Mrs. Schirra stood on the dewy grass of her front lawn, smiling broadly. She wore a kelly green dress. Her daughter was ready for the day's classes with a blue-and-white striped school dress.

The process involves winding a thread of fiberglass and polyester resin around a basic rectangular steel frame to form a building.

Somebody mentioned Schirra showed flashes of temper during the flight. "I think it was because he had a cold," Mrs. Schirra said. "You know how a man is with a cold. He is normally easy-going and nothing fazes him."

The university has recommended the process to the government as an inexpensive way of making buildings for Army camps.

The spacecraft's upside-down landing was described. "Well, it was a new spacecraft," she said.

In another part of the country, an Indiana firm has plans for using plastic foam walls that are expected to have a higher tensile and compressive strength than concrete once they harden.

Jo Schirra had a detailed flight plan at her house and followed every step of the astronauts' return with a stopwatch.

And there's an architect on the west coast talking about apartment houses that consist of prefabricated, lightweight plastic room units suspended from a central tower.

When it came time she knew the astronauts were having some pain in their stopped-up ears, she said, "They are saying 'ouch' about now."

The statistics are favorable for the development of plastic houses, both because of improved materials and because various plastic items already used in homes, such as pipe, have been proven workable.

Over 250 U.S. firms manufacture petrochemicals and about four of every 100 barrels of oil end up as petrochemicals. Some 30 per cent of all petrochemicals are plastics or plasticizers. Construction already accounts for 25 per cent of the total plastic consumption in the United States and that figure is rising.

Spokesmen for the oil industry estimate that by 1970 the nation will be using 10 billion pounds of plastic per year, which is over twice as much as the current figure.

The biggest problems faced by the industry in introducing plastics for building homes are the suspicious attitude builders have towards new materials and restrictive building codes.

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Televiewers will be wooed by record-length paid political broadcasts in prime time the night before the Nov. 3 presidential election.

Campaign backers of Richard Nixon, Hubert Humphrey and George Wallace have purchased blocks of the key viewing hours on Nov. 4, with all three networks serving as outlets.

Nixon's election eve appeal will be in the form of a two-hour broadcast in the time slot normally reserved for NBC-TV's Monday night movie: 9 to 11 p.m., EST.

Entitled "Ask Richard Nixon," the program will be live from NBC-TV's Burbank, Calif., studio facilities, with the candidate replying to questions posed in by the national television audience.

Humphrey's broadcast also will last two hours, on ABC-TV, and will start 30 minutes before the Nixon program, at 8:30 p.m., EST, presuming Dayton Place, "The Outcasts" and the first half of "The Big Valley" time slot.

According to network sources, a broadcast for the Wallace campaign is expected to occupy the last half of "The Big Valley" slot: from 10:30 to 11 p.m., EST.

Like Nixon, Humphrey will originate his election eve program from the Los Angeles area, and also will answer questions from viewers who phone in. A Humphrey aide said Wednesday night that vice presidential nominee Edmund Muskie might well be on hand too, and that celebrities are expected to help answer phones.

Nixon, by the way, will reply to questions for four hours so that his broadcast can be live on both coasts during the 9 to 11 p.m., time period. Humphrey, according to his aide, will answer queries for two hours, meaning his program will be live as it heads for points East, but will then be fed back on tape later for the West.

The Nixon broadcast, notes NBC-TV, will be "relayed to Hawaii" via satellite, marking the initial use of a communications satellite for a political telecast.

CBS-TV, meanwhile, will offer two half-hour political programs on election eve. The first, at 7:30 p.m., EST, is for Humphrey. The second, at 9 p.m., EST, is for Wallace. "Gunsmoke" has been eliminated from the network that night as CBS-TV altered its schedule slightly.

WASHINGTON—Sen. Robert P. Griffin, who led the successful fight against the nomination of Abe Fortas as chief justice, commenting on his dispute with the Post Office Department:

"When you stick your neck out and back the Johnson administration, I guess you have to expect this sort of thing."

BOSTON—Cardinal Richard Cushing, attacking critics of the marriage of the former Jacqueline Kennedy, a Roman Catholic, to divorced Greek shipping magnate Aristotle Onassis:

"This idea of saying she's excommunicated, she's a public sinner, what a lot of nonsense! Only God knows who is a sinner and who is not."

WILL BAR POSTERS

AMARILLO (UPI)—The Amarillo City Commission has voted to keep George Wallace for President posters out of three buses which operate in a Negro section of town.

William M. Anderson, an American Party committeeman, attended Tuesday's session and called for the suspension of city manager John Stiff.

HITS HOME

APOLLO, Pa. (UPI)—The successful 11-day flight of Apollo 7 which ended Tuesday had special meaning for this Pennsylvania town.

To celebrate the occasion, Mayor Dwayne Guthrie declared the rest of the week "Apollo 7 week" to salute the mission by astronauts Wally Schirra, Donn Eisele and Walter Cunningham.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI)—If you have any loose cash lying around, I would advise you to invest it in anti-perspirant slo.k.

Sales are certain to soar as soon as anti-perspirant companies began taking advantage of a discovery recently made by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

USDA scientists have found out why some people attract more mosquitoes than others. It's because their skins produce more lactic acid.

Which brings us to the key point as far as anti-perspirant makers are concerned. The department says that "lactic acid occurs on a person's skin as a natural constituent of sweat."

Zingo! If the anti-perspirant business can't reap a fortune from this development, then the free enterprise system is dead. I can already visualize the television commercials, one of which might unfold like this:

A tropical setting. Soft music and moonlight wafting through the palms. People dancing on the veranda of a plush resort hotel. Two pretty young schoolteachers standing by the balustrade.

First girl: I saw you dancing with that handsome Navy lieutenant, Peggy. Did he ask you for a date to go swimming tomorrow while the sparkling, azure surf is still being kissed by the roseate dawn?

Second girl: "No. We took one turn around the floor and then he wandered off to the bar alone. That crummy travel brochure promised I would find romance in this vacation paradise. It looks like I've blown a half-year's pay for nothing."

First girl: "Don't blame the travel brochure, Peggy. I wouldn't tell you this if I weren't your best friend, but you (dramatic pause) attract mosquitoes."

Second girl: "Well, I can't very well go around reeking of insect repellent. What's a pretty young schoolteacher to do?"

 Skeeter-Scream in my purse. It's the new miracle anti-perspirant that keeps lactic acid from forming on your skin."

Highlights and Sidelights From Your State Capitol

By VERN SANFORD
Texas Press Association

AUSTIN — At least half a dozen Democratic nominees for statewide office are weathering an unusually sharp attack from Republican challengers this year.

In a final flurry before the Nov. 5 general election, the attacks will be stepped up.

Taking no chances, candidate Preston Smith, Ben Barnes, candidate for lieutenant governor, and Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin have returned to full-time campaign status.

Their Republican challengers are Paul Eggers, Douglas DeCluit and Sproesser Wynn.

Republican Manny Sanchez of Brownsville also has campaigned actively for state treasurer against veteran incumbent Jesse James. GOPer E. H. Schunart of Dalhart is running hard for agriculture commissioner against John White and Millard Neptune of New Ulm is running a serious race to beat Land Commissioner Jerry Sadler.

Other statewide Republican candidates, who have campaigned less vigorously, are John Bennett and Jim Segrest of San Antonio, nominees for state comptroller and railroad commissioner respectively.

GOP campaign headquarters claims Bennett as a member of its "action team" but doesn't mention Segrest.

Comptroller Robert S. Calver and Railroad Commissioner Jim C. Langdon, James and White show no sign of concern.

Polls have indicated the statewide Democrats leading, but battle-wary veterans who face hard-charging opponents can't be sure how many Richard Nixon supporters will decide to vote a straight Republican ticket in indignant zeal for a "change".

GROUP SEEKS MORE MONEY — In their Association meeting here county judges and commissioners voted to ask the Legislature to give them more money for county business, and in several ways.

First, they endorsed Constitutional Amendment No. 7 on the Nov. 5 ballot. It would take the state out of the property tax field a little at a time between now and 1976. County officers want authority to levy this tax for county purposes as fast as the state abandons it.

A bigger share of automobile license plate fees also is sought. Where a county gets the first $50,000 in license plate fees, and half of the next $25,000, they would like for the Legislature to allow them to share with the state up to a total of $1,000,000 a year, instead of $175,000.

LAND SALE SET — A big sale of forfeited veterans land tracts is scheduled for Nov. 19. A list of tracts and their locations is available from the Veterans Land Board here, which will receive bids until the day of the sale.

Some tracts are available only to eligible veterans at five and a half per cent interest. Non-veterans are free to bid on most of the property, however, although they will have to pay six and a half per cent interest if they are successful purchasers.

ENROLLMENTS BOOM — Preliminary figures show there are 374,418 students enrolled in Texas higher education facilities today.

This represents a gain of 28,515 — or 8.24 per cent — over the 1967 fall enrollment of 345,903. Figure varies less than one half of per cent from the Coordinating Board, Texas College and University System staff projection.

Public senior colleges have 212,035 students, public junior colleges 87,581, private senior colleges 61,819, private junior colleges 9,687 and medical and dental units 3,111.

FOURTEEN VOTES — Campaigning is becoming a bit heated on the 14 proposals to amend the constitution on which Texans will vote Nov. 5.

Texas Municipal League and the Texas Water Development Board have come out against Amendment No. 12. This would allow cities, counties and navigation districts to issue bonds to finance buildings and equipment for manufacturers.

Both groups of public officials fear that huge industrial bond issues will drain off investment money needed by the cities and the water agency from their own bond issues.

On the other hand, the proposal is being supported by regional chambers of commerce and others. They say 44 states have such plans to attract industry, and Texas needs it, too.

Texas State Teachers Association, Texas Association of Classroom Teachers and Texas Association of College Teachers all have come out for Amendment No. 9. It would enable public teachers to put six per cent of their full salary into the retirement fund. Limit now is six per cent of $8,400 a year.

Texas Public Employees Association came out for Amendment No. 1, to raise the retirement "deduction" from five to six per cent, and to allow investment in corporation stocks of the trust fund built up for their retirement.

Texas A&M and the University of Texas may not agree on Thanksgiving Day football matters. But they are agreed on supporting Amendment No. 3. It would allow the investment of the University of Texas Permanent Fund in a higher percentage of corporation stocks, on the theory that the fund will make more money this way.

Amendment No. 5 would raise the pay of legislators from $400 a month to $700, and it is being supported by legislators and others who think it's become a full-time job.

Amendment No. 2 is being supported by older Texans. It would raise by $15,000,000 a year the amount the state can spend on old age assistance, aid to the needy blind and disabled, and to dependent children.

NEW JOB — When Gov. John Connally's term expires in January, he will move to Houston to join one of the state's biggest law firms. He will become a senior partner in the firm which will then be known as Vinson, Elkins, Searls and Connally. It represents a huge list of major business firms.

Connally said he hopes to get in a little Canadian or Pacific Northwest hunting before reporting for his new duties in Houston. He disclaimed any plans to re-enter politics.

RIOT INSURANCE IS CLEARED — State Board of Insurance has set in operation a plan under which policywriters in Texas can come under federal reinsurance in event of excessive losses from riots. Reinsurance is financed by premiums paid to the government by insurance concerns.

Board also named a governing committee to administer the plan. It includes James F. Devereaux, John W. Lenehan, Joe Dorsett, O. A. Edgeworth and F. F. Wasko of Dallas, Raymond Mauk of Houston, and Oran F. Needham of Fort Worth.

ATTORNEY GENERAL RULES — Attorney General Martin declined to give unconditional advance approval to Secretary of State Roy Barrera's directives for counting confused and unclear election ballots. Each election judge must make his own determination of the intent of the voter in marking his ballot by either "scratch" or "X" method, Martin said.

Other recent opinions concluded that:

—Department of Public Safety cannot pay for its current appropriations court costs assessed against the state by Val Verde county clerk.

—Only in absence of U.S. recognition of a country's sovereign immunity can a constable serve criminal or civil process on its ships. Sheriffs and constables can't serve such papers on a U.S. naval vessel, but can serve them in an enclosed commercial plant.

—There is no conflict of law in requirements of physical examinations before issuance of marriage licenses by county clerks.

—Comptroller may deny applications for cigarette distributor's permit on grounds of personal fitness.

—Treasury can pay out money to satisfy a corrected judgment if the money received through it has not yet been deposited. A legislative appropriation would be necessary to make payment from treasury deposits.

SHORT SNORTS

State Supreme Court will review an appeal by Pasadena in a land annexation suit with Houston.

State Department of Health had massive amounts of antitoxin drug flown here to combat a diphtheria epidemic which has struck 60.

Agriculture Commissioner White gave cotton farmers in 17 Coastal Bend Counties until Nov. 1 to complete harvest and cleanup of fields under pink bollworm law plowup rules.

Railroad Commission made no change in the Nov. oil production, holding it at 41.3 per cent of the wells' ability to produce, the same as October.

JOHNSON CITY, N.Y. (UPI) — Curtis LeMay put his solution to Vietnam in the form of an ultimatum Wednesday night — either begin honest negotiations or win the war with stepped up bombing.

TOO MANY VICES
SAGINAW, Mich. (UPI) — Rep. Elford A. Cedarberg introduced Republican presidential candidate Richard M. Nixon to an airport crowd Wednesday as "the future vice president of the United States."

"Don't," said the former vice president, "confuse me with Hubert Humphrey."

LED TO SLAUGHTER
WAUKESHA, Wis. (UPI) — Mrs. Billie Gross saw a car turn the wrong way down a one-way street, saw a police car make the same turn and assumed the road was open to two-way traffic again.

But the police car had stopped the first car and asked Mrs. Gross to discuss her unwarranted assumption. She was fined $20.

REVERSE DECISION
KEYES, Calif. (UPI) — The California Highway Patrol apparently believes in protecting motorists from pedestrians.

Two persons hit by a vehicle here and a man struck by a car at nearby Modesto were cited by the patrol for violating the right-of-way of the motorists.

The Pampa Daily News

A Watchful Newspaper
EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license, nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself. No more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Creeping Capitalism

Eminent economist, Ludwig von Mises, pointed out in his monumental treatise "Human Action" that, if what remains of laissez faire capitalism and free markets in so-called free countries were to suddenly vanish the more communistic nations, such as Soviet Russia and Red China, would either have to allow a much greater degree of market place freedom or, else, vanish themselves in turn.

There is more in the statement than at first meets the eye. For, as Mises carefully explained, it is only to the extent that some freedom of choice and some degree of market place activity prevail, that a pricing index can exist. And it is this pricing index, which is developed by consumers freely saying "yes" to this and "no" to that with their patronage of a business or product, that tells producers what the consumers want and need, what can be produced economically, and what must be produced if the economy of the country is not to fall into rack and ruin.

Since, in a totally socialized country, were such possible, no price index could develop at all and, to the degree that the economy of any given country is socialized, the existing price index is relatively unreliable, the managers of state owned factories in the more communistic (i.e., socialistic) countries have been forced to rely, in great measure, on the reliable price indexes which exist in countries where laissez faire capitalism and free markets prevail in greater degree.

And here, in what may turn out to be one of the paradoxes of all time we come to a budding development in the economic world of reality which must be giving the doctrinaire advocates of "public" (state) ownership conviction fits — the distinct probability that emerging and growing "creeping capitalism" abroad, with its competitive impact will force our own government, here in what was once the citadel of capitalism and private enterprise, to relax its death grip on the producers and consumers' throats.

Author William S. Ruckelshaus, in his article "Creeping Capitalism in Government Corporations" discusses the phenomenon at great length in the Sept. 15 Fortune Magazine. Despite mountains of evidence that capitalism and the market economy result in maximum prosperity, while socialization is a demonstrated failure resulting in inefficiency, criminal waste and poverty, "state ownership of all kinds of corporations," says the author, "is still a pervasive feature of the non-Communist world's economic landscape," as it is, of course, in the more socialized countries behind the iron and bamboo curtains. Ruckelshaus cites England, France, Austria, Mexico, Argentina, Brazil and India among others.

Yet, adds the author, "Lately change has been stirring in these great and sometimes inert masses. Many of their former principles (sic) and practices" are now recognized "to be obsolete. . . And labor shortages. . . emphasize the waste and feather bedding traditional in many state enterprises. . . A similar process is gathering strength in the Communist countries."

The author, correctly we believe, attributes this "stirring" and "gathering strength" in "free world" and "curtain" countries alike to a growing awareness, even in state-owned and controlled industries that market place activity, market place established prices and, most important, profits, are absolutely necessary as guides to what the author is saying, of course, and probably without realizing it, is that, without market place activity, market place established prices and profits indicating just how well the economy is being served, the managers of state owned or controlled, Sovietized, nationalized, socialized, communized industries have no price index to guide them; and that, without a price index to guide them, no way of knowing what and how much to produce.

Another, and more succinct, way of putting it is that socialism, in any form or degree, comes into headlong collision with the natural law of supply and demand, into collision with Nature herself; therefore, it cannot succeed.

The wave of the future, if our political rulers do not manage to blow us up first, will be laissez faire capitalism, free markets and free men; not an economy controlled by blindly acting bureaucrats served by regimented humanity.

"Creeping capitalism?" Let'er rip!

LeMay's Bombing Plans

Gen. Curtis LeMay, George Wallace's running mate, suggested this week that the United States fight the war in Vietnam in the same manner that it fought and won the war in Germany and Japan more than two decades ago.

Already there are signs that people are choosing up sides over LeMay, the former Air Force chief of staff. His comments on bombing the enemy are bringing charges that he is a dangerous man to have a heartbeat away from the White House. Those who dislike the "no-win" philosophy of the administration are praising his stand for a more aggressive type of military action.

However, it seems strange that there should be surprise that a military man advocates "winning a war. After all, that's the way the military man is trained. As Gen. MacArthur put it in the previous "no-win-war" in Korea, "In war, there's no substitute for victory."

We do not believe there is any real victor in war. Everybody loses in the long run, although some may believe they gain temporary benefits.

What bothers some persons is that some of the so-called liberals who want to get out of Vietnam regardless, because innocent civilians are being killed and injured, have not had the same attitude in other wars. There was little hysteria during World War II when the Air Force used saturation bombing against key cities in Germany and Japan. Civilians were being killed and maimed then, as in every modern war. But the "liberals" seem to accept the killing as a necessary part of war for victory.

LeMay's solution sounds harsh. It is harsh. War is harsh. And it's cruel and useless to continue to fight a war with the military unable to take the steps to prevent the enemy from obtaining its material and manpower with little hindrance.

We have yet to see any candidate for president or vice president answer the suggestion made several years ago. The proposal was that old ships be filled with cement and sunk to block the approaches to Haiphong Harbor. The difficulties of transferring huge quantities of war material from ships to the docks would be great. It would not involve any bombardment of civilians. But it does not seem to be acceptable as a suggestion.

We do not approve the war in Vietnam. We'd like to see the United States quit trying to police the world and concentrate on freeing its citizens. Our suggestion is that the United States, since it has got

Becoming Self-Reliant
Are you helping your child develop his skills in the best way? When we do for a child those things he can do for himself we are not being helpful; in fact, we are being a hindrance to his development.

Perhaps one of the most difficult tasks for a parent is to permit his child to become self-reliant, self-governing. Some parents enjoy the child's dependence on them and others just find it easier not to bother. But parents who have the child's interest at heart will discipline themselves to assist him develop his self-reliance.

Each child has his own personality and inborn traits. These vary with each person. One task of the parent is to discover the child's individual nature and help him develop to his full potential so that he will be able to guide and govern himself. Then he will become able to act according to his own ideas and not just drift with the crowd.

To become self-reliant and self-governing is a gradual process that does not happen overnight. It is gained step by step and should, therefore, be started early in life.

To help the child become self-reliant and less dependent requires a difficult self-discipline and restraint by the parent. Many parents have succeeded in accomplishing this and others can do so if they are willing to spend the time and effort.

One remarkable example bears relating:

A short time ago I made the acquaintance of an attractive young man with a keen sense of humor and highly intelligent, who was a spastic. I have seen him on numerous occasions but have never heard him ask for any kind of help. In fact, he confided that he finds it most distasteful for people to offer sympathy or help. He is justly proud of his self-reliance and ability to get along by himself. How, you might ask did he — a so-called handicapped individual — gain this unusual degree of self-reliance? He gave me the answer, at least in part. His mother fully understood the necessity of having him learn to do for himself all those things he possibly could. All mothers know how easy it is to help a child when he is learning to walk. This mother knew that her son must conquer walking in order to gain self-confidence. As a result, when he began to try to walk, she made the rule that no one was to pick him up when he fell. As he said, it seemed to him that for a long period he spent all day falling and struggling to get up again.

This was a very difficult time for him but he is mighty grateful to his mother for this kind of training. This mother understood the importance of this heart-rending stage for him to go through in order to develop into a self-reliant adult. And she had the courage to carry it through. How many of us could equal her attitude, understanding, and courage to persevere?

In order to help your child develop self-reliance the parent must practice self-discipline and courage. Then, like the mother of the spastic child, your reward will come later in seeing your child become happy, self-reliant, and a capable adult.

Because of these qualities, that young man will surpass untold persons we call "not handicapped" — who have handicapped themselves in spirit and in self-confidence.

Meeting with congressional appropriations committees before his trip to Europe, Clifford said he was trying to persuade NATO allies to meet the military goals vital for their own defense. He gave specific assurances that congressional concern was being reported to NATO leaders.

Inside Washington

Clifford to NATO Allies; May 10, News Defense Tab.

ROBERT ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Defense secretary Clark Clifford is sternly urging this nation's European allies to face up to their unmet NATO defense commitments and thus meet the threat posed by Russia's invasion of Czechoslovakia.

Clifford has been telling the NATO partners that the United States has long been overburdened with Europe's defense costs. The Czech crisis should therefore provoke a realistic response by European governments.

That is the message conveyed by the secretary in talks early this month with officials of NATO nations. The usually velvet-voiced Clifford is reported to have delivered his message in forceful terms.

The White House had no immediate comment when Clifford reported to the President last week after his trip. Even before that mission, however, Clifford's views were being circulated through official and unofficial channels.

Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, has been providing persuasive strategic arguments in support of the policy line taken by Clifford.

The United States now has the equivalent of six U.S. divisions in Europe. Military manpower numbers about 304,000—including units in Spain and Turkey and forces of the Sixth Fleet. About 160,000 dependents and more than 10,000 civilian employees swell the U. S. totals.

Question Box

(We invite questions on economics and the proper functions of government which will not insure anyone.)

JOHN GOLDSMITH

Clifford cited specific instances in which he was already urging that certain NATO goals be met.

(According to one report reaching congressional leaders, the Russians have mobilized several hundred thousand additional men in the last couple of months and have added at least 10 combat-ready divisions to their forces in central Europe.)

Wheeler said he is sure that French forces would fight on the side of NATO forces if the Warsaw Pact armies launched an attack on NATO.

AMBIVALENT LAWMAKER — Congressional sentiments about European defense are a bit ambivalent. A strong consensus believes Europe can do more to defend itself, and some lawmakers also felt—before the Czech invasion—that the United States should start withdrawing its defense forces from Europe.

These sentiments were reflected in the recent report of a Senate subcommittee, which included proponents of unilateral U.S. troop withdrawal, such as Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, Mont., and opponents, such as Sen. Henry M. Jackson D-Wash. The group concluded that, after Czechoslovakia, "The time is obviously not propitious for substantial reductions of U.S. forces in Europe."

"But if the situation in Czechoslovakia means that the time is not propitious for substantial U.S. reductions, it certainly also means that the time is not propitious for any diminution in the defense efforts of our NATO allies. On the contrary, the invasion and occupation of Czechoslovakia should provide Western European governments with more tangible arguments for enlisting the support of their citizens behind defense efforts commensurate with their capacity to contribute." The subcommittee said.

The group, drawn from Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations committees, reported that "By any reasonable measure, the United States has met its NATO commitments in the past and is meeting them today. By comparison, the efforts of many of our NATO allies have been and remain in many respects disappointing."

Today is Friday, Oct. 25, the 299th day of 1968 with 67 to follow.

The moon is between its new phase and first quarter.

The morning stars are Mars, Jupiter and Mercury.

The evening stars are Saturn and Venus.

On this day in history:
In 1654, in the famed "Charge of the Light Brigade" 670 members of the British light cavalry, fighting in the Crimean War, attacked a heavily fortified Russian artillery post and were wiped out.

Unnecessary poverty is the result when not enough products are created to take care of all the needs of all people. If, for instance, the unions can limit the number of people who can learn to build houses, then there can only be as many houses built as people need and want. The same is true of every kind of production.

If one man has to rely on what he alone can produce to provide all his needs, he will certainly not have very much—possibly not even enough to eat. But when men can produce and exchange and save and invest in tools that will produce more, then all men can have more—more to eat, more clothes, more of all the things they need and want. And that is how poverty is reduced. Anything, whether it be by unions or governments, that interferes with that free process will prevent the reduction of poverty.

Of course, there are other causes of poverty and unemployment, like protective tariffs and immigration restrictions and taxation. But socialism and a so-called "planned economy" is the major cause. And acceptance of these ideas begins in the mind of each individual, in each community.

All a planned economy does is allow other people—the politicians—to control your property. When they control your property, they control you.

Horror May Be Only Hope For Putting End To Wars

In 3,500 years of recorded history, fewer than 8 percent of those years have been peaceful. Today the wars go on.

In the years since the United States started throwing pulled punches at North Vietnam, 2-4 million tons of bombs have been dropped on enemy people places and things plus a lot of flaming gasoline. And the wars go on.

Would it have been less costly and more effective to drop two nuclear bombs, as President Truman did on Japan, and get it over with?

This is the crux of the controversy now swirling around the heads of George Wallace and Curtis LeMay.

Gen. LeMay created our Strategic Air Command. It was those far-reaching nuclear armed bombers which have kept the Red bear at arm's length.

Thus the general is convinced that "fear of losing a war" is the greatest deterrent to anybody considering starting one. He says we must never reassure our enemies that we will never use nuclear weapons; we must, instead, let them know that we will use any weapons necessary to win! But when we say it we'll have to mean it. We can't be bluffing or they'll know it.

Richard Nixon's immediate reaction to LeMay's statement was, "That's why we must have civilian control over the military."

Hubert Humphrey's immediate public reaction was "shock and dismay." Humphrey said, "I never want to see nuclear weapons used anywhere by anyone!"

This Humphrey reaction, reflecting the anxiety of many Americans, is baffling to most military men. LeMay says, "To most military men a nuclear weapon is just another weapon in the arsenal. Civilian scientists have sought to brainwash the world with the notion that nuclear war is horrible. Any kind of war is horrible. But," says LeMay, "If I had my choice of dying on the end of a rusty bayonet and dying from a nuclear blast, I would choose the latter."

LeMay suggests that many have a "phobia" about nuclear weapons without even asking themselves why.

Certainly it is the best interests of our enemies if this "phobia" can be perpetuated and increased. Russia would like very much for us to become so terror stricken that we might agree to nuclear disarmament because it is only this technological development which cuts the limitless hordes of Asia down to our size.

Without this nuclear-club-in-the-closet, we are no match for them.

Man-for-man war we can't

With Some Reservation

Out in California they have come up with a new tax. It is for the birds . . . well, it ain't really for the birds, it's for the bird-watchers.

It seems this "resources secretary," a fellow named Livermore, is drafting a bill to charge bird-watchers a "User fee" at state wildlife areas.

Livermore says the bird-watchers "gather with the sportsmen at the checking station — the sportsmen take off for the shooting grounds and the bird-watchers go to the sanctuary area."

It seems the hunters don't like the idea of paying for the cost of keeping up the areas while the bird-watchers pay nothing. Imagine that! So they are fixing to tax the bird-watchers.

Well, it sure ain't a new idea. All of us have been bird-watchers in one way or another. For years we have been watching the birds in the White House. And the more we watched the more they taxed us.

Everytime we happened to spot a cuckoo or a sap-sucker we was told it would add another tax to our already back-busting schedule. The worst bird you could spot was a Jay by the name of Elbee. Everytime you spotted him you could be sure it would cost you not only all the bread you happened to have . . . that Jay would swoop down and scrape up all the crumbs too.

possibly win.
Some of us are convinced that this awesome weapon, 400 million times more lethal than anything ever before, was entrusted to our minority of the planet's population first — not for our destruction — but for our deliverance.

This "horror" might discourage all warriors, end all wars. But if we can be talked into destroying our nuclear stockpile. . . .

Or if we can be frightened into not using it. . . .

Then our 6 percent fraction of the world's population is at the mercy of men who are without mercy.

And the wars go on.

Weigh X-Ray Dangers Against Their Benefits

Against Their Benefits
Although earlier U. S. Public Health Service predictions indicated that influenza will not be a serious problem this year, an outbreak of a new strain of Asian influenza has been reported in San Diego, Calif. A vaccine to combat this strain will not be generally available until mid-November. Health authorities are, however, urging pregnant women, persons over 65 and persons who have such chronic illnesses as rheumatic heart disease, hardening of the arteries, high blood pressure, asthma, emphysema, cystic fibrosis or tuberculosis to be vaccinated at once with any type now in stock and revaccinated when the new vaccine is ready.

Q — Is it harmful to have a chest X ray taken twice within one month?
A — Having two chest X rays in one month would not be harmful but having two every month might be.

Q — I am a housewife. After a fall, I had X rays taken of my lower spine. Some of them had to be repeated. There were about 13 in all. Would this cause any lasting injury?
A — The dangers from radiation must always be weighed against the benefits to be expected. The greatest danger from having so many exposures of my lower spine. Some of possible damage to the reproductive cells in your ovaries. If you are past the child-bearing age, this would not be important.

Q — My brother had a malignant spot on his nose treated with X ray over 30 years ago. Now he has scar tissue caused by too much X ray. It is spreading and is very tender. What do you advise.
A — Extensive treatment with X rays usually results in some scarring. Any signs of activity or tenderness in such a scar would call for prompt examination to determine whether there is a return of the cancer. Whatever the cause, steps should be taken to correct it.

Q — When I was two months pregnant, my doctor prescribed Ritalin, which I took for only two weeks. The doctor and I were both unaware that I was pregnant. Could this drug be harmful to my baby? Are Surber and Sinutabs harmful if taken during pregnancy?
A — All drugs should be held to a minimum during pregnancy but there is no reason to suspect that methylphenidate (Ritalin) taken for two weeks in moderate amounts would endanger your baby. Surber is a multivitamin preparation that can be safely taken during pregnancy if needed. Although Sinutabs are relatively harmless, they should not be taken regularly at any time and not at all during pregnancy. They contain phenacetin, which may cause destruction of the red blood cells in the fetus.

Pampa Hosts Caprock 'Horns Tonight

By RON CROSS
Sports Editor

While Amarillo and Monterey play Friday night to determine who will probably be the north zone champion and Tascosa and Falo Duro play Saturday to determine who will probably be the south zone champion, Pampa will host Caprock in a slightly different chapter in a north zone battle.

The Longhorns have played only one north zone battle and lost. Pampa has played two north zone battles, and lost and lost.

Caprock has played six games this season and lost five. Pampa has done the same thing.

The winner of this annual 7:30 p.m. homecoming battle will probably be fortunate enough to finish higher than the loser in district play.

The Harvesters will have a lot going for them, possibly more than they've had for some time. Ex-Pampa grad and Olympic gold medal winner Randy Matson, along with his family, will be in the stands and probably praying just as hard as anybody for a Pampa victory.

The homecoming bit also always seems to give a team a bit more added incentive.

Pampa has taken three of the five games they have played with Caprock over the years and both are evenly matched for this one.

The possibility exists that Gary Parrish will return at quarterback, at least part-time.

This would give junior signal-caller Ross Holman a little rest.

It seems that every time Holman, a mere 140-pounder, looks up, he has to look two or three 200-pounders right in the eye, and they're not from Pampa.

Joining Parrish-Holman in the backfield will be Scotty King, Hal Clabaugh and Kelvin Mills or Bert Tollison.

Jay Johnson and Dan Cariton will start at ends, Johnny Stokes and Chuck Lanehart at tackles, Don Willis and Eddie Hopkins at guards and Moss Hampton at center.

Defensively Pampa hasn't been too good the past couple games, but extra emphasis was placed on that phase of the game in practices this week and that usually helps.

Lee Eighth Rips Berger, Shockers Fall to Monterey

Thursday just wasn't Pampa's day to play football, with one exception.

Lee eighth grade, who lost their first three games of the season, then bounced Dumas, 12-6 last week for their first win.

Thursday the Rebels really took it out on Berger, rolling to a 50-6 victory that saw Rick McGuire return two kickoff returns for two touchdowns and catch a pair of passes from quarterback Rick Musgrave, who also tallied twice.

The Pampa Shockers lost their seventh in a row, 41-6, to Lubbock Monterey, Lee ninth lost its second game in four outings, 22-6, to Berger Houston, Pampa ninth fell, 33-12 to Perryton and Pampa eighth lost 41-23 to Perryton.

McGuire got Lee eighth off to a fast start when he returned the opening kickoff 65 yards for a touchdown. Musgrave then ran across the points after. Musgrave scored twice in the second period, on runs of 15 and five yards and passed to Tony Farrell for the two-point conversion both times.

Randy Specht caught an eight-yard pass from Musgrave just before halftime to make it 30-0.

McGuire returned the second half kickoff 70 yards to make it 36-0.

The young speedster scored twice in the fourth period, catching a 49-yard pass and one for 56 yards from Musgrave, who kicked the extra points both times.

The final Pampa tally came when they recovered a Berger fumble in the end zone.

Monroe Woods scored the Shockers lone touchdown, from two yards out.

Lee ninth trailed Houston only 8-6 at halftime but could not (See SHOCKERS, Page 14)

Morrall Gets Starting Call Against LA Sunday

By United Press International
Johnny Unitas' "Golden Arm" isn't what it used to be.

The Baltimore quarterback, whose passing arm has been as good as gold to Colt fans over the past 11 years, is having trouble regaining his old form because of a sore right elbow. Unitas made his second appearance of the season last Sunday and he threw three disastrous interceptions that led to Baltimore's first defeat of the year.

The loss left the Colts (5-1) one full game behind the Coastal Division leaders, the Los Angeles Rams (6-0). The two teams meet headon in Baltimore Sunday.

Coach Don Shula apparently decided Wednesday that Earl Morrall would start at quarterback against the Rams when Unitas suffered arm miseries during a practice session.

"It's not a question of wanting to start Sunday, it's a question of being able to," Unitas said after the workout. "Right now I don't think I could. We'll have to see how it goes."

Defends Passing Shula didn't think his quarterback was as bad against the Browns as some of the Colt rooters who hung a dummy with the number 19 on its chest on a lamp post after the game.

"If you look at those 11 passes, you'll see that only four or five were thrown badly," Shula said. "The three interceptions were right on target were deflected."

In other National Football League action on Sunday, Minnesota is at Chicago, New Orleans plays at St. Louis, Detroit is home to take on San Francisco, New York travels to Washington, Atlanta meets Cleveland and Philadelphia tangles with Pittsburgh. On Monday, it will be Green Bay at Dallas.

Los Angeles comes into Memorial Stadium with 14 straight league victories and playing the brand of football that could enable Rams to break the NFL record of 17 consecutive regular season wins set by the Chicago Bears in 1933-34.

Although the Rams had trouble with Atlanta last week, winning 27-14, they should give either Unitas or Morrall plenty of problems with their dynamite defense, led by the front four of Deacon Jones, Roger Brown, Merlin Olsen and Lamar Lundy.

Star Should Start Two teams that need little introduction to each other meet in the Cotton Bowl Monday night. The Packers, who defeated the Cowboys for the NFL championship in the dying seconds in each of the last two years, have been struggling all season long. Bart Starr, who should be the starting quarterback, came off the bench last week to throw a touchdown pass that gave Green Bay (2-3-1) a tie with Detroit.

Dallas has reeled off six wins in succession and stands alone at the top of the Capitol Division. The Cowboys will be out for revenge and could attain it against the once mighty Packers.

The Vikings must show more offense than they did a week ago against Dallas to get by the Bears at Wrigley Field. Minnesota (3-3) won the first meeting between the two clubs this season 27-17 but the Bears hold a 10-3-2 edge in the series.

St. Louis has come up with an offense attack since it barely downed the Saints (21-20) four weeks ago. Willis Crenshaw and quarterback Jim Hart led a 41-14 Cardinal victory over Washington last Sunday. New Orleans, which is surprisingly locked in a three way tie with St. Louis and Cleveland for the Century Division lead, has been riding the passing arm of Bill Kilmer to its best season ever.

Bill Munson (the league's leading passer) and Mel Farr (the top rusher in the NFL) will be the Lions one-two punch on offense against the Forty Niners. San Francisco is coming off a big win over New York but Detroit is after the title.

The Giants have dropped their last two games and might continue to add to that losing streak if they don't come up with a better defense. They'll have to stop Sonny Jurgensen, whose rib was cracked last week, and his crew of receivers that include Charley Taylor, Jerry Smith and Bobby Mitchell.

The Falcons have pulled themselves together after a bad start but the Browns' Bill Nelsen should make things rough for Atlanta Sunday. Cleveland needs a win to stay on top in its division.

Matson is Undecided About Future Plans

By MIKE WESER
PAMPA, Tex. (UPI)—Olympic gold medalist shot putter Randy Matson says he's still undecided about his future although there is a lot of money hanging in the balance.

"I haven't ruled out the possibility of playing either professional football or basketball," said the 23-year-old former Texas A&M athlete. "But what I'd like to do is get a regular job somewhere here in the Texas Panhandle so I could continue to work on the shot put on an amateur basis." Matson—with the torso of a truck driver, legs of a ballet dancer and grunt of a bull—just returned from the summer Olympic Games in Mexico City.

Holder of the world record in the shot put with a 71 foot, 5 1/2 inch toss, Matson said he was impressed with the facilities in Mexico City.

"I think Mexico City is doing a good job of running off the Olympics," he said. "The altitude had no effect upon the weightmen although I guess it probably did have some effect on other events."

Mann Favored In Plantation

CONROES, Tex. (UPI)—Time and tournaments are running out on Carol Mann's bid to surpass another of the many records Mickey Wright posted among the lady pro golfers before she decided to go into semi-retirement.

Miss Mann, the willowy blonde New Yorker, teed off as the early favorite today in the $12,500 River Plantation Golf and Country Club Invitational with 10 tour triumphs to her credit and with five more 1968 stops in which to beat Miss Wright's total of 13 in one year.

Miss Mann comes here fresh from her latest tour titles in the Quality Checked Open last week at Waco, Tex., with $40,704.50 in official money and enough "unofficial" earnings to pad her bankroll to $49,957 for the year.

Those are far ahead of the marks Kathy Whitworth posted last year in erasing Miss Wright's old standards. Miss Whitworth, who won $33,517.50 and $44,004 last year, also had surpassed both figures this season with $37,654.50 and $48,117.

Both Miss Whitworth and Miss Wright were entered in the 46-player field here, but third-ranking money winner Sandra Haynie remained a doubtful starter up to tee time because of a back ailment which forced her to withdraw at Waco last week.

District 2-A Battle Tonight

Wheeler will not only be seeking to keep its District 2-A record spotless Friday night when the Mustangs host McLean.

But coach J. T. Hill's gridders will also have in mind the 12-7 licking the Tigers gave them in a district upset last year.

Wheeler will be a touchdown favorite going into the game but they were last year also, and the Tigers turned Thacker Haynes loose on them.

Haynes responded by scoring two fourth quarter touchdowns to lead the upset.

But the Mustangs have a little added attraction this year, although they are without the graduated Fred Goad, the powerful fullback of a season ago.

David Britt and Donald Rives have been doing practically all the Wheeler scoring this season and Fred Hedgecock will have to figure out some way to stop this awesome one-two punch.

He did it last year and might do it again this year.

Both teams stand 1-0 in district competition and Wheeler is 5-1 for the season while McLean stands, 4-2.

A victory would keep one even with unbeaten Clarendon, which will surely stay unbeaten by beating Happy Friday at Happy.

White Deer will try to take over undisputed possession of the District 1-A lead, or at least remain tied with Gruver for the top spot.

The Bucks (3-3) play host to Stratford (2-4) while Gruver (4-2) journeys to Canadian (2-4) for a league game.

White Deer Stratford and Gruver all opened league action last week with victories and all stand 1-0 in conference.

Sanford-Fritch and Sunray play each other at Sunray and both are seeking its first league victory.

Groom and Lefors, who have been picking on class A teams through their first five games open district play Friday.

The Tigers (2-4) play at Texline (1-5) and Lefors hosts Booker.

Miami journeys to Guthrie in eight-man action.

U.S. Has Olympics in Bag

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—The United States, recapturing a title it lost to Russia 12 years ago, now is certain to be crowned the unofficial team champion of the Olympic Games.

A lot of action still is ahead before they sing "Auld Lang Syne" for the games of the XIX Olympiad in this ancient Aztec capital Sunday, but Uncle Sam's lads and lassies have too big a lead over the Soviets to be caught now.

Going into today's competition, which will feature the big basketball championship game between the United States and Yugoslavia, the Yanks have 83 total medals, including 37 gold, against 53 total medals for the Russians, who have won 16 golds.

That U.S. total doesn't include seven certain medals in boxing and one in basketball—which means the Yanks have clinched no less than 96 medals. They probably will go well over the 100 mark—for there are 21 more medals to be decided in swimming with the U.S. probably getting 10 or more.

Soviets Losing Cause

That means that Russia—running into heavy competition in a sport which always has produced many Soviet medals, gymnastics—faces the impossible task of doubling its present total of 53 medals in the last two full days of competition.

So mark it down that the United States, which surrendered the No. 1 place in total medals to Russia at Melbourne in 1956 and trailed again at Rome in 1960 and Tokyo in 1964, now has regained its place as the world's top amateur sports power.

Swimming, of course, has been the U.S. strongpoint—and that was emphasized again Thursday when Debbie Meyer of Sacramento, Calif., won her third individual gold medal of the game's by setting an Olympic record of 9:24 in the women's 800-meter freestyle and Carl Robie of Drexel Hill, Pa., won the 200-meter butterfly in 2:08.7.

Those two gold medals were the Yanks' 17th and 18th in swimming.

A First Miss Meyer became the top

American heroine of the games—the first swimmer, male or female, in the history of the Olympics to win three individual gold medals.

Ironically, her latest triumph came on a day when Don Schollander of Jacksonville, Fla., America's top hero at Tokyo, was beaten in the finals of the men's 200-meter freestyle by Australia's Mike Wenden in 1:55.2. Schollander won two individual and two relay gold medals in 1964.

Pam Kruse of Pompano Beach, Fla., took second behind Miss Meyer and John Nelson, also of Pompano Beach, was third behind Wenden and Schollander. Ada Kok of Holland won the only other gold medal in swimming Thursday, taking the women's 200-meter butterfly as Ellie Daniel of Elkins Park, Pa., gained the bronze.

The United States advanced three boxers to the finals, compared to five Russians. The big shock was the decision defeat of Middleweight Alfred Jones of Detroit, even though Jones floored his opponent twice and punched him around from pillar to post.

Three in Finals

Yanks reaching the finals were heavyweight George Foreman of Houston, who scored a second round knockout, featherweight Albert Robinson of Phoenix, Ariz., and lightweight Ronnie Harris of Canton, Ohio.

Russia, for the day won the gold medal in women's team foil fencing, a silver in equestrian Grand Prix team dressage, and two silvers in men's gymnastics—not much encouragement toward overcoming the U.S. lead.

West Germany won the gold medal in team dressage. Japan won the gold medal in men's all-around gymnastics and Sawao Sato of Japan won in individual gymnastics.

Thursday produced the Olympic Games' first disqualification in 56 years as Sweden lost its bronze team medal in the modern pentathlon. One of the Swedes was found to have too high an alcohol content in his blood. The group which announced the disqualification was headed by a Swede and the Swedish Olympic Delegation said it planned to appeal to the International Olympic Committee.

TECHNICOLOR TECHISCOPE & PARAMOUNT RELEASE

after another since the season opener and has done well enough in the clutch to allow only three aerial touchdowns.

The Tech-SMU struggle the only daylight game on the program, highlights the conference schedule which also finds defending champion Texas A&M at Baylor and resurgent Texas at Rice in battles for survival. In addition, Arkansas takes a so-called breather against North Texas at neutral Little Rock and Texas Christian visits Louisiana State.

9-9 Conference

The outcome of the Arkansas and TCU games will determine how the conference fares this season against outsiders and it will take an even break to keep the league out of the red. Currently, conference teams have a 9-9 record intersectionally.

Tech, which will be a four-point favorite over SMU, got to taste of an aerial onslaught early. In its season-opening 10-10 tie with Cincinnati it faced a passing attack that now ranks second only to SMU on the national level.

Then, last week came the second tie of the season, a 28-28 affair against Mississippi State, and had to overcome the 11th ranked passer and No. 2 receiver to scramble that well. In between, they had to conquer Texas A&M's Edd Hargett, last year's top league thrower.

Key Hixon

None of them, however, threw at the pace SMU's Chuck Hixon operates. Hixon has averaged throwing 48 per game and completed 27 per game. And, when the opposition has keyed on his passes, he's fed the ball to Mike Richardson, who merely is the league's top rusher.

Tech has a passing attack of its own, built around Joe Mlauch, who has never lost a game in which he started. Matulich has gotten eight touchdowns with far fewer passes (147 at-is plainly evident any time a photographer takes a picture of them. That didn't sound purely amateurish to me.

Anonymous Cyclist

"We got bikes from a manufacturer for the 1964 Olympics, but not this time," said one U.S. cyclist, who said please, the one thing he didn't need was his name in the paper.

"Our team received $3,000 worth of equipment from a manufacturer this time," he went on. "Like tires, tools and so on. What's so wrong about it? I certainly couldn't afford it out of my pocket. If I had to pay for all those things I wouldn't be riding. My name isn't Vanderbilt."

He and a fellow cyclist were standing near one of the soft-drink stands set up for Olympic athletes. The soft drinks, marketed by a U.S. concern, are free but by one of those coincidences, they also are advertised on TV during the showing of these Games to audiences in the United States.

"All the athletes stop by that stand for free drinks, don't they?" I asked the U.S. cyclist.

"Certainly," he said. "Why shouldn't they? I know if I were a Russian cyclist and I were thirsty I would."

There was no athlete who really knew the exact definition of the word amateur. In the local library, they said a pure amateur was a devotee or admirer.

I think George Foreman, the U.S. heavyweight boxer from Houston, said it a lot better than that, though.

George is a dropout from junior high school and doesn't have much formal education but he can tell a lot of more learned egg-heads about the meaning of the word amateur.

"For my first fight that I won," he says, "I got a little trophy in the form of a boxing glove. It's no more than three inches all around, gold-plated and couldn't cost more than five dollars. You couldn't give me five million for it. I wouldn't take it. That wouldn't buy half the satisfaction it gives me."

Come to think of it, maybe that wasn't such a fool's errand after all.

She foretold the destinies of world leaders . . .

Now JEANE DIXON helps you guide your own future!

"There is a purpose to all life," says Jeane Dixon, "and the Lord has devised a grand plan with places for each of us to occupy. It is our responsibility to develop our talents and skills and fulfill our purpose in life."

Through visions and psychic reactions, Mrs. Dixon became a world-famous seer by predicting —

- the assassinations of John F. Kennedy and Mahatma Gandhi, the death of Franklin Roosevelt, Churchill's defeat in 1945, Truman's election in 1948, the partition of India, the Red takeover of China, Russia's first Sputnik, the rise of Khrushchev and in 1964 his downfall, the Ecumenical Council, the outcome of the last six presidential elections, Reagan's victory in California, the plane crashes that took the lives of Carole Lombard, Dag Hammarskjöld, the suicide of Marilyn Monroe, the ouster of Sukarno and failure of communism in Indonesia in 1966.

NOW Jeane Dixon bends her psychic talents toward helping each individual see his way more clearly through the confusions of daily life and fulfill his potential.

THE LIGHTER SIDE Electoral Debate

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Everyone, I assume, is familiar with the debate over proposals to abolish the Electoral College. So let us skip the pros and cons of this issue and spend a few minutes juggling a couple of suppositions.

Suppose that U.S. presidents were elected by popular vote, critics of the electoral system have advocated. And then suppose that the presidential race were to end in a tie.

This isn't likely to happen, of course. But as long as such a possibility exists, there should be some provision for dealing with it.

One means of breaking it was suggested the other day by Rep. Jonathan B. Bingham, D-N.Y. (Actually, Bingham wasn't referring to this particular problem. But I'll give him credit for solving it anyhow.)

Reflect Opinion
Even if not used for breaking a tie, such as "emotional device" would more accurately reflect the opinion of the electorate than merely counting the votes.

The tabulations alone are often meaningless, and can even be misleading.

As I have pointed out previously, there is presently no way to cast a protest vote. You cannot vote against one candidate without voting for another candidate.

And if you don't happen to care much about the other candidate either, then your vote does not represent your true feelings.

But if your emotions were recorded along with your vote, you could strike a blow for desperation.

Measure Emotions
Speaking at a computer symposium in New York, Bingham said it might one day be possible to measure the emotions of voters as they cast their ballots.

"The use of computers and some sort of emotion-measuring device in the polling booth" would distinguish "those who feel deeply" from "those who are indifferent or unsure," he said.

He added, however, that he personally would oppose such an innovation because it would "favor the fanatics and haters over the moderates."

I certainly agree that it might not be wise to give an emotional vote more weight than a dispassionate vote in the original tabulation.

But if two or more candidates received the same number of votes, then it seems to me that the attitude of the voters would be a legitimate consideration in determining the winner.

The victory could go to the candidate who received the least number of "lukewarm" votes. Or perhaps the greatest number of "I'm for you 100 per cent" votes.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Sunset Limited the last reasonably direct rail link between New Orleans and Los Angeles was ordered Wednesday to continue operation for one year before reapplying for permission to cancel service.

The Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC) ruled the Southern Pacific Railroad deliberately downgraded service on the line to discourage passenger traffic.

HOUSTON (UPI) — A Methodist hospital spokesman said Wednesday William J. Whaley, the 39-year-old lung transplant patient who died Sept. 26, did not reject the transplanted organ, but died of viral pneumonia.

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — A force of 250 law enforcement officers pushed past a fiery barricade on the University of California campus early Thursday to clear out 75 demonstrators, who have held a building for nearly 12 hours.

ACCORDING TO PARAMOUNT, Richard Harris and Sean Connery got along just fine while shooting "The Molly Maguires," which deals with a coal miners' rebellion. You wouldn't know it to look at these pictures. Although Connery and Harris seem to be settled down for a quiet chat in the shot at right, old 907 has reverted to form in the scene at left.

Foreign News Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst
In air-conditioned comfort, amid the luxuries that oil can bring, nine white-robed, bearded rulers of tiny sheikhdoms along the coast of the Persian Gulf are meeting to seek ways of self-preservation.

Uppermost in their minds is the fear that when the British complete their withdrawal from east of Suez by the end of 1971, they might fall to the same type of Egyptian-inspired revolution that tumbled the South Arabian federation after British withdrawal last November.

Wishing them well are American, British and other Western oil companies which fear the machinations not only of Egyptian President Gafal Abdel Nasser but of the Russians as well.

British investment in the area is figured at some $280 million. The American stake is even larger.

Composing the nine are Qatar and Bahrain plus the crucial states—Sharjah, Adman, Rasal Khaimah, Umm al Quwain, Fujairah, Abu Dhabi and Dubai. All lie along the shallow, tepid waters of the Persian Gulf across from Iran.

Altogether, their populations total about 400,000.

The seven crucial states obtained their group name through a treaty with Britain in 1853 abolishing piracy and the slave trade. All are independent except for foreign relations which have been handled by the British. Life or death powers in the hands of the sheiks place social conditions of some in the 10th Century.

Prosperity of Bahrain, Qatar and Abu Dhabi, with a population of 25,000, has an annual oil income of close to $100 million giving it the highest per capita income of all the gulf states.

Dubai is the merchant state, center of trade among the crucial states as well as of gold smuggling.

Ajman is the smallest and poorest with a population of about 5,000 and for its health dependent upon touring doctors.

These are the sandy sheikhdoms which soon must fend for themselves.
