Code blitz turns up 640 violations

... And 'worst' area yet to be checked

With the worst areas left to check, over 600 code violations have been noted recently in the yards of Pampa residents and on property at city businesses.

That's the report of Building Official Danny Winborne who told city commissioners last week some 300 letters have been sent to the offenders. The number of letters don't match the 640 offenses because some property owners have multiple violations.

The violations break down this way:

- 266 junk vehicles
- 174 junk and debris
- 69 dilapidated structures
- 131 others

Noting that no punches were pulled in who was sent a letter, Winborne said "several police officers" were on the list of violators.

Winborne said his office is not through with the "code blitz" that "gets worse the farther south we go."

And it is the south part of town, including Prairie Village, where he expects the heaviest concentration of violations, that Winborne says remains to be surveyed.

The code blitz is part of the city's effort to clean up Pampa. It could be followed by passage of an ordinance, now under consideration, that will restrict parking on city streets and in yards of such things as recreational vehicles, trailers, boats and 18-wheelers.

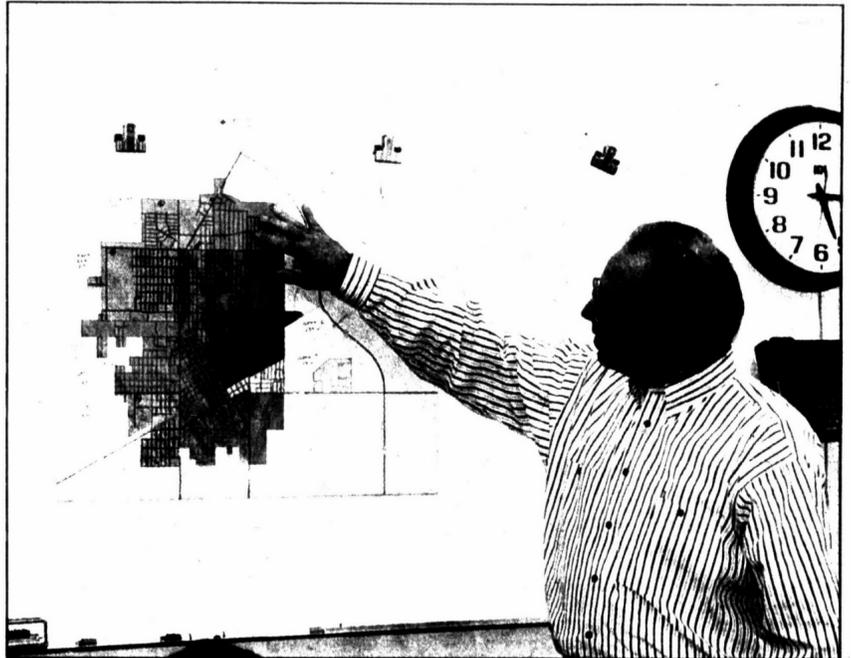

During his check of about 85 percent of the city, Winborne said he also kept a list of recreational vehicles and such "that would be in violation" if the parking proposal becomes law.

They break down this way:

- 133 recreational vehicles
- 77 trailers
- 49 boats
- 4 tractor-trailers

Winborne said the figures for the tractor trailers, he believes, are below the correct number because he made his checks during the day. Most rigs, he said,

Profit may return to '99 cattle market, expert says

By DAVID BOWSER
Staff Writer

WHEELER — A Texas extension economist thinks there may be reason for optimism in the cattle market.

Jim Sartewelle, risk management program specialist with the Texas Extension Service, speaking to ranchers here, is predicting that the price of fed cattle, cattle coming out of area feedyards for slaughter, will range from $66 to $68 dollars per hundredweight during the second quarter this year.

He doesn't think, however, that 1999 will see a month where fed cattle will average more than $71 per hundredweight in the Texas Panhandle.

An economist, Sartewelle noted, is a person who tells everybody what's going to happen a year from now and then a year later comes back and tells them why it didn't happen.

"I had a string going," Sartewelle said. "I called it dead on. I called fed cattle prices, the quarterly average price, for eight quarters in a row, but I haven't hit one in the last two."

He said, however, he thinks he'll be back in line with the second quarter of 1999.

If we can keep the cow slaughter numbers up, people are finally going to think this might be a year of returns similar to what we saw in 1990 and 1991," he said. "Certainly, by the year 2000."

Sartewelle said he expects prices for 700 pound cattle going into the feedyard to be in the $73 to $78 range this year. For 600 pound cattle, he said he expects the price range to be between $79 and $83 per hundredweight.

The economist said the price of 500 pound calves could reach the upper $80 range or possibly the lower $90 range in the fall.

Such prices could return profit to the cattle market this year.

The reason for the increases is that cattlemen have spent the last several years destroying their factories, the mother cows that yield a calf crop each year have been sent to slaughter instead of

Boot camp youths beat cook, escape in car, then on foot

Two juveniles are still at large after they overpowered a cook and escaped from the Hemphill County Juvenile Boot Camp in Canadian.

The escape happened about 7:55 Sunday night when the youths were working in the kitchen area on KP duties, according to Facility Manager Les Brown.

Robert Lemus, 17, of Plano, and a 16-year-old from San Antonio reportedly hit a cook over the head and escaped shortly before 8 p.m. Sunday.

They then took the cook's key ring, used it to open a delivery door, and escaped to the parking lot where they used the cook's car keys and took his white 1989 Chevrolet Caprice.

The cook, Jean Pierre Campillo was in serious condition today at Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo with injuries suffered after being hit over the head with a board.

Lemus was in the boot camp for an aggravated assault conviction and the 16-year-old was serving time for a probation violation and theft, officials said.

Area law enforcement personnel were soon notified of the escape and the missing car and about 30-40 minutes later a Wheeler County deputy spotted the car and gave chase. The car

Superintendent resigns at Miami

MIAMI — The Miami Independent Board of Education will meet in emergency session tonight to accept the resignation of the school superintendent and begin a search for a new one.

Miami School Superintendent Danny R. Cochran said today he was tendering his resignation because he had been offered another position that he felt he could not turn down. He said it will be Tuesday before he could announce where he would be going.

"I've been offered another position," he said. "It is a great opportunity for advancement."

He said he had enjoyed his three years in Miami and praised those with whom he had worked.

The Miami ISD board of trustees will meet at 7 tonight at the school administration office.

Committee members wanted for cable board

City Commissioners are seeking two people who wants to serve on the city's Cable Advisory Board after two spots have recently become vacant.

The current cable franchise agreement with Cable One expires later this year and the board will play a role in negotiating a new pact. The board, does not however, select programming.

Current members of the board, in a letter to commissioners, said having a full slate of members who agree to be present for all the upcoming meetings is important to the negotiations.

Anyone interested in servicing should contact Phyllis Jeffers, city secretary / personnel director, at city hall at 669-5750.

Texas Panhandle Heritage Foundation sets annual meeting

CANYON — The Texas Panhandle Heritage Foundation, parent organization of the musical drama "TEXAS," announced that its annual meeting will be held at 11:30 a.m. Wednesday, April 14 at the Hazel Kelley Wilson Alumni Banquet Hall at West Texas A&M University in Canyon. All TPHP members, and anyone interested in joining the foundation, are urged to attend the luncheon meeting which will feature Gareth von Netzer of the Amarillo Globe News. Von Netzer will outline the newspaper's Celebrate 2000 campaign which has allotted $50,000 to "TEXAS" for renovation of the musical drama's side stages for the 2000 season.

Blaine Bertrand, newly appointed general manager of "TEXAS," will speak to the membership. Bertrand replaced Patty Bryant who recently retired.

Amarillo artist Jack Sorenson will unveil an original Palo Duro Canyon painting that he is donating to TPHP for use in a fund-raising project.

Members and those who wish to join TPHP should call (806) 655-2181 to RSVP for the meeting by April 7. Cost for the meal is $12.

"TEXAS" is the official play for the State of Texas. The 1999 season of the outdoor drama will run June 9-Aug. 21 in Palo Duro Canyon State Park near Amarillo. Call (806) 655-2181 for ticket information.

Hospice, Postal officials to hand-cancel stamp

On March 30, BSA Hospice of the Panhandle staff, volunteers and Pampa postal officials plan to hand-cancel the "Hospice Care" stamp recently issued by the U.S. Postal Service at the Pampa Post Office, 120 E. Foster.

Cancellations are to be made with a specially-designed BSA Hospice of the Panhandle cancellation stamp in the Pampa Post Office lobby from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., Tuesday, March 30, announced Sherry McCavit, manager of the local non-profit organization. BSA Hospice of the Panhandle cachet envelopes, 4-inches by 6-inches, will also be available, McCavit said.

The Hospice Care stamp, recognizing hospice as a compassionate, comprehensive form of end-of-life care, is one of the first 33-cent stamps issued by the U.S. Postal Service. The USPS introduced its newest commemorative first-class stamp on Feb. 9 at Hospice of the Florida Suncoast in Largo, Fla.

The Hospice Care stamp design, a butterfly hovering over a home, symbolizes life's final stage. More than 100 million of these stamps have been issued and are available at every post office in the country, according to Jim Pridmore, Pampa Postmaster.

"The USPS receives about 40,000 requests a year for commemorative stamps, so this is a very selective process. Only about 30 commemorative stamps will be issued this year," said U.S. Postmaster General William J. Henderson. "We felt that on many levels, hospice services are something that Americans need to know more about. We hope this helps raise that awareness," he added.

For more information about the Hospice Care stamp or hospice care in general, call (806) 665-6677.

Frank Phillips, PTK to host Women in History film, discussion

BORGER — Eta Iota Chapter of Phi Theta Kappa in cooperation with Frank Phillips College's Celebration of Women's History Month will host a film and discussion on the role of women in the 20th century at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday, March 30, in the Student Union Building at FPC.

The film is entitled "Women as Citizens: Vital Voices" and is from the White House East Room Millennium Evenings Program. Hillary Clinton moderated the March 15 panel discussion focusing on "the way women have entered the circle of our democracy and moved America closer to our greatest ideal: that we are all created equal."

The film chronicles the role of women as volunteers and reformers as well as their struggle for equal rights and as active participants in our democracy. The film will be shown followed by a panel discussion led by women leaders of the community. Refreshments will be provided by PTK. The presentation is free and the public is cordially invited to attend.

Century's mind-boggling medical milestones

By DANIEL Q. HANEY
AP Medical Editor

BOSTON (AP) — A century ago, the standard medicines in a doctor's bag included arsenic, mercury and other things that could kill before they cured. When these didn't work, doctors might recommend mustard poultices to draw out imaginary poisons.

A physical exam often amounted to little more than looking at the patient's tongue. Undoubtedly, healers often made people feel better, then as now. Wise practitioners have never underestimated the restorative powers of a reassuring touch.

Nevertheless, a trip to the doctor in those days was a dicey business at best.

Despite all of the shortcomings of modern medicine — the cost, the impersonal reliance on technology, the many ills still beyond its reach — there has never been a better time to get sick than right now.

The revolution in medicine during the 20th century is mind-boggling. What's changed? The real question is: What hasn't?

Alfred Gilman, a Nobel winner from the University of Texas-Southwestern Medical Center, counted the medicines in use at the turn of century that are still given today. He found only about 15 — digitalis, morphine, aspirin, quinine, iron and a few other minerals and such.

"Somewhere between 1910 and 1912 in this country, a random patient with a random disease consulting a doctor chosen at random had for the first time in the history of mankind a better than 50-50 chance of profiting from the encounter."

The quote is attributed to Lawrence J. Henderson, a Harvard biochemist who died in 1942. But even in Henderson's time, medicines that now tame infections, high blood pressure and so much else were unimaginable.

Dr. Michael DeBakey, Baylor College of Medicine's renowned heart surgeon, finished medical school in 1932 — still a decade before antibiotics — and one of his earliest memories as a doctor is sitting up all night watching a patient die of an abdominal infection.

"When I graduated," he remembers, "there was virtually nothing you could do for heart disease. If a patient came in with a heart attack, it was up to God."

Slowly at first and then accelerating at mid-century, medicine retooled itself.

It became less art, more science. Purges and placebos gave way to things that actually worked.

Here are some essential landmarks of this metamorphosis.

ANTIBIOTICS

Many argue this is the single most impressive medical achievement of the century. The discovery began in the 1920s, when Alexander Fleming at St. Mary's Hospital in London found that a mold, which he identified as Penicillium rubrum, killed staphylococci bacteria growing in a lab dish.

Ten years later, scientists from Oxford came across his write-up and set about purifying the key substance. By D-day in 1944, there was plenty of penicillin to treat allied soldiers.

Soon streptomycin and other antibiotics followed. A new class of medicines, appropriately labeled miracle drugs, had been created. Suddenly, such implacable killers as tuberculosis, diphtheria, pneumonia, syphilis and tetanus were treatable.

While the effect on medical care was huge, so too was the impact on the medical profession.

"There's no question that the antibiotic revolution has created the remarkable confidence and prestige of modern medicine," said historian Allan Brandt of Harvard Medical School.

X-RAYS

The German scientist Wilhelm Roentgen demonstrated the power of the X-ray in 1895, when he took a picture of the bones of his wife's left hand, but this profoundly important innovation did not make its way into routine care until the 1920s. The shadowy gray pictures literally opened a window into the body. Now doctors could see fractures, tumors, congested lungs.

Much more followed — ultrasound, CT scans, PET scans, MRIs — each offering a different internal view of the body without actually invading it.

"The imaging technology has probably had a bigger role than anything else in changing the way we think about the human body and how we take care of sick people," says Dr. Joel Howell of the University of Michigan.

MATERNAL AND INFANT CARE

In 1900, life expectancy in the United States was 48. Now it is 76.

Much of this gain came in the first half of the century, before many of the big research breakthroughs, including antibiotics.

The major reason was vast improvements in public health — clean water, plumbing, refrigeration and especially an understanding of the importance of sanitation during childbirth.

Women today are only about one-tenth as likely to die while giving birth as they were at the turn of the century. Childhood mortality plunged as well. Now only about 1 percent of babies die before age 5 in well-off parts of the world.

INSULIN

In the late 1800s, scientists realized that the pancreas made something the body needed to burn sugar. In 1921, Frederick Banting and Charles Best of Toronto University isolated the active material in dogs. They gave it to a dog near death with diabetes, and the animal quickly got better.

The next year, they tried a similar experiment on a dying 14-year-old boy. Almost immediately his blood sugar level fell, and within a few weeks he was able to go home, though dependent on injections of the newly isolated substance, insulin.

Large-scale production of the hormone soon followed. Though it did not cure diabetes, it proved to be an important lifesaver.

HEART DISEASE TREATMENTS

From the invention of the electrocardiograph in 1903 to the prescription of cholesterol-lowering statin drugs in the 1990s, the understanding and treatment of diseases of the heart and circulatory system have been one of medicine's outstanding successes.

High blood pressure, heart failure, irregular heartbeats and heart attacks all became treatable conditions. Much of this is the result of a stunning increase in heart medicines — diuretics, beta blockers, ACE inhibitors, calcium channel blockers, clot busters and more — used in various combinations to keep diseased and damaged hearts pumping.

The bypass operation DeBakey developed in the 1960s, along with angioplasty, became routine for opening clogged arteries in the heart.

Perhaps as important as the medical breakthroughs, however, were science's new understanding of the role of cholesterol, fat, smoking and exercise in this disease and people's willingness to change their living habits to protect their hearts.

Health Q&A

Q. Can you settle a bet between my mom and me? I say that the sugar in orange juice and colas is the same. She says it isn't.

A. You're both half right, says Dr. Debby Demory-Luce, a nutritionist with the USDA's children's Nutrition Research Center at Baylor College of Medicine.

Some colas and other beverages use sucrose, or table sugar, to provide sweetness. Sucrose is actually made of two simple sugars called glucose and fructose. Glucose is the sugar found in the bloodstream, while fructose makes fruit taste sweet. High fructose corn syrup (HFCS) is also used to sweeten food. It contains equal parts sucrose and fructose.

Although both colas and orange juice contain fructose, they certainly aren't nutritional equals. One cup of each provides: Orange juice; 110 calories, Vitamin C, Folate, Vitamin A, Thiamine, Vitamin B6, Niacin, Riboflavin, Potassium, Copper, Magnesium, Zinc, Calcium (calcium-fortification makes some juices an excellent source of this bone-building mineral.) Cola; 120 calories, Caffeine.

Q. Is it true a breastfeeding mother who smokes increases the likelihood that her child will also smoke one day? My mother told me this, but I think she's just trying to make me quit smoking.

A. It is true that a woman who eats and drinks affects the taste and smell of her milk. But whether or not the taste of cigarettes predisposes children to become smokers later in life is purely speculative, says Dr. Judy Hopkins, a lactation physiologist with Baylor College of Medicine in Houston.

The breast milk of smoking mothers does smell like cigarettes. It is also believed that an infant exposed to the tastes of certain foods through their mother's milk may be more likely to accept those foods when solids are introduced. But since cigarettes are not weaning foods, it remains to be seen whether this type of connection holds up over time.

There are many other reasons why breastfeeding women should not smoke. Smoking as few as 10 cigarettes a day can affect both the quality and quantity of a mother's milk.

Something else the keep in mind is that infants exposed to passive smoke, whether they are breast fed or not, appear to be at an increased risk for respiratory and middle ear infections, asthma, and sudden infant death syndrome.

Overall, breastfed infants have a lower incidence of infections and respiratory problems thanks to the protective factors found in human milk.

Q. How can I get my family to eat more vegetables?

A. Instead of slipping into a stand-off with children over the greens and beans left on plates, you might want to consider a little vegetable wizardry:

—Hide 'em. Finely chop carrots, celery, broccoli, onion, and/or zucchini in the food processor. Saute to soften, then add to pizza and spaghetti sauces, meatloaf and burgers, refried beans, soups and favorite casseroles.

—Bake 'em. Pack an extra ounce or two of veggies into sweet treats such as carrot cake, zucchini muffins, sweet potato pie, or pumpkin cheesecake.

—Change 'em. Cooked carrots a turn-off? Keep raw, clean carrot sticks and other ready-to-eat veggies and dip on a child-accessible shelf in the refrigerator to offer as snacks or treats before mealtime. Occasionally offer baked or whipped sweet potatoes instead of white potatoes at dinner, or try new recipes for vegetable-rich casseroles that include rice and cheese or other ingredients your family enjoys.

—Juice 'em. Use vegetable juice instead of water when preparing soups, casseroles and stews, or simply tuck a can of vegetable juice into a lunch or snack bag.

Q. Should you really starve a cold?
A. A cold can affect your ability to smell which can diminish your ability to taste, ultimately reducing your appetite. However, restriction food will do nothing to shorten a cold's duration.

Common colds are caused by viruses which unfortunately respond to very little except time. Although restricting food won't help, sipping warm liquids such as soup and tea has been shown to break up mucus secretion which should help you breathe easier.

Anxiety drug can block seizures

By The Associated Press

An anti-anxiety drug called lorazepam can prevent repeat seizures in alcoholics, according to a study in a recent issue of New England Journal of Medicine.

"If you don't get this, you're more than 10 times more likely to have another seizure," said Dr. Gail D'Onofrio, a professor of emergency medicine at Yale University.

Seizures cause tremors and loss of consciousness and can lead to death or serious injury. They occur — usually during alcohol withdrawal — in about 1 million of the 10 million adult American alcoholics, sending about 400,000 to emergency rooms each year, according to D'Onofrio. About 60 percent of those have multiple seizures, usually within six hours.

D'Onofrio ran the study during the mid-1990s, while she was an emergency room doctor at Boston Medical Center.

She found that only three of the 100 alcoholics who were given lorazepam after being brought to the ER following a seizure had another one within six hours, compared with 21 of the 86 patients given dummy pills.

Seven other members of the comparison group and one of those given lorazepam were back in the ER with a second seizure within 48 hours.

Seizures can prove fatal if a victim falls and hits his head or is stricken while driving.

Other drugs tested have failed to block recurrences, so emergency room doctors either admit such patients to the hospital for observation, inflating the cost of care, or release them and cross their fingers.

Carbon Monoxide Poisoning Claims Hundreds of Lives

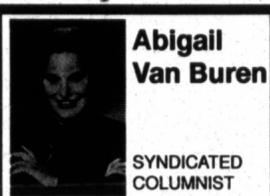

DEAR ABBY: You recently printed a letter that dealt with carbon monoxide (CO) poisoning. According to the National Safety Council, more than 200 fatalities per year are attributable to carbon monoxide as a direct result of poorly or improperly vented organic fuel heaters. With just a little education, many of these deaths are entirely preventable.

As a member of the Publications Committee of the American Industrial Hygiene Association, may I call to your attention a pamphlet that may be of importance to your readers? The advice given to your readers was sound, but the pamphlet has more specific actions to take, including ways to tell if a dwelling might possibly have a carbon monoxide problem, as well as information on an important aspect of CO safety — carbon monoxide detectors.

Interested or concerned readers may request a free copy of the brochure "Carbon Monoxide — The Silent, Cold Weather Killer" from the American Industrial Hygiene Association at: AIHA Publications, 2700 Prosperity Ave., Suite 250, Fairfax, Va. 22031. (Please enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.) Or, they may visit the Web site at www.aiha.org. This brochure is also available in Spanish.

TIMOTHY H. RYAN, PH.D., ASSISTANT PROFESSOR, OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY

DEAR DR. RYAN: Thank you

Abigail Van Buren

for the informative booklet. I'm sharing the information with my readers. I was shocked to learn that each year, nearly 5,000 people are treated in hospital emergency rooms for CO poisoning.

What makes carbon monoxide so dangerous is the fact that it is odorless. Initial symptoms of carbon monoxide exposure are similar to the flu (but without the fever), including dizziness, headache, fatigue, nausea and irregular breathing. However, death from carbon monoxide can result without any symptoms — the overexposed victim simply "falls asleep" and never regains consciousness.

Bottom line: No home should be without an Underwriters Laboratory (UL)-listed CO detector, and the packing instructions should be followed to the letter.

DEAR ABBY: My family and I have a problem I'm sure many of your readers share. We are allergic to many fragrances including soap, potpourri, etc. When I'm exposed to strong scents, my throat closes up and I feel nauseated. I'm 16, and until now I've been able to avoid becoming ill by staying away from the perfume section of department stores.

Abby, I'm dating a very sweet guy (I'll call him "Charles") and I love everything about him — except his cologne. On dates my nose becomes stuffy and I cough a lot, and I have to take a shower as soon as I get home. When my parents provide the transportation they also become sick.

Charles knows I have allergies, but I'm afraid to tell him the truth because I don't want to offend him. Abby, is there any way I can get him to stop wearing his cologne so we can all breathe a little easier?

NOSE IN NEW ORLEANS

DEAR NOSE: Tell Charles you are allergic to fragrances — including his cologne. This is not offensive, and I'm sure he will be happy to cooperate as soon as you let him know what's causing your congestion.

Abby shares her favorite recipes in two booklets: "Abby's Favorite Recipes" and "Abby's More Favorite Recipes." To order, send a business-sized, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 per booklet ($4.50 each in Canada) to: Dear Abby Booklets, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054-0447. TUESDAY, MARCH 30, 1999

BY JACQUELINE BIGAR

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

★★★ Pressure builds as you sense a general atmosphere of confusion. Trying to make sense of it could be difficult, at best. Check meeting times, especially involving work. Listen to your intuition, but confirm what is going on. Tonight: Relax, then decide what you want to do.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

★★★★ Misunderstandings flare where none need be. Worry less about expectations (at least for today) and attempt to handle what is happening. A creative guess now seems wrong. Check it tomorrow, after the air clears. Tonight: Off to the gym or onto your exercise bike.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

★★★ Anchor in and be sure of yourself. Be clear-headed and logical. How you decide to handle a loved one could change substantially. Evaluate your commitments, both professional and personal. Decisions made are likely to be long term. Tonight: At home.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)

★★★★ Another does not get your message clearly. Listen carefully and be willing to take a risk or two. Confirm meetings; ask others for feedback. Use all your communication skills. News from a distance isn't on the up-and-up. Fretting won't help.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

★★★ One-to-one relating allows you to gain a perspective about a partner. Chaos and disagreement surround money matters. You might not be able to solve problems in the present climate; however, you can plug the hole in the dam. Still, recognize that this is only a temporary solution. Tonight: Out with friends.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

★★★★ Others are simply clueless about where you are coming from, and all the talking in the world won't make a difference. Sometimes actions count more than words. This is such an occasion! Be generous with others while confusion reigns. Tonight: Indulge a little.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)

★★★ Take a deep breath and think before you speak. Another is as focused on getting the job done as you are, though your methods could be considerably different. Go within and evaluate your actions. Right now, maintaining a holding position could work. Tonight: Nap, then decide.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)

★★★★ You might have the best intentions, but others are going in many different directions. Try to make an important meeting, yet don't be surprised by what goes on. A little cynicism goes a long way. Trust decisions based on logic. Hold creativity and risk-taking in check. Tonight: Visit with a dear friend.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)

★★★ You are under unusual pressure to perform, despite numerous distractions. Don't let your mind drift; stay focused. Partners and emotional ties create an uproar. You might seriously wonder what is going on here. Don't speculate. Much will become clear soon. Tonight: Work late.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)

★★★★ Seek and listen to feedback. Read between the lines. You gain insight because of what others let you know. Let them bubble forth while you take notes! Taking an overview helps. There is much more going on than meets the eye. Tonight: Do your own research.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)

★★★★ One-to-one relating is imperative, especially concerning a financial issue. You can no longer sweep a problem under the rug. Handle it. Take a stand. Partners might be confused as you deal with different problems. Avoid making permanent decisions right now. Tonight: Opt for the big picture.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)

★★★★ You seem to trip over your words or ideas. Be careful, even if you feel sure of yourself. You might not be getting the whole story. Partners mean well, but they might not be able to convey their message properly. Let others carry the ball right now. Tonight: Go along with another's plans.

Notebook BASKETBALL

BRISCOE — Fort Elliott's Curt Smith has been named to the 1998-99 Amarillo Globe-News Super Basketball Team.

The 5-11 junior led the Cougars in scoring, averaging 18 points per game. Smith, who played the guard position, helped Fort Elliott wrap up its best season in school history, advancing as far as the Class 1A regional finals.

Smith scored 32 points against Rankin and 27 points against Lorenzo in regional tournament victories for the Cougars. They fell to Paducah in the regional finals.

Curt and his brother Tanner Smith, a freshman, were also named to the Class A All-Region Team by the Texas Association of Basketball Coaches. Curt was a first-team pick and Tanner was named to the second team.

Fort Elliott finished the season with a 35-2 record. The Cougars went through the regular season unbeaten with a 30-0 mark.

The Smiths were coached by their dad, Curtis Smith.

BASEBALL

PAMPA — Randall downed Pampa 18-12 in a slugfest Friday at Harvester Field.

Pampa has a 9-9 record going into the District 3-4A opener against Amarillo Caprock at 4:30 p.m. Tuesday at Harvester Field.

Brandon Hill led Pampa's hitting attack against Randall with two home runs and six runs batted in. Brent Phelps and Jonathan Waggoner had three hits each. Hill, Jesse Francis, Kaleb Snelgroves and Justin Roark had two hits each.

"We hit the ball very well and our defense played well. We only made two errors, which is pretty good because Randall put the ball in play a lot," said Pampa coach Dennis Doughty.

Pampa would never be able to catch up after Randall exploded for 10 runs in the fifth inning to take a 13-7 lead.

GOLF

CLARENDON — Dale Haynes of Pampa had a hole in one Sunday at Clarendon Country Club.

Haynes used a 4-iron to ace the No. 8, 177-yard, par 3 hole. It was his first hole in one.

Witnesses were Bill Hammer, Loyd Stephens, Howard Musgrave, Ralph Wilson and Eldon Maxwell, all of Pampa.

PHS girls outlast Palo Duro to win Canyon Relays

CANYON — The Pampa Lady Harvesters outlasted Palo Duro to win the Canyon Relays last weekend.

It was the third meet championship for the unbeaten Lady Harvesters.

"Our girls competed well, considering the weather. Palo Duro is a good, up and coming team, but we were able to outduel them," said Pampa coach Mike Lopez.

Pampa scored 191 points while Palo Duro finished second with 152.

The Lady Harvesters are entered in the Dumas Invitational on Thursday. The meet begins at 2:30 with the finals scheduled for 7:30. There are 21 teams entered in the one-day meet.

1948 Harvesters

Howard Wells (from left), Don Lane, Ramon Hernandez and George Gamblin, members of the 1948 Pampa High School baseball team, were honored Saturday at Harvester Field. The '48 Harvesters were the first baseball team to play under University Interscholastic League rules. Gamblin, a pitcher for the '48 team, threw out the first pitch at the Pampa-Randall game. The Harvesters finished that first UIL season with a 7-4 record.

Lady Harvesters push softball record to 9-2

PAMPA — The Pampa Lady Harvesters thumped Canyon in softball action Saturday at Optimist Park 17-2 in a game called after three innings due to the 10-run rule.

Stephanie Clark got the mound start and allowed no runs in the first inning. Canyon's leadoff batter grounded to Stephanie Cameron for a 4-3 out. The next batter grounded out to Cassi Scott for a 6-3 force out. With two outs Canyon had two runners reach, one on a hit batter and the other on a walk. With runners on first and second, Canyon's Hassell grounded into a force out to Kimberly Clark to end the inning.

Pampa scored seven runs in their half of the first on four hits, two walks and two errors. Scott reached on a leadoff walk, then stole second and third. With one out, Lisa Dwight doubled to drive in Scott from third. Lisa Kirkpatrick followed with a single, scoring Dwight. Kirkpatrick stole second and third, then scored on a passed ball to bring the score to 3-0. Kristi Walling drew a walk, stole second and advanced to third on a sacrifice fly. K. Clark singled, bringing Walling across the plate. K. Clark stole second and scored on a single by S. Clark. Cali Covalt reached on an error, scoring S. Clark. Scott, batting for the second time in the inning, reached on an error scoring Covalt, but was called out attempting to reach second to end the inning with Pampa leading 7-0.

Canyon was able to score twice in the top of the second. With runners on first and second, a count of 2-0 on the third batter on the inning and no outs, S. Clark was lifted in favor of Kimberly Clark. Canyon loaded the bases on two called balls. Pampa got its first out of the inning when Dwight tagged the runner attempting to score from third. K. Clark issued walks to the next two batters she faced.

Canyon would score both their runs without a hit. Dwight would tag another runner out at the plate for the second out of the inning. K. Clark struck out the final batter she faced in the inning.

Pampa plated seven more runs in the bottom of the second on just three hits. Canyon committed four errors and issued one walk as Pampa continued its onslaught. Pampa led 14-2 after two innings.

Canyon was retired in order in the third. K. Clark struck the leadoff hitter, then a 4-3 out and an unassisted groundout to Kelsey Yowell at first ended Canyon's at bat.

The Lady Harvesters, leading by 12 and needing three runs to end the game on the run-rule, sent Kirkpatrick to the plate to start the inning. Kirkpatrick delivered a leadoff double. Walling reached on an error, scoring Kirkpatrick. Walling stole second and third, then scored on a passed ball making the score 15-2. With one out, K. Clark doubled and took third on a scoring error. Then with two outs, Covalt produced an RBI single to bring the game to an end with Pampa leading by 15, 17-2.

S. Clark and K. Clark combined to hold Canyon hitless throughout the contest. Pampa was led at the plate by

K. Clark and Kirkpatrick with a double and single each. Covalt collected two singles, while Dwight added a double. S. Clark, Cameron and Scott head had a single.

The Lady Harvesters continue to lead District 3-4A with a 7-1 record. The Lady Harvesters, 9-2 for the season, hosts Berger on Tuesday at 4:30 p.m. in Optimist Park.

Purdue wins first NCAA women's title

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — When Carolyn Peck joined the Purdue coaching staff, she found a picture frame and in it placed a sign: "Reserved for Purdue's first national championship team."

A picture of this season's team

will go in that frame.

"You made history, ladies, and that's awesome," Peck told her team. "Congratulations."

The Purdue women won their first national title Sunday night with a come-from-behind 62-45 victory over Duke.

It was the perfect ending to a nearly perfect season as Peck and star guards Stephanie White-McCarty and Ukari Figgs all ended their college careers.

Peck, who has been head coach of the Boilermakers for two seasons, heads now to the Orlando Miracle of the WNBA. Team co-captains White-McCarty and Figgs are both seniors.

The fact was not lost on the rest of the team.

"Before the game, there were all kinds of emotions going on in this room and coach Peck just told us to use them to our advantage. We had people that were happy, we had people that were sad and had mixed emotions," junior guard Tiffany Young said. "We knew that this was our last game and we wanted to come out on top no matter what."

For a while, however, it looked like it might not happen.

The top-ranked Boilermakers had the lowest first-half point total in an NCAA championship game, trailing Duke 22-17. But White-McCarty and Figgs were not about to let their final game slip away.

The duo, lauded as one of the best backcourts in the nation, keyed a 12-1 run that put Purdue (34-1) ahead for good.

Figgs, who went 0-for-7 in a scoreless first half, had 18 points in the second. In the end, her performance earned her honors as the outstanding player of the Final Four.

"I knew I had 20 minutes to be a winner or a loser," Figgs said. "I don't like being a loser."

Duke (29-7) was left struggling to keep up. The Boilermakers, who had six turnovers in the first half, had just two in the second, one coming in the final minutes after they had built an 18-point lead.

Sadly, the victory wasn't all it could have been. With just over four minutes left, White-McCarty bent over in pain at midcourt. Figgs helped her best friend and teammate to the sidelines.

White-McCarty, who finished with 12 points, wailed in pain from the bench with a severe ankle sprain and was eventually taken from the court with her husband by her side. Her team, already riding on momentum, went on to make sure they claimed victory.

"We talked about winning the national championship, and I knew that it was hurting her probably more not being on the court than her ankle or foot was," Figgs said. "I just wanted to go out and win it for her and myself and the rest of this team, but more for her at that time."

The loss ended an improbable run through the tournament by Duke, as well as any hope of a unique "double" for the Blue Devils' basketball program.

Notebook BASKETBALL

BRISCOE — Fort Elliott's Curt Smith has been named to the 1998-99 Amarillo Globe-News Super Basketball Team.

The 5-11 junior led the Cougars in scoring, averaging 18 points per game. Smith, who played the guard position, helped Fort Elliott wrap up its best season in school history, advancing as far as the Class 1A regional finals.

Smith scored 32 points against Rankin and 27 points against Lorenzo in regional tournament victories for the Cougars. They fell to Paducah in the regional finals.

Curt and his brother Tanner Smith, a freshman, were also named to the Class A All-Region Team by the Texas Association of Basketball Coaches. Curt was a first-team pick and Tanner was named to the second team.

Fort Elliott finished the season with a 35-2 record. The Cougars went through the regular season unbeaten with a 30-0 mark.

The Smiths were coached by their dad, Curtis Smith.

BASEBALL

PAMPA — Randall downed Pampa 18-12 in a slugfest Friday at Harvester Field.

Pampa has a 9-9 record going into the District 3-4A opener against Amarillo Caprock at 4:30 p.m. Tuesday at Harvester Field.

Brandon Hill led Pampa's hitting attack against Randall with two home runs and six runs batted in. Brent Phelps and Jonathan Waggoner had three hits each. Hill, Jesse Francis, Kaleb Snelgroves and Justin Roark had two hits each.

"We hit the ball very well and our defense played well. We only made two errors, which is pretty good because Randall put the ball in play a lot," said Pampa coach Dennis Doughty.

Pampa would never be able to catch up after Randall exploded for 10 runs in the fifth inning to take a 13-7 lead.

GOLF

CLARENDON — Dale Haynes of Pampa had a hole in one Sunday at Clarendon Country Club.

Haynes used a 4-iron to ace the No. 8, 175-yard, par 3 hole. It was his first hole in one.

Witnesses were Bill Hammer, Loyd Stephens, Howard Musgrave, Ralph Wilson and Eldon Maxwell, all of Pampa.

PHS girls outlast Palo Duro to win Canyon Relays

CANYON — The Pampa Lady Harvesters outlasted Palo Duro to win the Canyon Relays last weekend.

It was the third meet championship for the unbeaten Lady Harvesters.

"Our girls competed well, considering the weather. Palo Duro is a good, up and coming team, but we were able to outduel them," said Pampa coach Mike Lopez.

Pampa scored 191 points while Palo Duro finished second with 152.

The Lady Harvesters are entered in the Dumas Invitational on Thursday. The meet begins at 2:30 with the finals scheduled for 7:30. There are 21 teams entered in the one-day meet.

Team totals: 1. Pampa 191; 2. Palo Duro 152; 3. Canyon 127; 4. Randall 60; 5. Friona 50.

Pampa results in the Canyon Relays are as follows:

Discus: Diana Solis, fourth place, 97-11; Angela Phillips, fifth place, 94-7.

1948 Harvesters

Howard Wells (from left), Don Lane, Ramon Hernandez and George Gamblin, members of the 1948 Pampa High School baseball team, were honored Saturday at Harvester Field. The '48 Harvesters were the first baseball team to play under University Interscholastic League rules. Gamblin, a pitcher for the '48 team, threw out the first pitch at the Pampa-Randall game. The Harvesters finished that first UIL season with a 7-4 record.

Lady Harvesters push softball record to 9-2

PAMPA — The Pampa Lady Harvesters thumped Canyon in softball action Saturday at Optimist Park 17-2 in a game called after three innings due to the 10-run rule.

Stephanie Clark got the mound start and allowed no runs in the first inning. Canyon's leadoff batter grounded to Stephanie Cameron for a 4-3 out. The next batter grounded out to Cassi Scott for a 6-3 forced out. With two outs Canyon had two runners reach, one on a hit batter and the other on a walk. With runners on first and second, Canyon's Hassell grounded into a force out to Kimberly Clark to end the inning.

Pampa scored seven runs in their half of the first on four hits, two walks and two errors. Scott reached on a leadoff walk, then stole second and third. With one out, Lisa Dwight doubled to drive in Scott from third. Lisa Kirkpatrick followed with a single, scoring Dwight. Kirkpatrick stole second and third, then scored on a passed ball to bring the score to 3-0. Kristi Walling drew a walk, stole second and advanced to third on a sacrifice fly. K. Clark singled, bringing Walling across the plate. K. Clark stole second and scored on a single by S. Clark. Cali Covalt reached on an error, scoring S. Clark. Scott, batting for the second time in the inning, reached on an error scoring Covalt, but was called out attempting to reach second to end the inning with Pampa leading 7-0.

Canyon was able to score twice in the top of the second. With runners on first and second, a count of 2-0 on the third batter on the inning and no outs, S. Clark was lifted in favor of Kimberly Clark. Canyon loaded the bases on two called balls. Pampa got its first out of the inning when Dwight tagged the runner attempting to score from third. K. Clark issued walks to the next two batters she faced.

Canyon would score both their runs without a hit. Dwight would tag another runner out at the plate for the second out of the inning. K. Clark struck out the final batter she faced in the inning.

Pampa plated seven more runs in the bottom of the second on just three hits. Canyon committed four errors and issued one walk as Pampa continued its onslaught. Pampa led 14-2 after two innings.

Canyon was retired in order in the third. K. Clark struck the leadoff hitter, then a 4-3 out and an unassisted groundout to Kelsey Yowell at first ended Canyon's at bat.

The Lady Harvesters, leading by 12 and needing three runs to end the game on the run-rule, sent Kirkpatrick to the plate to start the inning. Kirkpatrick delivered a leadoff double. Walling reached on an error, scoring Kirkpatrick. Walling stole second and third, then scored on a passed ball making the score 15-2. With one out, K. Clark doubled and took third on a scoring error. Then with two outs, Covalt produced an RBI single to bring the game to an end with Pampa leading by 15, 17-2.

S. Clark and K. Clark combined to hold Canyon hitless throughout the contest.

Pampa was led at the plate by

K. Clark and Kirkpatrick with a double and single each. Covalt collected two singles, while Dwight added a double. S. Clark, Cameron and Scott head had a single.

The Lady Harvesters continue to lead District 3-4A with a 7-1 record. The Lady Harvesters, 9-2 for the season, hosts Berger on Tuesday at 4:30 p.m. in Optimist Park.

Purdue wins first NCAA women's title

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — When Carolyn Peck joined the Purdue coaching staff, she found a picture frame and in it placed a sign: "Reserved for Purdue's first national championship team."

A picture of this season's team

will go in that frame.

"You made history, ladies, and that's awesome," Peck told her team. "Congratulations."

The Purdue women won their first national title Sunday night with a come-from-behind 62-45 victory over Duke.

It was the perfect ending to a nearly perfect season as Peck and star guards Stephanie White-McCarty and Ukari Figgs all ended their college careers.

Peck, who has been head coach of the Boilermakers for two seasons, heads now to the Orlando Miracle of the WNBA. Team co-captains White-McCarty and Figgs are both seniors.

The fact was not lost on the rest of the team.

"Before the game, there were all kinds of emotions going on in this room and coach Peck just told us to use them to our advantage. We had people that were happy, we had people that were sad and had mixed emotions," junior guard Tiffany Young said. "We knew that this was our last game and we wanted to come out on top no matter what."

For a while, however, it looked like it might not happen.

The top-ranked Boilermakers had the lowest first-half point total in an NCAA championship game, trailing Duke 22-17. But White-McCarty and Figgs were not about to let their final game slip away.

The duo, lauded as one of the best backcourts in the nation, keyed a 12-1 run that put Purdue (34-1) ahead for good.

Figgs, who went 0-for-7 in a scoreless first half, had 18 points in the second. In the end, her performance earned her honors as the outstanding player of the Final Four.

"I knew I had 20 minutes to be a winner or a loser," Figgs said. "I don't like being a loser."

Duke (29-7) was left struggling to keep up. The Boilermakers, who had six turnovers in the first half, had just two in the second, one coming in the final minutes after they had built an 18-point lead.

Sadly, the victory wasn't all it could have been. With just over four minutes left, White-McCarty bent over in pain at midcourt. Figgs helped her best friend and teammate to the sidelines.

White-McCarty, who finished with 12 points, wailed in pain from the bench with a severe ankle sprain and was eventually taken from the court with her husband by her side. Her team, already riding on momentum, went on to make sure they claimed victory.

"We talked about winning the national championship, and I knew that it was hurting her probably more not being on the court than her ankle or foot was," Figgs said. "I just wanted to go out and win it for her and myself and the rest of this team, but more for her at that time."

The loss ended an improbable run through the tournament by Duke, as well as any hope of a unique "double" for the Blue Devils' basketball program.

PROFIT

breeding. The heifers, the young females born in the nation's herds, have also to a great extent been sent to slaughter instead of being kept in the herd to expand production.

"It's the most perverse thing in the world for a cow-calf producer to have to sit back and think things are going to get good because we're tearing down part of our factory," Sartewelle said. "We tore down part of our factory in terms of our cow herd base. We're showing right now that we have no inclination of building it back very quickly, which is good."

Sartewelle said the reason for better prices, then, is that there will be fewer cattle. It is a basic supply and demand equation, he said. Less supply with steady demand will push prices up.

The factors affecting the cattle market now are herd liquidation, domestic beef production, foreign beef trade, competing meats such as chicken and pork, feedgrain supplies and the general economy at home and abroad.

While fewer cattle in the nation's herd should keep the price of cattle in a profitable area for ranchers, Sartewelle said cattlemen have done very well in producing larger, more efficient animals. That has led to the ability to produce more pounds of beef from fewer cattle. Such a situation will have a moderating effect on prices, unfortunately for cattlemen.

"We produced in 1998 the same number of pounds of beef off of 99.7 million head of cattle that were produced off of 132 million head of cattle in 1975," Sartewelle said.

While Sartewelle said he sees an increasing potential for export markets for beef, he also sees increased exports of chicken and pork.

Chicken consumption has skyrocketed the last several decades at the expense of beef consumption. Pork consumption has remained level. An excess of chicken, pork and beef have driven prices down in the past year as each industry has had to compete for supermarket space in an effort to build market share among competing meats.

Sartewelle told Wheeler cattlemen that the competition among meats in the domestic market may pale in comparison to what is about to happen in the international market. The economist said much of the recent explosion of hog production facilities in the Texas Panhandle and Western Oklahoma was being driven by overseas markets.

"We think we're facing a tight competing meats market here at home," he says. "We going to roll that over to our overseas customers, and we're going to see the same thing again."

On the plus side for cattlemen, Sartewelle said this year's corn crop is expected to be good. That coupled with the carry over of last year's corn crop should keep the price of grain fed to cattle low.

It may be bad news for corn farmers, Sartewelle said. It's great news for cattlemen.

"The coolest thing about cattle feeding is it doesn't take a rocket scientist to figure out one output from two inputs," Sartewelle said. "It takes feed and a calf to produce a fed animal."

Sartewelle thinks the industry could have turned the corner on profitability.

If we can keep the cow slaughter numbers up, people are finally going to think this might be a year of returns similar to what we saw in 1990 and 1991," he said. "Certainly, by the year 2000."

Sartewelle thinks it will be much less than a five year window, though, unless there is continued drought.

"The problem there is those people in Missouri and Kansas and Tennessee and Kentucky are laughing because when you look at their numbers, they haven't liquidated many cows," Sartewelle said.

They may ride through the upswing with roughly the same number of cows they had before while the ranchers in Texas, New Mexico and Arizona liquidated primarily because of drought.

YOUTHS

pulled over to the side of the road where both occupants bailed out and ran into what Brown called hilly ranch land.

Law enforcement officers said they picked up a trail several miles away, but lost it again as dark fell.

Efforts to use tracking dogs from a nearby prison were rejected by Texas Department of Criminal Justice officials Sunday night.

"I am very concerned about an apparent bureaucratic policy of the Texas Department of Criminal Justice institutional division," 31st District Attorney John Mann said today.

Prison officials told Mann that the tracking dogs at the unit could not be used to search for juveniles.

Brown said that no decision had been made about whether to bring in air search units.

As of late this morning the pair was still missing and a search by Wheeler County Deputies among others is underway.

The two are described as Hispanic males. One escapee is 5'5", brown eyes, 150 pounds. He has tattoos on his right hand and arm. The second person is 5'4", brown eyes, 137 pounds, and tattoos on both arms. They are both in short-sleeve blue jump suits with black tennis shoes and close-cropped hair, Brown said.

Officers said the pair were last tracked to an area about eight miles north of the City of Wheeler.

Computer virus warning

NEW YORK (AP) — Despite a weekend of warnings, more than 50,000 computers at about 100 sites around the world have been infected by the "Melissa" e-mail virus, computer security experts estimated today.

Security experts had warned computer users returning to work today that Melissa messages usually contain the subject line "Important message." The body says "Here is that document you asked for ... don't show it to anyone else" with a winking smiley face formed by the punctuation marks :-).

The virus directs computers to send more infected documents into cyberspace in such numbers that it could overload and crash e-mail servers, security experts said. And recipients may think they are receiving e-mail from a friend because the virus plunders address books.

However, the virus apparently causes no direct damage to a computer's memory or programs.

Melissa is a macro, a computer script for automating tasks in the creation of documents written in Microsoft's Word, a word processing program. It uses Microsoft's Outlook e-mail program to send a document to the first 50 addresses in the user's address book.

All new Word documents created on an infected computer will contain the virus, too. And every time a Word document is opened after that, the document — and its potentially sensitive information — will be sent to 50 other people.

"It's safe to say we're bracing ourselves," said Katherine Fithen, a manager with the Computer Emergency Response Team at Carnegie Mellon University in Pittsburgh.

MEDICAL

MENTAL ILLNESS TREATMENTS

One of the most important insights of the 20th century is the understanding that serious mental disease results from disruptions in the chemistry of the brain. It led to the development and acceptance of medicines for illnesses of the mind.

The first truly effective drug was lithium, used to control manic depression in 1949. In the 1950s came chlorpromazine and other medicines for schizophrenia. Then followed treatments for depression.

The medicines allowed a vast depopulating of the country's mental hospitals, which had grown from 150,000 patients at the turn of the century to about 500,000 by 1950.

VACCINES

Edward Jenner administered the first vaccine for smallpox in 1796, but the broad use of vaccines is a 20th century development. Certainly the century's most famous was the polio vaccine.

With its power to paralyze children, polio was one of the most feared of diseases. Jonas Salk of the University of Pittsburgh developed a vaccine made from killed virus, and to vast national relief it was declared safe and effective in 1955. Five years later, Albert Sabin's more effective oral vaccine was introduced.

Now vaccines are used to control a long list of once-common diseases — mumps, flu, chicken pox, diphtheria, Haemophilus influenzae, hepatitis A and B, whooping cough, tetanus and many more.

TRANSPLANTS

In 1954 in Boston, Drs. J. Hartwell Harrison and Joseph Murray performed the first successful kidney transplant. To get around the biggest problem — the body's tendency to reject foreign tissue — the operation was done on identical twins. Still, it opened the transplant era.

In 1963, doctors attempted lung and liver transplants. Then came heart transplants, first by Dr. Christian Barnard in South Africa and next by two Americans, Drs. Norman Shumway and Denton Cooley.

Organ transplants did not become routine until the late 1970s with the development of cyclosporine, a drug that suppresses the body's tendency to attack the new organ. Today, about 2,300 heart transplants are done in the United States annually, and 70 percent of recipients survive at least four years.

AIDS TREATMENTS

AIDS, discovered in 1981, turned out to be one of medicine's toughest challenges — a brand-new disease targeting the body in ways never before seen and caused by a virus, a class of microbe that medicine was virtually powerless against.

In short order, scientists identified the virus and developed tests to diagnose infection and prevent transmission through the blood supply. However, the real breakthrough came in the mid-1990s with the development of combinations of drugs that keep the virus from multiplying. While a cure and a vaccine are still elusive, the dramatic effect of these therapies raises hopes that AIDS at least has been turned into a manageable disease. The research also has vastly increased knowledge of the immune system in both sickness and health and has speeded the development of drugs against other kinds of viral infections.

DNA

The biggest discovery of the century? "It's DNA. No question at all," says Dr. Meyer Friedman of the University of California, San Francisco, author of a recent book on medical discoveries.

It started with the discovery by James Watson and Francis Crick in 1953 of the rope-ladder structure of deoxyribonucleic acid. Each rung of the ladder is a unit of genetic code, and together they contain all the construction plans of life.

Now, the understanding of genes is changing many parts of medicine: Insulin, heart drugs, growth hormones and other useful proteins are made through genetic engineering. An understanding of genes' role in triggering cancer has revolutionized the way scientists think about new therapies. Screening tests that look for defective genes offer advance warning about susceptibility to many diseases.

Many scientists believe this is barely the start. Like the discovery of X-rays at the end of the 19th century, the harnessing of genes at the end of the 20th is likely to pay off in powerful new ways to control human ills in the century to come.

CODE

are parked at night.

At one point during his rounds, Winborne said it took four hours to drive 18 miles because of the number of violations and because "so many houses don't have the address displayed."

Because of the large number of violations, Winborne said he will have to prioritize the worst of them as the ones that will be followed up on first.

City Manager Bob Eskridge said most people who receive the letters are not aware they are in violation and he expects many of them will take care of the problem on their own.

For those who don't, the city can follow up with a citation and take the violator to court where fines can be assessed.

"You see a lot of interesting things out there," Winborne told commissioners. "I saw a fence that was taller than it should have been. And when I looked again, there was a horse grazing in the front yard ... so I called animal control."
