Senate Passes Load Law; House Extends Oil Control

Truck Measure Now Goes To House Again

Oil Laws Would Be Permanent Under New Bill

AUSTIN, March 20 (AP)—The senate today passed a bill authorizing gross truck load weights up to 38,000 pounds.

The senate once before had passed the measure, allowing 3,000 pounds more than the bill which has been passed by the house, but reconsidered its action to insert corrective amendments.

The bill now goes to the house for concurrence in senate amendments or to a conference committee if the house declines to accept senate alterations which included provisions limiting the working hours of truck drivers, setting up penalties for weight violations and increasing the classification of peace officers authorized to weigh trucks.

AUSTIN, March 20 (AP)—The house of representatives today quickly passed to the senate a bill extending Texas market demand for proration law without any time limitation. The vote was 79 to 41.

In the past, the law has been continued only two years at a time. Many house members took the position, however, that the case against federal oil control would be strengthened by removing the time limit.

Today's action was taken without debate. There had been no opposition to proration on last Monday, when the bill was passed to final reading, but repeated efforts were made at that time to add amendments extending the law for only two or three years.

Supporters of the measure urged quick action in view of the opening in Washington next week of a congressional committee hearing on the Cole oil bill. They said that Texas' approval of a "permanent" proration law would greatly aid opponents of federal oil supervision.

Eighth Army Corp Headquarters Moves

SAN ANTONIO, March 20 (AP)—Major General Walter Krueger, commander of the Eighth Army Corps, and his staff will move their headquarters to Brownwood today.

If You're Ailing --

Understand Your Vitamins

Vitamins are good for what ails you, but you have to know what ails you before ordering your vitamin supply.

Such was the theory advanced by B. B. Brown, Dallas, member of the state board of pharmacy, before the concluding session of the West Texas Pharmaceutical association here Thursday morning.

Druggists went on record as an association and voted to write individually urging the appointment of Shine Phillips, veteran Big Spring druggist and a past association president, as a member of the state board of pharmacy. Governor O'Daniel will be called upon to make an appointment in June, and the association declared that it felt that West Texas was due a place on the board.

In resolutions adopted by the convention, all individuals and organizations cooperating in making the affair a success were lauded, and necrology resolutions for the deceased druggists in the association and two members of druggist families were adopted.

At the board meeting during the morning, Lubbock submitted a formal bid and Sweetwater and San Angelo put in tentative bids for the next convention. No other matters were acted upon by the board. Weather cut registrations here to less than 200.

Salvation Army Makes Urgent Appeal For Blankets For Britain

An urgent appeal for blankets to be sent to war-distressed Britons came Thursday from the local Salvation Army unit, through Major L. W. Canning, director.

Major Canning announced receipt of a telegram from the Army commander in London, setting forth urgent need of help from America with bedclothing. Through the Texas headquarters, Howard county has been requested to supply 100 blankets. "This is a desperate need and

Australians Give American Navy Enthusiastic Greeting At Sydney

SYDNEY, Australia, March 20.—Hundreds of thousands of Australians stood on the shores of flag-decked Sydney harbor today and cheered the arrival of seven United States warships, headed by the flagship Chicago.

The visit, part of a training cruise, was hailed in press and official circles as a token of Australian-American friendship and Australians gave a tumultuous ovation for the 2,000 officers and men of the U. S. navy.

Bad visibility delayed arrival of the squadron by one hour and 10 minutes, but the Chicago, flying the flag of Rear Admiral Newton, tied up at Woolloomooloo at 9:45 a. m. as planes of the Royal Australian Air Force dipped in salute overhead and a 21-gun salute sounded over the harbor, the first here since beginning of the war.

Admiral Newton declared the Australian visit was a complete surprise as the squadron sailed under sealed orders from Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, and did not know until it was at sea that one section was going to New Zealand and another to Australia.

The Australian radio, in a broadcast heard in New York by CBS, said Admiral Newton told Australian officials in reply to their toasts of welcome: "We like you Australians... you think the way we do, you act like Americans and, what is more, you fight like Americans."

Strange Dramatics Precede Robbery Of Lubbock Firm

LUBBOCK, March 20 (AP)—After a weird series of dramatics, two masked men took $618.43 from the Keeton Packing company early today and fled.

The coolly courteous pair, one short and paunchy and the other short and scrawny, chloroformed Lenore Keeton, manager of the firm, and Mrs. Keeton at their Lubbock residence and seized office keys and the combination to the safe.

Calmly assuring Mr. and Mrs. Keeton they would not be harmed, the heavier robber, carrying a flashlight and pistol while his silent companion stood in the background with a rifle, forced the couple to take sedative tablets.

"I will have to give you chloroform to knock you out—but you'll be all right," the heavier man said.

After the Keetons lost consciousness, the pair ransacked the residence, drove to the packing company, opened the office door with Keeton's key and forced two employees, Cleve Keeton, 19-year-old nephew of Lenore Keeton, and Jack Humble, into a tool room.

Using Lenore Keeton's combination, they opened the safe. A boy, that had been taken from Keeton's pants pocket opened the inner safe and the pair lifted $618.43—some $300 of it in currency and cash.

Cleve Keeton and Humble smashed their way out of the tool room thirty minutes later.

Police, informed of the keys and safe combination used in the robbery, hurried to Lenore Keeton's residence and found the couple still under influence of the chloroform.

Vitamins, said Brown, have been known for about 50 years but only recently has the public become vitamin-conscious. Now it is a major item in the drug field, the volume amounting to $41,000,000 annually. Recently, a court ruling held vitamins were food, enabling groceries to compete with drug stores in dispensing them.

But Brown felt that "it is a type of business to which we (druggists) are entitled because we are most capable of handling them." He advocated serious study by druggists of vitamins needs. Obviously, he said, many sub-clinical and similar cases required medical diagnosis. In any event, the secret of vitamin help must be from discovering where a vitamin deficiency exists.

In some instances vitamins have been found to be specific, as in the case of vitamin A for night blindness. In other fields the same vitamin acts as an anti-infective agent, reducing susceptibility where there is a deficiency.

Brown ran the gamut of vitamins, listing natural food sources, but pointed out that only in drug concentrates was there enough for massive administration to meet acute deficiency.

Vitamin A, he said, was used against night blindness, retarded growth, etc., and could be found in raw carrots, cheese, whole egg, liver, spinach and prunes, but that halibut liver oil was 1,800 stronger than any of these sources.

Vitamin B, and the B1 was used against beriberi, neuritis, for intestinal function, atrophy in reproductive organs and could be found in dried yeast, eggs, liver, etc. Down the complex B3 was good for lesions of lips, shark-skin appearance around face and ears, with yeast, liver, cotton-seed meal, eggs, turnips, milk as sources.

Pellagra in humans and black tongue in animals was helped miraculously with B3, the nicotinic acid product. Likewise were the four D (dementia, diarrhea, dermatitis), he said. Here natural sources were rice polishings, yeast, liver.

Other B complexes were effective in preventing paralysis in animals but were still in experimental stages he said.

M in the B factor of LM&W had been discovered to have the effect of restoring color to gray hair in some aged people.

Down the list he cited vitamin C for preventing and overcoming scurvy, osteomyelitis, anemia, wound healing and suggested orange, lemon, tomato and other fruit juices as sources. Vitamin D (sunshine vitamin) was good for rickets, maldevelopments, certain bone softness, normal blood chemistry, he continued, with cod liver oil, butter and eggs suggested.

Vitamin E had been found effective in combating human sterility, an anti-abortive for women. Wheat germ oil was given as the best source. Vitamin K was the coagulation factor, effective in post-operative and other cases but not for hemophiles. Alfalfa, cabbage, leafy vegetables were suggested as natural sources.

Most vitamins were interwoven in effect and more than one was good for certain ailments. But, as Brown said in the beginning, you have to know what vitamin you need before you haul off and buy the $2.49 also.

Rumor Japs Plan To Move Against Siam

Action Would Be Threat Against British Territory

SAIGON, French Indo-China, March 20 (AP)—Widespread reports which the Associated Press has been unable to trace to their source said today the Japanese were planning within the next two weeks to send 100,000 troops from Hainan island across middle French Indo-China into Thailand.

After traversing Indo-China, the reports said, the Japanese either would proceed to Bangkok, go toward the northern border of British Malaya or turn northeast toward the Burma border in an attempt to isolate Chungking, capital of the central Chinese government, and prevent the movement of military supplies over the Burma road.

(A move by Japan either north or south in Thailand would constitute a threat to British territory—Burma in the north and the Malay states and the Singapore base to the south.)

(Japan could not attack China from Thailand without crossing Burma. Thailand has no Chinese frontier.)

The reports were given wide credence here by persons regarded as competent to judge. These sources said such a land expedition would avoid the risks which a move farther south by sea would involve and also would insure a safe and dependable supply route.

Some observers here suggested this might be Thailand's way of paying off Japan for territorial gains from Japanese mediation of the undeclared border warfare between Thailand and Indo-China.

It was also remarked that the reported undertaking might be a Japanese retaliatory move against the British empire favored now on Thailand's southern border, in Malaya, guarding the land approach to Singapore.

It is believed here it would be impossible for the Japanese to capture Singapore through naval action and therefore, an overland attack would be more logical.

It also believed that the Japanese have facilities and forces on Hainan island and also in Tonkin, northern Indo-China, sufficient to undertake such a project.

Second Draft Registration Day Planned

WASHINGTON, March 20 (AP)—Quiet advance preparations are being made for a second selective service registration day, although only a small percentage of the 16,404,609 men who enrolled last October have been put in uniform.

The second registration would be for men who have reached their twenty-first birthday since last October 16. By the time it is held, possibly in the late summer or early fall, between 1,000,000 and 1,500,000 will have come of age, population experts figure, and this will be subject to military service.

Selective service headquarters officials said today only general consideration had been given thus far to the next registration, but advance studies were being made. Under the selective service act, the president must set the date, and this is not considered likely to be before August or September.

Enrollment of the new 21-year-olds was expected to be far less formidable than the task of registering all men between 21 and 35 inclusive which was carried out in a single day last October. The numbers involved are much smaller, the registration machinery has been tested, and its operation is generally familiar.

Of more immediate urgency, however, were proposals pending in congress to alter the draft ages substantially, as a transition to eventual adoption of the European plan of universal military service for men automatically as they reach a specific age, such as 21.

Instead of requiring the registration of all men between 21 and 35, inclusive, the American Legion has sponsored a bill to limit military training liability to men between 18 and 25.

Some selective service officials here have indicated they favor the 21-to-25 age bracket.

Prescription Liquor Bill Passes House

AUSTIN, March 20 (AP)—The house of representatives this afternoon passed a bill to curb prescription sales of liquor.

It sent the bill by Rep. Dallas Blankenship of Dallas on a vote of 113 to 16.

British Land At Salonika London Suffers Severe Air Raid

Southeast Coast Towns Also Bombed

RAF Dumps Eggs On Cologne In Night's Foray

LONDON, March 20 (AP)—Shops were demolished, homes badly damaged and casualties were caused by a team of Nazi raiders on the southeast coast today as a streak of homeless began from in area of London scared in the capital's worst nocturnal sounding this year.

Two German bombers dived from the clouds in a hit-and-run attack on a southeast coast town just after four Messerschmitts had plumed out of a hazy sky and raked a number of small fishing boats with their machine-guns.

From the London area worst hit in last night's six-hour raid flowed a stream of perambulators and small carts loaded with salvaged belongings as of the homeless.

The refugees were comforted and aided by begrimed firemen who had spent the night battling fires in the workers' district.

Whole blocks of residences were blown to bits, five hospitals were hit, a large hotel was partly destroyed and public services were thrown out of gear.

In reply, the British said several factories in Cologne were hit by British bombs and other damage wrought during an air attack by the Royal Air Force last night.

At one point in London a bus driver formed his passengers into a volunteer fire brigade and they quickly extinguished 50 fire bombs which sizzled into the street near the vehicle.

An intense barrage, which some observers said was the heaviest of the war, greeted the Nazi raiders, but only one was reported shot down.

Hercules Plant Has Blast Scare

KENVIL, N. J., March 20 (AP)—An explosion on the "burning grounds" of the Hercules Powder company plant at noon today jarred the country for miles around and created a near panic in the area where a blast which took 22 lives last fall is fresh in everyone's memory.

There were no injuries. Damage was said to be negligible.

Congress Finishes Work On Navy Bill

WASHINGTON, March 20 (AP)—The senate completed congressional action today on two bills authorizing a $345,000,000 naval public works program, including developments at Guam, Samoa and newly acquired British bases.

The legislation was dispatched to the White House for President Roosevelt's approval. Senate action came on approval of a joint conference committee report composing differences between house and senate versions of the two measures.

Five coaches on the wrecked train, known as "The Buckeye," plunged 50 feet down an embankment and two of the coaches, a baggage car and a day coach, toppled into the Ohio river. The locomotive and tender hurtled from the tracks and overturned.

At the request of agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the U. S. engineers will send divers to the wreck scene to search the river for a splice plate and several nuts and bolts which are missing. The claw bar which was found at the scene was similar to that used by Pennsylvania Railroad workers.

Maas added that he understood the ships were among the seven for which the navy let contracts last Sept. 9.

Navy Will Build 65,000-Ton Ships

WASHINGTON, March 20 (AP)—Naval experts in the house said today the next five battleships to be built under the two-ocean fleet program would be from 60,000 to 65,000-ton dreadnaughts—the world's largest.

Representative Maas (R-Minn.), senior minority member of the house naval committee, said he had been informed the super-battleships would be of 58,000 "treaty" tons but when fully armed and armored would displace approximately 65,000 tons.

Maas added that he understood the ships were among the seven for which the navy let contracts last Sept. 9.

Weatherman Breaks An Old Illusion—

Spring's First Day Isn't Equal To Night

Comes spring today, and a shattering of illusions for all who care to read the following bit of learned discourse into astronomy: The illusion comes from the fact that although today is the first day of spring, the light and the dark periods are not equal.

The sun rose this morning, the weather man said, at 6:50. Tonight it will go down at 6:57. Ergo: the day is 15 hours and seven minutes long. Tomorrow the sun rises at 6:49 a. m., the weather man again promises (and remember, he was right about that snowstorm). Thus the night will be 11 hours and 52 minutes long.

Most of us have always believed that the first day of spring is exactly as long as the first night of spring. And to be told differently is like being told that there is no Santa Claus.

The weather man, confronted with this discrepancy between his arithmetic and the hallowed traditions concerning the first day of spring, did a bit of research this morning to find the explanation.

He came forth with the assertion, which he quoted in a doubtful tone from the current nautical almanac, that the trouble lies in the difference between true solar time (like the sundial would register, if anyone had a sundial) and mean solar time (which the clock records).

True solar time is established by old Sol himself. Mean solar time is established by a fictitious heavenly body called the "Mean Sun." (Not to be confused with the July sun.)

The time established by these suns varies as much as 15 minutes at some points of the year. Why? Well, the weatherman wasn't certain. Perhaps it is for the same reason that every table has a short leg. Ends just won't come out even in this old world.

But notwithstanding the confusion amongst the heavenly bodies and their humble chronicles here on earth, spring is to blossom into the northern hemisphere at 6:21 p. m. today, because that is the time when the sun—the true sun—makes its semi-annual pilgrimage across the equator.

So hark to the coming of the birds and the bees.

Train Saboteurs Intended To Kill Russian Group?

PITTSBURGH, March 20 (AP)—A conductor testified today at an interstate commerce commission hearing that he understood there were 44 Russian diplomats or engineers on the Pennsylvania Railroad's Manhattan Limited which traveled over the Cleveland-to-Pittsburg tracks Sunday 18 minutes before another train was wrecked, killing five and injuring 114.

Railroad officials announced immediately after the wreck that definite evidence of sabotage had been found and veteran railroad workers expressed belief the loosening and shifting of a rail was aimed at wrecking the Manhattan Limited.

The ICC witness was W. M. Scheiber, conductor on the Manhattan Limited, who said there were two special sleeping cars on the Limited, one with 23 passengers and the other with 21. He added:

"I understand they were Russian diplomats or engineers. We had no message on them. There were no shipments of unusual value.

"On the rear, there was one sleeper with boys in uniform. They weren't COC boys."

Scheiber said he noticed "nothing unusual" as the Manhattan sped over the tracks near Baden, along the Ohio river, where the other train was wrecked.

Spokesmen for the railroad previously had said they knew of no one on the Limited "of particular prominence or importance."

The railroad reported that splices had been pried from the tracks and a rail moved several inches, without breaking a signal wire. A claw bar and two wrenches, one of which fit nuts on splice bars on the rail, were found near the scene.

Five coaches on the wrecked train, known as "The Buckeye," plunged 50 feet down an embankment and two of the coaches, a baggage car and a day coach, toppled into the Ohio river. The locomotive and tender hurtled from the tracks and overturned.

Greeks Enter Tepeleni In Albanian War

Germans Say Greek Trouble Already Has Been Settled

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, March 20 (AP)—The British were reported today to have landed "great numbers" of troops yesterday at Salonika, Greek port on the Aegean sea and a back door to the Balkans which probably would be the first objective of any German thrust from Bulgaria.

This was understood to be the first appearance of British forces at Salonika, although disembarking of a force expected to total 300,000 men has been under way for several days at five ports in southern Greece.

Accounts of the landing of the troops at the Aegean port, along with vast supplies of gasoline came from the Greek frontier town of Gvella, Yugoslavia, as Berlin dispatches reaching Belgrade asserted that "the Greek question already has been settled."

These dispatches failed to say just what kind of a settlement had been made, but they added that "only a short time must elapse before this conflagration which threatened to engulf other Balkan states will be extinguished."

Additional advice from the German capital declared further that the Turkish and Yugoslav questions also now are "settled," but they, too, were without explanation. An Istanbul dispatch said German Ambassador Franz von Papen would go to Berlin soon to report on British Foreign Secretary Eden's recent visit to Turkey.

An unconfirmed report from the Albanian frontier said that Greek forces, hampered at Tepeleni since mid-December, finally had entered the central Albanian city taking many fascist prisoners and quantities of war material.

The Gvella account said the Salonika population accorded a "wild celebration" to the British troops.

Confirmation of this dispatch was lacking at the British and Greek legations here. The British said a recent order was issued forbidding the movement of British troops north of a line running through Larisa, Greek railroad town far south of Salonika.

It was pointed out, however, that neither embassies have as yet confirmed the landing of an British troops in Greece, although this is common talk among diplomats here and in other Balkan capitals, some of whom themselves brought eyewitness accounts from Greece.

In Istanbul, the Turkish assembly was expected to approve shortly by an extraordinary defense appropriation of 30,000,000 Turkish pounds, already approved by the cabinet. Other supplementary appropriations for the 1941 budget totaling 70,000,000 pounds for defense were likely later.

Australian Prime Minister To Visit

LONDON, March 20 (AP)—An authoritative source said today Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies of Australia would leave England for the United States shortly to see President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Cordell Hull.

This source said that Menzies stay might be a long one and that he would visit as many industries as possible, returning to Australia by way of California. Menzies has been on tour in Africa and Britain for several weeks.

The repair of damaged ships has been one of Britain's biggest problems. The shipyards of the United Kingdom have been operating under the double handicap of air raids and blackouts. In addition to keeping damaged ships in repair, they also have a tremendous new construction program both for the navy and for the merchant fleet which has been depleted by the Nazi counterblockade.

What action would be taken on the request was not indicated.

AUSTIN, March 20 (Sp)—Subsoil moisture conditions in Texas generally are favorable for crops, the United States department of agriculture reported today.

Speaker Tells Druggists To Feature Prescriptions

Druggists are missing their best opportunity for profitable operations when they concentrate on merchandising everything from lawnmowers to car batteries instead of stressing their prescription business, E. R. Mull, Indianapolis, Ind., trade advertising manager for Eli Lilly Co., told West Texas druggists here Wednesday afternoon.
Mull quoted from several surveys which showed that although prescription business accounted but for one-eighth of the retail drug store volume, it was responsible for 40 per cent of the profits. He cited specific cases in point.

mand for pharmaceutical services due to the unfolding of a public health program, hospital prescription departments, and recognition of pharmacists as a professional group. Recent strides in medicine, he added, will increase the demand.
Mull appreciated the place of "front end merchandising" but contended it should be secondary in drug store operation. Druggists, he concluded, need to advertise the service angle and be first of all what no other business can be—a drug store.

The main ideas suggested for the committee's consideration thus far are:
1. No benefit check should be issued to a farmer owning more than 200 acres. The program should be to aid the small farmer.
2. The benefit check amounts should be based on the actual needs of farmers rather than on acreage. One farmer with a large family needs more income than a man and his wife, even though both families may farm the same number of acres. This element of need should be considered in determining the size of benefit checks.

For instance, the other day a woman phoned The Herald office to learn who wrote "Home Sweet Home." Everybody has learned that at one time or another, and practically everybody has forgotten. The newspaperman couldn't remember, but he replied with a voice of confidence: "Just a moment, please," and rocked back in his chair to think.
The name "Payne" flashed through his mind. A glance in the Britannica located the biography of John Howard Payne and by this reverse process the riddle was solved.

Legislature Awaits Mann's Ruling On Anti-Strike Measure

Big Bend Park Fund Passed By Committee

AUSTIN, March 20.—Girding itself for a pitched battle, the Texas house of representatives today awaited an opinion from Attorney General Gerald C. Mann on the constitutionality of Governor W. Lee O'Daniel's proposed anti-strike legislation.

Mann, however, had informed house members he was doubtful he could report on the bill after but two days' study. The governor had urged immediate passage.

The proposal would require 60 days advance notice to strikes or lockouts in national defense industries and prohibit use of more than two pickets at one factory entrance.

Meanwhile, a house committee yesterday recommended a proposed constitutional amendment to increase from three to nine the membership of the state supreme court.

A proposal to extend terms of office for state representatives and county commissioners from the current two to four years won unanimous approval of the committee.

By vote of 11 to 3, the house appropriations group favorably reported a bill appropriating $1,500,000 to purchase 783,000 acres for the Texas portion of International Big Bend Park project on the Rio Grande.

Four bills allocating in various ways surplus moneys in the state's county and road district indebtedness fund were recommended by two house committees. One would turn the funds over to the highway department for building military highways while the other would give it to counties for use on lateral roads.

Intended to hasten committee action on the complex problem of house membership redistricting, another group instructed a subcommittee to report a bill within 24 hours. Despite marked population changes, representative districts have not been altered in 18 years. Three bills have been introduced.

Another lower legislative chamber committee killed without a dissenting vote a bill intended to tighten restrictions on land-holding by private corporations. The proposal would have limited to five years the time a corporation could hold land obtained through foreclosure.

Fort Custer Men Can Relax

BATTLE CREEK, Mich. — Battle Creek merchants and civic leaders, seeking to provide healthful recreation facilities for soldiers stationed at Fort Custer, have financed two military clubhouses where men can relax on off-duty hours.

Support Sought For Texas Good Roads Ass'n

Letters urging support of the Texas Good Roads association have been sent out here on the eve of personal calls by James Holder, Midland, field representative of the association.

Dave Duncan, chairman of the chamber of commerce highway committee, pointed to the good work of the association in fighting to prevent diversion of highway funds in commending associational membership to recipients of the letters.

Currently, said Duncan's letter, $6,000,000 annually levied for highway purposes is finding its way into channels other than roads. The Texas Good Roads association has adopted a policy of militant opposition to this practice.

At the present time, Texas is being called upon to match between $6,000,000 to $8,000,000 in special federal defense highway funds. Unless diversion of funds is stopped, financing the state end of the bargain will become difficult and stagnate other highway construction, according to the Texas Parade, official organ of the association.

This, said Holder, is the basis upon which the association is carrying its campaign and asking for support. Holder, who until recently lived in the Big Spring area and still calls it home, is carrying on an educational campaign in addition to accepting the $1 annual membership fee.

San Angelo To Host 3-AA Trackmen Sat.

Big Springers May Miss Opening Meet Because of Enforced Training Layoff

District 3-AA tracksters and fieldmen come out with their first exhibition tournament of 1941 at San Angelo Saturday with about half of the eight schools making definite plans to attend.

Pat Murphy, Big Spring mentor, said Thursday morning the local lightly-clad might not be on hand for the meet, since they have had little chance for pre-meet workouts. The Big Springers took a light training session Wednesday afternoon but before that time had been forced to lay-off a total of two weeks or better because of inclement weather.

In the event they feel capable of entering competition Saturday, Murphy said he would take about two car loads of his tracksters to the meet.

Len Nations is scheduled to take care of the dash events, Junior Moore and Jesse Mendoza are on the bill to handle the 220 yard department, Alfred Adams is slated for the quarter-mile and Billy Womack is up for a fling at the half.

In the field events, Nations is due to compete for jump honors and Clifton Patton and Doyle Stewart are to show their wares in the weight listings.

Murphy explained that the question of Big Spring's entry in Saturday's meet hinges on the showing made in workouts on Thursday and Friday. The local lads are scheduled to take part in an invitational tournament at San Angelo a week from Saturday and may hold back until then to make the jaunt to the Concho river bottoms.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By EDDIE BRIEZE
NEW YORK, March 20—Whoops and shades of the old Gas House! The Cards sent Billy Southworth a basket of flowers on his 48th birthday. . . Red face: Sam Simons, caterer at the Boston Garden, Monday cooked 1500 hot dogs for the opening of a basketball tournament—which starts tomorrow. . . When Detroit played the Senators at Orlando, only Tiger cheered was Hank Greenberg. . . On the coast Bob Pastor was 7-10 to beat Turkey Thompson, but the N. Y. experts thought Thompson would knock Bob stiffer than an Andalusian goat. . . Charlie O'Rourke's new coaching job will keep him from playing 10 semi-pro games in the New York area at $150 per copy.

Is She Daisy?
Mrs. D. Dean, who is minding the farm while Dix is in camp, was so thrilled when she sold three dozen eggs for 45 cents that she shot old Dix a wire—costing $1.65.

Florida Flash
Education pays: John Grodzicki, who looks like $75,000 worth of pitching talent for the Cardinals, is a graduate of Ray Doan's Hot Springs university of the diamond. . . Ernie Lombard's ankle is acting up. . . When Dixie Trout didn't show up to pitch the other day, Manager Del Baker found him hollering his head off, padlocked in a sound proof broadcasting booth where some prankish players had locked him. . . Bill Terry now hitting Giants will start the season with Ott on third and Joe Moore in right. . . When Umpire Ziggy Sears made a questionable decision in the Bee-Brown game at Monterey, he was barred from the club's bus for the ride back to San Antonio. . . Players then re-ented and let him come along, but paid him off with a fine old hot foot.

Today's Guest Star
John Mooney, Salt Lake City Telegram: "About Greenberg, now personally, I'd rather be a flat foot felder with $50,000 than a flat foot floogie with a floy floy, no matter how intriguing the F. F. must be."

Sports Tabloid
Visitor: J. G. Taylor Spink, well known as publisher of "The Sporting News" and as the man who had a double sawbuck riding on Bay View. . . You should have seen Abe Simon's eyes pop out when someone showed him a 21-inch collar formerly worn by John L. Sullivan. Abe wears a 20-inch collar, himself. . . One-man race of the national invitation cage tourney is Ohio U's Frank Baumholtz. Papers call him the "dream player" and the girls much nicer things than that. . . Bob Shawkey, the old Yankee, is taking 150 tons of ore a day out of his Canadian gold mine at $10 per ton. Nice work if you can get it. . . Fritzie Zivic signed his autograph for 300 neighborhood kids while getting his hair cut in Pittsburgh the other day.

Fight Tip
Well, here's good luck to Abe Simon. The gu. you shouldn't bet a dime on.

Is Ain't Here Yet
Coach Bill Alexander says he'll not start spring practice at Georgia Tech until April 7 for the simple reason that he's waiting for spring.

The population density of Maine is less than 27 to the square mile. Railroad rails are measured in pounds per yard in length.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 20 (AP)—Perhaps it is an extremely long shot, but the next high commissioner of baseball might be General George C. Marshall, the present chief of staff of the expanding United States army.

Snead Bidding To Overcome Pinehurst Hex

PINEHURST, N. C., March 20 (AP)—Sammy Snead, who took an 8 on the last hole in the national open two years ago and never has lived it down, seemed in a fair way to beating down his Pinehurst complex today.

Samuel Jackson went into today's final 36 holes of the 39th annual North-South open golf championship with a four stroke lead. Closest to him was national open champ Lawson Little at 139, followed by P. G. A. champ Byron Nelson and Clayton Heaster of Linville, N. C., 140; defending champ Ben Hogan, 141; veteran Mike Turnesa of Fairview, N. Y., 142; and Willie Goggin of White Plains, N. Y., 143.

This was an unusual position for Snead, who hits a golf ball with accuracy and yet with abandon and still has been dogged by a persistent bugaboo in this traditional winter tourney.

Five years ago, for instance, when Snead was just coming up, the P. G. A. championship was booked for Pinehurst. What did Snead do? He went to the wrong sectional qualifying point, and thus wasn't eligible. Four years ago in the North-South, he was disqualified for a misposted card. Three years ago he played so badly that he picked up in mid-round.

The accumulated weight of these incidents or accidents left a strong impression on Snead's impressionable mind. They did, that is, until yesterday, when he put together a brilliant six-under-par 66 that put him at the head of the field and also apparently lifted the psychological weight from his shoulders.

West's Cagers Display Drive

DENVER, March 20 (AP)—As some eastern players out west for the first time see it, height, drive and superior physical condition give the west a big edge over the east in "Major League" basketball.

This is the sentiment of several former college stars from the New York and Washington area who played for the New York Ohrbachs in the National A. A. U. tournament and lost their only game by 21 points to a California team.

Drive is an essential in the western "fire alarm" style of basketball and the Ohrbachs think eastern teams just don't have it. Said Sid Kapp, ex-George Washington forward: "These western teams drive, drive, drive, all the time. They have plenty of tall men, who are extremely good basketball players. We have very few big men in the east, and a good big man always is better than a good little man on a basketball floor."

LOUIS EXPECTS SAME OLD STORY IN SCRAP FRI.

DETROIT, March 20 (AP)—Joe Louis has no doubt as to the outcome of his battle with ponderous Abe Simon, set for 30 rounds or less, tomorrow night.

All that is worrying the powerful negro is how long it will take to explode his 250-pound foe and whether he'll damage his hands in doing it. A damaged hand would be a serious blow to the world's heavyweight champion in his "fight-a-month" campaign. He is scheduled to box Tony Musto in St. Louis April 7 and Billy Conn in New York in June.

Louis promised today to knock out Simon with the first punch if possible. He is determined to convince hometown admirers that he's capable of finishing an opponent with a quick, spectacular knockout. In previous Detroit engagements, Nattie Brown and Patsy Perroni each stuck ten rounds with the champion, while he required eleven rounds to stop Bob Pastor after flooring him four times in the first round.

Promoter Mike Jacobs is checking his store teeth over the prospect of a $50,000 gate. On that basis Simon will pocket about $6,000, a lump he never before received.

Girl Cagers In Semi-Finals

DALLAS, March 20 (AP)—The Galveston Anticos play Quinlan at Lancaster and the Dallas Hornets meet Merit at Plano tonight in semi-finals of the Southwestern AAU women's basketball tournament.

Galveston advanced last night by downing Floyd 27-12. Quinlan defeated Emory 21-25. Merit downed Irene 30-25 and the Hornets eliminated Wolfe City 41-11.

The finals will be played here tomorrow night.

Texas Club Leads Fems' Classic Loop

In the Big Spring Ladies' Classic bowling league, Texas Club keglers hold first place while Toby's, Texas Electric and Park Inn teams follow in the order named.

Wednesday night's tussles had the Texas Club triumphing over Texas Electric with a count of 2,241 to 2,041 and Park Inn taking the nod over Toby's with a 2,125 to 2,105 score.

Minnie Howze leads the field average with a tally of 156 pins. Stella Flynn and Mrs. Luke LeBlanc place in second and third with averages of 154 and 150 respectively.

Wednesday scores: Texas Club—Flynt 462, Knaus 404, LeBlanc 450, Richards 386, Meyers 449. Texas Electric—Wells 433, Robb 370, Wasson 441, Parks 382, Griffith 406.

Park Inn—Howze 512, Haley 398, Hoeckendorf 369, Edmundson 336, Simons 501. Toby's—Eason 480, Hall 363, Ramsey 435, Davis 408, Vineyard 419.

BATTLE CREEK, Mich.—Battle Creek has taken a tip from embattled London in buying a new fire truck. Chisox Lose Exhibit Tilt To Cubs, 4-1

LOS ANGELES, March 20 (AP)—The Chicago White Sox were nursing wounds today inflicted by their cross-town rivals, the Cubs, and were pretty chagrined about the way they contrived to give the National League a 4 to 1 decision. The Cubs didn't earn a run.

That was just the first in a series of exhibition games the Chicagoans will stage before they start their pennant campaign. The Sox will go back into the American league campaign just as strong and possibly stronger than they were last year, and the prediction comes from no less an authority—and biased observer—than James J. Dykes, the manager of the club.

Powerful hitting, what they hope will be a well balanced pitching staff, good catching and a tight infield—these are the White Sox claims.

Heading the parade of batters, and responsible for the surprising uprising of the Sox last season, the Taft Wright (.337); Julius (Moore) Solters (.308); Luke Appling (.345); Mike Kreevich, who fell below the .300 mark last year but is determined to get back into the hit brigade this season, and Joe Kuhel, whose .280 doesn't tell all the story of his progress at the plate last year.

There is no lack of confidence in the Sox camp, and don't be amazed if they live up to their own expectations. They figure to be a solid first division contender, and the higher the better.

ANYBODY WITH POND CAN GET FREE FISH FROM THE STATE

By the Associated Press
Anybody in Texas owning a pond of water large enough to be called a pond may stock it free and have good fishing within a few months.

Plant your young fish now, officials of the department of fish and game at Texas A. and M. college advise, and reap a harvest of tasty bluegills or Georgia bream in the fall. It is not always possible to get immediate delivery of stocking fish, but the hatcheries fill orders as rapidly as they are able.

Here's how you do it:
To get fish from the state hatcheries, write the Texas Game, Fish and Oyster commission at Austin, asking for a request blank. Fill in this blank and return it to the commission. When the hatcheries are delivering, usually in the summer, they will fill the request if possible. In order to get fish from the federal hatcheries in Texas, write to the superintendent, United States Fisheries station, Fish and Wildlife Service at Uvalde.

Few fish are required. Only one pair of bluegill bream spawning with average success will produce enough young fish to stock several acres of water. A. & M. experts advise:

Proper kinds and numbers of fish should be planted in new ponds and tanks. Bluegill bream reproduce so fast that some hungry fish-eaters, like bass, are needed to keep the bluegills from becoming too numerous. Therefore large-mouth bass and young bluegill bream are used together in the following proportions for one acre of water:

Four hundred bluegill bream from one to three inches long.
Thirty largemouth bass from one to three inches long.

These small fish all should be about the same size. If three acres of water are to be stocked, three times these quantities should be used.

In order to keep the fish from becoming too numerous and not having enough to eat, they should be fished heavily, or the pond should be drained several times a year. If the pond is drained in a few years, A. & M. wildlife experts recommend that the pond be drained and restocked.

Fish planted in the early spring according to the above numbers will be large enough to catch and eat by fall. Most of the bluegills should be one-quarter pound, and the bass about one pound. A total of from 100 to 200 pounds of fish a season from every acre of water may be expected if you know how to catch 'em. Water plants are not recommended.

Fertilization increases the amount of microscopic food in the water and therefore increases the number of pounds of fish. About three times as many pounds of fish may be expected from a pond which the following commercial fertilizer is put, as from a natural, unfertilized pond. Use 100 pounds of "6-6-4" plus ten pounds of nitrate of soda per acre at each application. This costs about $2 per application. Applications need to be made at varying intervals depending on the natural fertility of the pond. Ponds receiving drainage from rich pasture land do not require so much fertilizer as do ponds in barren land. Some ponds are naturally so rich that fertilization does more harm than good, by killing the fish.

A pond may require all the way from no fertilizer at all, to as many as eight of the above applications per acre every year.

A rich pond has a great deal of microscopic, greenish growth in it, making it look almost soupy. Such a pond does not need fertilizing. When the water clears of the greenish material, another application should be added. Fertilizers should be applied only after heavy rains are over to avoid washing the fertilizer by its being washed out of the pond.

How many fish to put into the pond depends upon how much food the pond produces for the fish. In other words, how much of this greenish growth is in the pond. The maximum for bluegills and bass seems to be about 600 pounds of fish per acre per year of both kinds.

Angel Cake With A Heavenly Touch

By Katharine Fisher
Director, Good Housekeeping Institute

Here's a variation of angel cake that will surely bring clamoring demands for encores from your own special public. Marble Angel-Food Cake is its name, and don't feel that you need a special knack or a magic touch to make it. Just follow directions exactly; they have been carefully tested in our own kitchens. Of course, you'll have leftover egg yolks. But you can turn them to thrifty good use in one of the several ways we have suggested below.

KATHARINE FISHER
Director of Good Housekeeping Institute

Marble Angel-Food Cake

Use fat-free-approved measuring cups and spoons. Measure level
1 c. sifted cake flour 1/4 tsp. salt
2 tsp. cocoa 1 tsp. cream of tartar
1 1/2 c. granulated sugar 1 tsp. vanilla extract
1 c. egg whites 1/4 tsp. almond extract

Sift together 1/2 c. of flour, the cocoa, and 1/4 c. of sugar 4 times. Sift remaining 1/2 c. flour 4 times. With a wire whisk, hand beater, or electric beater at high speed, beat egg whites and salt until foamy. Add cream of tartar, and continue beating until stiff enough to stand in peaks, but not dry. Add remaining 1 c. sugar, 2 tsp. at a time, beating after each addition with whisk or hand beater or electric beater at low speed, until sugar is just blended. Fold in flavorings. Divide mixture in two parts. Into one lightly fold flour. Into other lightly fold flour and cocoa mixture. Place by tablespoons in a 9" tube pan, which has been rinsed in cold water, but not greased, alternating white and chocolate mixtures. Bake in moderate oven of 325° F. for 45 to 50 min., or until done. Then invert on a cake rack for 1 hr., or until cold, before removing from pan. Serve plain, sprinkled lightly with confectioners' sugar, or frosted with Seven-Minute Frosting.

Some Ways To Use Leftover Egg Yolks

For Gold Cake
2 1/2 c. sifted cake flour 1 1/2 c. granulated sugar
2 1/2 tsp. baking powder 1 egg yolk
1/2 tsp. salt 1/2 c. milk
1/4 c. shortening 1/2 tsp. lemon extract

Sift together 3 times flour, baking powder, and salt. Cream shortening; add sugar gradually, while continuing to beat until light and fluffy. Beat egg yolks until thick and lemon-colored; add to creamed mixture, and beat smooth. Add flour mixture alternately with milk and extract; beat smooth. Bake in 3 greased, 8" layer-cake pans in moderately hot oven of 375° F. for 25 min. Fill and frost with Lemon Frosting. Then sprinkle 1 1/2 tsp. grated lemon rind on top, and cover sides with 1 c. shredded coconut.

For Velvety Custard Sauce
Leftover egg yolks make superb custard sauce to serve over fresh or canned fruit, gelatin whip, etc. Combine 3 beaten egg yolks, 2 tsp. sugar, and a pinch of salt. Gradually stir in 1 c. scalded milk; cook, stirring constantly, in a double boiler over hot, not boiling, water until mixture coats a spoon—but no longer, or sauce will curdle. Cool; add 1/4 tsp. vanilla.

To Perk Up Your Salads
If you want a fillip for your French or mayonnaise dressing, for your potato, vegetable, or fish salad, hard-cook one or more of the leftover egg yolks, and use as a garnish. To hard-cook the yolks, lower them carefully into gently boiling, salted water to cover. Simmer for 15 min. Remove, and chill. Then chop or mince with a fork. Add to your salad dressing, or sprinkle over the top of or in your salad.

As Vegetable "Toppers"
If you cannot use all the leftover egg yolks the same day, cover them with cold water and store in the refrigerator. Drain off all water; hard-cook the yolks as above. Then mince, and use as a garnish for spinach, beet or turnip greens. They make a grand topping, too, for cream soups or for cauliflower, etc., cooked whole and served with cheese sauce. Or beat the yolks, and use in making sauces for creamed or scalloped meats, fish, or vegetables, in gravy for chicken fricassees, etc.

For Lunchbox Sandwiches
You who have school or go-to-business lunchboxes to pack can make grand use of egg yolks in sandwich fillings. Don't forget they're rich in iron. Just try these Raw-Vegetable Sandwiches: Combine 2 minced, hard-cooked egg yolks, 1/2 c. each minced celery and carrots, 1 c. finely shredded cabbage, 1/4 tsp. salt, a speck of pepper, 3 tsp. mayonnaise, and 1 tsp. chili sauce. Fill 5 full-size sandwiches.

Lorraine Cheese And Locker Plant Finishes Good Year

LORLAINE, March 20—A year of successful operation has been completed by the Lorraine Cooperative association's cheese plant and frozen food locker plant here.

Income from the manufacture of cheese in the plant amounted to nearly a quarter of a million dollars during the first year it operated. The income from cheese, cream and butter was 123,342.74.

Cheese manufactured at the plant during the year totaled 699,712 pounds, an average of over 1,800 pounds for every day during the year. The milk used came from all over Mitchell county and from parts of Nolan, Scurry and Fisher counties.

Butterfat contained in the milk to make this amount of cheese meant an income of $80,942.02 to farmers in the area covered by the plant's trucks.

C. T. Marth, formerly plant superintendent for the Producers Marketing company in Kansas City, is manager of the Lorraine plant and field man for the Lorraine Cooperative association. E. E. Wade is plant superintendent and cheese maker, having come from a Kraft plant in Oklahoma.

18,000 Pounds of Milk
The plant receives about 18,000 pounds of milk daily at the present time, and would like to increase its receipts, according to those in charge.

A frozen food locker plant is operated in connection with the cheese plant. Three hundred lockers are available.

Harry Cranfill, who lives about 10 miles south of Lorraine, is the largest milk shipper to the cheese plant. At present he is milking 16 cows and shipping milk from 14 of them. From the time the plant started until mid-February this year, Cranfill had sold 3,144 pounds of butterfat to the plant, drawing checks totaling approximately $1,006.08.

Ship Sinkings, Harbor Raids, Are Revealed

BERLIN, March 20 (AP)—The German high command declared today that 66,500 tons of shipping had been sunk in continuing attacks on Britain's line of supply and that strong units of the Luftwaffe had blasted dock facilities and other targets in London in a violent night assault.
Informed sources said the six-hour raid was "unprecedented and far exceeded Coventry." Hundreds of planes were said to have participated, dropping about 10,000 incendiary bombs and many high explosive bombs on the capital.
Submarines, the daily war bulletin said, sank 39,500 tons of enemy shipping space out of a strongly-protected convoy, including "a whaling mother ship of over 20,000 tons." Scouting planes sank a 7,000-ton merchantman yesterday in an attack on a convoy, the communique added.

In addition, 31,000 tons of shipping was said to have been damaged, 21,000 tons by submarines and 10,000 tons by planes.
The destruction of four British planes was claimed, three in south England and one in North Africa, against no Nazi losses.
In the attack on London last night, the high command said, "harbor and dock facilities were especially heavily bombed with explosives and incendiaries of all sizes."

"Extensive fields of fire explosions visible for a great distance were observed," the communique continued. "Direct bomb hits were scored in factories northeast of the Thames bend. Merchant ships on the Thames were set afire."
The Royal Victoria, Royal Albert and King George V docks were listed among the targets.

Guardsmen To Quit Training At Year End

WASHINGTON, March 20 (AP)—A high army authority disclosed today that, barring the gravest emergency, the war department had decided to demobilize national guard units upon completion of their year in federal service.
The same policy also will apply, it was said, to the thousands of men who have been or are being inducted into the army for a year's training under the selective service act.
Reports have circulated in recent weeks that the guard's tour of active service might be extended six months or even a year, in view of world conditions.
The army's decision follows the primary purpose of the present peacetime defense preparations, which are to train as large a number of men as possible. Therefore, the land forces will be kept up to their intended strength of 1,418,000 men by the induction of fresh selective service quotas and additional three-year enlistments in the regular army.

Can the new Pontiac—one of the smartest-looking, easiest-riding cars on the road today—actually be low-priced? Well, here are the facts: Pontiac prices begin at $828*. A new 1941 Pontiac "Torpedo" will cost you so little more than the "lowest-priced three" that the difference will amount to only a very few dollars per month. What's more, Pontiac's economy of operation and upkeep permits you to drive for practically the same money that a lesser car requires. Lawyers Get Acquittal In Perjury Case

AUSTIN, March 20 (AP)—Prosecution of four prominent Texas attorneys charged by indictment with conspiracy to commit perjury was at an end today without a conviction.

A district court jury yesterday returned an instructed verdict of acquittal in the case of Elbert Hooper, former assistant attorney general, after Judge J. Harris Gardner stated:

"My idea of the law is that this evidence (the state's) is not sufficient to require this man (Hooper) to defend himself before a jury."

The verdict came after the state completed two and a half days of evidence and Hooper's defense testimony had not started.

Shortly thereafter, on the motion of District Attorney Homer Thornberry, the court dismissed the remainder of the indictment against Raymond Alfred and Neal Powers. Last week, Rennie Allred, Jr., charged with the others, was acquitted.

The attorneys had been indicted in connection with postponement of a Caldwell county oil case.

Sherrod Sells Local Store

R. Sherrod's Supply Company will go into the hands of R. L. Brown, Lamesa hardwareman, within the next 60 days.

Sherrod announced that he was trading the local store for an eight-section ranch located near the Upton-Reagan county line. He pointed out that the deal would be approximately a $150,000 transaction.

In order to get a stock reduction so as to allow Brown to combine the stock of the Lamesa house with that of the Big Spring store, a sale of all goods was inaugurated Thursday, Sherrod said.

Sherrod has been in business in Big Spring since 1934 and opened up at his present location two years ago. Although his home is in Lubbock Sherrod has managed to spend two days per week with his business here. His brother, Bill G. Sherrod, and the rest of the personnel will remain with the store after Brown takes over, Sherrod said.

Senate Gets Aid Fund Bill

WASHINGTON, March 20 (AP)—Backed by the thumping bipartisan house majority of 336 to 88, the $7,000,000,000 British aid appropriation bill went to the senate side of the capitol today, where administration leaders confidently predicted it would get prompt endorsement early next week.

Responding to appeals for unity to show the world the United States was wholeheartedly behind the aid program, an irresistible coalition of house democrats and republicans sent the record-breaking peace-time bill to the senate last night without a single change.

Getting ready to match the house record for swift preliminary action, a senate appropriations subcommittee decided to start hearings on the measure this afternoon and called various army officials as the first witnesses.

One hint of senate feeling was given by Senator Taft (R-Ohio), who fought the original lease-lend bill to the last. Now that the program has been adopted, he said, "what we ought to do is send Great Britain all the aid provided under the bill."

Before the roll call was reached, a group of die-hard republicans, led by Rep. Lambertson (R-Cas) sought repeatedly to force changes in both the amount and language of the bill but always fell hopelessly short of success.

One-Minute Movie

ROAD TO ZANZIBAR

A brief peep at some of the scenes in Paramount's forthcoming CROSBY-HOPE-LAMOUR comedy musical.

The boys are "working" darkest Africa with a tent show; also displaying the curvaceous Joan Marsh.

When it comes to curves, Dorothy takes no back seat. Minus a sarong, this tasty fern leaf costume looks quite delectable.

The boys are not getting far with this scheme of starting a fire by rubbing sticks of wood.

The famed "paddy cake" routine.

Another conference . . . with disastrous results.

Max Factor's Glamour Hints

The square face is the most demanding of all in its requirements of make-up accentuation.

First of all, one must remember that it is very easy to confuse the true square face—Lucille Ball offers a lovely example of this type—with the full roundness of the Myrna Loy countenance.

But there is a difference between these two types of faces, and a recognition of this fact is essential to the grooming perfection of each.

The most obvious point of difference between square and round faces is that the former is marked by a decisively square and usually rather prominent jaw line.

And while the contours of the square face may be almost identical in their upper areas, the round type nevertheless has a full curve to the jaw line which requires an entirely different make-up and coiffure styling technique from that of the square type.

If minimizing the squareness of the jaw line is desired, the hair shouldn't be pulled back tightly at the temples or the forehead line. Small, tightly coiled curls should be avoided. The hair should not be fashioned in any way which leaves a smooth flat surface on top.

The coiffure styling of the square-faced woman should feature softness and looseness. Fullness at the sides is especially effective in minimizing the appearance of the sharp jaw angle. As many soft curves as possible should figure in both the make-up treatment of the face and the styling of the hair, to offset too much squareness of the visage.

The woman with the square face should first apply her rouge at the customary starting point on the cheekbones. From here it should be blended back toward the ear, and then down toward the point of the chin, following the lines of the square jaw.

For obvious reasons, the rouge shouldn't be applied in any square or oblong pattern, with straight line edges. On the square-faced woman, rouge patterns of this sort would serve to make the chin appear squarer than it actually is. Nor should the square-faced woman go in for that occasionally practiced conceit of rouging the point of the chin, or the ear lobes.

HOLLYWOOD TODAY

EXCLUSIVELY YOURS: Hollywood scribes have concocted a new romantic triangle for a motion picture—Anna Neagle, John Carroll, and Slicker, the seal. Every time Carroll tries to make love to her in "Sunny," the seal starts to bark and breaks up his routine. It's a running gag throughout the picture. . . . Although she earns nearly $1000 a week, Linda Darnell and her mother are living in a $35-a-month apartment. Reason for the economy is that she's putting 75 per cent of her salary into a $100,000 trust fund. . . . Virginia O'Brien, who was a hit in "Meet the People," is playing the strangest role in Hollywood at the moment. She hasn't a single line of dialogue, but eats continually throughout her role with Eleanor Powell in "Lady Be Good."

Robert Preston is playing the role Don Ameche turned down in Paramount's "The Night of January 16." Other day a friend asked him what he invents in the picture. "Why, I don't invent anything—it isn't that kind of a picture," replied Preston. To which the friend said: "Well, no wonder Don Ameche turned down the part."

Mickey Rooney's reception committee when he returned to Hollywood from Honolulu was like old home week. His mother and his stepfather and his father and his stepmother all showed up. . . . Milton Berle also returned to Hollywood over the week-end, making Mary Beth Hughes the happiest gal in town. . . . Carole Landis and Cedric Gibbons are helping each other forget their exes—Dolores del Rio and Willie Hunt. But Betty Grable isn't going to forget her ex-husband, Jackie Coogan. She promised to visit him during his army camp service. . . . Fashion tip: Irene Dunne's new spring dress is of white chiffon with full size half watermelons painted on the skirt.

John Garfield, whose dangling cigarette helped make his screen debut a memorable one, has worked out a new cigarette gag for his tough character role in "The Gentle People." A trick of flipping one away. It means he has to smoke a lot of them. And he doesn't like them. Never has. On his own he always smokes a pipe.

Ethel Barrymore's reaction to Hollywood, which has the movie village burning: "The people are unreal. The flowers are unreal—they don't smell. The fruit is unreal—it doesn't taste of anything. The whole place is a set, a glaring, gaudy, nightmarish set built up in the desert."

When fully dressed, Lupe Velez wears the least clothes of any of the Hollywood glamour girls. . . . Announcement that Bob Burns will discard his bazooka and stories about his relatives for his film return in "The Good Fellow" wasn't his own idea. Studio executives insisted on it. . . . Those who've seen Jean Parker in "Power Dive" declare it's her best performance to date. . . . Metro's film version of "The Yearling" will be filmed on location near Jacksonville, Fla. The house in the picture will be the same one in which Marjorie Kinnan Rawlings wrote the novel. M-G-M just purchased it for a set. . . . Myrna Loy is a changed person since her reconciliation with husband Arthur Hornblow. She's smiling again.

Madeleine Carroll goes naive on the screen for the first time for her role in "One Night in Lisbon," and Paramount executives are wondering whether it will take with movie fans. Anything Madeleine does is okeh with me.

KEN MORGAN'S . . . HOLLYWOOD KEYHOLE

Laurel and Hardy will be the next film luminaries to gather in some of the folding money to be picked up around the theatre circuits. The funnymen leave shortly for an extended tour of Mexico. The pair haven't made a picture for some time, and their decision to tread the boards again hints of a possible film deal. They were sensational grossers in Europe, and now, with that market a negligible quantity, they will try the Latin Americas in search of new audience. Their manager thinks enough of them to demand a $2,500 advance before the train leaves from the Los Angeles station.

I wonder if Patricia Morrison realizes that Gene Autry gets more fan mail than Gable and Taylor combined, and that playing opposite Gene in a picture would garner more fans than she could ever hope to get by appearing in a dozen pictures with a dozen top stars. She either doesn't realize it or she is being badly advised. She just turned down a loan-out from her home studio, Paramount, to appear in Gene's next Republic picture, "Singing Hills." Virginia Dale, who is riding the success wave crest, has knocked around town for a long time and isn't turning down such a golden opportunity, so she gets the part and a flock of new fans, and Miss Morrison gets suspended from the Paramount contract list.

Draw your own conclusions as to whether Lupe Velez and Big Boy Williams will ever marry. She's had a flock of dates recently with Blake Garner, a Chicago broker, who planned in last week to see her. If memory serves me correctly, the pair romanced a bit last year.

When the papers announced a few weeks ago that Boots Mallory, who gave up acting about five years ago to become Mrs. William Cagney, was about to return to the celluloid, the path to her door took a beating. Within 24 hours after the item appeared, she had been approached by four agents, two clipping bureaus, eight independent photographers, and five applicants for a secretarial job.

Arthur Murray tells of an interesting confab between two sweaters. White Angela: "Did you hear, my dear, Lana Turner is in the market for a new sweater?" Blue Cashmere: "Oh, I'd rather have Rita Hayworth. She gets more publicity." White Angela: "That may be true. But I've got a crush on Tony Martin."

Donald Crisp, one of the most sought-after character actors, need never worry if picture chores don't come. He is a vice-president of one of the Bank of America branches. The other day, he had to be excused from the set of 20th Century-Fox's "Blood and Sand" to attend an important board meeting.

Shirley Ross' definition of a split second is the length of time between when the traffic light changes from red to green and the driver in the car behind you starts tooting his horn.

Rufe Davis, Republic's comedian, is having to throw himself out of his own apartment house. He has a "no babies allowed" rule in the building he owns—and Mrs. Davis is soon to become a mother.

Billy Cook, now featured in Columbia's "Naval Academy," is working in his first film in 15 months—because he's just emerged from his voice-changing and gawky period. Last cast as the 10-year-old son of Fred MacMurray and Irene Dunne in "Invitation to Happiness." Billy is now actually 15 years old, and in the intervening 15 months has grown from five feet in height to five feet six inches, and from 100 pounds in weight to 130 pounds.

OFF THE CUFF: Alice Faye and radio announcer-singer John Conti, who had a deal a while back, but allowed the option to drop, have drawn up a new contract and have been out several times discussing the terms. . . . I wonder if Lana Turner and Mary Beth Hughes know that in a current magazine they appear in separate photographs with identical evening gowns—which both, no doubt, bought as an original? . . . Bruce Cabot has cut Fat de Cicco's time with Bettye Avery, New York model now under contract to Twentieth. . . . Binnie Barnes and husband Mike Frankovitch are tacking up realtor signs on their Brentwood properties—they are in the real estate business. . . . Is Norma Shearer over-staying her Sun Valley scheduled vacation because of the cold snow or a warm heart?

Hal Rosch's mystery-comedy, "TOPPER RETURNS," starring Joan Blondell, Roland Young, and delicious Carole Landis.

Joan Blondell and Roland Young in an intimate scene from "TOPPER RETURNS."

This is by far the best of the "Topper" films, being blessed not only by an exceptional cast, with top production and direction, but more particularly with an outstanding story by Jonathan Latimer and Gordon Douglas, past masters in mystery plots, all aided by the wisecracking dialogue injected by Paul Smith.

Joan Blondell, the girl-friend of heiress Carole Landis, is murdered in the first ten minutes of the picture, and her ghostly efforts to pin the act on the guilty party motivates each of the succeeding 80 minutes of thrilling mystery, with hidden panels, secret passages between walls, trap doors, subterranean tunnels and pits all contributing their quota of chills and thrills.

Roland Young continues his role as the innocuous Mr. Topper, and turns in an outstanding job. Dennis O'Keefe and Miss Landis contribute what little love interest the film contains, with the good-looking Irish lad spilling plenty of gags, mostly at the expense of Donald MacBride in another of his customary dumb-cop roles. Eddie (Rochester) Anderson really comes into his own as the victim of a running gag that sees him dunked in the ocean three times in succession, followed by side-splitting sequences in a duel with "Slicker," Hollywood's famed trained seal.

All in all, "TOPPER RETURNS" is the sort of picture which you and your whole family can thoroughly enjoy; it's the sort of nonsense that offers a welcome relief to the cares of a war-stricken world.

The Hit Pic of the week is "THAT NIGHT IN RIO," starring Alice Faye, Don Ameche and Carmen Miranda. Done in the beauty of technicolor, this film-musical is the best picture to come off the 20th Century lot in many a moon. Miss Faye, always a favorite of your reviewer, is more charming and, if possible, more beautiful than ever. She is a delight to both the eye and the ear. Don Ameche, in a difficult dual role, does his finest, while the South American personality girl, Carmen Miranda, is at her sparkling best. The way this girl puts over a song is out of this world, and Maeck Gordon and Harry Warren, Fox's new musical team, have provided her with an assortment of musical numbers that you'll be whistling as soon as you hear them. . . . and you'll be hearing them plenty.

Lavish sets and expensive production under Irving Cummings' direction make this super-colossal musical a picture you'll not want to miss. All this plus a bow to S. Z. Sakall, J. Carrol Naish and Curt Bois for topnotch performances.

For an eye-filling, ear-tickling 90 minutes, be sure you take the family and see "THAT NIGHT IN RIO."

Meeting the Stars

With VICTOR BOESEN

The two-year-old in the picture had sabotaged production on Paramount's "West Point Widow" the day before, by socking Anne Shirley smack in the nose, but now the same scene in which this unprovoked assault occurred came off smoothly enough, and Mr. Richard Carlson, who had helplessly endured the attack on Miss Shirley, as her opposite in the picture, came forward to submit to our questions.

Perhaps it was memory of the foul blow to his leading lady which impelled Mr. Carlson to opine that making movies is no art for the most part. . . . unless prize-fighting is. But he didn't think any of Hollywood's best were in the business for art's sake, anyway; they're in it for money.

Take Bette Davis, for example; you don't think she would give up pictures for a 30-dollar-a-week stenog job if it allowed better artistic expression, do you? We hoped not.

There was a time when Mr. Carlson, who was born in the Scandinavian community of Albert Lea, Minnesota, and reared in Minneapolis, was less frank with himself. At the University of Minnesota, after graduation, he taught English to finance himself through the period of writing "the great American play." The piece fell somewhat short of that, or, conceivably, it overshoot, for it flopped noisily on being produced on Broadway.

But, then, most plays flop, and the fact of having authored a flopper is therefore rejected as grounds for ostracism. Even getting one produced is something of a triumph, never mind what happens to it, and this is how Mr. Carlson happened to get further involved in theatricals. He turned actor, which is more profitable than writing bad plays, and was appearing with Ethel Barrymore when Hollywood came after him.

He is very happy with his lot. This strange state is not only because "I'm making a potful of money," but because of the things he hasn't got and doesn't want. He doesn't want to be a star. He doesn't want a castle. He doesn't want a million dollars.

At this point, Director Clodmak called him back for another scene with Miss Shirley and the two-year-old. This time we distinctly saw a gleam of malice in the youngster's eye, and went quickly away.

Personal Presence

By ELEANORE KING

Your first contact with another is your handshake. Don't get off to a bad start by offering, ashamedly, a poorly groomed hand. Then, know what your hands are doing. Don't allow your fingers to play with anything which may be close—a match box, or pieces of paper, or pencil, or your beads or belt.

When you are standing or walking, your arms should fall close to your body. Turn your palms so they face the body. Look in a mirror and see how this line cuts off about four inches from either side of your hips. Also, this way you don't show the wrinkled and brown spots on the knuckles. Put your thumbs at the side seam of your skirt and let the other fingers fall back of that, palms still facing the body. Don't hold your hand across your stomach as you stand. Most women do this, and yet it is one of the most negative line-ups they can assume.

Here is a hand line which Kirsten Flagstad has made classic, and can be used when standing or sitting. Turn your hands so the palms are facing UP. Again you hide the less attractive top of the hand. Let one hand rest in the other, with the palms up and the fingers grouping themselves as they fall. Keep your elbows and arms close to your body.

And most important of all in this hand technique game, practice smooth hand motions, since, as you grow older, your movements have a tendency to become jerky. Nothing you can do will denote more poise than just this rule of keeping your hands quietly controlled and where they belong.

NOTE—Send your questions, with self-addressed, stamped envelope, to Hollywood Today, 6365 Selma Ave., Hollywood, Calif., and Eleanore King will personally answer.

There are those ungallant souls who have been known to express great disillusionment on seeing and it is well known that certain damsels of the screen actually do check a portion of their good looks with the make-up man and the camera, when they leave the studio of an evening. It is therefore a pleasure to report that the exact opposite is true of Miss Una Merkel, who often shows up rather plain as pictures, but who is definitely winsome in person, with a soft and beguiling Southern accent.

She was being very demure when we visited the "Cracked Nuts" set this week—and this again put her in the opposite camp from her co-workers, in a scene involving Mischa Auer, Stuart Erwin, Astrid Allwyn, and Bill Frawley. These latter were being noisily hilarious while rehearsing a scene which required them to rush out of the house, look about wildly, and announce that their cars had been stolen—at which point Miss Merkel drove up in a car (presumably not stolen) with a gentleman named Benson. We say "drove up," though actually the car was pulled with a rope, by a stout party called "Heavy," who stoutly worrying about missing his car.

In rehearsal, Mr. Erwin devoted his eyes with a hand and saying, "Here comes Benson now" and then, when the car pulled up, Mr. Frawley followed this up with, "Listen, Benson, what have you done with Hedges?"

At this, Director Edward Gine capered into the foreground and improvised a song on the "here-comes-Benson-now" motif, whereupon the cast broke into a high-stepping pony-chorus routine and the whole set applauded noisily. It must be regarded as unfortunate that Mr. Gine's performance will not be seen in the screen version of "Cracked Nuts," since he distinctly carried off top honors as a comedian, ending the business with a punch by grasping a lampstand and receiving a most electric shock.

"Maybe it's not our lamp," he said. "It must be charged."

This very properly drew the big laugh of the afternoon, and then, everybody straightened up for a take; but with the camera rolling, Mr. Erwin promptly forgot his lines.

"Is the picture too far along to let Erwin go?" Mischa Auer asked gravely.

"I'll see the casting office," said Gine. "Let's take it again."

This time everything went off smoothly. Mr. Erwin remembered his lines. He shook Mr. Auer with just the right degree of indignation. Mr. Auer responded with equal indignation. And the man named "Heavy" started Miss Merkel's car rolling exactly on cue.

Alsop-Kintner—British Are Taking Supreme Gamble In Balkan Showdown

WASHINGTON, March 20—The apparent meaning of the news from Athens and Belgrade is that the British have determined to open a Balkan front. The risk is terrible, but the prize to be won is very great. For if the British can maintain themselves in Greece, they will always have a foothold in Europe from which to launch an offensive when the time comes.

Because of the desperate need for secrecy and the danger of leaks, the British confided their plans in advance only to the president and one or two other high American officials. Although, as indicated in this special, events seemed to suggest a Balkan front would be opened, our naval and military authorities were almost unanimous in thinking the risk too great until they receive notice the risk had been accepted. Now that the gamble has been made, opinion is more divided as to its wisdom. And as the Balkan situation may now assume immense importance, it seems worthwhile to summarize the best available information about it.

The first thing to grasp is the geography. The Balkan peninsula is extremely mountainous, undeveloped territory, with few roads, poor roads and almost no facilities to support an army on the march. The upper two-thirds of the peninsula are divided between big Jugoslavia on the west, Bulgaria in the middle, and European Turkey on the east. At the bottom of the peninsula, with frontiers on all three nations as well as on Albania, is sandwiched in on the Adriatic coast, lies Greece.

Hollywood—Latin Writers Always Come From Far North

By ROBBIN COONS
HOLLYWOOD—Night clubs are not averse to Latins from Manhattan when the customers are crying for Latins.

"South of the Border" was written by a couple of English lads who've never been south of the border, or north of it, or anywhere on these shores.

Considering items like that, you should be able to guess where the Casa Loma orchestra came from—"Casa Loma" being Spanish for "house on the hill." Canada, of course, Toronto, where the boys took the name of the resort hotel where Glen Gray landed their first engagement back in 1929.

Glen Gray and the boys are making their first movie, having achieved previous opportunities to appear in shorts. They are doing "Time Out for Rhythm," with Rudy Vallee, Ann Miller, Rosemary Lane and other musical stars. Nights, they play at the Palladium, Hollywood's big ballroom-cafe.

The Casa Loma band is a corporation—closed. The original 10 men of the orchestra are the stockholders, the six others draw salaries only. Incorporation, says Gray, was planned to make the band permanent, to avoid the temptation that usually arises when individuals make their names and are offered bands of their own. It has worked.

The ten directors meet regularly wherever they are. They have voted on band business in buses, Pullman compartments, in dressing rooms, in cafe offices. They follow conventional procedure—reading of the minutes, treasurer's report, new business, unfinished business, and all the rest. After salaries are paid, the remaining profits are divided equally between an investment trust fund and a dividend fund—the latter distributed twice a year.

Gray—he says the gang took his name only because the legend was toward featuring a leader—is from Waukegan, Ill. He played clarinet in the high school band, went to Illinois Wesleyan for two years, worked for a railroad, and on the side organized "Spike's Jazz Band"—Spike being his nickname. He was playing a saxophone with the Jean Goldkette band in Detroit—along with Clarence Hutchenrider, Pat Davis and Kenny Sargent, all Casa Loma's today—when Goldkette retired in 1929.

That left the boys unorganized, and it was then that Gray landed them at the Casa Loma spot in Toronto. Incorporation followed, but there were two years of harrumphing through New England before an Atlantic City engagement won them a radio sponsor. Until 1937 Gray played saxophone. That year the "board" put him up front with the baton.

The object of the German thrust to Bulgaria was first to drive down into Greece and save the Italians from their unhappy fate, and second to achieve dominance of the whole peninsula, from which they could then attack the British in the Mediterranean and Near East.

Unfortunately for the Germans, the Balkan mountain ranges run east and west, and are cut across in the north-south direction leading to Greece only by the valleys of three rivers, the Vardar, the Struma and the Maritsa. Both the Vardar and the Maritsa valleys are fairly promising invasion routes, but the Vardar runs chiefly through Jugoslav territory, while the Maritsa is the boundary of European Turkey.

The Struma valley is devoid of transport facilities except for a narrow gauge railway and a road like a goat track, and being a narrow defile, makes troops moving through it an easy target for bombing. The defense of Greece was impossible if either the Vardar or Maritsa valleys were open to the Germans, but offered a chance of success if the Germans' only road lay along the Struma.

Not so many days ago as the Germans were about to carry out their threat to occupy Bulgaria, the Turkish-Bulgarian non-aggression pact seemed to end the last hope in the Balkans. The Turks hastily explained that the paper they had signed had been drafted at Ankara and presented to the Bulgarians months before, after Bulgarian premier Bogdan Philoff had announced opposition to any violation of his country's neutrality or independence.

But the Turks' action was timed to be a blow in the solar plexus to the Jugoslav and Greek leaders contemplating resistance. The Turks were the most determined of the neutral Balkan nations. They appeared to accept German dominance of the Balkans. The pressure campaign had started already in Belgrade, and it seemed certain that before long the Jugoslavs would adhere to the axis, demobilize their army, and give Hitler's divisions transit down the Vardar to embattled Greece.

Shortly thereafter, while German occupation of Bulgaria was in progress, Anthony Eden and the British general, Sir John Dill, hurried to Ankara. In London, where Winston Churchill still believes his Gallipoli adventure only failed because launched too late, a grave decision had evidently already been taken. Eden and Dill told the Turks, and the Jugoslav minister at Ankara, that the British were prepared to make a heavy military investment in Greece if Turkey and Jugoslavia would stand firm to stand firm in any case, and welcomed the news. Their tone changed sharply, to one of belligerence against the Germans, and meanwhile the Russians, who had lost prestige in the Balkans by the German occupation of Bulgaria, chimed in with rather meaningless encouragement.

From Ankara, Eden and Dill went to Athens, where they were joined in their conference with Greek leaders by the British minister to Belgrade. The Jugoslavs, in the interval had also altered their course, and begun to delay their answer to the German demands. Thus, while the situation simmered angrily, English forces were moved into Greece.

And now, although reports of Jugoslavia's and Turkey's fighting the Germans in Bulgaria are doubtless true, it is generally thought that neither will give in to Hitler. The Turks have vastly reinforced their frontiers. The Jugoslavs have mobilized, and while probably ready to sign a meaningless treaty of friendship with Berlin, are almost certain not to open the Vardar valley to German troops.

It is the belief here that the forces have been sent into Greece without too seriously weakening Wavell's army in Africa. The training programs in Australia and New Zealand have already come to maturity, and divisions from these two dominions and from India are understood to have been brought into the Mediterranean by the same huge converted liner transports which carried the reinforcements to Singapore. Australian and Canadian troops in the British Isles were hunkering for action, and these additional men, and with good luck, it is possible that the British can support both the African and Greek campaigns. Altogether as the German air bases in Sicily have just been located and ninety Stukas destroyed on the ground, Hitler's Mediterranean program is not going by schedule. There is dreadful danger in the Mediterranean, but there are also grounds for hope.

Pastor's Group Should Take Lead In Planning Event

Maybe we've been scooped, but thus far plans of a sunrise Easter ceremony at the amphitheatre have not reached our ears.

To miss this opportunity for such an impressive ceremony in ideal surroundings for a sunrise service would be a grave omission.

Naturally, the community has been looking to the Big Spring Pastors' association to take the initiative in this matter. Seemingly, leadership in this direction has not been announced as yet. But it's high time, what with Easter only four Sunday's away, that something was done by someone.

Experience of last year may have contributed to reluctance in planning an amphitheatre service, for then after a stretch of good weather, Easter dawned cloudy, windy and cold. Hurriedly the ceremonies had to be transferred indoors. Even then, a surprisingly large crowd braved adverse conditions to hear the early morning Easter observance.

It must be remembered that last year Easter came in March, and on one of the earliest dates for the sacred day in this century. Naturally, odds for good weather were against it. This year Easter comes on April 13 and chances for fair, warm weather are infinitely better. To insure success, an alternative indoor location could be given due advance publicity.

Right now there's not too much time left in which to properly plan such a service. We suggest that the Pastors' association immediately take action one way or the other so that if they decide against it some other agency may assume leadership. We need to get started on this matter . . . now.

Manhattan—Here's How Trained Fleas Learn Tricks

By GEORGE TURK
NEW YORK—Ezra Stone was standing in a flea circus and shaking his head in wonder at the antics of the little beasts when a man next to him said, "I wonder how they learn them."

"I don't know," Stone said, slowly. "Unless they beat them."

John Buckmaster, although un-faithfully polite, occasionally cracks down on actors who ruin his night club act by carrying on conversations while he is onstage. Buckmaster is a mime and his characterizations of people have won much applause during the last two seasons.

At his first show the other evening a lady who, to put it bluntly, was over-tanked on gin, kept calling "Come on over and say hello—come on over and say hello." Buckmaster ignored this, but two hours later, when he returned for another appearance, she was still there and at once began crying, "Come on over and say hello."

"Finally, after she had called to him a dozen times, Buckmaster stopped his act and said, "No, but I'll be glad to say good-bye."

However, this had no effect on the lady whatever. She was still there, still tanked, still having a high old time when Buckmaster departed.

We dropped by the studios at 155 East 24th street the other evening just as Gertrude Lawrence got out of a cab and came in. The star of "Lady in the Dark" was there to record the tunes in her hit show, and it soon became apparent that Miss Lawrence likes to "warm up" her voice before she begins to record.

"I don't know," she said, "but I've heard that she had called to him a dozen times, Buckmaster stopped his act and said, "No, but I'll be glad to say good-bye."

However, this had no effect on the lady whatever. She was still there, still tanked, still having a high old time when Buckmaster departed.

Among those with Miss Lawrence was Kurt Weill, the composer, who wrote those songs for her—"My Ship," "This Is Now," "The Princess of Pure Delight," "One Life to Live," "Oh Fabulous One," and others.

It was the first time I had seen Weill since "Knickerbocker Holiday." Weill was first brought to New York by Max Reinhardt to work on "The Eternal Road."

Scotty Reston, former AP news writer and now a foreign correspondent for the New York Times, came down with a stubborn fever shortly after his return from London. He is in Roosevelt hospital for observation. When I asked him if he wanted anything to read, he said, "No, I think I'll just lie here and look off into space. It's something I haven't had a chance to do for four years."

Chapter 22
KISS

"Emily!" Marcia cried. "You don't mean—"

"Yes, I do," Emily broke in as if eager to get the worst of it over. "That's why they killed themselves. There was a letter for me."

"Emily, my dear! If we'd only known! We could have—"

"Oh, please!" Emily's voice was not quite steady. "Please don't pity me. Or them. They wouldn't have accepted help. Anyway, everything was too heavily mortgaged. They wanted it just as it is, I know."

It wasn't until they had all finished talking that Lovely walked toward Emily, both hands out.

"Emily, my dear! I've been a rat!"

"No, Lovely," their hands were tightly clasped. "You couldn't help it. It was meant."

"I love him so Emily," Lovely said softly.

"Yes, more satisfying than I ever could have done." Emily's words were a whisper.

It wasn't until Emily was alone with Roger late that night that she said:

"I wish I'd been with them. Oh, Roger, think of it—they had only two hundred dollars left in cash. One they gave to me; the other they started out with!"

Emily hadn't been bitter. She hadn't cried. Roger wondered how she held up as she did. He knew how close their family ties had been.

"Oh, Emily," he wanted to take her in his arms and comfort her. "I wish there was something I could do."

"There isn't. There's nothing anybody can do. Except myself. I've got to do it for myself."

"But we can at least be your friends, Emily." Impulsively he took her hands. Then without either of them knowing just how it happened she was in his arms, and he was kissing her and she was crying softly.

Lovely came through the arch toward them, facing Roger. She stood for an instant, then turned and swiftly moved away again. Emily had not been aware of her, and Roger was glad of that.

When he went to their room later, Roger turned to him sweetly. "I'm not going to quarrel with you Roger," she said.

"Lovely!" Emotion was deep and vibrant in his voice. "It didn't mean anything. It's just—that I'm so sorry for her."

"I know," gently. "So am I. Poor Emily."

They were in each other's arms. "You're wonderful, Lovely." She was. She had put his mind at rest immediately. And still she loved him deeply. He could feel that in

The Old Order Passes—German Woman Assumes Rights In Home

BERLIN, March 19 (The Special News Service)—The German husband has lost his place as "lord of the household."

Under a forthcoming domestic code, his wife will share the responsibility and will have equal rights.

On the other hand, she will have more duties. The old conception of "woman's place is in the home" will be changed under the new laws. Her curriculum of the three R's—Knechts, Kinder, Kirche, (kitchens, children, church)—has been broadened to include almost every activity of her husband.

Dr. Gustav Boehmer of Freiburg, member of the academy for German law, recently disclosed some of the provisions to appear in the coming "volksrechtbuch" (people's law book).

The volume will define in great detail the relations of husband and wife in their community economy.

Bolled down, the old problem of making a living for the family will remain the determining factor in the relationship.

And the old idea that the man is supposed to be the provider, a matter of custom and law for centuries, will be abandoned in the new volume, it was explained.

But if Fritz finds the going tough, he can send his wife out to work to supplement the family income. Heretofore the idea has been that he had to wait until the wolf was at the door, or he had to use the family savings or slip a mortgage on the old homestead. Of course, her duty in this respect remains limited by her duties as housewife and mother. On the other hand, the husband is not permitted to call on his wife for outside work merely at his pleasure.

Furthermore, the new laws definitely will say that hereafter he is not to play the sole role of "herr in house" (master of the house). Both partners shall be agreeable on household decisions and the wife, contrary to past practices, can represent her husband in their common interests.

The revisions, of course, are intended for both war and peacetime, although the war undoubtedly had something to do with broadening the scope of woman's activity.

Between Hitler's demands for more babies and Marx' demands for more munitions, the German mother has been inclined to keep one eye on the nursery and one ear for the factory whistle. Volunteer organizations frequently do the nursery and other household chores. With husbands in the military service, many women in fact have become heads of their families for the time being.

Dies Says Italians Organizing Here

WASHINGTON, March 20. (AP)—Chairman Dies (D-Tex.) said today the house committee on un-American activities had information indicating that Italy was attempting to draw its nationals in the United States together into what he termed a "superstate."

He said Italy, working through its consulates, Italian language newspapers, fraternal organizations and insurance societies was asking its citizens to join a nationwide organization to which they would make contributions and for which they would work.

"They want to form one big organization of loyal Italians in the United States," Dies said.

Details will be presented to a federal grand jury here soon, Dies said.

with loathing in his eyes.

"I didn't know you were actually evil, Marj," he said finally. "Give me a break. Turn him loose. You know you only want to soften him, ruin him for the life he must live—and then throw him over."

"Dope! He's having a good time. Anyhow he's big and strong and can take it. I'm having fun."

"That's all you've done all your life. And I'm not sure how much Joe can take." He'd just caught Joe's eyes on Emily, and he read in them that she could take him in her two slim, beautifully shaped hands and break him in a thousand useless bits.

"I suppose he drives your swank cars and drinks your expensive Scotch. Smokes your monogrammed cigarettes. And then what?"

"That's his look out, darling! Have one!" She held her jeweled cigarette case out to him.

It was two o'clock when Roger went to look for Emily and saw her coming toward him, heading a troupe of gaudy people. Win Ramsey was one of them. He didn't belong to the club.

"We're going to ring doorbells!" Emily cried excitedly. "Come on everybody!"

"Let's go home. Lovely. It's time," Roger said.

He didn't like "ringing door bells" any more than he liked having his own ring. It was a trick some frowsy mind had thought up. After the crowd had parted until all of the clubs closed they'd pile into cars and go from one house to another, ringing bells, dragging people out of bed and demanding drinks and entertainment. They had been known, when doors were

The fun of the idea appealed to people who'd had more than they needed to drink. Roger was bored with it. He'd never liked it.

"Oh, darling!" Emily objected. "Just when we're having such fun! It's Saturday night, Lambert! No one goes home on Saturday night. Don't tell me you're tired?"

Roger was. So he got out his car and went home.

Talk With Emily

There was a light in the South guest room. Emily. His mother always gave her that room because it was large and had the qualities of a living room. He had forgotten that Marj had gone into town and brought Emily back with her. Roger tapped at her door in passing.

"Oh, Roger!" as he entered in response to her soft "come!" She seemed to look beyond him for Emily.

"I saw your light and thought you hadn't gone to bed."

"No. Penny Vincent took me to the Shattamue for dinner and out for a sail. He just left."

Emily could be in a room with you without infringing on your peace of mind. She was lovely sitting there so quietly, beautiful with a tranquility that was soul satisfying after Emily's devastating, tempestuous fascination.

It was pleasant just to sit there and look at her with her air of ordered loveliness. She restored something to your life that you felt you needed. He sensed the need of explanation.

"Lovely went on with a crowd," he said. "Ringing door bells."

"She's beautiful, Roger." It was almost like telling him she had forgiven and understood his being

Soviets Say
Terrible Ivan
Wasn't So Bad

MOSCOW, March 20 (AP)—Ivan IV, sixteenth century czar who is known to history as "Ivan the Terrible," has been put in the good graces of the soviets by an article in the government newspaper, Izvestia, praising his "glorious deeds of state."

The article was written by V. Kostyleff, who has just concluded a novel called "Moscow on the March," portraying Ivan's times.

Kostyleff declared "false ideas about the personality and activity of Ivan IV were cultivated among the masses."

"Only the dark side of his private life served as the theme of previous works about him," he wrote.

The writer said he discovered Ivan's true nature during a research period after noticing the discrepancy between two ideas: "Russia ruled by a semi-turkic beast while the state grew so much stronger."

Ivan IV was born in 1530 and died in 1584. He was the first Russian to assume the title of czar. Histories have always pictured him as one of the cruelest men ever to live.

"Once when a foreign ambassador failed to uncover in his presence he is said to have had a servant drive a nail through the man's hat—while it was still on his head."

"He is said to have ravaged Nizhni Novogorod for five weeks, massacring batches of men, women and children daily. And to have killed his eldest surviving son, Ivan, in a fit of fury."

"Nevertheless he possessed, the Encyclopedia Britannica says, "extraordinary political foresight" and anticipated "the ideals of Peter the Great."

-RITZ- FRIDAY AND SATURDAY

Officials Say Only Short Notice
Needed For Sending Food Abroad

WASHINGTON, March 20 (AP)—Only a few hours notice will be needed, officials said today, to start assembling food supplies for shipment to Great Britain.

When the order comes through, it was explained, all the surplus marketing administration will have to do is to increase the food orders constantly being issued for domestic relief distribution purposes.

A detailed program for supplying Britain with essential foods was expected in a few days. President Roosevelt disclosed at his press conference yesterday that he had assigned the problem to Secretary of Agriculture Wickard and Dr. Thomas Parran, head of the public health service.

Agriculture department officials expect pressure from southern congressmen to require the British to take cotton. These officials said, however, that a shortage of shipping space probably would eliminate cotton, at least for the present.

Finland negotiated a $5,000,000 credit with the Export-Import bank yesterday to be used here "primarily for the purchase of food within the next few months."

Neutral Elze, pinched by the sea war, has a representative enroute here to seek supplies.

Loan Sharks
Find Texas
Fertile Field

AUSTIN, March 20 (AP)—Texas stands first in the nation in volume of loan shark business. Dr. William Trufant Foster, director of the Pollak foundation for economic research, asserts in an article appearing in the current issue of Law and Contemporary Problems, quarterly of the Duke University law school.

Dr. Foster termed as "wholly ineffective" the laws of Texas, which, he said, "do not enable any lender to operate legally and do not prevent any lender from operating illegally."

Other writers in the same issue call attention to the situation in Texas.

Rolf Nugent, director of the department of consumer credit studies of the Russell Sage Foundation, states there are now approximately $25,000,000 in loans outstanding in Texas at excessively high rates of interest.

"This gives Texas loan sharks a loan balance of $9.65 per capita of urban population, based on the 1930 census," he said.

Committee Approves
Reorganization Bill

AUSTIN, March 20 (AP)—A fiscal reorganization bill by Rep. Joe C. Humphrey of Abilene has received a favorable report from the house state affairs committee.

The bill, supported by the three regional chambers of commerce, is intended to bring about more economical and efficient administration of the state's financial affairs.

Humphrey expressed confidence today that he could obtain floor consideration of the proposal within the next two weeks.

Federal Grubstake Urged
GRASS VALLEY, Calif.—Prospectors would be "grubstaked" by the federal government under a plan evolved by Richard Haddy, Nevada City, Calif., miner. He proposes that men on relief rolls work under mining engineers and qualified geologists.

More Relief Than Other
Medicines, Says Lubbock
Lady.

Mrs. J. W. Drury, Route 6 Lubbock, Texas, states: "I have had gas pains and indigestion for fifteen years which caused me to lose much sleep. I was unable to eat any sweets."

"After taking two bottles of Hoyt's Compound, I now am able to get my sleep at night and am not bothered with nervous indigestion or gas pains. I recommend Hoyt's Compound very highly."
