PAMPA — The Downtown Business Association will sponsor a Summer Street Party on July 31 but before that, there's planning to be done. This Thursday at 8:30 a.m. the first such meeting will be at Pampa Office Supply. All DBA members should attend.

PANHANDLE — U.S. Rep. Mac Thornberry will host a town hall meeting Monday at the Square House Museum here.

Pampa's Congressman said he would focus on Social Security at the meeting scheduled for 5 p.m. Monday at the Hazelwood Arts and Education Building Square House Museum auditorium.

"There is a lot of plans being talked about in Washington as to how we go about strengthening Social Security and ensuring the retirement security of each and every American," Thornberry said. "I think it's important to hear what people in our area have to say as well."

Thornberry has six retirement security town meetings scheduled this year in his 38 country congressional district.

Jobless rate in panhandle goes higher

Unemployment in Pampa and much of the rest of the panhandle is nearly twice the state average for February.

According to figures released by the Texas Workforce Commission unemployment in Pampa jumped from 6.7 percent to 7.9 percent last month. That translates into 715 people on jobless rolls, 122 more than in January. That is the reverse of the state-wide trend which saw unemployment fall from 5.2 to 4.7 percent over the same period.

The unemployment for all of Gray County rose from 6.8 percent to 8.1 meaning 881 people are listed as unemployed for February. Borger still leads the panhandle for unemployment figure at 9.4 percent which translates to 572 people shown without jobs.

Dumas and Dalhart both show slight drops in their already low employment rates, they had rates of were 3.1 and 2.7 respectively. Sherman County at the top of the panhandle showed the lowest numbers with a 1.6 unemployment rate. That translated to only 22 people unemployed in that county.

Amarillo's unemployment dropped slightly to 3.0 percent and Lubbock stood at 2.9.

While most of the metropolitan areas had unemployment drop slightly, the Odessa-Midland area rose higher than the Pampa area from 9.0 to 9.2. The leader in unemployment continues to be the McAllen-Edinburg-Mission area at 17.2 percent.

Deputy sheriff remains in ICU

By DAVID BOWSER
Staff Writer

Department of Public Safety troopers said Deputy Wallace was responding to an emergency call to assist another officer when he was involved in the crash with a station wagon.

MCLEAN — A Gray County deputy sheriff was in the intensive care unit of an Amarillo hospital today along with a Gainesville woman and girl following a two-car crash in McLean Sunday night.

Deputy Larry Wallace, 42, was listed in satisfactory condition today at Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo.

Debra Kay Shouse, 44, of Gainesville, was in satisfactory condition today at Northwest Texas Hospital.

DWI trial cut short; man takes plea bargain

Jury selection was interrupted Monday in 223rd District Court as the defendant decided at the last minute to accept a plea bargain rather than take a chance on going to prison.

Lloyd Gene Morris, 40, of Letors, and his mother approached the bench about 9:30 a.m. Monday as jury selection was about to begin in his driving while intoxicated, subsequent offense, trial in 223rd District Court.

The jury panel was dismissed as Morris accepted a plea bargain offer of five years probation, $1,500 fine and 90 days in the Gray County jail.

Morris told Senior Judge Carlton Dodson that he was afraid of going to prison if the trial proceeded.

Morris was stopped by Gray County deputies on March 6, 1998 in Letors and charged with driving while intoxicated. The Letors man has two prior convictions, one on July 20, 1992, in Donley County and one on March 22, 1994, in Gray County.

Milford Jones.

Jones, a retired Pampa service station owner, reunited with fellow WWII veteran Elvin Franklin of Lafayette, Ken., last month.

Jones, his wife Glorice, and his daughter and son-in-law Sandy and Freddy Vanderburg, surprised Franklin when they stopped in Lafayette on Feb. 6, and reunited at the small town's motel.

Jones' daughter, Sandy, took notes on what exactly happened that day.

"They hugged and cried and Franklin asked, 'Do you think we'll ever see each other again?' He said dad is the reason he is alive and that he saved his life on more than one occasion. Franklin said dad was his only friend and buddy he ever cared about seeing again."

When asked if he remembered saving his friend's life, Jones quickly murmured a "Yes, when we were knocked out of a tank," and that was all he had to say.

But whether he wants to remember or admit it, Jones is a hero, indeed.

Quite frankly... "Do you like the block system at PHS or would you prefer the traditional seven-period day schedule?"

"Seven periods because it gives kids more opportunities to get more classes and learn more."

- Jeff Holman

"Block, because teachers have longer to do what they need to do and we have more time to do homework done in class."

- Marsha Bailey

"I think probably the block because you can get a full 8 credits in a year and more time with the teachers."

- Lacy Plunkett

"Block, because there are not as many subjects to worry about and you can take more."

- Susan Brakey

"Block. I can only keep up with four classes and you can get more done in 1 1/2 periods."

Y2K problem wreaking havoc with preordered headstones

The Los Angeles Times recently published an interesting story about an intriguing Y2K problem. It seems that people who bought their headstones many years ago, only ordered the first two digits of the year (19) engraved for the year of death. However, with January 2000 being less than a year away, many of these headstones will need to have those packages are no longer in business. This isn't an earth shattering problem, but who would have thought!

It has come to my attention that the Pampa Chapter of Daughters of the American Revolution is currently in the process of cataloging the Fairview Cemetery. I know this is a tremendous time consuming project. I appreciate their effort in this project and want to publicly thank them for all their hard work.

My contacts have also told me that the Pampa library move is underway. I spent many an hour in front of the microfilm machine on my last visit. I can't wait to see the new building. Thank you to everyone who is helping with the move. I don't envy you!

I maintain the Gray County web page through the Seems trite, doesn't it? But if you are like many who bought their plot, headstone and services as a package deal, you've paid once, so who is responsible for the changes? According to the article, the cost could range anywhere from $200 for a cheap epoxy job to $2,000 for a complete refacing. Many of the businesses who sold the

'Wheels for Life' bike-a-thon slated

Pampa citizens will have a chance to help sick children when the St. Jude Children's Hospital "Wheels for Life" Bike-A-Thon is held April 17.

The annual event is held to raise money for St. Jude Children's Hospital which is the largest childhood cancer research and treatment center in terms of the number of patients treated and treatment success, according to the hospital.

Each participant raises by collecting pledges for each mile riding in the Bike-A-Thon. Riders are divided into three age groups, 3-6, 7-10, and 11 and over. Prizes will be awarded in each age group for money raised for the ride. All participants who turn in money will get a certificate. Those who raise $35 or more will also receive a t-shirt. Raising $75 or more will also garner the participant a sports bag. St. Jude will also award a boom box to the child that raises the most money over $100. There will also be prizes awarded to the child raising the most money in each age category by local merchants who help sponsor the event.

The Bike-A-Thon will run from 10 a.m. until noon April 17 and a play day with other activities will run from 9 a.m. until 3 that afternoon at Recreation Park. For more information or to register parents can call Beck Hilton at 665-5806 or Pam Zemanek 665-6347.

Postal Service issues hospice stamp

The U.S. Postal Service recently issued one of its newest commemorative first-class .33¢ stamps in recognition of the 3,000 hospices, 25,000 professionals and more than 100,000 volunteers who have made hospice, increasingly, the quality end-of-life choice for Americans.

Crown of Texas Hospice and Postmaster Teresa Hines will commemorate the new hospice stamp from 8:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m. Thursday, March 25 at the post office in Skellytown. A presentation is scheduled at 10 a.m.

The public will have the opportunity to purchase the hospice stamp which may be "canceled" with the hospice cancellation.

The "Hospice Care" stamp symbolizes life's journey to its final stage, the part where hospice lends its vision for end-of-life care. The use of color gradations is an attempt to convey transition through the stages of life until we come home to death. The butterfly is a symbol of spiritual release — a positive metaphor for the last transition of life.

More than 100 million stamps will be issued and are available at every post office in the nation.

On the front line in war on drugs

Texas, more than most states, is on the front line in the war on drugs. Record amounts of illegal drugs continue to enter the United States by way of Texas. More than $10 billion in drugs crossed our southwest border in 1997 and the Border Patrol in Texas alone seized $765 million worth of narcotics that year.

Given those grim statistics, the Clinton administration's recent decision to certify Mexico in the drug war does not change the facts: Drug use in the United States and drug trafficking through Mexico are on the rise. According to the administration's own National Drug Control Strategy, "... since 1992, there has been a substantial increase in the use of most drugs — particularly marijuana ..." among American youth.

Clearly, certification and decertification have no meaning against a backdrop of corruption and trafficking in Mexico and the drug epidemic on America's streets. The current certification process has become a finger-pointing exercise, while too little real progress is being made in combating drugs.

Many of us in Congress, particularly those representing border states, have long sought an alternative to this process, which forces us to choose between the false alternatives of full cooperation (certification), or insufficient cooperation (decertification). Although Mexico has plenty of its own problems, it would be unproductive and shortsighted to decertify one of our closest neighbors, with which we share a 2,000-mile border. One of the consequences of decertification would be to curb Mexico's ability to borrow funds on the world market, a situation which would exacerbate Mexico's economic problems.

In addition to offering a false choice, the current process focuses too much on countries and too little on objectives. For example, while we are ostensibly evaluating Mexico, what we're really interested in is whether we're making progress on drug eradication, law enforcement and education. These are objectives that cut across borders and involve a number of countries, the United States included.

It would be better — and I am working with other senators to write such legislation — to identify desired objectives that require cooperation among several countries and develop a process to evaluate progress across a broad front. For example, the arrest and conviction of drug kingpins is an objective that respects no border. These international criminals hopscotch throughout the hemisphere to find safe havens. While any given country may be lax in pursuing a given drug lord, it may be more useful to compare that country's effort to those efforts in other countries. That way, we could establish a more comprehensive approach to the problem.

Such a process would allow the United States, in cooperation with other countries, to develop the kind of multinational web of relationships among law enforcement agencies, military forces, banking institutions and governments needed to wage a real war on drugs. It would allow us, together with our allies in this war, to determine where extra resources may be needed — in eradication, law enforcement, surveillance, etc. — to address a specific objective. Such a procedure is lacking in the current certification process.

It would also open us up to greater self-assessment, because counter-drug use/education efforts — where the statistics clearly show the United States is failing — would be part of any list of objectives. The current process allows us to bash an individual country — Mexico, this year — and avoid talking about the unpleasant reality that the U.S. counter-drug education effort since 1993 has been abysmal. In fact, many members of Congress vent their frustration on Mexico's supply problem because they feel powerless to reinvigorate efforts to stem America's demand problem.

The first casualty in war is the truth, and that's been the case in the war on drugs. We're only going to win this war by telling the plain truth and the plain truth is that too many countries, including Columbia, are producing drugs. Too many countries, including Mexico, are trafficking in drugs. And too many countries, including the United States, are using drugs. Finger-pointing won't solve this problem. Cooperation where helpful, and confrontation where necessary, will.

Rewarding Hillary for dishonesty

That Hillary Clinton should generate excitement as a potential Senate candidate in New York is so obvious to most people that it requires no explanation.

She has star power, that is clear. Her very name causes big donors in Manhattan to swoon. But based on what? Her liberalism? Every Democrat in New York is liberal, and most have clearer records than she.

Mrs. Clinton is best known for her Rube Goldberg health reform plan, which was defeated and arguably led to the worst electoral disaster for the Democratic Party in 50 years. Still, among liberals, it was a valiant cause. And great honor goes to the soldier who stumbles while holding the standard aloft. But as to most of the rest of the liberal agenda, the first lady has not been heard from. Did she support the welfare reform bill of 1996 that so many liberals opposed and her husband signed? Does she support the death penalty as he does? Would she support racial and sexual preferences? Does she agree with Al Gore that the next great challenge for our time is traffic control?

Since Mrs. Clinton's policy views are more presumed than known, her appeal must lie elsewhere. She is more loved, it seems, for what she has endured than for what she has accomplished. In that sense, she is America's Diana.

It is a measure of the pathetic state of official feminism that their chief heroine is now the woman scorned. Health care notwithstanding, Hillary Clinton's most important and visible role in her partnership with Bill Clinton has been to play the wronged but loyal wife.

Mona Charen

Syndicated columnist

Whenever his despicable, reckless and utterly compulsive use and abuse of women has gotten him into political trouble, the lovely and articulate Hillary steps forward to say, in effect, "If it's OK with me, it should be OK with you." If the study of feminism was to destroy the traditional family, this may be a great stealth strategy.

But the public pose was one of a loving couple. If Mrs. Clinton had not appeared on the "Today Show" in January 1998 to say that the Monica Lewinsky story was a tissue of lies concocted by a right-wing cabal, who knows what trajectory the scandal might have assumed? When it became indisputable that the story was true (The Dress), Bill Clinton faced impeachment, but Hillary's reputation suffered no diminution for her contribution to the cover-up.

Though each new chapter of their relationship is analyzed the way Kremlinologists once studied the May Day seating chart on Lenin's tomb, it is impossible and, in fact, not terribly interesting to guess at what goes on between the two Clintons in private. There have been reports — some perhaps correct — of gothic scenes in the private quarters.

On the other hand, these reports of private torment may be disinformation designed to help us forget that Hillary is Bill Clinton's chief apologist and co-conspirator. Surely Paula Jones and Juanita Broaddrick and who knows how many others must believe that Hillary Clinton climbed to the first ladyship by stepping on their heads.

So why in the world does this compromised figure set the pulses of liberal New Yorkers racing? How, exactly, does Hillary fulfill feminist fantasies? Or has Bill Clinton's ascendancy confounded all of the familiar categories? All of the women who truly were his victims — Paula Jones, Kathleen Willey, Juanita Broaddrick — have been disdained and dismissed not just by Bill Clinton but by most leading feminists. And yet the wife who served as enabler and apologist is hailed for her "courage" and "fortitude."

The Hillary canonization marks the sure slide into drawing all the wrong conclusions from the crisis of the past year. Rather than resent every aide (George Stephanopoulos very much included), pundit and wife who helped sell this defective product to the electorate in 1992, we seem determined to conclude all over again that character doesn't matter. Mrs. Clinton stood by and stood for one of the worst men ever to sit in the White House. A smidgen of honesty from her at any of several key moments could have spared the nation much pain. And the proper reward for this is a Senate seat?

Today in history

By The Associated Press

Today is Tuesday, March 23, the 82nd day of 1999. There are 283 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:

On March 23, 1775, Patrick Henry made his famous call for America's independence from Britain, telling the Virginia Provincial Convention, "Give me liberty, or give me death!"

On this date:

In 1792, Joseph Haydn's Symphony No. 94 in G Major (the "Surprise" symphony) was performed publicly for the first time, in London.

In 1806, explorers Lewis and Clark, having reached the Pacific coast, began their return journey.

In 1919, Benito Mussolini founded his Fascist political movement in Milan, Italy.

In 1933, the German Reichstag adopted the Enabling Act, which effectively granted Adolf Hitler dictatorial legislative powers.

In 1942, during World War II, the U.S. government began evacuating Japanese-Americans from West Coast homes to detention centers.

In 1956, Pakistan became an independent republic within the British Commonwealth.

In 1965, America's first two-person space flight blasted off from Cape Kennedy with astronauts Virgil I. Grissom and John W. Young aboard.

In 1983, President Reagan first proposed development of technology to intercept enemy missiles — a proposal that came to be known as the Strategic Defense Initiative, as well as "Star Wars."

In 1983, Dr. Barney Clark, recipient of a permanent artificial heart, died at the University of Utah Medical Center after 112 days with the device.

Ten years ago: Fawn Hall, former secretary to onetime National Security Council aide Oliver North, completed two days of testimony at North's Iran-Contra trial.

Five years ago: Luis Donaldo Colosio, Mexico's leading presidential candidate, was assassinated in Tijuana. Twenty-three paratroopers were killed when a F-16 fighter jet and C-130 transport collided while landing at Pope Air Force Base in North Carolina and the F-16 skidded into another transport on the ground. Wayne Gretzky broke Gordie Howe's National Hockey League career record with his 802nd goal.

Science, religion may agree on UFOs

Some of the sightings of Unidentified Flying Objects are real, as are some of the human encounters with apparently alien creatures, or so at least one scientist believes.

Dr. Jacques Vallee says in his book "Dimensions" (Ballantine) that he does not believe the UFO "little people" are extraterrestrial in the conventional sense but instead are manifestations of intelligences from another dimension. He also says they are not necessarily benevolent and seem to be intent on controlling the way of thinking of humans.

Now this may be a tough concept to chew on because most folks have been convinced that the current state religion, naturalism or secular humanism, is really science, though in fact it is a faith-based set of beliefs like any other religion. Listen to Vallee:

"Perhaps it is proper to shake from our theoretical ankles the chains of spacetime. Space and time coordinates derive their convenience from graphic considerations. The theory of space and time is a cultural artifact. If we had invented the digital computer before inventing graph paper, we might have a very different theory of the universe today."

Several reputable scientists are now speculating that there may well be many universes in other dimensions with different sets of physical laws. Vallee also speculates that modern UFO experiences may be akin to medieval experiences with elves and fairies.

Charley Reese

And this led Father Seraphim Rose, in his book "Orthodoxy and the Religion of the Future," to speculate that the old demonic forces may simply have adopted a form that would be believable to people in a secular age. Whereas once they appeared as fairies and elves and hideous demons, they now appear as aliens from another planet. Different face, same malevolence.

It's odd, the similarity between the thinking of an orthodox priest and the thinking of a secular scientist — malevolent intelligent beings from another dimension. The priest believes he knows what that other dimension is. The scientist doesn't speculate as to its nature but only to its probable existence.

Nihilism and reductionism — belief in nothing and simplistic belief in a 100 percent mechanical, measurable and explainable universe — are becoming the bargain basement of ignorance, while the cutting edge of original and creative thinking is to be found among those who see the early stages of a merger of religion and true science.

One of those is John Polkinghorne, president of Queen's College at Cambridge and a former professor of mathematical physics at Cambridge University. He has become a Christian and has written a small book, "Quarks, Chaos and Christianity" (Crossroad Publishing Co.).

Polkinghorne says of reductionism: "It is hard to exaggerate the implausibility of this limited view of reality. All that is most profound, all that makes human life worth living, is devaluated and discarded, sacrificed to an unjustified scientific imperialism."

I have always believed in mystery because I know too well how the arrogance of secular men can take an old bone — and a ton of speculation — and build a massive fortress of dogma.

I learned of these interesting books, which I recommend to you, from a delightful quarterly, Doxa, which is a publication of St. Michael's Skete (P.O. Box 38, Canonese, NM 87516). It can be had for the asking, but it is entirely supported by donations. Don't be a freeloader. Keeping an open mind is a hard but valuable thing to do, especially in this grim age. And watch out for UFOs.

Authorities identify one body as that of missing sightseer

It's an image her grieving family is thankful to have. The photograph was released Monday as authorities identified Mrs. Sund's remains, found last week in the charred hulk of the rental car the three women were using when they vanished during last month's vacation.

Another body found in the trunk of the car has not been identified. Mrs. Sund, 42, was traveling with her daughter Julie, 15, and Silvina Pelosso, 16, a friend from Argentina, when they vanished Feb. 15.

The FBI used dental records to identify Mrs. Sund's body and may use DNA tests to identify the other victim. Agents said an autopsy had been performed but did not disclose Mrs. Sund's cause of death.

The FBI said agents are pursuing leads to find the third person, but refused to elaborate and also did not say where the film was found. Only seven photographs were released at the family's request.

"They (the photographs) mean a lot, because they're the last ones we'll ever have. We're very grateful for them," said Carole Carrington, Mrs. Sund's mother. "They also mean that they were having a wonderful time and we're glad about that."

The photos of the women, believed to have been taken Feb. 14 or 15, show them in joyful poses — Julie and Silvina smiling in front of a Yosemite waterfall, Mrs. Sund and Silvina laughing near the Merced River.

The disappearance five weeks ago prompted a massive search in mining country just outside Yosemite. The FBI found the burned out car Friday in a forest, about three hours north of the Cedar Lodge in El Portal, the spot near Yosemite where the women had been staying.

The car was moved over the weekend to a hangar at nearby Columbia Airport, where arson experts from the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms looked for tell-tale chemical residues.

"Arson is often used to cover up or conceal evidence of other crimes such as murder. However, there is potential to obtain incriminating evidence even after a fire," said B.J. Zapor, a spokesman for the ATF.

Francis and Carole Carrington spoke briefly after their daughter was identified, dry-eyed but clearly stunned.

"This is the worst nightmare that could ever happen," Carrington said. "Why people would do this to three good people — I just can't imagine."

Mrs. Sund's husband and Julie's father, Jens Sund, was in seclusion at the family home in Eureka with the couple's three other children.

On CNN's "Larry King Live" on Monday night, Silvina's mother, Raquel Pelosso, said she feared the worst.

"I believe there's no chance they can find my daughter alive," she said.

Theme park says base separated from seating in accident

DALLAS (AP) — The seating unit of a raft-like boat carrying a dozen people across swift water separated from its inner-tube base as it overturned and killed an Arkansas woman, according to theme park operators.

"How the tubing came off, we don't know," Nancy St. Pierre, spokeswoman for Six Flags Over Texas in Arlington, told The Dallas Morning News in today's editions. "Hopefully, we'll find that out."

Two people remained hospitalized today at an Arlington hospital.

The amusement park's investigation has not yet determined what role, if any, the separation played in the accident Sunday afternoon — the first fatality involving a visitor in the facility's 38-year history.

Park officials said they are casting a very wide net in their investigation.

"We're looking at our procedures, how we responded and what the ride was doing," Ms. St. Pierre said.

The park does not require water-rescue training for the staff at Roaring Rapids or the park's other water rides, including Splashwater Falls and the Log Ride, Ms. St. Pierre said. However, that could change after the accident review is completed, she said.

Ms. St. Pierre also wouldn't speculate on whether more employees will be trained in cardiopulmonary resuscitation. The only employees now required to have CPR training are the park's paramedics. Four certified paramedics were on duty at the park at the time of the accident.

Ginny Venneberg, who was among the 12 passengers spilled into the water, said that during the chaos, Six Flags employees told her that park policy prevented them from jumping directly into the water to help the victims.

Several bystanders jumped in to help.

"We were yelling, 'Help, help, help!' and nobody would jump in," said Sean Malcara, 26, who dived in. "The people who worked there ... they were saying wait until paramedics come, wait. But you can only wait so long when people are under water."

Ms. St. Pierre said employees on that ride are told not to go into the water.

"The people on the dock did what they were told to do," she added that if people were drowning and employees jumped in to help, they probably would not be subject to discipline.

Although park officials have listed no previous accidents involving the Roaring Rapids ride, several Six Flags visitors said mishaps in 1995 and 1997 required rescues from the raft-like boats.

Gray County Judge Richard Peet, Commissioner Gerald Wright, Commissioner James Hefley, Assistant County Clerk Carolyn Law, President of the PEDC Board Lewis Meers, Commissioner Joe Wheeley and Commissioner Jim Greene discuss county issues at a recent meeting.

Tiede's attorney seeks new trial in slaying of widow stuffed in freezer

LONGVIEW, Texas (AP) — An ex-mortician sentenced to life imprisonment for slaying his longtime companion and hiding her body in a freezer should get a new trial because a prosecutor was out of his jurisdiction and jurors did not act properly in the case, the defendant's attorney says.

Bernhardt "Bernie" Tiede II's attorney, Clifton "Scrappy" Holmes, argues a new trial is necessary because Wes Rivers, a lawyer with the U.S. Attorney's Office, helped prosecute the case.

Rivers is not authorized to prosecute criminal actions on behalf of the state of Texas, according to the motion filed late last week in a San Augustine state district court.

Tiede, 40, was sentenced last month by jurors who convicted him of shooting 81-year-old Marjorie Nugent in the back four times with a .22 caliber rifle in 1996.

But jurors should not have previously been shown a videotape of Ms. Nugent's body being removed from her freezer by forensic workers, the motion states, adding that the panel also engaged in unspecified misconduct.

Attorney's ex-wife seeks share of tobacco lawsuit settlement

HOUSTON (AP) — A share of Texas' $17.3 billion settlement in its lawsuit against tobacco companies is claimed by the ex-wife of a private attorney who represented the state against the industry.

Dawn Nelson has sued in state district court for her share of the fee arranged by John Eddie Williams of Houston.

Williams is a partner in one of the five law firms awarded $3.3 billion for representing the state in its lawsuit against the tobacco industry.

Ms. Nelson contends that Williams purposely didn't tell her during their divorce in 1997 about the hundreds of millions of dollars his law firm, Williams and Bailey, stood to earn from the tobacco litigation.

After the settlement was approved in January 1998, arbitrators in December awarded the legal fees. Ms. Nelson's lawsuit, filed on Friday, seeks at least $10 million in actual damages and "unlimited" exemplary damages.

Ms. Nelson also contends that Robert Piro, a partner in Piro and Lilly, failed to secure an accurate accounting of Williams' potential wealth and relied solely on information from the accounting firm Ferguson, Camp & Poll, then known as Ferguson, Camp & Henry.

A national arbitration panel in December approved the award to the private attorneys to be paid by tobacco companies.

Williams and John O'Quinn of Houston, Walter Umphrey and Wayne Reaud of Beaumont, and Harold Nix of Daingerfield had worked out the fee arrangement with former Attorney General Dan Morales. The Democrat had hired the firms in March 1996 to represent the state.

Central Texas town to get first movie screen in 15 years

LOCKHART, Texas (AP) — The last picture show in Lockhart was "Christine," the Stephen King thriller about a killer car. That was in March 1984.

Fifteen years later, ground has been broken for a five-screen movie house that will offer Caldwell County residents something to do without driving 30 miles north to Austin.

"This is a big quality-of-life issue for us," said John Clary, economic development director for the city. "Our population is always looking for things to do."

But why, in the age of multi-multi screen complexes, does somebody build a small theater in a town of 13,700?

"I'm sure there are other fields I could do better in, but I wouldn't have the passion for it," James Sterling, owner of the Aviator Theatres, told the Austin American-Statesman.

Elsewhere

LEGE LEADERS: House Speaker Pete Laney on Monday told the Texas Daily Newspaper Association that there doesn't appear to be enough support in the Legislature to pass new limits on campaign contributions and spending. Lt. Gov. Rick Perry, meanwhile, predicted the Senate would pass a school voucher program. ... INTERNET TAXES: Texas entrepreneurs want the Texas Legislature to dump the sales tax on Internet access. The tax, which few other states collect, hinders development of a key sector of the state's booming high-tech industry, they say. ... WELCOMING A PRISON: The small South Texas town of La Villa has welcomed a new business some other communities might shy away from — a private prison. City Manager Luciano Ozuna said a prison probably isn't his first choice, but the town of 1,500 with an average annual income of $9,800 and a 24 percent unemployment rate is looking forward to the infusion of jobs. ... BOMBERS, AWAY!: The Air Force has changed routes of two bomber training flights scheduled over West Texas and New Mexico because of concerns raised at public hearings. A 400-page environmental impact statement released by the Air Force noted elimination of a proposed bomber training route north of Big Spring and modification of a route that would have skirted Big Bend National Park.

Sports Fan's Wife Wants Timeout for Personal Foul

DEAR ABBY: My husband, "Bob," is high-strung. Even my mother-in-law forewarned me about his rowdy, rough-and-tumble behavior. Bob is a sports nut whose favorite athletic activities are football, hockey and pro-wrestling.

Abigail Van Buren

SYNDICATED COLUMNIST

Bob gets excited over any sport, and usually I can, too — especially hockey. What I don't like is his need to "act out" the rough stuff he's previously viewed on television. For some reason that only he can understand, Bob seems to enjoy coming after me, scooping me up by my limbs and pinning me to the wall or the floor. I have repeatedly asked him to stop during the six years we have been married, but to no avail.

Some nights before we go to sleep he gets so restless and into what he calls "playing" that I have to literally defend myself against his sparring, poking and jabbing. Recently I have had to kick, scratch and bite him just to get him to stop. Even our beloved cat runs away from him.

Abby, please don't suggest counseling. I'm willing to go, but I know Bob won't. He'd say nothing is wrong, and in the presence of others, deny everything. He's polite around other people, but when we're alone, he's suddenly crude and obnoxious. It's as if it's something he's proud of.

Except for his obviously boorish, abusive behavior, everything else is fine. Is there a constructive way to get Bob to stop his rough "playing," or is it time to call this marriage quits? NOT A CRASH-TEST DUMMY IN WASHINGTON

DEAR NOT A DUMMY: Wake up. Your husband's behavior is not "high-strung"; it's physically abusive and sadistic, and it could cause you a serious injury. For your own safety you must draw the line. Something is wrong with Bob. It's all right to be a sports fan, but what he's doing is not normal behavior.

Although you don't want to hear this, I think counseling would do you a world of good. If Bob refuses to go, go without him. It will give you valuable insight not only into why he's behaving the way he does, but also why you have tolerated this for six years. Please don't delay. And you'd be wise to consider separating until Bob is willing to modify his behavior.

DEAR ABBY: "Waiting in Arlington, Texas," works in a hospital and has a crush on a repair man. She said she wrote him a note but he didn't respond, so she summoned the courage to hand him a second note. When he failed to acknowledge it, she asked him if he had read it. His reply: "Nice penmanship."

She asked you what she should do to get a more direct response, and you advised her that she'd already received a response — he wasn't interested.

Abby, you may not have considered all of the possibilities. For example, the man may not be able to read the note. The response he gave was certainly evasive — but was he trying to avoid giving her a straight answer or the fact that he's illiterate? There may be more to this than a simple rejection.

DEAR MYSTIFIED: It's true that some people who are illiterate are so ashamed of it that they will do almost anything to hide it. However, "Waiting" also disclosed that, "Rumor has it that he's seeing someone." Therefore, it's also possible that the man felt his personal life was none of her business.

However, since every player is entitled to three strikes, I'm printing your letter. If "Waiting" sees it, I'm sure she'll step up to the plate again.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 24, 1999 BY JACQUELINE BIGAR

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic, 4-Positive, 3-Average, 2-So-so, 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

Others will almost certainly lead today, that's probably fine with you, since you're more focused on relaxing and delving into your thoughts. Analyze a cherished wish and then make your way toward it. You can accomplish much in the future by envisioning it today. Tonight: Catch a movie.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

Communication flourishes as you move past your usual matter-of-fact manner of speaking. Add hearts and flowers to your expression. Daily interactions take on a whimsical tone. One place to be clear is with higher-ups, however — they could misread your message. Tonight: Chatting.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

If you can dream it, you can do it today. Find exceptional, unique ways to share your individuality with the world. The further you venture from familiar territory, the happier you'll be and the more new friends you'll make. Infuse your creativity into a money situation. Tonight: Work on increasing your earnings.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)

A joint investment pays off, your role in this winning situation thrusts you into the limelight as others take notice. The moon in your sign indicates a turning point, resolve to take more control and credit. Higher-ups applaud you. This is a great new beginning. Tonight: Create a perfect night.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

Fatigue sets in. You might find it hard to keep up with a partner who seems to ooze with energy and inspiration. You could opt to leave him to his own devices and just turn in. Give him your blessing, rather than pouting. When he comes back, he'll be grateful — and all yours! Tonight: In dreamland.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

Make your aspirations reality, while your work environment and a joint financial matter shine brightly. Friends work well together; you might decide to enter into a new business with a buddy. This could catch fire quickly, so be ready for success! Popularity soars. Tonight: Tripping the light fantastic.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)

The only problem you might encounter today is dividing yourself between a pleased boss and a delighted love interest who both want a piece of you — probably at the same time! As much as you love to be adored, you'll find a way to make everybody happy! Be responsible for this. Tonight: Add to your career image.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)

You're likely to be an "armchair traveler" today, perusing exotic brochures or taking an online college course from your home or office. You needn't work so hard, with all the resources you have at your disposal. Make this realization more a part of your life from now on. Tonight: Count your blessings.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)

If you want to appeal to another for love, attention or financial backing, today's the day. Your every word is charmed and enthusiastic, and your smile weaves magic! Hitch your wagon to a wealthy or successful person's star. There's much to learn! Tonight: Take a romance to the next level.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)

Love and money — what a perfect combination to make you grin from ear to ear. Both are available, if you let your imagination take hold. Listen and allow a partner's input to sink in. You can be so conservative, forgetting, sometimes, that successful people are the ones who risk. Tonight: Dinner for two.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)

You're at your magnetic, charming best today. Use your savoir-faire to get what you want, especially from communication. A "yes" answer is forthcoming to your request or inquiries. A new approach to work is needed. Do it — you never were one to stand on ceremony! Tonight: Rearrange your office or desk.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)

Romance is all around. You might feel like the most beautiful princess or most virile man on the planet, as suitors flock to your side. Your intuition is at its most penetrating; use it to finess a financial situation or find the best price on a major purchase. Tonight: Basking in admiration.

BASKETBALL

PAMPA — The Jazz defeated the Mavericks 75-44 in a Pampa Kids Club League basketball game last weekend.

Leo Ramirez of the Jazz and David Robinson of the Mavericks each had 25 points to lead their respective teams in scoring.

The Jazz boosted their unbeaten record to 6-0 while the Mavericks drop to 2-4.

Blake Hurst had 13 points and Nefi Mezi added 10 for the Jazz. Others scoring for the Jazz were Shawn Stone and Stephanie Gattis 8 points each, Matt Cook 6, Trevor Muniz 3 and Kim Conner 2. Ramirez had three 3-point goals while Gattis had 2, Blake Hurst 1 and Trevor Muniz 1.

The Jazz led by only two (28-26) at halftime, but Ramirez scored 18 of his 25 points in the fourth quarter to help his team pull away.

Others scoring for the Mavericks were Danny Bedolla with 9; Jeff Jones 5, Tristen Perry 3 and Ollie Lowe 2. Robinson and Jones had 3-point goals.

The Jazz play the Lakers at 2 p.m. Saturday.

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) — Steve Alford was hired as Iowa's basketball coach today after guiding Southwest Missouri State to its best showing in the NCAA tournament.

The former Indiana star replaces Tom Davis, whose contract was not renewed.

With a record of 269-140, Davis had the most victories of any coach in Iowa history.

He coached the Hawkeyes to NCAA tournament wins over Alabama-Birmingham and Arkansas before a 78-68 loss to Connecticut in the NCAA West Regional semifinals last Thursday.

Southwest Missouri State lost to Duke in the round of 16.

BOXING

LAS VEGAS (AP) — Gambling regulators are looking into a flurry of late betting on Evander Holyfield that sent odds soaring just before he stepped into the ring with Lennox Lewis.

A million dollars or more may have been bet on Holyfield in the hours before the March 13 fight at Madison Square Garden. The bets not only changed the fight odds, but drew the attention of the Nevada Gaming Control Board because of the way they were placed.

Almost all of the money ended up being refunded to bettors when the fight was ruled a draw, even though Holyfield appeared to have lost.

The probe by gambling regulators comes on top of investigations by a Manhattan grand jury, a state Senate committee and the New York State Athletic Commission.

Nevada investigators are primarily concerned with whether the money was bet on behalf of one individual or group by so-called "messenger" bettors, which is against Nevada law. But a source close to the probe told The Associated Press that the agency was also working with out-of-state agencies investigating the fight.

"We're looking at any betting patterns we can find," said Keith Copher, chief of enforcement for the agency that regulates Nevada casinos.

More than $1 million might have been bet just before the fight in Las Vegas sports books and those run out of the Caribbean, causing the odds favoring Holyfield to jump.

One longtime Las Vegas bettor said the betting pattern was so unusual that he suspected the money was bet with inside knowledge of what the outcome might be.

"This was a real scam, except it didn't work," said Lem Banker, one of a very few sports bettors who has made a living over the years wagering on sporting events and is well respected in the industry. "There was a lot of what I call 'unnatural money' wagered on Holyfield."

PHS girls set for veteran Rider crew

PAMPA — The Pampa girls' soccer team is just one victory away from the Class 4A regional championship.

However, the Lady Harvesters must get past, formidable foe Wichita Falls Rider today at 5 p.m. in the regional semifinals at Harvester Stadium.

Rider has a 17-7-2 record and has been in the playoffs every year since its program started in 1993. The Lady Raiders advanced to the regional quarterfinals a year ago.

"I don't know much about this year's team, but I do know about what they've done in the past. They have a good program," said Lori Patulea, Pampa's first-year coach.

Ashley Miller, Sarah Owens and Sara Litteken, all seniors, spark Rider's offense.

Pampa's young, but talented squad will be without its key performer against the veteran Rider team.

Senior midfielder Jessica Maddox, a two-time all-district player, suffered a broken leg in Pampa's 1-0 win over El Paso Ysleta last week.

However, the freshmen trio of Desiree Vigil, Misti Northcutt and Samantha Ford have been playing like veterans for Pampa.

Patulea is just hoping they continue to do so.

Vigil leads the team in scoring and Northcutt is the assists leader. Ford has had five shutouts from her goalie position.

There are 11 freshmen on the Pampa squad, two juniors, one sophomore and seven seniors.

"We've got a young team and it's nice that we'll most of them playing next year," Patulea said.

Xavier out to prove a point by winning NIT tourney crown

NEW YORK (AP) — Nobody was more disappointed than Xavier coach Skip Prosser when the Musketeers, despite 21 victories, were not invited to the NCAA tournament.

His immediate reaction after he first saw the 64-team field on television earlier this month was: "I'm baffled a bit."

Three NIT victories later, Xavier (24-10) plays Clemson (19-14) tonight in the semifinals at Madison Square Garden. By beating Toledo, Wake Forest and Princeton on the road to the NIT's final four, Prosser and his players are feeling a lot better about themselves.

"I cannot say enough how grateful we are to be here," Prosser said Monday. "I've never been through this before. But I talked to coaches who have been in a situation where they should have gone to the NAAs and didn't. And to a man, they said the NIT was a great experience, especially if you get to New York."

Softball hitter

Stephanie Cameron had two of Pampa's six hits in the Lady Harvesters' 7-4 win against Frenship in softball action last weekend. The Lady Harvesters play at Hereford today. Their next home game is Saturday at 1 p.m. against Canyon.

Langdon shakes off postseason shooting woes

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — While the pressure is on Duke as the overwhelming favorite to win the NCAA men's basketball title, Blue Devils sharpshooter Trajan Langdon has been able to lighten up a little.

Langdon has been Duke's money player the past three seasons, the guy the Blue Devils go to for clutch 3-pointers and smooth baseline jumpers.

That was until the postseason rolled around, where Langdon was a flop in 1997 and '98.

He was a combined 19-for-68 from the field (28 percent), including 11-for-38 on 3-pointers as the Blue Devils were ousted from the NCAA tournament by Providence and eventual national champion Kentucky the last two years.

Some of Langdon's shooting problems in those years can be traced to Duke's lack of offense — he was not only the major option in the team's attack, but sometimes its only option.

"I may have put too much pressure on myself," Langdon said Monday. With a host of talented teammates on this year's squad helping take the pressure off, the 6-foot-3 senior has rectified his tournament shooting woes the past two weeks.

After missing the first tournament game against Florida A&M with a foot injury, Langdon has gone 19-for-30 from 3-point range in his last three games, including 11-for-18 in winning the East Regional MVP award.

"The whole team can contribute offensively so it does take some pressure off my shoulders and I can relax shooting the ball," Langdon said.

As a result, Duke (36-1) now heads to the national semifinals against Michigan State with a sizzling shooter as part of its arsenal.

"Trajan is not one who would ever succumb to pressure, but he is a human being and he can get worn down," coach Mike Krzyzewski said. "He got worn down because he carried us — further probably than we should have advanced a couple of times."

Langdon, one of the best free-throw shooters in Atlantic Coast Conference history and a 44 percent 3-point shooter this season, said he didn't give his prior postseason shooting woes a thought. That is, until the media brought it up.

Harvesters take third place at Boom Town Baseball Classic

PAMPA — Going into today's game at Plainview, the Pampa Harvesters' baseball team has won 5 of their last 6 games while taking third place in the Boom Town Classic last week at Burkburnett.

Pampa opened the tournament with a 6-2 win over Ardmore Plainview, which is ranked No. 6 among Class 4A schools in Oklahoma.

Winning pitcher was Brent Coffee, who allowed only 3 hits while striking out 6.

Kaleb Snelgroes was 2 for 3 at the plate, including a home run for the Harvesters. Greg Lindsey was 2 for 2.

Pampa's second of four tournament wins came against

Jacksboro by a score of 6-2.

Casey Owens was the winning pitcher and the right-handed junior was also 2 for 3 at the plate. Owens allowed 2 hits while striking out 5.

Jonathan Waggoner and Amos Valmores each had doubles.

Pampa then slipped past Wichita Falls 4-3 as Lindsey led the Harvesters on the mound and at the plate. Lindsey gave up 3 hits while striking out six.

After losing to Iowa Park 10-0, Pampa came back to shut out Hereford 12-0. Senior right-hander Justin Roark gave up 2 hits and struck out 2 as the Harvesters had their first shutout of the season.

Roark also hit a home run.

Other leading hitters were Owens 2 for 4 with 2 doubles; Snelgroes 3 for 3 with a double; Lindsey 2 for 2 with a double; 3 for 4 and Valmores 1 for 1 with a double. Valmores was hit by a pitch in the Hereford game and lead the team in that category with 5.

Coffee and Lindsey were named to the all-tournament team.

"The whole team played well defensively," said Pampa head coach Dennis Doughty. "We played some good teams."

Pampa has added Randall to its schedule. The two teams play at 1 p.m. Saturday at Harvester Field. Today's game against Plainview starts at 6.

Texas Tech women exits NCAA tournament with a loud thud

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — When Texas Tech's bid to reach the Final Four came crashing down, the fall was a big one.

The Lady Raiders' season ended a game short of the national semifinals with a disastrous 53-42 loss to Rutgers on Saturday night. Players had little to console themselves with after setting several NCAA tournament futility records including fewest points scored in a half (11) and in a Midwest regional game (42).

"We could make up reasons all day of why we didn't get the job done," said Angie Braziel, who was held to a season-low six points. "We took ourselves out of the game. That was NOT Texas Tech basketball. It's disappointing that we let another team advance without giving them our best shot."

Any season-ending loss is a disappointment, but Tech has bowed out with especially painful losses two straight years. They were eliminated in the second round last year 74-59 by Notre Dame.

Lady Raiders coach Marsha Sharp said the sting from the Rutgers game is likely to linger.

"I don't think I was so much upset that we lost, but how we lost," Sharp said. "If you lose, you want to play as well as you can play and somebody just beats you. I just didn't feel like we played very well, and that's hard to accept. ... We're going to have to use this as a way to propel us to greater things because I don't think we can forget it."

Tech, which spent much of the year ranked in the top 10, went 30-4 — its best record in four seasons.

The Lady Raiders won the Big 12 regular-season title and the post-season tournament while averaging 75 points a game behind the inside play of second-team All-American Braziel and the outside shooting of Rene Hanebutt and Julie Lake.

But on Saturday night Tech went scoreless for the first 8:53 of the game, rarely getting off a shot that wasn't deflected or a pass down low that wasn't intercepted.

The Lady Raiders made only 4-of-19 shots in the opening half and shot 35.7 percent for the game. Only a brief run in the second half allowed the Lady Raiders to post a score that wasn't as embarrassing as the first half.

"I hope we come back with the attitude that this isn't going to happen next year," said Keitha Dickerson.

Dickerson, a junior, will get her shot at redemption next year.

Fellow starters Hanebutt, Lake and Braziel will have to look back at earlier in their careers for consolation.

"We have to hold our heads high," said Braziel, who hopes to play in the WNBA. "Everyone has bad nights; it's just too bad that we had a bad night on Saturday. We have a lot to be proud of. Not everyone even made it this far."

The season did have its bright spots, including a convincing 77-59 victory over Nebraska and a 74-55 victory over Kansas State in the Big 12 tournament.

The Lady Raiders also dominated then-No. 21 Iowa State 73-59 and claimed their second consecutive Big 12 tournament championship.

Those memories will have to be enough.

"You do your best," Lake said, "and then you have to live with it."

Georgia team claims NAIA title

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — It was Life at its best during a furious comeback.

Corey Evans' 3-pointer with 2.1 seconds left capped a 26-point comeback by the unseeded Life (Ga.) Running Eagles (29-10) and gave them a 63-60 victory over No. 8 Mobile (Ala.) in the NAIA championship game Monday night.

"That was the biggest shot of my career. I didn't think it was going in. Thank God it did," said Evans, who led Life with 22 points.

Mobile (34-6) controlled the tempo and dominated on defense to hold a 50-24 lead with 17:07 remaining.

But Evans scored the last seven points of a 34-8 run that tied the game 58-58 with 1:13 left.

The Running Eagles moved ahead 60-58 on Shawn Hill's free throws.

Travis Blackwell made two free throws with nine seconds left to pull Mobile back even at 60-60 before Evans' final 3-pointer won it.

"In the first half, I was rushing my shots," Evans said. "My legs weren't under me."

Tennessee ousted from tourney

By CHUCK SCHOFFNER
AP Sports Writer

A women's Final Four without Tennessee? Believe it.

Tennessee's quest for a fourth consecutive national championship — and fifth straight Final Four trip — ended in Greensboro, N.C., on Monday night with a 69-63 loss to Duke in the East Regional finals.

Duke eliminated the top-seeded Lady Vols with a solid offensive game and outstanding defense on three-time All-American Chamique Holdsclaw, who was 2-of-18 from the field while scoring eight points.

So it's third-seeded Duke (2-6) going to the Final Four for the first time instead of Tennessee for the 12th. The Blue Devils will play Midwest champion Georgia (27-6) in the national semifinals in San Jose, Calif., next Friday.

Just don't try telling them that they got there with an upset.

When you expect to win, I guess you don't feel like it's an upset when you do," Duke coach Gill Goetsenkos said. "I don't believe any of our players feel like it was an upset, which is probably the mentality we had to have to win the game."

Georgia earned its fifth Final Four trip, and third in five years, with an 89-71 victory over Iowa state in Cincinnati.

The only two No. 1 seeds that survived the first rounds of the tournament, Purdue (32-1) and Louisiana Tech (30-2), will meet in the other national semifinal.

Top-ranked Purdue ran its winning streak to 30 with a 75-62 victory over Rutgers in the Midwest at Normal, Ill.

Louisiana Tech, which lost to Tennessee in last year's national championship game, made the final Four for the 10th time by beating UCLA 88-62 in the West Regional at Los Angeles.

Purdue is going for just the second time, having made its first trip in 1994.

"It's very satisfying, but we're not finished," said Purdue All-American Stephanie White-McCarthy, who led the Boilermakers with 22 points. "It's a great feeling to get there, it's very exciting for our team. But we're not satisfied. There are other things we want to accomplish."

Tennessee lost in the NCAA tournament for the first time since the 1995 championship game. Only one year ago, the Lady Vols went 39-0 and were proclaimed by many as the best women's team ever. But that same magic wasn't there this season, even though all the key players were back.

"You can want something in life so much to the point where you just can't relax and go get it," said a teary-eyed Pat Summitt, Tennessee's coach. "We struggled at times to go get it. There is no doubt this team wanted it."

Duke got it instead and became the first program to advance its men's and women's teams to the Final Four since Georgia in 1983.

At Greensboro, N.C.
 Duke 69, Tennessee 63

Duke needed a supreme effort and an off night by Holdsclaw if it was to beat Tennessee, and the Blue Devils got both.

Holdsclaw, the national player of the year last season, missed her first 10 shots and never got untracked. Her stellar career ended when she fouled out with 25 seconds left and fell sobbing into Summitt's arms.

Georgia Schweitzer matched her career high with 22 points to lead Duke.

Down by 13 in the first half,

Tennessee cut the lead to 46-45 with 6:52 left. Nicole Erickson hit a 12-foot shot and made a running bank shot 50 seconds later for a 55-50 lead, and the Blue Devils held on.

At Cincinnati
 Georgia 89, Iowa St. 71

Georgia advanced behind the shooting of Kelly Miller, who went 6-for-8 on 3-pointers in scoring 33 points. Miller had four 3s and 18 points as Georgia built a 37-22 halftime lead, and Iowa State (25-8) never got back in it.

Desiree Francis led Iowa State with 19 points. Outside shooting specialist Stacy Fresse scored 17, but was 2-of-10 on 3-point shots.

MIDWEST
At Normal, Ill.
 Purdue 75, Rutgers 62

Purdue got Rutgers (29-6) in foul trouble and capitalized by making 30 of 46 free throws. Rutgers was called for 32 fouls and was only 7-for-15 at the line.

The Boilermakers also got a big lift from 6-foot-4 sophomore Camille Cooper, who scored a career-high 20 points. She scored five as Purdue started the second half with a 7-0 run to get back in it after trailing 34-26.

Rutgers led by as many as 10 in the first half — only the third game that Purdue has trailed by double digits.

WEST
At Los Angeles
 Louisiana Tech 88, UCLA 62

Amanda Wilson had 23 points and 12 rebounds and Louisiana Tech rattled UCLA with relentless defensive pressure.

Down by 10 early, Louisiana Tech ended the first half with a 17-4 run to go up 35-32, then broke it open in the second half.

Monica Maxwell finished with 22 points and 13 rebounds for Tech, which forced 24 turnovers. Maylana Martin's 16 points led UCLA (26-8).

Rodman, Lakers kiss off Mavericks

By The Associated Press

Dennis Rodman gave the Dallas Mavericks a giant kiss-off.

The Los Angeles Lakers were on their way to beating the Mavericks for the 15th straight time when the NBA's reigning bad boy came up with another antic.

Rodman blew a kiss at the Dallas bench after making a free throw in the third quarter, and was called for a technical foul in the Lakers' 96-93 win Monday night.

"How can he get a technical just for blowing a kiss?" Lakers coach Kurt Rambis asked referee Ken Mauer.

Rodman did not talk about his strange technical. He turned down all interview requests as he dressed in a room away from the media.

Rodman had 17 rebounds as the Lakers improved to 11-0 with him in the lineup. He played for the second time since leaving the team for four games because of personal reasons. The Lakers lost three of those four games.

"It's good to have him back," Shaquille O'Neal said. "His job is to rebound and that's what he did tonight."

In other NBA games, Milwaukee downed Detroit 115-86, Houston held off Sacramento 110-100, Phoenix topped Vancouver 89-84, shots and limited Detroit to only one basket in the first quarter for an easy win at home.

Ray Allen had 19 points and Glenn Robinson 18 in the Bucks' highest-scoring game of the season.

Milwaukee led 23-2 when Christian Laettner hit the Pistons' only field goal of the opening period with 5:10 left. The Bucks led 40-14 when the quarter ended.

Rockets 110, Kings 100
 Hakeem Olajuwon had a season-high 32 points and 12 rebounds as host Houston held off Sacramento.

Charles Barkley had 19 points and 16 rebounds and Scottie Pippen had 25 points and eight assists. Michael Dickerson added 23 points for the Rockets.

The Kings, who have lost 10 in a row to Houston, trailed 97-61 with 6:24 left before closing to 99-95 behind former Rockets guard Vernon Maxwell and Chris Webber.

Suns 89, Grizzlies 84
 Jason Kidd overcame a poor night at the foul line to help Phoenix win at home.

Kidd, who turns 26 today, made only 11 of 22 free throws. But he scored 24 points and led a 10-0 surge in the fourth quarter that beat Vancouver.

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Decision time may be at hand for Dave Bliss — stay at New Mexico or go to Baylor.

Bliss, who just completed his 11th season as New Mexico's coach, said Monday he made a second visit to Waco, Texas, over the weekend. But he said he had not decided whether to take the Baylor job.

The Fort Worth (Texas) Star-Telegram, however, reported that Baylor had given Bliss until today to make up his mind.

A source told The Dallas Morning News that Bliss had not yet interviewed at San Diego State, where he had also been considered a candidate.

Bliss' contract with New Mexico expires April 30 and he hasn't signed a six-year contract extension agreed upon last August.

Frank Phillips to offer continuing education classes

BORGER — Frank Phillips College announced Table Lamp Construction and Beginning Automobile Maintenance for Women continuing education classes will be offered beginning Thursday, March 25.

Table Lamp Construction class is slated from 6:30-9:30 p.m. The course will explore the creation of a primitive table lamp using a variety of mediums such as table legs, porch posts, fence posts and the like. The instructor will teach students how to prepare the lamp for basic electrical wiring as well as how to prepare the material for finish. For location and registration, call (806) 274-5311 or 1-800-687-2056, ext. 789. For a supply list, call the teacher at (806) 274-9183.

Beginning Automobile Maintenance for Women is scheduled from 6-10 p.m. The course will explain the different systems utilized in the operation of a motor vehicle. Students will be introduced to the world of automobile preventative maintenance including oil/oil filter changes, air filters, fuel filters, pcv valves, changing flat tires, emergency situations and general maintenance. Also included will be a section on detailing and maintaining the appearance of a vehicle. For location and information, call (806) 274-5311 or 1-800-687-2056, ext. 789.
