As the Soviets press toward a "normalization" designed to crush Czechoslovak freedoms, they also have been stepping up the venom of their propaganda against Romania, Yugoslavia and especially West Germany.

London say both Romania and the Yugoslavs have been warned of "serious consequences" should they continue their criticism of Soviet action in Czechoslovakia.

Similar Warning
A similar warning went to West German Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger who was told to stop "meddling" in Eastern Europe.

This, plus the speed and efficiency with which the Soviets distributed more than half million of their own and allied Warsaw Pact forces throughout Czechoslovakia, has led western planners to take a new look at their own defense under NATO.

For example, it is all well and good now for the military to say they knew all about Soviet plans.

Nonetheless it was not until after the Russians did move their command acted to increase the number of its observation posts along the West German-Czech border.

action now to increase the efficiency of NATO's early warning system seems to be one of the first orders of business.

Most Disturbing
For the West Germans, the presence of a dozen or so Soviet divisions along their border with Czechoslovakia was most disturbing.

But the West German call for an immediate summit conference of the 15-member nations of the Atlantic Alliance met with little positive response.

The French opposed it on grounds it only would accentuate allied difference and point up western inability to help the Czechs.

The British felt nothing much could be accomplished toward strengthening the alliance until a new administration takes over in Washington.

President Johnson's own position was that the United States had the right to expect Europe to do more in its own defense.

Applications For Scout Jamboree Now Available

A total of 37 Boy Scouts and Explorers from this area will attend the Seventh National Jamboree of the Boy Scouts of America next year, according to Ken Reeves of Pampa, chairman of the Jamboree Selection Committee for the Adobe Walls Council.

Requests for applications are now being accepted, Reeves said, and may be made by troop and post leaders to the Scout Service Center in Pampa.

The National Jamboree—limited to about 40,000 participants—will be held at Farragut State Park, Idaho, from July 16 to 22, 1969.

Reeves said that all applicants will be reviewed by the Selection Committee in November, and names of approved participants will be announced by Dec. 1, 1968.

Boy Scouts who apply must have attained age 12 on or before Sept. 1, 1968, and have achieved Star rank by April 1, 1969, Reeves said.

Explorers must be registered as Scouts or Explorers on or before July 1, 1968, and must meet requirements of camping experience, leadership, and Scouting spirit.

According to present plans, the contingent from the Adobe Walls Council will travel to Idaho by chartered bus and will visit major historic and scenic sites on the trip.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Henry and I have been married for nearly 60 years. Henry is over 80 and he's still looking. Can you beat that?

All our married lives I covered up for him because I didn't want the children to know. Two years ago Henry moved a nice looking younger lady into one of our rental properties. (She was about 65.) I finally got so tired of having to go over there every time I wanted to find my husband, I gave her notice to vacate. Henry pouted for a long time but he finally got over it.

Now it's another woman. This one is about 60 and a real live wire. Please tell me what to do. I can't do much and all our money is in my husband's name. No publicity, please, as I am a proud woman.

NO NAME

DEAR NO NAME: Be patient. It won't last forever. Nothing does.

DEAR ABBY: Our 18-year-old son has informed us that he doesn't want to accept the 4-year academic scholarship offered to him by a fine college this fall. His reason is his

DEAR ABBY: I have to leave town every few weeks for a day or two for legitimate reasons.

Whenever I am gone, some neighbors (a man and his wife) invite my husband over for a meal.

I have never been invited to this neighbor's home even to share a cup of coffee with the wife. Am I making an issue out of a trivial thing? Or should I be concerned, and why?

PUZZLED

DEAR PUZZLED: Perhaps you are concerned over nothing. As a gesture of appreciation for entertaining your husband, why not invite THEM to your home for a meal?

CONFIDENTIAL TO "HUMBLE": As soon as a person claims to be "humble," he denies that which he has asserted. For one to point out his own "humility" is like talking endlessly about one's ability to keep his mouth shut.

Homemade doughnuts have appeal

Growing High School Boys Take Time for Doughnut Suggestion

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Most high school boys like to eat. But most of them do not seem to find time or the desire to enjoy a good home breakfast. One thing parents can do is make eating breakfast a quick and easy business. Use the kitchen tabletop. Keep it adequate but simple. Try the standard fruit, cereal, bread and spread, and milk or cocoa to drink. These items will supply one-fourth of the days food needs.

Add an egg or meat if you want more. More action. Give them a batch of homemade doughnuts. Also enough to take along with them to school to eat when they feel like it.

sugar, 3 tablespoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon at, ½ cup instant hot whole wheat cereal, uncooked, two-third cup shortening, melted and cooled, 3 eggs, beaten 2 tablespoons milk, 1 tablespoon grated orange rind, 1 teaspoon vanilla, one-third cup butter or margarine, melted. Sift flour, 1 cup sugar, baking powder, and salt into mixing bowl. Stir in cereal. Add shortening, eggs, milk, orange rind, and vanilla; stir just until dry ingredients are moistened. Press dough together. Turn onto lightly floured board and roll ¼-inch thick. Cut dough with floured 3-inch round cookie cutter, then cut center holes with a 1¼-inch cutter. Place doughnuts and holes on greased baking sheet 1 inch apart. Chill 1 hour. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees) until lightly browned, 10 to 12 minutes. Remove from baking sheet. Brush generously with butter or margarine and coat with remaining ½-cup sugar. Serve warm.

Youngsters "dig" hearty breakfasts.

Food Buying Guide

The all-new Ruth Brant Show NOW ON KVH-TV MON-FRI 12:30 PM

WASHINGTON (UPI) — USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service reports that weekend shoppers will find excellent supplies of meat and poultry and adequate supplies of some fresh vegetables and fruit in food stores and supermarkets.

Broiler-fryer chickens and turkeys head the list as being the most abundant meats. Beef roasts and steaks and ground beef are also abundant in all areas. Pork features include chops and roasts, and hams and smoked picnics, in all areas, with Boston butts and bacon featured in some areas.

Varied Breakfasts Start Better Days

By GAYNOR MADDOX
September is Better Breakfast Month. So what should we do about it? Physicians, nutritionists and educators are all in the act. Where do parents come in? The answer: We should strive to make home breakfast more attractive to our children.

The so-called cereal breakfast—fruit, cereal and milk, bread and spread, and milk in some form to drink—is nutritious, inexpensive and easy to prepare. But maybe your children are tired of that form. So vary it—a scoop of ice cream, cereal flakes, fruit crushed on top, is one nutritious example. There are many other variations, although at first thought they may shock your old-fashioned habits.

Another protest-killer is something unexpected—a cookie, for example, with a breakfast twist. Try this raisin-faced cookie.

CEREAL BREAKFAST COOKIES
5 cups oven-toasted rice cereal
1 cup light corn syrup
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
¼ teaspoon maple flavoring
Seedless Raisins

Place cereal in lightly buttered heat-proof mixing bowl, set in a very slow oven (250 degrees) to warm cereal while syrup is cooking. Combine corn

Unexpected Extras Spark Appetites
By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Nutrition Editor.
September has been set aside as Better Breakfast Month.

Although the experts and parents know the importance of some solid food being eaten at breakfast, they know also that millions of children and adolescents, in particular regularly either skip or eat practically nothing before dashing off to school. This creates a health hazard.

Of course, even so simple a meal as fruit, cereal, bread, butter or margarine and milk provides at least one-fourth of the day's nutritional needs. But even that cereal breakfast often gets the go-by. What's wrong with our breakfast picture? What has changed?

One of many wise complaints is that there is rarely anything new or different with breakfast at home. Maybe a loaf of bread, a few muffins might help. Why not try this?

2½ cups sifted flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon nutmeg
½ cup shortening
¾ cup brown sugar, packed
2 eggs
1 jar (15 ounce) applesauce

HAM PINEAPPLE ROLL-UPS — After the football game, entertain with a bit of culinary showmanship. Ham rolls are sauteed in the chafing dish. Then it's used to prepare a sauce of cracker crumbs and cherry tomatoes. Serve with a salad flecked with pimentos.

Falling Leaves, Football Spirits, Spark Appetites for Surprise Menu

For those cool, after the game parties, surprise guests with this chafing-dish specialty, Ham-Pineapple Roll-Ups, combined with a fresh, crisp salad.

HAM PINEAPPLE ROLL-UPS
One and two-third cups milk,
1/2 teaspoon salt,
1-3 cup cream of wheat cereal

6 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 can pineapple spears, well-drained
1 can pasteurized processed cheese spread cheddar-blue
8 slices cooked ham
1/4 cup onion rings
1 cup green pepper strips,
2 inches long
1 can chicken broth
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon ground white pepper
25 crackers, finely rolled
1-3 cup dry white wine, optional or chicken broth or light cream

1 cup light cream or half-and-half
2 cups cherry tomatoes.
Day before:
Prepare cream of wheat cereal according to label directions; add two tablespoons butter to cooked mixture. Pour into a greased 8-inch square baking dish. Press pineapple spears in pairs into cream of wheat, equidistant from one another. Place plastic food wrap in direct contact with cereal. Refrigerate.
Next day:
Pipe cheddar-blue cheese spread onto center of ham slices. Loosen around the edges of cream of wheat. Cut between the pineapple spears into eight equal portions. Lay on top of cheese and roll ham. In quart chafing dish, heat 2 tablespoons butter; saute ham rolls, cut side down first, one minute on both sides, remove to wax paper. Add remaining 2 tablespoons butter and saute onion and green pepper until crisp tender. Stir in next four ingredients. Bring to boiling, stirring; simmer five minutes, add wine and cream; blend. Add ham and tomatoes; heat until mixture bubbles and tomato skins just begin to split. Makes 8 servings of 6 ounce ham roll and 4 cup sauce.

up a card-cheating racket at an exclusive men's club. And it was very traditional stuff right down the line: Safe, commercial, popular entertainment, lush, glossy and escapist.

The dialogue and the situations were standard, but to a fan of private eye stuff this probably doesn't make much difference. It is almost always the same, with slight variations.

No Novelty

Occasionally, however, one comes across a rare bird among private eye characters and writers. And it must be said that "The Outsider" revealed no such rare bird. The hero was, of course, properly flip, flinty, humorous and light—especially with the ladies. But he showed no special reason why anybody should be particularly impressed by him, except that he is Darren McGavin.

I think there really is appeal in the idea of an old-fashioned, two-fisted private eye hero who doesn't rely on mechanical gimmicks the way James Bond did. And I think McGavin can play such a fellow as well as Winters variety show. Against almost anybody around. But if the series is going to hold one's interest, then the stories must develop characters with enough

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—NBC-TV Wednesday night introduced "The Outsider," a traditional private eye series straight out of the pre-James Bond days.

The star of the one-hour entry is Darren McGavin, a poised, pleasant performer with a certain charm and authority who previously headlined the "Mike Hammer" and "Riverboat" series.

What is most interesting about the new show, however, is whether there is method in NBC-TV's apparent belief that the "law-and-order" cycle of shows is ripe for renewal.

Revive Theme

For instance, NBC-TV brought back "Dragnet," a police series, and it caught on again. Then it introduced "Ironside," another program of the law enforcement genre, and it too did well. Now this season it is offering, as well, "Adam-12," about two policemen who operate out of a cruise car.

And "The Outsider," while concerning a private eye, is definitely one of the same era of shows that was big on cops-and-robbers tales. Including private eyes.

Is there, in short, a nostalgic, conservative, viewer backlash? The debut of the new series dealt with how McGavin breaks

Space Program In Money Pinch

By LEON BURNETT
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Since the Gemini astronauts rolled to endurance records around the earth, much of the glamor has gone from the U.S. space program. So has much of the money.

Vietnam, racial problems, poverty and politics have taken some of the money from the race towards space.

Citing lack of funds as one reason, James E. Webb Monday said he would retire Oct. 7 as head of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, a job he held for seven years.

The decision came as a particular surprise because of the timing—effective just seven days before the first scheduled launch of a manned Apollo space craft.

The decision itself couldn't have been hard to make.

The tragedy of the Cape Kennedy flashfire in January 1967, which killed three Apollo program astronauts, raised public and congressional doubts as to whether it was worth the cost and risk to continue exploring the earth's environs.

And, just a few days less than a year ago Webb lost the services of his top assistant and resident technological expert, Dr. Robert C. Seamans, who resigned as deputy administrator for what he called "a variety of personal reasons."

The nation's pride was prodded when Russia orbited the first artificial satellite in 1957, and when cosmonaut Yuri Gagarin pioneered manned spaceflight in 1961.

Given current distractions, only a Soviet manned landing on the moon—ahead of the U.S. mission still hoped for by 1970—could fully restore general American enthusiasm for the space race.

The Apollo program—the three-man flights intended to culminate with a landing on the moon and return—has enough money to get along on. But ship.

more ambitious programs of solar system exploration which had been on the plotting board are now on the back shelf.

Webb has agreed to remain on as a consultant to his current deputy, Dr. Thomas Paine, 46, whom the President tapped as acting NASA director.

Reagan Will Speak On Eggers' Behalf

DALLAS (UPI)—California Gov. Ronald Reagan will hold a rally in support of Republican gubernatorial candidate Paul Eggers Sept. 28 at South-west Airmotive Terminal, Love Field.

Eggers said Reagan would arrive about 11:30 a.m.

He said Reagan plans to talk with him about California's economy commission. Eggers said he would appoint a commission similar to Reagan's if he wins the Texas gubernatorial election.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI)—One of the nicest things about taking a summer vacation is coming back home and finding the mailbox full of Christmas catalogs.

A vacationer... builds up a feeling of euphoria that makes it difficult for him to readjust to the workaday world. But if he is immediately confronted with Christmas upon his return, he has no trouble snapping back to reality.

"Ever since my return this month, I have spent most of my spare time thumbing through the mail order gift catalogs that arrived during my absence. Now it's almost like I never had a vacation."

Catalogs Start Trends
Gift catalogs, I've noticed, tend to establish trends. One year, for instance, it may be a medical Christmas, featuring "take your own blood pressure" kits and other gifts for the hypochondriac who has everything, including pecan shuck disease.

Another year it might be an athletic Christmas with the emphasis on jogging togs, pedometers and similar items for the well-dressed exercise nut.

A dedicated catalog-thumper can usually spot these trends early, and thus enter the shopping season forewarned if not forearmed. When the tumult starts, he knows just what to look for in the way of appropriate or fashionable gifts.

This year, if I'm reading the signs correctly, we are in for a tension-reducing Christmas. The catalogs are crammed with suggestions for the people on your gift list who are uptight about something. Which, of course, embraces everyone on the planet.

quarter and new phase. The morning star is Mars. The evening stars are Venus and Saturn.

On this day in history: In 1777, American soldiers won the first battle of Saratoga, N.Y., in the Revolutionary War. In 1863, Union and Confederate soldiers met in the battle of Chickamauga, Ga. The rebels won the following day.

In 1881, President Garfield died in Elberon, N.J. He had been wounded by a disgruntled office seeker July 2.

'Kid' Gavilan Back In US

MIAMI (UPI)—Former World Welterweight Champion Kid Gavilan of Cuba, broke and in poor health, smiled happily recently and said he was "glad to be back in the United States."

Gavilan, 42, who won the title with his famed "bolo" punch in 1951 lost it in 1954, said he still hasn't figured out what he is going to do.

"But I believe I still have many good friends in this country and I know I don't have to beg," he said, speaking in hesitant English.

Gavilan, whose real name is Gerardo Gonzalez, arrived unexpectedly Monday on one of the Cuban airlifts—"freedom flights," after a 10-year enforced stay under the Communist regime of Fidel Castro.

Gavilan said his religion—he's a member of the Jehovah's Witnesses—sustained him during the past decade, although "they put me in jail nine times for preaching the Bible."
