TEX'S TOPICS

So, this is fall... The new season sneaked up on this space yesterday and we failed to come into full realization of the fact until this very minute.

The Harvest Moon, you know—or you should know—is the full moon occurring nearest the date of the autumnal equinox, which is today.

This so-called Harvest moon gets its name from the fact that the continuance of light after sunset is very useful to farmers when taking in their crops.

Speaking of the moon, we'll bet most of you don't even know why you can see the moon... Well, the moon is a dark body and you see it only because of the sun shining on it.

When the moon is between the earth and the sun, it is new and when it is on the opposite side of the earth from the sun, it is full.

And so the lighted portion increases until full moon occurs... The phases are then repeated in reverse order as third quarter and new moon succeed.

It is hot on the moon in the daytime the temperature going as high as 200 degrees... But, it cools off very comfortably at night, making it necessary for Moonians to pull up the covers on account of the temperature falling so rapidly.

And do you know that because of the difference between gravity on the earth and on the moon, a man who weighs 180 pounds here in Pampa would be only a fly-weight of 30 pounds if he lived on the moon.

We have just been asked why you cannot see any stars in the daytime... Well, you can—the sun is a star, and it is the nearest star to the earth.

Write this date in your notebook: Nov. 14, 1936—it falls on Saturday... On that night there will be a sky show worth while.

The Supreme Court of the United States has decided that a tomato is a vegetable, but it isn't... Botanically, the tomato is a fruit.

Dr. M. C. Overton, Sr., of Lubbock, has just published a new book, entitled "Your Baby and Your Child"...

If your body should be sold at auction today for the value of the chemical elements it contains, do you know how much it would be worth?

There has been a lot of argument about it, but nevertheless, you are taller when you are lying down than when you are standing up.

Getting back to chemical make-up of the body... The following, they say, is the approximate chemical analysis of a man, 5 ft. 8 in., who weighs 148 pounds.

And whether you know it or not—there's plenty of action going on all the time in that old frame of yours...

ARMED STRIKE GUARDS JAILED AT GREENVILLE

Men To Be Fined $100 Each; Mass Meeting Called

GREENVILLE, Sept. 22 (AP)—Police today released from jail five men who said they were guards hired by the Louisiana-Arkansas and Texas railway to protect property during the current train men's strike.

The men were arrested last night by officers who were instructed to keep all persons bearing firearms out of the business district.

Two of the prisoners made $100 bonds. Three produced commissions authorizing them to carry weapons. All had originally been charged with unlawfully carrying firearms.

Officers quoted the prisoners as saying they had been hired by the Louisiana-Arkansas and Texas railway to patrol the yards during the current trainmen's strike.

Members of the "big four" brotherhoods said they would meet today to draft a resolution calling for a mass meeting of citizens to protest the railroad's policies.

Union heads said they would not reply to an ultimatum issued in a circular message by railroad officials that workers return to their jobs by noon today.

Strike sympathizers gathered near the depot today to jeer replacement crews operating a switch engine.

Only one train has been operated over the Greenville-Shreveport line daily since the strike was called and service has been temporarily discontinued on the Greenville-McKinney and Greenville-Dallas lines.

FLOOD WILL NOT BE SO SEVERE AT AUSTIN

AUSTIN, Sept. 22 (AP)—The United States weather bureau predicted today the flood on the Colorado river would not reach the height of the one which last year created considerable damage in Texas' capital.

Officials nevertheless warned lowland inhabitants to seek higher ground and made preparations to protect the municipal water and power plant.

Wilbur M. Brucker, above, former governor of Michigan, wrested the Republican nomination for U. S. Senator from veteran Senator James Couzens in a hotly contested primary that held national interest because Couzens, although Republican, flatly endorsed President Roosevelt and his policies.

ANOTHER HALF INCH OF RAIN SOAKS SECTION

Lubbock's Total For Month Is Now 13.47

With general rains over the Panhandle between 2:30 and 8:30 a. m. today, the Pampa rainfall total for September was stepped up to 3.75 inches.

Rain fell on the plains this morning from Pampa to Clinton, Okla., and from Shattuck to Clovis, N. M.

Locally, the precipitation registered 4.3 inch. It was heaviest at St. Francis, just this side of Amarillo, where an inch and a half was reported. In Borger the rainfall was slight.

McLain, Lefers, White Deer, Kincaid, Panhandle and other surrounding communities all reported precipitation. Farmers welcomed the rain, but many still were waiting their chance for the ground to dry off sufficiently to finish wheat planting.

Maximum temperature in Pampa yesterday was 82 at 5 p. m. The thermometer registered 72 at noon yesterday but stood at 64 at the same hour today. Lowest temperature here in the past 24 hours was 56 at 5:30 a. m. today.

LUBBOCK, Sept. 22 (AP)—Breaking all records for September rainfall, four inches above any previous year, total for the Lubbock state experiment station stood at 13.47 inches this morning.

The sun was showing behind fading clouds after last night's rain of 1.92 inches.

Rain Monday and during the night was general, extending from Canyon south to Snyder and from Texico, Bledsoe and Seagraves on the west to the Caprock on the east. Falls during the night of from one to four inches were reported.

Lorenzo, Ralls, Sutherland, Slaton, reported four inches each. Italo, Wilson, Taboka, O'Donnell, Brownfield, Seagraves, Shallowater, three inches; Crosbyton, Ropes, Meadow Plainview, Lockney, two inches.

It will be several days before any farm work can be done on the South Plains. Little damage to cotton has been reported. Lakes are overflowing and side road ditches and draws are full. Pastures and crop land received more than enough moisture for sub-soil purposes.

8 SUITS ARE TRANSFERRED TO AMARILLO

TO BE TRIED IN U. S. COURT; LAWYERS WARNED

Eight cases were removed from the docket in Gray county court yesterday afternoon and this morning and will be tried in district federal court at Amarillo.

Petitions for removal to the United States court were granted by Judge W. R. Ewing in the following cases:

I. E. Sapp vs. Employers Liability Assurance Corp., Ltd.; Bob Green vs. Maryland Casualty Co.; Roy O. Pierce vs. Maryland Casualty Co.; Mrs. H. S. Gattlin, et al. vs. Hart-Ford Accident and Indemnity Co.; Mrs. Hattie Gattlin vs. W. B. Wild, et al.; Alex Schneider, Jr., vs. A. McClory, et al.; R. E. Hunt vs. the Skelly Oil Co.; and J. P. Henry, et al. vs. S. M. Kantor.

A score of attorneys were in the district courtroom again this forenoon as Judge Ewing went over the appearance docket and resumed the setting of cases for trial during the seven-week September term which opened yesterday.

Later afternoon the judge warned attorneys that he was putting an end to the practice of holding cases over until the end of the term.

There has been a tendency in the past, the judge said, to put cases off until the final days of the term. This has created a condition which made it impossible to dispose of all matters. Attorneys will have to agree on earlier settings for this term.

Judge Ewing also told members of the bar yesterday afternoon that he is planning to be absent during the fifth week of the term, when he will spend a few days at the Texas centennial.

JURY DELIBERATES ON STEVENS MURDER CASE

FORT WORTH, ESept. 22 (AP)—A jury in criminal district court began deliberating at 8:20 a. m. today over the murder case of O. D. Stevens, Alcatraz Island convict being tried a second time for the slaying of Harry Rutherford, one of three victims of the three-year-old Handley triple murder.

Unknown to the spectators who filled every available space in the courtroom, Mrs. W. D. May, who filed for the state, listened to the arguments over a loud speaker placed in the library of the district attorney's office.

When Arthur Lee Moore, chief defense counsel, declared Stevens' wife and children had been tortured enough, Mrs. May, whose husband was electrocuted in 1935 for his part in the slaying, said, "I'd like to tell him (Stevens) that my children are just as good as his, though they may not wear as fine clothes."

SISTER'S SLAYING PROTESTED

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Sept. 22 (AP)—Execution of Dolores and Maria Aguilar, sisters of the Uruguayan vice-consul in Madrid, was reported by dispatches from the Spanish capital received today. The Uruguayan government decided, after conferring on the reports, to send a strong protest to the Spanish government in Madrid and to call attention to the reported slayings in the assembly of the league of nations at Geneva.

TRANS-PACIFIC FLIGHT

Chapter I

The three girls sat in the office of the General Airport, hunched over their papers, waiting to be interviewed.

Each held a newspaper with a photograph of the pretty stewardess who had lost her life in an automobile accident the day before. The news meant, in this highly competitive, present-day world, that a job was open and, out of the mass of young women who make their own way in the world, these three had appeared almost instantly.

Each of them wanted that job. Ted Graham, veteran pilot of Trans-Pacific Airways, eyed the three curiously. He had gazed at danger so long that, for him, it no longer excited. But it was otherwise

Rattlesnake in Manger Captured And Put in Jar

The story of the dog in the manger was re-enacted this morning at the home of Mrs. A. D. Cotton, 917 East Campbell street, but it wasn't a dog that was in the cow's manger, it was a rattlesnake.

When Mrs. Cotton went to the barn to milk the cow this morning she noticed that it had eaten none of its feed and that it was standing away from the feed trough. When she approached the trough, a snake appeared out of the feed. She called her son, Gus Cott, n. 26, who immediately identified the reptile as a rattler.

By using a twisted wire and a stick, Mr. Cotton succeeded in capturing the rattler alive. He encircled the snake's body with wire and then twisted it tight. The snake was then placed in a gallon jar where it now writhes and twists.

The snake was about 2 1/2 feet long and had seven rattles. Mr. Cotton cannot imagine how the snake got in the trough unless it was in a bag of hay recently purchased.

GERMANS GIVEN SECRET ORDERS FOR WAR-TIME

Autumn Maneuvers Greatest Since World War

BERLIN, Sept. 22—Nazi Germany's martial preparedness was polished to glossy perfection on all fronts today.

Autumn maneuvers—the greatest since pre-war days—saw the first large scale demonstration of the army air force in cooperation with new artillery units and new tanks.

Paper details for the mobilization of Germany's entire man power, in time of war, were worked out, with many former soldiers carrying in their pockets precise instructions for emergency.

Secret orders have been received by millions of Germans between the ages of 25 and 45 telling them when and where they must report in the event of a war.

German citizens carry the little sheets of blue paper, 8 to 5 inches, in their vest pockets. Outwardly they discuss the order enthusiastically but, in private and confidential conversations, the opinions sometimes are reversed.

"This order serves in lieu of a ticket on railways to the point where the addressee must report," is written across the face of the sheet.

Five regulations are set out on the opposite side, beginning with the command to keep the document secret and "in a safe place." "When the defence passport has been handed you," the command continues, "add this document to it."

REP CALVERT LIKELY TO BE NEW SPEAKER

ELECTION ASSURED AS THREE VOTES ARE PLEDGED

SAN ANTONIO, Sept. 22 (AP)—Election of Rep Robert E. Calvert of Hillsboro to the speakership of the state house of representatives at Austin next Jan. 1 seemed assured here last night when Reps. W. B. Carson, Fred Foley and O. A. McCracken pledged their votes to the Hillsboro candidate.

Calvert, who said he had been pledged the votes of 77 of the other 147 members of the house, came here to interview the three representatives who will not assume seats in the house until Jan. 1.

It was reported that Reps. R. L. Reader and P. E. Dickinson, re-elected in the Democratic primary election, are pledged to vote for Rep. Homer Leonard of McAllen in the speaker's contest. Other candidates include Emmet Morse of Houston and Bullock Hyder of Denton.

Calvert was supported for speaker last January by Gov. Allred.

AUSTIN, Sept. 22 (AP)—Governor Allred today formally called a general election in Texas for Nov. 3 in accordance with the law prescribing such action 30 days before the election date.

In addition to voting on presidential and vice-presidential electors, members of congress and candidates for many state, district and county offices, the electorate will pass on six proposed amendments to the state constitution.

The governor, meanwhile, conferred with Orville S. Carpenter, director of old age assistance, and R. B. Anderson, tax commissioner, preparatory to writing a message to a special session of the legislature convening Sept. 28.

He announced not more than three subjects would be submitted and perhaps not that many. His call specified raising new revenue for old age pensions.

"If I decide to submit enabling legislation for unemployment insurance, about the constitutionality of which there are grave doubts, and additional provisions for the insane," he said, "I will do so at the outset of the session."

RECOMMENDATIONS ARE PREPARED BY TENANTS

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Sept. 22 (AP)—The southern tenant farmers union prepared to present its recommendations for betterment of the south's sharecroppers to Arkansas farm tenancy commission here today.

A special committee, named to hear the union's oft-repeated charges of "terrorism" in east Arkansas cotton fields, agreed to let the organization present its program from the conference floor.

Union President J. R. Butler, Pangburn, selected a tenant, W. L. Blackstone of Wynne, to make the talk. Butler and the Rev. Claude Williams, Little Rock, expressed satisfaction with the commission's "sympathetic attitude."

Speakers during the first day's session placed before the conference the following suggestions for improving the economic status of sharecroppers, tenants and impoverished farm labor in general:

A federal farm ownership bill. Unionization of field laborers. Industrial development. Revision of educational systems. Low cost housing and subsistence gardens.

Treatment of energy sapping diseases. Farm mechanization.

REBELS PREDICT MADRID'S FALL AT EARLY DATE

Franco at Strategic Junction Near Capital

SEAT OF THE INSURGENT JUNTA, Burgos, Spain, Sept. 22 (AP)—Smashing insurgent advance on the Marquada front by the armies of General Francisco Franco has put Madrid in a desperate position, the fascist command declared today, "and now anything may happen."

High officers of the insurgent government refused detailed information concerning the drive, some 40 miles southwest of Madrid, but insurgent radio broadcasts predicted the fall of the Spanish capital at an early date.

At the same time, more conservative observers pointed out the government was concentrating large forces on the Marquada-Madrid highway which, although untraced, must be reckoned with.

It was believed Franco, now at the junction of highways leading both to Madrid and Toledo, 24 miles to the south, must halt somewhere to consolidate his position.

The taking of Maqueda, officers said, was a strategic operation, not a "grand rush." They said General Franco had been busy for three days exploring the field and locating government positions. The main body of troops moved up.

Reports from the front today said the occupation of Maqueda had been "completed" and that many prisoners were taken.

Troops along the Bay of Biscay in the far north, however, were blocked by determined government resistance at Eibar, near Bilbao, the insurgent radio at Seville admitted.

It said government troops were working day and night in arms factories to replenish munitions supplies. It said that the main column pushing westward in Bilbao had halted to await reinforcements.

The broadcast said artillery was being moved to the front to bombard Eibar and predicted the town would not be able to hold out against the shell fire.

Reports said a second insurgent column approaching Bilbao, west along the coast from fascist-held Irun and San Sebastian, had encountered little opposition.

The broadcast reported a "general insurrection" against the autonomous government of Catalonia was spreading throughout the province.

(By The Associated Press) Spanish government troops dug in for a desperate counter-offensive today eight miles behind Maqueda, key town on the highway to Madrid, as the insurgent army drove steadily toward the capital.

The government stand, reported to be at Santa Cruz Del Retamas, would put the onrushing insurgents less than 40 miles from the capital. Forging ahead on the Talavera-

AFRICAN ISSUE IS LEFT UP TO WORLD COURT

MUSSOLINI IS ANGRY OVER LEAGUE'S PROCEDURE

By JOSEPH N. SHARKEY GENEVA, Sept. 22 (AP)—Premier Benito Mussolini, in what Geneva considered a gesture of defiance ordered the Italian delegation to halt the international conference on broadcasting here today.

M. Demichels, head of the Italian delegation, wrote to the president of the congress, expressing regret he was no longer able to participate in its work.

No reason was given. The broadcasting congress is terminating its discussions. However, Italian circles said the withdrawal was a manifestation of Italy's displeasure over the way the assembly is handling the Ethiopian question.

The development came after bewildered league statesmen, impressed by a smaller power revolt against the assembly, had decided to ask the world court if that former African kingdom now is Italian.

Agreement to take this historic step was unanimous by the credentials committee of the league assembly. The assembly itself must act on the recommendation.

League officials eyed the development apprehensively. They said it might cause Premier Mussolini not only to refuse to resume collaboration with the League, but might mean his resignation from Geneva.

Some prominent statesmen, it became known, wear fearful frowns concerning prospects for rebuilding Europe's peace machinery.

Having agreed on the world court appeal, the credentials committee split widely on the question of whether the Ethiopians have a right to participate in the assembly pending the court's judgment.

This second grave question was turned over to jurists whose job it is to tell the main committee whether, under the rules of the assembly, the Ethiopians can retain their seats for the time being.

CREDIT COLLECTIONS AND SALES INCREASE

Increased activity in oil and cotton black industries has cast its reflection in increased credit collections and sales in the Pampa-Borger area. The figures, according to figures released today by the Pampa Credit Association.

Increased employment and higher payrolls are responsible for the boost, it was stated.

Sales were up 10.7 per cent for August, 1936, over the same month in 1935 in 47 cities throughout the nation who reported their collections and sales trends to the National Retail Credit Association.

Increased employment and building activity, higher prices for farm products, and spending of government money were given as the major reasons for the increases.

PARENTS CAN'T AGREE ON FATE OF INFANT

CHICAGO, Sept. 22 (AP)—A mother's plea for an operation that might save her baby's life, and the father's demand that the malformed infant be allowed to die as a "mercy death" today confronted physicians at Danish-American hospital.

Mrs. Eva Tafel, 22, mother of the baby boy and of a normal and healthy daughter 2 1-2 years old, pleaded "I want him." Her husband, Julian, a garage mechanic, replied: "It would be a sin to allow the poor child to live. He probably would be bedridden for life, and when he came to understand would curse us for allowing him to live."

Careful Measuring Is Necessary for Success in Baking

Knowing that baking powder leaves cake it is natural to assume that adding an extra half teaspoon to the amount specified in the recipe will give a cake greater lightness. However, that is not true, and the best plan to follow is to use the amount recommended on your baking powder can.

Because of the increased efficiency of KC and some other baking powders in use today, representing about 80 per cent of the baking powder consumed, they should be used properly to insure successful bakings.

The following rules will be helpful in bringing about desired results: First, always use the amount specified on your baking powder can. This proportion has been worked out as best for that particular type. With KC one level teaspoonful to a cup of sifted flour is sufficient for most recipes.

Remember that an excess amount of any baking powder does not produce best results. A level teaspoonful means that you must level off with a knife.

K. C. baking powder, the brand used in the cooking school, is one of the most economical and efficient products entering the kitchen. Properly used it will produce for you, the finest of baked goods. You will be convinced of this by giving it a fair trial and observing results obtained.

You can get additional helpful information and a number of practical, tested recipes by sending for the K. C. Cook's Book. A copy will be mailed, postage paid, if you will send your request together with the slip taken from a can of K. C. baking powder, to Jagers Manufacturing Company, Chicago, Ill.

Musical Scales

There's nothing fishy about Mrs. Mary Wolfe's operatic voice, Giacomo Puccini insists, even though she is a fish merchant, so she plans to bring her to New York to catch her. The 250-pound Stroudsburg, Pa., mother is pictured singing at her fish stall, the vicissitudes of operating which, she says, gave her the "soul" for song.

IF FIRE STRIKES!

When fire strikes, be calm, if you value your life! That sage advice is given by "Safeguarding America Against Fire."

Should your clothing become ignited, drop to the floor and roll into a rug or blanket. That will cut off the supply of oxygen and smother the flames. Thousands of people, insane with panic, have run, thus fanning the blaze—at the cost of their lives.

If you are in a public building when the fire alarm sounds, remember the old adage: "Walk, don't run, to the nearest exit." A legion of lives have been unnecessarily sacrificed to panic-stricken mobs in theatres, hotels and similar buildings.

If you awaken at night and smell smoke, DON'T OPEN THE DOOR! That is vital—to open the door may permit super-heated air and fumes to enter smothering you. First place your hand on the door to see if it feels hot. If it is cool, open it very slightly, with your face averted. If you feel "fire-pressure" against it, close it at once and seek another means of exit.

Even as 90 per cent of fires can be prevented through the exercises of simple precautions, so can ninety per cent of the lives now lost in fires be saved—if we don't get excited. Knowledge of a few rudimentary facts, such as those given above, plus presence of mind, makes the best life saver of all.

Fire may break out in your home, your place of business, in a building or theatre you are in at any time. When it does, keep calm, think, and then act!

It is the congress and supreme court of bridge players in half a hundred nations of the world. It determines who shall be the aristocracy and who shall be the untouchables of the game.

BOTH SIDES of the CAMPAIGN

Official views of the Republican and Democratic National Committees on leading issues of the campaign are presented by leaders of the two parties in this series of 12 articles, taking the place of Rodney Dutcher's Washington column during Dutcher's vacation. The Republican and Democratic arguments are presented on alternate days.

BY SEN. JOSEPH C. O'MAHONEY Vice Chairman, Democratic National Campaign Committee

The sane and sound leaders of business should—and most of them do—thank God for Franklin D. Roosevelt. There is a multitude of others, of course, who curse him.

The sane and sound leaders of business get beyond the political news pages and the partisan editorials of their daily papers into that department where no newspaper publisher can afford to tolerate error. They go to the business page.

About the time that Governor Landon was accepting the Republican nomination and the Chicago Tribune, in common with other anti-New Deal papers, was hailing him as the saviour of business, the Tribune printed a remarkable statistical summary in its business pages. In a graphic and understandable way it told the story of what has actually happened to business under Franklin D. Roosevelt whom its editorial writers were denouncing as a menace to business. Its principal features compared important business factors for the first six months of 1933 with the same factors for 1936.

Here are the facts from the Chicago Tribune's summary:

Loadings of freight cars, and nobody loads a freight car unless there is an actual business transaction, a sale, increased more than 24 per cent for the first six months of this year over the first six months of 1933.

For the same period our foreign trade, which President Roosevelt ruined, according to his opponents, actually increased 85 per cent.

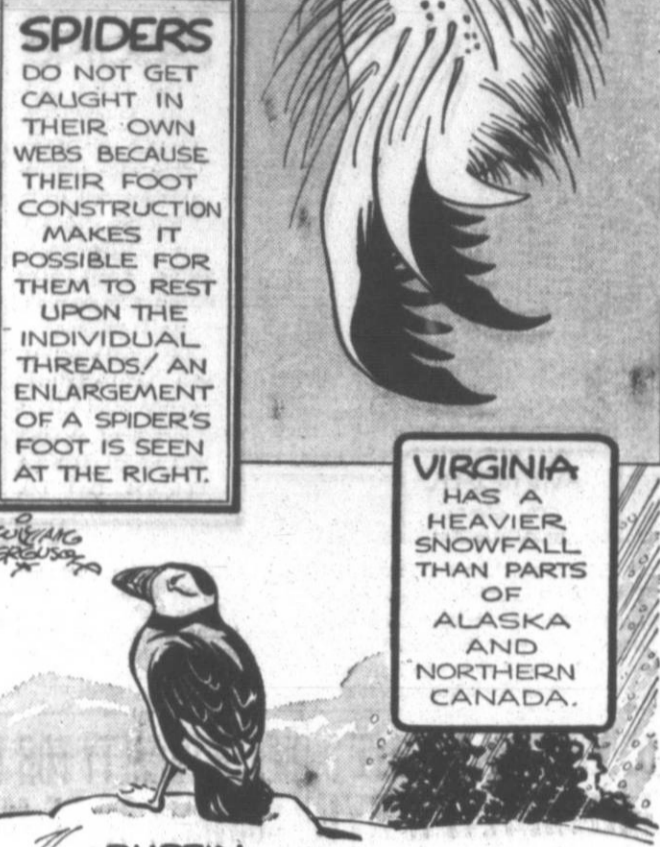

Nobody builds an automobile unless it can be quickly sold. In the first six months of 1933 the automobile industry built 990,000 cars. In the first six months of 1936 it built also 2,500,000 cars, an increase of 151 per cent!

There can be no better index of the solid permanence of this improvement than the remarkable increase of building construction between 1933 and 1936. People do not put their savings or their borrowings into new buildings, industrial or housing, unless they feel that a profit on the investment is certain for many years to come.

According to the Chicago Tribune's summary of facts, for the first six months of 1933, new building construction was valued at only $432,000,000. In the first six months of 1934 it jumped to $894,000,000. There was a slight recession in the first six months of 1935. But for the same period of 1936 building construction reached $1,210,000,000. That was an increase of 180 per cent.

And let there be no doubt about it, President Roosevelt and his administration are responsible for the improvement. The tycoons of big business and finance had been in the saddle, riding government as well as business, up to 1933. They dominated Congress. Their advice was eagerly accepted at the White House. For 12 years they had been the lords of creation—but they couldn't stop the

MAN ABOUT MANHATTAN

By GEORGE TUCKER! NEW YORK—The managers of the big hotels in New York keep logs of each day's events, just as the masters of sailing vessels do at sea. Sometimes these reports make for melodramatic situations, as witness these excerpts from the log of a tavern on the park:

10.30 p. m.—Sleeper in lobby ousted. 11.25 p. m.—Wild dice game in room 2117. Occupants apparently college youths. Waiter reports two glasses broken over telephone stand. Wins steward reports three quarts alcoholic beverages, six mineral waters delivered. Had to be warned three times before quiet restored.

1.24 a. m.—Loud radio in room 1503. Two complaints. 1.17 a. m.—Fire reported in 1648. Maid heard guest pounding door trying to get out. She then summoned house detective, who led guest out after unsuccessful attempt to control flames with hand extinguisher. Guest severely burned from waist up, hands, arms, face, head. Rushed to emergency hospital in cab by night cabboy and myself. Guest later transferred to another hospital, where his condition was said to be serious. Hospital reports patient asks that his family in Los Angeles NOT be notified. Fire evidently started inavenport and spread to rest of room. Furniture a total loss.

3 a. m.—Disturbance in room 871. Heard young girl scream, pleading with her father not to hurt her mother. Entered and found man who gave his name as —, and woman whom he claimed to be his wife. With them was a little girl about six years old. The man and woman both wanted to talk with me alone. After leaving, I listened and overheard their conversation. The man evidently wanted to leave alone. "If you do," the woman squawked. "I'll call the police." The man replied, "You're in this as deep as I am."

While I was in the room, the child told me her father wanted to shoot her mother. The man did not have a gun on him. The little girl had a pair of pliers which she said she took from her mother to keep her mother from hurting her father. The woman had a fur coat which I judged to be of little value. I doubt that their baggage would amount to a week's rent.

Outside, I heard them arguing and discussing a "deal" which they had put over in — recently. The argument was obviously over a division of the money. They spoke of a "terrible mess" in which they had recently been embroiled.

The man and woman apparently were afraid each would betray the other to the police. The night telephone operator has been instructed to make a record of all calls given and received. It has been arranged to stall them if they attempt to check out during the night. Failing in this, plain clothes men will pick them up after they get into the street and put them through the usual police routine.

Among the woman's effects were a number of small, well-wrapped packages. Possibly these contained money. An examination of these will be made if and when the matter reaches the police.

(Note: This street from the journal of a great metropolitan hotel was handed my by the manager himself in payment of a wager lost on a ball game. Although it contains only fragments from a single entry, it reflects, I think, something of the bizarre side of New York life.)

HOW'S your HEALTH

Edited by DR. LAZO GALDSTON for the New York Academy of Medicine

THE CHILD AND ITS ENVIRONMENT.

Under certain circumstances, it is desirable to change the environment when an acute contest arises between it and the child.

However, this procedure is warranted usually only in acute situations and under those circumstances when the environment is really offensive. More frequently, where there is a contest between the child and its environment, it is more desirable to adjust the child to the environment than vice versa.

For, after all, no one can expect to have his environment cut to his own measure throughout life and it is the child's business to learn how to fit into its environment, even when it falls short of his wishes.

The technique for developing this desirable capacity to adjust to a given environment is multifiform. In each instance, it must be fitted to the child, the environment and to the resulting problem. However, there is one basic principle common to the technique. This principle may be phrased as "conditioning, acclimatization or a gradual toughening process."

As the athlete learns to put forth his best effort by training or "toughening," so may the child be taught to adjust to its environment by a gradual training process.

Perhaps the most common mistake made in dealing with children is the omission of the introductory or training period. Changes in the child's relationship to parents, to the family group, to the home or the school take place too precipitously. Tasks are imposed upon it, and performpance. They couldn't end the depression. Franklin D. Roosevelt did that, with the mandate of the people, when he took the helm of government and economics in 1933.

Next: Representative Francis D. Culkin, assistant director Farm Division, Republican National Committee, compares the New Deal farm program with Republican proposals.

AROUND HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD—Our stars like to stay in character, even off the screen.

To a preview of "The Devil Is a Sissy," the other night came its three principals—Freddie Bartholomew, Jack Cooper and Mickey Rooney—accompanied by the very persons you'd expect to find them with.

Freddie escorted his aunt, Myllicent Bartholomew, his guide and his guardian.

Clinging to the more mature Jackie's arm was a cute blonde, wreathed in smiles over the attention her escort was getting.

Tough little Mickey brought three of his "gangs"—older, non-professional lads, who play on the Rooney football team.

When the Marx brothers were on tour they had all kinds of offers. The strangest was made by a waiter in a Minneapolis hotel, who told Groucho he'd like to travel with him and his brothers.

"Well, what can you do?" asked Groucho, keeping a straight face. "I can act, write your jokes or—the waiter was very hopeful—"act as your bodyguard."

A man in San Francisco told a Marx minion that he'd give $5 to hear Harpo talk. But he was shooed away as a lunatic.

"I wish I'd known about it," said Harpo later. "That would have been the easiest five I ever earned."

Fads in Hollywood's play-places are as changeable as the weather. The resort to go to now is the modern spot in the Little Mexican town of Ensenada, the Playa hotel. Built six years ago by Jack Dempsey and others, the Playa didn't catch on until this year, when it was reopened by a new operating company.

Talks to parents

FREE SPEECH

By Brooke Peters Church

In many houses where there are children conversation is practically at a standstill. The adults do not talk about matters of general interest, because such topics are not easily understood by Sally and Junior, who would therefore have to be left out. This the parents feel would be unfair to the youngsters so Sally and Junior do any talking that is done, and their parents merely make comments or else attempt to keep the peace.

Neither Sally nor Junior is benefited by such handling of the situation. They are becoming intolerant of others and provincial in their outlook. There are innumerable grown people who are still unable to converse interestingly and all because of such short-sighted training in childhood.

The old principle that "children should be seen and not heard" may have had its drawbacks, but it did at least serve to keep conversation from descending to the level of personalities only. The children were, it is true, unnecessarily repressed when they spoke only if first spoken to.

Somehow between the two extremes, however, lies a happy mean which gives a chance for expression to young and old alike.

Conversation to be interesting should be on subjects of general interest. The child's natural tendency is to talk about himself, what he has done, what he has seen and heard during the day. Some of it is conversational material, but he must be taught how to use it with discrimination.

As soon as talk becomes purely personal or turns into a monolog, it is quite justifiable to put a stop to it. So long as it interests others and arouses comment and general discussion, it is quite permissible. When there are guests or when the parents are talking about matters outside the children's experience, the children should be asked to keep still and listen. After all, parents have some rights.

BENEFIT FOR MAL-NUTRITION

Thousands of women testify Cardui has helped them to overcome mal-nutrition and to ease many of the functional pains of menstruation.

"What is meant by 'helping to overcome malnutrition'?"

Cardui contains extracts of two plants which are classed among the "biters" in medicine because they are known to increase the flow of digestive juices—to improve digestion—so there is a craving for sufficient food for the body's needs, and by their action more energy (or strength) is obtained from the food eaten. The food, of course, brings the additional strength, but Cardui serves as the means to this end by its good influence on the digestive system.

HAWAIIAN ALL-STARS BEAT MOST TEAMS IN NEGRO NATIONAL LEAGUE

TEA WON GO OUT OF TOTAL OF 90 GAMES

CLUB WAS BIG DRAWING CARD ON EASTERN DIAMONDS

The curtain will be rung down on Pampa's 1936 baseball season tonight when the colorful Hawaiian All Stars, managed by the veteran league star, Buck Lal, meet the Pampa-Daniger Road Runners at 8:15 o'clock. No increase in admission will be made for the final tilt.

Manager Buck Lal of the Hawaiian All Stars was victorious yesterday afternoon. He said the team will start either William Whaley or Hank Graham against the Birds tonight. Both are righthanders and leading hurlers on the team. Graham is a Hawaiian-born American. He is a graduate of the University of Hawaii where he was a star ball player. Both are powerful hitters and when not pitching take turns in left field.

The team has won 66 of the 90 games played this season against minor and semi-pro teams. The Hawaiians hold victories over most of the teams in the Negro National League. They spent the summer in the east where they were real drawing cards.

The Hawaiian manager is 42 years of age, but is still a great hot corner. Fans are anxious to see how he stacks up with Manager Sam Hale of the Road Runners, another veteran. Counting this season, the boss of the All Stars, who is of Chinese descent, has played 26 years of baseball. He broke in with the Honolulu team at 16. He toured the United States with a Hawaiian team in 1913, 1914, 1915 and 1916. On his last appearance he signed a contract with Syracuse in the International league where he was a sensation. His last six years have been with the Bushwicks of Philadelphia. Last winter Lal was in Hawaii and organized his All Stars.

He looked over the baseball talent in the winter leagues and signed the best players for the trip to the continent. He took Japanese, Chinese and Hawaiian players and banded them into the team that will appear here tonight. Manager Sam Hale will send Lee Daney against the All Stars. The veteran Indian wants to finish the season with a win and is determined to put everything out tonight. His teammates feel the same way about closing the season for Pampa.

The Road Runner team batting average is being prepared and will be released in a few days.

BARONS RELYING UPON TOAD TO WIN SERIES
BIRMINGHAM, Sept. 22 (AP)—Trigger may be just an ordinary, homely toad to others but to the Birmingham Barons it is a potent factor in their playoff fight for a place in the Dixie series. Trigger lives under the Baron dug-out, where it's cool and damp. When night baseball came into vogue, he became a regular spectator. And the Southern association team started winning, in sharp contrast to their earlier performances. Owner A. H. (Rick) Woodward noted Trigger's "powers," and fat and succulent flies were fed the toad by the score.

Trigger turned up for the second contest. Birmingham won 3 to 2. With the series depending on the final game, a pair of flies were dangled before him, and the Barons won 5 to 2.

Trigger will be very much in evidence when the final playoff games begin Wednesday.

Fight For Second Place In National Holding Interest

Pirates, Cubs, Cards Now Figure in Struggle

BY SID FEEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer
While the National league took the pennant out of the mothballs and prepared to present it to the Giants, possibly before nightfall, the main interest in the dying campaign centered today on the second-place fight, and the Pirates' chances of nosing out the Cubs and Cardinals.

The Giants need but two victories to nail the flag to their mast. Victory in both ends of today's double-header at Philadelphia will do the trick. So will a split, if the Cards, who regained second place yesterday by beating the Cubs, 5-4, drop their start against the Reds.

But while the Giants have been staging their red-hot drive to the pennant, the Pirates' revival has been lost in the scramble. The fact that they're only two games out of third place and 2 1/2 away from second hasn't received any more notice than the news of the dog biting the man.

The victory of the gas house gang over the ex-champs from Chicago yesterday in their up-fight, down-again scramble proved neither of the contending parties so much as it did the Giants and Pirates. For, when the Cards scored the winning run in the ninth, it maintained the lead of the Giants, who were idle, and boosted the Cubs, who also had a day off, another half-game toward third place.

It also just killed the Cubs last chance of hanging onto the National league pennant. The best they can get now, even if they win their remaining games and the Giants lose all theirs, would be a tie.

The Cub-Card clash was one of the two games on the major league front yesterday. Three were scheduled, but the Giants-Phils series opener was rained out.

The Dodgers, shaking the doldrums through which they lost three straight to the Giants, battered the Boston Bees 7-1 behind Fred Frankhouse's six-hit pitching.

CHEVIGNY IS QUITE HAPPY OVER STEERS

TALKS OPTIMISTICALLY OVER LONGHORN PROSPECTS

BY FELIX R. MCKNIGHT,
Associated Press Sports Writer.
AUSTIN, Sept. 22 (AP)—Handsome Jack Chevigny, who souly tagged the 1935 season as a "terrible nightmare," made the limb sag a trifle with predictions of sweeter dreams for his University of Texas Longhorn footballers this fall.

Chevigny, even in the face of one of the nation's toughest schedules, speaks optimistically of Orange and White prospects.

"We had a nightmare down here in 1935 but remember this—we're through having nightmares at the university of Texas. The ex-students wanted a fine schedule for this season and we arranged it. Of course, Minnesota, Louisiana State and Oklahoma, in addition to our six-conference games, make it a tough row to hoe, but we'll be trying."

He has less than two weeks in which to prepare a doubtful line for the opener against Louisiana State at Austin on October 3. However, both Chevigny and Line Coach Ted Twomey feel the line is greatly improved over last year.

A running attack, centered around the greatest array of speedy backs in recent Longhorn history, will be the Steers' chief hope.

Henry Mittermayer, 170-pound junior and head signal caller, will get the call at quarterback, with Jay Arnold, 198-pound senior, and Bill Pitzer, 180-pound senior, at the halves, and Hugh Wolfe, a crashing 185-pound line thruster at fullback.

Understudying Mittermayer at quarterback are two capable sophomores, Bill Forney, 180, and DeLaney, 170. Two seniors, Sheridan, 175, and Irvin Gilbreath, 190, and Raymond Howard, 170-pound sophomore, should make the right half spot the strongest unit at one position he has ever used, Chevigny said.

Judson Atchison, 175-pound junior speed merchant, and William Lawson, 175, sophomore, are left half candidates down for plenty of playing.

Behind Wolfe, ineligible last year, at the fullback slot are Morris Sands, a better than 10 second man at 175 pounds, and Greis, ramming sophomore.

LOUIS FACING TOUGH JOB IN BOUT TONIGHT

AL ETTORE AND BROWN BOMBER WILL BATTLE

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 22 (AP)—Joe Louis' climb up the comeback ladder hits an uncertain rung tonight.

The brown bomber collides with Philadelphia's fistic pride and joy, Al Ettore, and even his strongest backers agree that it's as tough an assignment as he has faced.

Still, with the scheduled 15-round bout in Municipal auditorium only hours away, the boys in the street would cover a one-spot, two- or three like-it that the inscrutable Louis gets past the test with ease.

He was punched in the elbow also kept Albert Ayer from getting in the work. Although cut on the lip and with bruised legs, Ivan Nobily was at his usual center job yesterday. Roy Showers also carried at his fullback job, his back injury having disappeared over the week-end.

Neither of the ends was able to run plays. Jones was not in uniform, so painful was his elbow, bruised when some big Sooner stepped on it.

The Bowers Sewing club will meet in the home of Mrs. Mack Modrell Thursday at 2.

Mrs. E. W. Diefendorf was brought to her home at Phillips camp last night from Worley hospital where she was taken last Thursday evening after a fall which fractured her pelvic bone. Mrs. Diefendorf is resting as well as can be expected, but will probably be confined to her bed from four to six weeks.

Childress Team Will Be About Size Of Pampa's

The Pampa Harvesters may take the field Friday night against the Childress Bobcats with both regular ends on the bench. Roy Lee Jones reported yesterday for practice with a badly swollen elbow received last Friday in the game with Central of Oklahoma City. Glen Maxey, the other end man, had to have stitches taken in cuts over one eye and on one cheek following the game.

An infected boil on his elbow also kept Albert Ayer from getting in the work. Although cut on the lip and with bruised legs, Ivan Nobily was at his usual center job yesterday. Roy Showers also carried at his fullback job, his back injury having disappeared over the week-end.

FARMERS ARE TAKING ADVANTAGE OF RATES

Many Gray county farmers are taking advantage of the drouth freight rates on feed and grain which became effective the first of the month, according to Ralph Thomas, county agent, through whose office application must be made.

The reduction is in effect on both inter-state and intra-state shipments. The new designation of rates results in a saving of 50 per cent on forages and hay and of 33 1-3 per cent on grain and other feed.

Farmers ordering feed are required to secure a certificate from the county agent. The exact weight of the feed must be known. If the certificate is not available when the feed arrives, it cannot be taken from the freight office and demurrage charges will be assessed until the certificate is produced.

"There's No Excuse for Inadequate or Poor Lighting in Any Pampa Home!" Says Mrs. Martha McDonald, Conductor of the NEWS Cooking School.

The electric rates in Pampa are so low that you cannot afford NOT to have efficient lighting in your home," says Mrs. McDonald. "Electricity costs much less here than in many cities in the southwest. Besides, proper lighting, in many cases, is a matter of the right equipment and correct placement and does not involve ANY additional cost for current."

Make Your Home More Attractive and Livable With Proper Use of ELECTRICITY

Adequate and proper lighting costs so little in comparison with the benefits given! Some of the compensations are: Better appearance and increased comfort, increased value and salability of your home, and more and better light for every dollar spent for electricity.

More lights around your premises will pay for themselves in added convenience and safety. Some of the places where you may profitably install additional electric lights are: Your garage, porches, basement and basement stairways, and in closets.

JAP MARINES STEAMING FOR DUTY IN CHINA

TO PROTECT JAPANESE RESIDENTS AND INTERESTS

BY GLENN BABE, Associated Press Foreign Staff.

TOKYO, Sept. 22 (AP)—Detachments of Japanese marines, specially trained as landing parties, sailed today for China to protect Japanese residents and interests against demonstrations by hostile Chinese.

Emperor Hirohito and Foreign Minister Hirota conferred together at the imperial palace on alleged "anti-Japanese terrorism" which yesterday resulted in official orders for the expedition to China.

Officials and the Japanese press guarded carefully the name of the port from which the marines embarked. It was understood, however, the detachments left from Sasebo on Kyushu island, 24 hours sailing from Shanghai.

(High Japanese officials, moved to action by what they termed "tramp" attacks on their nationals in China, ordered the expedition.

The command followed three recent incidents in China for which the Tokyo government had demanded official investigations and explanations. These included the slaying of two Japanese and the wounding of two others by Chinese demonstrators at Chengtu, West China, August 24; the killing of Junzo Nakano, Japanese druggist, at Pak-hoi, Sept. 3; and the fatal shooting of a Japanese consular policeman at Hankow Sept. 9.

YOUTH BRANDED CONSPIRATOR IN CHILD'S SLAYING

Tracks of Woman Found Outside Window

Carthage, Sept. 22 (AP)—Terrence Bramlett's 80-year-old father, Daniel M. Bramlett, heard a witness brand his son as a murder conspirator today.

The aged man, in court for the first time since prosecutors started building a case against the 21-year-old youth for the killing of Marie Childs at Center, wept bitterly as he embraced his boy.

He sat quietly, however, as Darius Windham, former CCC camp companion of the defendant, repeated the story he told last week in the trial of Mrs. Reable Childs, widow of the dead man and Bramlett's sweetheart.

Windham said: "Terrence asked me if I would accept $3,000 to get Marie Childs out of the way. I asked him what the lowdown was. He said he wanted me to knock him in the head and run his car off an embankment to make the death look like an accident."

Defense Counsel Joe McCasland, on cross examination, obtained an admission from the witness that he (Windham) sought favor with the pretty widow before the killing.

The state closed its case with testimony by J. J. Carroll of Center, mail carrier, who said he had seen the lovers keeping a road-side tryst three months before Marie Childs was slain.

The first defense witness, Deputy Sheriff Grover Paplin of Center said he found tracks outside the window through which a rifle shot was fired which killed Childs which were made by a man and a woman.

He said the woman's tracks might have been made by Mrs. Childs.

Mrs. Childs received a 25-year sentence for her part in the killing. Prosecutors convinced a jury she and Bramlett had plotted Childs' removal because he stood in the way of their love affair.

Bramlett said he did not believe his penalty would be so severe.

Original lines of bulk fine territory wools were moved at 85-86 cents for average to good French combing lengths and at 87-88 cents for lines running largely good French and staple lengths.

that all the blood in the body goes in and out of the heart once every minute.

There is a bird that cannot fly. It is the kiwi, a native of New Zealand. Perhaps you have read recently in the Pampa Daily NEWS of a dry ice well, down New Mexico way, in which Pampans are interested. Not everybody understands this dry ice business.

Dry ice is solid carbon dioxide and when compressed into cakes resembles packed snow in appearance. It has a temperature of minus 109 degrees Fahrenheit (minus 78 degrees C.), or lower. Instead of melting into a liquid as ice does, solid carbon dioxide sublimates, which means that it changes directly from a solid to gas. Dry ice is used extensively as a refrigerant for ice cream and other perishable commodities.

A lot of persons have an idea that water boils when dry ice is dropped into it, but it doesn't. The bubbles which result are bubbles of carbon dioxide and not water vapor and they are due to the carbon dioxide passing from the solid to the vapor state directly.

Rambling from a Harvest Moon, meteors, and tomatoes right down the line to a hunk of dry ice is a pretty good tour for one day, so we'll conclude the lesson right now. Class is excused for the nonce.

FOURTH FIRE CALL

The fire department received a call to the Pampa Ice Manufacturing Company plant on West Foster avenue this morning but found that fire in a car near the plant had been extinguished before they arrived. It was the fourth call of the month.

Mrs. E. O. Jones and son went to their home from Pampa-Jarratt hospital yesterday.

President Tommy Chesser announced that the Jaycees would hold two dances on Halloween. One will be a square dance. Location of the affairs have not been definitely decided upon.

Next Tuesday will be Membership Day at the club. Every member is instructed to bring a new member or prospective member to the luncheon. Guests today were Dude Balthorp, Mike Dillingham and John Shannon.

EVEN CHAPLAIN AGREED WITH FAMED WAR-CRY

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22 (AP)—General John A. Logan's daughter was in town today and the old soldiers of the Grand Army of the Republic, holding their national encampment here, fell to reminiscing about the leader whose rallying cry was "Give 'em hell," whose father, Mary Logan Tucker, whose father led a seat in Congress to fight at Bull Run, called on Alexander Hamilton, 92, last survivor of Logan's command.

From Roberts and his comrades from other commands she heard the story of her father's chaplain and the christening of "Shell Annie."

Old General Logan's chaplain rode into battle with his chief, Roberts said, although the general's shouted "Give 'em hell" always seemed to shock him.

But once, in the heat of the charge, the churchman echoed Logan's battle cry with a: "Do as your general tells you, boys; do as the general says."

BENNY HOWARD GIVEN ANOTHER TRANSFUSION

CROWN POINT, N. M., Sept. 22 (AP)—Doctors in the little Indian service hospital here watched hopefully today over the broken form of Benny Howard, Bendix air race victim, for signs of a rally following a blood transfusion late last night.

This morning Damon Howard, brother of the flier, reported the injured man "holding his own" although sufficient time had not yet elapsed to determine definitely whether the transfusion would swing the balance toward recovery.

Madrid highway behind a shield of machine-gun and artillery fire, fascist commanders were confident their well-trained soldiers could resist the government militia's defense. They said the day for General Francisco Franco's supreme effort to storm Madrid "might be close."

Capture of Maqueda, opening direct roads to Madrid and Toledo, was announced officially by the Burgos provisional government.

Accounts in London said the insurgents were concentrating for an onslaught against Madrid from four sides and reported a major battle in the Talavera sector, apparently for the Toledo-Madrid highway junction.

PERIGNAN, France, Sept. 22 (AP)—Informed travelers, reaching here today from Madrid, said the Spanish capital was on nervous edge as insurgent armies, daily drawing closer, subjected the city to repeated air raids.

Crowds in the streets raise clenched fists and shout "no pasaran!" ("They shall not pass), but high officials are showing signs of deep worry, the travelers declared.

Fearing gas attacks, authorities have posted instructions on buildings, detailing how to treat victims of tear, mustard and chlorine gas.

LOUIS HEAVIEST PHILADELPHIA

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 22 (AP)—Joe Louis showed a weight advantage of 13 1/2 pounds today over Al Etore, his opponent in tonight's heavyweight fight. The brown bomber officially weighed in at 203 1/2, Etore at 189 1/2.

"GORILLA MAN" CONFESSES IN MUIR MYSTERY

Declares He Killed YWCA Secretary At La Jolla

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Sept. 22 (AP)—Police Chief George Sears said today Donald J. Hazell, 225-pound "gorilla man," confessed he killed Ruth Muir, 48-year old Riverside Y. W. C. A. secretary at La Jolla the night of Aug. 31.

Hazell, arrested Sept. 4 during the inquest into the death of Miss Muir, was sent to the California state institution for the insane after his capture.

Sears said he was informed by police officer Ed Stotler and Deputy Sheriff Walter Blue at Patton that Hazell had signed the confession.

City Manager Robert Flack revealed the asserted confession and Sears immediately went into conference with detectives who worked on the case, Coroner Chester Gunn and autopsy surgeon F. E. Toomey.

The alleged confession was obtained by Blue and Stotler at Patton last night, Flack said.

The asserted confession said Miss Muir was standing "behind a bench" when Hazell struck her. Then, he said, he dragged her to a nearby ravine.

Hazell was said to have added: "At times these psychic spells come over me and compel me to take a life," according to the alleged confession.

Chief Sears said the confession would be checked in every detail before any move is made to prefer formal charges against Hazell.

Hazell was arrested while loitering near a church about a half mile from the La Jolla memorial chapel, scene of the inquest, after passing by said he muttered "crazy questions about the inquest."

Miss Muir was beaten to death near the ocean front at La Jolla.

FORMER FREIGHTER ILL JOLIET, Ill., Sept. 22 (AP)—Patrick Francis (Packey) McFarland, one of the greatest lightweight boxers of all time, who is critically ill at his home, spent a "restful night." Although McFarland, who has suffered for two months with high fever and periodic coma, indicating a streptococcal infection, lost no ground last night, only slight hope was held out for his recovery today. He has lost 50 pounds.

Members of the West Yorkshire regiment held at "at home" in the Tower of London, first function of its kind.

F. F. A. CLUB FIRST TO ELECT OFFICERS, JUDGING TEAMS ARE ALREADY ACTIVE IN CONTESTS

Fred Vanderburg and Howard Snow Head Group

F. F. A. is the first club in school to organize and start the year's work. Already members of the judging teams have represented the school in two contests.

Officers were elected last Monday as follows: President, Fred Vanderburg; vice president, Howard Snow; secretary, John Edwin McConnell; reporter, Earl Rice; watch-dog, C. W. Smith; historian, Paul Nelson; and treasurer, La Folia Watt. J. L. Lester and A. E. Frazier are the sponsors.

Members of the dairy and poultry judging teams, accompanied by their sponsors, attended the Collingsworth county fair last Friday, and took part in the judging contests. Exhibits were held in the high school building, and the boys visited these after the contests were over. The teams left before the judges' decisions were announced and no word had been received late yesterday as to the outcome of the contests.

Boys who made the trip were Charles Shelton, Claude Coble, Howard Snow, Charles Hickman, Fred Vanderburg, Charles McDonald, Paul Nelson, Rex Shearer, Farrington Lewis and Preston Herring.

Schools from all over the Panhandle had teams in the judging contests.

First Meeting of High School P-TA Called for Oct. 1

A meeting of the high school P-TA will be held October 1 in the high school cafeteria. Program plans have not been definitely arranged by Mrs. W. C. Hutchins, program chairman. This meeting will be the first of the year.

Assembly Program To Feature Dancer

Eugene Finkbeiner, an accomplished pianist and tap dancer, will appear in assembly program tomorrow. He is a new student in P. H. S. and comes here from Okema, Okla.

Other features of the program include the radio skit which was broadcast Thursday afternoon over KFDN.

Certificates of award will also be given to winners of regional and state meets last spring.

Harvesters Plan Offense Against Childress Team

Hoping to have Mother Nature with them this time, and with lighter opponents to fight again, the plucky Harvesters face the Childress Bobcats this week.

Outweighed several pounds to the man, and held back by a muddy field, the Pampa boys were defeated 26-0 last Friday night by Central high of Oklahoma City. However, at that time a full offense had not been completed, and concentration on this field is occupying workouts this week.

Much confidence is placed upon the Harvesters for the Childress encounter, when they will have a chance to show their real power and efficient passing attacks. The game will be played at Harvester field at 8 o'clock Friday night. Admission will be 25 cents for students and 75 cents for adults.

Many New Books To Be in Library

Numerous new books have been ordered for the high school library, according to Miss Gracie Fern Latimer, librarian. Included in the group are books for history, the English reading lists, and home economics.

There will be other books of general interest. Books for other studies as well as for recreational reading are included.

Many students have been asking when the new books will be in. Miss Latimer announced Friday that it would be about two weeks before the books arrive and are ready for the students to use.

Teachers, as well as the librarian, are equally concerned about how students are going to treat the new books. Are you going to fold down the pages, break and bend the backs, tear pages from the book, and mark in them? When you do these things to a new book, you are speedily sending it to the bindery.

Some of the new books that are bought have to be sent to the bindery before the year is out.

Be different this year; take better care of the books. Remember there will be people in high school, after you leave, who may want to read these books.

Loss of Adviser Is Regretted By Staff

The Little Harvester staff feels keenly the loss of Delmar Ashworth, our adviser, who left yesterday for Fort Smith, Ark., to assume a position as teacher of English and journalism in the high school and junior college there.

Under Mr. Ashworth's guidance, interest in journalism has been greatly increased in Pampa high school. The school paper has been enlarged in size, and the enrollment in journalism classes doubled.

Mrs. Ashworth is taking her husband's work until a successor is employed.

Gorillas to Play Miami Warriors There on Friday

Following their defeat on the gridiron Friday, the Gorillas are working hard each day, learning new plays and polishing old ones to enable them to win their tussle this week with Miami. The Pampa boys will meet the Warriors Friday afternoon at Miami.

Using practically the same lineup as in last week's game, the ape-men are determined to win their first out-of-town game.

An ironical touch is added to the encounter by the fact that Bob Curry, now coach of the Gorillas, last year coached the Miami team.

The Gorillas were defeated last Friday by Groom 20 to 0 in a hard-fought battle. Nervousness and lack of enough practice and experience evidently held the Pampans back.

However, the defensive work of Kidwell, Wieseley and Cashaw was excellent. Curry expressed hope of developing a very promising team before the season ends.

The line up included: Crane, Cunningham, Brown, Solomon, Wieseley, Cashaw, Huber, Kidwell, Watkins, Whistler, Mitscher, Eslinger, and Roberson.

Notable Nothings of P. H. S.

By The Nimble Nit-Wits

A letter from Jim Arndt, who said that instead of whipping fresh at W. T. S. T. C., they are made to do the name and address of each pretty girl who passes.

Miss Branom: Rex, is that gum or candy you have in your mouth? "Butch" in commercial law class. Some monicker.

If you're interested in Idabel Waggon, see Allan Wise for information.

If the entire student body had welcomed and entertained the Oklahoma City football boys as did Pauline Gregory, the welcome would have been royal and, doubtless, appreciated. But there probably would have been no work done in morning classes, eh, Miss Millam?

And one of those boys was Pauline's cousin; well, he told the teacher he was.

Why did Doris Gee yell so hard at the game Friday? Maybe it was what they all needed.

Helen Arndt: "Does your boy friend have a new car?" Betty Ann McTaggart: "I reckon! At least he showed me a new clutch the other night."

Wanted: Someone to teach me to propose—Bernice Barrett.

Stranger: "Who is the home economics teacher in high school?" Student: "Miss Strnad."

If you know any good diets or reducing exercises, tell Misses Wheatley and Schulkey. After many ruthless remarks about their growin' figures, they have decided to lose the excess avoirdupoise.

Girls, here's real news! You had better paint your faces and be on your best feminine behavior for the remainder of the week, for a Harvester football queen will soon be chosen.

FIFTY-EIGHT RECENT GRADS OF PAMPA HIGH SCHOOL ARE ATTENDING VARIOUS COLLEGES

New Instructors Bring Variety of Training to PHS

Five new members who have been added to the P. H. S. faculty represent a wide variety in training. They are Robert W. Curran, B. S. degree from University of Wisconsin; Miss Helen Martin, and Miss Arlean Pattison.

Miss Martin, music teacher, was transferred to the senior high school from the junior high, where she taught for four years. She received a B. S. degree from Syracuse college in Syracuse, N. Y. She attended the University of Washington in Seattle, Washington and received a master's degree. Miss Martin then studied two months in the American Conservatoire in Fontainebleau, France. She taught in a girls' college in Cairo, Egypt, also at the junior college at Odessa. Miss Martin's home town is Clarendon.

Miss Jones, English teacher, was also transferred from the junior high school, where she taught for six years. She received a B. A. degree from C. I. A. in Denton, and did graduate work in the University of Texas. Miss Jones taught school in Abernathy, before coming to Pampa. She takes the place of Miss Florence Pickett, who resigned to accept a position in Corpus Christi.

Miss Pattison, teacher of home economics, received a B. S. degree at C. I. A. in Denton. She attended a college in Canyon two years. Her home is in Perryton. Miss Pattison takes the place of Mrs. J. B. Massa.

Mr. Carman, who succeeded Ben Gull as head of the speech department, first graduated from business college, where he received an accountancy diploma. He worked in the Foreman State bank of Childress, Huber, Kidwell, Watkins, Whistler, Mitscher, Eslinger, and Roberson.

Teachers at P. H. S. T. C. are made to do the name and address of each pretty girl who passes.

Biology Students Gather Equipment For Bug Hunting

Biology students are preparing to chase their quarry o'er mill and valley the first time weather and circumstances permit. Miss Alice Short stated today. They are getting their cyanide jars, butterfly nets, and other bug-hunting equipment ready to use at the first opportunity.

Students usually go to the park and surrounding territory to find their collection of insects. Unusual interest is being shown in biology this year, as evidenced by six full classes. Enrollment for this course in previous years has not been more than half so large.

School Attendance Reaches 700 Mark

High school attendance reached the 700 mark again this year as announced by Mrs. Lou Roberts, registrar. This includes approximately 15 post graduates, 179 seniors, 217 juniors, and 287 sophomores. Following a ruling made last year, there are no freshmen in the senior high school. Freshmen remain in junior high school until they acquire three units of credit.

P. H. S. Band Visits Fair, Broadcasts

Pampa high school's 40-piece band was one of the features today at the Tri-State fair in Amarillo. The band broadcast from radio station KCNC at 11:45 this morning, sponsored by the Texas company. They played between the fair buildings and again at the race tracks.

The band members left by bus at 8:15 this morning.

Hall Regulations Announced Today

Hall regulations were announced today by Principal L. L. Sone. Students are expected to enter the building at 8:30 in the morning and 12:50 at noon. They may enter before that time, with the consent of the teacher on duty, to go to the library, to the study halls in rooms 207 and 208, or to room 307 to type.

Students will not be allowed to go to the lockers from 12:10 until the bell at 12:50, without the consent of the teacher on duty.

If teachers wish to see certain students at noon or early in the morning, they are asked to report to the teacher on duty when they are ready to receive those students.

Teachers have been assigned to special duty at the front door, the west door, the north door, the cafeteria, and on the grounds. Teachers are on special duty from 8 to 3:30 in the morning, and from 12 to 12:30 at noon. All teachers are expected to be available for duty at 8:15 in the morning and 12:45 at noon.

Miss Mary Idelle Cox is chairman of hall duty this year.

Vaccination Law Will Be Enforced

Students who have not been vaccinated for smallpox or whose vaccinations are not satisfactory will not be admitted to class after Tuesday, announced L. L. Sone, principal, yesterday.

Home room teachers and the school nurses, Misses Levelyn Shelby and Louise Malais, inspected vaccinations last Wednesday. Students with unsatisfactory vaccinations must be vaccinated again.

State law requires that all students attending public schools in Texas must have been successfully vaccinated for smallpox unless they have had the disease. School authorities explain that this is intended as a protection for all students.

FLOOD DUE TO REACH AUSTIN ON WEDNESDAY

COLORADO CREST IS MOVING ONLY FEW MILES AN HOUR

MARBLE FALLS, Sept. 22 (AP)—The angry flood waters of the Colorado river continued inundating fertile farm lands today as they rolled slowly toward Austin, the state capital.

The crest, moving downstream at only a few miles an hour, was not expected to reach the capital, 55 river miles from here, until late tonight or early tomorrow. The river rose from 16 to 17.3 feet there last night.

The swollen river began rising slowly here and had reached a flood stage of 27 feet. A peak of about 50 feet was predicted and no great damage was expected.

No fears were expressed for a highway bridge bearing construction here. An old span was washed away by a flood that reached a height of more than 60 feet last year.

Twigg Twitchell estimated the river would reach a peak of 30 to 35 feet at Austin. A 29-foot stage would send the water over the south approach of the Congress avenue bridge, block the highway between San Antonio and Dallas, and cut off South Austin from the rest of the city, Highway Engineer J. B. Early said.

The known dead from the river's rampage remained at two but damage to crops, highways, homes, and bridges continued to mount as the swirling waters spread over thousands of acres south of San Saba. All roads leading to Bend, little town near San Saba, were washed out. More than a score of homes and stores were under water. Most of the crops were gone.

The river spread out over a wide area at Bend after reaching an estimated depth of 50 to 60 feet a few miles to the north.

Long-time residents said the flood was the most destructive since 1900. The river reached a record height at Lampasas.

The Bluffton bridge near Llano on highway 25 was under several feet of water but was believed in no immediate danger of going out. The Buchanan dam near Burnet also was expected to withstand the pounding of the river.

LEFT HANDED TOURNEY

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 22 (AP)—Howard Creel of Pueblo, Colo., stretched far out in front of the field today as the country's left-handed golfers started match play in their inaugural national tournament. Creel, low qualifier in the 1934 national amateur tournament became medalist and a heavy favorite to wear the southpaw crown when he went one below par for 36 holes to qualify at 141. He turned in a far first round of 71 and followed it up with a 70. He was paired today against Jesse Drew, St. Louis, who qualified at 170.

She Gets Pointers for Pigskin Dance

When Corrine, the Texas Centennial Exposition's famous Apple Dancer wanted to do a football dance for the fall season in Dallas, she went directly to the gridiron to get pointers. Above she is shown wearing the Number 11 suit of S. M. U.'s All-American Bobby Wilson, getting instructions from the equally sensational California star, Wes Muller.

Makes 'Em Hat Conscious Now

Irene Castle, who popularized bobbed hair in America, has turned now to the business of covering the hair. She's pictured with her favorite pooch as she arrived in Los Angeles wearing the latest chapeau creation of her own design. She is touring the country to make women hat conscious.

HITLER WOULD RETAIN TITLE 'DER FUEHRER'

WOULD RESIGN AS NAZI CHANCELLOR TO BE PROPHET

BERLIN, Sept. 22 (AP)—Germany pondered today a widely-circulated report Adolf Hitler may resign as Nazi chancellor and retain the simple title of "der Fuehrer" (the leader).

The same report mentioned Col. Gen. Hermann Wilhelm Goering as Hitler's possible successor.

Persons in authoritative circles refused to comment on the predictions, confining their expressions to an evasive "we have not heard of it." However, the persistence with which the report has cropped up again and again and the divers and cautious quarters from which it emanates has led some observers to believe there might be an actual basis for forecast.

Before assuming power, the reichschancellor often told his supporters: "I am merely your torch bearer. You must close in behind me and attend to the details." In addition, Hitler's declarations at the recent Nurnberg convention of the Nationalist Socialist party disclosed he has reverted, to an increasing extent, to the role of standard bearer, and prophet of his movement.

BOYS WALK ON LAKE'S BOTTOM TO GET BALLS

DENVER, Sept. 22 (AP)—Four Denver high school boys are looking to the wild swings of golfers to make profitable a venture in "deep sea" diving in Berkeley Park lake. They have turned an old gasoline tank, 300 feet of hose, a rope and two old air pumps into a diving apparatus which permits one of them to walk along the lake bottom. Berkeley Park lake is one edge of a municipal golf course, and many shots veer into the lake. The boys are Robert and Edward Northway, John Arnold and Joe Coursey, Robert's brother. Already, he said, they have recovered "a bunch of golf balls."

first. Ted Graham, therefore, crossed one leg over the other, leaned back in his chair, and waited.

In repose, his tanned, leathery face showed quiet resolution. It was a face, too, that showed the marks of peril and danger. Some might have called it hard, but friends knew there was a smile that, when it broke through, showing a flash of white teeth, was unfailingly captivating. The pale blue eyes that had seen so much danger, had gazed over such distances, betrayed a gentle nature.

A brisk young man came out of the personnel chief's office and signaled to one of the girls. Looking at the card in his hand, he said, "Right this way, Miss Dunn."

The girl addressed stood up and walked to the door.

First of all, Ted Graham noticed her splendid carriage. She walked almost like a fashion model and her greenish eyes flashed with animation and spirit. Graham, in imagination, could see her driving a car, swimming, cantering down a bridle path or dancing with obvious enjoyment. Then he noted that she had reddish hair, waving back softly from her face. Her chin was well-formed, decidedly pretty.

Suddenly the secretary spied Graham and exclaimed effusively, "Why Mr. Graham!" He turned again to the girl. "I'm sorry," he began, "I didn't know Ted Graham was here. You'll have to wait—"

Ted stood up, protesting, and Kay Dunn turned to look at him more closely. She, as well as the other girls, knew, of course, who Ted Graham was. They had read of his exploits in the air.

Kay's eyes met Graham's. She didn't want to wait, but she had a disciplined mind and a sense of humor, too. She bowed politely to Mr. Ted Graham who, by all the precepts she knew, deserved precedence. He had conquered the air.

Ted spoke to her directly, and she noticed his pale blue eyes. "No, no," he said. "You go in first, Miss—"

"Dunn." Kay supplied with a nod and gesture he thought charming.

The girl's eyes flashed. "But I insist," she said, "that you go in first."

It had become almost like a game. Ted bowed and swung his hand toward the door. "I insist," he said, "that you go in now."

Kay stood her ground and said, almost casually, "Please go in, Mr. Graham. I'm only here looking for a job."

And I'm looking for a man to fill a job," he said, smiling. "A flyer. Do you think you could hold down a pilot's job on the Trans-Pacific Airways?"

"Not yet," she answered pertly. "But I'll learn fast—"

"But really—" Suddenly Graham's eyes shone. "I'll tell you what—a compromise, we'll go in to see Charlie together!"

When they had entered the office and were looking across an expanse of rug at the chief of personnel, busily engaged with figures on a pad, Graham said to the girl suddenly, "Why, you're trembling. Poor old Charlie isn't going to bite you!"

Charles Benton looked up, a picture of outraged dignity. Then he laughed and almost bounded across the table.

"Charlie!" Kay Dunn stood meekly aside, watching the two men pound each other's backs, muttering the school-boy palaver men reserve for their closest friends. Then Benton, seeing her, coughed discreetly, and went back to his desk.

"This is Miss Kay Dunn," Ted said. "She's here for a job—wants to be a stewardess." He drew himself up haughtily, and winked. "Give her a job, Charlie!"

He laughed, and went on, in a matter-of-fact tone. "I'm in no hurry at all. As a matter of fact, I'm on my way to California by the next plane—a deadhead. Just thought I'd drop in and see if I couldn't steal one of your best pilots for my run. But that can wait. I'm going out to lunch with you."

"Good!" Benton said, beaming. "If Miss Dunn doesn't mind, I'll report over here while you take her temperature or whatever the procedure is in interviewing would-be stewardesses. I suspect you pick them because they're pretty—"

"Not at all!" Benton said gruffly, drawing himself up sedately. "They must exhibit foremost—er, flying qualities."

Ted laughed. "And what might those be? Gracious, man, that could mean anything! Green eyes, a pretty chin, red hair—"

"Sit down, Miss Dunn," the personnel chief said sternly. "Your full name?"

"Kay Dunn."

"Oh, yes. You've already filled out the card." He picked up three cards and glanced hurriedly over the details listed. "Age 22. Born, Joplin, Mo. High school, Graduate nurse—" him in a military school. He was a little lonely at first—"

"Seven. Poor kid," Benton looked at the table. "Too bad his father had to be killed when the kid was so little he scarcely remembers him."

"Dickie's father was my best friend," Ted said slowly. "I promised to take care of Dickie—and of course I feel now as though he really were my own son."

"I wish I had him." When Benton looked up again his eyes were twinkling. "You ought to get married, Ted," he said, "and give Dickie a real home. Then he wouldn't be so lonely."

"Not on your life! That kid's all right. He's as hard as nails, like me. Doesn't need the feminine influence."

Benton did not laugh. He knew that Ted Graham had never thought of marrying again, since his wife had died more than 15 years before. Ted worshipped the memory of that wife.

Chapter II

Both men looked up when the second girl was admitted. Doris Lee came in swinging her arms at her sides. Her face was flushed and the secretary appeared behind her, protesting.

"It was my turn and I'm here!" Doris Lee said. "Now you run along and shuffle your papers, young man."

The determined young woman sat down in the chair Benton offered her. "That secretary of yours didn't want to let me in," she announced, "and it was my turn. The idea! He said I was excess baggage! So I said to him—"

Ted looked at her and laughed. Her cheeks were still flushed with wrath and indignation. She was pretty, with blond coloring and her figure was robust, but not too heavy for the job of stewardess on a plane. She had an air of being able to take care of herself.

"Name?" "Doris Lee."

While the chief of the personnel department went over the details on her card, Doris went on talking, to much of which Benton did not listen. "And so one day I just got up and walked out of the hospital."

"Just what were your duties at the hospital, Miss Lee?" "Looking after the nuts!"

"Oh, a nurse at a hospital for mental disorders?" Suddenly Doris slapped a hand on her lap, and laughed. "They were riots!"

Benton coughed discreetly, while the girl went on. "I never thought Doris Lee would spend two years playing tag with such a menagerie. There was one man who threatened every day to tear my tongue out. Said I talked too much and that I reminded him of his wife who drove him nuts. One day he actually got me by the throat—"

"Have you ever flown?" Benton put in hastily. "Have you had any experience in the air?"

"After the experiences I've had, flying in the air would be harmless. The way I feel now, I could go hunt tigers. I'd slap them down like pussy cats! What I want is to get up in the air, where it's safe—"

Ted laughed and said, "We need her on Trans-Pacific Airways when we are forced down on cannibal islands! Sorry we have only men on our crews."

"There's a run on one of our lines," Benton said thoughtfully,

"where the planes are always filled with college boys who make a lot of noise. I think she could keep them in order."

"Of course I could!" Doris said eagerly.

"I think I'll put you in training!" the chief told her. "Take this card down to the doctor's office for a physical examination."

Doris eyed the yellow card with firm distrust. "I'll go," she said determinedly, "but if that doctor is a friend of yours, you'd better give him a ring on the telephone, and tip him off that I'm coming. If he's anything like the wise-cracking internes at that hospital I left, he'll get his stethoscope wrapped around his neck!"

Charles pressed another button. Doris Lee got up and flounced down the hall, self-sure and confident. At the same time the door from the outer office opened and the third girl came in, timidly peering about the room.

While the chief looked at her card, Ted Graham showed her a chair.

She was a meek little girl of about 19. Her features were delicately shaped and exquisite. Her forehead was high and white. She was plainly dressed, and while she waited, her fingers pulled nervously at the neat black gloves in her lap. She was obviously embarrassed.

To Ted there was a look of desperation about the girl. Her dark-brown eyes carried a mute appeal.

The chief of personnel looked up from the card and frowned. "No business experience. You've never had a job of any kind?"

"No. But I have tried hard enough to find one." Alice Miller said tensely. "I went to business school—a night school—we couldn't afford a regular course."

"Just my mother and I." The little girl's eyes lowered. "She's bedridden, ill. The little money we have isn't enough. I have to have a job."

Charles rubbed his chin, trying to avoid looking at Ted Graham across the table. "But you haven't had nursing training—"

The girl looked from him to Ted Graham again, and her eyes carried the same desperate appeal. "I'm sure I could do the work. So much of my life has been spent looking after the comfort of—others. I have patience, tact. I like people. I make friends easily. And, oh, I can work!"

"And I think you have courage!" Benton said shortly. "I think you'd be at home in the air. Of course this will only mean that you go in training for three weeks. If you like the job, and the job likes you, we stick together, see?"

He handed her the yellow card, and told her where to go for the physical examination.

When she had gone Benton stood up. "See what you made me do, Ted," he said. "Actually we needed only one of these girls, and now—"

Ted Graham seemed more puzzled than the chief of personnel. "Who'd have thought, 10 years ago," he said, "that girls would be leaving their typewriters, hospitals and nurseries to take up jobs in aviation? In the old days we thought we were made of pretty stern stuff, eh?"

"Well, so are these girls!" Benton said. "And that's progress in the air. We've gone a long way. And you have done more than any other man

I know. Ted, to make flying safer!"

Ted stood up, shaking off the compliments as a dog shakes off water. "The old balcony from you!"

"No, I mean it. At 20 you were a daredevil pilot in the war. An ace. And what a devil-may-care flying fool you were!"

Ted squirmed uncomfortably. "Then you settled down to acquire something like 12,000 hours in the air," Charles went on. "A pioneer in long-distance flying in the tropics. Now, at 40, you're flying the Trans-Pacific Airways route, to Honolulu, Guam, Manila. Everybody knows what you've done to develop commercial aviation. And now this new gyropilot you're working on, to make trans-oceanic flying fool-proof—"

Nothing irritated Ted more than praise. He shied from it. To detract himself now, he got up and walked to the window, watching a private plane come in to make a three-point landing. It was still a thrilling sight to him.

He turned to see Kay Dunn in the doorway. Her eyes were bright, her cheeks flushed, and she waved the yellow card gaily. "It's okay!" she said. "I can go in training. The doctor said I'd make a good pilot, even. I'm so happy—and oh, I'm going to work in the air!"

She looked up and saw Ted Graham regarding her with a curious smile. Suddenly the hand she had lifted excitedly, fluttered to her side. She had talked so fast she was gasping for breath, but she laughed.

"Forgive me, I didn't mean to become so excited. But I am thrilled!" "After the first hundred flights," Ted put in, laughing, "it's not very adventurous. Just work. And respond to me. But it's our life," he added. "Our life!" she repeated slowly. "Then you do—you already accept me as one of you?"

"Of course," Ted said. "As a matter of fact, we were just going to lunch in the airport restaurant. Want to come along?"

Kay glanced through the glass corridors toward the glittering restaurant where passengers dined and where natty young pilots lounged about the cigar counter and the fireplace.

"Why, of course," she said. "If you're sure that I won't—"

Ted took her arm with a gesture of real camaraderie. "Come on!" he said, smiling.
